This Town . . . That World

What is a "plum granny?" one of the younger generation wants to know, suggesting that, maybe, it is a pomegranate. I deny the charge. It's a plain plum granny, and any resemblance to a pomegranate is purely coincidental.

SO OLD IT'S NEW

R. L. Slone, the former Floyd countian who now resides in Mishawaka, Indiana, suggests that we should follow up this plum granny bit by doing a piece about the oldtime gritter.

This being the grittin' season, it might be apropos, but our younger readers wouldn't know about such things. These youngsters set great store by the world's distinguished scientists and those who conjure up inventions that lay Buck Rogers in the shade. But they are not aware of the fact that once upon a time, somewhere, some unknown, unsung genius, perhaps faced with the crisis arising from the fact that there wasn't a bite of bread in the house, invented the gritter.

A nail, a hammer and a piece of tin were his materials. He drove the nail through the tin, time after time, until the piece of tin was a mess of holes. Then he took this piece of tin, turned it over to keep the side up from which the nail had emerged, leaving it to the metal rough, and nailed it to a board.

That, my young friends, was a gritter. No bread in the house? A few ears of corn that had hardened just enough was yanked from the patch, and as they were scrubbed up and down on the gritter the result was a coarse meal. And when the good woman had finished with it there was a

TRUCK KILLS J. HATCHER

May Lodge Architect Claimed by Accident At Pikeville Tuesday

Jack Thomas Hatcher, the Pikeville architect who designed May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Park, was killed Tuesday at Pikeville when the bed of a dump truck fell onto him. He was 40 years old.

Witnesses said the bed of the truck stuck in the raised position while workmen built a driveway at a new office building of Hatcher's firm. Hatcher climbed under the bed to see the cause of the trouble and was caught between the bed and the truck frame.

Hatcher's firm designed a number of buildings in Eastern Kentucky. He was a former radio executive and a leader in community and civic affairs. His family owned the Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Pikeville.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Nell Bevins Hatcher; a daughter, Ann; a son, Bruce, and his mother, Mrs. Jack L. Hatcher.

One of Bodies Found In Plane Wreckage Was That of Minister Who Conducted A Revival Here

One of three bodies found Saturday in the wreckage of a light plane on a Dickenson county, Virginia mountain was that of Paul Bennett, Danville, Illinois, who conducted a revival at the Arnold Avenue Church of Christ here, a few years ago.

The other victims were Dale Coleman, Perryville, Indiana, and the pilot, Jack Stockdale, whose address was not learned.

The search for the plane, a single-engine Piper Comanche, began August 26 after it had failed to arrive at its destination,

PROFESSIONAL 'JOB' IS SEEN IN LOOTING

AUTOS SEEN IN VICINITY OF COLLEGE

Detective Potter Says Looting Clues Found; Property Was Insured

The looting of the Prestonsburg Community College between 9 o'clock last Wednesday night and daybreak Thursday was conceived, planned and executed by professionals, was the belief expressed here Tuesday by State Detective Chester D. Potter.

Potter did not discount the possibility that help from one or more persons who are familiar with the building was given, but he is firm in his belief that the crime itself was not the work of amateurs.

The detective said latent fingerprints corresponding with prints found on the college safe have been found. Two automobiles were seen in the vicinity of the college, one entered the college grounds and a fairly detailed description of one of the vehicles has been given of officers.

Several persons are believed to have been involved in the break which was made after the end of the first day of classwork. Every suspect will be checked, the detective said, adding that he expects this work and the rundown of all clues to consume a period of four or five weeks.

Lending credence to the theory that one or more persons intimately acquainted with the building had a part in the break is the fact that an unmarked door leading to the roof where a lookout apparently was posted was "jimmied" while a door on either side of it was untouched though these two were marked.

The college has four outside doors, one for each of its four sides, and each of these was ruined. It is believed that all four were forced in order to leave a means of escape in any direction in the event of detection.

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the college, said that the actual value of doors ruined or so damaged as to require replacement is $4,210 and that desks, cabinets, locks, the ruined safe and other items were damaged in the amount of $1,621. All of the loss may be covered by insurance, he said.

Despite the damage to the buildings and its furnishings, officers do not class these results of the break as vandalism. (See Story No. 5, Page 6)

BELL STATES LODGE HERE TO STAY OPEN

The recommendation of Spindletop Research to the contrary, Jenny Wiley State Park's May Lodge will remain open the full 12 months, Robert S. Bell, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Parks, told the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club last Thursday evening.

And, Commissioner Bell added,

West P'burg Man, 25, Is Seriously Injured When Struck by Train

Clevenger received emergency care at the hospital here, later was transferred to the Methodist hospital, Pikeville. It was said that he suffered a severe kidney injury and broken ribs.

FEDERAL AID FUNDS RISE

Number of Pupils In Floyd To Draw Is Placed at 5,516

The number of school children aged 5-17 who will draw funds to Floyd county under the new Federal Aid to Education Act totals 5,516. This is 2,080 more than was first estimated, the Kentucky Department of Education reports.

The U. S. Office of Education has made the final allocation, based on a re-study of census records, of the number of students eligible to participate under the act.

James Melton, assistant superintendent for administration and finance in the State Department of Education said the total number of Kentucky school children involved is 5,458 more than was first estimated. He pointed out that the majority of counties (72 of the 120) have lost eligible students under the final allotment.

The new estimate brings the number of Kentucky children for whom federal funds will be provided in 1965-'66 to 193,559 — 25 percent of the state's students.

School districts will be eligible for about $150 per student under current estimates.

Kentucky's original allocation exceeded $28 million under this phase of the act. If Congress fully funds the program this fiscal year, the state could get about $30 million.

The act provides for special educational programs and strengthening of existing programs for students from families with an annual income of $2,000 or less.

Melton explained that when Congress was debating the bill, the number of children involved was estimated on the basis of families, not on individual children.

He noted that while computations based on an average number of children per family are accurate on a nation-wide basis, they require adjustment when smaller areas, such as counties, are involved.

"Generally speaking, Eastern Kentucky had a larger number of children from families in this category than was originally estimated," Melton said.

SAY WARDEN FIRED UPON

Sherman Jailed Here Sunday after Shooting In Buffalo Creek Area

James Sherman, 22, of Endicott, is in jail here charged with shooting at with intent to kill, resisting arrest and poaching, after he allegedly fired a shotgun blast last Sunday morning at Conservation Officer Don Mead.

Conservation Officer Raymond Copley, who was with Mead on a patrol of the state game refuge in the Buffalo Creek area, said they spotted Sherman, who fled, the officers pursuing him. He said he became separated from Mead, who had entered a dense thicket, that he heard a shot and a call from Mead. Mead and Sherman were struggling when he reached them.

Copley quoted Mead as saying Sherman suddenly turned on him and that he knocked the gun barrel aside as Sherman fired.

The incident was reported to Labor Day and the preceding week-end saw an unusual number of arrests, with 44 booked at the county jail between September 1 and Wednesday afternoon. Among those arrested were:

Ronald David Allen, child desertion, by Deputy Sheriff Marion Martin; Harmon Pennington, child desertion, by Sheriff Henry C. Hale; Corbin Harris, drunk driving, by State Trooper Ray; Clifford Hayden, Army desertion, by Deputy Sheriff Lonnie Herald; Sally Spradlin, of the upper section of the county, drunk driving and no operator's license, Trooper E. B. Allen; Elisha Adkins, drunk driving, by Constable Gillis Conn; Ronnie Osborne, child desertion charge from Johnson county, by Sheriff Hale; Crawford Cline, drunk driving and no operator's license, by Deputy Sheriff Sam Hale; Shadrick Akers and Andrew Jackson Case, driving while intoxicated, by State Trooper Ray; Janice Adkins and Rafe Lafferty, breaking and entering a church, arrested by Sheriff Hale, Deputy Sheriffs Sam Hale and Lonnie Herald; Rafe Lafferty, striking and wounded; Bobby Joe Stillner, driving while intoxicated, by State Trooper Harmon.

Democrats Choose Campaign Leaders At Meeting, Friday

The Democratic gathering filled the county courtroom, party leaders said.

15,000 AT ALLEN FOR CELEBRATION

An estimated 15,000 persons jammed the town of Allen Monday as the United Mine Workers of District 30 staged there what officials described as "one of the best Labor Day celebrations in years."

George J. Titler, president of District 29, in one of the day's principal addresses reported to the UMW membership that the reorganization drive being staged by the union is going well. Several new contracts have been signed, one of which was by the Kentucky Carbon Coal Co., owner of a big, new mine on Peter Creek, Pike county.

Titler commended District 30 on its work and predicted that another raise in miners' pensions will result when Medicare becomes effective. Medicare, it was said, will take care of most of the bills of miners over 65, and the Miners' Welfare Fund will assume all expenses above those paid by the new program of medical care. Overall effect of the recently authorized medical services is to reduce the load on the Welfare Fund, releasing a large part of its resources for

WINN DENIES NEW HEARING

Of Airport Land Case, Indicating Preference For High Court Action

Special Judge John J. Winn has overruled the motion of attorneys for the Prestonsburg-Paintsville Airport Board for a new trial of the suit in which a Johnson circuit court jury awarded landowners $258,509 for acreage taken by condemnation by the Airport Board and for damages caused adjacent lands by the facility.

Airport Board attorneys announced they will take the case to the Court of Appeals—and that, apparently, was what Judge Winn sought when he denied the motion for a new trial. His opinion, denying new trial, said:

"If the values of the lands taken should have been established solely on the basis of their prior use for agricultural purposes, then no argument nor demonstration is required to show that the recoveries are grossly and ridiculously excessive," he wrote.

"Upon this theory the comparables used . . . were wholly inappropriate bases for . . . opinions of values, and should not have been admitted."

"Were I to sustain the motion (See Story No. 2, Page 6)

SAFETY DAY PLANS TOLD

29th Renewal of Event Scheduled Saturday At Pike City Park

The 29th annual Safety Day of the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Mining Institute will be held at City Park, Pikeville, Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m.

