

THURSDAY

This Town-- That World

The Ides of March once was a time of foreboding. To us in Floyd county the time of dread is the "Ides" of February.

At a time such as this, when so many are facing property damage and deep discouragement from the ravages of floodwaters, we struggle harder than usual to come up with a column that is neither dreary nor over-carefree. But we can find solace in the fact that things could be, and have been, worse... that better days are ahead, and the clouds will part.

The busiest woman in Floyd county during times of flood or other disaster is Dame Rumor. Some of the tales we've heard are lulu.

Now comes one to contribute something of a lighter nature, saying, "George Washington, I will agree, never told a lie—but he never had to fill out Form 1040."

IT WORKS!

Here's a little formula this column may have printed, years ago, but lest you have as much trouble as I do remembering it, we hurry to get it down in print again. Try it.

- 1. Put down your age.
2. Double it.
3. Now add five.
4. Multiply by 50.
5. Subtract 365, the number of days in the year.
6. Add the amount of loose change in your pocket less than $1.00.
7. Add 115.

The first two figures of your answer will be your age, and the last two will be the amount of loose change in your pocket.

I'M STRUGGLING

Temptation appears in the most unusual forms, and so pleasing. This week's tempter is Walter Hall, who spoke at length of the strippers in the Ross-Santee reservoir, down in South Carolina, of the big bass, the record crappie, of catfish, et cetera, of how little it would cost a fellow to go fishing there if he camped out—and then extended the invitation... I appreciate the invitation, but to tempt a fellow after a long, hard winter and just when the fishing fever has him in its grip is sort of slipping up on his blind side, so to speak.

ASC OFFERS GRAIN PLANS

To Floyd-Co. Farmers; Land Retirement Urged To Lessen Production

Elder Goble, office manager of the Floyd County Agricultural Stabilization Conservation committee, urged farmers this week to avail themselves of the benefits of the feed grain program.

"If you are interested in learning more about the feed grain program for 1962 and how it can apply to your farm, come to the ASC office at Prestonsburg," Goble said.

Goble, in a prepared statement, continued:

"The feed grain program is a one-year proposition. If you enter the feed grain program, you agree to retire at least 20% (all of your corn acreage if you desire) of your corn acreage. The United States Department of Agriculture will pay... The idea behind all this is to reduce the grain surplus in the year for retiring this acreage. United States and to do this production must be cut. You are paid for not producing. The farmer receives a reasonable amount of pay for retiring land.

"Land that is retired must not be pastured and no crop is to be harvested during the year of 1962. (See Story No. 5, Page 6)

FLOYD FLOOD DAMAGE IS HEAVY

MAGISTRATE CHARGES PRIVATE ROAD WORK

MOTION MADE TO DISCHARGE ALL WORKERS

Tie Vote Is Broken By Stumbo; Sturgill Advises Itemized Bills

The Fiscal Court, at a special meeting Friday afternoon, tied with a 2-2 vote on a motion made by Magistrate Bryant Derossett to discharge all county employees.

Derossett, who was supported by Magistrate Ed Caudill, charged that the road employees were hauling "red dog" cinders and distributing these on private roadways and driveways. In addition, Derossett alleged that the road grader had been turned over and wrecked while building a private driveway at Banner.

Magistrate Derossett was also highly critical of the amounts being paid the B. & W. Construction Company, a partnership firm composed of Graham Burchett and Glenn Woods. He noted that the company had been paid $4,100 in recent months and had approximately $9,000 in bills on file.

Judge Stumbo, in voting against the Derossett motion, was supported by Magistrates Fred Conn and Zeb Ousley. They alleged that the move was too drastic, that it would catch the food stamp office personnel and perhaps disrupt the road program on which the state is cooperating.

Stumbo denied that any cinders were hauled to private driveways with his knowledge and added: "The county is not paying for hauling on private driveways. I can assure you that."

In explaining his vote, Stumbo noted that the food stamp program was putting $90,000 monthly in this county and the discharge of all county employees would endanger the program.

Derossett urged employees should be "split up," or hired in equal proportions from the four magisterial districts. Although voting in the negative on the Derossett motion, Conn and Ousley said they could see no objection to this division.

CAR FEATURED IN TAX CASE

Accountant Alleges Car Ordered by Adams For Ashland Contractor

During the income tax trial of Will Ed Covington, Ashland business man, in U. S. district court at Catlettsburg last Wednesday, testimony was heard to the effect that a former Paintsville construction company in 1954 paid a Prestonsburg automobile dealer for a new car which was delivered to Covington.

Mrs. Edna L. Madison, an accountant for the old Prestonsburg Lincoln-Mercury garage at the time of the transaction, identified the car as a 1954 Mercury costing $2,768.

The car was paid for by the Adams Construction Company, then of Paintsville, although it was delivered and registered to Covington, Mrs. Madison testified.

United States District Attorney Bernard Moynahan, prosecuting Covington in an income tax case in Federal Court, identified the construction company as owned by Stuart Adams, of Jenkins. The company now has headquarters in Jenkins, Moynahan said.

Covington faces three counts of income-tax evasion. He is accused of filing fraudulent returns for 1954 through 1956.

The incident charges him with claiming three-year income of $34,500 and paying taxes of $7,616 when his income should have been $80,400 and his taxes $24,700.

Government attorneys indicated Tuesday they will charge Covington was the beneficiary of large (See Story No. 3, Page 6)

World Day of Prayer Observance Scheduled; Mrs. Cooley Tells Plans

On Friday, March 9, Christians in more than 150 areas of six continents and the islands of the sea will participate in the observance of World Day of Prayer. Rejoicing in the remembrance of last year's seventy-fifth anniversary of this important day in the Christian calendar, men, women and children will gather again this year for services of worship in their own communities.

The Prestonsburg Council of Church Women announced plans this week for the local observance. "Ours will be one of thousands of communities in the United States which will be holding a World Day of Prayer service on the first Friday in Lent," Mrs. Otis Cooley, World Day of Prayer chairman, said.

The service will be held at the Arnold Avenue Church of Christ, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The Prestonsburg service will truly be for everyone who believes in the power of prayer. "Every person in Prestonsburg is invited to drop (See Story No. 3, Page 6)

REPORT NOTES TONNAGE RISE

Production Increase Began First of Year In Big Sandy Field

Coal production, in the field represented by the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Operators Association, is now up 21 per cent above the corresponding period last year, it was noted by the most recent report of the mining group.

The production rise, that started at the beginning of the year, continued all through January and to the week-end of February 27, date of the last report. The production rise for the week ending January 27 was 23 per cent over the corresponding period of 1961.

For the week ending February 27 the operators affiliated with the Association loaded 5,122 railway cars of an average 50 tons each. The total number of cars loaded to this date is 35,095 as compared with 29,103 cars loaded in the corresponding period of the previous year.

Most of the operators of the Association are working the full five-day work-week, the report notes. There are only six exceptions.

Total tonnage recorded to date is 1,754,750 as compared with 1,455,160 last year.

Two Coal Leaders Plan Sales To Japan; Firm Schedules Early Efforts

R. E. Salvati, chairman of the board of Island Creek Coal Sales Company, Huntington, and Walter Gramm, chairman of the Board of Great Lakes Carbon Corporation, Chicago, announced this week the formation of Island Creek Coal Company of Japan, Ltd., to promote the sale of Island Creek and other selected coals in the Japanese market.

The operations in Japan will be handled from Tokyo by T. W. Johnston, president of Island Creek Coal Company of Japan, Ltd., who has represented Great Lakes Carbon Corporation in Japan and the Orient for many years.

"It is believed," Mr. Salvati said, "that the joining of Island Creek Coal Sales Company and Great Lakes Carbon Corporation for the promotion of Island Creek coals in Japan will result in better communications and service to the consumers in this very important market, as well as more effective marketing of Island Creek's large production of metallurgical type coals."

Great Lakes Carbon Corporation was one of the pioneers in developing the Japanese market, as well as many other world markets, for petroleum coke from the United States.

ROAD, BRIDGE DAMAGE CITED

Stumbo Estimates Cost Of Repairs At $75,000; To Ask Civil Defense Aid

An incomplete survey of flood damage had by Wednesday afternoon revealed that not less than 50 Floyd roads and bridges will require repair or reconstruction, County Judge Henry Stumbo said.

He estimated the cost of the undertaking at $60,000 to $75,000, emphasizing the point that the survey yet is incomplete.

"We don't have the money to do this and will have to have help," Judge Stumbo said. "I am applying to Civil Defense for funds to replace washed out bridges and roads."

Among the bridges either washed out or so badly damaged as to demand repair are those located at these points:

Slides have blocked numerous roads, drains have been washed out and on Frazier's Creek two miles of road have been destroyed. Among other roads damaged are:

- Alley Fork of Little Point, Corn Fork Road, and Conley Forks, near Bonanza, Right Fork of Bull Creek, Woods Branch, Jim Green Branch, Town Branch, Hen Pen, Meade Branch, Big Branch, Arkansas, Simpson Branch, Spewing Camp, Ligon, Peyton Justice Branch, Sam Jarrell Hollow, Johns Branch, Stone Coal.

TWO INJURED IN ACCIDENTS

Sign Company Worker, David Miner Stricken In Separate Mishaps

Lloyd Daniels, 29, May Sign Company employe, suffered a skull fracture and a broken back shortly after noon Monday when he fell from a ladder while erecting a sign at a Paintsville business building.

He remained unconscious through Tuesday it was said at St. Mary's hospital, Huntington. Although his condition is serious, he is expected to recover.

Jonah Stepp, of Lancer, suffered a head injury the same day in a mine of the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company at David. Sixteen stitches were required to close two lacerations. He has been released from the Prestonsburg General hospital and is at his home.

