This Town... That World

BUT NO-O-BODY!

If Adolph Rupp's ears haven't been burning, these last several days, there goes another adage down the drain. Everybody has taken a whack at Rupp for his harsh treatment of Maytown's Bob Tallent, it would appear. The Courier-Journal's Earl Ruby dwelt at length on the situation which he described as "almost unbelievable," and letters poured in to that newspaper's sports page column till all they could do was print the names of the writers.

We think one statement made by Rupp eloquently describes the domineering spirit of the man: "Nobody talks back to me."

A HINT OF TROUBLE

The dog has left it to me to thank his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hamilton, of Detroit, for the Valentine card. You know, this dog may present me a big problem, any day. He's acting as if he may take to chasing cars on television.

One of the more honest signs is that one reported as appearing on the door to a weather bureau. It read:

A Non-Profit Organization.

CWAZY PIPPLE

The little quirks and eccentricities of others are so noticeable and we fall to see our own. We might recall the story of the university lecturer who dwelt at length on psychopathology till a student raised his hand.

"Professor," he said, "you've told us all about the abnormal person and his behavior, but what about the normal human being?"

"If we ever find him," the learned one replied, "we'll cure him."

This recalls the statement made by Mark Twain to describe a coldly righteous man who was critical of others and gave little of compassion in word. (See Story No. 3, Page 8)

FLOYD TOPS IN DIVISION

For Planting of Trees; Parsons Is Recognized For Fire Control Work

Floyd county was declared winner of the annual tree-planting contest in the eastern division, and one of its forest division employees was honored for "outstanding work in fire control" last week at the Governor's fourth annual conference on forestry in Lexington.

The tree-planting contest was sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources. Muhlenberg county won in the western division.

Frank Parsons, of Betsy Layne, was the forestry employee recognized for outstanding fire control work. James L. Langston, Mayfield, and J. Samuel Cox, Somerset, were also honored for the same work.

Forty-four new or expanded wood industries in Kentucky in the last two years have added 2,617 new jobs in manufacturing and 3,500 others in the forests themselves, Gov. Edward T. Breathitt told the conference.

The Harlan State Police Post No. 10 and the Harlan Rescue Squad were cited for their investigation and actions during the Fairview Hollow forest fire in March, 1965 in which three members of a state forestry division firefighting crew lost their lives.

$800,000 IS SOUGHT FOR WATER SYSTEM

A Prestonsburg delegation was encouraged last week by Washington reaction to its application for Office of Economic Opportunity assistance in expansion of the water system here.

The application is for $800,000 to extend the system to the site of the U. S. Shoe Company plant which is scheduled for opening next summer, across the Big Sandy from Lancer, and to install larger mains to serve the business district and the Prestonsburg Community College areas.

Because some existing lines in Prestonsburg are inadequate, the Kentucky Actuarial Bureau

PRESTONSBURG COPS KY. TRAVEL AWARD

COMMUNITY'S EFFORT HELD BEST FOR KY.

Promotion of Tourism Wins Award; Louisville Rated Next to P'burg

Prestonsburg has won the Community Travel Award as the Kentucky community which during 1966 did most to promote tourism in the state.

Louisville was ranked second in that department. The award, made last Wednesday at the 1967 Kentucky Travel Conference in Louisville, was received on behalf of the city by City Manager Curtis Clark.

Making the award to Prestonsburg, Merle E. Robinson, chairman of the Kentucky Travel Council, commented on the cooperation of all Prestonsburg groups and the enthusiastic support given here to the effort to attract tourists.

"It was the finest effort made in Kentucky, although Prestonsburg naturally spent only a fraction of the total expended by Louisville in its promotion program," Robertson commented in the presentation ceremony.

In response Mr. Clark wryly remarked that as a result of the community's success in promoting tourism and its side benefits "we have escaped our regular diet of bologna and now are getting back on steak."

Among the promotion achievements and improvements cited in the nomination of Prestonsburg for the Community Travel Award were these:

1. Nine events at Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre last summer, including the regional Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, the Miss Floyd County Pageant and a series of concerts and stage presentations.
2. A dozen or more events in Prestonsburg which included the Floyd county fair, the Junior Woman's Club horse show, the Snow Queen parade, Christmas tour of homes and others.

PLANE CRASH INJURES TWO

Former P'burg Resident Seriously Hurt in Knott Crash into Mountainside

Wilbur Gene Taylor, formerly of Prestonsburg, was one of the two Ohio men who were seriously injured Wednesday in the crash of their single-engine plane into a hillside near Pinetop, 10 miles south of Hindman.

Taylor and Larry Joe Purtee, 21, pilot of the plane, were taken to the Appalachian Regional hospital, both suffering from multiple injuries. A state trooper reported that the two were en route from Columbus, Ohio to Florida and they had made one stop, en route, at the Prestonsburg-Paintsville airport.

Cause of the crash was not immediately known.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur G. Stiles, grandparents of Taylor, could not be reached by telephone at their home near Sugar Loaf this morning (Thursday). Taylor is a son of Ed Taylor and the late Lois Stiles Taylor. He attended high school here and was a member of the track team.

has threatened to drop Prestonsburg from a Class 9 rating to Class 6, which would mean an increase in insurance rates. The improvements proposed would meet bureau requirements on existing lines and provide water service to the shoe plant and other areas now without service.

The delegation—Mayor George P. Archer, City Manager Curtis Clark, Burl Spurlock and Ed Music—was accompanied by Congressman Carl D. Perkins and a representative of Senator John Sherman Cooper's office. Congressman Perkins made a strong plea for OEO help on the project.

Hamilton, Calhoun Join Allen Firm

Jim Ray Hamilton, of the Auxier road, and James Calhoun, of Cliff, have purchased an interest in the Sandy Valley Monument and Building Stone Company, Inc., of Allen, it was announced this week.

Mr. Hamilton has long been associated with the firm. Mr. Calhoun formerly was employed here by the R. V. May Company. Both are now devoting fulltime to the business.

"Both these young men are well-known as good progressive citizens," said the Rev. William H. Amburgey, founder of Sandy Valley Monument. "Their associates in the business are happy to have them, and they commend them to the public."

BLAST RUINS MINE SHOVEL

Sturgill, Associates Suffer $90,000 Damage In Knott-Co. Dynamiting

A giant shovel employed by the coal operation of William B. Sturgill and others on Lott's Creek, Knott county, was destroyed by a dynamite blast last Sunday night at a loss of approximately $90,000, was learned here this week.

