

5 Teenagers Sue Officer And Surety

Plaintiffs' Petition Says Conn Sprayed Them with Chemical

Five Floyd teen-agers filed suit in circuit court here July 1, naming District 4 Constable Gillis Conn and his surety, the Western Surety Company, as defendants and claiming $9000 damages resulting from their arrest.

Plaintiffs are Imo Jo Case, 19; Luke Kidd, 17; Bertee Kidd, 15; Barbara Kidd, 13, and Kathleen Kidd, 11. Miss Case sued individually; the others, by their mother and next friend, Mrs. Imogene Kidd.

The complaint alleges that at about 11:30 p.m., June 13, while plaintiffs were attending a show at the Almar Drive-In Theatre, near Allen, they were "assaulted and harassed" by Conn who squirted mace, tear gas or other chemicals into their eyes and onto their bodies. They claim the constable acted when they were not committing any offense against the law.

A suit filed by two Floyd county women July 2 against the Fraley-Dearing Motor Co., Wayland, and Ray Fraley asks a total of $200,000 damages and $10,000 in hospital and doctors' expenses. Plaintiffs, Flossie King Amburgy and Thelma King Burke, allege that Fraley so negligently and recklessly operated a motor vehicle as to cause it to collide with the car driven by Flossie Amburgy, in which Thelma Burke was a passenger. Both women claim their earning power, as a result of the wreck, has been totally and permanently lost. Claims for damages were equally divided between the two.

In another damage action Ruby Keathley seeks to recover from Frank DeRossett, Jr. $9,000. She claims his negligent and careless operation of his car on US 23 caused a collision with her auto on US 23, between Allen and Prestonsburg, last March 17.

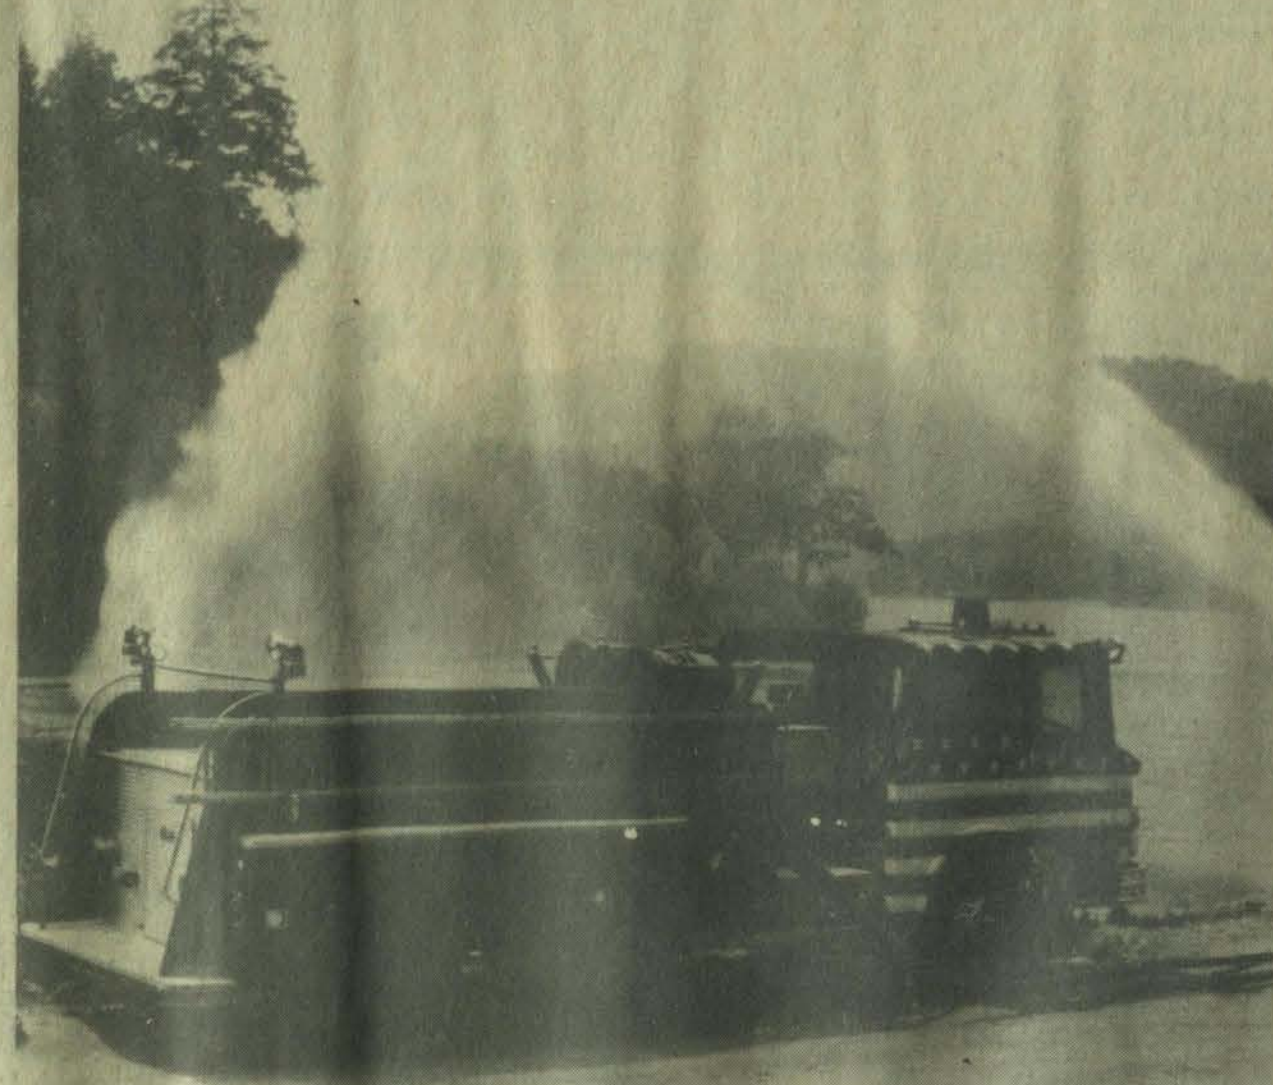

Among the local area youngsters featured in HELLO, DOLLY! at the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre are (left to right) Kerry Lee Shannon and Kimberly Shannon, Prestonsburg sisters, Eloise Compton, of Pikeville, and Marilyn Rose, of Prestonsburg. The musical runs Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays, ending July 11. The next production is LITTLE MARY SUNSHINE, July 16-August 1.

It's Good-Bye, 'Dolly,' Hello 'Mary'

It is good-bye to HELLO DOLLY and hello to LITTLE MARY SUNSHINE as the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre closes its current show this week and prepares to open a new one.

HELLO DOLLY plays its final weekend of performances, Thursday through Saturday of this week. The long-running Broadway musical played its first Amphitheatre engagement here and set a new record for the largest single night's attendance in the theatre's history.