Russell May, owner of the May Sign Company, said another employe who was working with Daniels at the time of his injury told him Daniels' ladder slipped slightly and that he seized the sign with one hand and a telephone wire with another in an effort to maintain his balance. It is believed that an electric shock originating in the sign caused him to fall. He vaulted backward, falling about 10 feet and striking the pavement with his head and shoulders.

Partial paralysis resulting from his injuries is gradually disappearing, it was said.

FLAMING HOME CLAIMS STITH WHO SURVIVED EARLIER INJURY

William O. Stith, Jr., 36, former Martin man, was overtaken Saturday night by death which he had barely escaped less than a year earlier.

He was dead on arrival at Our Lady of Bellefonte hospital, Ashland, shortly after he had been pulled from his blazing home at Russell.

Last March 9, Mr. Stith escaped death when a car he was driving collided with a truck near Ashland, killing Cline Franklin

Navy Veteran Promoted To Lieut. Commander

Claude Harris, a Navy veteran of 22 years, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant commander, it was learned here recently.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Harris, R. 2, Patriot, Ohio, who are former residents of this county, he enlisted in the Navy in 1940 and was graduated the following year from the Hospital Corps School, Portsmouth, Virginia, Lt. Com. Harris first saw sea duty aboard the battleship North Carolina. His last sea duty was aboard the aircraft carrier Wasp as medical administrator.

He is now stationed at Camp Pendleton, California, where he has had financial management of the Naval hospital the last three and a half years. Lt. Com. Harris' wife, the former Wilda Mae Jones, of Rio Grande, Ohio, is a registered nurse. They have two teenage sons, Jimmy and Eddy.

MUD-CR. MEN EXECUTE BOND

Grand Larceny Charged In Theft of Dwale Dog; Teenager Is Probated

Two Mud Creek men were placed under $4,000 bond each Monday by Trial Commissioner Harold Stumbo before whom they were arraigned on a charge of grand larceny. They are to answer to action of the April grand jury.

Specifically, the two, Troy and Jonas Hamilton, were accused of stealing a dog owned by Betty Jo Salyers, of Dwale. A neighbor told of seeing one of the two coax the dog into their car while the other was buying a soft drink in a Dwale store.

The alleged theft may have been a part of the operations of persons who have been selling dogs at Pikeville during recent weeks, officials theorized after one of the two men admitted at the hearing that he had sold dogs at the Pikeville market.

A 15-year-old West Prestonsburg girl was granted probation Monday after her conviction on charges stemming from the passing of forged or worthless checks at four Prestonsburg business houses. She allegedly received cash and merchandise amounting to $140. She was probated to her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brink, of Findlay, Ohio, and the probation order provided that she is to make restitution to the merchants who had been victimized. Business houses which had been defrauded included Curt Homes Clothing Store, the Francis Shoe Store, Wright Brothers, Jewelers, and The Leader Store.

Whitaker, who also is a former attendance officer with the Floyd County Board of Education, moved from this county to Ohio about three years ago, last year divorced his wife and soon afterward married a 14-year-old Ohio girl.

The Fleming court indictment accused him of falsely swearing to the age of his bride when they procured their marriage license at Flemingsburg.

Whitaker and the girl were taken into custody last October 23 near Millersburg, Kentucky. The girl's parents had the marriage annulled.

AID TO FLOOD VICTIMS SLATED BY RED CROSS

State and county agencies and the American Red Cross moved promptly this week to offer help to flood-sufferers in Floyd and adjoining counties.

Floyd Chapter, American Red Cross, acting in cooperation with Civil Defense, was organizing to distribute foodstuffs to families affected by the high waters, and it is possible the Red Cross will act to provide bedding for families who lost furnishings in the water.

Civil Defense, headed locally by Hern Burke, is working in conjunction with the Red Cross. Miss Ella Noel White, executive director of Floyd Chapter, was cut off by high water from returning here from Mt. Sterling but designated Mrs. F. L. Heinze to handle the early organization work until she can reach Prestonsburg.

Two Red Cross workers were scheduled to arrive here Wednesday, and a survey of the entire situation in the county is to be made.

State Highway Department trucks are transporting surplus foodstuffs from Pikeville to Prestonsburg, and these will be housed in the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad

Whitaker Meted Term For False Swearing; Former Floyd Teacher

Glenn Whitaker, former Floyd county teacher and minister, was convicted last week in the Fleming circuit court on a charge of false swearing and was given a one-year pen term.

PERKINS ASKS RETRAIN LAW

Technological Changes Noted by Congressman; Group Acts Favorably

"Unemployed miners and others affected by automation and economic change should be given financial assistance and training by the federal government, just as the 'G. I. Training Bill' enabled those seeking economic sacrifices in military service" to reenter the economy with new work skills," Congressman Carl Perkins said Tuesday in the House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

In a floor debate Perkins said that our national defense efforts have brought about many technological changes and developments. "Government policies and programs to keep ahead of the USSR have encouraged automation, which in turn has taken men's jobs," Perkins argued. Perkins urged passage of the Manpower Development and Training Act in order to make subsistence allowances weekly to unemployed workers while undergoing training for new skills for which there is a demand.

Perkins said, "It has been estimated that there are from 250 to 300 thousand fewer jobs in the soft coal industry than in 1947. The miner cannot continue to support his family while learning (See Story No. 2, Page 6)

BIG SANDY'S TRIBUTARIES ON RAMPAGE

Flood Gate and Pumps Protect Prestonsburg; Beavers Hardest Hit

The closing days of February, historically a tragic month for Floyd county and the Big Sandy valley, saw floodwaters drive an estimated 500 families from their homes in this county.

Steady rains climaxed by a down-pour Monday night sent tributaries of the Big Sandy raging into towns and farmsteads in several sections of the county, and the same story came out of neighboring Johnson, Magoffin and Martin counties.

No estimate of the damage to residences, family belongings, public buildings, roads and bridges was available, but the figure is certain to run high.

In the upper Right Beaver section the water rose to a level only two inches shy of the 1937 mark, and in both Beavers above the 1937 level.

The Beaver Creeks, Middle Creek, Johns Creek, Prater Creek, Mud Creek—practically every Big Sandy tributary was hard hit.

The Big Sandy was still rising at Pikeville Wednesday afternoon, hours after the water had begun subsiding in smaller streams, and the river crest here was not expected before this morning. A day's earlier the water had fallen in the Grundy area Tuesday night, it was reported, and this caused the river to maintain its rise.

The flood gate and pumps here were put into operation early Tuesday morning, and this saved the business district here from at least partial inundation and prevented any sizeable accumulation of water in low-lying areas from Prestonsburg high school south.

GIRL CHARGES ABBOTT MAN

Teenager Discovered Unconscious Near Drift; Arrest Williams, Others

William E. Leedy, of Abbott Creek, was jailed here and held for investigation after a 15-year-old girl had been found unconscious at the roadside near Drift before day break Sunday morning.

The girl later regained consciousness at the McDowell Memorial hospital, and her story was told by her mother, Mrs. Dora Halbert, who signed a statement made before County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill.

The girl suffered numerous cuts and bruises.

Leedy, who is a member of the Marine Corps, told officers that he ran past the Halbert home before realizing it, and that the girl jumped from the car.

Mrs. Halbert said her daughter travelled by bus from Lexington to this county last Saturday, arriving at Allen at 11 p.m. There she was told by Leedy he would take her to her home at Sallsbury. Leedy drove to Maytown, she said, then turned and drove up Left Beaver Creek, refused to let the girl out at home and told her he was taking her to Wheelwright.

After begging the driver to let her out of the car, the mother said, the girl told him she was going to jump out. "He just laughed and told her to go ahead and jump," she said. The girl was then thrown from the car or she jumped, she does not remember which, according to Mrs. Halbert. It was about 4 a.m. when the mother learned of her daughter's injury.

Leedy was arrested by Sheriff Henry Hale and Deputy Sheriff Lonnie Herald.

Others jailed within the week and the charges lodged against them follow: Ray Williams, blocking gravel portion of a public road, booked by County Sheriffs Herald and Lewis; Otis Shepherd, breaking and entering; O. C. Shepherd, held for investigation, arrested by Sheriff Hale, Deputies Horn and Herald.

Fewer Drivers Licenses Issued In State, Said; Sullivan Notes Reasons

The Division of Driver Licensing of the Kentucky Department of Safety has reported that 19,947 fewer driver licenses were issued in Kentucky in 1961 than in 1960. According to Division Director Don Sullivan, there were 1,215,392 licensed drivers in 1960, but only 1,195,445 in 1961. Sullivan said the drop in number of Kentucky licensed drivers means that many drivers have failed to renew their licenses or have moved from the state. Applicants for the Kentucky operator's license can renew either during their birth month or the month preceding. "For example" Sullivan said, "if a person's operator's license expires in March, he can renew either in February or in March. However, the day after his birthday he does not legally possess an operator's license and therefore can be charged with having no license if he is asked for it," he added. The report also showed that there were 18,636 licensed chauffeurs in 1960 but only 16,592 licensed in 1961, or a loss of potential renewals of 2,044. Motorists can renew their driver's licenses within six months after their birthday without taking any tests, but after a six-month lapse they are required to take the written test as well as the eye and road tests, according to Sullivan.

Applications for the Selective Service Qualification Test to be given on April 17 are now available to college students at the Selective Service local boards throughout Kentucky, Lt. Colonel Everette S. Stephenson, state director for Kentucky Selective Service, announced Tuesday.

The test will be given at more than 500 colleges in all 50 states, Puerto Rico, and the Canal Zone. In Kentucky, the test will be offered at the following schools: Union College, Barbourville; Western Kentucky State College, Bowling Green; Centre College of Kentucky, Danville; Kentucky State College, Frankfort; University of Kentucky, Lexington; University of Louisville, Louisville; Murray State College, Murray; Pikeville College, Pikeville; and Cumberland College, Williamsburg.