A nightwatchman employed by the company had temporarily absented himself, it was said. No clues to the identity of the dynamiter are known to have been uncovered.

The shovel was described as "demolished."

Before daybreak Monday, Mr. Sturgill bought from Ex-Sheriff Henry C. Hale, of Middle Creek, the bloodhound which the former official purchased in North Carolina while he was sheriff for use in tracking criminals. The dog was taken immediately to the scene of the blast, but it is not known if the trail could be followed.

AT REA CONVENTION

County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill and Mr. and Mrs. Bradis Goble are attending the national convention of the Rural Electrification Administration in San Francisco, Calif., this week.

EMPLOYEES IN TRAINING. As Industry Appreciation Week was being observed in Kentucky, these women were in training for future work at Floyd county's newest industry, the U. S. Shoe Company plant which will open next summer in a million-dollar plant near the mouth of Bull Creek. The training program is being conducted at Archer Park here.

GROUP ADDS 8 DIRECTORS

CAP Hears Reports On County Projects; Cleanup Suggested

Eight new members were added to the Community Action Program's board of directors at the Community Action meeting held here last week.

New directors are John Roberts, Nelle Francis, Lillian Banks, Evelyn Gardner, Daniel Ackers, Ralph J. Allen, John Milton Stumbo and Clifford Wright.

Reports on Floyd county projects were heard. One such report pointed out that the Ligon project is ahead of schedule, with 91 pit-type outdoor toilets completed and 193 persons examined in the parasite program. Thirteen types of parasites have been found there as a result of this work, it was said. Retesting for parasite detection and control is scheduled to begin March 1. A parasitologist and two aides then will study the overall program and its findings.

FIRM OFFERS BUYING PACT

Would Establish Shed If Cucumber Growers Meet Acreage Needed

Again this year a cucumber buying company is offering Floyd county farmers and gardeners an opportunity to sell large quantities of pickled cucumbers on a contract basis, Hubert E. Ball, of the county extension office announced this week.

If sufficient acreages of cucumbers can be contracted, the company will establish a gardening shed in this county. Cucumbers, one of the better cash crops for mountain farmers, are planted in May and harvesting should be completed in August, it was pointed out.

This crop requires an outlay of only $40 to $50 per acre, but requires about 300 hours of labor to pick. Farmers and gardeners are urged to contact the extension office.

SIX RAIDS STAGED IN COUNTY SATURDAY

Second Carroll Trial On Possession Count Is Slated Saturday

Second trial of Willie Carroll on a charge of possessing alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale is scheduled for trial Saturday (Feb. 28) in Magistrate Edward Caudill's court at the McDowell school. First trial of the case, Jan. 28, resulted in a "hung" jury.

Constable Ted H. Salisbury said the case originated with the search by him and ABC Agent Claude Flanery of a black Oldsmobile which contained a case of whiskey. The car, he said, was at Willie Carroll's home and the key was in Carroll's possession. But Carroll testified at his trial that the auto and whiskey belonged to his brother, Earl.

Later, the officer said, Earl Carroll, questioned by County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill, signed a statement to the effect that he did not own the car but had sold it last fall to Edmond "Beaver" Barnett and had not seen the auto since selling it. He added that the whiskey found in the car did not belong to him.

Constable Salisbury said County Attorney Sturgill will not be able to be at McDowell Saturday for the trial because of a previous engagement and that he will himself pay an attorney to prosecute the case.

HEAVY HAUL TAKEN HERE BY OFFICERS

Raids Cover Area, P'burg to Beaver Cr.; 3rd Offenses Charged

Six raids staged Saturday by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and deputies and state officers ranged all the way from Prestonsburg to Right Beaver Creek and Mud Creek and brought to seven the number arrested within the week on liquor law violation charges.

The heaviest haul of whiskey was made Saturday afternoon when Lewis, Deputy Sheriffs Silas DeRossett and Tommy Engle, ABC Agent Claude Flanery and State Trooper Don Lafferty confiscated 156 pints from the home of Junior Joseph and a Dodge car at the Town Branch end of the bridge spanning the river here. All but two pints of the whiskey was found in the car.

Joseph, whose activities had been under surveillance for some time, was charged with both possession and sale of intoxicants.

Almost at the same time, Flanery and Lafferty were arresting Paul Joseph at a taxi stand on Lake Drive here. They confiscated what remained of three pints of whiskey which those at the cab stand attempted to throw away. He was charged with possession. The raiding officers completed their work there in time to join the others in the raid on Junior Joseph.

Melv Click was charged with third offense selling and possessing after State Trooper Elmo Allen and ABC Agent Flanery had confiscated seven pints of whiskey at his place, near Alen, Saturday.

At Grethel, the same day, Sheriff Lewis, Deputy Sheriff John D. Martin, ABC Agent Flanery, State Trooper Ray and Constable Gillis Conn found eight pints of whiskey in the home of Bill Hall. Hall was booked on third offense charges of selling and possessing intoxicants. Sheriff Lewis said that when some of his party beat Hall to the back door of the home Hall put the whiskey in a bed with his baby.

Search of the place operated at Maytown by Mander Moore failed to find any intoxicants, but Moore was arrested on a selling charge. Lewis Adkins was arrested on a moonshine charge on Arkansas Creek Saturday by State Trooper Herron and an Alcoholic Tax Unit officer.

The arrest of Lon Neeley, on the Auxier road, on a selling charge was made last Friday. All those arrested executed bond.

Among others arrested within the week and booked at the county jail were: Ossie Sizemore and James C. Nelson, a.o.u.l., jailed by Sgt. Berry; Crit Butler, no operator's license, by Trooper Herron; Dorothy June Bradley, no operator's license, by Trooper Herron.

Alice Lloyd College Hindman Fund Drive Nearing $2,000 Mark

Pippa Passes, Ky.—More than $1,300 has been raised in Alice Lloyd College's first annual fund campaign in Hindman and Knott county, campaign chairman Ireland Conley, of Hindman, has announced.

Conley said that when a few remaining businesses make their contributions, the fund should approach $2,000. He suggested that any business which has not been contacted might send its gift investment to him or directly to the college.

