

WET APPEAL OF DECISION IS NOT FILED

Drys' Court Victory Stands Unchallenged As Deadline Passes

The rumored appeal of Wet forces from the decision handed down by Special Judge Charles E. Lowe in the contest suit attacking the Dry victory in the July, 1966 local option election in this county had not materialized as of Monday, and the deadline for filing an appeal had by that time passed.

The only indication that an appeal was contemplated came when Fred Goble, of Prestonsburg, one of the contestants, signed a supersedeas bond as principal at the circuit clerk's office here. But no sureties signed.

Joe Hobson, attorney for the Dry forces, said Monday was the last possible day for filing an appeal. In fact, he said, the time for filing expired Saturday midnight, according to his calculation of the time provided by law.

Judge Lowe ruled that the Wets violated the Corrupt Practices Act and, therefore, could not maintain their action. In a statement which did not go into the official record he said he had found that the county went Dry by 13 votes.

The official tabulation of the local option election vote showed a Dry lead of 85 votes.

OLD WIVES' TALES

It's dog days, young'uns. Better watch. The snakes are all blind and they strike at every noise. The devil's darmin' needles, down there around the creek, will sting you, and nobody ever got well after one sting—stay away from the creek. If you don't let me tie this piece of string, soaked in turpentine and sugar, around that sore toe, it'll come off. It's dog days, children—even the dew is pizen.

With these and sundry other warnings—all spoken in hushed tones—youngsters were once kept in line at this time of year when the old swimming-hole, the dark woods and other off-limit places were most inviting.

NO CONTEST

I have been invited, along with other newspaper people, to enter the 1967 National Travel Writing Contest at the end of which is dangled a tempting $1,000 prize. But I doubt that I shall enter. I can dream up a whooping travel article, between this desk and the courthouse, but I doubt I could come up with many pictures between these two points.

THE CONNECTION

The late Noah Harris had a quaint way of telling a story or making an observation that set him apart from most of us. Willard Burchett tells this one about the time when Mr. Harris, at Burchett's second-hand store here, years ago, inquired of Burchett's wife, Sonia:

"What race of people are you from?"

"Oh, I suppose I'm just an old Pollock," she replied.

To which Noah answered:

"We may be some kin. I'm part Spurlock, myself."

VISIT LOCAL BOARD. STUDENTS ARE TOLD

Regulations governing the IIS (college student) classification under the Selective Service System have been changed, and each young man desiring deferment under this classification should visit his local Selective Service board and learn in person how these changes affect him, it was emphasized here this week.

State Selective Service headquarters points out this procedure for a draft registrant to qualify for the IIS classification as an undergraduate college student:

"You must file a written request with your local board for deferment as an undergraduate

Blast Claims Lives of Four Friday in David Mine No. 1

EXPLOSION IS FIRST IN FLOYD MINE IN 25 YEARS; CAUSE UNDETERMINED AT END OF FOUR-DAY INVESTIGATION

Four men died last Friday morning, deep within a mine at David in what has been described as the worst mine explosion in the long history of Floyd county coal mining.

The dead:

Shannon Turner, 46, and his nephew, Ancil Turner, 36, both of Garrett; Bill Titlow, 56, West Van Lear, night shift foreman at the mine, and George Cavins, 56, of Sitka, Johnson county.

All apparently died in one blinding moment as a spark of undetermined origin ignited methane gas in a section of No. 1 mine of Princess Coals, Inc., which had not been in operation since January 27.

Time of the explosion was fixed at 3:45 a.m. Two company employees, Jess Webb and Ray Spears, reached the bodies around 6 a.m., and all were removed from the mine by 8 a.m., it was said.

The explosion, investigators said, could have been of electrical origin or the result of smoking. A safety lamp said to have been worn by the foreman, Titlow, has not been found, and this is regarded an important item in the search for the cause of the blast.

The four men went inside the inactive mine section to recover a coal drill and were winching a Browning hoist along the mine tracks. They were in Section 3 right, off the south main, and were at or near a point, 4 1/2 miles inside the mine, where the slope begins to reach a lower seam of coal. Apparently, the gas had escaped from the lower level to where the bodies were found in the upper workings.

Willard Stanley, of the Kentucky Bureau of Mines and Minerals, said the body of Titlow was nearest the outside, that Ancil Turner was 100 feet farther inside, Cavins 30 feet ahead and that Shannon Turner was 70 feet farther. There was evidence indicating that some of the doomed men had travelled about six feet toward the outside before being overcome.

OLD 8-PARTY SERVICE OUT

New Exchange Opening To Improve Telephone Service in Mud Creek

Activation next Saturday night of the new exchange at Grethel will mean that the old eight-party system serving 175 or more subscribers in the Mud Creek section will be changed so that no subscriber will be on a line serving more than four parties, Paul D. Gearheart, president of the Harold Telephone Company, said this week. The changes to be effected will afford one-party, two- and four-party service.

The exchange is housed in a new building recently completed at Grethel. Upgrading work now under way at the Harold and Melvin exchanges will result in 1-, 2- and 4-party service for the entire system. This work will not be completed for another 60 days, Gearheart said.

(See Story No. 3, Page 8)

Stanley said there was not a second explosion, as had been reported. He explained that the first blast created a vacuum at the point of explosion and that the rush of air back into this vacuum created a whiplash effect which caused some to think a second blast had taken place.

Little material in the area was charred, and the belief was expressed that if the roof had been as high as six feet the men would have escaped. Clearance at the scene was 28 to 30 inches.

In all, 27 men were inside the mine at the time. Other crews were in eight and nine left and 10 right. Those in 10 right did not feel any concussion to indicate a blast, investigators were told.

Investigation of the tragedy began Friday and did not end till Tuesday. Joining Stanley in the probe were James J. Westfield, assistant to the director of the U. S. Bureau of Mines; Noble Hobbs, of the United Mine Workers; members of the Mine Safety committee and underwriters' representatives.

SECOND FLOYD MAN VICTIM OF POSEUR

A man posing as a doctor recently robbed elderly Jay Hunter, of the Little Mud Creek section of the county, of about $300 in cash, Sheriff Joe W. Lewis was told last week.

