

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

THURSDAY, JULY 2, 1964

This Town . . . That World

It's a grand and glorious date, any time, anywhere a people can celebrate their independence.

FAIR WEATHER WAS IMPORTANT

Saturday being the Fourth, I am reminded that at this season of the year, several years ago or more, I got real devout and did a bit of praying for the threatened rain to hold off till the 5th, anyway. You see, from where I was traveling, it was rather inconvenient to hoof it out in a rainstorm to catch a train to Prestonsburg where they were going to have a parade and speeches and soddy water and ice water and so on and on.

THE TRAGEDY OF PROGRESS

Progress, I am reminded by Judge Watt Hale, makes its inroads, too. The urban renewal projects here which have resulted in the beginning of work to raze the old Wheeler residence and the service station at the corner of Court and Lake Drive will soon get around to the small building at the edge of the courthouse grounds which is serving the police department as a station. The sympathy we hear isn't for the police; it's for "Dommer" Goodman and Brad Boyd and those others who indulge in checker games there, do a bit of whittlin' and pass the time of day with various comments on the age. Move on, men; the wheels of progress are about to light in the King Row.

The Country Parson and I usually agree. Wish I could recall more accurately that one of a few days back in which he commented to the effect that if you (See Story No. 6, Page 6)

FIELD LEASE IS EFFECTED

Ground School Base, Charter Flying Plan Of Lexington Lessee

Fred Porter, of Lexington, has leased for a two-year period facilities of Combs Airport, the new Prestonsburg-Pointsville facility, for a flight and ground school base and to do charter flying service.

Operating here as Porter Aviation, Inc., he is using in instruction and charter service a twin-engine Apache, a 172 Cessna and a 150 two-place Cessna trainer. As of last week, 17 persons were attending the flight and ground school conducted at the airport. Mr. Porter also operates similar services from Tucker-Guthrie Field at Harlan.

The airport board recently named the field in honor of Former Governor Bert T. Combs in recognition of the assistance given by him in making the facility possible. The board also recently completed at the field an office and lounge at a cost of approximately $5,000. Gasoline is now available for planes at the field, and snack bar is planned by Porter.

Owner of the service there is a son of E. S. Porter, formerly of Drift and later operator of the Blue Grass Field restaurant at Lexington.

DEDICATION SLATED FOR BRIDGE, THEATRE

BRIDGE HERE TO BE NAMED FOR COMBS

Former Governor Will Speak At Amphitheatre Dedication Ceremonies

Saturday, July 11, will be marked by two events which are expected to attract hundreds of persons to Prestonsburg and Jenny Wiley State Park.

The first will be the official designation, with appropriate ceremonies, of the new four-lane bridge which is the Prestonsburg end of the Mountain Parkway as the Bert Combs Bridge. The second will be the dedication of the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre at Jenny Wiley State Park, another in the long list of achievements of the Combs administration.

The bridge ceremonies will be held at 4 p.m., with Commissioner of Highways Henry Ward as the principal speaker to dedicate the span as the Bert Combs Bridge. Dedication of the bridge to the use and benefit of the people of Kentucky was held last year while Combs was yet Governor. Bronze plates to be attached at either end of the bridge will bear the inscription:

BERT COMBS BRIDGE
GOVERNOR OF KENTUCKY
1959-1963

At the dedication of the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre Former Governor Combs will be the principal speaker. Commissioner of Highways Ward and Commissioner of Parks Robert Bell will speak briefly.

The amphitheatre ceremonies will begin at 8 p.m., and will be followed by entertainment provided by Dean Sturm and the Saturday Night Jamboree from WSAZ-TV. Tickets are on sale at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, and at Francis Stores here.

Heads of all state government departments are expected to attend both the bridge and amphitheatre dedications.

The amphitheatre ceremonies and entertainment will be under sponsorship of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association which plans to present next year "The Jenny Wiley Story," written by Paul Greene, Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright.

STUDENT AID DRIVE MADE

Kiwanians Contribute Starter Fund; College Applications Rising

A student loan fund for prospective students at the Prestonsburg Community College was started off last week by the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club with an appropriation of $250, and the club is adding to that by the sale of automobile plates advertising the college.

The fund will be administered by the college and a committee later to be named. The attractive plates, printed in blue on a white background, are being sold for $2 and are available at any bank in the county, offices of County Clerk C. Ollie Robinson and Circuit Clerk Frank DeRossett, at the college temporary office in the Meade-Alen building and at Francis Stores.

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, director of the college, who has assumed active charge of the work preliminary to the September 3 opening of the new institution, said Tuesday that 205 applications for admission have been received and that he expects a minimum of 250 to be enrolled the first semester for fulltime freshman-level courses.

Dr. Campbell said he expects to announce within the next two weeks completion of the facility for the coming academic year. Announcing that Miss Judy Smiley, of Prestonsburg, has been employed as secretary, he said that applications for maintenance positions at the college will be accepted, beginning Thursday, July 9. Application blanks may be procured at the temporary college office at No. 4, Court street. Office hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

A tentative schedule, listing classes and times, is expected to be completed within two weeks, and prospective students may (See Story No. 4, Page 6)

Free Show for 4th, Most Places to Close

All county offices and the post-office will be closed for the observance of July 4, and most business houses here will close for the day, but in order to bring entertainment to visitors the Strand Theatre will be open all day, offering free shows, it was announced Monday by Dan Goble, manager.

FUNDS ASKED FOR MARKER

Admirers of Bert Combs Plan To Erect Memorial On Mountain Parkway

Approximately 50 friends and admirers of Bert T. Combs met at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, last Friday evening to coordinate a fund-raising drive which is designed to result in erection of a memorial to the former Governor on the Mountain Parkway which was conceived, initiated and largely built during his administration.

The move started in Floyd county where 22 persons quickly subscribed $2,200 for the erection of a marker memorializing the former Prestonsburg man, but as other counties became interested plans for the undertaking grew.

The cost is now placed at $19,500. Of that total, $5,500 has been subscribed, with more pledged.

Meanwhile Commissioner of Highways Henry Ward has planned a site for the monument on the Parkway, near Campton, where the Bluegrass-to-the-Mountains highway splits, one prong extending toward Prestonsburg, the other toward Hazard and Whitesburg. The 21-foot-high marker, pyramidal in form, will bear on one of its faces a bas-relief of the ex-Governor's likeness, on another that of a buckskin-clad pioneer.

Represented at the May Lodge meeting were Wolfe, Powell, Breathitt, Perry, Johnson and Floyd counties. A similar meeting at Campton recently was attended by representatives of other counties of the area.

It is planned that any funds contributed in excess of the $19,500 needed will go into a University of Kentucky scholarship fund for the benefit of needy and deserving Mountain youths.

A steering committee comprised of one or more representatives of each county in the area was named at last Friday's meeting. W. Arbor Jones, of Prestonsburg, was named to represent Floyd. Contributions in any amount are welcomed.

HEIRS WIN GAS SUIT

Defendants Absolved Of Blame by Jurors In Rights Litigation

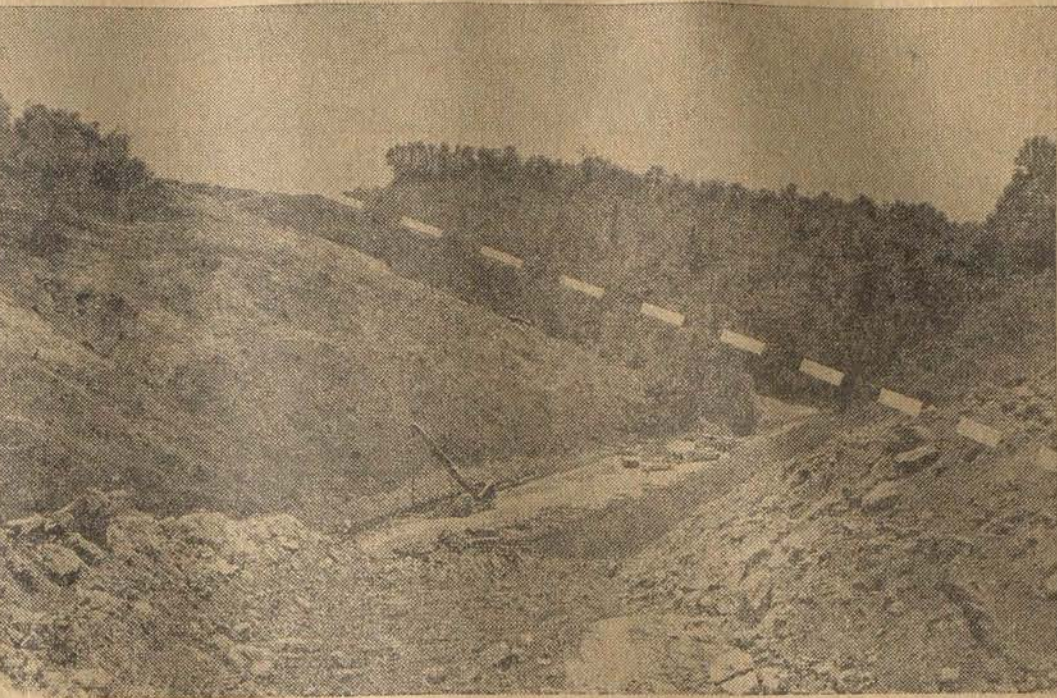

Suit of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company against heirs of the Albert Burchett estate resulted in a jury verdict for the defendants last Wednesday after a trial requiring a day and a half in Floyd circuit court.

