

JUDGE DENIES PLEA FOR THREE BALLOTS

WET APPEAL HEARING SET FOR FRIDAY

Petition for Mandamus To Get Separate Vote Argued Here Tuesday

The Court of Appeals notified attorneys in the mandamus action that it will hear oral arguments at Frankfort tomorrow (Friday).

The mandamus sought by a representative of Floyd county Wet forces to require County Judge Henry Stumbo to order three separate ballots for the July 27 local option election was denied Tuesday morning by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

James T. Carey, of Louisville, and Joe P. Tackett, of Prestonsburg, attorneys for Don Ball, of Prestonsburg, who sought the mandamus, announced soon after Judge Conley's decision was handed down that they would take the case to the Court of Appeals.

Had the mandamus been granted, Judge Stumbo would have been required to change his order directing the holding of the election on a countywide basis and to provide a separate ballot for the town of Martin and a third for the remainder of the county. The question on each of the three ballots would have been different, which would have automatically excluded the Prestonsburg and Martin vote from the remainder of the county.

The wet argument was based on Section 242.125, Kentucky Revised Statutes, a part of the law which attorneys on both sides agreed is involved and ambiguous. One of the specific points argued was the case of Mastin vs. Cornett which was decided in 1963 by the Appellate Court holding that the fourth-class city of Cumberland, Kentucky, which was already wet, should have a separate ballot and that its vote should be independent of the remainder of the county.

Attorneys for the Floyd County Christian Dry League argued, first, that the Court of Appeals has held that the order of the county court cannot be collaterally attacked, then mainly stuck to the contention that Judge Stumbo had ordered what the Wets' petition had requested—a countywide vote.

Granting that home rule is provided by law to cities of the fourth class, a category to which both Prestonsburg and Martin belong, Harris S. Howard, one of four attorneys appearing for the Dry League, said, "We do not feel that the intent of the Legislature was to disfranchise the people of these cities and to

Six Are Arrested On Traffic Counts, One On Rum Charge

Six arrests on alleged traffic offenses have been made in the county within the week, and one man was booked at the jail on a liquor possession charge. Those booked, charges marked against them and names of arresting officers follow:

Earl Wakeland and Larry Castle, no operator's license, Deputy Sheriffs Milt Hunt and C. D. Martin; Jack Bush and Jack Sawyers, reckless driving, Deputy Sheriffs Hunt and Martin; Otis Cisco, drunk driving and no operator's license, by Trooper Richard Harmon; John Paul Pitts, drunk driving, by Police-men Sam Hale and Woodrow Laferty; Merlin Hall, possessing untax-paid whiskey, booked by Deputies Martin and Hunt; Ray Hill, stealing copper wire, arrested by Deputy Sheriff G. Frasure; Carl Jones, possessing alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale, arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Hunt and Martin.

DR. ARCHER DIES AT 54

Heart Attack Claims Paintsville Physician Tuesday at His Home

Dr. James W. Archer, 54, prominent Paintsville physician and a brother of Dr. George P. Archer, Prestonsburg mayor, died at his home Tuesday morning of a coronary occlusion.

Dr. Archer had suffered one or more slight attacks late last week but worked a full day at his office in the Paintsville hospital Monday and was on duty when he became ill Tuesday morning. He was under treatment at his home when the fatal seizure came.

A son of Mrs. Fannie Archer, of Paintsville, and the late Dr. Ernest E. Archer, he was a native of Paintsville and had spent his entire professional career there. He was a graduate of Riverside Military Academy, Gainesville, Georgia, received his academic degree from the University of Kentucky and his medical degree from the School of Medicine, University of Louisville. He began his Paintsville practice, immediately after completing his internship at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

Dr. Archer was a member of Mayo Memorial Methodist Church, Paintsville, was adviser to the Kentucky Selective Service Board, an official in the General Practitioners' Association and was a member of the Citizens' Advisory Committee, Paintsville. FISCAL COURT OK'S BUDGET OF $286,061

The $286,061 budget adopted by the Floyd County Budget Commission was approved Wednesday by the fiscal court, in time to beat the July 1 deadline.

But the court will not be able to make full compliance with the law on setting the tax rate for the next fiscal year. This also is to be done by July 1, the law specifies, but the court cannot set the tax rate till the county assessment totals are certified to it by the Department of Revenue, and that hasn't been done.

D. M. Magill, state finance officer, this week advised County Judge Henry Stumbo that, since the assessment figures have not been certified at Frankfort, action on the tax rate as soon as certification is received will be sufficient compliance with the law.

The budget adopted includes $50,000 available through the cooperative county-state road program. Of the total revenues anticipated, $120,481 is expected from real estate taxes. The remainder will come from franchises, taxes on bank shares, tangible property and other items.

The new budget represents a 10% increase in tax revenues over the total of last year. A hearing on this increase has been set at the courthouse July 7 from 9 to 10 a.m.

ORDER LOCKS MARTIN CLUB

Action Taken Tuesday By State, City To Halt AMVETS Operation

The Commonwealth of Kentucky and the City of Martin moved Tuesday to have the AMVETS Club at Martin closed as a nuisance, and soon thereafter Circuit Judge Hollie Conley issued a temporary restraining order enjoining operation of the club. The closing order set July 14 as the date when the plaintiffs will ask for a permanent injunction.

The action named as defendants the club and Edmund "Beaver" Barnett as its operator. The complaint, filed by Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo and County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill for the Commonwealth and by Joe Hobson, attorney for the city of Martin, pointed to a raid made on the club which resulted in the seizure of a quantity of intoxicants. Plaintiffs also claimed they can show by competent evidence that Barnett is the operator of the place of business, which is a one-story concrete building on KY 80 in the town of Martin, and that quantities of alcoholic beverages have been found there on different occasions. It was alleged that the building is being used for the storage of alcoholic beverages for the purpose of their sale.

Claude Flanery, ABC Agent, signed an affidavit stating that the building has been raided on previous occasions and alcoholic beverages found there. It also was alleged that raids have been ineffective and that the place is a nuisance under state law.

VISTA AGENT AUTO VICTIM

Three Hurt in Wrecks Brought Here; Other Emergencies Reported

Phillip M. Johnson, 23, a VISTA worker, was killed and Michael J. Klein, 24, Beattyville Appalachian Volunteer, was seriously injured Sunday morning when a car driven by Klein left KY 542 (the road to Evanston), in Magoffin county, and ramed into a cliff.

Johnson, a native of Massachusetts, was dead on arrival at the Prestonsburg General hospital. Klein also was brought to the hospital here but later was transferred to the Medical Center, Lexington. Johnson's body was taken to Massachusetts for burial.

One of three emergencies arising at the Prestonsburg hospital Saturday night during the Civil Defense alert came when two Magoffin county men were brought here after they had figured in a head-on collision. Basil Howard, of Salyersville, driver of one of the cars, underwent surgery for a ruptured liver. The other, Sherrill Arnett, of Royalton, suffered lesser hurts. Howard is recovering.

Other emergencies during the alert were Sandra Maynard, 16, of West Prestonsburg, who underwent an appendectomy; and Mrs. James Nichols, of Prestonsburg, who gave birth to twins, a boy and a girl.

