tion if the federal government approved several parks grants.

The governor said the 1965 bond money would be shifted to meet federal grants should they be approved.

"We intend to exert every effort to get approval for these additional grants," he said.

Applications are pending in Washington for grants for Carter Cave State Park, Buckhorn State Park, Kingdom Come State Park, Lake Cumberland State Park, Pine Mountain Park and Rough River State Park.

nanced, the governor said, through federal grants and state revenue bonds. A federal grant of $268,324 for the Prestonsburg college is being sought, but this, presumably, would be a part of the $900,000 mentioned for construction here.

Academic buildings will also be built at Community colleges in Ashland, Elizabethtown, Henderson, Hopkinsville, Somerset, Covington and Cumberland.

In addition, the state plans to spend $4,350,000 in renovation and new construction at the old Louisville Presbyterian Seminary where a UK-University of Louisville college is to be located.

"We plan to get all the projects under way before this administration leaves office in December," Breathitt said in a speech prepared for delivery before the second annual meeting of the UK Community College Advisory Board members.

The projects, he said, are "badly needed to accommodate thousands of young Kentuckians who want to go on to higher education."

Enrollment at the nine existing community colleges is now 5,473 students. It has been estimated that the enrollment will increase by 1972—when the system will include additional community colleges at Hazard, Maysville and Jefferson county—to about 13,500. It is estimated that the enrollment at Prestonsburg Community College will reach 1,350 by that date and 3,000 by 1980.

Funds totaling $2.6 million, which were included in the $18.5 million total, have already been earmarked for construction of the Hazard and Maysville colleges.

A BREATHING SPELL

Postmen, boxholders and just everybody got some surcease from that flood of "junk mail" this week because the direct mail advertisers hadn't got their mailing lists zipped up properly. When I think of some of the tripe that gets through the mails at low rates and at the expense of all of us, I appreciate the remark of the man who said, "The mail must go through, but from the looks of some I get, I wonder what."

FAIR EXCHANGE

Then there was the teacher who sent this note to the home of each of her pupils, at the beginning of the term: "If you promise not to believe everything your child says happens at school, I'll promise not to believe everything he says happens at home."

THE ODD-BALL

Once upon a time householders and holders of fiefdoms, earldoms and the like, and owners of small plots alike were taxed more heavily than usual. This having taken place before the days of tape-recorders and wire-taps and a lot of other gadgets, the noises which arose from the populace are not of record. But it is yet told that some growled savagely, others moaned piteously, with the remainder of the population sending up an odd admixture of threats, oaths, pleas and keeping walls.

Then, finally, there turned up this character who soberly regarded his tax bill, cocked an ear to the cacophony, then remarked:

"This is the greatest nation on earth. I am proud to be a part of it, even to be a taxpayer."

Whereat some ruffianly fellows yelled for the tar bucket and sack of feathers. "Come and gaze upon this," they yelled. "We have a patriot on our hands!"

I am not entirely in agreement with the fellow who declares golf is a good game because it gives a fellow a chance to be a pedestrian without the danger of being run over. But what about the danger of being driven through?

She also leaves 38 grandchildren.

Seminar at Frankfort Scheduled January 18 For Pollution Study

Frankfort, Ky. — Plans for a one-day seminar on January 18 for Kentucky public officials and civic leaders on solid waste pollution problems were announced this week by the Kentucky State Department of Health and the Public Health Service-US Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The seminar is the first in a series of orientation sessions on solid waste which the Public Health Service plans to conduct in cooperation with other state health departments.

"Solid waste" is the technical term for municipal, industrial and agricultural refuse. Food-stuffs, packaging materials, plastics, glass, rags and metal items, from bottle caps to junked automobiles, are all part of the solid waste disposal problem.

The seminar will be presented in the Kentucky State Department of Health Auditorium, 275 E. Main Street, Frankfort, Kentucky, at 8:30 a.m. (EST).

