SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1965

This Town . . . That World

It started with All Soul's Eve, then became Hallowe'en, and now it's Tick-Tack when the ghosts and goblins turn on. One resident told me he got so nervous answering the door to Tick-Tackers that he dipped freely into the family supply of candy with these adverse results: 1. The candy almost ran out before the visitors stopped calling; and 2. He was pale as a ghost, himself, by bedtime.

DID . . . YOU . . . RING?

I envy the guy who dreamed up this stunt. He got busy, before Tick-Tack, and rigged up a skeleton inside his front door, and added a weird lighting effect for same. The door hinges were dried to provide appropriate creaks. Then a tape recorder was prepared. So it was that when his nocturnal visitors arrived to notify him that it was "trick or treat," the door swung slowly back, creaking in top Inner Sanctum fashion to reveal a dangling skeleton. At the same time the tape recorder went into action, playing a funeral march, and there came a voice in slow, measured, sepulchral tones (a la Lurch) inquiring, "did . . . you . . . want . . . some . . . candy?" We understand that some of the visitors waited to hear the question but that most of the ghosts simply evaporated from the premises.

GOOD, OL' APPALACHIA

A newspaper clipping at hand says that the state of Massachusetts, which has a population only three times that of West Virginia, is getting seven times the poverty aid the Mountain State has drawn. And Mass. ranks 10th from the top in per capita income while West Virginia is only eight notches from the bottom of the ladder.

And West Virginia, which was visited by the late President Kennedy, is where all this anti-poverty program started.

We are in our part on a carload of used clothing for the relief of those poor Back Bay folks. Don't you think that would be a good idea?

GOP Gains in Pike-Co. But Loses in Johnson; May Is Winner in Pike

All Eastern Kentucky counties joined the big swing Tuesday to support the $176 million state bond issue, and there were those who pondered the political implications of the decisive victory.

Would the results encourage this candidate or discourage another in the election of state officials, including the next Governor—that was one question asked.

Neither political party could claim all the credit for the victory, since the issue was non-partisan, both parties generally supported it, and its few opponents were Democrats as well as Republicans.

Incomplete returns indicate that only three counties voted against the bonds—Harry Lee Waterfield's home county of Hickman, Union and Nicholas counties. Former Governor Chandler's home county, Woodford, gave the issue a "Yes" majority. Montgomery and Rockcastle, counties which five years ago voted against the state bond issue, supported it heavily this time.

But the search for trends did not stick to the bond issue. Politicians were more interested in what happened in Jefferson county where the Republicans made a big sweep, in Fayette where Republican Johnson defeated Democrat Hahn for county judge, and in Campbell where a Democrat defeated George Ratterman, Republican and former Sheriff, for judge.

And in New York City where Republican Lindsey defeated Democrat Beale for Mayor.

Eastern Kentucky had its upsets, also. Neighboring Pike county defeated Ervin S. Pruitt, incumbent for County Judge with Bill Pauley, Republican, by about 200 votes on the face of unofficial returns, and another Republican, James E. "Big Jim" Hunt ousted incumbent Democratic Representative, Dr. Roy Sanders, 5,663 votes to 5,255.

Marris Allen May, Democrat, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waits May, formerly of Prestonsburg, won the race for County Attorney in Pike, defeating Republican Jean L. Auxier by approximately 1,400 votes. Perry A. Justice, Republican, defeated Alex Blackburn for Sheriff there by about the same margin, and Grover A. Adkins, Republican, downed Charles "Fuzzy" Keesee, Democrat, for Jailer by 1,800 votes.

County Clerk John Paul Blair was re-elected, and Gether Erick, Pike county's second State Representative, was unopposed.

Johnson county elected 16 Republicans and six Democrats. Two Democrats won countywide offices in that G.O.P. stronghold.

Roy Ross defeated Albert Frazier, Jr., Republican, for County Court Clerk by 130 votes, according to unofficial returns, and (See Story No. 3, Page 6)

CLASSWORK IS RESUMED

At Maytown Schools After Water System Repair Is Effected

Maytown schools reopened Monday after a week's vacation made necessary because of a contaminated water supply, and when classwork was resumed the water system was declared in fine condition by health authorities.

New filters and chlorinators and a general overhaul of the water plant were effected as work continued through Sunday to make safe the school water supply.

Dr. Russell L. Hall, county health doctor, said a sanitarian of the Floyd County Health Department remained on the scene while new installations were made and repair work done.

The water system has been returned to the ownership of the Floyd County Board of Education, which has announced that a new water system to serve the school is planned. Superintendent Charles Clark pointed out last week that the law forbids the board to market water to private consumers and that all persons using the water from the present plant, except those attending or connected with the schools there, do so at their own risk.

VISTA GROUP TRAINS HERE

Hawaiian Girl Among 15 Who Arrive Here; Messer Heads Program

Fifteen prospective VISTA workers arrived here Monday to begin a week of training for future service.

The trainees, part of a contingent of 30, are from all parts of the United States, one coming from Hawaii.

The training program is being directed by Flem R. Messer, area coordinator for Appalachian Volunteers and director of VISTA training. The training is being conducted under contract with the Council of the Southern Mountains, which administers the Appalachian Volunteers program.

Facilities of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church and of the Catholic Church here have been made available for the training period. Among those participating in the daily sessions are Harry Eastburn, director of the Big Sandy Community Action program; Charles Clark, superintendent of Floyd county schools; Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the Prestonsburg Community College, and Eva Allen Horn, welfare worker and Council of the Southern Mountains representative in this county.

After this week of training the VISTA group will go into the field for four weeks, then return here for another week, after which they will be assigned to their individual areas of service.

