year, a year in which we have met the challenge of 150 students who had not been provided for in the original budget. We were able to secure the equipment and the faculty needed to implement a high caliber academic program. We feel that we had the support of our community and of the high schools in the area which we served. We were able, with a lot of individual counseling, to reduce the final suspension rate to less than 50% of what we could normally have expected at the beginning of the fall term. We were able to give most of our deserving students a helping hand, and with the aid of public-minded citizens and businesses of our Eastern Kentucky area, we were able to provide for our student body some recreational facilities, a concert series, a beginning of intramural athletic activities with other Community Colleges and a promise of a brighter tomorrow. The Work-Study Program which we were able to obtain for Prestonsburg Community College gives us an opportunity to aid as many as 100 or more students during any year's time.

Kansas of auto wreck injuries. The child-victim was three-year-old Bobby Gene Bradley, who died at the McDowell Appalachian hospital of head injuries, about four hours after he was hurt near the home of his parents, Dingus and Regan Hicks Bradley. It was said that the child ran from behind a parked car and struck the side of a car driven by a man named Sammons, of Middle Creek. The tot was hurled backward several feet, his head striking the asphalt pavement.

The other victim was Charles E. Watkins, 22, who died Monday at Veterans Memorial hospital, Ellsworth, Kans., of injuries suffered Saturday when his car hit a bridge abutment during a dust storm. A son of Charles and Anthea Conley Watkins, he was an Air Force veteran and had recently re-enlisted. While awaiting orders he was employed on a Kansas ranch.

Two women were seriously injured in separate wrecks over the holiday week-end. Rosalind Sullivan, 22, of Delaware, O., suffered a skull fracture Saturday night when the auto which she was driving struck a tree and plunged over an embankment on the Town Branch road, a short distance from the river here. Miss Sullivan was a guest at the home here of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Dixon when she was injured. She had regained consciousness Tuesday, it was reported at St. Mary's hospital, Huntington. The wreck resulted, it was said, when Miss Sullivan was crowded by a passing auto.

Mrs. Victoria Cox, wife of Dallas Cox, of Garrett, was reported partially paralyzed and in serious condition at Good Samaritan hospital, Lexington, as the result of a wreck which took place on Ky. 80, near the Mouth of Arkansas Creek, Sunday morning. Mrs. Cox, who was employed at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, was driving to work when she lost control of her car on or near a stiff curve. Her auto spun into the parked car of Rutherford Sammons, Jr. Mrs. Cox's neck was fractured, it was said.

Surviving the Bradley child, besides his parents, are four brothers and one sister. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday morning from the home of the victim's grandfather, Lonzo Bradley, of Dema, by the Revs. Troy Nickells and Bert Hall. Burial was made in the family cemetery, the Hall Brothers Funeral Home directing.

In addition to his parents, Watkins leaves the following brothers and sisters: Carl Watkins, Ellsworth, Kans.; Roger Dale, James Franklin, Danny Lee, Rodney Dean and Teddy, all of Wayland, Miss Loretta Watkins, Detroit, Mich., and Debby Jean Watkins, of Wayland.

The body is being flown back to this county for burial. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

ETV COUNCIL MEET IS SET

Combs to Speak Here
July 23 On Television
Network for Education

County Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark announced this week that Former Governor Bert T. Combs will speak at 7:30 p.m. July 23 at an organizational meeting of the Southeastern Educational Television Council to be held at the Prestonsburg Community College.

The General Assembly in 1962, during Governor Combs' tenure of office, enacted legislation on his recommendation which authorized the construction of an 11-station educational TV network in Kentucky.

Clark, who is chairman of the Southeastern TV Council, said the purpose of the meeting here will be to explain the TV plan, its present status of development, how it will affect the people of this section and how they can affect it.

"It appears likely," Clark said, "that the ETV network will be built in the near future. This is a good time, therefore, for community leaders to learn what this program is about and to make sure that when it is put into effect it will reflect what our communities need and want."

driving, by State Trooper Allen; Ballard Thacker, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriff Sant Parsons; Edgar Campbell, drunk driving, by State Trooper Combs; Fate Bentley, drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Trooper Allen.

