

Five Miles of US 23 Cost, $9,812,754.63

South Floyd Highway Bids Opened Friday

Three sectors of the new four-lane US 23 covering a distance of slightly less than five miles in the southern end of this county will apparently cost a total of $9,812,754.63.

This was the aggregate bid of the J. D. Barter Construction Co., Harrisburg, Ill., on the three Appalachian road aid projects, and the Barter bid was low on each project.

The separate bids were:
From a point below and near Stanville to Tram, a distance of 1.287 miles, $2,277,490.44.

From Tram to Coldwater Branch, a distance of 2.206 miles, $4,366,768.92.

From Coldwater Branch to the Floyd-Pike line, 1.36 miles, $3,168,495.27.

Low bid on surfacing KY 194, the Emma-Endicott-Thomas road, from US 23 at Emma to the German bridge on Dewey Lake, a distance of 4.8 miles, was $50,439.60, submitted by the Adams Construction Co., Pikeville.

KY 194 is to be improved from German to the Floyd-Pike line on Johns Creek to serve as an alternate detour between Pikeville and Prestonsburg while US 23 construction is under way between Allen and Pikeville. Also to be improved as a detour is KY 80 from Allen to Martin and KY 122 from Martin to the present US 23 in Pike county.

Betsy Layne Girl Is River Victim

Thirteen-year-old Joetta Howell, of Betsy Layne, was reported drowned in the Big Sandy River at Betsy Layne, shortly after 1 p.m. Tuesday. Her body was recovered about 30 minutes later.

The girl was wading in the river with others when she apparently stepped into water beyond her depth. The drowning occurred about 150 feet downstream from the railroad bridge spanning the river there.

Both the Floyd and Pike County Rescue Squads were called to the scene. The victim's body was recovered by John H. Scaif in the area of the river where she disappeared.

Artificial respiration administered by employees of the Kentucky Power Company were unavailing. The victim was a daughter of Mrs. Helen Howell, of Betsy Layne.

Who's Striking?—Vacation Begins

The annual miners' vacation which began with last Friday interrupted a strike which had 10 days earlier idled the workings of the Island Creek Coal Company at Wheelwright, Price and Printer.

The work-stoppage at the mines began June 16, and 300 or more workers were off their jobs when vacation time arrived.

Asked about news of the strike, one Left Beaver Creek man asked, "Can they be on strike when they're on vacation?"

Another question remains: Will the strike be over when vacation ends, or will the situation return to what it was when vacation began?

School Board Hears Protests to Change

A special meeting called by the Floyd County Board of Education last Saturday to wind up business for the fiscal year was marked by the appearance of a delegation from Martin to protest the transfer of two teachers to another school and the proposed high school construction at Eastern.

The delegation contended for a new high school and gymnasium at Martin, and pointed out that in an appearance before the State Board of Education Martin representatives had convinced the board it would be a mistake to build at Eastern. Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark this week disputed that claim, pointing out that the State Board has set August 5 as the date for the Floyd board to present its side of the case.

Clark pointed out that the transfer of the two teachers was made necessary because of the loss of classroom space at Martin. He said the board has been "invited" to vacate the two classrooms used last year in the Mormon Church and that classroom space must be found elsewhere.

"We have no alternative," he said. So, he said, two rooms at the Drift elementary school were reactivated and renovated, and the two teachers were transferred there.

He added that the board also has been notified that use of the Methodist Church at Martin for classroom space is no longer

Gayheart Sought Following Break From Jail Here

County and state officers were searching Tuesday afternoon for Ronald Gayheart, 20, of Frasures Creek, who fled the Floyd county jail around 2 p.m.

Gayheart, who was facing a possible federal charge of transporting an auto across state lines, and state counts of breaking and entering and grand larceny, made his escape after he had been permitted to confer with an attorney outside the jail quarters. As he was being returned to the jail he suddenly whirled, raced down the stairway and fled the courthouse via the rear door.

Gayheart and three others were arrested at Cliff, near here, recently in an auto which allegedly had been stolen in Indiana. Some loot from the home of the late Mrs. Emma Martin, of Drift, which had been broken into, was recovered by the officers. Jailed with him were Henry Miles Poston, Randall Owens and a juvenile.

Floyd County's '70 Assessment Wins Approval

Floyd county's equalized assessment on property has been accepted for 1970 by the Kentucky Department of Revenue, and the county escapes the threat of the "blanket raise" which is posed for other counties of the state which have failed to come up with what the department considers a satisfactory assessment total.

The total assessment for the county, as certified, is $111,253,721. This includes real estate ($73,610,431), tangible personal property ($27,785,431), intangible personal property (subject to 25 cents state rate only, $7,143,794; subject to 5 cents state tax rate only, $143,585; subject to 1.5 cents state tax rate only, $57,250; bank shares, subject to 47.5 cents state tax and limited local rates, $2,512,730).

The state taxes due under this assessment totals $82,595.80—$11,041.56 from real estate, $41,678.90 from tangible property, and $29,875.34 from intangibles.

Court Denies Miner's Claim

The Kentucky Court of Appeals last Friday upheld the denial of workmen's compensation to the widow of a Floyd county miner who had black lung disease but who, it was contended, died of heart disease.

One physician testified that damage to the lungs of the miner, Charles Henry Hunter, of Martin, contributed significantly to his death. Another doctor, however, claimed the lung ailment did not make Hunter's heart condition worse. Others expressed opinions that conflicted in varying degrees.

Defendants in the action were the Turner-Elkhorn Coal Co. and the Left Beaver Coal Co., both of Drift. The appeal was from a ruling made last June by the Kentucky Workmen's Compensation Board.

desired. If these rooms are lost, he said, teaching space must be found at Allen, Drift or Maytown, and two more teachers will of necessity be transferred.

The pupils to go to Drift are on Spurlock Fork of Left Beaver Creek and in the Drift area.

The superintendent said two more relocatable units will be installed at Martin to accommodate Title I remedial reading work. This will give the school three remedial reading units for the elementary school and one for the high school. Four relocatable units already on the campus will be shifted as to location to permit construction of a seven-room addition to the high school structure.

Preliminary plans for the addition were accepted at Saturday's meeting, and George Lee Shannon, architect, was authorized to advertise for bids. Estimated cost of the work is more than $100,000. Construction costs will be paid out of fire insurance money collected after two buildings on the campus burned.

Other items of the special meeting agenda:

Authorized the superintendent to advertise for bids on vehicle insurance, on contract runs for pupil transportation and for installation of conduits for educational TV, scheduled for all consolidated schools next school year.

"Wildcat" Artist To Speak Here

Gene Gray, one of Kentucky's foremost wildlife artists, will be at Jenny Wiley State Park, Saturday, July 4, at 7:30 p.m. to give a color slide and lecture on "The American Bald Eagle", a forthcoming picture scheduled for release in early September, for which Gray was commissioned by Morehead State University. Gray is well-known for his UK "Wildcat." The lecture is free and open to the public.

Ratliff's Bond $5,000 In Slaying of Foley

A single blast from a .16-gauge shotgun loaded with buckshot claimed the life of Lemuel Oliver (Sammy) Foley, Jr., 31, on Corn Fork of Brandy Keg, near Lancer, Friday evening, and his father-in-law, Tom Ratliff, age about 60, was jailed here shortly afterward for the slaying.

Ratliff, who fired the shot from the porch of his home and, it was claimed, in self-defense, was released Monday under $5,000 bond after waiving examining trial.

Sheriff Frank Leslie, who, with Deputy Sheriff Virgil Conn and State Police Sgt. Flora, arrived at the scene shortly after the shooting, said Mrs. Christine Foley, widow of the slain man and daughter of Ratliff, said her husband approached her father's home, firing a revolver and threatening Ratliff. Foley's .38-caliber revolver was picked up from between his legs where he fell, approximately 60 feet from the Ratliff home. There was evidence, officers said, that the victim had been drinking.

The main charge struck Foley in his right chest.

