

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1964

This Town... That World

AN INVITATION

No county in Kentucky has achieved a record of library service surpassing Floyd's. Now, with a new library building completed and occupied, the county has permanent and adequate headquarters for whatever work is needed in the foreseeable future.

The new library building will be dedicated at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, and open house will be observed from 1 to 5. All Floyd county and all friends of the library movement, wherever they reside, are invited.

SOMETHING FOR SOMETHING

Andrew Carnegie gave millions to build public libraries. The motivation for this philanthropy came in his youth when an old gentleman in Pittsburgh made available to working boys on Sunday afternoons his library of 400 volumes. The youngsters could borrow a book for a week, and Carnegie grasped the opportunity.

Years later, owner of a vast fortune, he remembered the needs of other youngsters. And so he gave generously to the building of libraries. In his autobiography Carnegie wrote: "The fundamental advantage of a library is that it gives nothing for nothing. Youth must acquire knowledge for themselves."

TURN BACKWARD

I can remember the time when the nearest I could hope to attain complete bliss would have been to get inside a library full of books. That was when you waited a month for a magazine, contrived to buy—if you were lucky—a paperback novel every few months, and wondered what transcendent genius could create such masterpieces. Turn off the TV, give me an oil lamp and a book—and good eyes and an inquiring mind again!

INJUNCTION IS SOUGHT

Martin Property-Owners Say Proposed Location Of Plant Is Injurious

Thirty property-owners at Martin have filed suit in the Floyd circuit court seeking to enjoin the city of Martin and the Ramsey & Clubb Construction Company from locating on a selected site the town's proposed sewage disposal plant.

The plaintiffs, who claim to own property nearest the proposed site, contend that the sewage disposal installation will constitute a nuisance and cause offensive odors to be "let loose" upon the community and their property, rendering their homes uninhabitable and impairing the value of their property.

They also contend that an alternate site was available to the city and that it would have been 1,000 feet from the nearest residence.

The suit claims that the proposed plant is within 65 feet of the property of three of the plaintiffs, Bill Wells, D. P. Dingus and D. E. Chafin; that it is within 100 feet of the property of four others, Lloyd McGarey, Jennie Arrington, John P. Sammons and D. M. Hutchins. Properties of other defendants are from 125 to 300 feet distant, the petition says.

Other plaintiffs are Steve H. Stout, Mrs. Ray Allen, Hazel Adams, Mrs. Cecil Conley, William M. Peiry, J. R. Key, Mrs. J. R. Key, John C. Hall, Kathryn O. Hall, Glenn C. Patrick, Virgie Patrick, Estill and Juanita Newcome, G. W. Speiser, John L. Maddox, Ada Wilson, John Wilson, Dora W. Spradlin, Glenn Spradlin, Joyce Dermont, R. E. Dermont, Olin A. Elliott and Cecil Conley.

NAB ALLEGED BANDIT ON BRANHAM'S CREEK

SECOND MAN IN ROBBERY IS SOUGHT

$12,358 Is Seized In Alabama Holdup; $5,300 Is Recovered

One of two alleged bandits who last Friday robbed a Sylacauga, Alabama bank of almost $13,000 was arrested by FBI agents Monday night at the home of his father-in-law on Branham's Creek, this county.

The prisoner, Curtis Eugene Slaughter, 32, was arraigned Tuesday in U. S. district court at Pikeville, Edward Melin, 52, who is sought as the second man in the holdup, remains at large.

Slaughter was arrested at the home of Nathan Carroll, and it was said that $5,300 in currency was found in his possession.

Carroll told The Times that his daughter and Slaughter, a native of Goodwater, Alabama and a former Columbus, Ohio manufacturing plant employee, were married about three years ago. After bringing his wife to her father's home, he left, Tuesday of last week, to go to Alabama, returning to the Carroll home last Sunday.

Carroll said Slaughter told him that he was in trouble and that he had called the FBI.

A Branham's Creek man said he saw Slaughter and another man, a day or two prior to Slaughter's arrest, driving a green 1963 Chevrolet. He expressed the belief that the second man may have been Melin, the prisoner's alleged accomplice in the robbery.

Warrants charging Slaughter and Melin with the robbery of the Peoples Bank & Trust Company at Sylacauga, were filed Saturday by the F.B.I.

The two men were stopped at a police roadblock shortly after the robbery. They were questioned at the Opelika state trooper station and photographed, then disappeared when released for lack of evidence.

Later, four bank employees identified the pictures as the holdup men.

Bank officials said the exact haul was $12,358.75.

Bank employees said one of the robbers held a pistol on them while the other man scooped up the money from two cash drawers.

LT. JONES IS KILLED IN THAILAND MISHAP

Second Lt. William H. Jones, III, 23, formerly of Prestonsburg, and two other U. S. Army officers were killed last Friday in Thailand in the wreckage of the military vehicle which they occupied.

News of the tragedy was received here by the young officer's father, William H. Jones, Jr. It was later learned that the vehicle involved in the wreck hit the ridge of a road shoulder and overturned. Further details had not been learned, Tuesday morning.

Other victims were Lt. Basil M. Parks, III, Washington, D. C., and Lt. Douglas F. Matthews, Royal Oak, Michigan.

The body of Lt. Jones will be returned to Prestonsburg for burial.

He was graduated from the University of Kentucky with the class of 1962 and had planned to study law upon conclusion of his Army service. Entering the Signal Corps last September, he completed basic training at Camp Gordon, Georgia, November 22, and left for Thailand early in January. His overseas service would have ended within a few weeks.

At the University of Kentucky young Jones was a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, president of the Young Democrats' Club and was Kentucky chairman of Young Democrats' Clubs at the University and Kentucky colleges. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

Surviving are his father, his mother, Mrs. Marguerite Jones, of Louisville, his grandmother, Mrs. William H. Jones, Sr., and his aunt, Miss Frances Jones, both of Prestonsburg.

Compressor, Bulldozer Purchased for $30,600 By Floyd Fiscal Court

The Floyd fiscal court at its Saturday session accepted the low price asked by the Brandeis Machinery Company for an air compressor with attachments and a bulldozer, and authorized the purchase of the items for $30,600.

At an earlier meeting the court voted to permit use of the circuit courtroom by the Presbyterian Church here for worship services, beginning January 1 and continuing till the new church structure is completed. At the same meeting the $436,600 total of insurance carried on the courthouse was divided equally among the Hall-Music Insurance Agency here, the Big Sandy Insurance Agency at Martin and the Ralph Allen Insurance Agency, of McDowell.

