SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

This Town... That World

NOTE TO CONTRIBUTORS: Write in in cursive, Sanskrit or any other language; misspell every other word, forget punctuation, do whatever you like—but, please, for the love of all who suffer, don't type it in all-caps.

WHILE OTHERS FRET...

The old celebrating mechanism is missing on at least two, and I've been sitting here, trying to think of something to write. I have all the time in the world, which doesn't help. But, just now, there has come into view something worth recording in type, though a picture would have told the story much better. It is three little girls, each with a brand-new orange popsicle, climbing a stairway, step by step, lick by lick. Ever notice how a tot will take a slow lick, study the result or what's left and then repeat the procedure? You can almost hear them purr.

CAMPING ON PARNASSUS

Every once in a while when I read an ad assuring the reader of fame and fortune if he or she will only enroll for a certain course or engage the services of a certain critic or manager, I am reminded of my first venture in writing fiction.

I had just polished off "Ismael" and "Self-Raised," and was convinced that I could write a story, and the world would be the poorer if I didn't. So I did, and, lo! out of the pages of the Saturday Blade and Ledger, or some such revered publication, there stared me in the eye an advertisement which told me that I could get this manuscript edited, typed, evaluated (not criticized, mind you), and perhaps marketed if it was meritorious. Only $5.

ACHIEVEMENTS NOTED IN PROGRESS REPORT

Completing four years of work as Superintendent of Floyd county schools on July 1, Charles Clark took a backward look on those years last week and reported to the Floyd County Board of Education at its meeting Saturday on what he found.

"The progress we have made," he said in a prepared statement to the board, "is certainly the result of our working together unselfishly... and the lion's share of the credit belongs to you, the members of the Floyd County Board of Education."

He listed these achievements:

1. Fifty-nine new classrooms constructed, all to be ready to receive pupils at the start of the 1964-'65 school year. Among the new structures added are the John M. Stumbo Elementary School, the Charles Clark Elementary School, six new classrooms at Betsy Layne, two classrooms at Martin, six classrooms at Harold, three classrooms at Prestonsburg high school four classrooms at McDowell.

2. A vocational school building completed at Hite and used last year to train 200 students who

PLANT SITE STUDY BEGINS IN REGION

11-COUNTY AREA SEARCH IN PROGRESS

Floyd Is Surveyed By Firm for Location; Jones Asks Cooperation

The search in Floyd county for industrial sites began this week as a two-man team representing R. W. Booker & Associates, St. Louis engineering firm, arrived here for site inspection and study of the industrial potential.

Arbor Jones, president of the Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce, said work of the team is expected to continue till the county has been thoroughly combed for potential industrial sites. The Chamber suggested to property-owners that their cooperation with the team will be helpful to the men doing the study as well as beneficial to the county's prospects for new businesses.

The same work is to be done in 10 other Eastern Kentucky counties. The St. Louis firm is making the search for sites under a $50,000 federal grant. From 100 to 120 locations will be sought, then this number will be reduced to 30 or 40 of the better sites.

Lee Carter, project manager, told representatives of the several counties at Hazard last Thursday night that those sites chosen as best "will get the full treatment of investigation" so that comprehensive data can be

Billy Wayne Thornsbury, of Melvin, who was arrested by Trooper Larry Hatton July 4 at Tram, and from whom eight cases of beer were taken, was fined $20, plus costs, and given a 30-day jail term by Magistrate Bryant DeRossett. Thornsbury also was placed under $1,000 peace bond.

SUITS SEEK STOP ORDER Sturgill and Stumbo Ask Nuisance Decision On Martin Businesses

Commonwealth's Attorney Harold Stumbo and County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill filed Wednesday a circuit court action to declare the Sea Cafe and Barnett's Recreation Center at Martin a nuisance and to close the place of business.

The action was taken, the suit pointed out, because Commonwealth officers have complained that the criminal processes have proved ineffective. During the past two years, it was alleged, ABC agents have seized large quantities of intoxicants on the premises. The last raid there was staged last Wednesday by ABC Agent Claude A. Flanery and State Trooper Elmo Allen, who confiscated 1243 cans of beer and 72 half-pints of whiskey, vodka and gin, and arrested John Rice as operator of the Sea Cafe.

A restraining order enjoining any person or persons from operating either or both places of businesses, both of which are located under the same roof, is asked in the suit filed this week.

Action to sell the property can be taken only after conviction of the operator or operators is effected.

The suit lists defendants, as follows: John Rice, Raleigh Barnett, R. (See Story No. 8, Page 4)