The gas company had contended that natural gas from its three-inch line had been used by the defendants to supply fuel for homes and a restaurant building which they owned.

Prior to the jury's verdict, the trial judge, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, pointed out that there was no evidence of fraud, conspiracy or wrongdoing on the part of the defendants.

A "cross-over" connection of the company's three-inch line and the one-inch line leading from the old well on the Burchett property was a point of contention. The plaintiff failed to show by its testimony how this connection was made.

PARKWAY EXTENSION WORK ADVANCES

Extending the Mountain Parkway

UP AND OVER—Broken line shows route of freeway extension of Mountain Parkway across a 90-foot fill near Ivyton. The 22-mile extension from Salyersville to Prestonsburg is expected to be completed in late spring of 1965. At this spot a 688-foot box-culvert will pierce the huge fill, providing for drainage. The culvert will be the longest in Kentucky, according to contractor Ford Coburn Inc., Prestonsburg.

Special To The Times

Frankfort, Ky., July 1 — One section of the Mountain Parkway extension from Salyersville to Prestonsburg is completed, another will be completed this fall and a final section will be completed next year, the Department of Highways has announced.

Eventually, this extension will reach from Prestonsburg to Pikeville. South of this route, another extension of the Mountain Parkway will connect Campton, Jackson, Hazard and Whitesburg. Construction is under way also on sections of this route.

This construction means that the Parkway's two arms are steadily advancing deeper into southeastern Kentucky and opening the mountains to trade and pleasure travel. The Parkway is carrying traffic between Winchester and Salyersville—on four lanes between Winchester and Campton and two lanes the rest of the way. The Winchester-Salyersville portion is a toll road; the others are freeways.

NURSING HOME PLANS ANNOUNCED BY FOUR

A new major construction project is expected to be begun here within the next 30-45 days, it was said this week as four Prestonsburg men announced plans for a nursing and convalescent home on College Lane.

Completion of the structure, which will embrace an area of 15,000 square feet, is tentatively set for January 1. No estimate of the cost was made but it was said the expenditure "will be in excess of $200,000."

The four who will build and operate the home are Dr. J. D. Adams, H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., George Lee Shannon and Tom G. Dingus.

The structure, to be erected on a 160x240-foot lot lying between the fire station and the Prestonsburg grade school, will contain 10 single-bed rooms and 20 two-bed rooms for a total of 50 beds and is planned for possible later expansion to accommodate 68 beds, in all.

To face on College Lane, the one-story building will be of brick construction, completely air-conditioned and equipped for hot-water heat. In addition to the original 50 rooms for patients, it will include a recreation area, lounge, kitchen, dining space, visitors' lounge and office. Of fire-proof construction, it will include terrazzo floors throughout.

A service drive will connect with the rear of the structure from Highland avenue. Grounds will be landscaped, and terracing will be done at the rear. Parking space to accommodate 24 vehicles will also be provided at the rear.

Plans have been made to meet all FHA requirements, and cost of construction may be financed through that agency.

It is explained that the institution will provide a service for those who need nursing care and that it differs from a home for the aged, in that the latter accepts elderly persons who may or may not need such professional care.

Richard Moorman, of Leitchfield, was elected president of Kentucky Young Democrats at the organization's annual meeting held last Friday and Saturday at Louisville.

Mr. Moorman, who defeated Tommy Isaac, of Danville, succeeds County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill, of Prestonsburg, as president of the state organization. Mr. Sturgill presided at the two-day session which was attended by most of the state's political leaders and which was addressed by U. S. Senator Hubert Humphrey, of Minnesota.

Edward Hahn, sheriff of Fayette county, was elected state vice-president, in a close election over Lowell Hughes, formerly of Prestonsburg, now an Ashland attorney. (See Story No. 5, Page 6)

ARH BUYS HOSPITALS IN 3-STATE REGION

All Courthouse Offices Close Friday, Saturday

All offices at the courthouse will be closed Friday and Saturday, it was announced Wednesday by County Judge Henry Stumbo. Saturday's closing will be in observance of Independence Day.

CHURCH SETS ANNUAL MEET

First Church of God To Host Gathering; Rev. Kitchen Directs

The ninth annual Eastern Kentucky camp meeting of the First Church of God will begin here this evening (Thursday) and continue through Sunday, with representatives from perhaps half a dozen states attending.

The meeting, held in Prestonsburg since its beginning nine years ago, will be conducted in a large tent set up across North Lake Drive from the First Church of God here. The Rev. Moses Kitchen, former pastor of the local church, is manager of the four-day session.

A youth service at 6 p.m. today will mark the opening of the meeting. A general service will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thereafter, four services will be held daily.

The youth evangelist is the Rev. Clyde Cunningham, Boma, Tennessee, and the Rev. Robert Kitchen, Hope, Kentucky, will be the evangelist for the general services. Song director and pianist will be Mrs. Ann Cunningham and her daughter, of Boma, Tennessee. There will be special singing at each service, and the public is invited to attend, the Rev. Kitchen said.

Meals will be served daily at the Prestonsburg high school cafeteria. No charge will be made for meals and lodging, these expenses to be met by freewill offerings.

CITE COAL TRUCKERS FOR PARK ROAD USE

Two drivers of trucks transporting coal over the Jenny Wiley State Park highway from Dewey Dam to new U. S. 23 at Auxier have been cited for overweight loads and their hearings in quarterly court have been set for July 13.

The two drivers, Jimmy L. Ratliff and Carl Thomas Clutts, executed bond. The weight limit for the road is 24,000 pounds. The citations list Clutts' truck and load weight at 56,130 pounds; Ratliff's, at 26,690.

The coal is being hauled from the Terry Mining Company operation on Long Branch of Johns Creek, across the mountain from Burchett Branch which empties into Dewey Lake. Coal-hauling continues, and the company produced 1,000 tons of coal Tuesday, it was reported, those hauling the coal own their own trucks and are paid a per-ton rate by Charles Hovatter, owner of the mine, for transporting the coal output to a tippie operated at Hager Hill, Johnson county, by Marshall Mahan, of Prestonsburg.

Commissioner of Highways Henry Ward this week explained his position in the situation, maintaining that the park road (Ky. 1187) was not built to carry traffic as heavy as the coal-truck loads and that "it would be a great detriment to Jenny Wiley State Park for the park road to be turned into a coal-hauling road."

At the same time Mr. Ward pointed out that he has directed the Department of Highways to determine if some road could be developed that would provide for hauling of the coal from the mining operation and yet avoid use of the park route. "Obviously," he wrote, "I have a keen appreciation of the necessity of cooperation in connection with the production of coal, and I am ready to cooperate with Floyd county officials or any others involved in seeking the answer to the problem."

$4 MILLION COST NOTED BY KLICKA

Ten Hospital Chain Has 1,745 Employees; Cost UMW $30 Million

Appalachian Regional Hospitals, which has been operating five hospitals in Kentucky since last October 1, Tuesday acquired five more in Kentucky, West Virginia, and Virginia.

Dr. Karl S. Klicka, president of the non-profit, non-sectarian corporation, handed a check for $4.1 million to Dr. John Newdorp, medical administrator of the Miners Memorial Hospital Association, a subsidiary of United Mine Workers Welfare and Retirement Fund.

The check paid for MMHA hospitals in Pikeville and South Williamson, Kentucky; Beckley and Man, West Virginia, and Wise, Virginia. Earlier in the day, Dr. Klicka received $4 million from Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., under-secretary of commerce, in a loan from the federal Area Redevelopment Administration.

The five hospitals acquired today have 544 beds, employ more than 1000 persons, and cost $17 million when built in the mid-1950's.

ARH's first five hospitals were acquired from MMHA at a cost of $3.9 million, which ARH obtained in a grant from ARA.

SUIT NAMES POWER FIRM

Hamilton Asks Damages Of $180,000 for Hurts; Negligence Is Charged

A total of $180,000 is asked of the Appalachian Power Company by Hershel Hamilton in a suit filed this week in the Floyd circuit court.

Hamilton claims he sustained permanent injuries when an automobile was so recklessly and negligently operated by James Gregory, an employee of Appalachian Power, that it collided with a truck which he was driving. The wreck occurred last March 23 on Ky. 122, at McDowell.

Loss of earning power is claimed as a result of injuries Hamilton says he suffered. Damages of $175,000 are asked, plus $5,000 for hospital and medical expenses.

