This Town-- That World

Who will win the arms race? Not the human race.

VOTE "YES!"

The people of Floyd county naturally want good publicity, would like to have others have something good to say of them. No public service ever rendered in this county has ever brought more credit to Floyd county and its people than the Bookmobiles and the library service they represent. Let's not lose it all—let's vote "Yes" on the library tax issue, November 7.

SIC TRANSIT GLORIA

Lerin lost his cadaver-bedfellow in that magnificent mausoleum in Red Square, the other day, we hear. For years the two had lain in silent grandeur, worshipped as heroes by poor, credulous, deluded Russian people. But, somehow, Mr. K. finally came up with a bit of truth, and gave forth with the statement that this Stalin was a monster, a murderer and several other things described by adjectives of the more sable sort. So Josef Stalin has taken leave of his tomb and now lies elsewhere—while Khrushchev continues to lie every other breath.

THEY "MADE" THE PAPERS

The news this week has been deeply disturbing, and we do not propose to appear facetious about it. But there were a couple of statements in the papers which surely were calculated to be funny. In one of these a doctor who is prominent in the American Medical Association warned that drinking milk is dangerous—creates cholesterol in the blood, you know. Says he prescribes coffee for his youngsters and keeps them off of the milk. In the other a guy declares Kentucky history shouldn't be taught.

I am no doctor, neither am I a (See Story No. 5, Page 7)

MILLER CASE IS DOCKETED

Burglary and Theft Feature Trial Dates Of November Court

Although child desertion continues to appear most frequently on the docket, crimes connected with burglary and theft are second in number on the list of cases scheduled for trial at the criminal term of the Floyd circuit court which will convene Monday, November 13.

Only one murder case, that of Charlie Miller, is docketed for hearing.

In all, 176 cases are on the docket. Some of these, however, are not officially "before the court," and a number will in all probability be dismissed.

Five persons are accused of knifing or shooting, and wounding with intent to kill. There are 35 cases on the docket in which defendants are charged with breaking and entering, grand larceny or knowingly receiving stolen property. Nine of the cases accuse defendants of unlawful liquor traffic, and three allege carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

Work of the grand jury will add other cases, some of which may be brought to trial during the term.

The list of 45 jurors which was released last week by Circuit Clerk Henry Stephens follows:

GOVERNOR ANNOUNCES $7 MILLION ROAD WORK

ROAD, BRIDGE WORK SLATED ON HIGHWAY

Governmental Functions Exercised by Governor With State Staff Here

Governor Bert T. Combs and a staff of 19 "set up shop" in the state's Department of Economic Security building here last Thursday, and during the day the Governor met and talked with a steady stream of homefolk Floyd countians and a few visitors from neighboring counties.

It was the 14th county-seat call in the Governor's program of taking state government to the people. From Combs' office here it was business as usual—interviews granted, pleas heard, decisions made on both the local and state levels.

At noon the Governor was guest of honor at a luncheon at the Wise Restaurant at which he addressed members of the Kiwanis Club, Junior Chamber of Commerce, the senior and junior Women's Clubs, the Community Development Council, members of the Floyd County Bar Association and others.

Reviewing highway projects under construction or advertised for bids, the Governor said $7,052,000 will be spent on the Floyd county section of the highway arm extending from Campton to Prestonsburg as a part of the huge Eastern Kentucky Turnpike undertaking. The Highway Department will receive bids November 10 on 3.1 miles of the road from Prestonsburg to extend up Middle Creek to a point near the junction of the David road with the Prestonsburg-Salyersville route. This will include a four-lane bridge across the Big Sandy here, and the cost will approximate $2,860,000. Rights-of-way on the remaining 9.3 miles to the Floyd-Magoffin line are being acquired, and cost of construction of this sector will be slightly in excess of $4,000,000.

Combs acknowledged the importance of farm-to-market roads to his luncheon audience.

"But," he said, "we must have trunk line highways or we won't have any markets. There will not be any way to get products out of Eastern Kentucky."

About 120 people visited Combs' temporary office in the Department of Economic Security building on Lake Drive. Most of them came from Prestonsburg and Floyd county, but a few came in from adjoining counties for interviews.

Two Floyd county schoolteachers—Mrs. Frankie Best and Miss Elsie Stephens—were the first people to greet Governor Combs as he entered the building.

The two said they had each received $1,100 in salary increases since Combs took office, thanked him "for what you have done for the schoolteachers of Kentucky."

The first visitor to see Combs in his office was Mrs. Spradlin, of Prestonsburg. She was followed by a procession of people that lasted until after 5 p.m. They had the (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

BOOKMOBILES WILL BENEFIT BY 'YES' VOTE, NOVEMBER 7

Floyd County's Bookmobile and Library will remain in Floyd county if the voters vote "yes" November 7 on a special library tax. The Bookmobiles make regular visits in the county and provide schoolchildren and the public with books. If the vote is "yes," Bookmobile and library service will be maintained and improved. Shown in the photo are, from left, Mrs. R. V. May, chairman of the Floyd County Library Board; Charles Patton, Bookmobile driver-librarian, and Grover Page, Jr., of the Library Extension Division, Frankfort.

HALL NAMES EXAM DAYS

For First Grade Pupils; 346 Examinations Made By Health Department

Dr. R. L. Hall, health officer of the Floyd County Health Department, said this week that through October 27, 346 first-grade pupils have been examined, and that for the next two weeks the schedule of examinations will be:

Thursday, November 9: Wheelwright, Upper Jack's Creek, Lower Jack's Creek and Buckingham schools.

November 10: Lambert, Clear Creek, Ligon, Beaver and Tackett schools.

November 16: Frasure's Branch and eight Mud Creek schools.

November 17: Harold, three Toler Creek schools, two Little Mud schools and the Dana school.

No school visits were scheduled this week because Dr. Hall was leaving today (Thursday) to attend a Civil Defense medical meeting in Chicago.

After the schedule announced is completed, Betsy Layne, Tram, Mare Creek, Buffalo and Johns Creek schools will probably be visited the following week, Dr. Hall said. "If some of the schools nearer us are feeling neglected," he said, "perhaps I should explain that we are trying to complete these more distant schools before winter strikes. We can reach Martin, Allen and Prestonsburg schools in snowy weather without too much difficulty."

Through October 27, 346 first graders had been examined in addition to those examined at clinics held at the Health Department. These exams include skin-testing for tuberculosis. "We discovered (See Story No. 7, Page 8)

West Virginia Lifer Escapes But Gives Up To Paintsville Police

West Virginia state police were notified Wednesday that Thomas Cantrell, 29, serving a life term for murder, had surrendered at Paintsville, after a week of freedom.

The prisoner escaped last Thursday from the state police barracks where he was working as a trusty. He made his getaway in a trooper's car.

State Police Sgt. D. V. Lilly said Cantrell called him about midnight Tuesday from Paintsville and said he wanted to surrender. Lilly told him to report to Paintsville city police. Cantrell was given a life term after pleading guilty to killing Glenna Lewis, 19, of Prosperity, W. Va., in August, 1956.

LIBRARY TAX VALUE IS SET

Worth $113,000, Said; Voter Approval Insures Retention of Services

An affirmative vote November 7 on the proposed special library tax will be worth $113,000 to Floyd county, according to information released by the Library Extension Division in Frankfort.

"This sum will not be a cash grant only," said Miss Margaret Willis, director of the Library Extension Division, plus new material and expanded services which will be provided if the vote is favorable.

Floyd county now receives $1,500 in a state-aid cash grant, plus $2,200 worth of new Bookmobile books each year. County support now amounts to $15,000 per year.

Passage of the library tax would increase the yearly state-aid grant to $2,800 and insure continuance of the $2,200 worth of new Bookmobile books each year and pay for regional staff services.

To this would be added a whopping $60,000 worth of new regional library books and $12,000 in additional Bookmobile books.

"Under the provisions of Kentucky's regional library program," Miss Willis said, "a negative vote would mean withdrawal of all regional library facilities now operating in Floyd county on a demonstration basis."

But, she pointed out, passage of the library tax would allow the county to keep its two $7,500 Bookmobiles and the $2,000 worth of books they contain. The county would also retain $5,000 worth of records, films, magazines and equipment now in use in the Eastern Kentucky Library region.

Crum Purchases Store From Adams and George; Martin Business Sold

James Adams, manager of the Adams & George Hardware here, announced Wednesday the sale of the business to Lloyd Crum, of Allen.

Mr. Crum, who for the last 15 years has been associated with the Sandy Valley Hardware at Allen, will operate the business as Lloyd's Hardware. The business will continue in the building housing the Adams & George Hardware the last six years.

Purchase of the Triangle Market at the intersection of the Left Beaver and Right Beaver Creek highways, near Martin, was made recently by Ernest Turner, of Drift, and his son-in-law, Olin Elliott. The business was purchased from Norman Osborne, and Turner and Elliott already have begun its operation.

FOOD STAMP PROGRAM IS APPROVED BY POLL

The food stamp program receives almost unanimous approval from Floyd county citizens, according to a poll taken over the week-end.

The cross section of merchants, recipients, teachers and others queried voiced different reasons, however. Many observed it was a program that benefited the small merchants, others noted the improvement in the health of children. Mothers of recipient children pointed out that the variety of good foods now available to them was better than under the commodity program.

Typical of the small merchant is the comment of Ollie Ellis, Water Gap merchant and postmaster: "You wouldn't advise cutting it out, would you? Neither would I.

City Council Approves Purchase of Pump Here

The Prestonsburg City Council last Friday night unanimously accepted the State Highway Department's offer of a pump for use with the two already operable here when the floodgate is closed to hold out floodwaters.

The Council agreed to maintain and operate the pump. Addition of a third pump eliminates the necessity of purchase of a pondage area by the state in the area of the floodgate and along the new road soon to be constructed into Prestonsburg. The pumps will be used to throw out of the low-lying area behind the floodgate accumulations of surface water and sewage.

FEAR OF COURT SUITS CUTS ABSENTEE VOTE

Floyd county's voters will go to the polls Tuesday to choose its officers for the next four years and register its will on a proposed library tax.

There is a full ticket of Democratic nominees, but the offices of tax commissioner, coroner and county attorney are not being contested by the Republicans. Chief interest centers in the race between Henry C. Hale, Democrat, for Sheriff, and his Republican opponent, Jesse L. (Jack) Hyden, and in the campaign for county judge between Henry Stumbo, incumbent and Democratic nominee, and his Republican opponent, former Sheriff Gorman Collins.

The proposed library tax of five cents on each $100 valuation of property is drawing the united effort of schools and others interested in keeping the institution and the complementary Bookmobiles in the county. To pass, it will require a simple majority of those voting on the question.

One feature of the campaign has been the lack of interest in absentee balloting as contrasted with the primary vote of nearly 800 votes. Only 144 ballots have been mailed out to absentees by the County Clerk's office here, and only four voted ballots have been returned.

Mrs. Kathleen Moore, wife of County Court Clerk DuRan Moore, points out that many persons are reluctant to vote because of their fear of being called as witnesses in probable court action as an aftermath of the election.

"There was so much unnecessary publicity attending the absentee voting in the May primary and the resulting court action in the contest cases on the matter that students, service men and many good citizens did not apply for ballots," Mrs. Moore said. "One woman, who was perfectly eligible to vote, returned a ballot after she had procured it, saying that she wasn't voting it for fear of being a witness in court."

Martin, Wheelwright, Prestonsburg and Allen are holding municipal elections and at Martin certain questions about the polling procedure and the eligibility of candidates had to be resolved by the court. All municipal elections have been ordered held with paper ballots.

Hopkinsville Second On Commission List For Needed Colleges

The Governor's Commission on Public Higher Education in its report made last Friday to Governor Combs recommended the establishing of at least three new regional colleges in the state—and to Prestonsburg was given No. 1 priority for such an institution.

Second and third in priority ranking are Hopkinsville and Somerset.

The 48-page report was filed with the Governor after the five-man body had studied higher public education needs in Kentucky over a period of 10 months. The Commission, authorized by act of the 1960 General Assembly, was named by Governor Combs. It is composed of Dr. Otis C. Amis, chairman, of Lexington; R. V. May, Prestonsburg; W. R. Patterson, Louisville; Cloyd McDowell, Harlan, and Maxon Price, Bowling Green.

The Prestonsburg area was rated No. 1 in the Commission's ratings for the location of a regional college because the need here obviously is greater on the basis of general population served, student and parent interest in such an institution, the average high school enrollment and the number of high school graduates each year. This area has within a 30-mile radius a population of approximately 200,000, and the number of high school graduates is about 2,400 a year. No. 2-ranked area has a population of 156,000 and 1,424 high school graduates.

The area prescribed by a circle with a radius of 30 miles from the Prestonsburg focal point includes all of Pike, Martin, Johnson, Magoffin, Knott and Floyd counties, one-half the population of Perry and Letcher and one-third the population of Lawrence, Morgan and Breathitt.

The criteria adopted by the Commission in considering the sites are:

1. No new institution of higher learning shall be located within one hour commuting distance from another offering the same or similar opportunity as that proposed by the new.
2. A general population of from (See Story No. 1, Page 8)

Vote "Yes," November 7!

Floyd county is one of the Kentucky pioneers in the public service which most of us know by the single word, "Bookmobile." Since the first Bookmobile came to serve the schools, the rural areas, the children, young people and adults in all walks of life, the library service in this county has been a model to be imitated by other counties and a constant challenge to other sections of Kentucky.

It was because of the outstanding record established in this county by the "Bookmobile service" that the regional library serving not only this but surrounding counties was located here. Every year the service has been increased, with trained personnel concentrating on meeting the needs of the public.

