

THURSDAY

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

NOVEMBER 9, 1961

This Town-- That World

Two more weeks like the two now just about past, and yours truly will be ready to entertain a notion that we all go fishin'.

CONGRATULATIONS!

The Floyd County Times is proud of the people of this county because of the support they gave the library service which has reached into every creek and almost every hollow.

Our people want the best for their children, and they are willing to pay for it. It's that simple. Floyd county has been fortunate in having dedicated men and women directing and carrying out this library service.

A FRIENDLY WARNING

If you've heard this one, skip it. It has to do with the two Army recruits who were, shall we say, rather innocent. They had never seen a train, not to mention riding such a thing.

"Hey, Sam, you eat any of that thing yet?" he choked. "None."

"Well, don't. I jest took a bite, and I've gone stone blind!"

And had you heard of the woman asking the cashier of the high-class restaurant: "My husband can't find his credit card—do you accept cash here?"

"THE TROPIC OF CANCER" We have never subscribed to ownership, book-burning and similar pastimes, but it occurs to us, after reading one paragraph from "The Tropic of Cancer" that something should be done.

The Louisville police department a hard time because the P.O.D. has condemned this piece of tripe, but we'll go along with the cops.

If unadulterated filth in the form of print is to be permitted on the newsstands and in the book-stalls of this country, with the blessing of authorities and the praise of critics, why stay the hand of any pervert as he writes the lowest filth known to the language on the sidewalks which your children travel?

We quickly erase such products of juvenile or twisted minds. Why not erase "Tropic of Cancer" and some other so-called literature that would make the lettering on an ill-kept rest-room wall seem innocent?

COURT INTERFERENCE RUMORS ARE DENIED

Here to vote Tuesday in his home precinct at Cliff, Governor Bert T. Combs expressed concern about rumors spread here to the effect that he had been instrumental in causing Dan Goble to lose the Democratic nomination for Jailer by Appellate Court decision.

"I have heard a lot of talk since I arrived here, and even before," the Governor said, "that my political foes are saying I used my influence with the court to have Dan thrown out. Let me, first of all, say, I could not have so influenced the court if I had wanted to—and, next, that I did not want to."

"Dan Goble has been my friend through all my political battles, and he perhaps has lost some friends because of his friendship for me. More than that, he has fought my battles without asking anything for himself—and that is as you know, not always the case in politics. This boy has been my friend, and I would be most ungrateful if I did not appreciate him and what he has done for me."

"Dan has taken this blow like a man, and I say this on Election Day before the results are in: Whatever happens, I plan to find a job for him, if he will accept it, which he can do efficiently and without waste to the taxpayers of Kentucky. He has suffered disappointment, has been out a lot in court costs, and still he doesn't ask for anything—but I intend to help him to that extent."

Friends of Southworth, contrary to Riffe's statement, point out that the newly-designated Colonel is prominent about Prestonsburg also for he visits here often in pursuit of civic affairs.

ECONOMY MOVE MADE BY EDUCATION BOARD

VOTE ORDERS MAINTENANCE MEN ROTATED

Substitute Teachers Are Employed; Harmony Attained At Meeting

The Floyd County Board of Education by unanimous vote Saturday evening ordered a "staggered" work plan, effective immediately, for the maintenance force. This was done in an effort to overcome the unanticipated loss of $15,000 from franchise taxes.

The maintenance personnel, with the exception of three top supervisors, will work two weeks in each month.

Superintendent Clark in a statement to The Times noted that this move would least effect the school program as contrasted with other proposals.

"We feel that our maintenance department has been doing a good job, but this cutback is the only one possible without hurting our children immediately," he said. "I might say further that the entire board shows a keen interest in and an understanding of our budget problems."

Other actions of the board follow:

1. Employed these substitute teachers: Blanche McSwain, Pluma Jean Stumbo, Olivia T. May, Phila M. Francis, Anna May Shepherd, Patsy Ruth Conn, Mildred Davis, Bobby Barnett, Laura H. Ratliff, Eecie Allen, Vivian Allen, Verlie Bush, Earl Hall, Donna R. Branham and Lucille James.

2. Thomas B. Hunter was employed as Betsy Layne high school teacher in place of John G. Goble who failed to report.

3. Accepted the resignations of Jacob Fouts, Weeksbury janitor, who is retiring, and hired Charles Tackett to replace him.

4. Approved the acceptance of Wayne Ratliff as a member of the executive committee of the Kentucky Association of Colleges, Secondary and Elementary Schools. This is the accreditation agency for the schools of the state and the board allowed travel expenses for Ratliff.

5. Declared that an emergency exists at the Prestonsburg high school gym due to the fire at the Floyd County Fair and decided to rebuild only the press box and (See Story No. 1, Page 5)

Coinage History Told In Display at Bank, Manager Announces

A custom-designed exhibit of coinage history is now on display at the Allen Branch Bank, according to an announcement made this week by John G. Heinze, manager.

The display includes a representative selection of U.S. coins used in the past 165 years of regular coinage in this country, plus paper currency. The exhibit is arranged in a unique Plexiglas display case of interchangeable panels, designed specifically for this display.

Included in the three-case display are denominations long out of use, such as 1/4 cent pieces, 2 cent pieces, 3 cent pieces, half dimes, 20 cent pieces and trade dollars. In addition to copper, nickel and silver coins, there is a complete type-set of gold coins.

The display of paper currency is a type-set of large $1 bills and a type-set of various denominations issued in fractional currency: 3c, 5c, 10c, 25c and 50c pieces. Also included is a full type-set of commemorative half dollars, Lafayette dollar, and Isabella quarter.

YOUTHS WIN FIVE PLACES

At Frankfort Assembly; Carolyn Moore Elected Speaker of The House

Prestonsburg delegates to the Junior Youth Assembly at Frankfort last week-end won five places on the Assembly cabinet and otherwise figured prominently in activities of the body.

Cabinet members named from the Prestonsburg high school delegation were Speaker of the House Betty Carolyn Moore, House Chaplain Mary Lynn Hall, Attorney General Woodrow Allen, Jr., Senior House Clerk Rose Nell Howard and Assistant House Clerk Mary Jane Neely.

They joined on the cabinet Governor Robin Young, of Shelby county; Lieut.-Gov. David Stout, Carrollton; Secretary of State Sam Hinkle, Shelbyville; Commissioner of Agriculture Steve Wilborn, Shelby county, and Sergeant-at-Arms Robbie Bell, of Henry county.

Other Prestonsburg delegates were Senators Brenda Crager, Jerry Booher and Gene Taylor.

Brenda Crager sponsored Senate Bill No. 7, an act relating to the maintenance and repair of state highways in the Commonwealth by the use of criminal labor, which was passed after a heated debate.

Rose Nell Howard sponsored House Bill No. 8, relating to the organization, function and duties of governmental units and personnel administering child welfare, which also passed.

At the church service two delegates from Prestonsburg again represented Prestonsburg. Mary Lynn Hall gave the Scripture reading, led the prayer of dedication and the benediction. Betty Carolyn Moore gave a talk on young people's responsibility in leadership.

At the talent show Prestonsburg was represented by Betty Carolyn Moore who gave a piano solo, "Theme from The Apartment"; Brenda Crager, who gave a piano solo, "Exodus"; and Jan Collins who gave a monologue, "The Time of My Life."

