

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

THURSDAY, JANUARY 16, 1964

This Town . . . That World

Tyrone Power used to cut quite a figure, but we'd say, in view of the urge folks now have to quit smoking, that Will is the big boy in the family now.

SKID ROW — just about any street or road you travel, these days.

This column is accepting contributions to a fund to be used for the purchase of a jug of dye for Ray Howard's fast-sprouting goatee.

BLESS THE YOUNG'UNS!

Traffic was stalled, business at a standstill. Older folks complained, but the youngsters drowned out their gripes.

Water pipes froze and thawed and flooded the floors. Older folk shivered and wondered when relief would come. Through it all the laddie-backs chortled gleefully.

School was out, and they cared not how long the snow and ice and miseries stayed with the rest of us.

WE APOLOGIZE

A friend from Huntington sends us a newspaper clipping which, he says, should impel us to apologize to Lennie Moore for some reference we may have made at some time to his driving.

It tells of a 15-year-old there who in a drive of only one block struck four parked cars, a utility pole, a gasoline pump, a house and ran through two service stations.

When asked what happened, the boy gave with a classic in the line of understatement: "I can't drive too well."

POOR RICHARD'S EPITAPH

And this in the mail from a friend nearer home:

"Re: the epitaph of Thomas Jefferson in the December 19 edition of the FLOYD COUNTY TIMES—did you know that another Founding-Father, Ben Franklin, composed his own epitaph, also? He did, and gave it to his good friend Sam Morris, August 31, 1776. It is reproduced below.

"The body of B. Franklin, Printer, like the cover of an old book, its contents torn out, and strip of its lettering and gilding, lies here, food for worms."

MUSIC RECEIVES INSIGNIA OF OFFICE

Induction to office of Mr. Music was witnessed by 280 persons representing all Kiwanis Clubs of District 8, also clubs from various parts of Kentucky and Tennessee. Mr. Osborne, himself a former district president, was the speaker. Chalmer H. Frazier presided at the meeting and was toastmaster.

Mr. Music this week began his first tour of Kiwanis Clubs in the district.

AWARD GEORGIA FIRM MARTIN HOUSING JOB

FORTY UNITS TO BE BUILT UNDER PACT

Mayor Roberts, Allen Go To Atlanta; HHFA Approval Envisioned

The Piedmont Construction Co., Vidalia, Georgia, is expected to be awarded the contract on construction of the 40-unit low-rent public housing complex at Martin.

The company submitted a bid of $308,322 Tuesday afternoon on the project, and this was by approximately $41,000 lower than the price asked by the nearest competitor.

Ray R. Allen, executive director of the Martin Housing Commission, said he is confident the bid will be approved by the Housing & Home Finance Agency, Atlanta, Georgia, and that the contract will be awarded to Piedmont. He and Mayor John Roberts, of Martin, left Wednesday for Atlanta to meet with federal officials.

Although Piedmont's bid was far below that of others, it still was approximately $30,000 above the architect's estimate.

The work on which contractors were asked to bid included not only actual construction of the housing units but also excavation, landscaping, street and sidewalk construction and laying of water lines to the site. The Martin Gas Company will supply natural gas to the project.

The housing units will be similar to those completed and now occupied here. Site of the project is a tract of land at the "Forks of Beaver," near Martin, which was acquired from Mrs. Amanda Dingus.

The executive director of the Martin project said Tuesday that he will file application while in Atlanta for 35 additional housing units there.

Other bidders on the project were Akers & Akers, of Dana; McGuire & Vanhose, West Prestonsburg; Jack W. Davis, Huntington, West Virginia, and the G. H. Hunter Co., Betsy Layne.

Mrs. Howell Outlines Procedures In Program To Assist Unemployed

Mrs. Nell Howell, social service supervisor, Division of Public Assistance, this week outlined procedures which will be helpful to applicants for subsistence benefits under the new million-dollar program for unemployed fathers.

Applicants, she said, are to go to the Department of Economic Security building on North Lake Drive here. The office is open.

Officers Book Thirteen On Drunkenness Charges During Inclement Days

Saturday night, as the state's big snowstorm was brewing, county officers were busy rounding up drunks and others who were taken to the shelter of the county jail.

Jailed Saturday were 18 persons, almost doubling the county prison population. Thirteen of these were booked for drunkenness.

Others jailed on more serious charges within the week were listed as:

Willie Wiess, parole violation, booked by Deputy Sheriff Lonnie Herald; Joe E. Hicks, contributing to delinquency, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Harold Johnson; M. G. Gill, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriff Oak Mullins; Ernie Hall, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriff Sam Hale and Lonnie Herald; Hershell Hall and Fred Little, fighting, by Deputy Sheriff Harold Johnson.

RAY PRESTON FOUND DEAD

Death by Accident, Belief of Coroner; Burial In Pike-Co.

Walter Ray Preston, 50, of Prestonsburg, was found dead in his automobile here Saturday morning and is believed to have been a victim of accidental carbon monoxide poisoning.

His death was discovered by Kermit Howard, Oscar Collins and Otis Wright, employees of the York Furniture Company. The victim had parked his auto in front of the furniture firm's store in the Porter Addition here, and at the time his death was discovered the motor was running.

An informal inquiry was held by Coroner James J. Carter.

A native of Johnson county, Mr. Preston had resided in this county for a number of years while employed by coal mining firms and as an automobile mechanic. He was a son of the late Carl and Mona Lewis Preston. He was a member of the Baptist Church.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Hester Bray Preston, of Prestonsburg; two daughters, Mrs. Randall Honeycutt, of Lancer; and Mrs. Robert Burke, Shelbyville, Tennessee, and three sisters, Mrs. Justus Bailey, Mrs. Roy H. Blaine and Mrs. Myrtle Ward, all of Huntington, West Virginia.

Funeral rites were conducted Monday at 1 p.m. from Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, the Revs. Cohen Campbell and W. D. Jagers officiating. Burial was made in the Tackett cemetery at Island Creek, Pike county, under direction of the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

HAGER HOLDS SLEEP PILLS

Woman's Death Cause; Coroner Notes Events Preceding Her Demise

Issuing a statement in which he held that Miss Jo Ann Tackett, 27, formerly of McDowell, died of an overdose of sleeping tablets, Coroner Chester Hager, of Payette county, detailed various events preceding her death, the night of December 25, at her apartment at 133 Zandale Drive, Lexington.

His statement was given after results of an autopsy performed at the University of Kentucky Medical Center were known.

Hager said the pills belonged to Don Meade, 348 Harrison avenue, Lexington, formerly of Prestonsburg, who was with Miss Tackett the night of her death. The coroner quoted Meade as saying Miss Tackett told him she took the pills, but that he did not believe her.

The coroner said Miss Tackett had attempted suicide on two other occasions. She took an overdose of pills about a week before her death, and was found unconscious by her mother, he said.

Hager said Miss Tackett had been under the care of a psychiatrist, and had asked her mother to come live with her. Her mother, who now resides in Ohio, had just returned to her

GRAND JURY IN RECESS

Eighteen Indictments Are Reported; Other True Bills Are Voted

The Floyd circuit court's grand jury adjourned at the end of last week, to be in recess until January 30.

Although only 18 indictments had been reported at the time of its temporary adjournment, a number of other true bills were voted and will be prepared in time to be submitted officially when the jury resumes its work. Among these, it was said, were several indictments for liquor offenses which were made after the cases had been dismissed in quarterly court and submitted for grand jury action.

New indictments reported last week and charges against each defendant follow:

Herbert Batley, Gilbert Bentley, Alexander Moore and Raymond Phillips, each for child desertion; T. E. Allen, Jack Hamilton, L. P. Montgomery and Alice Waugh, each accused of uttering a worthless check; Luther McKinney, obtaining property under false pretense; Russell Stone, receiving stolen property and grand larceny; Carmel Osborne, assault and battery.

James Akers, who was named in an assault and battery indictment after his attack here upon Larry Leslie, Prestonsburg youth, was convicted Tuesday, fined $100 and given a 60-day jail term. (Willie Wiess, a juvenile accused in the same assault case, was jailed as a parole violator last Thursday by Deputy Sheriff Lonnie Herald.)

Homer Hicks entered a plea of guilty to a charge of breaking and entering last Thursday, and was given a two-year pen

PIKE RAIDS NET FORTY

Whiskey Violations Charged; Cases Slated For Hearing Thursday

Forty persons were arrested in 20 raids conducted Saturday afternoon in dry Pike county. All of those arrested executed bonds and were scheduled to appear in Pike County Judge Ervin Pruitt's court. Several of those charged are old offenders, it is said.