The victim, who was described as almost blind, could not furnish an adequate description of his visitor. The only clue, Sheriff Lewis said, is a report that he was driving a white Ford automobile.

Tactics of the impostor followed the pattern of two men who, several months ago, robbed an elderly East McDowell man of $1,500. They posed as Social Security doctors, stripped their victim and while one pretended to make the examination, the other went through the old man's pockets.

This amount was recovered in full last week. Sheriff Lewis received a telephone call from a man who gave his name as Barney Sherlock, of North Augusta, S. C., and who offered to make full restitution of the amount taken from the Floyd county, plus a fine. Lewis consulted court officials. He had sworn out a warrant for one Johnny Joseph Carroll but attempts to locate the man had failed and there was little prospect of an early arrest. Officials consulted the robbery-victim. He wanted his money. They accepted the offer of full restitution, plus a $500 fine. The money was paid on behalf of Pat and Eddie Sherlock.

In the Mud Creek case two men, several months ago, had painted a barn for Mr. Hunter. It is believed his more recent visitor was one of these.

Two elderly West Liberty women were bilked of $270 in cash, two weeks ago, when a man, posing as a relative, "borrowed" all but $10 of their savings. The man told the women he was a relative who had been away a long time. When they could not

Accused Man Eludes Arrest in Burglary; Part of Loot Found

Sheriff Joe W. Lewis said Tuesday that Burton Stone, 32, of Wypro, who was named last week in a burglary warrant, has not been located.

Stone allegedly hauled away an estimated $3,000 worth of the household belongings of Michael Boleyn from the Boleyn home on Rock Fork, near Garrett.

Sheriff Lewis said a cookstove and a refrigerator taken from the residence were recovered from Stone's home. He also said he had learned that Stone took a breakfast set to Garner, Knott county, and gave it to Nancy Mosley in payment of a $20 debt.

Jim Hall, of Beaver, was arrested on a charge of selling in

(See Story No. 2, Page 8)

Titlow had been a mine foreman 22 years. Shannon Turner had returned to this county only recently from riot-torn Detroit and was working his first shift at the mine.

The mine had been in operation since 1939, and the explosion was its first. In fact, no Floyd county mine had had an explosion in 25 years.

The tragedy closed Princess operations at David till Monday. Shannon Turner was born March 7, 1921 on Turkey Creek, near Langley, the son of the late Milford and Lucretia Hughes Turner. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Joan Turner; a daughter, Shanna Gwenn, of Garrett; five brothers, Arvil, Fonzo and E. S. Turner, all of Garrett; E. L. Turner, Dallas, Texas, and Izel Turner, Willard, Ohio; and three sisters, Mrs. Nora Brown and Mrs. Una Moore, both of Garrett, and Mrs. Dora Turner, of Huesville.

His nephew, Ancil Turner, was a son of Mrs. Sarah Moore Turner, of Garrett, and the late Cledis Turner. Besides his mother, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Catherine Warrens Turner; two daughters, Irena Gail Turner, of Garrett, and Sherry Kay Turner, Mansville, Ohio; a step-daughter, Teresa Martin, of Garrett; seven brothers and seven sisters; Alen, Vernal, Denzil and Shiron Turner, all of Garrett, Ervil Turner, of the U. S. Air Force in Germany, Abuel Turner, of Morehead, Glenn Turner, Louisville, Mrs. Iwana Moore, Mrs. Jeannetta Hoover and Miss Linda Turner, all of Wayne, Mich.; Mrs. Fonteta Boyd, of Ohio, Violet, Lana and Dana Turner, all of Garrett.

A joint funeral was held for the Turners from the home of E. S. Turner at 10 a.m. Sunday, the Revs. Ed Moore, Earl Lawson, Bert Howard and others officiating. Burial of Shannon Turner was made in the family cemetery on Turkey Creek Sunday under direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel. Burial of Ancil Turner was made Monday in the Moore cemetery at Garrett, the Hall Brothers Funeral Home directing.

Born March 28, 1911, at Kingston, W. Va., Titlow was a son of Jacob and Linnie Waugh Titlow. He was a member of the Church of God. Titlow is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna Robinson Titlow; three sons, William Titlow, Jr., of Dayton, Ohio, Douglas Titlow, of Paintsville, and Richard Titlow, at West Van Lear; five sisters, Mrs. Gusta Martin, of Estill, Mrs. Evelyn Keeny, Dayton, Ohio, and Mrs. Mary Opal Adams, Mrs. Vida Tracy and Mrs. Sue Knopp, all of New Carlisle, Ohio, and three brothers, Charles Titlow, of California, John Titlow, of Mason, Ohio, and Larry Titlow, of Estill.

His funeral was held at 2 p.m. Sunday from the Preston Funeral Home chapel, Paintsville, and burial was made at West Van Lear.

Cavins was born July 22, 1911, in Johnson county, a son of Ben Cavins, of Whitehouse, and the late Nancy Graves Cavins. Other survivors include his widow, Mrs. Mary Cox Cavins; a son, Virgil Ray Cavins, Springfield, Ohio; two daughters, Mrs. Nancy Belle Lemaster, of Springfield, and Miss Mildred Jewell Cavins; of Sitka; a brother, Clarence Cavins, of Sitka; five sisters, Mrs. Betty Sparks, of Sitka, Mrs. Dovie Lemaster, London, Ohio, Mrs. Lizzie Wilbin, Charleston, W. Va., Mrs. Josie Price, of Paintsville, and Mrs. Goldie Laney, of Elmira, Mich., and three grandchildren.

They mentioned the name of Rev. Luke Bolin, who resides in Ohio. "Yes, this is Luke," he said.

The man was described as 45-50 years old, weighing 190-200 pounds, wearing dark trousers, white shirt and a dark-colored straw hat.

A man answering this description appeared at the home here last week of Mrs. Pearl Lafferty, telling her he was her nephew, Luther Prater who she had not seen in 30 years; that he had had a car wreck and needed to borrow some money from her. Mrs. Lafferty was not so easily "conned" and, after failing to recognize the caller as a relative, refused the loan.