The victim, a son of Lemuel Foley, of West Prestonsburg, and the late Cora Music Foley, was born at German Sept. 2, 1938. Besides his father and step-mother, Mrs. Ocie Shepherd Foley, he leaves his widow, Mrs. Christine Ratliff Foley, two sons, Charles Edward and Robert, and one daughter, Peggy Sue, all of Lancer; a brother, Woodrow Foley, Warsaw, Ind.; six sisters, Mrs. Ellen Crum, Warsaw, Ind.,

Advice for the Fourth week-end:
Don't hit the fifth on the Fourth so you'll be able to come forth on the 5th.

FISHING REPORT

If anybody wonders why the weather took a cool turn, with the wind whooping it up, over the week-end, you may understand when I confess that I took off on a fishing safari to Tennessee. I do not care to discuss the matter of fish caught.

I might add that when Chester Potter told me of a fisherman encountering a bear that had straggled across the border from Virginia to the Elkhorn City area, and explained to me that it was only the fellow's fish the animal was after, I remarked, "This is one fisherman who has no fear whatsoever of any old bear."

A SLIGHT MISUNDERSTANDING

Speaking of bears, there was this radio report last week-end saying that a bear wearing a halter had showed up at a house on Abbott Creek, and would the owner please come and claim same. In my absence, my son and daughter loaded up with camera and set off, gung-ho, after the bear. They negotiated the wrong branch a couple of times and finally wound up on Short Branch.

A girl came to the door, and they sang out, "Is this where the bear is?"

The girl threw her hands to her face in dismay and cried, "Oh, no!—there's been a mistake. It's not a bear—it's a mare!" (See Story No. 1, Page 15)

One Span Opens At Harold, Old Bridge Blasted

The new half-million-dollar highway bridge spanning the Big Sandy at Harold was opened to traffic last Wednesday, and next day a demolition crew blasted its 39-year-old predecessor into shattered concrete and twisted steel.

The new bridge had been under construction since 1967 by the R. R. Dawson Bridge Company. Its construction was authorized after a portion of the old bridge collapsed in August of that year.

Demolition of the old span caused a limited water shortage in the area when a 60-foot-long pier fell onto a main.

The bridge spanning the river at Lancer, let to contract at the same time the Harold contract was awarded, is nearing completion and is expected to be opened to traffic as soon as approaches are completed.

Japanese Beetles Hit Allen, Report

Property-owners at Allen reported this week heavy damage to trees and shrubs with the appearance there of Japanese beetles.

Hordes of beetles have defoliated peach trees, flowering crabapples and apple trees. Roses have also been badly damaged.

Householders say spraying has not been effective. One day's kill is succeeded by a new onslaught by more beetles than before, this report says.

The Japanese beetle in appearance is a miniature of the familiar June bug.

New Appeals Attack Right-of-Way Prices

Appeals filed last week by the Kentucky Department of Highways seek to upset right-of-way evaluations set by county appraisers on 12 separate tracts of land at $507,796.

These and 33 appeals previously filed in circuit court here attack county appraisals amounting to more than $1 million on lands between Harold and Allen.

The appeals filed last week and the value set by county appraisers follow:

A. D. Martin, $12,000; Ernest Boyd, $16,000; Willie Kidd, $30,000; Ollie Caldwell, $4,200; John M. Stumbo, Jr., $9,500;

Chester Layne, $82,000; Cecil Hall, $139,396; Joe Clark, $18,000; G. H. Blackburn, $36,000; Marshall Davidson, $60,500; Chester Layne, $24,600; T. J. Hall, $75,000.

Amounts allowed by county appraisers have been deposited by the Department of Highways to the credit of the individual landowners in order to gain egress onto the properties in question while litigation is pending. Owners of the property may use amounts deposited to their credit, but will be required to refund to the state any difference there may be between the amounts of the appraisals and the amounts finally decided by the courts.

Line To Enter Auto Franchise Of Auxier Firm

The Prestonsburg Municipal Water Commission is preparing to move onto the franchise of another water company in order to prevent a slowdown or complete halt of construction of the new Highlands Hospital on US 23, between Prestonsburg and Auxier.

The action is being taken reluctantly and with the knowledge that it may result in litigation, it was said, but the water supply necessary for work on the hospital basement and plumbing installations is not at hand, or promised, and it was held that action must be taken now.

The hospital is within the franchise territory of the Auxier Water Company, owned by Forrest Music. It was explained that hospital officials met with Music and the Prestonsburg Water Commission, about two months ago, and asked the two to arrange for a water supply. Dr. George P. Archer said something definite was "supposed" to be known within a week. No word has been received from Music, he said.

"We don't care who furnishes us water, but we must have it and in large and dependable volume," he said.

A 10-inch main is required for the hospital. Mr. Music would be required, if he serves the facility, to lay this main from his Auxier plant to the site and also to install hydrants.

The Prestonsburg commission contacted Bell Engineers, Lexington, asking the firm to determine the price it could sell water to Music, wholesale. The price was set at 50 cents per thousand gallons. Members of the commission said the Auxier man rejected this rate as too high.

State Officers Lead Rum Raids

Three liquor raids by state officers and two by a Floyd deputy sheriff netted five prisoners and a total of 67 half-pints of whiskey and 625 cans of beer over the week-end.

Biggest haul of intoxicants was made by State Trooper Don Thornsberry and two ABC agents who arrested Paul Tackett, of Tram, on a possession charge and confiscated 65 half-pints of whiskey and 463 cans of beer.

State police said they failed to find intoxicants in a raid on Clarence Martin and Festa Salisbury on Stumbo Hollow, Drift, but arrested them on a warrant alleging illegal possession.

State Trooper Rose confiscated 129 cans of beer and two pints of whiskey in a raid on Walker Newsome, of Price.

Deputy Sheriff Dester Hamilton reported the arrest of Dan Newsome, of Mud Creek, Friday night and the confiscation of 23 cans of beer, and the arrest the following night of Ray Hill, of Jack's Creek, from whom 10 cans of beer were taken.

Others booked at the county jail within the week:

Christopher Mitchell, drunk driving, by State Trooper Rose; Charles Vanderpool, possession of beer and improper license, by Deputy Sheriffs Albert Salyers and Holbrook; James Douglas Stone, driving while intoxicated, by Troopers Thornsberry and Brenner; Ernel Isaac, no operator's license, by Deputy Sheriffs Virgil Conn and Grady Skeans; Elmer Hall, drunk driving, by State Trooper Ross; Ralph Ludwig Allyn, drunk driving, by State Trooper Bevins; Alfred Aaron Fields, drunk driving, by State Police Sgt. Flora.

Conley Orders Club at Lancer Closed 6 Months

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley last Friday ordered that VFW Club at Lancer remain closed for a period of six months but at the same time held that the Eagles Club here may be reopened.

He pointed out that the Eagles Club already has been closed since last November and that he has no power to close a club for a period of more than six months.

The order setting the six-month closing period of the VFW Club was entered after a hearing at which the club's guilty plea to a whiskey law violation charge was cited. Police Judge Earl Blackburn and Chief of Police Bill Potter also testified for the Commonwealth as to the reputation of the club.

The Eagles Club was closed, shortly after George Shepherd was found, fatally beaten, near its door, and the VFW Club after a liquor raid uncovered intoxicants. The closings were temporarily effected through complaints lodged against the Eagles by Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo and City Attorney Albert A. Burchett, and against the VFW by Stumbo and County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill.

President of KFWC
Installs Officers

Wayland, Ky.—New officers of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club had the distinction this year of being installed by the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs' president, Mrs. Oscar C. Sowards, at the club's annual installation breakfast held recently in the home of Mrs. Earl Castle, Estill.

"Mrs. Sowards spoke on the Federation's 'Diamond Jubilee' and outlined the organization's early beginnings. 'The Federation was formed', she said, 'to help other people in the state of Kentucky. A small group of women gathered at Ashland, the home of Henry Clay, for the first meeting. The gavel that was fashioned for this group at that time is still in use today and has traveled all over the world.'"

