

Seven Nights' Presentations Of "Sound of Music" To End '66 Season at Amphitheatre

"The Sound of Music," Rodgers and Hammerstein's award-winning musical production, will close the 1966-'67 season at the Jenny Wiley Park Amphitheatre. The production will be staged seven nights—August 26-27-28 and September 2 to 5, inclusive.

Mary Karlene Butt, daughter of Mrs. Mary Allene Riffe, of Prestonsburg, and the late Carl Riffe, is in the role of Maria. A resident of Sacramento, California, she has had extensive training in voice and dance.

While attending Lafayette high school in Lexington, Mrs. Butt was a member of the Charmettes and began her voice training under Harlowe Dean at the University of Kentucky. Her first solo work was in high school with the All-State Chorus, and she was chosen to represent Kentucky in the National Chorus. Upon moving to Phoenix, Arizona, in 1956, she became a member of the Phoenix Civic Opera Company and appeared as soloist in "The Messiah" with the Arizona Symphonic Choir. She is married to Air Force Captain Robert A. Butt and has three children.

Appearing opposite Mrs. Butt as Captain Von Trapp, is Otto Baldridge, Jr., who already has had a long list of successes as a leading man in musical productions. The singing Paintsville barber has appeared three seasons as Emile DeBeque, in "South Pacific," and has starred in the leading roles in both "Oklahoma" and "Annie Get Your Gun."

Mrs. Jeanne Beckett has the role of the Mother Abbess. She studied voice through junior high and high school and had two years of study at the College of Music, Cincinnati. She was soloist for six years for her church choir in her native Maysville, Kentucky. Shortly after moving to Paintsville, 18 months ago, she appeared as Dolly Tate in the Paintsville Woman's Club production of "Annie Get Your Gun." Last year she appeared in the "Pirates of Penzance" production at the Amphitheatre. She is married to Elmer N. Beckett, Jr., area director for Civil Defense for the state of Kentucky, and holds the position of Big Sandy bureau manager for the Ashland Daily Independent.

Miss Carol Ann Feather, instructor of music theory and band director at Pikeville College, is directing the production. Miss Feather is a native of Greensburg, Pennsylvania, and received her A.B. and M.A. in music education from Morehead State College. She did additional work at Indiana State College, Indiana, Pennsylvania, and is presently working on her doctorate in music education at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colorado.

Miss Feather has served on the directing staff for "Naughty Marietta," "Finian's Rainbow," "Brigadoon," "Amahl and the Night Visitors" and produced and directed "Bye, Bye, Birdie." Other members of the cast include: Tommy Burchett, John T. Combs, Mary Sharkey, Betty Francis and Geraldine Daniels as the Sisters at the Abbey and Frank Sheedy as Max Detweiler. Curtain time is 8:30 for all productions at Jenny Wiley.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Davis, of Wheelwright, announce the engagement of their daughter, Joanna, to Jim Moore, son of Arnold Moore, of Cheyenne, Wyoming, and the late Rose Lewis Moore.

An October 1 wedding is planned.

Miss Davis is a graduate of Wheelwright high school and attended Eastern Kentucky University.

Mr. Moore is a graduate of McDowell high school, attended Mayo Vocational School and is employed by Dayton Forge and Heat Treating Company, Dayton, Ohio.

(Continued from Page 1) tive, the court should restrain defendants from issuing and/or delivering bonds in an amount more than is reasonably necessary to defray the purchase, renovation and improvement of the water system. A temporary restraining order was asked to stay effectiveness of the ordinance providing higher rates, the plaintiffs alleging that the attempt at an increase is being made on the basis of an inflated issue of bonds and on improvements to the system that have not yet been begun.

The water system purchase has been in the making for months. Ordinances and notices were published, but not until the ordinance providing for higher rates became public was a protest voiced, a resident of the community said this week.

The ordinance authorizing the purchase and the issuance of $280,000 in bonds was enacted by the Board of Trustees on May 6, this year. The new water rates ordinance was voted July 21.