STAFF SHAPES UP FOR HEALTH WORK

All personnel necessary to begin the multi-million-dollar Floyd county comprehensive health services program, except for one team leader, have been employed, and some work has actually been begun.

Classes in nutrition have been organized and these are being taught by Miss Ruby Akers, of Drift.

Two health centers are to be established this year. Mrs. Tom Williamson, Martin county graduate nurse, has been employed as team leader for one of these. A leader is being sought for the other.

Dr. Russell L. Hall, county health officer, remains at the post of executive director. Mrs. Helen Wells was given a leave of absence from the Community Action Program to serve as coordinator of the health program.

Dr. John Weisbuch, of the University of Kentucky Medical Center, will serve as medical consultant. Dr. Weisbuch is a native of Boston and a graduate of the Harvard School of Public Health.

Prof. Ray Reed has been enlisted to teach first-aid classes, temporarily, and John Milton Stumbo, on loan from the Floyd County Health Department, will serve the teams organized for the first two health centers as professional aide.

Finance officer for the five-year project is Don McQueen. Carl Gore is bookkeeper. Two clerks and three secretaries round out the office staff.

A health educator is to be employed by Sept. 1.

Other key people to be added to the staff, probably with the beginning of the new year, will be a dental hygienist, a speech therapist and a psychologist.

Eight centers, in all, will be established in rural sections of the county for the program which is geared to assist low-income families who are not covered by Medicare or other programs.

Commenting on the recruitment of specialists and other highly trained personnel, Dr. Hall said, "What is most gratifying is the fact that most of these are people who are familiar with the people of our region and who are superbly trained for the work we will be doing."

Floyd Rescue Squad In Search for Body Of Drowning Victim

Members of the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue squads joined two other rescue squads, late Tuesday, in a search of the North Fork of the Kentucky River, near Hyden, for the body of 15-year-old Pamela Young, Johnston, Pa., who had drowned at 3 o'clock that afternoon.

The girl's body had not been recovered, Wednesday afternoon.

A member of the Floyd squad said he was told that the girl drowned during attempts to aid children who were in difficulty, across the river. This report said she had saved one boy and that she submerged in the swift, rain-swollen water as she was returning to help others.

The girl was attending a summer Bible camp in the area.

P'BURG MAN PARK SUP'T

Buchanan Promoted To Burnside Island, Succeeding Francies

The State Parks Department announces appointment of new managers for two parks and a chief greenskeeper of park golf courses.

Commissioner Edward V. Fox, said Joe Buchanan, of Prestonsburg, will succeed Arville Francies, of Elkton, as superintendent of General Burnside Island State Park near Burnside.

Francies will move to Frankfort as chief greenskeeper for golf courses at 12 state parks.

Buchanan, superintendent of Jefferson Davis Memorial State Shrine at Fairview, will be succeeded there by John Combs, of Jackson, now in the property control section of the Department.

Buchanan joined the Department in May, 1963. Prior to assignment at Fairview, he was a parks manager trainee and in the property control section.

Combs joined the Department in September, 1963, as a parks manager trainee and served in administrative positions at several parks before assignment in Frankfort.

Francis was employed by the Department as a managerial candidate in April, 1966, after which he was assigned to his present position. Before joining the parks system, he served as head greenskeeper for a private golf course in Clarksville, Tenn.

SHOE PLANT WORK SLATED IN 3 WEEKS

Construction of the plant of the United States Shoe Company has been scheduled to start within the next three weeks, it was said following a meeting of company officials with Mayor George P. Archer and members of the Municipal Water & Gas Commission.

Completion of the prefabricated steel structure, which will have a floor area of 60,000 square feet, is expected within three months. A concrete plant is being moved to the plant site.

The conference held Tuesday was to prepare for installation of water and sewage service to the plant in time for the proposed construction date. The Ranier Construction Company, it was said, will begin this work as soon as materials, already ordered, arrive.

The shoe company has contracted with Ranier for the sewer construction, and the Municipal Water Commission proposed that the size of the sewer line be increased from four to six inches, the commission to bear the difference in cost between the smaller and larger lines. The larger line is planned to afford sewer service eventually to residents of the Goble-Roberts Addition, near the plant site.

Approximately one-half of the total program for a nursing degree at the University of Kentucky's College of Nursing consists of general education courses which serve as a foundation for nursing.

Bishop Names Mission Here for St. James; Webb Named Vicar

At a luncheon meeting in the Gold Room at Pikeville College with the Bishop's committee of St. David's, Episcopal Church and with representatives of the newly formed Episcopal congregation in Prestonsburg, the Rt. Rev. William R. Moody named the new congregation for the Apostle, St. James.

This name was bestowed at the request of the members of the new congregation. There is no other congregation in the Episcopal Diocese of Lexington with St. James as its patron saint.

St. James was one of the Apostles who is identified as being with Peter and John and was a brother to John. The bold faithfulness of this Apostle to Jesus led to his execution in Palestine under the persecution of Herod. James was the first of the Apostles to suffer martyrdom.

The Rev. David M. Webb, vicar of St. David's Church, will also be vicar of St. James and will be assisted in this capacity by the Rev. Robert K. Hemphill.

During his visit to St. David's, Bishop Moody announced that the Rev. Mr. Webb was being appointed to the Executive Council of the diocese. The Executive Council is a group that acts in an advisory capacity to the Bishop.

At the service of morning prayer and confirmation, Mrs. Cora Nunn was presented to the Bishop for confirmation.

St. James congregation has been active for more than a month in Prestonsburg and is holding services regularly in the Community College until more permanent quarters can be found. This congregation serves the Paintsville, Prestonsburg, Salyersville area.