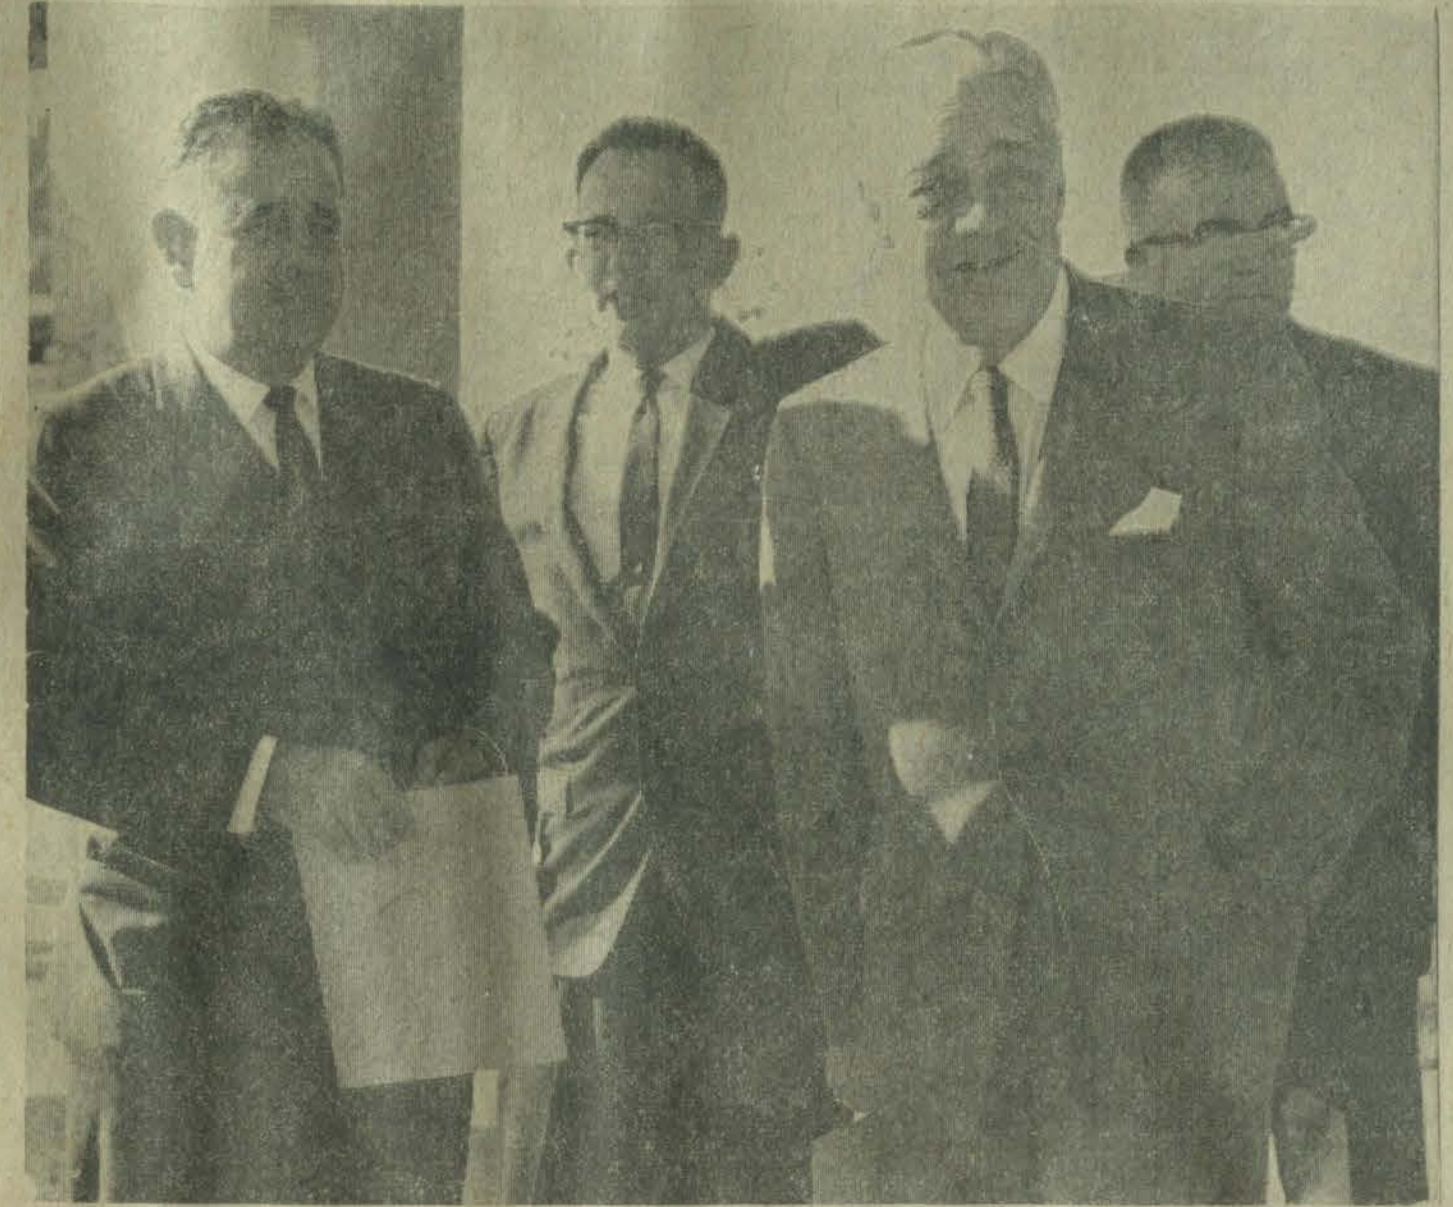

NEW SURGEON HERE ON HOSPITAL STAFF

Addition of Dr. William B. Cook, surgeon, to the staff of the Prestonsburg General Hospital was announced this week.

A native of Fort Clinton, Ohio, Dr. Cook was graduated from Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, and received his M.D. from Tufts University, Boston, Massachusetts. After his internship at University Hospital, Columbus, Ohio he served two years in the Army Medical Corps with the rank of captain.

He and Mrs. Cook moved here a few weeks ago, and are residing in the Trimble Branch subdivision. Returning to civilian life, he had five years' medical residency—four years at New England Center Hospital, Boston, and one at Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases, New York City.

Dr. Cook is a member of the American College of Surgeons and of Alpha Omega Alpha, medical honorary fraternity. At Bucknell he was a member of ODK, leadership honorary fraternal, and was active in the men's chorus and quartet.

UK-KELLOGG TOUR. When Kellogg Foundation President Morris last week made a two-day tour of Eastern Kentucky work to see what has been accomplished through the Foundation-sponsored Eastern Kentucky Research Development Project, the institution of higher education selected for his attention was the Prestonsburg Community College. (Shown in photo, from left, are Dr. John W. Oswald, UK president; Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the Prestonsburg Community College; Mr. Morris, and (at rear) Robert Kerley, UK vice-president in charge of business affairs. Mr. Morris included the college here on his itinerary at the invitation of Dr. Oswald. "We here at the college were extremely pleased that they chose to visit us," said Dr. Campbell. "We, too, feel that we have a large role in the future of Eastern Kentucky and were proud to discuss this role with our guests.")

VOTERS BACK NEW SLATES

At Martin, Wayland, Rejecting Councils Now Holding Office

The towns of Martin and Wayland will have new councils, beginning January 1, as a result of Tuesday's voting which saw the defeat of administration tickets.

Opposition to administration candidates developed in only these two towns. Prestonsburg, Allen and Wheelwright slates were unopposed.

The Martin upset saw the election of Bill Wells, Steve Stout, Milton Ryan, Langley Turner, Lloyd McGarey and D. M. Hutchinson by a margin of about 2 to 1 over the administration slate composed of John H. Turnley, Haskell Frye, Sr., Earl Branham, Mrs. Dortha Allen, Mrs. Iola Crisp and Elliott B. Skeans.

At Wayland the administration council lost to a ticket composed of Gordon Crowder, Mart V. Allen, Cecil Johnson, Oscar C. Watkins and Ralph Blankenship. Losers were H. H. Craft, Clyde Lee, Charles Hughes, Willard Ratliff and William Greathouse. The winners' vote ranged from a high of 79 to a low of 71; the losers, from 62 to 56.

Robert Hicks defeated Bobby Joe Castle for the office of police judge at Wayland by a vote of (See Story No. 5, Page 6)

Willie Conley, 46, of Garrett, died Wednesday at his home following a year's illness. A veteran of World War II, he was a son of Mrs. Nancy Ann Combs Conley, of Garrett, and the late James Conley.

Funeral services at the home at 10 a.m. Friday by the Rev. Earl Lawson, with burial in the family cemetery will be held at Eastern.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Rebecca Salisbury Conley; six sons, Danny, Denny, Roger, Jimmy, Jeffery and Willie Conley, Jr., all of Garrett; three brothers, Troy Conley, of Garrett, George Conley, Albion, Michigan, and Elgie Conley, of Lambert; a half-brother, John Shepherd, Monterey, Indiana; two sisters, Mrs. Gracie Cole, of Alabama, and Mrs. Margaret Nunn, of Samson, Virginia, and a half sister, Mrs. Susie Smith, of Garrett.

Burial will be made under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

GIRLS STILL MISSING AFTER WIDE SEARCH

State Police said this week that whereabouts of 16-year-old Dorothy Burke, of Prestonsburg, and her girl-preacher companion, Patty Deviak, 19, remain unknown, despite requests for help made by them upon police departments and other law-enforcement officials over a large part of the country.

AKERS GETS SCHOOL JOB

School Construction Contract Is Awarded On Bid of $1,040,148

The Army Corps of Engineers, Huntington, West Virginia, last week announced the award of a million-dollar contract to a Floyd county firm for construction of a new high school building at Millard, Pike county.

The contract for the 25-room building was awarded today to Akers & Akers, of Dana, in the amount of $1,040,148. The school is part of the relocations phase of the Fishtrap Reservoir project in which three new schools are being constructed to replace 11 discontinued in the reservoir area.

Lt. Col. William D. Falck, Huntington district engineer, said the Millard job now can proceed as weather permits. Construction has been held up. Col. Falck said, during the good building season due to a land acquisition problem.