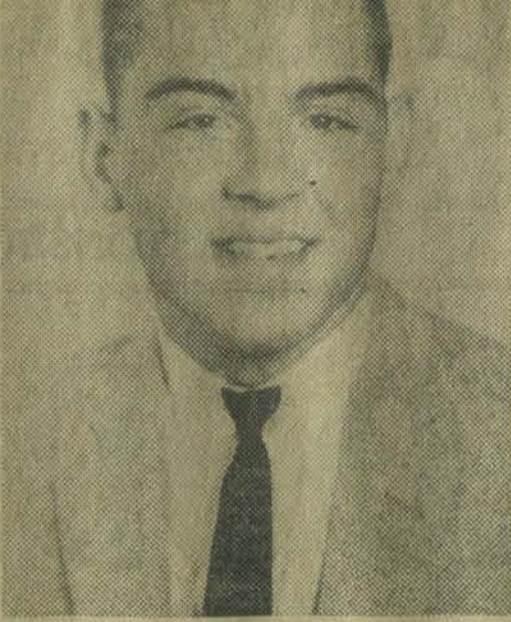

Scores made on the test will provide local boards with evidence of aptitude for continued undergraduate and graduate study. The scores will not of themselves determine eligibility for deferment, but are considered with other information by the boards in determining whether to defer individual registrants for further study.

Applications for the test must be postmarked no later than midnight, Tuesday, March 27. Eligible students may also obtain information about the test from any local board.

To be eligible to take the test, the applicant must be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time college course, undergraduate or graduate, leading to a degree. He need not be a student of a 4-year college, but his entire course of study must be satisfactory for transfer of credits to a degree-granting institution.

The applicant must be a Selective Service Registrant who intends to seek deferment as a student. He can take the test only once.

One Battle Won, The Fight Continues

All who have pinned their hopes to a junior college for the area were entitled to the sense of relief and deep satisfaction that was theirs after last week's action of the Kentucky Senate which cleared the last legislative barrier to the college.

In Governor Combs we have a staunch and powerful friend. He has demonstrated that friendship in the most convincing way to any and all who will by any means be convinced.

Now comes the time for the pledges to be paid. A few have already paid. More have merely pledged.

Governor Combs will need trustees who are interested enough in the school to work, to attend meetings, to cooperate with him, to urge effectively upon the president of the University of Kentucky and the University's trustees the need of development of this college to realize its undeniably great potential.

Then, if Prestonsburg is to become a college town, let it look and act as a community fit to be a cultural center. Let it—this may be star-gazing, but it is necessary—rid itself of its littleness, its little bickerings and factionalism, its little jealousies, envies and dissensions.

Let Prestonsburg, too, look the part of a college town. Let us all take greater pride in the appearance of the place. City beautification was begun last year. It did not progress far enough.

If we will all pull together, talk and plan and work together, as we did so magnificently during recent weeks, what has been done in Frankfort will mean that good things will happen here.

Waste of Money and Waste of Men

(An editorial in The Courier-Journal)

If the Kennedy Administration intends to help Eastern Kentucky, it is going to have to change the Area Redevelopment Act, the so-called depressed areas law.

For three days this week a task force of federal, state and local officials met in Hazard to see how the three levels of government could cooperate in helping Hazard, Perry county and similar areas fight their way out of the chronic depression that has held the coal regions of Kentucky in its grip for the past 13 years.

The fact is that Kentucky, which has neither the men nor money to do the job, is doing more for this region than the federal government, which has both. The Combs Administration is building a four-lane superhighway into the heart of the mountains, the East Kentucky Turnpike, which is going to do more for the long-range economy of Eastern Kentucky than all the task forces and programs that Washington has yet invented.

This is no reflection on the able, hardworking and sympathetic regional A.R.A. officials, whose services have been extremely useful in other parts of the South, both in re-training workers and in helping to finance new enterprises that afford substantial employment.

As John Whisman of Kentucky's Economic Development Department says, Eastern Kentucky is being "entrenched to death." The federal government sets criteria for roads and dams that the region cannot possibly meet.

The cost-benefit ratio by which the Army Corps of Engineers approve dams (the dollar benefit must exceed the cost of the dam) is little short of criminal when imposed on these areas.

REDISTRICTING PLANS SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 27 (Sp.)—Congressional redistricting was the main topic discussed this week in the 1962 Kentucky General Assembly by the House of Representatives.

The measure, introduced by Rep. R. P. Moloney, Lexington Democrat and majority leader, was outlined last week to a joint House-Senate session by the Governor.

Meantime, the House and Senate received companion bills (HB 456 and SB 289) on redistricting. These measures differed from Moloney's bill in that they would not combine the Fourth and Fifth Districts into a new Fourth District.

The omnibus education bill, already passed by the House, was given a favorable committee report and first reading last week in the Senate and was ready this week for vote by the upper chamber.

Meantime, three more education bills were introduced in the House. One measure, by Rep. Richard Frymire, Madisonville Democrat, would allow the State Board of Education to revoke certificates of local school teachers and officials without a recommendation by the state superintendent of public instruction.

Another education bill, introduced by Majority Leader R. P. Moloney, would provide fines of $50-$1,000 and 1-5 year jail terms for persons who offer or give "any valuable consideration" to ensure future employment of a teacher or other school employee.

The working time of firemen will be limited to 56 hours a week in second class cities if a measure approved by the House gets through the Senate and is signed by the Governor.

Despite the fact that the House had voted for a bill to empower local authority to set prevailing wages on public works projects, the Senate approved a measure to authorize the state commissioner of industrial relations to set the

If Eastern Kentucky is ever to become a healthy part of the state's economy, contributing to Kentucky as well as taking from it, the federal government is going to have to stop thinking about criteria and cost-benefit ratios and start thinking about people.

The people of Eastern Kentucky are still eager to help themselves. They deserve some help from the government. They aren't getting it. They won't get it until the Administration is as willing to pay men to work as it is to keep them in idleness that degrades the human spirit and foredooms any hope of local recovery.

Howard To Head Easter Seal Drive For Floyd County

Noah D. Howard, of Wayland, will serve as chairman of the 1962 Easter Seal appeal for crippled children in Floyd county, it was announced this week by W. T. Isaac, Danville, state chairman.

Last year, a total of 4,210 children received help at one or more of the following Easter Seal centers: Cardinal Hill Convalescent Hospital and Cardinal Hill Nursery School, Lexington; the West Kentucky Center for Handicapped Children, Paducah; the Northern Kentucky Crippled Children's Treatment Center and Opportunity School, Covington; the Hearing and Speech Center, Louisville; and Camp Kysoc, Carrollton.

This statewide program cost the Society $289,951.25 of which $216,195.32 was raised through the Easter Seal Campaign.

Why I And My Family Attend Regularly At Church School

BY CHALMER H. FRAZIER (First in a series of articles by laymen to promote the local Sunday School attendance campaign) Records reveal that the church school in the early days of the history of our nation was, and remains, champion of the intellectual, spiritual and democratic way of life.

Being human, and possessing the characteristics of all persons, namely, those of vacillating between indulgences and obligations, floundering among conflicting desires and duties, I need the fellowship of others who, like myself, realize their weaknesses and go to church school where, as no place else, one finds fellowship of understanding persons and weekly guidance for living.

I attend church school with my family because experience and observation have taught me that parents wield a strong influence upon their own children and others, both by what they do and fail to do.

John Bascom Bayes, Of Auxier, Claimed; Funeral Held Sunday

John Bascom Bayes, 52, of Auxier, died enroute to the Prestonsburg General hospital, Thursday of last week, of a heart attack. He was a miner.

Mr. Bayes was a son of the late Grover Bayes and Mrs. Addie Music Bayes, of Auxier road. His wife, Alice Horn Bayes, survives. Surviving are a son, John B. Bayes, Jr., of Auxier, and a daughter, Mrs. Geneva Cox, Warsaw, Indiana.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10 a.m. Sunday from the Horn Chapel, the Rev. Will Horn, Woodrow Branham and David Blankenship officiating. Burial was made in the Wells Government Relocation cemetery on Auxier Road under the direction of Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Addie Music Bayes, of Auxier road, was removed to St. Mary's hospital, February 20, suffering from a fractured pelvis. She was injured in a fall at home. Mrs. Bayes is improving, it is said.

be with him, in church school if he is to continue to go. Dad's example has a far more reaching influence upon keeping a son in church school than does admonition, the teacher, or his classmates. I attend church school with my family because here, as no place else, we can go together to a place which provides for the needs of each, regardless of sex or age, a wholesome fellowship, spiritual food, and a knowledge of the church and its leaders.

The church school in my community, needs my support as well as that of my family. Like every one else, including my family, I have a contribution that I alone can make.

This is just as true at church school as any place else. When I attend church school with my family, I am helping to enrich and support an institution which is second only to that of the family. My absence would be a vote to close its doors.

Mrs. Cora Sherman, 69, Of Auxier, Is Victim;

Funeral rites for Mrs. Cora Sherman, 69, of Auxier, who died Saturday at City hospital, Springfield, Ohio, were conducted Wednesday morning from the Methodist Church at Auxier.

Mrs. Sherman was stricken 13 days prior to her death. Her illness followed what was considered a minor operation. An autopsy was performed in an attempt to determine the cause of death.

Mrs. Sherman was the widow of George W. Sherman who died in 1950. She was a daughter of Squire and Lydia Jane Spriggs, of Martin county, and had lived at Auxier 30 years. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

Survivors include six children, Bill Sherman, Inverness, Florida, Jack Sherman, of Auxier, Mrs. Ermon Clifford, Mrs. Maryland Robinson and Thurston Elwood Robinson, all of Springfield, Ohio; and three brothers, Lora Spriggs, of Auxier, Davis Spriggs, Van Lear, and Alonzo Spriggs, Toler, Kentucky.

Burial was made in the Government cemetery at Auxier, the Jones & Preston Funeral Home directing.

