This Town-- That World

APOLOGIA
Again, the associate editor finds it necessary to offer an apology for failure to write this column. The senior editor is vacationing in Canada and the press of news to gather, stories and headlines to write, advertising to handle, et cetera, ad infinitum, make it impossible.

Although "apologia" is a good word, perhaps it is the wrong word here. It may be that "No Apologies Necessary" would be better.

ASKS $50,000 IN DAMAGES

From Firm, Its Agent; Mrs. Vanlandingham Sues Result of Auto Accident

Mrs. Mary E. Harkins Vanlandingham filed a suit Monday in Floyd Circuit Court to recover $50,000 from the Coal Bit Company, and the firm's alleged agent, Mrs. Leatha L. Joy for damages arising from an auto accident.

It is alleged that "Leatha L. Joy negligently operated said automobile so as to cause it to leave the highway and overturn," Mrs. Vanlandingham suffered, according to the suit, severe knee injuries, a fractured left arm near the wrist and other injuries.

The plaintiff states that the accident occurred on U. S. 460 in Menifee county, October 27, last year, while Mrs. Joy was on "business for said corporation." Mrs. Joy is the widow of the late Wilbur Joy, founder of the Coal Bit Company here.

The suit says Mrs. Vanlandingham was prevented from transacting business as a result of the accident, suffered great pain of body and mind and incurred expenses for medical attention and hospitalization. The suit was filed by Joe Hobson, Prestonsburg attorney.

Mrs. Joy, in a statement to The Times, says that she was in Lexington in October with Mrs. John Evans attending the Grand Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star. Mrs. Joy B. Browning, of Hopkinsville, and a sister to Mrs. Vanlandingham, asked Mrs. Joy to give the plaintiff a ride back to Prestonsburg, Mrs. Joy said. The mishap occurred in the vicinity of Broken Falls.

FLOYD ROAD PROJECTS GIVEN AUTHORIZATION

INCREASED CONSTRUCTION ENVISIONED

Buffalo Road, Others Get Department Approval In Recent Orders, Noted

Evidence that Floyd county's road program was being meshed into a higher gear was the announcement this week that several proposed projects have been accorded by the Division of rural and secondary highways, Department of Highways, Frankfort.

Roads authorized are at Dickey Town in the East Point area, Johns Branch near Maytown, Tom's Creek at Ivel, Caleb Fork near Wheelwright, Branham's Creek of Big Mud Creek, Buffalo Creek near near Endicott to the Pike county line, and the Millard Allen road at Lecky.

County Judge Henry Stumbo, in commenting on the program, noted that many other projects are expected to receive approval in the near future.

The Buffalo Creek project which will alleviate a situation created by the Dewey Dam reservoir, begins "at end of improved section seven miles southeast of Junction U. S. 23 and extends southeast three miles to the Pike county line." Residents of the area point out that the new construction will begin near the residence of Ezra James and end near the residence of Rev. H. C. Boyd.

Work will be started on the Buffalo Creek road when right-of-way is acquired. The work will be grade, drain and gravel surfacing and construction will be done on all the roads mentioned by county equipment.

Projects scheduled soon by the state are the McDowell-Big Mud Creek road. Work on this two and one-half mile project will begin as soon as certain utility installations are moved. Resurfacing will be advertised soon on two sections of Floyd roads, it is noted. These are the Sizemore-Wayland and the Stephens Branch-Caney roads. In addition a bridge across Little Paint Creek on the East Point-Whittaker road is up for early advertising for construction.

Stumbo noted the status of other roads that are under construction. The Prater Fork of Brush Creek road is approximately one-half completed, the Hen Pen Branch road at Melvin will be completed in two weeks and the Right Fork of Bull Creek road is already completed.

SURVEY NOTES FLOOD UPTURN

In Business Activity; Increased Goods Sales Led by Food Purchases

Special to The Times
New York, N. Y., July 21 — Recession or no recession, 1960 turned out to be a good business year in Floyd county.

A great deal of money was spent in the county for food, clothing, automotive equipment, drugs and general household necessities even though consumer buying was more restrained than usual.

Locally, this attitude of caution, induced by business conditions that affected all areas, caused fewer cutbacks in spending plans than it did in most communities.

The facts are brought out in the annual survey of markets, made by the Standard Rate and Data Service to determine how the consumer spent his retail dollar last year and for what. It covers all parts of the United States.

In Floyd county, it shows, the largest outlays were for food. Sales in the local meat markets, grocery stores, bakeries, delicatessens and the like added up to $6,301,000, compared with the previous year's total of $5,982,000. It was equivalent to 29 cents of every dollar spent at retail.

That was only for food bought for home consumption. In addition, there was the money spent in restaurants and in other eating and drinking places for on-the-spot use.

The amount purchased for home consumption, if apportioned equally among the Floyd county population, would come to $692 per household.

Thornberry Girl Victim Of Accidental Gunshot; Burial, Martin Cemetery

Miss Ruby Jean Thornberry, 13, of Kite, was the victim at 4 p.m. Sunday, of an accidental gun shot. She died at the McDowell Memorial hospital where she was brought a few hours earlier.

Relatives say that the girl and a younger sister were playing at home and a .22-caliber rifle was accidentally discharged. The bullet entered the chest and came out at her spine. The accident occurred at 9 a.m.

She was a daughter of Miles and Mattie Perry Thornberry, who survive. Surviving sisters and a brother are Mrs. Imogene Montaine, of Kite, Mrs. Lizzie Tuttle, of Topmost, Louise, Larry and Shelly, all at home. Surviving also are two half-brothers, Edison Thornberry and Ruby Tene Thornberry, both of Topmost.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10 a.m. Wednesday, from the home, the Revs. Eppie Holbrook and Andy Bates officiating. Burial was made in the Martin cemetery at Kite under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

NEW CLASSES ORGANIZED

In Adult Ed Program Work Accomplished Noted By Superintendent Aide

Adult education in this county, initiated last year, is being reemphasized again by the Floyd County Board of Education under the direction of Walter Frasure, assistant county superintendent of schools.

Classes have been organized at Maytown, Martin and Prestonsburg and other centers are planning to organize, Frasure said.

"Young people or adults who dropped out of school in the past may work toward securing a high school diploma or they may work toward securing a high school equivalency certificate," he pointed out. He urges interested persons to contact him at the county superintendent's office.

Sixteen classes in adult education were conducted last year in the county with an enrollment of 300 persons. Classes were held at McDowell, Garrett, Prestonsburg, Wheelwright, Martin and Wayland.

