Middle Cr. Work Funded for Year

2nd Project Now Sought For County

Conservation District Would Improve Area Covering 8,000 Acres

Its pilot Middle Creek project financed for the year by a $20,000 appropriation from the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Floyd County Soil Conservation District has submitted a new proposal for an even bigger undertaking of the same nature.

The new project is proposed to include an area of approximately 17,000 acres, including all of the Left Fork of Middle Creek and Buck's Branch, near Martin—more than twice the area embraced in the original Middle Creek undertaking.

The conservation district has asked for $125,000 to carry out the improvement plan. The Middle Creek project, now in its fourth year, embraces approximately 8,000 acres, and $89,799 already has been spent on its development.

The $20,000 appropriated for this year's work there is a part of the $286,802 grant made to 17 counties under the 1969 Land Stabilization and Erosion Control Program.

The Floyd county program has had such obvious and worthwhile results that inspection of the work resulted in quick approval of added funds to continue toward its completion.

Of the 58 active participants in the Middle Creek Project, 10 have completed their programs. The new $20,000 appropriation will make it possible for new landowners to become eligible for participation, it was said this week.

Harold R. Wallace, soil conservationist, this week listed the Middle Creek work already done and plans for this year.

DRIVE IS 50% SHY OF GOAL

Red Cross Chapter Appeals To Families Who Received Help

With only 50% of its quota met, the annual fund drive for Floyd Chapter, American Red Cross, still needs more than $2,500 to keep the chapter in the county, Mrs. Jack Stumbo, drive co-chairman, said this week.

The Rev. Milton E. Skiff and Mrs. Stumbo, co-chairmen, have asked all volunteer workers to complete their solicitation of support by next Monday.

The Red Cross appeal is being made to all residents of the county, and a special appeal is being made, Mrs. Stumbo said, to the 1,024 families who received Red Cross aid during the 1967 flood disaster.

"If each of these families would contribute $1," she said, "the goal would be nearly reached."

Those who have not been solicited may mail their contributions to Floyd County Chapter, American Red Cross, Prestonsburg.

Indian Hills Fills, 95 on Waiting List

When Prestonsburg's new low-rent housing complex, Indian Hills, opened to occupants March 22 its 42 units were quickly filled, and 95 families were left on the waiting list, Mayor George P. Archer said this week.

But, if an application now pending with the Housing and Urban Development Administration (HUD) is approved, the shortage of dwelling units in the community may within the next 18 months be ended. This application is for funds to provide a third housing complex, the largest of the lot, with 78 units.

If these 78 units are financed, Prestonsburg would have a total of 160 low-rent housing units, plus 75 rent-supplement units under construction by the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association.

JUDGMENT IS UPHELD

Federal Judge Swinford Denies Rehearing Move In Anti-Trust Case

U.S. District Judge Mac Swinford Tuesday upheld a $7,231,356 judgment awarded to South-East Coal Co., Irvine, Ky., in an anti-trust case tried last October.

A request for an additional $400,000 in fees to South-East's attorneys was trimmed to $335,000 by Judge Swinford.

The original judgment against the United Mine Workers of America and Consolidation Coal Co., was awarded by a U. S. District Court jury after a four-week trial. South-East alleged that the union conspired with Consolidation and other major coal companies to force smaller producers out of business.

Judge Swinford this week overruled the defendants' motion for a new trial or a directed verdict in their favor. He ruled that the jury verdict "was supported by competent evidence."

Miners Ask Court For Relief Rulings

Two Floyd county mineworkers who claim they suffer occupation-connected lung disease have asked the Floyd circuit court for relief after having been denied benefits by the Kentucky Workmen's Compensation Board.

Ervin Hamilton asked circuit court to relieve him from two orders, one of which overruled his motion to set aside the order to submit his case; the other, an opinion dismissing his claim.

His circuit court petition says that the board referred him to Dr. Allen L. Cornish, of Lexington, who gave an unfavorable report to the plaintiff. The plaintiff then decided to undergo a biopsy of his lung tissue and asked that the submitting of the case be delayed till the finding from the biopsy was learned. He also claims that the March 3 decision dismissing his case is "a constructive fraud upon the rights of the plaintiff."

Hamilton named as defendants, in addition to the Workmen's Compensation Board, Sterling Hamilton, the Hi Hat Elkhorn Coal Company and the Special Fund.

In the other circuit court case W. S. Powell asks review of his claim in which the Island Creek Coal Company, the Workmen's Compensation Board and the Special Fund are named defendants. He claims "an unwarranted exercise of discretion" on the part of the board in its March 10 dismissal of his case.

The board held that he is not afflicted by either silicosis or pneumoconiosis (black lung). Powell's petition asking the circuit court to set aside the board's order says he had five doctors who testified he had a lung disease, and that two of these doctors had seen him more than one time. The defendants, he claims, used testimony of four doctors, none of whom had examined him more than one time.

Barbara Hamilton in a suit filed March 25 against Leonard Sumner claims negligence of the defendant in operation of his auto caused her car to be rammed from behind, resulting in injuries for which she asks $10,000 damages. She also claims $5,000 damages for loss of her job and $48.50 for hospital and doctor bills.

CITY TO GET SOIL REPORT

Study Being Made To Prep for Future Development in Area

A soil report being done for the city of Prestonsburg by the Soil Conservation Service will be used, it was pointed out this week, to serve in planning for industry, recreation, urban buildup and other development. The report is scheduled to be presented to Mayor Archer and the City Council this month.

The study will cover composition of soils, drainage problems, depth of the soil-layer above rock and the like. The report will be on soils from Auxier along the Big Sandy as far south as Emma, up Middle Creek to the Clark elementary school and from the river, near Lancer, up Bull Creek to Water Gap.

Prestonsburg will be the third Kentucky municipality to have the benefit of such a study. Reports have already been afforded the cities of Hopkinsville and Bowling Green. A fourth study is being made in the Ashland area.

PCC TO HOST ANNUAL FEST

13 Colleges To Have Representatives Here For 5th Fest Events

Robert R. Allen, coordinator of Student Affairs at Prestonsburg Community College, announced this week that plans are being completed for the fifth Annual Mountain Dew Festival, which will be held April 17, 18 and 19. As in the past, it will be hosted by PCC.

As of this date, the following colleges will participate: Ashland, Elizabethtown, Hazard, Hopkinsville, Madisonville, Maysville, Northern, Prestonsburg and Somerset Community Colleges, Alice Lloyd Junior College, Lexington Technical Institute, Logan and Williamson Branches of Marshall University, and Quince and Forestry and Technical School.

