

THURSDAY

This Town... That World

CHANGING TIMES

Come next Thursday, we shall all, in one way or another, be observing Independence Day. I am reminded that time was when, up our way, we began planning the train trip to Prestonsburg, along about now, to see the parade, hear the speeches, drink soda pop and, on the whole, have something to talk about for a day or so after getting back home. I also am reminded that, come three days after this July 4, there'll be no train to ride to Prestonsburg from anywhere—unless you're young and foolish enough to hop a coal shifter.

WHY NOT?

I am all in favor of making the well-known welkin ring on the Fourth of July. Why don't we do our fireworks shooting now, and let Christmas be what it should be?

BEAT TO THE SNATCH

We have the word of that eminent fisherman and bullfrog snatcher, Gordon "Red" Moore, for this story. See he and Frank Salisbury were frogging on Dewey Lake, the other night, and that he spied a big one roosting on the bank and turned the boat directly toward it so that Salisbury could take him alive. Salisbury reached, there was a splash, and Moore yelled, "Did he get away?" "Get away?" echoed Salisbury in colorful terms. "Just as I reached for him a big bass struck him in his tracks."

I will be real nice to this fellow Moore if he will show me the exact spot where this took place.

Which reminds us that they're making an artificial frog bass bait which look like the real McCoy. Friend of mine commented: "I'd just be my luck to toss that frog out and have somebody sig it." (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

COLLEGE CONSTRUCTION LOW BID IS $873,000

FOUR BIDS ARE OPENED ON PROJECT

Prestonsburg Community College Slated To Open In September, Next Year

The state's community college project advanced another step last Friday afternoon as the Southeastern Construction Co., Charleston, West Virginia, submitted the apparent low bid of $873,000 to build the Prestonsburg Community College.

Four bids were opened by the State Finance Department. The department's engineering staff will study all bids before award of contract. Second apparent lowest bid was $873,000 submitted by Sullivan & Cozart, Inc., Louisville.

Although the low bid was approximately $80,000 above architects' estimate of the cost, it is held certain that a contract will be awarded, possibly within the next few days.

The college here will be one of five two-year community colleges to be established for the University of Kentucky in various parts of the state under 1962 legislation. The U. K. center at Elizabethtown is now under construction.

The Prestonsburg structure will be an air-conditioned, one-story building of approximately 35,000 square feet. Its exterior facing of brick and translucent fiberglass panels will be features of the modern design.

The college will have 12 classrooms, three laboratories, a library, a multi-use room for band and meetings, a seminar room and a director's office.

The contract will include heating, air-conditioning and electrical systems, clearing and grading of site and construction of driveways and parking areas.

The building will accommodate 300 fulltime students and 200 adults on a part-time basis.

Completion of the work is scheduled in time for opening of the college in September, next year.

The college tract of 33.8 acres is between old U. S. 23 and U. S. 460 and the new U. S. 23, near the Cliff bridge. The Big Sandy College Development Corporation, a local group, supplied $92,030 of the land cost and the state supplied $101,170. Another six acres is under option.

The building will be constructed with revenue bond money and capital construction funds. To pay for the Prestonsburg and Elizabethtown buildings, the state has sold $1,200,000 worth of bonds and set aside $888,000 in capital construction (See Story No. 2, Page 6)

MUSIC DEATH CAUSE FOUND

Pathologist Reports Watergap Man Drowned; Official Probe End Seen

The death of Hillard Gene Music, 18, of Water Gap, whose body was recovered from Dewey Lake, June 16, was caused by drowning.

So reported Dr. R. A. Stewart, Ashland pathologist, last week after he had performed an autopsy and had made intensive study of the body.

The pathologist's report led officials to the conclusion that there was no evidence that young Music had met with foul play.

The report said there was no evidence of hemorrhage, contusion or laceration of the scalp and no sign of contusion, incision, puncture or laceration of the body was found.

The report presumably ends the official probe into the case. Music disappeared on the afternoon of June 9 and was the object of an intensive search. While divers of the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad were searching the lake bottom, June 16, a few hundred yards below Terry's boat dock, the body surfaced near them.

Fred McCoy, 19, and Phillip Dean Ray, 22, who with Miss Dora Skeens, 17, were Music's companions on the day of his disappearance, were questioned at a hearing held here by County Judge Henry Stumbo. No charge was lodged against them. Both were recognized to appear before the September grand jury, but it is believed the only official interest in their testifying then will be in connection with the purchase of intoxicants on the day of the drowning.

Mrs. Ruth B. Jesse, Age 62, of Weeksbury, Is Victim At Pikeville

Mrs. Jesse was a daughter of the late George and Martha Jane Branham Bingham and was a native of the Prestonsburg vicinity. She was a member of the Wheelwright Community Church and took a leading part in church and lodge activities. She was a charter member and past matron of Wheelwright Chapter No. 477, Order of the Eastern Star, and was a charter member of the White Shrine at Pikeville. For 16 years Mrs. Jesse was matron at the Weeksbury clubhouse.

Surviving, besides her husband, are one sister, Mrs. Georgia Spradlin, Baltimore, Maryland; a half-sister and a half-brother, Mrs. Roy A. Pendleton, Pleasure Ridge, Kentucky, and Fred Bingham, Fern Creek, Kentucky, and her stepmother, Mrs. Rebecca Bingham, of Lancer.

Funeral rites were conducted from the Wheelwright Community Church at 10 a. m. Monday, by the Revs. H. M. Wiley and Donald Guth. Burial was made in the Hinton Memorial Mausoleum at Johnson Memorial Park, near Pikeville, the Baker Funeral Home directing.

STOP SECOND "OIL" TRUCK

Transport, Allegedly Loaded With Intoxicants, Intercepted in Bath-Co.

Confirmation of the report that a second oil truck loaded with whiskey was intercepted at Salt Lick, Bath county, late Tuesday evening, was made Wednesday by a source in the office of County Judge Claude Shroat, Owsingsville. Judge Shroat was not in his office when called by The Times Wednesday, but the office spokesman, who would not identify himself, said that an oil truck which he understood was loaded with whiskey was stopped.

Asked what was done with the driver of the truck, the spokesman said: "Turned him loose, I guess." The first oil truck, specially constructed for the transportation of whiskey and beer, was stopped near Salt Lick, April 22. It contained a few gallons of oil, 4,200 cans of beer and 25 cases of other intoxicants including vodka, gin and whiskey.

The driver of the first truck, Kenneth Fultz, of Haldeman, Kentucky, was fined $150 by Judge Shroat. The truck contents, allegedly consigned to Prestonsburg, were confiscated and the truck turned over to the owner, Oliver Henry, of Winchester.

Initial reason for stopping the truck Tuesday was given as a mud-splattered license tag.

No other details of the case have been learned by The Times.

Annual Church of God Camp Meeting Scheduled

Five states—Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia and Tennessee—will be represented at the eighth annual First Church of God camp meeting to be held here, July 4-7.

Last year's camp meeting, also held here, drew an estimated 600 persons. Meals and lodging are provided free to visitors, and only a freewill offering is taken.

The Rev. John W. Conley, of Morehead, will be the evangelist for the four-day session. The music program will be led by Mrs. Robert Kitchen, Hope, Kentucky, song director, with Mrs. Millard Gevedon, Owsingsville, Kentucky, as pianist.