"Funds, in the form of teachers' salaries, contributed by the State Department of Education, amounted to over $5,000," Frasure said. "Fees collected from students for the purchase of supplies and materials to be used in classroom instruction amounted to over $900," he added.

Classes were conducted last year in typing, bookkeeping, English, shorthand, art and applied mathematics. Teachers were Paul Branson, Violet T. Moore, Anna Sue Stumbo, Wanda McCown, Duna Combs, Robert Burchett, Mary A. Hale, Mary S. Campbell, Arlan Isaac, Tilden Jones, Harry G. Allen, Thomas Hardwick, Edgar Craft and Charles Patton.

TWO GROUPS APPEAL FOR CHARLESTON AID

The Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad and the Prestonsburg Woman's Club joined this week in issuing an appeal for aid to flood-stricken Charleston, West Virginia, families.

Needed are clothes, furniture and house furnishings for approximately 300 families according to Graham Burchett, of the Rescue Squad, who returned with the group, Sunday, from assistance work in the area.

The donations may be collected in any central community and the Rescue Squad will pick them up for transportation to Charleston.

Mr. Burchett asks that he be called immediately after the contributions are ready. Contributors in the Prestonsburg area may bring their donations to the group's headquarters here.

Burchett, captain of the squad, was called Thursday of last week to aid in the Charleston rescue work and with the Pike County Rescue group, left Prestonsburg with a convoy of ten vehicles under an escort of state police. They

DOLLAR DAY EVENT SLATED

By Local Businessmen; Town-Wide Promotion May be Held Annually

The Prestonsburg Businessmen Association has scheduled an annual Dollar Day event July 28-29-31, and the heavy mark-downs in the stores are expected to draw large crowds, it was said by a member of the organization.

Many Prestonsburg clothing, hardware and grocery stores are participating in the three-day promotion. The dollar day event is an auxiliary promotion to Project Treasure Chest that the group has been sponsoring for several months. The weekly cash awards will be made as usual here Saturday.

Preceding the awards will be a parade organized by veteran parade marshal David B. Leslie to promote the Civil War play, The Proud Heritage, scheduled for presentation at The Garfield Place at 3 p.m., Sunday. The parade will be held at 2 p.m. and the cash awards will be made at 3 p.m., Saturday.

The three dollar days will probably be Prestonsburg's biggest sale event for a long time, a spokesman for the businessmen, said. He pointed out that never before had so many merchants worked so cooperatively to make an event successful.

The stores sponsoring the sales event joined this week in three pages of advertisements in The Times to acquaint the public with the savings to be found in the stores.

Dollar Days, a long-neglected merchandising event in Prestonsburg, will be made an annual event, it is said.

ARMCO PICKS FLOYD NATIVE

For Managerial Position At Middletown, O., Plant; Is P'burg High Graduate

Townsell G. Marshall, Floyd county native, and graduate of Prestonsburg high school, has been named manager of contract administration on the industrial staff of corporate management of Armco Steel Corporation at the general offices of the company at Middletown, Ohio. The announcement of Marshall's promotion and transfer from Ashland was made this week by J. M. Lobaugh, Ashland manager.

Marshall studied at Caney Junior College and the University of Kentucky. After four years of service in the U. S. Air Force during World War II, he joined Armco on August 24, 1945, as a checker in the industrial engineering department. He advanced to time study man in 1947. In 1951, Marshall was transferred to management as suggestion coordinator, and in relations, and on October 1, 1957, he was appointed assistant to the manager, the position he has held until this new assignment.

Marshall is married to the former Mary Fleming, of Ashland, and they have three children, Townsell Corlon, Jr., 13, who attended Coles Junior high; Rebecca Jane, 11, Hale, Mary S. Campbell, Arlan Isaac, Tilden Jones, Harry G. Allen, Thomas Hardwick, Edgar Craft and Charles Patton.

RIVER VICTIM IS RECOVERED

Double Funeral Held For Maynard, VanHoose At Louisa, Last Week

Funeral rites were conducted Thursday of last week, at Louisa, for the two victims of drowning in the river several days earlier. The body of Johnny Maynard, 23, for which an intense search had been conducted for days, was found late Wednesday afternoon near Lock and Dam No. 3. The body of Hershey VanHoose, 41, was found Tuesday, approximately fifty feet from where he was last seen.

The body of Maynard was found entangled in a trot-line across the river and the body of VanHoose was recovered from the river bottom by dragging. The former was found by Don Fluty, Randall Carter and Fred Carmen, Jr. VanHoose was recovered by a group of Kentucky Power Company employees. Maynard, of Chicago, was a nephew of VanHoose, who resided in Louisa.

They were claimed by the river Monday when a boat in which they were fishing capsized.

Rescue groups from a wide area, including the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad, assisted in the search.

Hubert Osborne and a son, of Blairstown, were the only eye-witnesses to the tragedy. Osborne made the following statement, describing the accident:

"Two men, whom he did not know, were fishing below the lock and dam on the Big Sandy river when their boat overturned in turbulent water. He saw them struggling in the water about 100 yards downstream from where the boat capsized but the current pulled them under. Osborne said he swam out to one of the men who was shouting for help but was unable to reach him. He said the other boy was about 20 feet from the West Virginia side of the river when he last saw him.

Osborne noticed the men get into the boat at a pier near the locks. He said the water was rough and flipped the boat over when it reached midstream.

UFG INSTALLS NEW SYSTEM

Microwave Radio Circuit Cost Set at $1,500,000; York Says Towers Placed

The day of the poles, crossarms and wires has come to an end in much of United Fuel Gas Company's communication system.

Microwave radio is the new order, represented by 13 lofty towers that stretch in a line 202 miles from Cedarville, West Virginia, to Prestonsburg.

Now impulses travel with the speed of light from tower to tower. Some circuits may carry voice communication. Others will keep the dispatcher in Charleston in touch with controls on distant pipeline regulators.

D. E. York, superintendent of communications, said the network of towers and their transmitters recently placed in operation is the first step in the construction of a four-state, 470-mile microwave network serving United Fuel and other companies of the Columbia Gas System. The cost of the section between Cedarville and Prestonsburg was $876,000. The entire system will cost around $1,500,000.

A segment of the system extending into Ohio will be constructed by Ohio Fuel Gas Company, of Columbus. Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, of Pittsburgh, will build the portion extending into Pennsylvania. The entire system will have 29 stations, some with towers 320 feet high.