This Town . . . That World

If I had a field of hay and somebody would cut it for me, I could break this drought.

SOMETHING OF VALUE

Last week, this column desecrated briefly, and without too much kindness, upon the subject of one William DeWitt and the Cincinnati Reds. This week, after the same Reds had bopped the Giants two best of three and had bopped the Dodgers in like fashion, an acquaintance remarked:

"Well, you've helped the Reds a lot already. And that Fisher boy you've been ready to ship off to the Epworth League has done right well, two games in a row. Believe if you'd write a whole column and blast 'em, every word and syllable of the way, you could pull 'em through yet."

Maybe so. Once upon a time, I boasted in a headline that Floyd county had not a murder on its court docket, and before the next paper hit the streets we had three.

GRUPE DEPARTMENT

Maybe it's the weather. Anyway, I feel grouchy. So:

What is being done to Dewey Lake is a shame. The shoreline is dotted with piles of cans and other refuse left on the ground by campers and others. At some of these campsites are garbage cans—no, barrels—filled to the top, and they haven't been moved all year, it appears.

Beer cans or tomato cans, they all present a sorry sight against that lush backdrop of green forest bordering the lake. And then there's that situation we keep hearing about in the headwaters of Johns Creek where mining operations are going in, right and left. The word comes that coal dust and such materials are being piled up. (See Story No. 2, Page 3)

GROUP SETS TWO MEETS

Perkins To Attend Community Meeting On Mad Cr. Sunday

Charles Dagnan, community interne representing the Appalachian Volunteers in the Mud Creek section of the county, said this week that Congressman Carl D. Perkins will be among those attending a community meeting scheduled at the John M. Stumbo elementary school Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The meeting will be held as a part of the plan to develop beneficial community projects.

Dagnan also said that state and national representatives of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) have indicated they will attend a 6 p.m. meeting July 12 at the same school and will tour the Mud Creek section to get a first-hand look at the situation, particularly at conditions created by the prolonged drought.

The Appalachian worker said the water shortage in Mud Creek is acute and that as high as eight families are carrying water from one well. He predicted that another rainless week will bring the situation to the serious, even critical, stage.

ROAD DEATHS PRIME TOPIC AT MEETING

UK Dean Matthews Conference Speaker At Community College

The toll taken on the nation's highways and means of reducing the loss of life claimed major attention at the conference held at the Prestonsburg Community College Monday on appreciation of the law and how it affects community development.

Dean W. L. Matthews, of the College of Law, University of Kentucky, addressed the gathering at the morning session on the subject, "Law and Order Development." Dean Matthews stressed these essentials for orderly development:

1. Good law enforcement; 2. fair and efficient courts; 3. access to legal services for all the people; 4. a program of education and understanding.

He took the position that highway safety is a matter which concerns all citizens. If new legislation is needed to help solve the problem, he suggested, then it is up to the people to see that such laws go into effect.

Sgt. Bevins, of the Kentucky State Police, pointed out that every 11 minutes of each day somebody is killed on the nation's highways over which 98,000,000 drivers operate 78,000,000 motor vehicles.

62 DIPLOMAS ARE ISSUED

Gentile Is Speaker At Martin As Adults Receive Certificates

Principal address at the basic adult education Certification Night held Wednesday evening at Martin high school auditorium was delivered by Ralph G. Gentile, special services associates representative, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Charlottesville, Virginia.

Sixty-two members of adult education classes received eighth-grade diplomas from James W. Salisbury, Floyd county director of basic adult education.

Other speakers on the Certification Night program were Charles Clark, superintendent of Floyd county schools, and Ralph Wells, state supervisor of the Work-Training and Experience Program. The occasion was the second of its kind for basic adult education pupils. Music was rendered by band students in the Prestonsburg Community College cultural program. The invocation was by the Rev. George Cole; the benediction, by the Rev. Freddie Garrett.

Names of those receiving diplomas:

Elisha Adkins, C. Fern Akers, Eugene Akers, Claude Bailey, Audrey Bates, Peggy Bates, Norene Belcher, Jimmy Bentley, Troy Blackburn, Roy Boyd, Dick Burchett, Russell Burke, Calvin

Free Movies Here Only July 4th Celebration To Be Scheduled Here

The speeches, parades and fireworks will be missing in Floyd county Monday, since no formal celebration of July 4 is planned in Prestonsburg or any other town of the county, but the Strand Theatre announces that it will have its usual celebration of the day.

The theatre will open at 8:30 a.m., and the public will be admitted without charge. Dan Goble, manager of the theatre, (See Story No. 8, Page 3)

2-HOUR CD ALERT STAGED SATURDAY

A siren wailed at 7:45 Saturday evening, and for more than two hours Prestonsburg was a "disaster area" as the result of "enemy attack."

It was the second Civil Defense disaster alert to be staged in the county, and for its duration the facilities of the Prestonsburg General hospital, the Floyd County Health Department and all agencies associated with Civil Defense were taxed.

Sixteen "victims" were to be located and hurried to the hospital or health department for first-aid or treatment. Some were found buried beneath "debris." All were atop the two buildings erected at the new City Park, and they were lowered, as found, by baskets and litters, to the ground and waiting ambulances. Fourteen of the injured were taken to the hospital. The others were received at the health department.

Meanwhile, the harried hospital staff was handling three real emergencies, in addition to caring for its regular patients. Two men injured in a Magoffin county auto wreck were admitted, one for surgery; an appendectomy was performed on a 16-year-old girl, and twins were born to a Prestonsburg woman.

Despite the fact that one doctor on the staff, Dr. Ronald H. Leslie, was away, the situation was handled smoothly at the (See Story No. 7, Page 3)

FOLKSONGS, HYMNS FEATURE FESTIVAL

Tourists and music-lovers from other states were introduced in most interesting fashion to the music, dances and arts of the region, and residents of Eastern Kentucky renewed acquaintance with old favorites at the Highlands Folk Festival held last week-end at Jenny Wiley State Park amphitheatre over the week-end.

The festival was presented under the auspices of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association. An interested spectator and listener was Miss Sarah Gertrude Knott, director of the National Folk Festival, who assisted in the planning and organization of the Highlands Folk Festival here.

Ballads and dances dating back to old England, river songs and chanteys featured the first performance, Friday evening. Folk songs, dulcimer, fiddle and guitar music, balladry of the hills and dances of the region comprised the Saturday evening program.

Sunday's closing program was devoted to church music and its development, ranging from the Gregorian Chant through "Ined" hymns, Negro spirituals, church music with instrumental accompaniment and oldtime favorites of the region.

It was indicated that interest in the festival at its initial presentation and the enjoyment of the music was such that the sponsors are encouraged to renew the presentation next year. The program was arranged by Mrs. Edith F. James.

Introducing the first festival numbers last Friday evening, Mrs. James commented, "We go afar to learn the music of the masters and return to find our 'blue bird' in our own beautiful music with its Old World background."

The Drama Association acknowledged its indebtedness for their services to Miss Knott, to Gus Kalos and Mrs. Kathryn Frazier for organization and rehearsal of the Festival chorus and to all those who took part in the varied program.

