

Court Fight May Stall School Job

Board Wins But Delays Are Costly

Right Beaver School Timetable Set Back Months, Clark Says

Supt. Clark was notified Wednesday that Congressman Carl D. Perkins has been assured by the U. S. Office of Education that the $206,000 in Title I funds will not be lost by the board of education, because the delay in use of the funds resulted from no fault of the board.

Litigation involving the Floyd County Board of Education's plan to build a central high school at Eastern had almost cleared the courts this week, with the board the winner, but the delay in reaching a legal decision apparently has stalled the new school construction from six months to a year, County Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said Tuesday.

Last week, the Kentucky Court of Appeals affirmed the circuit decision of Special Judge James B. Stephenson, who held that the board may build the school Monday of this week, Circuit Judge Henry Meigs, of the Franklin circuit court, dismissed a suit filed by Martin residents seeking to void the decision of the Kentucky Stream Pollution Control Commission. Fire-Safety Study Includes Floyd-Co.

An in-depth study of school fire-safety violations was reported in Sunday's edition of The Courier-Journal, and the situation over the state has drawn considerable comment from school officials and others.

Floyd county schools and those of Jefferson county, Louisville, Lexington, Fayette county, Daviess county, Shelbyville, McCracken, Oldham, Boone and Breathitt counties were included in the study. None met requirements of the state fire marshal's office. The report was based in investigations made last year.

The main fire-safety violations cited were lack of fire doors to seal off stairwells and fire alarm systems.

Commenting on the Floyd county situation, Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said:

"We try to make improvements each year and are making them. But if we went back and brought all our old buildings up to required standards, it would take all our budget and there never would be another new classroom built in this county."

The 1968 report disclosed 106 violations in this county, with 15 schools without enclosed stairways and 10 without fire alarm systems.

Supt. Clark pointed out that, shortly before he assumed office, the fire marshal cracked down on the county school system for its lack of fire alarms. "We put alarm systems in all the old schools; the contractors put them in new buildings as they were built."

School officials over the state see in the situation harassment from the fire marshal's office over the last six months. One architect said the marshal's office has changed its mind on fire

This Town . . . That World

WAITING FOR THE LIGHT TO CHANGE

A stranger stood beside me peering into the sun at the traffic light this morning, trying to decide if the light was red, green or striped. Finally the cars stopped, and we decided it was safe to venture across the street. "If I had time I'd plant some shade trees here for people like us," the man commented as we parted.

SOME LEFT FOR SEED

Some of the boys around here were making book on the weather in Tennessee last week-end, and the odds were on simoons, typhoons, hurricanes and similar disturbances. Because I had graced those parts with the presence. But the fact is, the weather was never finer. Perhaps a bit hot but fine. The four of us had it in our most determined style, but we remained in the good graces of the Tennessee Department of Fish and Game, which is to say, we did not decimate the fish population to any alarming extent. One of the slap-happy crew left, humming under his breath, "Troll, troll your boat." But we caught some fish, neglected to hook ourselves in the seat of the pants with any backcasts, and I defy anybody to prove he enjoyed two days last week more than I did.

When the interest in clean elections gets as intense before election as after, then we might get somewhere.

It says here that when you become wrinkled and bent with care, it's time to have your faith lifted. (See Story No. 2, Page 7)

AUGUST 23rd VOTE ASKED

Wet Petition Filed Wednesday Requests Local Option Vote

A 229-unit petition asking a local option election in this county Saturday, August 23 was filed in the office of County Clerk C. "Olie" Robinson Wednesday afternoon.

The petition stated that 229 separate units bore the signatures of a number of qualified voters equal to more than 25% of the votes cast at the last general election in the county. It was signed by Roy Ratliff, of Martin, chairman, and two co-chairmen, Bruce Patton, Hueysville, and Willie Tackett, of Beaver.

County Judge Stumbo later will act on the petition and officially designate the election date.

The last wet-dry election was held in 1966. It resulted in an 86-vote victory for the dries and was followed by a long contest action filed by wets. Floyd county has been legally dry 23 years. Its nearest wet neighbor-county is Perry.

