

MOREHEAD STUDENT SHOT VICTIM HERE

YOUTH HELD AS TRAGEDY PROBE MADE

Official Study Made Of Claim That Osborn Shooting Was Accident

Henry Ellis Osborn, 19, of Buckingham, freshman at Morehead State University, was shot and fatally wounded here, late Tuesday afternoon, and his former classmate at Wheelwright high school, Ronnie Lee Johnson, 18, of Bevinville, is being held in jail here while an investigation of the shooting is being made.

Young Osborn was shot while he was visiting Johnson, who is a freshman at the Prestonsburg Community College. The two youths and two girls were sitting in a car parked outside the Black Cat Drive-In here when the fatal shot was fired.

The shooting took place, police said, at 6:50 p.m. The wounded youth died at the Prestonsburg General hospital at 1:14 a.m., Wednesday, of the effects of a .25-caliber pistol wound in his right chest.

Commonwealth's Attorney Harold Stumbo and Sheriff Joe W. Lewis questioned witnesses in an effort to determine if the shooting was an accident, as claimed.

Paul E. Hayes, attorney for young Johnson, said his investigation of the shooting "reveals that it was purely accidental."

At the hospital here the wounded youth told young Johnson in the presence of Dr. James D. Adams: "Don't worry about this—it's not your fault."

Johnson declined, on advice of counsel, to discuss the shooting with Stumbo and Lewis. A statement by Johnson was taken at 11:30 Tuesday night by Policeman Bill Booth, in the presence of Jailer Lawrence Hale and Policeman Ray Click, but he did not sign it. The two girls in the auto with the youths at the (See Story No. 3, Page 6)

Allen Fire Dept. Sets Fund-Raising Campaign To Start Friday Eve

The Allen Fire Department will begin its annual drive for funds Friday evening, it was announced Tuesday by Charles Phillips, chief of the department.

Members of the volunteer organization will make a canvass of homes in the area they serve, and Mr. Phillips suggested that if residents of the area would have their contributions ready when called upon, they would be of great assistance to the volunteers.

"These fellows," he pointed out, "sacrifice their time to serve in time of need. The least we can do is to support them financially."

The section served by the fire department is Allen, Dwayne, the mouth of Cow Creek and vicinity—an area three miles by highway from the fire station which is located in New Allen.

Nearly 12,000 Families In Kentucky Receive February Food Stamps

About 12,000 Kentucky families received almost $440,000 worth of free food-coupons during February in the state-federal food stamp program.

State Economic Security Commissioner C. Leslie Dawson, who made the announcement, said almost 57,700 persons were helped in the 15 counties now participating in the program, largest in the nation.

Dawson said $430,000 was paid by the recipients to obtain a total of $845,000 worth of food coupons. The bonuses are provided by the U. S. Department of Agriculture while Economic Security administers the food coupon distribution.

Newsome Asks State To Dismiss Charge In Shooting Case

A case that might have supplied the April circuit court term with a shooting and wounding trial may be over, if the wishes of the man who was shot are respected. Commonwealth's Attorney Harold Stumbo said this week.

This is the case of Walker Newsome, who was accused in a warrant of shooting and wounding elderly Dewey Newsome on Mud Creek, early in February.

In an affidavit dated March 26, Dewey Newsome said the shooting was accidental and that he has no reason to believe that he was wilful or malicious. He (See Story No. 9, Page 6)

Age Extended to 12 For Those To Receive Measles Immunization

Dr. Russell L. Hall, Floyd county health officer, announced this week that the age limit on measles "shots" has been extended to include children through 12 years of age.

The vaccine is effective for both types of measles—the so-called "bad" measles and the three-day measles. If the child has already had measles, but the parents are uncertain as to which type, the child should be immunized, anyway, Dr. Hall said.

Those who were unable to attend the clinics already held throughout the county, may bring their children to the health department, Monday through Friday, and receive the immunizations.

The period for obtaining the immunizations will end, April 27. It is very important that as many as possible take advantage of this free service. Some children may develop a slight fever reaction to the vaccine, but to date there has been only one such occurrence in this county from all the "shots" given in the clinics.

"The small effort, on the part of the parent, to have the child immunized pays off in big dividends, especially when the sometimes deadly after-effects of measles is taken into consideration," Dr. Hall said.

Man Accused in Loss Of Equipment Waives Case to Grand Jury

Eddie Sweeney, who was jailed here a few days ago by Prestonsburg police in the theft of equipment from a contractor on construction of the Presbyterian Church here, waived examination in quarterly court Monday and executed $500 bond to answer to action of the grand jury.

The charge against Sweeney in quarterly court was possessing and receiving stolen property. He denied guilt.

The charge of transporting alcoholic beverages lodged against Willie D. Hall was transferred to circuit court.

Three traffic offenders were fined at Monday's quarterly court session. Merritt Chaffin entered a plea of guilty to operating a vehicle without a license and was fined $2 and costs. Two others who let juries decide their cases did not fare as well. Harold Hall was fined $25 and costs for improper passing. (See Story No. 10, Page 6)

INFANT CARE WORK BEGUN

Program Extension To Floyd Regarded, Announcement Says

A special maternity and infant care project administered by the division of maternal and child health of the Kentucky Department of Health, is trying to do something about the high infant death rate and other health problems in a four-county Appalachian area which may later be extended to Floyd county, it was announced at Frankfort recently.

Cooperating in the project are local doctors, hospitals, pharmacies and regional, county and local health departments. Counties where the work already has been begun are Letcher, Harlan, Bell and McCreary. In McCreary county 63 infant deaths for every 1,000 live births have been recorded.

More than half a million dollars in state and federal funds will be spent over the next two years to develop a comprehensive program of preventive health services and medical care for expectant mothers and infants—classified a "high risk"—who have, or are likely to have, conditions which might endanger their lives. Particular attention is given to complications of pregnancy which may result in brain damage, neurological disability or mental retardation in the infant.

Three quarters of the financing for the project comes from the Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare with the remainder pledged by the state. (See Story No. 11, Page 6)

Fire Destroys Home Nearing Completion

The home being constructed by C. R. Hatton in the Briarwood addition to Prestonsburg for Francis Carroll Hughes burned to its foundation, shortly before midnight last Thursday.

The fire came when the laying of brick was near completion, two rooms had been floored, and other interior work was ready to start.

It is believed that the fire started where a plumber's torch had been used in soldering at a sink location in the kitchen.

Hatton had builder's risk insurance. Construction of the home will begin, all over again, Hughes said.

VFW RAIDED SECOND TIME

Raiders Confiscate Beer, Whiskey Here; Martin Clubs Close

County and state officers raided the VFW Club here Monday night for the second time in less than two months, confiscating beer and whiskey and again arresting Mrs. Jean Halfhill as operator of the club.

The haul included 89 cans of beer, eight half-pints of vodka, seven half-pints and a fifth of whiskey.

Sheriff Joe W. Lewis said photographs of intoxicants on shelves and of empty cartons or cases were made during the raid. He quoted Mrs. Halfhill as saying she was only the janitor at the club but admitting she had sold intoxicants and given the money to the club.

The club was raided February 12, and later a fine of $100 was levied against the club, but the case against Mrs. Halfhill was dismissed on the ground that the search warrant was defective.

With Sheriff Lewis on the raid were Deputy Sheriff Lonnie Herald, ABC Agent Claude Flanery and State Troopers Ray and Tucker.

Lewis said the American Legion and Amvets clubs at Martin were closed all last week. He added that closure of every place where intoxicants have been sold will be asked upon conviction of the operators and that sale of property illegally used for the sale of alcoholic beverages will be asked.

Others booked at the county jail, offenses alleged against them and names of arresting officers follow:

Wayne Short, drunk and resisting arrest, booked by Deputy Sheriff Wallace Frazier and State Trooper Engel; Tivis Hamilton, no operator's license, Deputy Sheriff C. B. Hall and Constable Gillis Conn; Roger Dale Bevin, drunk driving, Hall and Conn; Eddie Sweeney, grand larceny, Policemen Woodrow Salyers and Woodrow Laferly; Howard Wesley Hall, no operator's license (See Story No. 7, Page 6)

MINISTERS TO PLAN LOCAL OPTION FIGHT

Delores Ann Pitts, Martin Child, Victim

Delores Ann Pitts, nine years old, of Martin, died Sunday following surgery the previous day at the Good Samaritan hospital, Lexington. Death was attributed to a brain tumor.