All of the raids in the massive enforcement action were conducted outside the Pikeville city limits. No large quantities of intoxicants were found at any one place, it is said, but the total of wine, whiskey and beer seized was considerable.

Conducting the raids, which were widespread and blanketed the entire county, were troopers and officers of the Pikeville post of the state police, Pike county deputy sheriffs, and personnel of the Alcohol Beverage Control. A total of 39 officers were engaged in the raids.

All of those arrested were charged with either or both of the violations of possession for purposes of sale or sale.

Search warrants were procured after an officer working for the ABC Commission made purchases of intoxicants from those raided.

CLUB PICKS WINNERS IN FISHING CONTEST

Top winners in the Floyd County Fish & Game Club's 1963 fishing contest are Steve Stout, of Langley, and Charles Ferguson, of Prestonsburg. Winners in the bass division, both have their choice of a Shakespeare President or a Pflueger Supreme reel.

Stout won in the largemouth division with a 21 1/4-inch, 5-pound, 12-ounce bass taken from Dewey Lake April 10, jig-fishing with a black eel-strip. Ferguson won in the smallmouth bass division with a 17 1/2-inch, 2-pound, 13-ounce catch May 16 in the Big Sandy while casting a Paul Bunyan.

Ferguson's brother, Ben, took second prize in the smallmouth division with a smallmouth three-quarters of an inch shorter and weighing 2 pounds, 9 ounces. His fish grabbed a Shyster and also was caught in the Big Sandy here. Second place in the largemouth division was won by Tom R. Flanery, of Langley, with a 4-pounder caught at Dewey Lake May 16 while casting a Spin-Dit-Dittee. The two second-place winners will receive rods of $15

ALAN REED VICTIM HERE

Prestonsburg Engineer Dies of Heart Attack; Was New Jersey Native

C. Alan Reed, 33, Prestonsburg engineer, died of a heart attack at his Central avenue home at 12:15 a.m. Tuesday.

The attack came without warning, and Mr. Reed died before he could be removed to a hospital. News of his passing was received with deep regret by professional associates and friends over a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Reed, of Drift, he was born at Camden, New Jersey, February 15, 1930. Here he was the owner of the Prestonsburg Engineering Company. In addition to his work as an engineer, he was active in civic and church affairs. He was president of the Big Sandy Chapter, Professional Engineers, and of the Big Sandy Elkhorn Mining Institute; a director of the Big Sandy Elkhorn Coal Operators Association, a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers and the Kentucky Small Mines Commission; chairman of the Jenny Wiley district, Boy Scouts of America, and finance chairman of the local Girl Scout organization.

MOTEL DEATH SUIT CAUSE

Plaintiff's Petition Alleges Negligence; Asks $51,000 Damages

A damage suit asking a total of $51,000 was filed Monday against Mr. and Mrs. Tom Burchett, individually, and as operators of the Mountain View Motel at Knotley Hollow on U. S. 26.

The suit seeks damages in the death at the motel, early last February, of Earl Campbell. Plaintiff in the action is Scott Collins, administrator of the victim's estate.

The plaintiff's petition alleges that the defendant rented Campbell a room in which was a defective heater and heating system. It claims also that the motel was operated at the time in violation of state law and subsequent regulations.

Fifty thousand dollars is claimed as damage to decedent's estate, and $1,000 as funeral expenses.

HALL ISSUES BAN ORDER

Mechanical Dispenser Prohibition Is Result Of High Bacteria Count

Dr. Russell L. Hall, Floyd county health doctor, last Friday announced that, effective Wednesday of this week, use of mechanical dispensers of milk will be prohibited in this county.

The action, he explained, is being taken after samples of milk taken from such dispensers over a period of weeks have shown an extremely high bacteria count. There are possibly a dozen such milk dispensers in use in the county, and none is known to be satisfactory, he said.

"We don't want the public to get the idea that people should quit drinking milk," Dr. Hall said, adding that milk is a necessary part of human diet. "Milk served by restaurants from cartons, bottles and the like will be perfectly safe, because we keep a constant check on the milk coming into the county."

Commenting on the compulsory immunization law, the health doctor said that only four family heads in the county have refused to permit their children (persons under the age of 16 are described in the law as children) to be immunized. Only two grounds for refusal, he pointed out, are recognized by the law—objection to immunization on religious grounds, or a statement

Ligon Miner Claimed At McDowell Hospital; Burial Made At Hi Hat

Everett Henson, 50, of Ligon, died Wednesday of last week at the McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital. He was in ill health three years, seriously so for a week. He was a miner.

Mr. Henson was a son of Joe and Charity Henson and the husband of Rosie Hamilton Henson, who survives. He has no surviving children.

Funeral rites were conducted Friday at 10 a.m. from the Hi Hat United Baptist Church, the Revs. Hershell Hamilton, Woodrow Dyer, Irvin Breeding and Trip Hall officiating. Burial was made in the Newsom cemetery at Hi Hat under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Mrs. Polly Wallen, 71, Melvin, Dies Sunday; Burial Made At Ivel

Mrs. Polly Ann Wallen, 71, of Melvin, died Sunday at 3:15 a.m. at the McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital following a short illness. She was the wife of Will Wallen, who survives.

Mrs. Wallen was a native of Knott county and had resided in the section for 38 years. She was a member of the United Baptist Church.

Surviving, besides her husband, are one son and two daughters: Buster Wallen, Columbus, Ohio, Mrs. May Osborne, of Melvin, and Mrs. Brinnie Branham, Prestonsburg. Two brothers and four sisters survive: Hargis Pigman, Byrd Pigman, and Mrs. Brinnie Baldridge, all of Prestonsburg, Mrs. Myrtle McGuire, Ypsilanti, Michigan, Mrs. Nancy McGuire, Mt. Sterling, and Mrs. Ora Horpe, in Indiana. Surviving are 10 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday at noon from the home, ministers of the United Baptist Church officiating. Burial was made in the Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel under the direction of Merion Funeral Chapel.

AREA COUNCIL TO MEET

The Big Sandy Area Council will meet Monday, January 20, 6 p.m., at the Paintsville Country Club, Sam Evans of the Department of Economic Security will be present to discuss the new training program for Eastern Kentucky.

UNEMPLOYED FATHER AID IS PURPOSE

New Project Approved For Seven Counties; Registration Begins

A six-month demonstration project approved for Floyd and six other Eastern Kentucky counties may make the future a bit brighter for unemployed fathers and step-fathers now living with families which include school-children under 18 years of age.

State Economic Security Commissioner Earle V. Powell announced in Frankfort last Thursday that fathers and step-fathers in this category may apply, beginning Monday of this week, for subsistence benefits under a new $1 million program.

Powell said the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has approved the program for Breathitt, Floyd, Knott, Leslie, Letcher, Perry and Pike counties in another effort to help Eastern Kentucky.

The new project is an experimental extension of an existing program under aid to families with dependent children (ADC). Heretofore, the program had provided aid only when the father or step-father was absent or physically unable to work.

Powell said that field supervisors of the Economic Security Department's division of public assistance had been briefed and that applications for the benefits would be received at local public assistance offices in the counties involved.

Powell cautioned that applicants should review their situations carefully with public assistance workers before deciding to apply for the aid.

Some of the features of the program are:

- (1) The unemployed father or step-father of a needy child must have been without regular full-time employment for 90 days prior to the date of application;
- (2) He must not be self-employed and not drawing or eligible for unemployment insurance benefits;
- (3) He must not be physically incapacitated for work and must be currently registered with the State Employment Service as a work applicant;
- (4) He must not have refused to accept such employment or

IT WAS CARL PERKINS DAY, said President Johnson when he signed the vocational education bill which the Kentucky Congressman steered through the House. So Congressman Perkins took the occasion to welcome some Eastern Kentucky friends to the White House for the event. Watching President Johnson are, from left, Congressman Perkins, Mayor George P. Archer, of Prestonsburg, County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill and County Judge Henry Stumbo.

POWER FIRM PLANS TRANSMISSION LINE

Kentucky Power Company will build a high-voltage transmission line spanning 23 miles from its Big Sandy Plant, near Louisville, to a new station to be built at Thelma, near Paintsville, it was announced Wednesday.

The new 138,000-volt line and related work will offer additional capacity and improved services in the Paintsville-Prestonsburg-Salyersville areas in Floyd, Johnson and Magoffin counties, and will act as another alternate supply of power for the area.

