Bridge Job Delay Till March Hinted

Pier Footer Redesigning Possibility

Roads Chief Says Quicksand Discovery May Delay Contract

A strong possibility exists that the bridge to provide access from 23 at Lancer to the new U. S. Shoe Company plant and the Bull Creek section on the opposite side of the Big Sandy River will not be completed till the fall of 1969.

Advertising for bids on the span was promised by August of this year, but Commissioner of Highways William B. Hazelrigg recently wrote State Senator Clifford B. Latta here that core drilling at the site had resulted in the discovery of quicksand and that this condition will require new planning for the pier foundation footers.

He indicated that because of this unforeseen circumstance the job may not be let to contract before next March. Purchase of rights-of-way for the span is expected soon and engineering work continues.

The only direct link between US 23 and the shoe company plant is a one-way suspension span erected across the river in 1963 by the U. S. Corps of Engineers after its predecessor at the mouth of nearby Knotley Hollow had collapsed with the loss of three lives. And, said County Judge Henry Stumbo this week, the sub-flooding of the bridge now in service is rotting.

Judge Stumbo said the defective sub-flooding was detected in an inspection made by Blaine Hopkins, county road foreman. He added that he suggested to the State Department of Highways that the bridge should be checked and repaired, if necessary. The bridge is state-maintained.

The defective subflooding, it was said, resulted from moisture being retained between it and the top flooring of the bridge.

SUGGESTION

Honing for the good, ol' days? We suggest a visit to the Highlands Folk Festival at the amphitheatre of Jenny Wiley State Park this week, beginning today. The old lore, music, customs and dances that set the region apart from a stereotyped world may take you back to the halcyon time when they hadn't jived up everything.

Mrs. Mary Allen, 85, Passes Away Monday; Burial Made at Ivel

Mrs. Mary May Allen, 85 years old, of Allen, widow of W. K. Allen, former Floyd county banker, died Monday afternoon at the Morris Memorial Nursing Home, Milton, W. Va., after an illness of several months.

Born July 19, 1882 at Prestonsburg, she was a daughter of Thomas and Jenny Booter May. Survivors include two sons, R. M. Allen, of Milton, W. Va., and Earl Allen, of Allen; a daughter, Mrs. Olin C. Nutter, of Huntington, W. Va., and a sister, Mrs. Robert M. Grant, Huntington. She also leaves two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the United Methodist Church at Allen, of which she was a member, the pastor, the Rev. Virgil Knipp, Jr., officiating. Burial was made in the Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel, the Hall Brothers Funeral Home directing.

Water System Need For Beaver Creeks Will Be Stressed

A special meeting of the Left Beaver Development Association has been called for next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. as a move toward winning for the Beaver Creeks a modern water distribution system. The meeting will be held at McDowell high school, and all Left Beaver residents, including the Clear Creek section, are being urged to attend.

Purpose of the meeting is to encourage residents to sign applications for water service. July 1 is the deadline for submitting proof that people of the area want the proposed water service, and a minimum of 300 applicants from each of the Beaver Creeks is necessary, it was said here Wednesday by John Milton Stumbo, chairman of the development association.

Stumbo explained that no cash deposit will be required. He also said Left Beaver Creek stands to lose a $2½ million improvement unless sufficient interest is shown.

CITY, COUNTY GET WARNING

Air Pollution Body Says Fires at Dumps To Draw Legal Action

The Kentucky Air Pollution Control Commission this week threatened legal action against Floyd county and the city of Prestonsburg unless burning of refuse at garbage dumps is stopped immediately.

Harlan and Shelby counties and the cities of Mt. Sterling, Russell, Winchester, Covington, Shelbyville and Madisonville received similar warnings.

The threatened action brought from both County Judge Henry Stumbo and Mayor George P. Archer protests that they knew of no such violations.

Prestonsburg maintains its city dump on the Middle Creek road. Mayor Archer said city employees have been instructed not to do any burning. "If a fire is set it is without our knowledge," he said. The county maintains four dumps. One of these, at the top of the mountain between Cow Creek and Home Branch of Buffalo Creek, has been used by Prestonsburg to dispose of paper and similar materials. Some burning has been done there. The other dumps are on Buck's Branch, near Martin; in Pike-Floyd Hollow, at Betsy Layne; at the head of Steele's Creek, near Wayland, and at the head of Left Beaver.

Judge Stumbo said the county has been using end-loaders and bulldozers to cover refuse at these dumps, and I can't see how they could be set on fire after they are covered. . . . We would appreciate it if they (the commission) would come up here and show us how to do it any better."

Open burning is prohibited, and the maximum fine for non-compliance with the law is $1,000 a day.

Summer School To Begin Monday

Summer school for high school students will begin at McDowell Monday at 8 a.m. English, American history and mathematics will be offered. Information may be procured by calling the McDowell school, Lloyd Stumbo or Adrian Hall.

University of Kentucky affairs ranging the gamut from Maine Chance to prospects of a winning football season were frankly discussed by a panel of UK leaders here last Thursday evening in response to questions from a gathering of upwards of 300 university alumni and friends at Prestonsburg Community College.

The meeting was a prelude to the workshop held at May Lodge, Friday and Saturday, for UK Alumni Association directors. Paul C. Combs, of Prestonsburg, presided. He is president of the Highlands area of the UK Alumni Association. UK leaders forming the panel were Stanley Wall, assistant dean of UK community colleges; Adolph Rupp, UK basketball coach; Dean Paul Nagle, of the College of Arts and Sciences; Dr. Glenwood Creech, executive vice-president, university relations; Charles Bradshaw, football coach; Dr. Alvin Morris, of the UK Medical Center. Latta, Others To Study Un-American Activities

State Senator Clifford B. Latta, of Prestonsburg, was one of six Democrats named by Governor Louie B. Nunn last Thursday to work with four Republicans as members of the new Legislative Committee on Un-American Activities.