"The Kentucky Federation has been most active in establishing libraries in Kentucky. Eighty per cent of the libraries in Kentucky are there because of Kentucky club women," Mrs. Sowards pointed out. According to the speaker, Kentucky had the first traveling libraries. The Federation also helped to establish settlement schools, the first consolidated schools, and also worked in mental health and consumer education.

The Kentucky Federation president then installed the following officers: Mrs. Imalee Spillman, corresponding secretary; Mrs. LaFaye Hughes, recording secretary; Mrs. Loretta M. Martin, treasurer; Mrs. Emma Lou Martin, second vice-president; Mrs. Maxine Martin, first vice-president, and Mrs. Bill Castle, president.

Following the installation, Mrs. Mervil Dixon, out-going president, presented to Mrs. Sowards an engraved silver julep cup from the Wayland club. Mrs. Otto Martin presented to Mrs. Dixon a past-president pin.

At a business session following the installation $25 was voted toward awards for the "Consolidation" essay contest sponsored jointly by the Maytown Woman's Club and the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club for all high school students of Martin, Maytown, Garrett, and Wayland. Also, Mrs. Beatrice Collins spoke briefly concerning the school for retarded children at Martin and its needs, a subject to be considered by the club at a later meeting.

Those attending the breakfast were: Mrs. Oscar C. Sowards, Mrs. J. C. Faulkner, Status of Women chairman, K. F. W. C., Mrs. N. D. Howard, Mrs. Florence Pack, Mrs. Beckham Combs, and Mrs. Nancy Tackett, guests, and Mrs. Elizabeth Duff (a new member), Mrs. Maude Hatcher, Mrs. Amos Alexander (honorary member), Mrs. LaFaye Hughes, Mrs. Blanche Bamer, Mrs. Priscilla Prater, Mrs. Laeunice Dunfee, Mrs. Loretta M. Freeman-Mann

In a double-ring ceremony performed June 8, Miss Judy Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Freeman, was united in marriage to the Rev. Larry F. Mann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Mann, of Prestonsburg. The marriage was solemnized in the United Community Methodist Church, Prestonsburg, the Rev. Alton Brown, pastor of the Louisa Methodist Church, officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by a cousin, Print Ball. Miss Sarah Robinson was the bride's maid-of-honor and only attendant. Rev. Ronnie Ball, of Asbury College, served as best man. Ushers were Mr. John Hall and Mr. Virgil Hensley, of Louisa. The Organist was Miss Leah Burgess, and Mary Music sang "I Love You Truly" and the "Wedding Prayer."

Following the ceremony, a brief reception was held at the home of Mrs. Anna Gray. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Charles Rowe, Miss Florence Gray, Mrs. Print Ball, Miss Delores Collison and Mrs. Nancy Tackett.

A New Type of Pollution

Pollution takes on many forms, and they add to the sum total of human misery and distress, whether of the air, the water or the general environment.

Now comes another form, which is termed "visual pollution," and an example of this type is cited by the Kentucky Heritage Foundation and others as posing a threat at the state capital.

This visual pollution will exist, it is claimed, in the form of a high-rise office structure which the Investors Heritage Life Insurance Company proposes to build on Capitol Avenue, Frankfort. The visitor to Frankfort now cannot escape the impact of the broad vista that greets the eye as he enters upon the avenue, travelling toward the Capitol. If this twelve-story building is erected, it is pointed out, it will stick out like the proverbial sore thumb and mar the panoramic sweep of view to the imposing Capitol building, one of the nation's most striking.

There is nothing political about the opposition which has arisen against the plan of Harry Lee Waterfield, former lieutenant governor, or his progressive company to add a modern building to the Frankfort skyline. Opponents of the move are of all political persuasions. Some are personal friends of Mr. Waterfield.

But they are unwilling to sit idly by, as so many of us do when voices need to be lifted and action taken, and permit one building to upset a historic pattern and set a precedent for other buildings of like nature to rise along this approach to the Capitol and completely overshadow a historic showplace.

On Cooperation and Taxes

This week's report of findings made during the recent tour of this part of what is popularly known as Appalachia by members of the Appalachian Regional Commission was pleasing to The Times on two counts:

1. It spoke of the new spirit that pervades three county-seat towns — Prestonsburg, Paintsville and Pikeville — and the submergence of old jealousies in favor of a "growth" strategy by which all three mutually benefit as friendly neighbors and not as hated rivals.

2. One official of the Commission indicated that a federal severance tax on coal — and on other minerals — may provide the tax structure that the area needs, with the tax being distributed to the producing counties.

Item 1 here cited reminds us that there was a time when a favorite slogan in this valley was, "Big Sandy against the world!" but those who repeated it oftenest reduced it by their attitudes and actions to a sad parody: "Big Sandy against Big Sandy."

We have come a long way, and there are long miles yet to travel, but we happily are more willing to live and plan and work together than at any time in the long and often frustrating history of the valley. At last the truth that no community, as well as no man, is an island has seeped into the common consciousness.

Item 2 pleases us, because it echoes what this newspaper has been urging — a federal, not a state, severance tax; a tax not only on coal but on all minerals. We think these extractive industries can stand the tax; we are convinced the tax would do more for those counties that are forever deprived of their natural resources than any other and would leave to future generations more than worked-out mines and quarries and plugged gas and oil wells.

But, as the ARC officials point out, the tax should be federal, not state. It must apply wherever such products are extracted, thus placing every state on an equal footing as its minerals of whatever sort compete with the same produced by another state. A state tax enacted, say, by Kentucky on such resources while other states permit extraction of the same minerals, tax-free, would place Kentucky industry in a poor competitive position.

We add another product which, perhaps, should be included in the tax measure when, and if, it is introduced — timber. Trees are a resource which are not replaced in the span of a single lifetime, and Appalachia has suffered from the woodman's axe perhaps as badly as from the miner's shovel.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore:

"Standing with Reluctant Feet"

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.

Longfellow, in a brief poem called "Maidenhood," pictures the adolescent young woman, "Standing with reluctant feet, Where the brook and river meet, Womanhood and childhood fleet." That figure has often occurred to me as I have watched my generation and its successors standing, in a similar fashion, where new experiences are taking place, where old ideas are breaking up or becoming hazy.

Sociologists and historians have often written about the great thronging to the cities by people from the country, especially in the late decades of the nineteenth century. James Whitcomb Riley felt the emotional significance of the movement of many individuals and families from the farms to the villages and cities and literally cashed in on the emotions of the time. Many of that generation never actually got accustomed to city life; more than one family longed to get back to "Grigsby's Station, back where we used to be so happy and so pore." And a good many other writers dealt with characters that had grown up when farming represented the chief industry of America, when there was a great similarity between the farmer of Iowa, let us say, and of Mississippi. Humorists in stories, comedians on the stage, speakers in all sorts of places kidded themselves and the country people who had come to town. Many people of country origin tried to forget and make their acquaintances forget their origins; only an interest in remote ancestors had much opportunity then to receive any serious thought.

We are now in a period that has come as a natural consequence of the movement to the cities; city life has begun to pall on hosts of people, and there is decidedly a back-to-the-country movement, though it is not the kind that the scientists used to urge upon everybody but themselves. Fifty and more years ago there was often a real pleading by eminent scholars to return to the soil, not merely as a dwelling place, but as a means of making a living. In our part of the world that movement was largely talk, for the continuing trek to the industrial centers to the north cut heavily into the total population of many counties, especially those where raising tobacco had been the chief emphasis on the farms. Some of our westernmost counties have never regained the number of people they had prior to 1900.