In support of their demands for invalidation of the bond and rate ordinances, the plaintiffs claim:

1. That the Allen Water Company, which was established on or about December 1, 1946, as a proprietorship owned by Herman Porter, came under jurisdiction of the Kentucky Public Service Commission about November 6, 1947, and so the proposed sale of the utility was subject to review by PSC, but no application to the Commission was filed by Porter and no proceeding was held by the Commission on the proposed transfer.
2. That on or about January 29, 1966 Porter filed with the PSC an annual report of the company for the year 1965, and that the report showed the total utility plant value as $62,087.61 before depreciation, and $25,249.76 after deducting accumulated depreciation; that the bond ordinance of May, 1966 provided for $75,000 of the total purchase price of $275,000 to be retained for the purpose of making improvements and additions to the system. This, it is pointed out, brings the total value of the system before depreciation, with proposed improvements, to $137,087.61.
3. That the allegedly excessive amount of the bond issue violates the letter and the spirit of the law — specifically, KRS 96.400 which requires all proceeds from the sale of municipal utility revenue bonds to be applied solely to the purchase, improvement and extension of the system.
4. That the Board failed to comply with the law in the sale of the bonds, in that proper notice of the sale was not given and that the bidding was not competitive.

The attack on annexation is led by Riley Hall and A. M. Howard. They claim the annexation ordinance was not published in a newspaper of general circulation "but was posted in inconspicuous places so as not to give these plaintiffs and other residents and freeholders in said community adequate notice."

They claim that more than 75% of the residents of the area proposed for annexation have protested the action and have signed petitions to that effect.

ball moved a foot or so farther. Again the club came down, and again. The preacher finally emerged from the tall and uncultivated to deliver this remark: "Just like a Baptist preacher - once in grass, always in grass."

I REPEAT... When the time comes that I can't come in off a lake and find it within me to watch with continuing wonder and delight the mist rising from the water and the fog floating like wreaths in the heads of coves and the darkness chasing the light from the hills into the evening sky, and if I can't want the magic of the moment to stay a moment longer - then I'm ready to quit fishing.

THE POPULAR BEETLES Two or three weeks ago, the Beetles were getting a verbal shellacking from all quarters and being banned from radio stations over the land because the long-haired one named John had stuck his foot in his mouth with the more or less accurate, though sacrilegious, statement that he and his compadres were more popular than Jesus. The insufferable conceit of this young man was revolting, but he may not have been too far from the truth. The fact is, the One whose name he did not honor by mentioning in the same breath with his own, never engaged in any popularity contest and has never been popular. For the Beetles the historic procedure has been reversed. The multitude was turning thumbs down on them, a few short days ago. Now, the condemnation has turned to hosannas. Witness the two nit-wit girls police had to restrain from jumping to their deaths if they could not be permitted to talk to the aforesaid Beetles.

straight down to the bottom far below. It gave me the jitters and creeps just to look down from one of the high points. Also the snow is all around you. It's high and cold. Reading from a geography book about these places is nothing in comparison to seeing them, experiencing the climbs and breathing the pure, fresh, crisp, clean air. And, in winding down the other side after crossing the summit, you know what hot, smelly brakes are, unless you use hold-back gear, which helps some. And, if the brakes should fail, you might starve to death a-rolling.

Now, after beautiful Glacier Park, on into Alberta, Canada. Canada has some beautiful country in Alberta and British Columbia and the Yukon. I didn't get into the Yukon but I got close. I shouldn't always say I. It was we, because on most all my trips West, I took along my family to share the exciting thrill and adventure of seeing the wonderful West and we've been in about every nook and corner. At Calgary, Alberta, a stampede was on and a wild west, big one, too; they call it "stampede;" we call it "rodeo." Anyway, one of the bronc busters was thrown at high pitch, came straight down on his head, breaking his neck. Those rodeos and stampedes really get rough. Riding the bucking horses, brahma bulls and bulldozing steers - taint no place for a tenderfoot.