Other members of the committee are State Senator Lawrence W. Wetherby, D-Frankfort, a former Kentucky governor; Se. Carl T. Hadden, Sr., D-Elkton; Sen. Scott Miller, Jr., R-Louisville; Sen. Charles B. Upton, R-Williamsburg; Representative Fred H. Morgan, D-Paducah, House majority leader; Rep. Lloyd Clapp, D-Wingo; Rep. George T. Massey, Jr., D-Bowling Green; Harold DeMarcus, R-Stanford; Theron Kessinger, R-Cromwell.

Senator Latta said here this week that he understands the work of the committee is not to be confined to the investigation of any individual or group but to dig into rioting and other disorders so that future legislation may be enacted. "It will not be a witch-hunt or a sounding board for any individual," he predicted. Senator Miller was named chairman of the committee at its organization meeting last Thursday. The committee will get down to work at its meeting in Frankfort, Friday.

But the matter of finding money on which to operate presents a problem. Expenses of the Committee on Un-American Activities are to be paid out of funds available to the Legislative Research Commission, and that commission already has 14 committees depending upon it, with only $50,000 a year allotted to it for committee work.

"I think you can see there is not enough money when you consider all the subcommittee studies being financed. . . . Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford, LRC chairman, told Chairman Miller.

In making the KUAC appointments, Nunn declared that in past years, "un-American" in the public mind meant "communism," but that the recent wave of assassinations has given the term new meaning.

"It is un-American to kill the president of the United States," Nunn said. "It is un-American to deprive a state of its senator, or to deprive people of their civil rights leader. It is un-American to burn out the heart of a city." (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

Mrs. Maudie Hunter Is Victim at Age 79; Funeral Held Monday

Mrs. Maudie Hunter, 79, of Honaker, died Friday at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville, following a week's illness.

A member of the Regular Baptist Church for 35 years, Mrs. Hunter was born Feb. 28, 1889, in Floyd county, a daughter of Robert and Clarinda Hall Hamilton.

Surviving are her husband, Ben Hunter; seven sons, Charley and John Hunter, both of Printer, Willie Hunter, of Garrett, Robert and Lawrence Hunter, both of New London, Ohio, Ora Hunter, of Ypsilanti, Mich., (See Story No. 8, Page 4)

Termite Control Fraud Hits Floyd Residents

Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo this week said that persons solicited by termite control firms should require those calling on them to produce their license to operate before contracting for their services.

He added that he suggested this precaution, since several Floyd countians have reported that they have been victimized by a firm later found not to be licensed. Stumbo said he has advised those swindled to appear here at the next grand jury session.

UK Officials Answer Queries Of Alumni in Meeting Here

University of Kentucky affairs ranging the gamut from Maine Chance to prospects of a winning football season were frankly discussed by a panel of UK leaders here last Thursday evening in response to questions from a gathering of upwards of 300 university alumni and friends at Prestonsburg Community College.

The meeting was a prelude to the workshop held at May Lodge, Friday and Saturday, for UK Alumni Association directors. Paul C. Combs, of Prestonsburg, presided. He is president of the Highlands area of the UK Alumni Association.

UK leaders forming the panel were Stanley Wall, assistant dean of UK community colleges; Adolph Rupp, UK basketball coach; Dean Paul Nagle, of the College of Arts and Sciences; Dr. Glenwood Creech, executive vice-president, university relations; Charles Bradshaw, football coach; Dr. Alvin Morris, of the UK Medical Center. (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Admitting that the question relating to the Maine Chance farm "hit a sore spot," Dr. Creech detailed the needs of the Agriculture College for more land as its original holdings were diverted to main campus needs, the increased demands made upon it for research and other functions, the location of the farm between other properties owned by the university and the purchase price which was less than private interests have offered for it. He pointed out that one of the strongest opponents to the purchase of the land by the university has admitted he spent thousands of dollars toward acquiring it for himself or his business group.

"In 1965 it was decided that the University of Kentucky should acquire Maine Chance and thus meet minimum requirements for the next 14 to 20 years," he said. Dr. Creech commented that outside Kentucky UK in the last five years has gained "tremendous respect," and expressed regret that the same is not true inside Kentucky.

His discussion drew the applause of the gathering. Again, Creech spoke at length when asked a question about the controversial academic freedom at UK, and he remarked that "some people would like to crucify us over the issue." He added: "Peaceful protest which is not disruptive or destructive will be permitted at the University but violations of the law will be prosecuted and persons causing disruption of University operations will be punished."

He called on the alumni to help "broaden our base of public understanding and support."

"You are the educated citizens of Kentucky," he told the audience, "and if you don't understand what we are all about, then we don't stand a chance with the uneducated."

Pointing out that UK has 2,600 graduate students out of a student body of 15,000, Dr. Creech said (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Judge Sees GOP Moving For Control

Move To Oust Hopkins As Co. Road Supervisor Seen by Stumbo, Court

Floyd county's Road-Aid Program, a cooperative effort between county and state, may be in for trouble.

County Judge Henry Stumbo saw in a recent meeting at Martin of three magistrates with Lawrence Keathley, Republican county leader, and a subsequent letter addressed to him by Commissioner of Highways Hazelrigg the threat that if a Republican is not named county road foreman the contract between county and state for the next fiscal year may be in jeopardy.

"As long as I am county judge there will never be a Republican road foreman for this county," Judge Stumbo said Monday.

This sentiment was echoed Wednesday by three of the county's four magistrates, Bill Wells, Zeb Ousley and Dewey Roberts. (The fourth magistrate, Eddie Caudill, was not present at the informal conference.)