The Safety Day will feature first-aid and mine rescue contests. Teams from Beth-Elkhorn Corporation, Inland Steel Company and Republic Steel Corporation will vie for the championship of the Big Sandy field as well as for the honor of representing this field in the "World Series of Safety" to be held at Louisville, in early October.

An added feature of the contest will be a demonstration by a first-aid team from Inland Steel Company showing the latest techniques and devices.

Dignitaries expected to attend will include representatives of the federal and state governments, coal management, and the United Mine Workers of America.

The contest is sponsored annually by the Mining Institute, the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Operators' Association, the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals, Mayo State Vocational School, U. S. Bureau of Mines and the United Mine Workers of America in the interest of promoting safety in coal mining operations.

The Big Sandy contest has traditionally been the largest in the state, and the winners have regularly placed high in the later national contests.

ASKS PROBE OF REPORTS ON TRAFFIC

Conley Reminds Jury Public Officials Not Above Investigation

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley told the grand jury here Tuesday morning that the bootlegging situation in this county has apparently grown worse again, and he advised the jurors to dig as deeply as possible into the situation.

Judge Conley's instruction to the jury were heard by only four persons other than the grand jurors, members of the bar and county officials.

"In my opinion," he said, "the whole root of crime in this county lies with the whiskey crowd."

He told of receiving numerous telephone calls relating to alleged liquor activities at a Knotley Hollow place, about four miles south of Prestonsburg. "I'm sure there are other places just as bad, maybe worse, in the county, but the people there are interested," Judge Conley commented.

He also took a slap at the search-and-seizure restrictions imposed on officers by high court decisions. "It seems the higher courts have been leaning over backward to protect people in the whiskey business. In short," he said, "I think they're pampering criminals too much."

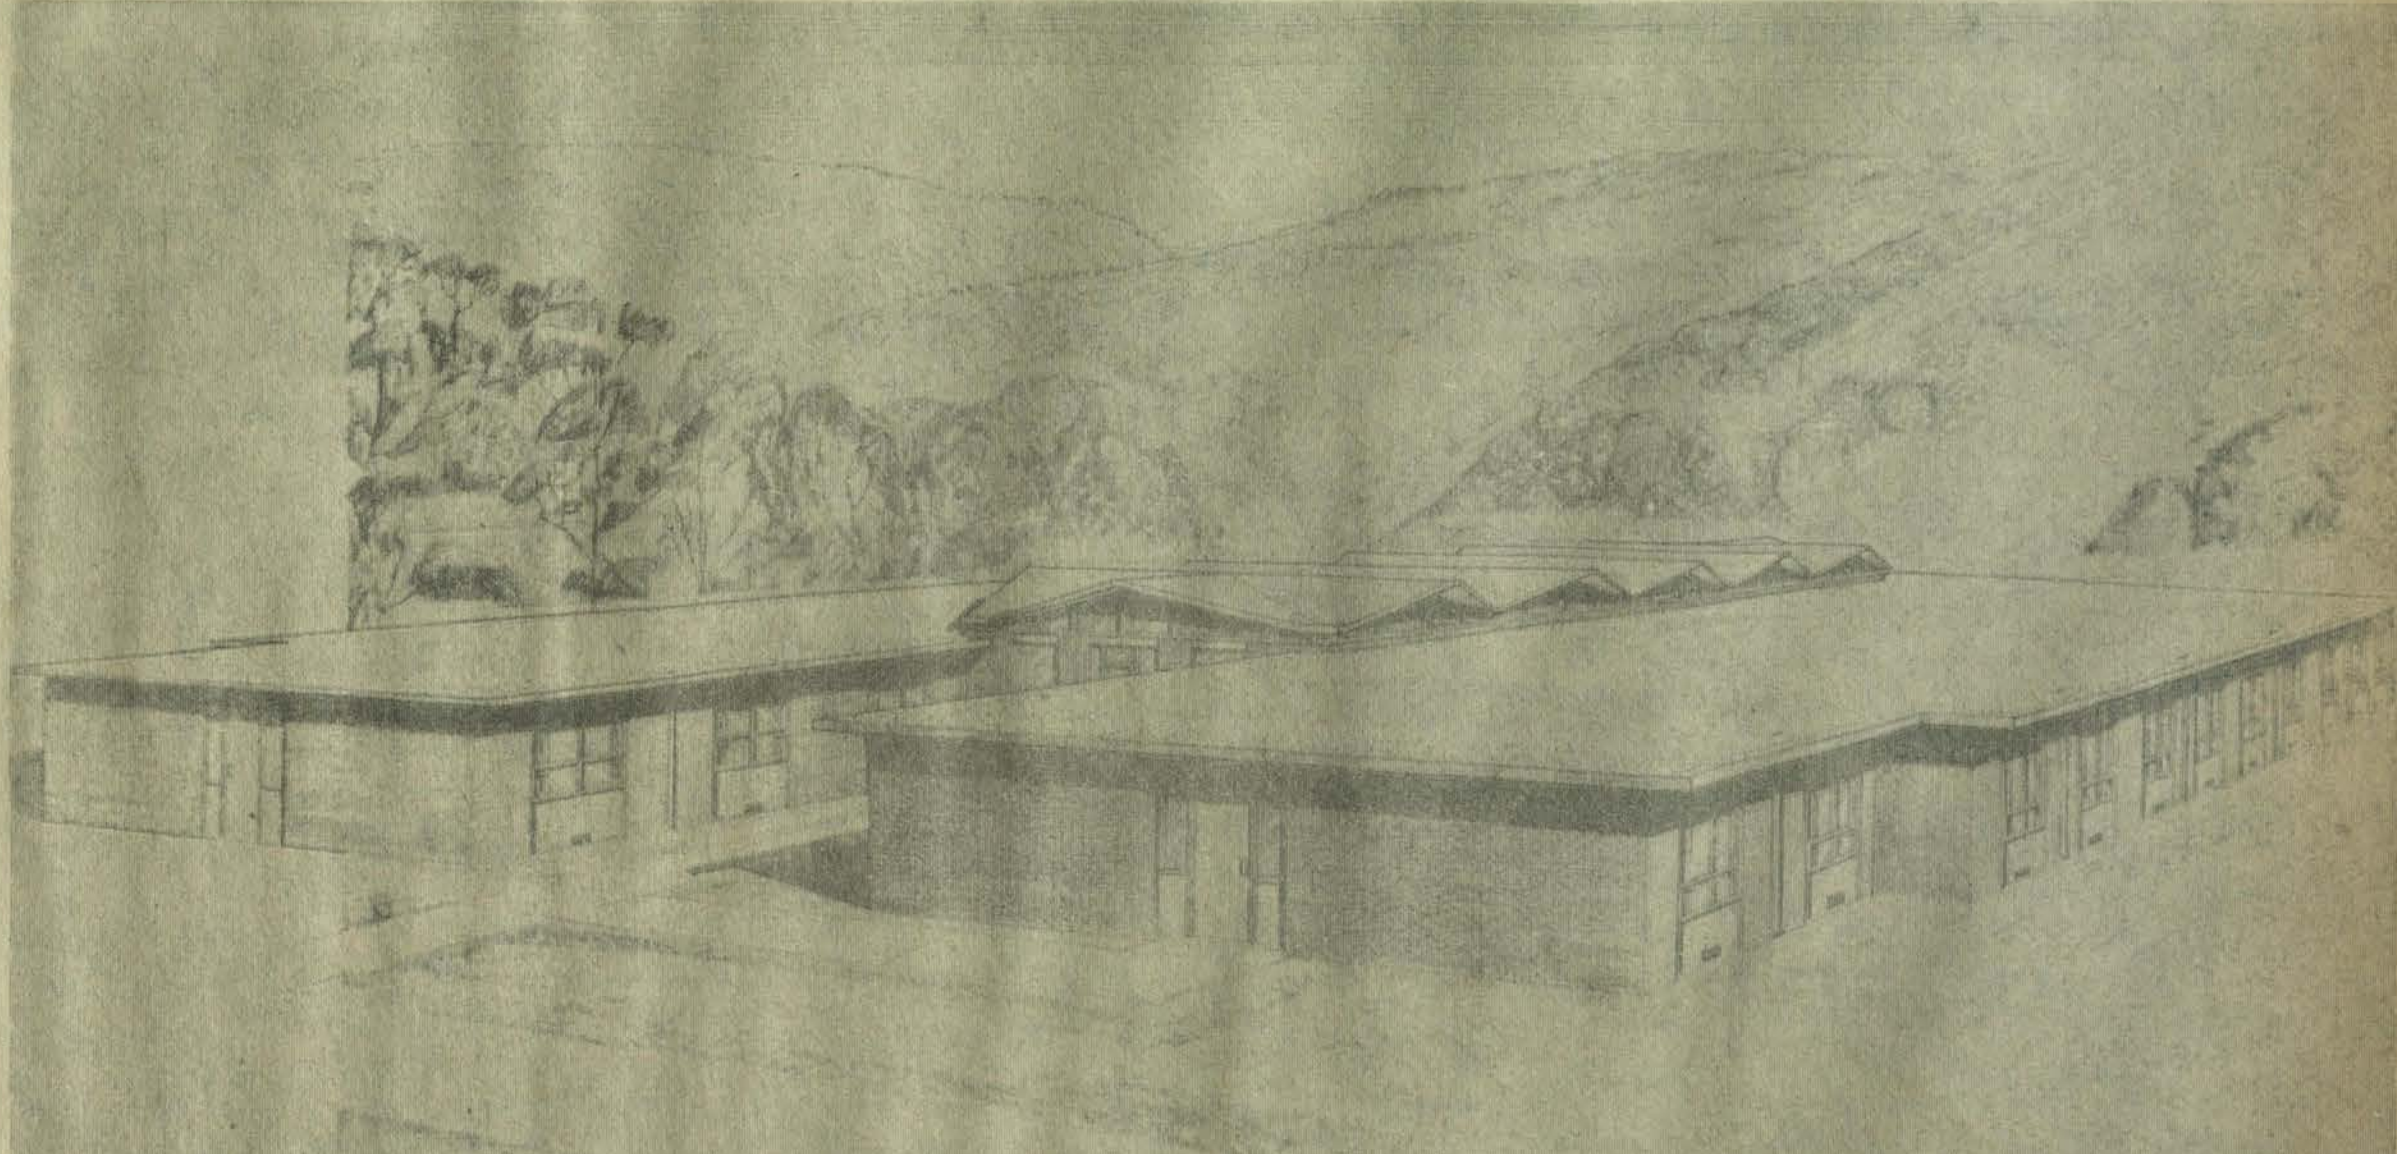

Conley expressed the opinion that, had the courts been more stern, the race riots in Los Angeles might not have occurred. Then he turned to the recent primary election, recalling that charges had been made during the campaign that fines and forfeitures had not been paid. "I think," he said, "you should investigate. We public officials are no better than anybody else. If this is true, you should indict. You may investigate the records and you may call in the state auditor."