Total cost of the program is estimated at $14 million by F. M. Baker, vice-president and general manager of Kentucky Power, who made the announcement. He said the new facilities will take about a year to complete.

"The significance of this major expansion," Mr. Baker said, "is that Kentucky Power is anticipating an accelerated growth in the region. This new transmission system represents our belief in the continued development of this area's potential."

The new Thelma station will operate in conjunction with Kentucky Power's Beaver Creek and Betsy Layne high-voltage stations. The station also will step down voltages from 138,000 to 69,000 and 46,000 for transmission throughout the local areas.

Mr. Baker explained that the major phases of the work represented the installation of switching equipment at the Big Sandy Plant, the erection of the 138,000-volt line from the plant to Thelma station, erection of Thelma station with its transformers, switching equipment and related facilities, and the erection of about two miles of 46,000-volt lines from Thelma station to Paintsville.

The area is presently served by Kentucky Power Company's 46,000-volt stations at Allen, Falcon, Middle Creek, Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

Although the main industrial activity in the region is coal mining, Kentucky Power is working with towns to attract light and medium manufacturing plants. Several sites in the Big Sandy River area have been optioned by locally-formed industrial corporations as part of an industrial development program.

PIPE OR CIGARETTES? ..MOST CHOOSE PIPE

Pipe sales were up and cigarettes sales were off in Prestonsburg Monday when stores reopened after the report of the Surgeon-General's committee of scientists linked cigarette smoking to the high incidence of lung cancer. One retailer sent a hurry-up order for more pipes.

A man-on-the-street survey made by The Times found most cigarette smokers with positive opinions on use of the weed. Most agreed that smoking was a health hazard, a few who continued to smoke were doing so a bit defensively but several reacted firmly with the statement that they had to die of something anyway.

The question posed by The Times was, "You have read or heard discussed the Surgeon-General's committee report—now what do you propose to do?" Typical comment follows:

Darwin Patton, bank teller: "I think definitely a man should quit. I'm trying."

Thurman Hughes, automobile dealer: "I've quit and gone to a pipe."

Clifford Wright, jeweler: "I'm thinking about getting my pipe out and renewing an old acquaintance."

Curtis Clark, city manager: "I'm slowing down on cigarettes and trying to quit. I believe with a proper educational program the younger generation won't start to smoke."

Hershell Warrens, ex-sheriff: "I haven't made a decision. I'm still smoking."

Willard Burchett: "Everybody is going to pipes. In the next 60 days they will be manufacturing jeweled pipes for the ladies."

Dr. Edward B. Leslie, dentist: "I smoke a few but don't inhale. I'm going to quit."

Allen Stone, insurance agent: "I've quit smoking cigarettes. Period."

James Meade, retired contractor: "I've smoked 50 years. I'm going to smoke on."

Wesley Howard: "I've already quit. I've been smoking a pipe since August."

Bryant DeRossett: "I'm going to a pipe. A man is foolish to smoke something that'll kill him."

Henry Stephens, former county official: "I'm going to smoke until I get ready to quit."

Mrs. Mary Irene McIntosh, court reporter: "I'm continuing to smoke."

Julian Scalf, construction worker: "I've quit. Today, Saturday. I've quit, period."

Good Citizens, Not Cynics,
Are Needed

THE TIMES published, with a sense of deep satisfaction, the statements made last week by new circuit court officials upon beginning their terms of office.
Until they show by their official acts that those statements were only so many words, we will accept their expressions of policy and intent at their face value.

THE one deals with a basic need for enforcement of a law, a measure which is the key to putting a stop to this infamous bootlegging business in which so many are profitably engaged. The other establishes a vital part of court machinery, the juries, without which all other enforcement efforts are brought to naught.

The Civil War in Kentucky
By JOE JORDAN
(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

Gov. Thomas E. Bramlette, who had been making a desperate but not very successful effort to rid Kentucky of guerrilla bands that were preying upon the citizens, robbing Union and Confederate sympathizers impartially, sent a discouraging message to the legislature 100 years ago this week.

The angling expert usually avoids the shoreline, the vicinity of islands and large beds of weeds showing on the surface and other such obvious places that are whipped to death with lures by the less expert.

These troops have been ordered out of the state and none provided to supply the defense which they gave us. As it is evident that we cannot rely upon forces raised under the Act of Congress to serve in Kentucky, and as the despatch of our horses must follow upon the removal of these forces, it devolves upon you to provide for the speedy organization of a state force which will not be subject to such capricious action."

Aid Magazine. "No, I don't imagine I'm towing a water skier I'm 'wasting' a lot of time or great future profits in it to be caught."

"At whether the water is calm, not, if you see me trolling patiently by the hour, out in very deep water where there are very well be any bass, do tap your head and shake it off. If the hooks of my lure, fished quite deep, hang just off in some weeds or stones—in an artificial lake, on such a brush—showing the right kind of shoal for fish, I've again made a highly profitable investment of my time."

If you can cover as few as three or four spots out in a near-home key that you can explore thoroughly, you can usually, by making the rounds of them at time out, actually catch more bass, more regularly, than you would on what's really a much better lake in far-off resort country—but one that you can't learn well.

NEW HIGHWAY MILEAGE NOTED BY HENRY WARD

During 1963, the Kentucky Highway Department opened 235.5 miles of interstate highways and parkways to traffic. Highway Commissioner Henry Ward has announced.

Included in this mileage are 127 miles of the Western Kentucky Parkway, a 33-mile segment of the Mountain Parkway and 75.5 miles of interstates.

With the opening of the Western and Mountain parkways, Kentucky has only one to complete—the Central Kentucky Parkway from Elizabethtown to Versailles which the Department expects to let to contract next spring of 1964.

The following review of Kentucky's eight interstates and three parkways gives a complete picture of this 1,000-mile network:

Interstate 24 is awaiting approval by the Federal Bureau of Public Roads in Washington. The proposed route begins at the Tennessee border in southwestern Kentucky, passes west of Hopkinsville, connects with the Western Kentucky Parkway at Princeton and then extends to Paducah where it will cross the Ohio River into Illinois.

The Western Kentucky Parkway extending 127 miles from Elizabethtown to Princeton, was opened to traffic in late 1963. The project was financed with the proceeds from a $118 million bond issue.

Fifty-nine miles of I-65, from Louisville to Upton, are open to traffic. (Thirty-eight miles of this highway from Louisville to Elizabethtown are known as the Kentucky Turnpike.) A section through downtown Louisville (part of the North-South Expressway) and the John F. Kennedy Memorial Bridge, which links Louisville and Jeffersonville, Indiana, were recently dedicated and opened to traffic. Estimated to cost $115 million, I-65 will extend 137 miles from the Kennedy Bridge southward to the Tennessee border.

With the recent sale of bonds, the entire 72-mile Central Kentucky Parkway will be let for construction in the spring of 1964. Estimated at a cost of $70 million, this modern four-lane highway will join I-65 and the Western Kentucky Parkway near Elizabethtown and extend to US 60 near Versailles.

Interstate 64, estimated to cost $255 million, will begin at the completed Sherman Minton Bridge between Louisville and New Albany, Indiana, and extend to the West Virginia border, a distance of 192 miles.

Those sections which are open include a 40-mile segment from Middletown to US 60 east of Frankfort and a 31-mile section from near Lexington to east of Mt. Sterling.

Under construction is an 11-mile segment of I-64 in northeast Kentucky from the Big Sandy River in Boyd county to the Carter county line. This portion of I-64 is expected to be open to traffic by fall, 1964. Also, 6.3 miles between the Outer Loop and the Watterson Expressway in Jefferson county are being built.

Interstate 264, known to Louisvillians as the Watterson Expressway, is presently a 14-mile metropolitan route circling Louisville that begins at Shively and extends eastward to US 42.

This project ultimately will tie in with I-64 near the Sherman Minton Bridge in west Louisville and then stretch 22.5 miles to I-71 on the east side. I-264, in connecting with these two interstates plus I-65 and again with I-64 will establish an eastern, western, north-south and river-side expressway system that will handle Louisville's present and future heavy volume of traffic.

Right-of-way is being obtained for the remaining 8.5 miles of I-264. Bituminous emergency lanes were added to the existing mileage in 1962.

Although some right-of-way has been acquired, Interstate 71 is mainly in the planning stages. This 77-mile travel route, approved by the Bureau of Public Roads in 1962, will reach from I-234 near Louisville to I-75 at Walton, south of the Cincinnati-Covington area.

The second longest interstate— I-75, will extend 136 miles from the new Brent Spence Bridge which connects Covington and Cincinnati, southward through the heart of Kentucky to the Kentucky-Tennessee border town of Jellico. Estimated cost is $240 million.

