IT JUST GOES TO SHOW YOU

Telstar went into orbit Tuesday, and the same day Frederick Kappel, chairman of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, spoke into a telephone...

If Telstar winds up eliminating all these unsightly telephone poles and wires, I'll feel it's really worthwhile.

ANOTHER CHALLENGE FOR SCIENCE

No kidding, this satellite the phone people have put into orbit and operation is something. Even if it didn't excite me half as much as I was, the first time I cranked up an old wall model out in the country 40 years, man and boy, ago, and managed to squeak a frightened, "Hello."

That was the first time, I believe, our community got acquainted with any sort of power except that provided by horses, mules, oxen and steam engines.

CONSTRUCTION BIDS SOUGHT ON SCHOOLS

HITE SCHOOL, MIDDLE CREEK WORK VIEWED

Architect Tells Design Of Proposed Structures; Mud-Cr. Job Progressing

The Floyd County Board of Education moved Saturday to step up its building program by directing that contractors' bids be sought early next month on the Middle Creek elementary school and the Hite vocational school structures.

Bids on the Middle Creek project will be opened August 4, on the Hite building, August 11. George Lee Shannon, Prestonsburg architect, designed both structures. He said the Middle Creek school will have an octagonal center section from which two classroom wings will extend on either side.

School authorities who have studied the design say it will be one of the most attractive school structures in Kentucky. The building will be located on a 19 1/2-acre tract of land, a short distance above the intersection of the Prestonsburg-Salersville and David roads.

The Board of Education has a site of approximately 16 acres at Hite, one mile from Martin, for the vocational building. The structure will include four shops, two classrooms in conjunction with the shop area, a drafting room and a cold storage room for the storage of frozen foods to be distributed to the various school lunchrooms of the county.

The Mud Creek elementary school is nearing completion, and work is under way on four additional classrooms at Prestonsburg high school. The high school here will have an enrollment of about 900 this year, with the discontinuance of Auxier high school adding to the student-body.

Auxier high school, which had for several years been on the emergency list because of its small student-body, was ordered discontinued and its pupils transported to Prestonsburg after a new concrete bridge spanning the river there was completed.

Miss May Is Appointed Subcommittee Council

Miss May is a graduate of Wellesley College and received her law degree from the University of Virginia's School of Law. She recently completed a term of service with the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

ORAL POLIO VACCINE DISTRIBUTION SLATED

A limited supply of Sabin oral polio vaccine is available to all county health departments through the Division of Local Health Services of the Kentucky Health Department. The vaccine is being distributed according to school enrollment of each county. Twenty-three counties have already ordered the vaccine.

The oral vaccine is "served" on a lump of sugar or in water or syrup. This is the most pleasant means yet devised of administering a vaccine.

Dr. R. L. Hall, of the Floyd County Health Department, said this county has not yet received its quota, the size of which is indefinite. He said state health authorities have indicated a desire that the vaccine be administered to pre-school children.

Dr. Hall announced this week that the outpatient t.b. clinic will be held at the health department here, August 2, with Dr. Shafer, of the Ashland Tuberculosis Sanatorium, in charge. He added that the outpatient clinic will become a regular feature of the health services for the people of the area, with a clinic scheduled every other month. By means of outpatient clinics, many tuberculosis patients are

GROUP SEEKS BID APPROVAL

Result of Atlanta Visit Uncertain, Report Made; Wage Scale Hearing Set

In an effort to win federal approval of the bid submitted on the low-rent public housing project here, the Prestonsburg Municipal Housing Commission flew to Atlanta for a conference Monday and Tuesday with federal housing officials.

The low bid on the 40-unit project was submitted by the G. H. Hunter Company, of Betsy Layne, but the $520,000 asked was considered too far in excess of architects' estimates of the cost. This figure later was reduced to slightly under $600,000 because of a favorable wage scale decision. Still, housing officials in the Atlanta office say around $80,000 too much is asked.

Site improvement work involving a huge earth-moving job caused the bid to exceed the estimate, it was said.

The Municipal Housing Commission members were unwilling to make a prediction as to the outcome of the Atlanta conference upon their return here. Accompanied by Gerald H. Hunter, head of the contracting firm, and by architects, Commission members taking part in the Atlanta conference were Mayor George P. Archer, R. V. May, Frank Heinze, Ed Music and Otis Cooley and Cliff Latta, the Commission's executive secretary.

City officials consider the meeting slated here July 18 to determine the prevailing wage scale on public works to be one of great importance. The hearing will be conducted by Owen L. Kerth, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Labor, and to be determined is the wage scale for laborers, workmen, mechanics, helpers, assistants and apprentices.