LITTLE MARY SUNSHINE brings the old-fashioned musical of fun and adventure back to the spotlight as it plays, July 16-August 1. Set high in the mountains of Colorado, the musical follows Mary as she falls in love with the handsome captain of the Forest Rangers, is saved from a savage Indian, and carols her way through a 24-song score. The songs include "Look for a Sky of Blue," "Colorado Love Call," and "Once in a Blue Moon."

FIRE TRUCK PASSING TEST. This fire truck, if bought by the city of Prestonsburg for its fire department, will cost $35,200. But Fire Chief Johnny Perry, who made tests of its pumper at Dewey Lake last Thursday, said it will do the work of two or three ordinary trucks. Photo shows high-pressure flow of water going back into lake from which it had been drawn out by truck's pumper.

County's New Budget Increases Road Fund

The 1970-'71 budget adopted for Floyd county by the fiscal court at its June 30 meeting here envisions the expenditure of $318,275—$15,387 more than was expended during the preceding 12 months.

Biggest single budget increase was for highways, in which $111,820 is earmarked for this fiscal year. This is an increase of $11,750 over the amount actually spent on roads last year.

Other budget items: General government, $128,050, up $5,110 over the preceding year's expenditures; protection to person and property, $10,000, up $3,000; health and sanitation, $2,500, an increase of $100; libraries and other education, $2,000 (no change); hospitals, charities and corrections, $7,305, a reduction of $973; debt service, $18,500, up by $500; forestry, $2,800, down $200.

At last week's year-end meeting the court also:

1. Entered into contract with the Department of Highways on the rural road program, with more than 125 road projects listed, $139,369 to be expended.
2. Entered into the annual road machinery rental agreement with the state, the total to be paid the county for use of machinery not to exceed $60,025.
3. On petition of T. J. Compton discontinued that part of the county road at the "forks of Beaver" extending from the corner of Lot 81 of the Amanda and T. J. Dingus Division, running with the Martin housing project to the KY 80 right-of-way.
4. Accepted into the county road system the Newman road from KY 979, one-half mile up Clear Creek to the Bob George line.

This Town . . . That World

That "When the Lights Went Out" picture which appeared in this column last week drew more comment than any we've had in a long while. I thought it was tops—next to the picture Larry Stone continued onto another page in his Central City Messenger, a few years back.

AND SOMETIMES A BAWL

Bill Gibson, of Paintsville, brought our photographer a nicely printed certificate, awarding her a round-the-world trip for Prize Snapshot of the Year, but withdrew the prize on the grounds that she'd already been there. . . A reader commented, "You all must have a ball with that paper." I remarked, quite truthfully, that sometimes it's nearer a brawl.

SANG THE WRONG TUNE

Somebody was citing the case of the bullfrog which fell into a well and began calling for help in his usual deep, bellowing tones. Nobody came to the rescue. Those who listened to the deep chugger-ums of the imprisoned one decided he was satisfied and having the time of his life down there.

They thought he was having a ball, too. The moral of this story, which is connected to the foregoing item, is that we sometimes appear to be more cheerful than we really are.

SLOW DOWN AT YOUR OWN RISK

When a certain fellow was criticised for failing to slow down his boat while passing a fisherman on Dewey Lake (so the story goes), he had a very valid excuse: "I was afraid that if I slowed down somebody would run over me."

HELP FOR WHAT?

It is quite possible that people are sometimes at their most selfish in prayer. I have never forgotten the scene in an outdoor drama presented at Berea, a few years ago. It had to do with the Civil War, and onto either end of the darkened stage stepped an actor in the role of a minister, and one asked God to give strength to the North, while the other presented his claims for the South. You see a prizefighter step into the ring, and just before the bell he crosses himself, hoping, apparently, to get divine help in knocking the other guy's block off.

Once an old priest who was a prizefighter fan from way back was asked by a friend if that would help the fighter. Replied the priest:

"It will, if he can fight."

Fiscal Court Sets Load Limit On Road to Mine at 10 Tons

14 New Appeals Filed by State In Road Cases

Fourteen more appeals filed in circuit court here last week by the Department of Highways from land values set by county appraisers on property to be taken by US 23 rights-of-way between Boldman and Allen brought the total number of appeals to 59 and the amount involved to well past a million and a quarter dollars.

Seven of the new appeals were filed June 30, and the same number was filed July 2. Names of landowner-defendants in the 14 appeals and values set on the property of each by county appraisers follow:

Chester Layne, $8,500; Ray Campbell, $33,500; Carmel Clark, $65,000; Tommy Ratliff, $60,200; Troy A. Cole, $32,500; Linda Preston, $4,000; Rex Hamilton, $16,100; James George, $10,500; Grace Sturgill, $3,000; Lea Belle Rice, $1,000; Douglas Fillingier, $4,200; Clifford Reynolds, $12,500; Rowe Fannin, $16,000; Betsy Layne Men's Club, $10,000.

Plant Employees Vote Down Union

Employees of the new American Standard Manufacturing Company plant last Thursday declined union membership, tabulation of a vote supervised by the National Labor Relations Board, showed.

All but one of the 126 eligible voters cast ballots, it was said. Five votes were cast for the United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic workers of America; 40, for the United Steel workers of America, and 80 voted against union connection of any kind.

American Standard, which is located at the former Kenwood site, near Paintsville, recently began shipment of plumbing fixtures produced at its plant. Designed to employ 450 persons, it now has a working force of 255, and jobs found there have resulted in the return to Eastern Kentucky of a number of men who have been working in Ohio, Michigan and other states.

Action Follows Protest Lodged By 193 Citizens

When a petition bearing the names of 193 residents of the Bull Creek section was presented to the Floyd fiscal court last Tuesday in protest against either strip or auger mining of coal, there the court responded by setting a 10-ton load limit on trucks hauling the coal over the county roads which must be followed to reach state roads and a shipping point.

Alex DeRossett, one of the delegation which appeared before the court, said he and others with him were told load-limit action was the only thing the court could legally do. He said both County Judge Henry Stumbo and Magistrate Bill Wells promised strict enforcement of the load limitation order.

The action by citizens was initiated after Potter and Walters, a Pike county firm, began preparing to mine by stripping or augering lands of Burl Wells Spurlock, Tommy Lafferty and Andy Shepherd in the head of the Left Fork of Bull Creek.

A copy of the petition handed the court was mailed to state officials at Frankfort, and state land reclamation personnel arrived Monday to make an on-site inspection of the proposed development.

The petition, addressed to Judge Stumbo, read:

"We, the undersigned citizens of Bull Creek . . . whose lands are about to be augered and strip-mined, having witnessed, first-hand, the ruinous destruction of said mining methods, do hereby respectfully petition you and the members of the Floyd Fiscal Court to use your powers as the governing board of Floyd county, by resolution, ordinance, or otherwise, to stop the devastation to be wrought upon us and our lands."

The motion for the 10-ton load limit was made by Magistrate Wells and seconded by Magistrate Ed Caudill, of District 3. The vote was unanimous.

