P'BURG-INEZ ROUTE SLATED THIS YEAR

NEW US 23 NOT READY, IS REPORT

Department Spokesman Flood Control Work Is Partially Funded

A record budget of almost half a billion dollars for Kentucky roads and bridges for the fiscal year ending next June 30 has been approved, but the only major Floyd county project included is the Inez-Prestonsburg road.

This statement was made Wednesday by a Department of Highways spokesman in response to an inquiry by The Times.

Other Floyd county contracts were not definitely precluded from the fiscal year's operations, but the department spokesman said design and planning have not reached the stage that would justify a prediction of contract-letting before next June 30.

He referred, specifically, to the new US 23 route from Prestonsburg to Allen, the bridge across the Big Sandy at Lancer and the road up Bull Creek to connect at Water Gap with new US 23.

The 1967-68 budget figures, released last Thursday by Highway Commissioner Mitchell W. Tindler, show planned spending in three broad classes:

1. General operations, $148.3 million, $15.3 million more than last fiscal year.
2. Interstate and Appalachian highways, and other federal-state projects, $231.2 million.
3. Toll parkways, financed by state revenue bonds, $48.1 million.

THE MURDERED ENGLISH

There was the fellow who, passing a construction job, remarked, "See you're putting up a new building."
"Yes, sir," said the foreman. "That's the only kind we build, nowadays."
But those of us who say, "building a new building" do no greater injustice to the language than those who speak of "the widow of the late so-and-so," or "the meeting will be held this evening at 6 p.m."

James W. Spradlin, 51, Formerly of Bonanza, Indiana Crash Victim

James W. Spradlin, 51, a former Floyd county resident, lost his life recently in the crash of a semi-trailer and a pickup truck on Indiana state road 13 and US 24, north of Wabash, Indiana. Mr. Spradlin was killed instantly. He was the son of Kell and Lillia Spradlin, of Bonanza, and was born May 14, 1916 at Dungannon, Va. He had resided in Indiana for the past 26 years.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Alex Ratliff, Claypool, Ind.; three daughters, Mrs. Ralph Clary, Columbia City, Ind., Mrs. Thomas Duhmig and Mrs. Robert Cook, both of Ft. Wayne, Ind.; two sisters, Mrs. Milo Griffith and Mrs. Ernest Leedy, both of Warsaw. He also leaves three grandsons and two granddaughters. His father and one sister, Beatrice McIntosh, preceded him in death.

WOMAN HELD UNDER BOND

Wheelwright Man, Hit By Housewife's Shot, In Serious Condition

A revolver bullet fired by a middle-aged Weedsburg housewife dangerously wounded a young Wheelwright man, late Sunday afternoon, and she is being held under $2,500 bond pending a hearing here next Monday.

Mrs. Dora Sammons, wife of Brown Sammons, is accused of firing a .38-caliber bullet into the abdomen of Ernest Hall. The bullet, it was said, passed through the man's liver.

Hall's condition has been serious at the McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital, but it is believed he will recover.

Sheriff Joe W. Lewis quoted Mrs. Sammons as saying Hall and another man came to her home, bringing rocks with them, and that she was hit on the leg and her husband on his head before she fired.

The wounded man, in a statement made to Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo Monday night, said he and Clyde Branham started walking around the hill at the Sammons place and that Mr. Sammons ordered them to go back. He said that as they moved ahead Sammons threw a piece of a wagon, hitting him, that he replied with a stone which hit Sammons, and Mrs. Sammons then began shooting.

Branham told Sheriff Lewis that he, Hall and "Peanut" Stone had driven to the vicinity of the Sammons home in Stone's car, that Stone was drinking and he and Hall decided to slip away from Stone. This version of the affair says that the two were walking through the Sammons yard when Mr. Sammons ordered (See Story No. 2, Page 6)

CHEWNING IS LAKE VICTIM

Stanville Youth, 18, Is Second To Drown In Reservoir This Year

Wayne Chewning, 18-year-old Stanville youth, Tuesday evening became the second person to drown in Dewey Lake this year.

Young Chewning, a graduate of Betsy Layne high school, drowned at 6:45 p.m. as he was swimming from a boat, a short distance above the Goble Branch arm of the lake. The tragedy occurred in about 40 feet of water.

Chewning's body was recovered by the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad, three hours later.

With Chewning at the time of the accident were Walter Hall and Willis Adkins, both of Stanville. According to them, Chewning jumped from the boat into the water, and did not resurface. After waiting a short time for him to reappear, they made several dives in a vain attempt to find him. They then called the Rescue Squad.

The first Dewey Lake tragedy this year was recorded April 8 when James Hamilton, of Beaver, drowned after his boat capsized.

Chewning was the son of the Rev. Wallace Chewning and Norma Lyle Chewning, both of whom survive. He was a member of the Harold Missionary Baptist Church, of which his father is pastor.

He has no surviving brothers or sisters.

Funeral services will be held today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. at the chapel of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home. Another service will be conducted Saturday at 1 p.m. from the Keightley Funeral Home at Hopkinsville, Ky. Burial will be made in the Greenhill Memorial Gardens at Hopkinsville.

LYLE NO. 2 JAILED HERE

Brother of Man Held In Auto Crash Death Booked on 3 Counts

Arthur Lyle, Jr., who is in jail here on a manslaughter charge in connection with the car-wreck death of a 20-month-old child, was joined Tuesday by his brother, Tommy. The latter, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Silas DeRossett, was at first held for investigation and later named on counts of breaking and entering, armed robbery and possession of stolen property. He is being held for Muhlenburg county authorities.