Move Begun To Bar Use Of Condemned Lake Area As Public Swimmin' Hole

A move was begun Monday to save hundreds of Floyd county residents from the threat of disease and possible death.

Henry Allen, Jenny Wiley State Park, said the action involves state and federal authorities who are seeking a means of preventing people from exposing themselves to hepatitis and possibly to other diseases by using the contaminated waters of Dewey Lake in the Stratton Branch recreation area.

Means of preventing use of the old swimming area are now being sought by the state. The U. S. Corps of Engineers will be consulted. An effort will be made to decide who has jurisdiction. Then—perhaps—"No Trespassing" signs will be posted and action taken against those violating them.

SUMMER MUSIC THEATRE REHEARSALS BEGIN

Vivian Shannon (right), of Prestonsburg, and Don Fernandez, of Salyersville, are two of the local stars of the JENNY WILEY SUMMER MUSIC THEATRE. They both appear in the opening production, "Carnival," and star as Mr. and Mrs. MacAfee in "Bye Bye Birdie."

Rehearsals started this week for "Carnival," the dazzling musical of circus life to be performed at the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre at the Amphitheatre in Jenny Wiley State Park.

The theatre, the only musical stock company in the state, will present "Carnival" June 26-July 12 and will follow with "Bye, Bye, Birdie," July 17-August 2, and with "Anything Goes," August 7-23. Performances will be given every Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 p.m.

The theatre casts include both professional and local talent. Special guest stars include Eileen Barnett Bittman, of Herb Rogers'

Music Theatre, and Thomas Kirk, star of such films as Walt Disney's "Swiss Family Robinson," "Savage Sam" and "Old Yeller."

Local performers also boast strong professional backgrounds and include the Magura Sisters, of Prestonsburg, a well-known singing team; Don Fernandez, of Salyersville, who has worked professionally with the Cincinnati Summer Opera; and Vivian Shannon, of Prestonsburg, an Amphitheatre veteran. Douglas Smith of Pikeville serves as special vocal coach, while Paul Cox, of Paintsville, acts as musical director. Technical consultant for the season is James Hazlett, a native of Louisa.

12-Unit Addition To Lodge Is Seen

A contract is expected to be awarded this summer for the construction of a 12-unit addition to May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, Park Manager Henry Allen said Wednesday.

The new addition will bring housing facilities of the park to 60 rooms, at the lodge, plus 16 vacation cottages. This annex will be the second built since the original lodge facility was constructed. The new units will extend on from the present units, around the mountainside toward the vacation cottages in the lodge area.

Present facilities of the lodge are taxed each year during the vacation season, and the proposed annex is planned to meet tourist demands.

Also to be built soon will be a recreation complex along the lake shore at the base of the hill on which the lodge is located. The long, narrow strip, which at one time was the old county road, will be converted into a playground, Allen said. It will include tennis courts, a volley ball court, horseshoe pits and other facilities.

The park manager said the vacation cottages have been 80% renovated, with new floors laid. A new water system for the park's nine-hole golf course was recently completed.

A new camping area in the Goble Branch section of the lake will be developed later, Mr. Allen said. Land acquisition is being made by the Corps of Engineers, and about three tracts remain to be purchased. The new area will have electricity and all other facilities, it was said.

ASK LEADERS TO 'HEARING'

Kentucky Notables Invited To Attend Frankfort Meeting

Eastern and Northern Kentucky welfare rights organizations here issued invitations to prominent figures to sit on a special hearing panel to be convened in Frankfort, June 20, it was announced here this week by the Better Welfare Committee.

Invitations to participate on the panel, which will take testimony concerning the cost of living of welfare recipients, have been sent to prominent Kentuckians. They include Rep. Carl D. Perkins, chairman of the Committee on Education and Labor; Senator Marlow Cook, member of the Senate Selective Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs; Federal Judge Bert T. Combs; Lt. Governor Wendell Ford and Barry Bingham, Jr., associate publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Prominent figures in welfare rights and the problems of the poor have also been invited. They include George Wiley, of the National Welfare Rights Organization; Dr. Ralph Abernathy, executive director of SCLC; Philip Young, chairman of the board of the Council of the Southern Mountains; James Farmer, Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm, and former HEW head Wilbur Cohen.

