CONSTRUCTION OF SCHOOLS SEEN AS FINANCING IS OK'D

HIGH SCHOOL AT EASTERN IS PLANNED

Title I Funds, Bonds To Finance Buildings; Start Set Next Year

Approval of a $200,000 construction grant of Title I funds, plus assignment of funds from a $750,000 bonding potential, promises that the Floyd County Board of Education next year will launch one of its biggest building programs.

Structures proposed for construction are:

1. The Right Beaver high school at Eastern which will consolidate all high schools on Right Beaver Creek.

2. A gymnasium at Betsy Layne high school, replacing the structure which was destroyed by fire last year.

3. A six-room addition to the Stumbo elementary school at Grethel.

The $200,000 Title I grant is earmarked solely for the Right Beaver school construction. It is a part of a total of $732,242.12 in 1968 Title I funds approved for Floyd county. The bond potential of $750,000 is to be allocated, as follows: $300,000 for the Right Beaver school, $300,000 for restoring the Betsy Layne gym, $150,000 for the six-room addition to Stumbo elementary.

The allocation of both Title I and bond funds was made in separate commitments to County Superintendent Charles Clark by William T. Nallia, assistant coordinator of Title I funds, and T. O. Thompson, assistant director of the Division of Buildings and Grounds, State Department of Education.

George Lee Shannon, architect, has already been authorized to start work on final plans for the Right Beaver structure. (See Story No. 1, Page 3)

This Town... That World

Hang-nail sketch of a fishing trip: Arrived at lake in high hopes. Left in high dudgeon.

HOME IS THE FISHERMAN...

We descended upon Center Hill Lake like a swarm of locusts, not unlike the wolf on the fold, if you like your figures of speech mixed. Up betimes and at 'em with the dawn, Friday morning, and returning only when the gloaming was heavy. Saturday, the same schedule. Surface lures, bottom-draggers, wobblers that barely submerged, others that delved a bit deeper into the matter, even minnows. And on into the night, this last day.

Well, we weren't skunked. But our luck was on the putrid side, if you know what I mean.

An unusually large number of buzzards kept wheeling overhead, and some of the boys wondered if a deer or some other animal were dead, up there in the hills. Then it occurred to us: Those scavengers have either been attracted by our rotten luck or they've mistaken us for the University of Kentucky football team. (See Story No. 4, Page 3)

DeVon Scalf as he appears as Mortimer, the man who dies in THE FANTASTICKS.

The Broadway musical-comedy, THE FANTASTICKS, was presented last Friday evening at the Prestonsburg Community College. THE FANTASTICKS was part of the entertainment program for the Inter-Community College System Conference held at PCC last week-end. Under the direction of Sam Bittman, the play progressed through an hour-and-a-half of hilarity to receive a standing ovation from the audience of about 200 at the final curtain.

THE FANTASTICKS, a love parable concerning two young people who think of the world as a beautiful playground, but who come to face reality in the play's final moments, has played successfully for the past seven years in New York and is still being presented off Broadway.

Another performance of THE FANTASTICKS will be presented Friday, October 27, at 8 p.m., at the Prestonsburg Community College. This will be the last presentation of the comedy in this area.

VANDALS HIT NEW SCHOOL

Second Break Made, Damage May Be $700 At Clark Elementary

Damage which will range between $500 and $700 was inflicted, Tuesday night on the Clark elementary school on Middle Creek, near here, by vandals.

It was the second break into the new school in three days. The first break, which was made Saturday night, resulted in glass of two doors being broken and ink splattered about the interior.

But Tuesday night's vandalism left little of the interior of the building untouched. Smashed were five small windows, three classroom windows, one door, clocks and loudspeakers. Five vending machines were damaged, some beyond repair. Other doors were damaged, as was the school kitchen and its equipment. Less than $5 in cash was taken.

GAS SERVICE, 58 TO SERVE SUIT TOPIC ON NOV. JURY

Allen Company Sues To Stay Sale of Gas By Cities Service Co.

United Utilities of Kentucky, which serves Allen and vicinity with natural gas, went to court this week to prevent customers there from connecting with another company's lines and to halt service from the other firm.

The suit names as defendants Cities Service Oil Company, J. W. Kinzer, individually, and as representative of all other persons residing in New Allen, Allen and Dwaile.

The complaint, filed for United Utilities by John Allen, vice-president, says the plaintiff has exclusive right to supply gas to all inhabitants of the three towns, has been doing so for a number of years and is able and willing to supply Kinzer and others gas. But, it is alleged, Kinzer, who occupies a building in New Allen, has applied to Cities Service for gas.

The suit claims Cities Service has threatened to do and will, unless enjoined, connect its lines to the Kinzer building and with any other who might apply for service, all to the damage of United Utilities.

A temporary restraining order was asked to restrain both Cities Service and Kinzer and all other inhabitants of the specified area from making gas connections for service from the defendant company.

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, County Judge Henry Stumbo and Circuit Clerk Frank DeRossett were all absent from the county at the time, and plaintiff was permitted under the law to go to Knott county where Circuit Judge John Chris Cornett issued the restraining order.

The suit asked that the court determine if Cities Service may under Kentucky law connect its lines with the Kinzer building or with any other in the three towns where United Utilities lines are now rendering service, or where they may supply service.

ADVERTISING OF PROJECT SET FRIDAY

Letting of Contract On $1 Million Route Scheduled Nov. 17

The Department of Highways advised The Times Tuesday that it will advertise Friday for bids on construction of the Inez-Prestonsburg highway and that bids will be opened Nov. 17.

Construction of the highway will cost an estimated $1 million. Its completion will link the county seats of Martin and Floyd county, provide access for Martin county to the Prestonsburg Community College, Dewey Lake and Jenny Wiley State Park and to the Mountain Parkway. The road will reduce the distance between the two county-seats by 12 miles.

Five miles of the new route will be in Johnson county and three miles in Martin. The route, known as the Middle Fork road, will connect with the existing highway, a short distance downstream from Dewey Dam, will follow what is now known as the Lake road across the dam along Dewey Lake to Lancer where it will cross the river via a bridge yet to be built and eventually connect with new 23 at Water Gap.

The road will, on completion, be identified as Ky. 3.

The road on which bids are being asked is an eight-mile gap in the Middle Fork road. Both Governor Breathitt and Former Highway Commissioner Henry Ward had promised action on the highway, some months ago, and a highway department spokesman said a "real effort" was necessary to get it ready for bids this year.

FIRE LEAVES FAMILY OF FIVE DESTITUTE

The home of Mrs. Norma Blackburn on Jeff Miller Hollow at Drift was destroyed recently by fire, with all its contents, leaving Mrs. Blackburn and her four children without clothing.

Bert Stone, of Garrett, said efforts to get help for the family from relief sources have failed, and he asked that contributions be sent to Lee Frasure, McDowell, Kentucky.

COAL OFFICIAL SAYS DAVID NOT TO QUIT

The layoff of upwards of 120 employees at the David mines of the Princess Elkhorn Division of Princess Coals, Inc. within the last month is merely an adjustment to a slow coal market and operating conditions.

So said Ralph Huffman, Huntington, W. Va., president of Princess Coals, in response to an inquiry made Wednesday by The Times.

Mr. Huffman said his company plans the continued operation of its David mines, and that core drilling is now in progress as additional coal reserves are being explored in the vicinity. This statement was made in reply to continued rumors that Princess will end its Floyd county operations within a matter of a few years.

Huffman explained that some of the company's operations are "old and deep," and that better methods of operations with improved mining machinery are being sought. The Suez situation and the Canadian boat strike have contributed to the slow market which has left Princess with a sizeable stockpile of coal at a season when its stockpiles is normally depleted through sales.

Some of the layoffs are only temporary, it was said. The first group, cut off a month or more ago, numbered 40. Last Friday, about 80 more were laid off. The company still is working about 210 men.

