SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

THURSDAY, JANUARY 13, 1966

This Town ... That World

It was Will Rogers, not Liz Taylor, who said, "I never met a man I didn't like."

WANTED . . .
This is "the dead of winter," the calendar says, but the season has had a hard time of it living up to its name. The old-time winter when snow "shoe-mouth deep" was the rule rather than the exception is a fading memory. And, though we all look forward to the time when the good earth will be bursting with life again, I suspect that most of us still have a hankerin' for a dark day when the snow falls till it piles deep, and there is a hush outside that creeps even inside the walls that shelter us and seems to draw us closer together.

The war that is so far away as long as it is confined to Viet Nam comes mighty near with the report of one Floyd countian killed, another wounded. Time may lessen tragedy, but distance is never a barrier.

If with base something-or-other in this New Math 2 plus 2 equal 6, New English without a base will make "Yes" mean what it does to most folks already.

Following up on that anecdote of last week relating to the guy who was fishing in a bucket, in his living room:

Did you see the cartoon in which the man stood outside his home, equipped with a set of turkey wings and with the look of far horizons in his eyes? His wife remarked (as we recall): "I didn't worry about him till he mentioned flying south for the winter."

SHORT-CHANGED

Some platform speakers are reviving the oldie about the boy who wrote a letter to God, asking for $100. His father intercepted the letter, was touched by the appeal, and on a trip to Washington mailed his son a $20 bill.

Out went another letter from the youngster: "Thank you, God, for the money, but please, next time, don't do through Washington. Those thieves took 80 percent."

NECROLOGY

It doesn't seem that long but Russell (Buck) Layne says it has been 30 years now since he began compiling for The Times a Year's-end list of Prestonsburg citizens who died during the past 12 months. His list for 1965 follows:

Adrian Collins, 56, died January 11; Kenneth Gale Music, 29, died January 15; Milt Stanley, 65, January 16; Clyde W. Smith, 56, January 16; Betty Jane Collins, 86, January 17; William Henry Warren, 68, February 2; Joyce Viars, 27, March 1; Beulah Roberts Wells, 69, March 7; Hiram Taggett Allen, 63, March 24; N. M. (Bud) White, 74, March 29; Elizabeth Strickland, 86, March 29; Henry Montgomery, 41, April 17; Clarence Craft, 63, April 24; John McCoy, 59, May 11; Jay Salyers, 71, May 12; Hoover Harrington, 61, June 12; Lida Davidson Spradlin, 88, June 13; Hager May, 57, July 14; Hattie Irene Bossee, 83, July 14; Mollie Nunnelly Hereford, 87, July 17; Mollie Patton Johnson, 73, August 7; Clyde Spurlock, 75, August 13; Manis Conley, 72, August 17; Alta Stephens Davidson, 70, August 21; James Clark, 92, August 30; Bill Pepper Wills, 63, October 1; Myrtil Whitestock Cline, 48, October 6; Susan Harris Craft, 83, October 12; Martha Parker Hughes, 82, October 16; James B. Goble, 52, October 24; William Elliott, 78, November 15; Millard F. Hughes, 79, November 23; Dr. Earl Arnett. (See Story No. 6, Page 6)

ONE PENNED, TWO JAILED THIS WEEK

Jury Holds Cole Guilty In Car Wreck Fatality; Norton Jailed 4 Months

One circuit court trial here this week resulted in a one-year pen term for the accused, and two others convicted were given long jail sentences.

The jury which convicted Rush Fraley Shepherd, of Delbarton, West Virginia, Wednesday of a charge of stealing copper wire from the Kentucky Power Company set his term at a year in the state reformatory.

Arnold Lee Cole was convicted Tuesday on a negligent homicide count and was sentenced to a year in the county jail. Testimony showed he was driving the car which wrecked near Melvin, killing Oney Johnson, and that he was drunk at the time.

Another negligent homicide trial, that of Robert Hall, resulted in an acquittal. Hall was indicted after his car struck and killed a child at East McDowell. It was established that the child ran into the highway in front of the car and that Hall was not drinking.

Junior "Red" Martin again was given trial in absentia Wednesday on a liquor charge. His jail term was set at 120 days, and he was fined $100. Martin was convicted at the December court term and given the same jail term with a $200 fine, but was granted a new trial when he entered the claim that he was given trial at a time when he was not in court because he had been told the case would be given a temporary continuance.

Trial of criminal cases began Monday. An order was entered Friday by Judge Conley directing that Willie "Jay" Harris be returned here from Edyville prison to appear as a material witness in the trial today (Thursday) of Maude Fitzpatrick, who is charged with aiding and counseling another in the commission of a felony. Another order directed that Jim and Don Miller be returned from Wabash, Indiana, as witnesses in the same trial.

Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo said this week that the trial of Headmon May, charged with the murder of his father-in-law, A. B. Hobson, at Harold, has been set for trial February 7 in the Johnson circuit court at Paintsville. He added that Commonwealth's Attorney Hazelrigg, of Johnson county, has announced that the death penalty will be asked. The case was transferred to Johnson on motion of the Commonwealth after May had been twice convicted in this county and given a life term for the slaying of Mrs. Hobson and 21 years for shooting and wounding his former wife, Ruth Hobson.

Fifteen cases were continued this week. These were filed away:

CLOSE BLDG., STATE ASKS

Salt Lick Structure Liquor Haven, Claim; Francis Asks $105,000

The Commonwealth moved this week to close as a nuisance a building allegedly used on Salt Lick Creek, near Hueysville, for bootlegging purposes.

The suit, which was filed by County Attorney Barkley Sturgill and Commonwealth's Attorney Harold Stumbo, listed the owner of the property as Joel Martin. It said the operators of the place are believed to be Bill Sexton and Sonny Caudill. The building is located at the mouth of Raccoon Fork of Salt Lick, on KY 7.

The complaint alleges that during the past year ABC agents have conducted raids on the place of business and, as a result, have seized quantities of intoxicants on different occasions. It also claims that the Commonwealth can by competent evidence establish that the building is used for the purpose of storing alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale in this county, local option territory.

The Commonwealth asked that the place not only be closed and declared a nuisance under KRS 242.310 but also that its operation be enjoined.

Auxier War Veteran Dies at VA Hospital At Richmond, Virginia

Hobert Burton, 71, Auxier World War I veteran, died January 5 at Veterans' hospital, Richmond, Virginia, victim of a complication of diseases.

A native of Auxier, Mr. Burton was the son of Samuel and Malinda Clark Burton. He was never married and had no surviving brothers or sisters.

Funeral rites were held Sunday from the Auxier Free Will Baptist Church, the Revs. James Sturgill and T. A. Patton officiating. Burial under auspices of East Point Masonic Lodge was made in the Music cemetery at Ford's Gap, the Carter & Callahan Funeral Home directing.

2 MENINGITIS CASES TOLD

Both Floyd Patients Recovering Is Report By Health Department

Two Floyd county sufferers from meningitis during the outbreak of the disease in Kentucky have recovered, it was said this week by the Floyd County Health Department.