This problem was resolved last Tuesday, he said, when the U. S. district court for Eastern Kentucky at Jackson issued a writ of assistance, requiring that the land be vacated. The owners have until noon November 10 to vacate.

Col. Falck noted that the Army Engineers are paying the cost for 17 rooms in the new school as replacement for 17 existing school rooms. The total of 25 rooms results from eight additional rooms required by the county, and for which the county is contributing $230,562.

Work was scheduled within 10 days of date of the contract award, and Akers & Akers have 330 days in which to complete the structure.

The 25-room high school will have a combination auditorium-gymnasium, its own sewage plant and water system.

Nancy Taylor, who died at Millstone, Letcher county, Oct. 8, was 102 years old, Floyd county relatives say. She had lived with a niece, Mrs. Nancy Craft, the last 26 years.

Mrs. Taylor was a daughter of John and Nancy Romans Taylor and was born August 1, 1862. She leaves two grandsons, Logan and William Collins, both of Columbus, Ohio. Floyd county relatives include a cousin, Mrs. Hazel Robinson, and a great-niece, Mrs. Della Flannery, of Martin.

GOP IN PIKE FILES ACTION

Suit Asks Counting Of Absentees Halted; Injunction Is Granted

Republicans filed suit Wednesday in Pike county, charging irregularities in the handling of absentee ballots and asking that these ballots from Tuesday's election not be counted.

Republicans led in races for county judge, jailer, sheriff and state representative posts, all formerly held by Democrats, before about 330 absentee ballots were counted.

But County Judge Pruitt, a Democrat, said he doubted that the absentee ballots would change the results.

Circuit Judge Charles Lowe granted a temporary injunction to halt the count but set no date on a hearing to make the order permanent.

The county election commission, named defendant, was expected to file an answer before a date was set.

Jim Hobbs, of Pikeville, chairman of the Republican county executive committee, said the committee had found one instance of fraudulent notarization of a ballot "but the most serious thing we found was apparent forgeries in signatures . . . differences in signatures on applications for ballots and on registration cards."

"We feel a determination (of the ballots' validity) should be made in a court of law, before the ballots are counted."

LEWIS WINS FOR SHERIFF OVER HYDEN

Bond Issue Receives Big Margin in Floyd; Seven Are Unopposed

Almost 12,000 Floyd countians went to the polls Tuesday in perfect Indian Summer weather to record a Democratic sweep of all county and district offices and to add a 5,000-plus majority to the smashing victory achieved in the state for the $176,000,000 bond issue.

The voting followed a campaign which was on the same side as Floyd county election campaigns go, and except for the race for Sheriff, the bond issue and races for Magistrate there was little to create voter-interest. The fact that the Democratic nominees for Representative, County Judge, County Attorney, County Clerk, Jailer, Tax Commissioner and Coroner were without opposition contributed to the comparatively light vote.

Joe Wheeler Lewis, Democrat was elected Sheriff, defeating his Republican opponent, Jack Hyden, of Prestonsburg, by a majority of 230 votes. And this was the race which held center-stage in the campaign.

The bond issue won easily in the county by a 5,377-vote margin.

Other results: Bill Wells, Democrat, of West Prestonsburg, elected Magistrate in District 1 over W. T. (Bill) Foley, of Auxier, by a majority of 1590; Zeb Ousley, Democratic incumbent, for Magistrate, Dist. 2, over Dockie Prater, Republican, by 332 votes; Edward Caudill, Democratic incumbent in Magisterial Dist. 3, unopposed; Dewey Roberts, Democrat, for Magistrate in Dist. 4 by 1344 votes over Perry T. Hall, Republican.

In District 1 Corbin Joseph was elected Constable by 1423 votes over his Republican opponent, (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

ELLIOTT CO. 'KLONDIKE' ALREADY UNDER LEASE

By JIM HAMPTON (In The Courier-Journal)

Lexington, Ky.—If you're thinking of a little prospecting trip into Elliott county's platinum country, don't bother.

Icy B. Browning, Jr. and his Kentanna Minerals, Inc., have already staked the only claim worth having in what appears to be a vest-pocket Klondike.

Browning, a Henderson geologist, announced Monday the discovery of a valuable deposit of platinum and other elements. He has mineral rights to 25 acres on which the circular dike—ranging from 900 to 1,100 feet in diameter—is located.

The assistant state geologist, Preston McGrain, said that the Kimberlite pipe in which Browning has discovered a high concentration of platinum is possibly the only one around.

"As far as Kentucky is concerned, it is somewhat of an anomaly," McGrain said. Browning said the site is the only one in the United States, for that matter.

McGrain said the Kentucky Geological Survey, for which he works, had tested some samples from the Elliott county formation and had identified some of the minerals Browning's assays found. These included garnets and ilmenite, a titanium and iron ore, but not platinum, gold or diamonds.

However, McGrain added, Browning "did two things we didn't do. He took core samples and made extensive assays," neither of which the geological survey is equipped to do.

Browning announced Monday that assays revealed platinum in a concentration several hundred times greater than required for economically feasible mining.

Core and surface samples also revealed marketable amounts of industrial diamond corundum, garnets, gold, silver, other rare earths and other metals usually found with platinum.

Kentanna Minerals plans to set up a refinery at Ashland soon, he reported, and will build a multimillion-dollar plant if the pipe yields concentrations as rich as the incomplete tests indicate are there. Kentanna is preparing now to start a gravity separation plant on the site itself.

The dike is in the northeast corner of Elliott county, near the hamlet of Stephens and on the Hamilton Fork of Little Fork, a tributary of the Big Sandy River.

Its existence has been known for generations, and prospectors have probed its surface for a century, searching for diamonds. McGrain said earlier efforts to mine the pipe, in the 19th century and again some 50 years ago, were unsuccessful.

Geology students from as far away as Florida have gone to Elliott county to study the formation, McGrain said. It is geologically very similar to the pipes, or dikes, where most of South Africa's diamonds are found.

Dikes are formed when underground volcanic activity forces molten rock through a fissure in the sedimentary layers above. The resultant heat and pressure crystallize carbon into diamonds and cause chemical changes that produce other metals and minerals.

An Ashland source said Browning has covered the Elliott county site foot by foot, and found no other dikes. This, McGrain said, is not unexpected.

Although dikes vary in size and length, they often are shaped somewhat like a knife blade. They may be only a few inches or feet wide, somewhat deeper, and hundreds of feet—or even a mile or more—in depth or length.

The dike in Elliott county is different in that it is circular. The visible part extends about 100 feet up the side of a 200-foot hill, one of several surrounding it and forming a crater. Timber grows around and above the area, but only scrub growth survives on the ground within the pipe itself.

The United States is not a major producer of platinum, accounting for Browning's prediction that his find would make major news in mining circles.

The most recent figures on platinum production that could be obtained here yesterday were for 1949. In that year, the United States produced only 24,000 troy ounces, compared with 151,317 troy ounces for Canada.

Browning was quoted as saying the Elliott county pipe should contain a minimum of five million tons of processable ore, of which 2.8 percent would be various minerals. Of the minerals, he said about 250 thousandths of one percent would be platinum.

Core drillings might reveal as much as 50 million tons of ore, Browning said, but a good estimate is impossible at this point.

STEP BY GRINDING STEP IN BUILDING OF BRIDGE TOLD BY VISTA WORKER

Mr. and Mrs. Benton Deaton are VISTA workers who were assigned to Floyd county in August. Shortly after arriving here they were located in Mud Creek and are now living at the Forks of Toler.

Sometime after coming to Floyd county Mr. Deaton approached the project sponsor, Mrs. Helen Wells, with the idea of a VISTA worker having men from the Unemployed Fathers Program assigned to him. He felt there were so many things in the Mud Creek section that he could do if he had the men to help him. He wanted to show the county and the local community that these men can be enthusiastic, eager workers if given the proper guidance and supervision. Mr. Deaton and his crew have done many things in the Mud Creek area in a very short time. At three of the schools, they have made playground equipment—swings, teeter-totters, chinning bars, put up basketball goals—and improved the general appearance of the school playgrounds. At the Spruce Pine school on Little Mud they did considerable repair work and painting. They have worked long hours with their own tools, or borrowed tools, and with little or no materials for the playground equipment. They mainly used trees they had cut in the hills. Deaton feels that if they had had tools and some donated supplies they could have done much more than they have done.