The campaign, co-ordinated by Robert Hoskins, Alice Lloyd director of information and community relations, is the college's third in the region. Others have been staged in Prestonsburg, with R. V. May as chairman, and in Letcher county, with Ray Collins heading the effort.

Hoskins said the purpose of the drives was to not only raise money, but also to gain demonstrable community support for the Alice Lloyd program. "To promote broad development," he said, "the college must be able to show national foundations and corporations that its own region has confidence in its program of education for leadership—financial investment illustrates such confidence."

1967 CUCUMBERS PRICES UP, PROMISE GOOD CASH CROP FOR KENTUCKY FARMERS

Frankfort, Ky. — The production of "cool cucumbers" can mean "cold cash" to a number of enterprising Kentucky farmers this year, according to Hayden Timmons, executive director of the Governor's Commission on Agriculture.

"Pickling cucumbers are in demand by a Louisville processor (Paramount Foods) which will pay 23 percent more than prices it paid in 1966.

"Many farmers across the state averaged $600 to more than $1,000 an acre gross income last year," Timmons said. As a result, an estimated 3,500 acres this year — almost 1,500 more will be planted in cucumbers than last year, Timmons reported.

"Grown under contract with the processor, the producer knows just where his market is and what prices he'll receive even before the seeds are planted."

A quick cash crop, cucumbers are usually planted early in May and harvested from July 1 until mid-August. Other advantages of growing cucumbers cited by Timmons are: No special machinery or equipment is required; production is a good family project, and most of the work occurs in July when it doesn't interfere with other crops.

According to Timmons, the processing company will establish a buying and grading station in counties where production is large enough. Additional information can be obtained at County Agricultural Extension offices or from the office of the Governor's Commission on Agriculture in Frankfort.

"This crop affords farmers an ideal way of making some extra money and is another step in building the state's farm income," Timmons said.

I'm appealing to the people of Floyd county for your vote to elect me for Clive's last two years of office. Neither Clive nor I had anything to do with this new 100% assessment. On June 8, 1965, the Kentucky Court of Appeals ruled that, beginning Jan. 1, 1966, each property owner must list his taxable property at 100% value.

The Tax Commissioner is subject to a fine, if he or she fails or neglects to do his duty in listing properties at their 100% value.

Thirty Years Ago

(February 19, 1937)

Plans for the construction here of a 22-room, brick, air-conditioned graded school building to cost an estimated $100,000 have been approved by the bureau of the budget, Washington, it was announced this week by Congressman A. J. May and Mayor A. C. Carter. . . An eight-inch pipeline, 12 miles long, running from Rock Fork, near Lackey, to the mouth of Possum Trot Creek, near Hindman, was started last week by the Inland Gas Corporation. . . An estimate from the county clerk's office Wednesday, showed only a small percentage of motor vehicles in Floyd county registered so far this year—248 cars and 106 trucks being licensed since Jan. 1. . . Doke Griffith, Prestonsburg watch repairman, has invented a "talking clock," one that instead of merely striking the hour—speaks it. . . ## Twenty Years Ago

(February 27, 1947)

The Floyd fiscal court Saturday formally entered into an agreement with the State Forestry Department whereby the 173,948 acres of forest lands in the county will receive fire protection, beginning July 1. . . ## TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

One of my most faithful fans has reminded me that I have failed to write about stovewood as a symbol of a person's being a good provider and also an industrious one. She spoke of having driven by farm homes, long ago, where great ricks of stovewood were always to be found; then other places would have small ricks or none at all. Even the children who saw these evidences of wisdom or the lack of it would remark about how Mr. X had provided lots of good stovewood for his wife, but Mr. Y, had neglected to keep up his end of the bargain. The greatest disgrace imaginable in Fidelity was for the woman to have to get out and split up stovewood. Years were necessary to live down such a disgrace; even grandchildren can remember having heard how poor a provider some old, old man was. But descendants of the men who had arranged nicely-piled ricks of stovewood mention this almost as much as they might mention some illustrious ancestor back in North Carolina or Virginia.

The whole question of wood was often discussed in my boyhood. Everybody knew that winter would require lots of wood for the fireplaces and, later, the stoves that gradually had replaced most fireplaces before I was fully grown. And most men seemed to be planning to get in an ample supply of wood before the worst weather set in. It was a very rare one who did not have to get out, in the winter itself, and snake up or haul up some more fuel. There was quite obviously a look of shame on the faces of men engaged in this belated preparation, even though the small boys got lots of sport about being out in the snow and driving the team.

In many communities that I have known it was regarded as a sign of shiftlessness not to have some adequate source of water. Wells, cisterns, and springs were everywhere, sometime one or more of each near the average house. A creek might be within a few hundred yards, too. But, be it said to the shame of lots of good people, there was rarely a year when enough water was available, especially in the dry summer months. I have seen hundreds of barrels of water hauled from springs or even from creeks. The almost universal rainbarrel had gone dry, the cistern had got low, sometimes the well was putting out too small a stream to supply all the farm needs. It was imperative, then, to get water and to get as much as possible. In my own area it was fairly customary to use up the cistern water deliberately and then haul dozens of barrels of water until the fall rains were again turned into the cisterns. Unlike folk sayings in some parts of the South, though, we never drank water out of stumps because we were so improvident. Stump water was there all right, but it was one of Nature's most valuable remedies, externally applied. I am sure it was invented primarily to remove freckles and pimples and other defects of complexion and not to be taken internally like sulphur and molasses.

The whole subject of good provider would make a good-sized book, a very valuable one to present to some newly-married couple. If Jim is to be the perfect husband, he must see to it that there is meat in the smokehouse and some more hogs being raised or fattened to keep the supply adequate. He must get up lots of wood and stovewood. He must keep good credit at the country store so that things that cannot be grown on the farm will be ready to be bought and paid for, either in cash or when he sells his tobacco.