TRUCK MISHAP KILLS GEORGE

Carbon Monoxide Cause Of Truck Driver's Death Near Edna, Magoffin-Co.

Marvin Scott George, 21, of Lancer, died at 11 a. m. Saturday, approximately 20 minutes after he was pulled, unconscious, from a truck at Edna, Magoffin county.

A jury empaneled by the Coroner of Magoffin county held that he died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

George was driving a truck, hauling gravel in the construction of the Prestonsburg arm of the Mountain Parkway, and it was said that he arrived at the gravel pit, near Edna, before other truckdrivers. When he was found by another driver, windows of the truck were rolled up, and it was believed he had left the engine running, to drive away the morning chill.

The victim was a son of Eddie and Mary Craft George. He was unmarried. Besides his parents, he leaves five brothers and seven sisters: Ray, Bill and Jack George, all of Lancer, Robert and James George, Ypsilanti, Michigan, Mrs. Edna Mae Carter, Ypsilanti, Mrs. Lois Jean Collins, of Lancer, Mrs. Barbara Ann Morrison, of Endicott, Mrs. Rickey Joe Burchett, of Lancer, Mrs. Minnie Frances George, Pawpaw, Michigan, Mrs. Tressie Fern Gibson, West Prestonsburg, and Miss (See Story No. 6, Page 6)

TRAIN SERVICE ENDS JULY 7

For Valley Passengers; Discontinuance Is Made Pursuant To Court Rule

The last passenger train serving the Big Sandy valley will make its last run, the afternoon of July 7.

The Court of Appeals a few days ago affirmed the judgment of the Franklin circuit court holding that operation of the train is not justified by financial returns to the company. The case was appealed to the Franklin court after the Kentucky Railroad Commission had denied C. & O.'s petition for permission to discontinue the train.

Thus will end passenger train service extended to Prestonsburg and beyond in 1905. "The morning train upriver will make its run, July 7, and the train will return downriver that afternoon—and that's all she wrote," commented a rail employee.

Express service will continue by truck and will be handled from the railway station here, as usual, it was said.

ARTS FESTIVAL HERE WINS WIDE INTEREST

Interest in the first Floyd County Homespun Arts Festival mounted during last week till the closing event, All-Festival Night, drew a crowd of upwards of 500 persons Saturday evening.

The festival was sponsored by the Floyd County Library Board, the library staff and a festival committee of eight individuals. Mrs. R. V. May, chairman of the library board, conceived the idea of such an event to preserve the traditional culture of the county and to promote a greater interest and participation in both the creative and performing arts.

The public liked the variety of the program as it varied from night to night, starting on Monday evening of last week with an excellent art exhibit and ranging on succeeding nights through the areas of instrumental music and folk dancing, a singing convention, poetry and story-telling and folk-singing.

All programs, except art and poetry and story-telling, were held outside the library building. Each drew a wealth of talent.

Blue ribbon awards in the art division were made by Tom Young, of the Art Department, Morehead State College. Awards in the adult and college division were made to Mrs. Reba H. Mayo, Lexington, Miss Carol Johnson, Prestonsburg; Bill Fraley, of Lancer; Miss Chaddie Hardwick, Betsy Layne, sculpture; Mrs. Marjorie Martin Dixler, Louisville, formerly of Eastern, handwrought jewelry. In the high school division a blue ribbon was awarded Mack Webb Martin, of Wayland.

At All-Festival Night selections were given by these who had participated in the festival.

Memorial for Airman Slated Next Sunday

ASSIGN P. O. CODE NUMBER

Plan To Facilitate Mail Distribution In Operation Soon

Postmasters in Floyd county, as elsewhere over the nation are trying hard to acquaint patrons of their postoffices with the ZIP Code numbers assigned each office by the Post Office Department in an effort to speed up mail deliveries.

The new code number system goes into effect, July 1.

The postmasters are urging patrons to use the ZIP Code number of their postoffice on their return address for each piece or parcel of mail and also to use the Code number of postoffices to which mail is addressed. The number, it is explained, should follow the city and state in the address, as in this example:

Prestonsburg, Ky., 41653

Postmasters say the new ZIP Code plan will be the first time permit the Post Office Department employees to short-cut repeated address reading. A post office Department official said the address on mail must often be read as many as eight or ten times by postal employees to get it to its proper destination. With ZIP Code a clerk needs only to glance at the code number to know immediately to what national area, state and post-office the letter is destined. It is claimed this will speed up delivery by a much as 24 hours.

Ten of Floyd county's postoffices already have reported to The Times their ZIP Code numbers. These follow, in numerical order:

The body was returned to his parents' home, and funeral services were held Wednesday from the Daniels Creek Church of Christ by Leonard Webb, minister. Burial was made in the Wells cemetery.

ROOSEVELT STRESSES NEEDS OF APPALACHIA

Leaders Talk Ills of Area At Park Here

Roads, Flood Control, Education Are Named As Needs of Region

An Appalachian "T.V.A.," something more tangible than mere surveys and reports, needs met for highways, flood control, education—talk of these items and effects at Jenny Wiley State Park last Thursday by national, state and local leaders brightened an otherwise dreary, rainy day.

Discussions between officials and leaders and a public afternoon meeting were held by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., undersecretary of Commerce and chairman of the President's Appalachian Regional Commission.

Roosevelt pleased the crowd when he stressed action rather than talk and surveys and reports. "I guess," he said, "there have been more pages written, duplicating other reports, about this region than any other. President Kennedy isn't interested in a report which he will thank us for and put on a shelf. We don't want only to talk about broad problems—we want to get down to specifics."

Again, Fishtrap dam delays were mentioned, he pointed out that discussions between the Corps of Engineers and the C. & O. Railway continue as the former seeks to get the railway relocated, Mr. Roosevelt commented:

"From where I sit, I think the discussion ought to be brought to an end." Noting that negotiations have been going on for two years, he said the private owners whose land has been condemned "don't understand the high and mighty status of the railroad."

Actively engaged in the morning conference, Governor Bert T. Combs and Highway Commissioner Henry Ward mainly listened in the afternoon as community and area leaders presented their ideas of what would most help Eastern Kentucky.

Roosevelt's commission will present a report to President Kennedy at the end of the year. It will contain recommendations as to the form of agency needed to undertake the rough job of redevelopment of this area.

The eight area development councils in Eastern Kentucky met during the morning. They adopted a resolution proposing a T.V.A.-type operation to be called the Appalachian Authority.

The councils suggested the authority be permanent and autonomous, yet instructed to "coordinate and work with present, existing agencies and programs" available to the area.

As proposed, the authority would have members drawn from the area councils "so that Eastern Kentuckians would retain a strong voice in their future."

Veteran of World War I Dies At Sister's Home; Rites Conducted Saturday

Jack McGuire, 71, an overseas veteran of World War I who had been an invalid since 1922, died, Wednesday of last week, at the home at Water Gap of his sister, Mrs. Maude Scutchfield.

He was a son of George and Ira Everidge McGuire and was a native of the community in which he died. He was never married. Surviving brothers and sisters are: Dick McGuire, of Water Gap, Taubee McGuire, of Allen, Mrs. Maude Scutchfield, of Water Gap, and Mrs. Angie Patrick, of Ashland.

Funeral rites were conducted Saturday at 1 p. m. from the Scutchfield residence by the Revs. Jack DeRossett and John Conley. Burial in the family cemetery was directed by the Floyd Funeral Home.