At the Court of Awards Betty Carolyn Moore received a merit award for her participation in the (See Story No. 4, Page 5)

PRESTONSBURG VISITOR NAMED KENTUCKY COLONEL BY COMBS IN RECOGNITION OF CIVIC WORK

"Looney" Sweetland Southworth, frequent Prestonsburg visitor and prominent about town in Huntington and Charleston, is now a member of the Honorable Order of Kentucky Colonels Harold Riffe, who writes a column, "Fair and Mild," for the Charleston (W. Va.) Gazette, took note of "Looney" in a recent issue.

Friends of Southworth, contrary to Riffe's statement, point out that the newly-designated Colonel is prominent about Prestonsburg also for he visits here often in pursuit of civic affairs.

Huntington and Charleston — it takes two cities to accommodate his complete, full blown prominence—is trying to accustom his friends to the matter of calling him Colonel. It seems that the Hon. Bert Combs, Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, took official cognizance of Louis' attainments in the field of something or another (being prominent man about towns, I suppose) and made him a Kentucky Colonel. Kentucky has a regular army of colonels. I understand there are some privates, too, but these you don't hear much about, for they're too busy growing corn full of kernels so the colonels can be full of corn—to paraphrase an ancient bit of doggerel.

OFFERS MINE FOR SHELTER

Estate Representative Says Colonial Available As Community Shelter

City Attorney Joe Hobson said this week that the I. Richmond estate will make available to the people of Prestonsburg the old Colonial mine here as a community fallout shelter. A representative of the estate offered the abandoned mine workings for that purpose at the City Council meeting last Friday night.

Use of the mine as a shelter will be permitted without conveying title to the property, it was explained.

The extensive underground workings have been considered during recent weeks as a possible shelter and will be given further study by Civil Defense engineer-architects along with other abandoned mines, caves and buildings.

It is believed that an abandoned coal mine such as Colonial may be converted to a shelter at minimum expense. The study will consider capacity of sites considered, accessibility, air and water supply and all safety features.

George Lee Shannon, of Prestonsburg, and Thomas S. Combs, of Langley, engineer-architects, will leave November 20 to attend at Ft. Belvoir, Virginia, a two-week course in the study of radiation shielding, a part of the program sponsored by the Office of Civilian Defense Mobilization.

NEW BUILDING IS PLANNED

For Martin Postoffice; Structure To Implement Modernization Drive

Location of the proposed postal center at Martin will be on Main street, south of the new First Guaranty Bank building, it was announced last week by Congressman Carl D. Perkins.

The building, which will be 60 by 150 feet, will house the Martin postoffice and facilities for distribution of mail over a wide territory in this county and possibly in Knott and Magoffin counties. The Times learned recently from unofficial sources.

Postmaster General J. Edward Day this week announced plans to build the Martin structure. "The new building," Mr. Day said, "will implement President Kennedy's program to stimulate the economy and at the same time carry out the Post Office Department's objective of more efficient postal service and improved working conditions for postal employees."

"The President's accelerated program," the Postmaster General pointed out, "calls for the construction and modernization of postal facilities throughout the nation, with private industry investing the capital to build new facilities for lease to the department during this year. In addition," he said, "contingent upon the availability of funds, the Post Office Department is going ahead with the modernization of postal space in Federal buildings."

The Postmaster General said the building will be constructed under the Department's commercial leasing program, which utilizes the resources and investment funds of private enterprise for needed postal buildings.

The Department's capital investment, Mr. Day said, will be limited substantially to postal equipment. The building will remain under private ownership while leased to the federal government, and the owner will pay local real estate taxes.

LATTA FILES FLOYD REPORT

Area Program Council Organized At Louisa; Procedures Are Told

County statements of purpose and working procedures were submitted at the Big Sandy Area Program organization meeting held at Louisa, October 23, and an Area Program Council was organized.

The Floyd county report was prepared and filed by C. B. Latta, of Prestonsburg, and it will, as other county reports, be expanded by additional information from time to time.

Six counties—Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Lawrence, Magoffin and Martin—were represented at the meeting, and these compose the Big Sandy area.

From county reports filed at the meeting an overall area program will be formed, this to be submitted later to the Area Redevelopment Administration, Washington, D. C., by John D. Whisman, administrator of the Kentucky Area Program office.

After that, the Kentucky administrator will press for approval of all participating counties as quickly as possible and procure for them eligibility for Area Redevelopment benefits. At the same time his office will begin work with Area Councils and the county associations to assist them in identifying and defining specific projects and then get into action, making application for ARA assistance to each project in every possible case.

The Big Sandy Area Program Council already is partially organized. It will, when completed, include the county judge of each of the six counties, the mayor of each incorporated community, the president of each Chamber of Commerce, a representative from each Municipal Planning Commission, and will also have as members a representative of labor and agriculture, one county superintendent and one city school superintendent from the area, one representative of service clubs of the area and also one representing area professions.

To date, these Council members have been named:

Service clubs — Calvin Herrick, Prestonsburg, and Michael F. Dallett, Pikeville, Junior Chamber of Commerce; George L. Ramey, Paintsville, Kiwanis Clubs; Mrs. Mary G. Sparks, Louisa, Woman's Clubs; Mrs. Robert L. Jones, Prestonsburg, Homemakers' Clubs.

Professions — Dr. Forrest Sheely, Louisa, medical; Harry S. Howard, Prestonsburg, legal; Rev. Jack Gold, Louisa, ministers; Norman Allen, Prestonsburg, newspapers; O. T. Dorton, Paintsville, bankers. Soil conservation, George Branham; county extension services, Gene Ball Inez; forestry service, Sam Mace.

The Area Council will next meet in January.

AWARD JONES NEW BUILDING

At Mayo State School; Cost Set At $399,900 For Science Classrooms

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 6 (Spl.)—G. Marcus Jones Construction Company, Morristown, Tennessee, is the apparent low bidder on construction of a new science building for Mayo State Vocational School, Paintsville. The firm submitted a bid of $399,900.

The two-story brick-exterior building with space for classrooms, library, laboratories and assembly room is designed to meet the increasing demand in the area for vocational education courses. Present facilities at the school are filled to capacity.

The air-conditioned assembly-demonstration room, which will seat 196, will provide Mayo and the community with its first opportunity to hold convocations and meetings of any significant size.

Space for five classrooms and a visual aid room will be provided on the first floor. A drafting room and electronics, physics and chemistry laboratories will be on the second floor. The classrooms and laboratories will accommodate 298 students.

The building is designed to permit closing off the classroom and laboratory sections at night, leaving the library and assembly room open to the public.

SIX FLOYD MEETS HELD

Consumer Buying Talks Attended by Sociologist, Food-Stamp Director

The six consumer food-buying education meetings conducted in this county last week drew 242 persons, according to Mrs. Frances H. Pitts, home agent. Meetings were held at West Prestonsburg, McDowell, Harold, Betsy Layne, Garrett and Martin.

Assisting the Floyd county home agent at the meeting at which food-stamp recipients were chiefly invited, were the new Extension service sociologist, Dr. Frank A. Santopolo, Arvid Dopson, U. S. D. A. administrator of the food-stamp program in this county, Mrs. Minerva Owens Murphy, Extension specialist in food, and Robert M. Jones, county agent.

Santopolo, a native of New York and a forestry specialist with a degree in sociology, is particularly interested in developing programs for education and ac-

HALE DEFEATS GOP NOMINEE FOR SHERIFF

Stumbo Easy Winner Over Former Sheriff; Library Tax Approved

The campaign for votes reached the long trail's end Tuesday, and early that night the voting machine results showed a whopping victory for the entire Democratic ticket in heavily Democratic Floyd county.

Although the voting in some precincts was considered light, approximately 12,500 ballots were marked to conclude a hot, sometimes bitter, drive for votes.