Forty representatives from welfare groups in Floyd, Pike, Boone, Campbell, Kenton and Fayette counties requested public hearings from Governor Louie Nunn, May 28. Nunn refused such hearings, they said.

FLOYD GROUP ASKS FUNDS

Martin Stream Work Appropriation Urged At Capital Hearing

Floyd county officials and citizens appeared in Washington Tuesday before the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors seeking reinstatement of a $300,000 appropriation for the beginning of work next fiscal year on the Martin flood control project.

The new budget omitted funds for the Martin work which has been long-pending. Congressman Carl D. Perkins arranged Tuesday's committee hearing at which County Judge Henry Stumbo, County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill, Burl Spurlock, Prestonsburg banker, and the Rev. Lorie Vanucci, Martin merchant, testified.

The Beaver Creek stream widening and clearing work is planned to extend from Martin down-stream a distance of more than four miles. Its cost is estimated in excess of $3,000,000.

Others from this county who attended the hearing were Mayor E. P. Grigsby, R. R. Allen, Lawrence Keathley, Johnny Hall, Adrian Rector and Ronald Reynolds, all of Martin.

Stephens Contest Filed, Wednesday

No Foul Play Seen In Fatal Shooting Of East Point Man

State Police Detective B. J. Music said late Tuesday that an investigation of the fatal shooting at East Point Tuesday morning of Clarence Auxier, 30, failed to show any indication of foul play. Mr. Auxier was found by his wife, Dora May Blair Auxier, at 5:30 a.m. Johnson Coroner James Preston said he had been shot in the forehead with a .38-calibre pistol bullet. (See Story No. 6, Page 7)

But AFL Affiliate Says Tiff Still On; Injunction in Effect

Work on the bridge across the Big Sandy at Lancer continues, but members of the AFL affiliate which has been seeking to establish jurisdiction there over District 50, UMWA, said in a prepared statement this week that "the so-called tiff . . . will continue until someone produces a legal contract for construction of the bridge."

The statement added: "We feel that the alleged contract under which the Edwards & Webb Construction Company is presently operating is an illegal union contract."

Edgille Hutchinson, Pikeville, District 50 representative, said, "The contract is as legal as a contract can be. We have to live up to it as the company."

The AFL group said they had asked the company to take half its men from each union but that District 50 would not agree.

A temporary injunction against William D. Church, representative of the AFL affiliate, and certain other persons, was issued by the court. (See Story No. 7, Page 7)

DeRossett Nomination Questioned

Contestant Alleges Machines "Rigged;" Asks 'No Election'

A slush fund of "at least $50,000," rigging of voting machines and the bribing of 1,000 or more voters was alleged by Henry Stephens Wednesday afternoon in a suit filed against his victorious Democratic opponent for the office of circuit court clerk, the incumbent, Frank DeRossett.

The contest action was the only suit of its kind filed at 4 p.m. when the circuit clerk's office closed for the day. Rumors of others were heard during the day as the Wednesday midnight deadline for filing approached.

Judge Stephens' suit alleged that the voting machines were rigged before they were sent to the precincts to show the actual number of votes received by contestee, contestant and Ernest Johnson, third man in the race for the office, and that at least 2,000 votes cast for Stephens were not recorded on the machines. Other allegations in the contest action:

1. Seals of some machines were broken and were never resealed. 2. In at least 20 precincts election officers did not take the oath required by law, and many persons were permitted to stand within less than 50 feet of the voting place.

Contestant said he did not violate the Corrupt Practices Act. He asked that "no election" be declared in the circuit clerk's race and that all voting machines, election paraphernalia and comparative signature books be impounded and safely kept, pending a hearing of the case.

The official vote as certified in the circuit clerk's race gave DeRossett 7,187 votes, Stephens 2,139 and Johnson 566.

No Dearth of Teachers Seen with Pupils Fewer; 2 Major Changes Made

Floyd county has no dearth of teachers, the Board of Education found when it employed teachers Saturday for the school term which will begin Monday, Aug. 18.