The thousands of books, the recordings of great music, the hundreds of miles travelled monthly by the Bookmobiles—all these could be, and indeed may have been, taken for granted—but now comes the time when the people must decide for themselves if the regional library and the complete library service which we have enjoyed are to remain with us.

The voters of Floyd county are being asked at the November 7 election to approve a library tax of 5 cents on each $100 worth of taxable property as their contribution to this service. That means, for example, that the taxpayer whose assessment is $1,000 would pay 50 cents a year. No more, no less. The rate cannot be increased; there is no sliding scale to permit a higher charge without another vote of the people.

The teachers of the county, educational leaders, schoolchildren, all who read and all who find knowledge and inspiration in the world of books know the benefits and the savings, too, that have accrued to individuals as a consequence of this library service. But some parents may not realize the savings this small tax will mean to them over the years.

A set of reference works for a schoolchild will cost from $75 to $175, and soon it is out of date, needing annual supplements in a fast-moving age to meet the child's school requirements. The county and regional library have the most complete reference works, all available for the asking. Consider the matter from another angle: If you and your family read as many as 25 books a year, and buy these books as you would be required to do, if there were no library service, you would spend from $75 to $100.

All that has been done before has been on an experimental basis. Now comes the time for Floyd county's citizens to say if the library service so splendidly begun and carried on till this day shall be continued.

We think they will. For we think they realize the truth of this anomaly: In this age of materialism the things of true value are those of the spirit and the mind.

The People's Party will seek a grant from the Federal government to build Prestonsburg's sewer system. The funds can be procured upon the basis of 65 percent grant or gift and the balance on long terms.

Mayor Ed Leslie and his CD Ticket friends are seeking an $810,000.00 loan from the government to build the sewerage system. Repayment would be made either by a front-footage real estate tax or a 90 percent addition to your water bills.

Vote The People's Ticket for no increase in taxes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

URGE "YES" VOTE

Editor, The Times:
We would like to urge all the people of Floyd county to vote "yes," Nov. 7, for the Bookmobile and Library. This is one of the best programs our county has ever had. By voting "yes" on November 7th, Floyd county will take a big step forward toward making our community a better place in which to live.

ENDORSES LIBRARY TAX

Editor, The Times:
I urge everyone who cares about the children and adults of Prestonsburg, and Floyd County and all small communities here to back the vote for the library district, November 7. This vote will keep the two new bookmobiles, the thousands of new books, the library staff and the fine service we have received for the past 4 years.

We don't want all of this to move to another county, but I understand regulations will require that this happen.

Before 1954 we didn't have any library or book service in Floyd County. Now we have a good library, deposit stations in the county and regular bookmobile service. We need for this to be even better. The local funds will be very small indeed compared to what we can keep and continue receiving.

My support is for the vote for a County Library district.
JOE WEDDINGTON

IN SUPPORT OF LIBRARY

Editor, The Times:
I know of nothing in the secular field of more value to Floyd county (and the other counties served) than the Regional Library. It is a source of joy and inspiration and benefit to us. It would be a severe personal blow to lose it; and for the region's children, a tremendous loss.

The small tax per $100.00—the price of a package of gum—must not prevent us from keeping the library. It will be to our shame and disgrace if we lose the library. For our own selfish interests, if for no other reason, let's ALL vote "yes" when we go to the polls, election day.

My personal thanks to a real benefactor, Bob Wallace.

State Badly Needs Laboratory Technicians

Frankfort, Nov. 2—Personnel Commissioner Walter R. Gattis has reported that Kentucky's State hospitals are in "desperate need" of laboratory technicians. There are vacancies in practically all of the State mental and tuberculosis hospitals, he said.

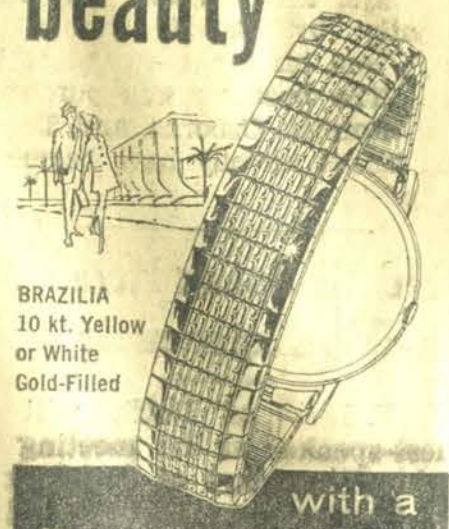

Gattis pointed out the career opportunities under the State's new merit system, the excellent starting salaries and opportunity for advancement.

He said the positions must be filled with persons who have a thorough knowledge of modern laboratory methods and procedures and theories of serology, bacteriology, parasitology and of the general theories of immunology.

Technicians who are interested should contact the Division of Recruitment and examinations of the Kentucky Department of Personnel, Frankfort.

Forest Protection Research Program Aim; Robert F. May Heads

A research program aimed at finding ways to protect and restore forest resources on strip and auger-mined land will be started in Kentucky in November.

The new project was announced Wednesday by J. O. Matlock, state commissioner of conservation, and R. D. Lane, director of the Central States Forest Experiment Station, Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, at Columbus, Ohio. The work, to be conducted cooperatively by these two public agencies, is expected to benefit the mining industry as well as improve the state's water resources.

The research will be headed by Robert F. May, a mining engineer who previously worked for the state of Washington and more recently for the Bureau of Land Management of the Interior Department.

The agencies plan to employ a second scientist to work with May. The scientists will have headquarters at the Berea field office of the Central States Forest Experiment Station.

The main purpose of the research is to develop ways to reduce stream sedimentation and pollution that may occur when coal is stripped and augered in mountainous forest watersheds.

Specifically, the scientists will study the properties of materials that must be removed in mining to recover the coal. They will study ways of moving and placing the overlying materials to give better protection to forest resources and make restoration easier.

The scientists will also study the mechanics and chemistry of pollutant formation and release, as well as the effects of strip and auger mining on the subsurface flow of water.

TOBACCO FIELDS

Be careful about lime applications to tobacco fields, say Harold Miller, UK Ag Extension Service soils specialist and Russell Hunt, tobacco specialist. That's because many farmers, zealously trying to do the "right thing" with liming, are overliming fields which undoubtedly do need it and liming fields without soil tests, in some cases spending money and applying the limestone to fields which actually don't need it.

HAZARD AGAIN WINNER OF CONFERENCE CROWN

Hazard is again the Eastern Kentucky high school football champion.

Paul Wright's scrappy Bulldogs waltzed to their fourth consecutive Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference crown and will enter the playoffs for the Class AA title for the third successive year. Fleming, the last remaining hurdle, fell before the Hazard onslaught, 25-0, Saturday night. Hazard will tangle with District 1 winner Corbin at Corbin on either November 10 or 11.

The victor of the Corbin-Hazard game will move on to Fort Thomas, the next week-end, to battle undefeated Highlands in the semi-finals of the state Class "AA" playoffs.

Belfry moved into a second place tie with Fleming-Neon under the Dickinson system of rating. Fleming could grab undisputed second place if Napier becomes an A team by downing Prestonsburg on November 11.

"Water and Its Effect," Conservation Essay Contest Subject

The subject of the 1961 Soil Conservation Essay Contest is "Water—Its Effect on My Community's Future." This contest is sponsored by the Courier-Journal, the Louisville Times, and WHAS in cooperation with the State Association of Soil Conservation Districts and the State Department of Education. Again, the sponsors are providing the following prizes for the schools with the three top winning essays as selected by the state judges: First, $100, second, $75, and third, $50; in addition, the Floyd county district will furnish prizes.

The following rules apply in the contest:

1. Any boy or girl enrolled in a grade or high school in Floyd county may enter the contest.
2. Your essay must not exceed 1,000 words and the number of words must be shown on the first or cover sheet of the essay.
3. You may gather information from any source. Suggested sources include: School library references; soil conservation service technicians, vocational agriculture teachers, county agricultural agent, United States Department of Agriculture, University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, experience of local farmers and leaders.
4. Your essay must be written in ink or typewritten on one side of the paper.
5. The essay must be signed by one of your parents and either your teacher or principal. It must bear the following certification: "I hereby certify that this essay is the original work of (your name)."
6. Place the following information on a separate sheet of paper and attach securely to the essay: Your name, age and grade, indicate Miss or Mr.; address, school and county.
7. All essays from a school must be taken to the office of the school superintendent not later than December 2, 1961.

Awards will be made by the Floyd County Soil Conservation District first and second for each grade: For 12 grade, $10 and $9; 11th grade, $9 and $8; 10th grade, $7 and $7; 9th grade, $6 and $6; 8th grade, $5 and $5; 7th grade, $4 and $4; 6th grade, $4 and $4; 5th grade, $3 and $3; 4th grade, $3 and $3; 3rd grade, $2 and $2.

There will be a trophy given to the school having the best essay in the county and there will also be available a trophy to the high school and one to the graded school having the highest percentage of participation in the contest.

For the past seven years Floyd county students have written more soil conservation essays than any other county in the state.

There has been splendid cooperation on the part of everyone, which made the winning possible, so let us keep up the good work.

I wish to make this appeal to all of you to vote for me for Magistrate, November 7.

I am the son of the late Fred Tussey. My mother was Julia Haywood. I was born and raised on Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek. I have been an ordained minister since 1948. It is my sincere hope, if I am elected, that I can be instrumental in getting better roads in our rural sections, and I pledge to all of you in advance that I will do all in my power to do so.

With all due respect to my young opponent, I feel confident that I can do a better job, due to my knowledge and experience in road building and other work that I have been engaged in, in the past.

If there is a man who knows the needs of the people in No. 1 District, I am that man. I will do something about it, if given a chance. On November 7, do not forget Rev. L. P. Tussey, and I will not forget you when I am elected.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE FLOYD COUNTY WATER & GAS SYSTEM

We have just read a handbill concerning the Floyd County Water and Gas System, in which it is claimed that the bonds issued against this system are not worth ten cents on the dollar. It is also stated that these bonds are an obligation of Floyd county and its taxpayers.

At this time there are no outstanding bonds against Floyd county. All outstanding bonds against Floyd county have been paid since Henry Stumbo has been County Judge. If there were any outstanding bonds against Floyd county, they would be selling for more than one hundred cents on the dollar, since the interest on these bonds is non-taxable.

The First National Bank of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, at one time held some Floyd county bonds and at that time they were selling for $1,250.00 per one thousand dollars and it can be shown by bank records. Any man of common sense or understanding or any lawyer who is well versed in the law will tell you that if these bonds were obligations of the county, which are now in default of interest and payment of bonds due, suit would have been brought long ago in some court of this state or the United States District Court to collect these past due bonds and interest. Therefore, this argument that Floyd county is obligated to pay these Water and Gas bonds falls flat and there is no argument about it.

These bonds may state that they are obligations of Floyd county, however this is not the law in this instance. Everyone well knows that many attorneys file suits in court, making this claim or that; but when it comes to trial by a jury or the judge, then it is found there is nothing to the allegations alleged.

The issue of these Gas and Water Bonds was only sponsored by the Floyd County Fiscal Court as the Statutes and Law of Kentucky provides, but the county is in no wise liable for the payment of same.

For instance, when the Floyd County Board of Education desires to issue school bonds to build school buildings such as the one here in Prestonsburg, and the one being constructed on Big Middle Creek, the Floyd County Fiscal Court was and is required by the law of this state to make the necessary orders before the County Board of Education may sell bonds to construct these buildings, but Floyd county is in no way obligated to pay these school bonds. They become and are the obligations of the Floyd County Board of Education and not Floyd county, which is likewise true of the Gas and Water Bonds.

The law in this state states that when a man or woman is convicted of wilful murder, the penalty is life, but this is not so as everyone knows. When 8 years has been served, then they are eligible for parole and out they come, so you can readily see the law many times does not mean what it says, when construed by our high courts. Likewise, a 21-year sentence really means only six years.

You have no doubt noticed a copy of the Grand Jury Report regarding these bonds in which they state that these bonds are an obligation of the county; however, this does not make it so. Our courts make the law and they decide the matters at issue. Let it be stated again—if what is claimed by the opposition in the race for County Judge were true, suit would have been filed in some court to collect these bonds, if Floyd county was obligated to pay them.

All this radio lambasting is just plain propaganda and nothing more. There is not a more honest man in Floyd county than Henry Stumbo; he never denies a just obligation and you can rest assured, he never will. This Water and Gas business was injected into the campaign in 1957 and Stumbo received a majority of 4,234. The people spoke then and they will soon speak again with 5,000 or more.

This statement is submitted to the people of this county as the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Muddling should not be resorted to in order to deceive people and get their vote by false pretense. Vote the straight Democratic ticket, the party of the poor and down trodden.

usual complaints and requests—about jobs and roads mostly.

Many others, some old friends of the Governor, came by just to say hello. One of them, Perry Green, West Prestonsburg, wondered aloud as to whom Combs' successor might be.

He leaned close to the Governor's ear and whispered, "We want you to see that we get another good man in after you—and then the next go-around, come back again yourself."

Combs smiled.

One old-timer, 75-year-old John Gayheart, of Hindman, came in to see Combs about some kind of job. When the Governor asked what he had in mind, Gayheart replied, "Well, I can sweep if nothing else. I live at home alone now—and I have to sweep there."

Combs answered laughingly that he was probably qualified.

The largest delegation of the day came in during the morning to inquire about a "rickety wooden bridge" near Banner at the mouth of Prater Creek. The 21-member delegation, led by Bill Nelson, said a bridge there will open up that mining area because the road in that area is a good blacktop. They were told that highway men would get a tentative estimate and keep in touch with them.

As Combs was leaving the building for his luncheon meeting, he was greeted by fellow-members of the Floyd County Bar Association. The Prestonsburg high school band was waiting outside when he emerged.