A third-grade student in the Bucks Branch rural school, she was at first thought to be suffering from a blood clot resulting from a head injury sustained March 17 when she fell and struck her head while playing in the schoolyard. However, upon further examination, the tumor was found, hospital authorities said. (See Story No. 6, Page 6)

DRY FORCES SLATE MEET FOR TONIGHT

Petitioners' Names Will Be Published As Public Record

If there is a local option election in this county, dry forces will be ready for it.

One preparedness move will be taken at 8 o'clock tonight (Thursday) when the Floyd County Ministerial Association will sponsor a meeting at the First Presbyterian Church for the organization of those opposed to the return of whiskey stores to the county. Delbert Butts, director of the Kentucky Temperance League, will attend the meeting to offer advice and assist with organization work.

Names appearing on petitions asking for the local option election will be given full publicity, it was said this week by a member of the ministerial group. Said the Rev. W. D. Jagers, pastor of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church:

"We want the people to know, before, or even after, they sign these petitions, that the petitions become public records when filed at the County Clerk's office. We plan to see that these petitions are published in The Floyd County Times."

Commenting on the report that some citizens have been told the petition seeks state-owned liquor stores, the minister added:

"I want everybody to understand that these petitions are not to get a vote for or against state-owned liquor stores. This is a petition for Floyd county once again to be laid open to no-holds-barred whiskey traffic. Petitions asking a local option election in the county have been in circulation for several weeks. Approximately 3,000 bonafide signatures will be necessary to require a special election date designation by County Judge Henry Stumbo. (See Story No. 8, Page 6)

WARD LEADS TALKS ON U. S. 23 ROUTING

HENRY WARD

Last of the parleys between Commissioner of Highways Henry Ward and Prestonsburg business leaders on the routing of U. S. 23 from Prestonsburg to Allen was believed to have been held at noon today (Thursday) at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Studies of the route have been completed by Spindletop Research and Henry A. Spaulding, Hazard engineer, and a final decision on the route the highway is to take is expected next.

Today's meeting was not a public hearing, nor was it open to the public.

From here Mr. Ward will go to Pikeville where he will speak (See Story No. 4, Page 5)

This Town ... That World

March came in like a lamb. If you don't know how a lion behaves, watch it go out. And if it doesn't live up to the advance-billing given by the adage writer, be thankful, relax — and then catch hall Columbia in April.

This time last week, I was suffering Attack No. 1 of spring fever (I hoped). I wrote something to that effect, and by nightfall the beginnings of a cold spell had already arrived. I might be this country's Secret Weapon. Let me predict victory for the Viet Cong, and our side would be a shoo-in. (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

JENNY WILEY PARK SEASON IS GRADUALLY UNFOLDING

These early spring days are witnessing the beginning of a new season at Jenny Wiley State Park, with attractions opening in much the same fashion as the surrounding woods gradually unfold their leafy cover.

First of all, the golf course was opened last week-end.

Gates of Dewey Dam will be closed Friday morning to add five more feet to the lake depth and bring the impoundment to its seasonal conservation pool.

Saturday, the Jenny Wiley Riding Academy will open its horse-back riding concession.

Almost daily, the number of visitors at the park and its luxurious May Lodge increases.

And so the park moves toward what is expected to be its greatest season.

Last year, the lodge supply of rooms was far below demand, particularly during the height of the tourist season. By June 1, a 12-room addition to the lodge will be ready for occupancy. The lodge addition, being constructed by Akers & Akers, contractors on the original structure, is now ready for carpets, draperies and other appointments, but Park

Manager Lowell Baker said he could not at this time fix a definite date for its opening.

Biggest addition to the park attractions will be the chair-lift now under construction at the Stratton Branch recreation area, extending to the top of the mountain overlooking that section of the park. It is scheduled for use by June 1.

Perhaps the biggest disappointment is the failure of the Department of Parks to get construction started, as earlier planned, on a community-size swimming pool to take the place of the beach previously used. Commissioner Bell, who visited the park Monday, said plans for the pool have not been received from the architect but that construction is possible this summer. Work on the project had earlier been planned to start in time for the pool to be used this season.

The section of the lake used for swimming last year was heavily polluted and posed a serious health problem.

Camping at the park will, in all probability, go unimproved this season. An attempt was made by the Department of Parks to buy Camp Chatterawha from the Girl Scouts for a camping area, but an agreement on price of the property could not be reached. The German area of the lake had been talked as an alternate camping site, but the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers reportedly has plans for a development of its own there.

"So," said Mr. Baker, "we will have to continue with camping facilities, about as we did last year. We are not advertising camping but if people stop for overnight camping we will offer them the best we have and be as helpful as possible."

(Yet the Prestonsburg area will perhaps offer the best facilities in the valley to campers. Mayor George P. Archer is hopeful that 100 camp-sites will be ready, early in the season, at the new City Park here.)

A roadway has been built to sites of vacation cottages to be built at Jenny Wiley State Park, but construction of these is not expected this year. The road-bed will be permitted to settle before being completed, and work on at least 10 cottages will be done in 1967, it was said.

COMMUNITY CHORUS SLATES 2nd CONCERT AT CHURCH HERE FOR SUNDAY, APRIL 3

The second concert of the community chorus, composed of more than 60 voices from Floyd, Johnson and Magoffin counties, will be presented Sunday, April 3, at 4 p.m. at the First Methodist Church here.

"The Seven Last Words of Christ," by Dubois, will be sung by the chorus under the direction of Gus Kalos, music director at Prestonsburg Community College.

The introduction solo will be sung by Mrs. L. B. Fairchild, of Prestonsburg. Tenor soloist is Don Fernandez, of Salyersville. Baritone soloist for the third and fifth words will be Darrell Mollette, of Paintsville. Doug Smith, of Langley, will sing the baritone solos in the first, second, fourth and seventh words.

Mrs. Louise Cooper, of Paintsville, will be the soprano soloist in the third and seventh words. Mrs. Kathryn Frazier, of Prestonsburg, will be accompanist for the chorus.

The group was organized last September and the first concert was excerpts from "The Messiah," presented both at Paintsville and Prestonsburg during the Christmas season.

Rehearsals are already under way for a third concert to be presented early in May at the Jenny Wiley amphitheatre.

KY. POWER PLANS TO ENLARGE PLANT

Kentucky Power Company's Big Sandy Plant, near Louisa, Will Soon Be Quadrupled in Size.

Governor Edward Breathitt and Donald C. Cook, president of Kentucky Power and of its parent company, American Electric Power Company, last Friday announced plans for the company's construction of a giant 800,000-kilowatt steam electric generating unit at Big Sandy Plant. The plant construction and related facilities are expected to cost approximately $100 million.

Engineering work on the unit is going forward rapidly, and actual construction is expected to start in June. The unit is scheduled for commercial operation in 1969.

Completion of the unit will raise the plant's total generating capacity to 1,065,000 kilowatts and will make it the largest investor-owned power station in Kentucky. Cook revealed that the unit is the first of three 800,000-kilowatt turbine generators that the seven-state American Electric Power System plans to place in operation in the Appalachian region during the three-year period of 1969-1971.

Governor Breathitt hailed the announcement as "a great day for Kentucky," noting that the Big Sandy Plant had been placed in operation just three years ago and that its expansion this soon was "a clear indication of the economic vigor in this part of the country."

"We are delighted that Kentucky Power and the AEP System have chosen to display their utmost confidence in Kentucky by the decision to go ahead at this time with their $100 million project," Governor Breathitt said.

F. M. Baker, of Ashland, vice-president and general manager of Kentucky Power Company, pointed out that the new unit is expected to burn over two million tons of coal annually. All of this fuel, he said, will be supplied by Kentucky operators and transported to the plant site on the Big Sandy River via the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway's Big Sandy branch line.