GUND MINE IS DEDICATED

Evans Division Mine In Pike, "New Breed," Features Automation

Formal dedication of Island Creek Coal Company's new Gund Mine took place last Wednesday at the mine site in Pike county.

Lieutenant-Governor Harry Lee Waterfield delivered an address welcoming to Kentucky the coal company's new production unit which will add more than 200 jobs and nearly $2 million in annual payroll to the region's economy.

Island Creek's Gund Mine is one of the "new breed" of coal mines designed to serve the growing energy needs of the electric utility industry. Fifty million tons of coal reserves have been assigned to this mine which, when fully developed, will have a daily production capacity of 8,200 tons, or, on an annual basis, two million tons. Loading facilities, including a radio-controlled locomotive and a 20,000-ton clean coal live storage pile, make it possible to load 10,000-ton unit trains in as little as four hours.

The new mine is operated by Island Creek's Evans Elkhorn Division of which George E. Evans, Jr., of Wayland, is president.

All of the mine's production is already committed under long-term contracts with three large electric utility customers—Toledo Edison Company, Carolina Power and Light Co., and Upper Peninsula Generating Co. Officials of these utilities, along with Island Creek and Norfolk and Western executives and others, attended the dedication and inspected the new mining operation.

HOW P'BURG HELPED INSPIRE WORK TOLD

Jack Branham, Betsy Layne and Martin insurance man, who was one of the moving spirits in the Sandy Valley Water District development, told the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club last Thursday evening that the big two-county water project actually was inspired by the progress made by the city of Prestonsburg.

But 10 years earlier, the speaker reminded the club, no such inspiration would have been found here. "Things were at a low ebb, civic and community spirit were badly needed. It was obvious that there was much dissension in Prestonsburg. This became so apparent that, once again, people out in the county started saying, 'We need to move the county seat.'"

But, Branham recalled, needed leadership arose to get factions together. The results, he added, were major improvements—the floodwall, the community college, the new courthouse, municipal parking lots, new roads, every street paved.

"All these," the speaker said, "took a lot of volunteer work.

meetings, time, expense, trips to Washington. But now the results are obvious, down any street: the place is cleaner, lawns and walks are neater, there are numerous new homes. Now, people from out in the county want to move into Prestonsburg. It's still a part of Floyd county, and we in the county are proud it's our county seat. . . . We in the various communities are beginning to communicate with Prestonsburg. We look to you for guidance and leadership again."

Branham pointed out that the city bus line operated out of Prestonsburg is "a firm line of communication." He expressed the belief that, whether the buses are used a lot or not, they influence people to go to Prestonsburg to shop, "because it proves you care."

"Up my way," he said, "for years Pikeville was 'town,' and Prestonsburg was just Prestonsburg. It's changing. People are bragging about your progress and more often Pikeville is now called 'Pikeville.'" (See Story No. 7, Page 3)

MEDICAID "STRUCK" BY NURSING HOMES

The Kentucky Association of Nursing Homes has "struck" against further admission of patients under the state's Medicaid program.

Mountain Manor Convalescent Home here said this week that it is a member of the association and that it will go along with the action taken formally by the organization.

Medicaid poses an impossible problem for institutions receiving patients under its program because it allows the institution only the exact cost of housing, feeding and caring for the patient, it was explained. Operators of these institutions say the state bases its Medicaid payments on costs for the previous year and does not allow for salary raises and other expense increases.

After 180 days, the state's payment drops to a flat $6 a day per patient, and the nursing home is required to make up the difference by charging the patient or members of his family for the remainder of the cost. A great (See Story No. 8, Page 3)

Meet a 1968 "youngmobile" from Oldsmobile.

Now that you've been introduced, why not get together?

Why not take the wheel of this Cutlass 5—youngest of the "youngmobiles" from Olds. A new 350-CID Rocket V-8 delivers more power at lower operating cost. (And does it more smoothly and quietly, as well.) You say you prefer a Six? Olds has a 250-CID Action-Line 6, too. These are only openers. You can tailor Cutlass 5 to your fancy and finances. 4-speed stick to stereo to sporty pinstriping. Front disc brakes to dual exhausts to Rally Sport Suspension. (All the new GM safety features are standard.) What it adds up to is this: If you like cars with a lot of pizzazz in the way they look—cars with a lot of moxie in the way they drive—your Oldsmobile Dealer is the man to see. They're the only kind he carries.

liminary plans are being prepared for the Stumbo addition, and the same work will be done on the Betsy Layne building after plans for relocation of US 23 there are released.

Commenting on the new school at Eastern, Superintendent Clark said, "This may be the last senior high school that will be planned in Floyd county for the next 10 to 12 years, for the simple reason that this exhausts our bonding potential. So we want the school to be the finest in Eastern Kentucky. We want it to be functional, both for students and teachers."

For this reason, he said, he and Mr. Shannon will, starting Saturday, begin a series of conferences with teacher groups, seeking advice in planning. First, home economics teachers will be consulted, then school librarians, and, after that, science teachers—all with the aim of determining their needs in relation to themselves and their pupils as the best educational program possible is sought.

The Right Beaver school will be let to contract after the beginning of the new fiscal year, next July 1. It will be built in two separate phases, and funds approved are for Phase I which includes all classrooms, numbering 18, plus a library, cafeteria and kitchen. Phase 2 will involve the school gymnasium, auditorium and music department.

Phase 2 will be constructed almost entirely with bond funds, since Title I money is not available for use in building gyms or auditoriums.

The school at Eastern will be built on a 11 1/2-acre tract of land already owned by the Board of Education.

The addition to the Stumbo school will permit the elimination of five one-room schools in that section of the county. Schools which will be closed are Tinker Fork, Mink Branch, Right Toler, Left Toler and Forks of Toler.

The Betsy Layne school lost its gym and lunchroom to fire last year. Planning for its restoration must necessarily await a final decision on the route which US 23 will follow. The old structure was separate from the high school, and the new highway may pass through the site, requiring relocation.

THE CONVINCERS
 ETERNITY MAGAZINE asks the question, "What do clergymen and bartenders have in common?" And answers that some auto insurance agencies say they're both bad insurance risks. Also quotes United Press International as reporting that ministers tend to drive with the attitude that "the Lord will provide."

I may be a bit grayer around the temples because of a ride or so I've had with these gentlemen of the cloth at the wheel. But it never occurred to me that they were driving as if God were their co-pilot; it seems more reasonable to believe they were determined to show a black sinner how much he stood in the need of prayer.

A scientist is quoted by the press as having deduced that Venus is a veritable hell-hole, hotter than the hinges; a place where a body might be able to look at the back of his own neck, and where one would always have the feeling of being in a hole. Well, maybe that scientist has caught a glimpse of the real thing.

number of these patients are unable to pay this difference.
 Tom G. Dingus, of Mountain Manor here, said the home has several Medicaid patients now. All the nursing home operators said no Medicaid patient will be discharged until other care for them is found.

Earlier, the state had proposed to revise its Medicaid program upward by October 1, but later found this could not be done in the time stipulated. Now, revision of the payment formula is talked for early 1968.
 If the Medicaid formula were brought up to the Medicare standard, most operators would be satisfied, it was said. The nursing home provisions of Medicare allow payments for elderly patients for 100 days following a stay of at least three days in a hospital. The program pays for the full bill for the first 20 days and all but $5 a day for the remainder of the 100 days.

ministrative staff, nurses, medical staff and the Daniel Boone Clinic. He said the doctors had provided "tremendous physician coverage" for the community.

Pointing to the economic contribution of the McDowell ARH hospital, which last year served 1960 in-patients, Hipkens pointed out that the facility represents an investment of $2,155,000, employs 104 persons and pays out $498,000 a year in salaries and wages.

George E. Evans, Jr., of Wayland, vice-president of the Evans Elkhorn Division, Island Creek Coal Company, and a trustee of ARH, asserted that the service of the hospital "is a part of the progress of Eastern Kentucky." He congratulated Floyd county for their support of the McDowell hospital.

Arthur Bradbury, president of the Council, reminded the dinner guests that Council members serve the hospital without pay.