SECOND JURY TRY STALLS

Commonwealth Enters Venue Change Motion In Roy Salisbury Case

The Commonwealth last Friday gave up on its second attempt to qualify a jury under the death penalty for the trial of Roy Salisbury, charged with the murder of Mrs. Mallie Denney, one of three persons he is accused of having slain at Drift.

The Commonwealth's motion for a change of venue will be heard next Wednesday by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

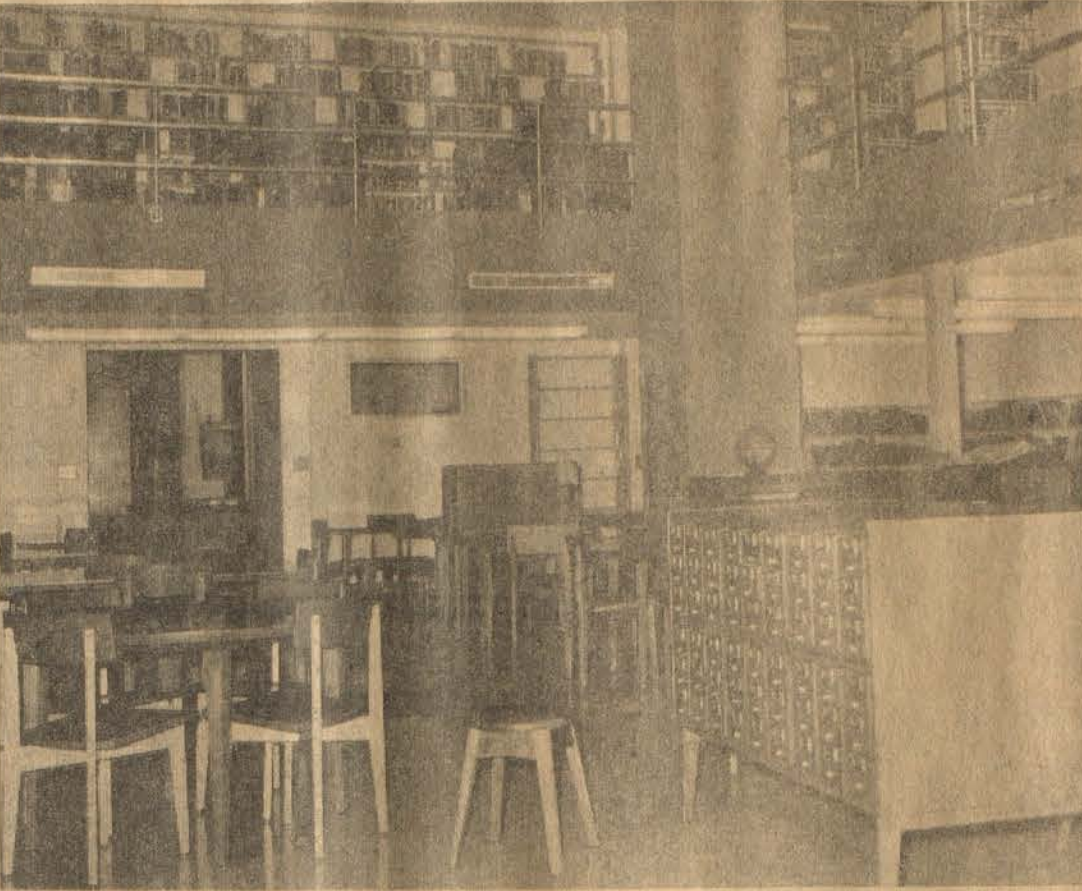

Continuance of the case and dismissal of the jury came after 385 veniremen from Martin county had been examined and after 12 had been tentatively seated as jurors. The jury was accepted by the Commonwealth.

When Defense Attorney Burnis Martin challenged seven of the panel however, the attempt to qualify a jury ended.

The first try at qualifying a jury for the death penalty, if the evidence warranted the action, was made in October when 370 from this county were examined to no avail. That attempt ended with the court order calling for a Martin county jury for the November trial of the case.

The Salisbury case consumed all of last week's court work, with the regular docket slated to begin Monday of this week. When some defendants failed to appear for trial, bonds were forfeited and bench warrants were issued, marked, "No bond."

Junior Woman's Club Sponsors Annual Pre-Yuletide Parade Here

The Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club again this year will sponsor the annual Christmas Parade here.

Saturday, November 23, has been set for the 1964 event which will officially open the yule season locally.

Several details of the parade remain to be arranged but the general plan had fairly well developed last week.

A feature of the day will be the naming of Miss Snow Queen—1964. The assembling of all bands, floats and automobiles at the Prestonsburg grade school will be at 1 p.m. for the Snow Queen selection and coronation.

Competing for the title will be girls representing the various high schools of the county, and the naming of Miss Snow Queen will be at the grade school auditorium prior to the parade.

WIFE SHOOT'S SALISBURY

Husband Shot 5 Times After Drunken Threats, Woman Tells Officers

Mrs. Mary Patton Salisbury, 55-year-old grandmother of seven, surrendered here Wednesday morning to Sheriff Henry C. Hale after she had shot her husband, Toby Salisbury, 62, five times at their trailer-home on Goose Creek, near Northern.

Salisbury's condition was regarded as critical. He underwent surgery Wednesday afternoon at St. Mary's hospital, Huntington, West Virginia.

The woman said she fired in defense of her life when her husband, armed with what he called a "big knife," which really is a bayonet, and a shotgun, threatened to kill her. She said Salisbury was drunk and that she spent a sleepless night.

The shooting took place shortly before daybreak, Mrs. Salisbury said. "He made me get his big knife. My shoulder is sore where he grabbed and held me, but I tore loose and ran, and he got the shotgun."

She said that she found his revolver and that she screamed, begging to him, when he pointed the shotgun at her. "I emptied the pistol," she added.

Mrs. Salisbury said she accompanied her husband in an ambulance to Our Lady of the Way hospital at Martin and wanted to go on to Huntington with him.

Both had been previously married and their children were of these marriages.

Her attorney, Burnis Martin, permitted her to talk freely in his presence. He hoped Wednesday afternoon to have a shooting and wounding warrant sworn out for his client's arrest, then to be able to arrange her release under bond.

FLOYD PARTY TIFF BREWS

Leadership of Party Sought by 2 Groups; Ranier, Conley Contend

A struggle for organizational power is in the making in the Democratic party of this county, it was learned this week.

After the party's overwhelming show of strength in the November election, and with a county election looming in 1965, the "solid front" of a few weeks ago began dissolving, with two factions girding for the organizational fight.

The apparent struggle is developing over the election of a county party chairman. Reported candidates for the post now held by Samuel Hale are James "Red" Conley, of Price, and H. B. Ranier, of Prestonsburg.