A damage suit filed Tuesday by Jack Allen against the City of Prestonsburg and the Municipal Water & Gas Commission is an aftermath of a series of explosions and fires allegedly caused at West Prestonsburg last March by a heavy flow of natural gas. Jack Allen asks $8,000 damages for a home which burned there, alleging that the plaintiffs were so negligent in the construction, maintenance and operation of the gas system that an unusual volume of gas was released.

To Lead Revival

The Rev. S. Lee Sloat, Jr., pastor of the First Baptist Church at Martin, will be the evangelist during the revival which will begin Monday, July 6, at the Holbrook Baptist Mission on the Middle Creek road. Services will be held daily at 7:30 p.m. through Sunday, July 12.

Holbrook is a mission of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here. The public is cordially invited to each of the revival services. (See Story No. 1, Page 5)

Much More Remains To Be Done

No section of Kentucky is more keenly aware of the need for conservation than Floyd and those other counties which comprise the Seventh district. As proof of this statement, we offer the figures submitted by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources: In the Seventh district, during May, 55 persons were arrested by conservation officers, and courts and juries of the district convicted exactly 55—all of them.

No other district of the Commonwealth came near this perfect record.

This awareness here in the Seventh has come about as a result of long years of education. Conservation officers, supervisors, school teachers, farmers—so many have talked conservation that there has become a special sort of opprobrium attached to offenses against the laws protecting fish and game.

And on top of all that there is another educating factor. This is the obvious and crying need for conservation. Only the blind could fail to see it; only the most uncaring could fail to react to it.

But public sentiment has not moved deeply enough into all areas of conservation. Other growing things, the trees that need so many years in which to grow, fail to claim the interest—we might say, affection—that the wild things of field and stream and forest hold. We continue to be profligate and unthinking with the soil on which so much depends.

We are tough on the poacher, the stream dynamiter, the fellow who flaunts the law in his fishing and hunting. And we should be. But we lose sight of some other crimes which are far more venal than these. The man who wantonly or negligently sets woods and fields to burning, the mine which destroys the land, guts the hillsides, turns loose into what were once clear and productive streams acid waters, silt, coal dust—how careful we often are to look for a reason, an extenuating circumstance for these offenses.

Who deserves mercy the more—an ignorant, uncaring man who kills a squirrel out of season or an educated man who is equally uncaring and kills off the beauties and the resources of the land for miles around?

But ours is not the only inconsistency. The federal government is the outstanding example. Cajoled, threatening, prodding, U. S. authorities have pushed many the community into effective control at great expense of its sewage to prevent stream pollution. And we have no criticism of that—this pollution is a national disgrace. But the same government cannot, or will not, stop a Virginia coal mine from unloading coal dust into the Big Sandy River which crosses state lines and affects the lives of many thousands. Nor does it curb industrial pollution in all parts of the land.

Floyd county citizens, officers and courts have on occasion worked effectively to combat river pollution, but they need help from an authority which can cross state lines.

Indeed it would appear that our awareness of the situation is keener than Washington's.

USE TIMES WANT ADS FOR GOOD RESULTS!

APPALACHIA IN POVERTY DESPITE COAL RICHES

BY DON WHITEHEAD

(In the Knoxville News-Sentinel)

There is more than a little irony in the fact that the region called Appalachia is classed as poverty-stricken even though it embraces some of the potentially richest coal deposits in the United States—millions upon millions of tons of coal.

The mining of this coal could relieve much of the unemployment and remove much of the stain of poverty. But a complex set of circumstances now makes it virtually impossible for this wealth to be taken from the ground and used for the benefit of the people.

In the simplest of terms, Appalachia fell into deep trouble when its mines reached the point of being unable to compete at a profit in the nation's coal markets. Rising costs of production—principally labor costs—drove mine after mine out of business. They couldn't pay the going wages and the extras paid by their competitors elsewhere.

The decline in Southeastern Kentucky was a slow, grim, steady process. It was almost like a man bleeding to death from a wound—and no one knowing how to staunch the flow of blood. The march toward tragedy has been relentless.

One by one, the mines shut down and men found themselves out of work. They were men who knew no other trade except mining coal. Even when they did, there were no other industries of any consequence to hire them. This was a land of coal and mining was what made the wheels go round.

A few mines have managed to survive against odds. But their numbers are pitifully small in comparison with those operating in the boom years when any man could get a job if he were willing to do a day's work.

AREA BECAME BATTLEGROUND

I grew up in the coalfields of Southeastern Kentucky. I saw them when the region was booming, lusty and growing. I was around when the Depression came and the area became a battleground of union and anti-union forces and men rode out at dawn to fight, carrying machine guns and high-powered rifles. It was guerrilla war in its way and just as brutal and savage.

The fight lasted for six long years. But in the end the United Mine Workers of John L. Lewis won because New Deal legislation and the weight of the federal government's influence was on the side of the union. The last soft coal field to become "unionized" was the Harlan county field. Its capitulation came in 1939 when the solid ranks of the coal operators were broken by one operator who decided he had had enough. When he signed a union contract, the others were forced to follow.

It is not difficult to find some of the reasons why Appalachia has become one of the most economically depressed areas in the United States. The difficulty is going to be in finding a way out of the mess without making a majority of people in the region totally dependent on a government dole.

One reason for the area's plight is that its mines are situated too far from the coal-using industrial centers. For example, coal shipped from Southeastern Kentucky to northern markets must pass through the Ohio or Illinois fields. Coal going east has to pass through West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Coal shipped south must pass through Tennessee's coalfields. The area is boxed in by other mine fields.

BIG DISADVANTAGE FROM NATURE

The region could never win a rate from the railroads which would compensate for the disadvantage of location. Neither did it have the navigable streams with the advantage of low barge rates. Gas and oil cut sharply into the coal market until even the engines which hauled the coal were burning oil.

In one sense, the greatest disadvantage perhaps was the joke played by nature millions of years ago when the coal was being formed from the ooze and rotting vegetation being buried by violent upheavals of the earth's crust. The coal in most of Appalachia wasn't formed in thick, high seams. It was compressed mostly into thin seams, sometime no more than 27 or 30 inches high. It was high-quality coal, but very often it was hard to get to it.

Things might have been different if the coal had been formed in the same big, generous seams as those in parts of West Virginia and Pennsylvania and some other states. These seams often were six, eight and ten feet high and more—and the coal could be mined cheaply.

Even with all the disadvantages, there are coal men who will tell you they could squeeze out a profit and keep many of the mines running if they did not have to pay the wage scale and welfare fund royalties demanded by the United Mine Workers. They point to the wage-welfare scale as the straw that broke their backs.

There is an interesting story behind the coalfield wage structure. It goes back many years to the time when John L. Lewis, the mine union boss, foresaw the coming of mechanization to the mines. He saw there would be a day when machines would mine coal more efficiently than men and only those mining operations which were most efficient would survive. Machines would dig coal, load it, carry it to the tipple, process it, wash it, treat it, and send it on its way to the markets.

All this would mean that many of his miners eventually would be thrown out of work. But he did not fight automation. He said so be it. He accepted automation but he vowed his miners would be among the best-paid workers in America. His union might be smaller—but it would be more powerful. All these things he talked about in his speeches.

Mechanization came to the coalfields and Lewis demanded and received higher and higher wages and fringe benefits for his miners. The less efficient producers began to fail by the wayside.

The operators who always were the first to meet Lewis' demands were those in the northern bituminous coal fields. They were better able to afford the increases because their mines were suited to mechanization. They had advantageous freight rates. They were near the great industrial markets. Often they could ship by barge on navigable streams to obtain extremely low shipping rates.

BECAME SORT OF CIVIL WAR

It might be said the battle to survive in the coal industry became a sort of Civil War—with the northern coalfields aligned against the southern fields. And the northern operators had the greater resources on their side, just as U. S. Grant's armies had them over Robert E. Lee's armies.

Coal has been and will continue to be important in Appalachia's economy. But the industry is not likely to be in any shape to lead the people out of their difficulties in the near future. Appalachia is a poor little rich boy unable to enjoy its coal riches.

Let us hope that the government's crash aid program works as well for this region as the foreign aid program worked for Europe. If it does—then within a few more years Appalachia will be competing with the rest of the country on equal terms.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CITES BREATHITT PERFORMANCE

Editor, The Times:

Edward T. Breathitt's performance at his first Governors' Conference indicates that Kentucky is in good hands. In an unprecedented move, the nation's governors put Breathitt on the 9-member Executive Committee which runs the conference during the year. It is unprecedented because governors attending their first conference just are not accorded this honor.

Apparently the governors of the 50 states agree that Kentuckians made a good choice when they elected Edward T. Breathitt.

CELEBRATION

One of the biggest Fourth of July celebrations anywhere, according to Reader's Digest, takes place not in the United States but in Rebild, Denmark, where thousands gather annually to celebrate America's Independence Day. The festival, begun in 1912 to honor Americans of Danish origin, has become a tribute to the ideals of patriotism and freedom represented by the holiday.