PART WE&T PLAYED IN PARK HERE TOLD

By NELLO J. FRANCIS
(Floyd County Project Supervisor, WE&T)

The people of Floyd county, and especially of Prestonsburg, can be proud of Archer Park. Under the able and constant supervision of Mayor George P. Archer and City Manager Curtis Clark, Archer Park has become a reality. How much of this could have been accomplished had it not been for the Work Experience and Training participants, known as the "Happy Pappies," who are responsible for the actual labor on the construction of the Archer Park?

I would like to point out some of the accomplishments by the participants of the Work Experience and Training program.

Out of the materials and fixtures salvaged from the old courthouse, a gymnasium, the old Brown Hotel, and several other buildings that were donated to the City of Prestonsburg, the "Happy Pappies" have constructed two-story brick-veneer buildings. One is a 40 by 120-foot recreation building, containing two public toilets with eight shower stalls. The upstairs is made of hardwood floors and will serve as a gym and theatre, and the pavilion on the ground floor is of concrete and will serve as an open-air picnic shelter. This building contains 9,600 square feet of floor space.

The second building contains 6,940 square feet with a modern, five-room apartment upstairs, which serves as a living quarter for the caretaker. It has hardwood floors, built-in wall and base cabinets, and a modern bathroom. The ground floor of this building has a concrete floor and will serve as a storage and repair space for material and equipment.

In addition to these two buildings, the men of the Work Experience and Training program who are assigned to Prestonsburg have constructed an 800-seat outdoor theatre, built a quarter-mile horseshoe ring, excavated a seven-acre fairground for the Floyd County Fair Board, made a Little League and a senior league baseball diamond, six tennis courts, and two basketball courts. The workers have constructed two playgrounds and equipped them with 25 pieces of play equipment which were also built by these men. They have built a half-mile wood fence around the playground, put up a quarter-mile of chain link fence around the swimming pool and tennis courts, poured 800 cubic yards of concrete, repaired and maintained 10 pieces of equipment, including trucks, tractors, cement mixers, an end loader and power mowers. Some of the men are physically unable to do hard work, so they are kept busy collecting and disposing rubbish.

The plumbing and electrical wiring on the two buildings, which were required to pass state code inspection, was installed by the "Happy Pappies." They also hung $5,000 worth of Christmas decorations in Prestonsburg. Some men have been trained in the skills of carpentry, brick-laying, plumbing, electrical wiring, equipment operators, welding, mechanics and other skills. Several of the WE&T participants assigned to Prestonsburg have acquired their high school equivalency certificates, and others have their eighth grade certificates through the attendance of the adult educational classes.

The men of the Work Experience and Training program take a great deal of pride in the Archer Park projects.

When the United States Shoe Company decided to establish a shoe factory near Prestonsburg, the problem of finding suitable space to train its personnel was faced. Mayor Archer conducted a tour with some of the officials of the company to find an adequate building. There was none available. It was suggested that a building at Archer Park be used for this purpose. Before the shoe company could move equipment into the building, additional work had to be done in a short time.

The mayor requested that we assign the additional Work Experience and Training participants to the project in order to complete the building on schedule. With the approval of County Judge Henry Stumbo and Magistrate Bill Wells, several men were transferred from the fiscal court project to Prestonsburg to assist in completing the building at Archer Park on schedule.

On December 12, 1966, the United States Shoe Company began the training of personnel at Archer Park with 22 trainees. The only man in the group is a Work Experience and Training participant.

I wonder if the shoe company in Prestonsburg would be a reality at this time, had it not been for the "Happy Pappies" of the Work Experience and Training Program.

REEVES SEES 1967 A POLITICAL MIXUP

Kentucky citizens will elect a new governor in 1967. Politically, it is "a mixed up" situation, according to Prof. J. E. Reeves, of the University of Kentucky Department of Political Science.

"Both Democratic and Republican nominations are in doubt. There is no leading candidate on either side," he says.

"The fight for the Republican nomination between Nunn and Cook bids fair to be a real fight, with the outcome in doubt."

The Democratic primary also is in doubt, largely due to the entry of David Trapp, a heretofore political unknown who has announced an entirely new approach to Kentucky politics, he continues.