(Fines and forfeitures collected by County Judge Henry Stumbo have been paid in full, a court official said later.)

Judge Conley attributed much of the reduction in the number of child desertion and non-support cases to the unemployed fathers' program. These cases, he said, are fewest in the last 10 years, indicating that they stem from economic conditions in families.

Graham Burchett, of Emma, was named foreman of the grand jury. (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

NURSING AND CONVALESCENT HOME WORK BEGUN HERE

Architect's concept of Mountain Manor Nursing and Convalescent Home, viewing building from front bordering on College Lane.

Foundation work for the $350,000 Mountain Manor Nursing and Convalescent Home being constructed on College Lane here by Prestonsburg Investors, Inc. has been completed, and the contractor, Astor Meade, Prestonsburg, is making preliminary plumbing and electrical installations.

Its opening has been tentatively set at six months from this week. The 50-bed facility will be a one-story brick, fireproof, with terrazzo floors throughout, hot water heat and completely air-conditioned. Equipment and interior decoration will be furnished by the American Hospital Supply Corporation. Exterior improvements will include a paved terrace at the rear, with paved driveway and parking lot, plus landscaping.

The 50 beds to be provided will be in either private or semi-private rooms. Each room will have a clothes closet, lavatory and connecting bath, with special bath facilities for wheelchair patients. Each room also will have a nurse call system.

The structure will include, in addition to rooms for patients, consultation and treatment rooms, dining and lounge areas and a kitchen equipped to provide all dietary requirements, including special diets.

As a nursing and convalescent home the services of Mountain Manor will extend far beyond those of a rest home, it was explained. It will provide nursing and convalescent care for medical and surgical patients of all age groups and for the treatment of illnesses attendant upon advanced age.

With 21 fulltime employees, the home will be staffed around the clock with experienced professional, licensed nurses, and its medical staff will include physicians practicing in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin and Pike counties.

A physician will be on call 24 hours a day.

The home has been approved by the Floyd County Health Department, the State Department of Health and the Federal Housing Administration. Applications are being prepared now for certification to provide services under the Kerr-Mills and Medicare programs as well as private insurance programs, including Blue Cross. Certification also will be requested from the American Nursing Home Association.

PROJECT HOPE BEGUN IN 32 KY. COUNTIES

Project HOPE, a demonstration of early creative experiences for children and social services for their families, moved into full operation with the start of the school year on September 7 in Wolfe, Owsley and Lee counties.

Richard J. Clendenen, commissioner of Child Welfare, said around 100 children are being enrolled in six day-care centers set up in churches, schools and community halls in the three counties.

Centers will be opened the week of September 13 in Morgan, Elliott and Magoffin counties, and as soon as facilities are located and approved, in Knott county.

The demonstration is supported by a $661,691 grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity to the Kentucky Child Welfare Foundation, which will administer the program through established services of the Department of Child Welfare. Richard V. Wood, Louisville, is chairman of the privately incorporated foundation. Clendenen is executive director.

Much of the summer was spent in training day care aides, homemakers and caseworkers who were recruited from residents of the counties involved. The day care workers were trained at Eastern State College, homemakers at Sandy Hook, caseworkers at the residential training center of the Department of Child Welfare.

Commissioner Clendenen said the employment of fourteen workers in each county, with a payroll of around $3,900 a month, will provide an incidental economic benefit for the hard-pressed areas.

"Preliminary studies of children and their families have been completed in most cases," Clendenen said. "Selections are made generally with an eye to homes of the greatest isolation and lowest income.

"As the children are brought to the day care centers five days a week, homemakers go into their homes to try and impart the knacks of proper feeding, house-

BY HELEN PRICE STACY
(In The Herald-Advertiser, Huntington, W. Va.)

It was a long road from Russia to the Mountains of Kentucky, but they made it—many years and many miles ago. At Pikeville College, Pikeville, Kentucky, they are accepted as home folk and loved as such, but the road to Pikeville was rough going and they'll tell you as much. The years between 1919 and 1965 have tempered somewhat their anger with the country they fled, but not their feelings about Communism. "Communism, and especially its Soviet deviation known as Bolshevism, is purely ideological and therefore cannot change its policy. Any change, even the slightest will bring or result in complete annihilation of the regime."

Arkady Weber and his wife, Marguerite Weber, have been on the faculty at Pikeville College for 13½ years. They were married 37 years ago in Mukden, China.

But the story of the Webers and their flight from Russia goes back, way back, actually more than a hundred years when his father left his native Germany to make his home in Moscow, where as a musician he became a renowned professor in Moscow Conservatory. Teaching at the Conservatory from 1863 to 1869, the elder Weber counted as close associates the composers Tchaikovsky and Rubenstein.

One of the professor's pupils was a countess, daughter of a rich family from Tatar who had inherited vast wealth dating back to the time of the Great Khan. Despite his musical culture, his education and his family, his background was no match for that of the Tatar Countess and when the couple married it was without the consent of her family and without her dowry.

With this family background, their son Arkady Weber went into military service as a 17-year-old volunteer in the Imperial Russian Army, fighting against his father's native Germany. Wounded, he became a German prisoner for two years.

He did not know it at the time, but he was to become, politically, a White Russian, a refugee, a pianist in a Chinese movie house . . . and eventually a teacher of piano in the mountains of East Kentucky . . . home.

To Marguerite Weber, St. Petersburg is not a city in the Southern U. S., but the most beautiful city she has ever known and located in the country she left behind when she became a refugee fleeing Communism. Although it now is Leningrad, to her it remains St. Petersburg. It was in this city that her father was in charge of post and telegraph.

Her mother, a native of Switzerland, was in Russia in time for the 1905 revolt, as governess in the palace of Grand Duke Constantine, relative of the Tsar. After teaching the Grand Duke's children, she later taught French at exclusive Smolney Institute.

Smolney Institute in Leningrad (to her St. Petersburg) became Marguerite's Alma Mater. Because her mother taught in the school, the daughter was allowed to study, and she spent nine years of her youth as a boarder, going home for summer vacation and holidays. The school—the best in czarist Russia—was founded by the German-born Empress Catherine the Great in 1764, and since then the Russian girls of noble birth were educated here on grade school, high school and college levels. Included in the studies were languages of Russian, French, German and English. Under the patronage of the dowager Empress Maria, the school often was visited by the dowager.

Says Marguerite of her former home and school: "Smolney is in the most beautiful city I have ever known. The broad avenues, the buildings, fountains, statues, large cathedrals and the River Neva create unforgettable vistas. I remember well the strolls along the river banks, looking at the magnificence of the Winter Palace on the river and peeping inside to admire the marble stairway."

Arkady Weber, after escaping German prisons twice, returned to Tambow. Revolution was all around, the Tsar had been de-throned, Weber's countless mother was ill and dying, the Bolsheviks were defeating the Menshevik Whites. It was apparent that Lenin and Trotsky would soon lead Russia. The youth fled to Siberia . . . then to China and a job as an 8-ven-a-month pianist in a movie house.

In 1926 he went to Mukden, China, where he was a band leader—a more lucrative job yen-wise than as movie-house musician.

In the meantime dark-eyed, soft-voiced Marguerite was traveling the same heart-breaking road to freedom. To escape the Russians and Communism, the young girl tied a light cloth around her head leaving only her face exposed, had her picture made and attached this to a fake passport. Thus she was able to make her way to Siberia, later to Mukden, China, where she and Arkady met, fell in love and married.

MISS WELLS IS HONORED

Miss Laura Wells, Lawrence county church and community worker, was honored at the last meeting of the Ashland District Woman's Society of Christian Service by the presentation of a life membership per by the Woman's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild of the Louisa Methodist Church. The gift of a life membership pen represents a contribution to the mission program of the Methodist Church in the honoree's name. Miss Wells, an employee of the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church, has just returned to her home district after six years of service as a church and community worker in Western North Carolina. She is the daughter of Mrs. Carrie Wells, of Auxier.

Still traveling the long road, they went to Peking and to Tientsin. Here she was a teacher in the British school, and he directed a band. Then they traveled to Tsingtao, Hong Kong, Chefoo in northern China, and to Shanghai where they stayed 10 years and found prosperity as teacher and orchestra director.

The prosperity was shortened with the advent of the Japanese to occupy Shanghai; the couple lived then by selling their valuables, and by the time the Americans reached Shanghai in 1945, they were penniless.

The arrival of the Americans, recall the Webers, was sunshine after storm, and times were good again until Chiang Kai-Chek's armies began to weaken before the Chinese Communists.

Many of the White Russians were persuaded to return to the Soviet Union, but not the Webers. Distrustful of the Communist regime, they decided to keep traveling the long road toward freedom and managed to get out of Shanghai on the last ship to leave before the City was dominated by the Reds.

They were tired . . . tired of traveling and running, but they had two more years of music and teaching in Rio de Janeiro before they started the trip that ended at Pikeville, Kentucky.

Today, Arkady teaches piano in Pikeville, Melvin and Allen, Kentucky. Marguerite teaches art-painting and lecture courses on the History of Art and Art Appreciation in Pikeville College. "I am also a housewife," she says. "I do my own cooking (this is her forte), washing, house-cleaning. We both love good music and have a large collection of records both classics and popular. Arkady also collects stamps."