After playing the national anthem, the band marched down the street with the Governor to the luncheon appointment. He commented that the music "is the prettiest I've ever heard."

One of Combs' old friends, W. B. Little, of Prestonsburg, closed up shop at his grocery and service station to visit the Governor's office.

The Governor said sections of the highway into Eastern Kentucky have been broken down into projects as small as possible to give Kentucky contractors a better chance at bidding for the work.

"I hope, come spring, we can build more farm-to-market roads in Floyd county," he told the gathering.

"I am criticized," he said, "for not doing enough for Eastern Kentucky. Other counties criticize me for doing too much. . . . I myself don't think I am doing enough, and I hope to do more."

He said 2.9 miles of new highway on Ky. 7 (the Salt Lick road to Bosco) are in the planning stage, that land is being purchased for an amphitheatre at Jenny Wiley State Park, and that he hopes an airport to serve Floyd and Johnson counties will be constructed, although progress on that project is not moving as he had hoped.

"It is my aim that this (Jenny Wiley State Park) will be one of the outstanding parks in Kentucky by next June 1," he said.

Governor Combs told his hearers that the next session of the Legislature "will be the most important and most interesting in your lifetimes, perhaps." Then he warned of inroads threatened against the sales tax. "There is no way we can educate our children and do the other things needed to be done without this tax. I don't like to pay it but in my judgment there's no other way."

He warned:

"If a hole is punched in it here and there, the floodgates are opened and it is ruined. . . . I hope you will tell your friends in the next Legislature that the tax program should not be sabotaged. If we can get by this session, I think the sales tax is safe."

He said Kentucky began standing still in the mid-1930's when the original sales tax was repealed.

At one point in the afternoon, three men—R. L. Sloan, of Paintsville, George Brown, of Prestonsburg, and Arthur Wells, of Mt. Olivet—came into Combs' office to protest a section of the new law.

"It's about to break us up, and it's about to run housewives and farmers out of business," they told Combs.

Combs answered, "I don't have any particular feeling about it, but I do know that it has got a lot of people beat." He added that he would go along with "anything you want."

The Governor flew to Pikeville, Thursday morning and then was driven to Prestonsburg from the airport there. He returned to Frankfort by automobile.

The Kiwanians served coffee and cake to guests in the Governor's temporary office throughout the day.

The staff of the Governor's temporary office here included the following:

Wendell H. Ford, chief administrative assistant; Fontaine Banks, administrative assistant; Ed East-ly, press secretary; Mrs. Rosalind Niemeier, Mrs. Polly Gorman and Mrs. Jo Ann Frazier, secretaries; Ed DeShazer, employment services director, Department of Economic Security; Tavner Johnson, supervisor of field services, Department of Economic Security; Bill Reed, supervisor of sales tax, Department of Revenue; W. T. Rye, assistant state highway engineer, Department of Highways; G. F. Kemper, district engineer, Department of Highways; James Nutter, deputy commissioner, Department of Economic Development; Dwain McIntosh, Gilby McCall and Quentin Allen, of the Department of Public Information; W. A. Toney, eastern area supervisor, Department of Parks; George W. Gossett, engineering assistant, Department of Highways; A. O. Crkst, assistant district engineer; Wendell Bays, assistant district engineer.

When you buy one of the many kinds of cheese, you may wonder just what is the best way to store it. Should you keep it in or out of the refrigerator? Can it be stored in the home freezer? How can you protect it from mold? One good guide as to where and how to keep cheese is found at your food market, Miss Helton points out.

Cheese that has an aromatic or strong odor, such as Limburg, should be stored in a tightly-closed jar or other very tight container. Because such cheeses are fast-curing, they are best used within a reasonable time after you buy them, she says.

Some kinds of cheese can be six months. These are: Brick, Cheddar, Edam, Gouda, Muenster, Port au Saint, Swiss, Provolone, Mozzarella and Camembert. Other types of cheese become crumbly and mealy when frozen, so only those listed should be put in the freezer.

BABYBEE F SHOW

Last week Roger Merritt and James Greer, both 4-H members from Abbott Creek, participated in the Baby Beef show and sale at Catlettsburg. This is the first time in several years that Floyd county has shown any calves in the district show.

There were 51 calves from seven counties entered in the show, Magoffin county had 18 the largest number.

The calves from Floyd county weighed 700 and 740 pounds and brought $22 and $22.75 per hundred. The purpose of the baby beef project is to teach club members to feed and manage livestock, and to keep records. When a boy or girl owns livestock and have the responsibility of caring for the animal, you can watch the club member develop as the calf develops.

This project is not a money-making project; usually the club member does little more than break even financially, but the other benefit makes this a good project.

GRAIN INSECTS

When the weather warms up in the spring, many farmers will become concerned about killing the insects that are destroying corn.

The old saying, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," applies here. Now, is the time to do something. The first step is to thoroughly clean the corn crib of all old grain. This means all chaff between cracks in the building. The adjoining building should also be cleaned of corn cobs and loose grain that could be a harboring place for the insects. Then spray the crib, to a point where the material runs off, with a mixture of one gallon of premium grade 57% Malathion emulsion concentrate, mixed in 25 gallons of water.

FERTILIZER

During the first half of 1961, Floyd county farmers used 399 tons of fertilizer. The fertilizer analysis most used were 10-10-10, 12-12-12, 3-10-10, 6-12-12 and 4-12-8. The high analysis fertilizer made up 98% of the sales, the low analysis such as 3-9-6 made up only 2% of the sale. This is a compliment to the farmers in buying the high analysis fertilizers which are cheaper per pound of plant food. No farther back than five years, 3-9-6 was the leading fertilizer sold in Floyd county.

The small amount of fertilizer used by our farmers, is probably the biggest single factor limiting crop yields. There were approximately 4,000 acres of corn grown in the county this year. The average of fertilizer used per acre on corn was only 75 pounds. This answers in part why our average yield of corn is only 39 bushels per acre.

NEW PROJECT

The Prestonsburg Day Homemakers Club has started a new club project. This new project is called the Welcome Wagon and has as its purpose making newcomers in town feel welcome. This will be done by club members making personal home visits to the homes, a radio welcome and inviting the wife to become a member of the Homemakers Club.

All members of the Prestonsburg Day Homemakers Club will be taking part in this new project, according to Mrs. H. D. Hewlett, club president.

CLAY and BETTY

This is what the Federal Judge said:

Pikeville, Ky., October 12—The application of bondholders of the Floyd County Water and Gas System for a 23% rate increase in gas rates for the approximate 850 gas users of the system was refused in United States District Court for Eastern Kentucky at Pikeville, Tuesday, October 12, 1961. Federal Judge Mac Swinford gave the ruling. Robert Wellman, Floyd county attorney, presented the case on behalf of the consumers.

Judge Swinford in rendering judgment favorable to the consumers stated that previous action of the court had been as a result of agreement without substantial representation for the users. Terming the system "honestly insolvent," Judge Swinford expressed the belief that the bonds were not worth "10c to the dollar," and that the Federal Court's integrity was involved. Judge Swinford further stated that it was not his intention to charge the users of the Floyd County Water and Gas System for something they were not getting. Line leakage of the system amounts to approximately 25 per cent. Judge Swinford rendered judgment removing the system from receivership, effective November 15. Attorneys representing the bondholders indicated that an appeal from the judgment may be taken on behalf of the bondholders.

Kentucky's Public Service Commission statistics show the system's worth to be approximately $100,000 but attorney Wellman pointed out that approximately 80% of these assets had been put into the system since 1953. The date of purchase, Wellman has indicated that a request will be filed for lower rates.

Tidbits Of Kentucky Folklore

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

CHAPTERS OF HISTORY

We who lived as youths in rather remote places that had not been settled too long have been able to see at first hand just about every sort of stage in our civilization in America. I never knew an actual scout of the original kind, but I knew some rovers who must have been close to the type form. A few of our men had, as youths, wandered away to new frontiers, such as the Panhandle of Texas, and had been just about as primitive as the earliest rovers. Though they had "settled down" before I could remember, they still kept, in many instances, the placelessness of the scout, who knows no special abiding place and cares for none.

I knew hosts of people who would have qualified for a second chapter in our pioneer history. I refer to the roving family, with a wagon of sorts, some stock, maybe some cooking equipment, and a roving fever that seemed never satisfied. We called all such people "ypsies," but most of them were just unsettled rovers, called by various names elsewhere: Pikes, movers, transients, and less elegant names. Sulphur Springs was a handy place for such temporary people to camp for a while, they and their dogs and other livestock. They were not all dishonest by any means, but some of their group invaded cornfields and hen roosts. Surprisingly, a few whom I met were quite intelligent and could tell many actual things about the world that they had roved over so aimlessly.

I have seen a few such people on down into my middle and old life, some of them living in dirty houseboats on the rivers, within a few feet of plenty of water but with no inclination to use much of it to wash faces and clothes. A few such made whatever living they had or needed by a sort of desultory trapping or hunting or digging herbs and roots. Some could make baskets or other farm necessities, but most of the one I have known seemed to get along with the minimum of work and money.

My generation saw thousands of acres of virgin timber lumbered and turned into farm land of a sort. The sawmill came, did its work, and, as the barbarian side of the Romans, "made a desert and called it peace." Mere clearing was constant on any farm that I used to know, but it was part of the overall purpose of the farm economy of the time. But lumbering on a big scale was little related to actual farm needs. We certainly did not suffer from this wastefulness and destruction as much as did many areas in America, for our land was held in small acreage, relatively speaking, and could not support such a holocaust. Some years ago I visited, in successive summer vacations, two of the areas where lumbering had been carried out with all its characteristic wastefulness: the southern pine area and the extensive northern pine section. What I saw, scattered over thousands of acres, was an array of stumps, often burned slightly or burning, adding the destructiveness of fire to the lumberman's ax and saw. A few poor cattle grazed among the stumps on such grass as could survive. I threatened to write an ugly article called "Stumps," but I did not.

Fortunately, I have been back several times to each area since the state or national government (See Story No. 8, Page 8) ber: "The present system is better than the commodity program. Under the present plan the deserv-ing get stamps. They are more strict as to who qualifies for aid under the stamp plan."

Allie Howard, Allen wholesaler, thinks the food stamps are much superior to the commodity program. He said he observed that small merchants were now buying more and better foods that would ultimately be found on people's tables.

"Some merchants are buying from the food guide, too," Howard said. "It's been a life-saver for many merchants. Wholesalers want the program widened to include all of the state."

Rev. Sam Thomas, of Betsy Layne, however, voices disapproval of giving the stamps away.

"I advocate a work program," Thomas said. "The American people like to work for what they get. If you are working for a living you are not subject to the humiliation of accepting something for nothing."

In seeking a cross-section of public opinion, Arvid Dopson, of the United States Department of Agriculture who is administering the program in this county, and a member of The Times staff asked questions in a tour that began here, extended through Bull Creek, Dvale, Allen, Martin, Drift, McDowell, the Mud Creek section, and from Harold back to Prestonsburg.

People were vocal in support with few dissents: One mother pointed out her five children, said: "They are now getting meat, eggs and other good foods. They couldn't do that under the commodity program."

Comment of others, typical of that segment of persons contacted, follow:

Cecil Hamilton, Gethel merchant: "The stamp program is about the best thing ever to happen in this county. I don't see how people with big families could have made it without the program. I sell lots more meat, lard, flour and eggs. I've had a big increase in business and people are eating better. You can't hardly beat that."

J. M. Tackett, Betsy Layne merchant: "It's a good program. It has increased our business 20 per cent. We sell more eggs, meats and the better foods. The first month I took in $1,200 worth of stamps and its much higher now."

Wade Slone, Clear Creek school principal: "Widows and orphans and the ill should be given free stamps. Those who are able to work should work for the stamps."

Bob Dermont, Martin merchant: "It's a fine program. The distribution problem is being solved much better than in the commodity program. The stamps give the recipient a much better diet."

Grace Burke, Prestonsburg dry goods merchant: "From what I have read, many who could have qualified have failed to do so. If all who are eligible would take advantage of this opportunity it would not only help the merchants who get the stamps but the whole economy of the county."

M. V. Clark, health administrator: "The stamp program is better than the commodity system. It seems to me that under the commodity plan there was a lot of wasted foods."

Rural teacher, who asked to remain anonymous: "The program is a great help to many, especially to children but on the other hand there are a lot of people getting stamps who never worked and never will. You can't hire a lot of recipients to do a day's work. It has made tramps out of many. However, the program is of great help to the small merchant."

Mrs. Nova Slone, Allen merchant: "Under the stamp program the recipient's don't spend much for foolishness."

Ernest Turner, Martin merchant: "There are people now getting stamps who were at one time on starvation."

Frank Simpson, Drift recipient: "My children's health is improving because they are getting better food."

Bennie Moore, East McDowell merchant: "A lot of people are now getting a lot more to eat. I believe, though, there are some people backward about applying."

Squire Hamilton, Craynor postmaster and merchant: "A lot of poor people are getting a better variety of food. It's helping us merchants, too."