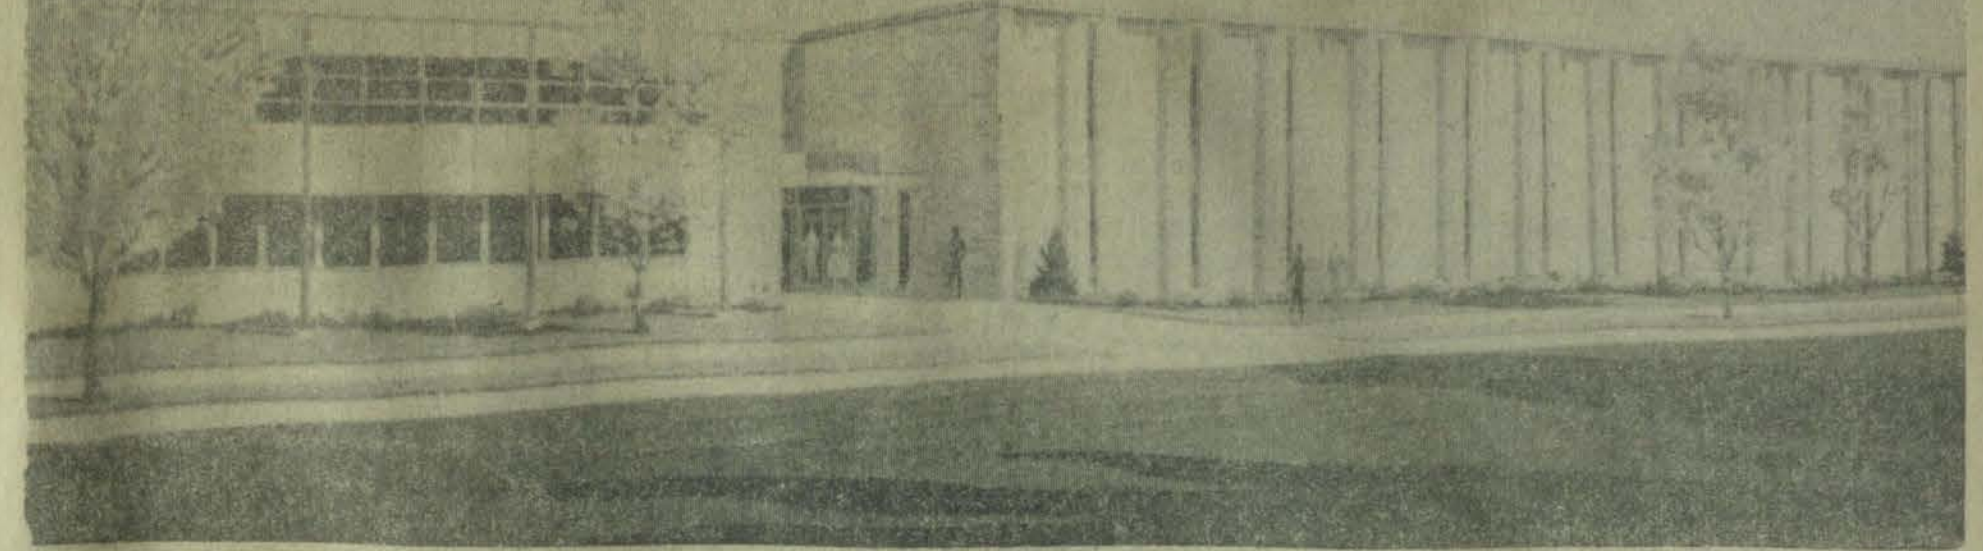

"Many sections of America could learn from race conditions in Eastern Kentucky."

"Today, Negro children from Camp Branch attend the Betsy Layne high school and there is no friction. One Negro pupil was picked a few years ago by the faculty as the most outstanding student. No resentment followed from the white students.

"The development of the Camp Branch Negro community was typical of the development of many Eastern Kentucky Negro communities. However, in the coal company camps development was somewhat different. There the Negro lived in substandard houses, attended segregated schools for more than a century and in general had little association with the white community. Today, this segregated life of the Negro in the coal camp is breaking up. Negro children are attending white schools and the Negro economic condition is improving.

"The Negro votes in Eastern Kentucky with no difficulty whatever and instances of racial bias are rare. He has earned the respect of the white man by his industry and dedication to education."

NATURE TRAILS

By RUFUS M. REED

Never Thrived In America

The famous English skylark, which has inspired many great poems, has always been a true-blue Englishman at heart. The bird never seemed to care for life in America and has never been successfully propagated in this country. Many serious attempts have been made to get the skylark to live and multiply here but all efforts to do so have been in vain. Although we do have many birds and plants from England, which have been propagated and seem to thrive here as well or better than in their original home, not so with the renowned English songster.

The skylarks were introduced to Long Island about 1867 and for a few years some were observed in that vicinity. It is a mystery to naturalists why they never seemed to multiply and adapt their living habits to this country. Those that did live here for a time never soared to the skies and sang as they did in their mother country.

One nest of the English skylarks was found in the vicinity of Long Island in 1895 and a few of these birds seem to have lived here until the year of 1907. This is the last date a skylark was seen in America. No one knows for sure why they disappeared. Birds such as the English sparrows and starlings, imported from Europe, have thrived and spread to all parts of the country to such an extent they have become pests in some sections. But never the skylark. American poets still lack one of the greatest inspirational powers in the bird's song, which inspired Shelley to write his great lyric poem, TO A SKYLARK, the first lines of which go:

...all to thee, Blithe Spirit!
Bird thou never wert,
That from Heaven, or near it,
Pourest thy full heart
In profuse strains of unpremeditated art.
The skylark begins singing as it rises from the ground and as it mounts higher its song increases in volume and power until it showers the whole countryside with melody. It soars on high above the clouds until it is lost from the sight of the listener. Then it comes back down, still singing. The great poet, Shelley, often stood enraptured as he watched the bird and heard it pouring out its song above the clouds. Other poets of England, notably Wordsworth, also wrote about the song of the skylark. So did James Hogg, the Scottish poet, who was called "The Ettrick Shepherd." While his poem, THE SKYLARK, is much shorter than Shelley's, it is equally as great in the power of its rhythm and melody. Of the bird's song, he wrote:

"Wild is thy lay and loud,
Far in the downy cloud."
He also called the skylark a "musical cherub."

The skylark of England is about the size of our wood thrush and is a plain, brown bird streaked with black and with rufous white underparts. Its range is open fields, meadows and grasslands and it builds its nest on the ground usually in a tuft of grass beside a rock or a mound of earth. The only bird in America that can come close to it as a rival for the beauty and power of its song is the hermit thrush, which does not soar when singing.