"Our use of coal alone will represent an annual contribution of approximately $8 million to the economy of Kentucky," Baker stated. (See Story No. 2, Page 6)

WATER FIRM SALE NEARS

$280,000 Bond Sale Planned To Finance Allen Water System

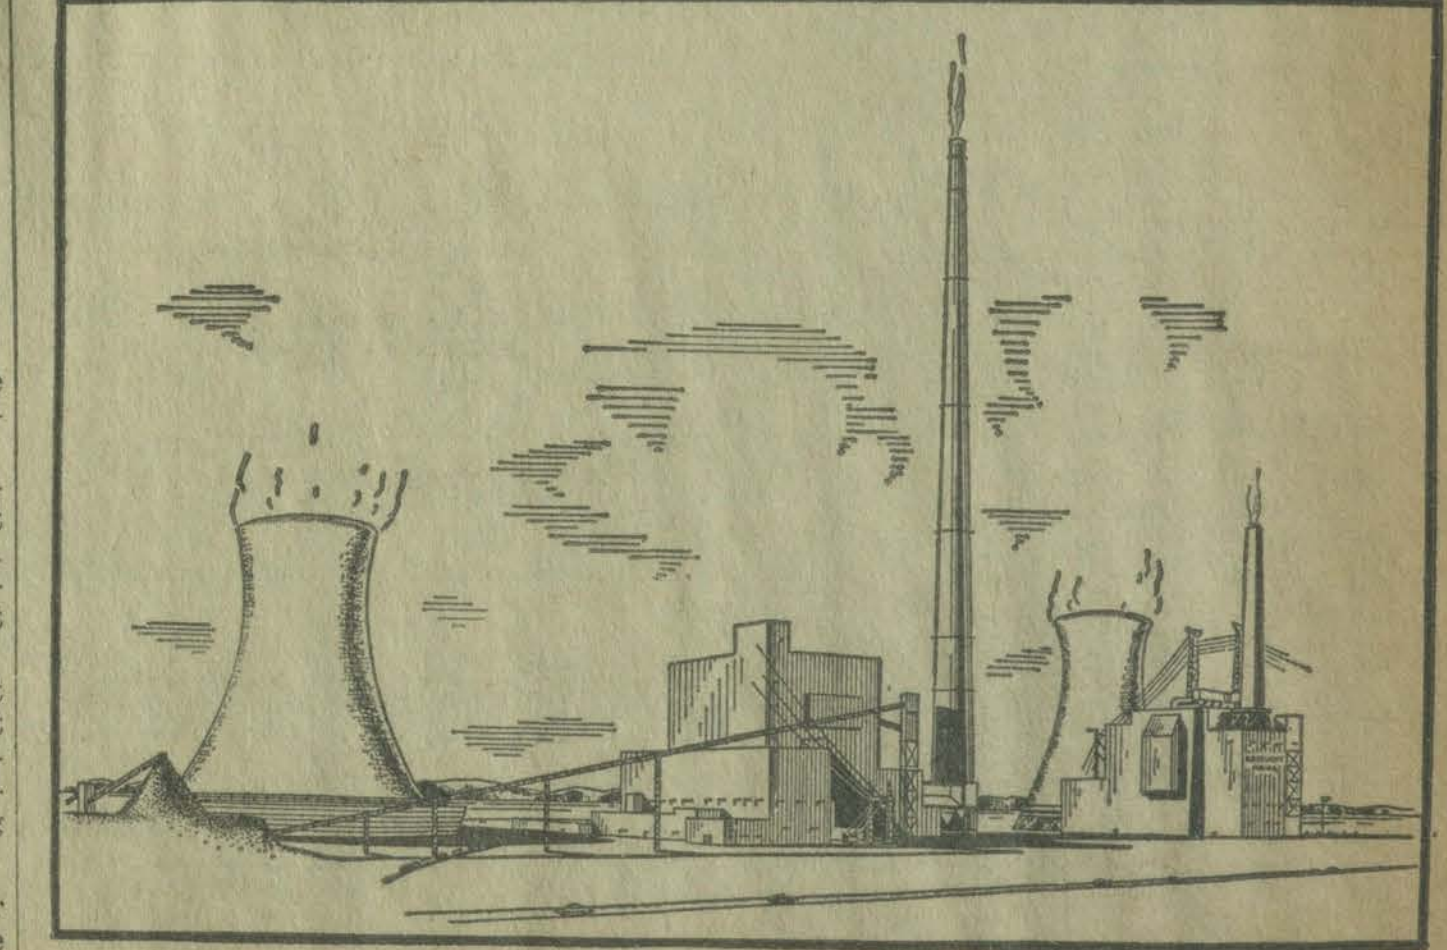

Acquisition by the town of Allen of the water system which serves it and its environs will be effected as soon as a proposed water revenue bond issue of $280,000 is sold, it was said here this week.

Marshall Davidson, attorney for the city, is doing title work preliminary to the bond sale.

The system is being purchased from Herman Porter for $275,000 in accordance with terms submitted by Porter when the property was offered for sale.

The agreement between Mr. Porter and the city provided that he will make these improvements and additions to the existing system:

Install a 100,000-gallon storage tank, with appurtenances; an 8,000-gallon settling basin, plus miscellaneous piping and valves in the filtration plant; a six-inch cast-iron river crossing; a six-foot (See Story No. 5, Page 6)

ALICE LLOYD EXPANDS SPEECH, HEARING CLINIC; OFFICE TO LOCATE HERE

Utilizing an extension grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity, Alice Lloyd College has expanded its speech and hearing clinic to include one new therapist and two mobile clinics.

Tom Robinson, graduate of Washington State University, has joined Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trafton, initial therapists in the year-old Eastern Kentucky program of speech and hearing rehabilitation. Robinson will maintain an office in Prestonsburg while working with speech-and-hearing-handicapped school children in Floyd and Magoffin counties.

The mobile units, similar to bookmobiles, allow therapists to make weekly visits to schools and communities with large concentrations of cases.

With the expanded staff, rolling clinics and new offices being opened by the Traftons in Hazard and Hindman, the clinic expects to treat many more handicapped children than previously possible.

According to Alice Lloyd president, William S. Hayes, funds for a fourth therapist already have been granted, but, because of a great national demand for qualified rehabilitation personnel, the post has yet to be filled.

Currently, the clinic must turn away children with less-than-serious defects. Trafton said that a combination of too few workers and too many cases doom many youngsters who otherwise would qualify for therapy to lives retarded by speech or hearing defects.

The clinic, which serves a six-county area 300 miles from the next closest rehabilitation center, estimates that five percent of the region's school enrollment of 33,681, or over 3,000 children, may need treatment.

SPEAKING OF U. S. 23 . . .

After the decision on the routing of U. S. 23 from Prestonsburg to Allen is reached, there is another to be made which is perhaps even more important. This is the route the highway will follow from Allen on into Pike county.

A few years ago, a Highway Department planner dallied with the idea of a route up the west side of the Big Sandy rather than an attempt to broaden and straighten the old highway. His thinking, as we recall, was along these lines:

Old U. S. 23 could be maintained for local traffic, but a new highway for "through" traffic on the opposite side of the river is needed. Some of the reasons for a new highway were:

1. An entirely new route could be planned to be widened to four lanes when traffic demands.
2. It would open up a vast, new territory to development in both Floyd and Pike counties.
3. Right-of-way costs would be less than the cost of acquiring new land for widening of the old route.
4. Construction could be more easily and effectively done.

The present U. S. 23 is so cliff-bound in some places, so hemmed in by buildings in others, that its reconstruction and modernization will come at dear cost.

Perhaps the man was right, after all.

300 HORSES - AND ALL BLIND!

(A guest-editorial by Dr. Russell L. Hall)

Last Sunday, five youngsters of high school age had their lives snuffed out in an automobile accident in an adjoining county. The news story on this was one of stark and sudden tragedy.

What the news story didn't tell is that every eleven minutes since these youngsters died, another person died from an automobile accident. We have in this country lost through automobile accidents, and had injured in automobile accidents, a total several times greater than the losses from all the wars this country has ever fought.

This slaughter from automobiles is a war that continues month after month, throughout the day and the night. In less than three years automobile accidents in our country will kill and injure a staggering number of Americans equal to the total population of Kentucky. We have more killed and injured by the automobile in one day than are killed and wounded in a month in Viet Nam.

Why is this so?

1. Because of age or infirmities, we have people driving automobiles who should not be driving on our highways.

2. The horsepower of the automobile has steadily increased year after year until now the speed of the automobile exceeds the speed of our reflexes.

3. Too many automobiles with serious defects are on the highways.

4. For our youngsters with all their insatiable energy and love of life the automobile becomes more dangerous than a loaded revolver.

Our youth, and our older drivers, either do not know or seldom remember the import and full meaning of horsepower. By definition, one horsepower is the force required to raise 33,000 pounds at the rate of one foot per minute. This is a dictionary definition, and it means very little to the automobile driver. It means nothing at all to the young automobile driver.

The younger drivers need to see the horsepower in a different light. Most of us have seen the advertisement on television which showed several teams of Clydesdale horses. This would mean for a 300-horsepower automobile that 150 teams of these horses are pulling your automobile. We need to keep this picture on automobile horsepower foremost in our mind. Most of all, we must understand that all these 300 horses pulling our automobiles are BLIND. We must be their eyes and their speedometers. The more we realize this, the less will be our chances of succumbing to high speed accidents.

One hundred fifty teams of horses, one team ahead of another for one-half mile, power our automobile and all of them are BLIND.