To us who grew up on the farm and have remained very near to it for a long life, we are now in a period somewhat like the years at the turn of the century, when a new cultural pattern is developing. In addition to suburbia, per se, we have a new system of society that extends for miles beyond city limits. Most of the inhabitants are city or country people. The old type of rural life is practically dead; so is the old type of city life. The automobile, R. E. A., water corporations—these especially have created a new society, which is still too new to be distinctive. As of now it is largely a series of echoes of an older rural life and an older urban life. In some ways the new country home seems a sort of year-long vacation cottage, with its occupants actually in it only between working hours. Religious life, social life, education—these are likely to be in centers at some distance from the new country units. Undoubtedly a new sort of folk life will develop, blending older urban and rural ways and also introducing new ways that have grown up with modern conditions. Clinging to older ways may be picturesque, but it is rather obvious that this type of sentimentality will gradually change to some more common denominator of social custom. Parading rustic furniture, keeping alive ancient ways of home-making, reintroducing some folkways that are not native to the regions now using them—these seem to me passing fashions, not especially either good or bad, probably marks of adolescence in a sense, "Standing with reluctant feet, Where the brook and river meet." Some future folklorists may find in this new aspect of our lives a rich field for study, even richer and much more many-sided than the memorable institutions that we oldsters knew and loved.

Nature Trails

By Rufus M. Reed

Grand Canyon of Big Paint Creek

You do not have to go to the west to see the most rugged stretch of canyon grandeur, like they have in the Grand Canyon of Colorado. To see nature's grandeur in all its wild and rugged beauty, take a hike up Big Paint Creek; first go to Camp Feltner 4-H Club summer camp and start your hike. There at the lower end of the camp is where the canyon begins. The first section of it goes up the valley for more than 1,000 feet; there is then a break, then the canyon resumes not far above the county bridge at the Fishtrap churchhouse. It goes on and on up Big Paint Creek valley.

On either side there are sheer walls of sandstone more than 100 feet high. These walls are pitted and pockmarked with all sort of strange designs; there are holes in the sides of them, made by erosion through eons of time; there are caves and there are long, wavy water marks left there by the ocean when the canyon was being formed. There are plants growing on the sheer face of these canyon walls; there are eastern-hemlocks, birch, beech, sourwood and other trees that have somehow found lodging and enough nourishment to live and grow; there are plants like wild alumroot and wild columbines; and living in those walls, there are many forms of life—insect life, spiders, salamanders, mink, weasels, newts and many others. The newts are beautiful, orange colored salamanders with spots.

I have seen the Red River Gorge, but I can truly say that Paint Creek's grand canyon is superior in many ways. The reason I have observed these canyon walls so closely, I have taught Nature Study to the 4-H clubs at Camp Feltner for the past ten years. I have marked out trails along the foot of the sandstone walls and over these I have led the 4-H members on many hikes. The canyon walls always hold a sheer fascination for the young folks. They search them intently for the life that lives in and upon the walls; they find many kinds of lichens, mosses, red catchfly, columbine, grasses and many others. The children love these canyon walls; they are thrilled by the magnificent scenery; they learn more about geology by studying these walls than they ever can from textbooks; the walls speak to their imaginative hearts; they tell a vivid story of earth's formation and of her birth pangs when she was being formed and matter was being cooled; they see in these walls the signs of past earthquakes, when the walls trembled and great pieces of rock weighing tons broke loose and rolled down, to lie in the valley below. Here there are also signs of violent upheaval, as told by the rock strata, some of which go up at an angle of about 40 degrees.

The children often find the nests of birds in or on these canyon walls; the wrens, which were formerly cave-dwellers, build their nests in holes in the canyon walls; the phoebe birds plaster their nests on the underside of some of the roof rocks of the canyon.

Here at the lower end of this canyon, in the days when Franklin D. Roosevelt was President, plans were made to establish a summer camp for 4-H Club members. The site at the lower end of the canyon was selected, and J. M. Feltner, who was perhaps the most foreseeing and greatest county agricultural and 4-H leader of Kentucky, helped to make the plans and get the camp under way. The CCC boys came about 1933 and carved out stones to make an amphitheater where club members hold their meetings and listen to the speakers. The boys also built log cabins; they built steps leading up the hillside to the state highway. Those stone steps number about 100 and are still there in good condition.

All this beautiful scenery is destined to be flooded by the Paint Creek dam, which has had plans under way for some time. There where the 4-H camp is located the water will stand to a depth of 35 feet; it will destroy this camp to the dishonor of J. M. Feltner, who dedicated it for all time to the use and enjoyment of the boys and girls of Kentucky.

This scenic grandeur is rare; it should never be put under water. When it is flooded, where will the 4-H club members have their summer camp? There is no other place anywhere in Eastern Kentucky as suitable for a camp.

We have lost and are still losing too much of the natural scenic beauty of rural America; it is going fast and unless we put a stop to it, more and more of it will be wiped out. Why should this dam flood out the Grand Canyon of Big Paint Creek? It is said to be planned for flood control. I am not against flood control, but I am against destroying the finest piece of scenery in rural America.

The army engineers who plan such dams are called "the diligent destroyers." They care nothing for the natural, scenic beauty of our land; they want to build a great dam so they can rear back and say: "Look what a great dam we built."

Flood control on Big Paint Creek could be achieved at a fraction of the cost of the immense dam. A series of smaller dams could be built on all the main tributaries of Big Paint Creek, to check and hold back the waters. But, no, the engineers want to do big things in a big way. It is one of their favorite "pork barrel projects." They were going to dam up the Red River Gorge in Wolf county, but lovers of natural scenic beauty stepped in and raised a storm of protest; so they were forced to move the location of this dam so as not to destroy Red River Gorge.

The same thing should be done here at the site of the Fishtrap Dam. The engineers should be forced to move the site of the dam, or else build smaller dams above on the tributaries of Big Paint Creek.

Let's look at the future after this dam is built and the waters are caught up. It will cover thousands of acres of the finest farming lands in Eastern Kentucky. Just when we are having a population explosion, with 7,000,000 people predicted to be on the earth by the year 2,000, we are appalled at the loss of so much good farming lands. We are going to need every foot of farming land in the future. How can we afford to have, say, a thousand acres of good lands covered with water and thus forever lost to agriculture? I have looked at the farming lands along the valley of Paint Creek. There on the farm where the late Luther Lemaster lived is some of the most productive land in Johnson county and it will be a sad loss for this land to be inundated.

Then, again, suppose the G. and O. Railway should wish to build a branch railway up Big Paint Creek to the coal fields of the valley and on into Morgan county, to tap the rich coal fields there. The water of the dam will be from hill to hill, and there will be no way to build such a railroad unless it is built along the tops of the ridges!

I hope that we can get enough people lined up against the building of this dam at its present location. Why not write your Congressman, Carl Perkins, and our two state senators, urging them to change the location of this dam, or else build smaller dams on the tributaries of Big Paint Creek? We can and we must save this rugged canyon from being forever destroyed.

FRANKFORT, KY.—Some of the most exciting fishing of the year is in the offing. It is not practiced by too many fishermen, because it requires the utmost skill both as a fisherman and as a boater.

It's simply called "jump fishing" and when it's on, there's nothing else like it in the field of piscatorial pursuits from the standpoint of fast action and ample rewards.

This type fishing usually starts about mid-June, (it has already begun in some lakes), and continues right on up through the fall months and when the jumps are right, there is no other fishing that furnishes the thrills experienced by the fisherman.

It affects the white and black bass, separately or at the same time. That is, there may be occasions when only whites will be caught and there are times when only black bass will be taken, but most usually they will be found at the same jumps.

Jump fishing is created when the shad (the food fish) of the lakes reach the edible size of about two inches. That's when those little fellows assemble in great numbers and swim, in schools, all over the lake but most usually in areas where the water is not too deep.

Because they do offer such a great amount of food in one spot, the bass assemble in droves, right underneath the schools of shad, and pick off the laggards first, and then burst right up through the school of food fish, gulping them down all the while. In their exuberance, the bass flash completely out of the water on occasion, with a resultant great splash. This, then, is why it is called "jump fishing."