Baptist Church Revival Starts Monday, July 20

BEVERS

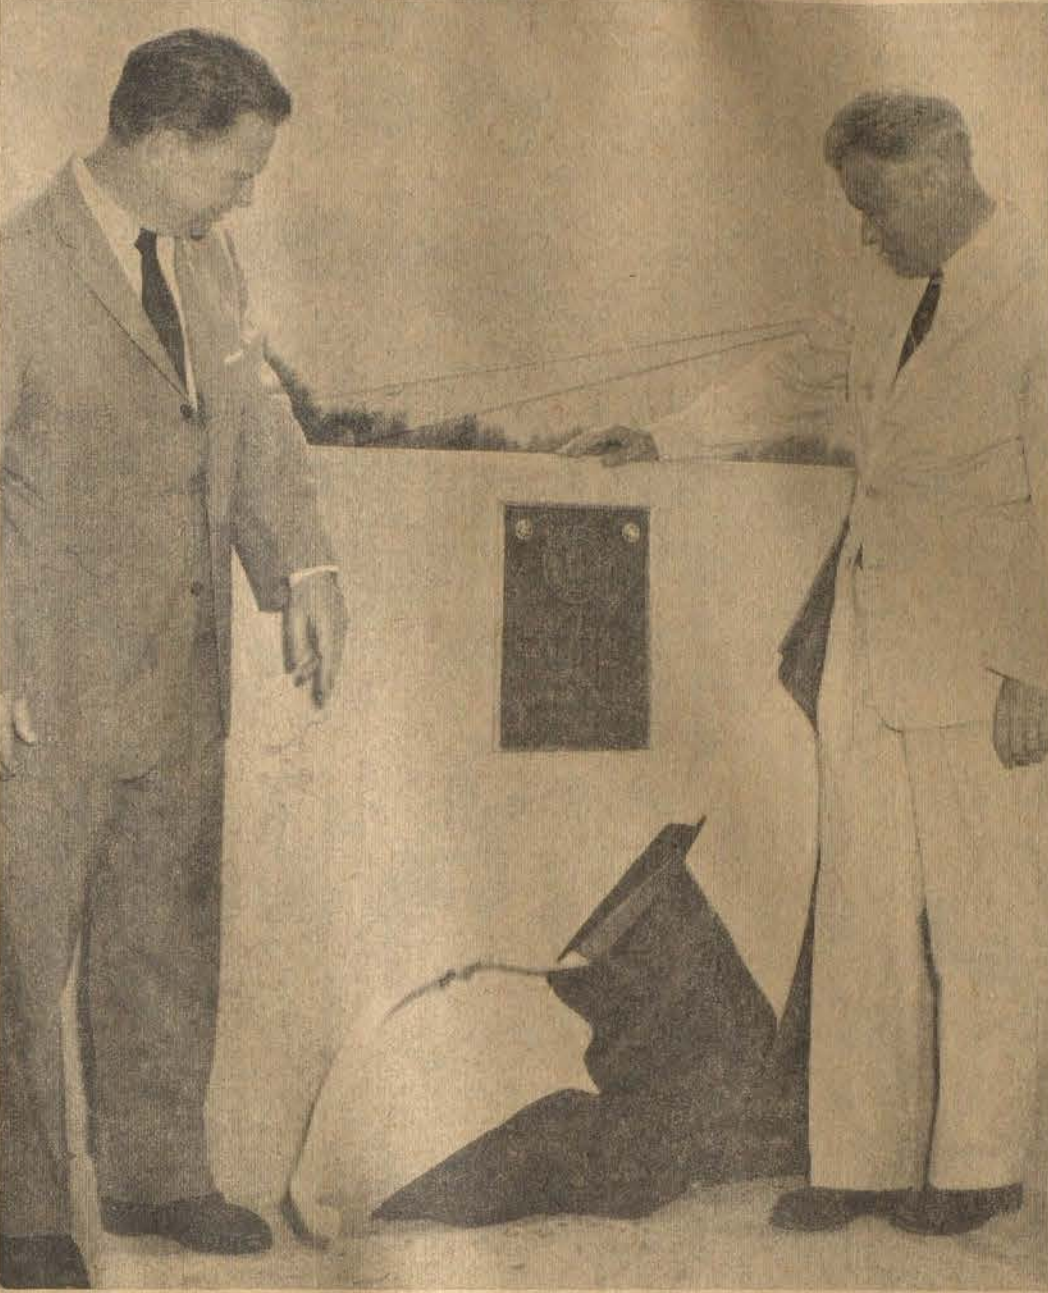

Two Texas college students will lead a revival at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, beginning Monday, July 20, and continuing through the following Sunday. Both are students at Lee College, Baytown, Texas.

Twenty-one-year-old Jimmy Bevers, a sophomore, will be the evangelist. Eddie Gray, 19, a freshman, who is song director of the First Baptist Church, Hoffman, Texas, will work with him as song leader. The two served as a team last year in conducting Texas and Oklahoma revivals, and this week are in a revival at the First Baptist Church, Louisiana.

Mr. Bevers plans to enter John Howard Payne College to complete his academic work. Mr. Gray is a volunteer for foreign missions work.

"Although the revival is youthful, it is not solely for young people," the Rev. W. D. Jagers, pastor of the church here, said. "All members of our church as well as the public are urged to attend and have a part in the revival."

The youthful team comes here, highly recommended by J. Edward Cunningham, Kentucky's Baptist director of mountain ministry work.

Ex-Governor Combs and Highway Commissioner Ward inspect newly unveiled plaque bearing official name of four-lane bridge here.

BERT COMBS BRIDGE CEREMONY IS HELD

Mrs. Dona Newsome, 63, East McDowell, Victim; Burial, Slone Cemetery

Surviving daughters and a son are Mrs. Leviatha Jones, East McDowell, Mrs. Annette Turner, of McDowell, and Elmer Newsome, Fairborn, Ohio. Brothers and sisters surviving are Philip Newsome, Ben Newsome, Milton Ramsey, and Mrs. Nora Martin, all of McDowell, Mrs. Cora Prater, of Printer, and Mrs. Melvina Berry, Tip City, Ohio.

FOUR NAME GAS FIRM

Successful Defendants In Suit Ask Recovery Of $400,000 Damages

Three suits filed in circuit court here last Thursday seek to recover damages totalling in excess of half a million dollars.

The largest claim, that of Forrest Burchett, Joe Wheeler Burchett, Otto Cisco and Bradis Goble against the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, W. W. Wallen and Homer Neeley, is for $400,000.

The action is an aftermath of a suit filed by the gas company on July 12, last year, against the four plaintiffs in the present suit. Allegations made in the company's complaint, it is contended, were such that the credit and reputations of the four men were damaged, causing them mental anguish and resulting in neglect of their businesses.

Their complaint points out that the company's suit alleged that they "through fraud and deceit wrongfully and unlawfully" appropriated natural gas from the gas company. By such allegation, they claim, the firm impugned to them the commission of a crime. Publicity given the Kentucky West Virginia suit also was cited.

Mr. Wallen, vice-president in charge of operations for the company, was named as having verified the statements made in the company's suit, and Neeley, land agent, is accused of having made, in the presence and hearing of others, statements which were, in substance, what was alleged by the company in its action.

SIX ADDED TO FACULTY

Enrollment Now 229, Campbell Announces; College To Open Sept. 3

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, president of the Prestonsburg Community College, this week announced the names of an additional six faculty members who will assume their duties with the opening of the college, September 3. This brings to eight the number officially approved for faculty posts.

At the same time Dr. Campbell said the number of student applications stood at 229. The enrollment is expected to reach at least 250 by opening day, and others registering for special classes will bring the total considerably above that.

Walter Frasure, of Allen, has been named to the college staff to teach education or psychology, or both, and to serve the institution as counsellor, dealing with student personnel problems. His Floyd teaching experience and work with the Floyd County Board of Education as assistant superintendent cover a period of 16 years. Mr. Frasure received his A.B. degree from Eastern Kentucky State College, Richmond, and his M.A. from Morehead State College.