Miss Jenness To Give Recital Friday Night At Community College

Miss Phyllis Jenness, contralto, will give a recital Friday, April 1, at 8:15 p.m. in the Commons Room of Prestonsburg Community College. Miss Jenness, who is an associate professor of voice at the University of Kentucky, will sing selections by Schubert, Menotti, Bartok, and a group of West Indian folk songs.

Miss Jenness has performed leading roles in "Carmen" and "The Medium" and has sung the contralto roles in "Faust," "Rigoletto," and "The Magic Flute." She is the conductor of the Lexington Singers, a community chorus which appeared this season with the Cincinnati Symphony in Verdi's Requiem.

Miss Jenness also directs the Opera Theatre which appeared last month at the Prestonsburg Community College. Her accompanist will be Miss Ann Huddleston, instructor in piano at the University of Kentucky.

The recital is open to the public without charge and is part of the Community Concert Series sponsored by the Student Council of the college here.

THE PYTHONS

The pythons of India grow nearly 30 feet long and one of these big snakes has about 320 pairs of ribs, or a total of 640 rib bones. These are attached to powerful muscles and give the snake great strength to squeeze to death its prey. One of these monsters can kill a sheep, a goat, or a pig, or even an animal as large as a cow.

The pythons belong to the same family as the boa constrictors, which also crush their prey to death before swallowing it. The pythons usually stay near water so they can capture animals that come to the water-holes. These snakes lay about a dozen grayish eggs and place them in a conical mound. The eggs do not hatch without being incubated, so the female python wraps her body around the mound of eggs and puts her head on top and remains on the eggs until they hatch. It takes about two months for the eggs to hatch.

SNAKES OF EASTERN KENTUCKY

Snakes will shortly be crawling out of winter hibernation and when you see one slithering across the grass it is a sure sign of spring.

Few snakes should ever be killed. We need most all the snakes we have and more, too. If it weren't for the snakes, the rats, field mice, ground squirrels, other rodents and the insects, too, would soon devour our shrubbery, crops and shade trees. Many snakes eat insects as their main diet. Among these are the green tree snakes and the ring-necked snakes. Also the small ground snakes, which eat worms and small insects in the ground.

The green snakes devour multiplied thousands of caterpillars every year. They also eat treehoppers, grasshoppers, bugs, beetles, froghoppers and other pests.

The two species of green snakes in Kentucky are the keeled green snake and the smaller, smooth-scaled green snake. The larger green snake has keeled scales. Slender and brilliant-green, they are hard to see in green leaves. They often stay in berry patches to feed on insects. They eat multiplied thousands of insects around the lawn or garden every year. They are entirely harmless and never known to bite. They should be protected, never killed. Some people try to keep them as pets, but they won't eat well in captivity and soon starve.

The garter snakes are widely known and are noted for bearing live young. They are mostly candy-striped and have keeled scales. They can swim and are closely related to water snakes. They devour mice, other rodents and also eat grasshoppers and fish worms in great quantity. About 20 young are born at the time.

One of the most beautiful garter snakes has three yellow stripes down its body. Our common species is the ribbon garter snake. Garter snakes have one bad fault; they capture and swallow live toads when they can't find other food. But these snakes are also swallowed alive by the pilot blacksnake. The garter snake seldom bites and is harmless.

RING-NECKED SNAKES

No ring-necked snake should ever be killed. They are beautiful small snakes, about 18 inches long, and are valuable as destroyers of insect pests. These snakes have an orange belly and a yellowish-orange ring around the neck. They are usually gray or black on top. They live mostly in damp woods, under old logs or rocks. They are never known to bite and are perfectly harmless.

THE BLACK SNAKE, OR BLACK RAT SNAKE, ALSO CALLED THE PILOT BLACK-SNAKE. This snake has some scales on its body tipped with white, but its back is glossy black. When angry, it changes color and shows white patches. It will also make its tail whip and hiss in dry leaves like a rattler's tail.

The blacksnake attains a length of about six feet. It is a long, graceful snake, swift and hard to capture. It can climb a tree quickly. It will bite if captured but its bite is not poisonous. The black rat snake hibernates usually in holes under tree roots. It will fight furiously when molested around its den. This snake mostly devours rats when it can catch enough of them. It also captures young rabbits, ground squirrels, mice, and young birds. Its scales on the belly help it to climb a tree quickly. It will also climb a martin box pole to swallow the young martins and all martin poles should have a piece of stove pipe nailed around them, so the snake can't climb up to get the young.

THE EASTERN RACER. This snake is too often confused with the large black rat snake. It is slimmer and more bluish-black and is "fast as greased lightning." It often escapes enemies by going like a streak downhill. The racer blacksnake attains a length of about four feet. It has a white chin—a good mark of identification. The racer blacksnake dines on small mammals such as mice and ground squirrels and moles; it also captures and eats lizards and insects. Its worst fault is swallowing young birds but perhaps it does enough good in capturing rodents to compensate for this fault. Both our species of blacksnakes lay eggs, usually in a hot, sandy bottom, or dry place, and the eggs are incubated by the heat of the sun.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

A BLUE MOON

Down Fidelity way, and, as I found out a long time later, around Mammoth Cave, people knew practically nothing about a blue moon as a measure of some long but indefinite time. Most people who read had seen the term, but they did not use it. So far as I can find out, blue moons were far more numerous to the north of us. In our latitude a moon's age is widespread, a sort of standard measurement. If you don't understand it, so what? Who understands a blue moon?

The longer I study folklore, the more I enjoy these efforts to indicate time or space or distance or age. If a representative of the folk should suddenly come up with exact dates and measurements, I would doubt his genuineness, no matter how many character witnesses he might produce.

How far is a "fur piece"? How can you adjust a "little piece" with any of the tables of weights and measures in the arithmetic? And just where does a "little piece" start becoming a "right smart piece"? When does a boy become a "pretty good-sized boy"? Just how tall does he have to be? How much does he weigh? How old is he? What sort of shoes does he wear?

On several occasions, back at Fidelity and long since, I have made some journeys that were supposed to be a "little ways." About 1905 my sister and I started out one Saturday morning to drive to Puryear, Tennessee, to spend the week-end with a cousin of ours.

There were plenty of roads, in fact, too many of them. We had been told before we started that the distance was fifteen miles, a pretty good journey for Old Mag, our family nag, to take us. We must have gone eight of the miles before we found ourselves lost; there were just too many roads, and turning to the right or left did not get us there, or even partly there, as we thought. We stopped at a house and asked directions and got lots of them and also discovered that we were still ten or twelve miles from our goal. Four or five miles later, again bewildered, we asked again and found out that we still had ten miles to go. Fortunately, our last direction-finder knew his directions and his distances, and we finally came in sight of our cousin's house. Since we had no speedometers in those days, I will never know how many miles we added to the original fifteen. We somehow cut off a lot of miles on the way home, sometimes by fly-blind and trusting to luck.

In 1913, when my new wife and I were going to visit her grandfather on our way to Bowling Green, we got off the train and were met by a hired hand with a buggy and a fast-stepping horse attached to it. He had led as he came to the train his own horse to ride back and direct us. It was pitch-dark as we aighted from the train and began our journey into the dark. My new father-in-law had told me the distance was some three miles, but he did not know that some of the road had been rerouted since his earlier days and that some of it was temporarily shut off for repairs. And so we journeyed through the darkness, with a shadowy form on horseback in front, now along fairly open country, and then through woods so deep that we had to trust the horse to bring us out. I always will believe that the crooked road wound some seven or eight miles before we finally found the ancestral house. Maybe by daylight it would have seemed much shorter, but a "fur piece" can become even "further" when there is no light.

Not too many years ago I started with a carload of people to the funeral of a friend of the family. Again there were too many roads, not one of them marked. "Turn left at the store" was the direction given me by one who knew. But which store? Stores seemed to sprout up everywhere, and most of them, in that county and the "high side" of the neighboring county and I finally arrived after the funeral was over. I have recently gone over the correct road again, for I know it now like a familiar path in the woods, but until it was marked with a number, I am afraid that I would be guilty of directing people to turn at the store and keep going. Who at Fidelity had ever heard of so many miles and tenths of miles, anyway?

"THAT AIN'T THE WAY I HEERED IT"

One of the greatest joys of a folklorist is to hear someone use an expression, give folk remedy, or tell some yarn and then be challenged by someone else, who says, in substance: "That ain't the way I heered it." Of course it isn't. If all such things appeared in only one form, it would prove that the users had had the same background of experiences, the same education, the same traditional training. And, because folklore, no matter what its subject, is traditional and takes on the characteristics of the time and of the person who knows and believes in it, there are infinite possibilities of variation. For example, Mrs. Helen Harri-ness Flanders, of Vermont, got interested in the variations in the text and tone of the ancient ballad "Barbara Allen." The last report from her investigations revealed some 95 variations. It takes several good phonograph records to chronicle all the differences between one version and another.