Wilford Jarrell and Fate Bentley, were each fined $100 and costs by County Judge Henry Stumbo.

Others booked and offenses alleged to them:

Jackie Ford, resisting arrest, jailed by Constable Kenneth Roberts; Ernest Dempsey, fishing without license, by Conservation Officer Don Meade; Jimmie Ray Gibson, breaking and entering, by Deputy Sheriff Marion Martin and Constable Roberts.

State Detective Potter was investigating a series of minor breaks into schools and places of business. Both the Auxier and Charles Clark elementary schools were broken into last week-end, and the latter again on Tuesday night. Lunchroom money was taken from the Clark school. Coin-operated machines in the Auxier school were broken into but they had not been in operation for some time.

June 30 Observed As Head Start Day; Special Flag Flown

June 30 was observed as Head Start day to emphasize the work begun in this and other Appalachian counties to reach preschool children of low-income families with the benefits of kindergarten training.

The special Head Start flag received by Helen B. Wells, director of the Floyd County Community Action Program, was flown at the courthouse. In Washington a special ceremony in the Jacqueline Kennedy garden marked the day. More than half a million pre-school children have been enrolled in the program.

Any community interested in a pre-school day-care center is invited by Mrs. Wells to write her at P. O. Box 126, Prestonsburg.

CHILD IS VICTIM

A heart condition from which he had suffered since birth claimed the life June 23 of six-month-old Dennis Fleet Warrick, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Warrick, Jr., of Prestonsburg. The child died at the University Medical Center, Lexington.

Surviving, besides the parents, are two sisters, Deborah and Jessica Ann. The funeral was held Friday from the chapel of the Carter & Callahan Funeral Home by the Rev. Tom Madon. Burial was made in the Richmond cemetery here.

not only to restore these services but also to find a way to add others for the benefit of the children of the county."

The school system, the superintendent pointed out, has been trying to maintain and also to improve its services to the children in the face of declining tax revenues. He cited the drop in property assessments till the average last year was only 29% of actual value, also the loss of franchise taxes. Added expenses resulted from the necessity to provide materials for the fathers of dependent children who were put to work on school projects, and transportation costs were described as too heavy, particularly the contract runs.

The budget for the past fiscal year was in excess of $3 million.

The Board set July 12 as a special meeting for the letting of contracts for the installation of a sewage lift at Prestonsburg high school, repair of the Melvin elementary school and installation of a water system at the new Riley's Branch elementary school.

At its regular meeting Saturday it voted to give prior approval to payment of salaries for Head Start and Neighborhood Work Corps projects.

The Board rejected as too low the bid of $310 on the Langley (Middle Creek) school building and grounds and accepted bids on these properties: $375 by Harry Weddington for the old Dvale school building; $510 by Charles Scott for the Stone Coal school site; $166 by Andrew Adkins for the Weeksby colored school building; $2,600 from Bradis Goble for the lower Cow Creek school building and grounds.

Employed were:

Nadine H. Ray and Robert Jones as adult education teachers; Thelma Spears, to teach at Betsy Layne high school; Joyce Stone, of Garrett, as clerk in the Board of Education office here.

A leave of absence was granted Deanna Gillespie, who will return to college. The Board renewed its Workmen's Compensation coverage with the Hatton Insurance Company.

high schools which are Neighborhood Job Corps centers. A minimum of two are assigned to each Head Start class, two to each Head Start Kitchen, four to the Floyd County Library and about six to the Board of Education offices.

Superintendent Clark told those beginning work:

"You will not be picking up high skills in this work, skills such as a television technician or those working in the field of medicine would have, but you will be picking up some good work habits. I urge you to do your best at the job to which you are assigned. It will mean much to you later."

And, he said this week, the students are apparently following his advice. They are paid $1.25 an hour for their work. Phillip Dingus is supervisor of the program.

Head Start, the program for pre-school children of low-income families, got under way June 21, and now has between 430 and 490 youngsters enrolled at 16 centers. There they receive the training usually associated with kindergarten and are given free lunches.

