

This Town-- That World

As soon as I get finished listening to another of these sure-fire, get-rich-quick schemes, I'll write this column, or have a try at it. . . . Lest any of my friends become alarmed, I quickly add: I am not investing, for two reasons: 1. Funds are low; 2. A burnt child dreads the fire.

One of the television stations explained that the network picture had gone haywire because of telephone company difficulties, so the story goes. Which drew from an oldtimer the comment: "It's that darned party line again!"

GO AND DO

Because we folks are, almost to a man, deeply concerned with the need for education and of a junior college to reach our youngsters here at home, I hesitate to reprint this anecdote. It has to do with the illiterate salesman who wrote his boss:

Dear Bos: I seen this outfit which they ain't never bot a dime's worth of nothing from us and I sold them a couple hundred thousand dollars worth of guds. I am now going to Chawgo."

Two days later, a second letter arrived at the home office:

"Dear Boss: I cum hear and I sold them half a milyon," it said.

Both letters were posted on the bulletin board with a note appended by the company president:

"We been spendin' to much time hear tryin' to spel, instead of tryin' to sel. Let's watch these letters from Gooch, who is on the rod doing a grate job for us, and you go out and do like he done."

SINGIN' THE BLUES

When it comes to singing the blues, newspaper owners have it all over Al Jolson. I missed out last week on that blues session popularly known as the Kentucky Press Association winter meeting, but along came Albert Moore, owner of the Salyersville Independent, Tuesday afternoon, and we had our own little songfest.

JUSTELL MAN BURNS VICTIM

Floyd Conn Succumbs Following Home Mishap; Rites Conducted Sunday

Floyd Conn, 73-year-old retired farmer of Justell, died at the Beaver Valley hospital at 1 p.m. Friday, of burns received seven hours earlier while building a fire in a stove at home.

It is said that Mr. Conn poured crude oil on kindling wood in the fireplace and that when he ignited it the oil exploded. His clothes were burned from his body before the blaze could be put out.

He was a son of the late John Conn and Luedmia Owens Conn. His wife, Lucy Carr Conn, preceded him in death. Surviving are three daughters: Mrs. Marie Shepherd, of Hunter, Mrs. Marie Allen, in Michigan, and Miss Josephine Conn, address unavailable. A brother, Eleanore Conn, of Martin, survives.

Funeral services were held at 10 a.m., Sunday, at the Church of Christ on Arkansas Creek, the Rev. Benny Blankenship officiating. Burial was made in the Carr cemetery at Banner under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

NEW COURTHOUSE, JAIL STUDY IS AUTHORIZED

CONSTRUCTION IS APPROVED BY JUSTICES

Stumbo, Sturgill Voted Authority To Explore, Arrange Finance Plans

A definite move toward a new courthouse and jail for Floyd county was made Friday by the Floyd fiscal court.

The court unanimously voted to authorize County Judge Henry Stumbo and County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill "to do any and all acts legally necessary to acquire adequate financing and funds for the construction of a new courthouse and jail in Prestonsburg."

The two officials consulted federal authorities in Atlanta, Ga., this week to ascertain the best method of financing.

The fiscal court's action followed previous grand jury reports declaring the present courthouse unsafe and in a sad state of disrepair. The January grand jury, upon adjourning Monday, pointed in strong terms to the need of a new courthouse and jail, stating that only by new construction could money spent on the two structures be justified.

Last year, on two occasions, the rest-rooms in the courthouse were closed by the Floyd County Health Department, and sagging of the first floor has for the last few years caused concern that collapse of the courthouse may result.

Resolutions adopted by the fiscal court pointed out that the condition of the courthouse "is now to the point that large sums of money are needed to repair the courthouse to a condition that it would be safe and provide adequate space and facilities for the governmental offices of the county. . . . These resolutions also expressed the feeling that "any money spent on repair of the present courthouse and jail would not be worth its value because of the age and poor condition of same. . . ."

Monday's grand jury report pointed out that the jury had inspected the structures, had found them "in a very bad state of repair" and was aware that the courthouse had on previous occasions been condemned and is unsafe for occupancy and use. The report added that the grand jury "strongly recommends that the fiscal court and all other agencies take immediate steps to find whatever methods or means to finance the construction of a new courthouse and jail." The report added, "The grand jury feels that only by new construction can the money spent therefor be justified. . . ."

CHARGE THREE WITH BREAK

Perry County Parolee, Two Others Are Accused Of Service Station Break

Examining trial was scheduled here Wednesday for three Right Beaver Creek men who are accused of breaking into the Marlin Combs Service Station at Estill Monday night.

One of the trio, Amos Lee Duncan is under parole from an armed robbery conviction in Perry county. His alleged accomplices are Denver Coburn and Cecil Jacobs.

Trial Commissioner Harold J. Stumbo said several juvenile cases have been set down for January 22. Offenses alleged include theft of gasoline from school buses, an escape in which juveniles drove a truck owned by the Floyd County Board of Education to various places in the county at night, and a break into a bathhouse operated here by Sam Adkins.

Duncan, Jacobs and Coburn were jailed here Monday by Deputy Sheriff Troy Mullins. Duncan was released under bond but was being sought again Tuesday, it was said. Others jailed within the week included:

James Gordon Rice, absent without leave from the armed forces, arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Frank Crum and Joe Horn; Tommie Collins, forger, jailed by Martin Potheman A. J. Reed and State Detective Chester D. Potter; Bruce Edward Vanderpool, a.w.o.l., booked by Deputy Sheriff Crum; Colonel Gibson, drunk driving, arrested by Lt. Billie Lykins, of the State Police.

Mrs. Lovatie Herald, Age 87, of Emma, Dies; Widow of Jim Tom Herald

Mrs. Lovatie Herald, 87, of Emma, died Monday at 2 p.m. at home on Cow Creek. She was the widow of Jim Tom Herald, who preceded her in death in 1933.

Mrs. Herald was a native of the Johns Creek section of this county. She was a member of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here. She was a daughter of Will Nesbitt.

Surviving are a son and two daughters: Lonnie Herald, Mrs. Sophia Mosley and Laura Belle Herald, all of Emma.

Funeral rites were conducted at 1 p.m. Wednesday from the Emma Free Will Baptist Church, and burial was made in the Herald cemetery under the direction of Herald & Stewart Funeral Home, of West Liberty.

SURVEY NOTES FEWER GRADS GO TO COLLEGE

More pupils are being graduated from Floyd county's nine high schools but fewer are going to college.

This is the conclusion reached by Earl Martin, director of pupil personnel of the Floyd school system, after a study of statistical evidence.

Only 31 per cent of the 1960-1961 crop of high school graduates in this county went on to college, and this is a drop of two per cent from the preceding year's figure and seven per cent below the number going to college after graduation in 1959.

Martin noted not only the fewer who are entering college but he pointed out the greater percentage of high school entrants who are graduated. "A greater number of high school entrants are being graduated than in former years, indicating the holding power of our nine high schools but since fewer go to institutions of higher learning than in former years it points up the need of a college in the Prestonsburg area," Martin said.

Floyd county high schools graduated 546 seniors last year but 912 students had enrolled four years earlier. This represented a drop-out of 40 per cent. In the 1959-1960 school year there were 521 graduates from 881 entrants four years earlier, reflecting a dropout of 41 per cent.

The statistics show that of the 546 graduates of last year, 117 stayed at home. This was 21 per cent. Of the 521 graduates of the 1959-1960 school year, 127, or 24 per cent, stayed home.

Martin concludes that if there were adequate college facilities in this region, fewer high school graduates would elect to stay at PLANT SITE CONTRACT SIGNED—The Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad became the lessor Wednesday of the projected strawberry processing plant here when Graham Burchett, Squad captain, left, signed a one-year lease with a two-year renewal option with Carl Abbott, Bedford, Ky., professor. Processing will start in May with 80 employees. Berries will be produced chiefly by Floyd, Johnson and Martin counties.

SCHOOL AUDIT IS COMPLETED

Clark, Board Chairman Express Gratification At Findings of Firm

Ray Howard, chairman of the Floyd County Board of Education, and County Superintendent Charles Clark joined this week in expressing their gratification at the findings of the four-year audit of the county school system.

The audit was recently completed by the independent auditing firm of Bandy, Adams & Smith, of Ashland, and was officially presented to the Board at its January 6 meeting.

"It was a wonderful audit. . . . everything in tip-top shape," commented Howard.

Said Clark:

"I was in agreement with the Board's employment of certified public accountants to conduct the audit, because I felt the people of Floyd county who are paying the taxes are entitled to know where every dime of the school money is going. It's my thinking that an audit should be conducted at the end of, or during, each school year, and I shall recommend that to the Board."

The audit covered the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1957, and ending June 30, 1961. These included the last three years of the administration of Virgil O. Turner and the first of Charles Clark as county superintendent.

Reporting to the Board, Ira F. Smith, of the firm of Bandy, Adams & Smith, said the auditors "found the records neat and orderly and control of the records, considering the voluminous work involved, good."