LIGHT MOVES

The astounding fact that light moves was first discovered by Olaus Roemer, a Danish astronomer, in 1679. It was not until two hundred years later, reports the Reader's Digest, that the speed at which light traveled was exactly measured by an American, Albert A. Michelson, a U.S. Naval Academy graduate and winner of the Nobel Prize in science in 1907.

NO HELP!

Lexington, Ky. — Two amino acids, lysine and methionine, tried as supplements to low protein diets for layers last season, were no particular help in egg size, total production, mortality or feed conversion. That's the report this week of John Begin, UK Ag Experiment Station poultry science researcher.

BLUEBIRD SURVIVAL ENDANGERED . . . Bluebirds, Unlimited, is a new organization seeking to save the beautifully winged creature from extinction. It is headed by N. M. White, Jr., Prestonsburg businessman, veteran Boy Scout leader and conservationist. Cooperating with White are W. G. Duncan, Louisville, George E. Churella, Patton, Pa., and others over the country. Duncan is promoting a special box for bluebird nesting and Churella has planned one to be built of plastic gallon bleach jugs (shown above).

The chief fear of conservationists is that the bluebird will disappear because its favorite nesting place, the old farm fence post, is becoming a thing of the past.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to take this means of expressing our appreciation to all who in any way assisted us or offered sympathy upon the death of our mother, Dollie Turner Gibson. We are grateful for the flowers and food and are appreciative of words of consolation spoken by Revs. Hershel Huff, Ross Hopkins and others. Our thanks are also extended to the staff of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its fine and efficient service.

Arthur S. Fleming, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said in 1959 that a study of accidental poisonings in children "clearly indicates that American adults are not taking adequate precautions to protect children in a society that uses over 250,000 different kinds of drugs and household products, many of which are potential killers if misused."

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

MODERN DRUGS

Just how far medical science has been accepted over most of the state I have no direct way of knowing, but for my particular part of the state there is no aspect of our present-day customs that has changed more within recent years. In my efforts to set down home remedies I find even people in middle age who have almost forgotten the everyday customs of my own childhood and youth. The younger generation know of home remedies largely by hearsay, not by taste or feel.

Not long ago I was trying to find someone who had seen old-fashioned bleeding as a regular surgical remedy; I finally found a man who is considerably past seventy who recalled the last time he saw any one being bled. Some of the younger people who were listening to my talk with him seemed to believe that both of us old men had lost a considerable number of our marbles in trying to recall such a barbarous medical or surgical practice.

As yet I have been unable to find any genuine home-made bitters, though even youngish people can recall having tasted some of the concoctions of Grandma or some other self-ordained rural doctor. My next plan is to interview some of the old-fashioned herb collectors and try to get down on tape or on paper some of their practices. It would be a shame if some epidemic should break out and the knowledge of the making of bitters would be lost. Tragic results might follow.

Hospitals used to be merely places of last resort. When we learned that Mr. John had been taken to the hospital, we at once thought of a funeral; and often we were right. The very word hospital was almost as hush-hush as such words as consumption, cancer, lunacy. Now our hospitals are crowded, and new wings have to be added to the buildings every few years. Not to have been in a hospital somehow brands one now very much as not having ridden on a train did when I was young.

It is a little too risky a business for me, a mere man, to be nosy about what people buy at the drugstores, but I wish I could get an accurate picture of the sale now of patent medicines. It is possible that this source of health-giving nostrums has completely taken the place of some of the home-made, traditional remedies that my generation knew. Not long ago another older person and I got to mentioning the names of bottled stuff that used to be sold by the gallon at every cross-roads drugstore; neither of us could recall when we had even seen the names of old-time stand-bys in print. Maybe we associate with the wrong crowd. It is more likely that our old-time branch-water remedies are still around under some more modern names. Anyway, humanity just must have some bad-tasting stuff to take, to remind it (or them) that life is brief and full of pains. Millions of people

DAVID BANNER

An inquiry from Mrs. F. Robert Lee, 554 Bellevue Avenue, Trenton, New Jersey, on the David Banner and Bevins family connections should be of interest to many.

David Banner was an unusual man, being pleasant yet aggressive, a smart trader and a great lover of children. He always carried a pocket full of candy on his trading trips for the youngsters he met.

This column is not informed as to his native state but it is assumed, perhaps too hastily, that it was Virginia. He married Susanna Martin, of Floyd county. Banner postoffice was named for him.

One daughter, Mary E. Banner, married Winfield Polk Bevins, May 24, 1875. She was born September 14, 1853, died September 8, 1948. Her husband, born December 9, 1842, had preceded her in death February 21, 1925. Both are buried in the May cemetery near Emma.

Winfield Polk Bevins was a son of Hiram Kilgore Bevins and Luna Lesley (Leslie) Bevins and was born on Johns Creek, in Pike county. His father named him for Gen. Winfield Scott and President James K. Polk. He went to Minnesota as a young man, stayed two years and returned to marry Miss Banner. He occupied himself with logging, farming and teaching.

Polk Bevins constructed a huge hewn log house in which he and his wife resided for years. All of their children were born in this house. They later built a frame house to which they removed and lived until they died.

Born to the union of Polk Bevins and Mary E. Banner Bevins were four daughters, Cora, Annie, Susan and Lucy. Cora, who never married, was born March 24, 1876. She was a teacher. Annie Minnie Bevins, born December 23, 1877, married, September 20, 1893, to Rev. Hiram Kenis Clark, a circuit rider of the Methodist Church. She died at Catlettsburg, June 12, 1938. Susan Luna Bevins, married T. J. Harris, May 3, 1904. He was killed by an automobile near Emma, May 25, 1952. Lucy Bevins, born March 15, 1893, married William Thomas Cartmell, June 5, 1929.

Another daughter of David Banner and Susanna Martin Banner was Anna, who married Samuel May. It was he who established the May cemetery referred to above.

MARTIN COUNTY MARKERS

Rufus M. Reed, Martin county chairman of the highway marker program, has just been notified by W. A. Wentworth, state chairman, that the state will soon erect two historical markers in Martin county; one of these will be placed at Warfield, at the junction of state routes 40 and 971.

The Warfield marker will describe on one side the lively skirmish that took place there in the fall of 1864, when the Home Guards from Louisa attacked a marauding force commanded by Col. V. A. Witcher, while he and his men were having a barbecue of cattle they had taken from the settlers. The rebel force fired upon the Home-Guards with small cannon fastened to the backs of their mules, and the Home Guards were routed and withdrew, after an exchange of gunfire.

The other side of the marker will outline briefly the history of Warfield, which was the first county seat of Martin county, and tell about its settlement in 1830, by a company that mined the salt at the famous salt works located near the town of Warfield. The salt, also coal and lumber were shipped by boat to Catlettsburg.

The leading early settler was George Rogers Clark Floyd who was also assisted by John Warfield, of Virginia, for whom the town was named. Warfield is said to have descended from the famous Warfield family of England, which included dukes and earls. During the Civil War, the coal mines at Warfield were used as hiding places against marauding bands of rebels.

The marker to be placed at Inez will contain on one side an inscription paying tribute to James Ward, first prominent settler of the town, ancestor of the Ward family. He was a Revolutionary War soldier, also fought in Indian wars, and was in several important battles in Kentucky. Blue Licks and Boonesborough, and once was with Boone in an engagement.

The other side of the marker will pay tribute to Prof. William B. Ward, who was the leading educator of Martin county, and Eastern Kentucky, and whose students erected a monument to him at the Saltwell cemetery, near Inez. The inscription will give some of the highlights of Prof. Ward's career, as teacher, speaker, editor and author.

CAPT. WILLIAM SMILEY

Continuing its policy of reprinting biographies of prominent Eastern Kentuckians from History of Kentucky, by Kniflen, Perrin and Battle, published in 1867, the life of Capt. William Smiley is presented.

It follows as published in the rare old history:

"Capt. William Smiley was born in Pike county, Kentucky, September 14, 1854, and is a son of Alex and Sarah Justice Smiley. Alex Smiley was born in Virginia, and when quite young came to Kentucky with his parents, who settled near Tiger (Tigart?), Creek, in Greenup county; he was a large lumber dealer in his younger days and did boating for the government during the war. He afterward built a boat, the Red Buck, of which he was Captain, running on the Big Sandy River; he died in December, 1882; he was a son of William Smiley, who was a native of Ireland. Mrs. Sarah Smiley was born in Pike county, Kentucky; a daughter of Paton (Peyton?) Justice.

"William Smiley, our subject, located in Catlettsburg, Boyd county, Kentucky, when he was eight years of age, where he has since resided. He was educated at the common schools and at the age of seventeen he commenced boating. For a while he was a partner of his father in the boat Sandy Fashion, and was afterward with R. K. Price on the same boat; he was captain and pilot. The boat was blown up, Mr. Smiley having been from his post (that of pilot) only two hours and the gentleman who was acting as pilot was killed. Mr. Smiley then bought a boat, took the machinery, and in partnership with J. H. Wright started a mill, in which business he was engaged one year.