Arthur Lyle was jailed July 3 after his auto had collided, near Buckingham, with that of Paul Layne, of Chicago, resulting in the fatal injury of the Layne's daughter, Paula Jean. Lyle fled the scene of the tragedy and later was arrested by state troopers in Knott county.

Others booked at the county jail within the week, charges lodged against each and names of arresting officers follow:

Arnold L. Blackburn, driving while intoxicated and without operator's license, by Sheriff Lewis and Deputy Sheriff Engle; Franklin Delano King, driving while intoxicated and escaping custody of an officer, booked by Sheriff Lewis and ABC Agent C. A. Flanery; Ernest Butcher and H. B. Maynard, possessing moonshine whiskey, Deputy Sheriffs DeRossett, Engle and Martin; State Trooper Herron; Freeman Little, drunk driving and operating on a revoked license, by State Trooper E. B. Allen and Lt. Lykins; Larry Heston Shortridge, excessive speeding, Police-men Sam Hale and Bill Booth.

Sgt. Patton (right) receives the Silver Star medal from his commanding officer.

SGT. PATTON IS AWARDED SILVER STAR FOR HEROISM

Marine Sgt. Donald Ray Patton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Patton, of Prestonsburg, has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action against the enemy in Vietnam. His promotion to the rating of sergeant followed this action.

The Silver Star is the second award for heroism to be made to Patton. Earlier, he received the Vietnam Cross of Gallantry with Palm.

The citation accompanying the Silver Star was made for the President by Maj. F. C. Tharin, U. S. Marine Corps. It reads, in part:

"For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action while serving with Company D, Third Reconnaissance Battalion, Third Marine Division on 19 December, 1966, in connection with operations against the enemy. . . During a nine-man reconnaissance patrol deep into enemy control-

ELECTRIC CHAIR IDLE IN BREATHITT TERM

Roy Salisbury, of this county, defeated by Appellate Court action any thoughts entertained that the state would exact of him the supreme penalty during the administration of Gov. Breathitt for the slaying, near Drift, of Mrs. Mallie Denney.

As Breathitt enters the last six months of his term of office it appears unlikely that anybody will die in the electric chair during his administration.

The reversal of Salisbury's death sentence was by 5-1 vote, on the grounds that "hearsay" evidence introduced at the trial of Salisbury was incompetent and should not have been per-

COURT, BOARD VOTE 10% TAX INCREASES

The 10 percent tax increases permitted by state law were voted last week by both the Floyd Fiscal Court and the Floyd County Board of Education after public hearings had been advertised and nobody had appeared before either the court or the board to discuss the proposed increase.

The court originally had hoped to hold its budget to a figure that would not require the additional tax, but its sponsorship of certain federal projects and loss of franchise revenues made the increase necessary, it was explained.

Wayne Ratliff, assistant superintendent of Floyd county schools, said the necessity for the additional 10 percent tax for the

$65,000 OK'd ON PLANNING

Martin-Beaver Creek Flood Control Work Is Partially Funded

The planning phase of stream improvement at Martin is expected to be started soon, since the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives Tuesday passed the Public Welfare Appropriations Bill which included $65,000 for that purpose. The Senate had previously approved the appropriation.

When the proposed stream improvement work is done, it is expected to entail the expenditure of more than $3 million.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins, in announcing House approval of planning funds, said the project will include dredging and deepening of Beaver Creek to where the stream joins the Big Sandy at Allen. The work is expected to begin at or near the forks of Beaver, upstream from Martin.

The stream improvement work is sought as a flood control measure.

2 CENTERS TO OPEN FOR HEALTH WORK

Mrs. Branham Asks Damages of $75,000 In Action Filed Here

Claiming that her injuries are permanent and that they resulted from the careless and negligent operation of defendant's auto, Maude Fitzpatrick Branham last week filed in circuit court here a $75,000 damage suit against Franklin D. Goble, of Auxier.

Mrs. Branham says in her action that she was hit by Goble's car as she walked along or beside the highway, near David. Date of the accident was placed at or about July 11, last year.

The $75,000 total is asked for five reasons: $30,000 for permanent and temporary injuries; $20,000 for pain and suffering; $10,000 for medical, hospital and doctors' bills; $5,000 for bodily and facial disfigurement; $5,000 for loss of ability to work and transact business.

A jury trial is requested.

EARLY START ON PROGRAM IS PREDICTED

Top Personnel Named To Direct Operation Throughout County

Dr. Russell L. Hall, Floyd county health officer, said last week that two of the centers to be operated under the comprehensive health program recently financed by the federal government will be opened within the next two to three months.

One of these will be in the Clear Creek area of Left Beaver Creek; the other, in the Bull Creek-Dwale area.

The program, which will involve health work reaching out to the most isolated parts of the county, will, if continued for the five years originally planned, result in an expenditure of $6 to $7 million. The initial OEO grant was $469,175.

Dr. Hall said the post of program administrator has been eliminated. Mrs. Helen B. Wells has been granted a year's leave of absence from the Floyd Community Action Program and will serve the health program as coordinator. Don McQueen, former Eastern Kentucky sales representative of Moore Business Forms, Inc., is assistant coordinator, and Carl Gore, of Wheelwright, is bookkeeper.

Offices for the health program will occupy 5,200 square feet of space, mainly in the basement of the new health department annex here. The work of partitioning the area into offices is under way.

Dr. Hall said professional and technical personnel, secretaries and clerks are now being employed. These, he said, represent only about 10 percent of all who eventually will be hired with the opening of all centers planned for full work of the program.