Dr. R. L. Hall, county health officer, said, "The germs causing meningitis are always present in the nose and throat, generally speaking, but do not always cause the disease to manifest itself. As a general rule it will appear following an infection of the upper respiratory tract."

As noted in the Kentucky cases, the disease has no geographic limitations and most frequently occurs in the 5-to-15-year age group, being more prevalent among males rather than females.

Meningitis has an incubation period of about seven days and is transmitted by contact with infected persons, or carriers, and from items freshly soiled with discharge from the infected person. It generally strikes when the body's resistance is lowest and could be classified as a secondary infection.

Onset of the disease is rapid and accompanied by severe headaches, pain in the neck and back upon movement of the head, fever, chills and projectile vomiting. As the disease progresses restlessness, irritability and convulsions will appear. If the disease remains unchecked, the results can end in deafness, blindness, changes in mental attitudes and paralysis. Treatment consists of isolation, chemotherapy with the sulfa drugs and making the patient as comfortable as possible.

The best means of avoiding a meningitis attack are cleanliness, avoiding infected individuals, and not mingling with crowds, whenever possible. Persons suspected of being exposed to meningitis should guard against sudden chilling of the body, bodily fatigue and strain.

Employees of Hospital At McDowell Pledge $2,159 to Fund Drive

Employees of the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital have pledged $2,159 in the fund-raising campaign in behalf of the non-profit, community hospital.

Pledges and cash contributions are still coming in, said Arthur Brabdry, campaign chairman.

Meanwhile, separate fund-raising efforts are in progress among the doctors on the hospital's medical staff and in the community. The results will be announced later.

The McDowell community's goal is $6,577.

The McDowell ARH hospital's drive is part of a national campaign to raise $3.6 million for the ten non-profit communities hospitals in the Appalachian Regional Hospitals system. The money will be used principally for operating capital and for the purchase of new equipment.

Among the early contributors is a $10,000 gift from the International Union of District 50, United Mine Workers of America.

The national campaign is headed by Donald C. Cook of New York, president of the American Electric Power Co.

CLINIC SCHEDULED MONDAY

The maternal child health clinic, scheduled for December 21, will be held next Monday at Ethel Osborne's store in Bypro. All mothers are urged to bring their children in for immunization.

INFORMATION FOR TRAVELERS—This is the architect's sketch of a new information center to be built at Prestonsburg for the State Department of Public Information. The building will be at the intersection of the Mountain Parkway extension and U.S. 23. The Finance Department said bids will be opened in mid-February and construction will begin about the last of that month. Construction of the center will take about six months.

DR. CAMPBELL SAYS REPORT ERRONEOUS

The report first published in the college newspaper, The Big Sandy Review, and later in the Times to the effect that 49% of the students at Prestonsburg Community College are failing is far from true, Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the college, said this week.

It is true that about 34% of the 425 freshmen and transfer students at the college were placed on probation at the end of the mid-term grading period, but this does not mean that they have failed, Dr. Campbell said. Moreover, he expects the percentage of failures to run as low as 20 to 25%—which would mean that the student told in suspensions here would be one-half, or thereabouts, of the average suspension rate in other colleges of the state and in the U. K. system.

In fact, he pointed out, the percentage of those on probation this year is 15% less than last. And probation is far from failing. Dr. Campbell explained the situation in this way:

"During the first semester of this academic year a report was issued saying that 49% of the students at Prestonsburg Community College were failing. What the article should have said is that 49% had less than a 2.0 or C average. The grade range in all the University of Kentucky's systems range from F equals 0 to A equals 4; therefore, the average grade is considered to be a 2.0 or a C average. At mid-term 51% of our student body had a 2.0 or better and 49% had less than a 2.0; however, let me emphasize that a 1.99 does not mean that a student is failing in college nor does it mean that a student is failing in high school."

"The University of Kentucky's regulations stipulate that any student who does not achieve a 2.0 average during his first semester will be placed on probation. It also specifies that any student who does not achieve a 2.0 average for two consecutive semesters will be placed under suspension. Every student who achieves a 2.0 average in either of his first two semesters is assured of at least three semesters at Prestonsburg Community College except in the most exceptional case; therefore, all of the students who made a 2.0 average during the fall semester will be entitled to enroll for both the spring semester of 1965-'66 and the fall semester of 1966-'67. All the students who were below a 2.0 during this semester who achieved a 2.0 during the spring semester will be eligible to attend the fall semester of 1966-'67.

"The experience and achievements of last year indicate that from one-third to two-thirds of the 146 students placed on probation this fall will achieve a 2.0 average during the spring semester so instead of the 49% failure as mentioned in an earlier article, the real percentage will run from 20 to 25%. In all probability if this percentage remains true then our suspension list would be approximately one-half of the average percentage throughout the state, the other colleges, and in the University system.

"We have received a considerable amount of criticism because of the earlier article referring to the 49%. We feel that this article will show that the earlier article was erroneous. We feel that our low probation and suspension rate is because of the fact that every teacher at Prestonsburg Community College spends a minimum of 10 office hours per week during which time students are encouraged to come when in need of help.

"The actual suspension list for the first semester applied to only 22 individuals. Most of these 22 were students who had previously applied for reinstatement while under suspension who were re-admitted and then failed to achieve a 2.0 standing; however, 10 students who had been previously suspended and who were re-admitted did achieve standings sufficiently high to justify their being re-admitted for this spring semester.

"We feel that our record is outstanding in giving all students an equal opportunity."

DRAFT COMBS MOVE BEGUN

At Ashland Meeting; East Ky. Supporters Urge Combs' Campaign

A "Draft Combs for Governor" movement was launched in Ashland.

Forty political and business friends of former Gov. Bert T. Combs from nine Eastern Kentucky counties called for an enthusiastic draft movement that might spread throughout the state.

Combs, often mentioned as a "likely" candidate in 1967 for the office he held from 1959 to 1963, did not attend the dinner meeting. Wallace J. Williamson, III, Ashland businessman and close friend of Combs, called the Democratic leaders together.

"We thought," he said, "that if there is going to be a demonstration in behalf of Gov. Combs, it should start in his native Eastern Kentucky."

"I have talked with Gov. Combs about the prospects that he might run. He hasn't told me he will run, but neither has he told me he will not run.

"If he is considering running in 1967, it might help him make up his mind to see that people are interested in having him run."

Williamson, a member of the state Democratic central executive committee, invited leaders from Morgan, Elliott, Carter, Greenup, Lewis, Floyd, Johnson, Lawrence and Boyd counties.

He said those invited were people who are taken for granted as wanting Combs to run.

MAKES RADIO TALKS

Mrs. Ben Martin, president of the Drift Woman's Club, Miss Jane Hoffman, director of Nursing services of the McDowell hospital, Arthur Bradbury, president of the advisory council and general chairman of the Fund-Raising Committee for the area served by the McDowell hospital, spoke over Radio Station WDOC recently to acquaint residents with the fund-raising program for the hospital.