Commissioner Hazelrigg wrote Judge Stumbo, June 11, that the road-aid program as submitted by the county appears to be satisfactory and that the contract is to be presented to the fiscal year by District Highway Engineer Bays for the court's ratification. The agreement, as in the past, provides that the county provide job supervision, do the work with its own personnel and furnish the equipment, with the Department of Highways paying "rentals for equipment fully operated."

Then Hazelrigg added:

"You are, of course, aware that the county road supervisor must satisfactorily pass an examination given by the Department of Highways and be approved by the Commissioner of Highways. Since I have not approved a supervisor for Floyd county, a candidate will have to be selected, pass the examination and be approved by me before the county road aid contract and equipment rental contract can be executed." KEA Board Picks Office Site Here

The Kentucky Education Association (KEA) board of directors this week announced the selection of Prestonsburg as the site for one of three regional offices that are expected to open in September. The other offices will be at Richmond and Madisonville.

Each of the offices—the first to be established by the state's largest and professional association—will be headed by a regional secretary. Classroom teachers within the regions will be employed on a part-time basis to work with local education associations during non-school hours.

Prestonsburg will be headquarters for the KEA Eastern Region; Madisonville, for the KEA Western Region, and Richmond for the "Central Region."

Four part-time workers will be assigned to the 41-county western region, six to the 50-county central region, and three to the 28-county eastern region. There will be one such employee for approximately each 2,000 KEA members.

Dr. J. M. Dodson, KEA executive secretary, said the expansion of field operations through the opening of regional offices is intended to "take the association closer to the membership."

"In the rapidly changing educational and professional problems of the day," he said, "such regional field offices can play a key role in keeping up with those problems and doing something about them."

Creech said the institution is not trying to become a graduate school at the expense of undergraduates.
"We are not trying to become an institution like Berkeley (University of California campus)," he said. "We could not get three Nobel prize winners on our faculty no matter what we did."
Dr. Morris said the Medical Center's community medicine program has done much to improve the health of Kentuckians. The program is implemented by Medical Center personnel stationed at the community colleges, including a full professor at Prestonsburg.

Nursing, dentistry and other programs should also be enlarged, the doctor said.
He told alumni that the University Medical Center, constructed primarily for medical education, nurse training and for hospital services, must enlarge and that two floors will be added atop the present structure by 1972. Construction of a 390-bed veterans hospital is expected to begin by late this summer.

In response to another question, Dr. Wall said students entering the University after doing their first two years of work at community colleges are doing "a little better" than those who entered the University as freshmen.
Wall expressed the feeling that a much higher percentage of students entering college should be thinking of a career-oriented two-year program, and cited this example:
A young man enters the College of Engineering for four years but hits calculus and "washes out" because of a lack of background in mathematics. The same student could, however, enroll for two-year training as an engineering technician and find ready and lucrative employment. For every engineer seven technicians are required. Allied health is another field needing technicians.

"We feel real good about the upcoming football season," Coach Bradshaw said in response to a question. "We had, last spring, the finest group of young people we've ever had." But looming ahead is that tough schedule.
The organization which originally bore the name, UKATS, now is known as KAPS (Kentucky Athletic Program Supporters), since the program is "not to build a recruiting force for the University of Kentucky but to develop youth to find opportunity wherever it is," Bradshaw explained.

Kentucky athletes are sought for his team, he said. He pointed out that in the last 30 years two Lexington boys lettered in football at UK. This year, at the University of Alabama 11 Montgomery, Ala. boys lettered there.
Coach Rupp was asked about the possibility of a larger Coliseum. "Not in my time," he replied. "They built the present Coliseum to seat 12,000. I can't ask for another."

Mrs. Angie Lafferty, 83 years old, widow of William R. Lafferty, died Monday at her home at Water Gap.
A member of the Methodist Church for over 60 years, she was born at Water Gap, July 16, 1884, a daughter of the late Joe and Susann Jarrell Lafferty.
Mrs. Lafferty is survived by a son, Clark Lafferty, of Pikeville; two daughters, Mrs. Susie Tackett, Martin, and Miss Rebecca Lafferty, of Water Gap, and two sisters, Miss Sarah Ann Lafferty, Dwayne, and Miss Tinecie Lafferty, of Allen.
Funeral rites will be held Wednesday, June 19, at 1 p.m. at the Lafferty Chapel Methodist Church at Water Gap, the Revs. Bill Campbell, Flora Gray and Tinecie Crisp officiating. Burial will be made in the Lafferty cemetery, Water Gap, under the direction of the Carter Funeral Home.

CONTEMPT OF COURT
If the Supreme Court hands down a decision in my time which pleases the sensibilities and commonsense of the ordinary, law-abiding citizen, think I'll celebrate by chugging a cold bottle of sody pop with a hot cup of coffee.
Starting out with their edict forbidding prayer in the schools, the august justices have moved on to protect the rights of criminals to the point that you'd think the peace officer is the wanted man, not the fellow who went out for a bit of mayhem.
The death penalty isn't my dish, but I resent the virtual elimination of it by court fiat. The high court got around the matter by simply holding that if a court attempts to qualify a jury for a possible death penalty it cannot reject any juror who says he will not inflict same, regardless of the proof. Scratch one death penalty.
And now they tell a state it cannot limit pay to any woman for illegitimate children, regardless of her promiscuity or other vagaries. Sure, we know—the poor children aren't responsible, but their mother is. If the Supreme Court can't let the states handle the matter, may be it can come up with a suggestion as to how these women can be required to spend the money on their children and not blow it on a month-end drunk with a pack of men helping carry on the orgy.