But America is not without its lark. We have a lark that is as native as the Indians and it is called "the horned lark;" it is a distant cousin of the English skylark and ranges in open grounds, golf courses, meadows and prairies. It is also brown on the back and white below and sports black crescents or "whiskers" under the eyes and two small, black horns on its head. This truly American lark also has a wild, joyous light song, full of the spirit of the wide, open places. The horned lark is found in West Virginia, Missouri, Kansas, the Carolinas and the southern part of Texas. While it has a beautiful song, its singing lacks the power and the appeal of the famous English skylark, and has never yet inspired any of our poets to break forth in praise of the bird's musical talents.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION ROLE OF MAYO SCHOOL IS REVIEWED

This week vocational schools celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of vocational education in Kentucky, and as it took part in the observance Mayo State Vocational School, Paintsville, reviewed its 29-year history. The Sixth-Hughes Act of 1917 and the Vocational Act of 1963, which was introduced by Congressman Carl D. Perkins, provided federal funds to help make vocational education what it is today. For several years, vocational education was represented only by vocational agriculture and home economics courses that were taught in the high schools of the state.

The Mayo State Vocational School began in 1938 to provide trade education for Kentuckians of post high school, youth out of school, and adult age. The school opened for the first time as a vocational school in the fall of 1938, with A. L. Pigman as the first acting director, assisted by Carson Moore. At its opening the school offered courses in auto mechanics, drafting, electricity, machine shop and mining mechanics.

Trade training was something new for this section of the country, and the new school had its problems with enrollment, low budget for operation, and difficulty in hiring tradesmen to teach.

Later as the school slowly expanded, a department in radio repair and servicing was included in the curriculum. War defense training, with greater expansion in trade course offering of airplane mechanics and sheet metal, soon followed, along with a course in cosmetology. The regular staff at Mayo State was pressed into duty as trainers for defense industry. The shop building with the saw-tooth roof was erected to supplement the facilities of the old, red administration building, and at this time, a Department of Business was added.

The war brought a succession of directors. Mr. Pigman was replaced by Mr. Taylor, who was then replaced by Mr. Mathis, who in turn was succeeded by Mr. Huff.

In 1945 James L. Patton became director, assisted by Fred Martin, present state director of Trade and Industrial Education. After Mr. Martin's transfer to the Frankfort office, George L. Ramey became assistant to Mr. Patton. Under Mr. Patton's leadership the school continued to grow and expand. At this time the auto-body mechanics department was added. Mr. Patton served as director until November, 1952. He was called to Frankfort to fill the post of director of Vocational Education in Kentucky, and Mr. Ramey became director, with Luther S. Safriet as assistant director. Under their leadership, other new courses in the technical fields, such as diesel mechanics, industrial electronics, tool and die design, data processing, printing and communications were added.

The building housing the offices was erected in 1955 and in 1957 a structure to house business, machine shop and cosmetology was completed. Another building paralleling Third street was completed in 1963 and quickly filled to capacity. In this building the technical departments are located, along with instructors of related subjects.

A department for training of practical nurses was established in 1955. This department was able to expand after the federal bill on Practical Nursing passed in 1957. Other health occupations were added to Vocational Education under the Vocational Act of 1963.

The Mayo State Vocational School has grown from a few small buildings to a network of five extension centers serving 17 surrounding counties. The present enrollment is 1,400.

Further construction of shops and classroom buildings is due to take place this spring. One building will be erected on the site adjacent to the Science Building on Third street, Paintsville. Future plans call for a large building to replace the old administration building and the buildings surrounding it. This building will cover a large part of the slope in front of the boys dormitory.

Reed on Commission To Help in Planning Anniversary Program

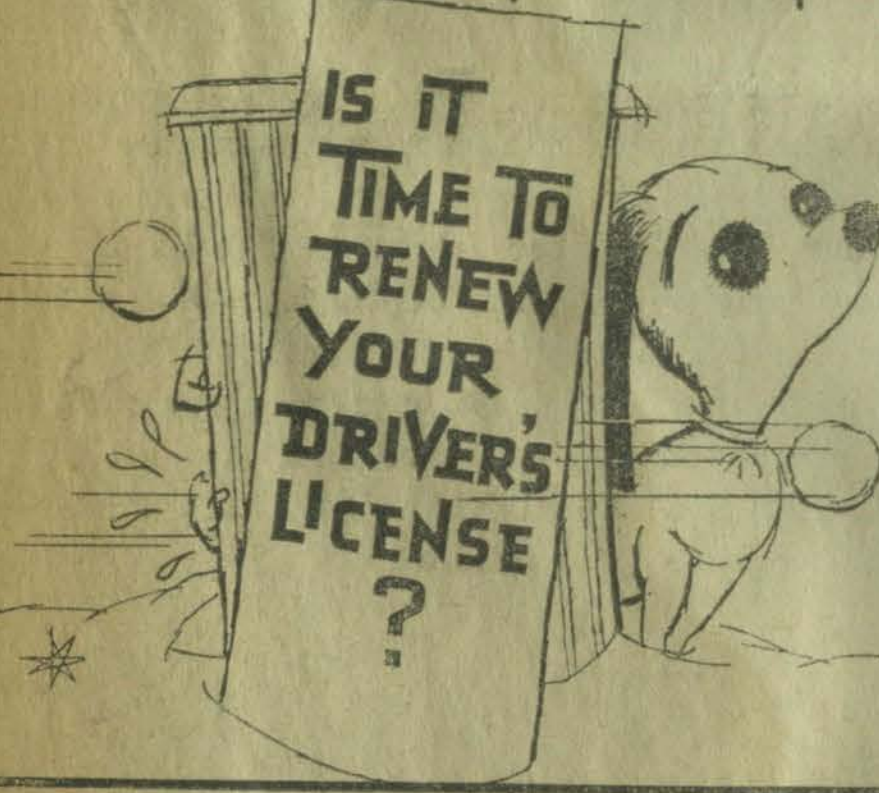

Rufus M. Reed, of Lovely, Ky., who writes "Nature Trails" for The Times, has been notified he has been appointed on the Governor's commission to help in the celebration of the state's 175th anniversary this year. A member has been appointed for each county to help in arranging proper programs, speaking dates and pageants for the celebration.

Kentucky became the 15th state of the Union on its admission as a state in 1792 during the first administration of George Washington. Before admission, the vast territory of Kentucky was a part of Virginia. The first capitol, Frankfort, has always remained as the seat of government. All schools, civic clubs and historians are urged to join in the celebration of the state's 175th anniversary. The schools are being urged to organize historical pageants, plays or programs depicting some phase of the state's development.