British Columbia has its beauty spots but isn't as pretty as Alberta. We headed south through British Columbia into Washington on Route 97, right down the middle and into Oregon. Washington and Oregon are states of lumber industry, fruit and ranching. Didn't see many beauty spots. Saw some mighty rich looking land in Oregon. We headed straight south out of Oregon into California, the Golden State. Boy, it deserves its name. California has everything. Big timber, all kinds of fruit, ranches, it's the land of the stars, Disneyland or Kids' Haven, and a climate from ice-cold to 130-degree heat and sand any time of year. On snow capped mountains, there's always snow and ice. In Death Valley there's always heat and sand. We've crossed Death Valley two or three times. We've also been to Disneyland three times. Disneyland has many sights and wonders and a lot of thrilling rides.

California also has two wonderful parks - Sequoia and Yosemite. The Sequoia of course, has the great sequoia trees. So does Yosemite. The General Grant Tree is approximately 130 feet around, 265 feet tall, 90 feet to the first limb. The limb is six feet in diameter, enough lumber in it to build several houses. I'd say that's a pretty good-size sapling. I don't recall ever seeing one that big in Pa's cornfield. In fact, nowhere in these here hills.

We drove our car smack through one, where a black-top road was built through the tree. There's a road built out on one of the big ones that is down. We drove our car out on it. The park rangers said one of the giants fell in 1959, and it shook the earth for three miles around. The tree fell in May; we were there in June. We have some pieces of wood from the tree. Also, the estimated age of the giants are from 2,500 to 3,000 years old. The bluejays, the bear and deer are abundant and friendly. The little squirrels will come and eat out of your hand. The drive up the Sequoia is a rival drive to the thriller in Glacier Park.

The Sequoia is at the top of a high mountain range. To give you an idea, its an 11-mile steep climb of zig-zag back and forth, up and up. Quite a lot of cars along the narrow steep climb with hoods up and radiators steaming. The size of the great Sequoia is mystic; it must be a special atmosphere and climate on this high range to grow the great trees. It is certainly another of nature's great, beautiful wonders.

And on to King's Canyon, another beautiful gorge of high canyon walls and far below a wild, rushing stream roaring down the canyon, sending up the thunderous pounding roar of the waters. The next day in beautiful Yosemite, which is undoubtedly an Indian name. I wish I knew what it means. In my word, it would mean the land of beauty. Yosemite has some beautiful waterfalls, canyons and meadows, wherein you may see moose, bear, or deer on through to Tioga Pass - another whizzer of a mountain. Also, in this mountain range are some of the great Sequoias.

us all ashamed of our minus 21.1 record; Bonnieville, on a standard thermometer, had a reading of minus 30. In fact, it led the whole state on having the coldest weather at that season. Frankly, maybe some of those old boys who used to seem so determined to tell the biggest yarn were telling the whole truth and nothing but the truth. When the newspapers of January 31, 1966, announced that Russellville, Alabama, had an official reading of minus 24 when all we could do was a mere minus 11, I wanted to apologize to the spirits of our local weather scholars at Fidelity. If a county-seat town down in northwestern Alabama can get publicity for its cold, cold weather, why couldn't there have been a note in the Calloway County newspapers, back at the turn of the century, to tell how Uncle Briggs Witherspoon's thermometer "busted" in the cold weather?

To a folklorist it is a real joy to find ways out for the beliefs that people have held and probably will continue to hold. Before you laugh too much at some silly custom or belief that we have now outlived, let me remind you to read the advertisements in my home-town paper. If you do not find an occasional ad wanting to sell or buy an "asthma dog," please call me by telephone, and I will drive my car to well-to-do homes where the Mexican hairless is doing its part to keep the heads of the households free of asthma or even rheumatism. On our way back we will stop at a county-seat-town drugstore and pick up a wad of asafetida, so that you can immunize yourself and your children against measles, whooping cough, croup, and such like.

City officials hailed the news as promise of an industry which will provide an annual payroll to the community of a million or more dollars.