The microwave system will provide United Fuel and its affiliates with voice communication, teletypewriter service, circuits for telemetering and supervisory control and high speed data communication. It will make possible substantial annual savings in operation and maintenance of the communications system.

Explaining United Fuel's need for such a system, York said that approximately 80 per cent of all gas handled by United Fuel is controlled over communications circuits.

Two-hundred and forty circuits can be transmitted simultaneously on the microwave beam. The stations are protected from commercial power failure by batteries and natural gas-driven generators. All stations have duplicate transmitters and receivers. If one fails, the other automatically takes over without losing as much as a syllable of conversation.

Obstructions between towers are sometimes avoided by the use of (See Story No. 6, Page 3)

SUBDIVISION HEARING SET

City Planning Group Proposes Regulations To Govern Subdivisions

A public meeting will be held at the Municipal building here Wednesday evening, August 9, to discuss the Prestonsburg subdivision regulations compiled by the City Planning Commission. The Commission has been at work several months on the regulations.

The Commission, composed of Mayor Edward B. Leslie, Fredrick James, Tom G. Dingus, James Camelia, T. O. McGuire and Clyde VanHoose, has published the regulations in book form for the information of the public.

The regulations comprise nine general articles dealing with detailed planning for future land subdivisions here. Article 1 sets out the purpose, authority and jurisdiction of the Commission.

"Once land has been divided into streets, blocks and lots and open spaces, a pattern has been developed (See Story No. 2, Page 2)

ORDER RESCINDMENTS FEATURES BOARD MEET

Deputy Sheriff Fannin Shot Serving Warrant

Deputy Sheriff Wesley Fannin was shot five times by a revolver Wednesday morning on the Town Branch bridge here while attempting to serve a warrant. City police, deputy sheriffs and State troopers were engaging in a wide search for Charlie Miller of the Town Branch section who was last seen going south on the railroad tracks.

Six warrants had been issued for Miller in the last few days for drunkenness, forcibly detainer, destroying property and peace warden. He was released from jail Saturday after his mother-in-law, Mrs. Effie Smith, failed to prosecute.

Fannin was removed to St. Mary's hospital, Huntington, in a critical condition.

TWO FACTIONS IN AGREEMENT ON REVERSAL

Of Previous Policies; Unanimity Is Attained On Many Major Measures

The meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education, held Thursday evening in the offices of the county superintendent, attained greater harmony between the divided members than has ever been exhibited at any other meeting.

Evidence of the cooperative spirit between the three anti-administration members, the two pro-administration members and Superintendent Charles Clark, was reflected in the wholesale rescindment of orders previously voted to which Clark was opposed.

Restored was the maintenance and janitorial systems whereby the superintendent recommended the employees. The Board had previously voted to put these two arms of the system on contract. On the rescindment of the maintenance department order the vote was unanimous but on the plan to place janitors by contract, Chairman Ray Howard and Ross Cooley voted in the negative. John G. Hall voted with John M. Stumbo and Bill Elair to rescind. The motions to reverse the previous orders of the Board were made by Hall. (See list in separate story).

Another bone of contention was resolved when the Board agreed unanimously to rescind a previous order limiting high school principals to ten and a quarter months of work. The Board agreed to employ them for 12 months as recommended by Clark.

Clark recommended a full list of maintenance employees, janitors and bus drivers to which the Board voted assent. The Board voted four to one on maintenance personnel employment with only Cooley voting no. (See list in separate story).

"I recall having said for publication shortly after July 1 that it was my hope that we would be able to forget the old Board and new Board nonsense," Clark said after the meeting. "It is my feeling that if the same spirit of harmony dis-

CIVIL WAR HISTORICAL DRAMA PLANNED

THE PROUD HERITAGE . . . Shown here is a scene from Act I, of The Proud Heritage, a Civil War play to be presented at The Garfield Place, Sunday at 3 p.m. In this first act prominent Prestonsburg residents of the Civil War period have their fortunes told.

The Civil War drama, The Proud Heritage, scheduled for presentation at The Garfield Place here Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock will be attended by many distinguished guests, it was noted this week by a spokesman for the Floyd County Historical Society that is sponsoring the event. It is being held as part of Floyd county's Civil War Centennial observance.

After several weeks of intense preparation the last minute details are practically completed, it was reported at a meeting of the Society Tuesday evening. Delaying the play's rehearsals were last minute changes in the cast, pro-urement of uniform and incidental problems and the unseasonable rain. James Salisbury, the director, was highly optimistic, however, about everything going smoothly, Sunday.

A feature of the promotional effort made by the Society is a television program, Friday afternoon at 1 p.m. over WHTN-TV, Huntington. The time will be given by the television program, The Feminine Touch, emceed by Ann Connelly. A group of ladies, headed by Mrs. Chalmers Frazier, instrumental music director of the play, will appear on the program in period costumes.

Many features of the drama, written by Henry P. Scaif, of The Floyd County Times, make the play unique, it is said. It was written chiefly from memoirs of Union veterans and the traditional accounts of Garfield's presence here that have been preserved by the revision families. All events portrayed actually occurred and no fictional interest has been added.

The play will be presented at The Garfield Place where the Ohio colonel, later a martyred President, occupied as his headquarters following the Battle of Middle Creek, January 10, 1862. Many of the cast (See Story No. 1, Page 2)

HYMN POLL SEEKS TO FIND AMERICA'S FAVORITE SONG

What is America's favorite hymn? The Floyd County Times joins Christian Herald the nation's largest interdenominational Protestant magazine, and newspapers throughout the country, in a definitive survey to determine the hymns America loves best.

A preliminary hymn poll, conducted last year, ended in a controversy between churchgoers who favored "The Old Rugged Cross" and others who named the contemporary gospel song, "How Great Thou Art." Our survey aims at settling the dispute.

The National Newspapers Hymn Poll is open to Americans of all denominations. Every reader of The Times is invited to write the name of his favorite hymn or gospel song on the ballot printed with this article. In appreciation, The Times and Christian Herald will give each respondent the inspiring miniature book, "Hymn Thoughts for the Day," by Bill McVey, the Christian Herald Singer. This attractive book contains favorite hymns and scripture reading for every day of the month.

The local hymn poll is an important part of the nationwide survey. The National Newspapers Hymn Poll is being conducted by newspapers in cities of all sizes in every state. Its purpose is to find out which hymns Floyd County Times readers (and Americans everywhere) enjoy singing and hearing—as well as to encourage hymn singing in homes and churches throughout the country.