WARD LAUDS GREAT VISION OF HONOREE

Theatre Dedication Held In Evening; Funds To Assist Drama Group

After hearing others extol him here Saturday for his accomplishments while Governor, Bert Combs reminded those who heard him at the new Bert Combs Bridge here and at the dedication of Jenny Wiley State Park's new amphitheatre later that Floyd county got things done "mostly because we presented a united front."

The great need for improvements here was one reason for things getting done, he said, but the fact that citizens, officials and other leaders worked together was the principal factor. And at both appearances he urged the people to continue working in that spirit.

Commissioner Henry Ward, of the Department of Highways, spoke at the unveiling of the bronze plaque identifying the new four-lane span as The Bert Combs Bridge, and introduced Ex-Governor Combs. "I have known every Governor intimately since Governor Sampson," he said, "and I have never known a Governor with a greater vision and sense of duty than Bert Combs."

Combs described Ward as "the best highway commissioner in the country—but that doesn't mean he can't improve. We've still got several things we need done up here."

Mayor George P. Archer welcomed Ex-Governor Combs home at the bridge ceremonies, and included in his hearty welcome Mr. Ward, referring to the two as the men who "had the guts and fortitude to do much for this land of many, many, broken promises—build this highway and this bridge and what this section needs for progress." The invocation was said by the Rev. Adrian Roberts, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

The bridge-naming was under auspices of the Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce. Ex-Governor Combs noted that it was a policy during his administration not to name any facility after a living politician. "I suppose they consider me sufficiently dead now to qualify," he added.

NINE CABS LICENSED

Seven Drivers Approved Under Recent Ordinance Governing Eligibility

Nine taxicabs and seven cab drivers have been licensed under the new Prestonsburg ordinance which became effective July 1.

Licenses were issued to Dayton Joseph for three cabs, Denzil Whitten for two, Eli Hicks for two, Harold Yates and Geneva Joseph, one each. Licenses to drive taxicabs were issued to Dayton Joseph, Paul Joseph, Harold Joseph, Estill Hale, James Dixon, Steve Smith and Denzil Whitten.

Each owner's license fee is $50; the driver's fee, $10.

The ordinance under which these licenses were issued provides that: 1. Each driver be required to supply a certificate signed by a reputable physician, attesting to his good health.

2. Each driver must be of good, moral character and must file with his application for license affidavits in which two reputable citizens attest to his good character.

3. Each driver shall not have been convicted of a felony or of any offense involving force of violence, or any offense of operating an automobile while intoxicated or of fast or reckless operation of an auto, or of any violation of the local option laws.

4. The chief of police shall investigate the statements made in each application, and no application shall be issued to any person who has made a false statement.

5. The license is subject to revocation if any of these laws are violated by the holder.

3 TRUCKERS DRAW FINES

Guilty Pleas Entered By Park Coal Haulers; One Bond Is Forfeited

Three truck-operators who had been cited for hauling overweight loads of coal over the road between Dewey Dam and the junction of the lake road with new U. S. 23, near Auxier, entered pleas of guilty Monday and were fined a total of $703.60 by County Judge Henry Stumbo in quarterly court.

The fines were levied in accordance with a new state law providing for the severity of the penalty to be graduated according to the extent to which the load limit was violated.

Vernon Thacker, who was cited by State Police for an overweight load of about 50,000 pounds, drew a fine of $500. Wilburn Butler, on the other hand, was fined only $39.30 for a 23,490-pound load. (The load limit for the road is 24,000 pounds.) Jimmy Ratliff, the third driver, was fined $113.80.

BERT COMBS NAMED TO HEAD DELEGATION

Floyd county Democrats in convention here Saturday afternoon named 40 delegates to the party's state convention in Louisville this week, and to head those 40 they chose Former Governor Bert T. Combs.

Combs, who spoke briefly at the convention, was chosen for the leadership spot by acclamation. A resolution adopted by the convention also endorsed the former governor for the post of national committeeman.

Other endorsements made by the convention were:

That Foster C. Ockerman be named chairman of the Democratic party in Kentucky; Mrs. Dann C. Byck, national committeewoman, and R. V. May, of Prestonsburg, one of Kentucky's delegates to the national convention. The Floyd group also asked that, if two delegates to the national convention may be allowed Floyd county, the second be County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill; or, if the county's representation is to be restricted to one, that Sturgill be named an alternate.

WATER BILL RAISE EFFECTIVE AUG. 1

The Prestonsburg sewage treatment plant will be completed between August 1 and August 15, and it is assumed by City Manager Curtis Clark that all customers of the service will be connected with the new sewer system by that time.

The 70 percent addition to the water bill to retire sewer bonds will be added August 1, whether the service is ready or not, it was said by Dick Davis, water plant superintendent. He noted that the city had a financial obligation and this would not wait on connections by all property-holders.

It was provided in the original ordinance that the added charge would be made when the treatment plant was 50 percent complete but this was later changed to coincide as nearly as possible to the plant's completion date.

The connection charge of $75 to be made for hooking customers on may be split into three payments if desired, it is said. The $7 charge for state inspection fees must be paid when the connection is approved.

There are nine qualified plumbers in Prestonsburg and Allen who are acceptable to the city for constructing the necessary plumbing from the homes to the property lines, Clark said. This is wholly the obligation of the property holders, it is emphasized. Remaining unanswered is the problem of the property-owner who is faced with a large plumbing bill, as well as the connection charge, and has limited financial resources.

Davis envisions the possibility that since pumping of sewage will start soon, whether the plant is complete or not, sewage might have to go into the river for a short period. Jack Wesley, of Bell Engineers, Inc., says that by-passing the plant for a while is feasible but that chlorine would be added.

The sewer lines have not been officially accepted from the contractor by the city but Bell has made the final general inspection and the contractor is correcting a few things pointed out by the engineers.

Wesley said that final payment to the contractor does not release him from the contract until one year has expired. Any deficiencies in workmanship or construction is the responsibility of the contractor for this added time.

It is pointed out that Prestonsburg's additional charge of 70 percent on the water bill is considerably less than that of Pikeville which charges 90 percent, or that of Paintsville, which is 80 percent.

PLANT ODOR RULED OUT

Dr. Russell Hall Says Martin Disposal Works Might Aid Land Values

Construction of a sewage disposal plant at Martin, if done according to specifications, will not result in any unpleasant odor or any depreciation of property values in the vicinity of the plant, Dr. Russell L. Hall, Floyd county health doctor, said this week.