McKinney Taken In Lone Raid

The lone liquor raid reported within the week resulted Saturday afternoon in the arrest of James McKinney, near Harold, and the confiscation of 20 cases of beer by State Troopers Rose and Bevins and Constable Gillis Conn.

Sheriff Frank Leslie said Stephen Slone, 18, is being sought in this county for return to Detroit, where he is accused of breaking an entering an auto, April 17. He and a companion were reportedly surprised at the car by police who fired three shots at them. They were later released on bond and failed to appear for trial, the sheriff was told.

An investigation also was under way into the breaking and entering of the W. B. Day home, at Warco, Sunday while Mr. and Mrs. Day were attending church. A shotgun and two rifles were among the items reported stolen.

Fifty persons were booked at the county jail during the period beginning last Friday and ending Sunday. Most of those jailed were charged with drunkenness and traffic offenses. Those jailed on more serious offenses, charges against each and names of arresting officers follow:

Billy Ray Terry, drunk driving, by State Trooper Bevins; Tommy L. Spriggs, driving while under suspension of permit, Trooper Bevins; Delmar Hale, drunk driving, by Troopers Rose and Bailey; Berlin Conn, no operator's license, by Trooper Rose; Wilse Sizemore, drunk driving, and Monroe Howard, possession of alcoholic beverages, arrested by Deputy (See Story No. 2, Page 12)

Blast Wrecks 2nd Lake Boat, Owners Burned

The second houseboat explosion to occur on Dewey Lake this season sent a Prestonsburg couple to the hospital here Monday night, suffering from severe burns.

Injured were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cecil. Their young son, who was outside the cabin, was uninjured. Their condition is good, it was said at the hospital.

The boat is believed to be a total loss. The cabin was completely wrecked and the hull also damaged. Glass showered the Jenny Wiley boat dock area over a radius of 100 feet or more, and several bystanders narrowly escaped injury.

The explosion occurred about 9:15 p.m., when Mr. Cecil was attempting to light a gas refrigerator, it was said. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil were brought to the hospital here by Paul Martin, owner of the dock.

The first explosion, early last month, ruined the boat of Gayle Perkins, of West Van Lear. Mr. and Mrs. Perkins suffered severe burns.

Floyd Woman's 5-Cent Print Of Famed Portrait by Stuart May Be Valued in Thousands

Mrs. Clyde Jarrell with Washington print by Stuart which art galleries think may be of great value. Inset shows closeup photo of print.

Twenty years ago, Mrs. Lou Ethel Jarrell, wife of Clyde Jarrell, of the Slick Rock fork of Cow Creek, bought from a West Prestonsburg second-hand dealer a card bearing a color picture of George Washington.

She paid a nickel for the picture. Since that time the picture has been kept in Mrs. Jarrell's effects at her home, sometimes in a frame on the wall. Its value was never considered until recently when her stepson came home from Ypsilanti, Mich., spotted the picture and told her its potential worth.

The picture, it is said, may be the only print of a Gilbert Stuart painting of Washington that is yet extant.

The print has the original predominant colors of green and black. It is a reproduction of the Washington portrait made by the famous artist at Philadelphia, where a large and a small painting were made.

Within the last several days Mrs. Jarrell has contacted by telephone National Art Gallery in Washington, D. C., and art museums in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago. All have inquired about the colors used and the size of the card.

All have indicated the print may be of great value.

While Mrs. Jarrell and her husband are determining its actual value the print no longer will be adorning a wall of their living room. It will be stashed away in a bank vault for safekeeping.

OEO Grant Made For Legal Aid For the Poor

The Office of Economic Opportunity has made a grant of $476,101 for the establishing of comprehensive legal services to the poor of Appalachia, and one of the offices which will administer the program will be located in Prestonsburg, it was announced last week.

The program will be administered by the Technical Foundation of the West Virginia Institute of Technology, in cooperation with the Mountain Legal Rights Association located here. It is designed to serve, eventually, the entire 12-state Appalachian region.

The Prestonsburg office will begin with a staff of researchers, law students and four attorneys. Other offices are planned for Charleston, W. Va., and Pineville, Bell county.

Federal Court Pens Keathley

Charlie Keathley, 41, of Harold, was one of two men convicted during the recent term of U. S. district court at Pikeville on a charge of selling and disposing of a motor vehicle stolen at Bluefield, W. Va.

Keathley, who faces two more federal charges of a similar nature, will begin serving his two-year federal prison term after serving a state prison sentence of one year. He was convicted at the April Term of Floyd circuit court on a conversion count.

Infant, Parents Seriously Hurt

Six persons were injured—three, seriously—when their auto left US 23 at the Blue Bell Motor Court, near Banner, late last Tuesday afternoon and cartwheeled over an embankment.

The seriously injured included a two-week-old baby and its parents, Donald and Sue Garrett, of Harold. The baby and Mrs. Garrett were taken to the Prestonsburg General Hospital, where their conditions were described this week as "satisfactory." Mr. Garrett, who reportedly suffered a broken back, was taken to the University Medical Center, Lexington.

Two other children of the Garrett's and his brother, Scott Garrett, of Stanville, driver of the car, suffered slight injuries.

The auto, it was said, was traveling at a high speed when a tire hit a break in the pavement.

No traffic accident of consequence was reported during the July 4 week-end.

The Mail Goes Through . . .

The U. S. postal system must be classified as modern. If it weren't, it would have to belong to an earlier time, and if it went back to that time it would be improved far beyond its present state.

The mail is moved by swift planes, these days. Very modern. But you'd be surprised to learn where it boards the plane. Here's an instance:

A letter mailed, say, from Portsmouth, Ohio to Prestonsburg, Kentucky doesn't move in a direct line to Ashland, Ky., which is not far away, and thence to Prestonsburg. That would be too simple for this complex age. No, it must first move out to Chillicothe, Ohio, and from there to Columbus, Ohio, and there be placed aboard a plane—and then off it goes, tra-la! to Lexington, Kentucky. The trip on to the Big Sandy country is relatively direct and uncomplicated from there—unless, perchance, those nameless geniuses who study maps and shift prettily colored pins back and forth decide to do another job of rerouting before the letter gets out of Lexington.

Another example of the marvellously complicated mail delivery system popped up in Eastern Kentucky only last week. The downriver, or northbound, mail ceased to go down—it went up, or south, to Pikeville. A letter mailed on an afternoon, say, to Auxier, six miles or two hours by poor mule from Prestonsburg, went, first of all, to Pikeville—if you got it to the postoffice here before 5 p.m. (If you didn't, it remained here at home, among friends, till the next day.) Then, next day, your letter came dutifully back downriver, in the direction you thought it was headed to begin with, and it passed through Prestonsburg (post haste?) and, come rain, snow or sleet, wound up at Auxier.

We may not be letter-perfect in our description of these mail routings. Who is? We mention these matters not in criticism of local postal employees. They have nothing to say about the devious routings of your mail or theirs. We criticize the system—a system that every year becomes costlier to the government and to every citizen who uses it and every year becomes more of a ball lost in high weeds.