THINK I am again using the word, "THINK." It seems that a great many people do not think until it is too late. It would seem to me that anyone would always remember their birth month, the month in which your driver's license expire. We have many people who come to this office after the time has elapsed, then they are required to take a complete test under license examiner, and many hold the clerk responsible. Many of these people are professional people and do they get angry! If you will notice the top right-hand corner of your license you will see when to renew. I carried an ad in The Times for many months but it seems that only a few people saw it. When you read this ad call the attention of your neighbors and friends to it and maybe it will help out a lot. HENRY STEPHENS Clerk, Floyd Circuit Court

CAWOOD CALLS BASKETBALL

BY CAWOOD LEDFORD

They say records are made to be broken. Basketball records at four different Kentucky schools hang in jeopardy as 1962 has produced a bumper crop of marksmen. Kentucky style. Morehead's little buzzsaw, Granville Williams, and Western's Bobby Rascoe are among the top ten point getters in the nation and both are closing in on the point totals at their schools. Murray's sophomore center, Jim Jennings, has a good shot at the Thoroughbred mark, and Kentucky's sophomore sensation, Cotton Nash, may do the same for the Wildcats.

Williams, a senior, is almost impossible to keep from shooting. He has that unbelievably quick reflex that gets him into the open for a split second, and that's as long as he needs. Through Morehead's first ten games Williams is averaging 28.8, with a dozen games left on the Eagles' schedule. The school record is held by Dan Swartz with 28.6 set in 1956. Granville has his work cut out though to keep his average at that lofty pinnacle.

Of the quartet of prolific scorers this season, Western's Bobby Rascoe seems best set to write in a new figure at Western. The 6'4" senior is averaging 27.3 through 12 games and should better the 25.9 seasonal high set by Tom Marshall in 1954. Rascoe is a deadly shot, connecting on his field goal attempts about half of the time.

Jennings and Nash are even more amazing in their rush toward school records in their first year of varsity competition. The two sophomore pivots are ahead of the scoring average record at this stage of the season. Jim Jennings is averaging 22.8 after 16 games, and has a good shot at the record 21 posted by Howie Crittenden in 1954. The Murray lefthander leads the league in rebounding.

Cotton Nash, called by his coach Adolph Rupp "the greatest sophomore in the nation," has a good chance at three Kentucky scoring records, but will have to keep up the pace he has attained since the Wildcats moved into the conference half of their schedule. Nash is averaging 22.4, a shade below the record 24 points a game set by Cliff Hagen in 1954. Nash, in the SEC, is averaging 30.5 points a game, well ahead of Hagen's 24.1 mark in 1954. . . . and the Kentucky sophomore seems destined to wipe out the record scoring for a sophomore of 19.4, set by Johnny Cox, in 1957.

1962 may find a host of new school scoring records here in the Blue Grass state. The Kentuckians are on a record binge.

The color of your house determines how often it needs to be painted, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Good house paint, if it's white, lasts at least four or five years before it needs renewing; tinted paints, five or six years; dark-colored paints, six to eight years.

Grapefruit, a good buy right now, is a perky eye-opener to start the day. And homemakers are using grapefruit more and more as round-the-clock fare. USDA suggests dressing up grapefruit for a family dessert. Gently toss grapefruit sections and sliced pitted dates with grapefruit juice which you've seasoned with cinnamon, brown sugar, and grated lemon rind. Gov. Combs Promotes Breathitt-Co. Rockers Frankfort, Ky.—Governor Bert Combs, a successful salesman of Breathitt county rocking chairs, has expanded his line of hand-crafted Kentucky products.

Governor Combs says he views the handcraft industry as one of the best solutions yet offered to help alleviate unemployment in the Eastern Kentucky region.

Combs, who sold over 15 rocking chairs last month after one was given to him, has now turned his office into a display case for over 20 pieces of furniture made in Kentucky handcraft industries.

The products, valued at nearly $2,500, range in price from $11.95 for a rocking chair to $475 for an upholstered sofa.

Most of the items in Combs' office are from Berea College Student Crafts, but Scaffolderane Craft Center in Rockcastle county and Kentucky Mountain Crafts in Jackson are also represented.

Combs, commenting on the new furniture, said that aside from making his office a more comfortable and attractive place to work, he hoped he could sell some of it. He said that he plans to take orders from anyone who even "looks like" he might want an item.

The State Department of Economic Development is, according to Commissioner E. B. Kennedy, rapidly developing small craft businesses in Kentucky. He said that his department's division of arts and crafts has been instrumental in establishing 13 craft centers during the past year, 12 of which are in Eastern Kentucky.

"Although the centers are comparatively small businesses," Kennedy said, "they are giving people employment and income who otherwise would not have it. In some cases, the centers mean the difference in whether or not a family has sufficient food and clothing."

Kennedy went on to say that the search for wholesale and retail outlets for the newly manufactured products has been just as successful as the search for new producers. He said that the products were now being sold in over a dozen stores and shops throughout Kentucky and in every State park that has a souvenir shop.

Most of the craftsmen who market work through the centers are members of the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen which was set up in late 1960.

"The youth without a high school education is severely handicapped in his chances for achievement and accomplishment," Youmans writes.

"In Kentucky the school dropout problem is particularly acute," he continued. "For example, for every 100 boys and girls enrolled in the first grade in Kentucky schools in 1948, only 32 graduated from high school in 1960. For every 100 boys and girls in the eighth grade, only 48 graduated from high school four years later, a record which placed Kentucky 47th among the states in the nation."

Youmans adds that for every 100 students enrolled in the ninth grade in Kentucky in 1956 only 63 graduated from high school in 1960. The most marked dropout ages were 16 and 17.

The University of Kentucky sociologist studied the dropout problem in Elliott, Metcalfe and Butler counties in 1957.

He concluded that the dropout cause was chiefly economic and occurred in families of low income.

"Among these boys and girls, certain factors appear to be of critical importance to their staying in school," Youmans said. "These are favorable attitudes of the family and of the youth toward the value of an education, the participation of the boy or girl in some school activities to his or her liking, a congenial relationship between student and teacher, the chance for the youth to earn some money while attending school and the ability to make a high score on I. Q. tests."

He concluded: "The high dropout rate in the state suggests that the public school system is not meeting the needs of all Kentucky youth."

Keep apples cool when you bring them home from the store. Apples placed on the table for decoration warm up and become mealy in a very short time. Most apples now on sale have been in cold storage for some time and lose quality rapidly if kept in a warm room. For better-tasting apples, put them in your refrigerator as soon as you get them home; this will keep them cool, crisp and in good condition until you want to use them.

THE PASSENGER PIGEON

We have numerous creeks and branches named Pigeon Roost in Kentucky and West Virginia. These were so-named because they were the roosting places of the great flocks of passenger pigeons that flew there at night to roost. Their coming was like the roar of a cyclone and when they settled down, they covered the whole creek from head to mouth and broke down the timber—even great trees were often broken!

These pigeons were so numerous, they devoured every worm, caterpillar, every acorn and beechnut within a radius of one hundred miles of their roosts. When they flew during the day, they darkened the sun like an eclipse. It is utterly fantastic to read the accounts of eye witnesses recorded about 100 years ago! There were so many of them seen then, no one dared believe they would ever become extinct! They had lived and reproduced and multiplied all over the eastern part of North America and up into Canada, for hundreds of years, when America was a wilderness and there were all kinds of nut-bearing trees, and no one to bother them except the Indians, who never killed the passenger pigeons during their nesting season. The Indians often gathered the squabs and rendered them to make an oil which they used for "butter."

The passenger pigeons were never in any great danger of becoming extinct until the white man appeared on the scene. The whites began to shoot them and to catch them with snares, against the pleading of the Indians. The great drama came to a sad end on Sept. 1, 1914, when the last known survivor of the great flocks died in a Cincinnati zoo. They could never become extinct. So the netters and the men who followed their migrations and baited them with grain and often caught as many as one hundred at the time in their nets, said. Sometimes these professional netters would visit their roosts and spread down tar on the ground and the poor birds would be caught and held prisoners!

The passenger pigeon was one of the most handsome birds known. It was larger than the mourning dove, being about 17 inches in length. It was bluish-gray above and had a glowing red breast; it had pinkish-red feet and legs, and its eyes were also red. It had a long tail and slender wings and could fly over a mile a minute.

Kentucky was one of the famous breeding grounds for the passenger pigeon. So was Michigan. One of their breeding grounds was at Shelbyville, and this place where they gathered in the spring to nest and rear their young was over 40 miles long and 12 miles wide. In this vast area, there would often be as many as one hundred nests in each tree, and the ground would be strewn with dead squabs, and there great droves of wild hogs would come to feast on these! It is estimated that over two billion pairs of passenger pigeons came here every season to rear their young!

Alexander Wilson, father of American ornithology, whose word cannot be doubted, described a flight of these pigeons he once observed. He stated they flew over at a height out of the range of guns and the flock was so great it drowned out the whistle of passenger trains and the flight darkened the whole sky. They rolled on and on overhead at a great speed, and it often took two or three days for the great flock to pass a given point. Mr. Wilson estimated one of the flocks he observed to contain almost two and one-half billions of pigeons. This number can scarcely be conceived by the mind of man.

Audubon, the great ornithologist, also recorded the flights. Once he said the whole sky was literally filled with pigeons passing over, and "it was like an eclipse of the sun; it took them three days to pass over! He said the people lay in wait along the rivers, where the birds often came down perhaps to drink, and they slaughtered them by the multiplied thousands, using clubs, sticks, guns, nets, and snares. For one whole week after they passed over, the people feasted on nothing but pigeons.

Audubon estimated one of these immense flocks would consume almost nine millions bushels of food each day—acorns, nuts, and larvae of all kinds.