Floyd Purgation Board Making Precinct Checks

Resuming work last week, the Floyd County Registration and Purgation Board is visiting the voting precincts in an effort to learn the names of voters who do not belong on the registration lists.

An on-the-spot check this week of one precinct, Bosco, resulted in the listing of the names of almost 200 voters who have died or who may be ineligible to vote there.

The board is composed of Tom James, Henry P. Scaff and W. B. Boyd.

BABE'S BODY IN GARBAGE

Wheelwright Negress, Jailed Here Tuesday; Admits She's Mother

ROBINSON JAILED . . .
Sheila Louise Robinson, 19-year-old Negro girl, was jailed here late Tuesday after she had admitted to authorities that the body of a newborn baby found earlier in the day at Wheelwright was hers. She was booked on a charge of unlawfully disposing of a body.

A garbageman found the body which, wrapped in an old newspaper, had apparently been secreted in a garbage container at the home of the girl's father. The discovery was made when the garbage was being unloaded at the town's incinerator.

The mother said the baby was dead at birth. "Since the child was dead, I disposed of the body," her statement, procured by State Trooper James Harmon, said. She added that she was not aware that such disposition of the body was in violation of the law.

Miss Robinson said the baby was born between 3 and 4 a.m. Tuesday, a week before discovery of its body. She said she was unattended by doctor or midwife and that her father and aunt, sleeping in other rooms of the house, were unaware of the child's birth.

The girl, mother of another child, was taken to the McDowell hospital for examination before being jailed. She said she is a high school graduate.

Investigation of the case was made Tuesday afternoon by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis, Coroner James J. Carter, State Trooper Harmon, ABC Agent C. A. Flanery and Wheelwright Policeman Herschell Hitchcock. Further questioning of the girl was conducted here by Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo, County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill and County Judge Henry Stumbo.

OLD OWNER HAS UTILITY

Board of Education Transfers Ownership Of System to Burchett

The Floyd County Board of Education at its Saturday meeting transferred back to Roland Burchett operation of the Maytown water system which was closed, late last year, because of defects which failed to make the water supply there safe for use.

The system operation reverts to Mr. Burchett on the condition that he will meet Floyd County Health Department requirements. The board will pay him half of its monthly water bill until the $1900 expense it incurred in putting the water system into satisfactory operating order is recovered.

The board accepted the resignation of Adrian Bentley, guidance counselor, who has accepted a post with the Kentucky Department of Corrections, and of Jack Stumbo, who became postmaster here, January 1. Mr. Bentley will be connected with the rehabilitation center soon to open at Paintsville.

Employed were:
Camilla Faye Lawson at Wayland grade school to fill the vacancy created by the leave of absence taken by Martha Lee; Richmond Stone, Rebecca Rastick and Pauline Burchett as adult education teachers; Billy Moore, William W. Hall, Carlotta Jones, Grace Combs and Mary E. Thompson, as substitute teachers; Virgil Porter, Sage Hicks, Jimmy Varney and W. T. Foley, as substitute bus drivers.

Leave of absence was granted to Shirley Ratliff.

The board authorized Superintendent Charles Clark to advertise both the upper and lower Jacks Creek school buildings and grounds for sale.

AKERS, FIRST FLOYD VICTIM IN VIET NAM

Marine Corporal Dies In Action Last Week; Sgt. Slone Is Wounded

The war in Viet Nam came home to Floyd county this week as it was learned that one Floyd countian had been killed in action and that a second had been wounded.

This week's was the first casualty report to come to this county from Viet Nam.

Killed in action last Friday was Lance Cpl. Arvel Dewitt Akers, Jr., 20, of the U. S. Marine Corps, formerly of Grethel. The wounded serviceman is Staff Sgt. Burl Slone, 29, formerly of Blue River, who has been evacuated to an Army hospital at or near El Paso, Texas.

Young Akers, who was a son of Mrs. Mildred Akers Carroll, Clyde, Ohio, and the late Arvel Dewitt Akers, was a graduate of Betsy Layne high school and had been in the Marine Corps since October, 1964. His unit was assigned to Viet Nam in April of last year.

His father, a veteran of World War II, died soon after the end of that conflict, and Akers was reared by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Akers, of Grethel. Surviving, besides his mother and grandparents, are a brother, Gregory Akers, and a sister, Karen Joy, both of Clyde, Ohio.

The Marine's body will be returned to Grethel for burial, it was said.

Staff Sgt. Slone wrote relatives that he was hit in his arm by a rifle bullet when caught in the open by the Viet Cong and that as he rose from the impact of this bullet another bullet hit his other arm. Diving into the nearby bush, his weight exploded a land mine which mangled his leg and also resulted in chest wounds.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Slone, of Blue River, and has been in military service several years.

HEART FUND HEAD NAMED

Mrs. Howard Is Again Chairman for County; Other Leaders Listed

The appointment of Mrs. Harris S. Howard, of Prestonsburg, as Floyd county chairman in the forthcoming 1964 Heart Fund drive has been announced by Kentucky campaign chairman, J. O. Matlick, of Frankfort, state commissioner of natural resources.

Mr. Matlick also said that Mrs. Charles Scott, of Wayland, is again serving as chairman for Garrett, Wayland, and Lacey. The drive in this area will be under sponsorship of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club.

The Heart Fund drive in David has Mrs. Ora Howard as chairman. It will be her fifth year of such service. The drive in David is being sponsored by the David Woman's Club.

Mrs. George Cantrill will for the eighth year be chairman of the Wheelwright Hart Fund drive. The Wheelwright Woman's Club will sponsor the drive.

Mr. Matlick, himself a recovered heart attack victim, pointed out he has come to know, first-hand, of the "almost miraculous progress" science has made against heart and blood vessel diseases, and of how the Kentucky Heart Association "by its effective use of Heart Fund dollars in the state's communities, hospitals and medical research laboratories has vitally furthered this progress." He announced that the annual door-to-door Heart Sunday solicitation will be conducted this year on February 20.

Vets' Representative Announces Itinerary

Miss Rebecca Burchett, contact representative of the Kentucky Disabled Ex-Service Men's Board, will spend two days in the county next week to assist veterans and their dependents with claims for benefits due them as a result of their military service. She will be at the Garrett postoffice January 20 from 9 till 11 a.m., and at the county courtroom here, the following day, from 9 a.m. till 3 p.m.

STRAWBERRY PROFITS STRESSED BY AGENT

The profit in strawberry growing was stressed this week by the County Extension office which pointed out that those interested in starting or expanding strawberry production should be making preparations now.
Strawberries, it was said, grow better in this area than in most other places, and the price of berries has advanced from a low of 10 cents a pound four years ago to 17 cents, or more than $1 a gallon, last year.
The extension office estimates the cost of getting an acre of strawberries through the first year to bearing stage is $300. Use of family labor can cut that cost to about $185. And the net returns, the first year of production, can be anywhere from nothing to $1000, depending upon the work and management of the grower.

