get big litters of HUSKY PIGS

A sow is a pig factory. She has the big job of producing and nursing two litters of pigs every year. Like any other factory, she has to have raw ingredients to produce the product (pigs) and maintain the factory (her own body).

If she doesn't get proper nutrition she may actually resorb some pigs into her system, causing you to lose pigs you'll never even see; or she may farrow weak, unthrifty litters.

Purina Sow Chow has what it takes to help the sow keep up her own body, farrow big litters and have plenty of milk to start 'em right. Available as a supplement to your grain or as a complete sow ration. Ask for Purina Sow Chow at our store.

SALE

The great-great grandfather of Fred Cottrell operated a general store in Prestonsburg more than one hundred years ago. He owned a bear which was kept chained to a tree next to the store. It was his custom in those days to invite home for lunch all customers who happened to be in the store at the noon hour. The invitation was usually accepted and store and bear were left unattended.

On one such occasion he and his friends returned to the store to find the bear had broken his chain and was inside the building. They found him inside the overturned sugar barrel, enjoying the sweet. As a result of this incident he staged the first sale in Prestonsburg—a sale of sugar from the barrel, at bargain prices. And now, a century later, Mr. Cottrell goes back to this bear tale to turn over barrels and barrels of bargains for Richmond's friends and customers.

Guard Against Sunburn, Floyd Native Receives Health Doctor Advises Master's in Education

Most of us look forward to the warm glow of the summer sun after the cold gray days of winter. "But too often we bask too much too soon," Dr. R. L. Hall of the Floyd County Health Department of Health said recently. The first summer exposure to bright midday sun should not exceed 30 minutes, even for dark brunette individuals he advised. Fair-skinned persons should probably limit their initial sunbath of the season to 15 minutes. taut, its mouth dripping saliva the little goat began to bleat and it ran forward to meet its would-be killer. Without hesitation and without any fear, the kid ran straight to the huge tigress, bleating for its mother, and thinking the big beast was its own mother. The tigress suddenly arose and stood erect, her eyes fixed upon the little goat. Instead of leaping to make the kill, she stood quietly while the little goat ran up, stuck out its soft, pink tongue and licked the killer's mouth. For a split second, the big tigress stood and let the goat lick it; something seemed to stir in her savage heart. The unfearing little goat touched off her deep instinct of mother love, and for a moment the two stood nose to nose: then the tigress suddenly swung around and slunk away while the little goat bleated after her. THE DANGEROUS PESTICIDES

Last year, about 700 million pounds of poisonous chemicals were sprayed on every 12 acres of land. Many power companies used helicopters to spread the poisonous sprays over rights-ofway sixty feet wide and hundreds of miles long, killing everything inside this strip. Many farmers used airplanes to spread poisonous insecticides over their farms. The highways and railways used their own spray machines and killed all the weeds, shrubs and bushes along the right-of-way, leaving a blighted, blackened eyesore on the countryside. Despite the use of these deadly sprays, there are this year more insect pests than ever known! The pests are destroying our valuable tulip poplars, attacking the sycamores, sassafras, Chinese and American elms, locusts and many others. The sprays have ailed to control the insect pests; rather, they have made them worse! This is because such widespread spraying upsets the balance of nature and destroys the birds, which nature has designed to control and to keep in check the hordes of insect pests. Spraying the bushes, shrubs and weeds along railways and power program includes a meat, green vegetable, fruit and cookies, bread, butter and milk.

In conventional lunch programs, each school operates a kitchen and dining room and employs school lunch personnel. But for the most part, in the special programs the classrooms serve as lunchrooms, and teachers heat the pre-cooked foods on hot plates or pot-bellied stoves.

Dishwashing is held to a minimum because children eat from low-cost paper plates, and they may carry their silverware home for a daily washing. Operating procedures vary to meet the requirements of individual schools.
