Entered as second class matter June 18, 1927, at the post office at Prestonsburg, Kentucky, under the act of March 3, 1879.

AN OPEN LETTER TO MEMBERS OF THE KENTUCKY GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Gentlemen:
Being prepared for your consideration, or already introduced, is a bill which would provide for the establishing of four junior colleges at designated points in the Commonwealth.

Because of this bill, you already have heard, or will hear, the plaint, "This legislation will hurt us." We write this letter to discuss, among other things, two words from that remonstrance. The words are "us" and "hurt."

You will be asking questions, seeking information and an understanding of all that is at issue in this bill. May we respectfully suggest that one of your questions be, "Who is 'us'?"

Inquire, too, if you will, about that antonym of that word "hurt"—ask yourselves, "us" and all concerned, "Whom will it hurt?"

Contending that in a democracy such as ours education belongs to all the people, we maintain that four junior colleges in Kentucky will not hurt "us" unless we ("us") are an entrenched coterie of "Haves" who shudder at the needs and pleas of the "Have Not's."

Consider, please, the thousands of young women and men whose parents are unable to bear the heavy cost of four years of residence college training for them. There are many, many thousands of these, remember, and their poverty is reflected only in bank balances; in mind and spirit and ambition they are rich. A junior college strategically located in four places within Kentucky would reach thousands of these by placing them within an hour's drive of at least two years' college training.

You will agree, we know, that a junior college would not hurt these. It would help them and all Kentucky by affording opportunity to bright, eager, young minds and by helping them to develop their great potential. And that realized potential would benefit all Kentucky, even the nation.

We would point, by way of example, to the great things so achieved at two privately operated junior colleges in the Eastern Kentucky area—Caney Junior College at Pippa Passes, in Knott county, and Pikeville College, in Pike (which now is a full-fledged four-year institution). Both of these schools are now taxed to their physical limits, neither has been able to do all the things it has wanted to do—but behold their achievements, despite every obstacle! Ministers, teachers, lawyers, doctors, superintendents of county school systems, architects, engineers, outstanding citizens—these are the contributions these two comparatively small colleges have made to Eastern Kentucky and areas and states beyond. It requires no stretch of the imagination for one to realize that, but for the fact that a college education at little expense was made available to these people, many of these ministers, teachers, doctors and professional leaders would never have attained their present place in life. Indeed, it is certain that a certain percentage of them would have been at the nether end of the ladder—in poverty, desperation, even crime—but for the chance in life which they found at Caney and Pikeville in their decisive younger years.

We dwell on these two schools, and we ask your forbearance. There are other schools which, perhaps, have meant as much to their particular sections of the state, but we think there is no part of Kentucky—if, indeed, any part of the United States—which has faced, and still faces, circumstances so-dismaying as are faced here. But for these two schools, these fine citizens who have found their rightful station in life would have become tragic part and parcel of the Country Churchyard that is Eastern Kentucky, a land whose great potential of mind and human resources has so long been literally buried. If you will turn again to Gray's "Elegy," you who have not experienced such conditions will have a deeper affinity with those who have suffered through no fault of their own.

The education of these Mountain boys and girls did not hurt "us" or anybody else. These same boys and girls now have youngsters of their own, and because these who now are parents had their chance at Caney and Pikeville they are earning adequate livelihoods, and their children are going on to swell the enrollment at Morehead, the University of Kentucky, Eastern and other colleges.

May we remind you at this point that this junior college plan is no fly-by-night scheme, dreamed up at the spur of the moment? The Governor's Commission on Higher Public Education first proposed it after long months of study of Kentucky's educational needs. Later, an equally dedicated regional group, the Commission on Goals for Higher Education in the South, urged the very same plan for all the states of the Southern United States.

These two Commissions did not plan to hurt anybody. Their common aim is to help. And what they propose will help. Great educational complexes of acres of campuses covered with imposing structures and peopled by thousands of students taught by learned teachers will not suffice. For there are so many, many thousands of others who cannot join those students on those great campuses, far from home.

It is these who must be reached, even if it disturbs the cherished status quo.

We write you who as legislators at this session of the General Assembly literally sit in judgment on the futures of a great part of Kentucky's youth. We write you to say this:

We do not seek, we do not want, to hurt anybody or any institution. We maintain that these proposed junior colleges will not destroy any existing institutions; instead, that they will serve to fulfill the dream of educational opportunity in the truest democratic tradition. We admit, we are giving first consideration to those who have enjoyed little consideration in the past, but we think this is only just and right.