"He then built a large business in Catlettsburg with the intention of engaging in the wholesale grocery business, but not having any experience in that line of business he gave up the idea, rented his house, and purchased an interest in the steamer Sea Lion, of which he was captain for about two years. He then organized the Sea Lion Towboat Company, of which he is superintendent and vice-president. In 1884 he, in partnership with Mr. Wright, opened a grocery store under the firm name of Wright & Smiley. October 11, 1876, he married Annie E. Powell, of Boyd county, Kentucky, a daughter of Burr and Nancy Smith Powell. Two children have blessed this union, Proctor Knott and Emma Cramer. Mrs. Smiley is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Mr. Smiley is a Master Mason, and politically he is a Democrat."

REAL PATRIOTISM

By ROBERT J. HASTINGS

One of the greatest documents in human history—yet containing only 1,337 words—was signed by members of the Continental Congress in Philadelphia on July 4, 1776. It was the Declaration of Independence, written by Thomas Jefferson with the help of Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, Robert Livingston, and Roger Sherman. Next Saturday we note the 188th anniversary of its adoption.

In many respects, July 4th of 1964 finds our nation at one of its highest peaks of power and prosperity. Never before have so many people had so many jobs earning so much money as right now. Never before have we been guarded from our enemies by such awesome and powerful weapons. Never before have we been surfeited with so many labor-saving devices, intriguing gadgets, and diversionary novelties.

All of which makes the words of Edmund Burke so meaningful for this summer of 1964: "All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is for enough good men to do nothing."

Rousseau had the same idea, "As soon as public services cease to be the chief business of the citizens, and they would rather serve with their money than with their persons, the state is not far from its fall."

In these days of easy money, it is a temptation to pat ourselves on the back for paying our taxes and adopting the attitude that everything is going to be fine. But the Declaration of Independence was not written with an adding machine. Our nation was not built on tax money alone. Other stones went into the foundation, such as courage, sacrifice, integrity, life, and service. And these are still needed. Rocking chair patriotism is not enough.

Thirty Years Ago

(June 22, 1934)

Miss Bessie Halbert, of Martin, with a general average of 82.25% was No. 1 among the 23 who made passing grades in the May teachers' examination held here. Exactly half of those who entered the exam failed. The Prestonsburg Ministerial Association this week protested the showing at the Unique Theatre here of "Elysia," a film depicting life in a nudist colony. Luther McIntosh is reported to have drilled in a 2,800,000 cubic-foot gas well last week on the Layne heirs lease at Betsy Layne. The lamprey eel has been found attached to fish in Floyd county streams. M. J. Meador, game warden, reports. Miss Lorraine Crisp, 16, of Martin, died Sunday of a bullet wound. Miss Christine Bowling, 22, was shot and seriously wounded Friday at Garrett. Married: Miss Ruby Robinson, of Berea, and Mr. Carl G. Ford, of Prestonsburg, at Berea, Kentucky; Miss Irene Patton and Mr. Claybourne Stephens, both of Prestonsburg, here June 9. Born: To County Agent and Mrs. S. L. Isbell, on June 14, a son—Samuel Morris.

(June 29, 1934)

Three men were killed in a gun battle in a Lackey restaurant last Wednesday. The victims are Len Nolan, 30, Malcolm Allen, 35, and Meniffee Bradley, age about 30. Bids are being sought on construction of the Martin water system for which a $43,000 PWA loan has been made. The minimum wage scale there under the NRA, reports A. B. Osborne, employment officer, will be: unskilled labor, 45c an hour; skilled labor, $1.10. Garland Hall, of Wheelwright, was seriously injured recently when he was run down by a hit-run driver. Nine Floyd county students were enrolled at the University of Kentucky during the term which ended June 13. There died: James P. Salisbury, 67, at his home here Saturday.

Twenty Years Ago

(June 22, 1914)

The casualty report received from the War Department includes one killed, one missing and two wounded: T/Sgt. Chester A. Allen, 26, of Hueysville, missing in Italy (the later was reported killed in action); Amos Robinson, of McDowell, killed in the fighting for Italy; Hager Frazier, of West Prestonsburg, and Lee Brown, of McDowell, wounded in the same theatre of war. Kentucky's first woman marine, Sgt. Cassie Patrick, of West Prestonsburg, is pictured with Band Leader Gary Crosby in the current number of MOVIE LIFE magazine, publicizing the uniforms worn by women in the service. The Navy Department has reported the U. S. submarine Grayback long overdue and presumed to be lost. Lt. Carthel H. Smith, Jr., of Prestonsburg, was a member of the crew. S/Sgt. Joe H. Hobbs, of Wayland, has been awarded the Air Medal and the Distinguished Flying Cross for service in the India-China-Burma theatre of war. Mrs. Dorothy Turner Martin, of Drift, received her M.A. from the University of Kentucky, June 2. She has been attending U.K. the last two years while her husband, Lt. William Martin, has been with the armed forces in England. There died: Jones Crisp, 79, Wednesday near Hueysville; John N. Beattie, 63, Monday at Weeksburg; Mrs. Virgie Weddington Stephens, 39, of Banner, Tuesday at a Martin hospital; Mrs. John Flansery, 39, Tuesday at Martin; Edna M. Hall, 16, Saturday at Bevinville; Mrs. Vina Prater Miller, 46, Tuesday at Brainard.

(June 29, 1914)

Floyd county Democrats at their convention here Saturday endorsed President Roosevelt, Senator Barkley and Congressman May, all of whom are candidates for re-election this year. The national Republican convention has already nominated Thomas E. Dewey to oppose FDR. Because contractors find materials hard to get, none has offered a bid for construction of a school building at Weeksburg to replace the structure destroyed there by fire. Lt. Quentin Lockwood, formerly of Prestonsburg, is reported seriously wounded in Italian fighting. He is navigator on a Liberator bomber. Robert E. Lee, formerly of Prestonsburg, is reported a German prisoner of war. Married: Pvt. William (Dick) Miller, of Myrtle, and Miss Mary Cox, of England, May 23. Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Chalmer H. Frazier, formerly of Prestonsburg, at Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, June 23, a daughter, Kathryn Lauranne; to Mr. and Mrs. Eider Wright, of Water Gap, June 11, a daughter who has not yet been named. can't enjoy the fishing as much as the catching you would do well to stay home. The old boy must have had Dewey Lake and me on his mind.

HAD THE LAST WORD

News that the splendid four-lane bridge across the Big Sandy here will be officially dubbed the Bert Combs Bridge by Highway Commissioner Henry Ward, July 11, recalls a statement made by Mr. Ward at May Lodge last year. His statement ran to this effect:

"Governor Combs refuses to have any highway, bridge, building or anything named for him. He's the boss now, but he will not be Governor next year, and I have an idea I'll be Highway Commissioner, so I expect to have the last word."

And so honor that is richly due is being paid.

THE REASON

Herbert Prater, of the county school system's attendance department, tells of the youngster whom he rounded up, on Mud Creek, for playing hookey from school. When Mr. Prater sought to pin him down as to his reasons for being a.w.o.l., the boy replied, "Shucks, if I go to school and get a education I'll have to get a job and go to work, and then I won't get any food stamps."

Herb does not give us permission to quote, verbatim, just what he said then by way of comment.

ANOTHER REASON

I've never been able to analyze myself and arrive at an understanding of the reason I shun conventions and the like. A joke I read, the other day, may be the explanation. This fellow was asked why he refused to attend his class reunion, and he explained: "Why, those guys have all got so fat and bald they wouldn't recognize me."

testified, the owners had done work to combat the possibility of water damage to the well.

It was established by plaintiff's witnesses that even after Kentucky West Virginia had cut the three-inch line gas was still available.

Forrest Burchett, one of the defendants, said the "cross-over" connection of the company line with the service line probably was made in the early 1930's when the company had its employees do some work on the well. The landowner received free gas at the time, and he expressed the belief that, in order to keep this service going while the supply of gas from the well was off, the connection was made and workmen failed to change back to the original connection when they left.

Other defendants in the case were Joe W. Burchett, Otto Cisco, Bradis and Sallie Goble.

The college, Dr. Campbell said, will attempt to provide night courses which would enable students to earn the bachelor of arts degree. Other courses, particularly adult education, non-credit and technical classes, will be offered as the demand requires. Those who wish to enroll in night classes should inform the college of the type of courses which they would like to see offered, he said. A tentative night schedule will be published, about August 1.

MORE FACILITIES REQUIRED BY INFORMATION SERVICE

Frankfort, Ky., June 25 — Response has been so heavy to the new Central Reservation Information office here of the Kentucky Department of Parks, that more telephone lines, another operator, and extra hours have been added.

"The response has been better than we expected," State Parks Commissioner Robert D. Bell said. "We have added another line each to Louisville and to the Cincinnati area and another operator to take care of the load. "And we're keeping the office open until 6 p.m. on week days and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays," he added.

In the first 22 days, 1,567 calls and 893 reservations were handled by the new reservation center. That's an average of 71 calls and 41 reservations per day.