The Office of Economic Opportunity's check for $51,000 for this program was sent to the Floyd County Development Council, which in turn transferred the funds to the Board of Education.

Harry Wallace, supervisor of the Head Start program, said the work is developing well and that the children, on the whole, are enjoying their associations and training.

JURY AWARDS $200,000 IN MAGOFFIN TRAGEDY

A verdict awarding $200,000 damages to Robert Griffith, of Garrett, administrator of the estates of five of the persons who lost their lives in a Magoffin county auto wreck, was given last Thursday by a jury in the Magoffin circuit court.

Griffith as administrator sued Edward B. Pedlow, administrator of the estate of one of the victims, Elizabeth Thomas. Damages in the amount of $50,000 each were awarded by the jury in the deaths of Amon Griffith, Velma Griffith, Barbara Lynn Thomas and Darrell Thomas. The suit claiming damages on behalf of the estate of Chester Thomas was dismissed on peremptory instructions of the trial judge, who held that damages could not be claimed in his death, since he was the owner of the death-car and his wife, Elizabeth, was claimed to be the driver.

Supporting the contention of the plaintiff that Mrs. Thomas was the driver at the time the car plunged into the Licking River, near Salyersville, was testimony that her body was found behind the wheel and that the roof of the car was crushed down so much that the bodies could not have shifted position.

The tragedy occurred March 14, 1963 while the six were driving from their homes in Lima, Ohio to Lackey. Searchers did not find the submerged auto until March 31.

Scott C. Collins, of Prestonsburg, represented the plaintiff. Defendant's counsel were Paul C. Combs, Don Combs and John Stephens.

POWER POOL

Mothers in car pools know that toting six for the price of one pays off in lower transportation costs. This same kind of teamwork among the American Electric Power System's six member companies pays off in low electric rates for you. Our generating and transmission facilities are interconnected into a "power pool" with the five other AEP companies.

On occasions when extra electric power is needed we can "borrow" the electricity we need instantly from another AEP company that has a surplus. This means more efficient use of generating facilities and the most dependable service at the lowest possible rates for you.

Every time you use electricity... you burn COAL

SHAKE BOILED WATER

Washington — If you're going camping, watch your drinking water. That cool, clean-looking mountain stream may be filled with impurities. The U. S. Department of Agriculture advises adding purifying tablets. Or, better, boil the water; it will taste flat but will be perfectly safe. And you can improve the flavor of boiled water by stirring or shaking it vigorously.

THE DREAMER

Heard a right good talk, some nights back, on what church members do that hinders others. Among several items, the speaker listed the matter of some folks dropping off to sleep and sometimes upsetting the concentration of their next-elbow neighbors with their snores. Then, a few days later, this story was told:

Deacon Brown was one of those who caught up on his sleep during the preacher's sermon, and he had an off-key snore that was plumb disconcertin'. Finally, the preacher had had it, and he thought himself to pull the brother up short.

So, one Sunday morning while the good deacon was sawing wood, the preacher stopped his sermon abruptly and announced in a rather loud voice: "Brother Brown will now pray."

Brother Brown stirred, shook himself, flinched, then spoke up. "Me play? Why, I just dealt!"

THE RECIPE

At hand is a succinct account of how a certain man gave up smoking. Did it by coming home from the office, berating his wife, kicking the dog and then picking a fight with his neighbor. Said he got such a kick out of those proceedings that he didn't miss the smokes. But he was somewhat shaken, later on, when the dog and his wife split a reefer, trying to get up enough nerve to double-team on him.

ONE PRODUCT CAUGHT ON

Floyd county wants new industry. Good for Floyd county! But what does it do with the industry that it has? We remember when Prestonsburg wanted a bottling plant. It had two, maybe three, and they went out of business for lack of local support. It wanted a bakery; it has a bakery now. Floyd county has at least two metal products plants, a concrete block plant, a sign company which employs from a dozen to twenty persons, an oil refinery. This is an incomplete list, but it will serve to show and to give rise to the question—How much local support do Floyd county's people give their home industries?

The only home-produced product we've ever known that caught on immediately with our people and received patronage without question is moonshine whiskey.