Edward V. Collins, administrator of the hospital, was toastmaster.

Present members of the Council are Arthur Bradbury, B. F. Reed, George E. Evans, Burl Spurlock, L. B. Jessee, Mrs. Lloyd Stumbo, Lloyd Hale, Albert Burchett, Kelly Wicker, Charles Hughes, Orville Moore, Clark Todd, Vern B. Bailey, Mr. Nicholas Cooley and Edmond F. Short.

Former Council members are Mrs. G. W. Lockin, E. Minor Pace, Robert B. Smith, Francis E. Harmon, Robert Kendrick, John Thornsberry and Mrs. Ben Martin.

The real effort to get water for upper Floyd county and northern Pike began in 1963, Branham recalled. But when he and others went to engineering firms for planning help, they asked for a sizeable payment to make a survey. "Finally, we came to Prestonsburg. The late Alan Reed, engineer, and Cliff Latta, attorney, agreed to go along with us on an 'if' basis. They had been bitten by the bug that had inspired others here."

Again, he said, numerous meetings and trips were necessary. Letters had to be written, phone calls made. Senator Cooper gave assistance, and, said Branham, "Carl Perkins did everything we asked and more—he'd even call us."

Now, contracts have been awarded on the Sandy Valley Water District system which will serve perhaps 1,000 families and businesses with almost 30 miles of water mains. Almost a million dollars will be spent on the system—and 60 percent of that amount is a gift.

"The morale boost to the people will be tremendous," Branham predicted. "It emphasizes this fact: With leadership, anything is possible."

With a new four-lane highway in the making and new industry locating here, all of Floyd county will be brought closer together, the Kiwanians were told. "The next project for all of us," Branham said, "should be new school plants for the county. It takes a lot of money—but it took a lot of money to improve our county as it has been during the last 10 years."

C., and two daughters, Mrs. Mary Denning, Pennsboro, W. Va., and Miss Anna White Gettys with whom he resided at Ravenswood after his retirement.

Officers said fingerprints were detected on some of the glass surface at the school after Tuesday night's break. Two juveniles were named in the earlier break.

Classwork was resumed Wednesday morning at the school but with difficulty as the floor was littered with glass and other debris.

Dudley Fletcher was jailed here Tuesday by a deputy U. S. marshal on a Dyer charge after Fletcher allegedly had transported a stolen 1967 Pontiac to Magoffin county from Stockbridge, Michigan. Others jailed within the week:

Randy Hall, charged with drunk driving, arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Martin and Hunter; Clifford Jarrell, driving while intoxicated, by Martin and Hunter; Jessie Hall, drunk driving, by State Troopers Herron and Sword; Donald Ray Tackett, child desertion and no operator's license, by Deputy Sheriff Martin; Burton Stone, breaking and entering, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Silas DeRossett and John Reed; Edward Lee Wells, driving while intoxicated, arrested by Policemen Ray Click and Sam Hale. Wells was fined $100 by Police Judge Earl Blackburn, and his driver's license was suspended.

Youths To Canvass Community for UNICEF Next Tuesday Evening

It's that time of year again, trick-or-treat, hohobbin' goblins all about. But, in addition to the young children who will be cut, calling at doors, there will be several youths from various churches of the community collecting for UNICEF instead of goodies for themselves.
 These will be calling on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 31, between the hours of 6:30 and 8, and they will be identified by UNICEF badges.
 They will be asking for money, and it will go to the United Nations' International Emergency Children's Fund (UNICEF) to provide food, clothing and medicine for underprivileged children around the world.

In an attempt to impress upon the youngsters the value of conservation, not only in fish and wildlife, but in all other renewable natural resources of the state, the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission has decreed that classes in the schoolrooms be offered to fifth and sixth grade students in particular but with students from other classes permitted to participate in the school program. The younger children have been selected as the targets of the program since they will be exposed to conservation knowledge at impressionable ages and will more readily absorb the basic principals of conservation. Formerly the program was aimed at students in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. This formula was discarded in an effort to bring more thorough teachings to those students in their more formative years.

The new look is being accomplished in many ways. Students in most of the schools, through the cooperation of the Department of Education, are given a one-hour lesson each month on some basis phase of conservation. These lessons are taught under a cooperative plan by the assistant regional directors, conservation officers in the counties affected, and the school teachers as a part of the students' required curricula. The lesson is taught to approximately 80,000 boys and girls each month. The new approach features a series of new color slides, usually around 36 pictures, depicting through visual aid the story (See Story No. 10, Page 5)

A nuptial ceremony at 2 p.m., Sept. 16, in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Sheffield, Ill., united Miss Sharon Jean Vols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Vols, rural Sheffield, and Richard T. Collins, Wyandot, Ill. Mr. Collins' parents are Mr. and Mrs. Tilden Collins, Prestonsburg.

The Rev. Fr. Francis Daus performed the double-ring service before an altar adorned with bouquets of white gladioli. Officiant was Mrs. Catherine Sullivan, and soloist was Mrs. Rosemary DeBroek.

The bride chose a green sheath dress and coat ensemble, and orchid from her bouquet for the wedding trip to the Ozarks. She is employed as secretary at the Monroe Chevrolet-Oldsmobile Company in Princeton.

Mr. Collins is employed with American Telephone and Telegraph Company in Wyandot. He and his bride will be making their home at 112 West Fourth Street, Wyandot.

Bridal attendants wore identical gowns of Pelican Rose colored chiffon over bridal taffeta, styled formally in the Empire line with satin-ribbon trim at the bodice and satin bows on the shoulder. MARRIAGE WENT TO THE DOGS

London — Dorothy Langridge, 43, thought more of her Labrador dog than her husband and three children, Justice Seymour Karminski said in divorce court yesterday. Granting William Langridge, 44, a divorce on grounds of cruelty, the judge said Langridge especially disliked the dog climbing into bed with them.

NO "JOKERS" OFFERED

THESE BILLS MAKE SENSE (An editorial which appeared in The Floyd County Times, January 30, 1964)

The Times is pleased that the county's two State Representatives, W. J. Reynolds and Fred Gearheart, have introduced the two items of legislation which they are sponsoring. They have not chosen to dabble with quixotic legislation or "joker" bills but have hit on issues which are vital to the state and this section.

Their bill to increase from 16 to 18 years of age when boys and girls are subject to the compulsory school law hits a powerful blow at school dropouts. This is a problem which has deep national implications and which has caused deep concern. The General Assembly will do well to let state law do its part toward keeping youngsters in school until they at least are 18.

The two Representatives also offer good, commonsense legislation in their bill prescribing a new formula for the distribution of funds for county roads and bridges. Particularly practical is that provision which would have one-sixth of the total fund allotted on the basis of highway construction costs in a given county. In other words, the present means of distributing the same amount of money per mile to a mountain county that is allocated to a Blue Grass county for rural road-building is ridiculous, for the simple reason that mountain road construction is far more costly than the same work when done over rolling or level terrain.

We hope both bills are given the full consideration they deserve. (This advertisement sponsored by the Floyd County Democratic Campaign Committee; Henry Stumbo, chairman). (Pol. adv.)

KSBA DIRECTOR HITS AT TEACHER STRIKES

"Strikes by public school teachers cannot be justified, and such actions set a poor example for our children and other segments of our society," declared Maurice D. Bement, executive director of the Kentucky School Boards Association, in speaking Wednesday evening to school board members and administrators of the Eastern Kentucky area at Jenny Wiley State Park Lodge. The annual school boards meeting was attended by school officials from eight school districts, including the counties of Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike.

"If it is illegal for public employees to withhold services in violation of contracts, then certainly our public school teachers should be willing and determined to uphold the law, through example, as is taught in the classrooms," continued Bement.

The speaker said the association opposes a state law which would clothe its professional allies, the teachers, with a statutory invitation to bargain with the public schools, for such would provide a legal disservice to the children, the public schools, the public and to the teachers themselves.