Somebody, somewhere in this great land which has sent men to the moon and brought them safely back surely has the ability to get a letter from Portsmouth, Ohio to Prestonsburg without first sending it cross-country to Columbus, Ohio, and a letter from Prestonsburg to a point six miles down the road without first sending it thirty miles to Pikeville and then bringing it thirty-six miles back—past the point of origin—to its destination.

The Post Office Department has no use for advice from its customers. So would Senators Cooper and Cook and Congressman Perkins and others please step over and tell somebody they're sick and tired of this mess and will not be satisfied till the postal service brings itself at least up to the efficiency it had forty years ago?

The POD, we hear, doesn't want parcel post business, any more, and has surrendered it to United Parcel. Does it want the writer of a letter to get a carrier pigeon? Smoke signals could be used—but then there's the matter of air pollution. . .

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Editor, The Times:

From reading reports from your county one gets the impression that peace officers there have to work day and night in their work of confiscating bootleg whiskey. One report is that a Floyd county citizen never knows when he lies down at night that his door will not be broken down in search for whesky. Another says it is like the secret police in Germany under Hitler.

In 1954 I stopped at a restaurant for lunch at a little town called Dwarf, in Perry county. While talking with an elderly gentleman in front of the restaurant a truck drove up to a small whiskey store across the street and unloaded 250 cases of whiskey. It filled the place up till one could hardly get in to the bar.

I asked the old man, who said his name was Hase, why a small store like that would buy so much whiskey at one time. "He doesn't buy it," my informer declared. "He gets a dollar a case to store it until after dark and then it goes to Floyd county. He said deputy sheriffs from Floyd county often came to get the whiskey."

Drunken driving is a problem on the highways and Floyd county is proving beyond a doubt that voting a county dry is not the remedy. I have operated a business on U. S. Highway 41 A, within five miles of Fort Campbell for 17 years and during that time there has been only seven drunken people in my place of business. Six of them were soldiers from Texas (colored) and the other one was a girl traveling from Alabama. My county has many whiskey stores where one can get the costliest whiskey that's made.

I believe the best way to control drinking is to have a whiskey store in every county and let the state sell it and control it and have the profits from it. Your county is proving every day that a "dry" county is not dry.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to express my thanks to everyone for their thoughtfulness and kindness upon the passing of my husband James L. (Blackie) Salisbury, to the many friends who sent food or flowers or helped in any way; to the ministers, the singers and the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for their wonderful services, and to all who took part in the military honors. I am deeply grateful to all.

MRS. JEAN SALISBURY

Editor, The Times:

The increasing tendency for "business as usual" of a significant number of stores in the Prestonsburg area should be of concern to the Christian citizens of Floyd county. Certainly we do not think Sunday observance in itself will assure God's favor. Nor should the churches necessarily attempt to close business on Sunday by law. And we do not suggest that it is a sin to make a necessary purchase on Sunday.

But it does seem that great benefits could be derived if 126 million American church members hold one day in seven as a day for formal worship and the strengthening of their church and family lives. This hardly poses a threat either to the convenience of the average person or the economic stability of merchants.

Everyone is well aware that one or two stores open, and others follow in order to keep abreast of the competition. These few even announce that they are closed on Sunday morning in order for all to attend church.

There are several avenues of approach to this problem. First, Christians should avoid buying all but necessities on Sunday. They ought to do their grocery shopping Monday thru Saturday. Second, Christian objection to wide-open business can easily be made clear to merchants. It is sometimes said that the larger markets are open to accommodate the flow of tourists from Jenny Wiley State Park on Sunday, but the stores are also open on Sundays in the dead of winter.