Miss Crager Named To Honors Program At Morehead State

IN MEMORY
In Memory of My Grandbaby, Richard Anthony Allen, who passed away Feb. 28, 1967:
This is Sunday morning, Ricky, I came to see you at the break of day;
You were sleeping so soundly, I had to pray,
Knowing God had you with Him to stay,
I didn't get to stay on Monday night,
I left with tears blinding my sight,
But I didn't dare go to bed, I knew they'd come, that you were dead,
You see, God needed another flower,
To brighten his garden there, So He called our baby boy so fair,
To be with Him, In His loving care.
I saw your daddy and my son yesterday,
He is so lonely since you went away,
But, dearest one, daddy understands
That you are happier in that Holy Land.
Oh, yes, Rick, I wanted you to know,
God spared me little Greg to hold;
So, remember, while in your Angel Throng,
To listen to Greg and Gran's goodnight song,
Sadly missed by grandmother,
ORA MAE ALLEN

APT AT MECHANICS, TEVIS, EASTERN STUDENT, BECAME SUCCESSFUL AS A WRITER

Richmond, Ky., July 21 (Spl.)—When Walter Tevis was ready to enter college on the GI Bill, he took a battery of aptitude tests. Of the twelve areas tested, he scored highest in mechanical aptitude. His lowest score: verbal.

Today Tevis is well known as the author of THE HUSTLER, a novel subsequently made into a widely distributed film, as well as a second novel and numerous short stories. He returned to Richmond this week as guest critic and lecturer at Eastern Kentucky University's Creative Writing Conference.

Tevis' Richmond ties are of long standing. His family moved here from California when he was a teenager, and he attended Eastern's Model high school. Leaving to enlist in the wartime Navy before the end of his senior year, he received his diploma in absentia.

While teaching high school in Carlisle, he met Jamie Griggs, a home economics teacher there. His second novel, THE MAN WHO FELL TO EARTH, a science-fiction story, will also be made into a movie.

Tevis has always liked to write, but his interests often led him in other directions.

"As a boy I often thought I would become an architect or an engineer." In the Navy he was a ship's carpenter, and he loved working with wood and tools. In college he majored in chemistry, then switched to math. "What I really wanted to study was the nature of the universe."

But it was in college, too, that he had his only course in creative writing.

Tevis currently is lecturer in English at Ohio University at Athens, and devotes most of his time to teaching.

HOUSE HEARING IS TOLD 2,000 GOT JOBS IN AREA

By WILLIAM GREIDER (In The Courier-Journal)

Washington, D. C.—The much-criticized Work Experience and Training Program for unemployed fathers in Eastern Kentucky has helped some 2,000 men to find regular employment, a Kentucky state official told congressmen yesterday.

C. Leslie Dawson, Kentucky commissioner of economic security, said a study by the University of Kentucky indicated that about 2,000 of the 9,000 men who have taken part in the so-called "happy pappy" program have found jobs as a result of the government help.

"Of course," Dawson said, "that percentage is not as high as some other training programs, but I think it is pretty good considering the nature of the program."

The Work Experience and Training program concentrates on unemployed mountaineers with little or no education. Many of them can't qualify for the higher-level job-training. The men receive monthly aid and serve on public-project work crews.

Dawson led a parade of Kentucky witnesses before the House Education and Labor Committee, headed by Kentucky Congressman Carl Perkins, which is considering legislation to extend the life of the war on poverty.

From a mountain nurse to a West Kentucky banker, the witnesses all praised what they have seen of the anti-poverty effort in their state.

Mrs. Mary Jane Dunn, a nurse from Jackson, described the impact of a mountain health program in Breathitt county which started with individual family hygiene and stimulated a lot of community-improvement activity.

Nace Anderson, president of the First National Bank in Morgantown, said the prosperous farming community at first wished the Job Corps center at Camp Breckinridge would be moved away, "but we're now proud of it."

Kentucky First District congressman, Frank Stubblefield, agreed.

"In the early stages of his operation, the results were not too good," Stubblefield said. "I'm happy to report that this is now a very fine operation."

Other Kentucky testimony included that of Hazard Mayor Willie Dawahare, who said anti-poverty projects in his community are helping people "at the bottom of the economic ladder" and reducing crime.

Albert Whitehouse, director of anti-poverty efforts in Kentucky, did not appear but submitted a statement that warned that more funds are needed for local community-action programs.

"Our troops are in the field," Whitehouse said, "but not even the bravest, most willing army in the world can fight a war without ammunition."

In his report on the work-training program, Dawson said the UK study could not measure what he considers important intangible benefits—the increased personal pride of the 9,000 men involved and the benefits of a better life to their 33,000 children.

He cited these figures on what happened to the 9,000 who have been in the program:

1. In addition to the 2,000 who found jobs, about 600 have transferred to other training programs.

2. About 2,000 were dropped from the program because of their poor attendance, increased personal income, refusal of a job offer, and other similar reasons. Some 600 left the program voluntarily because of ill health, injury or other reasons not identified.

3. The remaining 3,700 men are still in the program. A little less than half of these are receiving varying levels of job training either at vocational schools or in federally-financed classes aimed at specific jobs. The rest are taking adult-education courses and serving on work crews in the 19 counties where the program operates.

4. In the two years of the program, some 225 men have completed high school study and passed the required tests. Another 2,500 have advanced to the sixth grade level or beyond, permitting them to enter the higher level vocational courses.

Dawson also cited some of the public works projects which the "Happy Pappy" crews accomplished:

The planting of 2.7 million trees to halt mountain erosion, the construction of 230 miles of road and the repair of almost 6,400 miles, the building of 604 foot bridges and 500 car bridges plus the repair of more than 1,000 others, and the construction of 30 public buildings such as schools and community centers and additions to 57 existing buildings.

"Most of these men were not familiar with the routines of every-day work," Dawson said. "These men learn that to receive benefits they must exert some effort. They must report to work on time. They learn that unexplained absences are grounds for dismissal. They learn that a man can exert effort and see results from it."

Testifying on the Breathitt county health project, Mrs. Dunn said: "Even though we've got miracle drugs, people forget that we still have children sitting in the classroom with four types of intestinal parasites. You have to start with the basic needs."

She organized a team of six field workers—chosen from among the poor—and visited families isolated in the mountain hollows to sell them on improving their health conditions.

Among other things, they found an 11-year-old girl whose family thought she was retarded. A medical checkup found she was hard of hearing. With a hearing aid, she has become a good student in school.

The health workers stimulated a lot of community projects, Mrs. Dunn said. The people, with the help of various public agencies, cleaned up 54 dumping sites along Breathitt county roads, started three regular garbage collection routes, and set up nine sanitary dump sites. Some 300 families are now burying their garbage instead of dumping it in a stream or along the road.