Events to be held at the festival include: Archery, badminton, basketball, bowling, golf, pool, rifle meet, table tennis, tennis, volleyball, and the Mountain Dew queen contest.

A special event this year will be a talent contest which will be made up of two acts from each participating college.

Last year, Prestonsburg Community College was the recipient

The Maytown high school Wildcats did much to restore the 15th Region to basketball prestige by winning their way to the semifinals of the state net tournament in Louisville last week, meanwhile scoring the biggest upset of the tournament in their defeat of Clark County, a pre-tournament favorite. Two of this group, Randy Click and Pat Tallent, were voted places on the 10-man All-Tournament five. The Wildcats defeated Monticelle, 70 to 66; Clark County, 80 to 74, and lost to the eventual champions,

Piggly Wiggly Co. Buys D. & D. Store

Purchase of the D. & D. Food Market, major Prestonsburg grocery business, by Williamson Piggly Wiggly, Inc. was announced here Tuesday.

Amount involved in the transaction was not disclosed. Only the stock, equipment and goodwill of D. & D. were purchased, with the new owners to operate the business at its present location in the D. & D. building under a long-term lease.

Operation of the business was assumed Tuesday by Williamson Piggly Wiggly. The store will temporarily operate as D. & D. Food Market but will convert to Piggly Wiggly. Some changes in marketing services and both the interior and exterior of the building are planned.

This Town ... That World

You would think that a guy who hasn't left the house in years to see a basketball game couldn't care less who got plastered, but that's not the case. With my usual profundity in such matters, I figured our Maytown basketball boys were running up against a team of giants in that Clark County game, and because I did not want even to imagine the disaster I judiciously left the radio silent, last Friday night.

You know the results, but you don't know how disappointed I was in not being in on the kill. These Maytown youngsters did themselves proud, reflected a lot of credit on their county and restored considerable prestige to Eastern Kentucky basketball.

If I seem to limp this week, it isn't because of a corn—I tried to jump aboard the Maytown bandwagon, a bit late, and the well-known tail-gate wasn't down.

WE ALL LIKED IKE

Dwight Eisenhower may, or may not, have been a great President. But he was a great American, a man whom we of our section sometimes describe as "plumb good." And America needs 200 million good men more than it needs one or even a dozen great Presidents.

Fred Francis tells me he had always doubted those yarns about the dead being voted in elections till he found a candidate's placard prominently displayed in the middle of a rather deserted graveyard.

KY. POLICE ARREST TWO

Floyd Countians, Load Of Liquor Are Taken Near Cumberland, Ky.

Two Floyd county men in a liquor-laden camper-truck were arrested near Cumberland, Ky., last Thursday and face arraignment on a liquor possession charge, the State Police post at Harlan said this week.

The two, Roy Lee Branham and Hoyt Cupps, both of Wheelwright, are accused of having had in their possession 104 cases of beer, six cases of whiskey and 36 half-pints of gin and vodka when they were intercepted by officers. The truck was impounded and Branham and Cupps are slated for hearing next Thursday before Magistrate Dewey Falls. They were released under bond.

A truck from Clay county containing about 200 cases of whiskey was halted last week in the same Harlan county vicinity and its occupants arrested.

Cumberland, which is near the scenes of the two raids, is "wet," and it is believed the intoxicants were purchased there.

College Director Not To Quit Post

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of Prestonsburg Community College, said this week that the statement made by him in a recent speech at Paintsville is not to be construed as meaning that he may be nearing the end of his tenure as director of the college.

He said he merely pointed out in an address before the Big Sandy Area Development Council that the average tenure of college heads is five years, adding that he has been here that period of time.

He said he had no immediate plans for resigning the college post here.

Dr. Campbell told the development group that because of their growth the state's community colleges eventually will have to be operated as separate institutions. He spoke of the problems the University of Kentucky encounters with personnel, purchasing, accounting and other administrative procedures connected with handling the community college system.

"The ... colleges already have created a monster of a problem for the University of Kentucky ...," he said.

Judge Hands Down School Case Order

Layoff of Workers At KAI, Temporary; About 275 Affected

The layoff at Kentucky Appalachian Industries (KAI) which became effective Tuesday is only temporary, The Times was told Wednesday.

L. E. Danielson, manager of the West, Prestonsburg plant, was not available for comment, but it was explained that materials used in the plant's manufacturing operations figured in the layoff which is scheduled to last only a few days.

KAI, which has been concentrating on the manufacture of materials for the armed forces, employs an average of about 275 persons.

ASC REPORTS '68 BENEFITS

Farm Programs Bring $104,067 Last Year To Floyd Farmers

Floyd county farmers last year received a total of $104,067.42 through participation in the several programs conducted in the county under the Agricultural Conservation Stabilization Program (ASCS).

The farmer-benefits were listed in a report of 1968 accomplishments released recently by the ASCS office here.

A total of 144 farmers participated in the 1968 Agricultural Conservation Program, and they earned $24,159. Twenty-six new participants were listed during the year. The benefits were earned through establishing permanent vegetative cover, reseeding such cover, constructing farm ponds, improving timber stands, improving stream banks, draining land by tilling, and establishing winter cover crops.

The Commission on Higher Education primarily determines priorities for distribution of federal funds to colleges and universities in the state. The council concerns itself more with coordinating functions of the state-supported institutions, including their budget preparations.

Associated Consultants is to submit its final report to the council by December 1, to enable the latter to draft any proposed legislation deemed necessary for consideration by the 1970 General Assembly.

Martin High Fate Is Yet Under Study

Stephenson Decision Says Board May Build New Eastern School

Special Judge James B. Stephenson, of Pikeville, handed down Tuesday a formal judgment in the suit filed by citizens of Martin involving the continuance of the high school there and the construction of a new high school at Eastern.

As he had indicated earlier, Judge Stephenson dismissed the suit "in all particulars except that part which seeks to prevent the Floyd County Board of Education from discontinuing and removing the present high school or any of the grades from the corporate limits of the city of Martin."

The question of the high school at Martin, the written judgement said, "is reserved for further adjudication." The court judgment continued:

"The defendant is authorized to accept bids and award contracts, sell and deliver bonds, construct, staff and implement the school. The only question left for determination by this court is the effect, validity and application of the judgement in the case of Orris Gearheart, et al vs. Floyd County Board of Education as to whether or not it prevents the defendant from removing the high school from the city of Martin. The other claims by the plaintiffs are hereby dismissed, and there is no just reason for delay, and this is a final judgment."