To reduce the audit findings to layman's terms, Superintendent Clark asked Smith at the Board meeting three pointed questions:

1. Did you find anything what-

PILOT LUNCH PROGRAM SET

Two Big Mud Schools Are First Recipients Under Months-Old Plans

The largest rural school pilot lunch program in the United States was initiated in this county Tuesday with the serving of hot lunches to the pupils of the Spruce Pine school at Honaker and the Frasure school near Grethel.

The 80 Floyd schools which will be participating in the program when it is fully developed here within the next few weeks will comprise roughly a third of the schools in the nation that are taking part.

At the two Floyd schools which had a part in launching the program Tuesday a full, pre-cooked lunch was heated on equipment supplied by patrons of the schools. The foodstuffs, except for bread and milk, were supplied by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Milk and bread and facilities for heating and serving the meals are the responsibility of the schools and their respective communities. The Floyd County Board of Education is active as sponsor of the program but does not have any school funds invested in it.

Attending the launching of the program at the two schools were County Superintendent Charles F. Clark, Miss Blanche Dingus, health coordinator for the Board, Thomas J. Wilson, Atlanta, Georgia, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and Arvid P. Dopson, USDA representative in the administration of the Floyd food stamp pilot program.

The diet made available to rural school children under the pilot lunch program is the equivalent of one-third to one-half of the daily nutritional requirements of each child, Mr. Dobson said. Available for the planning of the pupils' diet needs are beef, pork and gravy, and beans with tomato sauce to provide proteins. Vegetables and fruits include tomatoes, krait, green beans, green peas, sweet

COLLEGE SITE FUNDS NEAR $80,000 MARK

Judge Hill Appointed Regional Vice-Chairman For '62 Red Cross Fund

Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill, of Prestonsburg, has been appointed a volunteer regional fund vice-chairman for the 1962 Red Cross campaign. It was announced last week in Lexington by Frank Seale, National Fund vice-chairman.

Judge Hill served in a similar capacity for the 1958 campaign.

He will advise and assist chapters in fund-raising efforts, planning and organization. Judge Hill's post calls for him to consult on over-all planning with Mr. Seale and with other vice-chairmen.

FIRE RAZES ALLEN SHOP

Building Loss Is Set At $10,000; Two Fire Engines Battle Blaze

An Allen building in which Pauline Akers conducted a beauty shop and dress shop was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday morning. Estimated loss of the building, belonging jointly to Bill Williams and Miss Akers, was set at $10,000. Loss of the stock and fixtures of the two shops was not estimated. The building was partially insured, it is said.

The Prestonsburg and Martin fire departments arrived too late to save the building which caught fire at 4 a.m. Efforts of the firemen saved the nearby residence of Benny Slone.

Miss Akers expressed the opinion that the fire may have been caused by electricity. She was at home at Banner when the fire was discovered.

ENFORCEMENT CONCERN EXPRESSED IN REPORT

Deep concern because of the increasing number of child desertion cases appearing on the Floyd circuit court docket and some question as to the genuineness of many of these cases were voiced in the final report filed by the grand jury prior to adjournment here Monday.

"This type of indictment," said the report, signed by Kermit Howard, foreman, "is returned in many instances to permit the prosecuting witnesses to become recipients of the welfare or the aid to dependent children program. It is the grand jury's hope and recommendation that the courts take whatever legal means necessary to apply more stringent prosecution in these cases. . . ."

This feature of the report echoed mounting concern expressed nationally because of the growing load of welfare cases.

Liquor law violations, the increasing number of juvenile offenders and the need of a new courthouse and jail were other items of the report. (The reference to the courthouse appears in the fiscal court story in this edition.)

The jury noted that the violation of liquor laws in the county "has evidently reached a proportion which is distressing and alarming to the law-abiding citizens of the county." It strongly recommended that officials, the courts and the people cooperate to do all in their power to bring illegal selling and trafficking in liquor under control. Prosecution "to the fullest extent of the law" was the suggested remedy.

Full investigation and the strictest prosecution were also recommended in drunk driving cases and other "serious" violations. The jury reported that it had found the county offices "in good order and being used to the best ability, taking into consideration the condition and room available in the courthouse."

The jury examined approximately 100 witnesses and voted 50 indictments. Major indictments were listed as follows:

Jack Shepherd and Virgil Bray, five indictments on grand larceny charges; Fred Little, reckless use of a deadly weapon; Berlin Jacobs, Venis Hall and Denver Coburn, breaking and entering; Kenneth Mitchell, Larry and Shirley Newsome, grand larceny; William Kidd, John Lloyd Sturgill, George Brown, Allen Moore, Raymond Crider, Forest Dean Mitchell, (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

Fire Chief Issues Warning To Drivers; Prosecution Is Threat

Henry Gray, newly installed Prestonsburg Fire Chief, issued a warning to the public this week that persons who drive their cars over the department's hose at fires will be prosecuted.

"The hose costs $1.75 per foot and when a 50-foot hose is bursted, that is a considerable loss to the taxpayers of Prestonsburg," Gray said.

Gray pointed out that an ordinance provides a penalty for driving an automobile over a fire hose and he expects to seek enforcement.

RADIOS, BANKS OTHERS SPARK DRIVE EFFORT

Second Radiothon Set Saturday; Clark Notes Teachers Make Pledges

Pledges made to the Big Sandy College Development Corporation for the purchase of a site here for a two-year college to serve Floyd and other counties of the area stands at a figure somewhere between $75,000 and $80,000.

This was the report heard Wednesday at the luncheon meeting of the Prestonsburg Community Development Council.

The drive continues, with $100,000 as the goal. Leaders and supporters of the fund drive hailed the enthusiastic response to the solicitation for funds, and expect to pass the goal by Saturday of this week.

Sunday's all-day radiothon staged by Radio Station WPRP attracted wide interest and participation, and resulted in pledges totaling $23,651.

Radio Station WDOC will stage a similar program Saturday, beginning at 5:15 a.m., and continuing till sign-off at 5:30 p.m.

County Superintendent Charles Clark reported that the movement in the schools for funds is continuing and that reports are incomplete. Some teachers have made pledges at banking institutions. Pledges on hand at the Superintendent's office total $4,130.85.

Exclusive of the WPRP pledges, the First National Bank reported $22,901.80; the Bank Josephine, $12,000; the First Guaranty Bank, $10,330; the Floyd Federal Savings & Loan Association, $8,000.

For Saturday's radiothon Floyd county banks, through their branches, will receive pledges by telephone. The Inland Steel Company at Wheelright and Evans Elkhorn Coal Company, Wayland, will render the same service at their offices.

Wednesday's meeting also heard of the support given the college plan by other communities. Paintsville, in particular, was mentioned, since its leaders and civic groups had renounced a resolution introduced by Rep. Dempsey, of Inez, in the General Assembly, seeking a junior college for the Paintsville area. The Paintsville Chamber of Commerce and other groups have, in effect, asked that only Prestonsburg be considered, since an option already has been taken on a site here, funds are being raised and the Governor's Commission on Public Higher Education has given the Prestonsburg area No. 1 priority.

COMBS TELLS COLLEGE PLAN

Lawmakers Will Receive Program At This Session To Implement His Views

Governor Combs this week outlined in some detail the junior college program he has in mind for Kentucky and which will be submitted to the General Assembly at the current session.

Each of the four junior colleges suggested by the Governor's Commission on Public Higher Education would have its own advisory board of trustees with as much local control as possible but would be administered through the University of Kentucky.

The two-year colleges would be known as "Prestonsburg Community College," "Hopkinsville Community College," and so on. The Commission listed Prestonsburg, Hopkinsville, Somerset and perhaps the Blackey-Hazard area for the four colleges, in that order.

Governor Combs said he intends to follow that order of establishing the institutions.

The Commission suggested that the regional colleges be independent of any other state educational institution, but the Governor said he felt the entire situation could be handled better otherwise.

He said he plans to meet soon with the presidents of the state colleges and the university "and thrash this thing out so it will be a workable system." For that reason, he called his plans tentative and subject to change. He added that details remain to be worked out on the relationship of the junior colleges to the university.

TOURISM SEEN AS ANSWER TO PROBLEMS OF REGION

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD

Quicksand, Ky.—Those concerned most with an improved economy for Eastern Kentucky have generally agreed that while tourism probably isn't the complete answer, it does have a monumental potential and should be encouraged, developed, and nurtured in each locality in this 30-county area.

Just how much of an impact it can have on a community is to be seen in figures furnished by J. W. Terry, president of the London-Laurel County Development Association, London.

Since bare statistics usually make dull reading except to those directly concerned, the full report furnished by Terry will not be detailed. It will be sufficient to state that a survey of 97 businesses catering to tourists in London revealed they were taking in the magnificent sum of nearly 3 1/2 million tourist dollars annually.