The Webers have no children, but then there are all those students at the college; and they are not sure about any relatives yet in Russia because "since 1925 we do not correspond with the USSR." Said Marguerite, "The last request I had from my brother was not to write. He, his wife and children as well as my sister were in St. Petersburg at the time."

Arkady and Marguerite became citizens of the U. S. in 1954, and since settling at Pikeville—and despite years of refugee travel—have been twice to Europe to visit relatives in Switzerland and Rome.

He calls her Margareta, and together they are much in demand as speakers.

They frequently are asked their view on Communism. She says, "Our view is exactly the same as it was nearly half a century ago when we fled Russia and found refuge in Mongolia, China, Hong Kong, Brazil, and finally in the United States. And our opinion on the new leaders of Russia is exactly the same as we had about Stalin, Malenkov and the others. We are pretty sure that the change of leadership will not bring any alteration in the policy of the Soviet government, but it may affect the peace of the entire world if the new leaders are of a belligerent nature. We do not know these new personalities and therefore it is difficult to predict what may happen."

And that is why Arkady and Marguerite Weber are happily at home at Pikeville, Kentucky—he, whose mother was a Tatar countess, and she whose mother was a governess in the palace of a cousin of Tsar Nicholas II.

LAST 6 YEARS SEE STEADY PUPIL DROP

There has not been a year in the last six when there was not a drop in the total number of pupils enrolled in Floyd county schools, figures compiled by Herbert Prater, the Floyd County Board of Education's attendance department head, show.

And in only three of the 14 schools of more than five rooms is the enrollment greater now than it was six years ago.

The enrollment for all schools in the county in the 1960-'61 school year totalled 13,316. The enrollment total for the current 1965-'66 term is 11,296.

The schools with fewer than five rooms have suffered the heaviest enrollment losses, but these schools are fewer because of consolidation. In school year 1960-'61 there were 94 such schools with an enrollment of 4,238. Four fewer schools the next year enrolled 3,663. Seventy-five of these schools had an enrollment of 2,924. The number of schools dropped, the next year, to 71 and their enrollment to 2,519. Last year, there were 45 such schools with an enrollment of 1,777. This year the number is 33 with an enrollment of 1,503.

The unbroken annual decline in enrollment is attributed to two circumstances by Mr. Prater: Families are becoming smaller, and when some heads of families become unemployed they take their families with them to where they can find work.

"Until we can have work for our people to do here at home, we will continue to lose in school population," he said.

The three larger schools which showed enrollment gains over the six-year period covered by Prater's study are Auxier with a current enrollment of 216, which is a net gain of only three; Betsy Layne with 979 in school now as compared with 890 in 1960-'61, and Prestonsburg which now has 1,741 against 1,545 six years ago. Wayland's schools had the biggest numerical loss over the period with 661 in 1960-'61 and 436 this year.

These figures represent the total enrollment for the entire county each year, beginning with 1960-'61 and ending with the term which began only two weeks ago: 13,316, 12,202, 11,800, 11,629, 11,358, 11,296.

The enrollment for the larger schools over the same years:

Allen—359, 325, 297, 314, 328, 329; Auxier—213, 178, 133, 227, 223, 216; Betsy Layne—890, 822, 846, 858, 882, 979; Drift—272, 239, 241, 223, 198, 176; Garrett—603, 507, 529, 529, 501, 516, 550; Har-old—270, 248, 247, 224, 240, 242; Martin—866, 807, 803, 850, 856, 851; Maytown—576, 572, 548, 556, 558, 568; Melvin—329, 294, 266, 280, 268, 241; McDowell—1098, 1063, 1050, 1084, 1080, 1043; Pres-tonsburg—1545, 1552, 1601, 1709, 1633, 1741; Wayland—661, 636, 626, 474, 463, 436; Weeksbury—247, 218, 203, 205, 181, 163; Wheelwright—1149, 1078, 1033, 1038, 1011, 1104.

John M. Stumbo elementary school, which did not open till the 1962-'63 year began with 451 and this year had 593. Charles Clark elementary, now in its second year, dropped this year from an initial enrollment of 575 to 561.

United Fuel Plans Compressor Station To Serve Inez Area

To pump natural gas from a production field in the general area of Inez, the United Fuel Gas Company is planning construction of a new compressor station having 880 horsepower.

H. O. Grady, superintendent of the Southern Compressor Division, said the station will be located on existing company property in Inez. Its estimated cost is $263,000, and it will be named "Inez Compressor Station."

The new compressor station will draw gas from 175 company wells. In addition, it will take gas from wells belonging to 25 independent producers with whom United Fuel has gas purchase contracts.

BIG SANDY GETS FUNDS

For Community Action Program; Six Counties Get $97,785 Allotment

Two recent Community Action Program grants from the U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity bring the total amount of federal money for these programs in Kentucky to $7,260,983. Jim Peel, coordinator of Kentucky's anti-poverty office, has announced.

The latest grants include a $97,785 allotment to the Big Sandy Area Development Council, a six-county unit including Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Lawrence, Pike, and Magoffin. The program develops and grants was approved August 19.

Another $23,384 was approved August 23 for the Council of Southern Mountains, Berea. The money will be used for a demonstration project to improve public library service.

Peel and his staff are attached to the office of Governor Edward T. Breathitt. Recently, the agency published its first newsletter on Kentucky's part in the war against poverty.

The report says that this summer 24,799 Kentucky children in 90 counties participated in Headstart programs, designed to prepare preschool youngsters for formal classroom work. Cost of the program totaled $4,330,685, including federal money of $3,885,014.

Thirty-five Kentucky school boards and five other agencies are sponsoring work training programs involving 8,444 trainees, most of them school age. These projects provide jobs for students who otherwise could not remain in school. They involve over $3.2 million in federal funds and make Kentucky second only to California in amount of participation.

A companion program in adult education has 7,151 students across the state and is financed by $482,945 in federal money and $52,380 in state funds.

Sixty-two VISTA workers (Volunteers in Service to America) have been approved for assignments in Kentucky communities, the report states. Twelve of them will work with staff members of the Kentucky Department of Corrections, teaching basic reading and writing, vocational skills, and otherwise counseling probationers and parolees to adjust to community life.

Nineteen Kentucky counties are participating in the work experience program which provides jobs and vocational training for unemployed parents and other needy persons. Federal grants for these programs amount to approximately $15,809,000.

SCHOOL IS NAMED FOR DR. OSBORNE

The new school at Jack's Creek which will centralize elementary education in the upper Left Beaver Creek area has been named the Dr. Dewey Osborn Elementary School.

Naming of the school by the Floyd County Board of Education was in honor of the late Floyd county doctor who for 23 years was a member of the board and a resident of the area served by the new school.

The Osborn school will be ready for occupancy within two weeks, County Superintendent Charles Clark said, Wednesday. The new structure will be formally dedicated later.

At last Saturday's regular meeting of the board an order was voted requiring all teachers and other board employees who work with youth to purchase and use hearing aids, if their hearing is defective.

The board also adopted a policy to control the use of school buses by non-school groups. The order set the charges for such use at 30 cents per mile, plus meals and lodging of the driver. The board would pay the bus driver for actual driving time at the rate of $1.25 an hour and would supply gasoline and oil for the vehicle.

The reimbursement agreement with the Mayo State Vocational School for the Garth Vocational School was approved for the school year. Approximately 200 are taking classes daily at Garth, it was said.

Superintendent Clark was authorized to negotiate with the Department of Public Assistance a contract for a secondary (high school equivalency) education program.

Qualified teachers employed on recommendation of the Superintendent:

Sandra Sue Slone, at McDowell elementary school; Donna Trimble, Betsy Layne high; Mary Ann Walker, Weeksbury elementary; Peggy Sue Bradford, Wheelwright high school; Letha Little, Auxier elementary.

Emergency teachers employed: Hazel Hamilton, at Mink Branch; Olga Conn, Left Toler; Jerry Meade, Upper Little Mud; Denver Newsome, John M. Stumbo elementary.

Resignations of Alicia Crisp Ison, in the new Osborn elementary school, and Jack Lovely, art teacher at Wayland-Maytown high schools, were accepted. Leaves of absence were granted to Anna Laura May, Dorothy Dotson, Hollie Faye Wicker, Alma Jean Wells.

Teacher transfers: Hiram Couch, from Weeksbury to Osborn elementary; Keith Slone, from McDowell to Betsy Layne high; Roberta Luxmore, from Ned's Fork to Ligon; Lowell McCown, from homebound unit to Martin high school; Pal-trail development and construction of an incinerator.

Adequate camping facilities are also planned for next year. Bell told The Times that the Department of Parks would prefer to acquire Camp Chatterawha from the Girl Scouts for conversion into a camping facility, if the property can be purchased at a satisfactory price. If this is done, the first camping area would be established there. Then a second would be developed at German, uplake, which already is being used by campers who are not averse to roughing it.

Commissioner Bell urged the Kiwanians to give their active support to the bond issue, pointing out that upon its passage depends future progress for the state through road construction financed mainly by federal funds.

and grounds and grant a new trial on the grounds of excessive verdicts or errors in the admission of evidence, or both, without the law of the case having been established." Judge Winn stated, "I anticipate I would be in the same quandary and confronted with the same uncertainties as on the original trial."

"On the assumption that these cases will be appealed, should the Court of Appeals determine that the results cannot be permitted to stand, the reason for such conclusion no doubt would be set forth in the opinion in such manner as to provide the trial court with a pattern or road map by which he could be guided in trying the case correctly in accordance with the established law of the case."

"I believe that this procedure affords the best opportunity of concluding this litigation in the reasonably foreseeable future, to the end that the condemnation may be consummated or abandoned."

SOIL CONSERVATION DIST. REPORT FOR FISCAL 1965

Since our Soil Conservation District was organized in the fall of 1950, we have made slow but steady progress.

Our board of supervisors of the Soil Conservation District consists of J. B. Clark, chairman; R. C. Barnett, vice-chairman; Lloyd Wells, secretary; Billy Merritt, treasurer; H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., equipment manager.