"A state law mandating negotiations, or collective bargaining, would encourage division, strife and conflict between teachers and school boards, as exemplified in those states where a so called professional negotiation law has been tried," Bement said, adding:

"It is far better for school boards and teachers to play on the same team, than to fight each other. The aims and objectives of each are the same, at least they should be. If the aim of each is not to improve the education program for children, then we have 'missed the boat.'"

"We must be extremely careful in what we do and in how we do it, so as to prevent an unfavorable reaction to the image of our teachers, and to our public schools. We cannot afford to run the risk of a citizen revolt to the financial support for continued improvement of our public schools. A state law, forcing elected school boards to negotiate with public school teachers who are guaranteed tenure by another law, could lead to strife and strikes, and this could provide the spark for a citizen revolt. We cannot take this chance."

The speaker contended that all concerned must be willing to approach the solution to this temporary misunderstanding through the channels of human relations. "All those concerned with the orderly operation and continued improvement of our public schools — teachers, superintendents, principals, supervisors, school boards — should have sufficient understanding, and should be determined to resolve this issue at home and within the school family. We should not ask our legislature to write the rules for a legalized plan for 'choosing up sides.'"

William J. Baird, of the Pikeville city board, member of the KSBA board of directors, and chairman of the Eastern Kentucky Region, presided at the meeting. Clyde Vanhoose, Johnson county board, is vice-chairman of the region. A 21-point legislative program for 1968 was presented.

The legislative program proposed includes, among others, these objectives:

1. A $5,000 minimum base for degree (Rank III) teachers.
2. Increase allotment for maintenance and operation of school plants from $900 to $1,100 per approved classroom unit in 1968-'69 and to $1,400 in 1969-'70.
3. Increase the allotment for capital outlay from $600 to $900 per classroom unit in 1968-'69 and to $1,200 the following year.

19 FIRES HIT AREA WOODS

Foresters Say Most Blazes Originated With Smoking Game

The six counties in the Eastern district, Kentucky Division of Forestry, had 19 forest fires going over the weekend, it was reported Tuesday by Assistant District Forester Forrest Burchett. Only one fire was burning Tuesday, however.

The district is composed of Floyd, Pike, Magoffin, Martin, Johnson and Lawrence counties.

Alert forest personnel and standby crews brought the week-end fires under control without severe damage on extensive acreage, Burchett said.

More than 95% of the 19 fires originated from efforts of hunters to smoke game out of holes, evidence uncovered shows. Several persons have already paid suppression costs, and others are yet to be taken to court, Burchett added.

The Division of Forestry continues to warn against the danger of woodland fires, particularly during this month and next.

of the subject. With each slide set is a complete narration, prepared by those skilled on the subject, and narrated by the teacher of the class. Where possible the subjects are correlated with subjects being taught in regular classroom work at that time. The slide series goes deeper into given subjects than is offered by the class books.

In addition to featuring lessons on forestry, fish and wildlife, soils and waters the new series will also include air and water pollution and mining operations. Although slides for the complete set of lessons have not been completed, new slides on new subjects are now being prepared.

In order to prepare personnel of the department for their teaching chore, the Director of the Division of Conservation Education and his assistant visit the nine wildlife regional directors and their assistants and outline in detail the programs to be taught and the manner of presentation. In turn these regional officers meet with personnel in their districts and relay this lesson-by-lesson information to the conservation officers assigned to teaching the course.

The two conservation education summer camps, one on Lake Cumberland and the other on Kentucky Lake, will be continued with only members of the fifth and sixth grade school classes being permitted to attend. These students will be selected on the basis of their classroom work and their interest in conservation education work. While at camp, for a period of one week, in addition to participating in games, fishing and boating, they will receive instruction in many phases of conservation. One of the highlights of the camp will be the nature trail hikes and lectures on which youngsters are taught to identify trees, bushes and grasses; to study rocks and rock formations and the soil. This class will be taught each day of the camping period.

Usually about 5,000 youngsters attend these camps which are under the direction of conservation education personnel. The buildings, ground and waterfront areas of both camps are being renovated and will be ready for the approximately 5,000 boys and girls who will visit them next summer.

The speaker contended that all concerned must be willing to approach the solution to this temporary misunderstanding through the channels of human relations. "All those concerned with the orderly operation and continued improvement of our public schools — teachers, superintendents, principals, supervisors, school boards — should have sufficient understanding, and should be determined to resolve this issue at home and within the school family. DARBY for REPRESENTATIVE

DARBY for Representative

Dear Friends,

I don't pretend to be a politician. Perhaps I haven't shaken your hand, or had the time to visit your home and explain my views on some of the most pressing problems of our times. We have tried ignoring them and sweeping them under the rug but they didn't go away. We rank near the bottom in so many fields of human concern that no man can possibly know and still hold his head high.

I don't pretend to have answers to all our problems. Indeed, I feel extremely unworthy of the office I seek, but I'll do my very best. I'm sure you require no more, may we never be satisfied with less.

Your friend,

BILL DARBY

NATURE TRAILS By Rufus M. Reed

THE STRANGE CRY IN THE PASTURE FIELD
 The bird's call was loud and harsh. It was like a shrill whistle that pierced the air and it held a weird, unearthly quality. It came from the weedy tangles out in the pasture field beyond the barn. It sounded so peremptory it jerked me to a halt, and I stood listening.
 The call came the second time from a clump of weeds near the middle of the pasture.
 "Whee-ee—EEP!" It had a rising inflection and was like the impact of a bullwhip. I started walking in the direction of the sound. What bird is that? I asked myself.

I couldn't see any bird out there in the field and my mind began to conjure up pictures of some spooky presence lurking out there in the tall weeds and grass.
 The call came again, louder than before: WHEE-EE-EEP! I felt my hair rising a little but I eased on and soon discovered the bird. It flew up out of the weeds and chased a large green moth. It captured the insect on the wing and flew with it to a dogwood bush at the edge of the field. It deliberately tore off the beautiful green wings and I saw them fluttering away in the wind. It gobbled up the moth. Then it sat erect and still, eyeing me warily. I had a better view of it and then I knew I was looking at a bird that is considered strange and uncanny. It had a touselled crest like that of the kingfisher, and it had a red tail. Its belly was a light, lemon-yellow; its breast, throat and upper back were light gray and there were two white bars on each wing. The eyes were beady and bright. The bird was almost as large as a robin.

It whistled sharply at me and looked as if it meant, "Clear out! This means you!" It seemed to resent my presence there in the field. Soon it flew off and lit in a distant part of the field and began searching for something on the ground. I couldn't quite figure out what it might be seeking but I had a strong suspicion. The bird couldn't seem to find what it was looking for and soon flew away.
 The next day I went out to watch for the bird again. It wasn't long until I saw it flying up out of the field with a long, white something trailing like a banner in the wind. Then I knew for sure what this bird was. The great crested flycatcher, which is also called, The snakeskin bird. It is a bird that hunts for the shed skin of a snake to use in the construction of its nest, or perhaps for decorations. I should say.
 The bird flew with the snakeskin to a half-decayed tulip poplar snag on the hillside above the barn. I ran after it to watch. It had found a woodpecker's old hole in the snag and built its nest inside it. Now it was carefully placing the dried skin of the snake in the nest. The skin looked like that of a large pitot black-snake.

I didn't want to seem over curious, for fear I might disturb this strange bird in its still stranger ritual of decorating its nest with a dried snakeskin. I was glad to have the bird about the premises. It is valuable as a predator on pests such as grasshoppers, leaf-hoppers, gypsy and codling moths, which do much damage to orchards and shade trees.
 What odd quirk of this bird leads it to put a snakeskin in its nest? What purpose does it serve, if any? I asked myself. I had also been told the bird would quit the nest if it should lose the snakeskin out of it.
 Did the bird have some sort of odd notion that the snakeskin might frighten away enemies? Or did it somehow believe the snakeskin might deter crows and bluejays from destroying the eggs?
 These are questions that cannot be answered satisfactorily. We have no way of knowing the bird's true purpose for placing the snakeskin in its nest and curling it about the structure. This is one of ornithology's 64 questions and it may never be answered fully.