Louis Hempel, training officer in the Division of Operations for the Parks Department, is in charge.

"We received 127 calls the first week," Hempel said. "And the pace has picked up until our one-day high of 156 calls and 77 reservations."

"The farthest call came from New York City. Of the three cities where we offer direct lines from a local number, Louisville has

State Payroll Curtailed In May, Gattis Says

Frankfort, Ky., June 25 — Significant curtailment of the state May payroll has been reported by Personnel Commissioner Walter R. Gattis.

The May, 1964, payroll, he said, totals $55,129 less than the April figure, reversing the trend in which May totals have exceeded those of the previous month for many years.

In spite of increased personnel in areas of special emphasis, such as the departments of education, corrections, mental health and economic security, regular employment dropped from 20,112 in May, 1963, to 19,998 in May, 1964, Gattis said.

The May, 1964, payroll figure for regular employees was $7,802,316.

REVENUES ARE INCREASING ON KENTUCKY TOLL ROAD

Frankfort, Ky., June 25 — Fast-growing revenues indicate Kentucky's toll roads are on a solid financial base, Highway Commissioner Henry Ward declared in listing receipts for May.

Ward noted that toll collections in May were more than a half million dollars for the first time and showed substantial gains over the same month of 1963 on the Mountain Parkway and the Kentucky Turnpike.

The Western Kentucky Parkway, which was not open a year ago, showed a healthy increase in May over the preceding month of April.

The Western Kentucky Parkway was opened October 27, 1963. Specifically, here is what the figures show:

Mountain Parkway—195 percent increase over May of last year. In 1963, $35,394 was collected and during this May, $79,952.

Kentucky Turnpike — an increase of 39 percent over May, 1963. Collections totaled $244,390 in 1963, and $340,933 in 1964.

Western Kentucky Parkway — a 20 percent increase for May over this April. During April, $104,937 was collected; May revenue totaled $126,749.

"This points up once again the financial soundness of the toll road system," Ward said. "Through this method we are giving Kentucky the modern highway facilities it needs, with the knowledge that these highways will definitely pay for themselves."

Each of Kentucky's toll roads is financed by a bond issue which will be retired by toll collections. Upon retirement of the bonds the roads will become toll free.

Work began in April on another toll road—the Central Kentucky Parkway—which will extend from near Versailles to Elizabethtown. Target date for completion is November 15, 1965.

Bert Combs Featured Speaker At Pineville; At Building Dedication

Frankfort, Ky., June 25 — The new Bert T. Combs Forestry building at Pineville was dedicated Thursday, June 25, at 5 p.m.

Housing the Southeastern district office of the State Department of Natural Resources' Forestry Division, a tourist information center operated by the Department of Public Information, and an area office of the Department of Parks, the $250,000 structure was completed in late March.

"The building was named after former Governor Combs because of his great interest in forestry," Forestry Director Gene Butcher explained. "The building was started in Combs' term and he furnished the money from the Capital Construction Fund that made it possible."

A bronze plaque in the lobby of the building is dedicated to Combs. It was unveiled at the ceremonies by his daughter, Lois.

Participating in the dedication were Combs, Governor Edward T. Breathitt, Natural Resources Commissioner J. O. Matlock; Parks Commissioner Robert Bell; Public Information Commissioner Cattie Lou Miller, Butcher, and Herndon Evans, editor of the Lexington Herald.

Floyd County Residents Years Ago

Group photographs of several decades ago were popular with young people in the region. Photographers were few and when one was available group pictures were in demand.

MARTIN STUDY GROUP FINDS COUNTY DEVELOPMENT NEEDED

BY HENRY P. SCALF

Several months ago a group of civic-minded residents of Martin county organized an improvement committee and sat down with their chairman, former sheriff Jack Richmond, to figure out what was wrong with the county and spell out what could be done about it.

In the former they succeeded so well that their report, "A Plan for Growth, Development and A More Satisfied Living," is 34 mimeographed pages of the starkest realism seen, if ever, in a long time.

The committee put Inez under scrutiny and what they found won't ever bring a tourist to town and of course that wasn't anyone's hope in the first place. The committee planned to tell the people what was wrong and offer a plan of action.

And what was wrong with Inez? Let the report speak for itself.

Kentucky 40 through the town is narrow and crooked, the town lies astride Coldwater Creek that baptized it with four and a half feet of water two years ago, eighty percent of the houses and businesses need modernizing, people completely ignore the "No Parking" signs, there are no modern restroom facilities except at one filling station and one restaurant, the courthouse and jail need repair from the roof to the foundation, commodity food distribution is made on the main street and creates a mammoth traffic problem. There is no zoning and planning group for the town and people build homes or businesses wherever they please.

After this realistic description of the state of the city the committee took the views of the residents. In the words of the report they found the "Attitude of most people is that something needs to be done but there is no need to try."

Following this flagellation the committee recommended, in terse prose, a course of action that would "furnish a wholesome and varied life experience for all its citizens by using all available resources."

"Create awareness of potential and shortcomings of the community," the committee wrote. "Develop a cooperative attitude by involving both youth and adults in planning and executing programs for community welfare. Have planning group study physical improvements needed, federal and state programs and general community operation. Create committee assignments for various needed improvement projects."

The Richmond committee didn't just point a finger at Inez and quit. It went over the entire county, spelled out in the report everything they found that was wrong and told the people what to do about it. It surveyed the economic aspect of the county, found trade and services had decreased one-third in ten years but gained in sales. It discovered 30 percent of the labor force was unemployed.

Recommended action was the development of a county industrial council to study potentialities, the encouragement of better use of raw materials available in the county, the publicizing of the area potential, the development of related business enterprises to existing businesses, training schools for youths and unemployed and the establishment of management schools.

Generalities, you may say. Yes, but in those generalities lie hundreds of specific actions that would do much to solve the economic blight hanging over Martin county.

The committee examined agriculture, found 95 percent of it was subsistence farming and that the area was a deficit one for egg production, milk, meat and vegetables. It delved into statistics on education and found 44.6 percent of the high school pupils dropped out before they reached graduation. As a move in the direction of solving the county's educational problems the committee recommended scholarships, retraining programs for the unemployed, modified school curricula to meet pupil needs, school consolidation, adult education, and better roads to facilitate pupil transportation.

In the problem area of transportation and highways the committee draws the picture stark and real. There are only two road outlets in the county, there is no bus service, 20 percent of the 2,400 cars and trucks need repair to make their operation safe, the roads through Inez and Warfield are so congested at times that only one lane traffic is afforded.

"The road systems are cluttered with junkyards, discarded autos and trucks and general unsightliness," the report pointed out. "It is quite evident that in many sections the right-of-way for state and county roads are being encroached upon by individuals. . . . Highway right-of-way on state highways are repeatedly cut by state road crews but the county roads are being crowded by vegetative growth."

What can be done about the highway problem?

Establish a coordinated county highway plan, the group advised, establish priorities on routes, develop cooperation between citizens and law enforcement agencies with a view to eliminating encroachments and further a safety program, widen streets in Inez and Warfield, extend the Mountain Parkway from Prestonsburg to the West Virginia line.

Richmond and his group widened out their studies of Martin county to include problems in housing and family living, problems in community services, and many others. They found the index of living for Martin county to be 78 while for the rest of the state it was 140. Approximately 60 percent of the families receive surplus commodities.

In its report of the community services offered it is noted that 93 percent of the county has electricity available, two telephone companies give service to approximately 625 people, fire protection is offered in Inez by volunteer firemen, the water supply of the county seat comes from individual wells and pumps. Warfield gets its water supply from Kermit, West Virginia. The county has two unsightly dumps for refuse located on main highways. There are no newspapers or radio stations but approximately 400 persons read the Williamson Daily News and 60 subscribe for the Paintsville Herald.

Tourism is not seriously viewed as a Martin county industry for a long time although the possibilities are great. The lack of motels and restaurants is a serious drawback. "Roadsides are permitted to grow up, refuse and junk cars give the county a cluttered, unkempt look," the committee wrote.

Recreation problems are discussed, problems peculiar to youth are viewed, and public affairs and leadership development come under the scrutiny of the evaluation group. In all areas it views things as they are, states the problem, sets a goal and recommended action.

The attached statistics are "shockers." There was a net loss of 34 percent to the county by migration between 1950 and 1960, the greatest loss striking within the age group of 15 to 24 years. There was a gain of more than 28 percent in the old age group. In other words the young were leaving, the number and percentage of older people were staying. There was a decrease of more than 43 percent in the labor force.

Kentucky last year became the first state to get a federal grant for mental health planning. Stanley Biostein, Louisville, former community health consultant with the State Department of Mental Health, heads the new Division of Planning set up under the $63,100 grant, which will run until July, 1965. Biostein describes the study grants as "first aid" for mental illness. The all-out attack, he said, hinges on the $29 million in federal funds made available last year by the Mental Retardation Facilities and Community Mental Health Centers Construction Act.