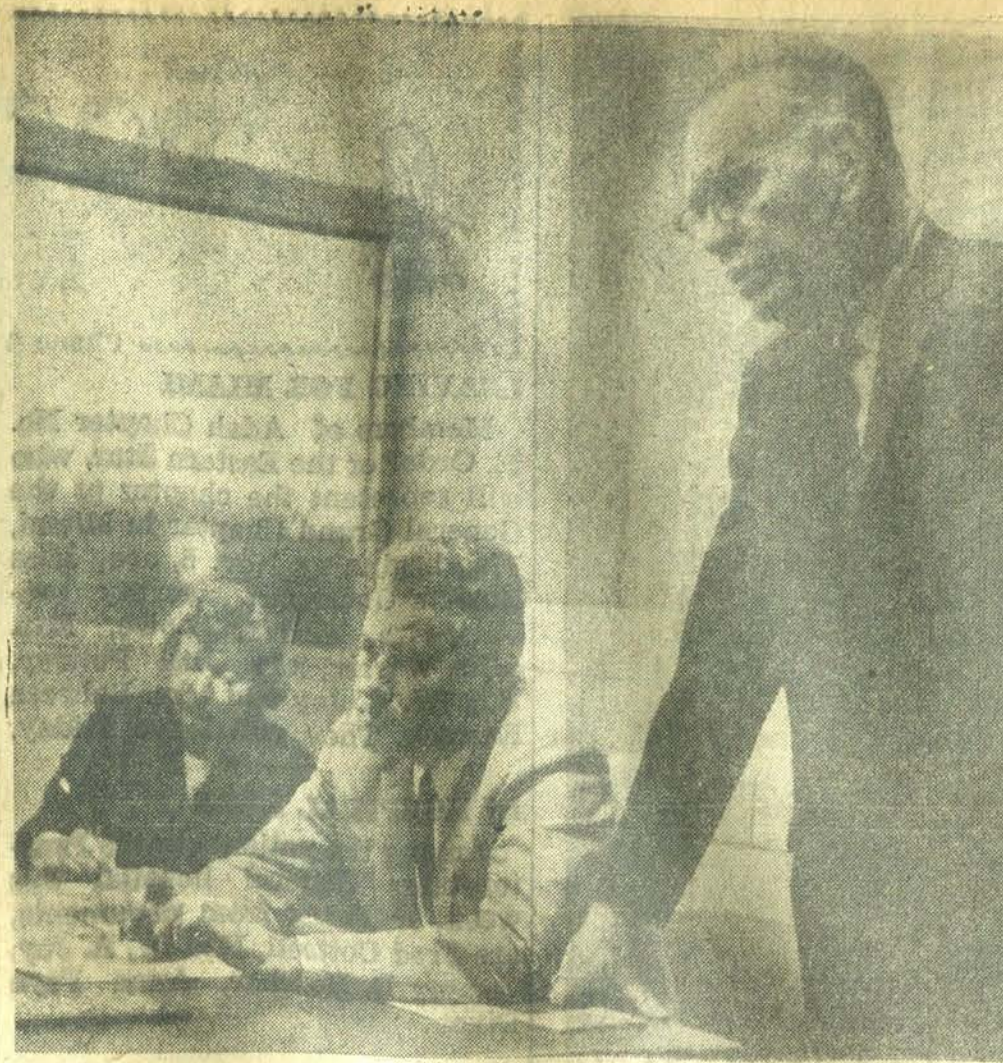

Mrs. Chester Newsome, Craynor housewife: "I have seven children and the stamps have been a wonderful help. We raised a good garden and were able to use a lot of stamps for meat and milk."

CANEY STUDENT NAMED HEAD OF COUNCIL'S YOUTH SECTION

Pippa Passes, Ky. — Billy Paul Coburn, of Hindman, was elected president of the Youth Section of the Council of Southern Mountains in Kentucky at the regional meeting in Barbourville, Saturday.

Coburn was one of seven students attending the meeting from Caney Junior College, and represented the student Sociological and Economic Development Club (SEDC) of the college.

The main address of the meeting was Dr. Frank Laubach's on Literacy, the Hope of the Free World. Presentations concerning the work of the Council of Southern Mountains were made by Dr. D. M. Aldridge, and P. F. Ayer, executive secretary of the Council.

MORE BOOKS

Many supplementary books are again available on the porch of Caney Junior College for free distribution to school teachers who can come over to Pippa Passes and pick out the books they want.

CANEY "CHRISTMAS" RESTRICTED

Caney Creek Community Center announces to the many teachers who are listing pupils' names and collecting postage-money for the Caney "pretties" that most likely gifts will be available for small rural schools only this year.

Fewer gifts of this kind are being sent to Caney Creek these years, partly due to higher parcel post expense.

Even so, Caney hopes to prepare boxes for 800 small schools with individual pretties for 40,000 pupils.

Window boxes look bare when you remove annuals for the winter. Shortly after removing them, you may insert short sprays of evergreens or green ruscus, suggests Earl H. New, University of Kentucky Extension horticulturist. A few sprigs of red or silver ruscus can add color all winter long. For the best effect, follow the rules of flower arranging when you put them in the box.

Potatoes are a cook's best friend. They can be baked or fried, scalloped or creamed, boiled or hash-browned. Serve potatoes often, in the ways your family likes them best, for they're plentiful and economically-priced right now.

DEROSSETT for MAGISTRATE

The election is near, and it may be that I will not be able to personally solicit the vote of everybody in Magisterial District No. 1. I want to take this means of asking for your support.

I offer you the qualifications of a man with mature judgment, who will approach the job as Magistrate with dedication to your needs. I pledge, as I did in the Primary, to work hard to get for you an extension of roads wherever needed and to cooperate wholeheartedly in a good road program.

My opponents in the Primary were men who fought a clean race and their pledges of support are appreciated. To my opponent in this, the final race, I hold no ill will. The people will choose between us and I urge that you weigh your interests, not ours.

If elected, I pledge not only four years of hard work on the road program but an administration of the office based upon justice, understanding and good-will to my fellow man. To do less would make me untrue to myself.

I sincerely solicit your vote.

HYDEN THANKS VOTERS

The election is only a few days away and I want to take this means of thanking members of the Democratic party as well as members of my own party for the friendly way you received my wife and myself when we visited your homes asking your support and help.

We have received hundreds of phone calls and letters from people of both political parties offering encouragement and advice. Many of these letters have also asked about our family. In the above picture are my wife Dorris Anne, myself and our two children, Jack Clark, age 8, and Judy Anne, age 4.

Reports received at my headquarters are good and predict that I will be elected Sheriff of Floyd county on November 7th. I could not have done this job alone. I want to thank the hundreds of people who have helped me. Because Floyd county is so large, there were many people we were unable to see but I hope that you have become acquainted with me by talking to your neighbors. If every one will make a little extra effort in these final days it will assure a smashing victory for good government on November 7th.

(Continued from Page One) historian, but I have reformed enough to have more than a passing acquaintance with milk, and I am old enough to be able to point to scores of children who have indulged in milk without any side effects such as developing a faulty ticker or, if they did, they outgrew the ailment. As to the Kentucky history, who ever got 'nough of that to hurt? Some people will say anything to make newspaper copy. We've heard of folks confessing murder for that purpose.

I'VE GOT THE WOES Troll, troll your boat Up and down the stream; Those fish stories you heard Were but an idle dream.

With such a burst of inspired verse, we report that we went trolling, Friday and Saturday, and caught a 12-inch fish . . . with a fly-rod (period, exclamation point, point).

But Sunday—ah, Sunday, when yours truly was elsewhere—the boys and at least two girls I know had a field day. Mr. and Mrs. K. J. Bowles brought in five nice bass. So did Carl Horn and his missus. We will not mention the six-pounder Raymond Copley brought in earlier.

Then, Monday afternoon, the Bowles couple come into dock just as I'm departing, and what do they haul up but five more good bass? I am flabbergasted, and all I can think of to say to put Mr. Bowles in his place is, "You're not supposed to haul around for two days those same five fish you caught yesterday."

I close this jeremiad with a bit afternoon by a fellow who apparently had heard of my misadventures. It reads:

A fisherman nearly insane With blisters, nosquitoes and rain Was heard to remark, "If I outlive this lark, I'll never go fishing again." But he did.

HOME GARDEN PROGRAM Lexington, Ky. — Many Eastern Kentucky families—at least 2,266 of them—have found this year that growing their own vegetables at home saves money and provides better meals. These families took part in the Family Garden Improvement Program, which was conducted for the second time this summer. The program reached families in 29 counties of Eastern Kentucky, according to Hubert Davis, UK Extension vegetable specialist.

KNOTT TAX COMMISSIONER RACE FEATURES WRITE-IN

Knott countians haven't had as much fun during a November election campaign since some 40 years ago.

Back then, the late N. T. Maggard, a Republican, embarrassed this Democratic stronghold by capturing the post of tax commissioner. His name still stands out in history as the only Republican to ever win a countywide office here.

Ironically, it is the same office that is causing all the excitement now, but the circumstances are different.

The stir this year is over the battle between two Democrats for tax commissioner, Delmar Draughn, the incumbent, and Bruce Martin, of Hall, Ky., a former tax commissioner.

Draughn, 38, won the Democratic primary, getting 2,858 votes to 1,808 for Martin, and 1,100 for Homer Haywood, a third candidate.

But the right to run under the rooster—the standard of the Democratic party—went to Martin as the result of a contested election suit.

The suit was filed by Martin. During a hearing in Knott Circuit Court, Draughn was found guilty of violating the Kentucky Corrupt Practices Act by promising during the primary not to tax "horses, chickens, and other farm livestock."

Draughn launched a whirlwind write-in campaign immediately after that ruling was upheld by the Court of Appeals.

His campaigning night and day with a sound truck, handbills, and posters.

Quite realistically at this stage in the campaign, Martin and Draughn are both predicting victory.

Martin has several factors working to his advantage, not the least of which is that his name will appear on the ballot beneath the Democratic rooster.

Additionally, he has wide political and family connections throughout the county. His name—Martin—and his mother's name—Hall—are vote-getters among family-conscious Knott countians.

He taught school in Knott county for 35 years, another political advantage in Eastern Kentucky; served as tax commissioner from 1934 through 1937, is a former State parole officer, and for many years was a field secretary for United States Representative Carl Perkins, Hindman.

Furthermore, he's in his 13th year as county Democratic chairman.

Martin's campaign is similar to Draughn's except there's a heavier emphasis on door-knocking and home visits. He has a few posters scattered throughout the county, but is mostly relying on the personal approach in his campaign.

He's not impressed with the large popular vote Draughn got in the primary.

It was the result of promises made by Draughn which the court ruled were violations of the Corrupt Practices Act, Martin explained.

He said he thinks the voters are now aware that Draughn waged an unfair campaign.

Draughn has been advised by the State Attorney General's office that he can run as a write-in candidate, despite the outcome of the suit, and, if elected, can serve as tax commissioner.

He's watching what he tells the voters to avoid any repetition of the misdeeds he made in the primary.

"Anymore, I'm afraid to open my mouth without my lawyer looking over my shoulder," Draughn joked.

His car is painted with a bright sign, proclaiming "Write-In Delmar Draughn." His campaign literature provides detailed instructions on how to cast a write-in ballot. The county's 29 precincts still use ballots. There are no voting machines in Knott.

To win, Draughn will have to upset a habit of long-standing among county voters.

Knott countians customarily vote the straight Democratic ticket, stamping the circle beneath the rooster without even bothering to examine the list of candidates.

Draughn is attempting to convince them to write-in his name as a candidate and then "x" their ballot opposite the write-in.

He plans to have workers in each precinct and has purchased more than 7,000 black lead pencils—the kind prescribed by law—to give each voter as he enters the polls.

The law requires that there must be a pencil in each booth, attached to a cord in such a way that it can't be removed.

"But those pencils have a strange habit of disappearing up here," Draughn remarked.

The matter of whether or not the best candidates gain office will profoundly affect your everyday life. And the choice is yours!

STATE OF KENTUCKY COUNTY OF FLOYD

I, DuRan Moore, Clerk of the County Court, in and for the County and State aforesaid, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct facsimile of the ballot for the General November Election to be held in Floyd County, November 7, 1961.

Given under my hand, this the 31st day of October, 1961.
DURAN MOORE, Clerk
Floyd County Court

TO THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

THE ELECTION ON NOVEMBER 7TH, will determine who is to be the County Judge of Floyd county for four more years.

I think that I can do more for the people of Floyd county than my opponent. I have made the race for County Judge on my record, but my opponent has failed to say what type of record he made when HE WAS YOUR FORMER SHERIFF.

During the time I have been your County Judge all the bonded indebtedness owed by the county has been paid in full. My office is open to every person in this county, and if there is any person who has a problem, my office will do everything possible to help solve this problem.

I will be glad to compare my record as a public official with the record of my opponent made during the four years he was your Sheriff. I say to you again and again that my record is better than the record of my opponent. The people of this county should LOOK AT THE RECORD OF MY OPPONENT and my record also; and then make their decision on November 7th, 1961.

100,000 to 150,000 in the area to be served, except in areas where the density of population may necessitate a reduction in population figures and travel time.

3. A determination of parent and student interest in the establishment of such an institution in the locality as indicated by a study.

4. An average annual high school enrollment of 7,500 in that area.

5. At least 1,500 high school graduates per year in the area.

6. That 33% of the recent high school graduates of the area be enrolled in some college and that a potential of an additional 20% be available to attend the proposed college.

7. An average freshman enrollment of 200 and a total lower division enrollment of not less than 350.

The Governor's Commission decided to use time necessary to travel from the home of commuting students to the institutions under study, rather than mileage by highway or other types of mileage. An exhaustive study of all the factors involved, including all present facilities and lack of facilities needed, was made during the summer.

The report to the Governor pointed out that although the new institutions would be built and maintained and operated at state expense, no new institution should be located in any area unless there is definite evidence of local desire for the institution. The assuming of these expenses by the state, it was pointed out, would not preclude localities from making a financial contribution to such institutions, but no contribution would serve as an inducement to bring an institution of higher learning to the community making such a contribution.

Of the Prestonsburg area the report said:

"In the priority, first consideration should be given to Prestonsburg because of the greater population and the greater number of high school graduates. It is apparent from the study made that Prestonsburg could eventually grow into more than a junior college. Recent interest of one of the state colleges in the development of extension classes and an extension program at Prestonsburg, with the result that from 200 to 400 students were immediately interested in courses offered, would further corroborate the findings of this Commission."

