THURSDAY

This Town-- That World

Although this is only September 27, the day has all the appearances of "October's bright blue weather."

Has it really been 21 years since the Cincinnati Reds (not Redjags, please!) won a pennant? If so, tell me how all those years passed so quickly.

That much-sought Dewey Lake deer has not been located. Let's hope he remains hard to find through the deer-hunting season.

THIS WAS THE LAW

The City of Winchester, Ky., faced a great and menacing problem. So the City Fathers voted themselves an ordinance, and it read in part:

"Be it ordained by the Board of Council of Winchester, Ky.:

"1. It shall be unlawful for any person to drive or operate an automobile or other motor vehicle on or over any of the public streets or alleys of the City of Winchester, Ky., at a rate of speed greater than six miles an hour.

"2. Every motor vehicle or automobile, while in use on any street or alley or public place in said city shall be provided with good and sufficient brakes and also with a suitable bell, horn or other signal and shall be so constructed as to exhibit during the period necessary from or after sunset until not necessary at or before sunrise a white light visible within a reasonable distance . . . and a red light in the reverse direction, provided that in heavy fogs, if necessary, such lights shall be displayed in daytime before sunset and after sunrise."

The penalty for violation of this ordinance was set at not less than $10 nor more than $50.

The date of that ordinance? July 7, 1905.

It probably was enacted after some of the boys had celebrated the

NEAR-NORMAL MINING RESUMED AFTER ORDER

NO VIOLENCE IS REPORTED IN WRANGLE

Five Operators Ask Court for Restraint Of Picketing Workers

Small-mine production in this county was back to around 80% of normal production, it was estimated this week after the filing Friday by five truck-mine operators or firms of a petition for a restraining order against 44 defendants.

A temporary restraining order was granted by Circuit Clerk Henry Stephens. Defendants have 20 days in which to make answer to the petition and to demand a hearing. Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill this week certified the case to the Court of Appeals for a special judge to hear the case if and when it is brought to court.

Production at small mines in the county was brought to a near-standstill last week as crowds gathered around mines and ramps. Tempers flared on occasion but no violence was reported.

The injunction against those accused of picketing and threatening workers was sought by five coal operators: George Barnett, doing business as the George Barnett Coal Co.; Bert Hall, owner of the Nola Coal Company at Hunter; Spears & Akers Coal Co.; Preston Collins Coal Co., Inc.; Wamon Sammons, doing business as the Wamon Sammons Coal Co. at Arkansas and Stumbo Hollow, and the Moore Standard Coal Co., Inc.

Pheasants Released By State In Robinson; Are Natives of Asia

The Department of Fish and Wildlife has released 250 Reeves pheasants in Robinson Forest, it was announced this week by John R. Redwine, Seventh District Supervisor. The Department has previously released 750 on Black Mountain in Letcher county, he said.

He noted that the Reeves pheasant is a native of Asia and that the habitat in Eastern Kentucky is similar to the bird's native land. They require an elevation of four to six thousand feet to survive.

Those released on Black Mountain are doing well and multiplying but to what extent Redwine didn't know.

They are larger than grouse, have a long tail and are similar to the red neck pheasant. They were raised by the Department and were full-grown when released.

Bill Claude Spears, 36, of Lancer, was dead on arrival at the Prestonsburg General hospital at 8:30 p.m. Thursday of last week. He was the victim of a truck mishap on the Auxier road.

Mr. Spears was driving from his farm, near the mouth of Johns Creek, toward Prestonsburg in a small truck which left the highway near the Auxier bridge. The vehicle plunged 15 feet from the road over the embankment. He was alone in the truck at the time of the tragedy.

He was a son of the late Walker Spears and Mrs. Nina McGuire Spears, who survives. A farmer, he was not married and was a veteran of World War II.

Surviving brothers and sisters: John Worth Spears, Kimper, Ky.; Robert Walker Spears, Los Angeles, California; Mrs. J. G. Stepp and Mrs. Edward May, both of Lancer; Mrs. James B. Goble, of Emma, and Mrs. Mae Kendrick, of Prestonsburg.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10:30 a.m., Saturday, from the Floyd Funeral Home Chapel, the Revs. Orin Summerman, Harold Dorsey and Ira McMillen officiating. Burial was made in the Goble cemetery at Emma, with military honors accorded by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion.

AUTO MISHAP CLAIMS WEBB

Former Floyd Resident Is Victim In Indiana; Wife Critically Hurt

Daniel Paul Webb, 23, of Huntington, Ind., died last Saturday afternoon in the wreckage of his automobile near Decatur, Indiana, and his wife, Mrs. Wilma McCown Webb, was critically injured.

The Webbs formerly resided in this county. It was said that the wreck occurred when Webb lost control as they were driving on Route 33, three miles south of Decatur.

Mrs. McCown suffered pelvic and arm fractures and internal injuries.

A former resident of Lambert, this county, Mr. Webb was a native of Pike county, the son of Will and Grace Price Webb. The Webbs had resided at Huntington, Indiana, the last six months.

Survivors include his widow, his parents, now residents of Lambert, one brother, Bob Webb, of Teaberry, and three sisters, Mrs. Carrie Newsome and Mrs. Minnie Hall, both of Beaver, and Mrs. Lizzie Adkins, of Galveston.

The body was returned to the home at Melvin of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin McCown, parents of Mrs. Webb, and funeral rites were conducted there today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. by the Revs. John B. Hamilton, Jerry Hall, Johnnie Isaac, Milford Adams and others. Burial will be made in the Tackett cemetery at Melvin under direction of the Merion Funeral Home.

Floyd 4-H Poultry Judging Team Named Kentucky Fair Champions; Martin, Top Individual Scorer

The state 4-H poultry championship was won at the Kentucky State Fair recently by the Floyd county team composed of four members of the Maytown 4-H Club.

Moreover, one member of the team—Freer Martin—was the highest scorer among all the 4-H Club competing in poultry judging at the Fair.

The team, which has been competing in previous state fairs and receiving high honors, copped first place this year with ease, it was said by Jack Friar, associate Floyd county agent. Freer Martin took 705 points out of a possible 800 in the individual scoring.

Randolph Hicks, another Langley member of the team, was the third highest individual scorer in the state with 695 points. Burgess Lowe, of Eastern, third member of the team, ranked ninth in the state with 650 points. Ossie Spencer, of Eastern, was the fourth member.

The Floyd county team is now eligible to represent Kentucky in the National 4-H Judging Contest at Chicago in November, Friar said.

Martin county took second place in the statewide competition on poultry judging and a Pulaski county team was awarded third place.

Court-Named Attorneys Need Time To Prepare; Civil Term Jurors Named

The murder trial of Charlie Miller, which was scheduled to begin last Thursday, was continued till November 27 when it was determined that court-appointed attorneys for his defense had not had time to prepare their case.

A move for the defendant to plead guilty and ask the mercy of the court reportedly was forestalled by refusal of relatives of the victim, Deputy Sheriff Wesley Fannin, to agree on a prison term.

Joe Hobson and Fred Francis were appointed by Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill to represent Miller.

Shortly after continuance of this case, the criminal term of court was adjourned. The civil term will convene next Monday, and for that session the following jurors' names were drawn: (see separate list)

COURT ORDER RETURNS BEER

To Elkhorn City Man; 30 Cases Beer Seized By Deputy and Trooper

Seventy cases of Budweiser beer confiscated two months ago in this county were returned to the ownership of an Elkhorn City man Monday morning on authority of a court order and an Attorney General's opinion.

The beer was taken from Frank Marinaro on Middle Creek by Sheriff's deputies. Later, Marinaro demanded the cargo be returned to him.

The County Judge's office said an opinion from the Attorney General's was procured before the order was made for Marinaro to recover the beer. The opinion held that, since Marinaro held wholesale distributor's permit No. MD703, he could legally transport the beer through "dry" territory for sale in "wet" counties.

The Sheriff's office said, however, that Elkhorn City had been voted dry since Marinaro's permit was issued.

Johnny Thornsburg was arrested near Buckingham last week by Deputy Sheriff Harold Johnson and State Trooper Elmo Allen, who confiscated 30 cases of beer found in his car. They said he was taken before Magistrate Edward Caudill, who fined Thornsburg $20 and costs.

EDUCATORS SLATE MEET

At Prestonsburg High; Ways Are Being Sought To Assume Responsibility

Leading educators in this section of the state will meet Monday, October 2, at the Prestonsburg high school, to discuss ways in which the teaching profession can assume more responsibility for its own actions. This is one of a series of 21 such meetings scheduled by the staff of the Kentucky Education Association in every section of the state.

Seven persons from local associations in several school systems in this area have been invited to attend this fall drive-in conference. Participants in the Prestonsburg meeting will include representatives from local units in Floyd, Johnson, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties; the cities of Paintsville, Pikeville and Van Lear, also Pikeville College and the Mayo Vocational School.

The meeting will be primarily of the round-table discussion type, and is scheduled to begin at 4:00 p.m. and close at 8:30 p.m. Dinner will be served the participants at the school. The theme of the work-conference will be "Local Leadership for a Responsible Profession."

Dr. J. M. Dodson, executive secretary of the Kentucky Education Association, calls this, "one of the most important meetings scheduled this year for this section of the state." It is a part of the KEA's effort to deal with criticisms of public education and of individuals accused of misconduct in school affairs.