Ask yourselves, Who will suffer from such a program and from such intent? And who will profit? The decision is yours to make as representatives of all Kentucky and all Kentuckians—the fertile, prosperous areas as well as the poor and depressed, unfortunate among our people as well as the favored—build now, we would remind you, we would remind you, we would remind you.

THE PELICAN

Nature sometimes makes a creature of very unusual design, almost a monstrosity. Such a critter is the pelican. The old rhyme goes: "What a strange critter is the pelican. His bill holds more than his belly-can!"

How true! The pouch of naked skin hanging down on the underside of the broad bill, is the pelican's shopping bag! The pouch is made of pinkish looking gristle in the great white pelican, and is sort of grayish-black in the big brown pelican. The pouch of the white pelican can hold almost three gallons of fish!

This is the largest web-footed bird known and has a wing-spread of over eight feet! Its length is 65 inches, and it weighs about sixteen pounds. The white pelican is common along the western coasts of the U. S. and Canada. The big brown pelican is found down south, along the Gulf coast and the lake regions of Florida. It is also common in Louisiana waters, and it is the state bird of Louisiana. The brown pelican has a wing span of almost seven feet.

While pelicans are awkward and ungainly when taking off in flight, once they get launched in the air, their flight is strong, skillful and graceful.

The brown pelican has a large, flat, boat-shaped body, short legs and black webbed feet. It has reddish eyes, a red neck, a white shawl or hood, and a white streak on front, at the base of its neck. The great white pelican has reddish eyes and a long, reddish-pink bill.

Construction of a lodge at the new Rough River State Park near Leitchfield is well under way, the Kentucky Department of Parks reports.

The Ben Martin Amendment

SUBJECT: Revision of the 1960 Law governing the sale of eggs. Context of the regulations contained in the act, and how it will benefit your constituents.

(1) It relieves the farm housewife the embarrassment of trying to sell a contraband article of trade, namely "ungraded eggs," and restores to her the age-old privilege and custom of selling, bartering or trading her eggs to the best advantage.

(2) It removes the inequity of the present law, which requires the small grocery store, already hard pressed for survival, to pay the same yearly license fees as the large super market selling one hundred or more cases per week.

(3) It does not lower the quality of any grade of eggs already established by law, neither does it change any standard in relation to eggs now sold on a graded basis.

(4) It permits the sale of ungraded eggs to the consumer after inedible eggs have been removed, and the eggs marked "ungraded."

(5) It relieves the farmer and small operator the expense of buying costly grading cartoning and labeling devices.

(6) It will enable the commercial grower to compete with out-of-state eggs, during time of oversupply, and during the heavy spring laying season.

(7) It makes no changes in the wholesalers present yearly license fees, now established by law.

(8) The act as amended will produce adequate revenue to enforce all its provisions.

(9) The sponsors of this amendment recognize the fact that there is a definite demand for ungraded eggs from the farm, they are also recognition of the fact that the State of Kentucky may soon be producing most of her table eggs, as well as a sizeable quantity for export to other states.

(10) In view of the coming changes, why tax an already hard-pushed farm product four dollars per hundred cases produced at a time when that product has a good chance of again becoming a leader in income for both the farmer and the commercial growers within the state.

(11) This amendment reduces the present stamp fee of four (4c) cents per case to two (2c) cents per case or portion of case comparable to the same fees charged by other states.

Vote yes for the Ben Martin amendment.

All citizens interested in a fair and equitable egg law should write their respective state senators and representatives, State Capitol Building, Frankfort, Ky., and urge passage of this bill.

The Secret of Buying Hospital Insurance That PAYS

On its record of paying claims—the most important way to judge any insurance company—American Republic, of Des Moines, Iowa, ranks Number One among the "Top 40" firms in its field. The few minutes it takes to read the facts below may be worth hundreds of dollars to you—at a time when you may need every cent you can lay your hands on:

Although eight out of ten families today already have some sort of hospital, surgical and medical insurance, the need for this type of protection is greater than ever.

This surprising situation is due to the rapidly rising costs of hospital and medical care. These costs, which have been going up steadily at the rate of nearly 1% each month since 1950, have outdated 9 out of 10 policies now in force!