Below is an account by Mr. Deaton of how he and his crew built a bridge across Branham's Creek on an abandoned one-room school that is to become a community center in that area.

"Monday, we were up and ready at 6 o'clock. We met the four men, unemployed fathers, at Branham's Creek at seven o'clock. We had few tools and almost nothing with which we might build a bridge leading to the community center in that section. We had done most of the foundation the previous week.

"The first man on the creek that we approached that morning was Lee Alley. We asked about timbers for the span and he said, 'If my farm has what you need, you are welcome to anything there. Just help yourself and it will cost you absolutely nothing.' Some of the men with borrowed axes and saws went to the woods. They cut trees, made logs and we did not see them until noon. The reminder of us went to the saw mill to see about getting them sawed into planks for the floor of the bridge. The sawyer said if we would help we could get it sawed there and then. We pitched in to rolling logs, shoveling sawdust about four hours and turning logs on the track until noon. We had our lunch with cold coffee, then we began work in earnest—we felt happy. We had lumber for the floor, poles for the form of the structure and by quitting time had some of the floor nailed in place.

"One man volunteered to bring his own truck and deliver the lumber. Another loaned us tools with which to work; we bought nails. While still at work, we had a chance to explain to two fine people who live on Branham's Creek and who had certainly been misinformed about this project and how that as soon as the bridge was finished it would be theirs and for the community to do as the committee desires—also we explained about the Community Action group of Floyd county.

"Our sincere thanks go to Lee Alley, for the trees he has given out of which the bridge was built; George Deal, for the trees he gave; Annis Akers, for him and his truck, used to haul the logs and lumber; G. B. Spears, who more than paid for our work with lumber where we had no money with which to pay; Delmar Keathley, for bringing men to lift and place the logs.

"So Monday ended with our workers going home to have supper, clean up and go back to the Stumbo school for a night's session of three hours in school—no people could ever work any harder or be more cooperative. "The next day, Tuesday, we were up again and on our way to Branham's Creek at 6:30 a.m. We were much more eager to go this morning than some previous mornings, because we had tools, nails, and all the timber we needed for finishing the "Community Action Bridge." Incidentally, we had a new worker assigned to our crew and he is a good carpenter and a good worker.

"This day all went extremely well. The only thing that slowed us down was passersby who stopped to ask questions and admire the bridge. "It was a well-worn crew of men who finished work today. For the first time since we had been working together we were so happy to see what we had done, that no one even inquired about quitting time that evening.

"The bridge was almost finished. The path up the hill to the old abandoned school house which is to be "The Branham's Creek Community Center" was laid out and we began to see the end of our work there.

"It was an enthusiastic group of men who met Wednesday morning at the Branham's Creek Community Center with all the tools and equipment needed to finish the job there. Throughout the day we worked on the bridge, cleaning up the grounds, digging steps up the hill to the house, setting out some trees to make it all look more beautiful and burning the remaining trash left by the previous day's work.

"In the afternoon, at closing time, we left with a proud feeling that our labor had turned out such a beautiful structure, even though it was 'just a bridge.' Each one surely did his utmost and saw the completion of a job well done.

"We may spend more time on this center later, but we move on to another place tomorrow. There is yet much to be done on the grounds. One lady who lives nearby said, 'I never knew so much change could be made in such a short time.' Another said, 'I have never seen a walk bridge in all my life as beautiful as this one.' We have in our plans to go to the Mouth of Left Toler to a two-room school to do a much needed job there."

Anybody want to donate tools or materials such as piping, or the money with which to buy these?

ABSENTEE OWNERSHIP BLAMED FOR POVERTY

(From The Lexington Herald)
Harry Caudill, Whitesburg author, Wednesday criticized absentee ownership of the natural resources and the "archaic" county governmental structure as two of the greatest contributors to the Eastern Kentucky area's present poverty-stricken situation.

Calling upon University of Kentucky law students to "assess the situation," he said:
"You are in a better position than anyone else to do something about it, because your profession helps shape the law. It is in the law and the governmental structure that ultimate solutions to our problems lie."

The former legislator and author of "Night Comes to the Cumberlands" was a guest of UK's Student Bar Association at its weekly Law Forum.

He said coal, oil and mineral lands are mainly owned by firms in New York and Philadelphia, and while profits pile up in distant places, we are left with the problems.

An optimistic note was interjected, however, when he cited recent moves toward reapportionment.

"Proper representation will put political power where economic power resides," he said, "and this will put the problems of Eastern Kentucky in a realistic perspective."

He called for an Eastern Kentucky development district that would sell bonds to buy back the lands that are now held by absentee owners.

"Then we can take our own vast wealth and build the schools, roads, lakes and forests that will restore the prosperity of the region," he said.

Citing Kentucky's "poverty of leadership," Caudill said, "We could take a lesson from Switzerland, which is roughly the size of Eastern Kentucky, yet hindered by three languages and religious differences among its people, 'resolved to develop the intellect' of the country."

"Today, Switzerland is money-lender to the world, and we are on the dole."

He noted that if all the plans and results of studies of Eastern Kentucky were placed in a pile "they would be higher than the Grand Coulee Dam," and that all that has resulted from the many investigations has been more relief.

The people, he said, were labeled as unwilling to help themselves, and too eager to accept a handout and relief.

"This is untrue," he declared. "The thousands of people who have left the area for jobs in the larger cities of the North have attested to their eagerness and willingness to stand on their own feet. They have done it elsewhere without a dime of outside help."

He asked that the country look at the "other face of Eastern Kentucky," as a land of untold mineral wealth, cited by a recent business magazine as "one of the richest corners of the United States."

"Our job," he concluded, "is to see that this wealth, which exists in the midst of poverty, goes to work for the region. We have to develop a mechanism of law and government that can cope with the problem. It is a crisis that can not long be delayed."

NORTH LAKE DRIVE

Glasgow — A rare Republican victory was recorded in Barren county as Wilmer L. Hodges unseated County Clerk Ethel Fant by a vote of 3,700 to 3,434. Hodges was the only GOP candidate for a county office. Except for former gubernatorial candidate Louie Nunn, who was county judge several years ago, Hodges is the only Republican within memory to win a Barren county office.

MISSIONARIES FROM ETHIOPIA IN FLOYD FOR FOURTH VISIT

The Rev. and Mrs. Alex Fellows, of Bako, Ethiopia, are now on their fourth visit in 15 years to Floyd county, as guests of friends, the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Martin, of Martin. During their visit they will be holding some services and meeting with friends of other years. Rev. Fellows was born and reared in Melbourne, Australia, where he was graduated from Melbourne Bible Institute. He arrived in Africa in 1945, and spent the first year in Khartoum. The rest of his time has been spent in Ethiopia. His wife, the former Theresia Doseck was born in St. Marys, Ohio. She was graduated from the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, and she arrived in Nigeria in 1945.