We shall attempt to give a brief account of our accomplishments in soil and water conservation during the year of 1965.

Our technical personnel is composed of Gerald Hart, work unit conservationist, a full time employee; Victor May, conservation technician, a half-time employee; Clifford Dowell, one-eighth time employee. These men are furnished by the Soil Conservation Service. Salye Branham is our district clerk who is on part-time employment. District clerk services are co-sponsored by the Division of Soil and Water Resources and the Floyd County Fiscal Court.

On-the-land assistance was furnished to over 429 district cooperators, 60 non-cooperators and consultive type assistance furnished to 25 agencies and groups. One hundred sixty-two landowners applied at least one conservation practice on their farm or tract of land this year.

Landowners in Floyd county S.C.D. installed 13,142 feet of tile drainage systems, constructed two farm ponds, constructed four grassed waterways, set 339 acres of trees for timber production and erosion control, improved 20 acres of woodland by weeding practices, established 222 acres of permanent vegetative cover.

Floyd county S.C.D. through services provided by the Soil Conservation Service assisted 15 cooperators in developing conservation basic plans and revising nine basic plans.

There are 2,535 landowners in this district and of these we have 978 cooperators to date. We now have a total of 349 complete plans.

We have done what we could to promote our program through our young people. We feel education of our people on Soil and Water Conservation will increase cooperation of landowners, thus give more permanent benefits, and to that we encouraged pupils of the schools in the county to write and submit essays on Soil and Water Conservation. For the past 10 years we have had all the counties of the state in the number of essays written. We have been able to do this by the cooperation of the school officials, Floyd County Times, local radio stations, and other organizations. The Soil Conservation District made available prizes amounting to $113. A trophy was given to the student having the best essay in the county, also trophies were given to various schools for outstanding work and participation.

The trophies were furnished by The First National Bank, The Bank Josephine, The First Guaranty Bank, Floyd County Fish & Game Club, Inland Steel Co., and Wright Brothers Jewelry.

The district through the cooperation of the Floyd County Ministerial Association, participated in Soil Stewardship Week activities. The district furnished 500 church bulletins to local churches.

The district sponsored a tree-planting contest in the local F.F.A. chapters by providing a plaque to the outstanding F.F.A. member in the district.

The district sponsored two boys to the Junior Leadership Conservation camp near London, Kentucky.

The district started a local Newsletter on a bi-monthly basis to 900 cooperators in the district. We are doing all we can to keep our pastures green, protect and improve our timberland and get more permanent conservation practices applied. However, the overall objective of the district is to bring about needed land use and adjustments whereby all of the land in the district will be used according to its capabilities and treated according to its needs.

Our district board feels greatly indebted to the Soil Conservation Service, county ASCS Committee and office personnel, county extension, Kentucky Division of Forestry, Fish and Wildlife Service, Vocational Agriculture, Division of Soil and Water Resources, Floyd County Times, and all others who cooperated with us in making our district program for 1965 a success.

ENROLLMENT MARKS NEED

Student Population Argues Bond Passage Importance, Is Claim

Early enrollment at the University of Kentucky which opened its doors last week, gave added emphasis to the need for added facilities for Kentucky's expanding student population.

With registration continuing, officials say that total University of Kentucky enrollment will approach the 12,000 mark on the Lexington campus, an approximate 10 percent increase over last year. Similar increases are expected at the community colleges. (Prestonsburg Community College had an increase nearer 66 percent.)

The figures were gathered by the Kentucky Better Roads Council which is promoting passage of the $176 million bond issue to be on the Kentucky ballot in November.

About 10 percent of the funds are allocated to higher education to provide a capital construction program for dormitories, libraries, laboratories and classrooms at the University and the state colleges. The University of Louisville also is allocated $3 million to expand its medical center.

The Council pointed out that Ohio in the past 17 months has approved three bond issues totaling $1.4 billion, a portion of which goes to expand Ohio's colleges and universities to meet the demands of an expanding student population in that state.

The bond issue to be voted in November can be retired out of existing revenues without new or increased taxes, the Kentucky Better Roads Council says.

The Council released an estimate of anticipated road fund revenues for the next ten years which shows an annual increase of approximately $5 million.

The bond issue is for $176 million, of which $139 million goes for highway construction. That sum will be matched by federal grants of $97 million thus giving the state a road building program of $736 million over the next five years, the Council reported.

The same formula used in retiring the 1956 issue is to be followed, the Council said. More than 25 percent of that first issue of general obligation bonds has been retired.

Funds available from the second bond issue of 1960 will be exhausted in December of this year. However, approximately three percent of those bonds also has been retired.

Kentucky's credit rating for general obligation bonds is AA and the average interest rate is 3.1 percent, the report said.

MORE HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION BEGUN, PLANNED THAN EVER

There is more modern highway construction under way and planned in Eastern Kentucky than ever before in the history of the Commonwealth, according to Highway Commissioner Henry Ward.

But, its continuation, particularly completion of the 435-mile Appalachian development system, depends on passage of the $176 million bond issue in November.

Ward emphasized this point strongly in appearances last week at Mayo Vocational School at Paintsville and in Pikeville at a public meeting sponsored by the Pikeville Chamber of Commerce.

"If ever the residents of Eastern Kentucky had an opportunity to guarantee rapid construction of a major highway system in this area, they can do it on November 2 with an overwhelming majority vote for the bond issue," Ward told his audiences.

"Much of the highway improvement throughout Kentucky will be drastically curtailed if the bond issue fails," Ward said. "So much of this major improvement is with federal funds that it cannot be accomplished without these federal funds, and the only way the state can get the money from Washington is by putting up its share."

Unless the bond issue is passed, Ward said he believed the General Assembly will have to be asked to raise taxes in order to match federal aid.

"None of us as taxpayers want that to happen," Ward said. "The easier way to complete these roads and build more is to pass the bond issue, because we know the bond issue can be paid off without an increase in taxes."

At the Mayo School appearance, the Highway Commissioner pointed out that facility, which serves students from many counties, will receive a direct appropriation of $300,000 from the bond issue. With federal aid, a $625,000 building program will result.

He pointed out that building modern roads is a practical approach to the development of Eastern Kentucky and likened it to the practical education which students at the school are receiving.

"You students know the value of being practical," he said, "and you are in a better position than most people to appreciate what a practical down-to-earth business building highways is."

At Pikeville Ward pointed out that every major highway in the county will receive improvement under the Appalachian program. "A total of 435 miles of developmental highways has been allo-ated to Kentucky, and Pike counties, as well as all Kentuckians, will benefit from improvement of these highways," Ward told an audience of more than 200.

"The Appalachian program, combined with the Interstate program, other regular federal aid programs, and our state-financed programs, will give Kentucky a transportation system which will be the envy of every state in the nation. This, to my mind, will benefit all Kentuckians," he said.

An "Unfortunate" Statement

Strip-mining interests presented in Frankfort recently their arguments against regulations proposed by Governor Breathitt to protect the rights of surface-owners, homeowners and the public. On the whole, they did a good job of it, contending that the industry provides jobs, that the proposed regulations will destroy a comparatively new Kentucky industry and damage the economy of Eastern Kentucky.

But one man — if he was quoted correctly by Kyle Vance, of the Courier-Journal—did the industry a bad turn when, according to this source, he said:

"I don't believe we are doing any damage to those old mountains up there. The timber is gone and the terrain is worthless. On the benches you can at least graze cattle or plant orchards. We need something to create jobs instead of take them away."

The speaker, the news report said, was Denver Stewart, listed as representing workers of Pike county.

There is such a heartlessness about this statement that it is difficult for us to believe it was made by an Eastern Kentuckian. It is taken out of context, and there may have been extenuating statements made by Mr. Stewart prior to or after this "quote." We sincerely hope so.

For "these old mountains" are among the most beautiful in the land and are the most beautiful most of us shall ever see—and they are being damaged. The timber is not gone, and the terrain is not worthless. Many thousands of city-dwellers come to Eastern Kentucky annually to feast their eyes upon hillside forests of green in spring or summer and upon a kaleidoscope of the most vivid colors in autumn. The same folly that resulted in landowners of the region agreeing to sell their mineral rights for a pittance caused a depletion of the finest hardwood timber in the world from these "old mountains" of ours, but of timber there remains much, and in the years ahead there will be more if it is given the protection that might reasonably be expected from a rational people.

These old mountains can be damaged, and the timber is not gone, and the terrain is not worthless. For these are the hills of home to many thousands whose love for them runs farther than an auger's length and deeper than a shovel's bite.

RECONSIDER RULES, BREATHITT URGED

BY KYLE VANCE (In The Courier-Journal, Aug. 26)

Frankfort, Ky. — Strip-mine workers pleaded with Gov. Edward T. Breathitt yesterday to reconsider proposed regulations which they said would destroy the industry and wipe out thousands of jobs in Eastern Kentucky.

Breathitt gave them no encouragement. He told the spokesmen for 2,500 workers who marched on the capital that, as governor, he will face squarely his responsibility to preserve Kentucky's natural resources.

"Future generations of Kentuckians," he said, "may not have food, fiber and water if we act without responsibility today. Our leaders have shown that they have intelligence enough to solve real complex problems, and I believe we can solve the problems facing us here today."

Hazard attorney J. W. Craft, Jr. responded that the industry itself has been solving problems dealing with strip-mine regulations which have been growing stricter.

"But this is a new industry," he said. "It cannot deal with a problem like this one overnight. These regulations would put us out of business now. There would be no time to try something else."

By a conservative estimate, Craft said, 8,000 salaried employees—truck drivers, equipment operators, suppliers and service people—would face loss of employment in Perry and surrounding counties.

Since at least 90 percent of them are married and have children, he said, the livelihood of some 54,000 people is at stake in one small area. Other thousands would be similarly affected in other parts of the region, he suggested.

Denver Stewart, representing workers of Pike county, said the bigger coal seams in his county have been worked out, and the only way to get at the smaller seams is by strip and auger methods.