Main interest centered around the races for County Judge and Sheriff. In these County Judge Henry Stumbo was re-elected for an unprecedented fourth term in the office over Ex-Sheriff Gorman Collins, Republican, by a majority of 2,784 votes, and Henry Hale, of Blue River, defeated his Republican opponent, Jesse L. (Jack) Hyden, of Prestonsburg, by a 1,757-vote margin.

Lawrence Hale, who won the Democratic nomination for Jailer over Dan Goble by Appellate Court action, only four days before the election, defeated Edgar Martin, Republican, by 3,869 votes.

Despite the hard-fought political battle which raged on all fronts, voters forgot partisan politics to turn their attention to preservation of the library service and gave the 5-cent per $100 library tax their overwhelming approval by a margin of almost 4 to 1. Every precinct in the county gave the tax its approval. The total was 3,931 votes "Yes"; 1,023 "No."

'WRITE-INS' ELECT 5; NEW GROUP WINS HERE

Voters in two Floyd towns wrote in names of four candidates for municipal office often enough Tuesday to elect them.

The write-in campaigns were staged at Martin and Allen. The Martin situation resulted in court action prior to the election, with the Court of Appeals holding that paper ballots should be used in this county where city elections were being held. This decision followed the voiding of the petition of one slate of Martin candidates on the ground that they had less than the legal number of unchallenged petitioners.

At Allen three write-in candidates for the Board of Trustees were elected. These candidates and their vote totals follow:

Miles Stone, 74; Tommy Westfall and Tom Porter, 83 each. Denver Baldrige was the only winning candidate whose name was printed on the ballot. He received 85 votes.

Chester Porter defeated John B. Lafferty for the office of Police Judge at Allen, 86 votes to 52. Jug Hamilton received two write-in votes.

The write-in effort at Martin drew a heavy vote but failed except in the candidacy of R. E. Dermont, who was one of six elected to the City Council. He polled 177 votes. Progressive Party candidates' names appeared on the ballot, and these were elected: Glover C. Spencer, 170 votes, John C. Billiter, 172; John Henry Osborne, 172; Delbert (Red) Ison, 188; Estill Newsome, 174.

In the Prestonsburg city election Dr. George P. Archer was elected mayor and with him the entire Community Development ticket easily won. Dr. Archer polled 847 votes to 462 for Harry Sandige, his opponent, who headed the People's Party slate of candidates.

The vote here for Council candidates: Community Development ticket—E. B. May, Jr., 860, Clifford Wright, 821, Dr. Edward B. Leslie 765, Byron Nunneury 755, Tom O. McGuire 726, Dr. Herbert Salisbury, Jr., 909, Theodore (Jody) Fannin 772, E. H. (Herschell) Tackett 806.

People's Party — Bill May 379, Donald W. Fitch 409, Virgil Griffith 395, William (Bill) Jack Stephens 439, Garnet Mayo 378, Gladys Cooley 391, Bill Gray 363, Paul Messer 417.

At Wayland Virgil Combs defeated Robert Hicks for Police Judge by a vote of 119 to 61. The Open Book party which Combs headed elected its entire slate: Hassell H. Craft 119, William Greathouse 115, Charles Hughes 110, Willard Ratliff 117, Bobby Joe Castle 114.

The opposition Progressive Party polled this vote:

Robert Webb 53, Gordon Crowder 56, Cecil Johnson 53, Ralph Blankenship 52, Aster Branham 51. A. L. Hall was unopposed for Police Judge at Wheelwright. He received 94 votes. Elected to the Board of Trustees were Landon Rowe, Jr., Hobert Smith, Vern M.

I am not mad at anybody, although I am sorely disappointed. I congratulated my opponent, Lawrence Hale. I voted Tuesday for Lawrence Hale. I am a Democrat and I am able to take my lumps along with the good things that have come my way.
Again I thank you, every one, for your help, and I ask now only your friendship and goodwill.

We Approve The Report

This newspaper would go on record as approving the report of the Governor's Commission on Public Higher Education.

It hails as a glimpse at an educational Promised Land the recommendation that a college be located in Prestonsburg for the benefit of young women and men of this and surrounding counties. It welcomes the recommendation that at least two other such institutions be placed in other educational hinterlands such as this.

And The Times' approval goes also to the other main recommendation of the Commission, that a State Board of Higher Education should be constituted and put to work under state law.

All this is change, and we are not for change merely for its own sake. But that does not mean we are content with the status quo. We join the members of the Governor's Commission in expressing confidence in the ability and the dedication of each of the men heading the state colleges and the state university. Yet we believe that these men can with greater effect concentrate their attention on the business of directing the internal affairs of their respective institutions with the proposed state board relieving them of many duties which cannot be called educational or even administrative. As matters presently stand they are permitted to give only a part of their time to important educational work while giving other valuable time to legislative lobbying, jockeying for position as each college seeks to advance itself and, generally, leaping from breach to breach to meet varying situations foreign to academic duties.

We believe a lay board of the best men and women the state can provide, with a director of ability commensurate to that of the college presidents, plus a research staff to study higher education needs from the state rather than the local area or campus perspective, are very real needs. We hold that such planning and coordination of effort on behalf of the institutions themselves and the young people who will be attending them in the future will serve Kentucky and its educational program well.

Prospect of at least a junior college in this area now becomes more than a dream. At last comes hope that the cost of education in relation to a depressed economy will no longer make of this section a veritable Country Churchyard. And comes now the time for the parents of the area to join in common effort to see that the recommendation made by the Commission for the benefit of their children and those to follow them wins the approval of the Kentucky General Assembly, next January.

There will be opposition, we may be certain. Already The Lexington Herald, whose editor admitted that he had not read the Commission's report, has urged the Governor to file away the whole report and forget it. This source and others, jealously guarding benefits they have long enjoyed and which they are unwilling to share with others, will wage war on the whole report, condemning it altogether, apparently because it simply does not fit into their preconceived ideas of what education should be and who should have it.

Some may await the full report before condemning the Lexington editor didn't. He caught a glimpse of something in the bushes, threw blunderbuss to shoulder and fired away without taking time to see what he was shooting. He got the idea that the University of Kentucky needed that money and that Lexington needed the students and their money, and so he banged away at the very suggestion that maybe it shouldn't all be centered down there.

The editor of this newspaper is not versed in every detail of the Commission's report. Remember, this report contained the most serious thinking of five fine and capable Kentuckians after ten months of hearings and conferences with nationally known figures in the field of education. Full comprehension of every detail of such a document, then, is not to be expected, we hope, after a single reading—not from us, anyhow.

But we did read it. And we read it with interest and with a deep satisfaction.

ceptance of new practices among Kentucky's rural folk. This was his second trip to the area.

Visiting a Left Beaver mining town he expressed consternation at such appalling poverty among the food stamp recipients.

"I never saw such poverty in Pakistan when I was a community development adviser with the International Cooperation Administration," he said.

Mrs. Murphy was enthusiastic at the response to the meetings and the interest shown in the technique of food buying by the stamp recipients.

The meetings were the first of the kind in this country, it was said.

WEEK-END CONTESTS TO FINISH '61 GAMES

Three high school football games in the Eastern Kentucky area this week-end wind up the 1961 season. Paintsville will feature its 11th annual Big Sandy Bowl game at 2 Saturday afternoon as Belfry is slated to meet McKell.

At Viperman's Pike counties closed regular season play on a happy note in edging arch-rival Williamson, West Virginia, 27-25. Junior quarterback Floyd Hatfield hurled two touchdown passes, one 73 yards to J. Phillips and one 44 yards to all-state end Rickey Kestner, then scored a 40-yarder himself in the last 40 seconds and with 25 touchdown passes to his booted three extra points.