Sections open to traffic are: 86 miles from Covington to near Richmond including the Clays Ferry Bridge and four miles from Saxton in Whitley county to the Tennessee line.

Portions of I-75 now under construction include: a six-mile section from US 60 to Athens Boonesboro Road in Fayette county; 2.6 miles from near Richmond to the Barnes Mill Road in Madison county and about three miles from Saxton to near Pleasant View in Whitley county.

Interstate 275, added to Kentucky's system by the Bureau of Public Roads in 1963, will extend around the Cincinnati area. Beginning at a recently proposed Ohio River bridge at California, Ohio, Kentucky's 24 miles will extend through Campbell, Kenton and Boone counties to another planned bridge across the Ohio near Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

Interstate 471, a proposed six mile, four-lane spur from I-275 in Campbell county through Newport to Cincinnati, is in the planning stage and awaiting approval of the Bureau of Public Roads.

The Mountain Parkway begins at I-64 near Winchester and extends 76 miles to Salversville via Campton. The 43-mile stretch from Winchester to Campton was opened to traffic in late 1962 and the 33 miles from Campton to Salversville were put in use November 1, 1963.

One-hundred-twenty-six miles of modern, two-lane extension with additional lanes on hills and curves for passing, will be constructed to connect with the Mountain Parkway. One section will extend from Salversville to Pikeville via Prestonsburg and the other segment will connect at Campton and extend south and then east to Whitesburg by way of Hazard. Both sections will be toll free, whereas, tolls will be charged on the 76-mile Parkway.

Work on the extensions is under way from Combs to Hazard, from Campton to Van Cleve and from Jackson to Quicksand.

A three-mile stretch from Ky. 114 to Prestonsburg and 3.7 miles from Van Cleve to Jackson are now in use.

When completed, the 76-mile Mountain Parkway and 126 miles of two-lane connecting extensions will unite eastern and central Kentucky with 202 miles of modern highways.

The Kentucky Highway Department hopes to have all 275 miles of parkways and 734 miles of interstates open to the public ahead of the 1972 deadline, Ward said.

Music Plans Camp Facilities on Tract On Stratton Branch

Frank Music said this week that he plans to make available private camping facilities on a tract of land which he owns on Stratton Branch, a short distance from Dewey Lake.

He indicated 20 campsites, prepared and equipped to modern standards, will be made ready for the coming season and that further development of the tract may be made later. A small store to supply the needs of campers is also planned, Music added.

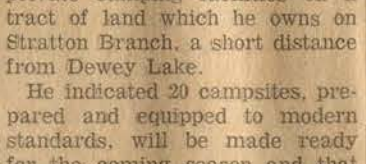

He owns approximately 40 acres of land on Stratton Branch, adjacent to the site of the shelter house there. An earlier attempt to sell lots for building purposes was thwarted by the Prestonsburg zoning ordinance.

FFC. ROBERTS ON OKINAWA

Fort Buckner, Okinawa—Army Pfc. James D. Roberts, 22, whose wife, Dora, lives at Grethel, Kentucky, and his unit, Battery B of the 61st Missile Battalion's 2nd Missile Battalion, completed a practice missile shoot, in late December, on Okinawa.

The annual practice shoot allows the unit to maintain their practical proficiency in the use of their weapons which are employed in the defense of Okinawa. The missiles were launched at Pilotless drone aircraft flying far out at sea.

Roberts entered the Army in August, 1962, received basic training at Fort Knox, Kentucky, and arrived on Okinawa in March, 1963.

He is a 1960 graduate of Betsy Layne high school. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harmel C. Roberts, live in Amba.

Household equipment specialists of USDA's Agricultural Research Service now have some of the answers to this question of correct ironing temperatures. The recommendations were worked out by ironing each fabric under a wide range of temperatures, beginning with a high setting—400 degrees or higher—then decreasing it at 25 degree intervals, and noting the effects of the different temperatures on the fabric.

JFK LIBRARY FUNDS ASKED

Floyd Group Named In Drive To Construct West Liberty Memorial

The planned drive to raise $20,000 to build a library at West Liberty to honor the late John F. Kennedy will get under way Monday, it is announced. Personnel of the Department of Libraries and regional librarians, with Mrs. Margaret Willis presiding, met Thursday of last week at Frankfort to complete planning for the fund-raising event.

The drive to raise the Floyd county fund quota, the amount indefinite, will be under the direction of Richmond Stone, J. E. Goble and Mrs. W. W. Burchett. Donations may be made to the librarian here or to the Friends of Kentucky Libraries, Department of Libraries, Frankfort, Kentucky. Contributions are tax deductible. The statewide effort is headed by Former Attorney-General John Breckinridge.

West Liberty was selected for the site of the library to be known as the John F. Kennedy Appalachian Memorial Library because the county does not have an adequate library program.

Plans and suggestions set for the fund drive follow:

1. The drive to be officially opened Monday by Breckinridge and Governor Edward Breathitt will continue through National Library Week, April 12-18.

2. A loose-leaf book will contain all the names of donors and will be sent to Mrs. John F. Kennedy and afterward returned for deposit in the library.

3. Friends of Kentucky Libraries will issue a special citation for each generous gift.

4. Plans call for drives in county schools through clubs and other organizations. A glass jar for contributions will be placed in each local library and on bookmobiles with a donor sheet to sign.

5. Newspaper and radio publicity will be utilized and a tape made by Mrs. Joy Bale will be played over four regional radio stations.

Robert J. Wallace, regional librarian here, in commenting on the drive to build the memorial institution at West Liberty, noted that benefits to one library aid all other libraries in the state. "Since the beginning of the library program in Kentucky in 1954," Wallace said, "we have been the constant recipients of money and gifts in the form of books from all over the state. Now is our opportunity to give back a small portion where it will do the most good."

PLAIN WATER
Just plain water is one of the major ingredients of food. Man's first attempts at food preservation were to dry meats and fruits in the sun until their water content was so low that spoilage organisms could not grow. Ever since then, food scientists have been trying to find better ways of removing the water from food in such a way that it could be put back again without changing the flavor, color, odor, texture, or nutritional quality of the food.

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN MEET, JAN. 7

The Presbyterian Women's Society met at the Church, January 7, at 7:30 p.m., Mrs. Allan Reed, the new president, presiding. Mrs. J. E. Goble was the hostess. The opening prayer was for missionaries in Egypt. Mrs. Ray Howard accepted the offering of the "Least Coin". A letter regarding the Universal Least Coin offering was read from missionaries, thanking the Society for its part in the gift offering. Mrs. F. L. Heinze reported on the Christmas Needy box of clothing. She presented the program on the topic, "Pictures of the People of God," assisted by Mrs. Frank Layne, Mrs. Fred James, Mrs. Ray Howard and Miss Mary E. Powers.

The meeting was closed with a worship service. Mrs. Goble, the hostess, served the group with dessert, mints and coffee. Members present were Mesdames Allan Reed, F. L. Heinze, Ray Howard, Fred James, T. W. Chisholm, Ernest Osborne, Harvey Howard, James Lafferty, Everett H. Sowards, Rainley White, Holly Starr, Frank H. Layne, Miss Mary E. Powers and Mrs. Mary Ford Howard, El Paso, Texas, a guest.

SHOWING OF SPRING MERCHANDISE

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. John Warrick, Mr. and Mrs. James Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Turner and daughter, Teresa, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pettrey, Mr. and Mrs. Smith Bradley, Mrs. Eva Hyden, Mrs. Theckley Short, Miss Burieta Gearheart, Mrs. Lowe.

ENTERTAINS RELATIVES

Mrs. Grover Lowe was hostess to nieces and nephews on January 6 at her home here with a dinner. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wallace, and daughter, Jane Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Wallace and son, Kenny, Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Tackett, Jr., and son, Robert Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wallace and Mrs. Lowe.

DAUGHTER BORN

Capt. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Verley are announcing the birth of a daughter, their second child, on January 6, at Montgomery, Alabama. She has been named Elissa Lee. Mrs. Verley is the former Jane Carol Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ford, of Prestonsburg.

HONORED WITH DINNER

Mrs. Jerry Stephens was honored at a birthday dinner, given by friends on January 7 at 6 o'clock at the Wise Cafe, on North Lake Drive. Covers were laid for Mrs. Stephens, Mesdames Bill Pettrey, John Warrick, Theckley Short, James Allen, Grover Lowe, Mrs. Eva Hyden, Mrs. Rebecca Rasnick, and Miss Burieta Gearheart. Following dinner they assembled at Mrs. Stephens' home for dessert and an hour of fellowship, which was followed by presentation and opening of her many gifts.