Applications for employment will be kept on file for use as a greater number of workers is needed.

The three priorities proposed for the work to be done are:

1. A pediatric program for indigent children, age one to school age.
2. A diagnostic program for the elderly indigent.
3. A program of locating handicapped persons who are not beneficiaries of a rehabilitation program.

Ordination, Installation Of New Pastor Planned

The ordination of the Rev. Milton E. Skiff and his installation as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here will be held at the church Wednesday, July 19, at 8 p.m.

A reception at the church, in honor of the new pastor and his family, will follow the service.

COAL FIRMS DONATE SITE

For Educational TV Tower Near Hazard, Director Announces

Three Eastern Kentucky coal companies are donating a piece of land to the state for an educational television transmitter site and they are giving up $20,000 worth of coal to do it.

O. Leonard Press, executive director of the Kentucky Authority for Educational Television, said the Kentucky River Coal and the Hazard Coal Corporations, owners of the land, and the Foursome Corporation, the leasing company, are deeding a mountain-top tower site to the state and have agreed not to mine a fair-sized coal seam which lies under it. They included this provision in the deed (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

TWO NAMED BY GIRL, 13

Accuses Floyd Pair In Ohio Morals Case, Warrants Are Issued

Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis this week said Ironton, Ohio authorities have identified the Floyd county couple named in a warrant charging them with attempting unnatural sexual acts with a 13-year-old girl as John P. Meade and his wife, Edith Meade, of Printer.

The sheriff said the same couple has been named in warrants sworn out in this county by the girl, accusing them of banding together for an unlawful purpose.

Officers have to date failed to locate the couple.

The Ironton charges were filed in Lawrence county juvenile court (See Story No. 5, Page 6)

EVEN REA ELECTION WAXES WARM HERE

Get Floyd countians involved in an election—any election—and you have, as a rule, a matter of some heat on your hands.

Even a rural electric cooperative election such as is scheduled to be held here today (Thursday) to name three directors to the Big Sandy RECC.

What amounts to an open split on the RECC board of directors appears to have developed. Bradis Goble, one of the incumbents seeking reelection, is running with two newcomers, John Ed Shepherd, of West Prestonsburg, and Hawley Scott, of Garrett. The other two incumbents, Herbert Younce, of West Prestonsburg, and Arnold Lowe, of Easton, have newcomer Jim Cramer, of Prestonsburg, on their "slate."

Both slates have resorted to newspaper advertising, and the campaigning has been more active than has been seen in a few state elections. Apparently control of the operation of the cooperative is at stake. Four Johnson countians are holdover members of the Board. They are Mort Mullins, Burl Ward, Russell Goble and Cecil Daniels.

More than 4,000 votes are expected to be cast at the election.

ON CANEY CREEK AT LAST
The other Sunday afternoon, I reached where I had been planning to go for at least 35 years. I visited Caney Creek and its Alice Lloyd College. This is a fascinating place. "Fascinating" is the word. There was a time when this could have been with true accuracy called a mountain fastness. You look and wonder what dream brought a woman from Boston, transported the long miles by horse-and-buggy to this one place. One thing you do not wonder about, and that is that such courage and devotion has inspired others to get clean outside themselves and carry on their work.

I was there, an outsider, a guest of Caney alumni at their homecoming. Another thing I observed, and it caused no surprise: No group of alumni from Harvard or Yale or any of the great educational institutions of the land can be prouder of their alma mater than these women and men are of Caney Creek and Alice Lloyd. Perhaps not as proud.

Some years ago, we wrote in this column an item about the paper being late, and of trouble starting perhaps long before that, inasmuch as corn grew and was fermented and aged in the wood and finally reached our linotype operator. That story, first reprinted in The Reader's Digest, is now making the rounds of newspapers. And, only last week, came a call from a woman in New York to ask if the story was true.

I am here to state that it was so true that the item wasn't a bit funny to me at the time I wrote it.

FROM THE CHAIRMAN
Perhaps I should charge this fellow from Baumer for this space, but it may serve as a model letter for others who want to write their Congressman or some other official. It follows, verbatim:

"Please come quick. Bring paper. Bring one 10-inch pipe 14 feet long. Putem cross road at end of my meader. Water Bad. Stay in road. Makum big mud hole. Bad on Health, catchum bad sick spell. Danger little boy girl drown. That be bad medicine. You vote Democrat. Me vote Democrat too. Everybody vote Democrat. You fetchem pipe, Pappy two. We catchum good road before winter come."

And it's signed:
"YOUR PRECINCT CHAIRMAN."

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to take this means of thanking everyone who helped us upon the passing of Vada Boyd. We especially wish to thank those of you who sent flowers or food; special thanks to the ministers and the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its fine service.

VISITORS AT DEWEY LAKE HIT ALL-TIME HIGH JULY 1 WITH THE COUNT AT 25,000

Dewey Lake hit an all-time high in visitors on July 1 when approximately 25,000 were on the lake itself, along the shorelines or at attractions within the reservoir area.
Dean Murray, reservoir manager, said the count of visitors was made through the most accurate methods available.
Despite rain and unseasonably cold weather, 83,200 persons visited the reservoir area on July 4 and the preceding two days. On Sunday 19,000 were counted; Monday, 19,200, and Tuesday, the 4th, 20,000.
Last month's visitor total was more than 63,000 above the same month, a year ago, Murray said. The count for June, this year, was 254,800; for June, last year, it was 191,370.