Just as surely, other folk things have many forms. I have had some great fun hearing the merits or demerits of pokeberries as a remedy argued, almost to the point of being embarrassing. One fellow could swear that there is nothing like these bad-tasting berries for rheumatism; another fellow, equally ardent, says that the berries are poisonous; only the roots are to be used in medicine.

Weather signs have two sides, nearly always, and strong defenders. Katydid and cuckleburrs as prophets of frost are like gospel truth to many people; but others pay no attention to such foolish things but consult cornshucks and their thickness or thinness. Still others think that plants know nothing about the weather; only celestial signs—like moon and stars and haloes and sundogs are to be trusted.

Good and bad luck signs have a few areas where just about everybody agrees with everybody else. Black cats, walking under ladders, Friday the thirteenth, beginning some task that cannot be completed before the end of the week—these are a few of the beliefs that are almost universal, at least in speech if not in practice. But one middle-aged man whom I was talking to about good and bad luck, said, "When is Friday?" My, that would have subjected him to some persecution a few decades or even years ago. But I soon found out that he knew about the change in the calendar, which the British were so long in adopting; he knew that the calendar said that George Washington was born on February 11, and that only the change to the Gregorian calendar made February 22 the day we observe. He also mentioned Old Christmas and spoke of the belief that the cattle kneel exactly at midnight then; some old people still refuse to change this custom of the beasts to the Gregorian calendar. Fortunately, nobody was listening in on our skeptical discussion; no harm will come, I hope, to my friend from his neighbors, who believe, or say they believe, many traditional things that got mixed up by the calendar a long time ago.

Over and over I have been told that hair that is shaved will be coarser than it would be if clipped with shears. I have known lots of people who forbade the barber to shave the back of a child's neck, fearing the worst for the hairs thus inspired to grow coarse. The best remark on this I ever heard came from a boy in his early teens: "How does a hair know when it is being cut with shears or with razor?" It was felt by some of the people who heard that bit of blasphemy that the boy would grow up to be a bad fellow; believing in such cynical stuff as he talked about could bring only disaster. I have lost sight of him in recent years, but if he is to be a bad one, he had better get busy, for he was a very proud grandfather the last time I saw him.

Planting according to the phases of the moon gets a workout often, and, I fear, is losing many of its followers. When I asked a man what determined his planting his crops, he said he planted his corn in the ground, not in the moon; that was all he said. I drew my own conclusions.

Our Yesterdays

(Items taken from files of The Floyd County Times of 30 and 20 years ago.)

Thirty Years Ago

(March 27, 1936)

Floyd county offices of the Kentucky Emergency Relief Administration will close Tuesday, March 31, it was announced this week by Miss Edna Prater, county relief worker. Contractor for Dr. W. L. Stumbo this week began construction of a hospital in Knott county within half a mile of Lackey. Emergency relief disbursements in Kentucky from October, 1934, to December 31, 1935 totaled $51,820,060, with Floyd receiving $992,622.79 of this amount. George Lee, 47 years old, died Thursday a few hours after he was crushed beneath a heavy slatefall in the mines of the Elk Horn Coal Corporation at Wayland. Garfield Wright, veteran marshal of the town of Allen, last week submitted his resignation to the town board of trustees, giving his age—74 years—as reason for doing so. Floyd county's percentage of unemployed persons responsible for families on relief was the lowest of any county in this section for the year 1935, figures just released by the Kentucky relief administration indicate. Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Willie Hondel, of Estill, a son. There died: Mrs. Dave Music, 35, at home at Bonanza, Friday; Mrs. Golda Ramey Farmer, 23, at home at Prestonsburg; Tuesday; George Swafford, 55, at home at West Prestonsburg; Monday; Stanley Rook, 34, at the home of his parents at Glo, Sunday night; Mrs. Jennie Bailey, 59, at her home at Hueysville, Wednesday; Mrs. Hazel Mae Adams, 24, at her home at Betsy Layne, Sunday.

Twenty Years Ago

Fifty thousand dollars of Floyd county's rural highway allotment of $72,530 for 1946 may be used for macadam-bound surfacing of farm-to-market roads constructed during depression years by the Works Progress Administration. Construction of the two-story addition to the courthouse here for use of the Floyd County Board of Education and the County Health Department was near completion this week. Low bid on the job was $6,240. With a general shutdown of the soft-wood industry called by UMWFA President John L. Lewis for Sunday midnight, Floyd county viewed with no pleasure the prospect of an indefinite period of idleness in the county's principal industry. Proposed canalization of the Big Sandy river and its Levisa and Tug forks will be taken up in hearings next month by a Congressional committee. It was announced Tuesday that Congressman A. J. May had been named by President Truman a member of the nine-man commission to appraise the results of the proposed atomic bomb tests at Bikini Atoll this summer. Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Denver Calhoun, a daughter, Pamela Sue, March 23 at the Prestonsburg General hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Lafon Ball, of Prestonsburg, a daughter, Cheryl Lynn, March 22 at the Paintsville General hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Craig, a daughter, Lana Louise, February 4 at Dayton, Ohio. There died: Comillis Stephens, 74, at the home on Bull Creek of his sister, Mrs. Cynthia Prater, Thursday; Miss Sylvia Osborne, 20, of Hi Hat, in a Lexington hospital, Friday; Charles L. Osborne, 78, at his home at West Prestonsburg, Friday; Mrs. Gracie B. Ousley, 37, at the home of her parents at West Prestonsburg, Friday; Thomas B. Patton, 45, near his home at Emma, Thursday morning.

THEN AND NOW

A few months ago, I was warned about writing a check, using a ballpoint pen; was told the ink was easily erasable and that the amount of the check could be raised. I didn't bother to investigate, since I figure my bank balance will take care of the matter of my check being upped to any great extent.

I remember the warning, and it now serves to remind me that times indeed have changed.

In the old days, you would go to the general store, which served as market for your produce as well as a source of supply; take your ginseng, or goose feathers, or bee's-wax, or May-apple root, or puccoon, or whatever, and sell it to the storekeeper. You wouldn't get any money but in lieu of that you would receive a due bill, a piece of a paper "poke" or wrapping paper on which the merchant scribbled an I.O.U. for the value of whatever you had sold him.

As the days and months passed, you used that due bill for currency. Trade at the store, produce the scrap of paper, the merchant would set down the amount of your purchase, deduct it from your balance, and away you would go till the next time to trade.

That particular kind of currency was handled a lot, but it served the purpose.

And do you ever recall anybody trying to raise the amount due by the merchant—even though he wrote the duebill, in the first place, with a stub of a pencil?

MISERY FINDS GOOD COMPANY

Heard the story of the guy who departed this world for a better and who, asked by St. Peter what he could do for him, suggested he'd like a shiny-white Cadillac for cruisin' purposes?

Well, he didn't get the Cadillac, for St. Peter took a look at his record and told him that it indicated he wasn't entitled to that, or the next lower-priced car, or the next, or even the lowest.

"In fact," he was told (so the story goes), "the best we can do for you, in view of your record on earth, is a scooter."

The new arrival wasn't happy at all with the decision but decided to make the best of it. So off he went on his scooter. An hour or so later, he showed up, all smiles—so happy that St. Peter wanted to know how come.

"Well, I admit," the man said, "I wasn't a bit satisfied to come down from a Cadillac to a scooter and wasn't in a very good mood when I drove away. But I feel a lot better now. You see, just around the corner there I passed my preacher on a pair of roller skates."

MYSTERY SOLVED

Speaking of preachers—bless 'em!—here's another that's going the rounds. It has to do with the parson's hospital call on a man who was receiving oxygen and with the minister's attempt at conversation with the poor fellow.

He moved near the bedside and began by inquiring if his friend was feeling any better. He got a reply that was a strangled imitation of a seal.

When he didn't understand and asked for a repeat, he got it—the a-awk that was reminiscent of a seal. The patient weakly held up his hand in which was a piece of paper. Another question. The same strangled, unintelligible reply.

And then the sufferer gasped and died.

Next day, the preacher stood in his pulpit to tell his congregation of his hospital visit; of his inability to understand the replies given him and, finally, of the poor man's death before his eyes. Then he remembered something.

"Just now, I recall that he gave me a piece of paper." He fumbled in his pocket, opened the wadded missive, and his eyes bulged as he read: "You're standing on my oxygen hose!"

