

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1964

This Town . . . That World

Anybody who can listen to the howl of the wind around the corners of his house and feel just a bit more comfortable than he did before is fortunate.

The wind cut some fine capers at Eastertide and after it shrieked so loudly that the frogs out back of our house became discouraged and quit their merry cacophony. Today, with the sun shining, they resumed but by little starts and stops as if experimenting—mi, mi, mi . . .

BR-R!
Speaking of the weather and such, two of the earliest birds to fly back north are Russell Hagedorn and "Speed" Harris, who went fishing down in Tennessee Monday and imitated homing pigeons the next day.

FUND DRIVE IS LAGGING

Red Cross Solicitation Apparently A Failure, Chm. Spurlock Says

Floyd County Red Cross Chapter's month-long drive for funds apparently is failing for the seventh year in the last eight to meet its quota, Burl Spurlock, chairman of the drive, said Wednesday. This year's quota is $6,300.

Mr. Spurlock pointed to the county's failure, despite the fact that the quota means an average contribution of only 15 cents per resident of this county's 42,000 population.

This failure is being recorded in the face of the fact, he said, that the Red Cross poured $525,000 into Floyd county after the 1957 flood and after the 1963 flood spent $369,000 more in Floyd county rehabilitation work.

This seventh failure, Spurlock said, will be recorded this year "unless the good people of Floyd county open up their hearts and pocketbooks and come through with some token of appreciation, not only for the contribution made heretofore by the Red Cross to our own people in time of disaster and emergency but for the contribution Red Cross makes to our nation as a whole, anytime, any place, regardless of cost, when disaster strikes."

He emphasized the point that the Red Cross is not a governmental agency profiting from subsidies but that it, instead, is operated solely on contributions made by people who are concerned with the welfare of their fellowman.

Contributions may be mailed to Mr. Spurlock as chairman of the Red Cross drive or to Floyd Red Cross Chapter.

TAFF ASKS CHARGE HERE BE REMOVED

Soil Conservationist Wants Case Presented In U. S. District Court

Homer A. Taff, Lexington, state soil conservationist, this week filed a petition for removal of the falsifying charge lodged against him in this county from the Floyd circuit court to U. S. district court.

The petition was served Wednesday on Circuit Clerk Frank DeRossett and Circuit Judge Hollie Conley by U. S. Marshal Archie Craft.

The action was based on a federal law governing criminal prosecution against a federal officer. The Soil Conservation Service which Taff heads in this state is an agency of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Taff was indicted by the Floyd grand jury on the basis of testimony supplied by district soil conservation supervisors who quoted him as denying under oath at a hearing held here that he made the statement in his Lexington office that if Jack Jones (his subordinate) would not fire L. R. Johnson, he, Taff, would fire Jack Jones.

The attempt to fire Johnson, who was under fire because of flood damage caused to a road after work had been done on an adjacent stream, failed and he was restored to full pay following the hearing held here.

Taff was arrested on a bench warrant by the Sheriff of Fayette county, March 13, and executed $1,000 bond to appear here April 27 in answer to the Floyd charge.

In his petition for removal of the case to federal court Taff claimed that:

1. He did not swear as alleged in the indictment, instead testified in an appeals hearing concerning disciplinary action previously taken against an employee of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

2. The hearing was wholly conducted by an agency of the U. S. Department of Agriculture involving federal questions and a federal employee, and no agency or instrumentality of the Commonwealth of Kentucky or any state employee was involved or concerned with the hearing.

3. The Commonwealth of Kentucky has no jurisdiction to try Taff for any alleged falsifying incident to the federal hearing.

Rights Acquisition For Beaver Project Is Proceeding Slowly

One hundred easements have been procured for the clearing and snagging project proposed on Beaver Creek, it was announced this week by County Attorney Barkley Sturgill.

Sturgill was in conference Tuesday with representatives of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company and he expressed optimism that the rail firm would grant easement in the near future.

The urgency of immediate easement grants was noted this week by Sturgill. The money for the (See Story No. 5, Page 3)

HONORS PILE UP

Last Sunday, Bob Tallent, high-scoring senior at Maytown high school, was listed as a member of the All-State basketball team. Wednesday night, he was guest of honor at a banquet at the school, and none other than Kentucky's famed Adolph Rupp was there to sign the talented youngster to a basketball grant-in-aid at U.K.

A straight-A student and to be valedictorian of his graduating class, Tallent averaged 40.5 points per game during the season just ended and rolled up a total of 2,427 points for his four years of high school play. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jones Tallent, of Langley.

Lawyer-Preacher To Speak Sunday At Methodist Church

Howard E. Friedrich, who doubles as a Cincinnati attorney and as pastor of two Methodist Churches in that area, will speak at the 10:55 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services of the First Methodist Church here Sunday, it was announced this week by the pastor, the Rev. Paul Stoneking.

Mr. Friedrich typifies the increasing importance of an active laity in the churches. His daily work is in the assignment commissioner's office of the Hamilton county common pleas court where he has been for 13 years. As a pastor he serves the Camp Dennison and Miamisville Methodist Churches, east of Cincinnati. And he also finds time to preach revivals throughout southern Ohio and northern Kentucky. His wife assists him as pianist and organist.

The public is invited to hear Mr. Friedrich at the local church.

FCEA HEARS STATE HEAD

Calvin Martin Named President-Elect; Panel Discussion Conducted

The Floyd County Educational Association in its annual meeting here Friday heard Dr. Harry M. Sparks, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Frankfort, stress several vital needs for success in education, politics and business. Essential things, the educator said, are the know-how, know-what and personality.

Of a person's personality Dr. Sparks said, "You are what you believe you are," and he advised everybody seeking success in these fields to search themselves to see what they could do to make their communities better. He concluded his address, one of the most popular delivered here at a teachers' meeting, by saying, "A teacher's greatest success is through the success of those we teach."

Nearly all the 497 classroom teachers, plus the system's administrative personnel attended. Mrs. Roberta Davidson, president, presided.

John Calvin Martin, Prestonsburg high school teacher, was named president-elect. Winnie B. Johnson, of Melvin, was elected vice-president and Ethel Johnson, of Allen, was picked as secretary-treasurer. Lloyd Stumbo will serve as president next year.

A panel, composed of Frankie Best, J. O. Dingus, Sherrill Frazier, Carlos Haywood, Elmer Martin, Opal May and Goldia Short, presented a resume of committee duties and Shorty Jamerson, Wheelwright, reported on the special delegation meeting recently held at Ashland.