The election of precinct committeemen will be held Saturday, Dec. 5. On the following Saturday these will name a chairman for each of the county's two legislative districts, and these, in turn, will name the county chairman.

The Dec. 5 precinct committee voting will under normal circumstances determine the eventual winner.

Daughter To Return, Release of Father Seen

A six-year-old girl was expected to arrive at the courthouse here Wednesday morning after a plane trip from Englewood, California, and on her safe arrival may depend her father's liberation from prison.

The little girl was taken to California recently by her father, Sidney Hutchins, allegedly without her mother's permission. Result was—Mrs. Barbara Hutchins procured a kidnapping warrant for the arrest of her ex-husband. On his arrival in California he was jailed.

But the father, it was said at the Sheriff's office, arranged for the girl's plane fare to Louisville where she was to be met by his sister and brought here to rejoin her mother.

And that is expected to end Hutchins' current troubles with the law.

Temperance Crusade Planned To Depict Alcoholism Peril

The week of Nov. 29-Dec. 5 will be devoted to the Floyd County Temperance Crusade under the auspices of the Floyd County Ministerial Association, it was announced here this week.

The crusade will be devoted, in the main, to the dissemination of information and a preventive effort. A speaker from the Kentucky Temperance League will appear at all high schools of the county, and his message will be emphasized by the presence of Elmer, the electronic robot. Films, as well as free literature, will be made available. The various pastors will deliver temperance sermons at regularly scheduled worship services, and special radio programs will be given during the week.

The entire program will emphasize the education of the public, particularly youth, with the moral and physical dangers inherent in the drinking of alcoholic beverages to be stressed.

RAID NETS INTOXICANTS

Heavy Liquor Haul Made by Police Here; Arrest Dayton Joseph

Possibly the heaviest liquor haul made in a raid staged late Saturday afternoon by Prestonsburg police on premises owned by Dayton Joseph.

Four hundred seventy-two half-gallons of whiskey, vodka and gin were confiscated by Chief of Police Bill Potter and Policemen Ray Click, C. W. Booth and Ralph Thornsbury. They searched the Joseph premises, which are in the locality known as Joseph Flats, on a search warrant issued by Police Judge Walt Hale.

The liquor was found in an old, abandoned car on the Dayton Joseph property, police said. Joseph was arrested and placed under bond.

The Dec. 5 precinct committee voting will under normal circumstances determine the eventual winner.

At the dedication Mrs. R. V. May, Library Board chairman, will preside. Among the speakers will be County Superintendent Charles Clark, ex-officio member of the board, and other board members.

GOBLE FILES SUIT IN RECC ELECTION

Election of a director in District 5 for the Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative is the subject of a suit filed in circuit court here by Bradis Goble, of Emma, who on the basis of present figures lost the race for the directorship last July to Woodrow Branham, of the Auxier road.

Named defendants in the action are the RECC, Mort Mullins, Burl Ward, Cecil Daniels, Russell Goble, Arnold Lowe, Hobart Younce, Woodrow Branham, Zeb Ousley, Perry Green and Odra Skaggs.

Goble's complaint says Ousley, Green and Skaggs were appointed to the election commission for the July voting but that they were not duly appointed, in that they were not selected by a majority of disinterested directors.

Instead, it is claimed, the three were named by one disinterested director and by three other directors who were candidates for re-election at the same time.

The canvass of returns, made about July 16, showed that Branham received 892 votes to 736 for Goble. But, the plaintiff contends, there were votes cast for him which were valid under the cooperative's by-laws but which were not counted. If these had been counted, he claims, he would have won the election.

A request made about July 25 for a recount resulted in the slating of two meetings but a refusal to recount, Goble alleges. He asks the court either to appoint three new election commissioners and direct a recount or to set the election aside and order the holding of a new.

QUEST FOR BOOKS AND LEARNING BEGAN WITH PIONEER SETTLERS

BY HENRY P. SCALF

The Eastern Kentucky Regional Library, to be dedicated Sunday, is more than a fabulous display of books and the beautiful building that houses them. It is a milestone for a people who have been on the questing road of learning for a century and a half.

The quest began when the first people came and built "fireboards" or mantels upon which they laid a few treasured volumes that had been brought from Virginia or North Carolina. The first milestone was marked when settlers by cooperative effort built a rude schoolhouse of logs, mud and boards and hired the first itinerant schoolmaster who came straggling through the area with few worldly belongings and little in the way of learning.

The little-qualified schoolmaster and the mud-chinked schoolhouse would do for the present, would suffice until the fields were cleared, the comforts of a home increased and a worldly competence advanced. In the meantime the children learned from home-made books, many of them bound with deerskin, and wrote in the sand or like Lincoln, marked and ciphered on the back of a poplar shovel. In the evenings, especially when winter winds roared outside and snow sought the cracks in the log house, the parents took down from the "fireboard" the books of their former homes and the precious Bible. It was the best they could do now and they and their children would have to wait.

They waited a long time, the quest for knowledge hindered and blocked by mighty mountains and roadless terrain that excluded the "outside" world. Decades came and went, log cabin development moved in to push aside the pioneer economy. A few churchhouses were erected, more and more the log schoolhouses dotted the valleys. But there were still few books and fewer good teachers. The children continued to write and cipher on rude slates and wipe their arithmetical problems away with spittle.

More years and still the long wait. The Civil War had come and gone, in its path an embryonic school system was wrecked but the mountaineer did learn something of the outside. He met and talked to Ohions who told of Oberlin College and Hiram College, to Southwest Virginians who talked of Emory and Henry. Others mentioned their daily newspapers, books and libraries and free educational systems. The horizons widened for the mountain people.

Campbell Stresses Need for Education To Meet Challenges

Dr. Henry Campbell, director of Prestonsburg Community College, was the guest-speaker at the meeting of the Prestonsburg Women's Club, Nov. 5 at May Lodge. Speaking on the topic, "Preparation for Our Changing World," he pointed out that, with the rapid change and advancement in knowledge and technology, educational systems are challenged to keep pace with the changing times. He said that much that a college freshman learns is outdated at the time of his graduation. Dr. Campbell also outlined some of the tentative plans for expansion of the college here.

Mrs. Edmund R. Burke presented Mrs. Arthur Haywood and the Prestonsburg Community College glee club, which entertained with several numbers.

Mrs. Clyde Burchett, club president, conducted the business session, at which time it was decided to contribute $20 to the Veterans' Hospital Christmas Fund and to allot $50 toward the annual Christmas parade.

Mrs. Burchett announced that there will be a program on arthritis and rheumatism at the Floyd County Library, Nov. 17 at 7:30 p.m. The admission charge will be contributed to the fund drive for arthritis and rheumatism.