The fish literally jump out of the water as they feed on the shad and that's why the area in which they are feeding is easy to spot. Fishermen ready in their boats dart to where the action is with the first splash and cast a shad-like lure right into the very middle of the maelstrom.

Often as the lure is reeled back, a bass latches onto it and the fisherman boats him in a few seconds. Such fishing will continue as long as shad are near the surface. It may occur in the early morning or late afternoon (usually) but it can happen at mid-day. The fisherman must be alert.

Now, time was when the jumps lasted three or four weeks. That was because in the olden days they fed on gizzard shad, an excellent food fish, but one which grew too big for most bass after a short time.

The gizzard offered good food and were necessary for a growing bass crop, but they became a nuisance once they outgrew the size to be taken by bass. Then they merely occupied valuable water space that could have been used by desirable fish.

Now the situation is different. The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources has stocked a new species of shad, the threadfin, in most of the lakes and this fellow never gets too big for a big bass to take as a part of its meal.

When full grown the threadfin seldom reaches more than five inches in length and, therefore, offers good food throughout the summer. Because of this, jump fishing is possible throughout the summer months and into the late fall. The prime time, however, is when the threadfin reach about two inches in length. It is choice food at that time and more fish seem determined to take them then, than when they are larger.

Jump fishing occurs in just about every major lake in Kentucky, in some of the smaller state-owned lakes, and such fishing also may be had in some of the larger rivers.

But wherever it occurs the fisherman may be assured of some fast action when the jumps are on.

THEIR SON CAME HOME

I ran across a story in my reading recently which I wish to pass along to you. I think it has something of a moral in it.

Back during the Second World War the parents of a sailor went for several weeks without hearing anything from their son. Finally, they gave up on their son and considered him a war victim. However, near the end of the war the parents, who lived in New Jersey, received a phone call from someone in San Diego, California. After a moment on the phone, the parents recognized the voice as that of their son. He was alive!

During the course of the conversation the son explained to his parents that for the past several months he had found it difficult to write because he had been taking care of a war victim. He told them that the person had been wounded in the war and had lost a leg, an arm, an eye, and part of his face.

His parents expressed concern over the poor sailor and then bragged on their son for taking care of him during all those months. The boy then asked his parents for permission to bring the boy home to live with them. He explained that the boy didn't have another home nor anyone to care for him. His parents expressed their concern for the wounded sailor and also told their son that they thought it was very noble of him to want to bring the sailor home with him. But after some conversation, the parents expressed their desire to their son that he not bring the boy home with him.

They simply didn't want the job of taking care of such a battle-scarred sailor. Their son said he understood their feelings and said that he would not bring the boy home. Expressing his love for the parents, the sailor son hung up.

You know, I guess it is hard to fulfill such a request as the sailor son made. For most of us don't want a disabled person around the house, do we? None of us like to look at ugly things, and most of us judge a person's beauty by their physical appearance. We appreciate the good that those who are disabled have done. But we would just rather not have to be burdened with them around the house.

Many times we feel sorry for the physically handicapped. So we give some little something that requires no effort on our part and does them little good. But I think what the handicapped person wants more than anything else is to be treated like a human being.

The morning after they spoke with their son, the couple in New Jersey received a telegram from Navy officials stating that their son had jumped from a window in his death. The parents couldn't understand why their son had reacted so to their request until the body arrived and the casket opened. Their son had only one arm, one leg, one eye, and a badly disfigured face.

Maybe we should try a little harder to love those who want to be treated like a human being.

The Way of Salvation

What must I do to be saved? Saved from what? Hell? That proves nothing. Nobody wants to go there. The issue between God and man is SIN. Do you wish to be saved from sin?
What is sin? Sin is a species of rebellion against God. It is self-pleasing; it is the utter ignoring of God's claims, being completely indifferent whether one's conduct pleases or displeases Him.
Before God saves a man, He convinces him of his state of sin. By this I do not mean that he says with everybody else, "Oh yes, we are all sinners, I know that." Rather do I mean that the Holy Spirit makes me "feel" in my heart that I have been a life-long rebel against God, and that my sins are so many, so great, so black, that I fear that I have transgressed beyond the reach of Divine Mercy.
Have you ever had this experience? Have you seen yourself to be totally UNFIT for heaven? For the presence of a Holy God? Do you now perceive that there is no good thing in you, nothing good credit to your account? That all the way through you have loved the things God hates and hated the things God loved?
Has the realization of this broken your heart before God? Has it made you mourn that you have so despised His mercies, misused His blessings, broken His Sabbaths, neglected His Word, and given Him no real place at all in your thoughts, affections and life? If you have not yet SEEN and FELT this personally, then at present there is no hope for you, for God says, "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." (Luke 13:3) And if you die in your present condition, you will be lost FOREVER.

But if you have been brought to the place where sin is your greatest plague, where offending God is your greatest grief, and where your deepest desire is now to please and HONOR HIM; then there is hope for you. "The Son of Man came to seek and save that which was lost." (Luke 19:10) And He will save you providing you are ready and WILLING to throw down the weapons of your warfare against Him — hoist the white flag! Stack arms! Surrender! Cease fighting Almighty God! Fall at the feet of Jesus as a lost sinner! — Bow to His Lordship, and surrender yourself to His control.
His blood can wash the foulest clean. His grace can support and uphold the WEAKEST. His power can deliver the tried and tempted. "Behold NOW is the accepted time; behold, NOW is the day of salvation." (2 Cor. 6:2)
Yield yourself to Christ's claims: Give Him the throne of your heart. Trust in His atoning death. Love Him with all your heart and soul. Obey Him with all your might and He will conduct you to Heaven. "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be SAVED". (Acts 16:31)
I am against GOOD WORKS being put in the room of CHRIST as the ground of our acceptance with God. (Eph. 2:8-10; Gal. 3:11; Rom. 3:28; Heb. 11:6; 2Tim. 1:9; John 8:24; Acts 15:5-11)
"When He from His lofty throne, Stooped to do and die, Everything was fully done, HEARREN to His cry.

"IT IS FINISHED!" Yes indeed, Finished every jot, SINNER, this is all you need Tell me, is it not?

"Weary working, plodding one, Wherefore toil you so? Cease your doing; all was done Long, long ago.

"Till to Jesus' work you cling, By a simple faith, DOING is a deadly thing, DOING ends in death.

"NOTHING either great or small, NOTHING sinner, no, Jesus did it, did it all, Long, long ago.

"Cast your deadly doing down (Honor Him with your faith!) Down at JESUS' feet; Stand in HIM alone, Gloriously complete."

"When you know that you are saved, TRUSTING in the BLOOD, You will give to Him who died, YIELDED UP TO GOD, "Gratitude is all our life, Merits none have we, Filthy rags our righteousness CHRIST alone our plea."

Wise men still seek Christ! Live Him! and LOVE HIM! (do not DEBATE Him!) and the people will LOVE and SEEK HIM!

"Thy sinful debts to Jesus bring, His payment makes thee just; And of thy surety think and sing, And only in HIM trust."

In His love, MILFORD HALL, SR.

Need, Not Politics, Dictates Road Work

State Highway Commissioner Eugene Goss claims need, not politics, dictates which county roads get extra blacktop paving funds in commenting on news stories saying a large portion of this year's allotment was going to heavily Republican Southeastern Kentucky.
Goss said the Highway Department expects to spend about $6 million on the supplementary blacktop program this summer.

"Safe Boating Week" June 28-July 5

Gov. Louie B. Nunn has designated the week beginning June 28 as "Safe Boating Week" in Kentucky.
In the proclamation, he noted that the growing enthusiasm for water sports is expected to attract more than 80,000 pleasure boaters to the state's lakes and rivers this summer, and urged Kentuckians to support a drive by the U. S. Power Squadrons, U. S. Coast Guard and Kentucky State Police to make the waterways safe.
Overloading or improper loading, speeding, drinking and reckless inattention were behind a majority of the boating accidents last year, he said.
"If we are to avoid a tragic loss of human life and needless destruction of private property," he said, "there must be a heightened awareness of safe boating practices."
Following the signing of the proclamation during a brief ceremony in the governor's office, Louisville Power Squadron Commander Harvey Moninger presented Governor Nunn with a certificate of appreciation for his efforts in behalf of safe boating over the past two years.