In the afternoon session, the Betsy Layne seventh grade under the direction of Raymond Ratliff, presented a skit, "Show Boat." Refreshments were served through the courtesy of the Betsy Layne school faculty.

Business and group meetings were held in the afternoon.

JUDGE CITES CAR OWNERS

1,155 Stickers Sold, Clerk Says; Response To Drive is Good, Said

Sale of motor vehicle stickers here had as of this morning (Thursday) almost reached the total of all sold last year, it was said at the City Clerk's office.

The deadline for purchase of the $10 stickers was midnight Tuesday. Early today, 1,155 stickers had been bought. The total for 1963 was about 1,300.

Police Judge Walt Hale said that, on the whole, the response of car and truck owners has been splendid. About 15 citations have been issued for vehicle owners who had not bought stickers before April 1 or who did not have them displayed as prescribed. Four were fined $1 and costs each. Some of the citations were voided because stickers had been bought but were not displayed on windshields.

Those responding promptly to citations are being fined $1 and $2.50 costs, the minimum. Police Judge Hale said that those who do not appear on citation will be arrested on warrants issued by him and that their fines will be the maximum $9, plus costs.

SGT. STEPP WRITES 'QUAKE EXPERIENCE

At least three Floyd county families were in Anchorage, Alaska when that city passed through the terror of earthquake last Friday, and all are safe, relatives have learned.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Stepp, of Lancer, have received a letter from their son, T/Sgt. John T. (Ted) Stepp, saying that he, his wife and five-year-old daughter Sabrina were unharmed.

T/Sgt. John T. Gilbert, his wife, Brenda Joice, and four children, arrived in Anchorage, the day before the quake. Paul Wells, his wife and five children have been residents of the city for some time. None of these were injured. The Wells and Gilbert families formerly resided at Auxier.

Sgt. Stepp's letter, air-mailed Monday, was received by his parents the following day. How does it feel to be in an earthquake? One paragraph of his letter gives this graphic description:

"Dad," he wrote, "I know you have run on logs in the water that weren't nailed together. Well, that was just about the feeling I got trying to walk, not knowing for sure where my next step was going to be."

Stepp is based on an offshore island. His wife and daughter

Miss Anna Martin, 66, Veteran Teacher Here Heart Attack Victim

Miss Anna Martin, 66, teacher in the Prestonsburg schools for more than 45 years, died shortly after noon Sunday at the Prestonsburg General hospital, victim of a heart attack which she had suffered 10 hours earlier at her home here.

News of her passing came as a shock to hundreds of friends and present and past pupils.

She was a daughter of Green and Dolly Shepherd Martin and was a native of the Middle Creek section. She had spent almost all her life here, having been reared from early girlhood by the late Judge and Mrs. James P. Harris after the death of her mother.

Miss Martin had been, almost without interruption, a teacher since the age of 18. She became a member of the Baptist Church at the time of the Sledge revival here and had taught the adult women's class of the Baptist Sunday School for almost 20 years. She also was a member of the Order of Eastern Star and the Prestonsburg Woman's Club.

One sister, Mrs. Stella Latta, Englewood, Calif., survives.

Funeral rites were conducted at 2 p.m., Tuesday, from Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, the pastor, the Rev. W. D. Jagers officiating. Burial was made in the Harry Martin cemetery at Allen under direction of the Floyd Funeral Home.

Active pallbearers were Pete Jarvis, Lloyd Stumbo, Woodrow Allen, Ernest Jenkins, Charles Clark, Wayne Ratliff, L. D. Fields.

MARTIN BOND ISSUE ASSURES SEWER JOB

Public works projects hanging in the balance at Martin won assurance of completion last Friday night when the town board in a special session voted unanimously to issue $144,000 worth of bonds to finance the city's share of the cost of sewer and sewage disposal system construction.

Until this was done the half-million-dollar low-rent public housing development begun there was threatened with a stop-order, since the federal government would not be a party to the undertaking which, without sewage disposal, would have added to stream pollution.

The bond issue for sewers will be amortized by a straight monthly sewer charge of $4.58 per family using the system, it was said. Of the total cost of the sewer system job, the federal government is supplying $172,000 by outright grant.

The sewage disposal plant will be located in the extreme eastern (lower) end of Martin.

The sewage system will begin with the housing development, near the "Y," at the other end of the town.

Mayor John Roberts, expressing his pleasure at the action of the town board, said, "After all, we must give Congressman Carl Perkins and Gray Allen most of the credit for what our community is getting."

The housing development work at Martin is now in the site preparation stage. Low bid on the 40 units was $506,000.

TRI-COUNTY RAIDS MADE

Eight Stills Seized, 31 Persons Arrested In Floyd, Pike, Martin

A series of raids on illegal whiskey operations in this area by federal, state and county officers have resulted in 31 arrests, the seizing of eight stills, and the confiscation of 235 gallons of moonshine whiskey, officers said.

The arrests Thursday and Friday were made as a result of an undercover investigation that has been in progress here for several months, according to Gentry P. Crider, supervisor of the Federal Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division in Kentucky.

Seven vehicles were seized along with the whiskey and stills. Among those arrested were Lee and Bert Hall, twins, of Brancham's Creek, ABC Agent C. A. Flanery, of Martin, said. Fourteen gallons of moonshine were taken in the raid on them.

The raids were carried out in the Mouth Card area of Pike county and the Davisport and Tomahawk sections of Martin county.

Some of the arrested men were arraigned Friday and others were to appear Saturday morning before Jack T. Page, United States commissioner, Pikeville.

Arresting officers said they experienced no difficulties during the raids.

Federal officers of the tax division received the cooperation of the State Alcohol Beverage Control Department, Kentucky State Police and the Martin county sheriff.

Officers said those arrested and the charges against them included:

Possession and sale of non-tax-paid whiskey and possession of an unregistered distillery—Teck Mollet, Jr., Billy Daniels, Earl Butcher, Paul Daniels, and Lucky Daniels, all of Martin county.

Possession and sale of non-tax-paid whiskey—Biford Lee Setser, Bill Butcher, Teck Mollet, Sr., Oscar Cornett, Estel Penix, Sr., (See Story No. 3, Page 6)

Thompson Named Head Of Floyd Civil Defense By Fiscal Court Action

Petty Thompson, of Prestonsburg, is the new Floyd county Civil Defense director. Mr. Thompson was named to the post recently after Hern D. Burke, of Prestonsburg, had resigned.