An unfavorable scale could result in the proposed sewer system and sewage disposal project costing Prestonsburg as much as $100,000 more than currently figured. And that could mean no construction, it was said this week.

Utility Firm Ordered To Service Customers In Weeksbury Section

The Public Service Commission recently ordered that residents of the Caleb Fork section at Weeksbury are to be supplied natural gas by the Mike Little Gas Company.

The order was entered after more than 75 potential consumers had agreed to pay a deposit of $100 each to help pay the cost of a 12,000 foot line to connect with the Kentucky West Virginia gas main. The Public Service Commission directed that all such deposits above 100 in number shall be refunded to all depositors on a pro rata basis.

At the end of a 30-day period the business may be reopened but only on recommendation of the Sheriff's office, it was said.

SHOT WOUNDS JAIL INMATE

Martin Chief Slugged With Pipe by Howell; Prisoner Jailed Here

A grim struggle for possession of a revolver followed an assault by a prisoner on Chief of Police A. J. Reed inside a Martin jail cell last Friday night and ended with the wounding of the officer's assailant.

The prisoner, 29-year-old George Ernest Howell, was shot in the knee. Now a prisoner in the county jail here, he still carries the bullet in his leg. The shot fractured one bone in his leg, a physician said.

Reed was slugged above the eye with a piece of pipe swung by Howell. After taking his prisoner to Our Lady of the Way hospital at Martin for emergency treatment and later to the Methodist hospital, Pikeville, for further attention, Reed brought him to the jail here and booked him on an assault charge.

Howell admitted he was the aggressor. He signed a statement telling of his arrest shortly after 8 p.m. Friday and of his creating a commotion and yelling to Reed to come back to the cell after he had been locked up. The officer complied, told him to be quiet and left. Howell said he began yelling again, but explained that before he did so he loosened a two-foot piece of pipe from a lavatory inside the cell and laid it on his bunk where Reed would not see it. When Reed returned, he threatened the prisoner, according to Howell, and Howell told the policeman to come on inside and make him be quiet.

As Reed opened the cell door the prisoner struck him over his left eye with the pipe. He struck the officer so hard, he said, that the pipe was jarred from his hands. Reed went to his knees, then tried to pull his gun. The tussle for its possession followed. Howell said he seized Reed's gun hand with his left hand and with his right (See Story No. 2, Page 8)

Mr. Carpenter will replace Moore as editor, it is said. Personnel of the shop will remain unchanged.

DEEP WATER CLAIMS MAN NEAR BRIDGE

West Virginian Drowns Despite Friend's Effort; Little Known of Maynard

Less than 20 minutes after he had driven from West Virginia to Dewey Lake last Thursday, Randolph Maynard, 26, of Delbarton, W. Va., was drowned. The victim's body was recovered by the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad in 12 to 15 feet of water, about 500 feet downstream from the German bridge. The tragedy occurred about 7:30 p.m.

Malcolm Hackney, 43, of Cleveland, O., who accompanied Maynard to the lake from Delbarton, told Deputy Sheriff Lonnie Herald this story of the drowning and events leading up to it.

He and Maynard met in Delbarton, had two beers together, then decided to drive to Dewey Lake. They had been at the lake about 15 minutes when Maynard pulled off his shirt and shoes, laid them on his car, walked across the bottom bordering the lake and stood near the water two or three minutes before he began wading in. The next he knew, he saw water splashing.

Hackney and a man named Paul Salyers ran to the water's edge, and he succeeded in grasping Maynard's foot, but the struggling man kicked free. Neither of the would-be rescuers could reach him again.

This version of the drowning was corroborated by Salyers and Jonah Varney, Homer Stacey, of McAndrews, Ky., also was listed as a witness in the tragedy. He did not make a statement.

Little is known locally of the victim. Papers in his clothing disclosed that he was an ex-Marine, was unmarried and that a brother, Andrew Maynard, lives at Delbarton. A jury empaneled by Coroner James J. Carter held that the death was the result of accidental drowning.

The body was prepared for burial at the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home, then taken to Delbarton for burial.

Allen Not Attorney In Two Floyd Cases

The attorney representing the Commonwealth of Kentucky in separate condemnation actions against Albert Green and Minnie Sue Martin was erroneously listed last week as Jarvis Allen. The Times has been informed. The attorney for the state in these cases is Lewis J. Amato, of Frankfort. Mr. Allen said last week that he is not taking part as attorney for the state in any Floyd county condemnation suit.

East Kentucky Loses Heavily by Migration

The Cumberland Plateau, of which Floyd county is a part, is losing population faster than any other section of Kentucky. The enormous loss adds up to 40.8 percent of its 1950 population, despite the highest rate of increase in the state.