TAKES OATH OF OFFICE . . . County Judge Henry Stumbo administers the oath of office as Tax Commissioner to Mrs. Orpha C. Akers, at his office here last Friday morning. Mrs. Akers, who was at first appointed acting commissioner by Judge Stumbo following the death of her husband, Clive Akers, will hold office till the November election next year when she or a successor will be elected to fill the remainder of the unexpired term.

COME—RAIN OR SHINE!

Mrs. Mary Akers Baker, of Key West, Florida, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Akers, of Osborne, will soon join her husband, Seaman Third Class Michael G. Baker, in Hawaii, where he has been stationed since May.

Seaman Baker, after finishing his basic training, was assigned to Key West where he received special training in the operation of sonar equipment. A recent recipient of the Defense Medal, he will soon begin a tour of duty in Viet Nam waters, during which he will serve aboard a destroyer escort.

Seaman and Mrs. Baker will reside in Hawaii for the next four years.

TOMORROW TO MARK MEDICARE BEGINNING

Medicare, perhaps the most complex law ever enacted officially becomes a reality tomorrow (Friday), and Floyd county hospitals will be sharing with others in all the complications arising from it.

Realizing that many misunderstandings will occur in implementing the program, administrators of Kentucky hospitals are jointly soliciting the cooperation and understanding of all citizens of Kentucky. Randall C. Eli, president of the Kentucky Hospital Association, emphasizes that hospital administrators will not have all of the answers on July 1 as may be expected of them by the public. Many policies and procedures must yet be developed before Medicare will operate smoothly.

Under this law, Social Security contributions and a $3 monthly premium paid by the individual and matched by the government, 9.33% of the total US population will receive the greatest portion of their hospital and medical care. However, Medicare does not pay all hospital and medical expenses, a misconception that is undoubtedly widespread.

This misconception is of immediate concern to the Kentucky Hospital Association, an organization representing 136 hospitals with over 18,000 beds. Other areas of concern expressed by Kentucky Hospital Administrators, members of KHA, related to Medicare is the lack of public knowledge of the complexities of administering the program.

The four kinds of health services covered by this hospital insurance program are: Inpatient Hospital Benefits, Extended Care Benefits, Home-Health Agency and Out-Patient Hospital Benefits. Medicare covers only those services that are medically necessary. A doctor will have to certify that hospital services are required before Medicare will make payment.

The law requires that participating hospitals have in effect a Utilization Review Committee which will be the responsibility of the medical profession. This committee will review hospital stays at various times and in some cases may discuss with the doctor whether there is further need for hospital care. These provisions, it is explained, are not intended to deprive any individual of needed care but to encourage the most effective use of hospital facilities and keep down unnecessary hospital care.

Medicare will pay for services from any hospital, extended care facility or home-health agency certified by the Social Security Administration to participate in the program. (Your doctor will know whether an institution is or is not a designated provider.) In Kentucky, hospital insurance payments will be made directly to the hospital or to the organization providing services by Kentucky Blue Cross Hospital Plan, Inc., designated by the Social Security Administration as Administrative Intermediary for Part A (Hospital Insurance Plan) of the program. Beneficiaries will be notified whenever payments have been made for services they receive.

Medicare will pay for care in the hospital for up to 90 days during each spell of illness. For the first 60 days of care, it pays all but $40 of covered services received. From the 61st day to the 90th day of care in "each spell of illness," this hospital insurance will pay all but $10 a day for covered services.

IN VIETNAM ACTION

USS Intrepid, May 31 — Navy Ensign Theodore T. Tackett, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Tackett, of Allen, Kentucky, is serving aboard the aircraft carrier USS Intrepid, which launched her first air strikes against Viet Cong targets in South Vietnam in April.

Flying 97 sorties, Intrepid's A-1 "Skyraiders" and A-4 "Skyhawks" hit Viet Cong supply, storage and training areas, and thus were the first attacks made by Intrepid-based aircraft on enemy targets since 1945, when the 44,000-ton carrier served in the Pacific Theater of operations.

Big Sandy RECC Sets Annual Meet July 13
The Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation will hold its annual meeting July 13 at Paintsville, beginning at 1 p.m., D. J. Gambill, RECC manager, announced this week.
The program for the annual meeting has been designed for both the instruction and entertainment of members and any others who attend. Special reports will inform as to present activities of the cooperative and review some of its plans and objectives. A new plan for financing rural electric coops which has been described as a major milestone in their history will be one of the items discussed.
A contest to name Miss Big Sandy RECC for 1966 and top-notch acts will be features of the entertainment program.

Mobile X-Ray Unit Slated at Harold
The mobile X-ray unit donated by Kentucky Elks lodges will be at Harold, near the school, next Thursday and will be in operation from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 3 p.m., it was announced this week.
Dr. R. L. Hall, county health officer, urges all citizens of the Harold area to take advantage of this free service. He especially urged all foodhandlers, teachers and contacts of known cases of tuberculosis to visit the unit. Those who have had an X-ray made in the past and received a notice to have a large picture made are asked to bring the notice or letter with them and present it to the technician on duty at the trailer.

Commenting on the state vehicle inspection law which will become effective in Kentucky January 1, 1968, Sgt. Bevins added that the state needs a "Compiled Consent Law," which would provide that when any driver procures his driver's license he would sign a statement agreeing to undergo a test for drunkenness if the necessity arose. Refusal to submit to the test later would result in the driver's license being revoked.

Cecil Sturgill, of Harold, served as chairman of the Floyd county group when county delegations split up for individual conferences.

Woodrow Allen, principal of Prestonsburg high school, pointed out that driver training in the school here can be given to only a limited number of pupils and that three more cars and as many additional instructors would be needed to reach the students adequately. The school, he said, has about 450 pupils who fall into the age group to which the driver-training course would apply. He added that school records show that the pupil who is permitted to drive a car to school is more likely to fall behind in his studies than the non-driver.

The Floyd group discussed the question of raising the age for young drivers to 18. The majority held that the youngsters are good drivers but need to be educated to the many dangers they and other drivers face. Students who take driver-training courses benefit by a 10% insurance rate reduction, it was pointed out.

The value of publicity in the war on highway deaths and the need for State Police to set up road-blocks, do a quick, general auto inspection and inform motorists of the coming effectiveness of the auto inspection law were emphasized.

Dr. Mike Duff, of the University of Kentucky, in the final talk of the conference urged not only planning those steps which would diminish the number of highway tragedies but also action on the part of citizens and officials.

Roy Penix presided at the conference. Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the college, welcomed the gathering.

hospital. Unexpected help came with the arrival home for a visit of Dr. Raleigh Archer, son of Dr. George P. Archer, from Nashville, Tennessee, and he immediately was put to work.

The big operation was threatened with a major traffic jam for a time. The alert drew hundreds to the park and hospital areas.

Involved in the alert, in addition to the hospital and health department and their staffs, were the Prestonsburg Fire and Police Departments, the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad, the Left Beaver Civil Defense and Rescue Unit, the Red Cross, Troop 27 of the Boy Scouts and both Prestonsburg funeral homes.

Forrest Stokes, state health mobilization officer, an official observer of the operation, told Petty Thompson, Floyd County Civil Defense director:

"I've seen many alerts, not only in Kentucky but in other states, and this was the best."

Others watching the proceedings were Thomas Thompson, Kentucky Civil Defense training and education officer, and Elmer Beckett, Area Four Civil Defense director.