At the same session at which it accepted Burke's resignation the Floyd fiscal court accepted the resignation of Denzil Halbert as Civil Defense director for the Martin area. Foster Porter was named to succeed him.

The court, on petition of citizens and voters of the area, voted to cut Rice Branch from the Allen voting precinct and add it to the Prater Creek precinct.

Lancer Fires Threaten To Burn Several Homes; Debris Has Accumulated

Two grass fires Saturday and Sunday at Lancer threatened to burn several homes but were brought under control by residents and the Prestonsburg Fire Department while one of the fires was licking at two homes. The first fire was started, it is said, while burning brush but the Sunday blaze originated when two boys were playing near the radio station.

The Saturday fire swept over several acres before it could be stopped. The firefighters were impeded in their efforts by the high wind. Sunday's fire posed no immediate threat but it was pointed out that a delay by the fire truck for only a few minutes would have let the fire reach two houses and a barn.

Residents point out that grass (See Story No. 4, Page 6)

CONVENTION SEASON UNDER WAY AT PARK

The "convention season" is already under way at Jenny Wiley State Park, and the entire park this week was gradually awakening to activity after the winter months of quiet operation with a "skeleton" crew of workers.

The state boat dock opened officially Wednesday, as did the golf course, although both had been put to some use earlier. A dock manager had not been named, Perry Cole, park manager said.

The U. S. Corps of Engineers began impounding the water of Johns Creek, Wednesday, to lift the level of the lake to its seasonal level. Last year, the lake, held down to permit seining work by personnel of the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources, never attained its usual depth as dry weather came before the gates of the dam were closed.

The duplex cottages at the park are open, and the new cottages

APPALACHIA STUDY MADE FIRST-HAND

Two-Day Conference Conducted At Park; Tour Made Thursday

Federal and state officials, conferring and travelling with county officials and citizens, got a first-hand look last week at a sizeable part of the Appalachian problem which they have been studying and reading about.

Conferences and panel discussions were held two days, Wednesday and Friday, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. They toured the area Thursday to see for themselves. They saw the good and the bad—modern mining installations, city improvements, new schools, public facility installations, deserted mining towns, bad roads, one-room schools, grinding poverty in individual homes and isolated sectors.

The meeting, unheralded and till now unpublicized, was the Appalachian Clinic and was described as an on-site staff conference of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Region 3.

Taking part in discussions were many who work in the field of public service. Among the speakers were three who know the region well—Ex-Governor Bert T. Combs, Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Harry Caudill, of Whitesburg, author of the much-discussed book, "Night Comes to the Cumberlands."

Wednesday's discussion group was moderated by H. Burton Aycock, assistant to the regional director for Appalachia. Taking part were Dr. Russell L. Hall, Floyd county health doctor; Mrs. (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

Cooper Was Right

Senator Cooper was right when he urged that the Bobby Baker investigation be continued and additional witnesses called in an attempt to get to the bottom of the matter.

His fight to continue the questioning of witnesses till all resources were exhausted was particularly appropriate in view of the fact that Baker himself had closed the door to information from him by taking refuge behind the Fifth Amendment.

The U. S. Senate and the people of the United States need to know how a man with official Washington connections can become a millionaire within a comparatively short time through a series of transactions which were not honorable enough for him to explain under oath.

Indeed, as the Senator said, it would appear that the integrity of the Senate was at stake. And we add, it does not appear that the Senate did a very good job at protecting that integrity.

The Lawabiding Have Rights, Too

We are pleased to note that, in effect, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, agrees with us that it is no more inhumane to hold a hardened criminal to his sentence than it is thoughtless of the rights of those who are not criminals to turn loose upon them, under probation or parole, one who is a threat to peace and order.

Writing in The FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin, Mr. Hoover says:

"Crime cautions are not always easy to define, but one of the perennial headaches to law enforcement is the veritable pool of hardened criminals available through the loopholes and abuses of our systems of parole, probation, and other forms of clemency. Criminal rehabilitation has long been recognized as a vital phase of the administration of justice. With its assorted complexities, it has many interpretations. However, criminal rehabilitation should always be directed toward one basic objective, the protection of the public. Frequently, this objective is lost in the storm of tearful lamentations from social reformers. It is swept aside by the sympathetic practices of some courts and administrators. Misguided leniency results.

"Some jurists state it is vastly unfair for the press and news media to identify parolees as such when they are arrested and charged with violations. Such reasoning is an extension of the distorted philosophy which looks only to the interest of the criminal with complete disregard for the society which he offends. The public has a right to know when a person who has been favored by leniency violates the terms of this trust and resorts to further criminal activity.

"The argument is also made that parole and probation have nothing to do with leniency or clemency. Rather, it is claimed, these practices are reformative instruments on a par with imprisonment itself. The fallacy in this contention is evident, for criminals certainly do not consider parole and probation to be equal to imprisonment. To them and to the public, parole and probation are forms of clemency and mercy, and the fact that most convicted persons seek their application belies any attempt to label them otherwise.

"In 1924, a New York City judge stated, 'The demand of the hour in America is for jurors with conscience, judges with courage and prisons which are neither country clubs or health resorts. It is not the criminals, actual or potential, that need a neuropathic hospital,' the judge added, 'It is the people who slobber over them in an effort to find excuses for their crime.'"

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky

By JOE JORDAN
(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week the most popular man in Kentucky—among his fellow Kentuckians, at least, though perhaps not among his fellow officers of the Union Army—was Col. Frank Wolford, who had been removed from command of the First Kentucky Cavalry regiment and placed under military arrest for his defiant March 10 speech at Lexington. He had been charged with speaking disrespectfully of his commander in chief, President Abraham Lincoln, and certainly there was no doubt that he had done exactly that.

Everywhere Wolford went, he was cheered as soon as he was recognized. So it was reported at the time by the newspapers, which were themselves among his most enthusiastic applauders. That was true particularly of the two leading papers in the Commonwealth, both staunch supporters of the Union cause—the Louisville Journal and the Lexington Observer and Reporter. Their respective editors, George D. Prentice and D. C. (Mike) Wickliffe, in 1861 had been credited with being influential in keeping Kentucky in the Union, despite sentimental and traditional ties with the other Southern states and advocacy of seces-

NATURE TRAILS

By RUFUS M. REED
Some say the reason a bird can sing, on his darkest days, He believes in spring!