"No one knows what the outcome will be when a person with lots of money to spend on his campaign gets into a race, so it is uncertain. It could be Trapp, or Chandler or Ward who will emerge as the winner."

He adds that it is not an easy election to predict, "considering the growing strength of the Republicans throughout the country. There is a good chance the Republicans could win."

Prof. Reeves concedes that the national situation "does not necessarily" influence the state situation.

"In this country, elections are state elections. Taken plurally, they make up the national picture. Trends can be seen throughout the country, and in Kentucky also. Partywise, the trend is toward the Republicans. Republicans have a better chance."

The UK professor explains that he is a Democrat, and "I am not conceding the election. But the national situation mirrors—rather than influences—the state situation. There seems to be a conservative trend away from some of the progressive measures of the recent past."

Commenting on the recent constitutional amendment vote outcome, Prof. Reeves, who served in the Constitutional Revision Assembly, said: "There is no immediate prospect of doing anything more about it after the recent resounding defeat at the hands of the voters — except by amendment."

"It might be possible to revise or 'water down' some of the amendments, and pass them two at a time. If the constitution could be amended to permit five amendments at one time, and the big, broad, issues were submitted to the people, a good job could be done toward bringing the document up to date after about ten amendments."

There is always another way to get the people interested in a new constitution, he said.

"If the Court of Appeals, with two new members, buckles down and enforces the present constitution, including going back to the $12,000 per year salary limitation, right to the letter—then you might get revision right away."

TO PRESENT RECITAL
Miss Joan Gilson, a new member of the faculty at Pikeville College, will present a piano recital at 3:30 p.m., Sunday, in Faith Chapel. The works she will be performing are: Partita No. 5 by J. S. Bach, Sonata in G minor by Schumann, Sonata Klavier by Berg, and Le Tombeau de Couperin by Ravel.

The director of the University of Kentucky Bureau of Business Research sees a continuation of the economic development of Kentucky counties during 1967, and a greater promise for the years ahead.

Dr. John L. Fulmer added that the steadily increasing level of education among men over 25 years of age is the greatest contributing factor to economic growth in the state.

"High levels of income have always had a strong relationship to high levels of education," he said. "In present times, the importance of this fact cannot be over-estimated."

He said that a close study by the Bureau indicated that those counties where a relatively high percentage of males over 25 have four years of high school or more, "are generally prosperous, and incomes are higher."

Dr. Fulmer's study reveals that Kentucky counties all show, over a 10-year period, a steadily increasing level of education among these men. Some of the counties, he said, show an increase as high as 300 percent, as in Meade county; Martin county shows a 100 percent increase, and McCracken county 40 percent.

"These and related positive factors point to the growing potential for leadership in the Commonwealth," he continued. "It is an encouraging study because it can be related to another reassuring correlative—our counties are holding relatively more of their young leadership from a decline in loss by out-migration."

Dr. Fulmer praised the efforts of state development agencies to promote new industry and said they were contributing greatly to the decrease in "out-migration" of potential leaders—through continuing success in bringing new industries into more areas of the state.

"Taken in their entirety, these facts point to a continuation of this trend in 1967. The rate of education in community development will grow in importance not only in 1967 but also in the years ahead."

He said it was the duty of each community to look to the development of its own leaders, and that such development in turn will promote new regional industries, filling managerial positions in those industries with local men of good education.

Sanitation Required Of Coffee-Serving Service Stations

Informed that some service stations have added the serving of coffee to their services, Dr. Russell Teague, commissioner of health, recently cited certain requirements which must be met. The need of control of coffee-serving was based on the feeling that this could easily lead into a fuller food service operation with the serving of doughnuts and sandwiches.

Dr. Teague's comment, forwarded to the Floyd County Health Department, pointed out that the serving of coffee at service stations requires facilities for cleaning the coffee-maker and that these facilities must be an integral part of the establishment and be separate from other sources using water. In addition, cups should be dispensed in an approved dispenser, individual portions of sugar should be available and that individual spoons be provided from an approved dispenser.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE LINK WITH UK TO BE STUDIED

A community college council of student presidents met with a University of Kentucky conference group, Tuesday and Wednesday, to discuss common problems and attempt to form a common link with the main campus at Lexington.