Terry said these establishments which include service stations, garages, hotels, motels, restaurants, gift shops and retail stores, have an investment of slightly more than five million dollars. Considering the investment and the amount taken in, this, in any financial language, appears to be a "pretty fair" return.

London has a population of 4,002. Terry said, and of this number 409 are employed in the tourist services industry. He continued, however, that anyone thinking these 409 persons were the only ones benefitting, was wrong.

Every person in the community benefits from the tourist business, he said. The people directly catering to the tourist benefit first, of course, but they in turn spend for their needs, and so on until everyone in the community eventually benefits.

Because of its location on major highways, its proximity to some of the better fishing waters of the state, its state park, and other attractions, London does have a certain tourist-drawing advantage not shared by some of the other sections and cities in this portion of the state. Yet, there are few places in the whole area that do not possess tourist attractions of one kind or another. Nearly all sections have the built-in attraction of magnificent scenery. Many have good fishing waters and hunting territory. Many also have little-publicized, little-known territories for hiking, exploring and camping.

Actually opportunities for capturing the tourist dollar in this whole area are tremendous. The means of capture, as Terry's report seems to show, are development, promotion, and more than just a rapacious interest in the tourist dollar. One thing Londoners know how to do: They know how to treat travelers: How to make them feel at home while there, and to want to go back again after they have gone.

Recent surveys and studies show that tourism is on the increase, not only in Kentucky, but all over the nation. There's not a section in this state that can not benefit, and J. W. Terry's analysis of London and Laurel county gives a good idea of just how much.

The good thing about the tourist industry is that there is plenty to go around. Sometimes it takes a little doing to get it, but assistance is available from the State Tourist and Travel Promotion Council, the Eastern Kentucky Resource Development Project, and for that matter, many organizations right at home.

Before anyone knows it, spring with all its tourist-attracting wonders will be here again. The tourist industry will swing into high gear and communities wanting a piece of this business need only to check on what they have to offer, and offer it.

True it is, there will be competition, but a little competition never hurt anybody. As was mentioned before, there are plenty of tourists to go around if there is something for them to go around to and they are treated right as they go.

Miss Burchett, Mr. Allen Wed

The marriage of Miss Sarah Elizabeth Burchett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Burchett, and Mr. Robert Ronald Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Allen, took place at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of December 26, 1961 at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, Prestonsburg, with the Rev. Ira McMillen, Jr. officiating before a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

The church was decorated with palms, English holly and white gladioli. Arrangements of greenery and white poinsettias in each window held a white taper. Cathedral candelabra and floor baskets of white gladioli were used on either side of the altar. White satin ribbons marked the reserved pews.

Before the bridal party entered a musical program was rendered by Mrs. Ira McMillen at the organ. "Liebestraum," by Liszt, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," De-Koner's "O, Promise Me," and Barnby's "Traumeri" were played. Wagner's "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin was used for the procession; Barnby's "O, Perfect Love," during the ceremony, and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" as the recessional. Miss Sally Hill sang "Because"

and "Whither Thou Goest" at the close of the ceremony. Miss Hill sang "The Lord's Prayer." Miss Hill's gown was of red velvet.

Miss Martha Ann Burchett was her sister's maid of honor. Her bridesmaids were Misses Lois Combs, Frankfort, Ky., Mary Alice Allen, sister of the groom, Sharon Allen and Denise Hall, all of Prestonsburg. They were gowned in street-length dresses of green embossed velveteen, fashioned with bell skirts, scoop necklines and elbow-length sleeves. Matching clutch hats of velvet petals and nose veils completed their costumes. They carried nosegay bouquets of white carnations tied with white satin ribbons.

Best man was Mr. David D. Allen, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Johnny Allen, Raleigh Archer, Burl Wells Spurlock and Dick Leslie, all of Prestonsburg.

The bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage. She was gowned in pale ivory banquet taffeta, fashioned with scoop neckline, elbow-length sleeves and bell skirt. Alencon lace fronted the bodice and formed an apron-shaped bell skirt with oblique bow at the waist in back with a chapel train. Her headdress was a matching lace clutch with double fingertip veil of French illusion. She carried a white Bible topped with white orchids.

The vows of the double-ring ceremony were said beneath an arch entwined with English holly and white gladioli.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Burchett, was attired in a costume suit of blue with matching accessories. She wore a white orchid. Mrs. Allen, the groom's mother, wore a dress of pineapple green silk with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Burchett entertained at a reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Salisbury, Jr. The guests were received by Mrs. Salisbury, Mrs. Edward P. Hill, Jr., Mrs. Barkley Sturgill, Mrs. Zella Archer and Mrs. James Camicia. Misses Kay Ann Frazier, Mary Lynn Sharp, Arnita Clark and Lynn Salisbury assisted in serving. Miss Martha Sue May kept the bride's book. Nancy Conway and Chaddie Salisbury and Kathy Camicia passed rice tied in white and pink net to the guests.

The house was decorated in pink and silver. The dining table was overlaid with a cut lace cloth centered with the four-tiered bride's cake. The cake was circled with white carnations, mums and ferns. Silver candelabra held white tapers. The appointments were of crystal and silver.

The bride's going-away costume was a blue wool suit with which she wore a white fur hat and blue accessories. Floyd Countians Working Together

Win or lose, the fight for a junior college to serve Floyd and surrounding counties has been a great thing. It has brought Floyd county's people together in a community of interest which gives rise to hope for the years ahead.

Working together, planning, hoping together, our people have found that they need each other. In this way we learn that horns and halos are not the private property of any special part of the county. So we find that we all share common needs, and in our ambitions and dreams, too.

We think of the splendid leadership of a man who lives at Allen as a junior college has been talked, and that college to be located at Prestonsburg. We recall those contributions to the site fund which have been made by folks who live far up the creeks, of contributions which mean a real sacrifice . . . of the Boy Scout troop which emptied its treasury of $1.95 . . . of the Maytown girl who pledged two or three contributions for as many young men from this county who now are in distant places because education and opportunity did not exist at home . . .

The sun shines brighter . . . Floyd county is not only willing, it is glad to help itself. And doing so, we help one another.

We wish the members of the Kentucky Legislature could see and hear our people, these days, as they work and plan, if not pray, together for this chance of a college education here at home for so many who cannot go away from home until circumstances drive them away.

Win or lose, we gain. But we shall not lose. Floyd county is on its way to better things.

ENTOMOLOGIST ADDED

Lexington, Ky.—The University of Kentucky Extension Service will have an entomologist beginning this March, says Lee H. Townsend, University of Kentucky Experiment Station entomologist. The new staffer is Richard L. Miller, Indiana native currently finishing doctoral work at Iowa State University, Ames.

BARTLEY IN GERMANY

Bad Kreuznach, Germany—Pfc. James E. Bartley, Jr., whose parents live at Wheelwright, Kentucky, recently passed the Army's new physical combat proficiency test in Germany.

The test, based on skills which require agility, coordination and endurance, is designed to evaluate a soldier's physical capabilities and to determine whether an individual possesses the stamina which would be needed on a battlefield.

Bartley, a mechanic in the 8th Infantry Division's Headquarters in Bad Kreuznach, entered the Army in December, 1959, and completed basic training at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

The 19-year-old soldier attended Wheelwright high school.

LICE CONTROL FOR CATTLE

Lexington, Ky.—Dairy and beef cattle should have been treated in October and November for control of lice—but if they are infested, they can still be treated. So says Fred Knapp, University of Kentucky Experiment Station entomologist. In cold weather such as experienced in January, materials should be used in dust form.

Kentucky's Corn Crop To Average 55 Bushels, An Increase Over 1960

Kentucky's 1961 corn crop, an estimated 61,400,000 bushels, probably will average 55 bushels an acre.

That's the report from Frank Loeffel, University of Kentucky Experiment Station corn researcher. He was quoting statistics issued recently by the Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Kentucky Department of Agriculture.

The 55-bushel figure is based on harvesting from some 1,116,000 acres.

The statisticians said the 1961 record per-acre yield is seven bushels an acre above the 1960 figure, 48 bushels an acre.

Total production in 1961 was 16 production of 73,400,000 bushels and per cent below 1960's total corn 13 per cent below the 1950-1959 average. Acreage harvested also was down 27 per cent from the 1960 figure due to the government's feed grain program.

Production of popcorn in 1961 also set a new record. It was 58-750,000 pounds, 72 per cent higher than the 1960 figure (34,200,000) and more than twice the average production of 1950-1959 (25,614,000 pounds).

Kentucky accounted for one eighth of U. S. production and ranked fourth nationally behind Indiana, Iowa and Illinois. A year ago, Kentucky was sixth highest popcorn producer.

Average yield per acre for 1961—2,350 pounds—also exceeds the previous record of 2,050 pounds set in 1958. The 1960 yield averaged 1,800 pounds.

Kentucky growers averaged about $2.95 a hundredweight for the 1961 crop, 15 cents a hundred more than last year. Total value of the 1961 at $1,733,000 compared to only Kentucky popcorn was estimated $980,000 in 1960.