MISSING
Whether the dog is on vacation or in retirement, I can't say. Anyway, he hasn't made it to the office for two days in a row. But we're never without a dog. Sandy Howard, the aging Boxer who bears more scars than any pugilist, is holding the fort today. Yet no dog holds down his desk like this one who is foregoing the pleasure of our company.

Magistrates said that at the Martin meeting they were told the state felt that it should be recognized in the road program and that it could not be with the present road supervisor. They said they understood that the ouster of Blaine Hopkins as supervisor and the naming of a Republican in his stead was what was desired.
Hopkins, who has been supervisor for the last five years, holds a supervisor's certificate issued after taking the required examination at Frankfort.
If the contract is not renewed, the county's road program will be severely affected, officials agreed. Some personnel will be left to the state and the only work the county itself will be able to do will be on small, rural roads.
Highway officials have classed results from Floyd county's road-aid program the best in Eastern Kentucky, with Letcher county's second.
One project now nearing completion under this program is the road up Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek to Buck's Branch and KY 80 at Martin. But failure to renew the working agreement will stop it and others now under way or planned for this year, it was said.

Our Yesterdays

(Items taken from files of The Floyd County Times of 30 and 20 years ago.)

Thirty Years Ago (June 2, 1938)

An approximate 150-mile chase for an automobile, reported stolen, in which three youths were riding, was ended on Abbott Creek Friday night, when the auto, pursued by State patrolmen, wrecked near the mouth of Short Branch. Three shotgun blasts took the life of Ed Stapleton, 34, former Prestonsburg man, at Drift Sunday night. Meeting in special session here Monday, the Floyd fiscal court again refused to make, for the present, an appropriation for the Floyd county health department which faces suspension July 1 due to lack of funds. Crushed by a slate-fall in the Elk Horn Coal Corporation's No. 27 mine at Garrett, Faro Sloane was instantly killed last Thursday, the second son of Joe Sloane, Garrett, to be killed by mine slatefalls within 18 months. Three hundred forty-five Floyd 8th graders this week passed the test making them eligible for admittance into high school. One eagle and three birdies in six successive holes of golf were shot at the Abbott Heights Country Club here Saturday afternoon by County Judge Edward P. Hill. Married: Myrtle Paul, well-known Prestonsburg woman, and Wayne Dingus, Martin, here in the bride's home May 14. Died: Mrs. Mary Moore, 78, of Harold, in the Beaver Valley hospital; Mrs. Mary Burchett, 83, of Floyd county, at the home of her son, at Pikeville; Mrs. Byrd Walker, 38, at her home on Brandy Keg; Mrs. Aletha Hays, 78, at the home of her daughter at Martin; Ira Robinette, 20, of Tram, in the Gearheart hospital.

Twenty Years Ago (June 3, 1948)

Prohibition forces, after years of fighting, completed a grand slam in all Eastern Kentucky at midnight Monday at liquor sales became illegal in Pike county, last oasis in the district. The Kentucky Tax Commission announced Saturday that it had made effective a blanket increase on Floyd county assessments along with those of 34 other counties. Bids totaling $1,349,875.55 and providing for bituminous surfacing of 241 miles of highway and construction of one bridge in Floyd county were awarded Friday by the Kentucky Department of Highways. Although a full Dewey reservoir is a matter of several months distant, the diversion of Johns Creek will within a few days create a miniature lake. Truckloads of equipment are already arriving in Wayland as the first step in the Wayland Lion's Club project to provide lighting for their athletic field. Twenty-five year old Harold Rose, of Estill, who died after the auto in which he and two others were riding overturned in Lawrence county, was one of three persons killed in auto wrecks over the holiday week-end. Wilbur D. Hamilton, 18, of Craynor, who saw brief under-age army service during World War II, was fatally injured in an automobile wreck at Wyandotte, Michigan last Tuesday. Six of the 96 bodies of Kentucky war dead being returned to this country from the Pacific by army transport are from Floyd county, it was learned here Monday. The Floyd dead are: Pfc. Charles Arms, East Point; Pvt. Lee Baker, Bonanza; Pvt. Charles E. Clevenger, Allen; Pvt. Watt Keathley, Harold; Pfc. Ashland P. Stephens, Hueysville, and Sgt. Bill Stephens, Risner. Married: Miss Anna Ruth Layne to Mr. Clarence Hays, of Betsy Layne, at Banner, Ky. Born: Sandra Kay Isaac, May 21 to Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Isaac, of Bevinsville; John Porter Spicer, May 21, to Mr. and Mrs. Porter Spicer, of Betsy Layne; Danny Ray Reynolds, May 21, to Mr. and Mrs. Marion Stone, of Manton; John Russell Thompson, May 23, to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Isaac Thompson, of Lancer. There died: B. F. Combs, 70, prominent Prestonsburg attorney, at C. & O. hospital, Huntington, W. Va.; Mrs. Belle Tuttle, 28, at her home at Minnie, Sunday; Miss Ruth Cooley, 41, at Eastern; Mrs. Mary Bryant, 72, at the home of her son at Melvin; Jack Moore, 58, at his home in Wheelwright.

Move Taken To Promote State Boating Safety

A major step in the improvement of safer pleasure boating is under way in Kentucky.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn has directed the Kentucky State Police to launch a cooperative program of training with the United States Power Squadron, the nation's largest private and comprehensive boating educational organization.

Power Squadron units in the Louisville and Cincinnati areas will develop an organized program of training for state water patrol officers and will serve in an advisory capacity to the state in water safety for pleasure boatmen.

The Power Squadron, a non-profit organization dedicated to boating safety and education, will participate in the cooperative effort as a part of their boating safety education program, as a public service with no cost to the state.

Col. C. B. Crutchefield, director of the Kentucky State Police, commented, "The State Police will encourage all boaters, owners and users to attend power squadron classes."