"Leaders in the KEA have recognized the need for the profession to accept full responsibility for its own actions and the actions of its individual members," Dodson reports. "This conference is part of our planned effort to involve every member of the teaching profession in the process of self-regulation. At this meeting we hope to lay the groundwork for professional development over the next several years."

Gov. Bert Combs will accompany the 16th Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Governor's Tour to Prestonsburg and Eastern Kentucky next Tuesday, it was announced this week.

Clifford B. Latta, Prestonsburg attorney, is chairman of a reception committee that will meet the Governor and visitors when they arrive.

It was said the tour will include Jenny Wiley State Park. Coming here from Salyersville, the tour group will go on to Pikeville. Towns to be visited the next day are Elkhorn City, Haysi, Va., Breaks Interstate Park, Jenkins, Whitesburg and Hazard, Jackson, Beattyville and Irvine will be visited Thursday.

The State Chamber president, Smith D. Broadbent, Jr., of Cadiz, notes that the tour will include 476 miles in Eastern Kentucky.

Purpose of the tour, Broadbent explains, is to acquaint business and governmental leaders with the area's progress.

STATE BOARD UPHOLDS CLARK'S NOMINATIONS

The State Board of Education last week upheld recommendations and placements of teachers made by County Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark and dismissed the appeal filed by three members of the Floyd County Board of Education.

At the same time, the charge that politics is played in this county by those connected with the schools was confirmed in an official memorandum.

The State Board action upheld Clark's action in nominating D. W. Howard as principal of the Betsy Layne school and Hade Durbin as football coach at Prestonsburg high school. It also affirmed the placement of these teachers: John G. Goble at Betsy Layne high school, James Brooks at the Prater Creek school, Eloise Allen at Martin high school and Olivia T. May, Otha Hopkins, Corinne Aiken and Geraldine Allen at Martin grade school.

The cases of Carmel Lee Akers and Mrs. Wanda McCown were not considered by the State Board. Sam Alexander, assistant state superintendent, in his memorandum to the State Board, pointed out that Akers had written to say that "my situation has been corrected to my satisfaction," and that Superintendent Clark had notified him Mrs. McCown had been transferred from Wheelwright back to Garrett, with the County Board's approval.

The three members of the County Board who filed the appeal had asked that the name of Ulysses S. Collins be added to the list for review by the State Board, but Alexander said in his official memorandum that there was no indication that this request was an official action of the Board in either regular or special session. "Furthermore," wrote Alexander, "these same members, along with John M. Stumbo, voted on the Superintendent's recommendation for placement of Mr. Collins as a teacher in the Wheelwright school at a previous meeting."

The appeal—filed by Chairman Ray Howard, Vice-Chairman John G. Hall and Ross Cooley—alleged the teacher transfers were made for political reasons. D. W. Howard's nomination was appealed on the basis of eight affidavits assailing him on moral grounds, while that of Durbin was under fire because a formal application was not

GROUP TALKS CIVIL DEFENSE

Professional Engineers Name Committee Head To Help with Program

"Nuclear blasts many miles from Kentucky towns and cities could bring disaster if the wind direction is toward us," James L. Knight, Louisville, chairman of the newly created civil defense committee, Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers, said this week. Mr. Knight has been named to coordinate the work of the engineering organization with the civil defense program.

"In an effort to step up public awareness in preparedness, the society and its 1,400 members will be available to local and state civil defense officials for active participation," Allen Daugherty, Fairmount, president, commented in naming Knight. The society is composed of members of all phases of engineering—electrical, chemical, mechanical, civil and highways.

Twelve chapter presidents will work with the organization headed by Mr. Knight. They are: William L. Clark, Ashland; Edward Worland, Prestonsburg; Vaughn P. Drake, Lexington; Guy F. Vansant, Jr., Frankfort; A. E. Hamlet, Corbin; O. W. Edwards, Madisonville; Elmer Y. Hollis, Paducah; J. M. Gray, Hazard; J. B. Creeden, Louisville; O. F. Tate, Bowling Green; Noble Blair, Jr., Elizabethtown, and Robert G. Loomis, Covington.

It is the plan to encourage the creation of both public and private fall-out shelters, to assist in evacuation surveys, and to make engineering technical assistance available to all local civil defense units.

Prater Will Harvest Last Crop

Richard Prater, who will celebrate four score years of age at his next birthday, stands in the corn field he will harvest this year as a last crop.

Richard Prater, 79, of Brainard, who has earned a living on a small Middle Creek farm for 60 years, will harvest his last crop this year.

It is not because of age for he is hale and hearty. The state will need the major part of his land for a highway and when he signs the necessary right-of-way papers, he will relinquish his vocation of over half a century.

Asked if a man ever got too old to farm, Prater said:

"Some do, some don't. I figure I'm good for several years yet but since the state needs most of my

OAK DISEASE STUDY MADE

By District Forester; Aerial Surveys Locates Fewer Tree Infestations

The work on oak wilt disease control has been completed for 1961 in the Eastern district of the Kentucky Division of Forestry, it was announced this week by Leach, district forester.

Work began early in July with the checking of all the old sites to see if there were any new outbreaks at these spots. District personnel found only one spot with an outbreak in the 48 checked.

This was followed by an aerial survey of the district to check for new outbreaks of the disease. Carl Wise, of Prestonsburg, was the pilot on this survey, with district personnel flying as observers to locate the new outbreaks. The aerial survey of Floyd county located 24 new suspected areas.

Following the aerial survey, district personnel visited each of the areas and checked to see if it was oak wilt. Of the 24 spots located by aerial survey, 11 were found to be oak wilt.

After checking the sites, ground crews went to the areas and cut the infected trees and treated them with chemicals to prevent the spread of the disease. While this control work was being completed 19 other infected trees were located and treated in addition to those in the 11 aerial spots.

This was an increase over last year, in the number of spots treated in Floyd county. "Considering the total district, however, we had fewer spots than last year," Leach said.

"It appears that our control work is effective," he added. "We have found no large areas of infection and very seldom any recurrence near the treated trees. It seems that control work was initiated soon enough after discovery of the disease to prevent any widespread danger to our oak forests."

Recommendations Made For Flu Vaccinations; Expect High Incidence

Specific recommendations for vaccination against influenza have been sent all county health departments, Dr. Russell E. Teague, state commissioner of health, said this week. These recommendations were prepared by the Surgeon General's Advisory Committee on Influenza and are now available for Kentucky physicians at their county health departments.

The Advisory committee re-emphasizes that patients in certain disease categories are at much greater risk of death or severe illness from influenza than the remainder of the population. These categories include persons with chronic illness such as rheumatic heart disease, cardiac insufficiency, pulmonary disease, diabetes, and Addison's disease, pregnant women, and all persons over 65 years of age. Specific protection as a routine practice is clearly indicated for these persons, Dr. Teague said.

In years of high incidence of influenza, as this year is expected to be on the basis of its historically cyclic occurrence, vaccination is recommended for persons in medical and health services, public safety, utilities, transportation, education and communications, and for persons from five to 25 years of age in whom influenza is most likely to occur.

It is urged that persons in these groups see their physicians for vaccination soon. It is important that they have protection before the influenza season begins.

CARTER COUNTY BOARD REPLACED BY STATE

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 26 — The State Board of Education voted Wednesday to remove the entire Carter County Board of Education and replace it with a board of its own choosing.

The action had the immediate effect for which it was intended—to pass the controversy on to the courts for a final settlement. Both sides indicated a readiness for prolonged litigations.

Counsel for the Carter board said they would present in Franklin circuit court on Thursday a petition to declare null and void the action of the state board. Such action normally would include request of a court mandate to keep the new board from serving until legal questions are settled.

Heman H. McGuire, superintendent of Carter County schools, said that he will recognize only the board pending the outcome of court procedures.

"I have the keys to the office, and access to the records," he said. "If the state board's new board wants recognition, they will have to go before Carter circuit court to establish such recognition."

Whether the case has its show-down in Franklin circuit court in Frankfort, or in Carter circuit court in Grayson, the result will be carried on to the Kentucky Court of Appeals, McGuire and his counsel said.

The state board's vote for ouster was 5 to 3, with two members not voting, after discussions that indicated an inclination of the majority to delay action pending outcome of a civil suit in Carter circuit court.

An ouster order prepared by Attorney General John B. Breckinridge accused the Carter board of "mismanagement, misconduct, violation of law or wrongful or improper use of district or state school funds, and neglect in the performance of duties."

All charges stemmed from a state audit, reported December 12, 1960, alleging a series of acts dealing largely with misuse of school funds by McGuire.

Covered in the ouster order were four established members and two whose status was in doubt. It covered both Joyce Edwin Gearheart, who has resigned, and Miss Nell James, named this week to succeed him.

The established members named were Dr. W. L. Gearheart, chairman; J. H. McGlone, Mrs. Curtis Click, and Estill Caudill.

Named to the new board were Ralph W. Calhoun, Hitchens; Charles R. Hatchett, Grayson; George Dewey Ison, Soldier; Willard R. Boggs, Olive Hill, and Bradley Kiser, Olive Hill, Route 2.