Hatfield will enter the bowl game credit. Kestner has been on the receiving end of the majority of these.

Belfry is now 8-2 and will probably finish in a tie with Fleming-Neon for second place in the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference while McKell (8-2) is the No. 2 team in the Northern Kentucky league.

Hazard, eyeing its third consecutive Region Four, Class AA title, heads to Corbin, Friday night, after rolling over Middlesboro, 47-14, last Friday.

The area's leading scorer, Bull Dog sophomore Butch Green, tallied two touchdowns in the first half for a season's total of 156 points. He did not play in the second half. Junior Davidson registered two six-pointers as did running mate A. J. Davis.

Paintsville, set to battle regional foe Bellevue at home Friday night, joined arch-rival Prestonsburg, 13-0, in its last outing. The invading Tigers grabbed two Prestonsburg fumbles inside the five-yard stripe in the final six minutes to gain the cherished victory.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

How does a hunting dog know in which direction a trail is going? The question has been a puzzler to hound fanciers for many generations and will probably continue to be one as long as hounds trail game, suggests Henry P. Davis, Sporting Dogs Editor of Sports Afield Magazine.

Undoubtedly the various factors of scent tell the hound whether or not he is going in the right direction. But just what these factors are is a mystery. One of our correspondents in Lakeland, Florida, Mr. William W. Lord, prominent construction and design engineer, has offered the following solutions to this enigma:

There are several different smells in a footprint, but the two most prominent odors are those of the toenails and the pad. The hound's nose can determine the front end of the track merely by the position and "shape" of these two odors. This explains why a hound can more easily straighten out the direction of a hooved animal than of an animal with retractile nails, such as the bobcat. This, too, explains why hounds may backtrack in melting snow or rain. The water scrambles the two scents and the shapes of the scents. The scent tunnel or hot scent is easy for a dog to follow and brings another factor into play. The hound follows the scent tunnel by making use of the same general principles of shape and position of odors.

With gratitude to Mr. Lord we pass his suggestions along. Do they end all arguments—or start new ones?

Martin Loses Opener To McDowell, 52-44; To Play Auxier Tonight

The Martin Purple Flash opened its basketball season Saturday night, losing to the highly rated Dare Devils of McDowell high school, 52-44. McDowell defeated Auxier in its opener, 82-40.

Martin got off to a fast start in the first period to a 12-7 lead at the end of the first period. In the second period they held their lead for a halftime score of 25-22.

At this point some of Martin's boys were in trouble with personal fouls. Jesse Sammons had three fouls, Jimmy Hammond, Gary Baldrige and Willard Osborn had two each.

In the third period McDowell came back fast as they were hitting their shots and rebounding better than in the first half. McDowell led by four points at the end of the third period.

Then in the fourth, Martin's guards, Jimmy Hammond and Gary Baldrige, left the game with personal fouls.

Taking scoring honors for McDowell was David Turner with 14 points. For Martin it was Baldrige with 11, Sammons 10 and Hammond 9.

Martin's next game will be against Auxier tonight (Thursday).

SPORTS CHATTER

By GORDON MOORE

Friday and Monday evenings will mark the close of the 1961 football season.

The Prestonsburg Black Cats wind up in a homecoming game at the local stadium at 8 p.m. Friday with the M. C. Napier Navajoes as their foes.

Then on Monday evening at 6 the Little League All-Stars will tangle with Hazard's Little League All-Stars on the local gridiron.

Although only in the second year of Little League play as compared with Hazard's ninth season, the locals are expected to give a good account of themselves.

The game will be played by regulation Little League rules, 16 plays per quarter, excepting penalties, punts and kick-offs. However, the weight limit in the backfield will be raised to 140 pounds.

The high school freshman team ended its season Monday night with a 20-7 win over the Hazard freshman, thus averaging an earlier 19-0 loss. The "little" Cats finished with a 4-3 record. Hazard's loss was their first in the past six years.

Basketball is rapidly moving in on the sports scene, and every county team, except Prestonsburg and Wheelwright, has opened or will open its season by Saturday night.

Don Wallen's defending regional champions open with Auxier on Saturday night, minus four regulars from last season's great team. Prestonsburg does not open until November 22.

The Harlem Hoboes will tangle with the Indianapolis Clowns in a gala attraction at the high school fieldhouse next Wednesday at 8 p.m. In addition, a "rock and roll" music show will be presented.

The Times will publish the schedules and scores of all county basketball teams each week, if their managers or coaches will forward the scores. So far, schedules have not been received from these schools: Martin, Maytown and Garrett.

NATURE TRAILS

By RUFUS M. REED

NATURALIST AND MYSTIC CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS,

Historians write of Columbus as a great explorer, navigator and scholar, all of which he was, of course. But he was much more! He was a great naturalist, and kept a journal of his voyages, in which he described the various birds, strange trees and plants he found. While he was a dreamer, he tried to make his dreams come true. Some of the learned men of his day called Columbus a "wild-eyed dreamer and a lunatic" because he told them he could sail west and find a new route to India.

Columbus was a man of deep mystery, far above the so-called wise men of his time. A dreamer, but isn't it true that the dreamers are usually the men who do things to change the very shape of human history?

Columbus was deeply religious, a divine mystic. He believed that he had been especially chosen by God to carry Christianity to people in all lands of the earth. He prayed several times a day, and there is little doubt but that he was guided by Divine Providence on his hazardous voyage across the unknown Atlantic.

Columbus has been described as "being tall and stately, with a long, light-complexioned face, a long nose like an eagle's beak, and snow-white hair." His hair turned white when he was thirty. He was dignified, commanding, pleasant but firm and unyielding. His light-blue eyes held a dreamy, faraway look. He was in the prime of life, age 41, when he set sail in the three small ships, manned mostly by men recruited from Spanish prisons. His genius in guiding that first voyage is manifested in many ways. He sailed due west by "dead reckoning," in search of a new water route to India. But he discovered and opened up to exploration a whole new world of two great continents hitherto unknown, and many islands. One of these continents was destined to become the home of the greatest nation on earth, the U. S. A.

The men manning the ships were mostly uneducated and superstitious. After they had sailed about a week due west from the Canary Islands, a brilliant meteor lit up the whole sky one night. The superstitious seamen grew terrified and wanted to turn back even then. But Columbus used his power over men to quiet them. And he began to keep two logs of his voyage: One showing the true distance covered, and the other to show the seamen, in which the distances were reduced daily.

In his daily journal, Columbus took note of everything he saw, especially the birds. If it had not been for the help of the birds, which appeared at just the right time, Columbus would never have been able to complete the voyage that was destined to change the future course of human history. The birds helped him to keep the men quiet and in better spirits.

After they had sailed for about two weeks, he records seeing a great flock of birds, and he cheered up the sailors by telling them how the Portuguese navigators often located new lands and islands by watching the flight of birds. Columbus also recorded the amazing sight of two big brown pelicans lighting on his ship, the Santa Maria, which he took as a good omen. Then they sailed again for many days without seeing any more birds, nothing but the great, awesome, seething ocean. The men grew mutinous and threatened to throw Columbus overboard. Finally he had to agree on October 10, 1492, to turn back if they didn't soon find land. Then the land birds began to appear in great numbers! Columbus knew these birds were on migration, flying from land somewhere near. This put the men in good heart again. He tells about "three little land birds that came and perched in the rigging of the ship, and they sang so merrily, giving all new hope." He says it was like sweet music sent from heaven! Then on October 11, the men began to see floating cane stalks, pieces of carved wood, land weeds, tree branches with berries. Then that night a light on the horizon! They landed at a little island which he named San Salvador.