Reviewing the case, Judge Stephenson wrote:

"On the 10th day of January, 1969, the plaintiffs instituted a suit in the Floyd circuit (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Wins State Honors

Honorable mention in the judging for best actor and actress in the state drama festival held recently at the University of Kentucky included five high school students, one whom was Johnny Griffith, of Prestonsburg high school.

Young Griffith, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Griffith, was among 140 performers representing 17 high schools which had won regional honors before entering the state meet.

liminary findings of the study would be presented to the council for its reaction within six months.

Eastern Kentucky University President Robert Martin, a member of the council, emphasized that the study should determine what type community college system is best for Kentucky without regard to the present system.

Prestonsburg Community College did not share in allocation by the commission of $209,000 in federal funds to nine community colleges for laboratory and other special equipment, but the college here is one of four to receive supplemental federal grants ranging from $84,000 to $138,000.

The building program under way in campus development here will add two structures.
These will supply more usable space than most community colleges in the state have, Dr.
Campbell said last week. They will contain such facilities as an educational TV station, an FM radio station, a graphic arts department, a health laboratory and a theatre. An engineering program will be instituted when the new buildings are completed and equipped.

The director said Prestons-burg Community College is operating on a lower budget this year than last. Most colleges of the system are on minimum budgets, he said.

INFANT DIES

Anti-Crime Films
Viewed by Clubmembers

Wayland, Ky. — "Most automobile thefts result from drivers leaving keys in the ignition or car doors unlocked," was information given in a film last Monday evening, shown by Kentucky State Trooper John Bremer at a meeting of the Lucky-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club.

"Statistically, there are two policemen for every 1,000 persons in the United States today, but when deductions are made for clerical employees, vacations, sick and accident leaves, actually there is only one policeman for every 6,000 people," reported the film narrator.

A second film, "Insight or Insanity," was shown by Earl Compton, health educator for the Comprehensive Care Program, Department of Mental Health. This film covered technical information on the widely discussed drug, LSD. Loss of normal cause and effect, loss of judgment, and possibly genetic damage by breakage in human chromosomes, are some of the serious results of using the drug.

The club requested, with the consent of school officials, that two films on the use of drugs be shown to Wayland high school students this week.

Mrs. O'to Martin, program leader on the subject, "Crime Prevention," introduced both speakers. An Easter devotional was given by Mrs. J. T. Spillman prior to the program.

Following refreshments a business meeting was held, at which time the Nominating Committee chairman, Mrs. Earl Castle, announced that all current officers were nominated for the coming year, after which they were unanimously re-elected. They are: President, Mrs.
Mervil Dixon; first vice president, Mrs. Hansel Bradley; second vice-president, Mrs. Milton Trusty; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Otto Martin; recording secretary, Mrs. James Burge; treasurer, Mrs. S. M.
Martin.

Hostesses were Mrs. Charles R. Martin, at whose home the meeting was held, and Mrs.
James Burge. Others present were Mrs. W. E. Parker, Mrs.
Van Patton, Jr., Mrs. B. R.
Stapleton, Trooper Brenner,
Mr. Compton, guests, and Mrs.
S. M. Martin, Mrs. James E.
Martin, Mrs. Shelby Draught,
Mrs. Paul Rutledge, Mrs. Marie
Mullins, Mrs. J. T. Spillman,
Mrs. Bobby Joe Castle, Mrs.
Earl Castle, Mrs. Rex Martin,
Mrs. Mervil Dixon, and Mrs.
Otto Martin, members.

County, District Posts Up for Grabs This Year

FRANKFORT—This is Kentucky's year for city and county as well as legislative and judicial elections.

The Republican and Democratic primary elections will be on May 27 and the general election on Nov. 4.

The last day for an unregistered Kentuckian to register to vote in one of the primaries—depending on whether he is a Republican or Democrat—is Saturday, March 29.

While there is no statewide contest up for voter decision, the legislative races are of interest to the state-at-large because they determine the makeup of the state's law-making body—the Kentucky Legislature—for 1970-72.

All of Kentucky's 100 seats in the State House of Representatives are to be filled for two-year terms. Half of the 38 seats in the State Senate—those of the even-numbered districts—also are to be filled.
State Senators are elected for four-year terms. Half of the Senators are holdovers.

Also to be filled are Circuit judgeships throughout the state, as well as the posts of Commonwealth's attorneys and the Circuit Court clerks. Circuit judges may file for both Republican and Democratic nominations. The term in the judicial districts is for six years.

County contests always demand attention. Offices involved include those of county judge, county attorney, county sheriff, magistrate and constable. The county offices are of four-year terms.

Cities throughout the state will choose their mayors and other city officers.

Two proposed amendments to the State Constitution will be on ballots throughout Kentucky. One would authorize the General Assembly to provide by general law for assessment for ad valorem tax purposes of agriculture and horticultural land according to its value for such uses.

The other would allow the Legislature to meet every year instead of every two years for sessions not longer than 60 legislative days, which need not be consecutive, but no regular session would be continued beyond June 30. In years following a gubernatorial election, the Legislature would not convene until the first Tuesday after the first Monday in March.

Any Kentuckian meeting residence requirements who will be 18 by election day in November may register now to vote in his party's primary.
Persons registered other than Republican or Democrat may not vote in either primary.

The voter must be a U. S. citizen who by election day will have lived in the state one year, the county six months, and the precinct 60 days.

Registration books are closed 60 days before and five days following a primary or general election. Once a voter is registered, he does not have to re-register unless he moves to another precinct, changes her name by marriage, or other legal process, or is removed from the registration books.

By DONALD E. WILDMON

A lot of people will call me stupid, I know. Some will feel sorry for me. Others will snicker a little and say that I should grow up. We humans have a way of expressing our feelings without ever uttering a word. And, reading all the expressions, I come to the conclusion that this will be the attitude of many toward me.

But it doesn't really matter what others think of me. What is important is what I think of myself and what the Carpenter thinks of me. Somehow, if I have His approval and blessing all the other side remarks seem to have a way of diminishing in importance. So I guess that's the reason that what others think just isn't too important. Their being relatively unimportant, I feel free to make the following known about myself.

It Happened That Way

I believe it happened. I believe that, basically, it happened just the way we have been taught it happened. I believe they took a just Man — the most just Man ever to walk on the face of this earth — and they nailed Him to a tree. I believe they did it because of their selfishness. I believe He allowed it to happen. I believe that He had the power to stop it, destroy them all if He wished. But I believe He allowed them to do it because of His great love. I believe it broke His heart, that inside He wanted so much to be loved by those who sought to destroy Him.