Floyd county's population between 1950 and 1960 dropped from 53,500 to 41,642 persons, a loss of 22.2 percent. The county had a natural increase of 20.4 percent to make the net migration 42.5 percent. Floyd county falls in the middle category of loss in the Eastern section and is exceeded by eight others.

The statistics are from a recent study called "Population of Kentucky: Changes in the Number of Inhabitants, 1950-1960," by Gordon F. DeJong, sociology instructor, University of Kentucky.

"The net migration loss of population from the state, particularly heavy in the southeastern part, reflects the critical economic conditions," DeJong writes. "The people who migrate are predominantly young adults who cannot find suitable employment in their local communities. From the local community point of view, the heavy out-migration is an unfortunate situation since these people represent potential leadership for the future."

A recent article by Jim Hampton in the Courier-Journal, based on the DeJong study, follows:

Rainey Resigns Post In Kentucky Assembly

Tom Rainey, Pike county State Senator, has resigned his seat in the General Assembly, he announced last week. The resignation was submitted to Gov. Bert Combs "sometime around the end of April."

Rainey applied for a job with the state on May 1 and was employed May 10 as administrative assistant to Commissioner Owen Kerth of the labor department at a salary of $556 per month. He is currently working out of Eastern Kentucky.

He alleged during a session of the last legislature that a friend of A. B. Chandler's had tried to bribe him to vote with anti-administrative forces to organize the State Senate.

mass emigration took place in Leslie county. Here was the county with the highest rate of natural increase (births minus deaths) in Kentucky: 308 per 1,000 people. Despite this, Leslie county had 29.6 percent fewer people in 1960 than in 1950.

Since the net migration loss is computed by adding the rate of natural increase to the population loss, this means that Leslie county lost a staggering 60.4 percent of its 1950 population by migration.

The pattern repeated itself throughout the Cumberland Plateau, the 14-county economic area to which Leslie county belongs.

The area's natural-increase rate was 18.9 percent; its population loss, 21.9 percent, was highest in the state.

Result: a net migration loss of 408 out of every 1,000 people. Again highest in the state. The two primary components of population change are natural increase and migration, DeJong writes.

In Kentucky, "the 1950-60 state population growth rate was not only the lowest in the history of the state, but was also considerably lower than the growth rates of many neighboring states and the national rate.

"This slow rate of Kentucky's growth is attributed to out migration from the state. For the 1950-60 decade the Kentucky natural increase was 476,618, or 16.2 percent; however, the net increase in population was only 93,350 (to 3,038,156), or 3.2 percent."

In other words, 383,268 or 13 percent of the state's 1950 population was lost in the exchange of migrants with other states.

Moreover, DeJong said this is only a continuation of a trend "present in Kentucky since the beginning of the current century."

In 1950, for example, there were in the United States 3,762,315 persons born in Kentucky. Nearly one-third of them, however, lived in other states. In contrast, only 351,000 non-natives lived here.