Thus, if your present policy is 2 years old or older, and was adequate when you bought it, chances are good that you need more coverage yourself—right now.

With over 900 companies writing individual accident and health insurance, how can you choose the company that's best for you?

Insurance experts say the most important way to judge an insurance company is on its record of paying claims.

For this information, one need only refer to the latest available Statistical Edition and Argus Chart of the National Underwriter Company, publishers of official and authoritative insurance statistics since 1897. This vital information is a matter of public record:

According to the most recent figures, of the top 40 companies writing individual accident and health insurance . . .

• American Republic Insurance Company ranks 13th in premiums earned.

*An exclusive Service Mark of American Republic Insurance Company

How Does Your Company Rank Among "The Top 40"?

Company	Rank Premiums Earned	Rank Claims Incurred	Percent of Claims Incurred To Premiums Earned
American Republic	13	8	1
Company A	6	6	2
Company B	2	2	3
Company C	1	1	4
Company D	27	23	5
Company E	18	16	6
Company F	21	22	7

See for yourself the claim-paying records of the "Top 40" companies writing individual accident and health insurance, as compiled from official published statistics. This list (with actual company names) is available from American Republic representatives who are now calling on all residents of this county.

• American Republic ranks 8th in the amount of claims incurred. But—and this is most important to you—based on the above information . . .

• American Republic ranks FIRST in percent of dollars paid to policyholders in claim benefits.

This unequalled record of claim payments is American Republic's way of paying back its policyholders' confidence in cash—when they need money most. It is made possible by AR operating efficiencies. It is one of the benefits of "Protection . . . The American Way."

And hundreds of policyholders write American Republic each week expressing appreciation for fast claim payments. Policyholders are so pleased with AR service that they refer American Republic to thousands of their friends every month.

American Republic policyholders further enjoy the money-saving benefits of TAILORED* protection. This feature makes it possible for qualified people OF ALL AGES to have up-to-date health insurance protection—and, at the same time, avoid buying coverage they may not want or need.

Instead of a single "standard" policy designed for an "average" family in an "average" community, American Republic offers a selection of modern "protection units." These "units" can be put together like building blocks to provide the specific hospital, medical and nursing benefits any individual or family needs.

If you already have hospitalization insurance, American Republic TAILORED protection can start where your present coverage leaves off. And it pays fully stated benefits in addition to any amounts you may collect from any other health insurance policy you may now have.

American Republic has published a 12-page illustrated booklet, "7 Ways You Can Benefit With TAILORED Protection." In it are vital facts about "Protection . . . The American Way." This booklet is available free from American Republic Representatives who are now contacting residents of this community. One of these representatives is also pledged to offer you a free showing of an educational film which describes how a low-cost American Republic TAILORED protection plan can bring your present insurance up to date. Watch for him.

Advertised in leading magazines, American Republic TAILORED protection is now being made available to all residents of this county who qualify. Look for your American Republic representative to call. Ask him to show you, in your own home, a new educational film.

Greater Rise in Kentucky Than Nation, Group Notes

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 18 (Sp.)—Total fall enrollment, including full-time and part-time students, in Kentucky's 24 accredited senior colleges and 10 accredited junior colleges is 10.9 per cent higher than last year.

There are 46,467 students enrolled this fall, according to figures released by the Kentucky Council on Public Higher Education. This is an increase of 4,892 over the 41,605 enrolled in the fall of 1960.

The six state-supported institutions of higher learning—University of Kentucky, Western State College, Morehead State College, Murray State College, Eastern State College and Kentucky State College—had an even higher increase of 17.4 per cent. Enrollments rose from 22,739 in the fall of 1960 to 25,877 this fall—an increase of 3,138.

These figures show a higher percentage increase in Kentucky than the 6.6 per cent increase nationally. Dr. Garland G. Parker, of Cincinnati, conducted the nationwide survey for an educational journal.

An old rock-walled trench used in the Civil War is still preserved on the campus at Western State College, Bowling Green.

Not yet on the market, the flakes were first developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The flakes can be made into mashed sweet potatoes simply by adding three or four parts hot water or milk to one part flakes, mixing and heating.

BIG SANDY RIVER SURVEY

Jay H. Northrup, of Louisa, and one of the earliest of industry promoters in the Big Sandy valley, was concerned in 1911 that the $100,000 appropriated by Congress to survey the Big Sandy River would not be spent. He wrote John C. C. Mayo, August 5, 1911, and urged the Paintsville industrialist to confer with him on the subject.