GRADE SCHOOL P.T.A. MEETS

The Prestonsburg grade school P.T.A. met Thursday of last week. Rev. W. D. Jagers gave the invocation. The treasurer's report showed over $400 was on hand to meet current expenses. The president, Mrs. G. L. Shannon, announced that the Junior Woman's Club would soon issue a check to the P.T.A. for $400 to be deposited as a special fund for the gymnasium building. The special ways and means project for this year will be an all-male comedy skit scheduled to be presented January 30. Mrs. Kathryn Frazier will be in charge. Marshall Davidson reported for the safety committee. He said the police department had taken no action to protect children who cross Lake Drive in the morning. He said that he would appear at the next Council meeting to urge action. Mrs. Lillian Watson won first place in the room count with 18 parents present. Mrs. Margaret Collins took second place with 17 parents attending. Ollie Robinson spoke on his experiences at the state legislature. He urged citizens to write our representatives to let them know how P.T.A. members feel on the various bills presented. Refreshments were furnished by the fifth grade mothers.

CLUB AIDS P.T.A. BUILDING FUND

Mrs. Clifford B. Latta (right), president of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club, is shown presenting a check for $400 to Mrs. George Lee Shannon, president of the grade school Parent-Teacher Association here, to swell the P.T.A. physical education building fund.

The building formerly occupied by the vocational shop on Lake Drive here has been given the P.T.A. by the Floyd County Board of Education, but funds must be raised to defray the expense of dismantling, moving and re-erecting the structure on the grade school grounds.

Mrs. Shannon said this week that to raise additional funds the Parent-Teacher group will stage a variety show, January 30, with rehearsals scheduled for Tuesday, January 21 and 28, under the direction of Mrs. Kathryn Frazier. All men who are members of the P.T.A. or who are interested in the building venture are being urged to appear for rehearsals and to take part in the fund-raising show.

JUDGE PRUITT, SPEAKER

County Judge Ervin S. Pruitt, of Pike county, was the guest-speaker Tuesday evening at the meeting of the Martin Kiwanis Club. Judge Pruitt spoke on the Boy Scouts of America and of some of the world travels of Scouts.

GOSSIP TOWN

Somebody once wrote the verses which follow. The name of the author has been lost to us. It isn't great poetry, but we like the thought it expresses so much that we break a long-standing policy of rejecting any and all verse submitted for publication. They call it "Gossip Town," and its lines run, as follows:

Have you ever heard of Gossip Town
On the shore of Falsehood Bay
Where Old Dame Rumor, with rustling gown,
Is going the livelong day?

It isn't far to Gossip Town
For people who want to go:
The Idleness Train will take you down
In just an hour or so.

The Thoughtless Road is a popular route
And most folks start that way.
But its steep down-grade, if you don't look out,
Will land you in Falsehood Bay.

You glide through the Valley of Vicious Talk,
Turn into the Tunnel of Hate,
Then, crossing the Add-To Bridge,
You walk right into the city gate.

The principal street is called,
They Say,
And I've Heard is the public
well,
And the breezes that blow from
Falsehood Bay
Are laden with Don't You Tell.

In the midst of the town is Telltale Park,
You're never quite safe while
there;
For its owner is Madam
Suspicious Remark,
Who lives on the street, Don't Care.

Just back of the park is Slander
Row—
'Twas there that Good Name died,
Pierced by a shaft from
Jealousy's bow,
In the hands of Envious Pride.

From Gossip Town peace long since fled,
But trouble and grief and woe
And sorrow and care, you'll meet instead,
If ever you chance to go.

But it is not healthy in Gossip
Town,
And I would not follow you
there—
I would rather live on
Thanksgiving Street,
In the house that is called All
Prayer.

PRIMEVAL BIG SANDY DRAINED VAST AREA OF MID-CONTINENT

By HENRY P. SCALF

Last fall, due to the lack of rain, many wells in the Justell section of Floyd county dried up and Richard Moles, with the help of a neighbor, began to dig in the soft clay and river alluvia several yards back from the main stream.

Down, down they dug until they were approximately 22 feet deep. At that depth Moles pushed a shovel into the soft and gravel-free soil. Coming up with the earth he started to throw it into the bucket on the end of the windlass that took the loads to the surface when he saw two unusual stones on the shovel.

Moles had seen stones like that before on the headstreams of the river but nobody had ever seen any this far downstream. He examined them closely, hefted them in his hands, noting that neither weighed over a pound. Bringing them to the surface he kept both as souvenirs.

Being no geologist, Moles didn't know those stones tell much of the misty past to those learned in such things. They had been broken from a rock formation back in the Roan Mountain section of Western North Carolina and rolled for hundreds of miles and millions of years in the bed of the primeval Big Sandy River.

The stones were large when they started on their journey, weighing perhaps hundreds of pounds for the river pounded them mercilessly as they slowly drifted through the ages. Some years, perhaps for decades or hundreds of years, the sluggish stream not having enough water to shove them along. Again they were stricken with the mighty impact of great water and pushed farther along in the stream bed. Always they lost weight for erosion is a mighty weapon of nature.

Finally, after millions of years, the stones, worn down to a fraction of the size with which they started, on their journey, came to rest in the soft alluvia of the river. Sand and earth and river debris covered them and they lay quiet. Over them the mighty river slowly shifted its bed.

Many of these quartzite boulders, stream-worn and eratic, are found in southern Pike county on the Russell Fork. A few have been found on the present Licking River, borne there when there was no Licking and when the Big Sandy was young and mighty.

These stones tell a story to geologists and through their medium much of the geologic history of the river is learned. Dr. Willard Kouse Jilison, one-time Prestonsburg resident and state geologist, first saw their significance and began to fit their puzzling presence in the Big Sandy into the story of the primeval river.

There was but one place those stones could have come from, Jilison reasoned, and that was the present Roan Mountain section of Western North Carolina. There many rock formations are quartzite and undoubtedly parent Middle Cambrian beds of the eroded stones on the Big Sandy River. Patiently, he put together the geologic history of a stream that has steadily decreased until it is only a fraction of its earlier size.

The Big Sandy valley sandstones, shales, coals and a few limestones belong to the Pennsylvanian age with only the exception of rock formations of the Mississippian and Devonian age which were thrown up millions of years ago by the Pine Mountain Thrust Fault. For countless ages sediment was deposited in the vast area until they reached a height of several thousand feet in the southeast, now the Black Mountain region. When the Pennsylvanian age ended coal had been formed throughout the Appalachians.

The Pennsylvanian age merged with the Appalachian Revolution, a period of time when a vast interior continental area which included nearly all of Kentucky was rising in one giant uplift. As Jilison says, there was "emergence and erosion, depression and sedimentation in cyclic sequence."

However, facing this newborn area was the upper Big Sandy River region, much greater in extent than now. The river flowed to the north and northwest over a great plain. Headstreams were in the western parts of Virginia, North Carolina and Eastern Tennessee. These streams drained right up to the edge of what geologists call Lost Appalachia, which extended on a broad front from Newfoundland to Florida, the West Indies and South America. This early and giant Big Sandy River emptied its waters into the Gulf of Mexico near the vicinity of the present Cairo, Ill., many geologists are convinced.

The course of the primeval Big Sandy River from its origin in Western North Carolina to where it emptied into the Gulf of Mexico jutting into the center of the continent was somewhat different then. It flowed along the course of the present Licking River, there being no Licking then, nor Ohio River, either. Swinging mightily up into the region of southwestern Ohio, it turned westward into the present state of Indiana. Here its course is disputed. Many geologists say it entered the Gulf of Mexico but others think it entered a vast water depositary in the present Great Lakes Basin by way of the present Lake Erie.

And just why are geologists inclined to dispute where the stream ended and not the origin of the stream? The answer lies in the Ice Age. Glaciation creeping slowly down from the north covered half of the continent, erased lakes, rivers, mountains, swamps. It crept inexorably southward, throwing waters flowing from the south and southeast back upon their drainage areas. A mighty new stream, greater even than the primeval Big Sandy was created by this glaciation. This was the Ohio River.

These changes were not sudden, however. They took place over millions of years. The Big Sandy, in this dim and misty past, suffered three large transverse cuttings. The first was a beheading of its upper tributaries by the Clinch and Bluestone rivers, this geological piracy carrying away to the northwest about 75 miles of the headstream. Downstream, approximately 150 miles, the Paint Creek Uplift occurred in the present counties of Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Morgan, and Lawrence. This crustal disturbance changed the entire middle imprint of the stream. Thirdly, the final, huge piracy was the lopping off of its lower course by the newly-created Ohio River.