They will be guests of the UK Board of Trustees and the Community College System faculty and staff at the second annual Community College Conference at Lexington's Phoenix hotel.

The eight-member council was formed at a breakfast meeting in Lexington in early December to "keep UK abreast of the problems of the community colleges," and parallels in organization the Lexington campus' President's Council on Students. The group has not yet adopted an official title.

They will be guests of community college faculty at the annual faculty dinner on Tuesday night. Governor Edward T. Breathitt will speak.

The students will be available to consult with members of the community college advisory boards and others attending the conference, including representatives of Kentucky's private junior colleges, who have been invited to participate in the two-day event.

At the recent meeting, the students spoke of "our relationship to UK," and "a lack of academic and athletic competition among the colleges." They also said an aim was "to create more pride in the respective colleges."

The eight members are Danny Bruce Looney, of Paintsville, representing Prestonsburg Community College; George Hagan, New Haven, Elizabethtown college; Miss Diana Soltess, Cumberland, Southeast college; Jerry Booher, Burnside, Somerset college; Richard Hughes, Ashland, Ashland College; John Owen Nichols, Princeton, Hopkinsville college; Dale Chapman, Walton, Northern college at Covington, and Timothy Wayne Martin, Henderson,

Martin Man Named To College 'Who's Who'

Gary K. Frazier, a senior at Morehead State University, has been named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Students recognized by this organization each year are nominated from approximately 800 colleges and universities. The student is selected on the basis of scholarship, participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, citizenship and service to the school and his potential for future usefulness.

Frazier will graduate in January with a degree in sociology and business. He is a member of Circle K, a service club; Gamma Theta Lambda, a social club; and Phi Beta Lambda, a business honorary.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherrill Frazier, of Martin, Frazier is a 1963 graduate of Martin high school.

State Tournament Information Given

The 1967 State High School Basketball Tournament will be held in Freedom Hall, Kentucky Fairgrounds and Exposition Center, Louisville, on March 15-18. The first session will be on Wednesday evening; and there will be three sessions on Thursday, two on Friday and two on Saturday.

On or after February 1, 1967, State Tournament Ticket Sales, P.O. Box 1173, Lexington, Kentucky, 40501, will accept mail orders for complete sets of tournament tickets. These orders will be filled after the schools have received the tickets allotted to them under the plan of distribution set up by the K. H. S. A. A. Board of Control. The school orders will take all the box seats on the sides, all the chair seats below the boxes and chair seats lower down in the center chair sections.

PAINTSVILLE GROCER FINED ON FOOD STAMP CHARGE
 Atlanta, Ga. — The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced that a Paintsville, Ky., grocer and two employees have been fined a total of $450 plus costs for violations of its food stamp program.
 The grocer is Clyde E. Blevins, owner of Clyde's Shopping Center at Paintsville, USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports.
 United States Attorney George I. Cline said that Blevins and two cashiers, Miss Virginia Sparks and Mrs. Gracie Cordeal, were indicted by a grand jury sitting in the Eastern District of Kentucky at Pikeville for irregularities in accepting food stamp coupons.
 The three defendants entered pleas of guilty at Pikeville on December 5, and were fined as follows: Clyde Blevins, $300, plus $11.67 costs; Miss Sparks, $100, plus $11.67 costs; and Mrs. Gracie Cordeal, $50, plus $11.67 costs.
 Clyde's Shopping Center was disqualified from participating in USDA's food stamp for a period of 30 days, effective June 4. The Consumer and Marketing Service complaint alleged that the store repeatedly sold ineligible items for food stamp coupons.
 Prior to this administrative action by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Blevins was advised by Russell H. James, director of C&M's's southeast district Consumer Food Programs Office at Atlanta, that disqualification did not preclude further action by the Department of Justice.
 The Consumer and Marketing Service continually reviews program activities in all food stamp areas. Investigations are made periodically to insure compliance with the program regulations.