The passenger pigeons also had a great nesting site at Petoskey, Michigan, a vast area that covered over 100,000 acres. It was also forty miles long and about ten miles wide. Here multiplied millions of pigeons were reared each season. That this bird could ever become extinct never entered the mind of destructive man; often as many as one hundred barrels of pigeon meat per day were shipped to the Chicago markets.

What caused the gradual and complete extinction of the famous passenger pigeons? It was the changing environment brought about by the coming of the whites, and their wholesale slaughter of pigeons. Parent birds were killed by the thousands and their young left to die of starvation. Men attacked them at their roosts and interfered with their breeding and rearing of their young. They slaughtered them without mercy, because they figured the birds would never disappear from the scene.

Also the forest began to decline with the coming of the white man. Many areas were cleared away to make room for settlements and cities, and the food supply of the pigeons began to diminish. Men used the old single-barreled shotguns and sometimes killed as many as 75 pigeons with one shot.

The birds were never used to being shot at and this broke them up into smaller flocks, filled them with fear and caused them to get disorganized. The birds were totally unable to cope with the new menace of the white men and the breaking up of their breeding places. The netters followed their flights by use of telegrams and made pigeon netting a way of making a living. The last great nesting of the pigeons was made in Michigan in 1881. After that, they declined rapidly and no more great flights were seen.

It was once thought the vast herds of bison that roamed the plains of the west would never become extinct, but 13,000 carcasses were counted in one season, bones bleaching in the hot sun! Today bison are found only in game preserves.

Take our wild ginseng, fifty years ago, it filled the woods and men dug it without any thought of its conservation. Today it is so scarce in many regions, it seems likely never to make a comeback. The famous passenger pigeons have gone the way of the bison, the wild ginseng, the wild turkeys and many other species, all because of man's thoughtless cruelty and lack of conservation.

It was pointed out this week by Adrian Collins, member of the Prestonsburg Water and Gas Commission, that The Times erred last week in saying that the gas system was serving one about one-fifth of the customers in Prestonsburg. The reverse is true, Mr. Collins notes. The city serves all except an approximate one-fifth of the customers. Certain areas of Prestonsburg were being served by private gas companies before annexation and their lines have not been acquired by the city.

Bills of the B. & W. Construction Company, on demand of Derossett, were presented to the court by County Court Clerk Ollie Robinson to determine if they had been itemized. County Attorney Barkley Sturull, who attended the meeting, said that he had previously advised that all bills be itemized and that future orders for work or materials be made only by requisition of the court.

Derossett and Caudill in leveling charges at the county road employees, who were named as Sam Leslie and Woodrow Fitzpatrick, said that they would not take orders from the magistrates and that the construction firm had ordered Woodrow Branham, employed by Derossett, off a job. He said, "I might just as well resign this job and turn it over to B. & W. Construction Company."

At one point Stumbo and Derossett were in complete argument. It was when Stumbo noted that he was making no deals with anybody, not even the construction firm, that were derogatory to the interest of the county. Derossett said that he knew that but he reaffirmed his contention that the firm's bills "were breaking the county up."

At one point, Magistrate Caudill intervened to say: "I'm getting fed up because they (road employees) ignore me. I think they ought to earn their money. They resent taking orders from me and if they take orders they hit a lick and quit."

Ousley said the contrary was true in his case. "The road employees, when they work in my district, take orders from me," he said.

At one point in the wrangle, County Attorney Sturull interrupted to say that the county was not going to pay for red-dog hauled to private driveways. Magistrate Derossett then asked Sturull if the discharge of Woodrow Fitzpatrick would jeopardize the Floyd county road program. Sturull said it wouldn't and added that no one could complain of what is being done by the state on Floyd county roads.

The court adjourned until Friday of this week.

What happens to the billion pounds of peanuts that we Americans use? Next time you have a handful of salted peanuts, count out 20 of them to represent a billion pounds of shelled peanuts we use in a year. Eight of those peanuts will become peanut butter; four will be eaten as salted peanuts; three will go into candy; four will be squeezed for oil. Then, add one more to represent the peanuts that go to ball games and carnivals in the shell.

a new trade. Retraining the thousands of unemployed in eastern Kentucky in the skills being demanded by industry in this new electronic era would not only provide a means of livelihood during the retraining period to many families but also would enable eastern Kentucky and other similar areas to develop the new type industries which our growing technology has brought into existence.

The Retraining Bill, H. R. 8399, was reported favorably by the U. S. House Education and Labor Committee last session but failed by the margin of one vote to clear the Rules Committee in the closing days of the session. Earlier this month, the measure cleared the Rules Committee under procedures allowing floor amendments and three hours of debate.

The bill makes available 263 million dollars for training subsistence payments to unemployed trainees and for the operation of a vocational education program over a two-year period.

Perkins commended provisions of the bill which would provide for the first time a nation-wide inventory of manpower skills together with an inventory of skill shortages and job shortages and job opportunities. Perkins illustrated the importance of this type of information by pointing out that Mayo Vocational Training School in Eastern Kentucky has a record of 100% placement for its graduates, many of whom expressed a desire to return to Kentucky if jobs utilizing their skills were available. Perkins placed in the record communications he had had with the Kentucky Department of Economic Development showing that an accurate survey of this nature would be extremely useful in attempting to attract expanding industry or developing local industrial enterprises. Perkins said, "After all, a trained labor force is an essential tool to modern industrial development and expansion."

He emphasized the point that the hope for many of the economically depressed areas lies in the ability of such areas to attract and develop commercial and industrial enterprises which would be greatly aided if the area could count as a major asset "a citizenry trained in the skills now in demand and which will be required in this new technological era."

Numerous instances of acute distress were reported from all areas hit by the flood. Right Beaver Creek's plight was perhaps more acute than that of any other section, with 4.1 inches of rainfall officially recorded at Wayland within 24 hours after the rain began Sunday night.

The town of Martin, lying below the confluence of the two Beaver Creeks, had 3.3 inches of rainfall, and the stream rose approximately five feet in the main street there, invading practically every business house along the highway. Upwards of 50 homes there were either flooded or so isolated by water as to cause their evacuation.

The report, gathered from other Floyd communities:

Wayland—Three-fourths of the town invaded by water but only six residences actually flooded, since most homes had been raised four to five feet after suffering from previous floods. Raising of foundations of homes in the Estill area likewise prevented much damage.

Lakey—Twelve homes flooded by the highest water since 1927; homes along nearby Jones Fork surrounded by water; both Ky. 80 and the railroad cut by the water.

Garrett—Possibly 40 houses flooded in Garrett and West Garrett where the stream rose to within two inches of the 1937 flood level. The Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad was called to evacuate families trapped in their homes at West Garrett.

Bosco—Nine homes flooded, with others along nearby Salt Lick Creek invaded by the water.

Maytown—Water in about 10 homes, highway cut; most families had warning in time to move household effects.

The report received here from Left Beaver told of damage all the way from Weeksburg to Martin. Hardest hit, perhaps, was "White Camp" at Drift where residents reportedly had no time in which to move their belongings to high ground. The stream rose six inches higher than in the 1957 flood, inundating the highway from Price to Drift in a dozen places. The C. & O. Railway between Price and Drift was also damaged and trains were held up for a time as ballast was washed from beneath ties. The water rose into both the Drift school lunchroom and the McDowell grade school.

Damage to the county's roads is unusually heavy. Slides have interrupted traffic, and in some sections bridges have been weakened or their approaches washed out. Magistrate Fred Conn said six bridges in the Prater Creek section were so affected.

The county-seat towns of Paintsville, Salyersville and Inez were isolated by water Tuesday. Licking River flooded a great portion of Salyersville, and Paint Creek caused the major damage at Paintsville where perhaps 50 homes were under water. C. Y. Cooper, of the Paintsville Water System, estimated there are 100 homes in Johnson county outside Paintsville, which have been flooded.

"The saddest spectacle," Mr. Cooper said, "is at Staffordsville where the people had rebuilt homes ruined by last July's flash flood. They now are destroyed all over again."

Cooper also said the railroad up Jenny's Creek to Evanston is badly damaged. The river at Paintsville lacked approximately eight feet of rising to its 1957 level, but head-water out of Paint Creek swept into the town.

Superintendent Clark Praises PTA. Citizens For Their Work To Realize Lunchroom Dream

A proud P-T.A. president, P-T.A. members and interested citizens of Clear Creek last Sunday heard Charles Clark, Floyd county superintendent, praise their efforts which, with the help of the school board, made their dream of a lunchroom become a reality.

School officials Wayne Ratliff and Walter Frasure and school board member Bill Blair joined Mr. Clark in congratulating the patrons of the Clear Creek school.

The attractive, modernly-equipped lunchroom sits on the site of the former lunchroom which was made of the bodies of two discarded school buses. This lunchroom had served the boys and girls at Clear Creek for about seven years.

Curtis Wallen, P-T.A. president, guided the program, which included welcome by James Gibbs, principal.

Invocation by E. M. Pace, music by Mrs. Roy Conley, of Wheelwright, and appropriate remarks were made by the former P-T.A. president, Mrs. Sylvia Newman, who also has long served as a teacher.

After the benediction by E. M. Pace, refreshments were served and a friendly and neighborly visit was enjoyed.

EDUCATION HAS PRIORITY IN STATE LEGISLATURE

Special to The Times

Frankfort, Feb. 16—Education received top priority in the 1962 Kentucky General Assembly legislation last week as House and Senate each passed two major bills on this subject.

The representatives gave the omnibus school bill easy sailing through the House (87-1) and then went on to pass (86-3) a bill to set up through the University of Kentucky a system of two-year community colleges. The measures went to the Senate.

The Senate gave final legislative approval to two House measures to establish a statewide educational television network. One bill would set up a nine-member independent agency to operate the network. Another bill would authorize the State Property and Buildings Commission to issue revenue bonds to pay for television Gov. Bert Combs, who already has signed a bill empowering the state facilities. The measures went to State Education Board to lease T. V. facilities from the Commission or other owners.