The commission forecast that by 1970, some 65,000 students would be seeking a college education in Kentucky. This compares with the Kentucky college enrollment in 1960 of 44,605.

Turning to the commission's philosophy that the state owes it to its worthy and capable students to provide higher education when they are able to pay only a part or none of its cost, the report said: "The state should provide a program of scholarships for worthy young men and women of ability, character, and promise of success, whose education can be promoted and assured only through such means."

"These funds should be carefully administered in the best interests of the individual and society. More young people would thus be encouraged to start their own programs of higher education, and many might later be able to continue under their own financing."

"Whatever the cost of higher education, the price must be paid if democracy is to survive. Because of the lack of correlation of intelligence and financial ability of the individual to pay for education, the financing of education becomes the responsibility of society."

"Geographic inequities in the distribution of wealth may throw this responsibility to the state and even the nation."

The recommendation likely to draw the most opposition, particularly from the six presidents of the State colleges and the University of Kentucky, is the one calling for creation of a master board of laymen—to be known as the State Board of Higher Education—to control and coordinate all higher-education activities in Kentucky.

The State Board of higher education would be composed of 12 members, one from each of seven appellate-court districts and five at large, appointed by the governor for staggered four-year terms. Members would be selected on the basis of their "outstanding qualities of citizenship and clear concern for the promotion of higher education in the state" without regard for political affiliation.

This state board would establish a research staff, under a director whose training, qualifications, and pay would be commensurate with that of presidents of the university and State colleges.

State colleges and the university would continue to function under their independent boards of regents and trustees.

The present Council on Public Higher Education—on which the university and college presidents serve along with members of their governing boards and laymen—functions as a coordinating body for higher education in Kentucky.

The committee recommends that the council continue to function, but in an advisory capacity only. The reason for this, the report said, is that composition of the present council "lends itself to limited vision of the responsibility for the development of the higher educational program of the state, and to political maneuvering."

The commission said it feels this should be corrected by transferring control of higher education from the council to a lay state board.

Further, the commission said, the members of the state board should not include any persons currently serving on any of the boards of any of the institutions of higher learning in the state, nor should they be persons who have other public offices or positions of public trust at the State level.

The Commission report in two instances recognized the abilities and merits of the presidents of existing state educational institutions, and this appraisal was reiterated later by Chairman Amis. The study group held, however, that in their zeal for the advancement of their own individual schools these leaders may fail to envision all the needs of the state.

R. V. May, the Prestonsburg member of the Commission, commented here Wednesday:

"We can understand the interest of the presidents of the University and the state colleges in their respective schools, and they would not be worth their salt if they weren't. We do feel, however, that a statewide perspective is needed and that it is their duty and ours to seek what is good for the state and all its young people."

Approval of the Commission's recommendations must be made by the General Assembly before a college can be located here or at any other point.

Such an institution would require approximately 40 acres of land, and this site must be procured before the case for the Prestonsburg area is laid before the Legislature in January, it was pointed out this week.

KENTUCKY'S CORN CROP AVERAGES RECORD YIELD

Kentucky's 1961 corn crop probably will average about 52 bushels an acre, a record per-acre yield for the state, according to USDA crop reporting services at Louisville.

The entire crop however is estimated at about 57,252,000 bushels from some 1,101,000 acres under cultivation for corn.

This is the smallest total crop in the state since 1930, when the yield was 28,710,000 bushels. However, the 1930 crop was grown on some 2,871,000 acres and the per-acre yield was only 10 bushels an acre.

The 1961 crop is an anticipated 4 per cent higher than the September, 1961, estimate, but about 22 percent below the 1960 crop of 78,864,000 bushels. One reason for the reduced yield was the soil bank program and a 28 per cent cut in acres devoted to corn because of the government feed grain program. In 1960 the per-acre yield was 48 bushels grown on 1,643,000 acres.

The crop is late this year, USDA statisticians said, but weather conditions in late September and early October speeded maturity.

The U. S. average corn yield (per acre) is expected to be 60.5 bushels. Ohio will average 72 bushels an acre, Indiana 74, Illinois 76, took the denuded land over and established state or national forests. Some of the stump land is now in excellent pasture, with fat cattle replacing the stacks of bones that I used to see. And burning off of such places is no longer so popular, even though it seems to be a real temptation to burn any tract where grass grows tall.

And then came maintenance farming, of which I was a part. Most of our land got poorer year by year; we added a few acres from our remaining timber lands, thus mortgaging our future needs. And it has done me much good to have lived in a time when we are finally trying to make up for our years of wastefulness and purposelessness in what treasures of soil we may have here.

When I see fat cows in a field where only a rabbit could have formerly survived, I rejoice that the earlier chapters of our pioneer history have passed or are passing.

QUALITY PASTURES

Lexington, Ky.—Quality pastures in 1962. That's what we want, says the average Kentucky farmer. But such pastures will depend largely on the management given them in the fall and winter months, says Warren Thompson, University of Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service agronomist.

FLOYD SENDS 73 TO EASTERN,
ENROLLMENT FIGURES SHOW

Richmond, Ky., Oct. 27 (Spl.)—Seventy-three Floyd county students are among the 4,155 enrolled the fall semester at Eastern Kentucky State College, it was announced today by President Robert R. Martin.

The 1961 total represents an all-time record enrollment, and an increase of 20.3 per cent over the record enrollment of a year ago of 3,452. The figure does not include about 1,000 students enrolled in the college's training school program and in the off-campus extension program. Nor does it include several hundred students receiving college instruction by the extension course program by mail.

In all, more than 5,400 persons are receiving college instruction from Eastern this semester.

The increase over a two-year period is over 40 per cent or an increase of 1,187 students. The most significant increase is in the freshmen studying on campus. Up 43 per cent over the 1960 freshman class, the 1961 total is 445 more than last year, 1,474 this semester as compared to 1,029 a year ago.

There are 830 sophomores enrolled this fall, compared to 18 per cent fewer, 701, in 1960.

Floyd students are:

100 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky

By JOE JORDAN
(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week, Brig. Gen. William T. Sherman, U. S. commander of the Department of Kentucky, issued an order designed to prevent the persecution of civilians who were being arrested and taken out of Kentucky merely because they were Southern sympathizers, or were suspected of favoring the Confederacy. The same thing had been a problem for his predecessor, Brig. Gen. Robert Anderson, who had also taken steps to prevent such harassment of citizens.

Sherman's order, which was published in virtually all Kentucky newspapers, said that "the removal of prisoners (except spies and prisoners of war) from the state, without giving them an opportunity for trial by the legal tribunals of the country, does not meet with my approval." He directed that all persons arrested be taken before a judge or U. S. commissioner "to be examined and dealt with according to law."

There were skirmishes during the week at Morgantown, Rochester and Woodbury, all in Butler county, and what was described as "a savage little fight" near Boston, in Whitley county.

Under the headline, "Further Trouble at Warsaw," the Louisville Journal carried a rather inconclusive story about war developments in Gallatin county. "On Tuesday evening last," the dispatch said, "the Louisville and Cincinnati mailboat took up a detachment of Home Guards from Vevay, Indiana, to Warsaw, Kentucky, and as they landed at the latter place, they were met by a messenger from the Federal camp near the town, who reported that a number of mounted rebels had just ridden up to the Union outposts and were fired upon by our troops, with what result he was unable to say. The Federal force was small, and as they feared an attack from superior numbers, he was sent to Warsaw to procure reinforcements. Forty or fifty men at once started for the scene. When the messenger left, continued firing was heard in the direction of the camp, but nothing further was known."

Col. John M. Harlan was raising a regiment for Federal service at Camp Crittenden, near Lebanon. He published an advertisement in which he promised: "All who enlist will be entitled at the close of the war to $100 bounty and 160 acres of land, and those who may be wounded will receive pensions during life."

Harlan later was to become an associate justice of the U. S. Supreme Court. He was a grandfather of the present Supreme Court justice of the same name. "All that is most glorious in human government is now at stake," he said in his appeal for volunteers. "Every consideration of enlightened self-interest calls us to the field." (In 1863, Harlan would resign his commission in the Union Army and return to his home in Kentucky. As Republican nominee for governor in 1875, he was defeated by James B. McCreary, a Confederate veteran.)

Coal Consumption Rise
Is Forecast of Group;
Exports To Canada Drop

Washington, Oct. 26—Bituminous coal consumption this year is expected to reach 399 million tons, and will increase to 417 million tons in 1962, the National Coal Association's forecast committee said today.

Last year's coal consumption was 416.9 million tons, reflecting production of 415.5 million tons plus use of coal from stockpiles.

Electric utilities, the coal industry's biggest customer, are expected to increase their use of coal 2.4 per cent this year to 178 million tons, the committee said. It forecast use of 188 million tons by the utilities in 1962.

The business recession of early 1961, coupled with the inroads of imported residual fuel oil and "dump" sales of natural gas for industrial use, cut coal consumption in all categories except the electric utilities this year, the committee said, but it predicted improvement for 1962. Its forecast was based on a continuation of the current pickup in business.

The committee estimated that 72 million tons of coal will be converted to coke primarily for use in steel furnaces this year, and 77 million in 1962, in contrast to the 81 million tons used for coke in 1960. Other industrial users of coal, who consumed 95.2 million tons in 1960, are expected to use 88 million tons this year and 91 million in 1962.

Retail deliveries of coal are expected to total 27 million tons in 1961 and 26 million tons in 1962.

Exports of U. S. coal to Canada, which were 11.6 million tons last year, were forecast at 10 million tons for both 1961 and 1962.

Shipments of U. S. coal overseas were 24.9 million tons last year, while this year's exports were estimated at 24 million tons, and next year's at 25 million.

Total coal consumption was expected to show a 4.3 per cent decline from 1960 to 1961, and a 4.5 per cent increase next year.

To The Voters of Magisterial
Dist. No. 4, Floyd County:

I, Eddie Akers, candidate for Magistrate of District 4, appeal to you as voters for help to make our district a safer and better place in which to live. My record is open to the public for investigation.

My platform is as follows:

1. To perform the duties of the office without assistance;
2. Devote full time to the office for 4 years;
3. Visit the communities to see the needs of the people;
4. Stand up for District 4 and see that the people get their share of their tax dollar to be spent on building roads.
5. Employ safer and more qualified men to operate your county road machinery and see that it is kept on the public roads where it belongs. By doing this all the people will get more and better roads.
6. The road machinery will not be used on private driveways where it is apt to be turned over or damaged by unqualified operators.

Where has your tax been spent? How many of you people have given free right-of-way over your land to get what little "dab" of road you have while certain ones, political tie-ins, got their price? Also, how many of you have given free right-of-way but still have no roads?

Remember.—Give me your vote November 7, 1961, and I will do my very utmost to give you what I have stated in my platform.

Your friend,
EDDIE AKERS

LET'S EXAMINE THE

LIBRARY VOTE

NOV. 7

WHY A LIBRARY VOTE?

The State has supplied us with 25,000 books (costing $60,000) and 2 large bookmobiles (costing $7,500 each) to start our library and bookmobile program. We are using them now. If we assume partial local support of this program, we keep the books and the bookmobiles, plus an extra $1,000 per year in State aid for the program. If we do not assume partial local support, the State will have to move our books and bookmobiles to another county.

DOES THIS MEAN A TAX?

Yes, but only a small one costing the average tax payer less than 25c PER YEAR. The tax is a levy on property at the rate of 5c per $100.00 assessment. Thus:

Property turned in at $400.00 will be taxed 20c per year; Property turned in at $500.00 will be taxed 25c per year; Property turned in at $1,000.00 will be taxed 50c per year.

THIS TAX CANNOT BE RAISED ANY HIGHER.

FLOYD COUNTY CANNOT AFFORD TO VOTE "NO."

If you use the library or bookmobiles, then YOU realize the value of this service. But if you do not use the library or bookmobiles, ASK YOUR OWN CHILD how many books from the library or bookmobiles he or she uses! Last year the children throughout Floyd county read over 88,000 library and bookmobile books! Think what it would mean to them if this program is lost to our county.

VOTE YES

SCANDAL

Are You Ashamed of the Primary Election?

Are we to have a rerun of the Primary Election next week with newspaper headlines screaming to the world that Floyd county has done it again—that Floyd county has the most irregular elections in the State of Kentucky? That an honest man can't be elected unless he bows to the big politicians?

Remember The Floyd County Times headlines following the recent Primary election?

"SPECIAL GRAND JURY PROBES MAY PRIMARY"

"THREE RACES ARE IN DOUBT"

"ABSENTEES DECIDE TWO RACES"

"GRAND JURY INDICTS FIVE IN ABSENTEE BALLOT FRAUDS"

We don't believe Floyd county voters can be lined up and voted for cash. We don't believe the working men can be paralyzed by high taxes and job opportunities because a bunch of politicians want to live without working. We don't believe the Sheriff's office is for sale. We don't believe the big bootleggers can discourage Floyd county voters from electing an honest man.

The Beaver Valley Kiwanis Club met at the Wheelwright Clubhouse Monday evening, October 23. Thirty-two members and two visitors were present at this meeting.

Richard Wells, Pikeville business leader, was guest speaker. Mr. Wells addressed the club on the technical aspects of FM radio.

Danny Greer, local Key Clubber, was also a guest. Three-year pins were given to Arthur Bradbury and Dan Autore and a two-year tab was presented to James Conley for perfect attendance.

SALVATION ARMY BATTLES MISERY IN 86 COUNTRIES

The Salvation Army, formed 97 years ago in a grimy London mission, now has 27,000 officers battling sin, poverty and misery in 86 countries. Each officer is an ordained minister, and lives under iron military discipline a hair's breadth from poverty.