The statement was made after Mayor John Roberts of Martin had said some concern had been expressed there about the plant's location and its possible effects.

"Actually, it could improve property values, since these sewage disposal plants and surrounding grounds are so designed and kept that they are very attractive," Dr. Hall added. He pointed out that the Prestonsburg plant is near the new Prestonsburg Community College and that its presence constitutes no liability in any way.

The gas company's suit was brought to trial in circuit court, and a jury recently gave a verdict for the four defendants.
For each of the four $50,000 actual damages and $50,000 punitive damages are asked. A jury trial is requested.
The second suit filed last Thursday asks $100,000 damages in the death of Jackson Kidd who was struck by a train at Drift last year. Mrs. Octavia Kidd, administratrix of his estate, named the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company and three employees, Don N. Hutchinson, Ted H. Salisbury and Taylor Begley, alleging that their joint and concurrent negligence resulted in the tragedy.
Damages totalling $20,000 are asked by Herbert Douglas Prater, 10 of Prestonsburg, suing by and in the name of his father, Herbert Prater, and naming as defendants, Lawrence Wells, 16, and his mother, Mrs. Virginia M. Wells. Plaintiff alleges that reckless and careless operation by Wells of his mother's car caused it to strike the bicycle ridden by young Prater. The boy, it is claimed, suffered permanent disfigurement, loss of school time and loss of earning power.

Our Yesterdays

(Items taken from files of The Floyd County Times of 30 and 20 years ago.)

Thirty Years Ago
(July 13, 1931)
Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was an unheralded visitor in Pikeville last week. Pollution must be stopped—Big Sandy river banks will no longer be dumping grounds, said a representative of the U. S. engineer's office here last week. Prof. Walter M. Byington, pioneer Eastern Kentucky educator, died July 6 at Danville at the age of 73. Greeley Laferty, 11, of Johns Creek, is believed recovering from leukemia, a disease regarded as rarely curable. Fletcher Combs entered Deaconess hospital, Cincinnati, to do his internship. There died: William David Cheap, 39, fireman on Train 36, scalded to death Saturday when his locomotive plunged over an embankment, near Paintsville (the engineer, R. D. McDonie, was severely but not dangerously burned); Mrs. Belle Buchanan, 67, of Coal Run, last Thursday at Honaker.

Twenty Years Ago
(July 13, 1944)

Clevis Whitaker, 28, of West Prestonsburg, missing in invasion; Louis W. Childers, of Wayland, missing in naval action; Pfc. Conley Kidd, missing in Italy; S/Sgt. William H. Hopper, 25, of Topmost, missing in Italy; S/Sgt. Bill Conn, of Printer, and Pvt. Hibert Mullins, of Bevinville, reported as prisoners in Germany; wounded—Pfc. Breehne, July 1 at Cincinnati, Ohio; Miss Faustina Fern Roberts, formerly of Osborn, and Mark Cecil Parris, June 10 at Seattle, Washington. DEATH CASE SUIT FILED
Widow Asks $115,000 In Johnson-Co. Court In Husband's Demise
A suit seeking actual and punitive damages in the amount of $115,000 was filed in the Johnson circuit court last Wednesday by the administrator and widow of Glen Fairchild, a prisoner who died early last July of a head injury allegedly suffered by him while a prisoner at Paintsville.
Named defendants were the City of Paintsville, its chief of police, William Whitten, Police Judge Robert Stafford, Police-men Ernest James Music, Ova Jones, John D. Collins and Dallas Jackson and the surety for the city and the officers, the Maryland Casualty Company. Plaintiffs are Virgil Fairchild, administrator of Fairchild's estate, and Opal Fairchild, his widow.

The complaint points out that Fairchild was arrested, July 6, last year, near Clyde's Shopping Center, and alleges that the arrest was made without a warrant and without probable grounds for believing that Fairchild had committed a felony; that Stafford as police judge later issued a warrant without a supporting affidavit, and that Fairchild later was transferred from the city jail to the Johnson county jail.
Plaintiffs claim that the arrest of Fairchild was made by the city officers outside the city limits of Paintsville. While a prisoner, it is claimed, the prisoner was struck and so injured that death resulted.
Damages to the estate in the amount of $54,000, plus $1,000 funeral expense, are asked. An additional $54,000 is asked as punitive damages.

introduced Highway Commissioner Ward and recognized county officials and others in the gathering.
Dedication of the park amphitheatre was a 3 p.m., with the former governor as the principal speaker. There he repeated his advice that the people stand together for the things needed by all. Quoting from Ecclesiastes, "A time to be born and a time to die . . ." he modestly described days of his administration as a time to build, and those following as a time to balance the books.
Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Commissioner of Parks Robert Bell spoke briefly, adding their praise of Combs' ability and dedication as governor.
Following the dedicatory exercises, the Saturday Night Jam-boree from WSAZ-TV, Huntington, provided entertainment. The charge for this entertainment was made by the Jenny Wiley Drama Association in an effort to raise a portion of the funds which must be provided locally if the Jenny Wiley Story is to be presented at the amphitheatre next year as scheduled.

made available to prospective manufacturers.

First knowledge here of the industrial site search came with the Hazard meeting which was called by Miss Katherine Peden, Commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Commerce. Attending the meeting from this county were State Representative W. J. Reynolds, Jr., John G. Heinze and Curtis Clark. Representatives from Knott, Pike, Perry, Martin, Letcher, Leslie, Knox, Harlan, Clay and Bell counties also attended the meeting.

Miss Peden said the Area Redevelopment Administration provided the money for the survey out of recognition that a void exists in the 11 counties which keeps them from competing for industry.

Damon Harrison, director of research in the Department of Commerce, also announced that Spindletop Research at Lexington is doing a survey in all 123 counties so that spots adaptable to individual industries can be recommended to manufacturers looking for factory sites.

Carter said the Booker firm's search will involve a study of facts and figures such as those already in possession of the state, the United States Census Bureau, and industrial arms of railroads and public utilities. Agents of the firm then will visit the areas concerned for direct observation and discussions with local officials and citizens.

Records in the County Clerk's office, the two officials point out, show that each of the defendants named may own an equity in the building. It had not been definitely determined, Wednesday morning, who holds title to the property.