Hymn singing has been a dynamic force for American family and community strength since colonial days. For some years after the end of World War II, however, interest in hymn singing declined. But as a result of Bill McVey's Christian Herald Hymn Revival Program, 1960 saw a tremendous revival of hymn singing in America.

Under the direction of Dr. Daniel A. Poling, editor of Christian Herald, hymn singing with Bill McVey have been held in many states, attracting audiences as

Completes Two-Year World Tour Only To Plan Japan School Work

Back home after two years in the Philippines is Sally Harlowe, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Julian C. Harlowe, of Louisville, and granddaughter of Mrs. A. C. Harlowe, of Prestonsburg.

She'll have three weeks leave in Louisville, and then it's back to the Far East again, this time to Yokohama, Japan, to teach third grade to American Navy dependents.

While in the Philippines, Sally spent last year in Sar Miguel and the year before in Subic, where the Navy has its own schools for its personnel.

"It's much more fun teaching in foreign countries than just staying home and doing it," she says.

She's looking forward to her tour of duty in Japan, where she's due August 16.

While she was in the Far East, Sally flew to Hong Kong four times to do all her shopping and spend last Christmas, too.

An added thrill was her trip home around the world by ship, visiting in Thailand, India, Jordan, Egypt, Greece, Italy and Spain.

reflectors which reflect the beam around the obstructions much the same as a mirror reflects light. Towers of United Fuel's network are located in six counties in West Virginia and three in Kentucky.

One of the major uses of United Fuel's present telephone system is the transmission of telemetering information. The company plans to remove a large portion of the telephone system and transmit telemetering information via microwave in the future.

In telemetering, gauges at various points on pipelines measure such things as pressure, gas temperature and rate of flow. The measurements are translated into electrical impulses which are transmitted over the microwave system to the gas control office in Charleston. There, the gas dispatcher may make adjustments by pushing buttons that cause signals to go out via microwave to pneumatic valves.

Burchett said that giant trees, with root systems as big as a small house, were washed out of the earth like a small plant would be and together with cars, furniture and practically any conceivable kind of debris, were piled high against the bridges able to withstand the flood. The obstructions were removed by cranes.
Gov. Barron, of West Virginia, extended his thanks to the Kentucky groups while they were there and many others expressed appreciation and admiration for the groups' efficiency.

played at our Saturday meeting persists we will be on the way toward making our school system the best in Eastern Kentucky."

Continuing the harmony of the meeting was the unanimous decision to rescind an order limiting the supervisors to ten and a quarter months of service each year. This order affects Clem Martin, Anna Sue Stumbo, Blanche E. Dings and Lawrence B. Price, supervisors.

There were a few cracks in the harmony, however. Ross Cooley voted against rescinding a previous order limiting the number of high school clerks and joined with Howard in voting against employment of Richmond Slone as a director of personnel. The order to rescind a limitation to two persons was voted unanimously. Two directors, Earle Martin and Herbert Prater, had been employed previously under the old order.

On a motion to employ the list of teachers recommended by Clark and which had been submitted at previous meetings, the Board voted to hire with only nine exceptions. The exceptions were due to wrangles over placement. Contested placements will be settled by the State Board of Education. These are Carmel Lee Akers, Hade Durbin (Prestonsburg football coach), James Brooks, Eloise Allen, Opha Hopkins, Corinne Allen, Wanda McCown and Geraldine Allen.

Other actions of the Board were:

1. Received 11 affidavits from persons in the Betsy Layne high school area charging D. W. Howard, principal, with misconduct. This will be presented to the State Board of Education although it was pointed out he was employed with the other principals in a blanket order naming the school heads. The vote to employ the principals was opposed by Howard and Cooley.
2. Reemployed Mrs. Mildred Stumbo Kendrick as attendance office clerk by a three to one vote. Howard voted in the negative and Stumbo abstained as she was his sister.

3. Clark asked the Board to vote full-time guidance counselors on a ten and a quarter months basis. This was unanimous.

4. Unanimously voted to allow the Prestonsburg Parent-Teacher Association Building committee to move lights from the present playground to the new stadium now being erected.

5. Transferred Mrs. Evelyn Warrix from the Derossset school to the Rough and Tough school; employed Sturneth Inman for the Turkey Creek school; and named Roland Jones as Bookmobile driver.
6. Voted to allow David Leslie to assume his duties July 24 as materials specialist.

7. Accepted the proposal of United Fuel Gas Company's proposal on the relocation of a gas line across the Big Mud Creek consolidated elementary school building site.

8. On the recommendation of Clark, voted to install central heating at the Auxier school. Lee Shannon, architect, was named architect for the job.

9. Awarded contracts to build pre-fab metal classrooms at Betsy Layne and Martin to the partnership firm of Astor Meade, Romeyn Dyer and W. R. Kendrick, at their best bid of $29,690.00. Four units will be built at Betsy Layne and two at Martin.

10. Voted to abandon and sell these school buildings: Cliff, Riley's Branch, Gold Springs, Lick Fork and Gearheart.

11. Voted to readvertise for renovation of the old high school building here for school administrative purposes. Plans for this have been drawn for several months by the architect. Only Cooley voted no.

12. Accepted the low bid of Elmer Rice to install indoor toilets at Dwale elementary school.

Memorial Contributions To Heart Fund Planned;
Stumbo Heads Fund Drive

Memorial contributions to the Heart Fund, in memory of persons who pass away because of a heart ailment, may be made in Floyd county through John Milton Stumbo, of McDowell, according to Jackson D. Guerrant, of Danville, chairman of the board of the Kentucky Heart Association.

When such a memorial contribution is made, an acknowledgment will be sent promptly to the family of the deceased, Guerrant said, although the amount of the gift is held in confidence. The contributor also will receive a prompt acknowledgment.

Guerrant stated that persons making memorial contributions "not only pay thoughtful tribute to those who have passed away but also serve the living in the fight against heart disease, since these gifts are earmarked for heart research."

Memorial gifts are tax-exempt, and will be reported as part of the final annual total of contributions to the local Heart Fund.

In announcing the appointment of Stumbo as Floyd County Memorial Gifts chairman for the Heart Fund, Guerrant said that "we in the Kentucky Heart Association are deeply grateful to him for assuming this important responsibility in the fight against heart disease."

Where may I obtain information concerning the location and price of abandoned one-room school houses in Kentucky?

The Bureau of School Service at the University of Kentucky suggests that you write to the County School Board in the preferred county for such information. No complete list of such information is published.