The Buckhorn meeting will be specially concerned with the $150 million which the act earmarks for construction of community centers. Funds for these projects will be allotted by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare as states complete their planning programs. The Buckhorn meeting is part of the total planning for the state and the first of a series of planning meetings in Eastern Kentucky.

Under the act, federal funds pay from one-third to two-thirds of the total project costs, with the state and local funds making up the difference. Kentucky's share of the total $150 million allotment has not been set.

Currently, there are 19 community mental health centers in the state. Most of them, however, offer but limited services and operate on only a part-time basis. They are located at Covington, Ashland, Bardstown, Bowling Green, Carrollton, Elizabethtown, Frankfort, Henderson, Hopkinsville, Jackson, Lexington, Murray, Owensboro, Paducah, Pikeville, Shelbyville, Somerset and Louisville.

The clinics being planned will be more than follow-up clinics or centers for out-patient care, although these functions will be important. Personnel will provide counseling for local schools, prisons and the courts; facilities for resident care; special services for children, the alcoholic, the mentally retarded and older people. A positive program to educate East Kentuckians in mental health will also play a role in the centers' operation.

Staffing and operation of the new centers will have to be financed by state and local contributions. Health insurance will also cover part of the cost.

The Council of the Southern Mountains, co-sponsor of the workshop, is especially interested in Kentucky's pioneer planning because it may show the way for other states to develop their own mental health programs. "Mental health is one of our most serious public health problems, and one that has gotten very little attention in the past," according to Bill Suters, health educator for the Council. "Therefore, the Council must be concerned not only for Eastern Kentucky but for the whole Appalachian South which the Council serves."

During the 31-day period the officers cited 630 persons for fish and game law violations and of that number 518 were convicted by the courts of Kentucky for a conviction percentage of about 80. Commissioner Clark pointed out. A total of 126 cases were lost and six cases are pending, according to the records of the Law Enforcement Division. During that same period the officers checked 37,391 license holders on the lakes, ponds and streams and in the fields, the report shows.

In pointing to the record Commissioner Clark referred to the mark set last year by conservation officers, which also was a new high. During 1963 almost 4,000 were arrested in the fields by the 115 officers while checking 176,135 licenses.

A rundown by Wildlife Districts shows: (arrests first and convictions second) First District—84 and 73; Second—82 and 59; Third—13 and 11; Fourth—72 and 59; Fifth—100 and 95; Sixth—97 and 90; Seventh—55 and 55; Eighth—55 and 39 and Ninth—92 and 47.

The greatest number of checks were made in the First District, with 7,231, followed by the Fifth, with 5,142, and the Ninth, with 5,066.

The Seventh district had the only perfect record of convictions.

Richard Moorman, a Leitchfield attorney, was elected as state president succeeding Barkley J. Sturgill, Prestonsburg.

Senator Hubert Humphrey, of Minnesota, was the keynote speaker of the convention.

Combs Family Organizes Association; Pineville Man Named President
The Combs family is now an association. At a meeting held recently in Lexington, the Combs Family Association was formed with former Governor Bert T. Combs, Lexington, as honorary chairman.

Other officers of the Association are: Mason Combs, Pineville, president; Paul C. Combs, Prestonsburg, vice-president; Gene Combs, Hazard, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Earle Combs, Richmond, historian. Paul Combs is a former law partner of Governor Combs, and Mrs. Earle Combs is the wife of the famous Yankee baseball player of the '30's. The board of directors is made up of 87 members of the Combs clan, stretching from New York to Florida.

The Association was formed mainly to formulate plans for the second annual Combs reunion which will be held August 30, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Hazard Memorial gym.

More than 1,200 members of the family attended last year's reunion. The Association expects between 2,500 to 3,000 to be present this year.

"We want to extend an invitation to every member of the Combs family to attend the reunion this year," said Gene Combs, secretary of the Association. "Come and bring your whole family and be a part of probably the largest family reunion ever held in Kentucky."

SPORTS CHATTER

By GORDON MOORE

Eastern Kentucky's largest single golf attraction, Paintsville's pro-amateur invitational, will begin July 10 and run through the 12.

For the past ten years more than 250 golfers in the tri-state area have entered annually, and this season's field is expected to surpass all previous ones.

The pros will play 18 holes on Saturday, July 11, and the final 18 holes on Sunday afternoon. They will compete for $1,500 in prize money with the winner picking up a check for $500, the second place finisher, $250, and third place, $75.

In the amateur event, contestants for all flights except the championship flight must qualify any time between July 5 and 9. Scores will be accepted by mail or by phoning 789-4234, Paintsville, until 6 p.m., Friday.

All contestants for the championship flight must qualify on Friday, July 10. Sixteen players will make up the flight, which will be match play. All other flights will be of eight players. All flights except the championship will play one match Saturday and two matches Sunday.

The pro-amateur (one pro and three amateurs) will be held on Friday and will consist of 18 holes. First prize will be $200, second, $100, and third, $50. Each pro will be permitted to select or bring with him two amateurs. One member of the local club will complete the foursome. Amateurs must play a qualifying round to participate.

Heading the amateur field is two-time champion Doug Miller, of Paintsville; last year's winner, Leonard Meek, of Paintsville high school; Harry Hoffer, 1963 champ; Wally Rose, Lexington; Ed Tutwiler, Charleston, eight-time West Virginia champ, and former Big-Ten champion, Howard Saunders.

The Kentucky semi-pro baseball tournament will again be held in Paintsville at the city park and playground. Play will begin July 16. More than 20 teams are expected to participate according to Ford Ferguson, tournament manager.

This year's will be a double elimination affair and the drawings will not be conducted until July 11 at 7 p.m. at the Big Sandy Bowling Lanes, Paintsville.

Any team in the state is eligible to compete. Those interested may contact Ford Ferguson at 789-9844, Paintsville, or write to him before July 11.

The divisional Babe Ruth baseball tournament will be played July 23-25 at a site to be determined later by State Commissioner Donald Butler, Owensboro.

Comprising this district will be the Prestonsburg Community League, the Floyd County League, the Johnson County League and the Elkhorn City League.

This year two tournaments will be held—one for 13-year-olds only, and the other for 13-, 14- and 15-year-olds.

Dayton Racing Pair Are Children Of Former Floyd County Residents

The Northwest racing area, centering in Ohio, boasts the only brother-sister driving combination in that part of the United States.

They are Stevie and Debbie Day, children of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Day, of Dayton. They are the grandchildren of Mrs. Amy Day, Prestonsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Wallen, of Water Gap.

We are indebted for the story to "Underlining Sports," a column by Don Getter, in the Dayton News Tribune, June 10.

Getter's story follows: Although both are two-year veterans at the sport, Stevie is only six-years-old and Debbie is nine. The young racers are pupils at Morrison elementary school.

The family lives but a few minutes from the Thimble-drom race track. And the Day family has been visiting the oval since Stevie was two-years-old.

Mrs. Day said even then the blond-haired youngster wanted to be a driver. So, his father promised him a car on his fourth birthday. And when the "big day" arrived the elder Day kept his word. Stevie then began his "racing career."

He first entered the novice class. And then this year he moved up to the senior stock division. Stevie is the youngest driver in this class.

In his two years of competition Stevie has racked up 16 trophies. Big sister Debbie watched her brother perform for about three weeks. And then she got the "bug." Last year she drove in the junior stock class and this year she also moved into the senior stock division.

Debbie is the only girl driver in this area. When asked how she feels driving against boys, the blond-haired lass said, "I don't consider them boys, just other drivers."

She said that someday she hopes to race in the Indianapolis 500. "But, of course," she added, "they will have to change their rules about women drivers."

Debbie has now won 58 trophies. Her biggest thrill came last year when she beat a girl from Cincinnati, who had never lost a race. The Cincinnati had racked up 339 trophies.

The cars are gasoline powered and have two and one-half horsepower. They can go 35 to 40 miles per hour.

Their father does most of the mechanical work on the racers. "But," Mrs. Day added, "Debbie can change a tire as well as anyone."

She added this is one of the few sports where both boys and girls can participate. She thoroughly approves of quarter-mile racing.

And the mother stated with a wide grin, "We're a real racing family."

Miss Bailey Honored For Work at Union

Barbourville, Ky. — Miss Patricia Ann Bailey, a Union College senior and graduate of Wheelwright high school, was given the Mrs. L. A. Geiss Home Economics Award at the annual Honors Day program held last week.

Miss Bailey was honored for having achieved the highest academic standing in the Home Economics field for this year and for the service rendered the department. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern M. Bailey, of Wheelwright.

STRETCH COTTONS FOR MEN. New in spring styles for men are all-cotton stretch shirts and slacks. Given their stretch ability through a USDA-developed process, these cotton clothes have good fit and retain their shape for smart appearance and comfort.

The combined use of household bleaches and cleaners can be deadly, though few women know it. Chlorine gas can be released by the mixing, and in a poorly ventilated kitchen or bathroom this can be very dangerous, especially to small children.