$27,050 FUND IS AVAILABLE

To Repair Flood Hit Floyd County Farms; Details Not Learned

George M. Nelson, Jr., state executive director of ASC, notified Elder Goble, local office manager here last week that $27,050 was being made available as an initial allocation of funds to repair flood-damaged farm lands in the county.

"Details of this program, instructions and specific practice specifications will be forwarded to you when their approval has been received from Washington," Nelson wrote Goble.

Harry Hill, chairman of the local ASC committee, says that according to a preliminary survey made of the county a few weeks ago a great number of farms were severely stricken by the March flood. Much damage has occurred to waterways making it necessary to rework them preparatory to reseeding, Hill added.

Measures eligible for ACP emergency cost-sharing include: (1) filling and shaping of gullies and waterways, (2) renovation of terraces, pond dams, and diversion channels, (3) shaping of eroded land, (4) stream-bank restoration, (5) restoration of drainage systems damaged or destroyed by floods, and (6) removal of accumulative debris.

Farmers who have suffered damage the early part of this year and who need ACP cost-sharing assistance are invited to call at the county ASC office, Goble said.

JAMES HARVEY HOWARD, 64, PRESTONSBURG, SUCCUMBS AT METHODIST HOSPITAL

James Harvey Howard, 64, well-known Prestonsburg man, died at 11:55 p. m. Friday at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville, believed to have been the victim of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mr. Howard had undergone a gall-bladder operation at the hospital on the preceding Tuesday, but had rallied after surgery and was considered recovering. He had suffered a previous partial stroke.

He was the last of the family of James and Jane Maynard Howard, and was a native of Mayflower, in the Pike county section of Johns Creek. He had resided here since early manhood and had been a barber here for 44 years. Mr. Howard was a member of the First Presbyterian Church here.

Work on the bridge itself is practically complete. The four-lane approach and the widened highway from Patton street to a point near Friend street are planned to make one of the most attractive stretches of road in the area.

As grade and drain work was being done on the bridge approach this week traffic here was slightly snarled. Traffic was being routed around the work via Highland and Central avenues.

Several right-of-way condemnation cases on the Middle Creek sector of the Parkway arm, appealed to circuit court, were heard this week.

Wherein Weaknesses Lie

Kentucky's liquor laws have their strengths and, on the other hand, their offsetting weaknesses. Perhaps the best law legislators could enact would be one setting a stiff penalty for failure on the part of officers and officials to enforce those already on the statute books. One of the strong laws provides for the confiscation and sale of property used in the illegal liquor traffic. If every vehicle and building in which intoxicants are found for the purpose of sale were subjected to the full power of this one statute, a half-dozen raids and arrests a year would make enforcement a pipe dream. But, as in the case of other good, stiff laws,—the law against carrying concealed deadly weapons is another,—officials are loath to use the power at their command. Couple this weak attitude with some of the "weak" points of the law, add hit-and-miss enforcement measures, and you have a situation. Search and seizure technicalities of the law often afford protection to bootleggers, but the law which enables the organization of so-called clubs, with great ease, almost at the will of the organizer, affords the bootlegger a real haven. As we understand this law, the main requirement for a charter for such a club is an application bearing the names of a certain number of "charter" members. Perhaps there is more. But, we must conclude from the readiness with which these charters are issued, little more. After that, operating behind closed doors, firmly tucked behind technicalities of the law, the amount of liquor sold depends almost solely upon the boldness and cupidity of the management. Those are a few of the strengths and weaknesses of the law. But the greatest weakness lies in the supineness and timidity of the ordinary citizen who refuses to use his or her influence and power as voter, taxpayer and juror to hammer away at this liquor situation that disgraces us all.

COMBS IS UNCHANGED AFTER BREAHHITT WIN

(From Bill Powell's Notebook, in the Paducah Sun-Democrat) Bert T. Combs was in a forest of shadows and shouts and trumpeted opposition when he leaned towards Edward T. (Ned) Breahitt in the "tournament of candidates" last year. When he picked Ned Breahitt, I believe he was the loncomest man I ever saw politically. Most people were too nice to come out and say so, but the feeling lay under the wan smiles and the words of propriety. I listened to Combs talk to Henry Ward at Kentucky Dam Village Park early in 1962. "Breahitt is a fresh young man who will come on strong with the young people and with a lot of other people," he said with customary simplicity. Ward, at that time, was a candidate for lieutenant governor. Later he became ill and had to take some pills and the advice of some doctors before he was able to get back to 16 hours of work a day during the week and a full day on Sunday. We sat there looking out on the lake and I wondered if the hurling months ahead would uphold Combs. I now know they did, and today Bert T. Combs is the No. 1 man in Kentucky in politics and statesmanship and good government. Bert Combs, today, wears the cloak of a winner with grace and, above all, humility. I saw him at Benton, Saturday. He hadn't changed any because of Breahitt's triumph in the greatest primary achievement of all time: he was the same as he had always been, and he wore a sport coat I had seen many times before. I didn't expect Combs to exude loftiness or cockiness, but personally I expected a tiny bit of dash or flourish as a result of being a man who stood against many, and fought many, to see his man nominated. But Combs was as down to earth as usual, and I say he is the most exceptional man I have ever seen in government. He nodded and shook hands and smiled a little to all who came around. Someone asked him if he would be in the area the next day. "No," he said. "I am going to my family cemetery Sunday. I am going there for a gathering." But he said he would be back to Kentucky Dam Monday for an important Tombigbee meeting. He stood around a long time after making the main speech for the memorial service of the dedication of the monument to the men of Marshall county who died in World War I and World War II. Combs met people and talked to them about the way I would or you would. There wasn't any pomp or aloofness there; he said about what you and I would. Once I said Combs was as honest as a head of cabbage or a potato; you just can't be a cabbage or a potato and pretend to be anything else. I still say so. He is a man of few words and

Special Session Starts

EXPLAINING CALL FOR SPECIAL SESSION of the Kentucky Legislature is Gov. Bert Combs at the rostrum. He has asked the General Assembly to consider legislation permitting a hospital authority to acquire and operate five United Mine Workers hospitals in Eastern Kentucky which were to be closed July 1. He also asked for legislation to enable the University of Kentucky and other State colleges to obtain more needed facilities; ratification of an amendment to the Federal Constitution that would eliminate payment of a poll tax as a requirement for voting; a method for refunding bonds of the Kentucky Turnpike Authority in advance of their maturities, and legislation concerning probation and parole and the Department of Corrections.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

"OLD-TIMERS"