Auxier Woman Dies June 21 at Age of 80 At Paintsville Hospital
Mrs. Ella Mae Newberry, of Auxier, passed away June 21 at the Paintsville hospital at the age of 80.
A native of Georgia, she was the daughter of John A. and Tempa Stone Lowman. She was the widow of Van Buren Newberry.
She is survived by four sons, J. D. Newberry, of Auxier, Harold E. Newberry, Carlisle, Pa., Clarence D. Newberry, Chambersburg, Pa., Grady Newberry, Waterford, Mich., and one brother, John Lowman, of Georgia.
Funeral services were held last Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Free Will Baptist Church at Auxier, the Revs. James Sturgill and T. N. Patton officiating. Burial was made in the Government Relocation cemetery under the direction of Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

HISTORICAL NOTES By Henry P. Scalf

THE McCOYS

More than three-quarters of a century ago Decatur Maynard, Pike county resident and friend of the McCoy's, sat down to record a memorable event in the family Bible.

It had appeared that nobody would ever write down such a record, either in a Bible or on the official records. It had been years since the Hatfields and McCoy's had engaged in battle on Blackberry Creek and the family of old Randolph McCoy, feud leader, had been nearly wiped out. Alifair McCoy had been killed. Later Ellison ("Cotton Top") Mounts was hanged for his participation in the crime, and the law finally caught up with Johnse Hatfield and, after a hectic trial at Prestonsburg, gave him life in the penitentiary. He stayed six years and was pardoned.

Retribution was coming, however, to other Hatfields and finally a batch of the feud participants were sent to the penitentiary at Frankfort. That was the memorable event Decatur Maynard would record in the family Bible. When he had made his entry beside McCoy, Maynard and other family births and deaths, he let the ink dry and closed the book. In the center of the Bible in a place reserved for family genealogical data he had written:

"Valentine Hatfield and Dock Mayhorn and Pliant Mayhorn started to the penitentiary for life on September 5, 1889 at 3 o'clock on Thursday."

Maynard had written a footnote to one of the bloodiest and most tragic feuds of modern times.

We are indebted to Mrs. Winnie P. Murray, Meta, Kentucky, for the above historical note. The Bible is now in the possession of Mrs. Murray's sister-in-law. Of her Mrs. Murray writes:

"She was Margaret Maynard before her marriage to my brother, Her mother, Ethel McCoy (who married Lum Maynard) was a daughter of Jim McCoy. The grandfather she speaks of was Decatur Maynard, son of David Maynard and his third wife, Margaret Helton. Decatur's wife was Barbara Helvey, daughter of Henry Helvey and Miriam E. Justice, daughter of Simeon."

Mrs. Murray sends a list of children of Randolph (Randle) McCoy and Sarah (Sally) McCoy. Randolph was a son of Daniel McCoy and Peggy Taylor who married in Floyd county, February 12, 1819. The feud leader was born ca 1821, died 1914. He was married in 1849.

My correspondent, a capable genealogist and former postmaster at Meta, Pike county, writes of the genealogical background of the McCoy's:

"I believe that Samuel McCoy who is in the 1810 Census (Floyd county) was Daniel's father. He was over 45 years old in 1810, which would have made him born before 1765. Probably all those early McCoy's were brothers to Daniel. All of which is guesswork, however."

Children of Randolph and Sarah McCoy were James, Tolbert, Phamer, Twinnie, Josephine, Alifair, Rosanna, Adelaide, Randolph, Jr., Floyd, Sam, Calvin, Fanny, and William.

Virgil Carrington Jones, in his book, THE HATFIELDS AND THE McCOYS, lists only 13 children of the union of Randolph and Sarah McCoy. He doesn't list a William. The spelling, however, of any list varies. Alifair is spelled with two I's by many and one "I" is dropped by others. Twinnie on Mrs. Murray's list is Twinville on Jones' list. Few writers have ever agreed on the spelling of Rosanna's name. Jones writes it, Rose Anne.

Mrs. Murray's belief that those early McCoy's were all brothers is borne out by Jones. He names Randolph, William, Phamer, Sam, John, James M., and Harman as sons of Daniel. Children of Harman were Lark, Nancy, Jeff, Jake, Mary, and Mud, according to Jones.

ADAMS FAMILY

A letter from Mrs. Ralph Miller, 1512 Webster street, New Orleans, Louisiana, is an interesting resume of her attempts to resolve genealogical problems connected with Spencer Adams, early Floyd county sheriff.

She writes: "My older son and I have returned from a 10-day trip that was devoted entirely to family research. It took us to Montgomery, Salisbury, Wilkesboro, Raleigh, Richmond and finally back to Atlanta . . .

"In Rowan county we found only one mention of a Spencer Adams. He was a delegate to a Baptist association meeting along with several other people. Considering that he was such an active person, I was surprised at the small ripple. I had not expected to find a great deal but there was so much about others and I am sure that Rowan county was not crowded in those days with people of Spencer Adams' active disposition. We drove to Wilkesboro. There are three Spencer Adamsons in the telephone directory. None of them knew anything of their origin, nor where they had gotten that tantalizing name Spencer. We did discover a Spencer Adams disposing of property as late as 1803. Doubts began to assail me. Surely, I told myself, there will at least be a military record in the state library in Richmond. There was not. I am quite certain that my gr-gr-grandfather Spencer Adams lived in Floyd county, since Irvin, his son, married there. The census records we have seen in Mississippi showed that he had been born in Kentucky as had his wife. (His wife was Louisa Ellis). It is difficult to believe anyone without a military record could have been elected sheriff of Floyd county at that period in our history.

"We searched again in Raleigh for anything concerning Spencer but it just wasn't there. In Atlanta I found a census for Kentucky in 1800—compiled from the tax lists. A Spencer Adams was head of a family in Clark county. I have always thought his wife must have been an Irvin and from data collected in Montgomery county Irvin Adams' father-in-law seems to have been Benjamin Ellis. Along with Spencer Adams in Clark county was a John Irvin (my gr. grandfather was John Irvin Adams) and in Mason county a Benjamin Ellis—could these gentlemen have been on their way to a gathering of the clan in Floyd county? Everything that I have read has indicated that the families of Adams, Ellis and Irvin came from Pennsylvania, Maryland and possibly, Rhode Island. Since the records in Wilkes county, North Carolina, had a Spencer Adams residing there in 1800 and the Kentucky records show a Spencer Adams residing in Clark county at the same time I find myself at a loss as to which of the two was the one who became sheriff of Floyd county. If I could locate a marriage record for Spencer Adams of either place (there was none that I could find in Rowan or Wilkes) I believe I could identify him. Irvin's mother was Nancy . . . (?) If I could find a military record for one or the other I would certainly be inclined to believe he was the more likely candidate for the office of sheriff of Floyd county."

HILL-STUMBO VOWS SAID AT CHURCH HERE, JUNE 4

The marriage of Miss Sara Noel Hill, daughter of Appellate Judge and Mrs. Edward Polk Hill, of Frankfort, and Mr. Jack Stumbo, son of County Judge and Mrs. Henry Stumbo, of Prestonsburg, was solemnized at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, June 4, at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here. The pastor, the Rev. William D. Jagers, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The vows were exchanged before an altar banked with palms and ferns, flanked by tall, gold standards filled with white gladioli and white mums. Gold double-branched candelabra held candles which were lighted by Doug Hyden, of Prestonsburg, and Robert Staggs, of Pikeville, Kentucky.