Indian Life Studied In Pikeville Workshop

PIKEVILLE, KY.—Indian life is the subject of a teachers workshop being conducted this summer at Pikeville College.

Three rooms at the college academy building have been converted to an Indian village where visitors may see camp life, ceremonial dances, tools and weapons, an Indian alphabet, trading practices, including a trading post, and food displays which may be sampled. Ceremonial dances will be performed.

The course, Education 425-a, is conducted by Miss Goldie Benedict. Its purpose is to acquaint teachers with the unit type of instruction which may be used to appeal to all types of students, including fast and slow learners. The subject was selected because of the interest which Indians hold for most elementary students.

No particular tribe of American Indians was singled out as the subject. The course and displays concern facets of life common to most tribes of American Indians, Miss Benedict said. Miss Benedict visited Indian tribes in Arizona a few years ago. She drew on that experience for much of the material in the course.

The workshop is open to the public. An open house will be held from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., July 8 and 9.

Invests Time, Cash In Wildlife Habitat

By JIMMIE R. CHILDER District Conservationist

(In Soil Conservation, published By the U.S. Department of Agriculture)

In addition to his responsibilities as a member of the local district board and city planning commission, a Prestonsburg banker manages one of the finest and largest wildlife habitat developments in the mountains of eastern Kentucky.

H. D. "Buddy" Fitzpatrick, Jr., has set aside approximately 80 of his 650 acres in the Floyd County Soil and Water Conservation District. The rest of the farm is in woodland, pasture, and hayland.

In 1969 Fitzpatrick improved 38 acres of habitat in a small valley below the large timber line. The area included 7 acres of food plots and brush piles left for cover in open areas on bottom land. Five acres was seeded to orchardgrass and whiteclover mixture for rabbits, quail, grouse, and deer. The vegetation not only provides food but also attracts insects which the animals eat. Fitzpatrick seeded wheat and hairy vetch in other areas and found vetch to be particularly effective cover for smaller animals.

On the mountainside at the edge of heavy timber he cut a 20-foot strip where plant cover will gradually develop through natural succession. The strip allows grouse and deer to feed in open space close to good cover. Brush cleared from the area and stacked along the lower edge of the lane supplements standing cover.

Fitzpatrick has also completed 8,400 feet of stream channel improvement on the Left Fork of Middle Creek and the main branch of the same stream. He has renovated many acres of pasture. Recently, he installed a 5,879-foot underground tile drainage system.

Encouraged by the success of his efforts, Fitzpatrick plans to develop more wildlife areas, improve woodland, and seal several more ponds.

SCHOOL FUND INCREASED

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Gov. Louie B. Nunn has authorized the Department of Finance to take $1.1 million from the state's general fund surplus to meet an insufficiency in the minimum foundation school program.

The Governor's action came after assurance from Finance Commissioner Albert Christen that an increase in funds for the foundation program "did not jeopardize the necessary and essential functions of other ongoing state programs."

The action was made necessary because the final calculations for the minimum foundation program showed that actual need in the current fiscal year was $225.7 million, $1.1 million more than the $224.6 million appropriated by the 1968 General Assembly.

"Sound management of the state's fiscal affairs has allowed us to avert what would have been a financial crisis in some school districts," the governor said.

He concluded that his move to bolster the foundation program would have been impossible "without the alterations in the state general fund tax base we successfully sought in the 1968 session of the General Assembly."

General fund tax collections, which are now estimated to be $500,000 above the original $523.5 million estimate, and a small surplus carry-forward from the past fiscal year made the governor's action possible. The budget permits the governor to use any available funds for the foundation program should its complicated formula estimates fall short of actual needs.

Two Floyd Officers Named for Honors

Outstanding conservation officers in three categories have been selected by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources from nominations made in each of the nine wildlife districts.

Winners, as announced by Commissioner Minor Clark, are: Outstanding Law Enforcement Officer (to represent the Department at the Southeastern Association meeting in Atlanta this fall), Atlas Lynn, Florence; Best All Around Officer, Merl Toms, Liberty, and Shakar-Safari Award Winner (officer who has made the greatest contribution to conservation of natural resources in 1969), Joseph Burchell, Manchester. The latter two winners will receive plaques for their achievements at a later date.

Selecting the winners in a meeting June 10 in the department offices were Clark; Assistants to the Commissioner Bernie Carter and J. T. Cox; Law Enforcement Director A. H. Henson, and his assistant, R. W. Garrison, and directors of the nine wildlife districts.

Nominees selected by district directors for Outstanding Law Enforcement Officer, All Around Officer and Shakar-Safari Award in the Seyenth district were Don Mead, Hi Hat; Dalton Ray Conley, Martin, and Hayse McCoy, Inez.

Six Colleges Form Athletic Conference

Representatives of six Kentucky two-year colleges formed the Appalachian Highlands Athletic Conference during a recent meeting at Alice Lloyd College.

In addition to Alice Lloyd, Prestonsburg Community, Lees Junior, St. Catharine, Southeast Community and Southeastern Christian Colleges will participate in the new conference's activities.

The Appalachian Highlands conference is affiliated with the National Junior College Athletic Conference and will abide by their rules for competition.

James Rose, ALC's basketball coach and newly-elected president of the Appalachian conference, said only basketball would be sanctioned during the 1970-71 academic year, but that other sports would be included in the future.

Medicare Doesn't Pay
For Routine Nursing

"Medicare does not pay for routine nursing home care," Daryl E. Ratliff, Social Security district manager, explains. Only limited coverage for full-time skilled nursing care and other health services provided in the nursing home can be paid for under Medicare. Many people believe that Medicare pays up to a hundred days of nursing home services under all circumstances. This is not true. Congress made it very clear that only a certain kind of nursing home care would be paid for under Medicare. This is the type case in which the patient's condition, upon discharge from a hospital, requires him to be in an institution for the primary purpose of receiving continuous skilled nursing services.

A nursing home that provides this service is called an "extended care facility." Services in such a facility are really an extension of the kind of service he was receiving in the hospital for his injury or illness. The Social Security Administration is now working with the insurance companies that handle Medicare claims to examine more closely claims for after-hospital nursing home care.

"Many of these claims may be denied," Ratliff indicates. "It is important the elderly people and their families understand how this part of the law works."

Questions can be answered at the Pikeville Social Security Office, Phone 432-2177.

Rediscover Kentucky:

An Old-Fashioned Fourth of July

BY HELEN PRICE STACY

WEST LIBERTY, Ky.—This Fourth of July would be a good time for the countryside to revive some of the best parts of olden times — the old-fashioned Independence Day celebration with its patriotic speeches, its contests, games, picnics, lemonade, watermelon . . . and a temperature in the 90's.

Those were the days when silver-voiced orators stood in a beech tree's shade and with solemnity befitting the occasion extolled the virtues of a free country in which each citizen could progress according to his desire, ambition and willingness to work. The history of the community, county and state would be reviewed . . . flags would wave from windows and smaller ones from hands . . . brass bands would lead parades through towns and play rousing, patriotic marches interspersed frequently with stirring renditions of "The Star Spangled Banner," "America," and "My Old Kentucky Home."

Iced lemonade would sparkle in huge churns, the womenfolk fanned flies from picnic foods . . . red, white and blue bunting was everywhere. America!

On July 4, 1876, in West Liberty, county seat of Morgan, Col. John Tom Hazelrigg, resident of the county for 47 years and esteemed member of the bar, said: "We are assembled today to celebrate the centennial anniversary of American Independence; to revive the memories of the long ago; to gather up the rubbish and ruins of the past, the brightest era in our history; to recall the names and memories of the great and good men who toiled and struggled for the attainment of the glorious privileges we today enjoy, and to rekindle upon the altars of our hearts the fealty, and repledge our devotion to the grand structure of civil and religious liberty bequeathed to us by the fathers of the Republic."