"I don't believe we are doing any damage to those old mountains up there," he said. "The timber is gone and the terrain is worthless. On the benches, you can at least graze cattle or plant orchards. We need something to create jobs instead of take them away."

James Teague, of Hazard, said he owns two coal trucks and that he represented the owners of 1-183 trucks who had planned to drive their tandems to Frankfort before Breathitt asked them not to cause a major traffic jam in the capital.

He said his trucks earn $3,000 a month but that expenses cut the net to about $500. His gasoline expenses total $1,000 a month and 13 cents tax is paid on every gallon, he added.

Others pleading the cause of the strip-mine industry before Breathitt were Don Compton and Glen Combs, of Hazard. Clyde Mace, of Corbin, A. L. Meyers, of Bell county, and Gaines Williamson, of Middlesboro.

Hearings on the proposed regulations opened across town in the hearing room of the Public Service Commission. David M. Francis, chairman of the commission who is presiding over the hearings for Breathitt, granted attorneys for the operators a delay to October 4 to prepare their opposition.

The Division of Strip Mining and Reclamation presented witnesses who explained the objectives of the regulations and told how they would minimize damage to slopes, streams and homes. Roy Mullins, Eastern Kentucky area supervisor for the division,

Said the Kentuckian to the Texan . . .

RAMEY TELLS OBJECTOR TO AID 'YOU'RE LUCKY'

By IVAN SWIFT (In the Courier-Journal)

Washington— "You're asking us to tax our people to give you something we can't get," the Texas Democrat said. "You're lucky," the Eastern Kentuckian replied.

The exchange came as a House public works subcommittee heard testimony on the proposed $51.5 million Big Sandy flood-control program. The Texan, rep. Roy Roberts, was complaining because of the emphasis for aid to depressed areas in this session of Congress.

But George Ramey, director of the Mayo Vocational School in Paintsville, wasn't proud to have to plead poverty for his area.

So he told Roberts that people who live in areas which don't qualify for extra federal help are "lucky."

But he added that his idea of what the government should do to help his area is flood control — not just welfare checks.

"I figure the government will come out ahead if it will take a world of people off relief," he said.

"I've been in floods all my life — seems like I'm always in a flood. The only place to build is in the valleys — then you're flooded."

"If we don't get this flood protection, we'll never get outside industry to come in there."

But Rep. Carl Perkins, Hindman Democrat, got to the heart of the problem — an intricacy in the bill.

The bill requires that non-federal interests in the Big Sandy Valley pay half the costs of the recreational benefits that would come from the dams at Yatesville, Paintsville, and Panther Creek, W. Virginia.

These areas can't afford the more than $4 million that would have to be raised from nonfederal sources.

Members of the committee reminded Perkins that they could be repaid from "user fees" collected from fishermen and swimmers who use the recreation facilities.

But Perkins drew admissions from Corps of Engineer witnesses that some nonfederal organization would have to agree to be responsible for the local share of the costs.

And that nonfederal unit—the state, or some area association—would not get away with only being required to repay the amount it collected

NO SHAVES ON SATURDAY

When I went for a haircut, early in July, 1965, I noticed a sign on the wall facing me as I sat in the barber's chair: "No shaves on Saturday." It has taken me several days to get adjusted to this new world of which I am a sort of dragging anchor. No shaves on Saturday? What in the world is a barbershop coming to? Don't barbers know that their very name comes from the same word as beard? I must confess that my own trade at a barbershop has been, with probably a half dozen exceptions, in haircuts. A few very times, when away from home without my razor, I have actually had a shave given me in a barbershop; but I just supposed that I was somewhat exceptional these days.

While I sat and had my gray hair cut, and many times since then, I have thought back to the old barbershops, with their rows of shaving mugs, each one with the name of its owner proudly on it, or maybe my figure should be turned around—with the proud owner's name on it. You see, getting a shave in a barbershop was ritzy in older days. I have known some men who never shaved themselves but regularly patronized a shop. Many times I have brought about a saner use of the soil, anyway. And his sterling, quaint character ultimately made many converts to his point of view. When he died, in 1964, he was being recognized for his valuable work, and the program that is to be will show that he lived to see some of his philosophy accepted and made a part of his country's philosophy.

Just the day before I wrote this essay, I had a long talk with one of the teachers of Western, whose ancestors used to be "land Poor." For generations, in one of the older states, the family had acquired, by any means, more land. And, for some generations, the descendants inherited land and did little or nothing to make it worth anything. Thus the immense estates of the once-famous family dwindled, much of the land ultimately being sold for taxes. Our teacher's grandfather was the first of the family since pioneer times to make his living; he was forced by declining revenues and the vanishing of the family estates to enter a profession.

The family has not yet regained much of its land-holding fame and seems not to be interested in this as an ideal. This story could be repeated over and over without exaggeration. It is a bit sickening to hear someone dwell on the greatness of one's family when everyone who cares to know can find that that greatness was based on the exploitation of natural resources, on the depletion of the soil, on the assumption that posterity didn't matter anyway.

Some years ago I went to give a commencement address at a rural high school. The principal, a very devoted friend of conservation, told me as we drove from the railroad station, where he had met me, to his village, that many of the farmers in his area had learned the wastefulness involved in burning off fields. He hoped that there would come a time when everybody would know that we must protect and build up our soils. About a mile before we reached his school building, we had to hold our hands over our noses and drive fast; some farmer was burning off his fields right in the edge of the village, as if to show that young upstart that Grandpap did that and knew more than any college-trained smart-alec that had tried to show him how to farm. I wish I had the remarks of that high school principal on tape; they could not be printed in this newspaper, but they would wake up in other conservationists some zeal to fight on in this continuous battle.

The late Tom Wallace, in his lifelong struggle for protecting nature, cannot be praised too highly. He had a direct, forthright style that provoked thought and often some anger, too. But his earnestness, his persistence over many years of writing and speaking brought hundreds of converts to the cause. It will be a real joy to speak at this program, which, if he were still alive, would be a part of his own experience, for it is to be in his own area, the one he loved to the end of his long and useful life.

To imitate their calls can bring them up close. These owls sometimes catch small birds such as bluejays to eat, and that's why they are often attacked by a mob of birds, usually led by a flock of bluejays, which heap curses upon the owl. Sometimes the owl will be so surprised and bewildered by the attack, he will sit still while the birds dive at him, screaming, scolding and calling him "Thief, murderer, robber!" all in bird language, of course. Sometimes the vociferous attacks gets so violent, the owl will take to wing to escape the screaming, noisy mob.

Barred owls lend color and zest to the forest and make it more interesting. These and other owls have long been used as symbols of wisdom and to be "as wise as an owl" is an accomplishment greatly to be desired. Their propensity to wisdom gave rise to the following bit of verse:

"There was an owl who lived in an oak,
 The more he saw the less he spoke,
 The less he spoke the more he heard —
 Why can't we all be like that bird?"

NATURE TRAILS
 BY RUFUS M. REED

THE BARRED OWL. — This owl is 20 inches or more in length and is second in size only to the Great Horned Owl, which is about two feet long. The barred owl has no "horns," or ear tufts, as the horned does. This owl also has brown eyes, while most all the other owls have yellow, catlike eyes.

The barred owl is the farmer's choicest owl and most call him "Rain Owl," or "Weather Prophet," and depend upon him as a weather prognosticator in fall and winter. On dark, cloudy days, when there is going to be falling weather, the barred owl will come out and give a series of doleful hoots, prophesying rain or snow.

The barred owl is also called "the eight-hooter," as he always hoots in a series of eight and tops it off with an "Ah!" This way of hooting is one sure means of identifying the barred owl. He is also called "the king of the super hooter" for he is indeed a superb hooter and an accomplished musician. Sometimes in late winter or early spring, a flock of barred owls get together for a regular owl symphony and the forest seems filled with their hooting, laughing and cackling. At a distance, such an owl chorus sounds like a pack of hounds howl after a fox.

The barred owl is also called "the round-headed owl," as his head is round as a pumpkin, and he is called "barred owl" from the bars on his breast and throat. The bars, or dark streaks, run lengthwise on his breast and belly and crosswise on the front of his throat. At a distance, he appears to be wearing a streaked muff around his face. He is a heavy, short-bodied owl with large, liquid brown eyes; he is brownish on the back and is streaked with white.

His hoots in a series of eight usually go as follows: "Hoo-hoo, hoo-hoo, hoo-hoo, hoo-hoo-aw!"

Some persons hearing the barred owl for the first time often think he is asking the question, "who—who are you?" And stories have been told of old backwoodsmen, answering the owl by telling their names.

The scientific name of the barred owl is Strix Varia, which means he is streaked in a varied pattern of brown, white and dark. The barred owl cannot turn his eyes to see, and has to turn his head to look backward. This big owl loves the deep solitudes of the woods. He also prefers to live in deep, impenetrable swamps and is sometimes called "swamp owl."

Barred owls dine on rats, mice, frogs, lizards, crawfish, spiders and many kinds of insects. Now and then a hungry barred owl will take a chance on raiding the poultry house, or grabbing a hen from her roost in the trees but they only do this when driven by hunger, as they have a fear of man and seldom venture around the premises.

The barred owl is a magnificent bird with a wing span of 44 inches and a noiseless flight. These owls build their nests and lay eggs in March, usually in a hollow tree, or in the deserted nest of a crow or hawk. The eggs number 2 to 4 and are white.

While barred owls are cautious of humans, they seem to have a large bump of curiosity and men who learn how

ROWAN COUNTY IFYE WRITES FROM ISRAEL

"Today, it rained here in the middle of summer for the first time in 30 years," writes Richard Stidom, former Rowan county 4-H Club member who is spending five months in Israel as an International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) delegate. "I've been staying in a section of Israel where raindrops are as scarce as hen's teeth, so this first mid-summer rain in 30 years was quite an event," he goes on.

As an IFYE, Richard is learning how the people live in Israel by actually taking part in the everyday activities of his Israeli hosts. The IFYE program, sponsored by the National 4-H Club Foundation on behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service, has international understanding as its goal. Two other Kentucky IFYE's—Kathleen Kunkel, of Kenton county, and Melanie Ann Conley, daughter of Circuit Judge and Mrs. Hollie Conley, of this county—will leave for their host countries in September. Kathleen will go to India, and Melanie Ann to Nepal.