The Senate voted, 22-10, for a bill to create an over-all health and welfare agency headed by an administrator and including the departments of Health, Child Welfare, Mental Health, and Economic Security, plus the Tuberculosis Hospital Commission and the Commission for Handicapped Children. The Division of Mental Retardation, now in the Welfare Department, would be transferred to the Mental Health Department. The measure now is in the House.

The lower chamber gave approval to Rep. Lon Carter Barton's proposal to set up a year-round nine-member committee of legislators to keep an eye on the State Government between sessions of the General Assembly. The Mayfield Democrat had proposed that six of the members be representatives and three be senators. Of the representatives, four would be of the majority party; of the senators, two would be of the majority party. The measure, approved 82-4, went to the Senate.

The Senate has for consideration a bill approved by the House to require vaccination of all children against diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, and polio. The bill accords exemption on religious grounds, except in an emergency declared by the State Health Department.

The Senate passed a bill which sets up a state board to regulate and license independent and privately-owned business schools. The House now has the measure.

Gross negligence causing death of another person could bring a drunk driver one to 15 years in the penitentiary under a bill approved by the House and sent to the Senate. The measure also would provide jail terms up to one year and fines up to $5,000, or both, for persons causing the death of another by reckless conduct not wanton enough to be classified as gross negligence.

The State Prevailing Wage Board would be stripped of its power to fix pay scales on local public works projects under a House bill approved and sent to the Senate.

The legal limit of what constitutes petit larceny would be raised from the present under $20 to under $100 on value of stolen property under a measure gaining House approval and now before the Senate.

A measure to legalize bingo games operated by churches, hospitals, or schools for charitable purposes fell afoul of a motion to table in the House. The motion won, 49-22, in effect killing the bill.

The House voted 71-17 for a measure to permit professional persons—doctors, accountants, dentists, architects, lawyers and such—to form professional corporations, as provided by Federal law, to delay payment on a portion of their incomes set aside for retirement. When the money comes back after retirement, it would then be taxed.

The age limit in the juvenile court definition of a child would be reduced from 19 years under a measure approved by the Senate and forwarded to the House.

The House is considering a Senate-approved measure to make paroled prisoners answerable to the State Parole Board and to provide for supervision of paroled prisoners. Another Senate bill before the House would make prisoners serving terms of 15 years or less eligible for parole after serving one-third of the sentence, provided at least six months has been served. Prisoners serving 15-21 year terms would be eligible for parole after six years and those with life sentences after eight years. A third Senate-approved measure now in the House would require penitentiary confinement of two to five years, instead of a fine, for persons aiding fugitives from law.

The Senate gave final legislative approval to a House bill allowing fourth-class cities to receive property for municipal, educational, charitable or recreational purposes and to control use of such property.

State officials and employees would be paid semi-monthly instead of monthly if a Senate measure, already approved by the upper chamber, passes in the House.

The Department of Public Safety would establish standards for examiners and trainees operating lie detectors and issue permits under a Senate-approved bill now before the House.

A measure approved by the Senators and sent to the House would permit the State commissioners of Finance and Insurance to determine the amount of funds required in the State Fire and Tornado Insurance Fund and transfer excess to the capital construction fund.

The Senate voted approval of a bill to grant members of the Armed Forces preference points on classified State service examinations. The measure went to the House.

Awaiting Senate action is a bill approved by the House to require each new passenger car sold in Kentucky after 1963 to be equipped with clamps to support safety belts.

The House passed without opposition a Senate-approved measure repealing the $7,200 yearly salary limitation imposed by State law on local governmental officials. The measure (SB 26) was passed 88-0.

N. Y. SENATOR WOULD LEGALIZE WIRETAPPING TO GET EVIDENCE

Wiretapping under legal safeguards is an "important crime-fighting weapon" essential to our safety, U. S. Senator Kenneth B. Keating (R., N. Y.) says in a March Reader's Digest article asking public support for his bill to re-legalize the gathering of wiretap evidence.

Senator Keating is author of a measure to allow courts to authorize wiretapping in the investigation of certain major crimes. If it passes, police in New York, Massachusetts, Nevada, Maryland and Oregon will be free to use the technique immediately. In other states, enabling legislation would first have to be passed.

In the article, "Change the Law That Fosters Crime!" Keating says the Federal Communications Act of 1934, as recently interpreted, has resulted in "a gigantic legal jailbreak." Seven kingpins of a half-a-million dollar narcotics operation were freed in New York last November because some of the evidence against them came from wiretapping. Judith Coplon, caught red-handed passing U. S. secrets to a Red agent, is free at least partly because tapping was involved in the case against her.

New York's District Attorney Frank S. Hogan has listed Charles "Lucky" Luciano, Jimmy Hines, Louis "Lepke" Buchalter and Jacob "Gurrah" Shapiro of Murder Incorporated, among the top hoodlums who never could have been convicted if court decisions barring wiretap evidence had been handed down before they were brought to justice.

Keating who lives in Rochester, N. Y., concludes: "Something must be done to close this law-enforcement gap. If you agree, write to me expressing your support of S1086, which I like to refer to as a 'crime-tapping' bill. I have no doubt that most Americans want to end the 'legal jailbreaks' and unshackle the police and FBI."

AGED HODGENVILLE NATIVE BORN IN LINCOLN CABIN

"How dare you be born in Abraham Lincoln's birthplace cabin? How dare you?"

An outraged woman, her face indignant red, confronted the last man born in the Lincoln traditional birthplace cabin.

"Lady," said the man's friend, "his mother was living in the cabin at delivery. It wasn't his fault."

Ivy Davenport, of Hodgenville, Kentucky, today recalls the incident with a rueful smile.

Davenport says he told the irate woman he spent only five years in the Lincoln cabin while his parents, John and Mary Goff Davenport, lived there for nineteen years.

Now 72, Davenport has virtually inherited from the cradle stories illuminating the life of Lincoln. He has a comprehension of Lincoln that surpasses mere book knowledge.

"Lincoln and I had some things in common," says Davenport. "Besides being born of poor but hard working parents, we lost our mothers at about 10 1/2 years of age and we both had little formal education."

Davenport is quick to point out that there all similarity ends. Lincoln found his way to Springfield, Illinois, and became one of America's most revered presidents while Davenport has spent nearly all of his 72 years in the Hodgenville area.

"I'm just an ordinary country boy and I've lived just an ordinary life," he said. "Abe studied while fellows like me played. He said he was going to get his chance and he'd make the most of it."

Davenport and Park Superintendent Earl Wright of the Abraham Lincoln National Historical Birthplace site are close friends. They have both felt the almost tangible presence of Lincoln's spirit.

"I would say Lincoln was a real Christian although he didn't belong to a church," Wright said. "His great example, his wisdom and tolerance change a man's perspective. I think Lincoln has influenced both of us."

Lincoln is probably the world's best known American president, Davenport noted.

Superintendent Wright said that foreign people, especially those of the Orient, practice extreme reverence in the Memorial Building.

"They respect it as they would one of their temples," he said.

The two men recalled that Madame Pandit, sister of India's Prime Minister Nehru, stood before the cabin fireplace in deep meditation at least 30 minutes.

Perhaps she was thinking that here was a cabin, as wretched as millions of homes in India, and that a man rose from such humble beginnings to become one of the world's greatest humanitarians . . . that this could happen only in America.

Davenport, now a maintenance man at the Hodgenville Elementary School, worked for 21 years in a similar position at the park. He has appeared on the Robert Ripley "Believe It or Not" radio show.

Davenport laughs when mothers bring their children to the cabin and say, "See, this is where Abraham Lincoln learned to read and write."

"I doubt it," Davenport says. "The Lincolns moved from the cabin when Abe was two years of age. By the time he was able to read and write, he lived ten miles north of here at Knob Creek," he points out.

Although Davenport left the Lincoln cabin 67 years ago, he remembers his infant years. He still recalls corn-sluck mattresses, meals prepared over an open fireplace, beds fitted into the wall by pegs, rough hewn dinner table and the Davenport family living in the 15 x 18 foot Lincoln log cabin.

Davenport was employed on the construction of the present Memorial Building that houses the traditional Abraham Lincoln Birthplace cabin. He has met five of the six Presidents visiting the park.

Davenport likes to recite this short history of the national park: "Thomas Lincoln bought the Sinking Spring Farm on December 12, 1808. He built his cabin, like thousands of other frontier cabins, near a large limestone spring.

"Abraham Lincoln was born in this cabin on February 12, 1809. He lived there only two years when his father lost the land through a faulty land title. Dr. George Rodman secured the cabin in 1861 and moved it to his own farm a mile and a half away.

"Dr. Rodman owned the cabin until 1895 when R. W. Dennett, of New York, bought the cabin and started touring the country with it. The Lincoln Farm Association people purchased the cabin in 1906. "The cabin was dedicated in 1909 at a cornerstone laying ceremony of the present Memorial Building. In 1911, the Memorial Building was completed and the cabin was installed.

FOREST SEEDLINGS IMPROVE ERODED EAST REGION LANDS

"Kentuckians are gradually building up the value of their idle and eroded land through the planting of forest tree seedlings." Gene L. Butcher, director of the Kentucky Division of Forestry, declared as he explained his division's 1962 program of seedling production and sales.

"It is only within the last several years, however, that the State Division of Forestry has attempted to provide quality seedlings at a low cost for landowners to speed up their efforts in reforestation," the forestry director added.

Seedling production at the three state tree nurseries is now adequate to take care of any demand for reforestation planting stock, he said.

Orders for forest tree seedlings are now being accepted by the Kentucky Division of Forestry. Shipments from the three state nurseries—at Kentucky Dam, Pennington Forest and Woodbend in Morgan county—will begin about March 1, Butcher said.

Official order blanks are available at forestry field offices or any of the county offices of the Agricultural Extension Service, Agricultural Stabilization Committee (ASC) offices or Soil Conservation District offices.