In 1946 the Fellows were married in Asmara, Eritrea. They have six children. Bruce, the oldest, is presently attending the Appalachian Bible Institute at Bradley, West Virginia. Tom, 16, Ruth, Keith and Tim, attend school in St. Marys, Ohio. Ruth, Keith and Tim will return with their parents to Ethiopia, next August. April 9, 1963, a daughter, Karen, died and was buried in Africa. The eldest son Bruce was not home at this time. This fact points up a matter that many people do not realize: The sacrifice many foreign missionaries go through in educating their children. Till age six they remain at home, then the mission board requires that they enter school. In most cases a grade school is several hundred miles from home. They are able

Thirty Years Ago

(November 1, 1935)

In this district it is expected that 15,000 men will be at work by November 15 on WPA projects, at least 300 to be employed on the Salt Lick and Abbott Creek farm-to-market roads construction scheduled to be begun this week. Lieutenant-Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler was given a big welcome upon his visit here Saturday during his campaign for Governor. Sam Conn, 25-year-old Betsy Layne miner, was instantly killed Saturday morning in the mines of the Pike-Floyd Coal Company at Betsy Layne when struck by a mine motor. The Floyd County Young Men's Democratic Club was reorganized Thursday, with the following officers being elected: Woodrow Burchett, president; John Allen, secretary, and County Attorney Forrest D. Short, treasurer. Two Floyd county homes destroyed by fire within the week: the residence of Homer Burchett, at Banner, Thursday morning, and the home of Rich Bentley, on Stone Coal Creek, Sunday morning. There died: Green Hicks, 70 years old, at his home on Stone Coal Creek, Sunday; George E. Hart, 57, at his home at Wayland, Tuesday morning.

Twenty Years Ago

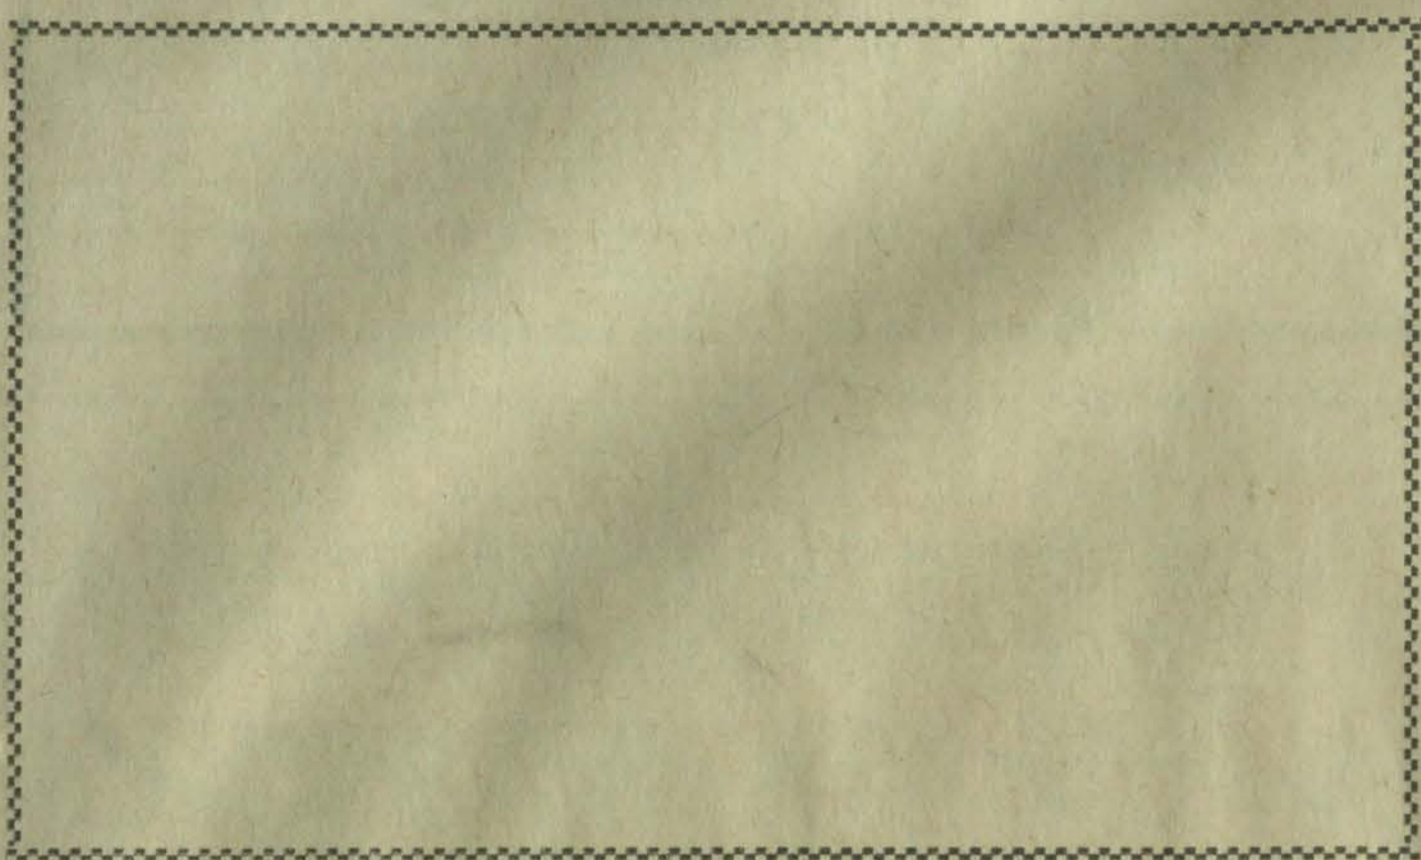

(November 1, 1945)

Included in the list of public projects sent to Congress by President Truman is the Johns Creek dam on which work is expected to begin next spring, Congressman A. J. May announced this week. Armistice Day will be celebrated this year of the ending of World War II by Floyd Post, American Legion, with its greatest celebration here. The Prestonsburg Parent-Teacher Association will begin its school lunch program November 19, serving the noonday meal in the grade school building to pupils of both the grade and high schools. Mrs. Goldia Hall and her young son were wounded by a shotgun charge fired into her home at Mud Creek Sunday afternoon. Big Ray Patton, who, little more than a year ago, twirled the Louisville Colonels to victory over the Baltimore Orioles before the greatest gathering of baseball fans ever to witness a minor league baseball game, came back to his old stamping grounds—Gasco Park, Prestonsburg—to pitch Prestonsburg to a 10-1 win over the Pikeville All-Stars. Married: Miss Vivian Tufts and T. J. Fitzpatrick, both of West Prestonsburg, October 12 at Paintsville. Born: To Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Taylor, of Huntington, West Virginia, a son Wilbur Gene, October 26, here; to Sgt. and Mrs. George W. Stephens, Jr., a son, Stephen Dennis, October 24 at St. Mary's hospital, Huntington, West Virginia. There died: John B. Goodman, 75, of Dwale, Wednesday at a Lexington hospital; Mrs. Emily Patton, 82, formerly of Hueysville, at her son's home in Hamden, Ohio, Tuesday; Mrs. Bertha Marcum, 42, of Prater Creek, Tuesday at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin; Ben Layne, 56, former Prestonsburg and Wayland policeman, last Thursday in Phoenix, Arizona.

Suppose you use postal cards for direct mail advertising. Five thousand cards will cost you $200.

Forget the cost of printing and addressing the cards—but remember they alone cost $200.

Why do we suggest 5,000? Because that is almost the exact number of copies of the Floyd County Times that go to subscribers each week. (We mention 5,000 subscribers—only a fraction of the number who read The Times, weekly. The most authoritative study yet made shows at least 4 1-3 persons read each copy of a weekly newspaper. So at least 20,000 read The Floyd County Times every week of the year.)

Now, how much does an advertisement in The Times, exactly the same size as a postal card, cost you with no extras for printing, addressing and mailing? EXACTLY $6.82 1/2. COMPARE THAT WITH $200! It Pays To Advertise in The Times.

Three Floyd Soldiers Serve In Same Unit

Fort Devens, Mass.—Three Floyd county soldiers are currently undergoing basic combat training in the 196th Light Infantry Brigade at Fort Devens, Massachusetts. They are assigned to Company A, 4th Bn, 31st Infantry, an internal unit of the brigade. The three are:

Private Billy R. Burkett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Burkett, of Allen; Private Ancil Nickles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Nickles, of Wayland, and Private Winfred D. Harless, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Harless, of Emma.

The 196th Light Infantry Brigade is the first of three brigades to be activated in the current build-up of the Army. The trainees receive instructions in Basic Combat Training and Advanced Individual Training. Upon completion of this training the brigade will conduct small-unit training. Ultimately, it will be a fully combat-ready brigade.