The Paint Creek Uplift, slowly evolving on the face of the land, shunted the major drainage stream to the northeast, forcing the Levisa and Tug forks, which had heretofore been separate, to join. The present Big Sandy began to emerge but it had accentuated differences then as compared to its present form. In its middle course there was no close meandering and sharply entrenched characteristics. It was young and slowly etching out its bed.

Great topographical changes occurred slowly in the headstream area in the recesses of geologic time. Only a geologist can explain them intelligently and we quote Dr. Jilison, in his volume, THE BIG SANDY VALLEY:

"Along the Kentucky-Virginia line the Pine Mountain was slowly taking anticlinal figure, but in the soft surface sediments of that period its structural outline was at first but slightly reflected in the topography, if at all. The major drainage crossed this embryo mountain of elevation at the Breaks of Sandy and at Pound Gap without difficulty. Minor streams also undoubtedly crossed it at many a point long since effaced by the tireless hand of erosion. Ages passed. The Pine Mountain fold grew in figure as pressures exerted by the mountain-making forces in the southeast continued. Finally it became an overturned anticline and

BIG WEEK-END

Weather permitting, Floyd county basketball swings into high-gear this week-end as six games are scheduled for Friday night and four are on tap for Saturday night.

The Blaine Wildcats, with one of the region's best records at 14-2, move into Prestonsburg Friday night and on to Wayland Saturday night. Fleming County, of the tenth region, stops off in McDowell Friday and at Betsy Layne, Saturday.

Wheelwright clashes with Carr Creek at Hindman, Friday, and is at home to Lexington Lafayette, Saturday.

Next Tuesday, Prestonsburg and McDowell meet in a single game in the local gymnasium. The anticipated double-header with Wheelwright to meet Paintsville was nullified by the Paintsville Board of Education which wanted the game to remain in Paintsville.

John Campbell's Garrett Black Devils zoomed into seventh place in Tuesday's statewide high school basketball ratings. Wheelwright, 15th last week, moved up two notches to 13th place. At this particular time it is customary for all Louisville schools to take the leading positions in the ratings to insure better attendance for the annual Louisville Invitational tournament next week.

Paintsville was the first Eastern Kentucky school to reject a bid for the L.I.T., then Ashland turned one down, before Wheelwright accepted. Had Wheelwright refused, Garrett was next in line, according to members of the selection committee.

Wheelwright (15-0) will meet Louisville Manual (3-6) in the final game of the first round of the Louisville Invitational next Thursday at 8:45 p.m. St. Xavier, possibly the best team in Louisville, will meet the Wheelwright-Manual winner at 4:45 p.m., Friday.

Don Wallen's charges should handle Manual without too much trouble, if the loose Jefferson County officiating does not conflict too-much with the strict Eastern Kentucky officiating. Irv Spencer, one of last season's 15th region tournament officials and a Morehead State College graduate, will be one of the refs in the L.I.T.

Floyd county fans planning to attend the tournament can see the semi-finals of the L.I.T. at 10 a.m. and 11:30 a.m., then leave Freedom Hall for lunch and return to the Eastern State College-University of Louisville game at 2:30 p.m. Following an evening meal, the finals can be seen back in Freedom Hall at 8. Carr Creek is the defending champion.

Pete Grigsby's McDowell Daredevils have been the most surprising team in Floyd county this season, as the regional runner-up lost four starters last year and this was figured to be a rebuilding season for the Left Beaver school. The former Martin all-stater and Kentucky Wesleyan graduate, has seen his young charges roll to 12 victories. Last week in the Henry county invitational tournament at Newcastle, they gave an excellent account of themselves as they battled to the finals of the tourney where they lost a three-point decision to Oldham County.

Maytown's crack scorer and all-around athlete, Bob Talent, added 39 and 44 points in two games last week to raise his season's output to 444 points in 11 games for a 40.3 individual game mark, best in the 15th region and probably the best in the state.

Oldham Co. Wins Henry Tournament

Newcastle, Ky.—Bobby Jenkins' field goal with 51 seconds left in the game gave Oldham County the needed margin to down McDowell 58-55 in the finals of the second annual Henry County Invitational basketball tournament.

Jenkins' fielder supplied the Colonels with a 57-54 lead and Pete Wright added a free throw to clinch the win.

Oldham County streaked to an 8-0 lead. But the Dare Devils gamely fought back to narrow the count to three at the quarter stop, 13-10. McDowell continued its comeback and tied the score at 29-29 as the half ended.

Former Resident Loses Pocketbook At Laundry; $25 Reward Is Offered

Mrs. Mary I. Patton, a former resident of this county but now of Grand River, Ohio, is offering a $25 reward for the return of $186 taken from her pocketbook while she and her husband, SP/4 Roger Dean Patton, were at a self-service laundry here Monday evening.

The pocketbook, minus the money, but containing personal papers, was found the next afternoon near the laundry. The cash was the proceeds of a check Mrs. Patton cashed earlier in the day.

Mrs. Patton says whoever got the money may keep the $25 reward and call 836-2883 or write her at Box 153, Grand River, Ohio.

CHEVY-VAN!

Chevrolet's new low-cost quality delivery truck!

This introduces you to Chevy-Van—our new economy delivery truck.

It has a low price tag, over 40 sq. ft. of completely usable flat floor 7½ ft. long, the engine up front, and a lot of quality features which make it a better buy. The body and frame-floor are welded together. The truck is strong, rigid, stable. Doors are double-wall construction.

Chevy-Van has unusual resistance to rust and corrosion. Especially vulnerable areas such as front stepwells are galvanized. Sealers are used at all critical joints inside and out. Certain sections are treated with high-zinc-content primers; others with an aluminum-wax preservative.

The windshield is a big flat practical one-piece unit. The big 90-hp 4-cylinder standard engine is more powerful than some 6s, yet is remarkably economical. If you need more power, Chevy-Van offers a 120-hp six at extra cost. Side doors and rear windows also cost extra.

Last but not least, it's a Chevrolet. Which means that it is built to work for you a long time at minimum cost.

Ordinance Providing for the Simultaneous Presentation of Water, Sewer, and Sanitation Bills, and Providing for Discontinuance of Services On Default in the Payment of the Bill for Any One Service.

WHEREAS, the Water, Gas, Sewage, and Sanitation Departments have been charged with the obligation and responsibility of furnishing sewage disposal, sanitation and garbage disposal service, and the responsibility, expense, obligation, and cost of operation of said services, and for the responsibility of the payment of interest and principle on bond issues which are now the obligation of the commissions and departments and which provides funds for the construction, maintenance, and operation of the services provided to the people; and

WHEREAS, the obligation of providing water, gas, sewage, sanitation, and other related services to the people are each closely related to the general welfare, health, and protection of the lives and property of the people of Prestonsburg; and

WHEREAS, the failure of any one of the services constitutes a hazard to the welfare and health of the people, and constitutes a hindrance to the protection of the lives of the citizens and customers of the City of Prestonsburg, and that the continued operation of said services are of the utmost interest to the said citizens.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL THAT: SECTION 1. All bills for water, gas, sewage, sanitation, and other public services connected therewith be presented simultaneously each month to all citizens and customers of the City of Prestonsburg, and be consolidated on one bill which shall itemize each separate item of charge.

SECTION 2. (a) Be it further ordained that all bills for water, gas, sewage, and sanitation services shall be paid by the final date shown on said bills, and all accounts not paid in full by such date shall be subject to immediate discontinuance of all services furnished by the Water, Gas, Sewage, and Sanitation Departments, which service will be resumed only upon payment of the account in full, plus a charge of five dollars ($5.00) per each service for reconnection and resumption of service.

(b) When it has been necessary under the provisions of this ordinance to disconnect a consumer for nonpayment upon reconnection of the service and the payment of the fee set out above, the consumer shall also be required to put up a deposit covering and equal to an average monthly bill calculated on the basis of a twelve months average bill to the premises served.

SECTION 3. (a) Be it further ordained that the Water, Gas, Sewage, and Sanitation Departments are hereby ordained and directed to discontinue services of furnishing water, gas, sewage, and sanitation services to any customer who is in default on the payment of the charges set forth on the bill on any one or more of the charges set forth for such service.

(b) No consumer shall be permitted to give or sell water, gas, or any other service furnished by the City to any other resident or consumer. Upon violation of this provision, the service will be disconnected.