TROJANS SCORE 6th WIN IN DOWNING JOHNS CREEK

The Wheelwright Trojans grabbed their sixth victory of the season in eight tries as they downed Johns Creek, 32-14, last Friday night.
 The first score came when the Trojans' Cecil Thornsbury blocked a Johns Creek punt and returned it 25 yards for a touchdown. Deaton ran the extra point. The second was in the first quarter when Jad Deaton hit Merle Little with an 11-yard pass. Counts' extra point failed.
 The third Trojan score was made by Gary Taylor on a one-yard blast. The extra point pass was no good. The fourth Wheelwright touchdown was in the third quarter when Jad Deaton ran for seven yards. George ran the extra point.
 The final Trojan score came in the last quarter when Ricky Counts went five yards for a touchdown. The extra point failed.
 Wheelwright's next opponent will be Jenkins at Wheelwright on November 4. Both teams are undefeated in district play.

Get the true facts on Electric heating from people who have it in their homes

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sheets of West Liberty, Kentucky, say, "Our home is big . . . 3,328 sq. ft. But our electric bill isn't. For heating and all other uses of electricity we pay just $36.57 a month. We don't believe that's any more than we used to pay for natural gas and electricity. We had expected to pay more for the cleanliness and safety of electric heat. Instead, the cost is just about the same."

Mr. and Mrs. Beecher Arnett of Dixie Addition, Salyersville, Kentucky, say, "Our house is large—7-rooms, 3-baths. But our average monthly electric bill for heating and all other uses of electricity is just $29.72. As far as we're concerned, electric heat can't be beat. Even in the coldest weather, the floors are always warm. And clean, it's so clean!"

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Hinkle of Walnut St., Pauley Addition, Pikeville, Kentucky, say, "With electric heat our average monthly electric bill is less than what we paid in our old home for fuel and electricity combined. Even though we rented our old house, we painted it because the walls got so dirty. Our average monthly electric bill for heating and all other uses of electricity is just $25.01."

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hankins of Black Gem, Kentucky, say, "Our average monthly electric bill for heating and all other uses of electricity is just $26.88. That's about 85¢ a month more than our old heat plus our old electric bill. But electric heat is more than worth the slight difference. With our old furnace we washed our drapes and painted almost every year. We figure we will paint once every 5 years now."

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Newsome of Grethel, Kentucky, say, "For our 8-room home the average monthly electric bill for heating and all other uses of electricity is just $26.55. The house is never too hot or too cold. We wash or dry-clean drapes very seldom where with gas heat we did so frequently. The time saved from constant cleaning is worth a great deal to my wife."

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Parks of No. 2 Bottom, Burdine, Kentucky, say, "We converted our 8-room home to electric heat. Now our average monthly electric bill for heating and all other uses of electricity is just $22.32. That's $2.68 a month less than we used to pay for coal heat and electricity. We've never known a heating system as clean as electricity. We wouldn't go back to hauling ashes and constant cleaning for anything."

If you've heard some of the guesses and "hear tells" about electric heat, you'll welcome the straight unvarnished "Dollars and Sense" facts . . . facts from folks with electric heat in their homes. Read what they say. And remember, they are just a few of the thousands of people in Kentucky Power territory who enthusiastically endorse electric heat.

CATS DOWN HAZARD FOR 1st TIME HERE

Those who witnessed the Homecoming football game here last Friday night saw something that had never been seen on a Prestonsburg field. They saw the Prestonsburg Black Cats defeat the once-powerful Hazard Bulldogs.

The Cats won easily, 21 to 0, although it was not one of their better games. The offense sputtered three times inside the Hazard 10.

"We weren't ready," Coach Bobby Crager commented. "The boys were looking ahead, and this can get you beat. We will have to play better, the next two games, or get run off the field."

Crager added that, except for two plays, the defense did a good job. He said that one of the brighter spots was the play of younger members of the squad in the final period.

Darrell Leslie led the Cats, scoring all three touchdowns and adding one extra point.

In colorful halftime ceremonies Miss Connie Blackburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Blackburn, of East Point, was crowned Homecoming queen.

This week, the Cats are away from home, playing the Louisa Bulldogs.

Telephone Talk

By BILL GIBSON
Your Telephone Manager

BOUND AND DETERMINED . . . How would you summon aid if a robber left you tied hand and foot?

A service station operator in this predicament used his tongue to dial for help. And a woman theater manager in a similar fix managed to dial with her nose.

You'll probably never have to go to extremes like these, but the incidents do point up how important your telephone can be in an emergency.

DO YOU HAVE A PARTY LINE? It's a thrifty and convenient service. And it can be very pleasant for everyone.

Party line etiquette is simple. Just follow the Golden Rule. You appreciate having the use of the line when you need it — and so do your party-line "partners." Being sure the receiver is hung up, keeping your calls spaced out and brief, teaching your children good telephone manners, respecting privacy—these are things that help give all party-line users full value from their phones.

THE MAN OF THE HOUSE couldn't remember the phone number he wanted to call. So, receiver in hand, he toyed absent-mindedly with the telephone dial while looking through the phone book. Suddenly his face turned beet-red.

His wife noticed and asked anxiously, "Is something the matter?"

"No," he said, grinning sheepishly. "The operator just asked me if my mother knew I was playing with the phone."

You are missing a good bet if you don't attend the events at Prestonsburg Community College which are open to the public. Why not take full advantage of the programs and facilities which are available?

Miss Mary Beth Sammons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Sammons, of Martin, Ky., and Jay Geiger Henthorne, Jr., son of Jay Geiger Henthorne, Sr., and the late Mrs. Henthorne, of Grayson, were married at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Oct. 21, in the Church of Christ, Martin.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Joe Buchanan, organist, and Mrs. Jack Stumbo, soloist. The Rev. Donnie Jack Williams performed the double-ring ceremony which was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Ted Hicks, Prestonsburg, Mrs. John Hall, Allen, and Mrs. Beecher Hardwick, Betsy Layne.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal cage wedding gown of candle-light Ivory Alencon lace, styled with high scalloped neckline, empire bodice, long sleeves, tapering to calla points over her wrists. She wore a floor-length mantilla of silk illusion, edged in Alencon lace. She carried a nosegay of white roses and ivy.

Matron of honor was Mrs. William Byron Brashear, of Lexington. The bridesmaids were Miss Sheila Carol Gilreath, Ashland, and Miss Peggy Sue Kidd, Frankfort. Their identically styled floor-length gowns were gold satin brocade, with empire waistlines, scooped necklines, elbow-length sleeves, a-line skirts with front inverted pleat and a large bow at the back of the waistline. Their head pieces were gold Dior bows with floor-length gold veiling. They carried a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums and wheat.

Mary Lee Vance, Ashland, and Jennifer Kay Burke, Prestonsburg, cousins of the bride, were flower girls. They wore floor-length gowns of gold brocade satin and wore garlands of bronze chrysanthemums in their hair. They carried baskets of rose petals.

William S. Oder, Erlanger, Ky., brother-in-law of the groom, was best man. The ushers were William Eaves, Ashland, and John Phillip Sammons, Martin, brother of the bride.

After a wedding trip to Jamaica, Mr. and Mrs. Henthorne will reside on Mill Street, Apple Creek, Ohio.

The bride was graduated from the University of Kentucky College of Nursing where she was a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. In August she received her Master's of Public Health from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Mr. Henthorne was graduated from the University of Kentucky where he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He presently is employed by Birdwell Division of Seismograph Service Corp., Tulsa, Okla., and is stationed at the company's Wooster, Ohio field office.

ESTILL

Mr. and Mrs. Ballard Hopkins have returned to their home after a month's visit with their son, Maynard Hopkins, and family, of Waverly, Ohio, and their daughter, Mrs. Dixie Blevins, of New Haven, West Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Scott, who have been residing in Ohio for some time, have moved back to Estill.