Northrup's letter follows: "There was appropriated last winter for the purpose of continuing the work of improvement of the Big Sandy River, the sum of $100,000; and I am credibly informed that owing to the objections of Chief Engineer Bixby to any further improvements on Big Sandy, there will be nothing done with this money and after a little it will be turned back into the treasury. Personally I have no special interests above where the dams are already completed but having a desire to see the improvement work continue up the valley and also to see this money expended in this section for which it was appropriated, I think something should be done to that end; and I would like to have a little talk with you the first time you are down the river provided you are favorable to the continuation of the improvement work and let us see if a plan cannot be devised by which concerted action that will produce the result of starting work on an additional lock and dam in each fork cannot be taken, so as to get it started this fall while the water is down."

Col. Jay H. Northrup was a native of New York state and came to Louisa during the early oil excitement in the valley and remained to engage in the timber trade. At one time he formed a partnership with M. B. Goble to prosecute the business of logging and running rafts. He was a director of the old Chatterbox Railroad up the Big Sandy valley and when the company fell into financial troubles, he was named receiver and general manager. He died at Louisa, one of the most respected men of the region.

MOUNTAIN KINSMEN RIDE

This columnist has 20 copies of Mountain Kinsmen Ride for sale. The pamphlet is rare as only a few copies were originally printed in 1958.

Mountain Kinsmen Ride is the story of Abner James and the posse that went out to arrest William Pruitt in the wilds of Martin county in the early 1840's. James killed Pruitt and was sentenced to hang at Louisa as Lawrence county assumed jurisdiction.

William McCoy, of Johns Creek, rode to Frankfort, implored Gov. Owsley for a pardon. With that in his pocket Billy McCoy staged a wild ride back to Louisa to save his brother-in-law from the gallows. Reaching the Lawrence county seat, he had to push through the crowd near the gallows and reach the pardon to the sheriff.

Price of the pamphlet is $2.00 postpaid. Write Box 421, Prestonsburg. It will be sent immediately. There will be no others for sale.

GREAT LAWYERS OF KENTUCKY

Some Great Lawyers of Kentucky is the title of a speech delivered by the late Bailey P. Wootton before the Kentucky Bar Association meeting at Frankfort in 1933. It deals particularly with great lawyers and judges of the mountains.

Mentioned are Walter S. Harkins, Jim Marrs, King Cook, Logan Salyers, Jim Fitzpatrick, Crit Bash, Ed Hogg, Dan Fields. He gives a brief biography of a few, one being Crit Bash. (The nicknames are those of Wootton's.)

He writes of Bach: "John J. Crittenden Bach was born on Quicksand Creek in Breathitt county on February 12, 1861, and died at Jackson, June 19, 1915. His parents were very poor and as he and his twelve brothers and sisters were compelled to work very hard upon their little farm, his educational opportunities were very limited. He attended school for a short time at Rose Hill, Virginia, and afterwards entered Central University, then located at Richmond, Kentucky. He often made the trip to Richmond by walking over the mountains a distance of sixty or seventy miles. He entered the University with expectation of becoming a minister and a preacher, being to go there by that time.

"However, after two years, he decided that he would like to be a lawyer, accordingly took the law course and was soon admitted to the bar.

Neuritis Pains Go Can Raise Arms

One man said the neuritis pain in his shoulders disappeared for the first time in 2 years and he can raise his arms above his head once again. He got RUGON only a few short weeks ago and says this is the only medicine that ever really helped him. He is among hundreds who praise it.

RUGON is helping so many victims of rheumatism and neuritis because this NEW Liquid Formula contains Three Wonderful Ingredients. Not a tablet or capsule. RUGON goes to the very source of pain almost at once and costs but a few cents a day to take. So don't go on suffering. Co.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT VISITS THE PATRONS

In 1930, Town Hall, Floyd county superintendent of schools, visited many homes in the Mud Creek area in an effort to determine how the public was responding to the educational program.

At the home of Amos Akers, at Grethel, a group, including the superintendent, paused to have a picture made. Shown here, on the steps, are the late A. J. (Almy) Martin and Melvin Frasure. The three sitting in the back row, left to right, are Tan Howell, Town Hall and Amos Akers. In the background are Kermit Martin and Lovell Martin, son of A. J. Martin.