Columbus wrote a fine description of the beauty of nature in the islands he explored in the Bahamas. He says, "the lands of these islands are so lovely I do not know where to go first. My eyes never grow weary of looking at the lovely verdure so different from that of our own land (Spain). I believe that here there are many herbs and trees which will be of great value to Spain for dyes and as medicinal herbs. But I do not recognize them all and this causes me much sorrow. Flocks of parrots darken the sun, and there are large and small birds of so many different kinds and so unlike those of our own land, that it is a marvel to see them. Here there are trees of over a thousand kinds, and all with their various fruits and all sweet-scented." Later he wrote: "In the lands I visited, I found pumpkins, yams, beans, maize and a root from which the natives make bread. These natives I call 'Indians' are constantly puffing on 'firebrands', inhaling into their nostrils from the smoldering leaves of a plant which they call 'tabaco'. Their only domestic animals are dogs which they have trained not to bark."

The greatest discoverer of all time died in poverty and disgrace, his body racked with arthritis from exposure, because he could not supply enough to satisfy the greed of man!

Exempt Food, Medicine From State Sales Tax By Special Provisions

Food and medicine already have been exempted from the sales tax, according to one KEA official.

Verne P. Horne, director of Public Relations for the Kentucky Education Association, said today that this has been accomplished by increasing welfare benefits and reducing the state income tax on these items.

Obviously aiming his remarks at individuals who advocate exemption of certain commodities from the sales tax program, Horne cited the reasons why such exemptions would be felt primarily in the public school program. Writing editorially in the KEA's official monthly magazine, he pointed out that most of the increased revenue available, after taking care of the Veterans' Bonus and reduction of other taxes, is going to schools. Any reduction in revenues, he concluded, would mean a corresponding reduction in the state's financial contribution to education.

"Most people would prefer to pay less in taxes," he said. "However, few of them will want the sales tax reduced, if it means a corresponding loss in their children's educational program."

"Welfare benefits," Horne continued, "have been increased four times as much as is necessary to pay the sales tax on all the food and medicine they (people in the low income group) buy. For the higher income group, the state income tax has been reduced enough to pay the sales tax on a $25 bag of groceries each week."

Horne also pointed out that, individually, the sales tax, the state income tax, and the property tax, are "unfair" taxes. "Together," he concluded, "these different taxes provide a well-balanced program, one in which the amount paid is based on ability to pay, and one in which everyone has a share in the public effort to help improve the future prospects for the boys and girls of the state."

Mrs. Maggie Howell, 62, Of Hueysville, Succumbs To Three-Year Illness

BUYING BREAD?
When you buy bread, look for this information, suggests Mrs. Letta Jasper, University of Kentucky Extension specialist in consumer marketing: Ingredients — choose whole grain bread or that which is labeled enriched and also select the bread which has the highest percentage of milk; weight — choose by weight rather than size or you may spend your money for air; and date — bread may be dated so you know when it was baked.

KNOW YOUR BEEF CUTS

When buying beef do you recognize and buy a wide variety of the many cuts regularly displayed by your meat retailer? Or do you limit your purchases to only a few cuts you have learned to prepare? The wise shopper recognizes the many different meat cuts and, most important, knows the right method of cooking each cut.

If the meat is tender, dry heat as in roasting and broiling are recommended. Moist heat is preferred for the less tender cuts. In this method the meat is broiled first, then water or other liquid is added and the meat is simmered gently until tender.

Another point you want to have in mind is the amount of meat to purchase per serving. This depends upon the amount of bone in the cut. If it's a standing rib roast of beef, for instance, plan on ½ pound of beef per serving. If the standing rib has been boned and rolled, then ¼ pound of meat per serving is suggested.

Even for the small family you will want to purchase at least a two pound rib roast or a four pound rolled roast for ease in cooking and carving.

FROSTY MEAT ACCOMPANIMENT

Here's an excellent accompaniment for your pork loin roast or baked ham during this holiday season . . . frosty cranberry sauce.

To prepare, whip one cup of whipping cream until stiff. Then fold in one package (10½ ounces) of frozen cranberry relish that is slightly defrosted, plus one tablespoon of prepared horseradish. Freeze the mixture in a 4x10 inch refrigerator tray until firm. Cut into 12 pieces and serve immediately. This mixture also may be served without freezing.

HOLIDAY FOOD DEMONSTRATION

The club winning the attendance prize was the Day Prestonsburg Club. Ladies winning door prizes were Mrs. Hope Spradlin, Mrs. Bell Turner, Mrs. B. L. Sturgill, Mrs. Freda Halstead, Mrs. Harold Dicks, Drs. H. D. Hewlett, Mrs. James Donahue, Mrs. Louells Johnson, Mrs. John R. Clark and Mrs. Lois George.

EASTERN AREA STOCKMAN HAS OUTSTANDING PROGRAM

BY NEVYLE SHACKELFORD

To maintain 100 head of beef cattle on 100 acres of land at a profit is a great big order, especially here in Eastern Kentucky, but Tony McConkey, of Estill county, is sure he holds the key. And the evidence is that he has, in the form of hay and pasture and a bunker silo.

Tony's 100 acres, mostly bottomland, stretches up and down the Kentucky River, beginning a short distance from the bridge at Irvine where Highway 52 takes off toward Richmond.

A large portion of the farm is in grass, which takes care of his hay and pasture problem but when starting into the cattle business in earnest last spring, he realized he needed something besides hay to get his herd through the winter.

Calling on county agent Clarence Bays, Dr. Charles Martin, and Kenneth Evans, specialists in animal husbandry and agronomy for the Eastern Kentucky Resource Development Project at Quickstart, he put the problem before them.

As a result, a two-year farm plan was worked out which included a bunker silo. Next to pasture Tony expects this silo to be the most valuable asset to his cattle project.

Very inexpensive (90% of the cost was labor), this silo was constructed by simply shoring up the driveway of his stock barn with scrap lumber and covering the walls with tar paper, using the bare ground as a floor. Into this space between the tar papered walls, he dumped approximately 250 tons of silage cut from 15 acres of corn. The silage, which now smells like a good grade of moonshine, was then covered over with a heavy layer of sawdust. With this palatable silage supplemented by hay, Tony is sure he can bring his herd through the winter in good condition.

The reason Tony is so sure of this is that it has been proven many times over that two tons of silage, plus five pounds of hay, per day will comfortably take a cow or a steer from "pasture to pasture."

Tony said while he was constructing his silo, many local

"farm experts" tried to discourage his efforts. Some warned him the packed silage covered with sawdust would catch fire through spontaneous combustion. Others swore the silage would rot, and he was warned of other dangers, none of which materialized. And a little later when he starts feeding from this supply, he's going to hold a farmers' field day on his farm to prove it.

Hall Issues Warning On Tularemia; Disease Is Carried by Rabbits

Dr. R. L. Hall, health officer for the Floyd County Health Department, has issued a warning to hunters about tularemia or "rabbit fever" as the hunting season opens next Thursday.

This disease, he said, is definitely one of the dangers of the hunting season. Last year, 14 cases were reported in Kentucky. Many other cases may not have been reported.

The bacteria which causes tularemia can be transmitted to man from rabbits and other warm blooded animals by means of fly or tick bites, through the skin on a person dressing infected meat, or through eating the meat rare. A very uncomfortable disease, though seldom fatal, tularemia causes body sores, swollen lymph glands, weakness and fever.

Precautions to take to prevent the disease are:

Shoot rabbits on the run. A lazy rabbit may be a sick rabbit.