I believe that He forgave them, that He held no bitterness or hatred toward them. And I believe that, in the irony of it all, His love was stronger than their hate. I believe that to this very day the most powerful weapon in the universe is the power of the love of the Galilean Carpenter. I believe there is no weapon anywhere that can make a dent in it. And I believe that the only cure, yes, I said the only cure, to the basic troubles of the world today is the application of that love in our lives. I am convinced that it has always been and will continue to be His will for us to love one another like He loves us.

He Lives

Yes, I believe that He did arise from the grave. I believe that He was fully dead when removed from the cross and placed in the tomb. And I am convinced beyond a shadow of a doubt that He conquered death with life, that He came alive again and lives today and will live forever. Add to that my belief that it is His greater wish for us that we live His life with Him here and now as in the life that is beyond death.

No, I cannot explain it. No one can. But I can experience it. Everyone can. No, I'm not perfect. I am a miserable creature, unworthy of anything on my own merits. But I have a Saviour, and therefore I no longer need to depend on my own merits — only my faith.

Laugh, Snicker. Call me stupid. I guess that is the highest compliment you could pay me. But don't do it too loudly. It could be that one day you might share my beliefs.

CARD OF THANKS

Every graciously acknowledge every kindness, every service and expression of sympathy we received at the passing of our loved one, Willie Crisp. We especially thank the Regular Baptist ministers for their comforting words, and the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its efficient service.

How Much Water Is Reclaimed?

The Mined-Land Conservation Conference, a division of the National Coal Association, points with pride to its 1968 record which, it declares, includes 72,000 acres of mined land "reclaimed."

The January-February bulletin published by the conference hails 1968 as "Reclamation's Greatest Year," and cites the figures for 17 states to back up its claim: acreage graded, reforestation done, forage and grain crops planted, and so on.

All of which is commendable. The report sounds great, and it indicates that no longer is the ravished victim left naked after the ravishing. But in only one of the 17 states listed is any mention made of work which is basic to true reclamation, that of burying toxic materials and ditching to control surface water flow. That is in Tennessee.

The trees and vegetation will cover the scars. But the flow or seepage of mine waters laden with toxic elements is the festering of a sore which spreads its infection to distant streams and places.

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation is now developing chemical treatment of such waters that, hopefully, will render them harmless to aquatic life and make them fit for human use. This is a work of extreme importance, and, once it is perfected, every state should immediately demand its use.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER...

(An editorial from The Paintsville Herald)

As is obvious from a front-page story in this week's Herald, the regional hospital to be located between Paintsville and Prestonsburg on Route 23 no longer needs to be described as "proposed." With Hill-Burton funds allocated, Economic Development Administration money assured and seventy-five percent of the required local capital already pledged, it would take a confirmed pessimist to doubt that it will soon be a reality.

It is encouraging to see that modest support from the project has come from Johnson County. Presumably because there has been opposition to the hospital from some sources here, many persons who sincerely believe that the facility will benefit the area have been reluctant to offer any help securing the minimal local financing needed.

That too is understandable, for the opposition to the hospital has stemmed primarily from local doctors, and these men are held in respect for their opinions.

By the same token, it is doubtful if even the most vigorous opponents to the new hospital would want or expect others to withhold support. At no time has anyone said that a new modern hospital is not needed or that it would not be worthwhile, and surely no one, particularly a doctor, would want his personal objections to back others from helping to secure additional health facilities for our area.

Even though the hospital now appears assured of construction, and Johnson County will stand to benefit from it regardless, the financial support that is coming from our area obviously is welcomed. It would not detract from any local improvements if this regional hospital could receive full support from Johnson County... and, in fact, support for future local improvements might even be more vigorous if the citizens felt that the unanimous objective of all our people was to better any and all health facilities, regardless of their location.

There is a time for everything. Now would appear to be a good time to forget personal differences and objections, and to encourage, both morally and financially, a good project. There will be a regional hospital just beyond Auxier which will fill a need for our area. It behooves us to remove our heads from the sand and help that hospital to exist... if we expect it to help us do the same.

court seeking a temporary restraining order preventing the Floyd County Board of Education from doing three things:

- 1. Constructing the high school building at Eastern; 2. from accepting bids or awarding contracts for the construction of said high school; 3. from discontinuing or removing the present high school or any of the grades from the school in the city of Martin outside the corporate limits."

The restraining order was not issued, and two hearings of the case were subsequently held. Plaintiffs, the review of facts pointed out, relied upon a judgment entered in Floyd circuit court in 1939 holding that it would be an abuse of discretion on the part of the Floyd County Board of Education and Town Hall, then superintendent of county schools, to discontinue, abandon or suspend the teaching of any of the 12 grades at the Martin school, so long as there is a sufficient number of children in the district to meet legal requirements, or to require children of the Martin school district to attend school outside the district.

Judge Stephenson's review of the case said that the evidence in the case supports the finding that the number of pupils in the city of Martin numbers "somewhere between 75 and 100"—a figure by the plaintiffs. He pointed out that there is a sufficient number of students in the Wayland, Garrett, Maytown and Allen areas and in adjacent territory to supply a sufficient number of students to the new school at Eastern without requiring any students from Martin. Citing the case of the Pike County Board of Education vs. Ford, Judge Stephenson held: "This court does not have the power or authority to prevent the Floyd County Board of Education from proceeding with the construction of the school building at Eastern... The Board of Education has a right to select a school site without interference from this court."

Radiant Rays

Psalm 34:5 They looked unto Him and were radiant

There is in the air surrounding us continually a multitude of waves. These waves are sent out by various people: radio waves intended for our ears through our radio sets; waves sent out by our TV sets; waves sent out by the police for the ears of policemen only; waves sent out in other languages intended for the ears of those who understand that particular language.

What we pick up or receive depends on our receiving sets. If we put up a radio antenna we receive signals broadcast from a radio station. Likewise with the TV antenna. Our antenna determines our reception. With no antenna out we pick up only local stations. To get better reception requires better antennae and large receiving sets.

Prior to the age of TV you could see many radio antennae and in homes were found large radios with many tubes and several bands. You could hear from almost every continent in the globe. But these have been replaced with TV antennae. The radio waves are still in the atmosphere, seeking a receiving set. But we've tuned them out and tuned in TV. There is still beautiful music in the air but we don't hear it. There is still valuable information being sent out but it passes us by.

To receive anything outside ourselves we have to be inclined in that direction. We are asked by advertisements of all sorts to incline our ears in a certain direction so that we may hear what the advertiser would have us hear.

There is a broadcasting station in heaven. It sends out signals 24 hours a day. It is a clear-channel station. These signals have been bombarding us for centuries. But for the most part they fall on hard hearts.