State Superintendent Wendell P. Butler said the five were nominated by a certain source, which he declined to identify. McGuire said later the five were hand-picked by a citizens committee which has spearheaded opposition to his administration.

He said that among the five, Calhoun and Ison have lost recent school-board races against candidates supported by himself, and that the father of Boggs lost to a McGuire candidate.

Mrs. Françoise Armstrong, state board member from Henderson, was first to question the advisability of taking action immediately on the basis of recommendations of James W. Stites, Louisville, a special commissioner assigned to the Carter situation by the board.

She said there was a doubt in her mind that Stites had been given adequate time to fully consider a question so serious, especially from the viewpoint that he had heard no arguments from the defense.

She also said she wondered if the Carter board's answer to the state board's order to show cause why it should not be removed provided grounds for delaying action pending settlement of the civil suit.

McGuire, the Carter board and others have been sued for $100,000 in allegedly mispent the Carter County Citizens League for Good Government, has attempted to prove that money has been spent for buses, construction, and other items which were not delivered.

Roscoe Miller, London, said he agreed with Mrs. Armstrong concerning the Stites report, and that he wished Stites had made himself available for consultation on Wednesday's proposals.

George Hart, Murray, said he believed Stites gave adequate grounds for his recommendations, notwithstanding his time limitations.

Henry Pogue, Jr., Fort Thomas, said he was disappointed in the Carter board's response.

William Justice, Pikeville, said there was a question in his mind whether ouster action will be upheld by the courts in view of the consideration that the defendants have not been heard.

Board member Keen Johnson, Louisville, agreed. Breckinridge termed a series of resignations from the Carter board and replacements with hand-picked McGuire backers an "obvious attempt to frustrate the processes of education."

"They have turned your processes into mockery, made of them a laughingstock," he said.

Under Kentucky law, board members who resign are replaced by the vote of remaining board members. The Carter board has been able by this process to have a membership that includes men or women who have not been identified with disputed actions of McGuire.

J. E. Gearheart's resignation and replacement by Miss James seemed to fit into such maneuvering, Breckinridge stated. If the state board has excluded Miss James, as a new member, from the ouster order, then she could have chosen four members to replace those ousted.

Butler said he had conferred with Stites on the matter of Miss James' status and was advised that she could be ousted with the others even though she was not involved in subjects of dispute.

He said he posed this question to Stites: "If a new member has been appointed to the Carter county board since the state board's order was issued, can the state board legally remove this new member along with the old members?"

Stites' answer was "Yes" Butler said, because the action of the state board is for removing the whole board, as a board and not as individuals.

Johnson moved for a vote on the order during a pause in the arguments. He was seconded by Miller.

Those two, with Justice, Hart and Butler, voted for adoption of the order. Mrs. Armstrong and Pogue passed in the voting.

Pogue voted a resolution which would have directed Butler to seek to determine from McGuire his defense of the charges leveled at his office, with a view of recalling his certificate if he was unable to give good explanations.

CRAFT SHOW, FOLK FESTIVAL PRESENTED HERE, SATURDAY; EARLY FOLK TUNES ARE SUNG

The slow rhythmic beat of an Indian drum, the melancholy tones of "Little Mohee" and the lilt of childish voices as little girls danced to the tune of "Bow, Belinda," featured the annual art and crafts show and folk festival at The Garfield Place, Saturday.

Colorful exhibits of rugs, coverlets, quilts, souvenirs and art drawings elicited keen interest from the approximately 100 who attended. The first presentation was made several years ago and is now known as the Jenny Wiley Folk Center. The arts and crafts division was directed by Mrs. Winnie F. Johns and the folk festival part was under the sponsorship of Mrs. Edith F. James.

Paul Hadley, formerly with Churchill Weavers, of Berea, but now with the Kentucky Department of Economic Development, lauded the purposes of the show and festival and noted Gov. Bert T. Combs' interest. He urged people to buy souvenirs and craft items that were not made in Japan.

"We sincerely hope you will always find something, if not made in Kentucky, at least it was made in the United States," he said.

The Jenny Wiley Chanters, a folk song group organized last year, sang several tunes brought into the mountain region by the pioneer settlers.

Among songs offered by the Chanters were "Beautiful Home," and "Grave on the Green Hillside." Mrs. James sang "There'll Be No Sorrow There." The audience joined in the chorus of "You've Got To Walk That Lonesome Valley."

The Chanters, following the presentation of folk tunes, changed from the traditional pioneer costumes to clothes of the Civil War period and sang several popular tunes of those days, among which were "Tenting Tonight On the Old Camp Ground," and "Yellow Rose of Texas." Lolita Campbell sang and played on the auto harp her original composition of "Mourning Song."

The Girl Scouts, directed by Elizabeth Lynn Frazier, presented two folk dances, "Bow, Belinda," and "Paw-Paw Patch," and the Boy Scouts of Prestonsburg and West Van Lear featured the event with three Indian dances.

Among the arts and crafts exhibits was a quilt with approximately 100 names embroidered in by the First Methodist church here in 1902 and a quilt owned by a Richmond family descendant that was stolen by a Union soldier but returned to its owner by Col. James A. Garfield during the Civil War.

Among those in attendance besides Hadley who are interested in the statewide program to promote arts and crafts were Nell Storer, Storer Galleries, Central City, Ky., Susan Black, Department of Economic Development, Frankfort, Jo Pack, Carl Saunders and Gall Rowland, all of Paintsville, and Mrs. Charles Black, Frankfort.

TO EVERY VOTER WHO BELIEVES IN TRUTH

I would like to take this opportunity to tell the voters of Floyd county the truth.

In reply to my opponent's last article in The Times, I made an examination of the court records for the four years he was your Sheriff. During the four years that my opponent was Sheriff there were FIFTY-TWO convictions in my court for the offense of DRUNK DRIVING. Six offenses were tried by a jury and found not guilty and another four offenses were dismissed on recommendation of my opponent's Deputy Sheriffs.

It is interesting to note that my opponent states that he arrested "drunk drivers" by the dozens. I am taking this opportunity to challenge my opponent to list each and every "drunk driver" that he arrested during the four years he was your Sheriff. I am unable to find a single arrest in the court records made by my OPPONENT.

My opponent speaks of indictments against himself, but he fails to tell you the nature and type of the indictments. I think my opponent should tell you what he was indicted for. Everyone knows that all indictments are voted on by the Grand Jury. Is it true that my opponent accuses the good people who serve on our juries of being dishonest?

I have served twelve years as your County Judge and I have made every effort to make the people of this county a good County Judge. My office has always been open to the public six days out of every week, and I have never refused to discuss any problem which any taxpayer is concerned about.

When I took office as County Judge, Floyd county had a large amount of "BONDED INDEBTEDNESS"—approximately one half million dollars—and I am proud to state that all of this "BONDED INDEBTEDNESS" has been paid.

I tell you again, straightforward and unafraid, that my record for "Good Government" can never be challenged by the record of my opponent.

Tidbits Of Kentucky Folklore

ANACHRONISMS

One of my teachers a long time ago wrote his doctor's thesis on the anachronisms found in Vergil's AENEID. An anachronism is a reference to something that would have been out of time or place at the time of a story or historical period. Writers who seek to give flavor often scramble their local references so badly that readers of any sort of intelligence fail to see the value of the story because of the inaccurate references.

Since all of us are accustomed to things as they now are, suppose we write a story about George Washington, trying to make it full of flavor. We have his chauffeur drive up to the White House, where the electric lights are shining brightly; the President is signing some historic document with his fountain pen. Then he gets into his car and drives down or up or whatever it is to the Capitol building and addresses a large group of sight-seers or tourists over a loud-speaker. Of course, even a dumb-bell could tell how phony this is and would know or ought to know that the White House and cars and the Capitol and fountain pens and loud-speakers were just not around when Washington was President. But in less obvious ways it often seems that writers are no less dumb than such a one would be. Some years ago a beautiful biography of Audubon the naturalist-artist was brought out by a really great publishing company. The author, quite a naturalist in her own name, had enough anachronisms in her book to make material for another doctor's thesis. Here is one of her purely imaginary flights; She had Audubon rowing a boat with great difficulty through the beds of water hyacinths in some bayou in Louisiana, in the 1830's; it would have been easy to check publications as to the importation of this beautiful but pesky water plant. It was considerably more than fifty years after her imagined trip of Audubon's until he might have met such matted water plants; meanwhile he had been dead for more than thirty years. Maybe she should have had him driving his Cadillac along the Huey Long Bridge across the Mississippi.

Summer plays are becoming a dime a dozen and are, in general, rather true to history. But, to spice up dry history a bit, it has been easy to slip in anecdotes and episodes that could not possibly have been true to the time indicated. Any play about early events just must have Indians. And play Indians have a way of looking and acting very much alike and rather unlike any historical Indians. Frontiersmen in plays are picturesque and good stage features, but I would not like to sit next to Daniel Boone at any of the plays I have seen and hear his comments. This line of thinking always reminds me of the peasant our college put on once, a long time ago. It was largely self-directed and was enthusiastically received. Since we were poor and could not afford to rent authentic costumes, we made or supervised the making of such costumes as never were on sea or land. Enough cotton batting was used up for wigs to form the filling for lots of quilts. The brilliant colors of the knee pants of the great early Founding Fathers would have made Cotton Mather and even Ben Franklin turn over in their graves. But "a good time was had by all," and those of us who participated in the show probably remembered it even better than the more elaborate one that was put on with more money available for costumes some years later. Now, that second show was a real one, sure enough. Actual dresses and suits were brought out of the mothballs, actual copies of others appeared, and even the most persnickety observer could not have found fault with them. Between the two shows, in which some of the same people participated, a sense of truthness to history had developed. It was not enough to have George Washington dressed up queerly; he must look as nearly like the accounts as possible. But I often find myself thinking of the first George, in his folksy outfit, which may or may not have resembled Revolutionary War costumes.