THE OLD JOHNSON HOME ON PRATER CREEK

The old Jim Johnson family home on Prater Creek, Floyd county, was built over a century ago by a member of the family. It still stands and is now owned by Norman Martin, grandson of Jasper Johnson, who is shown on horseback in the photograph.

Shown in the picture, besides Jasper Johnson, are Susan Cecil, Lizzie Cecil and Augusta Johnson. Standing near the horse is Susan Johnson, now the widow of former Floyd County Sheriff T. Y. Martin.

The First National Bank presents these pictures of the region's past in recognition of our historical heritage.

Reclassification Plans Made by Local Boards; Induct Five Registrants

Five registrants of Local Board 166 here began service in the Armed Forces, January 11. They are:

Cline Johnson, Halo; James D. Hopson, Langley; Donald E. Whitt, Garrett; Charles R. Broglin, Wheelwright, volunteer, and Fred Little, Jr., Melvin, volunteer.

The same draft board sent eight of its registrants the same day to Ashland for preinduction examination. Those examined are:

Charles Centers, Hueysville; Daniel B. Blevins, Harold; Beecher Dean Castle, Hueysville; Bobby G. Jones, Minnie; Everett S. Moore, Price; Thomas E. Hamilton, Teaberry; Andy J. Dye, Price; Winston J. Tackett, Teaberry.

Moore, Hamilton, Dye and Tackett were listed as volunteers. Draft Boards 166 and 25 here stand ready to reclassify, under an amendment to Selective Service regulations issued by the President, their registrants who hitherto were classed 4-F.

"The regulation was amended to create a new selective service classification. The new classification is 'Class I-Y,' Lt. Col. Everette S. Stephenson, Kentucky state director of Selective Service, said.

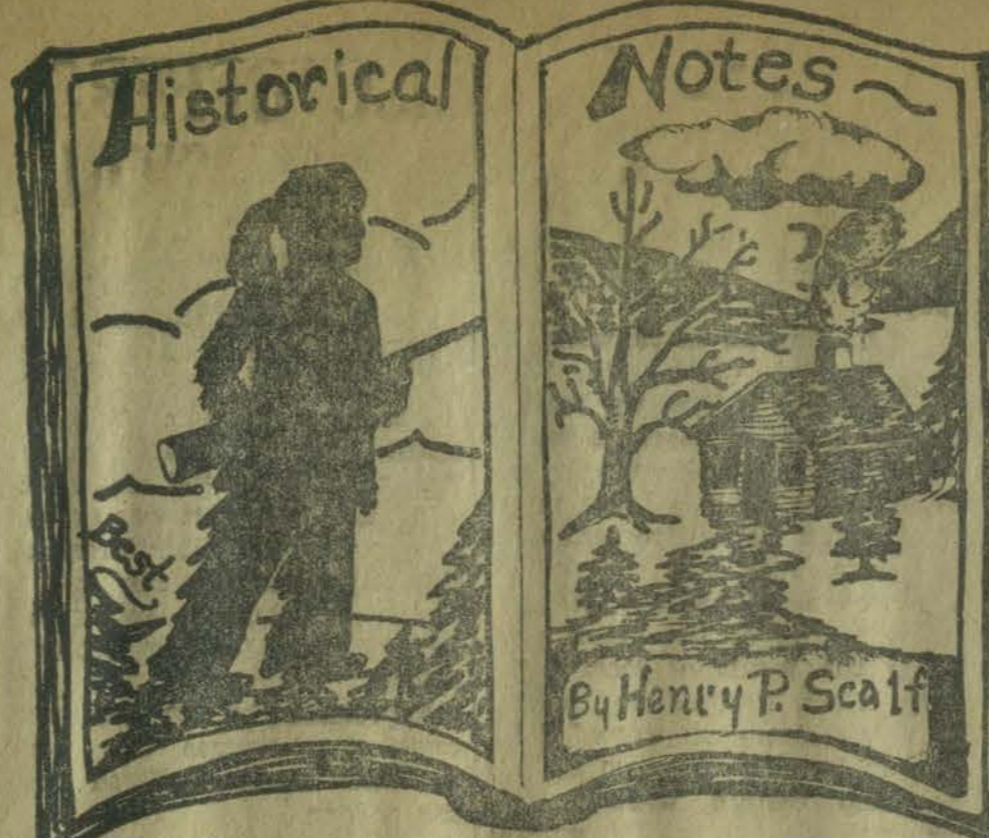

"Registrants who are found not qualified by the Armed Forces for military service under current physical, mental and moral standards, but who are considered to be qualified to serve in an emergency will be placed in the new class. Previously such men were placed in Class IV-F. Only men not qualified for any military service will be placed hereafter in Class IV-F," the State Director added.

The new classification permits the ready identification day by day of men who are considered to be qualified and available in an emergency, and thus facilitates the mobilization of manpower rapidly in case of need.

Colonel Stephenson estimated that 40 per cent of the registrants of Kentucky, now being found not qualified by the Armed Forces, would be eligible for the new classification. This estimate was based on a pilot project.

"A review of the files of the 87,020 IV-F registrants in the state's 136 local boards indicate that approximately 35,000 will be eligible for possible military service in a declared emergency," Colonel Stephenson said.

Newport, Isle of Wight, England — A local farmer reported his 10-year-old toothless sheep gained 20 pounds when he had a dentist fit it with false teeth.

MUTILATED POLL BOOK

Elections were pretty "rugged" in a few mountain counties three quarters of a century ago and if there was vote stealing to be done no more effective job could have been performed than the one that made R. O. Brashears, Sheriff of Lecher county, the victim.

We read Brashears' wall in a letter to Attorney T. Y. Fitzpatrick, of Prestonsburg, dated August 6, 1886. The discomfited Sheriff wrote from Whitesburg.

We quote: "I want you to come here at once. You never saw such a mutilated poll book from the 5th district in your life. L. W. Fields acted as the clerk of the election the last part of the day and after night the appointed clerk acted in the morning and taken the last votes by the board and two or three others at 10 or 12 o'clock at night.

"The book is or has been erased from one end to the other in my race. It gives Fields a majority of 53 votes. He only defeated me by this rascality by 31 votes. I made the best race that was ever made by a clodhopper in this land. Today the appointed clerk has gave word to some of his friends that there was fraud perpetrated. He is a good man.

"They even taken and recorded idiot votes who are drawing $75 per annum from the state. The record shows it. I can't tell you the tenth part of the meanness that has been done. They are the meanest set of men that you ever looked in the face of. Come at once. Bring Wat Harkins with you if he will be reasonable. I will commence taking depositions Monday 9th instant. Will examine board of officers for said district first. Don't fail."

Brashears doesn't say what office he was seeking nor do we know the result of the contest case.

Evidently there had been an appeal for help from Knott county to an uncle of Brashears for he added in a postscript to Fitzpatrick:

"Uncle Jim has gone to Hindman to contest for Bates."

WRIGHT WANTED TIMBER

Devil John Wright wanted to do business with "Bolling Bill" Hall of the Right Beaver Creek section in 1887. For one thing the Letcher county feudist who lived on Elk-horn Creek wanted to buy Hall's timber but there is an inference that he wanted to talk about something else.

The letter, from "Wright P.O." was dated February 1, 1887. It was addressed to Mr. Bolling Hall.

We quote: "I sent T. G. Bates and J. S. Greer to see you. I will measure your timber anytime."

Year's Illness Claims Mother of P'burg Man At Paintsville, Jan. 9

Funeral rites for Mrs. Evaline Crothers Price, 73, mother of Thomas Crothers, of Prestonsburg, were conducted Friday afternoon from the Paintsville United Baptist Church.

Mrs. Price, a resident of West Van Lear and formerly of Wayland, died at the Paintsville hospital, January 9, after a year's illness of heart disease.

The daughter of the late Robert and Elizabeth Collins Williams, she was a native of Flat Gap, Johnson county. She was a member of the United Baptist Church for many years. Her first husband died at Wayland in 1925, and she later was carried to Clarence Price, who survives. She also leaves four sons and two daughters: Thomas Crothers, Prestonsburg, Robert Crothers, Santa Barbara, California, William Crothers, Rio Grande, Ohio, Danny Crothers, Jackson, Ohio, Mrs. Nell Penix, West Van Lear, and Mrs. Olive Justice, Covington, Kentucky. Two sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Stone, Brooksville, Florida, and Mrs. Della Whitt, Huntington, West Virginia, also survive.

Funeral rites were conducted by the Rev. Wallace Calhoun and others. Burial was made in High-lawn cemetery, near Paintsville, under direction of the Preston Funeral Home.

Stewardship Conference Scheduled At Paintsville

A one-day stewardship conference will be held on Monday, Feb. 5 at the First Baptist Church in Paintsville. Sponsored by the Kentucky Baptist Convention, the conference will share ideas with Baptists of this area as to how they can better finance their own churches, and the mission work of the denomination. Special attention will be given to the Cooperative Program and associational missions.