COAL INDUSTRY PRESENTS PLAN FOR NEW PAYROLLS

The nation's privately owned coal industry has presented a plan to Congress for creating new jobs and multimillion dollar payrolls in Appalachia with a minimum of government interference and expenditure.

How can this be accomplished? By the government creating a climate in which coal production can be expanded, industry spokesmen say.

As Joseph E. Moody, president of the National Coal Policy Conference, Inc., which represents all segments of the industry—coal producing companies, the United Mine Workers, coal carrying railroads, electric utilities and equipment manufacturers—recently pointed out to Congress, "coal is the largest single resource and industry in Appalachia."

"Despite the reduction of employment in recent years due to a combination of shrinking markets and automation of mining operations, the production of coal still provides, as of 1963, 126,000 well paid, stable jobs in Appalachia and its transportation provides full time employment for another 70,000," he said.

Moody pointed out that production is now increasing and the rapid increase in the productivity of miners is leveling off. This means, he says, that any reasonably large increase in production would have to be met by adding men to the work force.

How large is the potential for new jobs and payrolls in coal mining and transportation? According to Moody, 21 leading coal producing companies and the leading railroads operating in Appalachia were asked what it would mean if coal production could be increased by 25 million tons annually over a four year period. The consensus of these companies, after taking further increases in productivity into consideration, was that 32,000 new mining and 19,000 new

Sullivan Asks Drivers Watch Mail for License As Format Has Changed

Frankfort, Ky., July 2 (Sp.)—In an effort to rectify complaints by some circuit court clerks that many new applicants who have qualified are not receiving their drivers' licenses, the Kentucky Department of Public Safety suggests the applicants pay stricter attention to their mail—both outgoing and incoming.

"Postal authorities are returning approximately 15 licenses per day to our office," said Don C. Sullivan, director of driver licensing, "and the most common reasons are 'moved,' 'left no address' and 'unknown.'"

Sullivan advised that when the application for a license is completed before the circuit court clerk, the applicant should make certain the information given is correct. He added a driver's license also is used for identification by many business firms.

Sim McCarty, supervisor of the Bureau of Records and Issuance, feels that "many people may be carelessly discarding the new color type license when received in their mail because it bears no resemblance to the old black-and-white type license formerly used."

"Whatever the cause," said Commissioner Glenn Lovern, "we're doing our best to find out if it's an error at this end of the line we'll soon correct it, but right now it looks as if some of the license applicants are just a little careless in opening their mail."

Screening Program Set By Knott Health Dept.

All Knott county children born in 1959, and accompanied by one parent, will have the opportunity to obtain a pre-school physical and dental examination at the Health Department in Hindman, Monday through Thursday, July 13-16, and Monday through Thursday, July 20-23.

"All children of this age are required by the school system to have a physical and dental examination before entering school next fall," said Dr. Mary Fox, Knott county health officer. The doctor and nurse will not be coming out to your area to do pre-school examinations this year. So bring your child to the Health Department at the scheduled time, in order that your child may meet the school requirement for a pre-school physical examination.

Each parent who accompanies a child is also urged to take these physical and dental examinations.

Immunization Clinic Slated At Weeksbury; Law Requirement Noted

A pre-school immunization clinic will be held for the second series of injections at the Weeksbury postoffice, Wednesday, July 8, from 12 noon till 2 p.m., it is announced.

"If your child is entering school this fall, it must have its immunization up to date," a spokesman of the Health Department said. "If your child has not started its immunizations, then bring it to this clinic. If your child has started its shots, bring it to the clinic for the next one."

Under a new law all children must have their immunization shots before they can be admitted to school.

Joiner-Ryan Wedding Solemnized At Crescent City, Fla. Church

Crescent City, Fla.—The wedding of Miss Harriet Ann Joiner and Airman 2/C William Patrick Ryan was performed Saturday evening, June 6, at the river-front home of the bride's parents, St. Johns Lodge.

Airman Ryan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson Ryan, Enterprise, Florida. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. B. McCray before an altar of fern sheaves, hampers of white gladioli and standards of miniature, white cathedral candles. The white bridal aisle was marked with fern and white bows at the family seats.

Recorded organ music of traditional wedding songs was played in the background as the guests assembled and for the bridal party as they entered. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of embroidered peau chiffon over taffeta, featuring a bouffant skirt which extended into a full asslewide train. The fitted bodice with a portrait neckline was fastened down the back with tiny lace covered buttons. A flat bustle bow in back was attached to the taffeta sash. Her French illusion veil was held by a Dior flower headpiece, and she carried a white prayerbook covered with stephanotis, valley lilies and centered with a white orchid. Mrs. Elizabeth Bobo, DeLand, was matron-of-honor. Her gown was of misty blue peau taffeta and featured a bouffant overskirt. Her nose veil of matching blue net was held by a Dior flower headpiece of the same blue. She carried a colonial bouquet of shaded gold chrysanthemums. Dan Joiner, Jr., brother of the bride, acted as best man for Airman Ryan. Groomsman was Jim Gross, cousin of the bride, who also served as candle lighter.

A reception followed the ceremony and the parents of both bride and groom received with them. Also assisting were cousins of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gross, DeLand, Mrs. W. L. Holdings, Atlanta, aunt of the bride and Mrs. J. C. Noland, cousin of the bride.

After a honeymoon spent in the Florida Keys, the young couple will be at home in Biloxi, Miss., where Airman Ryan is stationed at Keeler Air Force Base. Mrs. Ryan is a medical nursing supervisor at the Volusia Memorial hospital, DeLand.

Out-of-town guests included relatives of the bride from DeLand: Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gross; and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Noland and children, Jimmy and Bart, and her mother, Mrs. W. L. Holden, all from Atlanta. Grandmothers of the groom: Mrs. Frank May and Mrs. George Ryan, Orange City; aunt and uncles: Mr. and Mrs. Earle B. Martin and Mrs. George Ryan, Jr., and children Susan and Debbie.

The groom is a native of Martin, where his parents resided before moving to Florida.

Weddington Named To Pacemaker Club Board of Governors

Joe D. Weddington, of Prestonsburg, has been named to the board of governors of Coastal States Life Insurance Company's 1964 Pacemaker Club. Membership in this club is limited to a select group of the company's outstanding salesmen, and Mr. Weddington's appointment to the board of governors was based on his being among the company's top producers during the 12-month qualification period.

On July 8-12, Pacemaker Club members and their wives will meet at the club's annual all-expense-paid convention which will be held this year at the Grove Park Inn in Asheville, North Carolina.

Record Student Number Enroll At Alice Lloyd

Pippa Passes, Ky. — A record 182 students from seven Eastern Kentucky counties have registered for the summer session at Alice Lloyd College.

The summer term is designed for recent high school graduates of the area who become first-time college students in the summer session. The enrollment at Alice Lloyd College is a select one and the courses serve a remedial function for students who need preparatory work in mathematics, English, history, or basic work in science. The eight-week session also stimulates and challenges outstanding students in introductory college seminar courses.

Attending from Floyd county are Cloteen Allen, Kenneth Allen, Terry Allen, Lillian Banks, Julean Bradford, Billie F. Brown, Flossie Carroll, Joann Caudill, Carol Ann Clark, Patty Ciek, Clinton Collins, Roy Dale, Danny Dawson, Yvonne Dingus, Virginia Draughn, James Dusina, Diana Elliott, Mavis Flanery, Bill Gearhart, Geneva Gibson, Evelyn Gilliam, Betty Green, Robert Griffith, Bonnie Gunnells, Denzil Hale, Juanita Hale, Jerry Hall, Peggy Hall, Roy Carlos Hall, Terry Hall.

UNIVERSITY OF FUTURE VIEWED BY DR. OSWALD

What will the University of Kentucky be like in the middle 1970's. Although no man can answer that question today with absolute certainty, UK President John W. Oswald is in a position to make an educated prediction. On the basis of current population figures, coupled with projections of available statistics on the number of high school graduates who attend college, Dr. Oswald is convinced that UK must prepare for an enrollment of 18,000 students on its Lexington campus alone by 1975. By contrast, last year's Lexington enrollment was 8,500.

In addition, says Dr. Oswald, UK's community colleges by 1975 will be accommodating approximately 5,500 students in comparison with the current 1,500. Thus, within 12 years, the University's enrollment will total about 23,500 students, he predicts. These figures are included in an analysis of prospects which the UK president has presented to the school's Board of Trustees. Along with the mushrooming enrollment, the University faculty is expected to increase in number from its present 969 to about 1,750. To cope with this vast increase in the size of its student body and faculty, the University soon will launch a major capital improvement program which now calls for 23 individual projects that will involve an estimated expenditure during the next four years of some $44 million. During the next 12 years, the University expects to graduate about 7,000 students in the arts and sciences alone. In addition, its projected number of graduates in that period will include 1,200 lawyers, 900 physicians, 400 dentists, 900 nurses, 1,400 agriculturists, 7,200 teachers, 2,400 engineers, and 890 pharmacists.