ISLAND CREEK, OIL FIRM MERGER BEING STUDIED

Discussions are in process between the management of Occidental Petroleum Corporation and Island Creek Coal Company for a merger of the businesses of the two companies.

Under present negotiations this would involve in principle a tax-free exchange of 58 shares of a new Occidental preferred stock for each share of Island Creek common. Preferred shares would carry a $4 dividend, equivalent to $2.32 per Island Creek share presently outstanding, or an increase of 45 percent over the current Island Creek dividend rate. They would be convertible into approximately 1.47 shares of Occidental common at the conversion price of $68 per share. Based on approximately 2,300,000 shares of Island Creek Coal presently outstanding, the transaction would involve the issuance of about 1,334,000 shares of Occidental preferred stock. Mutual studies are to be carried out promptly and, if satisfactory, a final agreement will be entered into, subject to approval by boards of directors of both companies and to obtaining all necessary consents and approvals, including Island Creek's stockholders.

It is understood that the management of Island Creek Coal would remain unchanged and the company would operate as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Occidental.

2,900 LOANS TO STUDENTS State Program Aid During Fiscal Year Reviewed by Hunt

Frankfort, Ky.—More than 2,900 students obtained loans under the state's student aid program last fiscal year, ending June 30, according to Billy F. Hunt, executive-secretary of the Kentucky Higher Education Authority.

The total includes 45 loans averaging $793 each made to students in vocational education in the last six weeks of the fiscal year, according to Hunt. He noted that the program wasn't fully implemented for vocational education until about mid-May.

Students in higher education obtained loans totaling $1,766,524—an average of $617 each—since the program became available late last September.

Loans to Kentucky students attending out-of-state schools in both higher education and vocational education averaged about $250 more than those made to students in in-state schools, Hunt said.

He said the fiscal year ended with a loaning capacity of $88,445 for higher education. He said this and $176,766 in federal money just obtained as the 1966-'67 allocation will be applied to this fiscal year.

A similar amount of federal funds can be expected for this fiscal year as well, Hunt said. He added that each dollar on deposit generates $9 for lending purposes.

The lending capacity for vocational education was $85,286 as of June 30, but this is to be matched within a few days by federal funds, Hunt said.

Hunt said the Authority has $130,000 in state funds committed this fiscal year for loans to both higher education and vocational education.

"We now have approximately $4 million lending capacity already on hand this fiscal year," he said.

Reduction In Rates Small-Mine Benefit

Changes in workmen's compensation insurance for underground coal mines in Kentucky will reduce costs to small mines, State Insurance commissioner S. Roy Woodall Jr. announces.

Insurance rates for large mines will be increased about three-tenths of one per cent, Woodall says.

The rate reduction for small mines—those with $75,000 and less payroll a year—will come about through elimination of an eight per cent surcharge for companies in the assigned risk class.

Many uninsured small mines now can obtain workmen's compensation insurance at standard rates, Woodall says.

He approved a re-insurance pool of four workmen's compensation underwriters under which a company can share a risk by re-insuring it with the other companies.

The University of Kentucky Office of Religious Affairs provides resources and opportunities which support the development of mature and dynamic faith.

Trooper To Bacteriologist Change Made By Brenner

About 14 weeks ago, John W. Brenner, of McDowell, traded a microscope for a nightstick and a 38 Special. Now he is assigned a new police cruiser, traditionally awarded to the valedictorian of the Kentucky State Police cadet training school.

Brenner held top honors among the 23 cadets that graduated to the rank of state trooper from the 36th training class.

He was a research bacteriologist until 14 weeks ago. A native of Montana, Brenner came to McDowell two years ago as a research bacteriologist at the Appalachian Regional Hospital. His wife, Dr. Susan Brenner, operates in partnership with another doctor the Daniel Boone Clinic at McDowell.

Brenner had done research at the Lovelace Foundation for Medical Research and Education at Albuquerque, New Mexico.

PORT OF ENTRY

A 1799 act of Congress made the "village of Louisville" a port of entry into the United States, and a custom collector was appointed there. New Orleans was still in French possession, and no U. S. custom house existed between it and Louisville. The Louisville collectorship was abolished after the Louisiana Purchase.

Prior to opening of the Grethel exchange, the only one-party line in use in that section served the John M. Shumbo elementary school because the cost of such service, without the new exchange was almost prohibitive to private subscribers.

Total cost of the improvement program now under way on the system, which serves the Harold area, the Mud Creek and upper Left Beaver Creek sections, will be $340,000.

'DAY-FOR-A-DOLLAR' FEE FOR NON-RESIDENT FISHING IS TALKED AT MAY LODGE

"A-day-for-a-dollar" non-resident fishing license for Kentucky visitors was proposed by the League of Kentucky Sportsmen's board of directors during its meeting last weekend at Jenny Wiley State Park.

The new daily, low-cost permit is intended to stimulate and encourage millions of out-of-state tourists who have contributed so greatly to Kentucky's second largest industry.

The proposal of the 10-member board of the 41,000-member sportsmen-conservation organization will be on the agenda of the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission meeting in Frankfort on August 21.

The meeting of the League board was attended by Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Minor Clark, who said he would prepare the proposal for presentation to the commission.

The new $1 license would be the most economical short-time fishing recreation buy for the visiting tourists in the Commonwealth. It would augment the $3.25, 15-day non-resident fishing license and the $7.50 annual non-resident fishing permit.

The board also voted to urge

2. A student may be considered for II-S classification for a fourth year of undergraduate study if he has earned 75 percent of the credits required for a degree, even though his class standing is very low. Being a satisfactory, fulltime student takes priority over class standing.

3. A student who was 24 years old August 30 but who will not begin his third year of college study until September will be given deferment for the next school year if he has made satisfactory progress and is certified as enrolled, fulltime. At the end of his third year his local board will review his progress and then determine, on the basis of regulations in effect at the time whether a deferment is in order.

But a student who is, say, 23 and is attending summer school to make up deficiencies during his second year of college, and who will be ranked only as a sophomore this fall when his third year of college starts, could be in trouble. His local board is not required to grant him student deferment, but it will be to his best interest to make a written request for deferment, stating the reasons for his failure to make progress and showing how he proposes to overcome his deficiency.