What is the origin of salt wells in Kentucky? (Reader, Falmouth Outlook).

Some salt wells in Kentucky may have been dug as a source of salt but most likely they were the source of considerable frustration to settlers digging wells for fresh water, according to the Kentucky Geological Survey at the University of Kentucky. Some of the wells in Northern Kentucky get their salty quality from water running through limestone.

Where may I obtain prints of famous Kentucky scenes suitable for framing, such as Cumberland Falls, Cumberland Gap, Wolf Creek Dam, etc? (Mrs. A. B. Gibson, Albany.)

The Kentucky Professional Photographers Association, 1108 South Fourth Street, Louisville 3, Kentucky, can furnish you with the names and addresses of photographers who have for sale photographs of famous Kentucky scenes.

Readers who have questions about Kentucky are invited to send them to Public Relations Department, University of Kentucky, Lexington. UK staff members, experts in various fields, will supply answers for publication in this newspaper. A postal card may be used for submitting your question. Your name will be omitted by request.

Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources

Q. A friend of mine has muskrats in her pond which are causing great damage. She would like to know how to get rid of them. (L. H. S., Somerset.)

A. Trapping is one of the most effective methods of ridding a pond of muskrats, although there are a number of ways to eliminate them. To trap them, other than in the legal season, November 16 through January 14, a special permit must be obtained from the Game Management Division of the Department. Muskrats are comparatively easy to catch in steel traps and the methods of setting such traps and other means of eliminating them from a pond are given in a leaflet which may be obtained from the Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife, Washington, D. C. Order Wildlife Leaflet 358 from the above address for complete information.

Q. I would like some information on the squirrel and deer hunting regulations; on the management area of Ballard county. J. C. P., Paducah.

A. Squirrel hunting will be permitted on the Ballard County Waterfowl Management Area from August 15 through October 15. The split seasons for squirrels generally for the western part of the state open on August 15 and continue through October 31, and reopen on November 16 and continue through November 27. However, due to the fact that waterfowl begin arriving on the Management Area in October, the squirrel season on that area will end permanently on October 15. Deer hunting is not permitted on the Ballard County Area as the population is not enough to warrant an open season.

Q. I am interested in having my farm pond stocked by the Department, but I have heard that when the Department stocks a pond it has control over the pond and can come back any time and remove fish for stocking or other purposes from that pond. Is this correct? J. S. Henry county.

A. The pond stocking program is a free service to the pond owner. There are no strings attached. The pond and the fish remain the property of the pond owner and the Department has no control over either except the license requirements for a person to fish, which affects all bodies of water. The Department will later test the pond to determine if it is producing, but only upon request of the owner. The Department will not remove fish from said pond unless requested to do so by the owner.

Q. Do you have a monthly publication dedicated to conservation and maintenance of wildlife in the state of Kentucky? If so, I would be interested in receiving same and information as to subscription rates? (N. B., St. Louis, Mo.)

A. The Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources has a bi-monthly magazine of the description you mention. It is in its sixteenth year of publication. Subscription rates are $1 per year, except to members of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen who may subscribe through the League at 35 cents per year. The present circulation is 45,000 per issue. For your subscription, please send check or money order to the Division of Public Relations, Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, Kentucky. Be sure to include your complete mailing address.

Q. My farm pond has become overstocked with undesirable fish. Does the Department remove such fish and if so who should I contact and what would be the cost of such removal? B. G., Franklin county.

A. Fish removal, upon request, is a service of the Department. The only cost is for replacement of chemicals used in the pond treatment. The work is done by the local conservation officer and for more details for treatment of a particular, private pond contact that officer. Chemicals used in such treatments are harmful only to fish.

Q. Is it permissible to hunt turtles without a license? (J. W., Shepherdsville.)

A. Turtles may be taken by hand or with a hook without a license. However, if a gun is used a hunting license is required.

Q. I have weeds in my pond. What can I do about them? (V. H., Louisville.)

A. Aquatic weeds in Kentucky can be classed as algae, emergent and submerged, and each requires a distinct type of treatment. 1. Algae can be killed by a number of different chemicals but the most effective is copper sulphate (blue-stone) used at a rate of three pounds per acre of water one foot deep. 2. Emergent weeds (weeds around edges of pond or which break the surface of the water with a good part of the plant showing, such as water lilies and water primrose), can be killed by a treatment with Kuron or most any of the 2-4-D or 2-4-5T chemicals sprayed as for terrestrial plants. Cat tails can be easily eliminated by one or two sprayings of Dalapon. 3. Submerged plants are hardest to control. Sodium Arsenite has been used effectively but is too dangerous to man and adversely affects the fish populations. A number of new chemicals are being tried. The best recommendation is to try small amounts of Kurosol, Endothal or 2-4-D in pellet or granular form and use the one most effective in your particular pond.

(What's your question about the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources? Send it to Minor Clark, commissioner, Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, and it will be answered in the near future in this column. All questions must be signed by the sender with his complete address. If requested, only initials will be used in this column.)

THE PROUD HERITAGE

The Proud Heritage is a Civil War play but it pretends to uniqueness as it is a presentation of history as it occurred at The Garfield Place at Prestonsburg following the Battle of Middle Creek, January 10, 1861, when Col. James A. Garfield, later President of the United States, occupied it as his headquarters.

The drama, a six-act presentation, scheduled July 30, has no fictional interest but will portray events as they occurred with little "dressing." The writer, not being a professional playwright, chose this method as a happy substitute for a sophisticated play. It is perhaps the first time in the state that a play will be offered without any altering of events to attain dramatic effect. Events at The Garfield Place, while it was occupied as headquarters for the Eighteenth Brigade of the Union Army, were dramatic enough.

Prestonsburg was seething with Confederate sentiment when the Civil War came. John M. Elliott, Andrew Jackson May, the Harmons and Davidsons, had led skillfully with their influence to make the town almost wholly Confederate. There were few dissenting voices.

The approach of Garfield threw the town into turmoil. Merchants closed their doors and fled. Most of the young men had already gone off to shoulder Southern guns. Those remaining could hear the pounding guns at Middle Creek and next day saw the wounded Unionists being loaded on boats at the mouth of Middle Creek to be transported to Louisville.

Garfield and his staff came to town the day following the battle and inspected the John M. Burns home. It was but a few years old and Mr. and Mrs. Burns had fled down the river at night. Burns was a law partner of John M. Elliott and he surmised that the association would endanger his freedom but in later years of the struggle he became solidly Unionist.