The dwindling enrollment and the adequate supply of teachers caused Supt. Charles Clark in his recommendation of teachers for employment to say:

"Due to continued loss of children, teachers are employed with the explicit understanding that they are being hired subject to enrollment being sufficient to warrant their use. The Superintendent and/or the Board of Education reserve the right to transfer any and all personnel employed herein from one position to another as seems necessary for the proper operation of the school system."

Only two major changes in teaching personnel resulted from Saturday's hiring. Woodrow Allen, for 10 years principal of Prestonsburg high school, was named to fill the vacancy in the office staff caused by the death of Boone Hall, and David Hensley, assistant principal at the school here, was employed as principal. Gene Davis was named assistant principal. The other change was in the naming of James V. Bolen, former principal here and at Wayland high school, to the post of principal of the Harold elementary school. Mr. Bolen had been on leave of absence for a year.

mission that the school at Eastern would not constitute a water contamination threat to the town of Martin.

But, said Supt. Clark, the decisions were delayed beyond the 45-day period, at the end of which bidders on the bond issue to finance the school construction could no longer be held to terms of their bid. Meanwhile, cost of materials have risen till new contractors' bids will be required.

"The delay has cost taxpayers at least $400,000," Clark said. "But this is not going to stop us. Even if we lose the $200,000 in Title I funds, as soon as our bonding potential reaches the required point we are going to build — same plans, same location, same schools consolidated."

The superintendent said every effort is being made to save the $200,000 in Title I funds which had been earmarked for the new school but he admitted he has little hope of succeeding. Sale of bonds, advertising for new construction bids and awarding of a new contract would have to be made by July 1 to save the situation, and that is regarded as an impossibility.

The additional $200,000 loss seen in addition to the Title I funds was broken down by Clark into $100,000 in higher interest in a new bond sale and $100,000 increased construction cost.

When the bids on the bonds were accepted last February, the interest rate was 5.48%. Since that time other school systems have advertised bond issues without a bidder. One bond firm has said, according to Clark, that it is no longer interested in bidding on bonds for the Floyd school.

Adding to the financial woes faced by the board was the 8 1/2% prime interest rate fixed Monday by New York banks. Kentucky law does not permit the sale of bonds at a rate of interest higher than 6%, and the new prime interest rate, as Clark stated last February by the Floyd fiscal court, acting in the capacity of holding for the board of education. The suit of Martin residents was filed immediately thereafter, and Judge Stephenson handed down his decision in favor of the board on April 1. The appeal followed.

Still undecided by Judge Stephenson is the status of the Martin school, but its continued operation was not regarded as affecting the new school work.

AMBULANCE SERVICE—ANYTIME, ANYWHERE

Betsy Miller couldn't care less that our product can't be stored.

"So what," she asked flatly when we said we can't box, bottle, pack or stack our electric service. It made little difference to her how we keep generators spinning with enough "reserve" to deliver power instantly on demand.

BUT SHE WAS IMPRESSED when we pointed out that although electricity can't be stored, we have enough on call every second for whatever her needs. And she was frankly intrigued with the idea that electricity (traveling at 186,000 miles per second) is the only product called for, produced, delivered and used all at the same instant. "I never thought of it that way," she said.

Like Betsy Miller, you probably never thought of it that way, either. But why should you? It's our business to keep dependable power at your fingertips. If we're doing a good job, you never have to give us a second thought.

Nothing you can buy gives you more value per dollar than your electric service.

ANOTHER DOG TALE

The old dog limped all the way to the office today. Now, if he would only stop trying to dog my every step. The old boy is slowing down appreciably, from day to day, and it isn't pleasant to see. Appetite's good but he's inclined to become slightly bilious. If he were only as strong as his bark . . . Just now I've found a piece from an old "Tracks," the C. & O. magazine which fits in with my esteem for dogs, particularly my own. It tells of the fellow who wanted to take a Florida vacation, had hotel reservations and everything lined up, but didn't know what to do about the dog. So he wrote the hotel manager and asked if dogs were allowed. This was the reply he received:

"I've been in this business for 30 yrs. Never have I called on police to eject a disorderly dog. Never has a dog set fire to a bed with a cigarette. I have never found a hotel towel or blanket in a dog's suitcase. Nor whiskey ring on his dresser. Sure, the dog is welcome!"