SECTION 4. Be it specifically further ordained that the Ordinance providing for the collection of services rendered by the City as set out herein above be amended to the extent set out herein and no further.

SECTION 5. Any ordinance or parts of ordinances conflicting herewith are hereby repealed to the extent of such conflict and no further.

SECTION 6. Be it further ordained that this Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its adoption, approval, and publication as provided by law.

ADOPTED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY, at a meeting held on the 6 day of January, 1964.

Allen Lion's Club Has Christmas Treat

Monday night, December 23, at the Allen "Y," Santa Claus passed out a candy and fruit treat to the children of the community. The scene was that of a Christmas post card, with an eight-inch snow piled high and Santa passing out treats while standing under a brilliantly lit 42-foot Christmas tree.

This Christmas project offered much fun for the children as well as parents and members of the Lion's Club, and promises to become an annual event.

AREA MINERS PICKET LBJ; PARADE IN WASHINGTON

Roving pickets from Perry and other Southeastern Kentucky counties picketed the White House Tuesday with banners proclaiming "Social Injustice," "We Want Jobs, Now," and other slogans.

Led by Berman Gibson, of Hazard, their spokesman, the pickets paraded in a short circle for an hour along the pavement directly in front of the Pennsylvania Avenue entrance to the White House.

Inside, President Lyndon B. Johnson was entertaining at a luncheon for about 40 members of the AFL-CIO Executive Committee.

Gibson, the volatile leader of the picketing that erupted in Eastern Kentucky in late 1962, carried a sign saying: "We Want Food, Jobs and Justice Now!"

Another banner pleaded: "Speak To Us—LBJ."

The pickets, consisting mostly of unemployed coal miners, tried unsuccessfully Tuesday morning to obtain an audience with the President to voice their displeasure with economic conditions in the mountain coalfields of Eastern Kentucky.

One sign took a dig at the United Mine Workers of America, which has its international headquarters in Washington. The sign, "We Banked On The Union, But The Union Banked," was an obvious slur recalling that while the union has abandoned the mountain coalfields, it owns a major bank in the nation's capital.

Most of the 28 pickets in the parade were members or former members of the U.M.W.A. The miners' picket line attracted but nominal attention from Washingtonians, most of whom are long accustomed to seeing the White House picketed by one group or another.

Eight metropolitan police kept the picket line orderly. While the pickets marched, members of the Committee for Miners, a New York group, handed out leaflets that pleaded for help for the unemployed miners of Southeastern Kentucky.

The miners, most of them from Perry county, arrived Monday night, after a 12-hour bus trip from Hazard.

Earlier Tuesday, they met with an adviser for the House subcommittee on labor to express their support for the federal small-mines bill now before Congress. The bill, which is opposed by small mine operators, would bring all coal mines under the jurisdiction of the federal mine-safety code.

287 SENIORS VIE FOR AID

Enter Competition For Inland Steel Grants for Study

A class of 287 high school seniors has entered the competition for college scholarships offered through the company's philanthropic arm, the Inland Steel-Ryerson Foundation.

Winners will be selected by a committee of six prominent educators who will make the awards on the basis of scholastic achievement, leadership and citizenship, financial need and how well they score on scholastic aptitude tests.

Scholarships under the plan range from $300 to $1,500 and will be renewable on a year-to-year basis to cover the normal college work required to obtain a bachelor's degree, providing the student's college work is at the level required of scholarship holders by the school he enters.

First awards, to be made in April, will total $15,000. When the plan is in full operation, approximately $60,000 in new scholarships and renewals will be awarded each year.

The Inland Steel-Ryerson Foundation makes annual contributions to education, hospitals, community welfare and cultural activities amounting in recent years to about a million dollars. Education has regularly received the largest amounts and got a total of $479,000 in 1962 while the second largest amount, $338,000, went to community welfare organizations.

They were told that the bill, which is in the House Rules Committee, probably has little chance of passage this year.

Later, during a press conference, Gibson told newsmen that Southeastern Kentucky's unemployed miners are living in conditions today as bad as those that existed during the depression.

He said the coal miners want jobs and help from the Federal Government, including a public-works program, to provide jobs for the unemployed in the area.

The miners met later Tuesday with officials of the Justice Department to protest the indictment of eight Eastern Kentucky unemployed, including Gibson and five others on the Washington trip. The eight were indicted in an attempt to dynamite a railroad bridge in Perry county, during violence that flared throughout the roving picketing in Eastern Kentucky. The case is in Federal Court at Jackson.

In conferences with Kentucky Senators John Sherman Cooper and Thurston Morton, they claimed that wage-and-hour laws were being violated by Kentucky's small mines, and that contractors on federal Accelerated Public Works projects in Hazard were using out-of-state common labor.

The miners met Wednesday with Representative Carl Perkins, Interior Secretary Stewart Udall, representatives of the President's Appalachian Regional Commission, and have appearances scheduled before the Women's Democratic Club of Washington, the Institute for Policy Studies, and with students of George Washington and American universities.

The course will give him a working knowledge of electrical theory, aircraft, electrical and instrument systems, troubleshooting and repair.

On completion he will be assigned to a Marine aircraft unit where he will use his technical knowledge through practical application of this training.

Other keys will open other doors. It may be a bit of stone dug out of the crust of the earth or a geologic formation with a new interpretation. Eventually one of these keys will tell us whether the early Big Sandy ended in an arm of the Gulf of Mexico or farther north in the Great Lakes Basin.

That may be far in the future for the earth buried deeply the fifty-million-year history of the river.

Primeval Big Sandy

then by two distinct movements was thrust faulted to the northwest a total distance of several miles.

"In the course of these great dynamics the great Russell Fork Fault, to which the river by that name in Dickinson and Buchanan counties, Virginia, became consequent, was developed. As these crustal changes approached completion a new drainage pattern in the western headwaters of the Big Sandy slowly adjusted itself. A score or more of streams which had originally crossed the Pine Mountain region and had been beheaded during that great uplift were turned back upon themselves or otherwise diverted to form Elkhorn Creek and the Pound River."

Between the great uplift that began the first and beginning streams of the Big Sandy of the present day two entire eras of geologic time, the Mesozoic and Cenozoic, passed. As Jilison says, the lapse of time was "so great as to preclude accurate determination but it was probably not less than fifty million years and possibly much longer."

western slope of Sandy Ridge its beginning springs on the western slope of Sandy Ridge in Virginia and its mouth nearly 300 miles away at Catletsburg comprises an area of 4,182 square miles, a sharp reduction in size since that far-off era of time when it began in the Roan Mountain section of Western North Carolina and coursed north and west through Eastern Kentucky, Southwestern Ohio and Indiana to end either in an arm of the Gulf of Mexico or far north of there into a primeval stream or lake.

Geologists have been a long time putting the story together and have much yet to do. Now and then, through the decades and even centuries to come, bits of geologic evidence will be found and they will add to the history of the river.

The small quartzite stones found along the upper Big Sandy and on the Licking rivers opened slightly the door of pre-history to Jilison and others.

Other keys will open other doors. It may be a bit of stone dug out of the crust of the earth or a geologic formation with a new interpretation. Eventually one of these keys will tell us whether the early Big Sandy ended in an arm of the Gulf of Mexico or farther north in the Great Lakes Basin.

That may be far in the future for the earth buried deeply the fifty-million-year history of the river.

SCHOOL HEAD ACQUITTED

Claude Farley Wins Acquittal On Charge He Falsified Claims

Claude H. Farley, superintendent of Pike county schools, was acquitted Friday of charges that he submitted claims for expenses which he did not incur.

A jury of Lawrence county returned the verdict in Pike circuit court after deliberating only three minutes.

No witnesses testified that Farley failed to make the trips for which he submitted mileage claims, or that he did not purchase meals for which he claimed reimbursement.

Farley himself testified that he actually made the trips on business for the Board of Education, and that he submitted food vouchers below the actual cost of the meals.

An indictment returned by a special grand jury in September charged that Farley submitted false claims for a series of trips last April.

A companion charge of misfeasance in office against Farley was rescheduled by Special Judge W. D. Sparks, of Louisa, for trial March 27.

Farley was accused of presenting claims for reimbursement on a trip to Louisville, April 17, to attend a meeting of the Kentucky Education Association when in fact he did not attend, on a trip to Frankfort, April 26, which he did not make, on a trip to Belfry and Blackberry Creek in Pike county, April 12, which he did not make, and on a trip to Elkhorn City, April 27, which he did not make.