Public Safety Commissioner William O. Newman emphasized during preliminary meetings the expanding use of our waterways in Kentucky and stated it is imperative a staunch effort be made to provide a high degree of professionalism in the additional training of police officers who patrol our lakes and rivers.

Ky. Students To Serve Kentucky Gets OEO Aid

"Hoping to open up new frontiers of living for our people, we will diligently work for and with Eastern Kentucky to make our home a place of ideas realized" — this is the announced goal of Pikeville College as begins direction of the new Kentucky Students Serving Kentucky (KSSK) program. Pikeville College will be working in conjunction with Berea and Alice Lloyd Colleges.

Working with Dr. Comfort to supervise the KSSK program will be Charles Whitaker, of Alice Lloyd College, and Barry Waekerly, of Berea College.

It is hoped that the program will help people to better understand other people and to better utilize resources, thus helping them to improve their "living" ideas. As a result, there will be special programs concerned with mental health, recreational activities, communications, tutoring, music, health, planning water and garbage systems, arts and crafts, library activities, scouting, and 4-H Club work.

With the financial assistance of the U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity, KSSK will employ approximately 50 Kentucky students—20 from Pikeville, 20 from Berea, and 10 from Alice Lloyd. There will also be 10 people from rural Eastern Kentucky working with the students.

CLERK SUES FOR SALARY

Hensley Claims Pay Drawn in Magoffin By Former Official

County Clerk Howard Hensley, of Magoffin county, filed suit Wednesday against his predecessor, Woodrow Arnett, seeking to recover the salary collected by Arnett during the two years and three months he held the clerk's office while an election contest action was being fought out between the two.

Arnett, a Democrat, won the office on the face of returns. Hensley challenged the election results, and absentee ballots cast for Arnett were voided, resulting in a decision for Hensley. The case was decided in circuit court last August. The Court of Appeals decision in Hensley's favor did not settle the matter till March of this year. Meanwhile, Arnett was acting as clerk.

Scott Collins, of Prestonsburg, attorney for Hensley, said the salary collected by Arnett during the long contest action will exceed $20,000.

Safer To Curb Craving

A teenager in Mexico City last April asked a passerby for a cigarette. He will never make that mistake again.

"God gave men noses to breathe with and not to use as chimneys," the passerby shouted. Then he pulled out a pistol and shot the teenager three times. At last report, the boy was in serious condition.

The craving for a cigarette can have disastrous consequences, but attempted homicide is not usually one of them. The damage is self-inflicted instead. Smoking, for too many people, is suicide in slow motion.

The evidence of self-damage is no longer controversial. The medical facts are in—and doctors know it. Surveys show that 95 percent of physicians accept the incriminating evidence against cigarette smoking. That is why 100,000 doctors have quit smoking.

In the same month as the shooting episode, a new attack against smoking was begun by a nation-wide group of health experts in this country. The National Forum on Office Management of Smoking Problems called on every doctor to warn his patients about cigarettes. It seems that although almost all physicians agree that smoking is injurious, only 40 percent are actively advising non-symptomatic patients to quit.

"The hazards of smoking are now known to be so great that it is the duty of every physician to advise each of his patients from teenager to oldster to stay away from cigarettes," Dr. Alton Ochsner, chairman of the group, said.

The anti-smoking campaign is picking up steam. That campaign is one of the activities of your TB-RD association.

A Letter ... a Photo ... the Old and Young Remember

Although his appeal was perhaps strongest among the youth of America and the world, the death of Senator Robert F. Kennedy brought sorrow to the elderly as well.

In this county, for instance, on Bull Creek there is Mrs. Jeff DeRossett, 85, and the letter from the Senator which she cherishes. And there's 15-year-old Marquita Herald, of Cow Creek, and the autographed photo which Kennedy sent her.

When Senator Kennedy and Congressman Carl D. Perkins came to Prestonsburg last February during a tour of the region which Kennedy made to see for himself the plight of the poor, Kennedy was caught in a crush of admirers on his way to and from the circuit courtroom where he spoke. Amid all the noise, Miss Herald, a sophomore in high school here, asked for the Senator's photograph. He quietly asked her name and address, then moved on.

The girl was pleased with the opportunity to speak to Senator Kennedy, but she left, certain he would immediately forget the conversation. A week or so later, however, came the photograph—a big one, and it autographed to Marquita.

Mrs. DeRossett was unable to come to Prestonsburg to meet the Senator, so she sat herself down, a Sunday afternoon or so later, and—without the aid of spectacles—wrote Kennedy a letter. And back came a letter from the Senator, saying, "I want you to know how much I appreciate your taking time to write me," and expressing his gratitude "for your good wishes."

Mrs. DeRossett was preparing, a relative said, to write Kennedy again to thank him for his friendly letter, when the news came that he had been shot.

If Bobby Kennedy was in any danger while in Eastern Kentucky, the danger lay in being crushed by the throngs of admirers that greeted him at every stop.

Bible Club Conducts Achievement Program Recently at Eastern

Eastern, Ky. — The annual achievement program of the Joy Bible Club of Eastern was held on June 8. Many families and friends gathered to hear the children take part in songs, poems, Bible verses, Bible books, object lessons, etc. Some of their handcrafts were displayed as well as their Bible Club notebooks.

This group of children gives a missionary offering which will be sent to Alaska this year. Past offerings have been sent to five other countries. The Alaskans sent two of their sealskin yo-yos to the boys and girls.

The children enacted their parts in front of an arch of roses. The theme of this year's program was, "The Seed Is the Word of God." The parable of the Sower and the Seed was read and each guest was given a gospel tract called, "Morning Glories," with a tiny packet of real seeds attached. Children enjoyed Joe, the talking doll.

