McDowell Five Leads With 26 for Season

McDowell, Ky. (Sp.) — Last Friday night the Garrett Black Devils traveled to McDowell where they took on the winningest team in Eastern Kentucky, the McDowell Daredevils. The Daredevils steadily pulled away from the visitors behind the hot shooting of Sammy Adams who hit on 15 of 17 attempts from the floor for an outstanding 88 percent and 33 points. Stan Ward and Tom Martin backed his effort with 17 and 15 points, respectively. Barry Hall, the Daredevils defensive guard, racked up 10 assists and forced several turnovers as the Daredevils won their 21st game by a score of 89-68.

Saturday night, the Daredevils went to Mullins where they met the much-improved Betsy Layne Bobcats. The Daredevils' outstanding scorer from the night before, Sammy Adams, stayed home with flu. A new face was seen in the Daredevil starting lineup as Jerry Moore replaced Adams for the night.

The Bobcats jumped out to an early 17-14 lead at the end of the first quarter, but the Daredevils settled down and led from early in the second quarter to the end of the game as the Daredevils won it, 73-61.

Tom Martin took scoring honors with 25 points, maintaining his 26-point average through 26 games. Jerry Moore did an exceptional job as he filled in for Sammy Adams and came up with 20 points while adding some badly needed outside shooting to the Daredevil attack.

The most improved thing about the Daredevils is their defense. During the last five games they have given up 299 points for an average of 59 points per game while themselves scoring 406 points for an average of 81 per game during these five games.

The Daredevils' shooting percentage is 49 percent for the year and the team is averaging 83 points per game for the year.

When the Daredevils defeated Prestonsburg, 103-52, at Prestonsburg on Jan. 31, it was the team's 12th win. This marked the seventh straight year the Devils have won 20 or more games.

State Revenues Show Increase But Still Are Below Estimate

Frankfort, Ky. — Commissioner of Revenue J. E. Lockett and Commissioner of Finance Albert Cristen have released figures for state revenue receipts for the month of December and the first half of the 1967-'68 fiscal year.

General Fund receipts of $166,969,577 for the six months were 2.9 percent greater than the 1966-'67 fiscal year, but were 2.3 percent below the revised estimate of $170,908,210.

The three general property taxes were the principal cause for General Fund receipts being below the estimate. Tax bills in several large counties were delayed and were not paid in time for the usual remittance by sheriffs in December.

Sales and use tax receipts to the General Fund totaled $69,523,744, slightly above the estimate of $69 million and 1 percent greater than the same period last year.

Road Fund receipts of over $135 million were up 8.3 percent over the period.

While individual income tax receipts were up 7.9 percent for a total over the estimated $41 million, corporation income tax receipts fell 19.8 percent from last year and were well below the estimated $17 million figure.

Dr. Elbert Ockerman, registrar, reports that the 1968 enrollment figure is an increase of 2,712 over last year's figure.

Spring enrollment for 1967 included 13,236 students on the Lexington campus; 4,654 in the community colleges and the Lexington Technical Institute; 1,397 in the evening class program, and 725 in extension classes throughout the state.

A breakdown by colleges and schools on the Lexington campus includes: Architecture, 107; Allied Health, 40; Home Economics, 146; Nursing, 127; Agriculture, 268; Dentistry, 180; Arts and Sciences, 7,291; Business and Economics, 601; Education, 1,542; Engineering, 539; Graduate School, 1,885; Pharmacy, 150; Law, 409, and Medicine, 289.

The Arts and Sciences figure includes all UK freshmen and most sophomores on the Lexington campus. Under the present academic system, students may enter their chosen field only after completing liberal arts requirements in the A & S college.

Community colleges report the following enrollment: Ashland, 973; Elizabethtown, 526; Henderson, 448; Hopkinsville, 320; Jefferson, 803; Northern at Covington, 1,117; Prestonsburg, 380; Somerset, 433; Southeast at Cumberland, 366; Lexington Technical Institute, 99, and Ft. Knox, 357. The Correspondence Study Program reports that 2,458 students currently are enrolled in their program (not included in above enrollment figures).