Thanks and Congratulations

We, naturally, are gratified by the victory registered at the polls in Floyd county and throughout Kentucky for the State Bond Issue, and wish to thank the people of this county for the 7,064 "Yes" votes cast. Floyd county again stands, 'way up front!

At the same time we congratulate our people upon their desire to see Kentucky go forward, not content merely to keep pace with their neighbors but to work and vote and strive to move this state ahead of them.

To all who helped in any way, our sincere thanks.

Concord, N. H.—Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N. H., asserting he "sees developing a pattern of killings where indictments are sometimes almost a farce," says he hopes to prepare legislation making it a federal crime to kill interstate travelers. "Law and order didn't exist in Lowndes county, Alabama," when Jonathan Daniels, an episcopal seminarian from Keene, New Hampshire, was shot to death while engaging in civil rights activities, he said.

Teachers May Work, Travel In France

An opportunity to work and live in France is offered to any Kentucky French teacher between the ages of 20 and 26, says the State Department of Education, Frankfort.

Dr. George Brodschi, executive director of the International Center of the University of Louisville, has arranged the program for the summer of 1966. The program will cost about $550 to $600 for nine weeks in Europe, including jet travel from Louisville to Paris and back.

The teachers will meet in Louisville, June 15 for a two-day orientation, then leave for Paris, where they will work in clerical jobs for six weeks, and be on their own for travel the remaining three weeks. The deadline for applications is November 15. The International Center also has programs for high school and college students between the ages 16-22 to study and travel in Europe.

Kentucky Department of Public Safety

The annual interclub dinner meeting of the Drift Woman's Club was held Oct. 18, at the Drift grade school luncheon. Attending clubs were Maytown, Wheelwright and Lackey—Garrett—Wayland.

Mrs. Aruthur Bradbury, of Wheelwright, led the clubs in the devotional and pledge to the flag. Dinner was served and the president, Mrs. Ben Martin, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Martin introduced guests, G. V. Turner, administrative manager and Paul Martin, compliance officer of the department of highways, 12th district, Pikeville, Kentucky. Mr. Turner gave an informative talk on the bond issue and Mr. Martin showed a film on Kentucky highways in connection with the issue. Details were brought up that were not discussed in the film and a general discussion followed.

Mrs. Martin turned the program over to Miss Ruby Akers who introduced our four VISTA guests, Barbara Lydon, Elizabeth Kirtland, Jan Kettle, and Doreen Der. They explained their jobs as volunteer workers.

Forty-one clubmembers and six guest speakers were present at the meeting.

Oct. 9-14 members of the Drift Woman's Club attended the seventh district convention meeting at Jenny Wiley Lodge. Present were Mrs. Ben Martin, president, Peggy Jones, Mrs. Glen Burton, Shirley Vanderpool, Mrs. Bill Hoffman, Jane Hoffman, Mrs. Nick Cooley, Mrs. Glen Ward, Mrs. Lloyd Stumbo, Mrs. Bedford Reitz, Mrs. W. L. Reed, Mrs. C. J. Cahill, Mrs. I. E. Reed and Mrs. Byron Beard. The club presented a skit outlining its work of the past year and a check for $50 was presented to the state president by Mrs. Ben Martin for the rehabilitation center.

The club donated to the rescue squad in Prestonsburg part of the proceeds from a card party given by the club.

"JEWEL MANOR," NAME
CHOSEN FOR GIRLS' CENTER

JEWELS, DIAMONDS AND CRYSTAL—"Jewel Manor" has been selected as the name for the Kentucky Federation of Women's Club's planned State rehabilitation center for girls, named in honor of Mrs. Jewel Hamilton (left), Bardstown, KFWC President, and the 75th Diamond Jubilee anniversary of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The KFWC plans a Diamond Jubilee ball in Frankfort December 3 to help raise funds for the center. Central decoration theme will be crystal chandeliers, with decorations furnished and supervised by Stewarts Dry Goods Company, whose president, Kenneth H. Williams, Louisville, is shown here with Mrs. Hamilton.

Frankfort, Ky. — "Jewel Manor" is the name selected for the state rehabilitation center for delinquent girls to be built by the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs.

The name was chosen in honor of KFWC President Mrs. Jewel Hamilton, Bardstown, who proposed the center early this year as a statewide project for the women's clubs, and to reflect the Diamond Jubilee theme of the General Federation of Women's Clubs 75th anniversary year.

Mrs. R. V. May, Prestonsburg, state chairman for the rehabilitation center, said the name was selected by the district rehabilitation center chairmen from proposals sent in by clubwomen all over the state.

"The gentility of the name, as well as the character of the KFWC president whom the name honors, conveys the very quality the training center will strive to instill in the girls entrusted to it," Mrs. May said.

"Jewel Manor" will house some 30 to 40 girls, aged 10 to 14. Planned for a site near Anchorage in Jefferson county, operation will be turned over to the Kentucky Department of Child Welfare after it is completed. Groundbreaking is planned for next spring.

The KFWC has already pledged $50,000 toward the goal of $150,000 needed to build the center. The clubs, with Governor and Mrs. Edward T. Breathitt, will sponsor a Diamond Jubilee Ball in the Capitol at Frankfort on December 3, with proceeds to go toward the construction fund.

Mrs. Hamilton said all persons contributing $10 or more to the KFWC Foundation for Delinquent Girls, Inc., will be guests at the ball.

The non-profit foundation was incorporated earlier this month to coordinate work in establishing the rehabilitation center and to engage in related projects to combat delinquency. Mrs. Hamilton is president.

Aim of Diabetes Week Is Early Diagnosis

"Finding unknown diabetics and helping them to live longer, more useful lives is the goal of the annual Diabetes Detection and Education Drive during the week of November 14-20," according to Irving F. Kanner, M.D., Lexington, chairman of the Kentucky Medical Association's Diabetes Committee.

Sponsored by the KMA in cooperation with the American Diabetes Association, the drive will be held during the period officially proclaimed as Diabetes Week in Kentucky by Governor Edward T. Breathitt.

"In 14 previous public service campaigns, nearly 2,200 persons who were unaware they had diabetes learned of their condition. These individuals now have the necessary knowledge to enable them to use the proper precautions," Dr. Kanner said.

Every physician, hospital and laboratory in the state has been asked to cooperate in the drive by giving a FREE urine sugar test to anyone requesting it. All Kentuckians are urged to take advantage of the drive, which is unique in that it is strictly a public service effort and not a fund-raising drive.

Prestonsburg Lawyer

The contract, recommended by the Commissioner of Labor Carl Cabe, was approved by Gov. Edward T. Breathitt.

DAY-BARNETT

A letter from Mrs. Sparlen Day, 2201 Third Ave., Dodge City, Kansas, inquires on the Days and Barnetts and contributes information on these two early Kentucky families. The Days settled around Hazel Green and the Barnetts in Johnson county.

Mrs. Day writes: "On the Day line, my husband's, we are interested in Frank or Francis Day, who was born in Maryland, was in the Revolution under a General Lee, of Virginia. He was married in Wythe county, Virginia, to Mary Forbush. They had 12 children: Nancy, Polly, Aves, Peggy, Elizabeth, Rebecca, Jane, Frank, Jr., Nathaniel, George, Nilen and James (who was my husband's great-grandfather.) We know from census records that James Day was born in Kentucky but we do not know where. He was born in 1808. The family moved to Missouri in 1818. I read in KENTUCKY PIONEERS AND THEIR DESCENDANTS that at the Licking Lower Church one of the messengers was F. Day. We know nothing about our Frank or Francis Day more than the above.

"As to the Barnetts I am looking for Ambrose Barnett, born January 15, 1811, in Kentucky. He married a woman whose first name was Malinda. She was born August 14, 1814, also in Kentucky. They were the parents of five children: Franklin, Elizabeth (Lizzie), Nancy, James and Mary Ann (Polly). Is there a town in Kentucky called Marseville? A friend here says it should be Maysville. Malinda is said to have been born at that place. My great-grandmother, Lizzie, was born in Kentucky in 1847 and the family later moved to Vermillion county, Illinois. Ambrose died there, July 16, 1875. Malinda died March 28, 1883 but I have not yet learned where.