On May 30, 1963, I attended the fiftieth-year reunion of the class with which I graduated from Western (then the Western Normal). A good many oldsters from my class and the preceding classes were there, and some good letters came from others who felt unequal to the journey back. Numerous other reunions, such as the class of 1938 in its twenty-fifth, brought back a host of students whom I had taught. As would be expected, a lot of talk turned that day on old times. There were two very definite ways in which the returning students talked. Some seemed to think only of a sort of imagined past, a bit hazy now, after so long a time, but suffused with a rosy light. A good many others seemed as young, as alive as they were in their former college days. The whole day illustrated once more how people regard their own former years. Some never find again the dreamworld that they assumed they had in the Good Old Days; others are content to accept added years as a part of the game. I have found that mere age is not necessary for people to begin looking only backwards. Hundreds of the thousands of students whom I taught had grown up to believe that the glorious days are all behind us, that only confusion and ultimate defeat are ahead. You cannot wonder at that tragic attitude, however, for most of these youths have rarely heard any suggestion that life is livable now. In spite of their being the daily beneficiaries of modern developments in every branch of human endeavor, many younger people, like the peevish Hebrews on their trek to the Promised Land, long for fleshpots of some other time, now unattainable. Sometimes I have felt disgusted at the defeatist attitude brought to college by bright young people who should be straining at the leash to meet life now. It is a queer turn of events when youth accepts defeat and seems to regard it as only natural. Of course, the defeatists are more vocal, usually, than the slow, plodding fellows that adjust daily to the world of their own time and ultimately "amount to something," as the people of Fidelity called it. Besides, it is fashionable, often, to be skeptical about anything that might be regarded as optimism. Actual beatniks are never very numerous, in our part of the world, but there is a large group of fellow-travelers, maybe not brave enough to look queer and fail to take enough baths but still sympathetic with the tramp-like fellows who love to show off their independence of any social restraint. This is no old man's raving against a rather laughable matter. We had a representative number of beatniks, called something else, in the good old days, so-called, that so many of us recalled yesterday at our reunions. The old-fashioned self-made beatniks rarely made many inroads on the rather stolid students of my generation and did furnish considerable amusement and an occasional cuss-word. Even at Fidelity there were beatniks, of all age groups. Some people, in their eagerness for attention or their slyly, animal-like existence, were neighborhood freaks, strongly suspected of being minus a few marbles or of putting on an act. Sometimes the beatnik of that time dressed and looked like a groundhog. A pair of shears, a washtub of soapy water, and a swift kick or two could have worked some strange wonders on these neighborhood down-and-outers. Society, then as now, usually allowed such reversions to type go their own way, but it was obvious that few of these queer ones ever got a large following. Maybe beatniks are good for the rest of us in that they furnish horrible examples of what not to be. Maybe, too, the old-timers who never adjust to new times are useful, for they act, or should act, as warnings to what may happen to just anybody who sits down and twiddles his thumbs and wishes for some glorious past that really never existed.

Our Yesterdays

Thirty Years Ago

(June 23, 1933)

Thieves last Thursday night took an estimated $400 worth of clothing from the drygoods store and pressing shop owned by J. E. Martin at Garrett. Five hundred persons played golf, danced or simply viewed the layout when the Abbott Heights Country Club had its official opening, last week-end. Only three of 38 persons who entered the May teachers' examination here made passing grades. It was learned this week. The select three are Mrs. Sarah Virginia Ford, Mrs. Anna Burchett and Ernest Hopkins. Representatives of the United Mine Workers of America came into this county this week and are organizing the various coal mines of the county. The organizers are reportedly from Van Lear where the mines are 100% union. Acting on the Congressional declaration that beer is non-intoxicating, the Court of Appeals held Tuesday that it is a soft drink and, therefore, non-taxable. The grand jury here has voted 53 indictments. R. C. Barnett, foreman, reports. Willie Wright, 30, was shot and seriously wounded near Brainard, Saturday. The State Highway Commission will not let grade and drain of the Left Beaver road to contract, it is reported; will, instead do the work on "force account". Governor Ruby Laffoon said this week he is through with politics and will welcome the end of his term. Jackie and Patricia Hagans suffered facial cuts Sunday when the car driven by their father, Wayne Hagans, wrecked. Miss Douglas Hopson entertained at her home here Thursday night in honor of her guest, Miss Lareda Blackburn, of Wheelwright. There died: Ruth, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Hale, of Harold, last Friday of blood poisoning resulting from an ankle injury; Elliot Miller, 56, Sunday at West Prestonsburg; Mrs. Walter Vanderpool, 21, Monday at West Prestonsburg; Mrs. Ell Fairchild, 35, Sunday at her home at Bonanza; James Gearheart, 44, native of this county, Saturday at Racedand.

Twenty Years Ago

Mine workers of this and other coal fields of the country Wednesday awaited official notice from their policy committee to return to work, and operations in this field were expected to be resumed Thursday. Arrests were made by Sheriff's deputies, Wednesday night, of three employees of the carnival now in Prestonsburg who were indulging in a round of poker. Action may also be taken against a "penny-pitching" game operated by the carnival. Alphonso Ray, 67-year-old miner, was killed Friday morning when caught beneath a slatefall in the mine of the Koppers Coal Company at Weeksbury. The manpower hunt for more farm laborers to help increase food production for the war effort was centered this week on Eastern Kentucky. One of the Army's newest awards for high performance, the Motor Vehicle Driver and Mechanic Award, was presented recently to Staff Sgt. James L. Dotson, of Prestonsburg. A demand that selective service officials "lay the cards on the table" with respect to plans for drafting fathers was voiced this week by Chairman A. J. May, of the House Military Committee. There died: Mrs. Lula Jane Nitherley, 55, Thursday, at her home in Prestonsburg; Mrs. Ella Sammons, 38, Monday, at her home in Prestonsburg.

Ten Years Ago

(June 25, 1953)