Liking the Burns home, the young Ohio colonel commandeered it for headquarters. Here he paroled a few prisoners and set about pacifying the town. He forbade looting or harassment and personally returned a quilt a soldier had stolen.

There was the incident of Pvt. William Boggs' appeal to Garfield to be allowed to bury his dead brother on Big Blaine Creek, Lawrence county.

William and Nelson Boggs, the latter only 16 years of age, had promised their parents that if either were killed, the survivor would do his best to bring the dead brother back to the family cemetery.

Nelson was killed in the battle and William requested Capt. James

Martin County Sends 47 to Morehead State

Morehead, Ky.—Forty-seven students from Martin county are enrolled at Morehead State College for the summer term, according to President Adron Doran.

Dr. Doran said that 1,694 students are enrolled for the summer term with 91% of the total from Kentucky. He pointed out that the 9% total from out-of-state is made up largely of persons who have left Kentucky to teach in other states or whose parents left Kentucky seeking job opportunities elsewhere.

Fifty-eight counties, 15 states and two foreign countries are represented with 1,512 resident Kentuckians and 166 out-of-state students enrolled.

The graduate program has 308 students enrolled while there are 619 seniors, 341 juniors, 250 sophomores and 163 freshmen enrolled for the eight-week term which ends on August 4.

The 1,694 total does not include participants in the annual Writers' Workshop (August 7-19), Hawaiian Field Trip (August 6-31), Kentucky Dance Institute (August 6-13) and on-campus post summer session (August 7-25).

Students enrolled from Martin county are:
From Inez—Amy Allen, Jimmie Allen, Lester Baldrige, Charles Brewer, Dottie Callahan, John Cassidy, Warren Cassidy, William R. Cline, Kenneth Cox, Sheila Jean Cox, Leila Crum, Virginia Dalton, Kenton Fairchild, Larry Fitzpatrick, Wilburn Goble, Corine Hamilton, Lucille Hardin, James Harman, Veronica Harman, Gertrude Hayes, Elizabeth Horn, Floyd Horne, Ersel Moore, Ranson Porter, Sue O. Richmond, Donald Riffe, James J. Staton, Ruth Stepp, John Thacker, Donald E. Ward and Eddie Ward.

Also from Martin county are Rosa F. Blackburn, Debord; Anna Bryant, Debard; Lattie Copley, Warfield; Barbara Gilley, Warfield; Charles Gilley, Warfield; Ruby Hinkle, Tomahawk; Eta Marcum, Beauty; Carol Meade, Beauty; Geneva Mollett, Tomahawk; Wendell Moore, Pilgrim; Eleanor Porter, Debord; Ruth Preece, Tomahawk; Mildred Slone, Debord; Edna Stepp, Warfield; Lewis Stepp, Warfield and John E. White, Beauty.

Forrest Gregory has the lead part, playing Garfield. He was picked from scores of prospects as most nearly resembling the young Union colonel.

Unique, too, in the play, will be the participation of a contingent of Blue and Gray soldiers under Capt. James M. Sears, U. S. Army Center, Fort Knox. The group was specially trained for the Prestonsburg play. They will arrive in Prestonsburg, Saturday, July 29, and be guests of the town until Monday.

The Proud Heritage will be directed by James Salisbury and Linda Sue Stephens. Chorus director is Mrs. Carlos Haywood. All music is authentic to the period, having been selected by Mrs. Edith F. James, ballad and song authority.

OUT-DOOR FISH COOKERY

The earliest Americans knew the value of "Outdoor Fish Cookery" and the succulence of the fish cooked over it. Long before the white man came to these shores, Indians learned just how good fish taste when cooked over the open fire. Our heritage, as evidenced by this old Indian traditional form of cookery, has stood the test of time, and lends color to the culture of today. This can be used in your own backyard with almost any species of fish. Cooking has traditionally been woman's work; however, "Outdoor Fish Cookery" gives dad a chance to show off his culinary talents and for mom to "live it up".

The recipe appearing in this release has been kitchen tested by the home economists of the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

FISH IN FOIL: 2 pounds fish fillets, fresh or frozen; 2 green peppers, sliced; 2 onions, sliced; 1/4 cup butter or other fat, melted; 2 tablespoons lemon juice; 2 teaspoons salt; teaspoon paprika; and a dash white pepper.

Thaw frozen fillets. Cut into serving-size portions. Cut six squares of heavy-duty aluminum foil, 12 inches each. Grease lightly. Place each portion of fish, skin side down, on one half of each square of foil. Top with green pepper and onion, dividing evenly among portions. Combine remaining ingredients. Pour sauce over fish, using approximately 1 tablespoon for each portion. Fold other half of foil over fish and seal edges by making double folds in the foil. Place packages of fish on a barbecue grill about 5 inches from moderately hot coals. Cook for 45 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. To serve, cut a high crisscross in the top of each package and fold the foil back. Serves six.

Look for certain quality characteristics in fresh fish. When you buy it whole (fish as it comes from the water) or drawn (fish with only the entrails removed). The fish should have the following qualities: Flesh—firm and elastic, springy to the touch; odor—fresh and mild; eyes—bright, clear, not sunken, not filmed; gills—red and free from slime; and skin—shiny, with un-faded color.

STRAWBERRIES

The wet weather will cause weeds to grow fast. Don't put off cleaning crucial time for strawberries. New plants have taken roots and it will be more difficult to remove weeds.

There have been several reports of favorable results from use of Craig Herbicide or Sesone. This is a big labor saving practice. It still is not too late for those that have not used this material.

CRAYFISH

Many people have a continuous fight on hand to control "crayfish" in their lawns, gardens, ponds and fields. The best control measure is to pour 10 drops of carbon bisulphide in each hole, then close the opening by pressing your heel over it. A convenient way of applying the carbon bisulphide is to use a oil can. The material is highly inflammable and should never be handled near fire. It also evaporates quickly, and should be kept tightly closed when not in use. Be careful not to breathe the fumes.

MORE CAMPERS

The names of Sheryl Blackburn and Linda Garrett were omitted last week from the list of members attending the Junior 4-H Camp, and Phyllis Combs was omitted from the list of Senior 4-H Campers.

POULTRY JUDGING TEAM

The 4-H Poultry Judging team is now being trained for competition at the State Fair in September.

Last year the team composed of Burgess Lowe, Ossie Spencer, Randolph Hicks and Preer Martin finished third in the state. Burgess Lowe was also the third place winner in the individual competition.