We look at the barren winter trees, lifting their skeleton fingers in mute supplication to the somber sky, their dormant buds seeming so dead, and we see there no signs of life. But faith looks ahead to the warm days of spring, when new life will burst through the prison of the winter buds. We should believe in the wisdom of nature and her design for living. We should believe that soil, water, plants, birds and wild creatures must depend upon each other, and somehow each is vital to the existence of the other. The bees gather rich pollen and nectar from the flowers and benefit the flowers by pollinating the ovaries.

We should never condemn any wild creature, because each has its own design in the great overall scheme of nature, and we should make sure that no living species becomes lost. We can begin by showing kindness to all of God's creatures. Kindness is highly necessary in this bustling, self-centered age; we need to develop it if peace and righteousness are to prevail.

I read of the case of a man, around 85, who lived all alone and was kind to animals. He kept so many around his place, it was called "a small zoo." He took home abandoned pets and cared for them and loved them. This old man had five dogs, 11 cats, two goats, a cow and other animals. He fed them and petted all of them—and they saved his life!

This old man, named Robert O'Brien, lived in a cabin on a ranch out west. One night, last December, he got out of bed and went outside to see about some noises he had heard near the creek beside his cabin. He was dressed only in his nightclothes, as he didn't expect to be gone long. It was a cold night, with the temperature at 34. The old man failed to take along a lantern, and went stumbling about the cabin, to listen for the strange noises. While stumbling along the creek bank in the dark, he lost his balance and fell headlong into a dry bed of the creek. The fall down the 15-foot embankment knocked the old fellow unconscious and he lay in the bed of the creek, unable to cry for help. His head had struck a rock, knocking him cold. He fell on a Saturday night, and there in the bed of the creek he lay all night Saturday, all the next day, Sunday, and all of Sunday night, in the cold weather, with only his thin night clothing on.

And yet he didn't die! His pets missed him and began to search for him. When they found him lying unconscious in the creek, they all gathered around him. The dogs, all five of them, lay down on his cold body; the cats also surrounded him and huddled against him, to help keep him warm. Later the old man said, "I'm as certain as there's a sun in the sky that God led my pets to take care of me in my time of need, as I had taken care of them."

SOIL CONSERVATION

Twelve years ago, Steve Clark of the Wheelwright community, had a broomsedge field beside his house. Several gullies had begun to take shape. Every big rain brought yellow mud from his field down into his road.

Steve began setting out short leaf pine seedlings. He set two or three acres each year until the field was covered with trees. Under the trees are two or three inches of pine needles which help hold back the rain and make the trees grow faster.

There is no longer any mud or muddy water run-off from Mr. Clark's field. The larger trees are 30 to 35 inches around and are 30 to 35 feet tall.

If you are interested in doing something with your non-productive or steep land that will look good and be a profit to you, contact one of the soil conservation district supervisors and discuss the matter with them.

WORSHIP GOD!

THESE ARE TRUE WORDS OF GOD. And I fell down before His feet to worship Him. And He said to me, "THOU MUST NOT DO THAT. I am a fellow servant of thine and of thy brethren who gave the testimony of Jesus. WORSHIP GOD, for the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy." (Apocalypse 19:10).

And I, John, am he who heard and saw these things. And when I heard and saw, I fell down to worship at the feet of the angel who showed me these things. And he said to me, "THOU MUST NOT DO THAT. I am a fellow servant of thine and of thy brethren the prophets and of those who keep the words of this book. WORSHIP GOD!" (Apc. 22:9)

Now a man named Simon had previously been practicing SORcery in that city and astounding the people of Samaria, claiming to be some one great; and all from least to greatest listened to him saying, "This man is the power of God, which is called great." And they gave heed to him because for a long time he had bewitched them with his SORceries. But when they believed Philip as he preached the kingdom of God and the NAME OF JESUS CHRIST, they were baptized, both men and women. And Simon also himself believed, and after his baptism attached himself to Philip; and at sight of the signs and exceedingly great miracles being wrought, he was amazed. Now when the APOSTLES in Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the WORD OF GOD, they sent to them Peter and John. On their arrival, they prayed for them, that they might receive the Holy Spirit; for as yet he had not come upon any of them, but they had only been baptized in the NAME OF THE LORD JESUS. Then they laid their hands on them and they received the Holy Spirit. But when Simon saw that the Holy Spirit was given through the laying on of the APOSTLES' hands, he offered them money, saying, "Give me also this POWER, so that anyone on whom I lay my hands may receive the Holy Spirit." But PETER said to him, "Thy money go to DESTRUCTION with thee, because thou hast thought that the gift of God could be purchased with money. Thou hast no part or lot in this matter; for thy heart is NOT RIGHT before God. REPENT therefore of this wickedness of thine and PRAY TO GOD that perhaps this thought of thy heart may be forgiven thee, for I see thou art in the gall of bitterness and in the hand of iniquity." (Acts 8:23, Douay version)

And the next day he arose and started off with them, and certain of the brethren from Joppa accompanied him. The following day he reached Caesarea. Now Cornelius was waiting for them, having invited in his relatives and his intimate friends. And as Peter entered Cornelius met him and FALLING DOWN AT HIS FEET, MADE OBEISANCE TO HIM. BUT PETER RAISED HIM UP, saying, "Get up, I myself ALSO AM A MAN." (Acts 10:24-26)

Now to cap the climax, about the PRIMACY (the chief ecclesiastical station or dignity in a national church) of St. Peter in the infant church of God, let's hear him talk on this matter: "Now I exhort the PRESBYTERS among you—I, your Fellow-Presbyter (one equal or like another) and WITNESS OF THE SUFFERINGS OF Christ, the partaker also of the glory that is to be revealed in time to come—TEND THE FLOCK OF GOD which is among you, GOVERNING NOT UNDER CONSTRAINT, but WILLINGLY according to God; nor yet for the sake of BASE GAIN but eagerly, nor yet as LORDING it over your CHARGES, but becoming from the heart, A PATTERN TO THE FLOCK. And when the PRINCE of the shepherd appears, you will receive the unfading crown of glory." (I Peter 5:1-4). Moreover, let's listen attentively to what St. John says: "If we acknowledge our sins, he is faithful and just to FORGIVE us our sins and to cleanse us from ALL INIQUITY." (I John 1:9 Douay Version). Worship God! Glory to God in the highest! (Lk. 2:14). And a voice came out of the throne saying, "Praise our God,

Adequate Homes Pressing Needs In Eastern Ky.

BY NEVYLE SHACKELFORD

In psychological terms, a house is a man's castle, a woman's domain, a child's world, and a family's home. And as it was also revealed during a recent series of task force meetings on housing, adequate homes are pressing welfare needs for hundreds of Eastern Kentuckians.