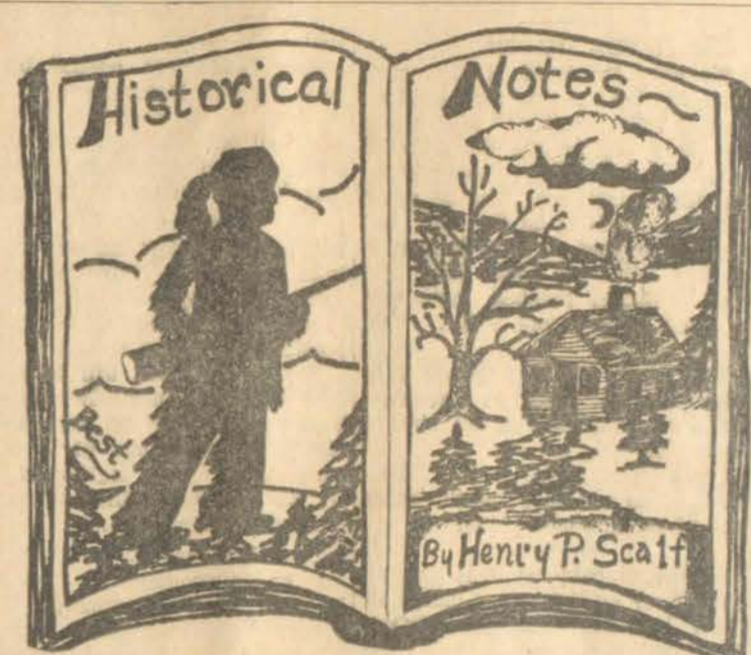

On the grounds that the W. C. Thornburgh Company, Louisville, bond agent, has failed the Floyd County Board of Education in financing through a $445,000 bond issue the construction of a county high school building here, the county board has been advised to revoke its contract with the firm. Mary Alice Hicks, 15, and her 13-year-old brother, Patrick H. Hicks, of Prestonsburg, drowned in the Big Sandy River here Wednesday afternoon, a short distance above where Trimble Branch empties into the river. The Floyd County Health Department, Wednesday, named Montaine V. Clarke as health administrator in charge of the department's program. Shirlene Perkins, 17 years old, of Manton, drowned, Tuesday, in the Scioto River, at Columbus, Ohio. Married: Miss Faye Cook, of Lillington, North Carolina, and A. C. Grady E. Conley, of Prestonsburg, June 15, at Dillon, North Carolina; Miss Helen Rhea Spradlin, of Bonanza, and Mr. Paul R. Fairchild, of Paintsville, June 2, at the Arnold Avenue Church of Christ, Prestonsburg; Miss Sarah Louise Conley and Mr. Jack Stratton, of Van Lear, June 2, at the Arnold Avenue Church of Christ. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. George Fugate, a daughter, Sarah Hamilton, at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville; to Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lloyd Gunnell, of Prestonsburg, a daughter, Kathy Sue, June 10, at the Paintsville hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Ferrell, of Prestonsburg, a son, Benjamin Payne, at the Prestonsburg General hospital. There died: Noah Jarvis, 72, of Endicott, Wednesday, at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin; Mrs. Mary Etta Setser, 94, of Prestonsburg, Friday, at the home of her daughter in Prestonsburg; Steve Vasiloff, 68, of McDowell, Sunday, at St. Francis hospital, Columbus, Ohio; Dave Branham, 73, Georges Creek, Lawrence county, Floyd native, at the Lobisa General hospital, Monday; Harry Hackworth, 43, of Middle Creek, Saturday, at the Prestonsburg General hospital.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK The Civil War in Kentucky By JOE JORDAN (Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week the Democratic Party had a candidate for governor of Kentucky—Charles Anderson Wickliffe, of Bardonia, 75 years old, a veteran of the War of 1812. He had been elected lieutenant governor 27 years previously and upon the death of Gov. James Clark had become governor for the remaining eight months of the term. He had been Postmaster General under President John Tyler, 1841 to 1845; had served seven terms in the Kentucky legislature and five terms in Congress. The Democrats, it will be recalled, had attempted to hold a state convention at Frankfort in February of 1863, to nominate candidates for state offices, but had been dispersed by a Union Army force under Col. E. A. Gilbert, who ordered them to return home and refrain from "seditious and noisy conversation." Meantime, the supporters of the Union war effort, who called themselves "Union Democrats" because of the unpopularity of the word "Republican" among Kentuckians, had conducted a stormy convention at Louisville in March and had nominated Joshua F. Bell for governor. After taking more than a month to think it over, Bell announced that he would not accept the nomination. A party committee then selected Col. Thomas E. Bramlette, commanding officer of the Third Kentucky (Union) Infantry regiment, to head the "Union Democratic" ticket. Bramlette took the position that of two evils, the Lincoln administration and a Confederate victory, the former was preferable. "If Mr. Lincoln will not change his policy, we have no power to compel him," Bramlette said, "and we must correct these evils or leap into others which are far worse." Those who had tried unsuccessfully to hold a convention at Frankfort were now being called "Peace Democrats" to distinguish them from the "Union Democrats." They included those who had been Democrats and Southern sympathizers before the war and during Kentucky's period of neutrality, plus a good many others who had later joined them out of exasperation at Federal interference and resentment of what they considered to be growing radicalism in the North. They had been trying ever since the military had broken up their Frankfort meeting to put together a ticket to oppose the "Union Democrats," but it was not until late in June that they devised a means of doing so. William F. Bullock, John H. Harney, Nathaniel Wolfe, William Kayse, William A. Dudley, Joshua F. Bullitt and others composed a committee that called upon former Gov. Wickliffe and asked him to become their candidate for governor. They emphasized that they were not disloyal to the United States, saying, "We hold this rebellion utterly unjustifiable in its inception, and a dissolution of the Union the greatest of calamities. We would see all just and constitutional means adopted to the suppression of one and the restoration of the other." It was after this assurance had been given as to their aims that the highly respected old statesman consented to make the race.

THE CREED OF THE AMERICAN LEGION MEMBERSHIP CARD

The card which you hold in The American Legion is a sacred heritage; your inherent right to its possession was achieved when you offered your life in the service of your country. The American Legion is unique in that you cannot be born into it. Neither a king by an edict, a dictator by a command, nor a president by proclamation, can demand admission. A man with millions cannot purchase a right to membership. Its members are chosen from a group whose numbers will never increase but whose ranks are thinning with the passing of each day. The right to membership is a sacred privilege which belongs to you alone—rich or poor, regardless of race, color or creed. Cherish it at all times that bit of pasteboard which you so proudly carry. Let no influence or circumstance interrupt your continuity of service in the Legion, whose doors swung open to you because of your faithful service to your country. The Legion knows no predecessor... it can have no successor, and when the last comrade, entitled to wear its insignia, shall have been called to his Eternal Rest by the Great Commander, The American Legion will pass out forever, but its traditions, its achievements and the spirit of service to which it was dedicated, will live on through the ages as a lasting tribute and memorial to you, as a member of an organization that has fought to preserve the principles of justice, freedom and democracy. DRAKE OR LITTLE? A letter from Lawrence Branham, of Robinson Creek, Kentucky, inquires for information on a Bob Drake who at one time lived at Wayland. "I am trying to locate the descendants of a relative of mine who left Pike county, Kentucky, in 1873. "May 11, 1927, there was a man by the name of Bob Drake, who came to Wayland, Kentucky, and signed to work for the Elk Horn Coal Corporation as a coal loader at Mine No. 33. Drake gave his age at that time as 35. "I don't know how long Drake might have worked at Wayland but I do have some information that makes me think that he was acquainted in the Beaver Creek section before he went to Wayland. "As you understand the information I need is where Drake's home was prior to 1927. When he signed up at Wayland he stated that he had had 16 years experience as a coal miner. "Drake worked at Jenkins about three months before going to Wayland and he was supposed to have told a man at Jenkins that his father was Hammond Little who left Pike county in 1873 and changed his name from Little to Drake but this man doesn't remember the place that Drake said his father settled. "I would appreciate you doing all you can to help me locate these relatives of mine." Anyone having information on Bob Drake or Little are requested to write Mr. Branham or this column. ALLEN FAMILY A letter from Roy C. Allen, 2368 North Military Road, Arlington 7, Virginia, is in reference to the Allen family. "My specific problem is to determine the identity of the parents of my paternal-paternal great-grandfather, John Allen. John Allen was a private in Company H, 39th Kentucky Infantry, Union Army, during the Civil War and died in service of typhoid in September, 1864. He is buried in Grave No. 760, Lexington National cemetery. He married Emeline Jackson in Tazewell county, Virginia, in February, 1855, and resided in Tazewell-Buchanan area until the beginning of the Civil War. Their children were William R., 1855; Richard Denny, 1856; Jemima, 1859; Andrew, 1859; Lewis, 1861; John A., 1864. His widow remarried in 1872 to Reubin Church in Pike county. "I suspect that William Allen, who married Katy Gearheart in Floyd county, June 81, 1898, might be the father of my John Allen, but I have not been able to prove or disprove this." JOHNSON FAMILY A letter from Mrs. Robert J. Hanna, Sr., 210 S. High School Road, Indianapolis 41, Indiana, is relative to the Johnson family of Eastern Kentucky. She writes: "I am interested in the Johnson family who seemed to settle in Floyd county between 1800 and 1810. Andrew Johnson is listed in the 1810 tax record. I've followed him through several years to 1843, in fact, and it is possible he lived in that vicinity much longer. In 1821 he was in that portion of Floyd county which became Lawrence county. One year the tax record shows a Doctr. after his name; another year, an Esq. He disappears from the tax-records in 1843—Johnson county being formed at that time. This again helps to locate Andrew. Our library does not have any records of taxes in Johnson county, Kentucky. "Andrew Johnson was the father of Lucinda Jane (Jennie), who married Ezekiel Gibson in 1819. Andrew held real estate in conjunction with Lewis Ringlesbury (Ringlesby). What their relationship was is something I seek. Andrew held land on Rockcastle Creek and I'd like to locate that region. So far I have been unable to find a map showing any small streams. Do you know any sources where I may locate family information about these 'Rockcastle' Johnsons? "Among the lists of Johnsons in the census and tax records are several who could possibly have close relationship to him, such as his father and brothers. I believe they may have migrated from North Carolina to Virginia and then to Kentucky. Of course, there are other possibilities, and records are rather scanty." JAMES M. YORK This biography of James M. York was copied from Kniffen, Ferrin and Battle's History of Kentucky. "James M. York was born in Wayne county, in what is now West Virginia, December 1, 1847, and is the third son of Thomas M. and Eliza Calvin York, natives of Brown county, Ohio. Thomas M. York was a cabinet-maker and carpenter by trade and removed to Boyd county, Kentucky, when he was but a small boy. His father lost his eyesight when he was quite young, and the support and care of the family was thrown on him and his elder brothers, which they performed as best they could. "In 1864, James M. York was enrolled in Company E, Forty-Fifth Kentucky Mounted Infantry, U. S. Vol., under the command of Col. John Mason Brown, and served as a soldier during his period of enlistment (twelve months), after which time he read law with the law firm of Moore & Jones, of Catelettsburg, Kentucky, and in 1872 obtained his license to practice law. He then removed to Pikeville, Kentucky, where he has since been engaged in the practice of his profession, and with a degree of success which when compared with educational wants and early training, demonstrates what pluck and energy can accomplish. "July 17, 1875, Mr. York married Miss Augusta Dils, a daughter of Col. John Dils, Jr. They are the parents of five children, viz: Katie E., Charles C., Gypsey A., Bessie and Augusta. He and his wife, with care and economy, have thus far, managed to be free from want as regards the necessities of life and have accumulated some property— which Mr. York in a great measure credits his wife, as well as for the moral influence exercised since their marriage."