Dr. Harold G. Sanders, new general secretary of the Kentucky Baptist Convention, will bring the inspirational address at 11:45 a.m. Other leaders in the conference include Robert J. Hastings, stewardship secretary for Kentucky Baptists; Ralph Douglas, assistant executive secretary for Arkansas Baptists; and Thomas Francis, area Missionary at Henderson.

The conference will begin at 9:30 a.m. and conclude at 3:00 p.m.

"I want to see you and have a talk with you. Tell me when and where I can see you. I will come to your house if you think best. Let me hear from you soon. Don't fail to let me have your timber. John W. Wright."

Which, I think, proves that Devil John Wright, had something on his mind besides timber.

AN ISOLATED STRIP

A former correspondent, Mr. R. B. Maynard, of Heenon, resumes his interesting contributions to this column. He had discontinued due to being out of the area to construct shell homes.

He writes:

"Pike and Martin counties were formed from land that was cut off from Floyd county many, many years ago. For years afterwards there remained a narrow strip of Floyd county extending eastward between Pike and Martin counties along the left-hand watershed of Brushy Creek for about six miles, or to be exact, to the head of Bull Branch and later known as the Bud Maynard Branch and near the forks of Brushy Creek.

"The ridge forming the watershed between Brushy Creek and Wolf Creek, formed the line between Martin and Pike counties and the line between Floyd and Pike counties was a straight line from the Kif's Narrows Branch near the mouth of Brushy Creek to the head of the Bud Maynard Branch and only taking in the head of the Big Branch and Spankum Branch.

"A few families lived on the headwaters of these branches—Fountain Lowe and Jordan Maynard on the head of Big Branch and Brownie Lowe on the head of Spankum Branch. Back in the late 1800's they had to go all the way to Dix (Dick's?) Creek to vote, a distance of 17 miles."

Lorenzo D. Freeman, Of Cliff, Is Claimed; Burial, George Cemetery

Lorenzo Dow Freeman, 63, of Cliff, was claimed by a heart attack at 4 p.m., Monday. He was dead on arrival at the Prestonsburg General hospital.

Mr. Freeman was a son of Harrison and Hester Harmon Freeman and the husband of Rosa Yates Freeman, who survives. He was a member of the Church of God.

Four sons survive: Ronnie Clay, Paul Edward, Glenn, all at home, and Ezekiel, in Ohio. Two sisters, Mrs. Alice Cook, Sciotoville, Ohio, and Mrs. Lizzie Ferrell, Matewan, West Virginia, survive.

Funeral rites were conducted at 2 p.m., Wednesday, from the First Church of God, at Prestonsburg, the Rev. Moses Kitchen officiating. Burial was made in the George cemetery on Little Paint Creek under the direction of Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

soever amiss when you went over vehicles?

2. Did you in auditing our Board accounts find any indication of improper use of monies or materials?
3. Did you find any indication of personal use of school monies on the part of the people in the schools.

To each question the accountant replied, "No."
He said excellent records could be found in most of the individual schools and that there was no indication of improper use of school funds, but he did point out that the records of certain schools are incomplete.

In the accounting firm's formal statement to the Board it was pointed out that examination of school activity funds for the various individual schools "revealed a laxity in some of the schools."
Tighter control over athletic event receipts should be maintained, the statement added, pointing out that this can be done by controlling ticket sales through the use of pre-numbered tickets and by accounting for all tickets sold and cash received.

"It is just as important," the accountants in their formal statement reminded the Board, "for the schools to maintain good control and record-keeping for the funds entrusted to them as it is for the Board to do likewise."

Cash payments should be kept at a minimum in the schools, it was suggested. "Some schools pay too much by cash," the auditors said.

The accounting firm announced its intention, Superintendent Clark said, to send a statement outlining accounting procedures to each school principal. At the principals' meeting held at Martin, January 8, Smith suggested a uniform system of record-keeping, or one as uniform as possible. It was pointed out that better and more uniform records are kept since clerks at the several schools have been employed.

A continuous inventory of office equipment at the Board's offices and at the high schools of the county was suggested. "We should and will have that," Superintendent Clark commented.

Other suggestions made to the Board by the auditors were:
1. More efficient control over receipts by use of a duplicate receipt book to record cash received from non-revenue sources.
2. More control exercised over the property and equipment purchased by the Board. This would include the use of a ledger to contain a complete listing of all property and equipment purchased by the Board, with proper identification tags on items, with the cost of each individual purchase and location of the items listed.
3. Interest coupon redemption schedule for each bond issue.

Involved in the audit was the handling of more than $9,000,000 during the four-year period.

BUTCHER ASKS EARLY ORDERS

Nurseries Ready Trees For Immediate Shipment; Reforestation Is Urged

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 15 (Spl.) — Tree-planting time in Floyd county is almost here, and forest tree seedlings are being lifted now from the seed beds at three state forest nurseries, Gene L. Butcher, director of the Kentucky Division of Forestry, has announced.

Bundles, ready for quick delivery, are packed in units of 500 and 1,000 for white, loblolly and shortleaf pines. Orders received from Floyd countians during January and February will receive prompt attention, Butcher said.

"Orders should be placed early, so planting can be done early," Butcher said. Seedlings planted in March have the advantage of spring rains for a good start, he stressed. Too, the planting can be done before heavy farm work starts.

Nursery Operations Chief John
P. Rhody has carried out the Division of Forestry's plan for the production of 18 million seedlings for 1962, enough to cover 18,000 acres of idle and eroded land throughout Kentucky. Butcher estimated that a million acres of land in Kentucky are in need of reforestation.

The seedlings are produced at the three state-operated nurseries —Kentucky Dam Nursery near Gilbertsville, Pennyville Nursery near Dawson Springs and the Morgan County Nursery, near Woodsburg.

A bundle of 1,000 seedlings costs $8. Selections can be made from a list of white, loblolly and short-leaf pines and black locust and yellow poplar. All of Kentucky's service foresters are ready to assist in the proper selection of species and planting information.

Floyd county residents should call, write or visit the state forestry office at Prestonsburg. Order blanks are also available at the office of the Floyd county agricultural agent, the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) office or the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee (ASC) office.

potatoes, raisins, peaches and plums.

"The cost of a lunch is 10 cents per day for each child who is able to pay.

"This may mean more work for teachers," Supt. Clark said, "but, as I have said before, we have a dedicated group of teachers and I am sure they will be vitally interested in their pupils being properly fed, even if the program does entail extra work and trouble."

Mr. Dobson pointed out Tuesday that realization of the lunch program is the result of local community effort. Parents and teachers, he said, have cooperated fully to supply heating by stove or hot plate, also certain utensils and other needed items. In several schools, it was said, the work done by patrons and teachers together has resulted in the organization of Parent-Teacher Associations where no such group had ever before existed.

Foodstuffs began arriving here Monday. Superintendent Clark said foods may be picked up at the old high school building here by teachers, P.T.A.'s and other authorized groups as soon as they are ready for the program in their respective schools.

The Area Redevelopment group, representing six counties, adopted resolutions Tuesday night at its Paintsville meeting endorsing the Floyd county location.

Mrs. R. V. May, president of the Prestonsburg Community Development Council, announced at Wednesday's meeting that Prestons-burg is one of three towns in the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce as Kentucky's model community travel development town. If selected, the entire community would be involved in a program including courtesy to tourists, supplying information to travellers as to recreation and historic spots of the county and region, and offering other services.

A committee will appear at the February 1 meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in Lexington to point out Prestonsburg's claims for being so designated. Charles Conley, of the Kiwanis Club, was named committee chairman, with Cal Herrick and John G. Heinze, of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Chalmer H. Frazier, Ed Music and Dr.
George P. Archer as members.

MSC OFFERS 2nd SESSION

Of Extension Work Here; Organizational Meeting Scheduled 6 p.m. Friday

Morehead State College will again offer extension classes at Prestonsburg on the freshman and sophomore levels. It was announced this week by Walter Frasure, assistant superintendent of Floyd county schools. The extension center will open for the second time, Friday.

Approximately 200 students are completing courses this week in the first courses offered here by the college.

The new classes, requested by 120 students who returned survey forms sent out by the superintendent's office here, will be in English, geography, history, psychology, science, mathematics and human growth and development. Other classes could possibly be offered, it is said.

High school graduates, freshmen and sophomore students who have dropped out of college, adult persons who have not completed high school or persons interested in auditing classes may enroll, Frasure said.

Interested persons should attend the organizational meet at the Prestonsburg high school building at 6 p.m., Friday.

The visitor expressed the considered opinion that a man who would go into the newspaper business should have his head examined, and I rejoined that if the examination were made when he first started he would be committed and kept there.

Then when I mentioned getting out of the racket but admitted I knew nothing else to do, there was a silence. Finally, I remarked that I would like to be a gentleman farmer. To which Mr. Moore rejoined, "You could partially qualify—you could be a farmer."