It is pointed out that the marketing situation in the Big Sandy area is excellent, with a processing plant located here and always needing more berries than are supplied, and the market to homeowners and stores also good.
A group order for plants will be made up for this area to help growers procure good plants at a better price. Those interested should contact the county extension office here.

VA Answers Questions

Q. I receive a pension from the VA and also Social Security benefits. I would like to know if a veteran such as myself has any preference for housing being built with government funds.
A. Any information on preference in obtaining housing must come from the local housing board in the city or town where the veteran resides.

Q. My husband is a veteran of World War II. He is 40 years old and receiving compensation from the VA for a disability which is service-connected. I would like to know if he is still eligible for a 30-year mortgage on a home loan.
A. He may well be. An eligible World War II veteran's entitlement for a GI loan expires 10 years from the date of discharge from his last period of active duty, any part of which occurred in World War II, plus one year for each three months of active duty in World War II. In no case will entitlement extend beyond July 25, 1967. The nearest VA regional office can establish his deadline date.

Q. The VA considers me permanently, totally disabled as a result of an accident during peacetime military service. I was originally informed that my child is not entitled to VA educational assistance since my injury was not the result of the performance of an act of duty. Is this still true?
A. The law has now been changed and your child will be eligible for educational assistance. It is no longer necessary that the totally disabling condition (or death) result from the performance of an act of duty. It is only necessary that the permanently, totally disabling condition be service-connected.

THE STRIP-MINE LEGISLATION SHOULD BE ENACTED

The extractive industries—those which remove natural resources such as timber, coal, oil and other minerals—are important to the country and should be regarded as such. But this importance does not relieve them of a responsibility to the land from which they derive their products.

Because many of those engaged in the strip-mining method of removing coal from the earth have not faced up to their responsibility to individuals, the public and the land itself, The Times hopes that the present General Assembly will enact the Administration bill to regulate the industry and require it by state law to restore to usefulness the mined-out land.

It is true that not every strip-mine operator has wilfully raped the land and walked away to leave the victim an object of shame, but enough of this has been done to require the action proposed by Governor Breathitt.

The generations-old folly of landowners which by the so-called "Broad Form" deeds conveyed everything beneath the surface—surrendered for a mere pittance everything, "hell-deep," as one mountaineer put it—is hard enough to live with; and for what is left to thousands, the mere surface, to be ripped apart, leaving the landowner with little more than an eyesore on the landscape is a new insult added to old injury.

Governor Breathitt stated the problem and the proposed solution in his State of the Commonwealth message to the Assembly:

"Foremost among the matters requiring your consideration is that of strip-mine regulation. Experience over the past two years has shown that, despite the most conscientious and energetic efforts at enforcement, our present laws are not adequate to protect the people or their land and to deal fairly with the coal industry. I want, and I know you want the coal industry, like all industries, to flourish in Kentucky. But people deserve protection from the adverse effects of any industry, just as the owners of industry deserve fair, clear and consistent regulation, and I assure you that the bill I shall propose to you will be as strict but as fair as any in the United States.

"It will protect a man's rights upon his own land. It will require restoration to useful surface of land disturbed by area stripping, and the terracing of cuts made by contour stripping. And it will require of operators no measure not demanded by other states where operators have complied without going out of business."

The bill which has been introduced at Frankfort, as we understand it, is patterned after legislation already in effect in Pennsylvania, a state which has its level and rolling lands and mountains, as has Kentucky. Strip-mining continues in Pennsylvania, and at a profit. We join the Governor in wanting to see the coal business flourish in Kentucky. Our desires for a prosperous coal industry arise from two considerations: 1. Many of the state's best citizens and some of our best friends are engaged in it; 2. We shudder to think what Eastern Kentucky would be, economically, without it.

But, frankly, we have no doubt about the ability of the strip-mining industry to stay in business under the proposed law. It is natural that the operators oppose the bill and that they view it as a threat. But the experience of others, particularly the experience of those in Pennsylvania, serves to prove that threat more imaginary than real.

Their expressed fear that the bill "will put them out of business" recalls to mind the reaction of coal men when, a number of years ago, The Courier-Journal suggested a severance tax of, say, five cents a ton, on coal. The coal industry protested that it would be a death blow (we joined them in opposition to the tax, and remain opposed to it).

Then what happened? The United Mine Workers imposed, and are collecting, a 40-cents-per-ton royalty for its Welfare Fund—and even this did not put the coal industry out of business.

It is natural that the strip-mining industry oppose more regulations and change. But this proposed change, we are convinced, is for the better. And, in the long run, it will establish better relations between the industry and the public.

RED CROSS REPRESENTATIVE SAYS FINANCIAL SUPPORT NEEDED FOR BLOOD BANK

Restoration of the Red Cross blood bank program to Floyd county depends upon the ability and willingness of the people to support it financially, said Darrell House, Red Cross field representative, here last week.

The blood program was lost, to begin with, through the failure of the county in 1955 to reach its Red Cross quota. The quota for this year's drive, which will be held in March, is $6,000.

Last year the county contributed only $3,100 to the Red Cross fund.

Floyd doctors and hospitals have expressed a keen interest in resumption of the blood bank in the county. Now depending upon volunteer blood donors, the patients often lose precious time while donors are being sought, typed and prepared to give blood. Use of blood not available from volunteer donors is a costly item now.

Some of the advantages to result through use of the Red Cross bloodmobile and its "blood bank" include:

1. Groups may be formed under the auspices of a church, club, labor union or other organization, and as long as 20% of members of such a group give blood, all members will be eligible to receive blood without charge; 2. In addition to group coverage, any individual who would give a pint of blood a year would be eligible for free blood, along with other members of his or her family, for the year.

"We feel we can do everything necessary to make the program a success if only we get the financial backing that must come first," the Red Cross representative said.

ENROLLMENT UP

Washington — The number of students enrolled in colleges and universities last fall was 12 percent higher than in fall 1964 — a record 5.9 million. The U. S. Office of Education said 5,570,000 students were working toward degrees at 2,181 institutions.

Pilot Program To Train Parolees at Paintsville Ready To Be Initiated

With the aid of federal funds, the state of Kentucky is almost ready to initiate at Paintsville a pilot rehabilitation program for young first-time offenders which is designed to return the youths to freedom as productive citizens.

Announcement of state plans was made here recently by Billy R. Howard, formerly of the Garrett-Hueysville section of this county, who now is supervisor of education at the LaGrange state reformatory.

The Paintsville rehabilitation center will be located in the old Howard hotel building. To it first-time offenders between the ages of 16 and 26, and originally from this area, will be paroled for training.

A maximum of 25 prisoners will be at the center at one time. They will live there at all times except when in school and will be under the supervision of a superintendent and two guidance counselors. Prisoners will be carefully screened, Howard said, before being sent to the Paintsville center.