CATTLE PRICES IN '63
Lexington, Ky.—Cattle prices for 1963 probably will average out slightly below 1962 prices, the U.K. Cooperative Extension Service agricultural economics department said this week in its bi-weekly outlook letter.

Cattle marketings probably will increase in 1963 because of the upward trend in production and demand for beef. Thus increased marketings may offset any decrease in price.

BEARS IN THESE WOODS
This is no bear tale. There really is a mother bear with two cubs prowling the woods from Pike-Floyd Hollow at Betsy Layne over onto Mare Creek, reliable persons report. Mama Bear and her youngsters were first reported seen last Friday, near the home of Arthur Nance, on Mare Creek by several persons. Bernard Clark and Noah Robinson were reported as having seen one of the cubs while working on a TV line, near the Nance home. Tuesday morning of this week, the bear family was reported on Pike-Floyd Hollow, then that afternoon were back on Mare Creek where Mr. and Mrs. Nance saw them.

Floyd County Fish & Game Club officials are asking residents of the county to protect the bears. One of the main attractions of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in Tennessee-North Carolina is its bears.

But, the warning comes, don't take a chance with the old lady while her cubs are around. Bears will always bear watching—but don't shoot.

IN THE MAIL
Bob Osborn writes from Minneapolis to get The Floyd County Times arriving regularly. "I wish," he writes, "to warn you that, should you again let me miss an issue, you and I will have a setto that will make a Harlan county clan feud seem like a May Day taffy pull... Have the strawberry raisers of your area ever been apprised of the value of geese in keeping a patch free of grass until the berries are red?" The council suggested the authority should have a five-pronged program to promote:
1. Multipurpose water-resource development and flood control.
3. Economic rehabilitation through an educational and retraining program for adults and youth.
5. A change in criteria used in existing federal aid programs to maximize the programs' use in Eastern Kentucky and the entire Appalachian area.

Governor Combs said he has "been thinking along the lines of such an authority" as the means to redevelopment. He said the nature of it was less important than that the organization be one for action.

Asked whether he thought Congress would endorse such an authority plan, Roosevelt replied:

"My frank answer to that is that I don't know what is politically feasible with this particular Congress."

Highway Commissioner Henry Ward explained that Kentucky has the money to start building the Salyersville-to-Pikeville and the Camp-ton-to-Whitesburg legs of the Mountain Parkway. But federal matching funds are not available rapidly enough to make a grant possible soon.

The two eastern legs will be primary roads, built with federal and state funds. The remainder of the parkway is a toll road built with bond money.

Roosevelt promised to see if money could be obtained for these legs under the Accelerated Public Works Program. The talking point would be that Eastern Kentucky badly needs these roads, but lack of federal money is holding them up even though the state is ready to pay its share.

As flood control was being discussed in most serious vein word arrived that U. S. 460, near Salyersville, was cut by water after a day-long rain.

Miss Webb, Mr. Hall Wed Sunday, June 9, In Church Ceremony

Mrs. Thelma Webb, of Martin, Ky., announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Martha Webb, to Mr. Raymond Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hauley Hall, of Allen, Ky.

The wedding took place Sunday, June 9, at 2 p.m. at the Church of Christ on Arkansas Creek. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Bennie Black-enship.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, R. B. Click, wore a white, street-length gown of lace over satin, fashioned with scoop neckline and long, pointed sleeves. Her veil was elbow-length. She carried blue carnations on a white, lace-covered Bible.

The flower girl was little Miss Sharon Click, cousin of the bride. Bridesmaids were Glenda Webb, sister of the bride, and Brenda Hall, sister of the groom. Mr. Paul Campbell, Ashland, Ky., formerly of Allen, served as best man. Ushers were Larry Hall, brother of the groom, and David Hall, cousin of the groom.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hall are graduates of Martin high school. The couple will make their home in Washington, D. C., where the groom is employed.

The Steamboat Cando

The steamboat Cando was one of the Big Sandy River's most popular for the transportation of goods and passengers before the railway was completed from Whitehouse to Pikeville. The three-decker was owned by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company and used to furnish transportation south of Whitehouse.

It was at first planned to name the boat the C. and O. and the painter was instructed to paint the name on but when he was finished, it was Cando. The company agreed to allow the name Cando to remain.

Chevy II Wagons—
The heart of a suitcase. The rustle of a road map. There's something about one of these spruce, surprisingly spacious wagons that can turn even the routine preparations into a happy part of your trip.

Take that old bugaboo of packing, for instance. No bother. With the kind of room you get in that easy-loading cargo compartment, you can just about toss things in any old whichway and come out with space to spare. The load won't dampen the spirits of the spunky 6-cylinder engine either. It just hums along passing up gas pumps (there's also a choice of an even thrifter 4 in most models) like it didn't have a care in the world. Fact is, it has far fewer cares than most engines—being built with the special knock Chevrolet engineers have for dependability and ease of maintenance.