A program of music provided by Mrs. Joe Buchanan at the organ included, "Romanz," by Rubinstein, "Calm As the Night," by Rachmaninoff and "O, Perfect Love." She accompanied Mr. Gus Kalos, who sang Gounoud's "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer." The processional was Henry Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary." The recessional was the traditional wedding march from "Midsummer Night's Dream," by Mendelssohn.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of peau de soie with modified empire waist and A-line skirt. The bodice was fashioned with scoop neckline. Alencon lace panels re-embroidered with pearls edged the bell sleeves and paneled the gown from neckline to hem line. The detachable court train fell from the waistline. Her finger tip mantilla of Brussels lace was softly draped at the hairline. Her bouquet was of orchids and stephanotis cascaded with white satin ribbons.

Mrs. Ted Hicks, her matron of honor, wore a floor-length sheath gown, of yellow peau de soie, sleeveless with empire waist. Her matching headpiece was of ribbon and illusion. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white shasta daisies and mums fastened in a cascade of yellow ribbon.

The maids of honor, Miss Sheila Gilbreath, of Ashland, and Miss Mary Beth Sammons, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, and the junior bridesmaid, Miss Sarah Coleman, Gainesville, Florida, wore identical gowns and carried bouquets similar to the matron of honor.

Ted Hicks served Mr. Stumbo as best man, Edward Polk Hill, III, and John J. Hill, both of Montgomery, Alabama, brothers of the bride, served with Doug Hyden and Robert Staggs as groomsmen and ushers.

Mrs. Hill, mother of the bride, wore a jacket sheath dress of aqua dynasty silk with matching pillbox hat of illusion. Her corsage was of white orchids. Mrs. Stumbo wore a deep pink sheath dress with matching coat of lace, a pink velvet ribbon hat with orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held on the patio of May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. The tiered cake centered the bride's table from which cakes, bridal mints, punch and nuts were served. Mrs. Joe A. Burchett, Lexington, Kentucky, kept the bride's book. Those assisting in serving were Mesdames Ralph Davis, Harris Howard, Arnold Clark, Robert Wallace, Harry Burke, Yvonne S. Jones, of Prestonsburg; Mrs. Robert Coleman, Gainesville, Florida; Mrs. Robert Staggs, Pikeville; Mrs. John P. Sammons, Martin; Mrs. Ambrose H. Mandt and Mrs. George Evans, Lexington.

Mr. and Mrs. Stumbo left for a honeymoon in the South. The bride is a graduate of John B. Stetson University, DeLand, Florida. Mr. Stumbo was graduated from Morehead University and is postmaster here. Mrs. Stumbo has transferred her position as a counselor with the Department of Economic Security in Frankfort to Prestonsburg, where they will reside in the Briarwood apartments.

'Broadway Under Stars' Series at Amphitheatre To Begin Friday Evening

First of the series of productions labelled, "Broadway Shows Under the Stars," will be staged Friday and Saturday of this week and the same two days of next at Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre when Irving Berlin's "Mister President" will be presented by the Jenny Wiley Drama Association.

This and other Broadway hits will be brought to life at the amphitheatre during the season by a company of well-schooled singers, dancers and instrumentalists from the Big Sandy area. Every week-end from Friday of this week till September 4, musical comedy will be presented in the park's outdoor theatre.

"Mister President" gives a comic insight into the private life of the nation's first family. Other Broadway hit plays to be presented:

"South Pacific," July 15-17 and July 22-24; "HMS Pinafore," July 29-31, Aug. 5-7; "Annie, Get Your Gun," Aug. 12-14, 19-21; "The Sound of Music," Aug. 26-28, Sept. 2-4

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.

TAXES AND THE LIKE

While waiting in line at the bank where I kept my bit of money, I recently heard two old fellows flaying the government of our city for its high taxes and its extravagant spending of our good money. What was being said was so standardized that, if one of the old boys had stumbled on his lines, I could have prompted him, as I used to do when some scared fellow forgot when trying to say his piece on Friday afternoon. I do not know whether any grumbling about taxes by ancient Romans has survived, but I would wager that the chatter in the Forum in those long-ago days differed, in subject-matter, very little from the talk around the stove in the country store or in the very modern bank where my cash reposes.

When I was teaching in a two-room school in a small village, away back in 1909, it was necessary for the trustees to decree an annual tax to buy coal to heat the school-house, and brooms to sweep the dirty floors, and hire a boy to act as a sort of sub-janitor. The biggest tax-payer in the district was the M. and O. Railroad; in fact, it probably paid more taxes than all the rest of the village put together. A tax of so many mills on each $100 of property listed was passed, and the money came in. Since I knew the head trustee, I asked him about some of the actual bills presented to the tax-payers. I can recall now only one, the one presented to the father of five children in the school —four cents! That does not mean four cents on each $100; it means the total local tax paid by the tax-payer. Fortunately, I had no opportunity to hear how he took his grinding tax, but I suspect that lots of fellows who paid less than a dollar griped and declared that public education just costs too much.

Very early in my experience in conducting teachers institutes, I picked up another experience that I have often told about. The county superintendent apologized, quite humbly, because it had been necessary to raise the county school tax to twelve and a half cents; it had been ten! Risking my neck, I arose, and really had no business to do and announced that I had just come from another poor county where fifty cents — the legal limit — had been assessed, and I did not see why the children of the twelve-and-a-half-cents county should be deprived of their share of money for the schools. I expected to be scorned, but rather oddly, I was invited back the next year to speak to the teachers and have been at more education meetings in that county than in any other except my own, Warren. I love to tell this yarn and then add that, within two years, the county that had paid so little was assessing the limit and begging for some way to raise more money.

Sometimes I have wondered at the universal griping about taxes. It must be a sort of modern scapegoat, a critter that everybody must have. Government, to many people, is THE LAW; some feat to speak too plainly about even abuses in government. But it is fine to have some aspect of government that we can pick out and cuss to our heart's content.

I will admit that, with the tremendous changes in our whole scheme of government within the lifetimes of even middle-aged people, the question of taxes, open or hidden, grows more complicated. Only a small percentage of trained experts could tell us just how much or how many taxes we are paying. If the ordinary man who pays his own way and has a bit of property and a bank account has difficulty in understanding taxes, it is forgivable in the around-the-stove sages for wondering about their hard-earned money, which seems to be so lavishly spent by the big boys of government.

Notice of Hearing

The Floyd County Budget Commission will meet Thursday, July 7, 1966, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 10 a.m. at the courthouse in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to consider an increase in the county budget not to exceed 10%, pursuant to KRS 68.240.

The hearing will be for the purpose of hearing comments regarding the above proposal.

just waiting for the first heavy rain to wash the whole mess into the stream. So it would find its way, eventually, into the lake.

"We're keeping an eye on the situation," persons interested in the lake and its preservation have been told by Frankfort.

Which will help a lot. Keeping an eye on an avalanche doesn't keep it from slipping, and, once it starts, it's too late to do anything about it.