Hatcher-Arnett Reunion Slated at State Park

The annual reunion of the Hatcher and Arnett families will be held Sunday, July 26, at Jenny Wiley State Park, it is announced. The meeting will be held at the picnic shelter area near the swimming area.
Cards were mailed this week to members of the two families and friends urging them to attend.

state money, he wrote. "We have also made progress in all the schools in Floyd county in improving the quality of instruction," the Superintendent wrote. "Better qualified teachers have been able to offer an expanded curriculum which has enabled the Prestonsburg high school and Wheelwright high school to be raised in rank from provisional high school to standard high school."

Well, I dug up the $5. off went the ms. scrawled in my best schoolboy hand, and soon it was back, typed and destined, I was solemnly told, for publication. They even suggested a list of markets.

That did it! I would astound the world—a sale, first trip out: a writing success, first crack out of the box. Off went the manuscript, stamped, addressed return envelope and all—"submitted at your regular rates."

And then the wait for the check; days and night of keen anticipation, hours when my only trial lay in keeping my secret till I came the time when I could prance in and inform the family that they were entertaining genius unawares.

Do I have to relate the painful details of the rude awakening? Let's make it short and just say, the story came home.

It was some years later when, digging around, I came onto that manuscript and learned how completely I had been taken. Could I have written that? And those robbers—they had added errors to those I made in the handwritten copy. Five dollars for that!

I was tempted to write my Congressman, the Post Office Department or somebody to report what these city slickers were doing to the poor innocents of the land. Then a second thought, and my anger died.

You ask me why I didn't crack down on those hysters? Because I looked backward on those days while I awaited a check from that magazine and remembered that those were days when I was miles away from this humdrum existence, a country school, water to carry or books to study.

Any time you can spend ten days to two weeks skipping through Elysian fields and not scaling Parnassus but literally camping out up there—any time you can do that for five bucks, brother, you're a sap and an ingrate to gripe about being bilked of such a mundane thing as money.

BLAINE BANK ROBBED BY BANDITS, TUESDAY

Two armed bandits forced Bank of Blaine officials inside a vault Tuesday afternoon and fled with approximately $19,000 in currency.

President John Lee Burton, his brother, father and a woman bookkeeper were able to get out of the vault within a few minutes and alerted the FBI office at Ashland. The holdup occurred at 2:45 p.m.

A 1955 blue and white Ford car, matching the description of the get-away vehicle, which had Ohio license, was found burned near Webbville, 18 miles away. Two men, who attempted to evade questioning at a Big Sandy River bridge roadblock were arrested soon afterward by Lawrence county officers. They were lodged in the Louisa jail for investigation.

President Burton in commenting on the holdup, said that he looked up from his desk to see a tough-looking customer loitering nearby. Moments later two men entered the bank armed with a long-barreled .22-calibre pistol and a sawed-off shotgun. The pistol-carrying bandit said to Burton, "This is it."

The shotgun bandit herded the four into the vault and his companion scooped currency from a vault safe into a red sack. On leaving, they warned the victims "not to try anything" and locked the door of the vault which is constructed of iron bars. The door locks automatically.

The robbers did not touch bags of silver in the vault or disturb anything in the regular banking room.

H. G. Burton, Sr., 67, father of the president, who has been suffering from a heart condition, wanted to put up a fight but was restrained by the others. He was induced to sit down in the floor while the robbery was in progress. He required the services of a physician afterward.

The other victims were the president's brother, H. G. Burton, Jr., and Mrs. Dolores E. Logan, bookkeeper.

The Bank of Blaine, a state-chartered institution, was founded 61 years ago in the 125-person community. Deposits are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and there will be no loss to the depositors.

OPERATE SMALL FACTORY TO MAKE PIPE ORGANS

Berea, Ky.—Pipe organs made by mountain craftsmen at a small factory operated by a former music student are part of a program to improve the economy of Eastern Kentucky.

Charles R. Ward started Kentucky's only pipe organ manufacturing operation near Berea in 1961 with only $5,000 capital. The business begun by Ward with one employee has prospered. By the end of 1963, C. R. Ward, Incorporated, had grossed $102,315 from sales, servicing and repair of organs.

The 27-year-old Ward was able to expand his plant in the foothills of Eastern Kentucky and hire five additional workers with the help of a $15,000 loan approved earlier this year by the Arts and Crafts Loan Fund Board. The board composed of the state commissioners of commerce, banking and finance has approved its first loans this year. It works with the Department of Commerce's Division of Arts and Crafts and the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen, which recommends applicants for loans.

"The loan fund is designed to encourage and enable Kentucky craftsmen to develop small but successful factory-type operations," Commissioner of Commerce Katherine Peden said. "It is part of the program of the Kentucky Department of Commerce to aid local industries, provide increased employment and increase the use of raw materials and natural resources."

Loans approved so far by the board total $30,500. They include loans to the Kentucky Mountain Crafts at Jackson which produces chairs and furniture; Mountain Crafts at Somerset which makes hand-crafted canisters and wooden items; and the Adair County Arts and Crafts at Columbia.

Ward said that because of the expansion of his operation made possible by the loan he will submit a bid on furnishing a small pipe organ to the Episcopal National Cathedral in Washington, D. C.

"The manufacture of a pipe organ calls for a high degree of craftsmanship and patience," Ward noted. "A good pipe organ cannot be mass-produced. The job requires painstaking attention to detail and quality."

Construction of an organ at the hilltop plant starts with timber purchased in the Eastern Kentucky region. The only major parts used that are not produced or finished by workmen at the plant are the metal organ pipes. Workmen are hired in the area and carefully trained by Ward and his assistants.

"We may be small in size but we probably have the only pipe organ factory in the nation that is located in two counties," Ward said. "The Rockcastle-Madison county line runs right through our plant. Sometimes we start working on an organ in one county and finish it in the other."

The factory has built pipe organs for chapels at the University of Kentucky, Morehead State College and Georgetown College in Kentucky, and churches in Lexington, Louisville and Chelsea, Michigan. Ward also services and repairs organs in Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio and Indiana.

Ward, a native of Providence in Webster county, was a music major and organ student in college. He was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1953. "I first became interested in building pipe organs when I helped a fellow college student restore a 100-year-old organ at Syracuse, New York," Ward recalled.

After graduation from college

MULCH HAS ADVANTAGES
A mulch of straw, sawdust, leaves, grass clippings, crushed corn cobs, planing mill shavings, paper, plastic, or some other mulching material offers many advantages when properly applied. Mulching reduces surface water run-off, reduces cultivation labor, cuts down weed growth, and adds organic matter to the soil when the mulch is plowed under.