"A friend here who has worked on the Barnett family for years says she thinks the father of Ambrose was John T. Barnett, but has not been able to prove it nor have I. She has accumulated quite a lot of information, back to the French immigrant." Persons having Day or Barnett information are urged to write Mrs. Day.

JAMES FAMILY

William O. James, Purcellville, Virginia, writes about the early James families of America. "My wife and I have been working on two different James genealogies for more than three years. We have encountered many obstacles but this makes the work more challenging. I am related to two different James families as my grandmother on my mother's side of the family was a James but as of now I cannot find a connection between the two families. Both families originally came from Wales, one from Cardiff, the other from Pembroke. Both also lived in Chester county, Pennsylvania, and both families came to Loudoun county, Virginia, prior to the Revolutionary War.

"My great-grandfather, Elijah James, had a brother, Thomas W. James, born 1783, who went west from Loudoun county, Virginia to Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1805, and remained there until 1809. He then went to South Carolina where he married his cousin, Mary James. He built a string of watermills from South Carolina across Tennessee to southwestern Kentucky where he finally settled. He was appointed associate judge in 1824 by the Circuit Court of Hickman county, Kentucky. I believe that this is the only James of my family

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College, Bowling Green, Ky.

"TIMES AND SEASONS"

Recently, in preparing to write an article for a folklore journal on folk beliefs, I have gone over my files to check on times and seasons and the part they play in folkways. Just about every month and week and day of the week and special day has some belief attached to it. To try to remember all of them would tax any mind that I have ever become acquainted with. Maybe that is the reason that there are many contradictory beliefs as I said in an article some months ago.

January is a good place to start. The first twelve days of the month summarize, in brief the weather for the following twelve months. Of course, temperature cannot enter this picture, but clear or clouded skies will prophesy the weather accurately enough. Of course, another school of thought says that the twelve days between Old Christmas and New Christmas are the ones to watch for prophecies of the weather for the next season. Take your choice, but be sure to watch both of them.

February brings one valuable bit of weather lore: if it thunders in that month, there will be frost on the corresponding day of April or May, say some. That same thunder is hard on goose eggs, killing the embryos in the shell. Maybe most geese in Kentucky are not laying eggs quite that early.

March is running-over full of portents and luck signs. For every fog in March there is a frost in May. Everybody knows about March starting off like a lion or a lamb and ending the other way. Except for March 27, the whole month is a bad-luck time to get married. Just why that day is a lucky one I cannot find out. There are some secrets that I, as an investigator, just cannot unravel. One old man that I have asked about refuses to get a haircut in March; my informant says the old fellow will get rather taggy, but April 1 will be lucky enough to have his locks trimmed down to size.

April usually brings Easter, about which all sorts of beliefs have grown up. If Easter is early, spring itself will be early. If April is rainy, that means a good crop year to follow. A cow in Kentucky, at least, can make her own living after Easter, whether it comes early or late. And all gardeners know that beans planted on Good Friday will not be in danger of frost. If a storm or squall did not occur at Easter or near it, all of us would decide the calendar-makers had got their calculations all mixed up.

May 1 is a sacred folk day. On that day you can remove your winter underwear, the children can start going barefooted, you can shine a mirror over a well and see your lover's face in the water, away down there. But this mirror business is tricky, for, instead of the face, you might see the dim outlines of a coffin. If your bees swarm in May, that's fine:

"A swarm of bees in May
Is worth a load of hay."
However, if they decide to wait a little while, they become less valuable:

"A swarm of bees in June
Is worth a silver spoon;
But a swarm of bees in July
Isn't worth a fly."

June, say the poets and lots of society editors, is marriage month. Apparently a good many romantic people plan their marriages then. When I asked one elderly fellow whether he got married in June, he said he chose March instead, or, rather the girl did. And he was after the girl and not after June or a society-column write up.

July is the time to finish laying-by your corn. And July 4 should bring you some good roasting-ears from your earliest corn. Watch July 2, for the weather for the following six weeks will be prophesied by that day's weather. Some farmers refuse to plant corn on July 1, 2 or 3; they say, when cornered, that the corn will not have time to mature; but I have seen corn planted several days later than these dates.

$112,150 Federal Grant For Planning Group Approved Last Week

A federal grant of $112,150 was approved last week to pay the administrative expenses of a Kentucky planning group working on projects to improve the economy of the 49 counties in the Appalachian region of the state.

The grant approval was announced by Eugene P. Foley, assistant Secretary of Commerce for Economic Development.

The money goes to the Kentucky Area Development Office and will be available until September 30, 1966.

The funds were provided under the Appalachian Regional Development Act which permits paying up to 75 percent of the administrative costs of local development districts to enable these districts to employ personnel to prepare and implement economic development programs for their areas.

The Appalachia Act, approved by Congress earlier this year, authorizes $1.1 billion to rehabilitate the 12-state Appalachian region which stretches from southern New York to Alabama.

BELFRY ENDS SEASON WITH PERFECT RECORD

By GORDON V. MOORE

Five Eastern Kentucky high school football teams have finished their seasons, and the others will finish this week-end.

Belfry's Pirates closed out regular season play with the best mark of any area team, with 10 consecutive victories and the school's first undefeated season. They whipped arch-rival Williamson, 7-6.

Fleming-Neon belted winless M. C. Napier, 56-0, to remain in contention with Catlettsburg for the Class A, District 2, Region 4 crown. Gene Davis' Pikeville Panthers closed their season with a surprising 19-6 conquest of Jenkins, and Morgan County lost a 32-21 encounter to Catlettsburg.

Elkhorn City passed the .500 mark by downing visiting Paintsville, 6-0, for an overall five won, four lost, one tie slate.

The Hazard Bulldogs overpowered Everts, 35-19, and Wheelwright's Trojans conquered Whitesburg, for the first time, by a score of 19-6.

Belfry tallied in the third quarter on a 64-yard drive with stellar halfback Frank Guyton going in from the three yard line for his 21st touchdown of the season. The 205-pound senior finished the season with 135 points. Wally Bevins kicked the winning extra point.

Williamson, which went down to only its second defeat in eight games, came soaring back in the final period, but Mike McBrayer's extra point attempt that could have tied the game was partially blocked.

Pikeville, Whitesburg, M. C. Napier and Morgan County have finished their seasons, and Belfry will represent the Class AA, Region 4, District 2 league in the semi-finals play-offs in Middleboro, November 12.

On the 15th regional cage front, Martin opened defense of its regional crown by thumping Wayland, 79-56. Heller coasted to a 103-56 romp over Kingdom Come, and Garrett whipped Letcher County, 95-64.

Senior center Rickey Hall poured in 30 points and junior brother Donnie 24 markers as McDowell recorded its opening basketball win over visiting Cordia, 110-61.

Trojans Topple Whitesburg, 19-6

Whitesburg, Ky.—Larry Rowe and Willie Watson sparked Wheelwright to a 19-6 victory here Friday night over Whitesburg, Rowe scoring two touchdowns and Watson one on a electrifying run.

Rowe scored in the first and fourth quarters on short drives of three and five yards. Watson put the Yellowjackets in the hole 13-0 in the third period with an 80 yard gallop to paydirt. Cecil Thomsberry set up Rowe's last TD by recovering a Whitesburg fumble on the Jackels' ten-yard line.

Whitesburg scored in the fourth period to pull back into contention briefly, on a 10-yard pass from Bob Blair to Hoover Niece. W'wright 7 0 6 6—19 Whitesburg 0 0 0 6—6

NATURE

By RUFUS

THE MIGRATORY BIRDS

These have already flown and most of them are about now landing in their warm winter homes. The purple martins flew away in August, going about 4,000 miles to spend the winter in Brazil; they'll not be heard giving their cheerful chatter again until about the last of next March. The chimney swifts remained with us until the first of October and could be seen on late evenings chipping overhead and nabbing insects out of the air. They get all their food on the wing. They left suddenly about October 2 to spend the winter in faraway Peru.