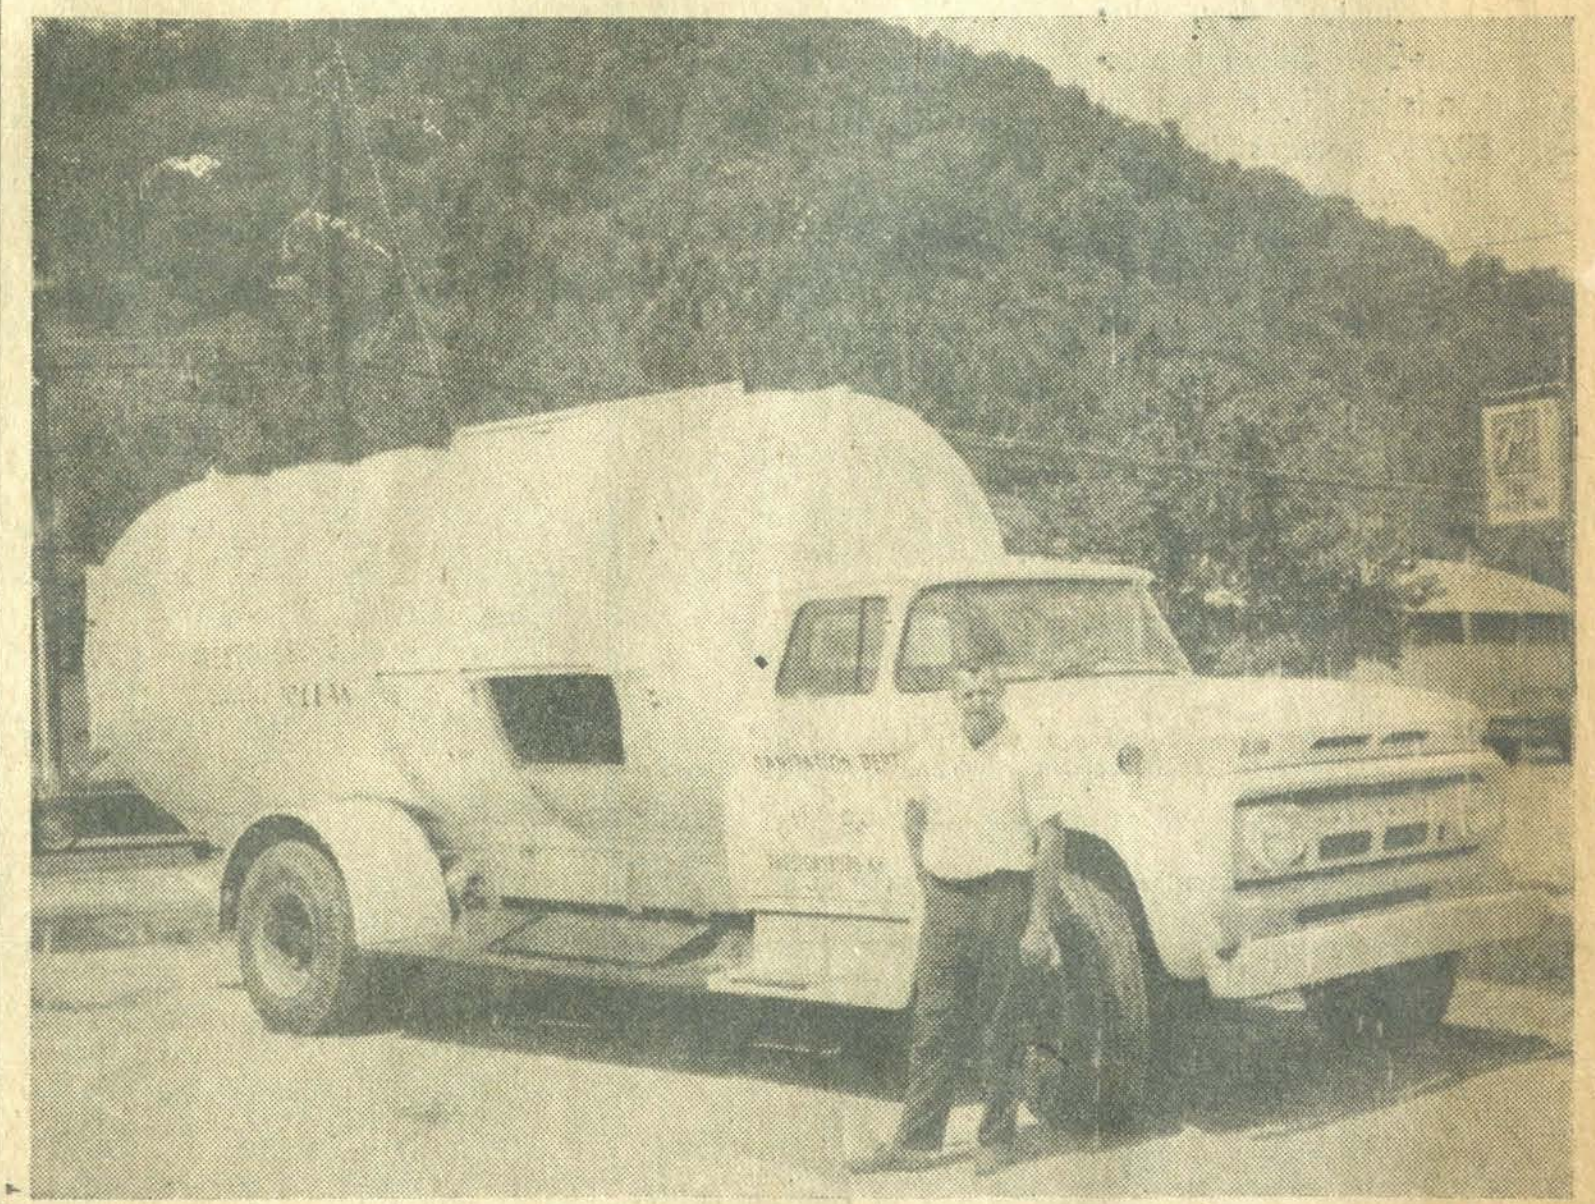

And in the 1940-50 decade, Kentucky lost 373,000 residents to other states—nearly as many as in the decade that followed.