The board opposes HB 482, which would increase the $3 federal duck stamp to $5 and would make it required for dove shooting.

Willy Riehemann, Ft. Mitchell, president of the League, said that League Secretary-Treasurer Redmon Payne is to contact Kentucky members of Congress concerning the board's action.

Donald Johnson has been appointed as an instructor in Biology and Micro-biology. Mr. Johnson has his M.A. degree in Biology from Indiana State at Terre Haute, Ind. He is a registered medical technician and has had eight years' work in medical technology.

Addition of Mr. Johnson to the staff will mean that the college can begin this year the implementation of five two-year programs in the Allied Health field. The five programs which will be offered, beginning this fall, are clinical medical assistant, certified laboratory assistant, administrative medical assistant, community medicine assistant, and mental health assistant. These programs will train individuals to work with the various medical programs currently being developed in Floyd county and the surrounding areas.

The addition of these four instructors to the staff brings the number of new faculty members to 10.

Classes begin at the college on August 30, and an initial enrollment of 650 students is expected. Information concerning the new curriculum or any program offered at the college should be directed to Mrs. Marcia Carter, admissions clerk, Prestonsburg Community College.

CD 'DIARY' RECOUNTS A STORY OF SERVICE

A little boy and his dog missing in the hills... tragedy at the lake... flood victims to be rescued.

So the "diary" of Floyd County Civil Defense and its two units runs. The event-by-event account, dated from May 20, 1966 to June 23, this year, ranges the emotional scale from the fears of distraught parents and the heart-break caused by tragedy to the ludicrous experience of searching for a missing man, only to find he had been drinking and, fearing to go home intoxicated, had spent the time "walking it off".

The account covers the activities of the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad, which is headquartered here, and the Left Beaver Creek Civil Defense Unit. The annual report was released this week by Petty L. Thompson, Prestonsburg, Floyd CD director.

The Left Beaver unit lists 21 events in which it served. These include directing traffic at funerals and public events; fire-fighting stints at Hi Hat, Minnie, McDowell, Price and Betsy Layne; evacuating families from their homes at Orkney which were threatened by floodwaters; helping the town of Martin in its post-flood cleanup job; donating blood to county hospitals.

The unit has its own firefighting equipment.

The older Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad during the year recovered the bodies of five persons from Dewey Lake and streams. Its services extended into Knott, Magoffin, Clay and Jessamine counties. In Jessamine the Squad had six men on duty four days dragging the Kentucky River, near Lock 9, for the bodies of several men missing after a boat had drifted over the dam and broken up.

In Clay county the Squad joined the search of the South Fork of the Kentucky River where four Unemployed Fathers had drowned in the collapse of a bridge. There the Floyd county group saved the lives of two Perry County Rescue Squad members when their boat capsized.

One body was recovered by the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad from a Knott county pond, May 20, 1966; one from Beaver Creek, near Maytown, July 31; one from Jones Fork of Right Beaver Creek, near Lackey, last Dec. 28; another from Beaver Creek, between Allen and Martin, April 2, this year, with four survivors taken to a hospital. Six days later, a body was recovered from Dewey Lake and first-aid administered to another man who survived the boat tragedy.

The Squad saw action during floods last March, evacuating persons from their homes and getting drinking water to flood victims and hospitals in this county; in Magoffin county, persons trapped in their homes and businesses by a flash flood were evacuated.

On 11 occasions the Squad was called to search for missing persons. All were found, unharmed, except one. A man last seen Feb. 1, this year, is still missing.

The two Civil Defense units are composed of busy men who leave well-paying jobs, even official position, to answer calls for help and meet emergencies of whatever nature. No attempt has been made to calculate the man-hours spent on these missions.

FLOYD WELL-REPRESENTED AS EAST-WEST ALL-STARS PREP FOR PLAY SATURDAY

When the 16th annual East-West high school all-star football and basketball games are played at Lexington Saturday, Floyd county will be well-represented.

Two of the 80 star athletes to play in the games represent Floyd county high schools, and the director of the all-star events is Estill J. (Eck) Branham, of Bowling Green, who was graduated from Prestonsburg high school.

Floyd county's two athletes—Mike Tallent, of Maytown, and Gary Hall, of Betsy Layne—will play in the all-star basketball game at Memorial Coliseum. They and the other all-stars began a week of practice sessions, Monday. They will be feted this afternoon (Thursday) by the Lexington Quarterback-Tipoff Club at a picnic on the grounds of Carnahan House.

Branham said he expects this year's games to rank with the best in the long series. The East leads 10-5 in basketball. Everything is even with the record at 7-7 and one tie in football.

Playing with Tallent and Hall on the East net team will be such stars as Jimmy Rose, of Hazard, George Schloemer, of Covington Catholic, Bobby Jones, of Frankfort, Kermit Perkins, of Monticello, Larry Noble, of Breathitt County, Joe Fritz, of Covington Catholic, Blaine Henry, of Harrison County, Jim Burns, of Clay County, Mike Henderson, of Olive Hill, and Bernard Bradshaw, of Woodford County.

Island Creek Reports 6-Mo. Income Record; New Mines on Schedule

Island Creek Coal Company reports a record gross income for the six months ended June 30 of $72,335,000. Net income for the same period totaled $3,729,000, a 43 percent increase over that of 1966. On a per share basis, the net income for the first six months of 1967 equals $1.63 as compared with $1.14 for the first half of last year.

For the second quarter of the year the company's net income equaled $7.2 per share, compared with $2.25 during the like period in 1966. In the second quarter of 1966 the coal industry suffered from a lengthy work stoppage in connection with wage negotiations, which accounted for the lower earnings figure for that period.

The company reported operations were at an acceptable level during the second quarter despite production losses due to freight railroad car shortages and a number of one- or two-day strikes. A total of 13,416,000 tons was sold in the first half of this year, representing a 13 percent increase over the 11,892,000 tons sold in the first six months of 1966.

James L. Hamilton, Island Creek chairman and chief executive officer, said that the company's $65 million construction program for five new mines continues to be essentially on schedule. "We expect our total annual production to reach approximately 40 million tons by 1971," he said.