New Music Program With PCC Assistance Begun at 2 Schools

A new music program has been instituted at the Prestonsburg and Clark elementary schools which will teach students to play string instruments. Prestonsburg Community College has stimulated thought and interest for this new program and is supplying members of its own faculty to act as instructors for the grade school students who take part in this activity. Although Prestonsburg Community College is doing a great deal to make this possible, the program itself is a part of the grade school music curriculum.

Gus Kalos and Amzie Parcell, in discussing this new music program, said that its aim was to develop a string program in the high schools so that the high schools could eventually have their own orchestras.

I Say What I Think

By S. C. VAN CURON

Frankfort, Ky.—All is harmony now between the Governor's Office and that of Secretary of State after a little disagreement earlier in January over the appointment of an assistant.

Secretary of State Elmer Begley, of Hyden, thought he had an agreement with Gov. Louie B. Nunn to approve Mrs. Begley as assistant Secretary of State, a statutory requirement, but Nunn had second thoughts on the matter and wondered at the time if "it would be appropriate to appoint her" to the post.

Begley says there are no hard feelings between him and the governor. He just isn't going to appoint an official assistant in his office. Begley did indicate the salary of his wife will be in the neighborhood of $1,000 a month. Mrs. Thelma Stovall's assistant for the past four years drew $13,000. Begley's salary is $18,000.

Begley, who was county judge of Leslie county for 17 years, said his wife worked in his office all of that time and is capable. She has a college degree, a former school teacher, and worked for the Farm Security Administration.

However, when the elected constitutional officers were sworn in by Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals Squire Williams, he also administered the oath of office to Mrs. Begley to sign official papers for Begley.

In an interview Begley says the appointment of an assistant secretary of state is permissive, but not mandatory, and he has given Mrs. Begley another title in his office and in effect acts for him on official matters. The amount of pay has not cleared through the Personnel Department, and it was not available.

Soviet Nuclear Lead by '69 Seen; Defense Dept. Blamed

An ominous gap in nuclear power is opening between the United States and the Soviet Union. If present trends continue, the Soviets will pass us in explosive power by 1969 and will have a massive lead by 1971.

This is the frightening picture painted in three recent studies by some of America's most distinguished strategic and weapons experts. These are: (1) A report by a 17-member panel of the American Security Council, chaired by Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, USAF (Ret.); (2) "The Soviet Military Technological Challenge," by a panel headed by Adm. Arleigh Burke, USN (Ret.) at the Center for Strategic Studies of Georgetown University; and (3) "Peace and the Strategy Conflict," by William R. Kintner, a former member of the National Security Council's Planning Staff.

spend less than 30 cents of each space dollar on military programs; rapidly expanded their ICBM force; maintained and modernized their force of 1100 manned bombers, while our own fleet shrank from 1600 in 1962 to a mere 635 last August; and developed an anti-ballistic-missile (ABM) system despite U.S. efforts for more than a year to talk them out of it.

ANCIENT SITE IN LETCHER IS STUDIED

University of Kentucky archaeologists have completed a surveying project of ancient Indian sites in three areas of Kentucky.

The areas are Parker Branch, in Jackson, Laurel and Rockcastle counties on the Rockcastle River; in Letcher county on the Upper Kentucky River, and a small project on the Cumberland River in Russell county.

Miss Martha A. Rolingson, director of the UK Anthropology Museum, said $2,200 was allotted for the project by the National Park Service. The Park Service has under way a long-range project to analyze artifacts and other paraphernalia from prehistoric and historic periods in Eastern Kentucky.

Mike Rodeffer, UK graduate anthropology student, wrote the geographical description of each area and provided maps for each report.

The work was purely of a survey nature and no digging was done. Frank Fryman, UK field archaeologist, points out, "Overall, we found projective points, occasional knives, numerous flint chips, and broken pottery at the later sites used by the Indians," Fryman said, adding that the pottery was made from clay and clay mixed with grit or mussel shell.

"Actually, very little material was found on the ground in Letcher county," he continued. "We mostly worked in overgrown fields and it was difficult to find anything."

The overhangs or small rock shelters of cliffs in Letcher county yielded pottery, bone, shell and flint tools. "Many of the rock shelters in Eastern Kentucky are dry, and provided a good place for prehistoric settlers to live, especially those facing South, yielding protection from wind and sunlight," Fryman says.