OEO Program Offers Low-Income Group Aid in Homebuilding

The Prestonsburg Building Supply Company announced this week that the Office of Economic Opportunity is participating in a pilot program to provide low-cost homes for persons with low incomes.

Under the program planned for an 18-county area in Eastern Kentucky in the "war on poverty" OEO provides 100% long-term financing of such homes for those who have low incomes, retired persons or those who live in sub-standard homes. No down payment is required, and financing for a home site also may be available, it was said.

time of the shooting—Misses Nettie Preece and Deanna Clark, both 18—made statements which, in substance, corroborated that taken by Booth, Commonwealth's Attorney Stumbo said.

The statement credited to Johnson said, in part:

"I was sitting in the front seat on the driver's side. Henry Ellis Osborne was in the rear seat, on the left side. He put my hand on the gun and said, 'Go ahead and shoot.' I said I didn't want to. He placed my finger on the trigger and said, 'Shoot.' He placed his finger on mine and snapped the trigger. The gun didn't go off."

Johnson's statement added that Osborne then took the gun, a .25-calibre automatic, and wrenched it.

"My arm was resting on the back of the front seat. He took my arm and placed my hand on the gun and again told me to shoot. I pulled the trigger. This time the gun went off."

Johnson said he called for help and that he and Dennie Coleman took the wounded youth to the hospital. He said he and Osborne had drunk some beer and whiskey.

The bullet passed through Osborne's lung. The attending physician said internal bleeding caused death.

The victim was a son of James Ellis and Ruby Conley Osborne, of Buckingham, and was graduated from Wheelwright high school last year. Besides his parents, he leaves two brothers, Lonnie Francis and Alvin Clark Osborne, both of Buckingham, a sister, Miss Ruby Joyce Osborne, of Lexington, and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Osborne, of Buckingham.

The body is at the home of an uncle, Joe Osborne, of Buckingham. Funeral rites will be held at 10 a.m. Friday, and burial will be made in the Buckingham cemetery under direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel.

added that he does not desire to prosecute the defendant and asked Stumbo to dismiss the case.

The Commonwealth's Attorney, in a discussion of the coming court term, said that persons interested in the prosecution of cases, particularly those involving the theft of copper wire from coal mines, should contact him and Sheriff Lewis prior to the beginning of the term to discuss witnesses in these cases and the work of prosecution.

The agreement provides that the city would withhold $75,000 from the purchase price until improvements are made and accepted by the city's engineers.

In Floyd county there were 1288 families, or a total of 6,831 persons, helped by food coupons last month. The families were given bonuses of $42,072 which they matched with a total of $37,772 of their own for a total of $99,844.

The commissioner said the food stamp program is designed to enrich diets of the poor while developing their ability to purchase the best values in fresh foods and canned goods available in local stores.

Food stamps will be distributed in four additional counties (Bell, Clay, Elliott and Menifee) in April. Jackson, Knox, Lawrence and Rockcastle counties are included in preparation stages now and coupons will be distributed there in May, Dawson said.

Because year after year the record book shows Pontiac with one of the best resale values in the industry. After all, used car buyers go for that handsome Pontiac styling and lusty performance, too. For the steady Wide-Track ride, and everything else that has made us third in sales every year since 1961. (We know it's still '66—still time to price a Catalina.) ### NO POINT TO TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

What's the point in violating traffic laws? That depends on which violation a driver commits, says the Division of Driver Licensing, Kentucky Department of Public Safety. The Point System carries a variety of license demerits and some of them mean suspension of the license. Obey traffic laws and you'll never need to worry about it.

SON OF FORMER P'BURG MAN CITED FOR VIET NAM HEROISM

Pfc. Charles H. Osborne, Jr., 20, whose father, a former resident of Prestonsburg, is a Pompano Beach, Florida, accountant, has been decorated for bravery in Viet Nam where he remains on duty.

Young Osborne's father, Charles H. Osborne, Sr., is a son of Mrs. Mary Osborne, formerly of Prestonsburg, now of Pompano Beach, and is a nephew of John Osborne, of West Prestonsburg. "My son wrote me about the award and said he wasn't trying to be a hero," Osborne's father said. "He said he was just doing his job."

To do his job, young Osborne, a member of the 101st Airborne Division, raced onto a battlefield "while under heavy enemy fire and, without regard for his own safety, rendered aid and evacuated wounded personnel."

Osborne's father, who has received correspondence from his son since the young soldier's act of heroism February 7, said he braved Viet Cong fire to rescue a hit sergeant from the front lines.

"He was able to carry him to safety, but the man later died of his wounds," Osborne Sr. said. "Later, he went after a man whose eye had been shot out and brought him to safety, too."

Time and again, the youth risked death to carry out similar heroic rescues.

On George Washington's birthday, the commanding general of Osborne's division cited him for his "timely and courageous actions" that "saved many lives during the course of the fierce engagement with a company-sized Viet Cong force."

Martin, of Wayland, Is Top Basketball For Presbyterian

Presbyterian College, Clinton, South Carolina, did not have what would be considered by most a successful basketball season this year with 16 defeats to 7 wins—but there are some bright spots.

Returning next year will be leading scorer and floor general, Ken Martin, of Wayland, Kentucky, a 6-foot guard who averaged 16 points per game. Almost always at a height disadvantage, Martin also pulled down an average of almost five rebounds per game.

Besides being the leading scorer for Presbyterian, the Kentuckian led in field goal percentage, hitting 46.5 percent of his shots, and was second in free throw percentage, hitting 134 out of 172 for 77.9%.

Martin played his high school basketball for Wayland high school.

COMMEND NEWSSTANDS

EDITOR, The Times:

As the committee for BETTER LITERATURE OF THE PRESTONSBURG COUNCIL OF CHURCH WOMEN, we wish to again commend our newsstand owners. Through the more than 10 years this Council has been organized, we have had fine cooperation in our appeal for better type of magazines and books being displayed.

We realize proper training of our children begins in the home. But as a group of seven women's church societies, we are urging the careful scrutiny by newsstand owners of the selection of all magazines and books which are to be sold. We, as members of this committee, offer any help we can give in this matter.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY HITS AT OBSCENITY WITH ACT

Kentucky's General Assembly has passed two bills which are expected to mark new milestones in the war against obscenity.

One bill provides stiff penalties for those convicted of distributing or selling obscene materials, and the other makes it unlawful to use obscene language over a telephone.

Those involved in the selling or distribution of obscene materials may be fined up to $1,000, or sent to county jail for six months, or both. Second-time offenders may be fined up to $2,000, imprisoned for one year, or both. Third-time offenders may be imprisoned for five years in the state penitentiary.

Equally strong sentences are provided for those who show obscene materials to teen-agers under 18 or involve them in the distribution of such materials.

The new law also strikes at distributors who force obscene publications on their dealers.

The telephone bill makes it unlawful to use "lewd, lascivious, indecent or obscene language" over the telephone. Conviction under this law can bring fines between $50.00 and $1,000 or imprisonment up to one year, or both.

Pointless driving doesn't always mean driving for no purpose. Sometimes it means driving safely, with no points against your license, according to the Division of Driver Licensing, Kentucky Department of Public Safety. Conviction for driving 26 miles over the speed limit means license suspension. Obey traffic laws and you'll drive 'pointlessly'.

Yellow lines on your side of the road mean no passing in that area. Conviction of violating this traffic law means five points against your driver license. Keep in line until it's safe to pass. It takes only 12 points to suspend your license for six months, warns the Kentucky Department of Public Safety.

BLACK WALNUT TIMBER REPLENISHING PLANNED

The project of replenishing Kentucky's dwindling black walnut timber supply has been undertaken jointly by the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources and the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation.

Natural Resources Commissioner J. O. Matlick and John Koon, executive secretary, Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, initiated "Project — One Million Black Walnuts" after it was discovered the supply of the timber in Kentucky was rapidly decreasing.

"Black walnut is the most valuable timber species in Kentucky," Matlick said. "But while the demand by the wood-products industry for black walnut is increasing, the supply of the timber in Kentucky is decreasing."

Matlick said county Farm Bureau organizations are now buying black walnut tree seedlings and distributing them to their members in small lots. Other members are buying them direct from the State Division of Forestry. Seedlings are available from the division's three nurseries at a cost of $8 per thousand.

"I want to urge other landowners to plant black walnut seedlings also," Matlick said.

A resolution supporting the black walnut project has been adopted by the executive committee of the Natural Resources Development Committee.

The resolution urges the planting of black walnut and other seedlings, and encourages an educational program to promote additional tree farms, Matlick said.

Older Worker Is Not Potential Risk, Says Kentucky Commission

Frankfort, Ky. — Is an older worker a potential risk for the employer because his physical capacity has decreased to the extent that his job performance will suffer?