Like a car with ginger—without a lot of needless of Chevy II's to pick from. Why not drop down and check now while the trading and the traveling are especially good?

Statewide Battle Slated Against Four Diseases; Free Vaccine Authorized

Plans for a statewide battle against polio, tetanus, whooping cough and diphtheria among Kentucky's pre-school age children, have been announced by Dr. Russell Teague, state health commissioner.

A program to provide free vaccine for immunization against these diseases has been authorized by the U. S. Congress, but a bill to appropriate the needed money has not yet been approved, however.

Teague said the State Health Department has conferred with Kentucky doctors and medical societies and is working out details of the project. As soon as the appropriation bill is passed by Congress, Kentucky will be ready to begin its plan.

Congress has scheduled a $10 million appropriation, to be used nationwide, for the first year of the three-year program. It would be reduced to $8 million the second year, and to $7 million the third year. Kentucky's share will be about $300,000 for the first year, and will be reduced proportionately.

The statewide immunization program would be along the lines of the mass oral polio vaccination clinics held throughout the state, Teague said. Only children under five would be eligible for the free vaccine.

Teague said his department has not determined whether there will be a charge for administering the free vaccine. It will probably be worked out on a local basis.

WHAT ONE U. of K. CENTER IS DOING IN IT'S THIRD YEAR

(The following release from the University of Kentucky is published here, because it applies to the opportunities to be offered by the Prestonsburg Community College and also points to some of the problems the college will face.—Editor.)

The University of Kentucky Southeast Center at Cumberland is doubtless one of the best developed three-year-olds to be found within the borders of the Blue Grass state.

Yet, because of its brief history, many people in the area it serves remain unfamiliar with the Center and its reasons for existence.

What, then, is the Southeast Center and what can it do for residents of Southeastern Kentucky?

To begin with, the Center is a full-fledged branch of the University of Kentucky in Lexington, a member in good standing of the U. K. family. There, any qualified high school graduate may take his first two years of college work before transferring to the main U. K. campus or to any other college or university of his choice.

The Southeast Center—one of five U. K. centers now in operation throughout the state—was established in 1960. Nestled in a picturesque mountain setting on the outskirts of Cumberland, the Center's present quarters can accommodate 500 or more students. Fewer than 200 were enrolled during the semester just closed, however, so there's no immediate problem of overcrowding.

In the opinion of the Center director, Dr. Paul A. Clark, nothing can stop the Southeast Center from growing, although a lack of public interest can delay its growth. To help forestall public apathy and to create wider understanding of the Center's role in the over-all educational outlook for Southeastern Kentucky, Dr. Clark relies heavily upon an advisory group of leading business and professional people from Harlan, Letcher, Bell, Leslie and Perry counties.

It is through such group efforts, Dr. Clark believes, that the Center will solve one of its top-priority problems—that of creating public awareness that its facilities belong not to just one community but to the entire Southeastern Kentucky area.

In talking with prospective students, Dr. Clark and his aides have a briefcase full of impressive selling points, not the least of which is that the Center offers Southeastern Kentucky youth a prime opportunity to complete their freshman and sophomore years at a fraction of the cost they would pay elsewhere.

To illustrate, a student who lives at home while attending classes at Cumberland will find his education costs only about $270 a year—registration fees of $110 a semester, plus about $25 extra each semester for books and supplies. The cost of attending college away from home covers a wide range, varying with the individual's taste in living standards and the state of his bank account, but it may be figured generally at from $1,400 to $2,000 a year.

In addition to the financial savings which the Center offers Southeastern Kentuckians, many students feel they make better classroom progress—particularly in the all-important first year of college—when they live and study in the familiar surroundings of home.

Sam Allen, 79, Victim
At Batesville, Ind.;
Father of School Head

Sam Allen, 79, father of Woodrow W. Allen, principal of Prestonsburg high school, died Sunday at Margaret Mary hospital, Batesville, Indiana, believed to have been the victim of a paralytic stroke. He became ill last Wednesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Polly Diehls, of Milan, Indiana, with whom he resided.

A son of "Rebel Jack" Allen, he was a native of Elmrock, Knott county. For more than 30 years Mr. Allen was associated with the Caney Creek Community Center and Caney Junior College at Pippa Passes, and when Mrs. Alice Lloyd, founder of the famed school, was honored in the nationally televised "This Is Your Life" program, a few years ago, he was one of a group of friends, students and associates appearing with her.

Mr. Allen's wife died in 1944, and after his retirement he moved to Milan five years ago.

Besides his son who lives here, he is survived by two sons, Alonzo and Stanley D. Allen, both of Milan, and three daughters, Mrs. Diehls, of Milan, Indiana, Mrs. Flora Wallen, Rome City, Indiana, and Mrs. Mavis Cornett, Columbus, Indiana. One brother, William Allen, of Hindman, a half-brother and a half-sister, Tom Allen and Mrs. Elizabeth Collier, both of Logan, West Virginia, also survive.

The funeral was conducted Wednesday from the New Home Regular Baptist Church at Leburn, Knott county, and burial was made in the Howard cemetery at Mallie under direction of the Hindman Funeral Home.

MASONIC PICNIC SLATED

The Johnson County Masonic picnic will be held June 30, starting at 11:30 a.m., at the Fishtrap 4-H Club Camp. All members and their families are invited. Bring enough food for your own group; plate, cups and silverware furnished. Watermelon will be served.

Singing groups from all over Johnson and surrounding counties will add to the festivities.

Every Scotsman with the name of a Highland clan is entitled to wear its tartan and tartans, says the May Reader's Digest, now the May Reader's Digest. There are eight basic colors used in weaving a tartan, permitting dazzling displays of the weaver's art. A plaid is a length of tartan cloth worn over the shoulder. American college girls seem to favor the Black Watch or the Royal Stewart tartans.

SMALL MINES LAW OPPOSED

By Commissioner Mandt;
Additional Tax Burden
Would Be Heavy, View

A. H. Mandt, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals, said last week that placing small mines under the federal Coal Mine Safety Act would serve no useful purpose and would saddle taxpayers with an additional tax burden.

The law was enacted in 1962 to give federal mine inspectors police power in large mines where major disaster hazards were found. (A major disaster is defined as an accident in which five or more men are killed.) Mines employing 15 or more men in underground workings are covered by the federal law.

Supporting his contention, Mandt pointed out that, according to the records, Kentucky has never suffered a disaster in a mine employing fewer than 15 men. He also said that since 1945, a period of 17½ years, no disaster has occurred in any Kentucky coal mine. During this period 1,235,000,000 tons of coal were produced in the state. Statistics, he said, showed that during the same period, 37 major disasters occurred in the nation's other coal producing states, taking the lives of 666 miners. Thirty-five of these disasters, killing 662 persons, occurred in large mines which the Bureau of Mines has power to close if imminent disaster hazards are found. Only two accidents of disaster proportions have occurred in the nation's small mines, costing the lives of 14 men, during the same 17½ year period.

Kentucky statistical records for 1959 through 1962 show that 114 men were killed in large mines while 79 lost their lives in small mines during the same period.

In discussing the impact the extension of the federal law would have, if imposed on small mines, Mandt said they would be burdened with unreasonable and expensive regulations which would have no bearing on the types of accidents which occur in the small mines and would result in many of them having to close. The 2,000 small mines which would be affected play an important part in the economy of Eastern Kentucky which already has gained national attention because of its financial plight. This, Mandt pointed out, is true not only of Kentucky, but also of other coal producing states in the Appalachian area. With the closing of the small mines the miners would become a burden on relief agencies and the state and federal government would suffer a substantial loss in tax revenue.