There they may remain for as long as 12 months. They will be given $20 a week for clothing, school expenses and pocket money for incidentals. Purpose of the program, Howard pointed out, is to teach these one-time "losers" a useful trade or occupation, without which they would return to private life with no means of earning a living and with the strong temptation to resume careers of lawlessness.

"They're coming back, anyway — so why shouldn't they be given a chance to come home and make good citizens and be productive rather than destructive?" Howard asked by way of emphasizing the purpose and need of such a program.

Statistics show, he added, that the cost of keeping a prisoner at LaGrange is about $3,000 a year.

Federal funds amounting to approximately $1,000,000 have become available to Kentucky to undertake the rehabilitation program. Circuit judges may parole young, first-time offenders to the center instead of sentencing them to the state reformatory.

WHAT CRACKED AND POPPED?

Springville, Utah — Mrs. Jean Wightman's crunchy breakfast cost almost $100. That extra crackle didn't attract much attention until her daughter, Mrs. Linda Bartholomew, launched a search for her contact lenses. She told her mother she had left them in a bowl in the cupboard.

By Rufus M. Reed

THE BEAUTY OF WINTER TREES

The winter trees are in a trance now and they will remain dormant and dead looking until the miracle of spring comes to call them to new leaf and life and bloom. Yet they are not as dead as it may seem. They still breathe all winter long; their roots still need air and water and if you should smother the roots of a winter tree, it would surely die. Or any other plant. Down under the snows still live and breathe the roots of the wild briar rose.

Winter trees are bare yet clothed in beauty. The sturdy oaks on the hilltop high stand gaunt and stark against the somber winter sky, with great bulging muscled arms uplifted and fingers reaching toward the heavens, as if imploring the cosmic powers for the quick return of spring. Yet the oaks are beautiful in their infinite peace and patience, in their calm, unhurried standing and waiting for the long, dreary winter to pass.

The winter sycamores are paragons of beauty as they lift their tall, stately white-washed trunks against a drab winter background. Unlike people, who put on more clothes as winter comes, the sycamore sheds its outer garments and stands starkly gaunt and white, glorifying the streams of the winter landscape.

The tall, slim-bodied lumbardly poplars stand on lawns or along highways like soldiers at attention. Some call these winter trees, "the exclamation points of nature."

The winter beech is also a beautiful tree in its skin-tight, Quaker gray bark. The bark often shows large circular patches like lacy doilies on its surface. But the old winter leaves cling to most of the beeches and mar their beauty, and not until the new leaves of spring come to push them off will they go. In the dead of winter if one walks near a beech covered with these crispy, crimped up dry brown leaves, he can hear them hiss and hiss and sigh sad dirges in every wind. They tremble and quiver like an old man with a palsied shiver. The winter buds of the beech are like slim, brown spearheads pointing us toward the coming of spring.

The leaf scars of some trees are something fine to see. The big scars on the buckeyes and horsechestnuts look like the imprints of a horse's hoof on the stem—hence the name, horsechestnut. The leaf scars on the maple's branches look like a crescent moon stamped on the bark.

There is a lot of water in the tree all winter and we wonder why it doesn't freeze into ice and burst the tree. But in its wisdom the tree knows how to deal with this problem. In the fall, it drains its "radiator"—that is, it drains all the water out of the cells and puts it in the spaces between them, so freezing won't rupture them.

Trees are cold-blooded the same as animals and in winter their bodies take on the same temperature as their surroundings. When it freezes hard, it will pop and crack like a pistol shot but it never bursts from a freeze.

Trees also breathe a little in winter through their bark. The bark has pores in it called, lenticels, which admit air into the cambium layer and keep the tree from smothering for air. The lenticels are breathing pores of the tree and one may see them in horizontal rows on the trunks of trees like wild cherry and birch.

USEFUL CONTRACTIONS

I'm downright thankful for overhead traffic lights. But for them, some of us would never look upward.

SLIGHTLY EXAGGERATED

Mark Twain denied the report that he was dead by simply saying the matter had been greatly exaggerated. Last Friday, Sheriff Lewis was obliged to take to radio to tell all and sundry that the report that he had been shot—some reports said, killed—was, to say the least, incorrect.

The black gum keeps spring all winter alive in its green boughs clothed with mistletoe—an evergreen. And the corky twigs of the sweet gums are more conspicuous in winter gray.

The white oak in its ashen-gray winter cloak is beautiful in any woods, and gleams like a great silver column among the dark boles of black and red oaks.

While the tree is in its winter trance, it mostly sleeps. It takes its six-months Sabbath leave from work. Its sap doesn't flow and since the leaves are gone, the tree cannot make starch for food. So it never grows one iota during the winter. It draws no water from the soil, no minerals through its root. But it keeps in its trunk the water it had left over after it quit work in the fall.

In winter, trees show their secrets to the sharp eye. They lay bare their deepest secrets—where the birds of summer had their nest tucked away; the holes and dens of squirrels; the fantastic knots and whorls on their trunks—and many more interesting things. Winter trees are beautiful and interesting, and what has as much patience as a winter tree?

PRESTONSBURG, KY.

ORDINANCE NO. 12-65

An Ordinance of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, Establishing Rules and Regulations of the City Utilities Commission Relative To Water, Gas and Sewer Service; Establishing and Defining Conditions for the Installation, Connection, Extension and Alteration of Such Systems, Whether Within the Corporate Limits of the City or Outside Same; and Further, the Establishment of Service Charges, Connection Fees, Meters and Rates To Existing Or Prospective Consumers, Whether Within the Corporate Limits of the City or Outside Same.

WHEREAS the City Utilities Commission of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, anticipates an increased demand for service of city utilities, including water, gas and sewer, and it is necessary that the City of Prestonsburg adopt rules, regulations and rates covering the granting of such service to existing consumers and prospective consumers, both within and outside the corporate limits of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, and

WHEREAS, the City Utilities Commission and the City of Prestonsburg deem it advisable to adopt such rules, regulations and rates in order to provide for a feasible program of the additions, connections and extensions to such existing facilities in order to provide for the public health and welfare of the residents of the City of Prestonsburg and its environs.

NOW, THEREFORE, be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg the following rules, regulations and rates:

RULES AND REGULATIONS WITHIN CORPORATE LIMITS:
The City Utilities Commission will make water, gas and sewer extensions to areas within the corporate limits of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, where such services do not already exist upon the following terms and condition:

(1) Extension of such service may be made where adequate water, gas and sewer service is available and when approved by the City Utilities Commission.

(2) Applicant desiring such service shall bear the entire costs of such installation including main, laterals engineering plans and specifications, which said amount shall be deposited with the Commission prior to installation. All such installations must conform to standards and specifications approved by the Commission. The Commission shall be furnished with a map or plat of the area to be served by such utility which shall show proposed locations of all mains and laterals.