Awards were given for attendance and achievement. Beulah Patton won the top award of a week at camp. Partial camp awards were won by Charlene Hicks, Velinda Salyers, Hollie Conley, Joe Owens and Johnny Martin. Trophy cups were awarded to Donna Goble and Hollie Martin Conley. Pam Os-

Floyd County Fair, Slated Sept. 16-20, To Get State Funds

Floyd County Fair at Archer Park here, slated for Sept. 16-20, is one of 61 local agriculture fairs approved to receive state funds this season.

An approved fair is one meeting the minimum requirements established by the State Agriculture Department for classes of livestock and crops. "Up to $1,500 of state aid is available on a matching dollar-for-dollar basis to all such fairs meeting minimum class requirements," State Agriculture Commissioner J. Robert Miller said.

Miller said the state's aid-program to county fairs will total $72,000 in 1968. The aid-program has helped expand agriculture exhibits and set uniform standards for class judging. Additionally it has encouraged youth participation and promoted Kentucky grown products.

Attendance at Kentucky's agriculture fairs has increased some 25 percent since the early '60's, Miller said.

MOVE UP TO TOMORROW ELECTRICALLY

I Say What I Think

By S. C. VAN CURON

It's not strange for a defeated political party to begin a reorganization move to involve more people in the cause, but it may seem strange in Kentucky that Democrats have called for involving more young people in responsible positions in the party and recruitment among the young.

In 1963 the Democrats elected Edward T. Breathitt governor when he was only 38, and the 13,000 difference he won by over Gov. Louie B. Nunn, then 39, may have been the youth, for Breathitt won about every college poll taken before the election.

At every Breathitt rally there was a youthful pep squad that "bombed" it up for him. Of course, he had the support of the powerful Combs administration at that time.

Breathitt gained the youth support in the primary of that year and turned a tide that began in the primary in March of 1963. Former Gov. A. B. Chandler apparently had the Democratic nomination won at that stage of the game, but Breathitt and his young group came on like "gangbusters" to win the primary.

With success in 1963 by enlisting youth, the Democrats turned the table in 1967 and the powers that be, including Breathitt with his state-wide organization, chose to support Highway Commissioner Henry Ward in the 1967 Democratic primary over Atty. Gen. Robert M. Mathews.

Mathews was in his early forties and Ward was in his fifties. They turned from youth to age, and the key to this may have been the unsatisfactory image the party thought Breathitt had created with his youth. His greatest failing was that he was too kind hearted and never could say "no" emphatically to people seeking jobs or favors.

A trend developed in party hierarchy seeking maturity in a candidate, and Mathews was ruled out as head of the ticket. He then ran for lieutenant governor against an equally young foe, Wendell Ford, and was narrowly defeated. The Democrats had youth in the second spot, but this did not prove formidable enough against youthful Louie B. Nunn who won the top spot.

Now, the Democrats are again turning to youth. Nunn used the very device that Breathitt had used in 1963, and won the governorship in 1967. Nunn won the big majority of campus polls in 1967 prior to the November election.

The Democratic State Central Executive Committee has now instituted a plan calling for the involvement of more youth in responsible positions in the party when they saw that Gov. Nunn, just turned 44 in March, had youth with him against Ward.

Maybe it wasn't the youth, but it was a contributing factor. There are other factors with historical significance in Kentucky politics. No high way commissioner has ever won the governorship. No controlling Democratic faction has ever been able to hold the governor's office more than two terms. The Republicans win about every 20 years in Kentucky.

Bobby Kennedy has been successful to some extent in involving youth in his campaign, but the most dramatic convincer is that Senator Eugene McCarthy involved youth in his campaign and won the Oregon primary after losing others where he also had the aid of college students who followed him on the campus trail.

The Democrats are not overlooking the fact that Kentuckians may vote at age 18, and the fact that more than 50 percent of the voters in that state are under age 30.

Look, Who's Poke Warden!—None Other Than Governor

Harlan, Kentucky will offer a week of assorted events and good home-cooked vittles, June 21-30, during its annual Poke Sallet Festival.

The miracle drugs of the modern world are inconsequential beside the healing abilities of the poke plant, at least according to local legend. Whether you suffer from arthritis, gout, dyspepsia or just plain spring fever, they say poke is the sure cure. Besides that, it's delicious food.

The poke plant, growing wild in the mountain area, may first have been used by Indian medicine men to cure ills, but it proved such a tasty dish that it was faithfully consumed by the pioneers. Modern residents of the area cook other greens with poke and throw in a slab of pork for seasoning. A festival is held each spring after the plant has been gathered.

The festival will open June 21 and 22 with a horse show at Ca-wood high school. Mounds of sow belly cooked with poke greens, along with boiled eggs, spring onions, cold buttermilk and corn bread, will be served on Wednesday, June 26. Gov. Louie B. Nunn will attend the feast and act as Chief Poke Warden. It has been part of festival tradition that no visitor leaves hungry or suffering from lack of merriment.

Art exhibits, a car rally and an open home tour will take place later in the festival. The Man-of-the-Year award will be presented Monday night at the Women's Club dinner, and a community sing will be held in the afternoon and night, Friday, June 28.

An overnight trail ride on the Little Shepherd Trail, from Harlan to Kingdom Come State Park, will close the festival Saturday and Sunday. A dinner will be served on the trail for saddle-weary riders. A covered wagon will carry smaller participants.