For those who have inclined their ears in that direction and are in the hook-up, messages are sent daily. These messages contain instructions for today's walk. Have you inclined your ears that your soul may live? Is your spiritual antennae out? Is your reception clear?

Stabilization and Conservation Program, which is confined to the Middle Creek area, the county received an allocation of $27,000 during the year. This allocation brought to the $89,799 the total allocated since 1966. Fifty-two contracts covering a total of 1,392 acres have been approved during the three-year period. Twelve new contracts were approved last year and six were modified.

Two hundred twenty-eight grain producers entered 1,433 acres in the '68 Feed Grain Program, and they received $52,659.52 for diverting this acreage of corn from production.

Wool production during the year dropped sharply, with only three growers drawing incentive payments for the sale of wool and unshorn lambs. The total of these payments was $219.42.

Floyd county's tobacco crop is negligible and did not figure in the total receipts gained through ASCS participation. The county has only 46 burley tobacco allotments with a combined acreage of 10.66, and only 33 of these produced and marketed tobacco from 7.13 acres.

BY HAMAN...

My old friend, Lenna Moore, had the somewhat dubious honor, Wednesday morning, of being the first Prestonsburg citizen to pay a $5 fine for failing to have his city car sticker on display. I might have beat him for the honor, had I met one of the local constabulary on my way to work.

Asked if he made any comment on paying his fine, Lenna said, "By Haman, I let my money do the talkin'."

THE INQUISITOR

I have it on the best authority that when a representative of a certain U. S. agency parked his car in front of the courthouse of a certain town, ye village constable immediately became interested and began circling the car with perhaps an eye to business. Finally, when the occupant got his papers together and emerged from the car, the constable demanded, "Where ya from, buddy?"

"Philadelphia, sir," the stranger replied.

The constable cocked an eye, swung his billy-club in a wide arc, and continued his interrogation. "Philadelphia, huh? Well, tell me, mister, why in the hell then, you got them Pennsylvania plates on your car?"

"This helps two ways. The response to the call for local support of the regional hospital near here has been most encouraging. Jean and Bob Francis, down in Sarasota, Fla., learned of the need of local funds, and they entrusted their check to me. What they wrote was appreciated, too."

"Living in a town with a 500-bed hospital, which we have used, we know the needs of a hospital in the Prestonsburg area. Enclosed is $50 to help a little for people who were so nice to us while doing business in your city. We know this $150,000 will be raised, because the nicest people in the world live in your area."

Breaks Interstate To Open This Sunday For Tourist Season

Breaks Interstate Park, on the Kentucky-Virginia border near Elkton, Ky., Kentucky, will open its tourist season on Easter Sunday, April 6. All park facilities will begin operation, including the 24-unit Rhododendron Motor Lodge, the restaurant and various recreational attractions.

Campsites at Breaks Interstate will have accommodations for 42 tents or trailers. There are riding stables, shelter houses, picnic spots and playgrounds. Flowers of the area are displayed in the Visitors' Center, along with geological and wildlife exhibits.

The Russell Fork River, a tributary of the Big Sandy, spent 250 million years carving its way through the Cumberland Mountains to create a river path that is the largest canyon in the eastern United States. The Breaks of the Sandy, called "the Grand Canyon of the South," is the park's outstanding attraction.

Palisades rise more than 1,000 feet out of the river bed formed by the lively, twisting Russell Fork. One mass of rock in the middle of the gap is 1,600 feet high, a half-mile long and a third of a mile wide. This giant pyramid, called the Towers, is a favorite photographic subject for visitors. Twelve-acre Laurel Lake, caves and hidden springs are other features of the park.

Breaks Interstate Park, operated jointly by the states of Kentucky and Virginia, attracted 168,000 visitors in 1968.

Letters To the Editor

ON OLD HOMES EDITOR, The Times:

In this day of rapid change many noted and familiar landmarks are disappearing from the oldtimers' view. A few of these are old homes, some good and some dilapidated, but they hold many a cherished memory to those born about the turn of the century. It causes tears to rise in their eyes when they see the old home, which was the cradle of their youthful, happy days, being torn asunder by cranes and bulldozers. They know they will never behold the old home again in reality, but will have to store it in the memories of the dim, faded past.

I think the Bible says somewhere, "The old order shall pass away." Maybe old homes, like old people, pass into the eternity of time.

Former Floyd Clerk Is Named Defendant By His Former Wife

Their joint ownership of two Lexington companies has resulted in the filing in Fayette circuit court of a suit against DuRan Moore, former Floyd county clerk, by his former wife, Kathleen Moore.

Mrs. Moore, who is secretary-treasurer of the DuRan Moore Oil Co., Inc. and Moore Transport, Inc., said in her court action that she was voted a $50-a-month salary from the transport company by Moore and his brother-in-law, Cordell H. Martin, Hindman attorney. They at the same time, she claims, voted Moore a salary of $1,000 a month as president of the firm.

Mrs. Moore asked a temporary injunction to stop the transfer of funds to her ex-husband's account, also sought $1,000 back pay and job reinstatement and moved to restrain Moore from paying himself the $1,000 monthly salary.

Perkins Urges Aid To Area Extended

Congressman Carl D. Perkins (D-Ky.) has called on Congress to extend and strengthen the Appalachian Regional Development Act.

The Kentucky Congressman, one of the authors of the Act passed in 1965, appeared before a House Public Works subcommittee in behalf of a bill extending the life of the Appalachian agency.

Representing a district in the heart of Appalachia, Perkins cited great progress that has been made in regional development since the program's inception. "We cannot sit down and rest on what we have done already," Perkins told the subcommittee. "We have got to get up and go and keep on going until this job is done."

The present authorization of the Appalachian Regional Development Act expires June 30 of this year.

"Appalachia, at least in the public eye, is often represented by Eastern Kentucky," Perkins said.

"And it is true that nowhere else is the need for this program as great as it is in our part of the country. This is hard-core Appalachia, which was too long left behind. This is Appalachia almost without hope until passage of the Act in 1965. This is the Appalachia to which attention must be paid by the Nation and the Congress. The program in the bill before you is so far the most realistic and effective salvation yet proposed for this heart of Appalachia."

The Kentucky Congressman, who is the chairman of the House Committee on Education and Labor, and author of the landmark Vocational Education Act, told the members of the need for more vocational schools in his area. "I cannot say too much for the vocational education program. Kentucky happens to be concentrating on this phase of the Appalachian strategy. Its only drawback is there are not enough vocational schools being built fast enough," he said.