(3) Deposits made by any Applicant hereunder shall be refunded to the depositor as follows:
For each user served by the extension the Commission will refund 75% of all revenues collected from each water and sewer user, and 30% of all revenues collected from each gas user, for a period of eight years under the following conditions. Such refund shall in no instance exceed the amount so deposited by Applicant and will be made in January of each year; provided, however, that no refunds will be made on account of consumers who began taking service from such extensions eight years or more after such utilities are made available for service.

(4) When such installation has been inspected, approved and accepted by a duly authorized representative of the Commission, the ownership of such utility installation shall immediately vest in and become one of the properties of the Commission, and subsequent to such date the obligations for maintenance and repair of such utility installation shall become the sole and exclusive responsibility of the Commission.

(5) Nothing herein shall prevent the Commission from extending its mains beyond the terminus of any extensions made under these regulations, and the depositor shall not be entitled to any refund for connections made to future extensions at the expense of the Commission. No refunds will be made on account of any temporary connections, or in the case of water services, for fire hydrants installed on said extensions at the expense of the Commission.

(6) No interest will be paid by the Commission on account of any funds deposited with, or collected by the Commission hereunder.

RATES RELATIVE TO WATER, GAS AND SEWER SERVICE WITHIN THE CORPORATE LIMITS:

The rates to be charged by the Commission for water, gas and sewer service to any consumers within the corporate limits of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, shall be the current rate established by said Commission in effect at the date such service is made available to any user. Provided, however, that nothing herein shall be construed so as to prevent the Commission from changing or adjusting the rates to be charged for such service, and in which case, consumers within the corporate limits of the city will be obligated to pay upon the basis of any such change or adjustment.

III
RULES AND REGULATIONS OUTSIDE THE CORPORATE LIMITS:
The City Utilities Commission will make water, gas and sewer extensions to areas outside the corporate limits of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, upon the following terms and conditions:
(1) Extension of such water, gas and sewer service may be made where adequate service is available and when approved by the City Utilities Commission.

(2) Applicant desiring such service shall bear the entire costs of any such installation including mains, laterals, engineer's plans and specifications which said amount shall be deposited with the Commission prior to installation. All such installations must conform to standards and specifications approved by the Commission. The Commission shall be furnished with a map or plat of the area to be served by such utility which shall show the proposed location of all mains and laterals.

(3) When such installations have been inspected, approved and accepted by a duly authorized representative of the Commission, the ownership of such utility shall immediately vest in and become one of the properties of the Commission, and subsequent to such date the obligations for maintenance and repair of such utility installation shall become the sole and exclusive responsibility of the Commission.

(4) A service charge or meter connection is hereby established for any connection made by the Commission for the respective services hereinafter set out.
a. SEWER:

(5) There shall be no continuing obligation upon the Commission to furnish any of the services, hereinabove enumerated to connections outside the city limits and the Commission shall have the right to discontinue such service at any time if it should appear for any reason that such service would jeopardize the individual services to any consumer within the City of Prestonsburg.

(6) In the event that any area to be served by the Commission under the within provisions shall be annexed to the city within a period of eight years from the completion of any such installation; then, the regulations adopted by the commission for installation within the corporate limits of the city shall become applicable and the project or extensions shall be eligible for refunds, provided for hereunder, for areas within the corporate limits of the city, for that portion of said eight year period remaining on and after the date of annexation.

VII
Any and all extensions, connections or additions to the utility system of the City of Prestonsburg, whether water, gas or sewer shall be made only upon a determination of the feasibility of any such connection, extension or addition, and the City Utilities Commission is hereby granted the authority to make such determination in its own discretion, considering the capabilities of the individual systems and the insurance of complete and adequate service to consumers within the corporate limits of the City of Prestonsburg.

STURGILL ELECTED CLERK OF HOUSE. THO GOVERNOR HAD SELECTED ANOTHER

Governor Breathitt organized the General Assembly, both houses, according to plan, even to stripping recalcitrant Lieutenant Governor Waterfield of his powers—but failed to replace as clerk of the House Troy B. Sturgill, of Prestonsburg.

Breathitt's choice of Alvin Kidwell, of Sparta, who lost his Senate seat last year, as clerk, replacing Sturgill, became known two or three weeks ago.

Declining to slug it out with the governor, Mr. Sturgill submitted his resignation. When the House caucused Tuesday evening, last week, to approve Breathitt's choices, Sturgill remained at his home here. He advised friends against placing his name before the House in opposition to Kidwell.

But his name went before the committee, where he received 23 votes to 25 for Kidwell. Then the House voted Sturgill the clerkship by acclamation.

Sturgill has held the House post since 1960.

SIX MONTHS CLAIM FUNDS

$4 Million Allotment Under Manpower Act Near Vanishing Point

Kentucky has spent practically all of its initial allotment of federal Manpower Development and Training Act funds during the first six months of this fiscal year, according to James R. McGown, director of the bureau of vocational education's special programs division.

McGown said, however, that there will be a federal re-allocation of M.D.T.A. funds, sometime this month. He was hopeful that Kentucky will receive some additional money from the adjustment.

"We have many projects now in the development stage which need only funding," he said.

Since last July 1, Kentucky has had 48 training programs approved to help give instruction to 1,974 persons at a total cost of $3.9 million, McGown reported. The state's initial allocation was $4 million.

This federally-financed job training program is administered jointly by the Departments of Education and Economic Security. The Education Department's bureau of vocational education is responsible for all aspects of the institutional training programs. The Economic Security Department selects, refers and places the trainees.

In just a little more than three years of M.D.T.A. operation, from late 1962 to the present, Kentucky has received almost $23 million to train 10,653 people in 65 vocational occupations. In all programs completed under M.D.T.A. about 80 percent of the trainees completing the courses have been placed into full-time job-related employment, McGown said.

ON-THE-JOB TRAINING OPEN TO COUNTY IF EMPLOYERS SUFFICIENTLY INTERESTED

Mrs. Helen Wells, director of the Community Action Office here, this week outlined the on-the-job training program which is available to Floyd county employers.

Under the Manpower Development and Training Act provisions were set up and funds set aside for On-the-Job Training. It was recognized that there are many types of occupations where a person could best be taught on the job rather than in a school—jobs in such industries as saw mills, construction, factory production, retail sales, restaurants, hospitals, newspapers, wood finishing, shoe repairing, dental laboratories and opticians.

This is not a give away program, however, Mrs. Wells emphasized. Under OJT, an employer must hire a trainee and pay the trainee wages. The federal government, with OJT funds, then will pay the employer for part of the COST OF TRAINING the trainee. Because training is a costly item, particularly the first few months when the trainee is getting acquainted with the job, OJT was designed.

A number of such programs are in progress in the state. Several companies have already applied for their second. It has proven to be a definite financial help to industries to help them hire and train new people. This in turn has provided good jobs for these new people—jobs that pay reasonable wages and give the trainees a chance to learn a new skill.

Any employer who is interested is invited to contact the local Community Action Office, phone 886-3697, or Mrs. Helen Wells, Box 126, Prestonsburg.