The club voted to cooperate with the Community Development Council in raising funds for new outdoor Christmas lights for Prestonsburg.

Mrs. Woodrow Allen, chairman of the educational committee, announced that $129 had been raised at a recent rummage sale. The major portion of these proceeds will be used to provide a scholarship for a needy student at Prestonsburg Community College.

Part of the money will be used to place the book, "Helen Keller—Teacher," in the Floyd County Library in memory of Miss Anna Martin, a former Floyd county teacher.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served to 53 members and guests.

CIVIL RIGHTS CASES HEARD

Compliance Promised After Discrimination Complaints Lodged

Frankfort, Ky.—Compliance with the federal Civil Rights law has been promised in 13 charges of discrimination received and investigated by the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights since the Act became effective in July.

Galen Martin, Commission executive director, said the complaints were mostly directed toward restaurant operations. They are in contrast to thousands of restaurants, motels, hotels, movie houses, and places of entertainment in Kentucky which are complying with the law, he pointed out.

Three of the 15 complaints received were dismissed for lack of "probable cause," or probability of a justified complaint.

Two proprietors have signed written agreements stating their willingness to serve all patrons without discrimination and three other proprietors are in the process of making such agreements with the Commission, Martin said.

In five other cases, proprietors have given assurances of their willingness to serve all patrons but the cases are being held open pending evidence that they are complying with the law. Two additional complaints are now under investigation.

To further explain the public accommodations title of the Civil Rights law, the Commission recently distributed 7,000 copies of "Memo to Managers," to all covered businesses in the state.

Tourney Runnerup

Eleven-year-old Scott Cline, of Prestonsburg, is the runnerup in the district pass, punt and kick tournament held at Xavier University, Cincinnati, Ohio, recently where he competed with local winners from other Kentucky communities and those from surrounding states.

He lost by a scant nine feet as his aggregate distance was 265 feet. So close was his score to that of the winner that the scores were compiled and studied for an official decision.

The Prestonsburg boy is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Scott Cline and is a fifth grade pupil here. The contest was sponsored nationally by the Ford Motor Company and locally by Jack Walters Ford.

Estill Miner Dies At Martin Hospital

Graden Morgan, 40, of Estill, died Friday at the Beaver Valley hospital. He was ill two years, seriously so ten days. He was a miner.

Mr. Morgan was a son of Mrs. Nancy Johnson Morgan Howard, of Topmost, and the late Millard Morgan. His wife, Gladys Hall Morgan, survives.

Surviving sons and daughters are Donald, Graden, Jr., Jerry, Nancy and Linda Faye Morgan, all at home, and Mrs. Anna Lou Mullins, of Estill. One sister, Mrs. Grace Thornsbury, Willard, Ohio, survives.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at 10 a.m. from the home of his mother, the Rev. Troy Nickles officiating. Burial was made in the Caudill cemetery at Topmost under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

To Interest Tourists

The tourist season will soon be upon us, and if we will be ready for it we must get busy. Getting busy means different things to different people. The food shops and motels understand their moves, but there are many things that each of us can do.

Tourists look for certain things when they come into a region. Among the first of these things are comfort, including good food and treatment; water for fishing and sports will also attract them.

High on the list of other things are places and things of historical interest. We have many of both, and often they are not marked by a sign of any kind. We need directions to these things, and locally we need to know where they are. Old homes and sites, battle grounds, old cemeteries, especially where the remains of oldtimers are at rest, should be marked.

Prestonsburg has a number of old buildings that should be kept in the minds of all the people and brought to the attention of travelers. This year, one of these is passing from the hands of its owners into the hands of another group. Will it long remain to remind us of the old school where so many received their education both secularly and religiously?

There are several old homes, but only one of these seems to be cared for with the idea of showing the people some of the historical interests of the community. Are these places to go the way of so many "historical sites" in other cities—torn down to make room for "low rent housing"?

Items of historical interest should also be saved. Old tools, guns, furniture, books and articles used by our forefathers are being destroyed, yet the Floyd County Library will provide a place for small articles, and an Eastern Kentucky museum would soon attract so many people to our town that it would be self-paying and provide jobs for three or four, keeping it open to the public. —CHAIRMAN OF COMMITTEE ON TOURISM, COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL.

Three decades following the Civil War the Big Sandian would wait no longer for higher education. If it could not come to him, he would, like Mahomet, go to it. Hazel Green Academy was established and mountain youth studied there or went east to Gladeville Academy at the present Wise, Virginia.

One day in the 1880's, Andrew Jackson Stratton, of Mare Creek, heard of the fledgling Concord State Normal School, at Athens, West Virginia. He gathered his clothes in an old-fashioned valise and began to walk north. Over the mountains he went, between the higher and higher peaks of the West Virginia mountains, down into the dark ravines and valleys, fording the streams by wading and drying his home-knit socks in the cabin of a settler. He came home the same way when the year was out and in the fall he started north again. At last he carried a diploma back to the Big Sandy that started him on a teacher's career, which was cut off in a few years in a typhoid outbreak.

In the year 1883, Rev. Samuel Paul Hendrick came into the Big Sandy valley, driving a little yellow buggy over the rutted roads. He found few schools, almost no churches. At Pikeville, isolated scores of miles from the rampant civilization of America in the decades following the Civil War, he stayed awhile and dreamed. He went back to Ashland, reported to Ebenezer Presbytery.

Following Hendrick came Rev. W. C. Condit, Ashland, and Rev. Samuel B. Alderson, Maysville. More trips must have followed for Condit's diary records how he was in Prestonsburg, found no churches, only a few Christians. He hired an ex-slave, Old Dave, of the Richmond family, to go through town, ringing a bell like a New England town crier, announcing church services at the courthouse. The old colored gentlemen had never heard the word, Presbyterian, and he mispronounced it to the great amusement of Condit.

Condit went on to Pikeville, like Hendrick, found the place crying for educational advantages, especially an institution of higher learning. In 1889 the Presbytery bought three acres of land fronting the river in south Pikeville. Pikeville Collegiate Institute began its long career of service, culminating in a four-year college. It has just recently completed the observance of its 75th anniversary.

In the meantime, however, there was the vast area isolated from Pikeville, in which thousands of people lived, most too poor to attend college. In all of the valley there wasn't a single library. Throughout the valley, combed by countless small creeks, thousands of people lived without access to reading matter, except the few books still lingering on since they first came hunting a homesite. Always, of course, there was the Bible. If a mountaineer could read he consulted and pondered the Scriptures. If he could not he had others to read for him. Often, a better educated neighbor wrote down in the Holy Book the names of his children for him, with the dates of their births and marriages.