The night hawks, which some people call "bullbats," and some mistakenly call "whippoorwills," migrated in early September. They are cousins of the whippoorwills and build their nests on the roofs of city houses in the Blue Grass and other regions. They make a slow, leisurely migration, catching insects which swarm in the autumn air on late evenings. They have large, white patches on the wings and when one looks up at a nighthawk in flight, the white patches look like two small "windows." These are highly valuable insect destroyers, so it is tragic that many people use them for targets. They have long, slender wings and are expert flyers. They go all the way to Argentina, about 4,000 miles away, to spend the winter.

The beautiful, little hummingbirds, smallest of the birds, the male with a ruby-red throat, migrated in September, right after the best flowers to give them nectar quit blooming. These tiny birds go all the way to Panama and Central America to spend the winter. They fly like a bullet and cross the Gulf of Mexico in a little over four hours. They will return in April.

The wood thrushes quit singing about August 1 but stayed here until the last of September to moult. As soon as the new feathers were fully out, they flew away to their winter homes in Costa Rica, Cuba, Jamaica and Porto Rico. They always come back to the same nesting site about April 18. The warblers, which have small, needle-like bills for capturing insects, left here in September for South America to spend the winter. During the fall migration, if you could have looked up into the sky on a clear night, you would have been amazed at their great numbers, as most of the warblers migrate by night and often fly as much as 120 miles between dusk and dawn. They stop off to feed and rest during the day.

of the big house on mine and Bob Chapman's Nature Farm. When they flew away in August, they took their little ones along, but these were now grown and able to make the long flight to Brazil. The black poll warblers, most of which nest in Alaska and Canada, fly over 5,000 miles from there to spend the winter in South America. The Arctic tern, which nests in summer in the Arctic Circle, flies from there to the Antarctic to spend the winter, a distance of over 10,000 miles! The robins that lived and reared their young in our region, migrate a little way south, probably to South Carolina or Florida, and then those hardy breeds of robins from up north, fly down to take their place and often spend the winter here.

Some of the more hardy species of sparrows stay with us all winter. Among these are the song and the field sparrows, and the ever-present, pestiferous English sparrows. But our climate gets too severe for the chipping and vesper sparrows, and they fly to the Gulf states for winter.

What causes birds to migrate? The main reason is survival. To stay where the cold winters drive all the insects under cover, or freezes them out, would mean starvation for birds like the warblers. Another reason is warmth. Many birds would freeze to death in zero weather. How do they know how to migrate? How do they know how to fly straight to Brazil, spend the winter there, and then fly back to the same nesting site? The purple martins return each year, after wintering in Brazil, to the same nest box. Their wisdom in finding their migration routes and following them is far greater than that of the skilled navigator, with his chart and compass. Birds seem to have a built-in compass to guide them with accuracy.

HAZARDS OF MIGRATION

Many birds flying by night are attracted like moths to bright lights, such as those of light-houses along the coast, and thousands are killed. Many also fly against tall objects. One morning, during the spring migration, the bodies of 150 small birds were found lying dead around the Washington Monument, which they had struck while flying fast. Sometimes birds on migration run into a sudden storm and often thousands of them are swept down into the ocean and perish. Sometimes a sudden cold snap comes in spring and freezes thousands of them to death.

Next I shall write on our non-migratory birds and why they can remain all winter.

AROUND THE CORNER

EDITOR, The Times: After reading this week's "This Town—That World" and your remarks about Jimmy Goble, who died, it brought to my mind one of my favorite poems. It's so true to life and I think expresses what you feel perfectly.

ANN B. HALL
Frankfort, Ky.

AROUND THE CORNER

Around the corner I have a friend
In this great city that has no end.
The days go by and the weeks rush on
And before I know it a year has gone,
And I haven't seen my old friend's face
'Cause life is such a swift and terrible race.
He knows I like him just as well
As in the days when I rang his bell.
We were younger then—
Now we are older, tired men—
Tired of playing a foolish game,
Tired of trying to make a name.
Tomorrow—I say, "I'll call on Jim."
Just to show him I'm thinking of him."
But tomorrow comes and tomorrow goes
And the distance between us grows and grows.

Just around the corner, the miles away,
Here's a telegram, sir—Jim died today;
And that's what we get—and deserve in the end:
Around the corner—a vanished friend.

Unspoken Thoughts

I wish I had told her How the blue of her eyes Was so soft and so clear, Like the blue of the skies. I wish I had said, When she brushed back her hair, That I thought she was pretty— So slim and so fair.

And I might have whispered A fond word of praise When she toiled for my comfort On long, busy days. I wish I had said, Many times through the years, How patient you are with My joys and my tears.

I wish I had told her When steps grew more slow, And I knew that they had not Much farther to go. I wish I had said, You are precious to me, Dear mother of mine, And you always will be.

I thought these things over Again and again, But I did not express them, With voice or with pen. So long I was silent, And now we're apart I wish I had told her The thoughts in my heart.

SHOULD CHILDREN HEAR FAMILY DISAGREEMENTS?—SPECIALIST SAYS, 'YES'

Lexington, Ky.—Since disagreements arise in every family, parents often wonder about the effect husband-wife quarrels have on the children. Mrs. Mary Browder, UK Extension family life specialist, believes it's important that children sometimes hear parents disagree and "make up" so they'll know how to handle such situations themselves later in life.

Almost all husbands and wives get angry with each other at times, Mrs. Browder notes, and children may hear these disagreements. Knowing that Dad and Mom sometimes quarrel doesn't hurt the children as long as they know their parents can talk about their disagreement and get over it. What really disturbs children is the worry that their parents won't "make up" and that the family will split up.

Some parents make a great effort to hide their quarrels from the children, she says. However, this may give children the wrong impression of marriage and of relationships between people — they may come to feel that anger is abnormal and that all people who are happily married live in perfect harmony all the time. Sometimes, too, children grow up believing that any disagreement between parents means the two people don't love each other and that the marriage is about to break up.

"A child growing up in a home where there is normal acceptance of feelings will have a better chance of a successful marriage himself," Mrs. Browder points out. "He learns that all parents have disagreements sometimes, but that these differences and black moods don't mean someone is about to pack up and leave. By observation, he picks up a basic truth—that his own feelings of anger are normal and that those he loves can be less than perfect at times.

"Naturally, I'm not recommending all-out battles at the family dinner table," she continues. "But making it clear that 'Dad and I are angry at each other right now, but we'll work it out later' is better than pretending everything is great when one look at your faces shows it isn't. Tense, tight-lipped parents can trigger all sorts of ideas in young imaginations. When talking stops, children are caught in a situation they can't handle."

"Setting up some ground rules is important, however," she says. "Some issues can be aired in front of children and some can't. For example, Mom's forgetting to pick up Dad's suit at the cleaners could cause frustration that could be discussed before the children. But a feeling that Dad paid too much attention to some other woman had best be aired in private."

If children hear quarrels, they also should hear "making up," Mrs. Browder emphasizes. "Learning from their parents' example that they can be angry, talk it out, come to some decision, hug and make up will help a child better handle disagreements in his own marriage later. If hugs and kisses between Mom and Dad aren't part of a child's life, then disagreements probably shouldn't be either."

The "making up" also shows children how to say "I'm sorry" later in life. The home in which children grow up is the best place for them to practice interpersonal relationships. There they learn first-hand some of the normal reactions to feelings. They can learn, too, that people get angry, make up and still love each other — that a few angry feelings, freely expressed, don't mean a divorce is coming.

"It's not what happens to a person that matters so much, but how he feels about it," Mrs. Browder points out. "A child who grows up in a home where he feels he can safely let his feelings show, without the danger of losing love, will have a more secure feeling about himself and about his ability to have good relationships with others. He's not afraid to admit he's wrong, for he understands that no one is perfect, and he can be free from hostility that can't be expressed."