"P. S. If the dog will vouch for you, come along, too."

Nature Trails By RUFUS M. REED

The old settlers, who generally had plenty of hogs to slaughter for their own meat and lard, saved the bladders of the hogs and dried them for use as seed containers. Usually the bladders were filled with seed beans and hung up in the shed or smoke-house to keep through the winter. I used to get one of the dried bladders down and shake it, just to hear the beans rattle.

Many small trees and plants also produce bladders to hold the seeds. One of the most beautiful of the small trees common to our region is the Bladdernut Tree. While this little tree is not abundant in any region, and is often overlooked by persons passing through the woods, it is often found growing along moist streams of open woods, where the soil is rich and damp. The Bladdernut Tree is attractive when seen with its bladders swaying on the branches. The bladders are large, three-sided papery capsules, which contain four or five shiny brown seeds; in the fall, the dry bladders make a rattling sound when the wind blows.

The Bladdernut Tree makes a fine ornament. It has green striped bark and blooms in mid-April. The blooms are like small, greenish-white bells hanging in clusters on the branches. The blooms produce many capsules, which may be seen hanging on the tree in May, giving it an artistic decorative aspect. The leaves are compound and consist of three leaflets which are ovate and about three inches long. The leaflets have fine teeth around the margin and resemble the leaves of the Sarsvis Tree.

This small tree has been assigned to its own family, THE BLADDERNUT FAMILY, and is the only member. Botanists have named it, STAPHYLEA TRIFOLIA, from its three leaflets and its pretty, little blooms which hang from the branches like a bunch of grapes.

Mr. Chapman and I have a small grove of bladdernut trees growing on a steep hillside near a seepy cliff, where the soil is always moist and fertile. These little trees are now covered with their dainty, greenish bladders, which will turn brown by fall, and the seeds will rattle in them when the fall winds blow.

Among the plants that bear bladders for their seeds are the ground cherries, which botanists call PHYSALIS, meaning bladder. Each bladder of the ground cherry contains one large berry which turns yellow when ripe and is sweet and of very fine flavor. When I was a boy I often found the ripe ground cherries growing in the cornfield in September and I did enjoy eating them, as they had a tang that is different from most wild fruits. The ground cherries bloom in July and have a pretty yellow bloom shaped like a bell. The center is dark brown or purple. We have four or five species of the ground cherry in our region, and all of them produce edible berries. These plants grow in cultivated fields, or along roadsides and brooks in open woods. All of these, except one, the smooth ground cherry have a dense cover of hairs on the stems.

The ground cherries are members of the famous Nightshade

Family, which contains some of our finest edible fruits, as well as the most poisonous ones. The tomato, a member of this family, was once called the "love apple," but ancients were afraid to eat it because of the bad reputation of the nightshades. The tomato still grows in the wild state and produces marble-size fruits which are of fine flavor and make good eating.

The potato is also a member of the Nightshade family, as well as tobacco, which also grows in the wild state and is poisonous. The Black Nightshade is the most deadly of the poisonous nightshades; its bloom is similar to that of the Irish potato.

In gathering the ground cherries to eat in late summer, one should use great care not to confuse it with the Apple of Peru, which is deadly poisonous and is also in the same family as the ground cherries. The Apple of Peru bears blue flowers which are shaped like those of morning glories; it produces large, papery bladders, each of which contain a large "apple," or berry. This apple was once used for fly poison. The plant originally came from Peru, and is not abundant in the Tri-State region.

The leaves of the ground cherry are large and coarsely toothed. Their blooms are always light yellow with a dark center, while the blooms of the poisonous Apple of Peru are light blue.

DEPARTMENT OF PARKS
Total expenditures for the Kentucky Department of Parks for 1967-68 were $9,407,142, an increase of $1,235,663.15 per cent over the previous year.

JUDGE CONLEY SAYS THANKS

I want to express to you, the voters of Floyd County, my thanks for your approval of the way in which the office of Circuit Judge has been conducted during the past six years.