THE LOVE HE BORE TO LEARNING

Some weeks back I took a pot-shot at some of the sacred cows of old Fidelity and tried to show how some of the people we kowtowed to were pretty sorry stuff. But I must not leave the impression that all our neighborhood was hostile to learning. We had been taken in many times, but we still were looking for the people who knew more than we did and who could help us to know a lot. Not a single teacher whom I had at Fidelity time of them, all told, had had the equivalent of a year of high school, but among the whole group there was a respect for knowledge that would be commendable in anybody, anywhere. Goldsmith's schoolmaster in "The Deserted Village," probably not any better prepared than were my teachers, has been immortalized by the epithet "the love he bore to learning." Our little Fidelity, not at all satisfied with itself, was always seeking someone who could, like Goldsmith's parson in the same poem, "allure to brighter worlds and lead the way."

My best friend, who grew up a few years after me on another ridge of Calloway county but never knew me until he enrolled in one of my classes in 1916, has often said that his country teachers were, for their time and place, exceptional. Since I was some years older than he, I knew most of his teachers and would heartily agree with him. What they lacked in formal education they made up for in constantly reading and conversing. Like the few books that we owned then, these better-than-average men and women were constantly being asked questions that involved consulting histories, arithmetics, histories of literature, geographies. If a mere eighteen-year-old was our teacher, he was supposed to know a lot; usually he did; if he didn't he asked older teachers and nearly always came up with an answer. Only occasionally did it embarrass a teacher to admit that he did not know. In many homes the textbooks constituted nearly all the reading material; some of those books got a workout in the long winter evenings when time seemed to drag. Playing school was often as serious as the real article, for we studied and acted big and got spanked just as at Fidelity but we also got drills on important things and unconsciously learned some things that would today stump some of the best graduates of modern high schools. Grades in school just did not exist; if you could read a big book, you did so; if you wanted to, of course; it was not classified as above your grade level. Sometimes, I must say, we tried to wade into some very deep water, but some of those attempts for a few of us meant everything. Imagine finding a boy of today with a copy of Thoreau's WALDEN in his pocket going into the deep woods to read it in the proper setting!

Our soil at Fidelity was too poor to support, as farming was then practiced, as large a population as it had. A very large number of my contemporaries left Fidelity to become merchants and other business men in Texas, to study law or medicine or theology, or, and that included the largest group, to teach school on some level.

TURNPIKE WORK GOES ON, DAY AND NIGHT

CUT AND FILL is the order of the day on the Eastern Kentucky Turnpike as these heavy construction machines, part of 350 such pieces at work on that project, have moved some 4 million cubic yards of dirt. More than 13 million cubic yards will have been moved when construction is completed December 1, 1962.

Winchester, Ky., Sept. 18 (Spl.)— Floodlights along the construction right-of-way of the Eastern Kentucky Turnpike illuminate the hustle and bustle of construction crews, as some 550 men using about 350 pieces of equipment shove millions of cubic yards of earth and rock for the new four-lane superhighway from Winchester to Campton.

Five contractors are working simultaneously. All nine sections of the road are under construction. The first contract was let February 3, 1961 and construction started February 25. The road is scheduled to be open for traffic in November, 1962.

Said Gov. Bert Combs, "It is a source of satisfaction to all of us that the work on the Eastern Kentucky Turnpike is proceeding according to schedule—in fact, as I'm told, ahead of schedule. I understand this is the biggest project of its kind in the history of Kentucky, and I invite everybody interested to go and take a look. The construction is a very interesting thing for all Kentuckians to see."

Three of the nine contracts let on the turnpike include paving, something unique in Kentucky's method of contract-lettings. This method enables the contractor to completely finish one phase in good weather so that winter months may be used in blasting and removing rock.

Other contractors are busy with bridges. At some points along the route engineers must reroute creeks and existing roads to make way for the new toll structure.

The Turnpike will connect at its eastern end with a feeder route to Pikeville via Prestonsburg, and another extends to Whitesburg. It will connect with Interstate 64 near Whitesburg.

FRANCIS ASKS TRAINING AID

For Unemployed Workers, High School Students; Speaks In Pennsylvania

David L. Francis, West Virginia industrialist, Friday advocated reorganization of our educational system as a solution to the nation's unemployment problem in an address at Wernersville, Pennsylvania.

Mr. Francis, president of Princess Coals, Inc., and former mayor of Huntington, urged immediate installation of vocational and technical training facilities both for high school students and unemployed workers in order to keep the work force abreast with modern day technological advances.

In a speech prepared for the twenty-second annual convention of the International Association of Personnel in Employment Security, he cited today's high percentage of school drop-outs as a certain indication of a continuing unemployment problem. Seventy-five per cent of our unemployed are persons who have not finished high school, Mr. Francis said, and here lies the crux of the problem. He cited one state as an example in which sixty per cent of the students withdrew at some point before finishing high school.

As a broad approach to minimizing unemployment through improved education, Francis suggested a three-point program:

First, high school curricula and facilities should be revised to better prepare graduates for gainful employment in an increasingly complex industrial society. This would include improving the curriculum to minimize drop-outs, as well as going beyond the traditional liberal arts subjects to give in-depth training in the vocational and technical fields.

Second, he urged a massive retraining program for those who have been placed on the unemployment rolls by automation. Citing the increasing trend from blue collar to white collar jobs in American industry, Mr. Francis stated that the non-high school graduate was ill equipped to compete in this labor market. He pointed out that a high percentage of this group is in its prime physically and mentally and therefore capable of rehabilitation through retraining. The expanded vocational training facilities envisioned for high schools could provide the means for such retraining during non-school hours.

Third, Francis said, our relative lack of post-high school technical training schools represents a distinct void in our educational system. Many students finish high school today with little hope of attending college. This group generally possesses a broad educational base in the liberal arts but little or no technical training. Technical schools with one or two-year courses in the various technical fields would bridge this void.

Mr. Francis concluded that unemployment is a problem which is national in scope. Its solution must involve all levels of government—local, state and national. He called upon all leaders, educational and governmental, to coordinate their efforts toward its permanent solution through education.

Grand and Glorious Fourth by getting up a head of steam and flashing around town in a Tin Lizzy at the appalling speed of 15 miles an hour. If those old boys could see some of these present-day capers, they probably would demand a steamboat whistle instead of a bell for a "signal."

NATURALLY
If you've heard this one, don't top me—stop reading it.
It has to do with the carpenter job which found the crew nailing on weatherboarding. The boss became intrigued by the antics of one of his men. The latter would drive a nail, look at the next and toss it away, drive another, toss another away.

"Why are you throwing those nails away?" he wanted to know.

"Because the heads are on the wrong end."

"Don't do that, man!" roared the boss. "Save them nails—they're for the other side of the house!"

RIFRATS, KEEP OUT!
At hand is a clipping handed me by "Dommer" Goodman who reads Allan Trout and his "GREETINGS" not occasionally but every day. It has to do with an inquiry from a fisherman who, on approaching a likely looking pond, found this sign:

NO RIFRATS ALLOWED FISHING HERE

Trout's correspondent wanted to know if he had ever been in contact with a rifrat and, if so, how a body went about knowing if he is one.

Well, the sagacious Trout didn't describe a rifrat well enough for his reader to determine if he was one; instead, recounted two or three stories to take the guy's mind off his troubles. One of these concerned the oldtimer from Mayfield who told of seeing a b'ar in a swamp near town. One day a critic said to him: "You mean bear, don't you?"

"No," replied the oldtimer, "I mean b'ar. A bear is somethin' without any ha'r on it."

Pikeville Couple Tax Refund

Pikeville, Ky., Sept. 22—Backwater from 1957's record Eastern Kentucky flood seeped into United States District Court in a tax case here Thursday.

In the case, a jury awarded Dr. and Mrs. T. I. Doty, Pikeville, an additional loss deduction for income-tax purposes of $3,548. The Internal Revenue Service will compute the tax refund to be paid to the Dotys.

The Dotys had been allowed a total deduction of $8,952 for flood damage to their home and personal property by I. R. S. in computing their U. S. income taxes for 1957.

They paid the tax due on that basis. Then they filed suit to recover the alleged overpayment of taxes.

Breaks Park Features Map, Art

The 76-piece collection, which has just completed a summer tour of seven Kentucky state parks, will be on display at the park's new Museum and Visitor Center each Saturday and Sunday until the end of October.

Set up on September 17, the exhibit initiated the opening of the Break's modern new building to the public. It is expected to be one of the colorful features of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Governor's Tour, scheduled to visit the park on October 4.