FLOYD COUNTY WEEK-END AT PARK AMPHITHEATRE ANNOUNCED BY CAMPBELL

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., president of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association, has announced that this week-end July 13 through July 16 has been designated "Floyd County Week-End" at the Jenny Wiley State Park Amphitheatre.
Any resident of Floyd county can pick up a coupon in various Prestonsburg businesses that will enable them to see the drama productions this week-end at a special reduced rate.
LEGEND OF JENNY WILEY is scheduled to be presented on Thursday and Sunday evenings at 8 p.m. EST.
SING OUT SWEET LAND, the Broadway musical that starred Burl Ives, will be given on Friday and Saturday evenings.

The coupons are available in Prestonsburg: Francis Store, Francis Shoe Store, Clyde Burchett's Jewelry, Castle's Jewelry, Wright's Jewelry, Grace Burke Fabric Shop, Fountain Corner Drug Store, B. F. Casual Shop, Ben Franklin Store, The Lad 'n Lasses Shop, and Wise's Steak House.
Dr. Campbell, in making the announcement, stated that the Association thought that this would be a good way to show appreciation for the support given to the summer productions by the residents of Prestonsburg and Floyd county.
It is planned that future week-ends will salute Johnson and Pike counties.

NO LAW WILL "RESTORE" STRIP-MINED LAND

Kentucky has, in the opinion of many, the strongest strip-mine law in the nation, but no law requiring coal companies to "restore" the land damaged by such operations will ever suffice in a mountainous area such as Eastern Kentucky.

You simply can't put Humpty Dumpty together again after he has fallen off the wall and broken up.

The law could be—we do not say it will be—rigidly enforced. All the authority of the state and all the financial and physical resources of those who do the mining could be exhausted, and yet the damage would not be undone.

The unpleasant fact is, the only solution of this tragic matter is to outlaw strip-mining.

And this should be done by the federal government. For it was a federal agency, TVA, which provided the impetus to strip-mining, to begin with. Its steam-operated power generating plants demanded cheap coal. How or where the coal was procured, TVA cared little or not at all. Private power companies, facing federal competition, followed suit. The results we have seen.

We all would pay more for electric power, if these plants should use only coal mined by conventional methods, but the name of the game in our economy is, you pay for what you get (or hope to get).

In The Name Of Consistency

When the argument was presented here, several months ago, that economy and the matter of maintaining the flow of traffic dictated a new route for US 23 from Prestonsburg to Allen, we "bought" the idea.

It was pointed out that the old US 23 route through Prestonsburg, along the river to Allen would be costly and that "through" traffic would be slowed to a damaging degree.

That covers US 23 from Prestonsburg to Allen. Now, in the name of sweet consistency, doesn't the same argument apply to US 23 from Allen to Pikeville? The present route has been accepted for that part of the highway, but that route encounters not one but three or four towns and villages. Clearing of the right-of-way will mean the costly purchase of homes, businesses, and an undetermined number of parcels of property. Construction of the road will involve the blasting of mountainside cliffs, at the very edge of the present road, and the complexities of maintaining traffic while construction is under way.

Perhaps it can be done—we wouldn't know. But we wonder if a new route on the west side of the Big Sandy, opening up new territory to access to a modern highway, meanwhile preserving the present route — perhaps restricting one highway to southbound traffic and the other to traffic traveling north—would not be more feasible, at least, more in line with the thinking already exercised on the Prestonsburg-Allen sector of US 23.

Lee Vaughan See, Dwale Native, Dies In Hit-Run Crash

Lee Vaughan See, 40, a native of Dwale, was killed the night of June 27 in an Indiana hit-run auto collision.

See, who resided in Indianapolis, was alone in his vehicle at the time of the crash. Three other persons were injured in the three-car wreck.

Indiana State Trooper Keith Ford said the See vehicle was travelling north on State Road 37 when it collided with an automobile operated by a man whose name was listed as Norman E. Brashear, of Bloomington, Ind. The trooper said the Brashear car pulled from a side road onto SR 37 into the northbound lane of traffic as the driver intended to go south. The See vehicle then collided with the Brashear car and skidded into the southbound lane of traffic. It was struck in the side by a southbound car.

See, who was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack G. See, Louisa, was a fireman for the New York Central Railroad. He was a veteran of World War II.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. David Perry, Mansfield, Ohio, Mrs. Don Crank, Shiloh, Ohio, and Mary See, Greenfield, Ind.; seven brothers, Wayne, George, Marvin and Jack Vernon See, of Mansfield, Herman See, of Indianapolis, Wesley Paul and Jerry Donald See, of Medfield, Massachusetts.

Burial was made in the family cemetery, near Louisa.

tion on the issue well known since he took office in December, 1963. He tried unsuccessfully to get the 1966 legislature to abolish capital punishment. A one-sided vote killed the proposal in the House of Representatives.

The only person to be executed in Kentucky in the last 10 years was Kelly Moss, 46, of Henderson, who was electrocuted in 1962.

This follows a national trend, which saw only one person in the entire country executed in 1966. That was in Oklahoma.

The governor has to set execution dates in Kentucky for anyone who has been granted a stay to allow for court appeals. Since the usual policy is not to execute a person until all his appeals have been exhausted, this means, in effect, that Breathitt would have to approve the execution specifically before it could be carried out.

Salisbury will be returned to jail here when the Court of Appeals mandate becomes effective, 30 days after the court handed down its opinion. Reports received here say he has lost weight and is apparently in poor physical condition.

Records in the attorney general's office indicate that of the 10 men sentenced to death but not yet executed, five have exhausted their appeal rights and could be executed whenever a date is set. These five are:

Hassie Cain Martin, of Lexington, sentenced to death February 9, 1961, in connection with a robbery-slaying.