I pledge to you, the citizens of Floyd County, that I will continue to do everything in my power to make you the kind of Circuit Judge that you will be proud of. I shall continue in the future, as I have in the past, to render decisions as I see the law, regardless of politics.

Kentucky Leading In Mental Health For Rural People

Frankfort — Residents of Kentucky's rural counties have greater access to community mental health centers than rural residents of any other state, says the National Institute of Mental Health, the federal agency that helps fund Kentucky's 17 operating centers.

Figures compiled by NIMH show Kentucky leading the nation with 88 per cent of rural counties having mental health services available. North Dakota, with 63 per cent, and Vermont, with 44 per cent, rank next in the nation.

Three additional centers, covering 13 more rural Kentucky counties, are scheduled to open July 1 with headquarters at Maysville, Corbin and Harlan.

Kentucky community mental health-mental retardation centers are operated by non-profit volunteer boards and receive technical and financial assistance from the State Department of Mental Health as well as NIMH and the communities involved.

The centers offer inpatient, outpatient, partial hospitalization, 24-hour emergency and consultation and education services. Caseload of Kentucky centers is now about 12,000, the Department of Mental Health says, and is increasing more than 1,000 patients a month.

L. P. N. MEETING

The Licensed Practical Nurses of Dist. 9, Unit 1 will hold their monthly meeting Wednesday, June 18, at the Jet Diner, south of Allen. The new state caps will be on display. This will be the last meeting until the election of delegates in September.

AREA HOSPITAL LEADERS PLAN STROKE PROGRAM

Plans for the development of a comprehensive community stroke program by the Kentucky-West Virginia area were discussed last week in Washington, D. C., by a local planning team in an effort ultimately to reduce the prevalence and incidence of the disease, the third leading cause of death.

The three-day meeting, a pilot workshop sponsored by the Heart Disease and Stroke Control Program, a division of the Health Services and Mental Health Administration's Regional Medical Programs Service, was designed to enable teams representing essential agencies from selected communities to plan, implement, and evaluate comprehensive stroke programs to meet local stroke problems utilizing full potential of existing community resources. The disease, although it takes its greatest toll among the aged, still ranks fifth as a cause of death in the productive years between 45-65.

Among those attending from the Kentucky-West Virginia area were Edward V. Collins, administrator, McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, McDowell; Chalmer H. Frazier, administrator, Prestonsburg General Hospital, Prestonsburg.

SALISBURY THANKS FRIENDS AND RELATIVES, STATES FACTS OF PRESENT, PAST ELECTIONS

Friends, we lost, we almost won. Now let's be good losers. I congratulate Mr. Edward Caudill in his victory. And I might add, To the victor, as always, goes the spoils.

Now, some past, present and future history on our and other elections. This message was written by me, without help or influence by any one. You will find many mistakes without doubt. But there will be no mistakes in the truth or facts of this message.

Politics date back before Christ's time. I think the Roman's tactics and ours are about the same. We politicians, I am sure, will agree. Politics is far more treacherous and dangerous and deceiving than could ever be imagined by any one who has never been a candidate. Even now, as in other games and sports, as we always do, we see too late where our mistakes were made. My mistake was like the great Roman soldier and politician, Julius Caesar. Among other things, he was a political genius, and he made the same mistakes that I and my friends made — we trusted false friends.

To you who voted for me and helped fight my fight, I thank you more than any words known by man could ever describe. Elections have caused more hard feelings, more trouble, even killing, than anything else on earth. Even in our past, wars were fought. Men died. Hearts were broken. Brothers were against brother, father against son.

Some of those who helped me and some who fought and betrayed me were of many races and creeds and color. To those of you who helped me I thank you again, again and again. To those who fought me honorably I hold no malice or hard feelings whatsoever. In our last paper, The Floyd County Times, Harold Stumbo's message of thanks was one that should go into every child's book from the first grade to the highest degree of college. In the paper dated June 5, 1969 Harold quoted the Scripture and I certainly wish that everyone could and would go by it. Elections, like wars, leave scars upon many hearts. An enemy or stranger can't hurt you. Only a person who is very near to you, a person whom you trust and admire and call your friend can always hurt you most.