The railway came. Out of Ashland the snaking steel rails reached for Catterettsburg, moved up the Big Sandy, reached Richardson in 1892. In a few years it was in Whitehouse and for two decades it stopped there. The old barriers to knowledge were falling. Newspapers, periodicals and reading matter of a heterogeneous nature crept into the valley. Book agents entered the rural side, swapped elaborate volumes of history, biography, religious dissertations and Bibles for money when they could get it or farm produce if they had to do it.

The better-to-do farmer, if he could squeeze a few dollars from his niggardly income, subscribed for the Atlanta Constitution or the old Louisville Commercial Appeal. Of these two newspapers there was a weekly edition for the news starved area. Subscription to these papers was a symbol of affluence; a status totem of the first magnitude. Came the day for the paper to arrive and the subscriber walked into the country store that housed most of the postoffices and unfolding his cosmopolitan newspaper, read for the edification of the customers. The news spread that evening, carried home by the store customers from the subscriber's oral rendition of the columns of the old Atlanta Constitution or Commercial Appeal.

On the store counters there was always a pile of Ladies BIRTHDAY ALMANACS, free for the taking. Everybody took them home, consulted them for the right sign to plant, harvest, butcher hogs or make soap. The writer remembers the year 1920 when he was a teacher in a remote rural community. Visiting a patron in an old log home, he saw a bunch of these almanacs on a nail at the fireside. He flipped through them, found they were back chronologically for two decades. The only other reading matter in the home was the Bible.

The old half-educated teachers were slowly disappearing by the 1890's. S. A. E. Leslie, scion of the Leslie Settlement pioneers, Louis Mayo, great scholar and devout Christian, and many, many others were adding to the cultural heritage of the valley. Leslie left teaching for a couple of years, founded the Prestonsburg Banner with William H. Weddington in 1882. It lived but two years, starved to death for advertising but at least it was a harbinger of things to come. Coming was the Big Sandy News, of Louisa, founded in 1885 by Milton Forrest Conley. It survived, won state awards for its excellent journalism and became a must for those who wanted valley news. Conley gave it to his readers; news from all the valley and with state event digests. He bought the first linotype that any Kentucky weekly owned at that time. Norman Allen, editor of the Floyd County Times, cut his journalistic teeth on it.

As reading spread in the Big Sandy valley and readers began to demand fiction and features as well as news, The Pathfinder, now defunct, filled a need. It was a weekly, carried long fictional stories that were continued from week to week. Its pages were sprinkled with featurettes and a potpourri of journalistic squibs that delighted the rural reader. It died, victim of the influx of modern sophisticated reading material.

The appetite for reading matter increased with the coming of the railway. News "butches" hawked the Cincinnati Post, Ashland Daily Independent or Cincinnati Enquirer on the trains. Many people walked to meet the little trains just to buy a paper. The old Cincinnati Post sold for a penny.

Came the Great Depression and deep in its midst the Pack Horse Library, a Works Progress Administration project. The librarian, usually a woman or an infirm man, rode over a regular route throughout the many little tributary valleys of the area, carrying books by pack horse, all of them stamped inside with the legend, "W.P.A. Pack Horse Library."

Just recently Charles Patton, librarian of the Regional Library here, received one of these Pack Horse Library books in a miscellaneous collection.

Its dog-eared pages were an echo of the past.

A MATTER OF CONTROVERSY

The story is told of the Eastern Kentucky woman who had a "falling out" with her son and took him to law after his horse had raided her corn patch. The son put up a stout defense, testifying that his horse didn't touch her corn—only ate the fodder. The old lady was pretty well burned up about this bit of "evidence," but kept her tongue fairly well under control.

Said she at the end of the trial: "I wouldn't say my youngun swore a lie, but I will say that if I had a-swore what my youngun did I'd 'a' swore a danged lie!"

If you hear of the Owen county courthouse collapsing, don't be surprised, and remember that we warned you. The new Owen County Almanac says tradition has it that the four supporting columns of the old Greek Revival structure contain kegs of whiskey which have been aging there since the building was completed in 1859.

The 1964 fishing season ended for me—I think—shortly before dark, last Saturday. Now, please, don't tempt me.

BAD NEWS TRAVELS

This fishing business is a screwball thing. You go out and have some luck, and then try to get the word around, or just try to do some plain, old-fashioned bragging—think anybody will listen? They will if you can tie 'em up, in an isolated spot where there is no other sound to claim their attention. But let Lady Luck run her usual course and shun you as if you were a leper, and every acquaintance for miles around will be demanding to know how many you caught and why you didn't.

Monday, when I returned to work after a rather frustrating two days at Norris Lake, a call came from Dr. J. H. Allen at Martin: "Well, how did you do? Somebody just called from Prestonsburg and suggested that I ask you."

for Fulton County," the illustrated publication gives practical guidance in management for farmers, foresters, community planners, engineers and developers. It will be of interest to Floyd county landowners.

Consisting of 72 pages in text and 35 air photo maps, the report climaxes many years of study. Soil Conservation Service scientists examined, tested and classified the entire surface of Fulton county to collect facts. The Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station assisted by making analyses of soil samples. The Kentucky Department of Highways ran tests to provide engineering data on the soils.

To indicate land use capabilities and problems, 27 different soil series were described with pinpoint accuracy. As an aid to woodland owners, 200 sites were checked to indicate best sites for marketable lumber and pulp.

Rounding off the report, surveyors added on the county's history and potential for recreation, commerce, industry, wildlife and community expansion in terms of the soils' present condition.

According to Mr. Taff, the publication is being distributed to agricultural, conservation and civic agencies. It may also be purchased from the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C.

Coal Will Continue Primary Power Fuel

Coal will continue to be the primary fuel for electric power generation for many years to come, Robert E. Ginna, chairman of the board of Rochester Gas & Electric Corp., said this week. He told the Baltimore Association of Commerce of his company's plans to build an atomic power station in its own area and its participation in the new Peach Bottom atomic plant in York county, Pennsylvania, but said Rochester Gas is interested in nuclear power solely as a means of producing low-cost electricity. Ginna complimented the coal and railroad industries for lowering delivered coal costs, largely through rate reductions linked with unit train operation. Stephen F. Dunn, NCA president, and Leonard F. Bradley, NCA assistant director of technical services, attended the luncheon meeting.

Resolutions of Respect

In Memory of Brother Isaac Stratton, who died November 6, 1964.

Once again hath death summoned a Brother Odd Fellow, and the golden gateway to the Eternal City has opened to welcome him to his home. WHEREAS, The all-wise and merciful Master of the Universe has called our beloved and respected Brother home, and he having been a true and faithful member of our beloved Order, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That Prestonsburg Lodge No. 293, I.O.O.F., of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, in testimony of its loss, drapes its Charter in mourning for thirty days, that we tender to the family our sincere condolence in their deep affliction, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family.