Arnold B. Alcorn, Louisville, sentenced March 8, 1962, as a result of a shooting during a loan-company holdup in Shively, Jefferson county.

Johnnie Smith, Jr., sentenced to death in Fayette county, Nov. 29, 1962, on a charge of wilful murder.

Donald Ray Carson, of Bowling Green, convicted of wilful murder in Warren county and sentenced March 5, 1963.

Rudolph Hamilton, convicted of a holdup slaying in Meade county and sentenced July 8, 1964.

Five cases still are pending, according to the attorney general's office:

Henry R. Anderson, sentenced to death on a charge of wilful murder in Jefferson county, March 1, 1960; pending in the Supreme Court.

Willie Gaines Smith, convicted of wilful murder in Fayette county August 31, 1960; he still is a patient in General State Hospital and has been granted an indefinite stay.

Carl McIntosh, convicted of murder in Kenton county and sentenced Feb. 28, 1966, still pending in the Court of Appeals.

James E. Brown, sentenced on a charge of murder Jan. 26, 1967, in Jefferson county, pending in the Court of Appeals.

Elmer J. Jagers, convicted of murder in Jefferson county, pending in the Court of Appeals.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

The marriage of Miss Donna Sue McKinney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Estel L. McKinney, 340 Oakland St., Abingdon, Va., and Mrs. Frank J. Helvey, 2324 Melody Lane, Abingdon, took place Saturday afternoon, June 17, at 4 o'clock at the Park Place Church of God.

Dr. Hilery C. Rice solemnized the double-ring ceremony following a prelude of organ music by Mrs. David Coolidge. David Edwards, vocalist, sang "Whither Thou Goest," "O, Perfect Love," and "Wedding Prayer."

The altar was adorned with white majestic daisies and white gladioli, greenery and candelabra.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length floral gown of ivory peau de soie and French bridal alencon lace. The fitted mine bodice was of all-over re-embroidered alencon lace and featured a sabrina neckline and lace scalloped edge elbow sleeves. The empire lines were accented by scallops of lace descending onto the peau sheath skirt which boasted a very wide hemline of matching lace. A detachable wattle train of matching peau was framed with matching scalloped edge lace and matching lace medallions arranged onto the train in a floral motif design. She wore a chapel-length veil of imported French bridal illusion, which was framed with matching lace and sheared into a turban styled cap on the head. She carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses and ivy.

Miss Le Ann Dunkle, college roommate of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore an empire sheath gown in chiffon and satin with crystal-pleated lantern sleeves. The dress, in two-toned apricot ice, had a high rise waistline with a satin band. The back was accented with baby satin buttons and a satin sash. She carried a cascade of coral carnations.

Wearing ensembles like that of the honor attendant were bridesmaids, Mrs. Nicki Jenkins, Valdosta, Ga., Miss Jane Moore, Abingdon, Va., Miss Cindy Pistole, Anderson, Ind., and Miss Carole Helvey, sister of the groom.

Kenneth Hardman was best man. Groomsman were David Bos, Paul Jones, Jerry Bos and Walter Allen. Ron Bos, Boyce Wood, Larry Maddox and John Schieve served as ushers. Ushers were Miss Paula Cummings, and Miss Susan Helvey, sister of the groom.

Miss Sandy Spitzmesser registered guests. The bride's mother wore a beige lace suit accented with apricot accessories. Her corsage was of apricot and coral carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink silk shantung suit with a corsage of pink carnations and sweetheart roses. Her accessories were white.

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the Pioneer Room.

to prevent any disturbance on the surface of TV transmission equipment to be installed there this fall.

"This means they'll have to leave about $20,000 worth of coal in the ground which they might have otherwise taken out," Press said.

Formal presentation of the deed will be made today (Thursday) at a Lion's Club luncheon at the VFW hall in Hazard. Catesby Clay, president of Kentucky River Coal and M. K. Eblen, president of Hazard Coal, will make the presentation, along with R. H. Kelley, president of the Fourseam Corporation. Dr. Robert R. Martin, president of Eastern Kentucky State University and a member of the nine-man ETV authority, will accept it on behalf of the state.

Press said all of the 12 transmitter sites have been donated, saving the state a considerable amount of money. "It would be impossible to state exactly how much we've saved but I would guess in the neighborhood of $50-$75,000," Press said.

Construction of the Hazard transmitter, including a 500-foot steel tower, is scheduled to begin this fall along with transmitters at sites in or near Ashland, Bowling Green, Covington, Elizabethtown, Madisonville, Morehead, Murray, Pikeville, Owen-ton, Somerset, and Madison county. Press said the state will invest nearly $400,000, in development and equipment, in the site. When completed, the transmitter, a control point in the state ETV network system, will be staffed by a three-man technical crew.

Press said a similar presentation ceremony will be held later this month in Madisonville when Island Creek Coal Corporation formally donates a piece of its property for ETV transmission purposes.

The 1967-68 budget allots $25.6 million to rural secondary roads, commonly called "2-cent roads" because they are financed with 2 cents of the gasoline tax. Last year's figure was $23.3 million. The usual $10 million has been allocated to county roads.

The general operations budget also allots as fixed charges: 4. $4.1 million to other state agencies.

5. $12.4 million for debt service on general obligation bonds.

The general operations budget is underpinned by the forecast that $131.7 million will be collected from taxes levied for road purposes. The forecast is up from $122.4 million collected last year.

Road taxes are estimated to yield five percent more in the year ahead, and tolls on state parkways are estimated to rise 12 percent.