The First National Bank presents these pictures of our past in recognition of our educational heritage.

IT'S THE WILD GAME SEASON

If the hunter in your family brings in the kill, you will want to know how to care and prepare it for his enjoyment at the dinner table. He should, and probably will, field dress the game immediately to prevent bacterial growth. This means eviscerating (taking out entrails) which will also allow the carcass to cool more rapidly. Such game as rabbit, squirrels and feathered birds should be skinned and feet, head and tail removed.

The next step is up to the homemaker, and she should either cook the game right away or freeze it for later use. If it is frozen it should be cleaned well, then wrapped in vapor-moisture-proof freezer paper with all air excluded. Recommendations for storing game in the freezer should not exceed four months, for best results. It is wise to freeze only high quality game, since nothing is improved simply because it is in frozen storage. Be sure to label game with the name of contents, date frozen and number of servings, etc.

Because most all small animals are skinned, the meat may easily become dry and tough. To prevent this from being the case, cover it with oil or fat-soaked cheesecloth during roasting or baking. The cloth may be redipped or it can be basted by spoon with the drippings. Bacon fat is a favorite with many cooks because it masks the gamey flavor which may be objectional.

It will take an hour to braise, roast or pot roast squirrels and rabbits. They will broil within 30 to 40 minutes. When roasting use a 300-325 degree oven. Age should be considered when cooking small wild game. However you can count on about 80 per cent of small wild animals will be less than a year old. This means it is tender and may be roasted, baked or broiled. You can expect every three-fourths pounds to be one serving of small wild game.

The preparation methods of wild fowl are much the same as for small animals. They may be roasted dressed or undressed. You may wish to stuff them with apple or potato chunks to absorb some of the game flavor. They should be discarded after roasting is finished. Spices, herbs and rice are items that add zest and flavor to wild fowl dishes.

HAD YOUR LIVER THIS WEEK

Have you served liver to your family lately? Liver and other variety meats deserve special consideration in meal planning. These meats are most always lower in price than other cuts of meats when you consider they contain no bone and no waste.

Liver gains a reputation as a valuable food because of its high vitamin value. There was a time when this organ was considered almost nil and was given or thrown away. It was sold for only a fraction of its present price.

Liver is an excellent source of vitamin A, one slice supplies the recommended adult daily requirement. It is also a good source of the B vitamins, protein and iron. Calf and beef liver are usually in greater supply on the market since much pork and lamb liver are used in making liver sausage items. There is a variance in price of liver from the different animals. However, all are nutritious and can be prepared in many tasty ways. Calf liver costs more than the others. It is tender and delicate in flavor, and requires only a short cooking time. It can be broiled or fried and needs to be cooked only until it changes color. Beef liver costs less than calf liver. It requires slightly longer cooking and may be better when braised. Cooking with moist heat also will keep it from becoming dry. Pork liver is usually the lowest priced liver because it has a stronger flavor. It may be braised with onions or tomatoes.

Since there is no waste in liver, a pound will give four to five servings. It is not necessary to soak or scald liver before cooking.

Liver is perishable, requires careful storage and should be refrigerated until ready to cook. It should be bought for immediate use and kept no longer than a day or two before it is cooked. Try serving liver to your family at least once a week.

PIKEVILLE COLLEGE BEARS TO PLAY TWO HOME GAMES

Pikeville, Ky., Jan. 3 (Spl.)—The Pikeville College Bears, who last week came within nine points of repeating as champions of the Camp Lejeune (N. C.) Invitational tournament, will play two of their remaining six home games tonight (Thursday) and Saturday.

The Bears' guests at 8 o'clock tonight (Jan. 4) will be John Renfro and his Cumberland Indians, with whom they split two games before Christmas. Paul Butcher's Bears will meet the fearsome Georgetown College Tigers, in Georgetown's first Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference game of the season, at 8 p.m., Saturday, also in the Pikeville College gymnasium.

Pikeville's junior varsity will furnish 6 p.m. preliminary matches for both games, hosting the Cumberland juniors as their elders take on the Indians' varsity. On Saturday they will try to even matters with Herby Triplett, Paul Smith and Company of the star-studded Winchester AAU team, which dumped them, 98-78, December 1 at Winchester.