Unit Coal Train Use New Railroad Service

The increasing use of unit coal trains that shuttle cargoes from mine to consumer at reduced rates is a contributing factor to a "new era of unlimited railroad service," Daniel P. Loomis, president of the Association of American Railroads, said this week in Rochester, New York. The unit train concept has grown in two years to the point where some 25 railroads are estimated to haul about 20 percent of all coal moving by rail. Mr. Loomis told the Rochester Railroad Association.

All eleven models of the great 1965 Cadillac are once again coming off the production line—and into showrooms. We regret that production had to be delayed more than a month following the announcement of this great new car. For we know the inconvenience that it caused the thousands of devoted Cadillac admirers who have placed their orders. But patience is seldom as richly rewarded as it will be for those who take title to this magnificent automobile—easily the most exciting Cadillac in history. Its new beauty and luxurious interiors surpass even traditional Cadillac standards. Its many personal options have made it the most desired automobile of all time. And its new handling ease must be experienced to be believed. See and drive this great car soon.

Heart Attack Claims Mrs. Florence Lyons

Mrs. Florence Honaker Lyons, 75, of Tram, died Wednesday, November 5, at home. Death was attributed to a heart attack. She was the widow of William Lyons, who died in 1951.

Mrs. Lyons was a daughter of William T. and Nancy Justice Honaker and a member of the Memorial Methodist Church.

Where Is the Gun Crew?

This field piece stands in surroundings reminiscent of wartime scenes created by heavy shelling or bombing. It's the cannon, relic of World War II, still in position on the old courthouse grounds here, and the "ruins" behind it are what remains after workmen have been busy for several weeks on the job of leveling the old court structure. —Photo by Stuart Stephens

In the field, it's a good idea to carry two pairs of sunglasses—one with green or neutral-density lenses for bright, sunny days and one with yellow or amber lenses for overcast days. —Sports Afield.

COLLEGE OFFICIALS MEET ON STUDENT CENTER PLANS

College officials met with interested citizens of surrounding counties Monday to continue the discussion for planning for a student center for the Prestonsburg Community College. A third called meeting will be held sometime during the later part of November to continue this planning phase of the operation.

Several instructors and administration personnel will represent the college at EKEA Thursday and Friday in Ashland. The Student Council, which was recently elected, is forming plans for recreational activities for the coming year.

Dr. Doris A. Berry will go to the University of Kentucky this week-end for a rank and tenure conference. Dr. Berry will present the Community College's views at this meeting.

The college is looking forward to receiving and installing its foreign language laboratory during the coming week. "We feel this will be a great addition to the Foreign Language Department and will contribute materially to increased educational efficiency of our foreign language areas," a college spokesman said.

The college is planning a series of Saturday morning meetings for teachers in the various academic areas of the seven counties. It is planned to have these meetings at the Community College so that better co-operation can be evolved through planning for

Resident Here Fined For Reckless Driving; Charleston Youths Held

Jesse Laferty, Jr., who was arrested Monday by Policemen Ray Clik and Woodrow Salyers, was fined Wednesday in police court $100 on a reckless driving charge. Estal Fannin, who was arrested October 31 by Clik and Special Policeman Manis Gray, was fined $22.50 and costs.

Four Charleston, West Virginia youths, the oldest of whom is 16, were picked up here Tuesday night by police and held for their parents. The boys, who were penniless and who had among them three pipes but no tobacco, said they were on their way to Florida. Their parents arrived after midnight to return them home.

Clifford B. Latta, new city attorney here, has pointed out, it was said this week, that persons arrested and brought into police court on drunk driving charges may benefit from a reduction of the charge to reckless driving, if the court chooses to do so, but that the fine may not be less than $100, as provided by law.

BUCHANAN CHAPEL

Recently while on a visit in Lawrence county, I wandered through Buchanan Chapel cemetery. It is a very old cemetery, antedating the church that stands beside it. Graves go back to long before the Civil War. Here lies members of the Kinner, Curranite, Made, Courtney and many, many others.

One grave is that of James E. Stewart, fier in Capt. Hugh Caperton's Company, Montgomery county, Virginia. Stewart was born 1769, died 1835. Caperton's company was organized in the early 1790's, guarded the mountain frontier against the Indians along the Elk and Kanawha rivers in the present West Virginia. Daniel Boone was in charge of providing game for the soldiers but disagreed with Caperton and wandered away to the mouth of the Elk River where he hunted for himself. John Sellards, brother of Jenny Wiley, was also a soldier in Caperton's Company. Sellards lies buried at Ivel.

There are three graves of Union soldiers in the cemetery. One is of Charles Hicks, Company K, 53rd Kentucky Infantry. Another is Henry K. Mead, Company K, 5th West Virginia Infantry. Mead was born March 4, 1845, died July 6, 1920. His wife, Willie E. Mead, lies buried beside him. She was born January 19, 1851, died February 18, 1925. Buried in the old cemetery is W. A. Bradley, Company F, 14th Kentucky Infantry.

Buchanan Chapel is probably a century old. An old member, Hiram Bryan, said that the early records were lost when the clerk's home was burned years ago. At first, he said, it was called Cumberland Chapel and it was built of logs. Each member of the church assisting in the construction was required to furnish a log. In 1930 the log structure was torn down and a frame building erected by James Kinner for the church. He died next year and his funeral was the first held in the new building.

Buchanan Chapel was a landmark for the early raftsmen on the Big Sandy River. In passing it, they could see the spire silhouetted against the sky and knew that within a few hours they would be arriving at Catlettsburg.

One other grave there is that of Dr. J. Allan Prichard, brother of Dr. Carl Prichard, of Harold. Dr. J. Allan Prichard was born 1867, died 1932. His wife, Laura Compton Prichard, lies buried beside him. She was born 1833, died 1943.

The adjoining farm to Buchanan Chapel and cemetery is owned by the Courtney family, which left Mare Creek half a century ago and went west but returned to buy the old Lakin farm adjacent the chapel. William Courtney and his wife, Susan Stratton Courtney, are buried in the church graveyard. Another member of the family buried there is that of Mrs. Amy Cwsley Courtney, wife of Sam Courtney.

HARGIS, HATFIELD, WEDDINGTON

A letter from Mrs. Morris Brown at 1900 North Julian, Amarillo, Texas, notes that Rev. Billy Hargis, Tulsa, Oklahoma, is a grandson of a Breathitt county Hargis.