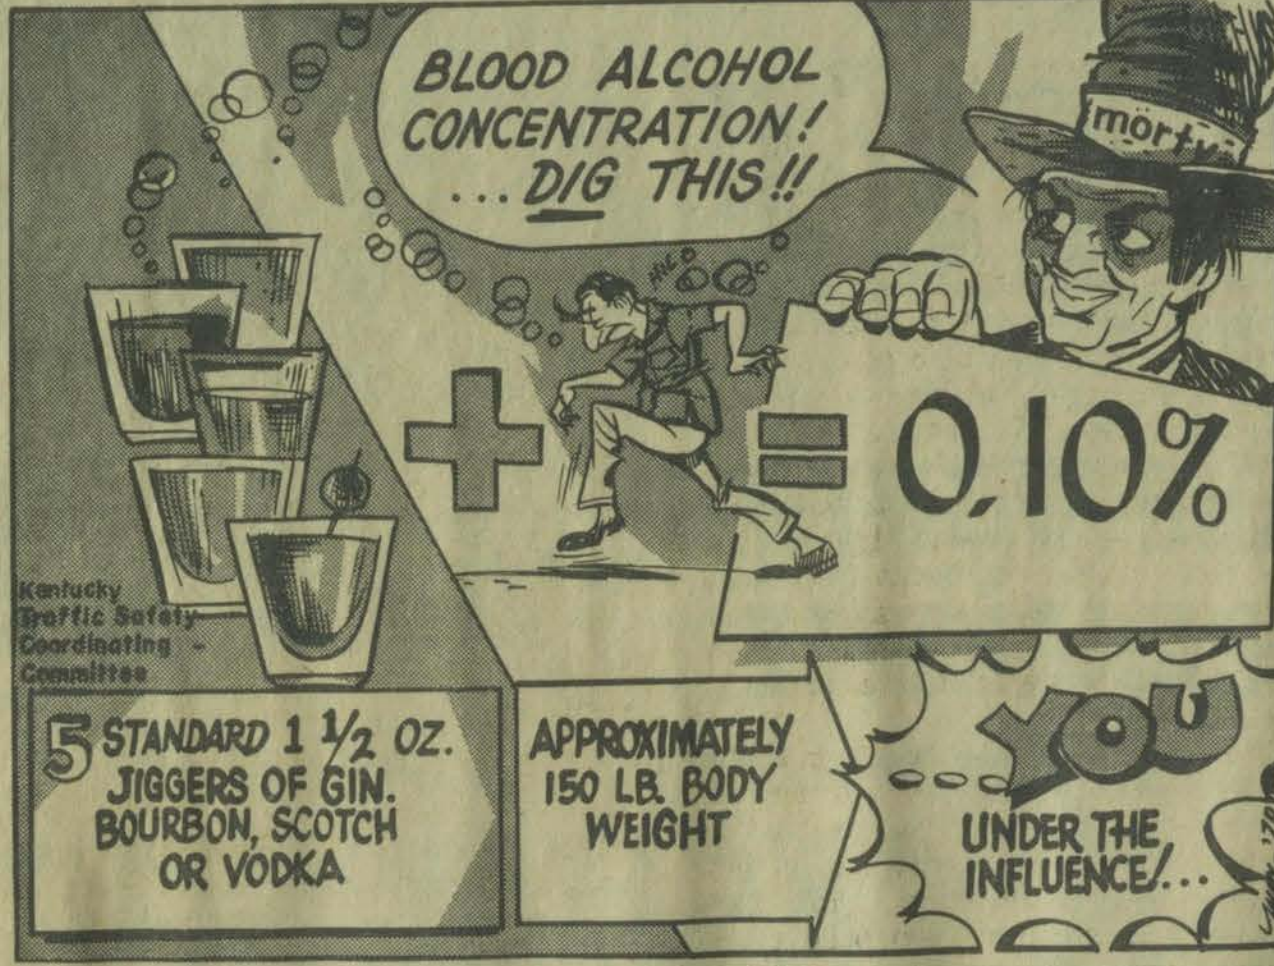

REV. WILLIAM G. POOLE

CARD OF THANKS

We, the parents and daughter of Thomas Edward Allen, take this opportunity to express our thanks and appreciation to all of those who in any way expressed their sympathy at the time of our recent bereavement. We will never forget the kindnesses shown by Hall Brothers Funeral Home and the wonderful prayers and consoling words of the Revs. W. D. Jagers, Robert Martin, Lorie Vannucci, and J. W. Huffman. A special thank-you is extended to the choir, to Mrs. Aletia Mayo for her solo, and to the pallbearers.

The tokens of flowers, prayers, food, cards, and words of sympathy will always be remembered. Our deepest thanks are extended to each of you who had a part in sharing during our time of sorrow.

One-Room School . . . A Wonderful Place

The one-room school with its McGuffey Readers, Ray's Arithmetic and Blue Back speller was a wonderful place. Ask any old-timer.

While he is telling you about the Friday afternoon's spelling bee, he is reliving his own childhood and will complete his part of the conversation by stating that school problems today could be solved by bringing back the one-room school and the McGuffey Reader. He might be right.

In Johnson county the Young Historians Club has reconstructed on the grounds of Johnson Central high school the log school built in 1889 on McKenzie Branch.

In Morgan county, where a new high school is being planned, there might be a part of the grounds set aside on which to locate the one-room log school that now stands on Splitwood Creek of Paint Creek.

An educator in Rowan county would like to reconstruct a one-room school in Morehead where it would be open to the public.

A talk with anyone who attended a one-room country school is a rediscovery of principles stressed in that era when honesty, thrift and kindness were as much a part of the curriculum as "readin', ritin' and rithmetic."

Talks with those who attended the one-room are revealing. Some can recite complete poems memorized decades ago. One man said he could start at the first page of his early McGuffey Readers and quote line for line each page.

He would blink back tears as he did so—but one must remember those were sentimental years when a student would love a teacher as one of his family.

He could have the same teacher through all eight grades and sometimes the last grade more than once, for frequently an oldtimer went through the eighth grade three times—not because he failed, but because it was too far to the high school.

It is true there were few books then, textbooks and otherwise. Those they had were read and reread, studied and memorized. . . perfect "brainwash" in matters of old-fashioned principles.

The last paragraph in a first reader admonished students to be kind to all and "do not waste your time in school."

In a second reader Ralph Wick was a fine boy, but "too apt to cry" when he did not have his way. Not all grads of the one-room school will remember the name John in their McGuffey Third Reader, but they remember the story, "The Wolf," and its lesson. And in the same reader—note that this is in the third-grade reader—there is the story, "Beware of The First Drink," and that much-remembered poem, "Which Loved Best?" In the Fourth Eclectic Reader—as in each of the six readers—family love and solidarity are emphasized in the poem "Which?"

This praise of the one-room school and the McGuffey Readers is not meant as a "put down" for education today. Nothing stays the same; not even one second can be recalled in perfect sequence, and as they change so must methods and theories.

But the one-room school had a lot going for it. Methods as modern as now, concepts as useful today as a century ago and principles as ageless as man's beginning were the most important parts of that era.

A gifted first or second-grader was taught in the same room with the eighth graders. Is it any wonder he advanced quickly? If he were alert to the philosophy the fifth and sixth graders were being taught, he could not only grasp the beauty and lessons in the "Corn Song," "The Village Blacksmith," "Barefoot Boy," "A

Whatever Things

By DONALD E. WILDMON

IF YOU CAN'T SING, WHITTLE!

He was a lad in the town of Cremona, Italy, in the middle of the 17th century. Cremona was a musical town and great acclaim was given to those who could sing or play. Wanting to be accepted and given some recognition for his musical talents, he tried singing. His friends called him "squeaky voice" and he soon realized that his singing would never be anything special.

The young lad then tried to learn to play, but his success wasn't much better than his singing. So he was a dejected lad as he walked through the streets of Cremona with his friends and listened to their beautiful voices. About the only thing the lad could do was to whittle on block of wood with his knife.

One day he was sitting on the edge of the street whittling as three of his friends played and sang beautiful songs for the people passing by. Appreciating the musical ability of his friends, many people dropped some coins into their hands to reward their efforts. One gentleman stopped longer than many of the others and even asked the friends to sing a song again. After they finished he dropped a coin into the hand of the singer. Then he moved on down the street.

Upon looking, the boys discovered that it was a gold coin! It was quite a piece of money to give a street singer. But the man who gave it could afford to do so. "Who was he?" asked the lad who whittled. "It was Amati," the friend with the beautiful voice replied. "Amati who?" asked the lad. "Nicolo Amati," the friend replied. "He is the greatest violin maker in all of Italy!"

That evening at home the lad thought about the man named Nicolo Amati. He was a man who succeeded in the musical field. But he neither sang nor played! The more he became convinced that he wanted to become a violin maker. He wanted to become the best violin maker in Italy!

Early the next morning, the lad hurried off to the home of Nicolo Amati. Inquiring about the way, he sat on the doorsteps after arriving and waited for the great violin maker to come out. When Amati came, the lad told him that he wanted to become a violin maker and asked Amati if he would teach him to make violins. He explained to Amati that he couldn't sing or play, but that he could whittle. And, more than anything else, he wanted to make violins.

Amati accepted the young lad as a pupil. Day after day, week after week, month after month, year after year, the young man studied from the master. In due time his work became known in Cremona, then Italy, and finally throughout the whole world.

We may not have the talent to do some things as well as other people. But God has given us all a very special talent which, if we develop, can help us help others. Antonio Stradivarius found this to be true. Even to this very day men still make music with his violins. And they pay upwards of $100,000 to do so!

Just because you can't sing or play doesn't mean you can't make music.

In the colony of Kentucky's fishermen are some of the finest people within the state and that is to say the finest anywhere. And the same applies to the boaters who use the wonderful and expansive waters of the commonwealth.

But in both groups there must be a few scattered scoundrels, if not by choice, then surely by reason of ignorance.

A few days ago it was our pleasure to see, first-hand and for the first time, the clear, placid waters of brand-new Green River Reservoir. In our estimation it is one of the most beautiful lakes in the state, and the people of Taylor and Adair counties, as well as the remainder of the state, can well be proud of their newly found recreational area and flood control project.