The state of Kentucky has the heaviest investment in Dewey Lake, next to the U. S. Corps of Engineers. It stands to benefit more than the Engineers. Why its officials choose to "keep an eye" on a situation such as this instead of taking precautions now which could save the lake isn't exactly clear to us.

SPEAK NO EVIL . . .

Now that that's out, let's turn to the story we heard of the gentle Christian woman who had no ill word for anybody, living or dead. This fine trait became so well-known that some of the betting gentry were willing to lay you odds you couldn't get the old lady to speak ill of anybody.

Finally, there stopped in the village a fellow who called the boys' hand and invested a $20 bill on the chance he could eke out a little unfavorable comment from the old gal about somebody. And he promptly called on the old lady and brought up the subject of the Devil.

He spoke feelingly of Satan's evil nature, of the temptations he threw in the way of people, even quoted the Bible to describe how, like a roaring lion, he marched up and down the world, seeking whom he might devour, etcetera.

The old woman cleared her throat, her eye brightened, and her visitor halted for her comment. "Isn't that right, aunt?" he queried.

The old lady rocked gently, slowed to a stop and remarked: "Well, there's one thing you'll have to admit—that Devil is a mighty industrious fellow."

This dog of mine and I aren't getting any younger, and we're going to have to be a little circumspect about matters. I slammed the car door on his tail this morning, and that was just four days after he had absentmindedly let it make contact with an electric fan.

To Observe 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Milford J. Hall, of Lexington, Kentucky, formerly of Floyd county, who will have been married 50 years tomorrow (Friday), will observe their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, July 3, with their two daughters and families, Dr. and Mrs. Edward B. Leslie, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Waddell, of Lexington. Also attending will be their six grandsons and two great-granddaughters: Dr. and Mrs. Rondall Hall Leslie and daughters, Rhonda and Kathy, of Salyersville, Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Leslie, of Lexington, Larry and Keith Leslie, of Prestonsburg, Gary and Randy Waddell, of Lexington. Their only granddaughter, Mrs. Ray Fisher, of Morehead City, North Carolina, will be unable to attend. Mrs. Fisher is the daughter of their only son, Lt. Commander Edgille V. Hall, who was killed in a plane crash on the Philippine Islands during World War II.

POWER RATE CUT OKEHED

Reduction To Save Customers $230,000 Annually, Estimate

Kentucky Power Company customers will save more than $230,000 a year with the lower rates approved by the Kentucky Public Service Commission, F. M. Baker, vice-president and general manager of Kentucky Power, said this week. The reduction in rates will become effective with bills rendered on and after July 1. Baker added that this reduction marks the third consecutive year of rate decrease.

"The new rates will benefit residential, commercial and industrial customers," the power company executive said. "This action provides further proof of our continuing determination to lower rates and is the result of increased use of electricity along with improved techniques of generating and delivering electricity which make possible a further simplification of rate schedules."

Of the $230,000 yearly savings, residential customers will benefit by over $48,000; commercial customers by over $54,000; and industrial customers by over $127,000.

This reduction, coupled with the $217,000 annual reduction of January, 1965, and the $240,000 annual reduction of April, 1964, brings total customer savings to above $680,000 a year.

TRAM

We are sorry to report the death of a onetime resident of Tram, Mrs. Virgie Hickson, who passed away recently at a Jenkins hospital.

Mrs. Ethel Mae Stone, of Ohio, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Harvel.

Carolyn Sue Solomon is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Conn, here.

Mrs. Betty Fullum, of Detroit, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Constance Lackey.

Agnes Gardner French is visiting her mother, Mrs. Evelyn Gardner. She flew by jet from California. She will be here for two weeks.

Those from out-of-town who attended the funeral of Virgie Hickson were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Gardner, of Ironton, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Lackey, of Albion, Michigan, Robert Hobron, Albion, Michigan, and others.

James Dale is working in Albion, Michigan. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gardner and daughter, of Huntington, West Virginia, were visiting his mother here over the week-end.

There will be a pie supper Saturday night at Tram grade school. The proceeds will go to the Community Center program.

'Crew Chiefs' Class Completes Training

The Work Experience and Training Program under Title V funds of the federal government graduated the first class of "Crew Chiefs," at the Garth Extension Center of Mayo Vocational School, June 19.

The two-week course of instruction was given by A. M. Rice, and involved the study of human relations and first aid. The participants not only learned about the human aspects of the program but also received instruction in caring for tools and timekeeping.

The men selected for the school are: Kenneth Akers, Richie Amburgey, Amos Blackburn, Ernest Boyd, Estill Cole, Denver Collins, Bill Gunnels, Russell Hayes, Elzie Hicks, Steve Johnson, Delmer Keathley, Hershel Pennington, Russell Shelton, Elmer Stone, Henry Stone, Virgil Smallwood, Foster Spears, Ballard Sturgill, Acie Tackett, John Thornsberry.

All of the men were present for graduation ceremonies with the exception of Ernest Boyd, who was ill. The program was highlighted by the presence of County Judge Henry Stumbo, who charged the men in their responsibility to the Department and encouraged them in their pursuit of higher learning. Also present were Floyd County W. E. & T. Supervisors Nello J. Francis, Palmer Frasure, and Hershel Stamber, and Regional W. E. & T. Supervisor Scotty Fugate.

CARD OF THANKS

We would express our deep gratitude to all who offered us consolation and help upon the passing of our daughter, Osie Mosley Chaffins. In particular we would thank those who send flowers and provided food, the ministers for their comforting words and the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its kind services.

ANNOUNCE MERGER

An agreement to merge their hospitals at Pikeville was announced Friday by Appalachian Regional Hospitals and the Kentucky Conference of the Methodist Church.

Effective July 1, the two non-profit community hospitals will be owned and operated as the Methodist Hospital of Kentucky. The Methodist hospital in Pikeville has 150 beds and was founded in 1924. The Pikeville ARH hospital has 50 beds and was opened in 1965.

The agreement has been approved by the board of trustees of ARH, a non-profit corporation operating 10 community hospitals in Eastern Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia, and by the board of directors of the Methodist hospital.

"This consolidation was motivated by our desire to provide the best possible hospital service to Pikeville and its surrounding area," a joint announcement said. "It is recognized and recommended by hospital authorities that the interests of a community the size of Pikeville can best be served by one community hospital."

The announcement was made by Dr. Karl S. Klicka, president of ARH, and W. Ernest Elliott, chairman of the board of directors of the Methodist hospital, speaking for the Kentucky Methodist Conference.

Negotiations to merge the two hospitals had been authorized earlier by the Kentucky Methodist Conference and had been recommended by the 16-member Community Advisory Council of the Pikeville ARH hospital.

Dr. Klicka, explaining the ARH Trustees' position, said:

"Our trustees, recognizing the need for one community hospital for Pikeville, felt that this could best be accomplished by vesting responsibility for its operation in the Methodist hospital, which is the larger and has been in existence longer than our hospital."

"Our trustees have invited the owners of the new hospital to utilize the full central services of the Appalachian Regional hospital system, if they so wish, in order to extend the benefits of these services to the entire community."