SIX NAMES ADDED
As a supplement to names of persons supplied to Floyd County Times a few weeks earlier, Charles F. NEGROES IN EAST KENTUCKY
The following brief monograph on the position of the Negro in Eastern Kentucky was given this column by a student of Prestonsburg Community College. It seems to be a well-stated analysis of the rise of the Negro from slavery to the enjoyment of full freedom in Eastern Kentucky and is herewith printed in full.
"The first Negroes were brought to Eastern Kentucky as slaves. Today, after the lapse of a century and a half, the Negro is free and enjoying the rights of citizens. Improvement in the position of the Negro in Eastern Kentucky following the Civil War was slow and gradual. Perhaps in no other section of the country was the improvement of the position of the Negro attained with as little hostility.
"Tradition tells us that Robert Meade, a Floyd county pioneer, brought a few slaves from Virginia and built a home on Big Mud Creek before he brought his family to the valley. After that a few other settlers brought slaves. There was no great economic need for slaves in the Big Sandy valley as it was not a great agricultural section like the Deep South. The 1810 Census of Floyd county shows the greatest number of slaves owned by any family as seven. No great numbers were ever imported.

"After the Civil War most slave families in the rural areas were given a tract of land by their former masters. On these tracts the Negroes lived but they increased slowly in numbers. They were completely segregated from the whites and had their own schools and churches.
"A typical example of the above is the Camp Branch settlement of Negroes at Tram in this county. It is a creek about one mile long and was given to a Negro family by one of the Laynes. This Negro family increased. There were many children and grandchildren. Other Negroes came to the little creek and married into the old Negro family. The settlement grew to about 20 homes.
"Early the Negroes had formed a church of the Baptist faith. The house was weatherboarded and the building was used as a school and as a church on Sundays. The teacher was hired by a white trustee although the Negro teacher's salary was paid by the county. Around 1918 the Rosenwald Foundation built a good schoolhouse at Tram for the Negro students and many began to get a good grade education.
"The Negroes earned a living by farming and working on the railroad as "section hands," or laborers. Many went away to work in coal mines in some other section of the valley or to West Virginia but always returned to their families on week-ends. Only a few were employed as domestics as the farmers of the area had incomes too small to hire maids or servants.

"There was almost perfect harmony between the Negroes of Camp Branch and the whites of the surrounding countryside from the time of the Civil War to the present day. Many whites worshipped at the Negro church and many times a colored minister from the creek preached at some nearby white church. One Negro community leader was Otto Gardner. He was elected as president of the local United Mine Workers union and mostly by white votes.
"Today, Negro children from Camp Branch attend the Betsy Layne high school and there is no friction. One Negro pupil was picked a few years ago by the faculty as the most outstanding student. No resentment followed from the white students.
"The development of the Camp Branch Negro community was typical of the development of many Eastern Kentucky Negro communities. However, in the coal company camps development was somewhat different. There the Negro lived in substandard houses, attended segregated schools for more than a century and in general had little association with the white community. Today, this segregated life of the Negro in the coal camp is breaking up. Negro children are attending white schools and the Negro economic condition is improving.
"The Negro votes in Eastern Kentucky with no difficulty whatever and instances of racial bias are rare. He has earned the respect of the white man by his industry and dedication to education."

The first lower bracket game Thursday evening is expected to be one of the outstanding features of the meet, with two of the county's top teams, McDowell and Maytown, engaged. Wheelwright will play Martin in the second game of the evening.

The semi-finals will be played at 7 and 8:30 Friday evening, and the championship game at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Here's how Floyd teams have fared in recent games:

Maytown defeated rival Martin 102-95 last Friday in a game marred by 54 fouls. Martin lost senior Bill Ousley early in the second period when he sprained an ankle, but teammates John Sammons (25 points) and Jackie Crisp (23 points) picked up the offensive attack. Mike Tallent paced the winners with 30 points, followed by Rudy Thacker with 22, Tom Stewart 11, Randy Click 14 and 6-6 center Jim Bailey 9. Maytown led 52-40 at halftime.

Maytown crushed Cordia 115-70 Saturday.

Joe Cooley, a 6-5 sophomore, sparked Prestonsburg over Paintsville 64-51 as he scored his season's high of 24 points. Senior Clyde Robinson canned 17 as the winners overcame a 17-10 first-period deficit to go ahead 29-23 at half-time. Harold Taylor was tops for Paintsville with 20 points, and Joe Porter tabbed 16.

Meade Memorial easily defeated Prestonsburg, Tuesday night, 83-57.

Wheelwright, playing its first game in a week, overpowered Johns Creek 73-62 as four starters registered in double figures. Dennis Holbrook led the way with 21 points.

Tommy Boyd's Betsy Layne Bobcats coasted to their 17th victory in throttling Virgie 86-51 Saturday. Doug Parsons, 6-5 senior center, scored 28 points for Betsy Layne, which led all the way.

McDowell lost two games—to Montgomery County, 70-56, and Franklin County, 88-68.

DENTAL HEALTH PROGRAM

When Kentucky's first dental health program was started in 1927, only 10 percent of Kentuckians were receiving regular dental checkups. Now more than 40 percent of the state's population is receiving this type of care, says Edward B. Gernert, director of dental health in the State Health Department.

UNREVERED

A schoolteacher from Boston who spent the week-end in San Antonio, Texas, hired a car and driver to show her the city and the surrounding sights. The driver took the teacher out to the Alamo and described how a handful of gallant Texans had fought 15,000 Mexican troops to a standstill. He then began extolling the virtues and bravery of the Texas Rangers and Texans in general.

Finally the schoolteacher managed to get a word in. "I come from Boston," she announced, "and our history is also replete with many heroes. I'm sure you've heard of Paul Revere. He —"

The driver interrupted. "Paul Revere, ma'am?" he scoffed. "You mean the guy who had to ride for help?"

Medicare Beneficiaries Told of '67 Deductibles

Medicare beneficiaries who had doctor bills in the last three months of 1966 that counted toward their $50 doctor bill insurance deductible may now count these same bills toward their deductible for this year, according to James Falk, acting social security district manager at Pikeville.

"If you did not have $50 worth of covered services under medical insurance before October 1, 1966," Mr. Falk told medicare beneficiaries in the Floyd county area, "the doctor bills you had in October, November and December before meeting your $50 deductible for 1966 can also count toward your 1967 deductible."