White, shortleaf and loblolly pines and black locust and yellow poplar seedlings are available at $8 a thousand, packed in bundles of 500 or 1,000 each.

Three seedlings are planted primarily to produce forest crops, Butcher said. Such crops can be Christmas trees or greens, fuelwood, fence posts, pulpwood, poles or sawlogs. Each product represents a stage in the tree growth, and more than one crop can be harvested from the same tree plantation, he pointed out.

"Other benefits from reforestation," Butcher continued, "are the increase in land value, the development of wildlife habitat and the control of erosion." Recreational and aesthetic values are also developed through reforestation, he said.

"To get a hardwood or pine plantation off to a good start," said Harry Nadler, chief of the Forest Management Section of the Division of Forestry, "the selection of the right species and the right planting method is most important.

"From that point, attention must be given to the protection of the plantation from grazing, fire, insect and disease attacks. More than 40 professional foresters from our division are ready to assist anyone in setting up plans for care and maintenance of his plantation," Nadler pointed out.

They may be contacted through any of the nine district field offices of the division at Morehead, Prestonsburg, Hazard, Pineville, Frankfort, Elizabethtown, Campbellsville, Madisonville and Mayfield.

"Thinning can be made in from 15 to 20 years from the time of planting, and each plantation owner is encouraged to use the services of the Division of Forestry in working out plans for these thinning," Nadler said.

McDowell avenged two earlier defeats at the hands of Maytown. Jumping off to a 18-17 first quarter lead, they increased this to 32-26 at halftime. But in the third quarter, Maytown rallied to take the lead at 48-46. Maytown led by as many as six points in the fourth quarter. But the Dare Devils roared back to win, 61-58. McDowell was paced by its big guns, Dean Stewart and David Turner with 23 points each. Curtis Little tossed in nine. Maytown was paced by Hubert Halbert and Bob Tallent, each scoring 20.

Bears Suffer Defeat
In KIAC Tournament
By A Single Point

Pikeville, Ky., Feb. 27 (Spl.) — The Pikeville College Bears closed their basketball season the hard way Friday, eliminated by a single point, in the last 10 seconds of an overtime period, from the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference tourney.

In a semi-final contest the Bears fell 82-81 to the eventual tournament champions, the Villa Madonna Rebels, whom they had downed twice in regular season play, the second time just a week before. John Will Hunt closed his college career with a game-topping 21 points, on nine field goals with 14 shot and three of three free throws, as Pikeville took its 11th loss in the season's 23 games.

Pete Campbell, the Bears' scoring leader and the other of their two seniors, also playing in his last college game, was held to 16 points but gave off five assists and was strong on defense. His steal and feed to Jimmy Moore for a crisp in the closing seconds of the last half sent the game into overtime.

With seconds to go in the overtime, Villa Madonna was trying to hang on to the ball and a one-point advantage when Moore intercepted and drove for a layup to give the Bears their short-lived third lead, 81-80. On the next trip down the floor, Les Stewart was fouled while trying to shoot, and sank both free throws for the final score. A Pikeville desperation shot missed.

Did you eat breakfast this morning? If your answer is "no," then you're probably short-changing yourself on both nutrients and calories. You need a good breakfast to supply energy after the long night's fast. Even with a late snack at night, energy is almost gone by morning.

THE FEMININE SIDE OF BOWLING NEWS

By IMA BOWLER

First off this week, let me congratulate the Sugar Bowlers League at Lake Lanes for asking for and having a meeting to discuss the rule book and learn the rules. The only purpose of rules is to help everyone, and most of the little dissensions we've had in our city association have been because there is not a complete understanding of these rules. The City Association officials have offered to conduct a meeting, and help each league go through the rule book, and as far as I know, the Sugar Bowlers are the only ones to ask them to do so. I may be wrong here, but I do think it is commendable that these women are trying to get these rules straight. Only when all the women in this city association understand and follow the rules are we going to have good sportsmanship and no friction in our leagues.

High bowler at Lake Lanes this week was Leta Jo Nelson with 205, and Pin Princess was Carol Sturgill with 123. High at Crown Lanes—Pat Layne with 220 and Junior Bowler was Mike Cahill with 225. The three top winners in the "Make that Spare" contest at the Crown were Marian Howell, Fannie Warrens and Dot Bradley. We understand that the Bowling houses are forming a ladies' traveling league to bowl on Sunday in Pikeville, Prestonsburg and Paintsville, and there will be two teams chosen from each house. They are to be privately sponsored teams, but there will be only two chosen, so interested teams must hurry to the house of their choice and apply. Be sure to try your skill by joining the friendly Trio League Tuesday mornings at Crown Lanes at 10 a.m.

If you have any information you would like to report to this column, please tell your managers at both Lanes. It is very difficult for the management of this reporter to find out all that is going on in our many leagues, and it is quite possible that there are things which occur in your league that you would like to tell about. The Managers are too busy to keep up with everything. You league secretaries are the ones who could best do this, but anyone with pertinent information might report also. Anyone wishing to comment on this humble endeavor is earnestly invited to do so; any suggestions will be appreciated.

Maytown Forms Boosters Club
To Support School, Net Team;
Membership Drive Under Way

Langley, Ky., Feb. 27 (Spl.)—The Maytown Booster's Club was organized, February 20, in the school gymnasium.

Officers elected were: Jones Tallent, president; Tommy Jones, vice-president, Mrs. Anna Jean Crum, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Gloria Jones, publicity director.

The first meeting was held last Saturday at 6 p.m. with 22 members present.

A membership drive is now in progress and all interested persons are welcome to join and help support Maytown's basketball team and school. The next meeting is scheduled for March 31 at 6 p.m.

This season, the Maytown Wildcats boast one of the top teams in the county. They now hold a record of 20 wins and six losses. They are rated second in the county. The Wildcats are coached by a former Maytown Wildcat, Gene Frasure, who was one of the top players for the Wildcats in 1950, which took Maytown to the regional tournament at Pikeville. He is a graduate of Morehead State College.

Miss Penelope Whitton,
Mr. Hal Amos Are Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bracy, of Joy street, Pikeville, are announcing the marriage of her daughter, Miss Penelope Beth Whitton, to Mr. Hal Blake Amos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Amos, Jr., of Chloee Road, Pikeville.

The ceremony took place on Sunday, January 14, at Clintwood, Virginia, with the Rev. Thomas W. Cramer officiating at the double-ring service.

The bride was given in marriage by her stepfather, who also served as best man. The bride's mother was her honor attendant.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple left on a wedding trip through Tennessee and Mississippi.

The new Mrs. Amos is a graduate of Pikeville high school and has attended the University of Kentucky. She has completed a business course at the Fugazzi Business College, Lexington, Kentucky.

The bridegroom was graduated from Pikeville high school in 1954 and from Transylvania College, Lexington, in 1958, with an A.B. degree in economics. He was a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity. He is now affiliated with the Aetna Casualty and Surety Company as a claim representative.

REGIONAL DRAW

The draw for the 15th regional basketball tournament, to be staged at the Prestonsburg fieldhouse next Wednesday through Saturday, will be held at the high school at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Eight representatives of the competing schools will determine the prices, hire officials, and make all of the arrangements necessary to conducting the affair.

TROPHIES ON DISPLAY

Trophies and the various awards for the 58th district basketball tournament are now on display at the Francis Store. The all-county team will be selected on the basis of season's play. The cheerleaders themselves will select their most outstanding group.

BIG WINNERS

Four of the county's basketball teams have won 20 or more games this season, marking one of the few times in history that this occurred. McDowell posted a 22-9 record, Maytown 21-5, Wheelwright 20-4 and Wayland 20-9.

MOREHEAD FLOPPED

Morehead State College's loss to Loyola, a better-than-average high school team, in New Orleans this past Saturday night cost them a bid to play in the Sugar Bowl basketball tournament next season.

Monk Simons, chairman of the selection committee, had virtually assured Coach Bobby Laughlin that he would be presented an invitation if his team was impressive; however, as fate would have it, the Eagles looked miserable and played as badly, and the opposition had little to do with their play.

GOOD PUTTING PAYS

After watching two days of the New Orleans Open golf tournament we are convinced putting is the major part of the game as four putts of less than three feet cost Phil Rodgers the championship. He led the field for two days before his putter went astray. The one-two-three finishers, Bo Winniger, Bob Rosburg and Doug Sanders, all played in the same threesome on Saturday and Sunday, and we were lucky enough to follow their play on Saturday, not knowing how they were to finish Sunday afternoon.

What's Going On
in
FISH & WILDLIFE
by MINOR CLARK, Commissioner
Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources

We believe that a great majority of the Kentuckians fail to realize the fishing opportunities in this state or the fishing potential offered. This Department often has said that fishing in Kentucky is as good or better than that of any other state in the Southeastern United States. This statement is based on the overall fishing, not necessarily one particular phase.

There's good reason for this thinking. Kentucky has more than its share of waters and naturally where there's an abundance of water there is good fishing providing fish management has been correctly executed.

Perhaps, the average Kentuckian fails to realize that Kentucky has seven major lakes, constructed by the U. S. Corps of Engineers, the TVA and, in one instance, a private industry. These lakes, all of which are offering good fishing now, are Kentucky, Dale Hollow, Cumberland, Dewey, Herrington, Rough River and Buckhorn, the latter two having been opened for fishing only last July. There are four more lakes, large ones, that are now being constructed. There's Fishtrap, in Eastern Kentucky; Nolin River and Barren No. 2, in the western fringe of central Kentucky, and, of course, another gigantic one, Barkley, which will lie alongside Kentucky Lake. Barkley is scheduled to be completed in 1964 and all are due to be fishable by 1966.

INFLATION HITS AGED, AILING AND STUDENTS

College students, the aged and chronically ill persons are three groups which have been hit especially hard by inflation, the March Reader's Digest reports.