Mr. Elliott, in behalf of the Methodist hospital's directors, said they concurred completely in the objectives of the merger, and added:

"The acquisition of the ARH hospital presents the Methodist Church with a great challenge. It also presents an opportunity for continuation of the high level of hospital care which has been provided by both hospitals. We of the Methodist Church accept the challenge and opportunity to enter into an even larger area of service."

Under the agreement, the Methodist hospital will assume responsibility for payment of a $492,410 mortgage which the federal government holds on the Pikeville ARH hospital. The Methodist hospital also pledges itself to retain the approximately 81 employees of the ARH hospital and to endeavor to maintain their present wage scale. The Methodist hospital has 250 employees. Mr. Elliott said that the medical staffs of the two hospitals would be combined.

Eugene Lopez, administrator of the Methodist hospital, said that Edward V. Collins, administrator of the ARH hospital, had agreed to remain on the administrative staff of the consolidated hospital.

The 21-member board of directors of the Methodist hospital has voted to add to the board nine members of the Pikeville ARH Advisory Council. Appointment of the nine was confirmed June 10 by the Kentucky Conference of the Methodist Church in its meeting at Richmond. They are:

George Williamson, Rev. Arthur L. Stanley, Lonnie R. Johnson, Walter E. May, W. E. Blackburn, Lon B. Rogers, Herbert Kincaid, Mrs. Ethel F. Miller, and E. R. Hays, all of Pikeville.

Mr. Elliott said that the two hospitals would be operated in their separate buildings for about two years, pending completion of a program to bring them together under one roof.

B-AVERAGE IS SEEN FOR '66 UK FROSH

Lexington, Ky.—The caliber of students applying for admission to the freshman class at the University of Kentucky is improving. The average applicant for the 1966 freshman class has a B standing.

So reports Dr. Elbert W. Ockerman, registrar and dean of admissions, as he and his staff prepare for this year's influx of students under the University's new academic plan.

Latest available figures show that over 4,500 students have applied for admission to the University this fall. Before the July 30 application deadline for Kentucky students, the figure is expected to reach 5,000.

Of that number, approximately 2,800 will be admitted, Dr. Ockerman says.

The UK registrar also reports that out-of-state freshman applications are down from 30 percent of the total last year to 27 percent. Higher admission standards are primarily responsible for the decrease.

Floyd Boys to Attend Camp in New York

Joe Horn, son of Mrs. Eva Allen Horn, of Prestonsburg, and Dave Garrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Garrett, of Lancer, are two of three Kentucky boys who will attend Camp Rising Sun, Rhinebeck, N. Y., for the next eight weeks, starting today (Thursday). At Camp Rising Sun they will be camping with youths of all races and religions from all parts of the world.

The other Kentuckian invited to the international camp is Jim Hansen, of Breathitt county. Travel arrangements for the three were made by Isaac Vanderpool, of the Council of Southern Mountains, Berea. The three are the first Kentucky boys to go to the camp.

New minimum requirements to provide better safety and comfort in school buses were adopted in 1965 by the Kentucky Department of Education.

At the same time there are fewer applications from Kentucky high school graduates ranking in the lower quarter of their graduating classes. Past figures indicate that such students have less than one chance in 10 of meeting academic demands.

In addition to the incoming freshman class, more than 2,000 students have applied for admission to the UK Graduate School. About 750 will be accepted, Dr. Ockerman says.

University officials foresee no confusion among new students this fall when all freshmen will be required to enroll in the College of Arts and Sciences. They will remain in that college for two years, taking a broad sequence of courses before selecting a major field or professional school at the beginning of the junior year.

The projected enrollment for this fall, according to UK officials, will be approximately 14,000 on the Lexington campus. This will include 8,500 returning students, plus about 5,500 newcomers. The latter figure includes transfers, readmissions, and graduate students.

STATE HAS TAX TABLES

For Use by Clerks In Making Tax Bills, Joyner Announces

Frankfort, Ky.—The state will prepare property tax tables for county clerks who request the service, Finance Commissioner Felix Joyner has announced.

Counties have less time this year to prepare tax bills because the information needed to set county, school and other tax rates is becoming available later than previously.

Because the new tax rates will be in tenths of a cent rather than in even numbers, such as $1.50, 50 cents and the like, the computation of tax bills will take more time than formerly, Joyner said.

Joyner said he has sent a memorandum to each county clerk offering the service of the Finance Department in preparing the tables "for those counties that feel it would be helpful and request it."

The computation will be a more serious problem in those counties that do not use machine equipment in preparing tax bills. Joyner said. The Finance Department will use electronic computers to work up the tax tables.

State Local Finance Officer Dave Magill said some county officials have suggested that a table using a county's specific tax rates on assessed values at $10, $50 and $100 intervals would be helpful.

Appalachian Volunteers Begin Work at Tram

Tram, Ky.—The community of Tram this week received four volunteer workers, members of the Appalachian Volunteers, which is a summer program under VISTA. The program is sponsored by the federal government.

The volunteers come from all over America. Sandy Northrup is from Chicago and is a graduate of Smith College in Massachusetts. She is especially interested in teaching reading.

David Shilling is from the state of Washington and is a senior at Lewis and Clark College in Oregon. His field is sports and he is particularly interested in track events. Another volunteer, Lynn Perper, is from New York City where she attends Queens College. She plays the guitar and is interested in arts and crafts.

Robert Atkins is a native of Tram. Next year he will be a senior at Betsy Layne high school. His main interests are recreation and biology.

The volunteers will try to set up a summer recreation program and help Tram build a community center. They will be working with the Tram Community Council on all projects.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Usually I like a good joke, even if it is on me. In March and April, 1966, I had bronchial pneumonia and had to take a lot of very strong medicine. As a result, I had considerable trouble with my digestion for some weeks after I was "up and about." My doctor, one of my former students, telephoned a prescription to my drugstore for this trouble. Remembering old-fashioned things, especially such terms as his father and I used to discuss, he gave as directions: "Every four hours for dyspepsia." The pharmacist, a young man, had never heard that word and did not know how to spell it; he had to call me to be sure that he had understood rightly. He and I had a big laugh; and the label on the bottle is just as the doctor meant it to be. I think I will keep that label as a souvenir.

The pharmacist did not live at Fidelity on both sides of 1900; I did. And lots of people who came to see my father about medicine had dyspepsia. They called it that, and my father did, too. Indigestion was a big word in a dictionary. Unless you were talking to the doctor, some very primitive words would do. It must have been forty years since I had heard dyspepsia except in my folk medicine files. And, a bit of poetic justice, it was applied to me, and my aches.

Tuberculosis or just TB is so common now that probably half the people who are under thirty-five would not understand you if you said consumption. But everybody, that is everybody except the victims themselves, called it that back in my younger days. The victims usually used as mild words as they could, probably thinking that they did not have consumption if they didn't call it by name. Unfortunately, though I may sometimes have pictured Fidelity as a sort of earthly paradise, tuberculosis or consumption was very common. My home county had the highest incidence of tuberculosis among white people of any Kentucky county, even after I was grown and had long been away from Fidelity.

Our ancestors, away back when, lumped just any sort of ache in the innards to one inclusive category — belly-ache. And that was that. They were not coarse; that was just the name of the aches. But Victorian modesty tabooed that word, and lots of others took its place, even before there was much differentiation of the various ailments of the alimentary canal. It sounded better and more modest, but it didn't relieve the aches. But the most modest lady could speak of her ailments without blushing; the strange names sounded like some modern, up-to-date disease. But, out in the fields and among men, the primitive term remained; and it is hard to improve on.