Mayor Archer scheduled a City Council meeting for Wednesday evening, hoping to get immediate confirmation of the agreement. He pointed out that only Monday of this week the city of Winchester, Kentucky, approved a $38 million issue of revenue bonds to finance a manufacturing plant under a lease agreement, and added that the leasing arrangement offered by United States Shoe Corporation assures retirement of such a bond issue for Prestonsburg. Highway Department assistance on road approaches to the plant location and help from the state in similar fashion to its assistance in training workers for the Kentucky Appalachian plant at West Prestonsburg are virtually assured, Mayor Archer said work will be rushed on an Archer Park building to provide worker training facilities this winter.

MAIL ORDER ENFORCEMENT WINS APPROVAL BY PUBLIC

Kentucky citizens are taking quickly to the concept of mail-order law enforcement, Kentucky State Police report.

Post Office Box 10, Frankfort, Kentucky, is an address used by State Police since last December to which citizens may report crimes and remain anonymous.

Since that time 140 letters have been received, State Police Director Col. James E. Bassett says. Thirteen arrests resulted from the first 50 letters. Charges have been placed for such crimes as murder, arson, prostitution and alcoholic beverage violation.

The letters have dealt with Kentucky crimes and have come from all over the state as well as from Tennessee and Ohio.

"Surprisingly, there have only been a few crank letters," Bassett said. "We investigate all complaints."

He said nearly all the tipsters express gratitude for the opportunity to report crimes and remain anonymous.

"We are grateful for the response," Bassett added, "and the indication is that the public is alert to crime detection."

MAIL BALLOT SET BY ASCS

To Elect Committeemen From 5 Communities; Nominations Sought

Floyd county's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) community committeemen will be elected by a mail vote this year, Harry T. Hill, chairman of the county ASCS committee, has notified farmers.

Ballots will be mailed to voters on Sept. 9, and these must be returned to the ASCS office here not later than Sept. 20.

Before that, Hill wrote those eligible to vote in the election of committeemen, there will be the matter of nominating a full slate of candidates in each of the county's five communities. Any farmer may be nominated by petition bearing the names of six or more eligible voters. These petitions of nomination are to be back in the county ASCS office not later than August 25. Eligible voters may sign the petition of more than one candidate but no petition shall be for more than one nominee.

Hill said any person nominated by proper petition will be included in the slate of nominees if they are eligible and are willing to serve. If any nominee is found to be ineligible, he will be notified to that effect prior to completion of the slate of nominees, so that he may appeal to the county committee by Sept. 2.