Never handle a rabbit found dead or brought in by a dog or cat.

Always wear rubber gloves when dressing a rabbit.

If the internal organs of the rabbit show white spots, throw it away for it may be infected.

Cook rabbits thoroughly so that no red meat or blood remains. Cooking destroys bacteria.

BRANDY KEG CREEK RURAL SCHOOL IN 1904

Over half a century ago many rural schools of Floyd county were log structures but the Brandy Keg school was of frame construction that had succeeded a log building. The building shown in the above photograph, was covered with oaken "boards."

Teaching the school in the school year of 1904-1905 was Mrs. Josie Banks, later Mrs. Lee Harris.

The First National Bank salutes the old one-room rural school from which so many young men and women received inspiration to succeed.

Finding out what makes lightning strike
another new way AEP keeps your electric costs low

Scientists are developing an invisible "umbrella" to protect high-line towers from lightning interruptions. This new shielding device will assure more dependable electric service than ever before possible.

This research uses a new "camera" which takes up to nine pictures of a single flash of lightning in four-millionths of a second! These micro-second cameras are mounted on top of hundreds of AEP towers.

Doing things in new ways to improve service and efficiency is one big reason why the unit price of electricity, for our customers, has not gone up during twenty years of inflation.

Your service is better, your rates are lower because Kentucky Power Company is a part of the American Electric Power System. Supplying more electricity than any other investor-owned utility, AEP aids the economic growth of 2,350 communities in seven states. Through integrated operations, progressive engineering, research and coordinated management, the six member companies of AEP bring you low-cost power with greatest dependability.

THANKSGIVING, 1961, is fast approaching, and this year it is even more significant. In many ways, we have the same type situation our forefathers had at their first Thanksgiving celebration. We, like they, have come through a turbulent year safely.

And we, like they, are faced with even more dangers ahead. This is a time, it seems to me, for us to refresh our spirit and think about the meaning of that first Thanksgiving—to gain sustenance and vigor from it—it's a time to give sincere thanks for our many blessings. In short, a time to rededicate our allegiance to America and all it means to us.

Social Security Funds May Be Lost, Announced Statute Is Explained

Thousands of dollars in social security benefits may be lost to a number of retired workers or their survivors if they do not apply for their payments before the end of this month.

With the 1961 amendments to the social security law crowding the changes of late last year from the public eye, many people affected by the 1960 amendments have apparently not yet learned of their eligibility for payments.

Those three groups were made newly eligible for benefits beginning with the month of October, 1960:

1. Those persons made eligible for benefits under the 1960 provisions which reduced the amount of work needed to qualify for payments (now even further reduced under this year's amendments).
2. Survivors of workers who died between March 31, 1938, and January 1, 1940. (These benefits had been payable only to survivors of workers who died in 1940 or later).
3. Aged dependent widowers of women workers who died before September, 1950, when this type of benefit was not payable.

Workers who have been totally disabled for a year and a half or more, and their dependents, may lose some back payments if they do not apply for their social security benefits before the end of November.

Under the law, social security payments may be retroactive for up to 12 months. Therefore, for those persons who became eligible for payments in October of last year, when most of the 1960 amendments went into effect, each month of delay in applying for their benefits will now mean a month's benefit lost.

Also, there are many aged workers who have not applied for benefits because they feel they are not earning above the maximum to be eligible for payments. They may be eligible for payments for some months of 1961, if not for the entire year.

Even if they are not eligible for payments now, by applying now, they can receive their benefits as soon as they do become eligible.

Press the wrap closely against the surface of the cheese to force out air; then freeze immediately at zero degree or below. Freeze only small pieces (a pound or less), not over an inch thick. Small packages, such as those in which Camembert sells, can be frozen just as they come from the store.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky
By JOE JORDAN
(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week, the Battle of Ivy Mountain was fought in Floyd county. Brig. Gen. William O. Nelson, advancing with a Federal force that included three Ohio regiments, a Kentucky battalion and two sections of artillery, succeeded after an hour and 20 minutes of hard fighting in dislodging a Confederate detachment of several hundred recruits commanded by Colonel John S. "Cerro Gordo" Williams, of Bourbon county, whose nickname was derived from a battle in the Mexican War in which he had distinguished himself.

Williams since September had been in the vicinity of Prestonsburg, recruiting mountain men of Southern sympathies for his Fifth Kentucky Infantry, later to become famous as the "Ragamuffin Regiment," one of the finest bodies of fighting men in the Confederate States Army. Its members were described as "hardy, raw-boned, brave mountaineers, trained to hardships and armed with long rifles." Col. Williams also had organized a battalion of mounted infantry, recruited in the Blue Grass and composed largely of "young men of education and fortune—the class of men who afterward made John Morgan famous as a raider." The quotes are from an account by the Rev. Edward O. Guerrant, assistant adjutant general on the staff of Brig. Gen. Humphrey Marshall, who only a week before had been given command of all Confederate forces in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky.

Marshall found that the soldiers of his new command, including the Kentuckians under Williams and two regiments of Virginians, were poorly clothed and poorly armed, some of them having no weapons at all and some carrying shotguns. In one regiment, 350 men were barefooted. The camp at Prestonsburg was more than a hundred miles from its supply base at Abingdon, Virginia, with the Cumberland Mountains between them. The only roads were in creek beds and were impassable when the creeks rose.

Marshall, a native of Frankfort, was a West Point graduate, but had abandoned his military career to practice law and had been singularly successful at the bar.

When Nelson advanced with a superior force, Marshall decided to withdraw through Pound Gap into Virginia, where he could regroup and draw supplies. He left Williams to delay the enemy, for his wagons and guns were moving slowly.

Williams chose a strong defensive position on the side of Ivy Mountain, where the Union troops would have to defile through a narrow passage. Despite this disadvantage, the Federal soldiers poured through steadily and, after 80 minutes of desperate fighting, swept the Confederates from the high point and into full retreat. Nelson reported that he lost six killed and 24 wounded, and found 30 Confederates dead on the field. However, Marshall had his main body intact, and it would take more fighting in January to push him out of the state permanently.

Leprosy Organisms Grown In Artificial Cultures; Gray Conducts Research

Richmond, Ky., Nov. 4 (Spl.) — An Eastern Kentucky State College alumnaus is trying to determine whether leprosy organisms can be grown in artificial cultures in experiments at the Dartmouth College Medical School, where he is a noted microbiologist.

"If they can," Dr. Clarke T. Gray, Class of 1941, said, "scientists might well be able to prepare a preventive vaccine for leprosy and screen drugs that could be used in treating it."

No way to control the disease has yet been found, according to a report from the medical school, although certain chemical compounds known as sulfones arrest it temporarily.

Dr. Gray was engaged in leprosy research at Harvard Medical School from 1949-1953. He is resuming his studies, he said, because recently developed techniques using radioactive isotopes provide new ways to attack the problem.

His current research will be supported by a one-year $16,442 grant from the National Institutes of Health. He will be assisted by Miss Eleanor Hoag, instructor in microbiology at Dartmouth College.

Dr. Gray explained that leprosy micro-organisms are highly specialized parasites found only inside skin and nerve cells. The chief bacteriological problem in leprosy concerns whether or not they can be cultivated when removed from the cells in which they live.

He is working with the organism that causes leprosy in rats and mice. His immediate aim is to find out where leprosy bacilli get into trouble in using artificial nutrients. Glucose, acetate, carbon dioxide and other nutrients will be marked with radioactive isotopes, then followed as they are incorporated into the cells and converted into substances the bacilli need in order to grow and multiply.