WIND RUINS PIKE SCHOOL

Damage At Virgie Placed At $200,000, Pupils Escape Harm

PIKEVILLE, Ky. — Violent winds virtually destroyed the old Virgie elementary school building in Pike county Monday but the 300 students and faculty escaped injury. Classes had been dismissed only minutes earlier.

Fred W. Cox, Virgie principal, estimated the damage at about $200,000. He said the wind struck at about 3:45 p.m. Classes had been dismissed at about 3:30.

The wind left only walls and partitions of the old, single-story, brick and wood, 10-classroom school standing. The wind also flattened a single-room pre-fabricated building near the school that also was empty at the time.

Virgie high school and its gymnasium, on the same property, escaped serious damage.

Cox said the wind lifted the roof off the elementary school, dropping parts of it in a creek 75 feet away. Other parts were scattered over about a two-acre area, he said.

The incident here was the only case of heavy wind damage reported Monday in Kentucky, although high winds and a general rainfall covered the state.

April Proclaimed Clean-Up Month

FRANKFORT — Dan'l and Rebecca Broome, Kentucky's clean-up and beautification mascots, are swinging into action during April to remind the public that "Kentucky's Beauty Is Everybody's Duty."

April has been proclaimed "Clean-Up and Beautification Month" throughout Kentucky by Gov. Louie B. Nunn.

Cartoon figures of Dan'l and Rebecca appear in a new, 32-page coloring booklet entitled, "Color Me Clean," distributed by the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources.

William R. Nash, director of the Clean-Up and Beautification Division, said content of the booklet is designed to appeal to children of elementary school age.

It explains how to keep Kentucky's homes, schools and parks neat and clean. Written in story-form, the booklet deals with some episodes of Kentucky history as revealed in a child's dream. Included are pictures of modern day Daniel Boone, as portrayed by Fess Parker, television star, and sketches of places of interest throughout the state.

At the conclusion of the story, Rebecca awakens Dan'l Broome from a long dream and encourages him "to get busy, clean up and not just dream his life away."

Nash said requests for "Color Me Clean" while in the planning stage numbered almost one thousand. Because of the interest shown, the Department of Natural Resources expanded the number of pages from 12 as originally planned to 32.

"Color Me Clean" may be procured by writing, The Kentucky Department of Natural Resources, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Distribution is planned through restaurants and schools throughout the state later in the year.

In real life, Dan'l and Rebecca are Troy Woody, 6, and his sister, Glenda, 5. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Woody, Sr., of Frankfort.

All Floyd County Veterans And Servicemen! — Join the F.C.V.A.

If you feel that we Veterans of Floyd County have been denied rights and privileges, then join your friends in this organization to regain them.

Look around you and consider who has been denied club privileges. Other organizations and groups go unmolested—but not the Veterans! We are Floyd County citizens, too! Don't you feel that we should be treated on the same basis as other groups?

We ask only for a "Fair Deal." If you do, join with your comrades in the F. C. V. A. for a better Floyd County.

Remember that Veterans' rights come to us as a result of fights made for us by Veterans organizations—NOT POLITICIANS! Shouldn't we all, then, join together to continue gaining new rights and preserving those we now have.

A united stand by all Veterans is needed. Any time we need help, we can be assured that the Veteran will be the first to come to you in your hour of need. Think about this, potential members! Become a member of the F. C. V. A. and work to regain privileges that have been taken from us!

Kentucky Water Supply Held Strong Attraction

Because of critical water shortages facing some sections of the nation, in the future Kentucky's adequate water supply may prove to be a major asset in attracting both industry and vacationers.

Joseph L. Tucker, deputy director for the Division of Water, Kentucky Department of Natural Resources, said "With large reservoirs constructed or under construction, Kentucky will have water supply and recreation areas within 30 miles of any part in the state."

He added, "It will be necessary for Kentucky to continue developing its water resources commensurate with the needs of the population and industrial growth."

Writing in "The Kentucky Engineer," a publication of the University of Kentucky College of Engineering, Tucker listed broad goals of the Water Resources

INFORMATION PLEASE NO LONGER TO BE USED

Telephone users in the Prestonsburg area will be connected with a new service beginning Friday when they dial the phone company's number for "Information."

Instead of hearing the familiar response, "Information," subscribers will be greeted with, "Directory Assistant." And from then on, Information Service will be known as Directory Assistance.

The new name more accurately describes the type of service offered, according to Bill Gibson, South Central Bell manager. Mr. Gibson said that the whopping 126,034 information calls handled on an average day in Kentucky in 1963 were more than double the number handled in 1959. And more than 75 per cent of these calls were for telephone numbers already listed in the directory.

According to Mr. Gibson, the term, "Information" is misleading to telephone subscribers. "We call the service information, so people take us literally," he said.

The operators are asked to supply information about everything from the weather report to who won the 1943 World Series. Youngsters have been known to call and ask, "Where is my Daddy?"

A fact overlooked by most people is that it is actually faster to look up the desired number in the telephone directory than it is to call information. The average caller, under the mistaken impression that he is saving time, ignores his phone book and asks the operator to look the number up for him. As a result,

BEAUTY OF SPRING TIME FIRST TOUCHES HOLLOWS OF EASTERN KENTUCKY

FRANKFORT—Here and there in secluded hollows in Eastern Kentucky patches of snow may cling like bits of wool left by a flock of sheep, but on those hillsides and meadows touched by spring's warm sun wildflowers are beginning to appear. Showing up gradually like the first stars at dusk, they soon will make a starry carpet in Kentucky woodlands and fields.

White trillium has a way of making a slope look like a snowfield, its three-petaled blossom standing less than a foot high. This same slope will be colored by delicate purple and blue violets, yellow buttercups like small coins of sunshine and bluebells making tiny four-pointed starlets on a carpet that changes from moss green to chartreuse.

Off to one side, nodding together like neighbors, will be dainty pink and white spring beauties, yellow adder's tongue and Dutchman's breeches, while approaching this group will be squirrel corn, a cousin to the Dutchman.

Almost any East Kentucky hill or hollow will soon be lavender-blue and lavender-green in blooming hepaticas, cowslips and wild pansy.

There will be Solomon's seal, toothwort, pucoon, wild geranium, chickweed and many, many more, some familiar and some defying identification but all, like appreciative humans, awaiting warm breezes and sun, so they can enjoy the outdoors of a wonderful Kentucky spring.

Success or Failure

MANKIND everywhere is desirous of achieving success, making the most of life. At times, it is true, they act as if they little cared what was the outcome of their exertions. But even in the lives of the most abandoned and reckless there are moments when their good angel points out to them the heights to which they might ascend, that a wish arises for something better than they have known. But they have not the will to make the necessary exertions.