NAME OMITTED

The name of George B. Wyatt, of Prestonsburg, was inadvertently omitted from the list of those who received equivalency high school diplomas at Martin, last Friday.

In 1963 after U. S. District Judge Mac Swinford ruled that his court had no jurisdiction over the right to take the land for an airport.

One of the witnesses for the Airport Board, J. B. Ruth, of Ruth Bros. Construction Company, testified in the trial last week that his company filled the land with stone for the runway and later added a blacktop surface.

The defendants based their case on evidence that the highest and best use of the land affected by the construction of the runway is for subdivision purposes.

C. S. Batten and Don Batten, Pikeville engineers, testified to the value of the land. Other witnesses for the defendants were Frank Harman, of the Floyd Federal Savings & Loan Association, Mitchell Preston, Paintsville, building contractor, and the landowners.

Trial in U. S. District court at Pikeville has been set for next January to determine the value of 14.39 acres of the Mary Williams heirs, condemned for the airport, together with damage to an additional 18.40 acres.

Judge Moynehan awarded a new trial this year after a jury in district court had awarded the Williams heirs a judgment of $52,350.

He is married to the former Eva Gene Jones, of Memphis, which is his native city.

B. F. Pennebaker, Lonesome Pine Council Scout Executive, said that the areas to which the two men are assigned were in great need of professional help which had been limited for most of 1964 and to date in 1965, due to loss of staff members last year.

The national average potential for a professional man in Scouting is 4,895 boys of Scout age, whereas in Lonesome Pine Council the figure was 14,635 boys of Scout age per man as of December 31, 1964.

With the addition of these two staff members, Pennebaker said, the Council's boy potential for Scouting for each professional man becomes 8,781 as against the national average of 4,895. Although this is much improvement, the Council responsibility per professional man in Scouting is slightly under twice that on a nationwide average, Pennebaker said.

Both Coomer and Miller are nearing graduation from the National Training School for career Scouters at Mendham, New Jersey. They will report for work in the Council about July 12.

State Dog Licenses
Go On Sale July 1,
Dog-Owners Informed

State dog license go on sale July 1, Commissioner of Agriculture Wendell P. Butler has informed Kentucky dog-owners. According to Butler, the state dog law requires that all dogs six months of age or older must be licensed.

The $1.50 tags will be on sale in all of the 120 counties. County dog wardens or sheriffs will handle the sales. Earman "Buck" Stumbo of McDowell, is in charge of the sale of tags in Floyd county.

Any person operating a kennel may, in lieu of obtaining a license for each dog, apply to the dog warden for a kennel license. A license fee of $10 is required to keep ten dogs or less; a fee of $15 is charged to keep more than ten dogs.

In noting the sale of 1965 tags, Butler said the purpose of the law is to eliminate stray dogs and to control rabies. Along with the requirement that dogs be licensed, the State Board of Health requires that all dogs six months old or older be vaccinated for rabies.

Butler pointed out that the license provides identification for the dog, should it be lost or stolen. Too, the tag assures humane treatment to any dog picked up by the dog warden.

"The control of rabies is perhaps the most important service of the dog law," Butler stated.

"If a child is bitten by a dog that can be identified and shown to have been vaccinated, chances are he or she will not be compelled to take the costly and painful Pasteur treatment. However, if a child is bitten by a dog that has not been vaccinated, the shots will be necessary. When a child is bitten by a dog that is licensed to the owner who will know whether or not it has been properly vaccinated," the Commissioner continued.

The Department, through the State Livestock Fund, offers reimbursements to livestock owners who have suffered livestock damages from dogs. However, Butler pointed out that a county must have a dog warden and maintain a dog pound in order to qualify for payments of livestock damages.

Of the $1.50 collected for each license, 25 cents goes to the warden; 75 cents goes for administration of the dog law; and 50 cents is refunded to the county in accordance to the number of license sold.

Extension Service Tips On Equipment, Calves

Lexington, Ky. — Mineral boxes and back-rubbers ought to be in all pastures now where cattle are grazing, says Dr. Roy Gray, U. K. Cooperative Extension Service beef specialist.