The exhibit is the first of its kind in the state and has been well-received at all showings.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE

United States Air Force Academy, Colo.—Major Walter H. McNeil, of Pikeville, recently attended the third annual Academy Liaison Officers Training conference, An Air Force Reserve Officer, his job as a liaison officer is to counsel young men in his community regarding opportunities at the Academy and how to apply for admission.

Defendants also are enjoined from assembling in groups on roads and public ways in front of plaintiffs' premises, from making threats or a show of force against plaintiffs, their offices, employees and persons doing business with them. They are also temporarily restrained from stopping, following or otherwise attempting to intimidate persons coming to and from plaintiffs' places of business.

The petition asking this order alleged that the defendants, beginning on September 18 and continuing into September 20, were accompanied by a "great mass of persons totaling or exceeding 150," and entered upon the premises of plaintiffs, congregated in large groups on public roads leading to these premises, and intimidated and threatened employees with violence, destruction of property and physical harm. Because of this, it was alleged, employees were caused to leave property of the plaintiffs, "completely stopping the normal operation of the business of plaintiffs."

Supporting the petition for an injunction were affidavits of George E. Barnett, Bert Hall, Fred O'Bryan, Jr., Preston Collins and Namon Sammons. Barnett stated his truck driver, Bill Click, left his truck after having been accosted by some of the defendants at the Salisbury tipple of the Floyd County Coal Corporation and that he, Barnett, then drove the truck, delivering seven or eight truckloads of coal to the tipple without incident. Early in the afternoon of September 18, however, he stated, when he pulled up at the Rex tipple at Salisbury he found a large crowd there and was accosted and told by a spokesman for those about him that they were "tired of a cornbread living."

The Rex tipple was closed, he added. The following day, Barnett continued, work at his mines at Printer was stopped by pickets. He quoted his employees as saying a large "band" of pickets from local unions at David had threatened them.

Ivle Moore, owner of the Moore Standard Coal Co., in his statement identified a field worker of the United Mine Workers at the Guaranty tipple which his company leases. He said the man was known as Joe Castle. Moore added that Castle did not voice any threats but said, in answer to Moore's inquiry, that he had been sent there by the district office "to go along with the men."

Impact of the work-stoppage is hinted at by the estimate that the Turner Elkhorn Coal Company alone lost 40,000 tons of production and that a payroll of around $100,000 also was lost to workers.

"There's no dispute," said E. F. Reed, of Drift, this week, "except the rail mine unions are trying to stop the truck mines from operating."

AREA GROUP IS ORGANIZED TO SEEK REDEVELOPMENT

The Big Sandy Area Program was formally organized at a meeting of civic leaders from five counties held last Wednesday at the Paintsville Country Club as a prelude to seeking benefits for the area via the federal Area Redevelopment Act.

County contact representatives were named at the Paintsville meeting, and these representatives will submit plans for their respective counties at a meeting scheduled October 27. In turn, these county plans will be developed by John Whisman, director of the new Area Program Office for Kentucky, into an overall plan to be submitted to the federal Area Redevelopment Office in Washington. Out of this, it is expected, will come local redevelopment projects for the counties involved.

"We are first and most with what we're doing," Whisman told the delegates from the five counties attending the Paintsville meeting. He has been strongly impressed by the groundwork done in Floyd county through Community Development Council meetings held for the past several months here and through the Council's contacts with county leaders.

Although Mr. Whisman admitted that the federal Area Redevelopment Act is not as comprehensive as it might be as pertaining to an area such as Eastern Kentucky, he expressed the hope that future sessions of Congress will revise the measure to make it more applicable to the needs of this and similar sections.

County contact representatives named at the meeting are: Clifford B. Latta, Floyd county; Judge Irvin Pruitt, Pike county; O. T. Dorton, Johnson county; County Agent Glenn Ball, Martin county (temporarily); Howard Queen, Lawrence county.

With Mr. Whisman at the meeting were Col. Stanley Hays, native Floyd countian, now retired from active Army service and attached to the Kentucky Area Redevelopment Office as federal coordinator, and Col. Paul Cullen.

Floyd county's delegation numbering 19 was the largest of any county attending the meeting. Those from this county attending were Mayor Haskell Frye, Sr., W. G. Goff, the Rev. A. L. Osborne and Postmaster Denzil Stumbo, all of Martin; Clive Akers, Drift; County Superintendent Charles Clark, Garrett; and from Prestonsburg, H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., County Judge Henry Stumbo, Paul Martin, Mayor Edward B. Leslie, County Agent Robert Jones, Assistant County Agent Jack Friar, Home Demonstration Agent Frances Pitts, Don Graves, Clifford B. Latta, Assistant Schools Superintendent Wayne Ratliff, Mrs. Burl Spurlock, Mrs. R. V. May, the Rev. Orin M. Simmerman.

Now here—a great new exclusive from Buick

ADVANCED THRUST

Moves power forward for arrow-straight going

It puts the engine ahead like the tip of an arrow • It tames "wind wander" and road sway • It sweeps you forward in a hush of luxury • It turns the floor hump into foot space.

WHAT IT IS—Buick's big new move: It positions the great new Wildcat V-8 and Turbine Drive way up front over Buick's front wheels.

WHAT IT DOES—As the engine went forward, the floor hump went DOWN. And, the forward weight makes wheel response far quicker, cornering far surer, ride far smoother.

WHY YOU'LL LOVE IT—It's the closest you can come to sports car handling in a passenger car. Distances shrink before its 3/4-G thrust. Hills disappear. Lean on curves is gone because the frame's gone wider. Winds don't make you wander. It's going at its Buick best!

Ponder This Statement Well

Read it again, that statement of Sam Alexander, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, which appears in a Page One news-story this week. Lest you miss it, we reprint it here:

"I think the charge of politics is correct—both partisan and factional. Furthermore, the record will show that this is not a new thing in the schools of Floyd county. (But who is to say that it is right for the Board of Education and teachers to actively engage in politics and for the Superintendent to remain free of this influence?) However, it is not illegal for board members or school personnel to actively engage in partisan or factional politics, regardless of how much the school program suffers."

This, of course, is not news; nobody in Floyd county has been so naïve that he or she ever entertained any other idea. But, in its context, one sentence of Mr. Alexander's brings us up short. Read it again:

"However, it is not illegal for board members or school personnel to actively engage in partisan or factional politics, regardless of how much the school program suffers."

Write those words in your memory, in capital letters or blackface type. Then ask yourself: If it isn't illegal for those who are sworn to do their whole duty and for those who are paid to teach children, build character and nurture young minds and hearts—if it isn't against the law for them to play the dirty pool that is politics as we know it, even if their actions destroy the schools, isn't it about time the law should be changed?

Oh, they may scream that the constitutional rights of citizens of the Republic are being violated if they are not permitted the right of free citizens to engage in the great American game of politics—but what of the right of young American citizens to honest, unselfish service from their elders who are presumably dedicated to their service? The schools need the strongest sort of a version of the Hatch Act; and, if necessary, board members as well as the superintendent and all school personnel should be put on salary to bring them within the authority of such a law.

The Times hopes that the 1962 session of the General Assembly will take a long, hard look at the whole educational system. And then act.

It hopes for, among other things, a change in the law governing election of board members to the end that all members of a board of education from each county will be elected by countywide vote at one election every four years. Let this law provide that, after the contracts of present superintendents expire, terms of superintendents and of boards of education shall expire simultaneously.

Four years is often enough for the hurlyburly of these "unpolitical" board races. Majority rule is seldom, if ever, achieved by election of a part of the board at one election, then returning to the polls two years later to select others. Moreover, there is a strong possibility that political dynasties such as have so prominently figured in the news recently are made possible by such a system which is subject to political maneuvering and manipulation.

The educational system is on trial, now that the schools have far greater financial support than at any other time in Kentucky history. Educators should join legislators and common citizens in seeking remedies for the ills that beset the system. For ills it does have, and they will not become less serious until somebody swallows a bitter dose.

SAMUEL CLARK

Comes an inquiry from Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Dorton, of Paintsville, relative to the Clark family. Mrs. Dorton particularly wants evidence of whether or not Susan Clark, wife of Robert (Big Bob) Mead, was a daughter of Samuel Clark, Revolutionary soldier of Augusta and Botetourt counties, Virginia.

Records show that Samuel applied for a pension for his Revolutionary War services, January 1, 1834. He had a land grant on Johns Creek, issued in 1835. It is said that he executed a will in Floyd county but it has not been found.

Big Bob Mead, born 1796, Bedford county, Virginia, died in Johnson county, Ky., in 1869. His wife, Susan Clark Mead, born July 6, 1823, survived until 1895. They had 14 sons and daughters, according to MEAD RELATIONS, by A. M. Frichard. They were Samuel, Robert, Jr., John F., Rhodes, Joseph, James K. P., Richard, Elizabeth Ann, Polly, Susan and Leahash.

Mitchell Hall, in his HISTORY OF JOHNSON COUNTY, says Susan Clark Mead was a daughter of Samuel Clark. However, Mrs. Mary Irene McIntosh, of Prestonsburg, an authority on the Clark family, says there were various branches of the Clark family that came to Eastern Kentucky and there were several Samuels.