The indictment charged that Farley falsely claimed $51.80 for mileage and $13.65 for meals on the Louisville trip, $41.40 for mileage and $9.90 for meals on the Frankfort trip, $3.10 for mileage on the Belfry-Blackberry Creek trip, and $5.39 for mileage on the Elkhorn City trip.

Farley, the only witness in his own defense, testified that not only did he make each of the trips contrary to the charges, but that he claimed payment for only $1.95 for each of his meals when in fact the meals usually cost much more.

He said state law requires receipts for expenses such as meals when the cost is more than $1.95, and that he was "too busy to ask for receipts."

Herbert Cool, business manager for the school system, testifying on a subpoena from the Commonwealth, said he could not assert that Farley actually made the trips, but that he "thought" he did.

Tivis Branham, a teacher who appeared before the special grand jury, was unable to state that he knew from first-hand knowledge that Farley failed to make the trips.

Mrs. Phyllis Faulkner, a clerk in the superintendent's office, said she accepted mileage claims without requiring speedometer readings because distances to the various destinations were known to her.

Judge Sparks overruled a motion to quash the indictments on grounds that they were returned by an improperly impaneled grand jury. He said he felt that the issues should be aired in open court since some of the questions might be enlightened by evidence.

Farley has charged previously that personal and political bias against himself had caused Pike Circuit Judge P. Pierce Keesee to call in the special jury.

Keesee countered by stating that he was promised a state job if he would not pursue his investigation of the Pike county school system. He said the offer came from a high state official.

Commonwealth's Attorney Kelsey Friend, who prosecuted the case against Farley, was replaced in office Monday by the newly elected Commonwealth's Attorney, Thomas Ratliff, who will prosecute the misfeasance charge against Farley in March.

Wood-Utilization Plant In Region Is Promoted; Two Area Sites Studied

There were indications last week that backers of a $4 million, privately financed wood-utilization plant had decided to locate it either near Paintsville or in the Irvine-Ravenna area.

George Branham, Paintsville, newly-elected president of the firm, declined to comment on the two sites. He said studies are still being made and no definite site has been picked.

However, a source close to the firm said, "The plant is likely to be located along the Big Sandy River at Paintsville or in the Irvine-Ravenna area" on the Kentucky River.

Five of the nine directors of the corporation, including Branham, are from Paintsville. The other four are from the Irvine-Ravenna area.

The firm, Kenwood Products, Inc., has plans for a central manufacturing plant and two subsidiaries and hopes to attract about 10 satellite companies to locate in the same area.

The central plant, to employ about 200 persons, will process raw second and third grade timber into rough lumber. Two subsidiary plants will sell the lumber and act as a management firm.

Kenwood directors also hope related firms will locate at the same site. This would eliminate transportation problems and assure Kenwood of a ready market.

Kenwood incorporated last year with capital of $1.5 million. Branham said it planned to borrow the rest of the $4 million needed to build the central plant.

Branham said some time ago that firms that produce flake board, fence posts, and telephone poles had expressed interest in locating at the Kenwood site.

Officers of Kenwood, in addition to Branham, are Robert Walker, Ravenna, vice-president, and Dwight D. Pendleton, Jr., Stanton, secretary-treasurer.

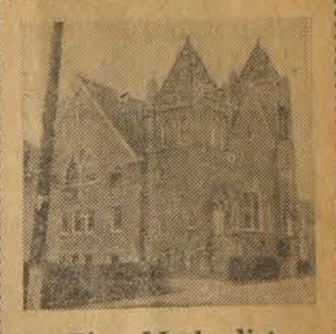

Beside these three, directors are Dr. Robert Wilhite, Clarence Castle, Mitchell Preston, and W. H. Cox, all of Paintsville; Hardin Keenon, Clay City, and Francis M. Wilson, Irvine.

Branham has described the corporation as an attempt by Eastern Kentuckians to help the area's sagging economy.

Robert Reed of "The Defenders," is a one-time 4-H Clubber, now owns a Black Angus cattle ranch in Oklahoma.

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION STUDENTS ARE ASSISTED

More than 900 high school students in Kentucky are taking advantage of an opportunity to earn as much as $45 weekly while pursuing a full-time high school program.

Fred A. Martin, director of the Division of Trade, Industrial and Distributive Education in the Department of Education, says the distributive education program enables students interested in distributive occupations, such as sales work, marketing and merchandising, to work in these fields while completing high school.

Martin says the program recognizes that not all high school students will attend college. Students in distributive education are able to prepare themselves for a job while in high school.

The students gain valuable experience from their jobs and many are able to find a good job immediately after graduation.

ing from high school, he said. Distributive education students carry a normal course load, including a class in distributive education. Individual instruction is given students in the classroom and the students discuss mutual problems confronting them in their jobs.

One major advantage of the program, says Martin, is that it enables many students to continue high school who might have had to quit because of financial problems. Very seldom does a distributive education student withdraw from high school before graduation, he said.

Martin said that in addition to the courses taught in high schools, distributive education classes serve adults in five of the state area vocational schools.

Students in the program are covered by state and federal labor laws. While the average wage received by the students is about 75 cents an hour, some students, such as those working in supermarkets, are union members and receive union wages.

The distributive education program, national in scope, comes under the Vocational Education Acts. Part of the cost of the program is supported by federal funds.

Under the Minimum Foundation Program, the Legislature controls the number of units that can be allotted to local schools. Currently 25 units, with an enrollment of 900 students, are in operation. There were 20 classes in 1960.

Martin says the Legislature will be asked to allot an additional 10 distributive education classroom units to expand the program. Most schools having a distributive education class have had to turn down many students wishing to enroll, for each class can have no more than 40 students.

Distributive education students belong to the Distributive Education Clubs of Kentucky, known as DECK by its members. These clubs are affiliated with a national organization, Distributive Education Clubs of America, or DECA.

DECK clubs hold a yearly convention in Kentucky, at which time several contests are held among members in fields such as advertising, interviewing and speaking. Winners of these contests then compete in contests at the national convention.

The state convention is scheduled for early next spring in Louisville.

Schools having distributive education classes are located in Lexington, Louisville, Ashland, Bowling Green, Corbin, Cumberland, Danville, Everts, Fairdale, Glasgow, Grays Knob, Hazard, Loyall, Madisonville, Darfork, Owensboro, Somerset, Wallins and Whitesburg.

Application Deadline Under Wool Act Slated, Chairman Hill Notes

Farmers have until the end of January to file applications for 1963 marketing year payments under the National Wool Act, Harry T. Hill, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County committee, reminded producers this week. He emphasized that January 31, 1964, is the last day for accepting payment applications in connection with marketings of either wool or lambs during 1963.

Since this is several months earlier than under previous wool programs, the chairman urges that producers avoid possible confusion by filing their applications on completed sales as soon as possible.

Hill points out that the 1963 marketing year under the wool program ends the last day of December, 1963. Future wool marketing years will be for 12 months and will coincide with the calendar year. The January 31, 1964, deadline for filing 1963 applications is in line with normal program procedure of continuing to accept such applications for a month following the end of the marketing year.

The 1963 program payments—which probably will begin in April—will cover shorn wool and unshorn lambs marketed during the 9-month period, April 1, 1963, through December 31, 1963. Later marketings will be eligible for payments for the 1964 marketing year, which will begin the first of the year.

Ford Wins Motor Trend's "Car of the Year" Award

January 8: Motor Trend magazine's "Car of the Year" Award goes to an engineering breakthrough! It honors all the '64s from Ford "For engineering advancement in the concept of Total Performance, proven in open competition."

Thunderbird, Falcon, Super Torque Ford, Fairlane (reading counterclockwise): winners of Motor Trend's "Car of the Year" Award

Here's what the Motor Trend Award means to you...

The editors of Motor Trend, America's largest general automotive magazine, watched Ford's total performance in open competition... saw competition-modified Fords win every 500-mile stock car race in the last year, saw Ford-built engines end an era at Indianapolis and sweep the sports car circuits.

Then they drove the 1964 Fords, Falcons, Fairlanes and Thunderbirds and discovered how the lessons of open competition have helped breed into them a new kind of total performance for the open road, for your kind of driving. And then they made their award!

The "Car of the Year" Award is an impressive testimonial, but see for yourself—take the wheel of a '64 from Ford. These cars speak for themselves with their ease of handling in a supermarket parking lot or their greater stability on a rain-slick blacktop.

Before you buy any new car this year, test-drive total performance in a Solid, Silent Super Torque Ford, now hundreds of pounds more car than anything in its field. Try America's only total performance compact, the Falcon V-8, totally new, totally changed. Or, any of the '64 Cars of the Year from Ford!