NOTICE

Howard Goble, of Lancer, Kentucky, has made application to the Floyd County Court for a license to operate a place of entertainment on the Brandy Key access road to Jenny Wiley State Park to be known as State Park Drive-in restaurant.

Sheriff Says Dogs Not His Problem But Dog Warden's

Sheriff Henry C. Hale has asked THE TIMES to remind citizens of the county that he is not the county dog-catcher. Said the Sheriff: "Telephone calls keep coming in at my home, and at night, till I can't sleep at times. They want me to do something about the dogs, and this doesn't happen to be my job."

Sheriff Hale said that Buck Stumbo, of McDowell, is the county dog warden, and suggested that those needing help with dog problems should contact Mr. Stumbo.

ASSEMBLY RECOMMENDS THREE-TIER JUDICIARY

Frankfort, Ky., July 10 (Sp.)—A three-tiered, unified judicial system in Kentucky has been recommended by a sub-committee of the Constitution Revision Assembly.

The bottom tier would consist of a new subdivision of circuit courts, the second tier of the circuit courts themselves, and the top tier of the Court of Appeals, which would be charged with administration of the entire system.

Final adoption of the proposal in a new state constitution would mean abolition of all courts—such as city and county courts—now inferior to circuit courts.

These courts would be replaced by the new subdivision of circuit courts. One of these courts would be established in each of the state's 120 counties, with an elected associate judge. As many trial commissioners as deemed necessary to assist would be named by circuit court judges.

Under the associate judge-trial commissioner plan, the state's county judges would be relieved of their judicial duties and left free to devote themselves to fiscal and administrative management of county affairs. Elected judges of all lower courts abolished would serve out the terms to which they were elected.

General agreement on broad principles of the proposal was reached at a four-day meeting at Kentucky Lake State Park of the 11-member sub-committee of the constitution assembly's state and local government committees. Co-chairmen are Samuel M. Rosenstein, Louisville, and Maxey B. Harlin, Bowling Green.

It is believed, despite the creation of 120 new judgeships, that expense would be more than offset by abolition of the judicial functions of county judges, and magisterial courts, quarterly courts, and police courts.

Chief advocate of the proposal for election of an associate judge in each county was William L. Wilson, Owensboro. His reasoning was that many of the circuit court districts are multiple-county districts, some running as high as six counties. He argued each county should have an elected associate judge to expedite matters.

Among other features of the sub-committee's proposal is one that the clerk of the Court of Appeals be appointed by the court, to serve at its pleasure, rather than be elected, as is now the case. The method of electing judges—whether by partisan or non-partisan ballot—would be left to action by the Legislature.

is that an appellate judge, after serving one full eight-year term to which he was elected, could run for re-election on his record. The question on the ballot would be "Shall Judge _____ be re-elected?" A "yes" answer would keep him in office. A "no" answer would call for a special election.

The proposals agreed on will be put in writing by technical consultants for submission to the sub-committee at a meeting scheduled for August 22 in Frankfort. The next step would be to submit the proposed judicial article to the full assembly at its meeting in Frankfort on September 24.

The proposed new constitution would be submitted to voters statewide for approval or rejection.

Kentucky Polio-Free For 19 Months, Noted; Officials Optimistic

No polio in Kentucky now for 19 months!

That's the happy record through June, according to Dr. Russell E. Teague, commissioner of the State Department of Health.

"Last year was the first one in which we went a full 12 months of any calendar year without a case. We haven't had one now since November, 1962," Dr. Teague said.

J. Clifford Todd, state epidemiologist, reported some six million doses of Sabin oral polio vaccine have now been administered in the three different types.

Health officials attribute the steady decline and now the "perfect record" to the Salk and Sabin vaccines. The Sabin variety, a weakened strain of the live virus, is used mostly in the state now, Todd said.

"About 75 percent of Kentuckians have been immunized against polio," Todd added. "Some of the counties reached 90 percent in immunization."

"Our clinics all over the state usually were sponsored by the local medical societies and volunteer organizations in cooperation with county health departments. Vaccine has been available to every one in the state."

"It still is available in most of the 120 counties," Todd pointed out.

The summer months are considered the polio season, but until last year's perfect record reports started coming in around March or April, according to Todd.

A tremendous drop in polio cases first was noted in Kentucky in 1961 and 1962. Only 25 were reported in 1961 and just 26 in 1962, compared with a 10-year average of 484 per year from 1951 to 1960, Todd said.

Paralytic cases still were high proportionately, however, even in those two waning years of incidence, he pointed out. There were 19 in 1961 and 25 in 1962.

But no polio deaths were recorded in Kentucky in 1961 and 1962, in comparison with the average of 26 fatalities per year during 1951-'60, Todd said.

The record polio year in Kentucky was 1952, when 1,762 cases were reported, 924 of these paralytic. The death total that year was 129, also a record.

July Dates Fixed For Health Screening Of Knott-Co. Children

All Knott county children born in 1953 and accompanied by one parent will have the opportunity to receive a physical and dental examination at the Health Department in Hindman Monday through Thursday, July 13-16, and Monday and Tuesday, July 20-23.

"All children of this age are required by the school system to have a dental and a physical examination before entering school next fall," said Dr. Mary Pauline Fox, Knott county health officer. The doctor and nurse will not be coming out to various areas to do pre-school examinations this year, so Dr. Fox urged parents to bring their children to the health department at the scheduled time, in order that they may meet the school requirement for a pre-school physical examination.

Parents are urged to provide their own transportation, if they can. Free transportation will be provided for those who need it. Each parent who accompanies a child will also be urged to take these health screening tests.

Pulaski On Long Road Back Toward 'Peach Capital' Status

Somerset, Ky. (Spl.)—About 40 years ago, Pulaski county held the unofficial title of peach capital of this commonwealth. The county's production was so prolific and the product of such quality that buyers from as far as Michigan and Wisconsin vied for the output.

Then brown rot and the peach tree borer crept in. Within a few years, production was down to practically nothing.

Fruit farmers, however, never forgot what they once had. Today, 15 of them have taken the first step in a long-range program that could put them back in business again.

The East Lake Cumberland Area Development Council, with members of the local county agricultural extension service and other agencies, started this first step. They arranged for an approved school for selected farmers of small acreages, in which all the elements of peach work, planting, cultivating, harvesting, record-keeping, farm management, etc.—were studied.