My opponents, I respect and admire you. We are and always will be friends, I hope. To say I hold no malice toward the ones who pretended to be my friends and betrayed me would be a lie. Only one of you I may forgive. For I feel that you had to do what you did. However, the reason I do not know. Was it the old military rule, to sacrifice a few to save many? You voted the drunks, the sellers, the ones who didn't understand the operation of the machine, and some who couldn't read or write.

Were you forced to vote for my opponent? to get that Republican judge in the election house to go along for the rest of the ticket that your other friends were on? Did you think that I could win without that precinct? Or were you told by a closer friend to deliver the fatal blow?

All these questions will always be in my mind. I have eaten and drunk with you, in your home. You seemed so fond of me and told others that we were great friends. This is why I wonder. If you were told to destroy me, then I have already guessed the cause.

By a man who once worked for the county I was asked this question, although he was very bitter toward one of my opponents: "If you are elected will you let a certain doctor tell you what to do?"

I told him, No man can tell me what or how to do anything. I'll do what's right. I won't be a yes-man to anyone or any thing.

On the morning of the election, a few hours before the cock crew thrice, some men came to me and said, "H, we have talked to one of your most trusted friends. We need him, and he won't accept our money. You can get him to do it. You can be elected." And they hinted to me there was $1,000 in it for me. "We are weak in Dist. No. 3." They pleaded for me to help set it up. I told them in a gentleman-like manner I was not for hire or sale. Their price went to $5,000. I told them there wasn't enough money in all the banks in Floyd county to buy me or get me to ask one of my friends to do the things they wanted me to do, to betray their friends. The men left, seemed puzzled and a little angry. One kept saying, "H, this would elect you. It would be a lock for you."

After returning to some of my friends, they tried the old trick — threat and fear. We wanted to stay out of this magistrate's race — help us, or we will destroy your man, they said. Some probably weakened. I hope not. For it's better to lose honorably than win an election and lose your self-respect.

To those of you who stood beside me and helped fight my fight I will always be grateful, and I say again, let's be good losers. The office of magistrate is a great thing. I lost only by a few votes — I think it was by 42 votes. But I have wanted to win things before that really meant more, and I have come so close to winning things that I wanted much more at the time. We lost the election, but we haven't lost the most important thing on this earth — our honor and self-respect.

Anyway, there will be other elections. We have a school board race coming up pretty soon. NOW DON'T WE?

Thanks again.

Charlotte Wells hasn't done this for years

Mrs. Ray Wells of Greenup, Ky. is a "bug" on having a clean range. "With the old ones it seems like all you get done is cleaning burners . . . and after every meal, clean the bottoms of pots and pans. That's why I've got electric. It cooks so much cleaner, better and faster." These are the major reasons 2 out of every 3 women in this area cook electrically. Isn't it time you moved UP to cleaner, better, faster cooking? Rigging Voting Machines

The May Primary, 1969 could have been a case of rigging voting machines. Few, if any, election officers were duly sworn before entering upon their duties as such, which the law requires.

I have before me a book published by W. H. "Joe" Cooper, showing just how voting machines, such as the Shoup machines now used in this county, can be rigged. From the reading of this book there are many ways in which many changes can be made. It also shows the diagram pointing out where such changes can be made. This book published in 1962 and copyrighted in 1962 and is now supposed to be in the Congressional library. It took about two days to get this copy, which was flown to Huntington, W. Va. and picked up there by someone of the interested parties in the May Primary.

This book contains many comments of leading newspapers of the United States, pointing out the above facts. From the reading of this book, it seems that the rigging took place where the machines had been stored and after the names of the various candidates names were placed in the machine.

In the future, I would advise any candidate for office to guard the building where these machines are kept and then follow to the places delivered for voting. I know of no case where a candidate for an inferior office to that of Circuit Judge could receive more votes than such judge. I can secure affidavits of more people in various precincts than the votes shown on the machines gave me. If this kind of election is kept up, it may result in the case of the relief orders about 1935 which resulted in the conviction of 17 to 20 people who served time in federal prison.

If people could only read this book I have mentioned, they would be fully convinced that such changes as rigging can be made.