Under the medical insurance part of medicare, he explained, a beneficiary is responsible for the first $50 in a calendar year for covered services before medicare starts paying 80% of the rest of the bills. Beneficiaries should save their doctor bills and other bills for services covered by medical insurance until they reach $50.

A special rule applies for persons who do not have $50 worth of covered expenses in a year, or whose covered expenses do not reach $50 until the last three months of the year. In both situations, Falk said, any bills you had in the last three months of the year that counted toward part or all of your $50 deductible may be counted again for the next year's deductible.

"It is particularly important, then, for beneficiaries who received no payment under medical insurance in 1966 because they didn't meet their $50 deductible, to save their bills for October, November and December," he stressed. "If you have bills to show for the last three months, you may not have to pay all of the $50 deductible for this year."

For example, Mr. Falk said, suppose you visited the doctor once in August after medicare started on July 1, and the bill was for $20. You paid the bill because you knew that medical insurance would not start paying until after the first $50. Then, in November, you became ill and made several calls to the doctor for a total charge of $40. Since medicare starts paying after the first $50, you would receive $8.00 or 80% of the $10 you paid over the deductible. In addition, because your deductible was not met until the last three months of the year, (See Story No. 1, Page 2)

8-POINT PROGRAM PROPOSED BY KEA

The Kentucky Education Association has adopted a 1968 legislative program that calls for major revisions in the foundation program for education, a professional negotiation law, tax-rate autonomy for boards of education, and changes in certain retirement provisions for teachers.

Eight points in the legislative program, formulated by the KEA Delegate Assembly in a special two-day meeting in Louisville, stem from a report published last month by the KEA Committee for the Study of the Foundation Program. The report was entitled "Beyond the Minimum... A New Dimension for Kentucky's Foundation Program for Education."

The professional negotiation (PN) law, which will guarantee local education associations the right to a formal voice in the decision-making process in their school systems, will be presented in draft form to the April 12-14 session of the Delegate Assembly. Special-session delegates approved basic principles to be included in the law.

These were the eight points extracted from the foundation-program study and in some cases further refined by the Delegate Assembly:

1. Current Operating Expenses — The allotment for each approved classroom unit, now $900, should be increased to $1,100 in 1968-'69 and to $1,400 in 1969-'70.
2. Capital Outlay — The allotment for each approved classroom unit, now $600, should be increased to $900 in 1968-'69 and to $1,200 in 1969-'70.
3. Instructional Salaries — Allotments should provide in 1968-'69 a $5,000 beginning salary for approved-unit teachers in Rank III (bachelor's degree) with a 2% increment for each experience category through 10 years. In 1969-'70 the increment should be increased to 3%. This would mean that approved-unit Rank I teachers (master's degree, plus 30 hours or more) would receive a maximum allotment of $6,900 in 1968-'69 and $7,450 in 1969-'70.
4. Incentive Plan — Add to the foundation program a plan to reward districts that make more than a required minimum effort locally. The first appropriation should be made for the 1969-'70 year. No specific amount was recommended, however.
5. Tax-Rate Autonomy for Boards of Education — The statutory limitation on school-tax rates that may be set by elected local boards of education should be removed.
6. Special Education — Classroom-unit allotments should be increased to make it possible for all mentally and physically handicapped children to be enrolled in special classes.
7. Length of School Term — Five additional teaching days should be added to the present required minimum school term of 185 days with foundation-program allotments for salaries increased accordingly. The total school term would then be 9½ months.
8. Calculation of required local effort — Previous-year rather than current-year figures should be used in calculating the required amount that local districts must raise to participate fully in the foundation program. The change will permit school boards to prepare their budgets well ahead of the start of the school year.

$30 of your $40 bill in November would count toward your $50 deductible for 1967. After you have had $20 of covered expenses this year, medicare will begin paying 80% of the rest of your doctor's bills for the year.

The special rule would also apply if you didn't have enough covered expenses during the entire year to add up to the $50 deductible, he said. For example, suppose you had no doctor bills between July 1, when the program started, and October 1. In December you visited the doctor and received a $25 bill from him. Since you did not meet the $50 deductible for 1966, medicare would pay nothing toward the bill. Then, starting in 1967, even though it will be a new calendar year, the $25 bill you had in December would count toward your deductible. After another $25 of covered expenses, medicare will pay 80% of bills over that amount.

The Kentucky Area Development Office now has a consultant in Washington, D.C.

He is Harve W. Mobley, an Elliott county native, who until recently was special assistant to the Seventh Kentucky district's Congressman Carl D. Perkins.

The development office, headed by Robert W. Cornett, is the state agency that administers the Appalachian Regional Development Act and other federal-state programs in Kentucky.

Mobley's work is to gather information on new and pending legislation, new federal programs, administrative regulations, the status of Kentucky projects in federal agencies and other data vital to the administration of federal grants.

The development office expects Kentucky state government to receive nearly $400 million in federal money this year and local communities to receive many more millions direct from federal agencies.

Mobley's office in Washington will be at 1735 DeSales Street, Northwest, in the Broadcasting Building, in space occupied by Spindletop Research, Inc., and the University of Kentucky.

Mobley, a former school teacher, has worked as a federal agricultural statistician and with the Social Security Administration. He served on Perkins' staff 14 years.

Whereas, due recognition should be given not only to new industries, but to existing industries, who have so faithfully played the roles of good community citizens and

Whereas, the benefits of employment, including payrolls and taxes, makes for an effective economical balance in Kentucky communities

Therefore, I, Mayor of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, in cooperation with the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce and the Kentucky Department of Commerce, do hereby declare February 20-25, 1967, as INDUSTRY APPRECIATION WEEK for this city and by so doing, call upon the citizens of this city to participate in this worthwhile endeavor to recognize the industries of our community and the important place they hold in our community life.

Done at the City of Prestonsburg, this 18th day of February, 1967.

GEORGE P. ARCHER, M.D.
Mayor

Alice Lloyd Choir To Help Perry College

Cooperating with the efforts of Hazard to raise funds for establishment of a community college in Perry county, Alice Lloyd College has announced its VOICES FROM APPALACHIA, a 50-member capella choir, participated in a money-raising telethon Tuesday in Hazard.