Miss Judy Vanderpool, a student at Morehead State University, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Talmadge Vanderpool.

PRESIDENT, OTHERS LAUD CARL PERKINS

Representative Carl D. Perkins' committee battle to win clearance of this year's antipoverty legislation was interrupted Thursday, Oct. 12, as members of both parties called a truce to wish him a happy birthday.

President Lyndon B. Johnson sent a message, saying, "No statesman has ever done more to secure the well being of our citizens and to ensure the fullness of opportunity for their children. You have set standards for all future generations of legislators to emulate."

The after-work surprise party came three days before Perkins' 55th birthday on Sunday.

Vice-President Humphrey, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, H.E.W. Under-Secretary Wilbur Cohn and many other Washington officials joined members of the Education and Labor Committee and staff in paying tribute to the chairman.

Humphrey cited Perkins' long association with legislative battles to win support for hundreds of educational and welfare programs to improve the lot of the American people. He called the Hindman native the "Captain of the Ship of Opportunity." Perkins became chairman of the Committee on Education and Labor last January.

Humphrey hand-delivered the letter in which President Johnson said, in part:

"Lady Bird and I are with you in spirit as your colleagues and friends gather to wish you a happy birthday. This is more than just a birthday celebration. It is a much-deserved tribute to a legislator who selflessly and consistently seeks the public good . . .

"It is a milestone that marks yet another memorable year of congressional leadership in a career that has produced uncounted enduring achievements for the American people."

The birthday party was held in one of the reception rooms of the Rayburn House Office Building.

STATE HUNTERS GIVEN VARIETY OF 'SEASONS'

One of the most generous hunting seasons in modern history has been offered those nimrods who will seek various species of game in Kentucky this year. If it were physically possible a hunter could take to the fields more than 600 days in quest of protected species, a check of the total hunting seasons reveals.

And from other sources come reports that the hunter should be well pleased with what he finds.

Most species are reported to be in as great abundance this year as for the past several—a few species have declined in population; some have increased in numbers, and others are unchanged over past recent populations.

Bag and possession limits are the same as for last year with one exception—this year hunters may bag six rabbits a day as compared to eight last season and they may have in their possession a total of 12 after two or more days of hunting whereas 16 were permitted in previous seasons.

The squirrel hunter has the most generous season—a total of 112 days; grouse will be legal on 90 days; the rabbit and quail hunter will have a total of 77 days in which to hunt; there are 70 days for the dove hunter, and the same number for the goose hunter; 62 days make up the split archery deer season; the duck hunter will be limited to 40 days, and the gun deer hunter will have five days to hunt in 81 counties and one day in a newly opened county, McCracken, in an either-sex area.

Even by leaving out the turkey season, the teal season, and those for the rails, gallinules, and snipe, this adds up to well over 600 hunting days for protected game. Then, with the exception of a short period in November when hunting is barred, the crow and the groundhogs will be targets for an additional 365 days of hunting.

Deer hunters have more areas in which to hunt than they have had since the turn of the century. This year the whole state is open to archery marksmen who will have two full months in which to hunt in the area of their choice. The season opened on October 1 and continued throughout that month. Now, another season will run the duration of December. Hunters may take the deer in daylight hours only with a long bow and barbless arrows with broadhead points at least seven-eighths of an inch wide. And only one deer may be taken a year in both the gun and archery season combined. In the Pioneer Weapons area, in Bath and Menifee counties, where only primitive weapons may be used, the cross-bow is legal but must have a pull of not less than 80 pounds.

The gun deer hunter will have more counties open this year than ever before. A total of 82 counties have been designated for legal hunting with a five-day season beginning on November 8 and continuing through November 12, except a newly opened county, McCracken, will have hunting only on Saturday, Nov. 11, and three counties, Edmonson, Barren and Hart, will have five days of hunting, but this season will be Nov. 10, 11 and 12 and December 2 and 3.

A few musts: All hunters must wear some visible article of orange or yellow clothing; persons under 18 years of age must be accompanied by an adult; deer may be taken with shotguns not larger than 10-gauge or smaller than 20-gauge with shells carrying a single slug and to hold not more than three shells in the magazine and chamber combined; centerfire rifles of .243 caliber or larger; semi-automatic rifles; muzzle-loading rifles of .38 caliber or larger fired from the shoulder. Any type of muzzle-loading rifle or shotgun may be used in the Pioneer Weapons area and a portion of the Land Between the Lakes area. Shotgun shot, in case of muzzle-loader, must be of No. 2 buckshot or larger.

Dogs may not be used in deer hunting and deer may not be taken before daylight or after dark. The Army M-1 .30 caliber is barred and so are revolvers, pistols or any type handgun except muzzle-loading handguns on the Pioneer and LBL areas.

Some counties are open for both sexes of deer while in another group only deer with visible antlers may be harvested. The complete rundown, with dates and type of hunting, follows: Either sex, Nov. 8-12—Livingston, Crittenden, Lyon, Caldwell, Trigg, Christian, Hopkins, Webster, Union, Henderson, Daviess, McLean, Ohio, Muhlenberg, Butler, Todd, Logan, Allen, Warren, Grayson, Breckinridge, Hancock, Meade, Hardin, Nelson, Bullitt, Larnie, Marion, Taylor, Green, Metcalfe, Monroe, Cumberland, Clinton, Russell, Casey and Boyle. Either sex, Nov. 10, 11, 12 and Dec. 2 and 3—Edmonson, Hart, Barren, Bucks only, (visible antlers), Nov. 8-12—Adair, Wayne, McCreary, Pulaski, Rockcastle, Laurel, Whitley, Bell, Knox, Clay, Jackson, Estill, Powell, Lee, Owsley, Leslie, Harlan, Letcher, Perry, Knott, Breathitt, Wolfe, Menifee, Bath, Fleming, Rowan, Morgan, Magoffin, Floyd (except Dewey Lake Game Refuge), Johnson, Elliott, Carter, Lewis, Greenup and new counties—Lawrence, Franklin, Henry, Trimble, Carroll, Owen and Grant. Either sex, Nov. 11—McCracken.

Again this year the rabbit and quail seasons coincide, the opening date being Nov. 16 and the closing day being Jan. 31. This provides 77 days of hunting. The Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission has attempted to set up a permanent date for the quail and rabbit seasons. In the future, unless there is a sharp fluctuation in populations, the seasons will open on the third Thursday in November and will end on the last day of January.

The only change in the bag and possession limits in the entire seasons this year affects the rabbits. The daily limit has been cut to six with a possession limit of 12 after two or more days of hunting. Bag and possession limits for quail remain at 10 and 20.

According to a survey conducted by the rural mail carriers in cooperation with the Department of Fish and Wildlife, throughout the state, both the rabbit and quail populations are up this year over the past season. However, this survey may have been influenced by weather conditions in the June and July sampling, when there was an unusual amount of rain. Biologists think that more of these two species were using the roads than usual due to these heavy rains and it could be that the findings of the mail carriers will (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

Wise Grocery Shopping Begins With Planning

Wise grocery shopping begins with good meal planning, says Mrs. Frances H. Pitts, area Extension agent.

You can learn to plan meals that stay within the family food budget and still give your family the foods they need for fitness, she points out. Remember that the price of food is not a guide to the nutrients it contains. Many low-cost foods provide large amounts of the nutrients your family needs for good health, while some high-priced foods are low in essential nutrients.

Mrs. Pitts gives these suggestions that may help you plan and shop for nutritious, low-cost meals for your family.

Plan meals with the "Food for Fitness" Chart in mind.

Keep a note pad and pencil handy in the kitchen. Write your needs as you think of them or as the supply runs low.

Check the refrigerator often to see what foods are stored that should be used. Use refrigerated food while its quality is good.

Plan meals and make your grocery list on the day your local paper carries the food ads. Take advantage of "specials" when they will actually save you money and when they include foods you can use.