6. Reimbursement of $8.5 million in federal aid funds for work already done on federal aid projects by state forces.

7. A $1.4 million federal grant for research and planning.

8. Reimbursement of $690,000 by Kentucky Turnpike. The section of Interstate 65 between Louisville and Elizabethtown, for state maintenance and operation.

The four state toll roads to take part in 1967-68 expenditures of $43.1 million are the Owensboro-Henderson Parkway; Purchase Parkway, from Kentucky Dam to Fulton; Daniel Boone Parkway, from London to Hazard, and Pennville Parkway, from Henderson to Hopkinsville.

FRADY'S THESIS PORTRAYS AVERAGE SCHOOL LEADER

He likes to fish, golf, watch television and garden. He could be "Mr. Average Kentuckian," but he's also "Mr. Average Kentucky Public Senior High School Principal."

These pastimes are part of a profile of Kentucky school principals described in a thesis written by Claude P. Frady, as a doctoral candidate in the University of Kentucky College of Education.

(Dr. Frady is a former Floyd county school principal and a teacher; more recently has been principal of Hindman high school.)

In focusing his study on the Kentucky public senior high school principal, Dr. Frady looked at the principals from four angles: personal, professional, performance and opinion.

Dr. Frady also paid attention to such factors as geographic location within the state, accreditation status of the schools, kind of school district (county or independent), and colleges granting master's degrees to the professional educators.

The study reveals that the average principal is a man in his middle forties, born and reared in Kentucky, a native of the geographic area where he now serves but not of the county where he is employed.

Reared on a farm or in a small town setting, he attended an unconsolidated elementary school and a county district high school.

The average principal, Dr. Frady found, is an active member of his local community, is married, has two children, belongs to a church and holds a church office, and teaches a Sunday School class. He belongs to two civic or fraternal organizations, and is a member of the Democratic party.

As noted, fishing is his most popular leisure time activity. He may have other hobbies, including golfing, watching sports events, hunting, gardening, television, traveling and woodwork.

Of the non-professional periodicals he reads, Reader's Digest is most popular with him, followed by Life, Look, Time and The Saturday Evening Post. He reads The Louisville Courier-Journal, plus a local newspaper.

Mr. Average Principal holds a bachelor's and master's degrees from one of the state regional universities or the University of Kentucky. His undergraduate major is in social studies, history, or science.

Having entered his first principalship at age 33, after experience in classroom and as a coach, he has 13 years' experience in principalship, eight of which have been in his present position.

The average principal's salary ($7,395) falls approximately $1,000 behind the national average for principals, although it has doubled during his tenure as principal.

He has taken graduate work since becoming principal, and has done some study in fields other than education.

He is a member of the National Education Association, Kentucky Education Association, and the National Association of Secondary School Principals. He attends the KEA annual convention, but not the meetings of the national or state principals' associations. He considers the NASSP Bulletin, however, to be his most valuable professional periodical.

The professional climate is to his liking, and the average principal plans to remain in the principalship. He considers good judgment, honesty, dependability, and scholarship as the most important traits for a principal to possess, and thinks far less of the necessity to possess refinement and fluency.

Clerical work takes a greater amount of his time than any other activity, about twice the time the principal thinks he should be spending on such routine matters. Classroom visitation is next, about half the amount of time he believes he should be spending.

Believing that private conferences with teachers is the best way of improving learning conditions, he considers use of teacher rating scales as the least effective means of improving instruction. He would prefer to teach himself if salaries were comparable.

He disagrees with the Supreme Court decision on school prayer, agrees with the decision on school integration, but agrees considerably less with the principle of faculty desegregation.

He strongly favors requiring 18 credits for graduation, and is equally strong in the belief that English is the area most in need of improvement in Kentucky schools.

He tends to be rather conservative in his views about the ungraded high school, the Carnegie unit, educational television, and team-teaching.

The average Kentucky principal believes that neither college instructors in general nor professors of education are aware of the realities of public high school education.

HEALTH TIPS FROM AMA

The traditional summer vacation of the American family is highly recommended by your doctor. The family needs to get away from customary home and office chores, forget day-to-day worries for a short time and generally get rejuvenated and ready to face another year.

Whether your vacation will be a short trip to a nearby lake, camping out in a national park, a plane trip abroad, or what have you, there are a few things to keep in mind that will help avoid having the holiday spoiled by illness.

Depending on where you're going, you may need some vaccination shots. Tetanus, certainly, for anyone who expects to include some out-of-doors activities. Typhoid, if your journey includes areas where the water supply is uncertain. Small pox, if you're planning to leave the United States to visit a foreign land. Ask your doctor about these, and possibly other, immunizations.

The American Medical Association suggests that you remind yourself to use common sense about your vacation diet. Many a family trip has been spoiled by too many roadside hamburgers and soft drinks. A sound rule while driving cross-country is to eat lightly. Be cautious about heavy, rich meals, particularly if you're not accustomed to such fare at home.

Know what sort of climate you will encounter at your vacation spot and dress accordingly. It can get cold in the mountains at night, even in midsummer. Good walking shoes are important to the travel wardrobe. If you wear glasses, take along an extra pair. Or at least a copy of your prescription. If you're taking a regular medication, make certain of your supply before you leave. And, finally, don't overdo it. Almost no one other than a trained athlete is ready for 36 holes of golf or five sets of tennis under a broiling sun. Schedule your vacation to allow daily rest periods. Do most of the driving in the morning hours and stop for the evening in early or mid-afternoon. Your vacation should be a holiday for rest and relaxation. It should not be a grind that necessitates another vacation to rest up from the vacation.