"During my first month here, I've been living in a place that is unique to the country of Israel—a 'kibbutz,' which is a large communal farm where the people live rather like one big family.

"Each member of the 'kibbutz' gives according to his ability and receives according to his need; each is on an equal basis with an equal voice and vote. Decisions that affect the 'kibbutz' life are made by majority vote of the 'kibbutz' population, while other decisions are made by the elected officers of the 'kibbutz.' Because every person is needed for work, children live separately from their parents; thus, one woman can care for 20 children instead of 20 women being needed for this.

"The 'kibbutznik' (one who lives on a 'kibbutz') is a very special person. He's a person who is turning marshlands into fields with malaria-carrying mosquitoes and the barren sands of the Negego into fertile, crop-producing fields. He's a person who quits saying 'I' and starts saying 'we.' He's the frontiersman, the foundation upon which a country only 17 years old has de-

The consensus of opinion among Eastern Kentucky high school football coaches is that Hazard or Belfry will cop the 1965 Class AA, Region 4, District 2 football title.

Hazard has won the title every year except one since the playoffs have been initiated. Jenkins has been the lone team to interrupt Hazard's reign.

Although Hazard has yet to meet a regional foe, Astor Sizemore's Bull Dogs have nine lettermen returning from last year's regional champs that had a 10-2 overall mark.

Belfry has never beaten Hazard on the gridiron, but the Pike county school has the speed, experience and weight to cope with Hazard in their September 24 meeting at Hazard.

Al Vipperman's Pirates will meet Hazard, M. C. Napier, Prestonsburg and Jenkins in quest of the regional title while Hazard will face M. C. Napier, Whitesburg, Belfry and Jenkins in regional games.

Both clubs are in the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference along with several other area Class A schools, but none are expected to challenge them for the league title.

Turning to the Class A picture that involves Callettsburg, Elkhorn City, Fleming-Neon, Morgan County, Paintsville, Pikeville, Wheelwright and Wurtland in the regional four run for the championship, Fleming-Neon was expected to be the power, but some of the luster was rubbed off as the Pirates lost their opener to Louisa in a non-regional tussle.

Elkhorn City won the regional title last season and went on to cop the Class A state title, but the Cougars lost coach Jack Hall and a flock of seasoned veterans, including all-state halfback Derek Potter and Norman Powell. Incoming coach William Duty has only three returning regulars.

Wheelwright dropped down from Class AA, and the Trojans have yet to meet a regional foe. Morgan County looms as a possible sleeper for the title with a regional triumph over Pikeville.

Denzil Halbert, Martin's veteran basketball coach of 13 seasons, has been elected president of the Floyd County Coaches Association, and John Campbell, Jr., Garrett's longtime cage mentor, has been named secretary-treasurer.

Prestonsburg high school is seeking basketball games in the Lexington and Louisville areas on the week-ends of January 7-8, 14 or 15, 21 or 22. Interested parties may contact coach Jack Wells at Prestonsburg high school.

The majority of area football teams have switched from the usual 10-game season to 11 games this season. The Kentucky High School Athletic Association has redistricted Pike county for the coming basketball season; however, there will still be two five-team districts with Pike county having four teams in the 15th regional basketball tournament. The proposed Johnson county consolidation program of Flat Gap, Meade Memorial and Oil Springs high schools, has hit several legal entanglements. Thus, ten basketball teams will remain in the district this season. Belfry has five linemen who weigh 220 pounds or more.

TEAMS IN 2nd WINS; MORGAN-CO. DOWNS CATS

Belfry, Jenkins and Morgan County all posted their second victories of the high school football season last week-end to remain in the undefeated list.

Whitesburg and Wheelwright re-entered the win column after suffering defeats the previous week. Both have won two games. Belfry scored in every period to down Pike county rival Pikeville, 32-0. Morgan County outpassed Prestonsburg, 28-20, and Jenkins registered its second consecutive one-touchdown win by nipping M. C. Napier 6-0.

Gardner Bates' Whitesburg Yellow Jackets stung little Wallins, 51-13. Wheelwright came from behind in the last four minutes to stop Lily, 14-13, and Paintsville battled Boyle County to a 20-20 deadlock.

Senior halfback Frank Guyten galloped for runs of 30 and 12 yards in the second and third periods to pace Belfry over Pikeville. Quarterback Bob Burgett connected on a 30-yard pass to end Mike DeGeorge in the initial period and halfback Gene Isom's 12-yard touchdown scamper gave the Pirates a 19-0 halftime margin.

Aside from Guyten's third quarter trek, Harry Catron completed the rout in the fourth period with a 12-yard run.

Tommy Rodgers and fullback Larry Rowe combined on a 30-yard pass for Wheelwright's final touchdown, and then Rowe scored the extra point on a running play to provide Wheelwright's one-point win over Lily.

Lily took the lead in the first period when David Callahan scored from five yards out and Ronnie Sulfridge added the point after. Wheelwright tied the score in the first period when Willie Watson passed 14 yards to Russell Ray and Tommy Rodgers added the extra point.

Paintsville Horse Show Scheduled Sept. 11th

The Paintsville Woman's Club will hold its fifth annual horse show at the football stadium in Paintsville, Saturday, September 11, with two performances — the first at 1:30 p.m. and the second at 7:00 p.m.

In the event of rain the show will be re-scheduled for the following day, September 12. Eight classes will be judged in the afternoon and eleven classes in the evening.

As a member of the Central Kentucky Horse Show Association, points earned in Paintsville's show may be applied on the Central Kentucky grand championship competition.

A total of $1,500 in prize money and three challenge trophies will be awarded.

Stable space will be available, as will unloading and loading ramps.

Programs relative to classes and prizes awarded may be acquired from Mrs. George Branham, horseshow chairman, Paintsville.

It takes four tons of electrical equipment to televise and broadcast the WHAS Crusade for Children each year. This includes 30 telephones, 20 microphones, three 12-foot scaffolds and four TV cameras. The station's full staff of 45 engineers are assigned to the 16½-hour project.

Morgan County's Jerry Dale Holbrook hurled three touchdown passes to Mike Price, J. C. Brown and Gary Holbrook to down the home-standing Prestonsburg Black Cats, 28-20.

The Black Cats gained a 13-7 second quarter advantage on Steve Clark's four-yard plunge and a 45-yard pass-and-run play to junior halfback John Clark, but J. Holbrook then hit on two long passes to put the Blue Devils ahead, 21-13, at the halfway point.

Both teams added a six-pointer in the last half. Morgan County tallied in the third frame, and John Clark sped 20 yards for the final tally in the fourth.

Long runs and long passes highlighted Paintsville's 20-20 tie with Boyle County. Timmy Williams missed an extra point in the final four minutes that would have insured a Paintsville victory. The attempted kick came after Harold Taylor had scored on a 20-yard pass from quarterback Marty Takacs. Taylor scored another six-pointer on a 35-yard pass interception, while his brother Glenn added a third on an 80-yard kickoff return.

Highways Department Plans Mileage Markers On Major State Roads

Frankfort, Ky., August 28 (Spl.)—The Department of Highways will install mileage markers on approximately 15,000 miles of major highways in Kentucky to aid police officials and Department engineers in accident surveillance and control, Highway Commissioner Henry Ward announced today.

Ward said the markers will be similar to those found on Kentucky's Interstate Highways and Parkways, but will be placed on the backs of existing signs rather than on separate posts. Estimated cost of the approved markers is $20,000—65 cents apiece—whereas it would have cost $60,000 to install them on separate posts. Installation of the markers is to be completed by May, 1966.

The markers, which were recommended in Governor Edward T. Breathitt's Action Program for Traffic Safety, will assist police officials and motorists in precisely identifying accident locations for future reference and for immediate dispatch of emergency vehicles to the accident scene.

The information contained in the accident reports will enable Highway Department engineers to accurately pin down trouble spots and take corrective measures which may be needed.

The markers will consist of 6x10-inch reflectorized strips with white numerals on a green background. At least one marker per mile will be provided on both sides of major state-maintained roads in each county.

The markers will begin at zero at the south or west county line—or the southern or western termini of those roads which begin within a county—and ascend numerically until reaching the opposite border or termini. Mileage will be indicated to the nearest tenth.

Mileage markers, also known as mileposts, are required on the Interstate System and are placed on Kentucky's Parkways since these roads are constructed to interstate standards.

"The installation of these markers is another step in an overall program to make Kentucky's highways the safest in the nation," Ward said. "A concerted safety effort by state officials and citizens is gaining momentum, and with continued public support we will reach our objective."

In 74 football seasons since 1891, Kentucky's Wildcats have never had a winless year. Kentucky had a 1-2 record in 1891 and a 1-1 slate in 1891, and have never won less than two games in subsequent seasons.

18 MILLION CHILDREN HAVE HOT NOON MEALS

Opening of the 1965-'66 school term marks the 19th consecutive year that schools in the United States have served students hearty noon-day lunches, with the help of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's national school lunch program.

This school year, according to USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service, around 71,000 public and non-profit schools will serve lunches to 18 million children.

The National School Lunch Act of 1946, which created the lunch program was enacted to "safeguard the health and well being of the nation's children, and to encourage the domestic consumption of nutritious agricultural commodities and other foods." The Consumer and Marketing Service administers the School Lunch Act, in cooperation with participating states and local school officials.

During the 1964-'65 school year, the Consumer and Marketing Service reports, around 70,000 public and non-profit schools in the national school lunch program served food valued at more than $950 million. About three-fourths of this amount—or $70 million—from federal, state and local funds was spent locally to buy food from institutional suppliers, wholesalers, processors and retailers in communities throughout the United States.

The remainder of the $950 million is accounted for by food donated by C&M for use in the school lunch program.

USDA estimates that by 1975—largely because of increased school enrollments—this $950 million will grow by at least 25 percent. The result—even assuming there is no change in the percentage of children eating lunches at school each day—will be a significant increase in this local market for food.