Shopping in a supermarket usually saves time. If your grocery list groups foods of the same kind together, supermarket-shopping also can help you avoid forgetting items you need.

Follow your shopping list. Buy only those items on the list unless you see something of equal or better nutritional value at a money-saving price.

Handle foods in the store with care. Broken packages and bruised fruits and vegetables result in a loss to the store, which shows up in higher prices to customers.

Store your purchases properly as soon as possible after you finish shopping. Correct storage prevents spoilage and waste as well as preserving the nutritive value, flavor and appearance of the food.

Winner of the Sam Beichler Award made by the U. S. Forest Service for 1966, the Kentucky Division of Forestry is working to retain the award for the second year in a row. The honor came to Kentucky last year for the first time after the trophy had been held by neighboring Tennessee for three years.

The trophy has been on display at the Kentucky Forestry Service district office at nearby Lancer for several days.

Part of the effectiveness of the Kentucky Division of Forestry in reducing forest fires has been attributed to a vigorous and expanded law enforcement section. In April, 1966 Division personnel began issuing citations for forest fire law violations. Between 1964 and 1966, 202 cases found their way to court, 139 convictions resulted and 83 cases were settled out of court.

Last year, the 2,357 fires in the state constituted a new low. Although burning conditions were more severe last year than in 1965, there was a decrease of more than 17,500 acres in the area burned over last year.

The average forest fire kills most trees up to 3/4 of an inch in diameter on the burned area. These trees represent approximately 20 years of growth. In the case of up-slope burning under severe conditions, almost every tree is killed, regardless of size or type. Another form of damage from fires that has a lasting effect is the damage resulting from a portion of the bole being killed by the fire. Insects and diseases enter the tree through those damaged areas drastically reducing the value of the tree.

Man and his activities cause over 99 percent of all fires in Kentucky. The following table shows the percentages of forest fires in Kentucky during 1965 from various causes:

Debris burning, 58.5%; smoking, 13.6%; incendiary, 13.5%; campfires, 4.5%; machine use, 1.5%; lightning, 1%; miscellaneous, 8.3%.

Debris burning, the largest single cause of fires, includes all fires which start through carelessness or negligence in burning trash, tobacco beds, sedge grass fields, clearing, and attempting to smoke animals out of holes or hollow trees.

As a result of 1958 amendments to the basic fire protection law, the Division was directed to place all counties under organized forest fire protection. This was completed by January, 1966. At present the state is providing protection to 10,770,000 acres of privately owned forest land. To carry out its responsibility nine administrative districts, each embracing approximately one and one-quarter million acres of timberland, have been set up. Each district is under the direction of a district forester.

HENRY WARD

BURL ST. CLAIR

What will Henry Ward and Burl St. Clair do for Kentucky's Farmers?

- ★ A tax structure with safeguards against increase in property taxes.
- ★ Special efforts to develop new sources of income for the farmer and improve and expand market outlets.
- ★ Beef up the Rural Road program so that your county has more road money. Blacktop 10,000 more miles of rural roads.
- ★ Give Kentucky farmers the best backup available for production and marketing of crops and livestock. Complete the Agricultural Science complex at the University of Kentucky.
- ★ Strengthen the timber industry. A better Forestry Department at U of K and work to establish a four-year school of forestry there.
- ★ Accelerate the control of animal diseases. Complete the construction and staffing of the animal disease diagnostic laboratories.
- ★ Expand the "Chain of Lakes" program.
- ★ Support Rural Water Districts.
- ★ Provide educational opportunities for rural youths on a par equal to those in urban areas.

HENRY WARD was born on a McCracken County farm. He knows all about the problems of low profits and high operating costs. And he has strong, positive ideas about how to help farmers solve them. He promises not magic... he promises effort and achievement. He will build on the characteristics and traditions that made Kentucky great: a respect for law and order, honesty and fairness.

BURL ST. CLAIR has, for many years, been a leader of Kentucky's agricultural community, as well as a successful farmer in his native Grayson County. He has held every elective office in both state and local Farm Bureau organizations, including President of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation and 20 years on its board of directors. Burl St. Clair is widely known and respected by farmers.

Henry Ward and Burl St. Clair know farming has never been easy, and it probably will never be. But farm income will improve with Henry Ward as Governor and Burl St. Clair as Commissioner of Agriculture to fight for Kentucky's farmers.

Ate Beans and Hoecakes . . .

THESE ANCIENT INDIANS WERE REAL KENTUCKIANS

They were eating beans and hoecakes in Kentucky a long time before the white man came to the Bluegrass State.

And it won't require much research to discover that two of Kentucky's favorite foods today are beans and corn meal.

Archaeological research at the University of Kentucky has found that this preference in table fare dates back hundreds of years—to pre-historic days when Kentucky Indians first cultivated the foods and possibly used them as trade goods with tribes as far away as the Canadian border and the Gulf of Mexico.

A University of Kentucky archaeological group, financed by the National Park Service, is digging into Kentucky's earth to reconstruct the life and habits of the state's earliest inhabitants. They have found considerable evidence of the two food staples in the diet of the first Kentuckians.

Administered by Miss Martha Ann Rolingson, of the UK anthropology faculty, who will receive her doctor's degree in December, the exploratory project will cover numerous areas of the state. Much of the excavating is in river basins and land which soon will be covered by reservoir waters. Parts of Eagle Creek, Cave Run, the Licking and Green River beds are in the research area.

Miss Rolingson said a pre-historic village dating back to around 1000 A.D., uncovered in the Green River valley, showed that Kentucky Indians lived in a stockaded village, possessed many skillfully chipped stone weapons and tools, and used well-formed clay and stone household utensils. They extensively cultivated beans, corn and squash.

There also is evidence that they had a political organization which governed village affairs and saw to its defense.

Square-shaped mounds are peculiar to certain tribes of the Mississippian Culture, which includes the Kentucky tribes, Miss Rolingson said.

The mounds are flat on top and often served as tribal shrines or temples. They sometimes held the dwelling place of the tribe's chief or sachem. Two of these square mounds were discovered and explored in an area near Campbellsville.

Miss Rolingson said evidence indicates prehistoric Kentuckians had a lively trade with Indians as far away as Minnesota and northern Michigan, from whom they obtained copper, "probably exchanging their agricultural produce and special hardwoods for bows and arrows for the metal. Artistically-carved shells suggest trade with tribes along the Mississippi River and the Gulf of Mexico."

Floyd Has Largest Numerical Increase In Morehead Students

Morehead, Ky., Oct. 19 — Students at Morehead State University this fall represent 89 Kentucky counties and 32 states. According to Dr. John R. Duncan, director of admissions, there also are 24 students on campus from foreign countries.

As would probably be expected, Rowan county, of which Morehead is the county seat, furnished the largest number of students—372. The second largest group consisting of 277 students, though, comes from Jefferson county, 150 miles away. Boyd county with 248 makes up the third largest category. Other leaders listed in order of the number of students represented at Morehead are Carter (242), Greenup (212), Floyd (209), and Pike (204). Knott county with 102 had over a 100 percent increase in the number of students in 1967 over 1966. Floyd county had the largest numerical increase—from 141 to 208.

Sixty-four of the 89 Kentucky counties represented showed an increase in number for this year over last. Of a total of 6,148 students at Morehead, 4,323 are from Kentucky, 1,793 are from out-of-state, and 24 are from foreign countries. Total enrollment increased 684 from the previous year.