He added that the rock shelters probably were "occupied at different periods in prehistoric times and evidence from the occupations has been deposited in stratified layers."

Based on his brief survey, Fryman believes the same type of people may have used the bottomlands and the overhangs. "Letcher county yielded 18 different sites."

The sites represent an occupation of the area from archaic times, calculated to be about 5,000 B.C.-1,000 B.C., through Woodland times, from about 1,000 B.C. to 800 A.D.

The last pre-historic peoples to live in Letcher county were the Fort Ancients, sort of "country cousins" to the Mississippi Indians who developed in the central Mississippi Valley, moved up to the Mississippi River and spread out into Kentucky, Fryman explains.

The Fort Ancient culture was found in Eastern and Northern Kentucky, while the Mississippi culture was found in Southern and Western Kentucky, he adds. A large Fort Ancient village in Letcher county was known to settlers as early as 1800.

If a more thorough study is commissioned by the Park Service, the next step will be to test the areas by sampling a number of the sites to determine the size and extent of the occupation.

The Gettysburg Address

"Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in Liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation or any nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure.

We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field, as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live.

It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract.

The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here.

It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced.

It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

Ex-Gov. Breathitt To Receive National Conservation Award

The Jefferson County Sportsman's Club is sponsoring a conservation meeting at which Outdoor Life's National Conservation Award will be presented by Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall to former Gov. Edward T. Breathitt. Joint sponsors of the meeting will be the League of Kentucky Sportsmen and Outdoor Life Magazine which has designated the former Kentucky governor as recipient of the national award, one of the most respected citations in the field of resources management and protection.

The citation is given as a result of the former chief executive's successful drive in the 1966 session of the Kentucky legislature in behalf of the model strip mining law, which has been described as the strongest in the nation.

The award will be presented in the ballroom of the Sheraton Hotel in Louisville at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 13. "Kentucky sportsmen are indeed fortunate to have Secretary Udall to present this outstanding award," Minor Clark, commissioner of the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources, said in pointing out the significance of the meeting.

It was a small but energetic sportsman's club in Muhlenberg county which first adopted a resolution deploring the ravages of strip mining that started efforts for a change in strip mining laws. This resolution was approved by the Second District Wildlife Federation and later at the June meeting of the League in 1963 and thus "grass fires" were started burning throughout Kentucky, helping to overcome public apathy. As a result of this League action a meeting was called by Clyde Hubbard, president of the League, in the offices of the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources, with other organizations of statewide importance at which it was agreed that these organizations would back the League as favoring improved strip mining laws. It was at this meeting that a concerted program was outlined by Mr. Hubbard and W. D. Bratcher, Greenville attorney, with the ultimate hope of having enacted strict regulations curbing the wastes caused by strip mining. Gov. Breathitt literally became head of the campaign to enact model strip mining regulations for Kentucky, delegating much of the leg work to J. O. Matlick, commissioner of the then Department of Conservation.

The Governor and Matlick devoted much of their time prior to the 1966 legislature laying the groundwork for the new strip mine laws. It was through this top level campaigning that the legislators were convinced that such a law should be enacted. The award has not been conferred in recent years, but is now being reinstated on an annual basis. Hereafter it will go each year to a recipient who has made a genuinely outstanding contribution, of national significance, to the safeguarding of water, air, soil or other natural resources.

"On that basis, Ed Breathitt qualifies admirably," the magazine comments in its February issue. He is the first to win the yearly award, symbolized by a bronze scroll of the Conservation Pledge.

Southern States' Board Meeting Set Feb. 15 at May Lodge

Seventy-two members of Southern States Cooperative's local board and committee members, agricultural workers and retail agency managers from this area are expected to attend a regional board meeting Feb. 15 at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. The meeting, which will begin at 7:30 p.m., will also be attended by a number of young guest-farmers from this area.

J. L. Campbell, of Harrodsburg, a member of the Southern States 13-man board of directors, will preside at the meeting. Campbell represents the cooperative's members in part of Central and Eastern Kentucky and has been a member of the board since 1962.