Then they helped their selected farmers to buy peach tree seedlings and set them out. That was in the spring of 1963.

Today, there is a good start toward producing orchards. At present it is confined to Pulaski county, more or less as a pilot project—but there is a chance the project may start in other counties in the area, Clinton, Wayne, Casey and Russell.

The goal, well adapted to the county's potentialities: "Enough peaches grown here to satisfy the local market. We figure 300 acres will do it. We'd have no transport or marketing problems. Our buyers are local. We hope to furnish a top-quality peach," says Luther Small, associate county agent, and Joe Ball, area agent.

James Stacey, extension service horticulturist, thinks gross income per acre should be about $750. Production per tree will average, with proper management, about three bushels a tree. Most of the trainees have planted a minimum of four acres.

"Nobody will get rich off this. But we don't want these make-a-pile-of-dough quick schemes here. We figure that if we can add from $300 to $600 a year net to the income of some of our farmers, we've got a good thing going. If this project is practical, and we feel sure it is, we'll have begun something that can really mean something to us. We know $300 to $600 a year isn't a lot of money. But when you figure that money goes into the pockets of people who have restricted incomes, we're satisfied it will help."

A lot of Pulaski countians agree with this down-to-earth approach. It's the old axiom all over again. Small beginnings can grow into big endings.

About 60 acres have been put in already. The original students already have formed their own growers' association. Now they are waiting for the third year after planting, when first production can be expected. (Already, the second year, some of these seedlings have produced peaches; this is encouraging, showing that the trees will set fruit. This was one question the farmers were anxious to answer.)

In about five to eight years, production is expected—barring unforeseen circumstances—to be at its peak. From 12 to 20 years, depending on circumstances, is the useful life of a peach tree. Those set out so far are of many different varieties and range from early maturing through medium to late ones.

Paul Hughes, chairman of the county and area Council, says of the specialists' work: "Persons like Small and Ball, coordinating the activities of our council, have kept things going. We owe them a lot for their services. We can't give them too much credit for what they've done. I think we'd have had a much tougher time getting started if they hadn't been here to help us get started."

It looks like a peach of a future for Pulaski county.

Musick Family Reunion Scheduled In Virginia;

The Musick family will hold its eighth annual reunion Sunday, August 2, at the Southwest Virginia 4-H Pavilion, Abingdon, Virginia. It is announced by E. E. Musick, president, Rose Hill, Virginia.

There will be both morning and afternoon sessions, it was said. Prof. W. E. Gilbert, Radford, Virginia, will give a brief history of the family and Troy Musick, Alexandria, Virginia, will recall family reminiscences. Special guests, many of them from all sections of the United States, will be recognized.

A picnic style lunch will be served in the dining room at the pavilion. Visitors are urged to bring lunches.

The Southwest Virginia and Eastern Kentucky Musick families began in America in 1629 when a man with that surname, his first name lost in history, was living in James City county, Virginia. John Musick was among the passengers who sailed from the port of London, England, October 13, 1635, on the ship, Armitie, bound for the West Indies. He later settled in Virginia.

Family genealogists trace the family back to George Musick, born 1664 in Spottsylvania county, Virginia. He died in 1754. The family is of German-English descent.

A history of the family, edited by Rev. G. C. Musick, Anthony, West Virginia, will be offered for sale at the reunion.

ALWAYS HOT

when it's heated the flameless way

The word flameless is the key. This tells you right away the water heater is fast and automatic, dependable and trouble-free, safe and clean. Electric water heaters install anywhere — in a closet, under the stairs, wherever most convenient.

Of course, when all's said and done, a water heater's only job is to provide hot water — all you want, when you want it. And when you buy electric you get a water heater you can count on to do just that because only electricity provides flameless water heating.

$25 TRADE-IN NOW! Your electric appliance dealer or plumber will now allow you $25 trade-in on your present water heater toward the purchase of a flameless electric model.

Save your family from frustrating hot water shortages. Save money, too. See your dealer or plumber without delay. Offer for a limited time only.

KEEP SWEET CORN COOL. Sweet corn should be picked early in the morning, cooled immediately, and kept cool either with refrigeration or ice until time for cooking. Researchers have found that sweet corn quality depends mainly upon sweetness or sugar content. Unless sweet corn is cooled, the sugar in it starts turning to starch shortly after it is picked.

Rabies Clinics Held At 80 Points in Floyd; Ivel Schedule Is Told

A total of 543 animals were vaccinated during the annual series of rabies clinics sponsored by the Floyd County Health Department and only a few days ago completed, Dr. R. L. Hall, health officer, said this week. These clinics were held in 80 Floyd communities on six afternoons.

"This clearly indicates that the people of Floyd county are becoming aware of the dangers of rabies and are taking advantage of these clinics to protect their animals and members of their families against this dreaded disease," Dr. Hall said.

The number of animals vaccinated is small, as compared to the total number of dogs in the county, but a large number of dogs were vaccinated in 1962 and 1963, it was pointed out. Dogs vaccinated in 1962 will be due their next "shot" next year, since the vaccine is good for three years.

For various reasons a number of people did not have their dogs vaccinated this year, and so the health department has made arrangements with Dr. William G. Holbrook, veterinarian at the Ivel Stock Sales, to vaccinate any dogs brought there on Thursday of each week from 1 to 3 p.m. until September 1.

Corn Earworm Pest May Hit Sweet Corn

Lexington, Ky.—If you're growing sweet corn commercially or just as a home garden crop—you may be fighting the corn earworm pretty soon.

This brown to greenish-colored caterpillar develops from eggs laid on corn silks by the female corn earworm moth.

Control measures: If you are a home gardener, as soon as silks appear on sweet corn, apply 50 percent wettable powder Sevin, mixed at the rate of two level tablespoonsful in a gallon of water. This amount will take care of about 100 feet of row. Make the first application no later than two days after silks appear. Make a second application two or three days after the first and a third application within another two or three days.

If you are a commercial sweet corn producer, use one of these: Two pounds actual DDT emulsifiable concentrate in an acre mixed in 25 gallons of water, or one and one-half pounds actual Sevin 50 percent wettable powder in 25 gallons of water. Use high-clearance sprayers having four nozzles per row. Direct the spray at the ears.

R. L. Miller, UK Ag Extension Service entomologist, warns about use of DDT: The crop can NOT be used for fodder or forage for dairy cattle or animals being finished for slaughter. There is a residue problem.