Not necessarily, says the Kentucky Commission on Employ the Handicapped.

As a matter of fact, research has brought these facts to light:

1. The proportion of vocationally handicapped persons is no greater among older workers than among any other age group.
2. Physical changes are not uniform among older workers, nor are all activities affected equally in the same individual.
3. Mental capacities may be unimpaired, even if physical capacities do diminish.
4. An old physical handicap is not a job placement problem when the older worker has become adjusted to it.

The commission noted that a handicapped situation in later life may call for a need for new vocational plans. In this case, the commission advises older persons to contact the Kentucky employment service or the nearest office of the Bureau of Rehabilitation Services through the state government listing in the telephone book.

TEACHER CORPS FUND ARGUED IN CONGRESS

The U. S. House of Representatives enters debate this week on funding of the National Teachers Corps. Also involved in the supplemental appropriations bill are funds to fulfill local school district project applications under the Perkins Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 in the amount of $184 million.

The appropriation measure carries $10.2 million for the National Teachers Corps to hire, train and place 3500 teachers in poor schools by next September.

The General Subcommittee on Education, chaired by Representative Carl D. Perkins, fashioned the Teacher Corps legislation in the U. S. House of Representatives last session following hearings on this program and other teacher preparation and fellowship programs.

Under the National Teacher Corps, experienced teachers and highly qualified college graduates would be enrolled for two years of service and training to improve the educational opportunities for children living in areas having high concentrations of families with low incomes. Professional training for teacher interns will be provided in the most deprived rural and urban slum schools through cooperative arrangements between those schools and local colleges and universities.

Perkins said that the Teacher Corps program would greatly strengthen efforts of local school districts to provide new educational opportunities for educationally deprived children which are now getting under way as a result of funds authorized under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. He also said that the Teacher Corps would enhance the ability of our local school districts in poor areas to obtain the qualified personnel to operate such programs.

Perkins predicted that although opposition to the program was vigorous the measure would pass the House and be presented to the Senate for further action.

In direct answer to efforts to cut back the programs for "guns instead of butter" Perkins said, "We should not permit the world situation to be used as an excuse for diminishing our efforts in the fields of education and economic development. Poverty saps the strength of the nation. Its elimination will not only give fuller meaning to our democratic process of equal opportunity but also will greatly strengthen the nation in meeting our future challenges. Education and training are vital aspects of preserving the strength of our nation."

Control Method Given For Wild Garlic

Wild garlic, commonly called wild onion, can best be controlled in the lawn by chemical treatment in late March or early April. The new garlic bulbs usually start to develop about the middle of April. Homeowners will get better control by treating before April 15 than by waiting after the new bulbs have started to develop.

Satisfactory results can be obtained by treating the lawn with 2, 4-D, 2, 4, 5-T, Banvel-O, or combinations of these materials. These chemicals can be obtained under different trade names and in various forms. For this reason, it is important to read and follow directions on the label carefully.

Chemical treatments are usually more effective if the air temperature is 60 degrees F., or higher, for a period of several days. Repeated spot treatments following the first application may be necessary.

It is very difficult to remove 2, 4-D completely from sprayers. For this reason, do not use sprayers that have been contaminated with 2, 4-D for treating fruits, vegetables, or ornamental plants. Such sprayers can, however, be used for all pesticides applied to the lawn. For further information, contact your local County Extension office.

COLD WAR VETERANS TO GET PREFERENCE

Veterans of the cold war — an estimated 50,000 in Kentucky — will be entitled to priority handling from now on for their job applications at state employment offices.

State Economic Security Commissioner C. Leslie Dawson said that veterans employment representatives and other interviewers and counselors in the 24 local offices of the Kentucky employment service will give veterans preference to ex-service men and women who served on active duty in the Armed Forces after January 31, 1955, and who were discharged or separated under conditions other than dishonorable.

Breathitt Proclaims Period of Apr. 11-16 In Honor of Industry

In proclaiming April 11-16 as "Industry Appreciation Week," Governor Edward T. Breathitt urged the Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce to give special recognition to the area's manufacturing industries during that period.

Last year, 46 Kentucky communities honored their local industries in programs held during the first such week, set in February. Many other towns and cities held special observances in succeeding weeks.

Breathitt's proclamation urges "all citizens, civic groups, and public officials, state and local, to participate in the recognition of the importance of our industrial citizens."

Taking note of Kentucky's current industrial expansion program, the proclamation observes that "continually increasing efforts are being made to attract new industry so that Kentucky's advantages and potential for manufacturing may be realized in an ever-growing and orderly manner."

The proclamation also lays stress on the state and local support given to existing industries to encourage expansion.

"Industry Appreciation Week" is being sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Commerce and the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

FLOYD SHORT OF ARH GOAL

County Has Pledged $1,899 of $6,577.00 Sought for Hospital

Floyd county business men and other citizens have pledged $1,899 in the community fund-raising campaign of the McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital, it was announced last Friday by Arthur Bradbury, campaign chairman. The county's goal is $6,577.

The money contributed will be used primarily for working capital and for the purchase of new equipment for the 60-bed, non-profit community hospital.

"Our campaign committee would like to point out that a contribution to the McDowell hospital helps the community, because the hospital is a most important part of the community," Bradbury said. "In addition to its health services and its emergency room, the hospital provides jobs for nearly 100 local citizens."

Business men and other citizens, who may not have yet been contacted by a solicitor, may send their contributions directly to the hospital.

The local drive is part of a nation-wide campaign to raise $3.6 million for the ten ARH hospitals in Eastern Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia. The national campaign is headed by Donald C. Cook, president of the American Electric Power Company.

KENYON, LLOYD STUDENTS SWAP DESKS WITH OHIOANS TO 'SEE FOR THEMSELVES'

Pippa Passes, Ky.—In an attempt to "see for themselves" life in Appalachia, five young men from exclusive Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio, have temporarily swapped desks with students from Alice Lloyd College in Knott county, Kentucky.

According to William R. Hughes, Alice Lloyd academic dean, the two-week exchange, which will send 10 Alice Lloyd men to Kenyon, represents the efforts of both colleges to give their students a closeup look at the people and culture of environments other than their own.

Hughes said that contrasts between Alice Lloyd and Kenyon are so striking the exchange is a valuable educational experience for representatives of both.

About the only similarity between the two schools is the fact that they are schools. Alice Lloyd is a coeducational junior college which makes available to mountain youth a virtually free liberal arts education. Kenyon, on the other hand, is a four-year men's college whose students from throughout the nation attend at the cost of about $2,600 a year. Kenyon has a $9 million endowment; Alice Lloyd is financed by voluntary contributions from persons from Maine to California.

Besides attending regular classes, during their visit to the Eastern Kentucky college, the Kenyonites will tour both strip and underground coal mines, visit a one-room school, attend a mountain social and spend one week-end at the home of an Alice Lloyd student.

Alice Lloyd also has scheduled spring exchanges with Cornell University (N. Y.) and Garland Junior College, a girls school in Boston.

College Group Confers On Floyd Experiences

Eight students from Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, New York, with their instructor met Tuesday afternoon at the Prestonsburg Community College in a review of experiences gained during a stay in this county.

Some of the girls will be participating this summer in the volunteer Appalachian program. The students have been visiting various schools in the county and have been living with families in the Mud Creek section.

Cooper Joins Move To Permit School Prayer by Pupils

Senator John Sherman Cooper has joined in a move to permit "the voluntary participation by students or others in prayer" in schools or other public buildings.

The proposal was introduced by Senator Dirksen, of Illinois, the minority leader.

Senator Cooper said, "The guarantees of the First Amendment that the Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, are important, and I respect the decisions of the Supreme Court interpreting the First Amendment. But I see nothing wrong with permitting voluntary prayers, which are not prescribed in form or content by state authorities."

"I do not believe the people of the country want to see every expression of faith prohibited in their schools," he said.