Homecoming Booklet Nearing Publication

The Maytown Homecoming Booklet went to press this week. It consists of approximately 150 pages, including ads. It contains the history of the names, Maytown and Langley, the two churches, Methodist and Bethel Baptist, the high school, the elementary school, the Maytown Wildcats, 4-H Club, band, Maytown Woman's Club, its flower show and fashion parade, the Floyd County Fish & Game Club whose farm and range are located here, all Maytown industries, including the old Liberty Carbon plant, names of employees of these industries, the old May Mill, and others, written by a group of local citizens, including Mrs. Roland Burchett, Mrs. Amanda Sutton, Edward F. Robinson, Mrs. S. J. Tallent, Mrs. Ed Stewart, Clyde McGuire, Thurmal Click, Mrs. David Reed, Mrs. Thurmal Click, "Red" Hagans, of Pikeville, John R. Baldrige, and others.

Along with the histories are pictures of both churches, the postoffice, school, Maytown Wildcats, the Flower Show, all four industries, the new bridge, the temporary one, the old wooden bridge replaced in mid-20's, a swinging bridge, Sutton's Hotel and the old Red Man's Lodge of yesteryear, Maytown under flood in 1927, a bird's-eye view of the town from the James Allen mountain top, the old frame school replaced in 1927, and a group of about 50-60 students of an earlier frame building located where the residence of Mrs. Octavia Combs stands today, and others.

In addition, it has about 45 photos of individuals who made the 1968 Homecoming Honor Group of Maytown celebrities. A committee of men and women carefully selected a number of Maytown Alumni and former students who did not graduate here, but who have distinguished themselves in various professions, fields and ways. Personality and life sketches of these individuals appear in the booklet. These were written by relatives, friends or the candidates themselves. Each was limited to one page but many sent much shorter sketches. Categories include: Agriculture, the armed forces, business, communications, dentistry, education, engineering, industry, literature, medicine, ministry, miscellaneous, politics and sports. About 60 persons accepted the invitation, and a large number declined the honor, including some who were most entitled to it. Names will appear in a future issue.

The winning poems from the Homecoming Poetry Contest which all students participated in, will be in the booklet. Pat Tallent's poem was the winning one from high school and Patricia Herald's from elementary school. Mrs. Elsie Patrick has written two songs especially for the Homecoming and these will also be published in the booklet.

Ideas continue to arrive. Bud Robinson had colored postcards of Maytown made for distribution. So many donations have come from local citizens recently it is impossible to list all of them. Mrs. Elizabeth Hayes sent $10 from California. Final committees and chairmen will be contacted and announced soon, as Homecoming date draws nearer.

How Many Winters?

Winter, as identified on the calendar, is past, but Kentucky—particularly, our section of the state—has a whole passel of other cool periods which are identified as "winters." How many there are of these may not be definitely known, but two have passed—Redbud and Dogwood winters. Yet to come are the others—Blackberry, Elderberry, and so on, you name 'em.

Such is the infinite variety of Kentucky weather. Build to meet the changing seasons and all their demands for protection from cold and heat, rain and snow.

Air Force Veteran,
Home from Vietnam,
Says U. S. Is Winning

The United States is winning the war in Vietnam, but the peace talks and limited bombing of the enemy is costing American lives, was the view expressed here last week by an Air Force veteran who is home after his second tour of action against the Viet Cong.

The airman is Major Ronnie Rice, radar-bombardier, an Air Force veteran of 13 years. He is visiting his aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Vaughan, between assignments. Rice is a member of a B-52 crew, and he says none of these high-flying bombers have ever been lost to enemy fire. He has had 98 combat missions.

He attended elementary school here and at Auxier, was graduated from Kentucky Military Institute and attended Indiana Tech.

By TED KESTING

Probably the spincast fishing reel has done more to create new anglers, and make better anglers out of older ones, than any other item of fishing tackle in a generation. A prototype was introduced about 20 years ago by the Zero Hour Bomb Company, of Oklahoma, whose principal business was making explosive devices to bring in oil wells. Under the shortened name Zebco, it became one of today's most popular spincast reels. In about the same period, Johnson too pioneered a spincast reel, and it is still one of the major domestic manufacturers. Today spincast reels are marketed by most major companies and are well worth their price tags.

Time was when a fisherman gave his wife or youngster his old bait-casting reel to take up fishing with. By this time it was backlash-prone, because it was so loose it rattled and vibrated like an electric massager. What a miserable trick to play on a beginner!

The novice who survived this "trial by fire" was surely made of sturdy stuff. Unfortunately, many beginners were lost to the sport of fishing because they never mastered the tricky thumbing required by such a reel.

Then, thanks to American ingenuity, along came the spincast reel. Eureka! Now in a matter of minutes a neophyte, adult or child, can be casting a lure without malfunction — and with a passable degree of accuracy. Youngsters, in particular, can start with a low-cost junior outfit, made to fit a small hand and light enough to use without tiring.

Spincast reels, because of their nature, brought about a major change in casting rods. They became greater in length and much lighter in action.

This combination, says Homer Circle, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine, makes an ideal all-around outfit for casting artificial lures in a wide range of weights. It is also capable of casting live baits more efficiently than a level-wind reel and without throwing off a minnow or crawfish during the cast.

This is not to say that today's modern level-wind casting reels, with free-spool and automatic drag mechanisms, are not efficient for live-bait casting. They are—but they require a greater degree of skill.

And even many expert casters who prefer the level-wind reel for casting plugs keep a spincast outfit handy for lighter lures such as plastic worms and small spinners.

So, hats off to the spincast reel: builder of a new industry, maker of fishermen and catcher of more fish for more people.

Countywide Clinics To Fight Rabies

Dr. Russell L. Hall, Floyd county health officer, urged all residents to have their dogs and cats vaccinated against rabies during the series of rabies clinics which will begin Monday, June 24.