According to Mrs. Carolyn Schrock, basics of living specialist for the Eastern Kentucky Resource Development Project, and who is available through this project to advise and assist communities and even individuals on matters pertaining to better housing, more than 30 percent of East Kentucky homes are deteriorating, 21 percent are dilapidated, 65 percent have no modern plumbing facilities, and less than half measure up to minimum housing standards.

The existing situation, of course, is more the result of a fading economy than anything else. A large percentage of the population receive substandard incomes, but there are other contributing factors to the housing problem such as high cost of suitable building sites and building materials; lack of incentive or motivation to either construct new homes or remodel old ones; and lack of information of sources of assistance available in financing and construction.

But in order to live better, look better, and attract industry, better housing is a must for the region. To make community leaders aware of existing housing conditions and reveal ways and means of improving the situation was the purpose of the task force team of housing specialists that concluded a tour of area development councils last week.

During this series of six meetings which were held at Paintsville, Hazard, Campton, Barbourville, Winchester, Burnside, Grayson, and Mt. Sterling, local leaders and members of the various area councils were presented with possible solutions for housing problems. Housing specialists, construction technicians, State Department of Commerce, Division of Planning and Zoning, and representatives of federal lending agencies held discussions on how to improve construction; how to reduce construction costs; and how to finance construction.

In these meetings it was brought out that substantial and comfortable homes can be constructed at a much smaller cost than most imagine. Some of the recommended cost-reducing shortcuts involved wise planning the use of pre-cut materials; home owner doing part or most of the work; better and wider use of home grown lumber, and simpler construction design. As was demonstrated at these meetings, it is possible, by utilizing the above means, to build a modern home for a family of five for around $5,000.

Lykins-Townsend Vows Solemnized in Ohio

The wedding vows of Miss Florence Lykins, St. Marys, Ohio, formerly of Floyd county, and Larry Townsend, of Spencerville, were solemnized Saturday, February 22, at 6:30 p.m. in the Pilgrim Holiness church. The Rev. Armond Calvert performed the ceremony, assisted by Eugene Huff, cousin of the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lykins, of St. Marys. Mr. Townsend is the son of Mrs. Lane Brown, of Lima, and Merle Townsend, of Spencerville.

Seven branched candleabra tied with white satin bows and huckleberry foliage were placed at either side of the altar, graced with bouquets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums interspersed with huckleberry foliage. The family pews were marked with white satin aisle bows.

Mrs. Armond Calvert, organist, presented the music for the ceremony. She played "Because," "I Love You and the traditional processional and recessional marches as the wedding party entered and left the church.

Attending the bride was Miss Kay Gibson, a friend. She was attired in a ballerina length frock of pink with a scoop neckline and cap sleeves. Her shoes, hat and veil matched her dress. She carried a cascade arrangement of pink and white carnations, with eucalyptus foliage.

The bride was attired in a gown of white chantilly lace and nylon tulle as she approached the altar with her brother-in-law, Norman Chiles, Celina, who gave her in marriage. The scalloped neckline of her closely molded chantilly lace bodice was lavished with baby pearls and sparkling iridescents. The long lace sleeves came to bridal points at the wrists. Her floor-length skirt was styled with a chantilly lace tunic, embellished with sparkling appliques, revealing a floor-length tulle flounce all around. The dress was worn over bridal hoops and satin. The bride wore a matching queen's crown accented with pearls which held in place her waist length veil of imported illusion. Her bridal arrangement was a cascade design of white feathered carnation and eucalyptus foliage centered with a corsage of red garnet roses and white hyacinths, with satin streamers tied in lovers knots.

Attending the bridegroom were Ed Hoenie, best man, Gary Thompson and Steve Gibson, friends of the groom, as ushers. The men were attired in dark suits. Mr. Townsend wore a white hyacinth boutonniere while his attendants had lapel flowers of white carnations.

The bride's mother selected a turquoise frock with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother was gowned in a royal blue dress with light blue accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception took place honoring the couple at the St. Marys Armory. The bride's table was decorated with a white cloth, adorned at either end with blue bells. A large white wedding bell hung from the center. It was edged with pink roses and accented with tiny white lighted bulbs. The four-tiered wedding cake was trimmed with white swans, pink roses and green leaves and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. Townsend attended Memorial high school. Mr. Townsend attended Mendon high school and is employed in Venedocia at the Ohio Electro-Polishing Company. Among the one-hundred and fifty guests in attendance at the wedding were those from St. Marys, Venedocia, Delphos, Ft. Jennings, Spencerville, Mendon, Lima, Celina, New Bremen, Marion, O., and Ft. DOES LIFE HAVE YOU UP A TREE

Do you feel as if you are out on a limb? Would it be nice to get your feet on the ground? Do you wish there was something you could know for sure?

Many who have had such feelings have found the answer in regular attendance at church. There they have found that the answer to their need is God and that through faith in Him they have a sureness that leaves them with the firm earth beneath them and a certain path opening to them.

You don't need to be up a tree or out on a limb. You can follow the way that leads to life.

Fullness of life begins with directions from God.

Attend the Allen Methodist Church Revival beginning this Sunday, April 5, 7:00 p.m.

5 Douay Version). I flee unto THEE to hide me. (Ps. 143:9). And ESDRAS the priest stood up, and said to them: "You have transgressed, and taken strange wives, to add to the sins of Israel. And now make CONFESSION to the Lord the GOD of your fathers, and do His pleasure, and separate yourselves from the people of the land, and from your strange wives." (1 ESDRAS 10:10, 11 Douay Version).
"PRAY TO GOD!" (Acts 8:22). Worship God! (Apocalypse 19:4; 22:9). Jesus said to him (THOMAS), "I am the WAY, and the TRUTH, and the LIFE. NO ONE COMES TO THE FATHER but THROUGH ME." (John 14:6 Douay Version). "Draw near to God, and He will draw near to you. RESIST THE DEVIL and he will flee from you." (James 4:7, 8). Search the SCRIPTURES! (Jn. 5:39). "The just shall live by FAITH (Jno. 3:16; Rom. 3:20; II Cor. 5:7; Gal. 3:11; Phil. 3:9; Hebrews 10:38; 11:6) WITHOUT FAITH it is impossible to PLEASE GOD! Look unto Me, and be ye SAVED all the ends of the earth for I am GOD, and there is NONE else." (Isa. 45:22).
Turn to God (Acts 9:35; 11:21; 14:14; 15:19; I Th. 1:9). Beware of men (Matt. 10:17). "Beware of the scribes which desire to walk in long robes, and love greetings in the markets, and the highest seats in the synagogues, and the chief rooms at feasts; which devour widows' houses, and for a show make long prayers; the same shall receive greater damnation." (Lk. 20:46). Have faith in God (Mk. 11:22). Believing is the most wonderful thing in the world. Put anything of Thy own to it and Thou spoilest it. The chief end of man is to GLORIFY God, and enjoy HIM FOREVER and FOREVER.