It is an army in more than name, Charlotte and Denis Plummer write in the November Reader's Digest article "Marching as to War." A new member's pledge is called "The Articles of War." A parish is a "corps." When they begin operations in a new area, Salvationists say they are "opening fire." A prayer meeting is "knee-drill." Death is "promotion to Glory."

Within the past year, the Army has brought relief during mine disasters in Scotland and Wales, and during military clashes in Algeria, the Congo and Cuba. When the 1960 earthquakes and tidal waves desolated Chile, the Army "went to places the Devil himself would be afraid to enter," as one newspaper put it. It operates now in all European countries except Spain, Portugal, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Yugoslavia. All foreign-born Salvationists were expelled from Red China and North Korea as well.

Today, on a bombed-out lot within the shadow of St. Paul's Cathedral in London, a new six-story, block-long International Headquarters is being built to replace the one that was destroyed in 1941. To London each year come officers from various parts of the world to broaden their knowledge and refresh their faith in the movement whose founder, the late Gen. William Booth, used to say "I want my religion like tea—hot!"

Future Homemakers Hold Meeting At Oil Springs

"Stars To Steer By" was the theme of the Sandy Valley Future Homemakers of America district fall meeting held October 7 at Oil Springs high school. The purpose of the meeting was to train chapter officers.

The program was centered around four success keys: Ability, Democracy, Information, and Values. As each key was brought to the officers' attention, its qualities were explained by the district officers. At the close of the meeting, each chapter officer was given a set of keys to take back to her chapter.

Miss Maurine Collins gave a talk on the theme to more than 200 girls who attended the meeting. Chapters attending the meeting were: Belfry, Meade Memorial, Sandy Hook, Fed's Creek, Elkhorn City, Louisa, Prestonsburg, Virgie, Johns Creek, and Oil Springs. Prospective members from Wheelwright and Hellier high schools also attended.

The group enjoyed hearing "Highlights of the National Meeting" by Martha Denham, state second vice-president, and Connie Hackney, president of the Sandy Valley district.

The Duke of Orleans, afterwards King Louis Philippe of France, once lived in Kentucky and was among the first Louisville musicians.

Pleasant Hill in Mercer county was the first western Shaker village and purportedly the first town in Kentucky to have a waterworks.

In 1840, Louisville became the first city in the American West to acquire gas lights.

Annual National Award Of $25,000 Is Presented To Pikeville College

An annual nation-wide award of $25,000, given to a college seeking regional accreditation, went this year to Pikeville College.

The sixth annual Quality Improvement Award of the Association of American Colleges, financed by the United States Steel Foundation, Inc., was presented to Dr. A. A. Page, Pikeville College president, in Washington, D. C., last week.

The $25,000 in unrestricted funds will be used to equip a part of the O'Rear-Robinson Library, to be included in the Record Memorial Building, now under construction, Dr. Page said.

Roger M. Blough, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Foundation, Inc., commented, "The achievement of Pikeville College toward greater community service and quality improvement, recognized by this award, points up the self-attainment possibilities of the small private college in enhancing its cultural status and academic usefulness."

Pikeville was selected from among a number of institutions in various parts of the country by an awards jury of educators appointed on behalf of the United States Steel Foundation by the Association of American Colleges. The annual award is made in the hope that it will help the college obtain further financial assistance from alumni, friends, corporations, and other sources, it was noted.

"Pikeville College has given evidence of excellent administration," Dr. Theodore A. Distler, the association's executive director, said, "and noteworthy progress toward the kind of quality education that is the hallmark of the good small liberal-arts college."

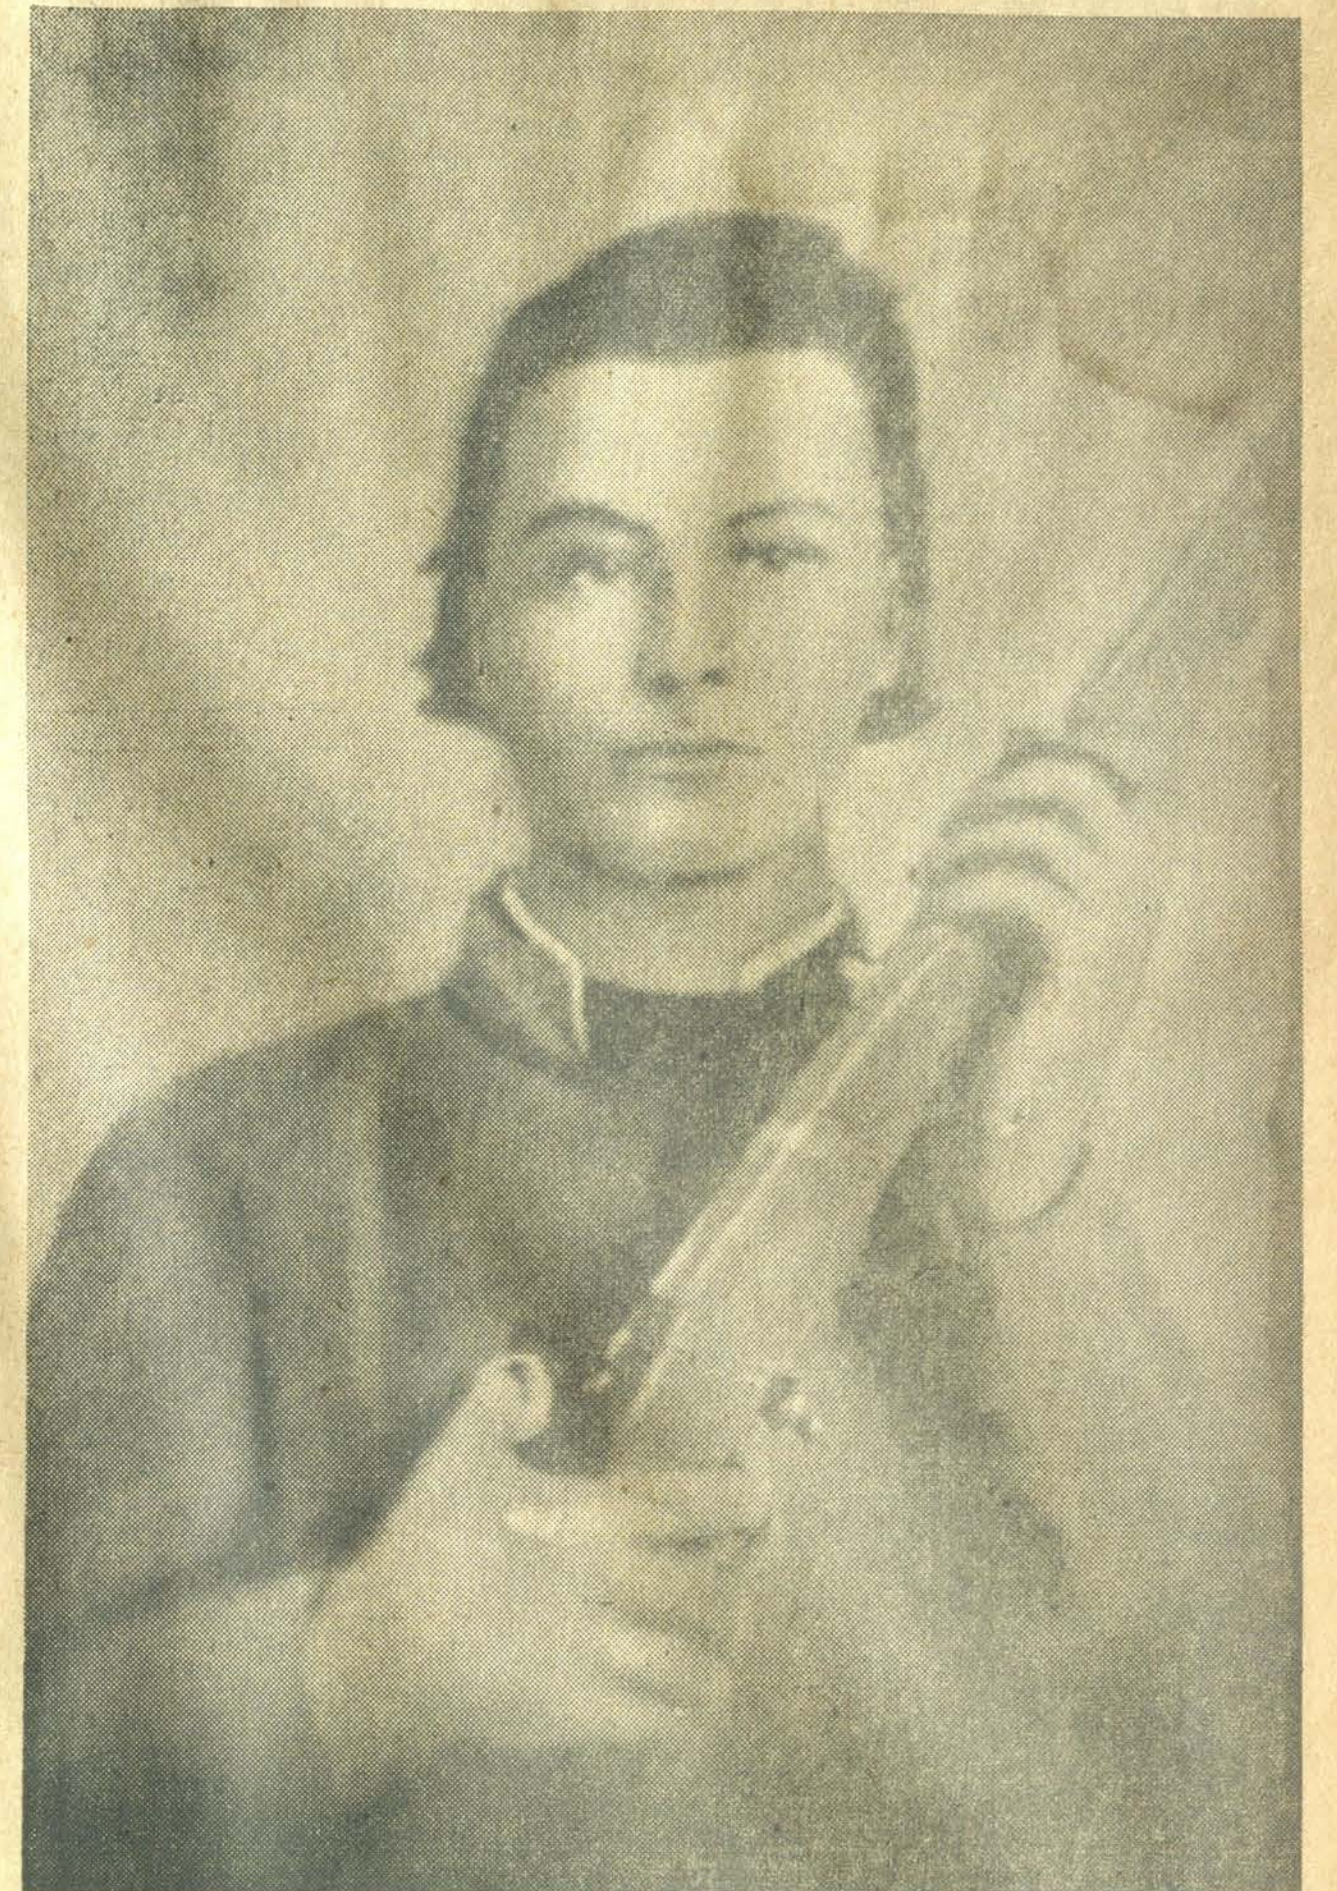

In acknowledging the award, Dr. Page said, "Those of us who work at Pikeville College are profoundly grateful that the Association jury has seen fit to honor our little college by making the grant to it this year. . . This generous grant will enable us to provide a more adequate library to the youth of our area, and thus to strengthen 'the heart' of our college."

The five colleges previously honored with the award have since won full accreditation, it was said. They are Ohio Northern University, Ada, Ohio; Westmont College, Santa Barbara, Calif.; Alderson-Broaddus College, Phillippi, W. Va.; Eastern Mennonite College, Harrisonburg, Pa., and Milligan College, Tenn. Pikeville currently is seeking the same recognition by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

DEER-HUNTING SEASON WILL OPEN NEXT WEEK

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 28—Roughly one-third of Kentucky's counties will be open to gun deer hunters this year when the season opens on November 8 in 33 counties for four days and on November 10 for three counties with two-day seasons, bringing to 41 the number of counties in which deer may be hunted this year.

This is the sixth season for Kentucky deer hunters who were denied the privilege of hunting from the turn of the century until 1956 when the first modern day season was decreed by the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission in 26 counties. The seasons have been made possible by Kentucky's deer stocking program which was started in 1946 with deer being trapped from the Mammoth Cave National Park area as well as being purchased from other states for stocking in counties that offered the best potential of deer food and habitat. Initially the counties were stocked with 50 deer and five years after the stocking, if the deer herd had progressed sufficiently, the county was opened to hunting. This program has been continued with additional counties being opened each year until the high of 41 was reached for this fall. The stocking program is continuing and before many years half of the counties in Kentucky are expected to be opened to deer hunting.

Last year more than 10,000 deer hunting permits were sold in Kentucky and the total kill of deer last year, according to surveys by the Game Management Division, was slightly above 2,000 resulting in about one out of five hunters being successful. This, according to surveys in other states, is extremely high. The herd is reported in good condition this year and has increased to above the 50,000 figure, biologists believe.