Nipping the Bears 75-72 in the finals, the Indians copped their own Mid-South Warm-Up tournament November 25 at Williamsburg. The Bears took their revenge December 12 on the same court, 79-75, as Charles Blevins, of Betsy Layne, dropped in the winning four points on two trips to the free-throw line in the last 31 seconds.

The Bengals from Georgetown, regular-season champions of the KIAC and also conference tournament champs last season, have won nine of their first 11 starts this year. They topped the Bears in three of four meetings last season.

Hindman's Jim Moore led all scorers with 27 points in the Camp scoring 13 of Pikeville's 27 field Lejeune tourney finals Friday, goals. The Bears, falling 79-70 to a lowering crew from Elon (N. C.) College, settled for second in the eight-team tussle, of which they were champions last year.

Averaging more than two inches per man taller than the Bears in the starting lineups, the North Carolinians led by as much as 19 points early in the second half. At that point Roger Mullins, of Pound, Virginia, and Moore led a surge that brought Pikeville back within eight, 53-45, and Moore's points, 70-67, with a couple of min-fighter narrowed the gap to three utes left in the game, but the rally fell short.

John Will Hunt took his turn at high-point honors in the Bears' second tourney game, dropping in eight of 17 shots from the field and four of four free throws for 20 points. A total of 62 fouls was called as the Bears downed the Wild Cats of Bethel College (Tennessee) 92-74.

Charles Durrell of Hazard and Moore scored 18 points each as five of the Bruins scored in double figures, with Pete Campbell adding 17 and Bob Fletcher 11. The Bears with two minutes left, and subs piled up a 26-point margin, 88-63, hung on to 18 points of the margin until the end.

Don Elliott had his day of glory in the opening game as the Bears buried the Bees of the University of Baltimore, 65-64. The 6-5 sophomore, in his second start this season, paced his mates with 19 points, sinking seven field goals with 10 shots and five of seven free tosses.

Hot shooting brought the Bears their highest score of the season, 95 points, as they connected on 58 per cent of their field attempts—36 of 62—and 76 per cent of their charity throws, converting 23 of 30. They rolled to a 37-point lead in 34 minutes, 82-45, then used reserves to down the Bees, 95-64.

After Elliott's 14 points before halftime earned him special attention from the Baltimore defense, Moore, Blevins, Hunt and Campbell combined to break the game open early in the second half. They scored 12 points while holding the Bees scoreless, to run the count from 40-27 to 52-27 in four minutes.

Campbell contributed 16 points, Moore 14 and Blevins 11. The subs kept the stands awake late in the game, with Mullins notching nine points in the last seven minutes. Gerald Preston adding eight points in the last six, and Fletcher scoring eight points in seven minutes.

Delicious angel food cakes can be made from frozen egg whites and they take up little space in the freezer. Package the whites in pint containers. When you're ready to use the whites, defrost them by keeping them overnight in the refrigerator or about five hours at room temperature. Then use in the same way as fresh egg whites.

THEY DID THEIR PART
We are all—I hope—interested in a junior college to the extent that we're willing to back up our sentiments with cold cash. A great many people are deeply interested, are working and will give till it hurts. But of all those who are making a sacrifice we would say Mrs. J. M. Porter and family are making the greatest.

They had the only sizeable tract of level land at the very city limits, they did not want to sell, and if they had they could have realized much more by selling the tract in building lots. But they did not want to stand in the way of a college and opportunity for thousands of youngsters. And so, whatever happens, nobody will ever be able to say they stood in the way... Wonder how many others would have done as much?

Completion of a sewer system is one of the main objectives of the new administration, Dr. Archer said. Studies show, he said, that Prestonsburg is "sitting on a powder-keg" because of inadequate sewerage facilities and that hepatitis, polio and typhoid are among the ever-present threats as long as the present situation continues. "I know," he added, "there isn't a man in this town who would have his child have polio for his part of the sewerage cost."

The fire department, the Council and citizens attending the meeting were told, needs much equipment, the principal item being another fire truck, cost of which will run from $20,000 to $23,000. It was pointed out that, unless this additional truck is purchased, Prestonsburg will lose its seventh class rating and be moved to the 10th class, which would mean an increase in fire insurance rates of about 20%.

Mayor Archer said that in appointing Henry Gray head of the fire department he hoped the Council "is setting an example" by shunning politics and all considerations except those of service to the community. "I hope," he said, "this office will never in the future have any part in politics, and I hope future City Councils will retain the services of the fire chief if he gives faithful, efficient service."