Chief Notes Betsy Layne FD Saves $339,500 In Property; Town Losses Total $110,700

Fire Chief James A. George of the Betsy Layne Fire Department estimates that the volunteer group of firemen there saved the community last year the sum of $339,500. George made the calculations that add up to this sum while at the scene of fires.

Fire losses in the community last year total $110,700, George said. The heaviest losses occur, he noted, due to the time lapse between the beginning of the fire and the report.

The fire fighting group, strictly on a volunteer basis, operates on funds contributed locally with some help from the county and state.

"In the past year we were fortunate enough to raise more than $1,600 with which we purchased a new and larger tank for our truck," George said. "In addition we bought supplies and paid operating expenses. Not one cent was paid to the volunteer firemen."

"It was necessary for us to call on the Allen Fire Department one time and, although they presented no charge, we gave them $100 to help cover the extra expense," George added.

Suppose you've heard of the Texan who was letting his 10-year-old son drive one of the family Oldsmobiles and a friend reminded him that the boy was mighty young to be driving, "Shucks," replied Tex, "Ah know he is. That's why Ah only let him drive around in the house."

REASON ENOUGH

This strikes me as appropriate, inasmuch as that certain day in April is drawing ominously near:

A new father was peering through the window of the hospital nursery, trying to pick out the finest baby on earth, and it seemed that the whole passel of them were bawling.

"Why are they all crying?" he asked a nurse.

"Listen," she said, "if you were only a few days old, without a stitch to your back, out of a job and already owed almost $1,700 on the national debt, you'd be bawling, too!"

STRIP MINING CONTROL APPROVED BY ASSEMBLY

Frankfort, Ky., March 31 (Sp.) — The bill to tighten state control of strip mining, approved by the General Assembly with only one dissenting vote, will go into effect July 1. The bill was signed into law by Governor Edward T. Breathitt the day before final adjournment of the 1964 session.

Although the measures contained in the bill itself will not go into effect until July 1, a regulation adopted earlier by the State Strip Mining and Reclamation Commission contains similar controls and is now in effect. Representative John Swinford, Cynthiana, who introduced the bill in the House said it "attempts to save the natural resources of the state and at the same time save the (strip mine) industry for the state."

The bill makes these major changes in the present strip-mining law:

- 1. Makes mandatory, instead of permissive, such reclamation procedures as covering coal seams and auger holes with compacted dirt, sealing break-throughs, handling surface water to avoid erosion and pollution, and burying materials which would produce acid or be a fire hazard.
- 2. Prohibits placing of spoil banks so that normal erosion would carry the soil to adjacent property or streams or roads.
- 3. Requires approval of a reclamation plan before a strip-mining permit is issued.
- 4. Requires completion of reclamation within one year unless yearly reports are filed.
- 5. Includes access roads in the reclamation plan but not in the area on which acreage fees are computed.
- 6. Raises the acreage fees to be paid by operators from $15 to $25 an acre.
- 7. Raises the maximum performance bond from $250 to $500 per acre and the total minimum bond from $1,000 to $2,000.

One amendment was offered by Swinford and passed by voice vote. It allows an applicant for a strip-mining permit to certify that no officer of the company is a past violator of the strip-mining law. The original bill required disclosure of the names of all officers, directors and 10 percent of the stockholders.

The bill passed the House 88 to 0 and passed the Senate 37 to one.

Prior to signing the bill into law, Governor Breathitt appointed Robert Montgomery, former assistant to Conservation Commissioner J. O. Matlick, as deputy commissioner of conservation. He will oversee all strip mine programs within the department.

SPORTS CHATTER
By GORDON MOORE

Maytown's talented Bob Tallent was named to the all-state high school basketball team last Sunday, thus becoming the first Floyd countian since 1956 to be named to the "dream team."

Lowell Hughes, Prestonsburg, and Kelly Coleman, Wayland, were the last two Floyd natives named to the team and that was back in '56.

The all-state team is based on season's play, and the versatile Tallent finished his cage career with a total of 2,427 points. As a freshman, he averaged 10.1 points per game, then jumped to 22.8 as a sophomore and 28.9 in his junior season.

In addition to his basketball ability he is valedictorian of his graduating class.

Orville Stepp, Inez's senior guard, was also named to the all-state team, thus giving the 15th region two members on the team. Danny Ray Hall, of Wheelwright, was named to the third team. Aside from Tallent, Stepp and Hall, the 15th region had these players in the running as the leading candidates: Ralph Goode, Feds Creek; Keith Lawson, Garrett; Shawn Howell, McDowell, and Bobby Porter, Paintsville.

The All-American Circus, appearing in the high school fieldhouse at 7:30 tonight (Thursday) is one of the best performances on the road today. All of the acts appear frequently on TV and the event provides good, clean fun for the entire family.

The price-tag on a one-minute commercial shot during a National Football League game during the 1964 season will cost the sponsor a cool $65,000. This is one of the reasons for the whopping $28.2 million two-year contract for the TV rights to NFL games with CBS.

Don Wallen, Wheelwright cage mentor, was voted "Coach of the Year" by his fellow-mentors of teams comprising the Floyd County Basketball Conference. Wallen's team won 23 and lost 3 before being ousted in the first game of the district tournament by Prestonsburg, 65-64.

Wheelwright also captured the season title with a 7-0 mark. Denzil Halbert's Martin high school team was awarded the runner-up trophy with a 4-3 mark, since the Garrett Black Devils did not play the required number of games.

The all-conference team named was: Johnny Cox and Keith Lawson, Garrett; Freddie Setser, Prestonsburg; Bob Tallent, Maytown; Shawn Howell, McDowell; Bronley Williams, Wayland; Tom Hall and C. Boyd, Betsy Layne; Danny Ray Hall and Jim Rollins, Wheelwright; David Mayo and Larry Hall, Martin.

The Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference at its spring meeting in Hazard last Saturday night elected Roy Reaser, Fleming-Neon principal, as president; John Stringer, Hazard high principal, as vice-president, and Arthur Mullins, veteran Elkhorn City athletic director, as secretary-treasurer for the 17th consecutive year.

The Hazard Bulldogs were awarded the championship basketball trophy, and co-runners-up were Fleming-Neon and Jenkins. The all-E.K.M.C. team consisted of Davis, Rose and Hogg, Hazard; Craft, Fleming-Neon; Phillips, Fleming-Neon; Greer, Jenkins; Anderson, Pikeville; Freddie Setser, Prestonsburg; Frazier, Whitesburg; Hopkins, M. C. Napier, and Rollins, Wheelwright.

Roscoe Shackelford, Hazard high mentor, was voted the loop's "Coach of the Year," and his player, Joe Davis, was voted "Player of the Year."

The annual league baseball tournament was dropped and the team advancing farthest in the district and regional play will be awarded the baseball title.

The annual track meet will be held in conjunction with the regional track meet in Prestonsburg, May 1 and 16.

The fall meeting was set for Hazard on the Monday before Thanksgiving.

Record 36,000 Students Will Graduate in State Announced by Sparks

Frankfort, Ky., March 31 (Spl.)—Kentucky high schools will graduate a record 36,000 students this year—nearly 5,400 more than in any previous year—according to a study made by the State Department of Education.

Dr. Harry M. Sparks, state superintendent of public instruction, said the previous record was 30,612 in 1961.

The Department's study also indicated that more Kentucky students are finishing high school and that the percentage of graduates entering college is increasing each year.

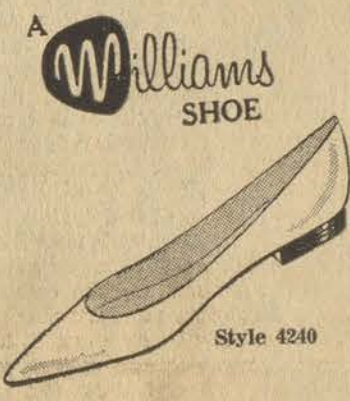

Of the 28,140 public and private high school graduates last year, 38.6 percent went on to college, Don Elswick, director of the Department's Division of Research, reported. The national average is about 50 percent.

The holding power of Kentucky's high schools—students finishing high school—made a slight gain last year. For each 1,000 students who had entered the ninth grade in September, 1959, 615, or 61.5 percent, were graduated from high school in 1963. The national holding power average last year was about 70 percent, Elswick said.

Walnut Tree Demand Is Great, McClung Says

Sold any walnut trees lately? If so, you might have been taken because the market price is the highest it ever has been and some people don't know it. Some of those who do have been taking advantage of those who don't, says State Forester Lester McClung, of West Virginia. The current market price is $400 per thousand board feet because walnut is in short supply. McClung says the supply is low because much of it is being exported, chiefly to Japan. Some sharp operators have approached Kentucky and West Virginia farmers who still think walnut is selling for $25 to $50 a thousand. They offer $60 or $70, which sounds like a good deal, and the farmer sells.

VOTERS TO CONSIDER NEW ISSUE OF BONDS

Frankfort, Ky., March 25—The question of a proposed bond issue of $176 million for roads and capital construction will be presented to the voters for the decision in the November, 1965, general election under a late bill passed by the 1964 Kentucky General Assembly.

Before final adjournment Friday, March 20, the Assembly provided for stricter control of strip-mining and loosened the law to allow the casting of an absentee ballot by any eligible voter who "expects" to be absent from his precinct on election day. The Assembly stood fast in the face of strong and demonstrative efforts to have it enact proposed public-accommodations legislation, leaving a number of hunger-striking civil-rights demonstrators in a gallery of the House as the adjourning gavel banged.

It also failed to respond to those who would have it revise Kentucky's century-old Sunday-closing statute by specifying what could and what could not be sold on that day.

Thumbs were turned down on proposals to allow school boards in the more populous counties, particularly Jefferson, to levy an occupational tax up to 1/2 of one percent for the benefit of overcrowded schools.

Also allowed to die were companion bills in the House and the Senate which would have replaced county tax commissioners as elected officials with state-appointed tax assessors.

At a pre-adjournment press conference Friday, Governor Edward T. Breathitt said, "This has been a good session of the General Assembly." He put passage of the $1.4 billion budget bill and authorization of a vote on the bond issue at the top of the list of achievements. The budget bill, he said, continues existing programs and charts new paths of progress.

"The bond issue will be a wise investment in Kentucky's expanding future," he added. "It will bring us new and better highways, improvements in our institutions of higher learning, more human correctional facilities, a complete and outstanding park system, a network of modern airports, and many other facilities to bring a better life to Kentuckians."

Breathitt continued that it has been "a good session for honest government," citing the model purchasing law and the creation of a Commission on Economy and Efficiency in Government. It had been a good session, too, for education and for farm people and agriculture. He had kept, he said, his campaign promises.

The Governor also said it had been "a good session for conservation of our natural resources; we have passed a strong strip mine bill," carefully prepared after a four-year study. Another area in which he said significant progress had been made is that of constitutional revision: "The (constitutional) assembly has already had its first meeting and further organization is under way. By the means we are employing we can, in the full glare of publicity, discuss the problems of constitutional revision and hammer out solutions which are acceptable to the people."

Breathitt expressed disappointment at the General Assembly's failure to act on civil rights, saying:

"I believe, as so long as I live I shall always believe, that every citizen is entitled to obtain equal treatment in places of public accommodation, regardless of the color of his skin. I shall continue to fight for adequate human rights legislation with all the strength at my command, and I urge upon all Kentuckians a campaign of continued education in this field."

The bill authorizing the 1965 statewide vote on the bond issue divides the total into $139 million to match federal aid in road construction, $37 million for capital construction at state institutions of education, health and welfare, and $3 million to help build a new medical center at the University of Louisville.

Although the General Assembly failed to pass public-accommodations legislation, the House adopted on the eve of adjournment a resolution requesting "all business and institutions . . . to desegregate their facilities on a voluntary basis, and provide equal treatment for all citizens of Kentucky."

The state's present Sunday closing law has been under attack for about three years. One of the grounds for attack is that the law is too vague to be enforceable. Its opponents said it bans all except "works of necessity" on Sundays but does not define what a "work of necessity" actually is.

FLOYD FATHER WAITED IN VAIN FOR RETURN OF SOLDIER SONS

BY HENRY P. SCALF

One hundred seven years ago Hughey Johnson, teenage son of John C. Johnson of the Johnson Fork of Caney Creek, while engaged in farm chores came to a giant beech tree on his father's land. Under its canopy he stopped and looked out over the valley.