Any boy in the senior division interested in training with the team should contact the county extension office.

FREEZING

Every year you should have better, more flavorful food from your freezer, than you did the year before. Why? Because research gives us new and better wrappings, improvement in freezers, new varieties of food and more reliable information on how to prepare food.

Freeze raw foods the best way. Scald or blanch vegetables to stop the action of enzymes, otherwise the vegetables will grow old and tough while frozen, and develop off flavors.

Cool vegetables quickly and thoroughly after scalding to stop the cooking. Plunge food immediately into ice water. (Keep lots of ice on hand during the freezing season).

Too high temperature in your freezer may be responsible if the quality of your frozen food isn't satisfactory. Freezer temperature should be 0 degree or better yet 10 degrees below.

Because enzymes cause chemical changes in foods resulting in off-flavors, color changes and vitamin losses. Zero temperature reduces enzymes action.

Keep a check on temperature in your freezer by placing an accurate thermometer in your freezer and by placing an accurate thermometer on top of food packages.

Buying a freezer in 1961. Biggest news in freezers is that features introduced in deluxe models last year are less expensive.

If you would like to have a free canning or freezing book, just call or write the Extension Office, Prestonsburg, and one will be sent to you.

SCENE OF THE MULLINS FAMILY MASSACRE AT POUND GAP

The most lurid crime of the Cumberlands was the murder of five members of the Ira Mullins family near Pound Gap, May 14, 1892. The murders were master-minded by Dr. M. B. Taylor, named Red Fox of the Cumberlands, by John Fox, Jr., in the book, Trail of the Lonesome Pine. Taylor was hanged at Wise, Va., Oct. 27, 1893.

Shown here are The Killing Rocks, as named by mountain residents after the tragedy.

Right, is the late Floyd Killin, native to the section, and Milburn Hall, of Floyd county, whose father Big Ed Hall, of the Wheelwright section, captured Dr. Taylor and assisted in bringing others in the murder conspiracy to justice.

The First National Bank presents these pictures of our region in recognition of its colorful history.

Tidbits Of Kentucky Folklore

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

BY THE COMPANY HE KEEPS

My oldest brother, who was a farmer and horse fancier, would sometimes glance up from the field where we would be plowing and see somebody riding or driving a buggy or wagon down the Big Road. He would stop, look steadily a few moments, and then say that it was So-and-so, from some adjoining neighborhood, for "I know his horse." We younger children always got a good laugh at this, but rarely was my brother mistaken as an appendage to the horse. Frequently our brother would tell us a dozen different things about the horse in question, enough to fill a good-sized page of print, not that we cared ten cents about the horse or its owner, but our brother just knew and enjoyed what he knew about horses.

In a way his knowledge was typical of our neighborhood, for people as well as horses were known by the company they kept. It was a little world that we lived in, so little that it was possible to give a sort of life history of just anybody who lived within three or four miles of us. Maybe we would not have made a very high grade if we had been asked about some new tenant or tie-hacker, but if the person belonged to our area, we had his number. There was no trouble about classifying him as to his politics; probably we did not know two dozen Republicans; Fidelity was "rock-ribbed" Democratic. It was a little harder to classify a man by his church affiliation or lack of it, for there were three actual church groups near us, with a few oddities like the Coopers, who were Mormons, and my parents, who were Cumberland Presbyterians. Once we knew a fellow's affiliations, we felt that we knew him; we could beat him to the draw by starting an argument about some abstruse point in theology, knowing exactly what he would say.

But one's affiliations were not the only ways by which we could classify any one. Where he lived was another big test. If he lived between Blood River and the nearer Tennessee River hills, he was one of us. Beyond Blood River he would go to Murray on county court day and would not have to travel through Fidelity; he was, therefore, a foreigner. He might live on Dog Creek or out in the Flatwoods or up toward New Providence; but the small, muddy creek—called a river, formed a boundary that was almost like a range of mountains. Down toward the big river—now Kentucky Lake—lived others that were hardly in our group, though they had to come out to the civilized world by way of Fidelity, for that was the only way out. Only four miles south of us was the Tennessee-Kentucky state line beyond that imaginary line lived perfect strangers, who went all the way to Paris, Tennessee, to do their shopping and to attend to business. A few of these strange foreigners might stray into Fidelity on great occasions, but none of us got very well acquainted with them. And, I learned to my childish sorrow, many of those same people looked upon us—the Elect, the very best Folks—as strange and queer. It was bad enough to have our relatives from town show their superiority when other country hicks like us looked down their noses at us, we wanted to punch those same noses.

I had almost forgotten how small was our world until a few years ago when I was camping in a remote place on Cumberland River, some two hundred miles from Fidelity. The old gentleman on whose farm I had set up my tent was very gracious to me and was quite talkative. Among other things he talked about was the self-importance of a neighborhood that I had passed in coming to his bend of the river. He said that little settlement had a lot of politicians who tried to run the county and often succeeded. As I drove out, after several days camping, I passed again the very shabby little store or two and some battered-up residences and wondered how much like Fidelity the world was, even for beyond Dog Creek and the Flatwoods.

At Louisville, city councilmen voted an appropriation of $5,000 to help buy uniforms for the 1,200 members of the Louisville Home Guards. That was to supplement about $3,000 that had been raised by private subscriptions.

A report from Clarksville, Tenn., where there was a Confederate camp, said that Brig. Gen. W. T. Withers, a veteran of the Mexican War, was organizing a brigade to be composed exclusively of Kentuckians, for service in the Confederate States Army. He had accepted about 1,300 volunteers.

The Lexington Observer and Reporter said several Lexington men who had gone to Clarksville with the intention of enlisting

There were almost daily reports of smuggling of supplies from Northern states through neutral Kentucky to Tennessee, for sale to the Confederates. A man who represented himself to be advance agent for a show traveled in a wagon from Indiana across Kentucky to Tennessee. It was reported that he had in the wagon a great quantity of quinine, badly needed in the Confederate States, and that he made a profit of $10,000 on the trip.

The Louisville Journal said a correspondent had complained about its calling troops of the Confederate States "rebels." It said the Louisville Courier, which favored the Confederacy, had used the word more than the Journal had.

A Louisville firm advertised that it would employ "1,000 tailors and seamstresses to make uniforms."

A STORY OF SANG (GINSENG)

I look back with nostalgia to the days when I roamed the wooded hills to dig the wild sang. It was a thrill of my boyhood to go far into the deep cooves, where the sang was found hiding beneath the canopied oaks and beeches.