Ugly is only skin-deep.

It may not be much to look at. But beneath that humble exterior beats an air-cooled engine. It won't boil over and ruin your piston rings. It won't freeze over and ruin your life. It's in the back of the car where the weight on the rear wheels makes the traction better in snow and sand. And it will give you about 27 miles to a gallon of gas. After a while you get to like so much about the VW, you even get to like what it looks like. You find that there's enough legroom for almost anybody's legs. Enough headroom for almost anybody's head. With a hat on it. Snug-fitting bucket seats. Doors that close so well you can hardly close them. (They're so airtight, it's better to open the window a crack first.) Those plain, unglamorous wheels are each suspended independently. So when a bump makes one wheel bounce, the bounce doesn't make the other wheel bump. It's things like that you pay the $1639* for, when you buy a VW. The ugliness doesn't add a thing to the cost of the car. That's the beauty of it.

IS CHRISTIANITY LOSING RACE WITH POPULATION?

(Ralph McGill, famed southern newspaper editor, devoted Page 1 space in The Atlanta Journal recently to the future of the church, citing the failure of the church and Christians to witness as the cause of the current loss of interest in the Christian religion.)

Bishop Odd Hagen, of Stockholm, president of the World Methodist Council, in a talk about the future of the church, said:

"If present statistical trends continue only nine percent of the world's population will, by the year 2,000, call itself Christian." (Today's figure is estimated at about 25 percent.)

"In many ways," he said, "we (the church) are defeated . . ." Bishop Hagen noted in this conclusion that the attempt to conquer Asia for Christianity has largely failed. In China and India, where the vast populations expand with frightening speed, there are smaller Christian totals than 30 years ago.

The quiet, scholarly Bishop is not, however, pessimistic. He is, he says, an optimist in faith and in prophecy. To the Christian he says, "If Christ is to come at the end of history, then we are in history . . . we cannot be outside it."

A MISUNDERSTANDING

There is, said the Bishop, a misunderstanding. It is his opinion that the church was never established merely to go "from victory to victory." Christ, he said, never promised his disciples or the church "victory to victory." The cross was the empirical end of Christ's life. His disciples were "defeated." Against this background the venerable Bishop declared that the mission of the church and the Christian was "to witness—to be there—to testify by his life and works."

It is this "witnessing . . . testifying—" said the Bishop, that is the objective of the Christian life, and not a "going on to victory." Therefore, he continued, "defeat is by no means the worst thing that can happen to a Christian. Even worse is to lose faith, to conclude that his faith cannot count in his life, to refuse the entry of faith into one's life so that one's life may be made 'new' in witnessing."

"The future of the church depends," Bishop Hagen emphasized, "not on its efficiency, its size, its ability to be a 'success' or a 'popular' church—but on its willingness 'to witness,' to display 'discipleship.'" Bishop Hagen's comment is austere in its leanness. There is no confusion of theological phrases or references. The Bishop's conclusion is not flooded with semantics or watered down with excess wordage. A church—a Christian—witnesses or fails to witness.

CHURCH WITNESSING

Where the church witnesses it lives. Where the Christian witnesses he or she is recognized as possessing faith and discipleship. Where the church is mere ly large, successful, popular, God is very like to be "dead." It was this fact that led the Bishop to assert that, "Our understanding of the church's success or failure may be the wrong one."

Whatever one may think of Bishop Hagen's diagnosis, there is no escaping the fact that the question of the church's future in our contemporary culture . . . its mission in society . . . is a major issue of our time.

There is the every day story of young ministers (and a few older ones), who abandon the pulpit for more direct work in society. These men, in general, say, they cannot any longer preach and see the congregation leave the church feeling that their responsibilities as Christians have been discharged. This bears directly on Bishop Hagen's terse statement of the church's mission — "to witness."

The church, with certain notable exceptions, sadly, but freely admits its failure to participate, or witness, in the tremendous social revolution of our time. Bishop Hagen's warning that by the year 2,000, which is not far away, Christians will total nine percent of the world's population, has many unavoidable implications.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

HOW TO MEASURE

It suddenly occurred to me, not long ago, that I do not know how to measure things as we used to. At least, my younger friends would have to employ an interpreter if I suddenly began using only the measures we used to employ.

How much is a "hand"? Every boy and man used to know, for that was the unit of measuring a horse's height. "Sixteen hands high" was a good-sized animal. Not many were that tall. A hand is approximately four inches, as used by the men and boys I once knew. Just now I measured the width of my own good-sized hand at the base of my thumb and found that my hand is about a quarter of an inch too small. But, for all practical purposes it will do. I am not planning to buy or measure a horse soon and can afford to let some one else do the measuring.

What is an "inch"? Everybody now knows the answer, but that was another folkish measurement as practiced long ago. The inch was the length of the second joint of your index finger. Of course, this varied somewhat, for some hands are slender and long, and some are thick and short. My finger is a trifle longer than the inch on a ruler. I have seen lots of cloth measured by women as they made garments for their family, with the finger joint as a unit.

What is a "foot"? Of course, you know, for you have a ruler or yard stick handy. But, again, I have seen people measure a foot by a time-honored way. Extend your thumbs at right angles to your hands; place the ends of the thumbs together; the distance from the side on one hand across to the other side of the second hand is a foot, good enough to measure ax-handles and lots of other things. I tried my own big hands and found that I had to lap over my thumbs slightly, I have seen some broad-handed fellows who had to lap nearly a whole thumb and not merely the nail, as I must.