Down under him were the Johnson bottoms and across the creek near the hillside stood the log home erected by the family three years earlier. The fields were studded with stumps evidence that the trees had only recently surrendered to the axe.

Hughey Johnson took out a pocketknife, patiently carved on the tree. When he finished, he stood back, viewed what he had inscribed on the gray bark. It read: "H. J. 1857."

Four years later Hughey Johnson and his brother Bill answered Lincoln's call to defend the Union. They never came back. Memory lives on with the Johnsons, scattered now over the nearby valleys. Of knowledge of Bill and Hughey Johnson there is little that is tangible except the initials inscribed on the beech. There isn't a picture or a letter in the family archives. The Bible in which their dates of birth were written was destroyed when the old log home burned down in 1940.

The Johnson family waited patiently through the months for knowledge of their sons. A few letters came back and bits of news were relayed to them from their compatriots who were on leave.

In the long summer evenings when the farm labor for the day was ended, John C. Johnson, his wife and children sat on the porch and waited, gazing often, we are sure, down the winding creek road up which no soldier's son in blue ever came.

Johnson often recalled in his old age the story of his journey into Eastern Kentucky. He was born on the Clinch River in Southwest Virginia and while traveling over the area he met another Johnson family from Maryland that had settled on the Clinch. He married Elvira, a daughter of this immigrant eastern family, with which he was not related, and they went to housekeeping and daughters were born to them on the Clinch. Two of the sons were Bill and Hughey.

The Johnsons, tired of their rugged Clinch River farm and hearing of land still available for preemption in Eastern Kentucky, decided to move. They began to liquidate their possessions and acquired a large wagon over which they constructed a cover.

In the year 1852 the family moved out on the road to Kentucky. Moving north they struck the Kentucky road to Pound Gap, crossed this high pass and descended Elkhorn Creek, lumbered through Shelby Gap and down that stream. In the evenings they camped by the roadside.

They descended Big Sandy River, passed the fledgling town of Pike, later Pikeville, now Pikeville. It was log cabin land then all over Eastern Kentucky. Only a few frame houses marked the wilderness-enclosed farms. Coming to the mouth of Beaver Creek, they turned up it, slowly lumbering along the primitive road.

Johnson didn't know of any specific place that he was trying to reach but somewhere in the rugged area he knew that land lay unclaimed. He finally found it on Jones Fork. A cabin was built, land was cleared and a crop was raised.

He discovered soon, however, that his Jones Fork land wasn't much of an improvement over his former homestead on the Clinch and he made inquiries. He was told that a man on the Caney Fork of Middle Creek had a farm of 241 acres, much of it bottom, that he wanted to sell. Johnson went and looked, liked what he saw and bought it.

In 1854, two years after he had migrated to the Big Sandy valley, he moved the last time. Settled on Caney Fork, at the mouth of a valley ever afterward known as Johnson Fork of Caney, he built a huge log house that was to stand for nearly a hundred years. His children increased to seven sons and four daughters. The youngest son, Bee, was born during the Civil War. All of them are now dead.

One day news came. How it came the family doesn't remember for oral tradition is the only record. They learned that Bill Johnson was dead. He had died from measles in Tennessee. Guerrillas had been a fear at the Johnson homestead but the fear that his remaining son would not return was the greatest of all with John C. Johnson. It was confirmed one day when the news of Hughey's death filtered back to him.

John C. Johnson became an intensely religious man as his memories lengthened and he began to bury members of his family on the side of the hill in what was to become known as the Johnson cemetery. Physical affliction came to him. He lost an eye in an accident.

He continued to farm, however, and year after year plowed and harvested. His family made the tools they needed, wove cloth for clothing and tanned leather for shoes. In the latter, Johnson became proficient.

His tanning ability is recalled in an old ditty sung by neighbor boys. The two-line verse had its genesis in litigation between Johnson and David Banner, a prominent resident of the river section and for whom the present postoffice of Banner was named. Johnson sued Banner and the wags sang:

"John C. Johnson, one-eyed tanner.

He got mad and sued Dave Banner."

Bee Johnson, youngest son, who was born during the war, married Eliza Hicks and lived with his parents at the old homestead. A son was born to them and named Ell Johnson. The grandfather only knew the child as a babe. John C. Johnson succumbed to the ills of old age and died in 1900.

Ell Johnson grew to manhood and like his uncles, Bill and Hughey, went away to war. He was wounded November 10, 1918, at the Argonne Forest battle in France, while serving in the Seventh Infantry Division. He lingered till February 2, 1919, when he died. They brought his body back in the fall and buried him with his people. His mother died in 1938 and his father in 1947. Both were interred near him.

Standing under the giant and senile beech upon which Hughey Johnson carved his name 107 years ago, you can see the mouth of the Johnson Fork, the intervening bottoms and the site of the settler home where so many Johnsons lived and died. Henry Johnson, grandson of John C. Johnson, lives there now. You can see the stones in the cemetery on which so many Johnson names are inscribed.

Physical evidence of the family's tenancy in the valley abounds, but of Bill Johnson there is only the memory of a name and of his sacrifice. Of Hughey Johnson there is a bit more carved in the bark of a senile beech.

Tom Johnson, 63, retired schoolteacher and miner, points to where his uncle, Hughey Johnson, carved his name on a beech tree in 1857. Hughey and his brother Bill both died while serving in the Union Army.

MINER'S ARM TORN OFF IN LESLIE COUNTY WRECK

Hazard, Ky.—"Lester, are you hurt?" the young woman asked her husband as he bent over the wheel of the pickup truck.

He replied in the affirmative as he guided the vehicle down the road, after a sideswipe collision with a coal truck on a narrow, winding Leslie county road.

Lester Jones, 34, his left arm lying back in the road at the point of impact, drove three-tenths of a mile to a small store, his wife said last Friday as her husband lay hospitalized.

At the store, they got out and "then he fell to the ground," Mrs. Jones said. An ambulance was called and Jones, a coal miner of Jason, was taken to a Hazard hospital. He was reported in fair condition.

MY JOURNEY

I'd like to travel round the world. To countries far and near. I'd like to travel everywhere. To every hemisphere. I'd travel in a bus or plane. Or maybe by jet.

KATHY L. MAY, Age 11

Jones' arm was torn off at the shoulder, authorities said. His wife said her husband had been resting his arm on the truck door.