It's a comparatively shallow lake, as lakes in Kentucky go, and the scenery surrounding it may be classified from farm lands, gently rolling, to heavily wooded, steep hillsides, cut sharply in some areas by solid rock cliffs rising almost perpendicular above the water. Flat bottom lands support farm crops and grazing herds of cattle and farm homes and outbuildings dot the overall view from the boat on the lake.

The ramps have been well placed and expertly designed, by the Corps of Engineers, so that large pleasure craft as well as small fishing boats may be launched with ease. The parking areas are well marked and expertly laid out to be of most convenience to those who use them. There are ample places for campers to enjoy the wholesome air of the area and to spend carefree days and nights.

Its fishing, one of these days before long, will undoubtedly rank with the best in the nation. For the first two years the fishermen have been concerned with good bluegill, fair croppie and literally millions of small bass with a large one thrown in at the rate of about one for 50.

Because of the ratio of small fish, fishermen have not been too happy with their piscatorial pursuits. Some have claimed the fish present are undernourished—that they have not grown as quickly as they should have, that there's not enough food. This may be, in part, true but the food will be made available and it will be only a short time, we predict, until this lake will be one of the finest fishing lakes in the country.

People of the community surrounding this 8000-acre lake have taken to it like the proverbial duck to water. They have purchased new boats and the joyriders and skiers far outnumber the fishermen. And this is all right. There's room for both.

But some individuals in this huge group of water enthusiasts are not doing right by our lake. Litterbugs have made visits to the lake unpleasant for some.

Bottles, many of them broken, line the highways to the ramps; beer and soft drink cans are strewn everywhere, even into the water.

Apparently, some nearby residents are using the garbage barrels, which have been furnished for those who use the lake. They often are too full to be of use to the lake and ground users for whom they were designed. Plastic bottles and bags and other containers are scattered everywhere.

Someone is no respecter of cleanliness and neatness that reflects on all who visit the lake.

Nature Trails

How to Have A Nature Sanctuary

In these days of high speed and nervous tension, almost everyone needs some quiet retreat where he can go for relaxation and to let the worried soul catch up with the tired body. To establish a nature preserve is a worthy project, one that will provide a good hobby for retired persons as well as those who are overworked and tense. We need more of these preserves to help conserve our birds, wild life, wild flowers and trees.

To develop a nature sanctuary is something that one can work at in spare time; it is a project that will reward one in many ways; it will bring one in closer contact with nature and give a strong desire to help keep the beautiful things of the outdoors.

"In wildness of nature is the preservation of the world," said Thoreau, the great naturalist. "I want to go soon and live away by the pond, where I shall hear only the wind whispering among the reeds; it will be a success too if I shall have left myself (my cares) behind."

It doesn't require a large area to have a delightful place for nature's wildness. A small piece of land, preferably one with a brook, and perhaps an old sandstone cliff, some clumps of trees, a few hollow beeches to serve as homes for wild things—this would make an ideal nature resort. You can have many kinds of trees, birds and wild flowers on a spot of ground less than an acre. You can have a wildflower garden and add new species of exotic wild flowers from time to time until you have a place of great beauty. The more rugged a place is, the better it is suited for a nature spot. Cliffs and coves and rugged ravines where the wild flowers grow are ideal. If it has dead trees, or hollow beeches, leave these as they are. They furnish nesting places for flickers and larvae for woodpeckers to eat. You can nail bird boxes to the trees, or place them on posts for the bluebirds, wrens and chickadees. A box for bluebirds should contain a door, one and one-half inches in diameter, near the top. Then the starlings and house sparrows cannot enter and take the box away from the bluebirds.

The first thing to do in establishing your nature place is to take stock of what is already there: the number and kinds of trees, the wild flowers, shrubs, birds, nesting, and so on. Then begin by adding to these: You can find many pretty wild flowers which you can transplant if you have the proper habitat. You can soon have a beautiful wild flower garden and a row of ferns around it for a border. Then you can also have a place for rare shrubs and can begin to transplant there. The azaleas native to our region can be transplanted if the proper care is used and they will reward you with a mass of gorgeous blossoms. You can buy special azalea food and soon grow magnificent azaleas in your nature place.

My partner, R. L. Chapman, and I worked together for several years transforming a large and rugged mountain farm into a nature sanctuary. We protect the birds and put up boxes for them. We have bobwhites the year around, as we provided good cover for them. Our farm lies roughly in the shape of a horseshoe, with a clear, running brook winding down through the middle of it. We first took stock of the various kinds of habitats on this farm. The south-facing hillside, always fair to the sun, had thin, acid soils; here we have an acre or more of trailing arbutus, also plenty of pink azaleas, mountain teaberry, blueberries, a grove of pines and scarlet oaks and other kinds of plants that thrive in a dry, acid soil.

On the cooler, north-facing hillside, which is rich in humus, we have trees like chestnut and red oaks, chinquapin oaks, hickories, black oaks, cucumber trees, ash and others. We also have hundreds of species of beautiful wild flowers which begin to bloom in early spring and reward us with blooms until late autumn. On the old sandstone cliffs, we have walking fern, liverwort, wild alumroot, early saxifrage, stonewort and many others. We have had good success in transplanting beautiful wild flowers like gold poppy, showy orchis, pink mosses, yellow lady's slipper, bird's foot violet, red trillium, orange butterfly weed, cardinal flowers, meadow beauty, potato bean and others. We planted azaleas, mountain laurel and great laurel, the state flower of West Virginia, all with good success. The great laurel (Rhododendron maximum) is hard to transplant successfully, as it requires a moist, strongly acid soil enriched with humus from decay of oak leaves.

We have a small swamp near the middle of the Sanctuary, just below the cistern, and it proved to be an ideal habitat for the cardinal flower, cattails, arrowheads and others. We transplanted a number of eastern hemlocks for their beauty and as a shelter for birds in winter. We have built up a great interest in our community in the study of trees and wild flowers; every spring, we conduct guided nature study tours for Scouts, 4-H clubs, garden clubs, botanists and others. We feel that we have helped many persons to know the great outdoors better—a reward that has well paid for our diligent work.

Virginia Pine Sawfly Expected To Repeat Attack on Evergreens

It isn't air pollution that is turning pine trees brown in Eastern Kentucky—instead, it's the tiny Virginia sawfly that's doing the damage to evergreens that has many area residents concerned, says Gene Ball, Floyd county extension agent.

The following information on the situation was released last week by Mr. Ball:

The sawfly defoliated pines over large areas of East Kentucky during early 1969. Large, mature pine trees in many cases were completely bare. Concern was expressed by many landowners, but by mid-summer needles had returned to most trees.

Foresters are hopeful that the early cold weather last November and December prevented many insects from laying eggs. Surveys for egg masses by the Division of Forest Pest Control, U. S. Forest Service, indicate that defoliation will be lighter this year in many places, but other spots are likely to have heavy needle toss again.