That's what you get for complaining.

VICTORY over fuel system icing

NEWS ITEM: Washington—The Air Force has approved the use of a new chemical additive to prevent in-flight difficulties from ice formation in jet aircraft fuel systems. This additive is an exclusive development of Phillips Petroleum Company.

In your car, as in jet bombers, Phillips 66 provides anti-icing protection!

Flying miles high in the stratosphere, where temperatures can drop to 70° below zero, SAC bombers will rely on a Phillips Anti-Icing additive to guard against in-flight fuel system freeze-ups. This additive is approved for use in all military jet aircraft.

Of special importance to you, the motorist, is the fact that your car can run better in winter weather thanks to Phillips cold weather fuel formulations.

Phillips knows exactly what it takes to blend gasoline for easy starting and freedom from stalling in cold weather. Fill up with Sixty-Six Gasoline or Flite-Fuel and get the benefit of Phillips Anti-Icing protection all through the cold months.
Drive in where you see the Phillips 66 Shield.

Have more fun going... Go Phillips 66

RETARDED CHILD EDUCATION POSES KENTUCKY PROBLEMS

"Mama!" cried Mary Jane, as she pitifully watched her younger sister leave for school, "why can't I go to school, too?"

This question is asked daily by thousands of mentally retarded children throughout Kentucky and the nation.

A basic precept in the philosophy of American public education is that each and every child should be provided with the opportunity to develop to his maximum capacity. The philosophy is good. The fact is, though, that Mary Jane, and thousands like her are not in school.

"Mama, why . . . ?"

The provision of school services for mentally retarded children presents problems of considerable extent and importance in our nation—Kentucky not excepted.

The Division of Special Education of the Kentucky Department of Education reports that there are an estimated 14,950 retarded children in the state who are in need of special training which should be provided by the public schools. Only 24 of the 211 local school districts have special classes for the retarded, and there are fewer than 2,000 children enrolled. The Division estimates that 750 special classes are needed to meet the present need.

"The program of education for these children is expensive," points out Miss Stella A. Edwards, director of the Kentucky Division of Special Education.

"The rewards of such a program, however, are worth the cost. For without educational opportunities these handicapped children may become charges of the state at a much higher cost," Miss Edwards added.

Progress in a program for educational opportunities for the retarded, leading educators admit, will take place by small advances along a broad front. They see this continuing advance in the form of:

1. Improvement of quality of instruction for the retarded,
2. Greater interest on the local level,
3. More specialized professional training for teachers in the field,
4. Increase in number of classes and workshops for all levels of the retarded, and
5. The availability of funds to implement and expand present programs.

Within the space of a few recent years Kentucky has made some progress. Five years ago there were only 22 classroom units for retarded children. Today there are 126 such units. Also, there is increased financial aid, greater opportunities for teacher preparation, more qualified teachers and increased leadership.

Charles E. Acuff, director of the State Division of Mental Retardation, has repeatedly stressed the value of educational program for the retarded.

"Although educational stimulation does not cure mental retardation, it can improve the functioning level of these children if provided early enough," Acuff said.

"About one-third of all mentally retarded are children and many are now attending public and private schools with normal children. Most find it progressively more difficult to keep up, thus compounding the problems of mental retardation with emotional maladjustments and social incompetencies," he added.

Dr. Albert Levy, coordinator of special education for the Department of Education of the University of Kentucky and consultant to the Division of Mental

RATED HIGH

Three of the leading Region 15 high school basketball teams are listed in the top 25 in the state. Virgie slipped to fourth this week after being second and third for the past six weeks. Wheelwright was elevated to 11th spot, and Inez is in 23rd position.

The sites for the high school district and regional tournaments will be determined in Louisville this week-end when the KHSAA Board of Control meets. . . . Martin high is apparently headed for its first losing season in the past ten years under veteran coach Denzil Halbert. Halbert's teams have won twenty or more games in 11 of his 16 seasons. . . . Prestonsburg and McDowell have rescheduled their snowed-out game for January 24 at McDowell. . . . Ray Clarke, former Betsy Layne high school cage ace, is a senior on the Vanderbilt squad this season. He scored 10 points Saturday night as the Commodores jumped previously unbeaten Mississippi State. . . . John Gibson, ex-Black Cat star, has regained his starting berth for the Morehead State College Eagles. He is averaging 7 points a game. . . . Wheelwright's gifts to Marshall University, Jody Sword, Bruce Belcher and Forrest Newsome, are all regulars on the varsity and freshman cage teams. Sword, a sophomore, has taken over as the middle man on the famed fast break of the "Big Green," while Belcher and Newsome are the two leading scorers on the freshman team. . . . Now is the time to make hotel reservations in Louisville for the state high school basketball tournament, March 14-17. . . . Wheelwright high will have a busy week-end as they invade McDowell high Friday night and on Saturday night are host to powerful Lexington Dunbar of the 11th region. . . .

PIKEVILLE BEARS SCORE OVER BERA MOUNTAINEERS

Pikeville, Ky., Jan. 15 (Spl.)—The Pikeville Bears sailed to an easy win over the Berea College Mountaineers Saturday night (Jan. 13), 87-62, after a hard-fought first half which saw each team take the lead four times.

It was the second win over Berea in as many evenings for Paul Butcher's red-hot Bears, and their third in Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference games on three successive nights. The Butchermen sank more than half their shots from the field in each game, hitting on 58 per cent of their tries—30 of 51—in the first Berea encounter Friday, and now stand 4-2 in the KIAC and 12-6 in all games played.

On this week's road trip, the last before they appear at home again, the Bears will meet Bellarmine and Transylvania on their own floors Friday and Saturday in two more KIAC contests.

Jim Moore put the Bruins ahead to stay Saturday, 36-35, with a layup after Charles Duncil stole the ball from a Mountaineer with 1:19 to play in the first half. A field goal by leading scorer Pete Campbell in the last 30 seconds, and a Duncil free throw, sent them to the dressing room with a 39-35 halftime lead.

After working out to a 44-37 advantage in the first couple of minutes of the second quarter, all Bear hands cut loose with a barrage that scored 18 points while the host stood around, and broke the game open, 62-37. Campbell popped in five fielders and John Will Hunt, Duncil, Moore and Don Elliott one each in the three-minute fusillade.

All five Pikeville starters scored in double figures, as Campbell put in 13 of 20 shots from the field and three of five free throws for 29 points to lead all scorers. Elliott hit for 16 points and swept 15 rebounds to lead in that department; Duncil and Moore scored 13 tallies each, and Hunt registered 12.

Bob Fletcher and Bill Stone, in reserve action, got two points each with two chances apiece at the charity line, all in the last 45 seconds of the game.

Willard Ratliff, of Wayland, a Berea starting guard for the second night in a row, dropped in a fielder and all four of his free throws for six Mountaineer points. Mickey Castle of Coeburn, Va., saw action briefly for Berea, but did not score. Ratliff contributed, in all, nine points to the Berea cause.

The Bears toppled the Mountaineers first on Friday, romping to a 23-point lead behind Campbell's 30 points in 33 minutes, then retiring him to the bench and holding on for a 12-point win, 84-72.

Hunt, the evening's hottest shot, sank five of eight tries from the field and six of six from the line for 16 points, and Duncil contributed 14 markers. Elliott notched 10 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to be high man on the boards, and Roger Mullins added eight points, Moore five and Fletcher one.

Duncil, a key man in this win too, put Pikeville on top to stay, 10-9, with a 20-foot jumper with about 14 minutes left in the first half, and the Bears raced to a 43-30 halftime lead.

After trailing the Villa Madonna Rebels for nearly half their game Thursday, the Bruins broke the spell with seconds left in the first half and won going away, 84-73.

Campbell's fourth field goal snapped a 30-all tie with half a minute left before midgame, after cautious play on both sides during the first half. His fifth bucket gave the Bears a 34-30 halftime advantage.

With both squads turning on the fast break, the Butchermen put in 50 points in the second period to 43 for Villa Madonna. Hunt was the Bears' secret weapon, taking no shots in the first half and opening up with three quick filed goals in the first three minutes of the second.

Campbell totaled 21 points, Duncil and Mullins 17 each, Hunt 13, Fletcher 6, and Moore six. Elliott, high man in the preceding game, was cut off with a single point, and Preston hit his only shot from the field for two points.

The Pikeville junior varsity, in its only action during the week, lost to the powerful Marshall University freshmen 118-79 Saturday at Huntington. The J-V's salvaged high-point honors in the game, with Bobby Owens dropping in 22 points to lead all scorers.

NATURE TRAILS
By RUFUS M. REED

An eminent biologist recently wrote: "The greatest threat to life of all kinds is not the atomic bomb; it is the tons of deadly chemicals, the insecticides, the weed-killers, mosquito poisons and other deadly D.D.T. that is being rained down on the earth by planes and sprayed on it by man. Last year the chemical industry produced over one billion pounds of insecticides. Aerial spraying keeps more than 6,000 planes busy. These do not include sprays that are deadly killers of weeds, shrubs and wild flowers along our roads, or those used by railroads and power lines along their right-of-ways. The poison spray industry has become "Big Business."