Numerous other religious journals have puzzled over the situation there, somewhat in awe. "In some areas whole villages have accepted Christianity as their faith," notes an American Bible Society report.

The National Council, an inter-denominational cooperative organization, has launched a $300,000 fund drive to help the Indonesian churches assimilate the flood of new members.

What is behind it? Several observers point out that the main momentum started after the failure of the attempted Communist coup in the fall of 1965, whose bloody aftermath shattered the force of communism in that region.

Indonesia, the world's fifth largest country, has a population of 112 million. It is predominantly Moslem, but slightly more than 10 million—about nine percent—are Christians, including Protestants and Roman Catholics, spread over the country's islands.

The abortive coup, bringing a halt to the antireligious pressures of village Communist organizations, and other political turmoil, including the fall of ex-President Sukarno, left a kind of spiritual vacuum and sense of insecurity, church leaders say.

And the swing to Christianity was on.

Thousands of disenchanted Communists reportedly were among those seeking instruction in the faith and baptism. Stories of massive turning to the church—by some 65,000 new converts—have come out of former Communist strongholds of Central and East Java.

The Rev. Addison J. Eastman, an American Baptist who directs the Asia apartment of the National Council's Division of Overseas Mission, says:

"From the best information available to us at this time, a great number of these new members are turning to religion in a real hope that the Christian Church can provide a base from which to work for meaningful and humane social progress for the entire nation."

The new Indonesian government has given the churches the responsibility for providing religious instruction on all levels of the school system, indicating the new openness to Christianity, with opportunities for evangelism unlimited.

And evidences of the spectacular results have come from main points.

Membership of the newly formed Christian Church of South Sumatra, only 500 at its start a year ago, has swelled to 3,000. In North Sumatra's Karo land, 1,900 people were baptized at once recently, with 8,000 others receiving catechism lessons before baptism.

In West Borneo, 30 new congregations totalling 5,000 people have sprung up around the area of Pontianak. The Toradja Church in central Celebes reports 3,000 people baptized recently, and is struggling with a shortage of Bibles to supply the demand.

In Sumba and Timor and in the Lesser Sunda Island, accounts tell of hundreds of former animists flocking to churches to hand over idols and ask for baptism. Churches in Semarang, Central Java, report memberships have doubled annually for two years.

In Jakarta, the capital, 50 Bible study groups have started, often crossing denominational lines, and composed largely of youths engaged in evangelism. More than 200 conversions were reported among prisoners in Jakarta's prisons.

Other teams of evangelists were traveling the countryside, holding mass meetings in towns and villages, preaching before public gatherings.

The Rev. Theodore F. Romig, secretary for Asia missions of the United Presbyterian Church, says, "Many of the more liberal-minded Indonesians who are concerned with social justice are turning to Christianity because it more nearly expresses their belief."

Some observers think the movement has just begun and is destined to grow even larger. In any case, the churches there are experiencing what the bulletin of the United Bible Societies calls a "period of vigorous growth on a scale and at a pace without parallel in recent times" in the entire world.

Volkswagen, Italian style.

The Karmann Ghia goes to show you what happens when you turn a Volkswagen over to an Italian designer.

It comes out with a noble Roman nose, graceful curves, and a low silhouette.

In fact, classical tradition is followed right down the line. Fenders, hoods and door frames are welded and shaped and smoothed by hand.

Seats and convertible tops are padded and fitted by hand.

Now you might think it's crazy to go to all this trouble, just to turn out some rather fancy Italian sculpturing.

Especially since this body of work ends up on top of one of those plain VW chassis.

But consider.

The chassis includes VW's 4-speed synchromesh transmission, big 15-inch wheels and torsion bars.

Plus a 53 h.p. engine to speed you up. And disc brakes up front to slow you down.

So that with the Ghia's form, and this functional interior, you've got yourself a pretty solid piece of architecture.

It's known as renaissance Volkswagen.

HOW CAN ELECTRICITY BE CHEAPER BY THE BUNCH?

We've got a system!

It isn't easy. But it's based on a sound principle: Volume buying. Buy one apple, pay one price. Buy a pound, pay a little less. Buy a bushel and your price really goes down.

It works the same way with electric power. Add a few electric appliances and your unit price goes down. Add flameless electric heating and it goes down even further.

We're able to give you a "volume price" because we've got what you might call "volume electricity." It's produced by our system... the country's largest interconnected power system. Stretches over seven states, includes six separate, investor-owned companies.

It's another way we serve you better electrically.

ON EITHER SIDE, DRIVER EDGES TOWARD DISASTER

Frankfort, Ky.—John Q. Public, an average driver, hurries his automobile through the night at 50 miles per hour. His thoughts are on that final sale of the day, his family he would see soon and the week-end ahead. His mind is occupied, but he is very much aware of the pavement edge about two feet to the right of his automobile. Another automobile speeds past him in the opposite direction, but he seems unaware that possible death has just passed within 18 inches of him.

The road ahead appears clear. Unconsciously he moves further from that ever-present "edge," not worried that he is dangerously close to the center line. Suddenly, "some ignorant so-and-so" crowding the center line appears over the crest of a hill. The ever-present edge is forgotten—but too late.

For seven-tenths of a second from the moment of impact, an average driver is very much aware of danger near the center of the road—and then he is not aware of anything. He is dead.

John Q. Public was driving on one of many 20-foot wide highways which still exist in the United States, perhaps wishing for some of "those nice white stripes" (edge lines) to help him reduce his speed for curves and roadway so he would not have to identify the edge of the dark hills.

The white stripes, or edge-lines, would have reduced the possibility of John leaving the roadway, but the possibility, even probability, that they would have sealed his doom more quickly was far greater.

In fact, he might never have gotten past that first car he met. Statistics and studies by experts show that the average driver will drive no nearer than two feet from an object or an "edge." Studies also show that edge lines at night connote an object in the mind of the average driver.

Thus, had edge lines been painted on the roadway, John Q. Public probably would have been driving at least two feet from the edge line, or at least eight inches nearer the center of the roadway. Edge lines are usually four inches wide and three-to-four inches from the edge of the roadway.