Big Bob Mead was a son of Samuel Mead and Katy Goodbeard Mead, of Bedford county, Virginia. They moved to early Floyd county, Ky., about 1794, according to the Frichard book. However, most researchers think this date is too early. Most family historians agree that they came in 1801.

They reared nine children, one of them being Robert, affectionately called Big Bob by his friends.

MAY AND WITTEN GRANT

Would you have thought that there were 92,021 acres of vacant land in Floyd county in 1872? Whether there was or not, William H. May and Greenville M. Witten secured a land grant from the Commonwealth of Kentucky for that number of acres. Gov. Preston I. Leslie issued the grant to May and Witten on 335 Floyd County Court orders. It is dated December 11, 1872. Date of the survey is July 19, 1872.

The huge grant calls begin "... on the water of Beaver Creek and is bounded as follows: Beginning on a beech and hickory in the gap of the ridge at the head of Dotey on the dividing ridge between Right and Left Beaver, thence ..."

The exterior lines mentions a corner with a Webb and Kendrick survey, Turkey Creek, "down Stone Cole" and the mouth of Rock Fork. Many other valleys in the Left and Right Beaver sections are also mentioned.

At the end of the grant is this statement: "There is in the survey 25,021 acres which is excluded by prior grants."

What happened to this grant is not clear from the records. These old grants usually failed to stand up under the impact of prior grants and settler harassment.

MAY AND MARTIN GRANT

Another large grant of land of interest to Eastern Kentucky was made by Gov. Leslie, June 10, 1873, to W. J. May and Alex L. Martin. It embraced 35,250 acres in Magoffin county. It was surveyed for the patentees, January 13, 1873. The patent was issued on the basis of 35 Magoffin County Court orders.

The grant lines or calls begin: "Beginning on four small pines on top of the ridge at the head of Pack Creek of Licking River and Harris Fork of Quicksand on the county line of Magoffin and Breathitt, correct to a survey made in the name of Hargis & Spencer, also corner to a survey made for Samuel Carpenter of the above named date, thence ..."

The survey mentions the mouth of Back Creek, George Allen's survey on Long Creek, survey of W. W. Jones, head of Samuel Howard's Branch, head of Open Fork of Middle Creek, survey of William Hicks, John Shepherd survey, Grassy Gap at head of Raccoon Fork of Salt Lick of Right Beaver Creek, head of Licking on the county line of Magoffin, Floyd and Breathitt counties," down the level between the waters of Quicksand and Licking running the level," Trace Fork, head of Aller's Branch of Trace Fork of Licking, head of Right Hand Fork of the Hawes Fork of Quicksand, etcetera.

This patent also notes an exception: "There is in this survey 16,250 acres of land in the name of various persons, all of which is excluded."

HOOVER FAMILY

A letter from Miss Brenda Hoover, Route 1, Mount Olivet, Ky., asks information on the Hoover family.

She asks for information on Levi Hoover, son of the late George Hoover and Nan Lawson, now a resident of Robertson county; Mrs. Elizabeth Hoover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hicks; Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Hoover, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Hoover, of Floyd county; Mrs. Rachel Wicker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wicker. These are or were all residents of Garrett.

Miss Hoover is a junior in Deming high school in Robertson county and has a theme to write. Would some of the readers help?

Ky. Steps Forward
Secretary Says

(Frankfort, Sept. 25—Spl.) "I believe the people of Kentucky have taken a forward step in calling together leaders in all phases of conservation to bring about a united front in an effort to preserve and wisely use our natural resources," Stewart Udall, secretary of interior, told Minor Clak, commissioner of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, in accepting an invitation to address the first annual Conservation Congress to be held in Louisville on Sept. 28 and 29.

The secretary will speak at a banquet at the Kentucky Hotel on Thursday night, Sept. 28, and also at a session on fish and wildlife on Friday morning, Sept. 29. Udall pointed out in his conversation with Clak that he knows of no other state that has approached the conservation problem as has Kentucky through its conservation Congress.

The two-day Congress will convene at the Kentucky hotel on Thursday morning, Sept. 28 and will continue through the day, with a banquet Thursday night and another session on the following Friday morning.

and that he had acted for the benefit of the school children.

Commenting on the matter of politics, Mr. Alexander noted in his memorandum relating to the Floyd county case: "I think the charge of politics is correct—both partisan and factional. Furthermore, the record will show that this is not a new thing in the schools of Floyd county. (But who is to say that it is right for the Board of Education and teachers to actively engage in politics and for the Superintendent to remain free of this influence?) However, it is not illegal for Board members or school personnel to actively participate in partisan or factional politics, regardless of how much the school system suffers."

Turning to the legality of the appeal made by the three Board members, Alexander wrote:

"The courts have consistently held that a board of education must have legal reasons for rejecting the recommendations of the superintendent in the employment and placement of school personnel. It would appear that the only case wherein the Board has attempted to inject legal charges is in the case of D. W. Howard. However, the record shows that Mr. Howard has been principal of the Betsy Layne school since 1936, and there are as many affidavits attesting to his high moral standards as there are to the contrary."

Alexander pointed out that all other charges, except in the case of Coach Durbin, are related to political reprisal. Of the Durbin case he said, "It appears that the only objection is the fact that the Board did not see an application from Mr. Durbin. There is no case on record where the courts have held that a Board of Education should see a written application by the prospective teacher. Furthermore, the courts have ruled that a verbal recommendation is sufficient."

Superintendent Clark pointed out to the State Board that the Durbin application had been on file at the Board of Education office but had been taken and was not available when called for by Chairman Howard.

COLLEGE NEED STUDY READY FOR GOVERNOR

Whatever the findings of the Governor's Commission on Higher Education are, they will be reported to the public later by Governor Combs and not by the commission itself or by any of its members.

The commission completed its study, September 17, and will incorporate its findings in a report to be submitted to the Governor. This report will be considered by Gov. Combs in formulating his recommendations to the 1962 session of the General Assembly.

Otis C. Amis, of Lexington, is chairman of the commission. Other members are R. V. May, Prestonsburg; Cloyd McDowell, Harlan; W. R. Patterson, Louisville, and Maxon Price, of Barlow.

The commission was created under Senate Bill 102 to study "the need for and placement of additional universities, colleges, junior colleges and off-campus centers which might best serve the Commonwealth, the types of programs they should encompass, and the organizational pattern which would best insure their continuing contribution to the Commonwealth and the particular area served."

On this study rests much of the hope of Floyd county for a college.

The commission has been working in cooperation with the Legislative Research Commission since its appointment in January to accumulate data for its study on the problems relating to higher education in the state. During the final week's conference, the commission consulted with five educational leaders from various agencies outside Kentucky. On Thursday the commission considered the opinions of the presidents of Kentucky state institutions of higher learning on the subjects of the coordination of public higher education, the correlation of academic and professional training of teachers, and criteria for the establishment of new institutions of higher learning. Previous conferences have been held with both public and private college presidents and personnel.

Butler said he was standing fast on his refusal to recommend decertification and that Pogue was out of order. He said the board had no business to tell him what to do in regard to decertification.

The superintendent's recommendation is necessary before the board can vote on recalling a teacher's certificate. Butler has argued that decertification might be too drastic.

Before the vote was taken, Ora Duvall, attorney for the Carter county board, in response to questions, suggested that there was nothing to gain by replacing the Carter board.

He said the new board would be required to bring specific charges against McGuire before it could remove him and then would have to give him a hearing.

That hearing, he said, would involve taking testimony now being taken in the civil suit and weighing all angles.

MORGAN POP-OUT SAMPLES ASSAYED BY UNIVERSITY

(Licking Valley Courier, In an attempt to learn more about the "Pop-Outs" which occurred in the Sandlick vicinity during the recent flash floods, samples of rock from the pits were sent to the University of Kentucky to be analyzed by a geologist.

The assay by the assistant state geologist, Preston McCrain, reveals little that would tell what the "Pop-Outs" are or why they happened.

The "Pop-Outs" phenomena of the flood was first observed by Jimmy Jones of Lower Sandlick, a senior this year at Morgan County High School and member of the Future Farmers of America organization.

Young Jones watched the storm from his window and from a porch after getting home from West Liberty about 3:30 a.m. Sunday morning, July 30. He had to retrace from the Elkfork route because of a washed-out bridge at Lenox and go by way of Salyersville and Barnetts Creek back to Relief and up Smith Creek, down Burkes Fork and up Coffey Creek—to get to his home on the head of Lower Sandlick. It was while he went to the tool house which he thought might wash away, to bring in a prized saddle, that he noticed the first pop-out on the hillside pasture of his father's farm, the high school senior explained.

"I saw eight or ten of them pop out around the hill. It all happened during about 1½ hours of the two-hour deluge," he said.

"Dirt and rocks just jumped hillside on one side of the branch I could see them pop out of the hillside on one side of the branch and then on the strip of woods they popped out too. One of them popped out and the dirt and rocks went over a bush about 15 feet high and landed across the branch. And in the woods sometimes bushes, even little trees, would pop out too, as well as dirt and rocks."

They are (as young Jones and many others described them) holes nearly big enough to put a small car in—holes that were not caused by slides, for the lower side is straight up, and the displaced earth and rocks are down below. Some pop-outs look as if the earth has been blown into the air far enough to land several feet away from the side of the hole left in the hillside.