While spraying is necessary to control pests on certain crops, it has worked ruin and destruction in other areas. Men often seek short-cuts and easy ways to solve some biological problem, or to control nature, and when they do so, they create other grave problems. This is because they disturb the balance of nature.

Take spraying now being done along our highways to control the weeds and shrubs and kill the sprouts and trees. This is a quick way to get rid of these and it keeps them down. But it causes a serious unbalance of nature. It destroys the insects on which birds must depend for food; it destroys thousands of nests of song birds, and it ruins the beautiful wild flowers that grace our roadsides and invite the traveler to stop and view the beauty of the landscape.

Walk or drive now along a highway that has recently been turned into a blackened and charred ruins by poisonous sprays; you will fall to hear the drone of the cicadas or the love song of the cricket. You will not hear the flutelike notes of the wood thrush, and you will not see the wild flowers — only black death!

All life and beauty within the right-of-way has been destroyed! Our state highway departments protest the putting up of billboards to mar the scenery, but they use poisonous sprays to destroy it! This is a quick way out, but in the name of modern progress should our diminishing wild life and beauty be sacrificed upon the altar of human stupidity?

Spraying has utterly failed to control the mosquitoes. This is because mosquitoes are smarter than men in some ways. They quickly develop complete immunity to any spray used to kill them, and are about as bad as ever in any region that has been sprayed. Instead of spraying to control the mosquitoes, if men would work with nature and use her ways, they would be kept down. A colony of purple martins will quickly clean out the mosquitoes in any region and keep them down all the summer. If we would learn how to increase our bird population instead of destroying it by poisonous chemicals, we would have less of a problem with the pests.

A countryside without songbirds is like a flower garden without any wild flowers.

Birds are not the only sufferers from poisonous sprays. These wipe out the predators that kill the insects, such as the praying mantis, the spiders, and the wasps. Did you ever notice row after row of tents of spider webs strung up along the roadside on a dewy summer morning? These spiders stretch their nets at night, to trap the insects, and they do a good job of keeping them down—unless the spiders themselves have all been killed by poisonous chemicals!

Mr. W. G. Duncan, Louisville, Kentucky, who publishes a monthly magazine on wild life says: "In New Jersey, the marshes are drained and the countryside sprayed with poisons and crude oil. But the mosquitoes remain! They have developed an immunity. Neither can you poison mosquitoes, because they quickly become immune to poison."

The fertility of birds and other wild life is also destroyed by poisonous sprays. So are the fish and aquatic forms of life.

When we drain our marshes and ponds to rid of mosquitoes, we also disturb the balance of nature and destroy the habitat of many and varied forms of wild life. Hordes of dragon flies flitting like miniature airplanes over the marshes would do a far better job in controlling the mosquitoes and other pests. This is nature's way of keeping her checks and balances, and when man interferes with her processes, he must pay the penalty in material and aesthetic loss.

INFORMATION For VETERANS

More than three million veterans holding National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) still have the opportunity of buying a low cost total disability income rider for their GI policies.

This rider was first offered to veterans in November of 1958. Since that time nearly 800,000 of the 4.5 million policyholders eligible have applied for the rider.

Olney B. Owen, manager of the VA Regional Office in Louisville, said that those policyholders who have bought this rider and who become totally disabled before age 60 and while their rider is in effect will receive a monthly income of $10 for each $1,000 face value of their policies.

Payments will continue for the duration of the disability regardless of its length.

The rider ceases to exist after age 60 and no payment is made for disabilities incurred after that age.

The premium cost of the rider varies with the policyholder's age, type of policy and its face amount, the manager explained.

Veterans whose age at nearest birthday is 40 or less may get the rider without physical examination. Those older are required to submit to a physical examination by either VA physicians or their own local doctors.

Kentucky veterans desiring to apply for the insurance rider should write to the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Louisville, Owen said.

No Mailing Charge On Borrowed Books

Frankfort—The State Library Extension Division has announced that there no longer is a mailing charge on books borrowed by mail from the Division.

Persons throughout the state who are not served by local libraries may write directly to the Library Extension Division in Frankfort and books requested are mailed to them. In the past, these borrowers have been asked to reimburse the Division for the cost of mailing the books. Now their only cost is return postage to Frankfort.

STRAWBERRIES

On Thursday night, January 18, a strawberry meeting will be held at the Floyd county courthouse. W. W. Magill, strawberry specialist from the University of Kentucky will discuss production practices. Anyone thinking of setting strawberries this spring should attend, as well as those with strawberries.

Some items to be discussed are spring fertilizers, spraying for insect and disease control, organizing pickers and setting new patches. There will also be a report on the strawberry processing plant site.

PLASTIC GREENHOUSES

Bob Shepherd, horticulture specialist, and a native of Floyd county, now with the Extension Service, working out of Quicksand will be at the strawberry meeting mentioned above. Mr. Shepherd will discuss production of vegetable and transplants in plastic greenhouses. This is one of the most interesting crops, shows great promise for a sizeable profit. Many people have available labor, markets and reasonable gas rates. The one necessary item lacking is "know how". Mr. Shepherd will work with anyone interested, to provide them with the necessary information to get the job done. Don't miss the meeting if interested in greenhouses.

FAMILY GARDEN IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

Again this year Floyd county will participate in the Family Garden Improvement program. Last year 276 families enrolled in the program. They received a packet of garden information, and throughout the year received garden letters on garden jobs needing attention.

The packets of garden bulletins and leaflets are available at the Extension office, for the asking.

CROP-LIVESTOCK SHORT COURSE

Last week the first class of the series of four was held at the Prestonsburg high school. Forty-nine people attended from Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin and Pike counties. There were twenty-three farmers and Future Farmers student of Lloyd Wells agricultural classes attending from Floyd county.

The next class will be held Tuesday, January 23, 7:00 p.m. at the Prestonsburg high school. The classes will cover fertilizing meadow and pastures and beef cattle production.

It is not too late to attend the classes. Anyone interested should plan to attend the next class.

4-H ACHIEVEMENT NIGHT

The annual Floyd County 4-H Achievement Night will be held Monday, January 22 at 7:30 o'clock in the Maytown high school auditorium.

Achievement Night is one of the most important 4-H activities of the year. At the meeting recognition will be given to the different clubs, their members and leaders for 4-H work and honors received during the previous year.

All members' leaders, and parents are invited to attend.

CORN PROJECT CHAMPION

Roger Merritt of the Bonanza 4-H Club has been selected as Floyd County Junior 4-H Corn Champion.

Roger has also won the last two junior championships. This year he was also the junior beef project champion.

FORMULA DIETING

Are you trying to sip or nibble away pounds with one of the widely used formula diets? Although these liquid or wafer diets are helpful in some cases, you should keep in mind some of their pitfalls.

Many of the formula diets are based on a 900-calories-a-day intake. Most nutrition authorities agree that 900 calories are not enough for the average person. They recommend about 1,200 calories a day for women and 1,400 to 1,600 for men. A normal, healthy person should lose no more than 1 or 2 pounds a week by dieting, for losing too much weight too fast can injure your health, the nutritionists point out.

Some nutritionists suggest eating green vegetables to supplement the formula diet. This can bring the calorie intake up to the recommended level and cut down the chance of ill effects. Eating vegetables also would relieve the monotony of having only the liquid or wafers day-in and day-out. Most formula diets supply very little sodium, which causes the body to lose water. Some of the weight loss with formula diets is actually loss of water rather than fat tissue. Seasoning the vegetable supplement with salt could help to remedy this.

Simplicity is the main advantage of formula diets. You need no calorie charts to decide what and how much to eat. Some disadvantages of dieting only with the formula is that some persons develop constipation, diarrhea, or other intestinal disorders.

However, a low-calorie formula diet usually is not harmful, if the formula contains the needed daily dietary allowances. But these diets are not meant for long-term weight control programs.

Remember that you can't go back to your old eating habits without gaining back the weight lost. You'll need to keep your weight down through the right selection of food, for constant up-and-down shifts in weight can be dangerous as well as troublesome. For this reason, most nutritionists recommend losing weight by changing to eating habits that you can continue throughout life rather than for a few weeks.

The January Homemakers training lesson was held January 5, in Prestonsburg. The lesson was on making braided rugs and was taught by Mrs. Frances Pitts, Home Demonstration agent.

Project leaders attending were Mrs. Rachel Gearheart, Mrs. Grace Sturgill, Mrs. Freda Halstead, Mrs. Betty Jones, Mrs. Ora Bussey, Mrs. Grace Derossett, Mrs. Theckley Short, Mrs. Mae Clark, Mrs. Lizzie Allen, Mrs. Margie Sammons, Mrs. Mary Vance, Mrs. Florence Marshall, Mrs. Lida Hall and Mrs. Pitts.