When we got our specs or eye-glasses from the roving peddler, we had few terms to indicate eye troubles. We could see or we couldn't. We knew near-sighted and far-sighted, but not many more terms. Cross eyes or wall eyes were just as the Lord had made them and were left that way; squint eyes were just squint eyes, and that was all. Astigmatism — my, how eagerly some of the younger ones jumped at that word; you could afford to have poor eyes if you had a big name for them. I had never heard of myopia then or presbyopia, that is, by name. And evidently our traveling peddlers did not know those words, or they would have said them solemnly as if uttering a blessing or curse, and sales would have mounted.

In the books we found ague. We said chills and fever or third-day chills. We somehow failed to associate malaria with what we had every summer. Not to have chills in season was practically unheard of. And good old quinine, in its simple form or in half a dozen other ways, came to the rescue. We liked to think that we were not taking quinine if it was all disguised by a lot of sugar; hence a doctor in a neighboring county in Tennessee became wealthy with his sugary tonic, on which we feasted annually, we and lots more people who did not know about high-falutin words like malaria.

Mrs. Virginia Neeley, 86, Passes Away at Home At Myrtle, Saturday

Mrs. Virginia Catherine Neeley, 86 years old, passed away last Wednesday at her home at Myrtle following an extended illness.

Mrs. Neeley was a member of the United Baptist Church.

A daughter of the late William and Mary Robinson May, she was the wife of Marion Neeley, who survives.

Survivors, other than her husband, are two sons, John Neeley, of West Prestonsburg, and Homer Neeley, Milford, Ohio; seven daughters, Mrs. Ruth Frasure, Mrs. Josephine Williams and Mrs. Anna Snipes, all of West Prestonsburg, Mrs. Ruby Lafayette, Prestonsburg, Mrs. Mahalia Fitzpatrick, Belle Center, Ohio, Mrs. Missouri Holbrook, of Cliff, Mrs. Alice Adams, Hebron, Ohio; one sister, Mrs. Alma Picklesimer, Williamson, West Virginia.

She also leaves 61 grandchildren, 81 great-grandchildren and six great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted from the residence Saturday at 10 a.m., the Revs. Milard Blanton, Wallace Calhoun and Hobert Holbrook officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Myrtle under the direction of Floyd Funeral Home.

TWELVE FROM FLOYD-CO. IN 'UPWARD BOUND' PROGRAM

The Upward Bound Program, sponsored by Alice Lloyd College on the campus of Calvary College, Letcher, Kentucky, officially began June 12. The program, under the direction of Bruce Taylor and Kermit Everage, is a government project geared to encourage economically, culturally, and socially deprived high school students to further their education in colleges and universities.

The staff of the Alice Lloyd Program includes a principal, a secretary, a guidance counselor, eight academic teachers, dean of women, dean of men, a nurse and nine student counselors, who are college students.

This particular program has an enrollment of 100 students from 18 area high schools. The academic curriculum consists of English, sociology, math and science. Afternoon activities include folk games, art, journalism, softball, volleyball, basketball, photography, dramatics, and debate. Evening activities include guest speakers and entertainers, travel and news films, full-length movies, and swimming.

Highlighting the first week of the program was a visit by Dr. Richard Frost, national director for Upward Bound Programs. While on the campus, Dr. Frost visited with staff and students and emphasized the headway that this program and its 220 sister programs throughout the nation are making in the "war against talent waste."

Student enrollment from the six county area includes these from Floyd county: Morton Adkins, Jr., James C. Bailey, Lillie M. Branham, James R. Dudley, Barbara A. Hall, Julia A. Juff, Marena Meadows, Robert Meadows, Sherry Newman, Paul R. Preston, Sandra Smallwood and Shelia L. Tackett.

Mr. and Mrs. Hattie Goble has returned home after a visit with her son, Woodrow Goble, and family, of Ypsilanti, Michigan.

Mrs. Belle Derossett is at the home of her son, Ollie Derossett, for an extended visit. She is a resident of Bull Creek.

Mrs. Bill Hammonds, who has been a patient in a Lexington hospital, is back home, much improved.

Among those who attended the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company picnic at Camden Park, Saturday, were Wanda B. and Carmalee Reynolds and Jimmie Harmon.

Mrs. Ellis Bailey is visiting her sister in Lexington this week.

Sunday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Taylor were Mr. and Mrs. Carson Tipton, of Wheelwright, Mrs. Laura Humble, of Dwale, and Mrs. J. T. Ratliff, of Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Elby Morris and sons, Herman and Chester Wayne, motored to Lexington, Saturday.

Larry Joe Blackburn, of Huntington, is spending his vacation with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Damron.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Conn and children, of Betsy Layne, spent Sunday afternoon with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Conn.

Mrs. Luther Isaacs and son, Bryan Kelly, of Homer, Michigan, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dillon.

STURGILL, ASSOCIATE DEVELOP 'PUNCH-MINING' IN KNOTT

"Punch-mining," a new method of coal production introduced by W. B. Sturgill, former Prestonsburg man, and his associates, last week drew the approval of state officials considering it from a land conservation standpoint.

Of the "punch-mining" operation and its apparent acceptance by state officials Kyle Vance wrote in The Courier-Journal:

J. O. Matlick, state commissioner of natural resources, said an on-the-spot inspection proved to him that the new method of extracting coal from mountainsides might even spare some of the land from destruction.

Matlick, Mining Director Elmore Grim and Ambrose Mandt, commissioner of mines and minerals, flew in from Frankfort to take a look at the new operation of Honey Gap in Knott county.

They saw recently developed cutting machines boring into a virgin coal seam, left bare by a former strip-mining operation.

Electrically powered shuttle cars followed the cutting machines into the mountainside and brought out eight-ton loads of coal from a depth of 400 to 500 feet.

They also saw giant bulldozers pushing dirt up against the highwall to a depth that obscures the mined-out holes.

Matlick watched, then observed:

"If they can keep the operation going like this, it is a good operation."

J. W. Craft Jr., an attorney for the operators, said the operation would continue as demonstrated. Nothing was pre-planned for the state authorities, he said.

"Those holes would have to be covered up even if the state didn't require it," he said. "Somebody might get hurt going into them, and damage claims could follow."

Matlick said he made one significant finding.

"This method of mining could save the other side of the mountain," he said. "They can mine almost through the mountain, so there would be no need to strip the other side."

R. H. Kelly, co-owner of the operation, agreed.

The machines can go as far as practical to the other side of the ridge so long as the distance isn't greater than 1,000 feet he said.

The distance to the other side of the ridge never will exceed 1,000 feet, the length that electric cables can be drawn into the holes.

At the conclusion of the inspection, Matlick commented that he saw no obvious conflicts with the recently enacted strict new strip-mining law. He said a final determination will be made when he confers with attorneys upon returning to Frankfort.

"One good thing I saw," he said, "is that nothing is being pushed over the mountain-side."

The punch-mining involves only the removal of material covering over the old strip-mining operation. The same material can be bulldozed back into the place from which it was removed.