About three weeks ago Jones brought rock samples from the pop-outs to The Courier office. The samples were sent to UK's geology department, and Preston McCrain, assistant state geologist, gave the following report:

"The rocks are the usual assemblage that one expects to encounter in the coal field area of Eastern Kentucky. They were the usual sandstones, siltstones, and shales. Also present were a couple samples of an impure, very low grade iron ore, probably limonite. (It is too low grade to be considered a commercial ore.) While it is classed as a low grade iron mineral, it is not clear what relationship, if any, it would have to the "pop-outs." Limonite is not a metallic-type ore and is not magnetic as are some iron minerals.

"We appreciate the fact that you called this occurrence to our attention. If the opportunity presents itself in the near future we will try to visit the locality."

Meanwhile, the puzzle of the "Pop-Outs" in the Sandlick hills during the storm of the July 29-30 flash floods remain a mystery.

Burner Named Supervisor Of Firm's Sandy Plant Under Construction

Carl B. Burner, Cabin Creek (W. Va.) plant personnel supervisor with the Appalachian Power Company, has been appointed personnel supervisor for Kentucky Power Company's Big Sandy Plant. The companies are two of six electric utilities in the American Electric Power System.

Announcement of the appointment was made by Ronald Marshall, Big Sandy Plant manager. The $39-million power plant, under construction near Louisa since August, 1960, is slated for completion in the fall of next year.

Mr. Burner joined Appalachian in August, 1951, as personnel assistant at the Cabin Creek plant near Charleston, West Virginia. He was promoted to plant personnel supervisor in June, 1952.

Prior to his service with Appalachian, he was a member of the West Virginia State Police for nine years, a case supervisor for the Department of Public Assistance for four years and a school teacher for three years. TEMPEST HAS A FRONT ENGINE/REAR TRANSMISSION! (The only American car with this feature.) It gives Tempest equal weight at every wheel. It has biting traction on the bricks or in the mud. Tires last longer. Brakes take hold like they mean it. The front floor is practically flat (no big hump in the middle). Tempest seats six—easily!

TEMPEST HAS INDEPENDENT SUSPENSION—FRONT AND REAR! Each wheel (and it's a big 15" one) moves up and down independently of the opposite wheel. There's no solid axle in the rear. Result: Firm ride on pavement, soft ride in the boondocks! Swing axles in the rear help the Tempest to carve out clean, firm curves.

PUSH NEW SERIES—THE LE MANS (LUH-MAHNZ). The Tempest Convertible and Coupe are out this year in special custom trim. Call them the Le Mans! They both have sports-type bucket seats, full carpeting, floor mounted stick shift, acceleration rear axle option—no extra cost. Extra cost option: 4-speed gearbox. Take one out—it's a going machine!

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky

By JOE JORDAN
(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week, because of action taken the previous week by the legislature to put Kentucky into the war on the side of the Union, Kentuckians of military age who favored the Confederacy were streaming out of the state to join the foresighted ones who had departed earlier to fight with the South.

James B. Clay, second youngest son of the late Henry Clay, of Lexington, making his second try at reaching the Confederate lines, was arrested in Madison county and, with 16 other prisoners, was taken through Lexington under heavy guard on the way to Louisville. "I felt sad at the spectacle," the Rev. William H. Pratt wrote in his diary, "to see the son of the distinguished statesman brought through his mother city and not permitted to visit his family or to speak to anyone." He said Clay "looked bad" and was "very much cut down in spirits." But, the Lexington minister added, "he had no business to defy his state or the military."

In one four-day period during this week, nearly 1,000 armed Kentuckians were counted passing through Prestonsburg on their way to Virginia. They included U. S. Senator John C. Breckinridge and Col. William Preston, Lexington; Hon. William E. Simms, a son of Unionist Brutus J. Clay and Capt. Storer and his company, all of Bourbon county; Col. George B. Hodge, Newport, and Col. George W. Johnson and Keene Richards, both of Georgetown, "all finely mounted and well armed."

The legislature passed a bill directing Governor Magoffin to call out not fewer than 40,000 Kentuckians to repel the invasion of "armed forces, acting under authority of the so-called Confederate States." Magoffin, who favored the South, vetoed the bill. As usual, the Unionist-controlled legislature promptly passed it over his veto. Also as usual, the Governor then acted immediately to carry out the order. The next day, the legislature passed a supplemental act directing that the state forces be mustered into Federal service.

Reuben T. Durrett, editor of the pro-Confederacy Louisville Courier (which the U. S. postal authorities had already barred from the mails), was arrested. He and Charles S. Morehead, a former governor, and M. W. Barr, "of the telegraph corps," also arrested at Louisville, were sent to New York City to be imprisoned in Fort Lafayette.

At Cynthiana, the county judge of Harrison county, the county clerk and the sheriff, as well as

FOX REPORTS ON PROGRESS

Of Parks Program;
State Attaining Top,
Commissioner Notes

Saying Kentucky parks have been launched toward becoming number one in the nation, State Parks Commissioner Edward V. Fox has reported on progress in acquiring, improving and developing state parks since the giant project began last December.

"New construction, remodeling and added services have been spread throughout the Commonwealth and parks visitors are already seeing the difference," Fox said in a progress report to the Governor.

In Floyd county construction has begun on a 36-room lodge with a 200-capacity dining room at Jenny Wiley State Park. It will be completed in time for the 1962 season. A resort-type pool for lodge guests is being built. Work is in progress on a permanent bathhouse and a picnic area. A nine-hole golf course will be ready for spring play. An interpretive painting is ready for the new lodge. Planned here for 1962 are 10 vacation cottages, a tent camping area with central service building, shelter building and restrooms, an amphitheater for pageants, additional boat dock facilities and playground equipment.

"In addition to actual hammer-and-nail progress, establishing new parks, and a vast number of projects now in design or in advanced planning," Fox said, "we are also progressing on the development phases of the program."

A part of the development will be accomplished through advertising, literature and other promotion to be prepared for the parks by the Division of Tourist and Travel Promotion of the State Department of Public Information, Fox said.

"Much emphasis," Fox said, "has been placed on renovating and bringing up to modern standards facilities that have been neglected—as far as maintenance is concerned—for too many years."

"Our intention is to make the system what the taxpayer of Kentucky wants it to be—a recreation area for Kentuckians and a modern magnet to attract tourists from other states." The indication that this was desired was "their approval of the bond issue last November," Fox said.

In November, 1960, Kentucky voters approved a $10 million parks bond issue which called for establishing, developing and improving new state parks and developing and improving existing state parks.

Fox presented a detailed analysis of parks progress to Governor Combs, who in December, 1960 announced the program he predicted will make Kentucky's park system the best in the nation.

Fox said that by the end of the fiscal year (June 30, 1962), the park system will have these new facilities completed or under way:

Eight lodges and two lodge additions providing 305 rooms.

Ninety vacation cottages planned to be constructed before the 1962 tourist season begins.

Seven boat docks and nine camping areas with central service buildings.

Seven swimming pools for lodge and cottage guests and four bathhouses for lake swimming areas.

Twenty-five picnic shelters, seven service buildings for maintenance crews, six houses for employees, two riding stables, a group camp addition and a museum building.

Since voters approved the $10 million bond issue last November, the Parks Department has completed 72 different projects, now has 68 under construction and a conservative estimate of 47 in the planning stage.

Guild Train Dedicated At Hazard by Governor; Artists Guild Sponsors

Hazard, Ky., Sept. 25 (Spl.)—The Kentucky Guild Train, loaded with an exhibit of fine arts and Kentucky craft products, plus a workshop for demonstrating craft techniques, has taken to the rails.

Following its formal dedication at Hazard by Gov. Bert Combs, Lt. Gov. Wilson Wyatt and other state officials, the Guild Train has begun its travels which will take it to all parts of Kentucky.

The two-car arts and crafts train will visit communities which normally do not have access to art or craft exhibitions. It will serve the dual purpose of introducing residents of these communities to fine arts and examples of good design in craft work, and stimulating interest in local production of similar work.

The train is sponsored by the non-profit Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen with the cooperation of the Kentucky Department of Economic Development, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad and numerous other business firms throughout the state.

Persons interested in producing craft products will have an opportunity to learn craft techniques in the workshop car and will be brought in touch with the Guild's program for marketing these products.

The train, which will remain in each community about a week, is scheduled to arrive in Jackson on September 28, Whitesburg on October 10, Beattyville on Oct. 20, Irvine-Ravena on November 2, Winchester on November 14 and Lexington on November 24.

TEAGUE URGES KENTUCKIANS TO TAKE FLU VACCINATIONS

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 18 (Spl.)—With an upswing in influenza expected this fall and winter, Dr. Russell E. Teague, Kentucky commissioner of health, is urging immediate flu vaccinations for all Kentuckians.

"We want to emphasize," he declared, "that once flu hits a community, it is too late to protect those in the high-risk group. Vaccination now, before the flu season, is the only safeguard."

High-risk groups, Dr. Teague explained, are the three categories of persons accounting for most of the 86,000 deaths in the United States from flu and accompanying complications between September, 1957, and March, 1960.