DeJong brings out another facet of population growth: its variability within areas of the same general nature.

Eastern Kentucky, for instance, had a uniformly high rate of natural increase. Yet because of the out-migration of young adults, not one county actually increased in population.

Kentucky's metropolitan areas, however, gained population as a whole but had wide variances in losses individually.

Lexington and Fayette county headed the gain columns in both (See Story No. 4, Page 5)

BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM PLANS SATELLITE LOFTING

The Bell Telephone System will put into outer space, perhaps this week, a small metallic sphere that could begin a new era in communications.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration will furnish the three-stage Delta missile that will shoot the satellite into orbit from Cape Canaveral, Florida.

Through ground station equipment at Andover, Maine, Bell System scientists will make the most forward-reaching experiments in communications yet done in space.

"Some day, as a result of this experimentation," said Guy Hisle, Southern Bell Telephone's manager here, "a system of communications satellites orbiting thousands of miles above the earth will probably carry a big portion of overseas telephone calls. It will also make possible live television from England, France and other parts of the world."

The Bell System will pay the entire cost of the estimated $3 million dollar launching.

Should the shot fail, a back-up shot will follow within two months. A second shot may follow later in the year if necessary to complete the experimental program.

Describing Telstar I, Mr. Hisle said that the satellite will receive, amplify and transmit radio micro-waves for television, telephone and other types of communications.

Echo I, a large, balloon-like satellite still in orbit, cannot amplify radio signals. Its large reflecting surface acts as a mirror to bounce the signals back to ground stations.

Telstar I, a 170-pound sphere with a 34-inch diameter, will contain 2,500 semiconductors and a single special vacuum tube. To power the satellite's radio equipment are 3,900 tiny solar batteries attached to its surface.

The satellite will go into an elliptical orbit, reaching 3,500 miles at its highest point and dropping to 575 miles at its lowest. Once aloft, it will act as a booster tower high in space for ground microwave stations.

In first tests, Telstar I will receive and transmit back to earth the television and telephone signals from A. T. & T.'s $10 million earth stations near Andover, Maine. Ground receiver at Andover and Holmdel, New Jersey, will pick up the amplified signals.

Experimental communications with other countries are expected to begin when transmitters and receivers are completed in France, the United Kingdom and other countries.

rate of growth and in-migration. That metropolitan area's population increased 30.9 percent, nearly half of which—14.9 percent—was through in-migration.

Led by Lexington-Fayette county, all five of Kentucky's major metropolitan areas gained population. They also held 34.1 percent of all Kentuckians, a marked gain in 10 years.

Besides Lexington, only Louisville gained population through migration. The other three metropolitan areas—Campbell-Kenton, Henderson and Boyd counties—had migration losses and gained population only through high rates of natural increase.

Kentucky's redistricting problems never would have come up had all counties done even half as well as Meade.

Located near both Louisville and Fort Knox, Meade county's population grew 101 percent. Nearly three-fourths of the growth was by in-migration.

Behind Meade came Boone county, in the Cincinnati metropolitan area. Boone's population grew 68.6 percent, 46.1 percent by immigration and the remainder by new births.

What can be done to stem the flow of Kentuckians to other states? DeJong doesn't say, nor should he. The solution to that problem is outside the sociologists' bailiwick.

Until it is solved, however, there will continue to be studies showing more thousands of Kentuckians looking for better opportunities elsewhere.

And, between studies, the steady stream of holiday travelers will come home to visit from Ohio, Illinois and Michigan.

Hatcher-Akerman Vows Solemnized

St. Vincent's Episcopal Church of St. Petersburg, Florida, was the scene of the marriage of Miss Maud Ellen Hatcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Hatcher, 6447 26th Avenue North, and Emory Speer Akerman, Jr., son of Emory S. Akerman, Sr., Orlando, Florida, and Washington, D. C.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. William T. Sherwood, June 9 at 11 a.m. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a costume suit of imported lace and a matching pillbox with a flyaway veil. She carried a nosegay of white carnations and a white orchid.

The maid of honor, Miss Barbara Chamberlin, of Gainesville, Florida, and the bridesmaid, Miss Myra Morris, of Tampa, Florida, were identically attired in gowns of turquoise which featured bell-shaped skirts, cap sleeves, and cowl necklines. They wore matching bow hats of tulle, and carried yellow carnations.

Robert Akerman, of Lakeland, Florida, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Dave Hawkins, of Cocoa, Florida, brother-in-law of the groom, and Robert L. Hatcher, of the U. S. Coast Guard, Portsmouth, Virginia, were ushers. For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose a silk sheath of beige with matching accessories, and wore a corsage of yellow carnations.