What is a "yard"? Why, go get a yardstick and find out. But yardsticks were often pretty scarce in earlier times. But nature supplied an unfailing source of measuring a yard. If you are measuring cloth, for example, take a corner of the cloth in your your arm out full length; turn your head in the other direction left or right hand and stretch as far as you can comfortably do so; from where you are holding the cloth with thumb and forefinger to the tip of your nose is a yard, and that is good enough measurement for anybody. A rather long arm and plenty of nose makes me slightly off center on this measurement, for I measure a little better than four inches too much. I have seen short-armed women bend the arm away back, in order to get the correct yard.

What is a "rod"? That term is not so commonly used as formerly, though all surveyors know it as a part of their daily vocabulary, even if they call it a "pole." Five and a half yards or sixteen and a half feet make a rod. I remember from one-roomed school days, but it has been so long since then that I cannot recall having seen or even heard of the old rod and how it was derived from natural elements, just as were hand, inch, foot and yard. The story is that you could get a correct rod by lining up the first eight men as they came out of church on Sunday morning and had them stand in a line, heel to toe. I suppose some extra-big feet accounted for that extra six inches that we now require to make a standard rod.

WATER POLLUTION BODY GETS MANY COMPLAINTS

Frankfort, Ky.—Ralph C. Pickard, executive director of the State Water Pollution Control Commission, says the Commission received more than 500 written complaints about suspected water pollution violations last year.

"The average citizen in Kentucky has made a major contribution toward helping to enforce water quality standards," he said. "Every complaint was investigated."

Response from both industry and the individual has been good when the Commission makes an investigation, he said. "We average about one hearing out of every 20 complaints, and have never taken anybody to court."

"A good measure of cooperation is the life's blood of any agency of this type," Pickard added.

He pointed out that "Right now, Kentucky has one of the best total water pollution control programs in the nation."

"The public has decided nationally and in Kentucky that it wants clean water."

Referring to water quality standards recently adopted by the Commission, Pickard said, "The improved quality of Kentucky's water resources will benefit both the individual and industry by reducing the cost to treat it."

"The new water standards are basic assurance to the general public that its water is fit for all legitimate uses," he said. "We can now treat water at a reasonable cost for industrial and drinking purposes."

He said that the Commission has set out to implement these standards.

Alice Lloyd College Article Wins Award Given by Press Group

Pippa Passes, Ky.—A magazine article on Alice Lloyd College has been awarded an All-America rating by the Educational Press Association of America.

Presented to writer John Edgerton at the association's annual awards luncheon July 3 in Minneapolis, the award was for the article "A Little Lady from Boston and an Oliver No. 9," which appeared in the September, 1966 issue of the Southern Education Report.

The prize-winning article told of Alice Lloyd College and its founder, the late Alice Geddes Lloyd. The Eastern Kentucky junior college last year observed the 50th anniversary of Mrs. Lloyd's coming from Boston to establish educational programs throughout the mountainous region.

Edgerton reported that the college "has sent 92 percent of its graduates on to higher degrees elsewhere, and 90 percent of them have returned to positions of leadership in the mountains of southeast Kentucky."

Symposium on Rabies Scheduled July 19th

According to J. W. Skaggs, D.V.M., Medical Epidemiologist at the Department of Health, the symposium is prompted by the "startling increase" in rabies among wildlife. "At the present rate, Kentucky will have three times as many rabies cases this year as last," said Dr. Skaggs.

Symposium participants will discuss recent developments in the field of rabies prevention and control and how to apply these developments to Kentucky's rabies problem.

Soil Conservation News

By HAROLD R. WALLACE
Soil Conservationist

Many landowners in the Floyd county Soil Conservation District are installing tile drainage systems this year.

Robert Younce, Mabel Blackburn and Paul Horn have their practices completed.

Tile systems for Miley Prater, Troy Hicks, B. F. Hall and Goldia Clark have been staked, surveyed and designed and are ready for installation.

Fields that have been drained are used for hay or pasture. However, they may be used for row crops after seepage and internal drainage is complete.

These landowners receive cost-share assistance from the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Technical assistance is furnished landowners in the Floyd County SCD by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service in Prestonsburg.

TIMES WANT ADS PAY!

2,000 A D : 'LIFE IN U. S. AS PRIVATE AS BARRACKS?'

Cambridge, Mass.—A group of educators and scientists says within 33 years it will be virtually impossible to:

1. Cheat on your spouse undetected.
2. Sit on a park bench.
3. Be an habitual criminal.
4. Relax.

Even the solitary drunk may become extinct; love letters, too. Life in the United States will be as private "as an Army barracks."

These forecasts are made in the July 10 issue of Daedalus, the Journal of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. The article, "Toward the Year 2000," also tells how to become rich.

"By 2000," says Harry Kalven, Jr., a law professor at the University of Chicago, "someone will make a fortune merely by providing, on a monthly, weekly, daily or even hourly basis, a room of one's own."

Infidelity will become more risky, since it will be possible "to place a man under constant surveillance without his ever becoming aware of it."

Kalven believes we are already on the path to a fishbowl world: "Man can now . . . conceal microphones in tiepins, observe by closed-circuit television . . . and determine the contents of mail without opening it."

He closes on a bright note, however. "Technology will continue to improve."

Harvey S. Perloff, director of the regional and urban studies program at Resources for the Future, Inc., writes of a year 2000 in which our population will be doubled, and pure air and water will be at a premium.

"Open space close to where people live would be so scarce that the use of park and other recreational areas would probably have to be rationed," he says.