Many automobiles built today are as much as seven feet wide. On a 10-foot driving lane, a driver has only three-feet in which to manipulate a speeding mass of metal. If he is average, he will drive two feet from the edge of the pavement, leaving only one foot between his vehicle and the center line.

If edge lines are added, only four inches remain between the vehicle and the center line for the average driver. If he meets another average driver, the vehicles will pass within eight inches of each other—a small margin for error, which gets smaller as speeds increase.

Of course, most motorists momentarily forget the threat of the edge and move to allow more room when meeting another vehicle, but sometimes there isn't time—as John Q. Public found out.

Proof of these studies had already been demonstrated conclusively when Kentucky began its present edge-lining program and highways with driving lanes of 10 feet or less are not edge-lined by the Kentucky Department of Highways.

Highway Commissioner Mitchell W. Tinder uses the economic law of "diminishing returns" to describe the Highway Department policy in its edge-lining program.

The program shows returns in terms of a decrease in "leave-the-road" accidents and no increase in sideswipe or head-on collision accidents on highways wider than 20 feet. But, on roads 20 feet wide or narrower, the program merely tends to substitute sideswipe or head-on collision accidents for "leave-the-road" accidents, he points out.

Tinder says the Highway Department is moving forward as quickly as possible with the program on roads wide enough to show returns, but the cost factor in providing edge lines brings up another question of returns.

The commissioner says only a certain amount of funds each year can be allotted to the edge-lining program. To provide enough funds for that program would mean deletion of funds from other programs still more important to the safety of the motoring public, he points out.

Edge lines have been painted on about 750 miles of four-lane highways and about 450 miles of two-lane highways in Kentucky, at an initial cost of $200,000 since 1962. It now costs an average of $100.00 per year to maintain these lines.

Commissioner Tinder says, although the edge lines are expensive, the Highway Department will continue, as funds are available, to provide them on roadways where safety is increased.

SOIL CONSERVATION
By HAROLD R. WALLACE
Work Unit Conservationist

The past two weeks have been busy ones for landowners cooperating with the Floyd County Soil Conservation District.

A farm pond has been completed for Dr. James D. Adams on his Middle Creek farm. The primary purpose of this pond is to furnish water for livestock; however, it will be stocked with bass and bluegill to provide family recreation. Among other uses for this type farm pond are boating, swimming, irrigation for gardens and flower gardens and fire protection.

The impounded area, fill, spillway and borrow areas are seeded and mulched to protect from erosion. The entire area around the pond is fenced to prevent livestock from entering the water. A one and one quarter inch pipe through the pond fill, with a trough attached outside the fenced area, provides the livestock watering facility.

Richmond Stone and Donald Hicks have ponds that are under construction. Federal cost-share assistance is provided landowners by the Floyd county A. S. C. S. office. Technical assistance is furnished by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service technicians assigned the Floyd County S. C. D.

Bids Are Sought
On Hi Hat Postoffice

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien has announced the Postoffice Department is seeking competitive bids to build and lease the new Hi Hat postoffice.

The purpose of competitive bidding, Mr. O'Brien said, is to encourage the most attractive and economical offer to the Government in line with President Johnson's economy program to achieve the best possible postal service at the least possible cost.

Under the Department's lease construction program, the successful bidder will construct the building according to departmental specifications, and lease it to the Postoffice Department for a basic period of eight years with options to renew the lease for an additional 20 years.

The Department's capital investment will be limited substantially to postal equipment. The building will remain under private ownership with the owner paying local real estate taxes.

Local residents and all parties interested in this project should contact Real Estate Officer J. F. Smith, P. O. Box 60, Lexington, Kentucky 40501.

Bids must be submitted to Smith by September 1.

FLOYD SCHOOL PERSONNEL PREP FOR NEW PROGRAM

Thirty-eight principals and teachers of seven Floyd county schools are getting acquainted with "Science — A Process Approach" during the current eight-week summer term at Morehead State University in preparation for the introduction of a model elementary science curriculum in the schools of this county.

The program to be introduced here will serve as a model for other schools of 18 Eastern Kentucky counties when they join the area program under U. S. Title III financing.

The Floyd county teachers in training at Morehead are:

From Clark elementary — John K. Pitts, Nola Allen, Edna M. Davis, Pauline Hicks, Viola A. May, Mae Oma Williams; Martin—Ora Mae Allen, Mabel Collins, Sonia Greer, Vivian H. Tackett; Maytown—Shirley Bradley and Doris Robinson; McDowell—Georgia F. Layne, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Chaffins, Paul Luxmore, Edith Hopkins, Roberta Luxmore, Dana Moore, Myrtle Ratliff, Clara Bradley; Osborne—Evia Faye Curry, Frank E. Hall, Patricia Newsome, Ruth Rainey, Virgil Triplett, Gleason Stone; Prestonsburg — Thomas Tackett, Janet Blackburn Allen, Carol Bradley, Goldia Burchett, Myrtle Burchett, Hazel Clifton, Evelyn Warrix, Ethel Ratliff; Wayland—Archie Beverly, Camilla Lawson, Martha Lee.

Morehead State University has been awarded a grant of $86,250 by the National Science Foundation to extend its innovative program for the introduction of the model elementary science program into Kentucky schools.

The grant will be used to continue the program for the summer of 1968 and the following school year. An earlier grant of $75,010 was used to establish the pilot program this summer and provide supervision in the 1967-1968 school year.

The Process Approach stresses the methods used by scientists to reach conclusions, rather than the content method commonly used in teaching science.

Starting this fall, the teachers will use the approach in their science classes in grades one through four. The program will be extended to grades five and six in the second year.

The funds of the grant will be used to pay the tuition, fees, stipends, and other expenses of the participants.

Dr. Crayton T. Jackson, professor of Science Education at Morehead, is director of the program. He heads a faculty of four, which was approved by the American Association for the Advancement of Science. They include Dr. Edward McCullough, University of Arizona, head teacher and co-director; Morgan Tartt, Tucson school system, intermediate elementary teacher; Mrs. Alice Moses, University of Chicago Laboratory School, supervising teacher; and Mrs. Joyce Switzer, Monmouth, Ill., schools, supervising teacher.