BOOK, by Margaret Klaphor. This cook book is rich in historical lore that aims to capture the essence of our Presidential administrations in such a way that the Presidents and First Ladies emerge as highly individual personalities who gave the society of their own time a particular, personal flavor. The anecdotes, the guest lists, the contemporary comments from diaries and letters of presidential families, friends and relatives show the White House both as a mirror of accepted social customs and at the same time as a creator of social innovations. For intense public interest in White House activities and respect for the position of Chief Executive gives the person who holds the title of First Lady a great influence on public life.

MANDT CITES MINE RECORD

Mines Commissioner Says '65 Second Best With 39 Fatalities

The second safest year in history was recorded in 1965 for Kentucky's coal mining industry, State Mines and Minerals Commissioner A. H. Mandt has announced.

He said 39 miners lost their lives in mining accidents last year. The safest year on record was in 1963 when 33 fatalities were recorded.

Mandt also noted that it has been 20 years since a major mine disaster — one resulting in five or more fatalities — has occurred in Kentucky.

The state's clay mining industry, Mandt said, has not had a fatal accident in the past ten years.

Kentucky's coal production has increased to 85.5 million tons annually, Mandt said. The industry now adds $330 million dollars a year to the state's economy.

Mandt attributed the coal mining industry's improved safety record to "close enforcement of mine safety laws and cooperation of mine operators."

More fish were entered in the contest than ever before, with eight black bass, two white bass, five crappie, four bluegill, two catfish, three carp and one walleye entered. The prize tagged fish released by the club in Dewey Lake was not caught during the year, and this number became void, December 31. Another tagged fish will be released this year with a new number, and the prize for catching it will be increased to $150.

Winners in the fishing contest: Largemouth bass division — first prize, 22 1/2-inch bass caught on a popper in Dewey Lake May 9 by Earl Castle, of Prestonsburg; second, 20-inch bass caught on a bomber in Dewey Lake October 9 by Charley Hensley, of Langley.

Smallmouth bass division — first, 19 1/4-inch bass caught on a live minnow in Big Sandy River October 24 by Denny Burchett, of Allen; second, 16 1/4-inch bass caught on a mud eel by Paul B. Horn, of Prestonsburg, May 16 in Quicksand Creek.

Walleye division — first, 26 1/2-inch fish caught June 25 at the mouth of Beaver Creek by Mims Porter on Bassmaster lure.

Crappie — first, 15-inch crappie caught on minnow in Dewey Lake April 24 by Cletis Setser, of Endicott.

White bass — first, 16 1/2-inch fish caught on a Shyster in Dewey Lake August 15 by Irby Hensley, of Langley.

Bluegill — 9 1/2-inch bluegill caught on a worm in Right Beaver Creek May 9 by James Patton, of Langley.

Catfish — first, 32-inch fish caught on live minnow in Big Sandy June 10 by Alton Patton, of Martin.

Carp — 30-inch carp caught on a doughball in Right Beaver Creek May 18 by Felix Dudley, of Langley.

Annual election of club officers also was held Monday, and all officers for the past year were re-elected. They are:

Arnold Workman, Prestonsburg, president; Wilbur Haver, Langley, vice-president; John R. Baldridge, Langley, secretary; Thomas R. Flanery, Langley, treasurer.

Directors re-elected are Charley Patton, Bill Osborne, Ben Ferguson, Jr., and Beverage Reffitt.

A budget of $1545 was adopted for the new year, with $500 earmarked for the club's building fund. Clearing and sodding of the tract acquired by the club on John Branch, near Langley, has almost been completed, and plans are being prepared for a clubhouse, shooting and casting ranges, game displays, archery range and other attractions.

It was announced following the meeting that the club will extend this year to 49 boys and 46 girls of this county an opportunity to attend Camp Earl Wallace under the Junior Conservation program. The club will pay their travel expenses. It also announced it will give an all-expense-paid trip to the camp to any boy or girl who sells as many as 25 memberships in the club.

Hunting and fishing licenses for 1966 have been distributed in the county. The club asks all sportsmen to get their licenses during business hours, since merchants and others who handle the licenses receive nothing for issuing them and render the service as an accommodation to hunters and anglers.

BURCHETT AND LOVETT TO SHARE CHAIRMANSHIP OVER A TWO-YEAR PERIOD

Former State Senator Frederick Nichols, Madisonville, has been named by Governor Edward T. Breathitt as a member of the Public Service Commission to succeed J. David Francis, Bowling Green, who resigned.

Nichols, 38, has held a personal service contract as a PSC attorney since last July 1. Francis, also an attorney, has been serving as PSC chairman. Breathitt said he will divide the PSC chairmanship during the remaining two years of his administration between Commissioners Woodrow W. Burchett, Prestonsburg, for 1966, and Wells Lovett, Owensboro, for 1967.

Francis was named to the PSC by former Gov. Bert Combs in 1959 after serving as co-campaign chairman for Combs and Wilson Wyatt, the Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor. Francis was campaign chairman for Wyatt for governor before Wyatt withdrew from that race to join Combs on a Combs-Wyatt ticket.

While Francis has been mentioned as a possible candidate for U. S. Senator in 1966, he did not refer to this in his letter of resignation, but said that he wanted to devote more time to private law practice. He has served as a county judge, commonwealth's attorney and member of the State Board of Bar Commissioners.

NEW CANCER DETECTION PROGRAM BEING PLANNED

Frankfort, Ky. — Kentucky's Department of Health plans to begin a new cancer detection program for women with the help of a $270,000 budget item now being considered by the Legislature.

Dr. Russell Teague, commissioner of health, said that 240 Kentucky women die each year of cancer of the cervix.

"These are needless deaths which could have been prevented by early detection and treatment," Dr. Teague said.

The legislature would provide for a statewide cervical cytology program, administered by the State Health Department and coordinated by local county health departments, the commissioner said.

The testing is a simple, painless procedure and would provide for testing 40,000 welfare recipients and medically-indigent persons who could not afford to pay for the testing, he said.

"This figure could be more than doubled with the help of various federal grants and we are exploring ways to achieve the best matching money ratio," he added.

At a recent meeting with Dr. Teague, the state Cancer Advisory Coordinating Committee recommended and endorsed the program, saying "it would be a very important step forward in saving the lives of cancer victims." The committee is composed of physicians from around the state appointed by the Kentucky Medical Association because of its interest in cancer control.

"Cancer of the cervix is no respecter of age although the incidence of disease is higher in older women who have borne children," Teague said. "One young mother, 23 years old, was tested and found to have the disease."

For several years, cancer activities in Kentucky have centered around the collection of cancer statistics, a biopsy testing program for the indigent (on a contract basis with private laboratories) and educational activities urging persons to get examinations from doctors when they recognize one of cancer's danger signals.

In the spring of 1964, the Health Department began assisting three local health officers with a pilot cervical cytology program.