Counties or portions of counties open are: Crittenden, Livingston, Lyon, Caldwell, Hopkins, Christian, Trigg, Meade (that section east of Highways 64 and 448), Breckinridge, Hardin, Bullitt, Nelson, Hart, Edmonson, Barren, Metcalfe, Cumberland, Pulaski, McCreary, Laurel (portion west of U. S. 25 and State Route 490), Jackson (that portion west of U. S. 421), Clay, Leslie, Fleming, Lewis, Rowan (portion north of U. S. 60), Letcher, Rockcastle, Estill, Lee, Powell, Greenup, Harlan, Floyd, Owsley, Wolfe, Bath and Menifee. Season for Perry, Knott and Breathitt, November 10 and 11. Hunting is prohibited on all refuges and management areas except for the following which will be open during this hunt only: Pine Mountain Management Area in Letcher County; Ford Tract Restoration Area in Leslie and Clay counties; Robinson Forest Restoration Area in Breathitt, Perry and Knott counties (two days, gun); Dewey Lake Restoration Area in Floyd county, and Knob State Park in Nelson county.

Only one deer may be killed per hunter per year but deer of either sex may be taken and each hunter, in addition to a valid hunting license, must have in his possession a deer hunting permit, cost of which is $10.50, for both residents and non-residents. Hunters must, after killing deer, attach to the deer the locking tag provided with the deer permit in such a manner that it cannot be removed from the deer without destroying the tag and each hunter must file an accurate report on the addressed postcard provided with the deer permit and mail it within one week after the end of the season.

In order to keep a close check on the deer herd the Department has set up a number of check stations and hunters are asked to bring their deer to such a station where it will be checked by biologists and much needed information about the deer's growth, health, etc., will be obtained.

Guns to be used are: A. Shotguns 10 gauge or under with shells carrying a single slug. Buckshot is illegal. Center fire rifles of not less than .243 caliber. Fully automatic rifles and full jacketed (military type) ammunition are prohibited; Muzzle loading rifles .38 caliber or larger.

Regional Speech Clinic Scheduled At Pikeville; Dr. Patterson To Speak

University of Kentucky Extended Programs in cooperation with Pikeville College will sponsor a Regional Speech Clinic at Pikeville College on Friday, November 3.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. in Wickham Chapel of the Administration building. The clinic will adjourn at 2:30 p.m.

Purpose of the clinic is to assist speech teachers and high school students who will participate in the High School Speech and Drama Activities during the current academic year.

Dr. J. W. Patterson, UK assistant professor of speech, will give a presentation on debate, discussion and extemporaneous speaking.

Charles F. Dickens, UK instructor in English and director of the Laboratory Theater, will give a presentation on drama and interpretation.

A luncheon will be held in the college cafeteria, followed by a question and answer period. Speech resource persons will participate in a panel discussion conducted by Dr. Denver Sloan, UK Extended Programs, who is in charge of Kentucky high school speech and drama activities.

Panel members will be Dr. Patterson, Dickens, Dr. Howard Hoover, Pikeville College, and Walter T. Brown, supervisor of Pike County schools who is regional speech chairman.

FINDS ROADSIDE UGLINESS BLOTS AMERICA'S BEAUTY

Greed and human sloth have turned beauty spots into eyesores in much of America; but we can stop the desecration, Vance Packard, author of "The Waste Makers," writes in the November Reader's Digest.

Packard found desolation everywhere on a 17-state tour, from El Camino Real, near San Francisco—"lined with vendors of ice cream, gasoline and gifts"—to acres of rusting scrap in an auto graveyard near Old Town, Maine. "In New York, on the throughway, I counted 51 billboards in seven miles above Middletown," he writes. "A factory outside rustic Munson, Mass., is crowned by a large toilet seat and this slogan: 'Best Seat in the House.'"

His article, "America the Beautiful?", condensed from The Atlantic Monthly, also deplors New Jersey's Route 17, Florida's Route 1 above Fort Lauderdale, and Sou. Cal's Long Beach Boulevard. The public can fight this sponsored ugliness, he says, by demanding strict controls on billboards. Only nine states so far have accepted the federal government's offer of a cash bonus if they will enact legislation restricting billboards on the new 41,000-mile interstate highway.

However, Packard writes, the most damaging desecrator of resources is the water polluter. Some 5,000 communities dump raw sewage into waterways. It floats on the Potomac past the Lincoln and Jefferson monuments. The Missouri River has been called a thousand-mile sewer. Some 10,000 ducks were killed in the Detroit River recently by the release of sewage.

SPORTS
CHATTER

By GORDON MOORE

Prestonsburg and Paintsville renew their annual high school football fracas on the local grid-iron at 8 o'clock Friday night, and a win for either in this colorful rivalry would be a big step toward a successful season.

Neither team has enjoyed a great deal of prestige this season, but past scores and performances mean little if anything in this game.

After a great season last year, the Tigers are in a rebuilding stage and have a 4-4 record against Class "A" teams. Fullback Johnny Porter and center Basil Mullins have been the "big men" for the invaders and they are the only veterans of last year's edition.

Prestonsburg's Blackcats will present a revamped line-up of sophomores and juniors as several non-letterman seniors have been relegated to reserve duty. Dixon Nunnery and Dickie Fitzpatrick are expected to open at their old positions in the "Dads Night" affair.

Johnson county high schools, Flat Gap, Meade Memorial and Oil Springs, finished one, two, three in the Eastern Kentucky high school regional cross-country meet last Saturday. Prestonsburg, the only Floyd county school in the event, finished fifth.

This is one fall sport that every Floyd county high school should add to its curriculum. It is inexpensive, is a good conditioner for the basketball players, and it does not require elaborate facilities.

The Colts, tutored by Dr. Herbert Salisbury and Clifford Wright, won the Little League Football season with a 5-1 record; however, the Cardinals, coached by Bob Sullivan, came on strong near the close of season to finish with a 4-2 mark. They were the only team to stop the Colts and did that by 26-7 last Thursday night.

Twenty-two players have been chosen from the four teams, and these All-Stars will meet a similar team from Hazard on the high school field at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, November 12. Admission to this event will be 50 cents to adults and 25 cents to students.

Raymond Copley, local conservation officer, landed a six-pound largemouth bass at Dewey Lake last Friday evening. A doll-fly was the successful lure... Mc-Dowell will be host to arch-rival Martin this Saturday night as the Floyd county basketball wars begin for the 1961-62 season... Wayland tripped Auxier, 82-41, last Friday...

Commissioner Announces Tax Guidelines Planned

Mortimer M. Caplin, U. S. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, announced today that the service will again provide guidelines for taxpayers residing in states with general sales tax laws for estimating sales tax deductions for 1961.

The guidelines will take the form average amounts spent by residents of sales tax tables which will show for sales taxes. These tables are intended to serve as guides for taxpayers who itemize the deductions on their Federal income tax return, Form 1040.

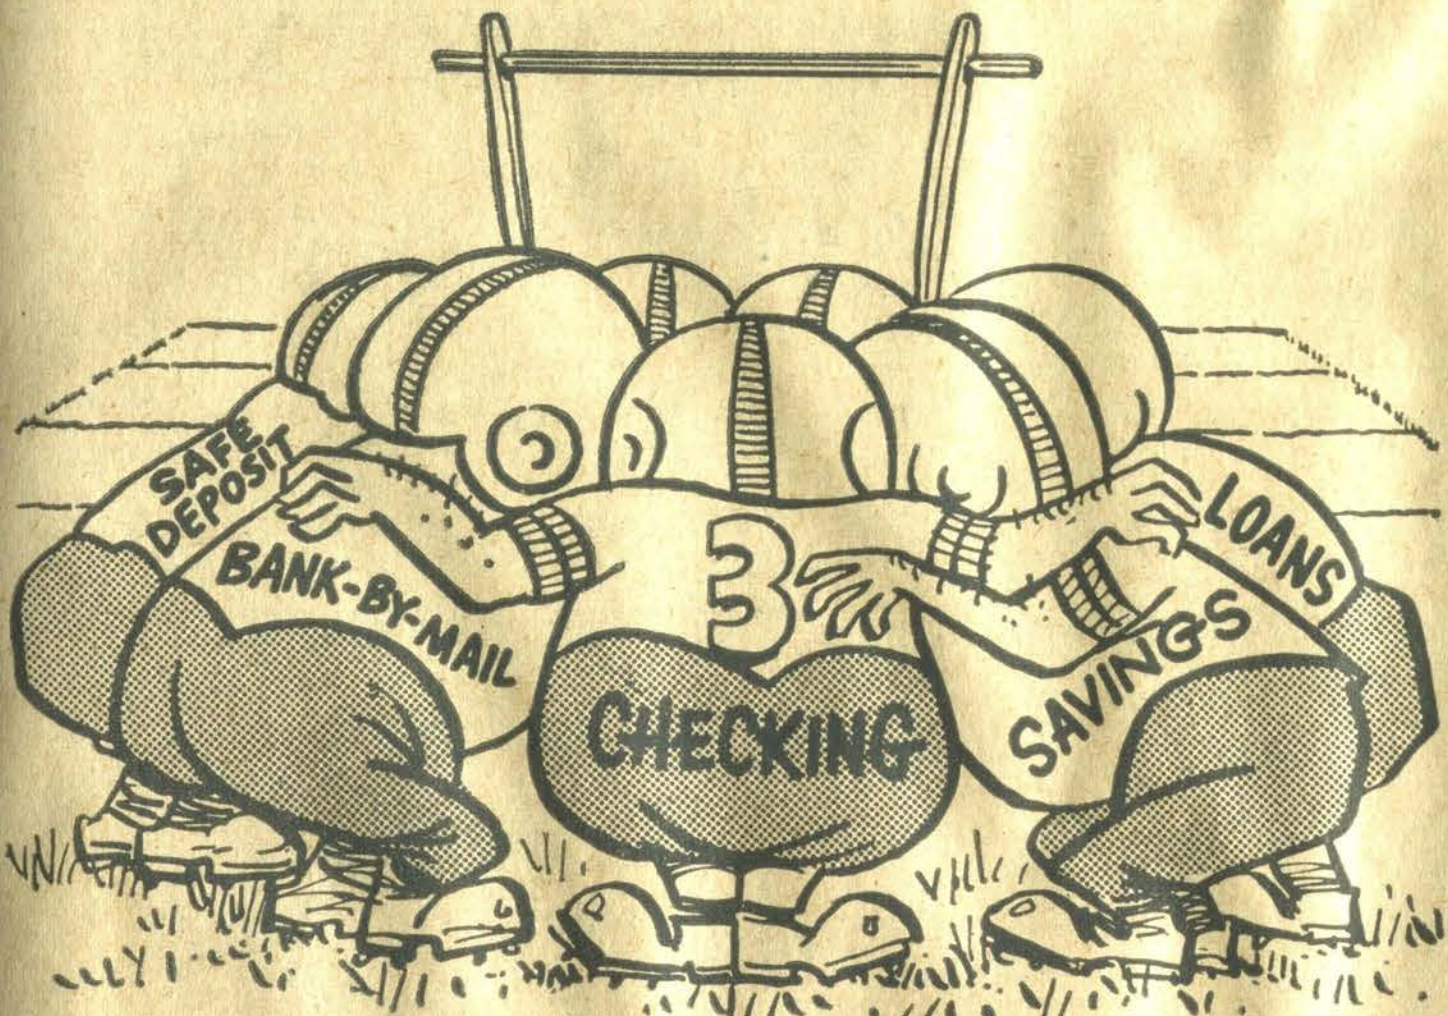

"We believe this information will make it easier for taxpayers to fill out the portion of their return which relates to the sales tax deduction," Mr. Caplin said.

SCHOOL LUNCH PROGRAM FEEDS KENTUCKY CHILDREN

Many Kentucky boys and girls are eating well-balanced meals at noon because of the National School Lunch Program.

About half of Kentucky's school children, high school age and under, have nutritious noonday meals at school because of this program. Kentucky is one of nine states making up the Southeast Region, which leads all other areas of the U. S. in the number of school children receiving lunches under the national program.

This year marks the 15th anniversary of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's National School Lunch Program. The basic purpose of the program, as stated in the legislation enacted by Congress in 1946, is to safeguard the health and well-being of the nation's children by encouraging them to eat more nutritious foods. At the same time, this program is one means of consuming the U. S.'s agricultural abundance.

This fall, the USDA bought 3,650,000 pounds of frozen broiler-fryers for schools in the Southeast. Of this, 350,000 is now being shipped to Kentucky. This is one example of how the program plays a dual role. The purchase of the broiler-fryers puts a good protein food on the school lunch menus at a very reasonable cost. At the same time, it helps broaden the long-range market for chicken.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service carries out the National State Departments of Education Program with the cooperation of public and non-profit private schools of high school grade or lower may take part in the program and apply for USDA help.

All schools taking part in the program must serve nutritious meals on a non-profit basis, and the meals must be available to all children regardless of their ability to pay and without discrimination. Each school must serve a lunch containing at least two ounces of high-protein food; one-half pint of milk; three-fourths cup of vegetables or fruit; bread and butter. These lunches, with portions adjusted to the age and needs of the children, provide one-third of the daily food requirements of a school child.

Major responsibility for operating the program rests with state and local educational agencies. The Agricultural Marketing Service, however, also provides technical guidance, along with financial help and food purchases. Included are aids in menu planning, food buying, standardized quantity recipes, food handling and storage, and equipment requirements for preparing and serving food. Help also is given in training lunch-room personnel.

What's Going On FISH & WILDLIFE
By MINOR CLARK, Commissioner
Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources

Q. We had two ponds built on our farm. They hold water for a while, then go dry. The land is sandy. Is there anything we could do to make them hold water? Someone told us that there was some kind of soil that could be poured into a pond and make it hold water, but they didn't know the name of it. Mrs. Flossie Calhoun, Magnolia, Ky.