A reception followed in the Parish Hall of the church, with Miss Barbara Finch, Belleair Beach, and Mesdames E. S. Barclay, Roy Miller, and Marvin L. Bishop as assistants. Miss Sunny Pfeiffer had charge of the bride's book.

After a wedding trip to Ormond Beach, Florida, the couple will live in Glenwood, Arkansas. A graduate of Wayland high school, Wayland, Kentucky, the bride attended St. Petersburg Junior College where she is a charter member of Xi Delta Rho social sorority. She is a senior at Florida State University, majoring in elementary education.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Edgewater high school, Orlando, Florida, attended the University of the South, Sevanee, Tennessee, and received his MA degree from the Yale University School of Forestry. He was a member of Kappa Alpha Order.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

IN PRAISE OF OFFICERS

EDITOR, The Times: I would like to publicly express the thanks of my wife and myself for the help given us and friends of ours in a recent experience when our young daughter and a son of our friends became stranded by car trouble on an isolated road in the Dewey Lake section of the county and were unable to be located for some ten hours and at night, too.

Naturally, being parents, and unable to find our children at so late a time of night, we became deeply concerned as to their safety, and feared the worse, so we contacted Sheriff Henry Hale's office and received immediately the help we so sorely desired, to locate the children.

As the night grew later and the children had been missing for some 10 hours, Sheriff Hale and his deputies also showed concern for their safety and intensified the search, expressing deep concern and sympathy to us in our anxiety over our missing children.

Sheriff Hale and his office searched through the night until the wee hours of the morning and through the clear thinking and untiring effort of Sheriff Hale we were able to locate the children in an isolated section of the county, where they had strayed after becoming confused in the roads leading back to town.

We also would like to express our thanks to Policeman Frank Blackburn and Policeman Ray Collins for their sympathy, concern and help in trying to locate the children.

Although our experience had a happy ending, we feel that had it been otherwise, we would have been better able to have faced the worse, because of the concern, sympathy and genuine human feeling shown by these officers; and we feel that the people of Prestonsburg and Floyd county should feel thankful for having such men watching over the safety of their children and property and rights as the whole.

LANDS BIG'N

Dexter Baldridge, West Prestonsburg angler and one of Dewey Lake's most ardent catchers, finally hit the jackpot Saturday night when he hauled in a 36-pound mudcat in the Sowder's Creek area. He also relates how a blue-cat of virtually the same size won out in a trot-line battle.

Martin's veteran basketball coach Denzil Halbert is now attending Western Maryland College, Westminster, Maryland, on a National Science Foundation grant. He will be there six weeks.

Charlie Bradshaw, University of Kentucky football coach, and one or two of his assistants, will be at the Paintsville Country Club, Saturday, July 21.

A special meeting of the Floyd-Knott Babe Ruth Baseball League will be held at Garrett high school, July 17. Coaches will make their selections for the annual all-star game and determine plans for the district tournament.

The area tournament will be held in Elkhorn City, July 26-28. The Elkhorn City all-stars tangle with Pikeville, July 26. The winner of this game will meet the Southern Division winner of the Floyd-Knott League in an upper bracket game on July 27.

In the lower bracket the Pond Creek team will meet the Floyd-Knott Northern Division winner. This contest will be the second game on July 27.

The final game will be played July 28.

Winner of the area tournament in Elkhorn City will meet the winner of the Hazard district in Middlesboro, July 30, for the regional title, and the winner here will advance to the state tournament in Campbellsville, Aug. 2-4.

Since we do not wish to see this space vacated for the next three weeks while attending the World's Fair and Disneyland, E. B. May, Jr., well-known sports official and Scoutmaster, will do a column, followed by H. C. Francis, Jr., of the Francis Stores, and by Earl McDonald, mining engineer with Princess Coals.

Soil Conservation
BY L. R. JOHNSON

Each year, soon after tree setting is over, the district is asked to report the trees needed to be set the following year. This can only be an estimated number, using all factors available.

Tree seedlings needed for the Floyd County Soil Conservation District to be set in the spring of 1963 are estimated as follows: Shortleaf pine, 500,000; white pine, 150,000; loblolly pine, 30,000; Scotch pine, 10,000; black locust, 35,000; yellow poplar, 10,000; black walnut, 5,000; red cedar, 10,000.

Grassed waterways are always welcomed by good farmers. It helps conserve soil as well as always add to the beauty of a farm and to the convenience of getting over the farm.

Wendell Stratton plans to shape, treat and seed a waterway 2,000 or more feet long.