The largest effect thus far has been a considerable growth loss for 1969, and a general weakening of trees due to the decrease in leaf surface. Pine needles stay on the tree for two or three years, and of course only the new needles were available for food-making last year. Even these were not available for the full growing period.

Only the very weakest trees have died thus far, but continued heavy annual defoliation of pine stands will have serious consequences. Mortality is likely to be higher on poor sites where the trees lack vigor, and losses to drought and to other insects will tend to increase as the trees decline.

The outbreak last year was the first of major proportions reported in Kentucky. No one seems to know what factors allowed the insect to build up to such enormous numbers. Other sawflies (particularly the red-headed pine sawfly) have attacked and completely defoliated pine plantations in parts of the state, but large native pine stands have heretofore not been involved. Sawflies have been a problem to Christmas-tree growers and have attacked ornamental pines around homes, but chemicals can be used effectively on single trees, or on an intensively managed crop; however, scattered pine stands over hundreds of thousands of acres present a different situation.

Unlike some species, the Virginia pine sawfly has only one brood annually and this comes early in the year. This gives the tree a chance to grow a partial crop of new needles and manufacture some food. Perhaps natural controls may build up and return this insect pest to an unimportant status again.

Council For Retarded Holds Meet, June 8

The Floyd County Council for Retarded Children met in the lunchroom of the Martin school Monday, June 8th. Dr. Frances Sherman, outgoing president, presiding. Discussion centered on provision of playground equipment for the day-care center at Finance Hollow. Several volunteered to contact various sources for help, free materials or donations. The constitution of the organization has been revised, and the new one adopted. The group is in the process of affiliating with KARC and the National Association as well. A number of new members were reported. Three dollars affords voting membership, five dollars for a couple. It was agreed that the general council would not meet again until September but the new President, Lawrence Baldrige, of Pippa Passes, may call for a meeting of the Board of Directors before that time.

Jerry Martin, chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, offered several suggestions for raising funds. The major goal is to provide a vehicle a 9-passenger station wagon to transport the children who attend the day-care center directed by Miss Nora Martin. Heartfelt thanks are again extended firms and individuals who care enough to assist these unfortunate youngsters, in whose shoes we ourselves might stand, but for the grace of God himself. All are invited to drop by the Center, to see what life is like for handicapped children, to ask if there is something you might do to help, to speak a word of encouragement to the director, to manifest love to the children who appreciate attention most of all!

Today's Oldsmobile: The year-end buy that pays off three ways.

Cutlass S Holiday Coupe

1. You save big money when you buy it. The 4th Annual Year-End Sale is on now at your Oldsmobile dealer's—and the savings are substantial on every new Olds in his stock!
2. You save even more money as you drive it. Olds is famous for features that help keep costs down. Like Positive Valve Rotators in every V-8 for peak performance thousands of miles longer... rustproof inner fenders... aluminum exhaust system... bias-belted tires... many more!
3. You get a nice bonus at trade-in time. An Olds is a good investment—traditionally you get more of your dollars back when you're ready to trade the next time around.

If you think you can't afford an Oldsmobile...it's time to think again.

Send a letter to North Vietnam.

Right now hundreds of Americans are being held captive in North Vietnam.

A few prisoners have made it back. They talk about bamboo cages. Vicious beatings. Malnutrition. Humiliation.

But the North Vietnamese will tell us nothing. And it's this silence that makes our appeal more urgent.

For the families at home, there is no word on who's alive. Who's dead. Or even who's being held. There is nothing. Except the anguish of not knowing.

Maybe you can change this. By writing to the one man who can change it: The President of North Vietnam.

Ask him to release the names of prisoners, allow them to write to their families, and let the Red Cross inspect the prisons to insure proper medical treatment and living conditions.

Remind him that he is bound by the 1949 Geneva Convention which his country signed. And by the Istanbul resolution.

North Vietnamese leaders do care about American public opinion. And if they think they can gain something by bowing to it, they will.

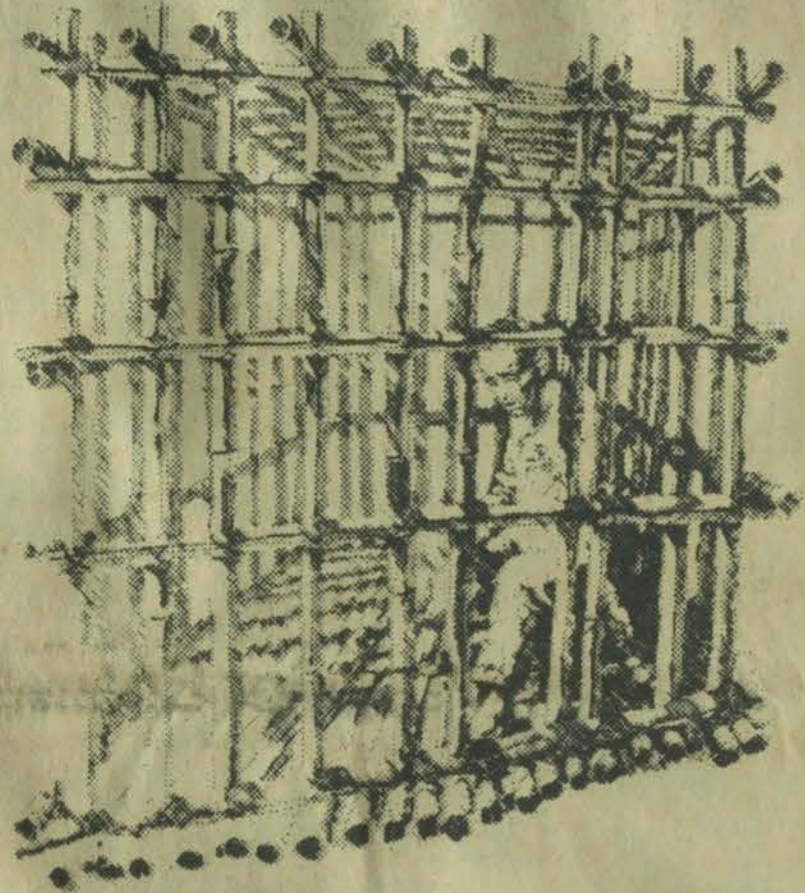

But one letter won't do it. Or a thousand. Maybe it will take millions. So we've got to write now. All of us. And often.

Write a letter tonight. And send it to: Office of the President, Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, North Vietnam.

It'll cost you a quarter. But it might save a life.

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS +

Maybe they'll open it.

State Outdoor Recreation Head Lauds Archer Park Work Results

Archer Park here, which has drawn its share of praise locally, has received from the director of Kentucky Outdoor Recreation, no less, the most enthusiastic commendation of all.

The director of recreation, Walter C. Strange, who works out of the Kentucky Program Development office, Frankfort, made an on-site inspection of the park, early last month. Then he reported on his findings, in glowing detail, as follows:

"Upon entering the park the immaculate care given this area is so outstanding it cannot help but be noticed. The second eye-catching thing is the number of people making use of every facility in the park. By actual count there were over 100 automobiles in the parking area.