Kentucky currently has about 2,000 small mines and 200 in the large mine classification in operation. In 1962 these mines produced 67 million tons of coal, ranking Kentucky second among the states in the production of bituminous coal. Kentucky coal is produced in about equal amounts by surface mining, by large underground operations and by the small mines.

On the subject of inspections and regulations Mandt said that Kentucky mining laws are adequate and well administered by competent personnel. He added that through new inspection techniques and accelerated safety education the state has made remarkable progress in accident prevention.

In a conference recently held in Washington at the request of Stewart Udall, Secretary of the Interior, to discuss safety procedures as a result of recent explosions at two large mines, spokesmen representing other coal producing states expressed opinions that their state laws were adequate. At this conference the U. S. Bureau of Mines recommended amendments to the federal Coal Mine Safety Act which would place all mines, large and small, under Title II of the Act.

Title II of the Federal Coal Mine Safety Act is designed to prevent major disasters. Compliance with its safety provisions is mandatory; however, it applies only to coal mines in which 11 or more individuals are employed regularly underground.

Mines regularly employing less than 15 persons are in the Title I classification. The Bureau of Mines has no enforcement powers, and so compliance with recommendations is not mandatory under its provisions. The act does provide that federal coal mine inspectors may enter the mines for inspection purposes.

COMBS SAYS LAWS NEEDED

In Human Rights Field; Indiana Governor Held As Model of Leadership

Frankfort, Ky., June 15 (Spl.) — "Our experience in Kentucky as well as that in those 30 states which have enacted laws prohibiting discrimination in places of public accommodation shows the need for such legislation here," Gov. Bert Combs declared at the third annual Governor's Conference on Human Rights.

"Persuasion is not enough; something else is required," the Governor added in keynoting the day-long Frankfort meeting attended by some 250 persons. The Governor had said earlier that he may include civil rights legislation in his call for a special session of the Legislature, if one is made this summer.

Governor Combs introduced Indiana Gov. Matthew Welsh who recently saw the Indiana Legislature enact the Midwest's first state laws to eliminate discrimination in public accommodations, employment and education. In 1961 Governor Welsh also issued an executive order barring discrimination among contractors doing business with the state of Indiana, similar to one section of the Code of Fair Practices issued by Governor Combs this year.

"If decency, if right, and if law are to prevail," Welsh said, "then community and state leaders must measure up to their responsibilities not only in the deep South where the problem is most difficult, but in the border states and the North and West as well, where discrimination is less obvious and unofficial."

The Rev. Canon Robert W. Estill, of Lexington, Commission Chairman, opened the conference by referring to possible civil rights legislation. "I hope in the 1964 General Assembly, or sooner, our representatives will have the courage and determination to restore the rights to dignity and fair treatment that all Kentuckians deserve."

Thanks To Floyd Voters

I wish to thank the fine people of Floyd county who supported me in my unsuccessful race for Railroad Commissioner. According to the tabulations, which are still unofficial, I assume that I will run third in a nine-man race. You have complimented me by allowing me to carry my home county. This is an encouraging factor, since it was my first race. I would like to congratulate the winner, and say, too, to my colleagues who were my opponents, they were good sports and participated in a professional campaign.

I will say that you will in the future have an opportunity to vote for me again. As the proverb goes, "Make new friends, but keep the old, the new ones are silver, but the old ones are gold."

ALICE LLOYD COLLEGE ADDS DEVELOPMENT DIRECTOR; AIM, TO EXPAND ITS FACILITIES

Pippa Passes, June 17 (Spl.—) Quentin J. Bogart has been appointed associate director for development at Alice Lloyd College, here. Announcement of the appointment was made by William S. Hayes, director.

In the new post, Bogart will be responsible for planning and implementing the college's development through the increased acquisition of annual and capital fund support. Area community economic redevelopment will be another phase of his work, since one of the fundamental purposes of the institution is to stimulate cultural, economic and social growth throughout Eastern Kentucky.

Born in Quincy, Ill., Bogart holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Fort Hays Kansas State College. He served as admissions counselor and director of admissions at Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio, and a similar position at Monticello College, Godfrey, Illinois. He comes to Alice Lloyd College after having served as development director for Olivet College, Olivet, Michigan.

HAYES RECEIVES DEGREE

Pippa Passes, June 20 (Spl.—) Bruce Alan Hayes, son of Director and Mrs. William S. Hayes, of Alice Lloyd College, Pippa Passes, Kentucky, graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in mechanical engineering at the University of Illinois at commencement exercises, June 15.

The younger Hayes is a 1960 graduate of Alice Lloyd College.

The new position of associate director for development is part of the college's expansion plan aimed at extending educational opportunity in the Southern Mountains to promising youth who must now be turned away due to lack of funds and facilities. The retention of development counsel, the organization of trustee committees, and a campus building plan, are vital steps which already have been achieved.

On the financial level, the college proposes a budget in excess of $268,000 in 1963-'64. This represents a 100% budgetary increase over two years ago. This budget is based on a 20% enrollment increase over that of 1962-'63 when the enrollment numbered 196.

An architect has been selected for the Alice Lloyd Memorial Building and construction will begin as soon as plans for the structure are complete. Other development program construction items include: a library annex, student housing, and accommodation for guests of the college.

The long-range development will center around a 10-year budget plan to be completed during the coming fiscal year. Long-range physical expansion anticipates to include a classroom building, a field-house and swimming pool, expanded science facilities, and faculty and student housing.

It is planned that by 1970, Alice Lloyd College will be offering educational opportunity to more than 500 youths annually.

TOTAL PERFORMANCE:

FORD GALAXIE 500XL SPORTS HARDTOP

IF YOU KNEW WHAT THIS "CAR KILLER" KNOWS...YOU'D BE DRIVING A SOLID, SILENT SUPER TORQUE FORD

This steel-edged pothole is probably the world's toughest test of a car's suspension. We drive into this car killer at 30 mph, locking our brakes as we go so the wheels can't roll through the hole as they normally would. The car slams against the far edge of the hole with such impact that it literally bounds out.

If you added up the cumulative effect of all the jars and jolts your car's suspension system experiences in years of normal driving, it wouldn't match the impact of one trip through the hole. Yet—a Ford must run this test three times to prove its strength.

How can a Ford take it? Because Ford's front suspension has extra beef in spindles, springs, suspension arms—in fact, it's about 20 pounds heavier than the front suspension of our principal competitor's car.

We don't expect you to abuse your car the way we do our test cars. But, however you drive, you'll welcome the extra strength of a total performance Ford. Ford strength is tested in a thousand ways in Ford's laboratories and proving grounds—and in open competition in the world's toughest rallies and stock car events.

Look at Ford's astounding record in open competition this year in the grueling Daytona, Riverside, and Atlanta 500's, the World 600 at Charlotte, N.C., and in the demanding Pure Oil Performance Trials. Only a car with total performance—the best combination of strength, balance, precision control and road-clinging suspension—could roll up so many wins.

Before you buy any new car, test-drive the solid, silent Super Torque Ford. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Make this important discovery: if it's built by Ford, it's built for performance...total performance.