"If we find that a vital substance is missing at any stage, we will then try to find a way to supply it," Dr. Gray said. "Optimistically, this may lead to successful cultivation of the organisms."

While engaged in leprosy research at Harvard, Dr. Gray, and a colleague, Dr. John H. Hanks, were the first to isolate bacteria in quantity directly from infected animals. Since then other investigators have recovered anthrax and tuberculosis bacilli in quantity.

Dr. Gray said that there are more than 10 million cases of leprosy in the world and some 400 in this country. It creates a serious social and economic problem as well as physical and emotional suffering, he said, because the disease may last throughout the person's lifetime.

He came to Dartmouth Medical School last year as associate professor of microbiology. In 1959-1960 he was a Guggenheim Fellow at the University of Oxford, where he worked with Sir Hans Krebs in the Department of Biochemistry. He was associated with Harvard's Leonard Wood Memorial Laboratory and Department of Bacteriology and Immunology from 1949 to 1959.

Dr. Gray attended the International Leprosy Congress in Madrid in 1953 as a delegate from the Leonard Wood Memorial Foundation. He received a bachelor's degree from Eastern Kentucky State College in 1941 and earned his doctorate at Ohio State University in 1949.

HALE FAMILY
Mrs. Elynor Holstein, 73 Mission Fields Road, Carmel, California, continues her search on the Hale family. She advises in a recent letter. She is collecting the pictures on Eastern Kentucky currently appearing in the advertisement, Our Historic Heritage, even though she never lived here! Our history is filled, intriguing and colorful, we are constrained to observe.

"I'm still trying to get back beyond the 1821 marriage record of Benjamin Hale and Anna Hall that you gave me. I'm searching for his father's name and want to know where in Virginia Benjamin was born. I know he was born about 1802. I can't find the date of his death.

"I've read so much early Iowa history that in reading MacKinley Kantor's 'Spirit Lake' I'm having the feeling that those Indians breathed hot down the ancestral necks. I remember my father recalling his families' stories of that massacre.

"When I was in Sutro Library in San Francisco I saw your name in the index file as author of Historic Floyd County. I had only 2 hours for research work. For me that's nearly nothing as I get all wrapped up in the stories along with the names. I was pleased to learn later that I could check your book out by 'long distance' through my library here. I got it today. Did you know you were in Sutro?"

"If you can think of a good source I might write to check for Grandpappy Hale, I wish you would write a card?"

Anybody having information on the Hale family, write Mrs. Holstein. She will be glad to exchange information.

BARNETT FAMILY
Had a very pleasant visitor last week, a Mr. William A. Barnett, 4615 College Oak Drive, Sacramento, California. He was doing research on the Barnett family.

The California visitor is a descendant of Elias Barnett and Nancy Blair, who married in Floyd county, March 29, 1826. He died in 1880 in Pope Valley, California.

Elias Barnett left Kentucky, probably from Johnson county, for California after traveling in Tennessee, Indiana, Ohio, Virginia and Illinois. Date of his departure was 1841 from Missouri but he had been living in Jackson county, Missouri, since 1831.

Although Elias Barnett worked with Captain Sutter who discovered gold, there is no evidence that he also found a fortune in the "diggins" in California. His son Jesse later followed him to California.

The story of Elias Barnett's trip across the plains is a saga of adventure and will be told in a feature story in The Times at a later date.

If you are about to throw away those old papers in the attic—don't!

The University of Kentucky now has a fulltime representative roaming Kentucky to gather materials which might throw an important light on the history of the state.

Herbert Finch, who was recently appointed to gather the material for the UK libraries, said old family letters and business papers are very important to research scholars in the state.

A native of Boise City, Oklahoma, Finch started his work last year on a half-time basis, collecting papers of Kentucky labor unions. Now he is looking for all types of historical material.

These materials are used in the library regularly by approved scholars, under the supervision of the Archives Department.

Finch explained that although the library prefers outright gifts,

More Vegetables Eaten Than Grandparents Ate

We're eating more vegetables today than our grandparents did 50 years ago. Vegetable consumption averages about 15 percent more per person than 50 years ago, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. But the shift is away from fresh vegetables—more and more frozen and canned vegetables are being eaten in the United States today.

Brown Trout

In the cold winter months, brown trout go where the water's warmest; where fresh spring waters enter the stream in quantity, where sun hits the water longest and where power plants release warmed water. —Sports Afield.

Named To "Who's Who"

Miss Martha Magdalene Osborne, student at Pikeville College and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy (Ted) Osborne, of Bevinville, has been named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Nominees are selected by a campus committee on the basis of scholarship, citizenship, participation and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities and general promise of future usefulness to business and society.

Miss Osborne, a graduate of Wheelwright high school, was salutatorian of the class of 1958 and received the Inland Steel Scholarship to Pikeville College.

She was chosen vice-president of the senior class this year at Pikeville College and is also editor of the college yearbook, "The Highlander." She represents the senior class in Student Council Activities.

Mold On Cheese

Mold that may form on natural cheese is not harmful and can be easily scraped off the surface. The particular mold inside such cheeses as Blue, Gorgonzola, Roquefort, or Stilton is part of the cheese and produces the flavor characteristic of these varieties. Some cheese manufacturers recommend wrapping large pieces of cheese in cheesecloth that has been dipped in vinegar and putting it in a plastic bag in the refrigerator to prevent molding and drying.

An all-new Ford...
Galaxie and Falcon

Some cars have new names... this name will have a new car!

The name is familiar—the Ford Fairlane 500. The car itself is totally new—so new you'll see nothing else like it this year. It is one of Ford's milestone designs—and will be as influential in its way as the first mass-produced car (a Ford Model T), the first popular station wagon (a Ford Wagon), the first four-passenger luxury car (a Ford Thunderbird), the world's most successful compact (a Ford Falcon).

Right between Galaxie and Falcon in size and in price, the 1962 Ford Fairlane 500 is just the right car for just about everybody; you have never been able to buy anything so right before.

Big in room, ride and performance, it is still priced under most compacts. It urges a nickel as though it never expected to see another. It moves like a rabbit on roller skates.

New unitized body a foot shorter outside... full-size inside

Ford engineers have changed the proportions of the automobile: a completely new unitized body gives you more room inside with less bulk outside. A foot shorter than previous Fairlanes, the new Fairlane 500 is pleasantly parkable, delightfully driveable, easily garageable. At the same time it packs into its neat and nifty 197 inches as much passenger room as you had in some of the biggest Fords ever built.

Twice-a-year maintenance

Service is reduced to a minimum—30,000 miles on many items, twice a year on the rest. You go 30,000 miles between major lubrications, 6,000 miles between oil changes and minor lubrications. You don't have to touch the engine coolant-antifreeze for two years—or 30,000 miles—at a time. Brakes adjust themselves.

All-new economy Eight from world's V-8 leader

The hand that honed the Thunderbird—and sped the Falcon to all-time Economy Run honors—turned to a new problem here, the world's first economy V-8. Made possible by new Ford foundry methods, the new Challenger V-8 is as strong as iron—and a lot lighter than iron's ever been before. As lively as you'd like... thrifter than you'd expect a V-8 to be... it's a natural powerplant for America's first car-you-own-and-have-it car.

For those who want even greater thrift, there's a new Fairlane Six. Its economy would be gratifying in a smaller car. In a car this size it's a downright delight.

Preview America's newest car now

As part of Preview Run U.S.A., new Fairlane 500's are riding the nation's highways and main streets right now. Watch for them. See what thousands have already seen—and raved about. Take a turn at the wheel—and perhaps do a little raving yourself.