In one four-county area in Appalachia, one health officer tested 300 women for the disease. Of 20 suspect cases, nine proved malignant. All nine patients, who would have died if their conditions were not diagnosed, were treated and are alive today, Teague said.

Cervical cancer took the lives of 14,000 women across the country last year, Dr. Teague reported.

Local county health departments will be utilized in the new program to work with the medical profession, educate the public, mail test samples into laboratories and process test reports.

"If we can provide testing for the indigent, near indigent and medically indigent, then I'm very hopeful that women who can afford to have the testing done will see their family physicians on their own initiative," Teague said.

"We don't know what causes cancer. It's origin is still only a matter of speculation. However, if we can detect and prevent needless deaths we'll have gained one more victory in the battle to conquer the disease."

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

Wintertime is fishing time down South—that is, if your quarry is big largemouth bass.

The best outfits for this time of year are spinning, spin-casting and bait-casting rigs. Leave the fly rod at home, because during the winter most Dixie largemouth lunkers are in deep water and difficult to locate. Deep water can be covered best with the longer-range casting outfits. Any of these will do nicely for bank or boat angling, for casting or trolling and for lure or bait fishing.

The angler who knows how to fish artificials effectively will clobber more bass under most conditions than will his equally expert competitor who fishes with bait—and this is especially applicable to fishing in southern waters in the winter.

The big difference between the best artificial lures for summer and for winter fishing for big bass in the Deep South is that in the winter deep-running lures, rather than surface or shallow-running lures, take the lion's share of lunker bass.

For this kind of fishing, every angler should be equipped with an assortment of deep-running plugs, big spinners and spoons; large weighted rubber worms; a bottle of big six-to-ten-inch chunks of black pork rind and a bottle of white pork rind strips only two to four inches long.

The way to locate these choice pockets of deep water with good cover in any new lake or stream is to get a local guide or old bass chaser familiar with the area to show you where they are. When this is not feasible, trolling a deep-running lure across deep-looking bottoms near banks or islands is often an effective method. "Each time you feel the lure strike an obstruction in deep water, or hit a bass there, you probably have a likely lunker spot pinpointed," writes Col. Dave Harbour in Sports Afield Magazine. Concentrate considerable fishing time at that spot. Deep-water lunker hangouts in small lakes can usually be easily located by casting from the bank or from shallow, wadable waters. Again a deep-running lure should be used, and it should be retrieved very slowly across the deep bottom until an obstruction is felt or a bass takes the lure.

"We don't know what causes cancer. It's origin is still only a matter of speculation. However, if we can detect and prevent needless deaths we'll have gained one more victory in the battle to conquer the disease."

To My Many Friends:

For FORTY-SEVEN YEARS I have been privileged to serve the people of Eastern Kentucky with their banking needs. Thousands more over Kentucky, the United States, and many foreign countries have received the same sincere, dedicated, courteous service.

Many of you I have known personally and professionally, but I have not had the pleasure of serving you.

THIRTEEN AND ONE-HALF YEARS AGO, as a direct result of extreme differences between factions not in agreement with my philosophy of banking, I was dismissed from the institution with which I had been associated for THIRTY FOUR YEARS. Being deeply aware of the needs of everyone—rich or poor, renowned or unknown—for the BEST IN GOOD AND SAFE BANKING several prominent business men and just "plain folks" encouraged me to organize a new bank. On July 15, 1952, the doors of THE CITIZENS BANK OF PIKEVILLE were opened with the avowed dedication of the Officers, Directors, and Employees to serving their fellow man.

It has been my good fortune to bring into THE CITIZENS BANK OF PIKEVILLE competent personnel, who have been molded into an efficient organization with the single purpose of service at its best.

Those of you who have not yet brought your banking business to us, we invite you to do so, and we want you to visit our bank and know our folks. Those of you who are now customers, we want you to know of our deep appreciation and sincere thanks.

As we enter a NEW YEAR we ask that you join us in HUMBLE THANKS for our MANY BLESSINGS and let us look forward with renewed enthusiasm for LASTING PEACE AND LOVE IN THE HEARTS OF ALL MANKIND.

Sincerely

John M. Yost

Where Friendliness is a Tradition

Why Catholics Believe As They Do

It's not a set of rules that keeps your Catholic neighbor going to church.

It is a matter of conscience... a self-imposed sense of duty dictated by his reason enlightened by faith.

To be a Catholic, of course, one must conform to the rules and standards of the Church. Anyone doing less would obviously be a member in name only—in the Church as in any other organization or society.

Your Catholic neighbor most likely goes to church much oftener than the rules of the Church require. He could "get by," for example, by confessing his sins and receiving Holy Communion only once a year, and by attending Mass on days which are obligatory—Sundays and Holy Days.

But many Catholics receive the Eucharist as often as once a month, once a week—even every day. Some attend Mass much more often than required. And when Catholics take part in a novena, say the Stations of the Cross, pray the rosary or participate in the various special devotions of the Church, it is not because they have to do so. They do so by choice—and by the enrichment of their spiritual lives.

Religion to a Catholic is not merely a worthy and virtuous activity. It is not something a man can take or let alone. It is an absolute duty required not only by the rules of the Church, but by God Himself.

The Church, we believe, is the divinely-instituted channel through which we acknowledge our dependence upon God—the means by which we express our love, faith and gratitude. It is also the channel through which we receive the Sacramental graces instituted by Jesus Christ for the enrichment of our spiritual lives and the salvation of our souls. Believing this as we do... and remembering Christ's command to "...hear the church"... we are compelled by our conscience and reason to worship as we do.

If you would like to know more about the solid reasons behind Catholic beliefs and worship, let us send you a copy of our interesting, pocket-size pamphlet on the subject. It covers such topics as Faith and Common Sense, The Human Soul Will Never Die, Religion Is Our Duty, Christ Left Us a Church, This is Christ's Church, and Without God Nothing Makes Sense. We will send your copy free and without obligation. And nobody will call on you. Write today...ask for Pamphlet No. KC-10.

McDOWELL HOSPITAL WINS COMMISSION ACCREDITATION FOR ADDITIONAL 3 YEARS

The McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital has been accredited for three more years by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

The hospital previously had been accredited under the Miners Memorial Hospital Association. Appalachian Regional Hospital, an independent, non-profit corporation, acquired it from the MMHA.

"The Commission wishes to commend you for maintaining standards deserving of accreditation and for your constant effort to improve the quality of patient care," Dr. John D. Porterfield, director of the Commission, informed Thomas M. Fain, administrator of the 60-bed hospital.

The Commission, composed of representatives of the American College of Physicians, American College of Surgeons, American Hospital Association and American Medical Association, accredits those hospitals which it recommends to the public as consistently meeting specific standards of patient care.

Dr. Karl S. Klicka, president of ARH, congratulated the hospital and its medical staff and said: "We are most gratified that the Commission, with its exacting standards, has found the operation of this hospital satisfactory under our new management."