In supporting a public junior college for a neighboring county, the Alice Lloyd administration said "it is only acting in accord with the college's avowed purpose—to help uplift the educational and cultural level of the young people of Eastern Kentucky."

The Alice Lloyd choir has just returned from a week-long tour of Florida, where it sang in churches in Jacksonville, Miami, Orlando, St. Cloud and Clearwater. Under the direction of Alice Lloyd music instructor Abner H. Greider, the choir specializes in ballads and spirituals common to the Appalachian region.

Currently the choir is preparing for its annual spring tour, which this year will include appearances in New York, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin.

AN ANNUAL DANGER POINT

In all my years of studying customs I cannot recall that any husband, in suing for a divorce, named the annual spring house-cleaning as a cause of marital unhappiness. And yet, after fifty-three years of living through this yearly hectic time, I am surprised that it is not placed among the troubles that flesh is heir to, especially household troubles.

There seems to be nothing new about this disturbing time. One of the best essays on the subject was written by one of the signers of the Constitution. In colonial and later days houses were whitewashed. In addition to having all the furniture out of place, there was the strong scent of lime for days on end after the spring riot of cleaning.

House-cleaning at Fidelity followed a regular pattern, almost a patented process. Nice folks had carpets on at least two rooms: the living room and the front room. It took a lot of moving of furniture into other rooms or out into the yard to get ready to "take up" a carpet. Tacks around the edges had to be pried loose and pulled out, with frequent tearing of nails and restrained language. Then the whole dusty carpet was taken out and hung on a clothesline or a fence and fairly beaten to pieces. Under the carpet had been placed fresh wheat straw at the previous house-cleaning. All this dusty straw had to be swept up and taken out; then the floor was washed and scrubbed and allowed some hours to dry again before the carpet or another one, especially if a new one had recently been made, was tacked down over the fresh straw.

In the interim between the old carpet and the next one all the furniture had to be gone over. Successive layers of varnish on furniture that has survived show how painfully we tried to keep up appearances. A rite at our house survives in my memory better than anything else. Having bedbugs was considered a disgrace. Father, with his knowledge of medicine, saw to it that we had a big bottle of corrosive sublimate for the spring house-cleaning. We would take a stiff turkey feather and poke into a bottle of the bad-smelling stuff and then stick the dripping feather into every joint where the bed rails fitted into the headboard and footboard. Maybe that is why I have still to see my first bedbug. Anyway we endured the horrible smell for many nights with a sort of virtuous feeling that we were safe from bites and from being looked down on by the neighbors.

Wall paper began to be used in some of the houses at Fidelity in my early childhood. Since just about every house was celled, that entailed a lot of tacking of canvas over the walls and ceilings. Many a beautiful ceiled room became an ugly place with some of the wallpaper that was put on. But, again, a house that had wallpaper had advanced for its occupants another step upwards in the social world.

Now, three quarters of a century after the first house-cleaning in my life, I am still around, unbiten by bedbugs, not overcome with the odor of corrosive sublimate, not stifled by the paint or varnish on the furniture. And, with all the nervous times of the season, I am still married to the same wife of 1913, the first and only one and a great devotee of house-cleaning. And I have been wielding some paint brushes, too, not on furniture but on woodwork; and the smell of indoor paint and floor cleaners and of floor polish is abroad in the land.

MEASLES VACCINE

Frankfort, Ky. — "We are pleased with the success of the measles eradication program in Franklin county," says Dr. Russell E. Teague, State Health Commissioner. The measles immunization was conducted at 11 clinics in Franklin county schools because more than 285 cases of red measles had been reported in the county in three weeks. The vaccine was made available to all elementary school children who had not had the measles or the vaccine. During the next two months the State Health Department will extend the program into 30 more counties.

The annual convention of the Kentucky Association of Future Farmers of America is held in Louisville, usually the first week in June.

P'burg Ag Students Observe FFA Week

Vocational agriculture students in Prestonsburg high school joined Future Farmers of America across the nation in activities to focus attention on the importance of agriculture during National FFA Week, February 18-25.

"Agriculture . . . Strength of America" is this year's FFA Week theme.

The Prestonsburg high school FFA Chapter has 80 members. Officers of the chapter are Larry Hicks, president; Cecil Neeley, vice-president; Eugene Prater, secretary; Jim Dotson, treasurer; Gold Slone, reporter, and Larry Slone, sentinel. Lloyd Wells is the chapter advisor.

Approximately 1,100 Kentucky FFA members get leadership experience each year by serving as officers of local chapters.

No Walleye Fishing Permitted In State, February and March

Just in case one of these bright February days might suggest a trip to Elkhorn City or some other spot where walleye may be caught, this warning:

The State Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission has closed the walleye season during February and March to allow a better spawn of fry. Walleye, the commission said, usually spawn during these months and the curb is designed to prevent anglers from taking adult fish just ready to spawn.

Fishermen who catch walleyes during this period are requested by the commission to handle the fish gently and release them unharmed.

The Commission also closed indefinitely Barren River Reservoir near Glasgow to all walleye fishing. Fisheries Director Bernie Carter explained that the lake, which was stocked with walleye early last year, is designed to be a source of this fish for stocking in other state lakes. He said the stocked fish must be protected for at least four years to give them a chance to mature and produce eggs for stocking purposes.

The Commission set 30 inches as the minimum size limit for muskies, another game fish. It ordered further study of a site for a half-million dollar freshwater fish hatchery.

RESEARCH GROUP REPORTS ON 6 REGIONAL HOSPITALS

The Kentucky Legislative Research Commission reports that a survey of the Kentucky hospitals in the Appalachian Regional Hospitals system found them to be community hospitals "in the finest sense of the word."

Furthermore, the survey report stated, the six non-profit hospitals "are maintaining the highest standards of service."

The survey was undertaken at the request of the Kentucky legislature, which in 1963 supported the establishment of Appalachian Regional Hospitals as an independent, non-profit corporation. ARH acquired a group of hospitals built in the mid-1950's by the Miners Memorial Hospital Association, a subsidiary of the United Mine Workers Welfare and Retirement Fund. Besides the six Kentucky hospital, ARH has two in West Virginia and one in Virginia.

The survey was conducted by the hospital consultant firm of Jacques B. Norman and Associate, Greenville, South Carolina.

The firm reported the following other conclusions as a result of its survey:

That Appalachian Regional Hospitals has been able to "hold the line on their operating costs" while other hospitals throughout