Colonel Hazelrigg was a descendant of a

British General and member of Parliament. His words that day, almost 100 years ago, not only reviewed a county's history from its beginning and even earlier but history of a region, starting at Independence Hall.

"One hundred years have gone to swell the measures of the past, since the bell in the steeple of old Independence Hall, in the city of Philadelphia, rang out upon the midnight air the glad tidings that the original 13 colonies had resolved to be free. That our fathers, that band of illustrious names that were not born to die, in solemn convention had proclaimed the heavenly feat, that man was free. That the Patent to Kings to govern mankind by Divine right had expired; and that henceforth they would assert and maintain all the rights, privileges and immunities which belonged to them as freemen; and to the maintenance of this sublime declaration they pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor."

The Colonel's address took most of the afternoon — possibly a great part of the morning — but the large crowd assembled in the shade of the trees on Park Hill listened dutifully, occasionally making its way through croquet wickets to the lemonade churn.

Hazelrigg's historical address that day established the custom in Morgan, that is observed each Fourth of July with one notable difference. The oratory is confined to minutes rather than hours. Maybe towns other than West Liberty — Morehead, Paintsville, Grayson, Prestonsburg — follow the custom.

The crowd begins to gather early, children spanking clean, ready for the relays, sack races, bike and tricycle races, egg tosses. Stars and Stripes line Main Street.

After a brief historical address and certificates of honor awarded outstanding citizens, the crowd moves to the high school athletic field for a ball game. Then back to Main Street for an evening talent contest made up for the most part of fiddlers, banjo pickers, hoedown dancing and lots of string music.

As dusk settles over the countryside the crowd takes position to view the fireworks display, and after that — the big finale, a square dance on Main Street, roped off from traffic. It's a pretty picture, a colorful — red, white and blue — day.

Such an observance clings to principles of freedom and all that they mean. Freedom to form opinions, take sides, work at honest labor, buy a farm, build a house, go to church, get rich or not get rich, stay home or travel, speak or remain silent, vote for men who strive to keep the peace, keep order . . . and keep freedom.

It is a day to reaffirm respect for beliefs and creeds of minorities and of majorities . . . love for country and neighbor . . . desire to build rather than destroy . . . all for peace of mind.

Arts and Crafts Program Is Initiated

An arts and craft program began Monday at Archer Park. All children between the ages of 6 and 12 are invited. A session will be held each week-day from 9:30 a.m., to 10:30 a.m., in the Arts and Craft Building, and from 11 a.m., to 12:30 p.m., on the playground.

This program will be without charge. Those interested should contact the concession stand, so park employees can keep track of those participating. This program is being sponsored by the City Park Commission.

Census Yet Disputed But No Action Seen

To date, 22 persons in five Floyd communities are known to have been skipped by the 1970 census, and a report from Betsy Layne says an entire section there still has its census forms.

The head-count for the county continues to be disputed, but what will be done about it, if anything, has not yet been determined. The county lost 6,891 between the 1960 census and this year's, according to preliminary reports.

Prestonsburg, which had a gain of only 156 in the 10-year period, may have a clue to its lack of reported growth. This lies in the fact that there are three postoffices within the corporate limits of Prestonsburg—Cliff, West Prestonsburg and Prestonsburg. If, for instance, it is pointed out, a resident of Cliff filled out his census form and listed his postoffice as Cliff it is doubtful that he was counted in the Prestonsburg census. Prestonsburg census.

Of the census County Judge Henry Stumbo said last week:

"Something is bad wrong. You can't find a place to live in around here. We have three new housing projects with 75 to 80 units each and they're full. Every place that had somebody living in it 10 years ago still has somebody living in it. And they say we have lost population."

County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson pointed that 15,000 persons voted in the 1959 governor's race in this county when Bert T. Combs, a resident of the county, was a candidate, and that 13,000 voted in 1967 when Floyd county had no candidate. had no candidate.

In addition, activities such as the trampoline, rug hooking, volleyball, softball, swimming, bowling, folk dancing, soccer and music are offered almost daily. Upward Bound students are required to take four academic subjects and asked to elect one activity. While they are continually encouraged to study, Upward Bound students are not given formal grades.

Among the speakers invited to speak to students and faculty this summer are Julian Carroll, candidate for Lt. Governor (scheduled Sunday, June 28); Dr. Wietse de Hoop, chairman of the department of special education, Eastern Kentucky University; Harry M. Caudill, author and former Kentucky legislator; Dr. Oz Johnson, associate superintendent of schools, Jefferson County Schools; Dr. J. J. Gruber, chairman of the department of health, education, and recreation, University of Kentucky; Dr. A. Rizk, U. K. soccer coach; Rev. Jack Weller, Hazard minister and author; and Dr. Norman C. Cooper, professor of philosophy, Brescia college. On July 24-26, Upward Bound will take its yearly tour, this summer to the Smokey Mountains.

The program is directed by Kermit Everage, of Amburgey, and Bruce Taylor, of Louisville.

AWAY FROM THE GRIND

I find it relaxing to get out onto the water, away from just about everything, but I sometimes wonder how much travel does for those tired, jaded folk who take to the open road. Sitting in a restaurant, the other morning, I took time to study the faces of persons who obviously were tourists. Didn't see a smile, heard mainly mothers scolding fretful children, watched harried fathers eyeing the nearest exit.

SUGGESTS NEW LAW

Most of us have an idea there oughta be a law against this or that, or that the law we have should be changed. But Willie Johnson has a new idea. He says the law should be that no man whose wife is a good cook should ever be permitted to divorce her. "Because," he explains, "he'll never be satisfied, if he does."

Also posing a problem at the site is the possibility of a line breaking at a river crossing. A federal study team has decided that a 150,000-gallon reservoir, fed by a 10-inch main, must be placed on the hill overlooking the hospital.

The Prestonsburg commission decision to extend water service to the hospital from the terminal of its franchise at the state-owned lot across US 23, near the site, followed written assurance from the Highlands Hospital Corporation that it will indemnify the commission against any expense or liability.

A temporary line from the Prestonsburg system to the hospital site is expected to be laid in the next two weeks.

FAILING THE TEST IS THROWING AWAY YOUR DRIVING LICENSE FOR A FULL 6 MONTHS.

AND THAT'S A FACT

DRIVER'S FACT SHEET: The law about drinking and driving is very precise. It fixes a scientifically measured limit beyond which it is offensive to drive. Even if a driver uses rice or making his living the penalty stands. The simple purpose of the penalties, and the real test, is to make the drinker sober for all of us. They exist only to discourage drivers from drinking so much that they are a danger to themselves and others. The stakes are high. The penalties are clear and just. In addition to automatic disqualification, a convicted driver can face a $500 fine—or even prison for six months.

now you really can't ask a driver to have another drink to have another drink. Conviction will cost him his license for six months and possibly a $500 fine or even prison.

Pre-View of Summer Theatre's 'Hello, Dolly'

By JACK WICKER

If "Hello, Dolly" played the entire summer season at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre with Margaret Silbar in the title role, this viewer would be in the audience at every opportunity. Miss Silbar is one of those rare performers who thoroughly enjoys her work and instantly makes the audience aware of the fact. Her exuberance and personality, not to mention her charm and good looks, all combine to make her Dolly the shrewd lovable character that Thornton Wilder must have envisioned in "The Matchmaker," upon which "Dolly" is based.

Tom Kirk, although portraying a character much older than his 20-odd years, performs admirably in the role of Horace Vandergelder, the money-mad "half-a-millionaire" from Yonkers, N. Y. Audiences will thoroughly enjoy the comic antics of Ron Paolillo (Barnaby Tucker) and Mitch Douglas (Cornelius Hackle) as they cavort around turn-of-the-century New York in the delightful company of Irene Malloy, hatmaker, (Connie O'Connell) and her apprentice Minnie Faye (Rhonda Neswitz).