Last year, he pointed out, there were approximately 200 confirmed cases of animal rabies in Kentucky. Foxes were the leading victims, with 30 percent confirmed. Dogs were second and cats third in rabies cases. Other animals with confirmed cases were skunks, mules, horses, bats and cattle. These laboratory diagnosed cases represent only a fraction of the true total. All warm blooded animals are susceptible.

What gets under Chevrolet's skin?

Only the toughest truck components in the business!

Beneath Chevrolet's thick skin (double-walled in most places) lies a truck chassis built for punishment. A heavy-gauge steel frame provides the solid backbone for this inner strength. While a host of durable driveline components supply the muscle, enough to whip most any job. Of course, the heart of all this brown is a Chevrolet engine. Six or V8, all are built for stamina. They last longer because of such things as induction-hardened crankshaft journals. Inexpensive to operate, too. All run on regular gasoline. Keeping everything riding smoothly is the job of Chevy's famed independent front suspension. And what a job it does! Combined with tough coil springs, front and rear, this suspension system cushions the entire truck from jarring road shock. So you see, beautiful engineering is more than skin deep on Chevrolet.

A Life and Death Matter

By JACK T. HOWARD (Floyd Co. Health Department)

It was a mild spring evening in May when the quiet that had descended on the community was suddenly shattered by a series of shrill childish screams. From between two houses, a small, blond-haired boy was seen running, holding his arm and crying. Following slowly behind was a dog, not quite as large as a collie and of mixed breed. The boy ran towards the house screaming for his mother, who, hearing the child's screams, came out the door. Neighbors from up and down the street also gathered to see what was causing the commotion.

Mrs. Jones was finally able to quiet her small son who, between sobs, told her he had been bitten by the Smiths' dog. The Smith family had just moved into town from another state.

Mrs. Jones placed the boy in the car and took him to the family doctor. The doctor treated the boy, took the name of the next-door family, a complete description of the dog, and informed Mrs. Jones he would contact the county sanitarian at the local health department.

The next morning, Mr. Jones and the sanitarian visited the Smith family. He noted the state they had just moved from was having a serious outbreak of rabies among its wild and domestic stock. He examined the dog and noticed the anti-rabies vaccine had expired the preceding week. The dog seemed friendly enough and did not appear to be "mad," but was placed under quarantine for two weeks. After the quarantine period, if the dog still seemed normal, it would be safe to assume it was not sick and the child would not have to take the painful rabies treatment.

The next three days were ones of constant fear for both the Smith and the Jones families. The boy, other than having a swollen, sore and "hot" arm, was none the worse for his experience. The dog, however, became less active, yet restless, and started to refuse its food. Mr. Smith said it was because the dog was penned up.

On the fourth day the dog began to perk up, started eating again and the friendly pet it used to be. The two families gave a slight sigh of relief. The ninth day following the attack, the child awoke complaining of a fever, headache and aching arms and legs. Mrs. Jones called the doctor, who gave a temporary diagnosis of "flu." The next day was one of misery and worry, because, sometime during the night, the dog had broken loose. "Could the baby have rabies?" thought Mrs. Jones. "Should I call the doctor or shall I call the Health Department?"

On the thirteenth day, the dog was found, but it had been hit and killed by a car. Now it was the doctor's decision. He called the Health Department and talked the situation over with the health officer. There were two questions to be answered: Had the dog exhibited the signs and symptoms of rabies and should they wait before starting the rabies treatment? In the doctor's mind was the vision of the untold suffering of the child; the sensitivity to light and air, the constant restlessness, the ever-present drooling from the mouth, the convulsions and spasms and finally the inevitable death. On the other hand, the treatment was extremely painful, and it took so long to complete. Then there were the two families to think of; the Joneses, who may lose their child, and the Smith family; feeling of responsibility for the possible death of the child.

What if this happened to your child or pet? Would you have felt any less anxious than the mother, or the family in this story? This dog had shown the symptoms of Hydrophobia, but the doctor was unaware of all the circumstances; he was not aware of the sullenness of the dog, the refusal of food and the sudden reversal of the dog's attitude and temperament. He had administered the necessary first aid and given the required tetanus booster. If the exact time of the death of the dog could have been established, the head could have been cut off, packed in ice and sent to the State Health Department laboratory for tests to determine if rabies were present. However, if 24 hours has gone by after death the tests are very difficult to run, and then are not very reliable.

In this instance, the doctor took the right step and started the rabies treatment. All through the next two weeks Mrs. Jones maintained outward calm but with her was the nagging thought that maybe they had not started the treatment soon enough. The doctor had said even after the treatment was finished it would require a week or so before they were certain the disease was conquered.

In this story we have tried to explain the worry and uncertainty of a case of rabies. To be certain this will not trouble you, take your pets to the rabies clinics which are to be held throughout the Floyd county area next month. Watch this paper for the time and place the clinics will be coming to your community.

STATE RECEIVES AWARD FROM HOLIDAY MAGAZINE

Frankfort, Ky. — The Commonwealth of Kentucky has been awarded one of Holiday Magazine's five awards for a Beautiful America.

John Roberson, senior editor of Holiday Magazine, presented the award to Mrs. Connie Quinn, director of the Clean-Up and Beautification Division of the Department of Natural Resources. The award was presented in Louisville at the annual Clean-Up and Beautification Conference sponsored by the Department of Natural Resources.

The award, a bronze tree statuette, is given in recognition of individuals and groups actively devoted to the cause of conservation and beauty in the United States, and as an incentive for further efforts by all Americans.

In presenting the award, Roberson commended Kentucky for "a comprehensive program for the protection of forest, soil and water resources. Tough legislation, toughly enforced, gives promise of saving both the state's mineral wealth and its natural beauty."

Roberson also noted the work of the Department of Natural Resources in cleaning up streams and lakes and developing a wider awareness of conservation values.