We are confronted with two ends, success or failure. To win the former it requires of us labor and perseverance. We must remember that those who start for glory must initiate action and pursue the game, not only where there is a path, but where there is none. They must remember and be able to simulate and dissimulate, to leap and to creep, to conquer the earth. He who would win success in life must make Perseverance his bosom friend; make Experience his wise counselor; Caution, his bosom friend, and Hope his guardian genius. He must not repine because the fates are sometimes against him, but when he trips or fails let him, like Caesar when he stumbled on shore, stumble forward and by escaping the omen, change its nature and meaning.

Remembering that those very circumstances which are apt to be eluded as the palliatives of failure are the true tests of merit, let him gird up his strength for whatever mysterious ecstasy of the future may await him. Thus will he rise superior to the ill-fortunes and, becoming more and more impervious to its attacks, will force his way in spite of it. Till at last, he will be able to fashion his luck to his will. Life is too short for us to waste one moment in doubting our lot. We must go down success, since it will not come to us, and we have no time to spare. If you wish to succeed, you must do as you would be done by. If you wish to reach a goal which all are anxious to reach—to hold your ground and not be hurled to the ground still to be alive to the battle.

Be alive, patient, work hard, with concentration, be rigidly honest, hope for the best; and if you are not able to reach the goal of your ambition, which is possible in spite of your utmost efforts, you will die with the consciousness of having done your best, which is, after all, the true success to which one can aspire. Do your best and you will never fail, and if you fail, you didn't do your best. This subject, "Success or Failure," will be continued next week.

Johnson Draft Board Says Politics Interfered

Paintsville, Ky. — Blaming political interference, four of the five members of Draft Board 49 have turned in their resignations.

Their spokesman, Malcolm Shearer, said the trouble stemmed from officials in Frankfort "who are allowing politics to interfere with our decisions on appeals." Shearer, a board member nearly 15 years, said several board rulings had been overturned recently but he did not elaborate.

His statements were challenged by Col. Taylor Davidson, head of Kentucky's Selective Service System. "It's not true," he commented when contacted at Frankfort.

Davidson said he knew of one case from Paintsville in which a college student dropped out for one year, then enrolled at a later date. The board reclassified the student as I-A, Davidson said, and before the state board could review the case it was taken over by the national Selective Service headquarters in Washington.

Davidson said one congressman, whom he did not identify, has expressed an interest in the student's case.

Shearer charged: "Some senators and representatives are allowed to rule the roost. Politics is playing too much of a hand in it."

Resigning with him were the Rev. Ellis Hamilton, Dr. Joe Rappier and B. E. Mullins, an attorney here. Left on the board was William Martin, a businessman.

The University of Kentucky soccer team is made up entirely of foreign students attending the institution.

Sp4 Eldon G. Hall (left) spent his 22nd birthday March 22 with the 101st Airborne Division in Vietnam, where he has been for almost 10 months. Before his Air Force service he attended McDowell high school. His brother, P't Terry D. Hall, 20, has been a member of the U. S. Marine Corps for five months and is now at Camp Lejeune, N. C. He was graduated from McDowell high school.

The brothers are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Verman Hall, of McDowell.

Nature Study Week-End Slated at Jenny Wiley

As spring approaches, the wonders of the woods begin to beckon to wildflower enthusiasts, bird watchers and field naturalists, and to what the appetite of all potential explorers of Kentucky's outdoor spring beauty, the Department of Parks has set aside two week-ends for field naturalist workshop at Jenny Wiley and Natural Bridge State Parks.

The first of these, Ornithological (Bird) Week-end, is scheduled for April 25-27 at Jenny Wiley State Park here. A Kentucky Wildflower Weekend follows May 2-4, to be conducted at Natural Bridge State Park, Slade.

Jim Butler, chief naturalist for the Kentucky Department of Parks, said the week-end programs are sponsored by the Division of Museums, Shrines and Interpretive Programs. Their purpose is to provide a deeper understanding of the natural history of Kentucky. Butler said Ornithological Week-end has been scheduled at an opportune time to witness bird migration through Kentucky. Jenny Wiley State Park is considered an ideal spot to witness in particular the migration of warblers.

Donald J. Borror, Columbus, Ohio, professor of Zoology, Ohio State University, will be the featured speaker for Ornithological Week-end. He has completed extensive research in Bio-acoustics, the study of birdsong. Dr. Borror's collection of animal sounds is one of the largest in the country, numbering approximately 12,500 original recordings.

Ann L. Stamm, editor of The Kentucky Warbler, will give a demonstration on the techniques of bird banding. News will be given in advance demonstration to capture migrant birds.

Birds field studies will be conducted by the following leaders: Dr. Herbert E. Shadown, Bowling Green; Howard P. Jones, Frankfort; Dr. J. Hill Hamon, Lexington; Jim Butler, Frankfort; Dr. Burt L. Monroe Jr., Louisville; Allie L. Whit, Richmond; Joseph E. Croft, Louisville; and Raymond Jezerinac, Newark, Ohio.

The spectacular Red River Gorge will be the scene of wildflower field trips May 2-4. These will be led by Winfield S. Jones, Georgetown; Dr. Varley E. Wiedeman, Louisville; and Dr. Arland Hotchkiss, Louisville.

Two featured speakers for wildflower week-end are Mary E. Wharton, professor of Zoology, University of Kentucky.

Dr. Wharton will discuss her comprehensive study of Kentucky flora. Dr. Barbour will emphasize wildlife photography.

Both workshops will include audio-visual presentations.

Further information on the series of Field Naturalist Workshops may be requested from: Jim Butler, chief naturalist, Kentucky Department of Parks, Office Building Annex, Frankfort, Ky., 40601.

'ASAFIDDY' OF OLD DAYS IS A SPRINGTIME SMELL THAT NO LONGER LINGERS

When Hoosier poet James Buchanan Elmore, the Bard of Aaromo, greeted the spring season in the language of his trade, he recalled to many their childhood and the farmhouse doctoring which they had received from Granny's "yarb shelf."

It is an experience many of us will long remember, says Prof. Richard M. Doughty, acting chairman of the Department of Materia Medica in the University of Kentucky's College of Pharmacy, "not so much for their curative ability as for the wileness of the assorted tastes and the unpleasant smells, one of which was asafoetida—called 'asafiddy' by most Grannies."