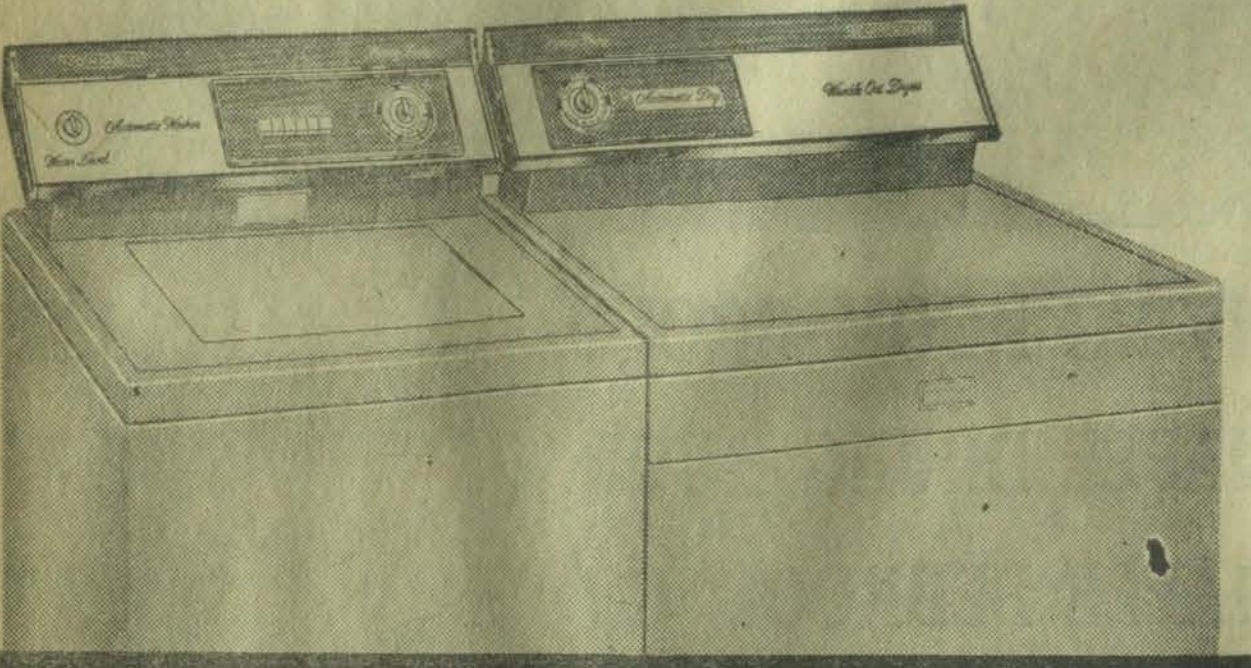

"It is very important that each community be represented by currently active farmers who are best qualified and who will be representative of the various sections and types of agriculture in the community," Hill wrote. He urged voters to start circulating their petitions without delay.

The present community committees will make such additional nominations as are required to complete the slate, or as it deems desirable, and the county committee may also make additional nominations.

Community committeemen will be elected from these communities: Right Beaver Creek (A), Left Beaver Creek (B), Mud Creek (C), Middle Creek (D) and Cow Creek (E).

State Welfare Head Asks Reports Made By Doctors, Others

State Child Welfare Commissioner Maurice A. Harmon is asking some 5,000 county officials, doctors, hospital administrators, and educators throughout Kentucky to help him implement Kentucky's child abuse law.

The 1964 law makes failure to report cases of children believed to be injured "by other than accidental means" a misdemeanor punishable by a fine up to $100.

The law requires that written reports of such cases be made both to local law enforcement officers and to the State Department of Child Welfare.

Harmon's letter to the officials and others says, "Since the law has been on the books, the department has received a rather limited number of reports of abused children. Even fewer reports have been provided in writing to local police authorities, with a copy to the Department of Child Welfare, as provided by the law."

The reason for the number of reports being limited may be that many people are unaware of the law, Harmon says.

Transportation Head Cites New Regulations On Dealers' Inspections

New regulations for inspecting premises and facilities of motor vehicle and mobile home dealers have been adopted by the Kentucky Department of Motor Transportation.

The new regulations represent the first official action taken by the new Motor Vehicle Dealers Board and the Mobile Home Dealers Board, Commissioner Ben Combs said.

Under the new procedure, the department investigates to determine whether a license applicant has complied with all statutory and regulatory requirements. If he has, the department will grant a 90-day temporary permit. Then the application is sent to the Motor Vehicle or the Mobile Home Dealers Board and is subject to approval or disapproval. The boards will meet every 30 days.

Dealers have been notified about the new regulations, and the response "has been most encouraging," according to Combs.

Through the WHAS Crusade for Children, hundreds of youngsters now have a chance to become useful citizens, instead of state wards.

SOIL CONSERVATION UNIT REPORTS ON ACTIVITIES

Annual report of the Floyd County Soil Conservation district for fiscal 1966 shows that on-land assistance was furnished to 538 different landowners, 50 non-cooperators and that consultative-type assistance was supplied to 17 agencies and groups. The number of landowners applying at least one conservation practice increased from 162 to 39.

Landowners in the conservation district installed 6,075 feet of tile drainage system, constructed five farm ponds, constructed three acres of grassed waterways, set 412 acres of trees for timber production and erosion control, improved 32 acres of woodland by weeding practices, established 24 acres of wildlife habitat by sowing food plots and established 39 acres of wildlife habitat preservation. Conservation cropping systems were applied on 322 acres of cropland, and 50 acres of critical area plantings were established. Cover crops were sown on some 500 acres of land, and pasture improvement work was done on 444 acres of land. Thirty acres of woodland were established by the direct seeding method. One co-operator established a private income recreation enterprise. There were 1,236 technical services provided on conservation planning and application to co-operators.