These categories, he said, are: (1) persons with heart and pulmonary diseases, diabetes and other chronic illnesses; (2) persons over 65; and (3) pregnant women. Dr. Teague said it is especially important that persons in these categories receive flu vaccination shots from their physicians now.

The U. S. Public Health Service has warned that outbreaks of both Asian and Type B flu are expected this year following their usual cyclic pattern, Dr. Teague said.

In preparation for the flu season the Kentucky Department of Health is furnishing all physicians with recommendations for the use of flu vaccine, including a listing of the chronic conditions most likely to be complicated by influenza.

It's like owning an expensive car without the expense. Check it over from its clean-thrusting prow to its rakish rear deck. Look inside the deep-well trunk. Then—head for the open highway. That sittin'-on-satin feeling you get is Chevrolet's famous Jet-smooth ride at work—with a pliant Full Coil spring cushioning at each wheel. The standard six and V8 are triggered to do special things on regular gas, and for real hair-trigger reflexes you have a choice of four optional-at-extra-cost V8's with output all the way up to 409 hp. ■ Hard-working helpers (like the new steel front fender underskirts that guard against corrosion) give this '62 its built-for-keeps beauty. Even the heater and defroster come as standard equipment this year. This is the kind of car that will make you feel luxurious all over, and your Chevrolet dealer will be only too happy to show you how easy it is to have one of your own.

Inside, you'll find a heater and defroster, cigarette lighter, dual sunshades, front-door armrests and automatic choke as standard equipment on most models. ■ There are lots of reasons for liking what's new—and tried and true—in the '62 Corvair. And your dealer's eager to tick 'em off for you.

*Optional at extra cost.

SPORTS CHATTER

BOWL OPPONENTS

The Kentucky High School Athletic Association by-laws state that a high school football game may not be scheduled after October 1, and so Bowl selection committees must name their teams by Saturday night.

Paintsville's annual Big Sandy Bowl, slated for play November 11 this season, is expected to select Fleming-Neon (4-0) and McKell (4-0).

Fleming is expected to win its fifth game against Elkhorn City, Saturday night. Belfry was under consideration for the game but its 20-7 loss to Grundy, Va., last Friday hurt the team's chances.

WIN FIRST GAME

Prestonsburg high school's freshman football team—31 strong—won its first game of the season Monday night with a 20-14 conquest of Paintsville. Quarterback David Miller, fullback Terry Kincer and end Paul Tackett scored for the "Little Cats". Monday night, at 7 the freshmen will tangle with the Hazard freshmen on the local high school field.

In last week's Little League football play, the Browns edged the Cardinals, 6-0, and the Colts nipped the Eagles, 6-0. End Homer Wright, Jr., caught five passes from quarterback L. Lafferty, with one for the t. d. Wright also intercepted six of the Cardinals' heaves.

Meade Memorial will be host to Prestonsburg and Flat Gap Friday afternoon in a triangular cross-country meet. Next Wednesday, Prestonsburg will be host to a triangular meet at the course in Jenny Wiley State Park.

HAZARD, FLEMING UNBEATEN, JENKINS TROUNCES P'BURG

Hazard and Fleming-Neon remain the only unbeaten high school football teams in Eastern Kentucky at the end of the first week of the season.

Belfry's Pirates went down to their first defeat in losing, 20-7, to Grundy, Virginia, the state's third-ranked team.

Two of the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference's three unbeaten teams in league play—Hazard and Belfry—will collide at Hazard, Friday night. This game may determine the conference and district winner in Region Four, Class AA.

Hazard leads the loop with a 4-0 mark, Fleming-Neon is second with a 3-0 mark and Belfry third at 2-0. Jack Hall's Pirates are host to Elkhorn City, Saturday night, in quest of their fourth league victory.

Fullback Claude Tolliver and Keith Pack each scored two touchdowns in pacing the Letcher countians to a 39-6 triumph over the Wheelwright Maroons.

Paul Wright's impressive Bull Dogs rolled over Whitesburg, 32-6, as four players, led by Butch Green with three, tallied.

Senior halfback Freddy Pass, 175-pound speedster, scored three touchdowns as Jenkins whipped Prestonsburg, 26-0. Pass sped 14 and eight yards in the first and third periods and returned a punt 81-yards in the fourth period while Prestonsburg had repeated drives killed by pass interceptions and fumbles. Halfback Larry Witt picked up the final marker in the closing minutes on a 13-yard trek.

M. C. Napier bounced Elkhorn City, 40-7, and Walter Brugh's Paintsville Tigers upped their season's mark to 3-1 with a 27-7 conquest of Mt. Sterling Dubois.

Archery Deer Season Opens Oct. 1, Announced; Hunting Rules Listed

Kentucky's Robin Hoods are to have the entire month of October to hunt deer in 41 counties this year, the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources has announced. Menifee, Bath, Wolfe and Owsley counties have been opened this year in addition to the 37 in which hunting was permitted last year. The archery season will begin in Floyd and other designated counties at daybreak Sunday.

The following regulations have been announced for the archery hunt.

- (1) One deer per season of either sex.
- (2) Whitetail, European Red and Fallow deer are legal game except where special regulations prohibit.
- (3) Bow and arrow hunters shall not carry firearms of any kind.
- (4) After killing a deer, hunter must leave hunting area. He cannot assist others in taking deer.
- (5) Deer may be taken by archery in daylight hours, with long bow and with barbed arrows with broadhead points at least 7/8 of an inch wide.
- (6) All archers must have a valid Kentucky hunting license in addition to the deer permit.
- (7) Each hunter who kills a deer must immediately attach to the deer the locking tag provided with the deer permit in such a way that it cannot be removed without destroying the tag.
- (8) The residents of Indiana and all other states that do not allow residents of Kentucky to hunt deer during open seasons in those states are prohibited from obtaining deer hunting permits under the provisions of KRS 160.176.

The deer herd in Kentucky is described as excellent and a much higher hunter success may be obtained if all archers practice on field courses prior to deer hunting, veteran archers say.

Counties open to deer hunting are: Crittenden, Livingston, Lyon, Caldwell, Hopkins, Christian, Trigg, Meade (section east of Highways 64 and 448), Breckinridge, Hardin, Bullitt, Nelson, Hart, Edmonson, Barren, Metcalfe, Cumberland, Pulaski, McCreary, Laurel (portion west of U. Minimum Wage Scale Increases Are Slated For Effect In November Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 25 (Spl.)—An increase of 25 cents across the board in the minimum wage scale for women and minors employed in groceries, drug stores, chain stores, and some factories in Kentucky will go into effect November 1.

The wage increase order, the first in its category in 14 years, was approved by Kentucky Industrial Relations Commissioner Owen Kerth after it was recommended by the State Wage Board.

Minimum wages currently range from 40 cents an hour in smaller towns to 50 cents an hour in cities.

The State Wage Board held a public hearing on the proposed increases before recommending that they be put into effect. Most employers have been paying above-minimum wages, the Board said.

The increases were backed by labor representatives at the hearings. Employer representatives said some marginal businesses might be adversely affected by the wage order, but did not flatly oppose the increase.

HALE FOR SHERIFF

"Critical of Opponent's Mudslinging"

SAYS:

Since my entry into politics in 1947, I have never resorted to mudslinging or attempted to degrade my opponent. I feel that such a campaign, whether by newspaper ads, handbills or malicious gossiping, is not proper and that the Democrats and Republicans alike will agree that it has never benefited any candidate, regardless of his party affiliations.

INSTEAD:

I propose to run a campaign based upon a solemn pledge of using my every effort, as Sheriff of your county, to promote law and order at your churches, around your homes, on your highways and in your business establishments.

AGAIN:

I state, openly and publicly, that I, as the Sheriff, will be uncommitted, unbosomed and uncontrolled by any persons or groups. I expect to seek the advice of prominent, respectable citizens in filling assistant and deputy jobs when I am elected your Sheriff.

BECAUSE:

I have four sons—Ben, age 4, George, 7, Tommie, 10, and Jim, 13. When I leave the Sheriff's office four years from now, my oldest son will be 17 years of age. I, like all of you, will want these boys to go through their most trying years in a legally clean, a morally straight and a better and greater Floyd county.

Cadillac presents for 1962
the Masterwork of the Motoring Age

You have had your first look at the new "car of cars". Its name is Cadillac—and its destiny is a place among the most renowned automobiles of our time.

Its new styling is remarkably clean and crisp and graceful—with a look of "rightness" in every line and contour and detail.

Cadillac's new Fleetwood interiors beckon with a jewel-like beauty. There are marvelous new fabrics and leathers . . . and new conveniences on every hand.

Engineering triumphs include independent front and rear braking . . . exclusive new cornering lamps that light your way around turns . . . a revolutionary three-phase rear lighting system . . . and many other important advances.

Yet, some of the noblest advances cannot be seen. They must be felt and sensed—performance that is incredibly quiet and smooth and nimble . . . handling ease so great that the mere weight of your hand puts you in command of the road . . . craftsmanship that is so practiced and so precise that the car has become a marvel of construction and a paragon of dependability.

These new Cadillac wonders are evident in each of twelve new body styles—and are available with the widest selection of interiors in Cadillac history.

Even if you have never before considered a Cadillac—you should take a journey in this one.

It's Cadillac for 1962. You'll be hearing a lot about it.