How many sales did you make to farmers yesterday... last week... last month? If you sell goods or services of any type chances are a good portion of your customers are farmers.

And they are good customers... thanks to Rural Electricity and Kentucky's Rural Electric Co-ops. The electrification of the Kentucky farm has done more than any other one thing to give the farmer extra money. Low cost rural electricity freed the farmer from drudgery, enabled him to produce more crops with less work at a greater profit.

But suppose you don't sell goods or services? You still benefit. Spendable farm dollars in your community enrich everyone, including you.

Kentucky's farmers originally built their rural cooperatives for one purpose only... to get the electric power they could not buy elsewhere! Out of their cooperation has grown a force powerful enough to keep Kentucky's prosperity growing.

Catlettsburg Selected As Program Pilot City

Catlettsburg has been selected as a pilot city in beautification plans for other towns throughout Kentucky this year, Robert Montgomery, director of the "Make Kentucky A Cleaner, Greener Land Program," has reported.

"This is a start toward implementing Governor Combs' idea that if Kentuckians will clean up their towns, Kentucky will reap real economic dividends from this collective action," Montgomery said. Committees will be named to start projects. First, said Montgomery, the local group plans to remove some unsightly buildings, remodel some, and rebuild others.

A fly outfit fixed thus feels awfully heavy when you just pick it up. But since it's not tip-heavy hand, you'll find your arm far less and has the balance near your tired than before at the end of a hard day's casting.

CONFESSION? — Ask The Man Who Goes There!

Catholics go to Confession to a priest for one reason only: to obtain divine forgiveness for their sins.

But why, you ask, go to a priest? Why not confess our sins directly to God?

Ask the man who goes to Confession and here's what he will tell you: Sin is an offense against God; it must be forgiven by God. It is God, not man, who determines how forgiveness must be obtained. Christ plainly pointed this out when He empowered His Apostles and their successors to forgive sins or to refuse forgiveness.

"Whose sins you shall forgive," Christ said, "they are forgiven them; whose sins you shall retain, they are retained" (John 20:21-23). Thus Christ authorized the Apostles, and their successors, to pardon or to deny pardon as they judge the sinner worthy or unworthy. To do this they had to know what they were forgiving... the secret dispositions of the sinner... his sorrow and willingness to repair the wrong done to his neighbor by his sins. Who could make this known but the sinner himself — and what is this but Confession?

But Confession — the Sacrament of Penance — is only one of the seven Sacraments Christ left in His Church. Yes, seven — no more and no less! Christ's religion is not merely a message to be accepted, but a life to be lived — from the cradle to the grave. Christ's seven Sacraments are the answer to man's seven basic needs.

Man is born, but he needs to be reborn a Christian in the Sacrament of Baptism. He is nourished, but he needs Christian nourishment in Holy Communion, the Sacrament of the Eucharist. He grows, but he needs to grow and be strengthened in Christian life by the Sacrament of Confirmation. He is cured of disease, but he needs a remedy for sin, so destructive of Christian life, and this he finds in the Sacrament of Penance.

Man lives in society which needs officials to promote the common good — and for his life in the Church, he finds officials provided by the Sacrament of Orders. He perpetuates the human race in marriage, which Christ made the Sacrament of Matrimony. And at death, he needs consolation and strength for the last dread hour which he finds in the Last Anointing — the Sacrament of Extreme Unction.

Would you like to know more about each of the seven Sacraments? How they can help you to meet the seven basic needs of your life? Then write today for a free pamphlet which gives important information concerning them. Ask for Pamphlet No. KC-5.

He advised Laws to sell out as barging coal was difficult on the capricious river. "It is not as practicable for running coal as it was 20 years ago from the fact the channel is much wider and it consequently takes more water to fill it. The railroad is the only hope..."

He urged Laws to take his timber from the valley.

"I am satisfied there is at least enough of poplar trees to make three hundred rafts of a thousand feet line in each raft that would average twenty five and one half inches in diameter or twice timber which means it will cube twice to each lineal foot. This timber could be put in and rafted for nine cents cube and would bring from 15 cents to 18 cents cube in your city. Mr. Albree would agree to give 18 cents for 30-inch clear timber and might give more. There would be oak of the first class still left and white and black walnut that is worth sixty cents per cube. Ash and mountain birch. The fact is the lands could not be sold for as much as the timber is worth although the soil is of the richest character."

Laws took Ferguson's advice. He logged his river lands and for several years in the 1880's his rafts were a common sight upon the river. Turning to the Buffalo lands, he built a splashdam on the stream and released great heads of water that shoved the giant logs down to the mouth of the stream at the present German bridge in Jenny Wiley State Park. Here the logs were rafted for a short journey to the mouth of Johns Creek and re-rafted there into bigger ones to float to Catlettsburg.

The Buffalo lands, from which Laws took such a bountiful harvest in the 1880's, were timbered more fully at the turn of the century and in the period immediately following World War I were logged again. In a few years the several thousand acre tract will yield another harvest, evidence of the wisdom of the Union Colonel's advice.

The 1880-90 decade found Ferguson beset with lawsuits, much of it a result of the rights-of-way procurement for the Big Sandy Valley Railroad Company which had died a-borning. There were suits of a personal nature too, earlier than that to plague him. He had a suit with his old Civil War comrade, Harrison Ford, in 1887, at Pikeston. Ford won a judgment, but the breaking of old bonds depressed him. It was in the year 1880 that he began to find himself spending most of his time in court. He and his brother, Anthony M. Ferguson, who fought on the other side in the Civil War, had to bring a suit in Russell county, Virginia, to settle their parents' estate. In the period between 1870 to 1901 he was plaintiff in 14 and defendant in 21 suits in Floyd county alone.

Win or lose, the lawsuits drained his estate. He began to deed hundreds of acres of land to heirs to protect them and sold others to defray expenses of court litigation. As he aged he slowly divested himself of his once large estate of realty.

Now that all his dreams were shattered he picked up with renewed vigor his practice of medicine. He became a familiar figure on horseback in a wide area but in a few years his trips became more infrequent and finally ceased. He was going blind. The horse he kept hitched at the gate and which he had refused to ever let anyone but himself ride, was returned to the barn.

In his blind years many patients or their relatives came to get medical attention or advice and there were times when he had to be assisted on his horse for a ride to Pikeville or Prestonsburg to attend court.

In his blind old age S. C. Ferguson became his favorite and the youngster sat on his knee and read to him. As a compensation for the hours of reading the old colonel related stories of the war.

His wife, Lucinda Weddington Ferguson, died in 1893 at the age of 63. The children had married and left. Only he and the young grandson remained in the house. Even the house began to yield to the harassment of time and the damages it suffered in the flood of 1862. They moved out of it into a nearby hewed-log house on the farm.

Here in this log house, old, blind and lonely except for the grandson and the visits of his ten children, he was dealt a blow from the house of Laws. Harry L. Laws, of Cincinnati, sued him in 1901 in the U. S. District Court of Eastern Kentucky. Laws won but in consideration of a quit-claim deed to certain lands Laws conveyed to him three tracts, reserving "all riparian rights appurtenant... with the right to moor boats and all other water crafts and the right to wharfage on the river... and rights-of-way for roads, tramroads and railroads."

Two years later a condemnation proceeding of the Big Sandy Railway Company, forerunner of the Chesapeake & Ohio, wrung rights-of-way from him for the road that had already passed Prestonsburg and was extending its rails up the valley.

He, who had dreamed of mines, barge lines and railroads for half a century, was forced in the eve of life to divest himself of all the riparian and railroad rights he owned.

It had been a wonderful dream, he always said to his grandson now beginning the practice of law at Prestonsburg. The dream of personal aggrandizement for himself and posterity had been a pursuit of a will-o-the-wisp but he knew it had been successful for others. He couldn't see, but he could hear the chug and clank of locomotives as the work trains moved up the river.

He lay ill several weeks and finally succumbed in the summer of 1904. From Big Mud and Prater Creeks, south and north with the river, from Pikeville and Prestonsburg and other valley towns his people and friends came to pay their last respects. The hitching racks for horses and mules in front of the house and at the barn were full and the overflow of animals were tied to the paling fence that ran out to the road.

Early on the day of the funeral the crowd began to assemble. His old compatriots of the 39th Kentucky Volunteer Infantry who came were wont to reminisce for many years of the mass of people, the buggies, horses, mules and wagons.

The last rites at the house said, the casket was lifted by veterans of the Union cause and borne across the porch, down the lane and road. Strong arms lifted the burden up the hill and laid it out where Lucinda Weddington rested. In the interlude of silence, as the minister came forward and the singers leaped quietly in their books for a song, the crowd gazed out across the river at the dead town of Industry. Its unused lanes were marked with the rubble of the years.

A work train across the river stopped, its crew stood and watched. In half an hour they resumed their task for the dream of the old soldier and physician lived. The iron rails that bound the valley to the "outside" world had given it substance and form.