Raymond Turner, Madge Turner and Milton Prater plan to do grassed waterways this fall. Farmers will be signing up during the next few weeks to do grassed waterways in the fall.

NOTICE

The Floyd County Library Board will receive until the close of business on Friday, July 20, applications for the position of Librarian at the Floyd County Library, Prestonsburg, Kentucky. THE FEMININE SIDE OF BOWLING NEWS

By IMA BOWLER

I have been asked by several people about rules concerning substitutes, etc. I believe it is pretty well understood that a substitute, whether a regular team substitute or a sub who is for the whole league, is a person who fills in for a regular member of a team. You cannot be a substitute one week on one team, be a regular the next and then change back to substitute. A pacer is a person who fills in for a deadman, simply to have an even number of players. A sub's score counts; a pacer's score does not count. If a player starts bowling a series as a regular member, she must be a regular member throughout that series. You cannot change, once you have started playing, the status of a bowler. A substitute cannot be changed to a pacer because she didn't happen to bowl as much as the dead man's score. In other words, when the series starts you can be either a regular player, a substitute, or a pacer, but you must remain such throughout the series. After that particular series of games has been rolled, you can change to any of the three, but any given series has to be done the same way. This should be common sense to most of you.

I believe there is still some confusion over a pacer. Let me put it this way: Suppose a team has only four members present—it is time to bowl and there is no substitute available. They ask me to bowl with them as a pacer. I would bowl my three games, the score would count only as a deadman's score, but I would be the fifth member of the team so that the frames would come out more evenly. My score would not in any way count toward the team score. The league's dead-man score would be used instead. But, because there were five players on each side, the frames would finish more evenly.

High game of the week at Lake Lanes was Susie Stephens with a 214. Susie is from David. This was the first 200 in league play at Lake Lanes and Susie is the proud possessor of the first trophy. In the junior bowlers, Ernie Hall bowled 246, and then was also high in the adult league with a 210. Pretty fine bowling, I'd say.

Beginning next week, Lake Lanes will show the AMF bowling primer which is a filmed fund of information about how to bowl, from the ground up. After the primer, there will also be free lessons. Bowling practice will be done on the instructor, which does not cost anything. This will be Monday through Friday, free instruction for eight weeks, and perhaps longer if necessary. There will be a free baby-sitter each morning.

Crown Lanes has no news this week but has guaranteed there will be important news next week. So watch for further developments from Crown Lanes.

DRIFT EDGES RICHMOND IN SEMI-PRO TOURNAMENT

Drift scored four runs in the bottom of the ninth after two outs to send the game into extra innings and go on to edge Richmond, 7-6, last Sunday in the Kentucky Semipro State Tournament held at Paintsville.

Trailing 5-1 with two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning and nobody on, Drift hitters came to life and scored four times to tie the game. Keith Howell walked and scored on Pete Grigsby's double to left. Carlos Dawson followed with a double and scored on Vondal Lee Hall's long triple to center-field to make it 5-4. Mac Stumbo followed with a walk and stole second base. With Lindsey Blackburn at the plate, Bob Maupin, who came in to relieve Mack Layne, uncorked a wild pitch. Hall went streaking home with the tying run. Only a masterfully executed hook slide saved the day.

Carlos Dawson started for Drift but allowed six hits and gave up four runs in three innings. He was relieved by Vondal Lee Hall in the fourth. Hall pitched six-hit ball over the last eight innings.

Neither team could manage a run in the tenth inning and, darkness was beginning to set in at the start of the eleventh. With runners on first and second bases and two outs, Maupin walloped a tremendous drive to center field for a ground rule double. Hall then bore down to retire the next batter on strikes. Richmond led, 6-5.

Drift wasted little time as Grigsby led off with a walk and scored the tying run on Carlos Dawson's second hit, a long triple to left. With none out and the winning run on third base, Vondal Hall popped up a squeeze bunt over the pitcher's head for a single to win the game, 7-6. The combined hitting and pitching performance of both Hall and Dawson sparked Drift's eighth straight victory. Hall struck out eight and walked only one over the last eight frames in picking up the victory. Maupin who replaced Layne in the ninth was the loser. Layne had held Drift in check for eight and two thirds innings on four hits.

DRIFT'S SEVENTH STRAIGHT

Drift's undefeated semi-pro team won its seventh straight contest by pounding out a 9-4 victory over Wheelwright in a 4th of July celebration sponsored by the McDowell Boosters' Club at Drift.