ALMOST QUARTER-MILLION ARE GIVEN TB SKIN TESTS

Frankfort, Ky.—Establishment of a tuberculin skin testing program for Kentucky school children is cited by the State TB Hospital Commission as the most significant accomplishment in the agency's tuberculosis control program during the past four years. In a special report to Gov. Edward T. Breathitt, for the period from December, 1963, to now, Thomas A. Layton, executive director of the Commission, says more than 235,000 school children in 52 counties have been given skin tests. Another 125,000 youngsters will be given tests during the 1967-'68 school year, he said. Layton pointed out that the tuberculin testing program has improved casefinding. It also has permitted the state to help prevent active tuberculosis cases by treating reactors to skin tests as a prophylactic measure. These other achievements were listed in the report:

 1. Reduction to 128 days the average period of hospitalization in the six state-operated hospitals. Ten years ago, the average period of hospitalization was 174 days.
 2. Admission, treatment and discharge of more than 2,000 patients annually for the past four years.
 3. Operation of 58 field outpatient clinics which registered a total of 37,887 visits during the past year. The use of the clinics has grown 50 percent in the past four years.

Our REPRESENTATIVE REFUSES TO RUN ON HIS RECORD

Over the past several weeks I have brought you our Representative's voting record. I have given the name and number of the bills. I have offered $500.00 if I falsify the record. His only positive accomplishment was the bill he sponsored to give himself a $150.00 (tax free) pension each month.

not be reflected in the bag and possession limits once hunting has started.

There is firm conviction, however, that the population of both these species is as great as last year.

To the delight of a great segment of hunters, the squirrel population has been great for the second year in a row. The season opened statewide on Aug. 12 and continued through Oct. 31. There remains another month of legal hunting as the whole of December has been declared open for squirrel hunting. The light winter of 1966-67 apparently was favorable to the squirrel population and the breeding stock left over from the 1966 season came through the winter months in fine fettle. This year the mast crop is good throughout the state which would indicate that hunters next year may expect another exceptional squirrel hunting season. The bag limit is six with 12 in possession after two or more days of hunting. Both rifles and shotguns are accepted weapons for the squirrel except rifles of .243 and above and shotguns with slugs or buckshot are prohibited at any time or any place to take squirrels. They, however, may be taken with any type muzzle-loading weapons.

The same season as last year for ruffed grouse has been approved. The season will open on Dec. 1 and continue through Feb. 28. This species appears in greatest number in the Eastern Kentucky mountains and in fact that is about the only place in the state that they are hunted, although transplants into other sections of the state are reported to be progressing according to plan. The grouse is a wily bird and an individual who hunts them must be rugged and able to climb mountains. Another requisite, if a grouse is to be harvested, is that the hunter must be a quick, accurate shot and must use, in most instances, a close-working bird dog. The harvest of grouse has been great for the past few years and indications are that the population is again good. The bag limit of four with eight in possession after two or more days of hunting remains unchanged.

A season for hunting turkey gobblers only has been set for April 20 through April 28 in 18 Eastern Kentucky counties. The area open for this hunt is: That portion of McCreary county east of US Route 27 and north of Kentucky Route 92, Pulaski, Perry, Breathitt, Knott, Clay, Leslie, Jackson, Owsley, Powell, Wolfe, Bath, Menifee, Laurel, Rockcastle, that portion of Whitley county north of Kentucky Route 92, Lee and Rowan. Only one turkey per year may be taken.

There is a closed season on all wildlife, protected or unprotected, except for deer and waterfowl, from Nov. 1 through Nov. 15. This, however, does not prohibit landowners from killing any species of wildlife on their land which is causing damage to persons or property. However, before killing such animals or birds the owner should contact his local conservation officer and animals or birds so killed must be turned over to the conservation officer.

STRIP-MINING DAMAGE AT BUCKHORN DISPUTED

A controversial strip- and auger-mining operation in Leslie county is not a hazard to Buckhorn Lake and the surrounding area, witnesses have told the State Reclamation Commission.

The operation will improve the land, said the operator, the landowner and several representatives of the State Division of Reclamation in the Natural Resources Department at a public hearing in Frankfort.

The Commission heard a request by Leslie County Judge George Wootton that the permit of the Phil Young Coal Company to mine 12 acres of coal near the Middle Fork Kentucky River and its tributary, Ellis Branch, be withdrawn because the operation "will adversely affect the Buckhorn Lake and Park." The Commission will rule on the request later.

Wootton, who said he represented the Leslie County Development Association and the county Farm Bureau, the ministerial association and the fish and game club, said the lake area "lies in the very shadow" of the proposed permit area and is subject to pollution and siltation from the operation.

Not so, said Warner Ford, civil engineer with the Reclamation Division. "We realized this was a critical area when the permit was applied for," Ford said, adding that the division took extra precaution in inspecting the permit area and approving the operation and reclamation plans.

Ford noted that he had studied the area with division inspector Joe Davis and division area supervisor Herbie Johnson before the permit was issued and had forced the coal company to increase the precautionary measures of its original operational plans.

As a result, said Ford, the company's operation plans are "far in addition to what is normally required of an operation."

Ford, Johnson and Davis told the hearing the coal company had constructed eight silt basins below the operation that will control sedimentation. Buckhorn Lake is seven miles from the site of the operation, they said.

Furthermore, Ford said, an abandoned tram road that once served a deep-mining operation in the area is serving adequately as a bench for much of the overburden removed in the stripping operation. Below the road, said Ford, is yet another bench — a "natural" bench formed by a decrease in slope steepness — that "will catch any sliding spoil."

Operator Phil Young said he is improving the area by "covering holes" from the old deep mine operation and by "seeding and fertilizing."

Landowner John Munch agreed, saying his property will be more valuable after the stripping operation is complete because "it will be more level."

BREAKS INTERSTATE

Created in 1954 through joint action of the legislatures of Kentucky and Virginia, Breaks Interstate Park now embraces 2,500 acres of varied mountain scenery, including the 1600-foot-deep canyon; the Towers, a pyramidal rock formation; caves, balanced rocks and hidden springs. Foot trails lead to the most interesting features but much of the park is still unexplored.

Dear Representative Reynolds:

This letter is written to set forth certain facts concerning the 1964 and 1966 General Assembly. The House of Representatives met in regular session on 45 days in 1964. You attended on 44 of these days. The House of Representatives met in special session on 17 days in 1965. You attended all 17 of these sessions. The House of Representatives met in regular session on 46 days in 1966. You were in attendance on 45 of these days.

The House of Representatives in its regular 1964 session passed 475 bills and resolutions. The House of Representatives in its regular 1966 session passed 456 bills and resolutions.

In 1966 the average roll call vote on passage of bills in the House of Representatives was 75.6. That means that roughly one out of each four members of the House did not vote on the final passage of a bill in that chamber.

Sincerely,

James T. Fleming

Commission Adopts Stricter Controls Of Air Pollution

Kentucky's Air Pollution Control Commission has adopted strict regulations to give its staff more enforcement powers regarding incinerator design and specification.

The commission accepted the recommendation of its staff to include minimum construction criteria for incinerators.

The commission also adopted regulations to: (1) prevent, abate, and control the emission of air contaminants from coal refuse disposal, (2) prevent, abate and control the emission of air contaminants from incinerators, (3) regulate the practice of burning combustibles in the open, and (4) control the emission of air contaminants from waste burners.

Ralph C. Pickard, executive director of the commission, said, "Some incinerator companies are really producing trash burners and calling them incinerators. I expect that many incinerator companies will be out of business if they don't comply with our engineering design standards."

Meeting Scheduled Tonight To Answer Many Questions About UK, College Entrance

High school seniors planning to go to college next year, and especially interested in University of Kentucky admission policies and academic programs, will find answers to their questions at a meeting scheduled for 7:30 tonight (Thursday) at Prestonsburg Community College.

A visitation team made up of UK administrators and faculty members from Lexington will discuss admission procedures, costs, availability of financial assistance, and academic requirements.

Following the presentation by the different team members, the UK officials will answer questions from the high schoolers and their parents. The meeting here is open to all high school seniors in surrounding counties. Dr. Elbert W. Ockerman, UK dean of admissions and registrar, says the meeting is designed to provide the students with as much information as they could obtain by visiting the UK campus at Lexington. It is one of 18 such sessions which have been arranged in cities throughout the state. Their purpose, Dr. Ockerman says, is not to recruit students but to provide interested high schoolers with as much information about UK as they desire, without requiring travel to Lexington.