The conservation district through services provided by the Soil Conservation Service assisted 89 co-operators in developing conservation basic plans and revising 17 basic plans.

Conservation and development plans were developed by 28 landowners in the Middle Creek ALSCP Project through services provided by the Soil Conservation Service.

There are 2,335 landowners in the district and of these 992 are co-operators. The district now has a total of 393 complete farm plans.

Officiating at the double-ring service was the Rev. D. G. Phillips, pastor of the church. Mrs. Holly Hance was organist and Mrs. Don Mazey was soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Music, 629 Davis St., Findlay. Mr. and Mrs. Cloyce R. Monday, 605 Davis St., Findlay, are the bridegroom's parents.

The sleeves were three-quarter length and the chapel train was attached at the waistline. Miss Lisa Marie Miller and Miss Vicki Lynn Craft, cousins of the bride, carried the train.

Her veil was attached to a crown of Chantilly lace and pearls with crystal trim. She carried a cascade of white carnations around pink sweetheart roses. Her only jewelry was a white gold cross necklace.

State Toll Facilities Collect July Revenue Of Over $1 Million

Revenue from Kentucky's toll facilities exceeded a million dollars in July—the first million-dollar-month generated by the four toll roads and one bridge. Actual July revenue was $1,123,718.91. This was $190,275 more than was collected in June and $325,718 more than the revenue of the same months a year ago.

Total revenue of $5,519,656 for the first seven months of 1966 continued 36 percent ahead of 1965 collections. Also it is now 16 percent ahead of consulting engineer's estimates for 1966 and almost 2 percent ahead of what Highway Department fiscal projectionists said it would be at this time.

Consultants had predicted 1966 revenue through July to be $4,739,440; Department personnel had looked for $5,423,594. Revenue through July, 1965 amounted to $4,053,195. This was prior to opening of the Blue Grass Parkway on October 27, 1965.

The Mountain Parkway tolls for July totalled $136,650—an increase of $22,616 over the same month a year ago.

WELFARE FUND PAY UP 20% THIS YEAR

The United Mine Workers Welfare and Retirement Fund increased its total benefit payments by 20 percent last year. Yet the fund still ended the year holding more money than it began with.

Benefits have still not regained the level of the peak year, 1960, however.

The good health of the fund reflected the general good health of the soft coal industry, on which the fund depends. Sagging coal revenues led to sharp cut-backs in the benefit program in the early 1960's.

The benefit program has since been improved again. The fund's annual report, made public yesterday, rounded out 20 years of operation. In that period, the authors asserted, the average miner's age at death has increased from 10 years below the national average to four years above—from 56 to 73.

The report showed payment of $138 million in benefits in the budget year ending June 30. That was an increase from $114 million the previous year. Benefits hit $143.9 million in 1960.

The sum includes pensions, medical care, funeral expenses and disaster payments.

The balance in the fund at the end of the year was $145 million—up $5 million from the previous year. The fund is composed chiefly of royalty payments from coal operators.

Last October 1, the basic miner's pension was increased from $85 to the 1960 level of $100. On February 1, 1965 the pension age had been cut from 60 to 55.

About 9,000 of the 70,000 pensioners currently on the rolls are under 60, the report said. "Thousands more will qualify in future years," it was estimated.

New pensions authorized last year numbered 8,317 as compared with 6,494 the previous year.

The authors of the report said the impact of Medicare on the benefit program "cannot be assessed with any degree of accuracy at this time, nor will it be possible to do so until sometime well into the future."

But they warned that Medicare will not relieve all the burdens on the fund. They said this is so because the fund pays benefits not covered by Medicare for pensioners under 65 who are not eligible for Medicare.

And they said that "the Medicare program will undoubtedly result in further sharp increases in hospital and medical costs."

Eligible pensioners must enroll in Medicare in order to collect benefits from the fund.