One of the features of the session will be a report on the organization's operations during the first six months of the 1967-'68 fiscal year presented by K. J. Burgess, the cooperative's regional manager with headquarters at Huntington, West Virginia.

J. J. Pelland, director of petroleum services of the cooperative, will discuss the value of cooperative activities and programs. Expected to attend the meeting from the Prestonsburg area are Kenneth Meade, manager of Prestonsburg Farm & Home Store, and local board members, Theodore Warrick, Less Wallen and John Wallen, of Water Gap; James R. Shepherd and Billy James, Prestonsburg, and Ezra James, of Lancer.

The Kentucky Law Journal has been published continuously at the University of Kentucky since 1912.

battle Breathitt waged and won with the mining interests, to get a law that he hoped would bring this wayward industry under control in the Kentucky coal fields, is related in an article in the February issue of Outdoor Life. "Cure for the Blight," last in a series of three on strip mining and its consequences.

A survey not long before Breathitt challenged the strip miners had revealed that of 169 then operating in the state only nine had the permit required by law, the article reports.

The present Kentucky law, and the regulations Breathitt signed into effect just before leaving office, are considered among the toughest in the nation, and set the pattern for a similar law enacted in West Virginia a year later.

DOLLARS AND SENSE TALK ABOUT ELECTRIC HEATING FROM FOLKS WHO NOW HAVE IT.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sheets of West Liberty, Kentucky, converted their spacious 3,328 sq. ft. home to an electric furnace. Their average monthly electric bill for heating and all other uses of electricity is just $36.57. Recently Mr. and Mrs. Sheets were asked the following questions about their heat:

- Q: Does total electric living with flameless heating cost any more than you were paying for fuel and electricity before?
- A: We don't believe our present costs are any more than what we previously paid for natural gas and electricity.
- Q: Do you think the switch to electricity was worth it?
- A: Yes, indeed. We had expected to pay more for the cleanliness and safety of electric heat. Instead, we're getting those advantages at just about the same cost. Now we can leave the house without worrying about fumes or leaks.
- Q: Why did you choose an electric furnace over other types of electric heat?
- A: With an electric furnace, we could use our present ductwork and so make the conversion quicker and easier.
- Q: How much of a job was it?
- A: No trouble at all. The whole job took only two days.

Like the Sheets, you can modernize your home with flameless heat. A Reddy Kilowatt Recommended Dealer or Kentucky Power Company will help you select the type heating that best suits your home and your preference.

ONE SOLDIER'S VIEWPOINT

"God, duty and country" are words which appear together in the letter which follows. The writer is a German-born American who writes Mr. and Mrs. Robert Montgomery, of Prestonsburg, and because the words he uses are so often scorned as "corny" by many native-born Americans, we take particular pleasure in printing his expression of thanks for a Red Cross Christmas bag and a helpful note from Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery.—Editor.)

Just a few lines to let you know that I have received your letter and enjoyed hearing from you. When we receive encouraging letters from fine folks like yourself, it makes our task (no matter how difficult) just a little easier.

We all fight to preserve our way of life, and the very freedom we have. I know what it is to live under conditions, where you didn't have such a rich and carefree life. I am a naturalized citizen (German) and I highly value the way of life I am able to lead in our great country.

I don't feel obligated, but feel that every good American feels the way I do, and that is that you would want to do everything you can to further our country's cause. If this means that I may have to sacrifice my life in order to help protect our precious freedom, I do so gladly. This may sound romantic, or heroic, but it is not. It is only one soldier's devotion to God, duty, and country. I often wish I could express myself better, but I am sure you understand how I feel. Thank you for remembering us. God bless you.

Topmost To Get
New Post Office
O'Brien Announces

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien last week announced plans to acquire a new post office at Topmost, Knott county.

"The new building," Mr. O'Brien said, "is designed to carry out the Post Office Department's objective of a more efficient postal service combined with improved working conditions for our employees."

The building at Topmost will be located on the west side of KY 7, 100 feet south of the present post office. Preliminary plans call for 49 square feet of floor space, with an area of 5,860 square feet for parking and movement of postal vehicles.

The Postmaster General said the building will be constructed under the Department's lease construction program, with the government's capital investment limited to postal equipment. While leased to the government, the building will remain under private ownership and the owner will pay local real estate taxes.