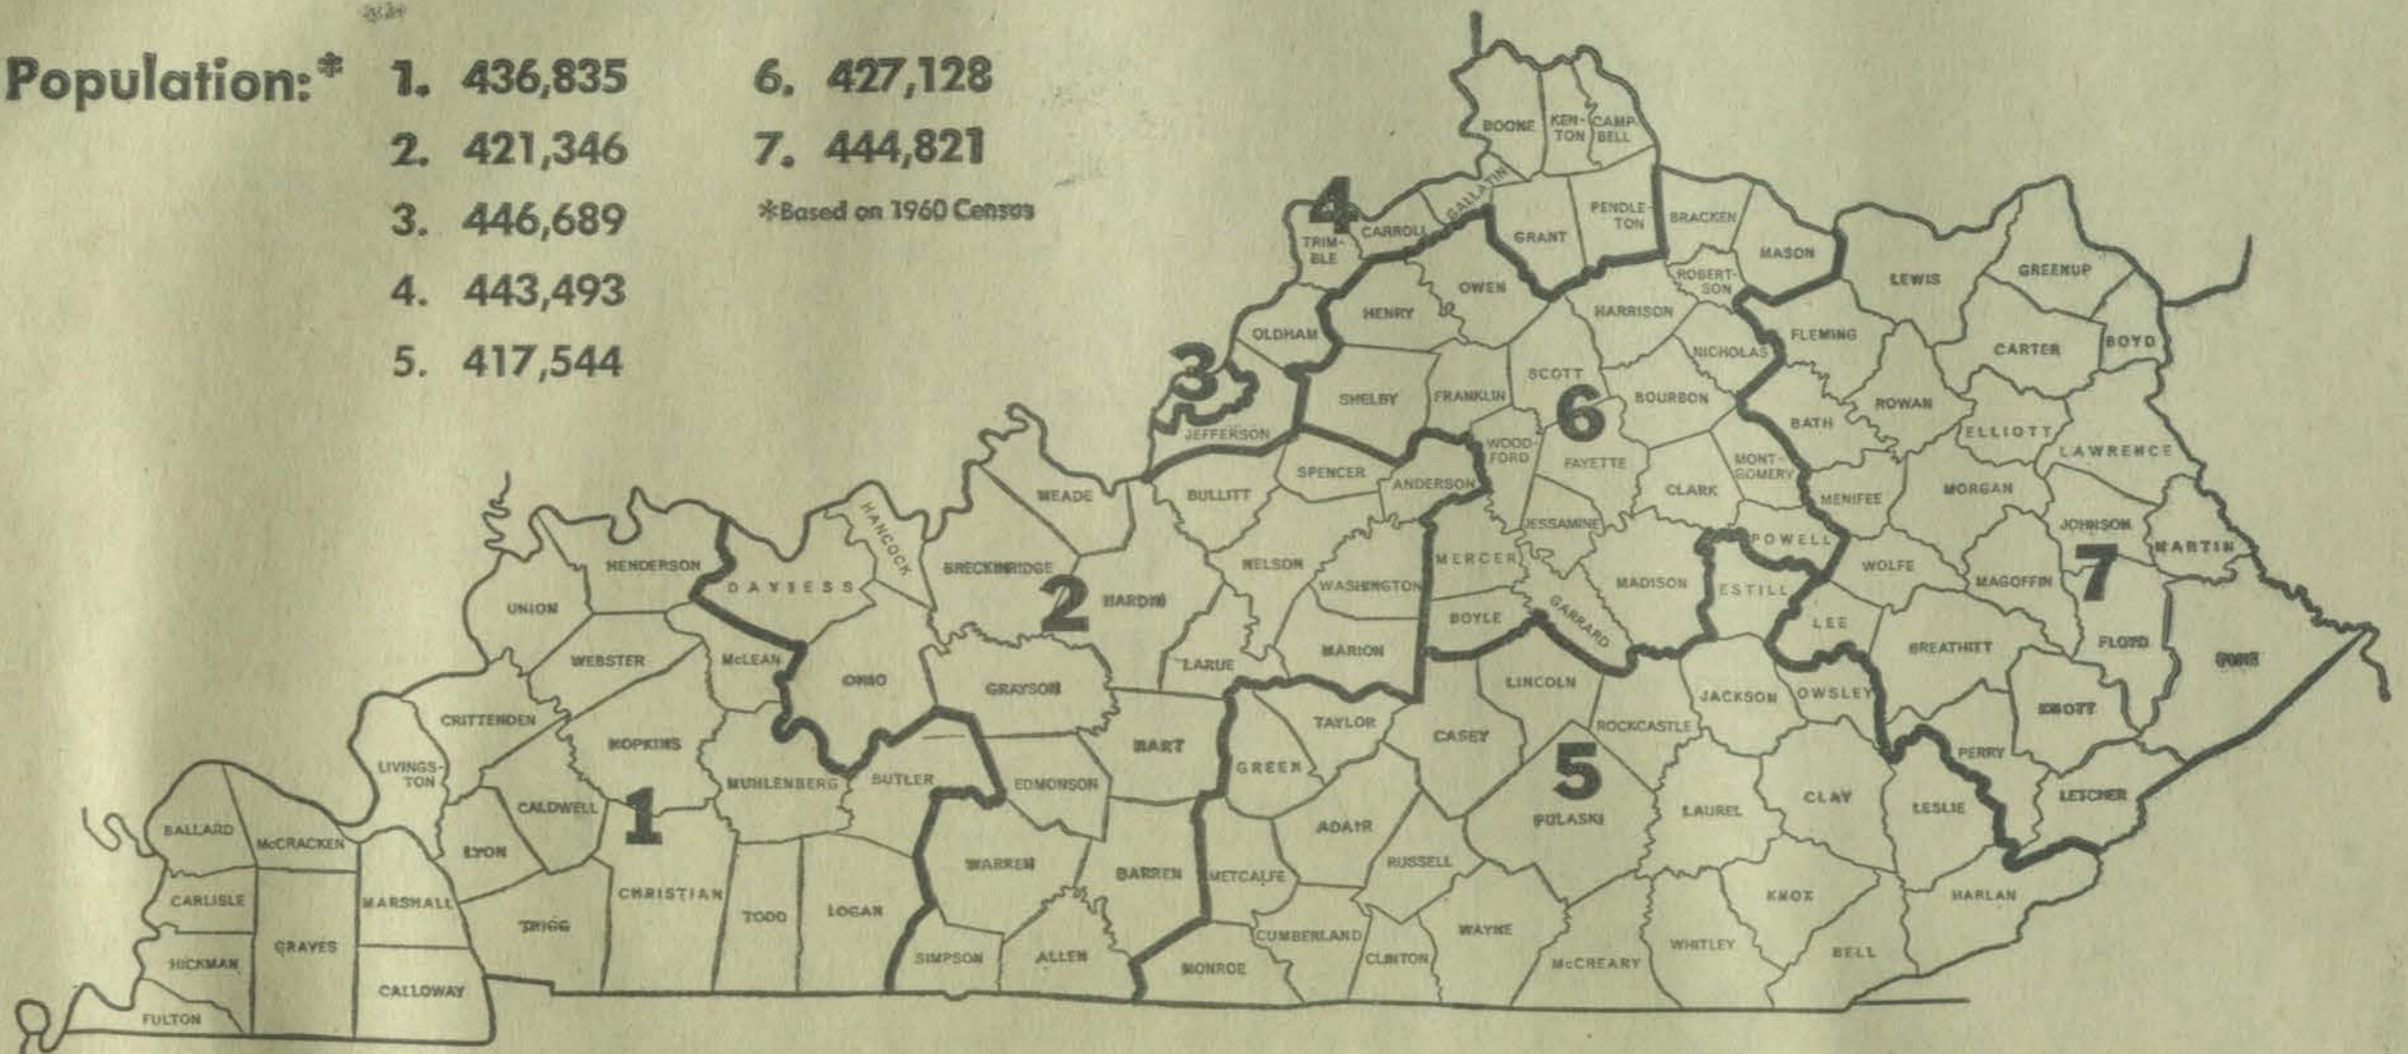

Senator Cooper has also received testimony by the Corps of Engineers on all water projects, dams and reservoirs in Kentucky, including flood protection projects in the Big Sandy, Upper Kentucky and Upper Cumberland River basins, and navigation projects on the Ohio River.

Presbyterian Church Services Announced

Holy Week services at the Presbyterian Church here will be limited to Palm Sunday, Maundy Thursday communion service, and the Easter worship, it was announced this week by the pastor, the Rev. T. W. Chisholm. This is because of the uncertainty as to when the new building would be in use and the inability to plan for the usual week of devotions.

The Palm Sunday and Easter services will be: Sunday School at 10:15 and Morning Worship at 11:00. The Thursday evening Communion service will be at 7:30. The choir will sing at each of these services, and the Alan Reed memorial organ will be played by Mrs. Edmund R. Burke at each service. The pastor will bring a message in keeping with each day.

New members will be received at the communion service, the session meeting at 7 p.m. for this purpose.

"The general public is invited to each of these services, and inasmuch as the Presbyterian Church is an 'open communion' church, all Christians, whether members of a Presbyterian Church or some other, are invited to partake of the Lord's Supper with us," the pastor said.