"Worn in a small bag tied around the neck, it was supposed to keep away colds, but mostly it just kept away our playmates who regarded us from a safe distance, meanwhile defensively pinching their noses and calling us 'stinky.' The 'asafiddy' odor penetrated every pore of the skin and every fiber of our winter woollens from which even a double soaking in the outdoor wash kettle plus 24 hours on the clothes line, blowing in a strong sou'-wester, could not eradicate."

The UK professor recalls the "palatable taste horrors — there was the inevitable sulphur and molasses, a gooey spring tonic which Granny administered on a slice of freshly-baked bread. It was a vile and violent mess, but it cured us of whatever spring ailment we may have had. It cured quickly because we knew it was a case of 'cure the first time or get a second dose'—so we cured quickly."

Prof. Doughty, a native of Pennsylvania, recalls that the early Quakers had an interesting use for dill seeds, found on most "yarb shelves."

"The Quakers occasionally fed their children a few dill seeds as a mild sedative to help keep them quiet during the very long Sunday meetings."

He says Granny's yarb shelf also held a number of leafy teas.

"Each was carefully sealed in an old baking powder can and labeled with an unused preserves label left over from the canning season. My Granny's labels were white with a red border, and always written on with bright green ink."

"It is a color combination I will long remember, because when the ground began to thaw and the first crocus poked above the last snowfall, Granny would lead us kids out to the yarb shelf to get our spring tonics. The first tonic inevitably was a big cup of green tea. To this day, I can vividly recall the fragrance and the sweet taste of that brew, steaming on the back of the old wood-burning stove. I even now brew a pot occasionally, just for old times' sake."

Sassafras, according to the professor, is still a cash crop in Greenup county, around the town of South Shore, where it is collected and distilled to form a palatable and saleable product.

Granny's shelf contained a number of sifted, dried tea leaves, such as mint, fennel and camomille. "Just let a member of the family mention having a vapor, a fever, or any other common ailment, and out came a tea or a poultice calculated to banish the ailment, and also to give all its symptoms a good 'hellackin!'"

Prof. Doughty and his colleague, Dr. Howard Hopkins, a native of Indiana, have collected a number of old books on "Yarb Doctorin." Both scientists, with their small-town backgrounds, had "many pleasant memories" in the pages of these books.

As for the Hoosier poet, here are a few lines from his reminiscences:

In the spring of the year
When the blood is too thick,
Oh, what is so good as a Sassafras stick—
It cleans out the liver
And strengthens the heart
And to the whole system new Life doth impart.
O Sassafras, O Sassafras,
Thou art the stuff for me,
And in the spring, I love to sing,
Sweet Sassafras, to thee.

Mine Dust Testing In Area Scheduled

Frankfort — Kentucky soon will begin dust quality testing in coal mines in an effort which, health and mine officials hope, will lead to control of black lung and other respiratory diseases.

Conducting the program will be the State Department of Health and the Department of Mines and Minerals which Gov. Louie B. Nunn named, along with three other state agencies, last fall as a council to study black lung and other related environmental health problems in mines. Kentucky is the first state to initiate extensive research on black lung.

The state's 40 mine-safety inspectors are now undergoing training in the use of dust sampling equipment, which is on order and should be received in about two weeks, according to Commissioner of Mines and Minerals, H. N. Kirkpatrick.

Kirkpatrick said each inspector will be given six instruments — five small units which can be worn by individuals through the mines and a larger stationary unit for use over various periods. The instruments, which are imported from England, will measure only dust small enough to be inhaled.

Inspectors of the Hazard and Harlan districts underwent their two-day instrument training session March 18-19, and training for inspectors of the Pikeville and Martin districts is scheduled April 24-25 at Jenny Wiley State Park, near Prestonsburg. Later, inspectors of the Madisonville district will be given the training.

State and U. S. Health authorities who are conducting the training say little is known about black lung disease in this country and add it may be many years before the disease, which is so prevalent among coal miners, can be completely controlled. They note that slow development of the disease, among other factors, prevents quick scientific conclusions.

While health authorities admit knowing little about how to control the disease, the Governor's special interagency council, consisting of the Departments of Labor, Insurance and Economic Security, in addition to the Departments of Health and Mines and Minerals, began a series of exploratory meetings last fall. These meetings led to present training sessions for the actual sampling of dust in mines, which will eventually lead to the establishing of dust standards.

Gov. Nunn said, in naming the interagency council, sufficient data should be collected prior to adoption of standards and added, "Kentucky will cooperate with federal government in the enforcement of whatever laws are adopted."

He said the interagency council also has been preparing, since last fall, appropriate new legislation for submission to the 1970 General Assembly.

In the meantime, the U. S. Public Health Service has proposed that three milligrams of dust per cubic meter is the maximum amount which can be safely tolerated in prevention of black lung.

Dr. William S. Lainhart of the federal health service, an instructor at the training sessions, said of the proposed guide, "This is the best we can determine at the moment" but added it is subject to change in event new evidence is found.

Emphasizing the amount of research yet to be done in regard to the disease, Dr. Lainhart noted recent studies show a higher incidence of black lung in Eastern Kentucky than in Western Kentucky and added, "we don't know why." Further complicating the picture, he said, Southern Illinois, which is similar to Western Kentucky in coal mining conditions, also has a higher incidence of disease than Western Kentucky.

Of 256 active miners tested in Eastern Kentucky, Dr. Lainhart said, 10.9 per cent showed "some degree of black lung" and of those affected 37.1 per cent were termed "complicated."

In contrast, he said, only 0.5 per cent of 141 miners tested in Western Kentucky showed black lung and none were "complicated" cases. Of 474 miners tested in Southern Illinois, 6.1 per cent had black lung and 24.1 per cent of those affected were "complicated" cases, he said.

The State Health Department's portion of the program is being carried out through its Divisions of Environmental Health and Occupational Health.

East Kentucky Lakes
Are Delayed by Study

Development of boat docks at two federally-built reservoirs in Eastern Kentucky will be delayed because of a study of leasing methods, it was announced this week by the Army Corps of Engineers.

A spokesman in the Corps' Huntington district office said the two projects affected are Fishtrap Reservoir, Pike county, and Grayson Reservoir between Grayson and Sandy Hook. Both were placed in operation in 1968.

Boat docks on federal lakes are developed under leases between the successful bidders and the government, after such bids are called for in public advertisement. Work is being delayed pending results of the current leasing studies which are being conducted on a national scale.

The spokesman said commercial boat dock developments are expected to be available for public use at Grayson and Fishtrap by the spring of 1970.

Bids on these facilities probably will be accepted this fall, and anyone interested in bidding should have their names placed on the prospective bidders' list. Individuals can do this by writing to the Huntington District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, P. O. Box 2127, Huntington, West Virginia 25721.