Despite U. S. cost-of-living figures which show an average rise of 23.1 percent over the past decade, Oscar Schisgall writes, many essential costs have risen from 100 to 300 percent. College tuition and board today are, in many places, double what they were in the 1940's. Medical costs have gone up 47.4 percent. The poor and aged, many of whom live in rooming houses and eat in restaurants, face similarly spiraling costs.

A pencil that cost two cents ten years ago now costs six cents, Echisgall writes; a typewriter, which cost $130 ten years ago, was replaced this year by a new one costing well over $200.

The article, titled "Hidden Hazards of Inflation," also notes that the tax collector profits on the 23.1 percent increase in the cost of living; the man who earned $4000 ten years ago, must get about $5000 this year just to keep up. Yet he paid 20 percent income taxes on his $4000 salary and must pay 22 percent on the higher figures, with no increase in his real income.

"Inflation," he concludes, "is a national problem, a national hazard which affects the lives and fortunes of each of us."

Tax Commissioner Notes Office Open for Lists; Statutes Are Explained

Clive Akers, Floyd county Tax Commissioner, announces that his office on the second floor of the courthouse is open for taking 1962 property tax lists.

All real estate, tangible, and intangible property, with the exception of tobacco in storage, cash on hand and cash in out-of-state banks, owned on January 1, 1962, must be listed for state, county, and school tax purposes during the period January 1 to March 1. Tobacco in storage, cash on hand and in out-of-state banks owned as of September 1, 1961, must also be listed during this period.

Mr. Akers emphasized the importance of all taxpayers giving a complete list and description of all their property in order that a complete and equitable assessment may be made. The tax commissioner pointed out that motor vehicles must be listed as of January 1, 1962, the same as other tangible property, and that motor vehicles would be included on each tax bill along with real estate and other property. This is the result of a Court of Appeals decision last year which ruled the special motor vehicle assessment, collection, and lien law unconstitutional. Last year motor vehicles were assessed as of March 1.

Tangible personal property includes automobiles, trucks, merchants' inventories and equipment, tractors, farm machinery, livestock, and in the case of manufacturers, manufacturing machinery, raw materials, goods in process and finished goods. The tax commissioner said household furnishings used in the owner's home are exempt; however, household furnishings used in furnished rental property are required to be assessed.

Intangible property for tax purposes includes bonds, shares of stock, notes (secured and unsecured) accounts receivable, cash on hand and cash in out-of-state banks, life insurance benefits, and other credits. The tax commissioner added that it is not necessary for owners of stocks and bonds to secure the January 1 market values since he has this information available in his office. He also has a list of corporations whose stock is not taxable to the shareholder.

POULTRY CHAIN

The Floyd County 4-H Council will again sponsor the 4-H Poultry Chain this year.

Ten club members will be selected by the Council to receive 100 baby chicks each. The club members will carry this as their project and then return 12 pullets to the Council to be sold at auction during the county fair. The money received from this sale will be used to buy additional chickens for the next year.

Any club member interested in the project should obtain an application blank from their local club leader and return it to the county Extension office before March 15.

STRAWBERRY CHAIN

The Floyd County 4-H Council is sponsoring strawberry plants on a loan basis to seven club members in the county. The Council will furnish these seven club members with 1,000 strawberry plants each. The club member will then repay the Council for the plants at the end of the first picking season. The club member will furnish his own fertilizer. The plants will set one-fourth acre.

Any club member interested in this project should fill out an application and return it to the county agent office before March 10.

4-H TALENT SHOW

The annual 4-H Talent Show will be held in the near future with the time and place to be decided by the county 4-H Council at their next meeting.

The rules and regulations that will apply to county and district talent shows this year have arrived from the state 4-H Club office in Lexington and are as follows:

Specialty Acts — The specialty act consists of four members or less and has a time limit of three minutes.

Club Acts — There is no upper limit on the members from a club that can participate. The minimum requirements are five club members or 20% of the club whichever is greater. The time limit on club acts is eight minutes.

A county champion will be selected at the county show in both the specialty and club act and will represent the county at the District Talent Show.

STRAWBERRIES

Those interested in making income from their farm, should be planning to put out strawberries. The number of plants per family will vary with the size of family, willingness to work, and other jobs. The smallest size patch should be at least one-fourth acre. This is large enough to give a fair return for the time required. The upper limit would be as large as could be properly handled. For some this would be one half acre, others could raise an acre, and there are a few who could raise five or more acres.

Anyone who would like to buy good virus free plants of the Pochontas variety, can order through the strawberry plant committee, by placing their order with Paul Martin at The First National Bank. The plants cost $15.50 per thousand and delivered to Prestonsburg.

Section III. In addition to these lakes, the Department, or the sportsmen, has acquired 28 lakes furnishing 3,800 acres of new fishing waters in just about every section of the Commonwealth. Kentucky long has been proud of the fact that it has more miles of running water than any other state. However, with the admission of Alaska, Kentucky has lost that record to the new state. There are approximately 13,000 miles of running water in Kentucky, and most of it is fishable.

The farm pond stocking program in Kentucky always has been one of the best and it is safely estimated now that more than 50,000 ponds have been stocked with the proper balance of fish and offer good backyard fishing. Now the state is engaged in a Chain of Lakes Program being developed along with new highways. This program is expected to add materially to the already abundant fishing waters in this state.

The management of these lakes and streams is in the hands of the Department and careful checks are being made from time to time to determine if given bodies of water are producing the amount of fish of which they are capable. Where populations have declined in given bodies of water remedial projects have been initiated which are constantly replenishing the supply of fish.

Yes, in my opinion, a great many Kentuckians do not realize the great amount of fishing offered in this state, nor the fishing potential. The statement made at the beginning of this article, Kentucky has as good if not better fishing than any state in the Southeastern United States surely is true.

Section V. That the City assumes the liability for any expense incident to the relocation of any city-owned utility line, i.e., water,

PROF. THOMAS' GRAVE

Mrs. John Floyd, Route 3, Grayson, Kentucky, writes to advocate a monument at the grave of Prof. W. R. Thomas, author of Life In The Hills and Mountains of Kentucky. She was a pupil of the Floyd county teacher.

"I know there are enough of his former pupils to place a nice marker at his grave. He was one of Floyd county's greatest teachers."

HATFIELDS AND McCOYS

Capt. John E. Howes, Medical Detachment, 8th Evacuation Hospital, APO 180, New York, New York, seeks information on the Hatfields and McCoys.

He writes: "I would like to mention that I have a personal interest in the history of the Hatfield and McCoy families as William Anderson 'Devil Anse' Hatfield was my great-grandfather and I was born in his home and reared on the Hatfield homestead on Island Creek, in Logan county. I am also related to the McCoy family and would like to mention that I have had the pleasure and honor of making the acquaintance of Dr. W. F. McCoy, Huntington, and the Honorable Hayes McCoy, Bartlettville, Oklahoma, formerly of Phelps, Kentucky, and as a young boy I coon hunted with Joe McCoy, a son of Lark McCoy, and several of his sons, and I can proudly say that my family never had better friends or neighbors than Joe McCoy and his family."

"At the present time I am stationed in Germany and am attempting to trace the complete family trees of our families by checking the records in Scotland, Ireland and England, so any assistance that you could give me in this respect would be greatly appreciated, especially if you could refer me to other persons or agencies that could also help."

AGRICULTURAL GROUP LISTS ASC PRACTICES

The Floyd County Agricultural Group has completed work on the ASC practices that farmers can receive cost-sharing on during 1962, it was announced this week by Elder Goble, office manager.

Practices that will solve nearly any conservation problem that is known in Floyd county are available to farmers, he said. A few of these practices are establishing permanent pastures and meadows, establishing a stand of trees, timber stand improvement, sod waterways, tile drainage, ponds for livestock water, ponds for wildlife, wells for livestock water, cover crops, and open ditch drainage.

"We can cost-share with the farmer in establishing any of these practices on the farm," Goble said. In order to qualify for cost-sharing on any of these practices a farmer must come to the ASC office and make a request. This request must be made by March 9, if the practice is to be carried out before June 30, 1962. If the practice is to be performed after June 30, the request can be made in the July, 1962, sign-up.

"If you have not been participating in the ACP we believe that we have a practice that can be of great assistance to you, in your farming activities," Goble added.

NEW NAME FOR COLUMN

This column began 12 years ago with the title, Floyd County Historical Notes. In a few years it was changed to Historical Notes as at the present because it was planned, and has been, with material from the Eastern Kentucky region, instead merely of Floyd county.

I would like to permanently change the name of the column. Who has any suggestions? Please write, Box 421, Prestonsburg, offering your suggestions.

Book of Job Receives Many Favorable Notices From New York Writers

A Kentucky-born religious drama has received glowing tributes from New York critics following its opening there.

"The Book of Job," written and first staged at Georgetown College in 1957, is collecting rave notices. The drama opened a three-week engagement at the famous Dr. Ralph Sockman Park Avenue Christ Church Methodist, February 9.

Some "Job" reviews: THE NEW YORK TIMES: "An awesome and most majestic rendition. There is a sound to all this that is bound to linger for a long time in memory. 'The Book of Job' should not be missed!" NEW YORK WORLD TELEGRAM: "A fascinating achievement in religious drama." NEW YORK MORNING TELEGRAM: "The Book of Job" is faithful, majestic. No one should miss it."

The "Job" show will return to Kentucky after its New York run to appear nightly at the Pine Mountain State Park for its fourth successive season from June 28th to September 1.

Preston Slusher, drama general manager, has predicted greater attendance in store for the unusual drama. He lists national publicity through Life and travel magazines and the great increase in tourist travel as a boon to "Job" in 1962.

Before coming to Pine Mountain State Park "Job" appeared at the Brussels World's Fair and toured Europe and Canada in 1958.