A. A leaky farm pond can usually be avoided by proper construction procedures. First, pick a site with a good foundation and soil. Avoid sink holes, sandy soil and seamy, exposed rock. Next, excavate a core into solid ground or soil from one end of the dam to the other and be sure that no earth is excavated near the toe of the dam to build the fill. Ninety per cent of all leaks occur from this one mistake. Some leaks can be stopped with the aid of cinders and bentonite (bentonite costs about $1.50 per hundred). By feeding hogs and cattle in the pond base for a summer or two leaks are often filled up and the pond will eventually hold water. A person who intends to build a pond should get in touch with their Soil Conservation Service agent.

Q. We would be pleased if you would send some information on carrying a hand gun in your car and if it is illegal to hunt small game with a hand gun? C. S. G. Augusta.

A. There is no law against hunting with a hand gun during open season except deer and migratory birds and waterfowl. Other information about carrying a hand gun in county can be obtained from your local County Attorney or Commonwealth Attorney or from the Attorney General in Frankfort.

Q. What is the duration of the gun deer season in Kentucky this year? G. B. H., Maysville.

A. Gun hunting season in Kentucky this year is for four days in 38 counties, the season being November 8 through November 11, while for three counties (Perry, Knott and Breathitt), there is a two-day season, November 10 and 11.

What's your question about the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources? Send it to Minor Clark, commissioner, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, and it will be answered in this column. All questions must be signed by the sender with his complete address. If requested, only initials will be used in this column.

COMMUNITIES' NEEDS TOLD

BY CHARLES VETTNER

Almost a year has passed since Kentucky's press placed its support behind efforts to promote and improve park and recreation programs in the communities of the state. First-hand evidence that this support is paying dividends was in evidence on my statewide basketball clinic trip completed in October.

In a mountain town in Eastern Kentucky, a community leader told me that editorials supporting this column had alerted the area to its recreational responsibilities. The community now wants to hire a recreation director, but the people want answers to two questions:

(1) Should he be a party politician?
(2) How important are college degrees?

The answer to question number one, "Should the recreation director be a party politician?", is a straightforward NO. This columnist has no interest in party politicians; he does have tremendous interest in politics as they effect good government.

Your recreation program will have a good chance to succeed if a non-partisan Board of Recreation is organized according to Chapter 97 of Kentucky Revised Statutes and then only if that Board hires employees, retains, and discontinues their services on a merit basis.

There is a place in Kentucky where the present recreation director wrote his resignation the day he was hired (sixteen years ago). This resignation becomes effective the day "Spoils System" replaces the "Merit System."

Let's indict NOW, all party politicians, who visualize in the new park and recreation programs being born in Kentucky additional opportunities to create new political jobs and build "Bigger and More Deplorable Spoils Systems."

The answer to question number two, "How important are college degrees to your recreation leader?", is straightforward again. The degree, itself, means nothing. If your applicant has learned to use the "Tools of Education" while fulfilling the requirements for the degree of Bachelor, Master, or Doctor—that does mean something.

Education is most important to directors of recreation; but this columnist, with his share of college degrees plus high school and college teaching experience, has learned better than to judge an applicant's education or qualification by the number of degrees he holds. If the recreation director your community has in mind is educated and dedicated to public service, he has the important qualifications.

The "Tools of Education" are supplied by our educational institutions. Experience is the educator. Proper usage of the "tools" expedites the building of education. This does not preclude individuals unable to get the "tools" in higher educational institutions from getting them elsewhere.

In the early part of the century, Dr. H. H. Cherry dreamed of a glorious college which would one day stand on the highest hilltop in Bowling Green. Today, Western Kentucky State College stands as a monument to him, the most highly-educated man I ever knew; but one who was never privileged to hold a college degree. Beside being educated remember that he was also dedicated.

Here is the formula for selecting your recreation director: EDUCATION PLUS DEDICATION.

MOONLIGHT SCHOOLS

Who remembers the Moonlight Schools of approximately 40 years ago and the ambitious program to wipe out illiteracy in Kentucky?

This column is handed a Report On the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission, by State Inspector and Examiner Nat B. Sewell, dated December 24, 1918. Cora Wilson Stewart, who launched the program, was chairman of the Commission.

This column excerpts the report: "The Kentucky Illiteracy Commission, created by Act of the General Assembly of 1914 was the first commission of its kind in the world. The movement which led to the establishment of this Commission had its origin in Rowan county, Kentucky. In September, 1911, Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, the superintendent of schools in Rowan county, started a movement to teach adult illiterates in her home county to read and write. At first a few of the public school teachers volunteered to assist Mrs. Stewart in conducting night schools in a number of neighborhoods for the benefit of the adult illiterates living in these communities. These schools were called Moonlight Schools because the terms were begun at a time when the light of the moon in the early evening would facilitate traveling to and from the building or the homes in which classes met.

"The novelty of this new movement in education in the Kentucky mountains soon attracted wide spread attention, and when it became known through the newspapers and magazines that illiterates ranging from young men and young women in their late teens or early twenties to grandmothers and grandfathers in their seventies and eighties were being taught to read and write, progressive citizens and school people began to see a new light for the future of those people in Kentucky who were eager to read and write but whose opportunities had been such that they had never been taught. They turned to the county superintendent of the little mountain county of Rowan for information and for ideas as to the organization of moonlight schools.

"In 1912 eight other counties had organized schools for illiterates and in 1913, there were 25 counties in Kentucky, besides a number in other states that had joined the movement. In February, 1914, the Kentucky Legislature created the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission as a department of the state, whose function was to eradicate adult illiteracy from the state. The members of the Commission appointed by Governor McCreary in April, 1914, were Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, chairman; H. H. Cherry, president of Western Kentucky State Normal School; J. G. Crabbe, president of Eastern State Normal School; and Miss Ella Lewis, county superintendent of Grayson county. The State Superintendent of Public Information is a member ex-officio."

The work was extended into other counties of the state with varying degrees of success. It was estimated that at one time there were 10,000 Moonlight Schools in the state, with 100,000 illiterates taught. The program did much when it was in force to raise the literacy rate of Kentucky.

COL. ANDREW JACKSON MAY

I am in receipt of the funeral oration delivered May 5, 1903, at Tazewell county, Virginia, for Col. Andrew Jackson May, Prestonsburg native and leader of the Confederacy. The oration was delivered by R. A. Kelly.

The speech is excerpted here:

"Col. A. J. May was born in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, January 28, 1829. His parents were Samuel and Catherine Evans May. He went out with his parents to Missouri in 1848, thence across the plains to California. He found the way marked with the bones of those who tried to reach the land of gold and had perished in the attempt. He returned to Kentucky where he was licensed to practice law in 1854. Was married to Miss Matilda Davidson in 1855. Enlisted in the Confederate Army in 1861 and was colonel of the Fifth Infantry; afterwards colonel of a cavalry regiment, until three or four months before the surrender when he came home on a sick leave of absence.

"From Kentucky he came to Lebanon, Virginia, where he remained one year, then moved to Tazewell, Virginia, in the fall of 1863, (sic), where, on May 3, 1903, at 11:20 o'clock he fell asleep. "Of a family of four sons and ten daughters, he outlived them all except one. He has a sister in Wisconsin, Mrs. Giles. He has four living children: S. D. and A. J. May, of Tazewell, and Mrs. H. W. Steele, of Washington county, Virginia. He was married to Miss N. B. Davidson, June 17, 1902. The fruit of this union was one child — Colonel May.

"The May family is large and well-known in several counties in Kentucky. Many of the family have filled county and legislative offices, and quite a number are local preachers in the M. E. Church, South. They were in the Sandy valley as far back as 1796."

The oration ended with great eloquence:

"He is gone but has left his foot prints. No more will he look upon the peak crowned with glittering frost and robes of trailing snow or hear the music lingering in the mountain-top and quivering gently in the happy air or coursing sweetly down the emerald slopes, singing of the coming spring and when summer comes again with fruit and the trees he planted shall hang with golden ripeness, others will eat the fruit of his planting.

"When the mountains shall again put on their robes of autumn, he will watch no more their changing hues and think of coming winter. The receding year has touched us somewhere; some friend has gone, some football is missed, some well-known voice is hushed. Death, cruel unrelenting death, marches on to the universal conquest, and 1903 will be chiselled on the marble that will mark the grave of many, and some of our graves-who?"

Rice teams up well with almost every food—and the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that rice is both plentiful and a real bargain now.

The first fatal traffic accident was reported in 1899, when a pedestrian ran afoul of an automobile going five miles an hour.

A FINAL STATEMENT

As the November election is now at hand, I wish to state to the people of Floyd county a few matters which I have in mind. You have been reading and hearing a lot of Newport and in Kenton and Campbell counties, and it seems that my opponent is trying to connect me with that ring of gamblers, and their crime syndicates. I know nothing about what takes place there and there will be no Newport in Floyd county as far as I am concerned, if I am elected Sheriff of this county. A lot of this wild propaganda is only injected into this campaign for the only purpose of confusing and misleading the voters. My opponent would have you believe I am low down, no good for nothing. I think people should examine their own back yard before making malicious statements.

I am not making my race in Kenton and Campbell counties, I am running for Sheriff here in Floyd county, where I was born and have lived all my life. It seems that my opponent wishes to down-grade my people, but I think they will compare with his at least.

Every man should run upon his own merits and not the demerits of others. I have four young sons and expecting another. Then why would I be little enough to combine with bootleggers in the presence of my young sons? There is no argument about this. The kettle should never have thrown up black to the pot.

My father was James Hale, a son of George Hale (Big George) and Big George was a son of Samuel Hale. My father is a first cousin of Henry Stephens, your present Circuit Court Clerk, and my father was a student under Henry 50 years ago, when he taught school in a log school house on Lick Fork of Middle Creek, where David is now located.

James Hale, my father, married Susie Stephens, a daughter of Newt Stephens, and her mother was a sister of Burr Flannery, Bill Flannery, Wes Flannery and many others. To the union of my father and mother, there were four sons, Thomas, deceased, Henry, Samuel and Edgar. My wife Winifred (Penny) is a daughter of Maryland (Crow) Osborne, and Allie Taylor. The father of Crow Osborne was Buck Osborne, and he married Julia Martin, and the father of Buck Osborne was William Osborne.

Vote the Democratic ticket. The Democrats have done more for the poor people since Franklin D. Roosevelt than the Republican party has done in more than a hundred years. For instance, take Social Security, Old Age Assistance, Unemployment Insurance, and many other relief measures. Take a look at all the employees right here in Prestonsburg who work for the Department of Economic Security. They would not even have a job if it had not been for the great measures of the Democratic Party. The disabled and poor people should study, and deeply so, before casting their vote for the Republican Party. The Republican Party has always been the rich party in the United States. They secured their wealth many years ago under the old Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act. Many people do not remember this, but take a look at your history books.

It is predicted by everyone who knows anything about politics that every Democrat will be elected and by a large majority. There has been a lot of unjust criticism alleged against me, which should not have been. People should treat each other decently if they do not agree politically. Keep on the sunny side of life and vote the Democratic ticket. I hope I have not said anything that may infringe upon the rights or feelings of anyone as I certainly do not intend it to be that way.

Nothing goes up this chimney but water vapor and air another new way AEP keeps your electric costs low

First time in the Western Hemisphere! Going up on the Big Sandy River in eastern Kentucky is this 320-foot-high water cooling tower. Operating much like the radiator in your car, it will vastly multiply the cooling capacity of Big Sandy, permit the installation of 20 times more electric-power generation capacity. Result: Low-cost power can be produced where low-cost fuel is available, even if cooling-water supply is limited. Doing things in new ways to improve service and efficiency is one big reason why the average unit price of electricity, for customers of Kentucky Power Company, has not gone up during twenty years of inflation.

Your service is better, your rates are lower because Kentucky Power Company is a part of the American Electric Power System. Supplying more electricity than any other investor-owned utility, AEP aids the economic growth of 2,350 communities in seven states. Through integrated operations, progressive engineering, research and coordinated management, the six member companies of AEP bring you low-cost power with greatest dependability.

Three Grocery Outlets Barred from Program Of Stamp Participation

Three retail food stores in Pennsylvania, have been suspended from participation in the federal food stamp program, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announces.

The stores are Lebowitz's bar and grocery, of Uledi, Hilltop grocery, of Markleysburg, and Thrift Market, of Uniontown.

The actions resulted from the Department's continuing investigative and program review activities which have been underway since the start of the food stamp pilot projects in eight areas of the nation. Instrumental in detecting the alleged irregularities leading to the suspensions announced today was the "built-in safeguard" of the coupon redemption method, which gives the Department a weekly audit of each retailer's food stamp volume.

10-COUNTY AREA COUNCIL ORGANIZED BY COMMISSION

Quicksand, Ky. — Considerable optimism was in evidence here last week when lay groups from 10 counties in the Kentucky River valley met with John Whisman of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Commission to form themselves into working areas to qualify and further prepare for possible benefits under the federal government's new Area Redevelopment Administration.

In a burst of enthusiasm, Roy Royalty, of Irvine, a long-time leader in promoting economic advancement in this section, told the group opportunity was knocking at the door for the first time; probably the last time unless concerted action was taken.

"We have a Governor who is for us," he said. "We have John Whisman working for us; a team of specialists here at Quicksand working for us, so lets get busy and do something."

And something was done. One of the first actions of the assembled group was the formation of working areas or councils. Without a dissenting voice, Letcher, Knott, Perry and Leslie united into one group; Breathitt, Lee, Wolfe and Owsley into another, and Estill, Powell, Clark and Madison into a third group. There were no representatives present from either Clark or Madison, but both counties had expressed a desire to be included in the program.

The meeting Wednesday was an extension of another gathering of kind held here in September. At that time Whisman explained the Area Redevelopment Program set up to aid certain depressed areas.