Plans and specifications for the new building, as well as bidding forms and other pertinent data, will be made available to prospective bidders at an early date, at which time the Department will advertise for bids.

Planning, Free Time Lack Hurt Work, Teachers Say

Ask Kentucky's elementary-school teachers to name the things that keep them from doing their best work and a large number will put "lack of a daily planning period" or "no duty-free lunch period" at or near the top of the list.

"There is no time to relax from the time you enter school in the morning until you leave in the afternoon," wrote one teacher in response to a survey by the Kentucky Education Association (KEA) research division.

"One has to spend too much time after school hours on lesson preparation, grading papers, and making reports," she noted. "There should be some method worked out that a teacher could have some time at school for these items."

Another teacher replied, "If we could only have our 20 minutes alone to eat, it would be encouraging. We eat with the children and have physical education with them. I am with them all the time except for 20 minutes on Monday and 20 minutes on Thursday, which is music period—and I usually remain in the room then; I like to learn their music."

"There is no break during the entire day, creating mental and physical fatigue," wrote another. Others lamented "lack of time to prepare and grade papers" and "no free period or time to prepare and evaluate."

This strong feeling on the part of Kentucky's elementary-school teachers (many high school teachers, but not all, have a free period during the school day) is the reason why this year's KEA legislative program calls for a law mandating a 30-minute daily planning period for such teachers.

Representative Brooks Hinkle (D-Paris), chairman of the House education committee, has introduced a measure — House Bill 126—that would allot each teacher in an elementary school having eight or more rooms a 30-minute planning period each day.

If the 1968 General Assembly acts favorably on the Hinkle bill, Kentucky will become the 13th state with a state law or State Board of Education regulation (which has the effect of law) requiring that teachers have a daily period free from assigned duties.

Sometimes, we wonder what we would do for something to talk about if the weather did not come to the rescue. It gives rise to the most inane remarks—"Nice day," or "Cold, isn't it?"—when any but the senseless already know the truth about the situation.

And now we add our own inanity to the discussion: Kentucky is blessed because its weather is always changing, never monotonous.

You knew that already—sure. But did you know that changing climatic conditions—heat, cold, wind and rain, snow and ice—demand homes that are well-constructed and able to stand up under the extremes of weather, in all seasons?

Stop and Frisk Act Proposed in House

Frankfort, Ky. — Three anti-crime bills recommended by the Louisville and Jefferson County Crime Commission were introduced last week in the Kentucky House of Representatives.

Sponsored by the majority floor leader, Rep. Fred Morgan, D-Paducah, the proposed legislation includes:

1. A "stop and frisk" bill that would permit a policeman to stop and question "any person abroad in a public place whom he reasonably suspects is committing, has committed or is about to commit a felony or any of the crimes specified in the Kentucky Revised Statutes."

2. A bill to require licensing of all handguns bought in the state or brought into the state.

3. A bill that would assure anonymity of informants who provide police with the basis for a search or arrest warrant.

The stop and frisk bill further provides that a policeman may "frisk" or give a cursory search to a suspect if the officer "reasonably suspects that he is in danger of life or limb."

The proposed stop and frisk law is similar in wording to one adopted by the state of New York. Two cases involving the New York law are now being tested before the U. S. Supreme Court. A third case involving an Ohio law also is being tested.

The Kentucky Crime Commission's proposed legislation, announced by Gov. Louie B. Nunn yesterday, specifically declined to make a recommendation on a stop and frisk law. Until the Supreme Court rules on the laws, the commission said, it "does not expect to formulate a recommendation for legislative action."

Nunn would not comment on the stop and frisk bill introduced yesterday, telling reporters he would stick by his rule of not commenting on bills pending before the legislature. He also declined to say whether he recommended withholding action on the bill until the Supreme Court makes its decisions on the three test cases.

The handgun legislation would require licensing of all pistols bought in Kentucky or brought into the state. Licenses would cost $2 and could not be granted to:

Persons under 21; anyone convicted of a crime of violence, of violation of the uniform firearms act or of carrying concealed a deadly weapon; persons convicted of selling, using or possessing narcotics; any habitual drunkard or any person adjudged by a court to be mentally incompetent.