Mac Stumbo, Morris Ray "Tootsie" Hall, and Ray Allen combined for seven of nine Drift safeties. Stumbo smacked a single, double and triple to lead all hitters. Allen's homer and double accounted for four Drift tallies. Hall added a single and double. Wheelwright jumped to an early lead by scoring twice in the first, but Drift retaliated with four runs in the bottom of the first as five batters hit safely. Tommy McCoy led off with a single to right and scored on Mac Stumbo's double. Lindsey "Tiny" Blackburn walked and Allen put Drift into the lead with a two-run double to left. Hall then drove in Drift's fourth run

What Will the Park Mean?

With the dedication on Labor Day of its new lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park will become a full-fledged park and a bright unit in Kentucky's park system which has been termed the nation's greatest.

"But what will it mean to us?" is a question not often but occasionally heard.
 One answer to that question is, "Just what you and the rest of us make it." But we might well particularize a bit in giving answer.

Jenny Wiley State Park, destined to be the No. 2 park in the best park system in the United States and perhaps the most beautiful in Kentucky, with Dewey Lake for boating, fishing and other water sports, its million-dollar plus lodge, vacation cabins, golf course, swimming pool and, eventually, its amphitheatre, will certainly do no less than other parks—which means that it will attract thousands annually from all parts of the country. Reservations may reasonably be expected to be at a premium.

All this means not merely that people will be employed at a great number of jobs within the park but that as visitors travel to and from it businesses outside it will benefit. Few vacationists or tourists go to a park and stay there for a week or two weeks. As the days pass they begin to be curious about the countryside; they drive around, enjoy the scenery, see people, talk with them, ask questions.

And that's where we all come in.
 What these visitors see and hear will mean a great deal, not to them but to us. A clean, bright countryside, a courteous, friendly people, towns with their ambition showing—these will make Jenny Wiley State Park mean much to all of us.

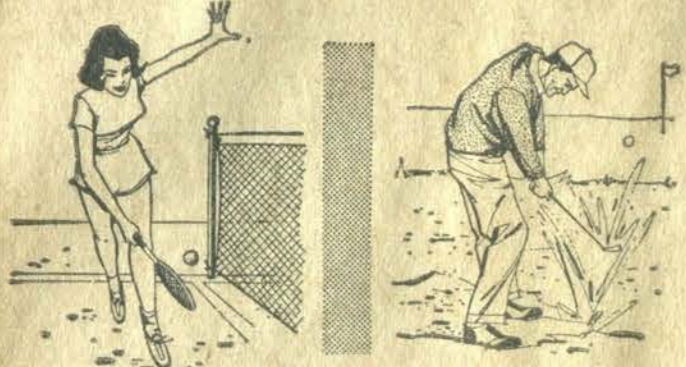

Among the future visitors to that park will be men and women with the means to do much for this entire county and area. With a great, new highway, flood control a thing of the foreseeable future, communities thinking and acting more aggressively toward improving themselves, and with a great tourist playground here, deep within the hills—who knows?—it may indeed be that one or more of these people who are heads of industry in other states may find here what they like and want.

We think it is not a matter of wishful thinking for us to anticipate that perhaps one of these just might want to have a hand in developing industrially this depressed bit of America.

With all our messiness and don't-care attitude, the mountains have a singular attraction to a great many people. The "outsider" coming to Prestonsburg and residing here a few months leaves only with deep regret. With this great, new park as a central beauty-spot and with the area surrounding it cleaned up and presented at its best to the visitor, the attraction to others will be all the stronger.

This is what folks mean when they say Jenny Wiley State Park will mean to us just what we make it.

Our Historic Heritage

A Pictorial Review of East Kentucky

(No. 198 in a Series)

SCENE OF BATTLE OF JENNIE'S CREEK

The Battle of Jennie's Creek occurred January 7, 1862, three days before the Battle of Middle Creek. It was fought between contingents of Union cavalry under the indirect command of Col. James A. Garfield and Confederate cavalry under Gen. Humphrey Marshall, who, at the time, was entrenched at Hager Hill.

The Confederates were defeated and hastily retreated up Jennie's Creek, leaving a quantity of military paraphernalia on the field. Marshall retired to Middle Creek and entrenched at the forks of the stream. The Battle of Middle Creek was fought there, January 10, 1862.

Shown here is the old Davis home, built of bricks manufactured on the site following the Civil War.

The First National Bank presents these pictures of our region in recognition of a historic heritage.

 grabbed the officer about his neck, forcing his neck down between Howell's legs. It was then that the revolver was discharged, the bullet hitting Howell in his knee. A second shot hit the floor of the cell. Howell added:

"At this time we both fell backward, and the scuffle was ended," Howell's statement reads.

Howell said he was calling on a girl-friend at Martin when her sister called Chief of Police Reed to report him as drunk.