Miss Neswitz, doubling as choreographer, has adroitly adapted her choreography to fill the huge amphitheatre stage. Working primarily with singers, she has used movement patterns rather than trite, complicated steps, and the result (well-evidenced in the Waiter's Gallop) is most stimulating and catchy.

One of the evening's acting highlights is that of a young performer, Mark Gallaher, in a minor role, that of the headwaiter at the Harmonia Gardens. He handles his character with an ease and finesse generally missing in a character performance from one so young.

Director Thomas Jones is a man of both talent and infinite patience, displaying a long show-biz background (at one time, he stage-managed for Tallulah Bankhead). I was able to attend several rehearsals, and was most impressed with his ease and competence. He works well within the confines of his performers' capabilities, at the same time retaining the proper focus of the script.

Music director Benjamin Keaton is very fortunate indeed to have leading performers' capable of the vocal-stylization so vital to a vehicular show like "Dolly," and he uses both the actors and the chorus to full capacity to display their vocal talents. Don't be surprised if you find yourself singing along!

All in all, "Dolly" provides an exciting evening for everyone. Be sure to see it "Before the Parade Passes By."

Alice Lloyd Begins Service Operation

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Alice Lloyd College students involved in the ALCOR community service program began summer operations in 17 eastern Kentucky communities over the weekend.

The students, most of them natives of the mountain area, offer rural children and families organized recreation, nutritional education, arts and crafts and health services. Activities center around a building in each community which ALCOR has obtained for the summer.

Nursing interns and medical students will join Alice Lloyd students in the coming weeks to help with the health services component of the program. Their participation is being made possible by the Appalachian Regional Commission and the Student American Medical Association.

This is the second summer Alice Lloyd has sponsored an ALCOR program. Contracts in those communities served during 1969 were maintained through week-end visits.

In January, ALCOR was incorporated and three other eastern Kentucky colleges, Cumberland, Lees Junior and Southeast Community—will also operate ALCOR centers this summer. Additional institutions may be added during 1971.

Alice Lloyd College will operate ALCOR centers in Floyd county at Ligon, Arkansas, Drift, and Prater Creek. Other centers will be operated in Knott, Perry, Letcher, and Leslie counties.

Walter P. Walters, New Member
Of Pikeville College Bd. of Trustees

PIKEVILLE, Ky.—Walter P. Walters, Sr., Pikeville insurance executive and civic leader, has been appointed to Pikeville College's board of trustees.

The announcement came from Dr. Robert S. Cope, college president, who said he was pleased to have a man with Walters' wealth of knowledge and experience on the board at an important point in the college's development.

Walters, a Pikeville native, is a son of the late Dr. W. J. Walters and Mrs. Elizabeth Syck Walters.

The new board member has strong ties with the college dating back to its early history. His mother was among the three members of the college's first graduating class in 1894. He himself received the first 10 years of his formal education at the Pikeville College Academy, Staunton, Va., and attended Transylvania College, Lexington. His four children attended Pikeville College Academy and Pikeville College.

Walters is president of the Walter P. Walters Agency, Inc., Pikeville; a director of the First National Bank of Pikeville; a Pikeville Methodist Hospital board member; a past president of the Pikeville Kiwanis Club; a past master of Thomas C.

Cecil Lodge No. 375, F. & A. M., and a former president of the Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America. He is a member of Pikeville's First Baptist Church. Walters has represented the Equitable Life Assurance Society for more than 25 years.

Scouting is among his chief interests, and two honors received in that field are among his most treasured. He holds the Silver Beaver Award, highest council honor, and the Silver Antelope Award, top honor in Scouting's Region Four.

Walters is married to the former Judith Fitzpatrick, of Prestonsburg. Their children are Dan Walters and Walter P. Walters, Jr., both of Pikeville; Mrs. Anne Jeanette Worthington, wife of Dr. W. J. Worthington, of Rochester, Minn., and Mrs. Judith Hinkle, wife of Paul D. Hinkle, of Pikeville, who is associated with Walters in the insurance business.

IN AWARD, WINNING UNIT

Anchorage, Alaska—Master Sergeant James D. Mullins, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Mullins, of Wheelwright, Ky., is a member of a unit that has earned the U. S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award. Sergeant Mullins, a fire protection supervisor in the 21st, will wear a distinctive service ribbon to mark his affiliation with the unit.

A 1952 graduate of Wheelwright high school, he served during the Korean War. His wife is the former Janet L. Bowling.

Trees Help You To Stay Healthy And Naked Land Makes You Sick

By MARJORIE HAAS

(Reprinted from Let's Live Magazine, Los Angeles, Calif.)

Long ago, lands were well-forested and people worshipped trees. They thought trees made the rain fall, caused the sun to shine and brought good crops.

The ancients also believed trees made women fruitful, with easy births, and helped increase herds and flocks. These were not silly superstitions. Today we realize that trees are needed for health; that treeless land makes you sick.

A small amount of carbon dioxide is a natural part of air. But more is added by the fuel combustion and decaying wastes of industry, high-rise homes, etc. The atmosphere is slowly losing oxygen. Were there no counterbalance to the excess of carbon dioxide, air-breathing life would perish.

Luckily the leaf action of trees and plants which decomposes carbon dioxide offsets the man-made increase. Yearly, billions of tons of carbon are transformed into plant material, and needed oxygen is released in the process.

Besides, every 24 hours each tree gives off about a barrel of water. The Forest Experimental Station claims that "an open grown birch tree has approximately 200,000 leaves and breathes out as much as 700 to 900 pounds of water."

Since perfectly dry oxygen is comparatively inert, the exhaled moisture of trees helps make it effective.

But woodlands are fast disappearing. Here's what happens when trees are cut. If no cool air rises from forests to meet hot air from above, there will be no showers. Cloudiness without rain holds the heat. On treeless land, it gets hotter and drier.

You feel uncomfortable because a large percentage of your body is composed of water. You need more than a quart of liquid a day to replace normal losses from perspiration, exhaled air, etc. Without moisture, air is irritating to breathe and dehydration slows you down.

A former U. S. conservation officer said, "Each year we lose 117 million tons of major elements like calcium, phosphorus, potash, sulfur, nitrogen, etc., through erosion (rain wash of soil on treeless land)."

These valuable organic substances are essential for good health. Yet we have already lost a large proportion of our topsoil since cultivation of the new world began. And one inch of topsoil takes centuries to build.

Tree roots also break up and aerate the subsoil when they reach far down for elements to nourish their leaves. Tree soil which contains fallen leaves is, therefore, enriched with minerals and trace elements. When your food is grown on land lacking these things you develop mineral-deficiency ailments.

When no complex tree roots hold the earth, big rains, or torrents, rush down, carrying valuable substances off the soil. These pile up unproductively in swampy valleys.

The valleys then exhale bad gases due to the decay of organic matter. People living in lowlands where the oxygen balance is disturbed are subject to asthma, chronic bronchitis, emphysema, etc.

A Denver hospital reports that 10,000,000 Americans suffer from these diseases.

In forests the remains of trees and animal life are changed into humus. This porous matter holds water like a sponge, so the woodland soil is a natural reservoir. When trees are cut, land loses a large part of its ability to absorb moisture.

But most disturbing is the low water table on treeless land. Experts fear the U. S. will run seriously short of water in the next 50 years. And with a low water table your drinking water gets bad. Eroded matter silts up reservoirs and rivers. Streams are more polluted.

As you dig deeper for a source the quality of the water changes—elements are lost and it becomes harder or more calcareous.

Women, especially, have cause to keep the trees. The smooth function of the female metabolism depends on good oxidation. In some countries doctors still send infertile married women to forests. After breathing pure air, many of these women are able to conceive.

Telephones are being added twice as fast as ten years ago by South Central Bell in the territory it serves in Kentucky.