She writes:
"Do you know that Rev. Billy Hargis, Tulsa, Oklahoma, is a grandson of the Breathitt county Hargis family? He has quite a following in this part of the country. I think that I read in your column that Gov. Orval Faubus, of Arkansas, comes from a family in Eastern Kentucky. I would like to know more about the family and what county they lived in. (The Faubus family is from Laurel county, Kentucky. The grandfather of Gov. Faubus moved from Laurel county to Arkansas several decades ago. He became a poor, upland cotton grower in that state.)"

"I am interested in learning whether Gov. Mark Hatfield, of Oregon, is a descendant of the Kentucky-West Virginia Hatfields. (Who has the answer?)"

"Several of the family of my grandfather, Robert Weddington, moved to the Ozarks years ago. There is a lake near Fayetteville, Arkansas, that I think is named for one of the family. The records of the lake are not good and I am unable to trace where or when the lake was named."

PREECE FAMILY

A letter from Harold Preece, author of THE DALTON GANG: END OF AN OUTLAW ERA, formerly of Texas, but now of New York, mentions his ancestral Kentucky roots. His people were from Pike county, Kentucky, having left there in 1833.

A recent article by Mr. Preece, MY GRANDFATHER, DICK PREECE, in Real West magazine, relates the adventures of the ex-Kentuckian fighting Comanches as a Texas Ranger.

"I'm glad that the piece drew a favorable response from a citizen of Kentucky, my old ancestral state even if Texas is my native land. Yet articles that I have done about the Texas branch of the family renewed ties that had been lost since my immediate ancestors had moved to the Lone Star State more than a century ago.

"I have never met personally any of my Kentucky kinsmen but have exchanged several letters with my cousin, Hon. Emmons Preece, of Inez, in Martin county. (The late Emmons Preece was County Court Clerk of Martin county.)"

"I'm, of course, very proud of the achievements of my grandfather and great-uncle as Texas Rangers; yet even prouder that they refused to be swept into the Secessionist ride which all but destroyed our country. I understand from Cousin Emmons Preece that our Kentucky kin were also Unionists during the Civil War. Yet, in the very best definitions of the term, we are all Southerners.

"My latest book, THE DALTON GANG: END OF AN OUTLAW ERA, is a paperback reissue. The Daltons stemmed from Logan county, Kentucky, which seems to have been the birthplace of a number of people who became prominent for one reason or another on the Western frontier."

Frankfort—There will be no road tests for drivers' licenses administered by State Police testing stations on November 18, 19 or 20, State Police Director Colonel James E. Bassett announced.

The 58 State Police examiners who administer the tests will be attending an annual service workshop at the State Police Academy in Frankfort on those dates. He said testing stations will be open on those dates to take permit applications only at Louisville, Elizabethtown, Owensboro, Covington, Newport, Lexington, Catlettsburg and Pikeville.

All incumbent officers were elected, including John Turnley (K4TPX) from Martin, as president; Roy E. Alexander (W4GLP), Pikeville, vice-president, representing Pike county; Herman E. Harmon (K4TRA), Martin, vice-president, representing Floyd county; Woody Fugate (W4JDU) Hazard, vice-president, representing Perry county, and James H. Daniels (K4LCK) Auxier, secretary-treasurer.

The Society holds membership in the Kentucky Radio Operators Council with Pikeville's George Ramsey (W4JPV), permanent director of EARS serving as vice-chairman. The Breaks Interstate hamfest has been sponsored by EARS for the last three years and has been attended by more than a thousand "hams" from states throughout the nation.

MAYTOWN HIGH OBSERVES AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK

Maytown high school observed American Education Week, Nov. 8-14.

The high school participated in a kick-off parade for education, November 6, with the eighth grade classes marching in the parade and carrying placards proclaiming the importance of education in our times.

On Sunday at the Maytown Methodist Church the Rev. Logan Whalen preached on the World's Great Teachers.

Open House was observed, Nov. 9-11, at the school, with all rooms and departments open to visitors. Mrs. Joyce Stewart and her home economics department served as hostesses and served refreshments to all guests.

Clem Martin, director of the instructional program of Floyd county schools, was the featured speaker for parents and teachers Monday at 12:30. He stressed the importance of individual differences in the development of children. High school members of the Future Teachers of America substituted for the elementary teachers so that they might hear Mr. Martin.

Pupils of the seventh and eighth grades and the high school and parents provided an audience for Edward F. Robinson, local postmaster, whose topic was "A Testimonial for Education." He stressed the importance of remaining in school and listening to advice from those who know. Pupils were greatly impressed with the difficulties he had to overcome in attaining his degree of education.

On Wednesday representatives of schools of further learning visited the school to meet with seniors at designated hours. At convocation these representatives spoke to the seventh and eighth grades, the high school and parents about further education. Representatives and their respective institutions were: William Hughes, Alice Lloyd College; Henry F. Pryse, Eastern State College; Harold Rice, Mayo Vocational School; J. D. Duncan, Morehead State College; and V. O. Turner, Pikeville College. The Maytown high chorus, under the direction of Doug Smith, entertained, preceding the speakers.

Pupils, parents and teachers have expressed the feeling that the observance of American Education Week is a unifying experience for all participants. Edwin V. Stewart, principal, said.

Lawyers Can Be Made, Says UK Professor; Mock Trial Is Point

There was a tenseness in the courtroom. The man in the witness chair squirmed.

The attorney for the defense was directing his words toward the men in the jury box, but suddenly he turned and stabbed a finger toward the witness.

"Why didn't you tell these things to the grand jury?" he shouted.

"I was afraid," said the witness.

"Afraid? What were you afraid of?"

The witness was on his feet, and the tenseness became more profound. He raised a shaking arm toward the defendant who was seated at a table.

"I'm afraid of that man right there. Everybody in town is," he shouted, and he stomped from the stand. This was an unexpected development in the trial of a man who had been chief of police of a small town in Florida and who now was on trial for a double murder.

Although the session was only a mock murder and all the participants were students at the University of Kentucky College of Law, the surprising behavior of the man in the witness chair proved that even in a mock trial anything can happen.

If the attorney for the 'defense' was taken aback, then his reaction in the next few moments was one brief eternity in his life that he would never forget, because on that moment hinged much of what he would become as a career defense lawyer.

Drama. Pathos. Pressure... Even if he didn't come through in this moment, he learned something that someday might be put to work in the saving of a human life, or contribute further to that thing called justice for those on trial in the courts of the United States of America.

"Good lawyers, like heroes, may be born," said a UK law professor. "But this courtroom scene offers some credence to the thesis that lawyers, like heroes, can be made."

By the way, the defendant was acquitted.