Here are some tips on these two types of field equipment and handling of heifer calves.

MINERAL BOXES: Put in shady spot near water. Put loose salt (free choice) in one section, ground limestone in a second and steamed bone meal in the third.

Research has shown these four minerals (calcium, phosphorus, sodium and chlorine) are the only ones that must be supplied for proper animal nutrition on Kentucky farms. They must be available at all times for proper calf growth and normal beef production.

BACK-RUBBERS: Put one for every 20 head of cattle in pastures to control insects. Locate them near shade and water to get maximum use.

To build a back-rubber, get Extension Service publication No. 307-A from county agent's office. To determine the proper insecticide and mixing data, get Extension Service Miscellaneous publication No. 280-A from the county agent. Follow mixing directions carefully. Use the right type of fuel oil. (Do not use burned oil.)

HEIFER CALVES: Don't let heifers in the calf crop breed too soon. Remove either them or the bull from the herd. Breed replacement heifers the first time to calves at approximately 27 months of age. Heifers to be sold as feeder calves should be sold as open calves, for the best price.

THIS IS A POSTAL CARD

(Exact in size and shape)

Suppose you use postal cards for direct mail advertising. Five thousand cards will cost you $200.

Forget the cost of printing and addressing the cards—but remember they alone cost $200.

Why do we suggest 5,000? Because that is almost the exact number of copies of the Floyd County Times that go to subscribers each week. (We mention 5,000 subscribers—only a fraction of the number who read The Times, weekly. The most authoritative study yet made shows at least 4 1-3 persons read each copy of a weekly newspaper. So at least 20,000 read The Floyd County Times every week of the year.)

Now, how much does an advertisement in The Times, exactly the same size as a postal card, cost you with no extras for printing, addressing and mailing? EXACTLY $6.82 1/2. COMPARE THAT WITH $200! It Pays To Advertise in The Times.

Strontium 90 Removal From Milk Tried On Commercial Scale

Lexington, Ky. — Milk, the universal food, will continue a big item of diet if an atomic war starts. Kenneth Evans, University of Kentucky Ag Extension Service rural civil defense, says commercial removal of one important contamination material from fluid milk has now been successfully tried.

The contaminant is strontium 90. This radioactive material deposits in human or animal bone. It has a long half-life, that is, loses its radioactivity very slowly. It gets into milk of cows who eat fallout-contaminated forages or feeds. (Actually the cows would screen a lot of the strontium out, but enough could remain in the milk to be a human hazard.) A pilot plant in Missouri was set up to commercially remove the strontium 90. It has worked successfully, getting about 90% of the radioactive element out of 100,000 pounds of fluid milk in an eight-hour test run. Feasibility of the system now is being studied.

Presumably, the pilot process would be expanded to a commercial system to be available in case of atomic war. There are even plans for a transportable system which could move to needed locations. Developers were the USDA Agriculture Research Center at Beltsville, Md., cooperating with the Public Health Service and the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

Thus, milk supplies could be decontaminated after nuclear attack. Decontamination isn't needed now; levels of radioactive materials of milk now are "well below" the level considered an acceptable daily intake for a lifetime under normal peacetime conditions, the USDA says.

Fly-Control Materials Listed by University

Lexington, Ky. — Fly control around dairy animals is an important part of milk production, says Dr. R. L. Miller, U. K. Cooperative Extension Service entomologist. The insect pests are the horn fly, stable fly, horse fly, face fly, and mosquitoes. The following materials and treatments are recommended: Use the 50% strength Methoxychlor wettable powder material; apply one level tablespoonful as dust to backs and flanks of animals once each three weeks or after a rain. Use the 4 or 5% strength Malathion dust. Apply three level tablespoonful per animal five hours before milking every 10 to 14 days. The 1% strength Vapona material (in oil or water), at two to four level tablespoonful per animal; apply as a spray mist once or twice daily; never apply more than two ounces of this per head per day.

Vapona-Ciodrin mix also can be used; it has the same rates and application data as Vapona 1% strength listed heretofore. Ciodrin, in the one-pound per gallon strength emulsifiable concentrate also may be used.