There were dangers to face on these "sanging treks." Most any clump of tall weeds might conceal a savage rattler or a vicious copperhead. Not many of us "sangers" got snakebit but some did and we always carried turpentine, iodine and bandages.

In those days, digging the sang and yaller root was our chief means of stocking the larder and getting our school clothes. There wasn't much industry then and as soon as families laid by their corn, they made ready to hit the woods.

Sang was always in good demand on the markets and buyers often rode through on horseback. Thanks to the Chinese, who believed it would cure most every human ailment. In the days before World War II one ounce of the drug made from wild sang sold for as much as $400.

Our American ginseng is of better quality than the Chinese variety. The Ginseng family, Araliaceae, produce their flowers in umbels, and they are greenish-white. The berries turn deep scarlet in late summer.

How eagerly I waited the time for my father to say, "Crops are laid by, boys. Tomorrow we'll light out for the woods to dig sang!"

Our neighbors came to go with us. Ginseng was plentiful then. Each of us carried a bag made of strong bed ticking, which had a shoulder strap. We had special tools, called "sang hoes." Made of forged steel, they were slender and sharp, with a socket for the short handle. With such a formidable tool, we could gently lift out the root of a four-prong, or cleave the head of a timber rattler.

We had our vernacular for our trade and called it sanging, not root-digging. We mountaineers always had a high regard for sang and I've heard many say, "Sang's the purtiest plant that grows in them thar hills."

I've seen many of the sangers do a rather odd thing. After uprooting a sang plant, and breaking off the top, they would stoop over and stick the top back in the hole, from which they had dug the root, as if in a vain hope it would grow again.

From my boyhood experience, I would say that ginseng has been of more value in helping the mountain people through the hardships of life than any other wild plant known. By the time most of them got their crops laid by, they were in dire need of necessities. So they hit for the woods in droves to dig the sang.

An experienced sanger could dig about a pound of "green sang" each day. The roots had to be washed and dried. Then they were taken to the country store and traded for bacon, coffee, calico, soda, sugar and other items. Sometimes the sang roots bought a suit for Johnny, a new dress for Mary, combs for Grandma. Ginseng was the "bread of life" to the mountain people some fifty years ago. But it has faded away until it is nearly all gone from the wild woods.

We root-diggers knew sang perhaps better than most of the botanists. Our nomenclature described it just as it appeared in its various forms. The first year's plant was a "three-leaf," a petiole with three pretty toothed leaflets. The second year, the little three-leaf grew to be a two-prong. In the third or fourth year, the two-prong would rise up a three-prong. And if it escaped the keen eye of the digger, it would become a four-prong the next year. Sometimes we found five-prongs, and I've heard some old sangers say they had found a few eight-prongs. But I was never that lucky.

Our precious wild ginseng has been sacrificed upon the altar of human need and it seems destined to become an extinct plant in the not too distant future.

ANCIENT LAWS OF BIOLOGY

The ancient laws of the Jews, as laid down by Moses, revealed many interesting characteristics of animals and birds, and they helped man to distinguish the "clean" from the "unclean." Moses wrote these laws as a guide for the Children of Israel, so they might maintain good health and live godly lives. He reveals a deep knowledge of the various groups of animals, and when he gave a reason why some animal or bird was not fit for food, it was certainly a good reason.

Animals and birds might be classed into three groups:

First, those that were created for human food, all of which have special features that mark them as "clean animals."

Second, we have a group of animals and birds known as "scavengers," created to clean up the filth of the earth, to eat the dead bodies and all things that would pollute the air. Among such animals and birds, we have buzzards, crows, coyotes, vultures; and in the waters, we have animals like crabs, oysters, lobsters and giant sea snails. None of these are fit for human food when they are feeding upon the waste and filth of the earth or seas.

Third, we have another group of animals that devour the vermin, the rodents, the snakes and other creatures that would soon overwhelm the earth if they were not kept in check. These animals were created to help maintain the balance of nature. Rats and mice breed so rapidly, if the hawks, owls and other predators didn't devour them, man could not long survive. This group of animals is called "beasts of prey," or "birds of prey," such as hawks, owls, foxes, wolves, lions, cats, etc. None of the animals in this group are clean and they were all forbidden to be eaten.

Moses laid down this law: "You may eat any animal that parts the hoof and chews the cud."

The camel was an animal that chewed the cud but did not part the hoof. He had a large flat foot with pads, adapted for desert travel. So he was not fit for human food, and for a good reason. The camel drinks very little water, not enough to flush out the body poisons. So his flesh is heavy, tainted with body poisons, not fit for human food. Horses fall in the same category and were never made to be eaten as human food. The odor of a horse is nauseous to a great many persons.

Animals that chew the cud are called ruminants, from which we have the colorful word, "ruminating," meaning to sit or lie and muse, or meditate. Cows will lie quietly for hours chewing their cuds, the food hastily swallowed. In the quiet of a cool retreat, they belch up their food and chew it slowly and thoroughly, so that it will digest properly. It requires about 20 hours for cows to complete the entire digestive process, during which time their food goes through two processes. Thus cows have plenty of time to eliminate the waste products of the body, so that none of it gets into the milk or the flesh. All animals like cattle, deer, moose, caribou, sheep, reindeer and the like are "clean animals," made for human consumption.

The flesh of swine was forbidden as food. This was because a hog is a rapid eater, digests its food quickly, and does not cleanse its body of all the poisons. Its flesh is rich and heavy, laden with urea and other poisons. Heavy eaters of pork and all products of swine, often are victims of gout and kidney diseases.

When left to range at large, hogs will eat almost anything filthy and unclean, since they are scavengers. Only those fed on grains or properly balanced diet should be eaten as human food.

Many people feed their hogs on uncooked garbage, which is most unsafe. Hogs contract a larval parasite called Trichina spiralis, which becomes imbedded in their muscular tissues, and when people eat pork that is not thoroughly cooked, these parasites often get in the muscles and cause trichinosis—a dangerous and often fatal disease. Perhaps that is one reason the Mosaic law forbade the Israelites to eat the flesh of swine and called it "unclean."

Fish that have fins and scales have always been regarded as food of the highest quality and have been used from ancient times. But there are many creatures inhabiting the streams or seas that are unclean and unfit for human food, although they are often eaten as delicacies. Among such is the crab, which is nothing more than a huge sea spider that lives on the filth and decaying flesh of the seas.