In the nine southeastern states, the Consumer and Marketing Service reports, more than 4,451,000 children in 14,268 schools received hot noon meals under USDA's national school lunch program during the 1964-'65 school year. This was an increase of about five percent over participation in the program in the Southeast during the 1963-'64 school term.

Across the nation last year, 35.4 percent of all school children took part in the lunch program. Federal, state and local agencies are working to bring more schools and children into the program, and especially to expand the lunch program to needy schools that previously have had no way of offering hot lunches.

Last year in the Southeast, 433 needy schools with a total enrollment of 79,866 children entered the lunch program for the first time.

Under the school lunch program, children enjoy a complete, nutritious meal for an average payment of 27 cents. Ten percent of the lunches served across the United States last year were offered free or at reduced rates to children who could not afford the full price.

School systems in this area have been invited to participate in a Drive-In Conference to be held at Pikeville high school at 4 p.m., October 6. Sponsored by the Kentucky Education Association, the conference is designed to provide local leaders, and others, with information, inspiration and the know-how to function most effectively.

The participating school systems will include Floyd, Pike and Letcher counties and the Pikeville and Jenkins independent districts.

Eight persons from each school system have been invited to attend. In addition, for larger systems, 10 percent of the membership over 10 will be eligible to join the first eight. Colleges and special groups are to attend the conference most convenient to them.

Thirty-one other conferences will be held throughout the state during the four-week period between September 20 and October 14.

These annual meetings are designed to help in the advancement of the teaching profession and the strengthening of the local professional units of the Kentucky Education Association. They are part of the continuing effort to involve the total KEA membership in the decision-making process.

The topics to be discussed will grow out of specific situations which exist at the time of the drive-in conference, as well as out of the needs of the participating school systems.

Kentucky's football teams since 1881 have managed only one perfect season (a 7-0-0 record in 1896). But the Wildcats have had 10 seasons in which the opposition has won but one game, and 10 other seasons with just two losses.

The first WHAS Crusade for Children King and Queen were selected in 1956. They were pretty singer Mickey Minshall, of New Albany, Indiana, and Harrodsburg ventriloquist Lee Dean. They were crowned by Miss Kentucky, Janene Simpson, of Louisville.

Social Security Amendments Add Many To Eligible List

BY THOMAS L. REED
Many Floyd county men and women over 72 who did not have enough social security credit to receive monthly benefits before may now be eligible to receive payments.

Previously, a worker needed at least six quarters of coverage, about a year and a half of work, to get monthly benefits. Under the new provision, benefits may be paid at age 72 or later to a worker (and his wife) in some cases if the worker has three, four or five quarters of coverage, depending on his age.
A man 76 or older in 1965, or a woman 73 or over in 1965, needs just three quarters of coverage, roughly nine months of work. A man 75 or a woman 72 in 1965 needs four quarters of coverage, about one year of work, and a man 74 or a woman 71 in 1965 needs five. Anyone younger needs six or more quarters of coverage.
Widows of deceased workers may also get payment under the new provision. However, the number of work credits needed may depend both on the widow's age and the year the deceased worker died or reached age 65.
Anyone who thinks he might qualify under this change in the law is urged to get in touch with the social security office, located at Second and Division Streets, Pikeville, Kentucky.

Workers and widows of deceased workers who are eligible under this new section of the law will receive $35 a month, while wives of workers will get $17.50 a month.

Lancaster Succeeds Fowler at Covington

Frankfort, Ky.—Jack Lancaster, 50, has been promoted to the management of the Covington local employment security office, replacing James Fowler, who resigned recently to accept a position in private industry, State Economic Security Commissioner C. Leslie Dawson has announced.
Lancaster, a Floyd county native, has been industrial service representative in the Covington office since July, 1964, and prior to that an employment interviewer in that office since 1948.
His experience also includes work as a state unemployment insurance interviewer and examiner in the Covington office from 1945 to 1948.

It is estimated that by the end of this year, the WHAS Crusade for Children will have directly affected the lives of over 350,000 handicapped children of Kentucky and Southern Indiana.

FOOTBALL RATINGS

The first weekly high school football ratings list the Belfry Pirates as the fourth best team in the state. Morgan County is tabbed at the 20th spot and Jenkins is 23rd. Other area team ratings: Hazard, 34th; Whitesburg, 47th; Paintsville, 50th; Elkhorn City, 76th; Fleming-Neon, 95th; Pikeville, 100th; Prestonsburg, 105th; Wheelwright, 107th, and M. C. Napier, 115th.

Belfry, Morgan County and Jenkins attained the high rating on the basis of two successive victories. As soon as a loss occurs they will drop rapidly and Hazard will zoom into the top ten after a victory.

Belfry has dropped Whitesburg, 55-14, and Pikeville, 32-0. Morgan County has triumphed over Pikeville, 26-7, and Prestonsburg, 28-20. Jenkins holds one-touchdown wins over Elkhorn City (7-0) and M. C. Napier (6-0).

Prestonsburg's Black Cats seek their second victory of the young grid season on the local field at 8 Friday night, against the Elkhorn City Cougars. The visitors have copied the last three meetings after Prestonsburg had won 11 years in a row.

Wheelwright visits Pikeville Friday night in a Class A regional game.

PLAYERS-OF-THE-WEEK

The Francis Stores in Prestonsburg are again naming the "Black Cat Player-of-the-Week." Hershel Joseph was selected as the player in the Wheelwright game and halfback John "Wimpy" Clark was adjudged the winner in the Morgan County game.

Whitesburg's speedy junior halfback William Wright raced for five touchdowns in the Yellow Jackets' romp over Wallins last Friday. He sped 70, 60, 40, 35 and two yards for his five markers. Last season he was the state's second leading individual scorer.

Fishing is bound to improve at Dewey Lake, now that the skiers and "gasoline-burners" have quieted down after the long Labor Day week-end. Cooler nights have dropped the surface temperatures and the fish are beginning to move in the late evening and early morning hours.

Kentucky hosts West Virginia October 30 in the 1965 homecoming game.

SEMINAR AT PARK HERE PART OF 'PACKAGE' PLAN

The Kentucky Department of Parks announced Saturday that it will offer a special series of package programs again this fall, with an art seminar at Jenny Wiley State Park here one of the features.

The art seminar, November 12-14 at Jenny Wiley State Park, will feature Ray Harm, artist-naturalist; George Joseph, Cartoonist-artist of The Courier-Journal, and Sam Sarkisian, of the American Greeting Card Corporation. The three will present exhibits, give lectures, and advise individuals with an interest in art.

State Parks Commissioner Robert D. Bell said the department's festival of special vacation and recreation events will include something of interest for almost everyone.

The series is two-fold in purpose, Bell said. The special programs will stimulate attendance after the normally-heavy tourist season that ends with the Labor Day week-end and the people who were unable to obtain reservations during the summer season can do so now.

Reservations and information about the events can be obtained by contacting the various parks direct, Bell added, or through the Central Reservation Office in Frankfort.

The fall-festival events, nearly all of which are scheduled on week-ends, will open October 1-3, with a dude ranch vacation for campers at Levi Jackson Wilderness Road State Park, London. It will close on Thanksgiving Day (November 25) with a Thanksgiving "feast" at six different parks.

In all, the fall parks program calls for 13 events at 20 locations. Ten state parks will participate in the program with four events scheduled for Kenlake State Park, Hardin. Two events each are scheduled for Pine Mountain, Pineville; General Butler, Carrollton; Cumberland Falls, Corbin; Jenny Wiley, Prestonsburg; Lake Cumberland, Jamestown, and Kentucky Dam Village, Gilbertsville.

Some of the highlights of the program include:

1. The annual fall fishing festival to be held on the week-end of November 12-14 at Kenlake, Kentucky Dam Village and Lake Cumberland state parks. The fishing week-end was expanded to three different parks this year because of numerous requests to the parks department.

The fishing vacation includes lodging for two nights, six meals from Friday evening through Sunday noon, and planned activities held in the evenings.

The activities will include demonstrations, films, displays and special programs. Fishing experts will be on hand to give pointers.

The Governor's Cup will be presented to the angler who brings in the biggest bass at each park and prizes will be awarded for the largest catch at each park.

2. Sailing enthusiasts can have their day at a sailing symposium on the week-end of November 5-7 at Kenlake State Park.

Dr. Stuart Walker, Baltimore, Maryland, noted authority on sailing and author of the book, "The Techniques of Small Boat Racing," will lecture for the symposium. Discussions on sailing will be conducted by other well-known authorities.

Saturday and Sunday will provide opportunities to sail on Kentucky Lake.

3. Kenlake State Park will also be the site of a Halloween week-end celebration.

Programs, described as being "full of black cats, pumpkins and witches' brooms to get you in the spirit" will be held on Friday and Saturday.

There will be a costume dance party on Saturday night with prizes awarded for the best costumes. The Halloween week-end is October 29-31.

4. Shutterbugs will get their chance at the photo-foliage festival October 22-24 at Pine Mountain State Park, Pineville.

Billy Davis, director of photography for the Louisville Courier-Journal, and Bill Strode, award-winning photographer on the Courier-Journal staff, will advise budding photographers on the best way to catch the magnificent mountain scenery in the Pineville area on film.

THIS IS A POSTAL CARD
(Exact in size and shape)

Suppose you use postal cards for direct mail advertising. Five thousand cards will cost you $200.

Forget the cost of printing and addressing the cards—but remember they alone cost $200.

Why do we suggest 5,000? Because that is almost the exact number of copies of the Floyd County Times that go to subscribers each week. (We mention 5,000 subscribers—only a fraction of the number who read The Times, weekly. The most authoritative study yet made shows at least 4 1-3 persons read each copy of a weekly newspaper. So at least 20,000 read The Floyd County Times every week of the year.)

Now, how much does an advertisement in The Times, exactly the same size as a postal card, cost you with no extras for printing, addressing and mailing? EXACTLY $6.82½. COMPARE THAT WITH $200! It Pays To Advertise in The Times.