Eastern State College Classroom Structure Named for Bert Combs

"Eastern Kentucky State College honors itself in honoring former Governor Bert Combs as the genesis of the efforts which have been crowned with such great success on this and other state college campuses," General Joe M. Ferguson, former attorney-general of the Commonwealth told an audience of educators, state officials, staff, faculty and friends at dedication ceremonies Sunday for the Bert Combs Classroom Building at Richmond.

The handsome new $2.9 classroom building is named for the man who, according to Ferguson, "was the first of our chief executives to admit without reservations that the primary job in the field of higher education must be undertaken by the state, and to set about to undertake that job."

Iwo Jima Flag Raising Reenacted As Feature Of U. of K. Homecoming

A re-enactment of the raising of the flag at Iwo Jima on Feb. 23, 1945, as depicted in the statue in Arlington Cemetery was one of the highlights Saturday of the 1964 University of Kentucky homecoming.

Five members of the UK Pershing Rifles, a military honor society, dressed in combat uniforms and carrying M1 rifles marched on to the 50-yard line of Stoll Field during pre-game ceremonies. Just as the UK band started the National Anthem, they formed the replica and held it throughout the number.

The five UK students were Bruce Coleman, David Mosley and Mike Sturm from Lexington; Denny Lair from Stanford, and Bill Wilbert from Holmdel, N. J.

The historical background for this famous scene has been summarized by Lieutenant Colonel Whitman S. Bartley, USMC, in his book, titled "Iwo Jima: Amphibious Epic."

Col. Bartley writes: "Positions along the rim of the crater (atop Suribachi) were reached at about 1015 and as Marines scrambled over the lip the tenseness was eased by action. A small detaching force challenged the patrol and a short, hot fire developed. Even while this skirmish was in progress some of the men located a length of Japanese iron pipe, secured a small American flag to one end, and raised the Stars and Stripes at 1020. It was an inspiring sight for thousands of Americans on Iwo as the flag waved bravely from the summit.

"Shortly after the mounting of this flag that measured only 54 inches by 28 inches an unidentified Marine went aboard LST 779, beached near the base of the volcano, to obtain a larger set of colors. As this second and larger (8 feet by 4 feet 8 inches) flag was being carried up the slopes of Suribachi, photographer Joe Rosenthal, who covered the Iwo operation for the Associated Press, noticed it and instantly started in close pursuit. His efforts that morning resulted in the now famous picture of the second flag raising."

Earthquake Fright Told By UK Student of Egypt

The earthquake is a phenomenon about which most Kentuckians are curious, but few are alarmed. The reason for their seeming lack of concern is simple—few Kentucky residents have ever experienced an earthquake. The individual who has been literally shaken by earth tremors and whose home has been destroyed is often terrified by the mere mention of the word earthquake. Although many theories have been formulated as to the cause of earthquakes no one knows for sure why they occur.

Miss Marianthi Coroneou, a graduate student in English at the University of Kentucky, is from Cairo, Egypt, and has survived several major earthquakes. Her reaction is: "I hope you never have to witness an earthquake. It is perhaps the most terrifying experience a person can have."

The first earthquake Miss Coroneou recalls vividly occurred in 1952 in Cairo. "I remember I was reading a newspaper when the tremor began. The house shook so bad I couldn't hold the paper in my hands and I dropped it."

"My mother ran to stand beneath the door frame (the Red Cross suggests this is the safest spot), but I was so scared I went upon the roof," Miss Coroneou pointed to a scar on her leg where her dog bit her in his fright.

"Animals can sense the earthquake before humans," she said. "They smell the dust and feel the tremors and start to wall and bay."

Miss Coroneou explained that most earthquakes do not last longer than a second. Even the large, destructive earthquakes rarely last longer than a minute. "Earthquakes come in two types," she explained. "Sometimes the buildings move from side to side—horizontally. But if it is bad the buildings move vertically."

Today, Miss Coroneou is still frightened by any sort of vibration or explosion. UK is in the midst of a building program and often the campus resounds with dynamite explosions as the contractors remove rock deposits for building foundations.

"Often if I am deep in thought and forget that I am in America," she said, "when there is an explosion I immediately think it is an earthquake and I want to run for the nearest door."

Miss Coroneou has little to fear as long as she stays in Kentucky, according to the UK Department of Geology. The last big tremor felt in Kentucky was in 1811 when the New Madrid Earthquake destroyed property for a 1,000 square mile range from New Orleans to Canada.

Reelfoot Lake, Tennessee, is the result of that earthquake, as well as several smaller lakes in the western part of Kentucky.

Two School Counselors Begin UK Defense Class

Two secondary school counselors from Floyd county have begun a year's study in the University of Kentucky National Defense Education Act Counseling and Guidance Institute.

The two counselors are Iola Crisp, of Martin, and Adrian L. Hall, of McDowell, who is with McDowell high school.

Receiving practical experience in counseling high school students as well as an academic background in sociology, psychology and education, the participants are under the guidance of Dr. William Carse, associate professor of education. The 30 institute enrollees are all employed in guidance work in high schools in Eastern Kentucky, West Virginia, Georgia, North Carolina, Mississippi, Arkansas and Ohio.

One of Mammoth Cave's natural phenomena is its breathing. The constant inside temperature is 54 degrees. When it is below 54 outside, an in-breathing, or movement of air into the cave, occurs. When the outside temperature is above 54, an out-breathing occurs.

Thomas O. Montague, Age 66, Dies Nov. 8; Father of Mrs. Riffe

Thomas Olden Montague, 66, father of Mrs. Carl Riffe, of Prestonsburg, died Sunday night, November 8, at Central Baptist hospital, Lexington, a day after he had been stricken by a heart attack.

Surviving him, besides his daughter, are his widow, Mrs. Banton Mitchell Montague, of Lexington, a sister, Mrs. Sterling Chase, of Lexington, and one brother, William Montague, Ft. Lauderdale, Florida.

Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday from the Kerr Funeral Home, Lexington, and burial was made there.

Our Historic Heritage

A Pictorial Review of East Kentucky
(No. 307 in a Series)

Early Johns Creek Settler Family

The Fraley family was one of the early Johns Creek settler families and were descendants of James Fraley, Revolutionary War soldier and borderland spy who came to Kentucky from Virginia. He settled on the Little Sandy River in the present Elliott County, Kentucky, then a part of the vast area of early Floyd county.

This picture, taken approximately 40 years ago at the home of Thomas and Sarah Fraley on Johns Creek, shows ten members and relatives of the family. Left to right are Lucy Fraley, Jerry DeLong, Mary Fraley, Rebecca Fraley, Thomas Fraley, Sarah E. Fraley, Maudie Fraley Foley (holding daughter Sylvia with son Avery standing), and Martha Fraley.

The First National Bank presents these pictures of the regional past in recognition of our historic heritage.