We think you'll agree: this all-new Ford is just right for just about everybody. No matter how many new cars you've looked at, you haven't seen anything like this one. It will be at your Ford Dealer's next week. If you miss it now, be sure to see it then.

EDUCATION RENAISSANCE INITIATED IN KENTUCKY

Frankfort, Nov. 6 (Spl.)—"We are in the forefront of a renaissance in education, and we are going to stay there."

These were the words of Gov. Bert Combs in proclaiming this week American Education Week in Kentucky. (The week, Nov. 5-11, has been proclaimed American Education Week by President Kennedy.)

The proclamation urged all citizens and organizations to "acquaint themselves with the achievements and problems of their own school, and to encourage their neighbors to do likewise, toward the end that the schools will receive the whole-hearted support and cooperation they require and deserve."

"There is far greater emphasis on education now, not just in Kentucky or in this country, but all over the world," the Governor said. "The leaders of great and small nations have their people thinking hard about the importance of education, especially scientific education. Other governors tell me their states are putting more emphasis on education."

"We are leading the renaissance in education," Combs said, "because Kentucky is now financially able—for the first time—to put first things first. We are building the future of Kentucky on the solid bedrock of education, which is the only foundation that will last."

The Governor also pointed to the three special studies of public education in the state which are currently in the news.

"These studies are another indication of Kentucky's leadership in the new emphasis on education," Combs stated. "As far as we know, no other state is studying its public education as comprehensively, as thoroughly and as seriously as we are. The whole field of education nationally is watching us, and Kentucky is going to keep them watching."

In his speeches during recent weeks, Governor Combs has ranged verbally through the field of public education in Kentucky.

At the dedication of the new Kelly Thompson Science Building at Western Kentucky State College, he said, "In my opinion, every person with the will for a college education should have it, or we fail in our obligations."

"Kentucky's efforts to bring to light the philosophers, heroes, scientists, educators and geniuses in other fields of endeavor are well illustrated today in the dedication of this magnificent new science building."

In an address to the Kentucky Association of Student Councils, the Governor said, "We are undertaking programs of considerable magnitude for the improvement of Kentucky in many fields. To succeed with those programs, we must have the cooperation of people of talent, brains, tireless energy and optimism."

"You are evidence that Kentucky will have a good supply of people with such qualifications," he said. "In our schools now, there is evidence that it is smart to be smart, or, put another way, that it no longer is smart to be dumb."

The Governor commented on the reports prepared for the Commission on Education at a meeting in Hazard recently. He said, "The studies so far have made clear that the weaknesses in our school systems are not the fault of any one person or class of persons. They have shown, too, that needed improvements are not the responsibility of one profession or group alone. They are the responsibility of all of us—teachers, administrators, parents and public officials."

In that same speech, Governor Combs later said, "Kentuckians are deserving of the best that exists in other states—in economic well-being and in education. But we are not going to achieve the best in income and the benefits purchasable with the best in income unless we first are educated properly. And the education will come only when the people demand it. We must demand the best, equal to that in other states, or else we are wasting our time."

Tidbits Of Kentucky Folklore

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.
Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

STRONG ARM OR WEAK ARM

There used to be a phrase about a person's having a strong arm and a weak mind; this was sometimes used about some big brute of a fellow who was just sheer muscle and little else, mentally or physically. But, to those who lived in semi-pioneer times especially, this was the opposite of what was ordinarily prized. If you were frail or weak, you had little chance to live happily, unless you had some stronged, older brothers to protect you.

A weakling was looked upon with almost Spartan-like contempt. The family in which a weakling lived was always tender and sometimes too much so to the child that was hardly up to par physically; but this tenderness did not often extend to the boys at school or at the washing-hole in the creek. A weak boy was a sissy, and that was that. If he could not skin a cat or dive off a creek bank into the deepest washing-hole, or ride the worst horse or mule, he was hardly worth mentioning. Of course, in passing him you might give him a big pinch and make a purple spot on his tender skin; it was beneath the dignity of a big boy to hurt such a little fellow very much. When a weakling grew up in such an atmosphere, he learned to grit whatever teeth he had left while he was cutting a new set and make an inner resolve to grow up to be a big man and lick all these bullies.

It was great sport to imagine having some of the bad boys down and making them cry "Calf rope." But time moved on, the scrawny little fellow sometimes got to be the toughest and hardest-fleshed one of all; but he did not take advantage of his superior physical ability, even though, more than sixty years later, he sometimes wishes he had done so.

Pioneer life had many things to recommend it, but it had almost as many faults. Ruggedness of body was sometimes linked with cruelty, actual or pretended; self-dependence sometimes did not respect or even tolerate physical weakness or even intellectual strength. If you could not lift your share at a barn-raising, you just did not count and could be ignored, the very worst punishment a boy ever feels. Brave but wasteful, industrious but often doing as much nonessential work as essential, somewhat blind to anything that had no immediate use, the pioneer lived on for several generations after actual pioneering was over. Probably a sneering regard for anything that could be called aesthetic or artistic was the pioneer's worst fault. He had often been imposed on; he came to feel that anything better than he had never known was cheap and unneeded. Adulation of some cheap hero and utter ignorance of finer values were often found in such a pioneer.

Make a list of the most important people in your immediate area and then see which ones of them would have gone down in defeat in a pioneer or semi-pioneer time. I wonder whether your pastor could lift down at the boys at a log-rolling or outwrestle the rough-necks from Clay's Grove, like another Abraham Lincoln. How long would your lawyer, your banker, your merchant last in a fist fight? Fortunately, none of them, I hope, will ever have to assert their ability to be among the group of hennies by such show of skill. Some things have happened in the last half century and more that makes us judge a fellow by some other things than his mere strong arm and back, though we greatly appreciate physical fitness. I have long liked Browning's query in "Rabbi Ben Ezra":

"To man propose this test:
Thy body at its best
How far can it project thy soul on its lone way?"

Physical fitness, yes, and more of it; but who wants to judge that fitness by the knock-down-drag-out show of skills at a country store on Saturday afternoon or at the county seat on county court day?

DRIFT

The Drift Woman's Club looks back this week on a year which has been particularly rewarding in one phase of its activities.

A year ago, the club put into effect its garbage disposal project. Bulldozers and other earth-moving equipment had been put to work, preparing at Drift deep trenches to receive garbage hauled to that central point from a sizeable area. As the excavations were filled they were covered over and new ones made.

More than a hundred householders pay for the garbage collection service which is carried out by the use of a truck. The McDowell and Drift consolidated schools, the McDowell Memorial hospital and several private businesses are subscribers.

The effect is obvious. Says Mrs. C. J. Cahill, of the sponsoring Woman's Club:

"We are urging all our citizens to participate. The rate is low and the healthful results are well worth the cost. And you can add to that the fact that the town is cleaner, as attested to by visitors from out of the county."

New-type concrete is used all the way on this section of I-64 in Jefferson, Shelby and Franklin Counties. It's another look at a whole new world of safer, more pleasant driving. The next chance you get, drive Kentucky's new Interstate 64 and see how safe and smooth-riding a highway can be!
On new Interstate System highways like this there's not a single stop light or crossroad. No dangerous grades or blind curves. Lanes are wide... and so are dividing strips.
This concrete is laid flat—to stay flat for an expected 50 years and more. For safe stops, concrete has a built-in grainy surface. The light color of concrete lets you see better at night.
Concrete's first cost is moderate, and upkeep expense is as much as 75% less than for asphalt. Put all these advantages together and it's easy to see why concrete is the preferred pavement for the great new Interstate System in Kentucky.