If Sevin is used, there is a seven-day waiting period after application before the crop can be fed as feed or fodder to cattle.

When sweet corn is attacked by the corn earworm, the ears will show masses of moist castings at the end of the ear, and the kernels will have been eaten down to the cob by the pest, Miller says.

STATE PARK ATTENDANCE HIGH JULY 4 WEEK-END

Frankfort, Ky., July 9 (Sp.)—Almost half a million visitors at Kentucky's 34 state parks and shrines Friday through Sunday, the Fourth of July week-end, shattered all holiday week-end visitation and receipts records. State Parks Commissioner Robert D. Bell reported that a total of 491,413 visitors spent $114,423 in the state park system.

That visitor total was 216,521 over the previous high of 264,892 established Memorial Day week-end, and they spent $42,527 more than the $71,896 of those visitors just over a month ago.

On July 4, 1963, a Thursday, state park and shrine visitation totaled more than 152,000. In this year's record-breaking attendance, 332,493 were at the state's 13 parks with overnight lodging accommodations and 148,930 at the other parks and shrines. Facilities were 100 percent full Friday and Saturday nights in the 493 lodge rooms and 235 cottages occupied over the holidays by a total of 5,791 guests. Of these, 3,306 or 57 percent, were out-of-staters.

Rough River State Park, Falls of Rough, again led in attendance at the units with lodging facilities. A total of 72,495 visitors enjoyed this new state park, now in its second season of operation, Bell reported.

Second-highest in attendance at the vacation-type parks was Kentucky Dam Village, near Gilbertsville, where 63,500 visitors spent $23,460, the highest in total receipts at any of the parks. Of the 1,581 overnighters at Kentucky Dam, 849, or 53.7 percent of the total, were from out-of-state. Third-highest in visitor total was General Butler State Park, near Carrollton, where 58,272 persons spent $7,836.52. Of 364 overnighters, 216, or 59.3 percent, were from out-of-state.

The other vacation-type park attendances, in order with the receipts listed in parentheses, follow (where receipts are not listed, no admission nor fees are charged):

Cumberland Falls, near Corbin, 26,550 ($12,332.48); Audubon, near Henderson, 23,500 ($1,123.65); Jenny Wiley, near Prestonsburg, 23,103 ($9,133.75); Natural Bridge, near Slade, 19,736 ($6,336.55); Kentucky Lake, near Hardin, 18,500 ($5,930.11); Pennyrite Forrest, near Dawson Springs, 13,693 ($4,214.56); Lake Cumberland, near Jamestown, 11,631 ($10,752.77); Carter Caves, near Olive Hill, 9,511 ($7,175.48); Pine Mountain, near Pineville, 8,756 ($3,224.18); and Cherokee, near Hardin, 2,262 ($692.18).

Levi Jackson State Park, near London, with 20,297 visitors and $1,399.96 receipts, again lured the largest attendance among the 21 state parks and shrines without overnight accommodations.

Camping plus such day-use facilities as swimming and boating accounted for this total, Bell said.

My Old Kentucky Home, Bardonia, had the second-largest attendance, 17,492, and $3,294.99 receipts among the parks without lodgings. Greenbo Lake State Park, near Ashland, was third with 14,905 and $2,105.87 receipts.

The other day-use state parks and shrines, in order of their attendance, and with receipts, if any, listed in parentheses, were:

General Burnside, at Burnside, 14,084 ($931.11); Falmouth Lake, near Falmouth, 13,502 ($909.25); Pioneer Memorial, Harrodsburg, 8,157 ($907.22); Lake Buckhorn, near Hazard, 7,575 ($1,262.50); Boonesborough, 7,300 ($38.00); Columbus-Belmont, Columbus, 4,930 ($24.27); Lake Malone, near Greenville, 3,175 ($290.12); Blue Licks Battlefield, Mt. Olivet, 3,107 ($1,170.99); Big Bone Lick, in Boone county, 2,996; Jefferson Davis Monument, Fairview, 2,625 ($411.00); Lincoln Homestead, Springfield, 2,500 ($1,038.84); Dr. Thomas Walker Memorial, Barbourville, 2,420; Kingdom Come, near Cumberland, 1,203; Old Mulkey Meeting House, Tompkinsville, 1,060; William Whitley House, Stanford, 360 ($35.10); and Constitution Square, Danville, 175.

No visitor records are kept at Isaac Shelby Memorial State Park, Danville. Significant to Kentucky's tourist and travel business was not only the 57 percent of out-of-staters in the total of overnight guests, but the camping statistics as well. All camping areas were full. At Kentucky Dam Village State Park alone, Manager Phelps Anderson reported registration from 34 different states.

With this second-straight holiday week-end record attendance, Bell repeated his earlier prediction of 13 million visitation to Kentucky's parks and shrines this year.

Last year's record 11,077,477 attendance surpassed by some 2.5 million the previous high registered in 1962.

Small Business Loan Eligibility Is Easier, Blankenship Announces

"The very small businessman, chiefly operators of retail businesses and service establishments, many of whom have found it difficult to obtain financing in the past, will now find it much easier to qualify for government loans," R. B. Blankenship, branch manager of the Small Business Administration, told The Times this week. The new liberalized loan program was announced recently by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

"SBA Administrator Eugene P. Foley has frequently expressed the view that the agency, in the past, has not done as much as it should to help the small businessman," Blankenship stated. "Yet, they are often the businessmen most in need of financial help and those who have the most difficulty in obtaining it. The new small loan program is designed to meet this need," Blankenship stated.

Under this program, SBA will make loans to small firms up to a maximum of $15,000, for as long as six years, under greatly liberalized terms. Primary emphasis will be placed on the character of the applicant and his past record of meeting obligations, and no application will be turned away merely because he lacks collateral to pledge as security for the loan.

"SBA believes that you have to take a chance on people," Mr. Blankenship said, "and we are taking a calculated risk in cases where we believe the applicant has a favorable earnings' potential sufficient to repay the loan."

"We have simplified our procedures and requirements for these loans. We believe it is important to help the many thousands of struggling firms as a means of creating new jobs and stimulating the economy in our state and nation."

Blankenship urges businessmen needing this service to contact the Small Business Administration office, located at 1900 Commonwealth Building, Louisville, Kentucky 40202, telephone number 582-5271.