The Council repeated its order that payment will not be made for any purchase unless a purchase order is duly issued. It extended the discount date on payment of 1961 taxes. A discount of 2% will be allowed on all 1961 taxes paid by February 1. Council meeting dates are the first and third Thursdays of each month at 7:30 p.m.

CRAZY, MIXED-UP WORLD!
This is, indeed, my friends, a crazy, mixed-up world.

In a world beset with trouble and fear and smeared with the filth that goes under the heading of literature, a school library out in California suddenly divests itself of every Tarzan book on the grounds that Tarzan and Jane may not have been legally married, and at the same time strips the shelves of all the Zane Grey books because of a few mild cuss-words said by some character who always got his just desserts in the end.

Such prudery in a world whose leading literary lights sing the praises of outhouse prose such as appears in Miller's "Tropic of Cancer," in a world which murmurs not a protest at such sex and violence as flash on TV and movie screens every days of our lives!

The only youngsters I ever heard of suffering from a reading of Tarzan are those who, attempting to imitate him, missed a limb and came a cropper. Then there was a boy who suffered, too, because of his fondness for Zane Grey. He was caught swiping his ma's egg money to finance the purchase of another Grey book.

Why, everything is so mixed up they've taken Farmer McGregor's shotgun away from him in "Peter Rabbit."

We are so persnickitty nice, so astininely nice, sometimes and at others so blasé and lowdown that it's plumb disconcertin'.

Hill suggested that the second and third offense provisions of the law be used in battling bootlegging, pointing out that indictment and conviction on a second offense draws a double penalty and that a third offense is punishable as a felony.

Breaking and entering and drunk driving were especially cited for grand jury attention. Judge Hill said some small mines have trouble operating because of the deprecations of "thieves. He also pointed out that neither he nor Commonwealth's Attorney Hollie Conley had ever coddled drunken drivers—the only cases dismissed being for lack of proof, and he called on the County Judge and the county's four Magistrates to cooperate in curbing this offense. "I don't think anybody should be excused for drunken driving," the judge declared.

County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill, who began his four-year term of office Tuesday morning, joined the grand jury for its work. Kermit Howard, of Dwale, was named foreman of the jury.

Any contribution, however small, will be gratefully accepted, it was pointed out at last Wednesday's meeting. Others discussing the benefits which would result from the founding of the school here said a two-year college would mean to parents of the area a saving of at least $2,000 a year per child in college.

Coal operators who were unable to attend last Wednesday's meeting indicated they would meet here, Wednesday of this week, with the group.

As suggestions were sought and offered for conduct of the fund drive, Dr. Archer reminded the gathering:

"If you want a helping hand or a working hand, just roll up your sleeve, look down your arm—and there it is!"

Glenn Hyden, 52, Lancer, Victim of Heart Attack; Funeral Plans Not Set

Glenn Hyden, 52, of Lancer, died Tuesday at 11:10 a.m. at home. Death was due to a heart attack. He was a former miner.

Mr. Hyden was a son of the late Roe and Amy Burchett Hyden. His widow, Minnie Clark Hyden, survives. Surviving also are two sons and a daughter: Lester Hyden, Louisville, Alden Hyden, of Printer, and Mrs. Anna Frances Napier, of Lancer. Two brothers, Otto Hyden, of Auxier, and Thomas E. Hyden, of Hellier, survive.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete Tuesday evening, it was said by Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

Higher rents are expected in 1962 because of rising costs of housing maintenance and repair, heating fuels, water and property taxes. The most rapid increase is in water rates.

Our Job to help you live better Electrically

Our job is generating electricity and getting it to where it's used. We're in this business because it is concerned with the supply of a fundamental requirement of modern living, because it's an honorable one, because we like it, and because we want to earn a living at it.

We aim to give one kind of service to everyone... the best that's possible. That means supplying our customers with what they want when they want it. It means being courteous at all times and maintaining attractive easy-to-do-business-with offices. It means doing everything we can to keep complaints from arising, and it means prompt and fair handling of those that do.

We are a citizen of each community we serve and take an active part in its affairs. Like any other citizen, we want our neighbors to think well of us. Besides, it makes good business-sense. We can only prosper as the community prospers so we help it thrive in every way we can.

Such is our job as we see it. We are trying to do it well and to do it better all the time.