"After talking with Mayor Archer and walking over the entire park, it was unbelievable at the number of activities taking place, not only while there, but the scheduled events were posted on the bulletin board. There are four and five ball games each day, swimming lessons each day, tennis lessons, dances, plays, concerts, demonstrations and all-around fun for everyone. These events range from leisure games to educational classes.

"While I was there I saw a flower garden that had just been set out with over 200 plants, with 20 different varieties of mums. This is a community project with the entire community participating.

"This is one of, if not the one, best-organized, efficiently run, well-kept, community-orientated, well-developed and an asset to the community it serves, of any recreation facility I have seen in the state.

"The proposed projects to be built with Bureau of Outdoor Recreation funds have been started. The foot-bridge has been built and work on ball fields and the senior citizen area has been started, all within the allocated amount requested. This park will be finished in the proposed time with more for the money than any other park I have seen.

"It is a pleasure to work with the people that have this type community spirit. They want what is good for the community. They do not have a communication problem with their young people. It is very evident what they think of the young people and older people by the facility they have built for them and the appreciation of the people using it and the care they have taken of it. There is no litter, no damage to facilities, a truly community effort."

Again, we are dealing with general questions and answers about drugs as printed by the U. S. Government Printing Office in 1970.

Often one gets the feeling that he is helpless in this rather complex and "fast moving" society. However, it is only through the extended efforts of hard working and dedicated individuals, that most social problems are resolved. With this in mind, we hope to answer the following question:

QUESTION: What can one do to help prevent the spread of drug abuse?

ANSWER: There are a number of things an individual can do:

1. He can set a good example by not abusing drugs himself. Since he can expect his children to model their drug-taking behavior after his, he can either refrain from drinking socially accepted alcoholic beverages, or drink in moderation.

2. He can learn as many facts as possible about drugs so that he will understand the problem and be equipped to discuss it in a reasonable manner.

3. If he learns that someone is peddling drugs, he should notify the authorities. It is the responsibility of both the individual and community to keep the dealers out.

4. He should do what he can to assist anyone wanting help for a drug problem while awaiting additional aid from a trained person or a treatment facility.

5. Most important of all, he can strive to meet the ideas of parenthood, trying to rear his children so that they are neither deprived of affection nor spoiled. He should have a set of realistic expectations for them. He should give his children responsibilities according to their capacities, and not overprotect them from the difficulties they will encounter. A parent should be able to talk frankly to his children, and they to him.

During the past few weeks, we have explored answers to questions about drugs and their misuse and abuse in general. In the next few weeks, we shall discuss details about the use of specific drugs—Marihuana, stimulants, sedatives, narcotics and lysergic acid diethylamide (LSD).

"Road Pros" Are Examples in Safety

With highway deaths rising, Kentucky motorists would do well to take lessons from the nation's safest drivers—truck drivers.

Truckers, despite covering 400 million miles a year in Kentucky alone, average about three accidents per million miles compared with 16 per million miles for automobile drivers.

"Truckers are proud of their safety record and try hard to maintain their high standard," says Paul K. Young, managing director of the Kentucky Motor Transportation Assn. (KMTA).

Young says regular physical check-ups, limited amounts of driving time, equipment inspection, and safe driving techniques help truckers keep accidents down.

The Kentucky Department of Motor Transportation helps by inspecting over 1000 trucks per month at weigh stations around the state.

In addition the Kentucky Traffic Safety Coordinating Committee (KTSCC) notifies the KMTA of any violations by trucks in the state.

Truckers depend on the art of defensive driving—seeing dangerous situations and avoiding accidents before they happen. They learn to leave themselves an alternate course in case of emergency in every maneuver.

Truckers say motorists should be more aware of signaling, braking distance, and adjusting speed to road and weather conditions. They complain most motorists do not concentrate enough on the job of driving.

"Some people believe trucks are a hazard on our roads but statistics prove otherwise," says Arthur E. Beard, KTSCC executive director. "We only hope for the day when Kentucky motorists reach a comparable level of safety."

Veterans in School Receive Soc. Sec. Aid

If you are a Vietnam veteran and going to school, you are probably getting help under the G. I. Bill. In addition to this, you might be eligible for a monthly check from social security, too.
If your parent is deceased or is getting a social security check, you should contact your Social Security Office. You must be under age 22, a full-time student and unmarried. The only sure way to know if you can qualify is to file an application. Be sure to take your parents social security number, your number if you have one, and your birth certificate. The folks in the office will take it from there.
Remember, if you are eligible, you can get your social security check in addition to any benefits under the G. I. Bill or scholarship you might have. The office for this area is at 421 Second Street, Pikeville, Kentucky and the phone number is 432-2177.

HEW Grant of $35,295 To Aid Regional Board

Congressman Carl D. Perkins announced last week that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has approved a grant of $35,295 for the adult activity program which will serve the moderately and severely retarded in the 20th Region's Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board.

Civil Disturbances Cost Ky. $137,000 In Military Funds

FRANKFORT, KY.—National Guard operations during civil disturbances over the past 16 months have cost the commonwealth over $137,000, according to Maj. Gen. Larry C. Dawson, state adjutant general.
Dawson said the Department of Military Affairs figures include rations and pay for active duty guardsmen but do not show the cost of fuel and maintenance for vehicles.
The two largest outlays came during the Louisville disturbance in May, 1968 and the recent disturbance on the University of Kentucky campus in Lexington. Costs were $114,386 at Louisville and $15,510 at UK.
Dawson says recent federal pay increases for servicemen have doubled the cost to the state because Kentucky law requires that state active duty pay equal federal pay.
Funding for civil disturbances or disasters is never budgeted. The money must come from the Governor's contingency fund or from Department of Military Affairs funds budgeted for other needs.

Telephone Rate Increase Asked

South Central Bell Telephone Company has filed a request with the Kentucky Public Service Commission for a revision in rates charged for basic telephone service that would yield the utility an increase in annual revenues of $14.8 million.

After taxes, the increase sought would net South Central Bell $7.3 million. This represents the first general statewide increase requested by the Company in 13 years, according to Paul D. McCandless, vice-president and general manager for the company in Kentucky.

"The revision is being requested to furnish funds needed by South Central Bell to fight the effects of the continuing inflationary spiral," the utility official said. "Despite our efforts to fight inflation by ever-increasing efficiencies in internal management, it just isn't enough to offset the ever-increasing cost of doing business, paying higher wages, and the higher cost of debt capital."

Mr. McCandless said that his Company is spending $7 million more on expansion in the state this year than in 1969 when South Central Bell spent $45 million.

The increased outlay of construction funds in part reflects the rising investment in each main telephone in the state, he said. The investment per main telephone in 1969 was $724, up from $441 in 1957, the year South Central Bell was granted its last general rate increase.

"And the cost of obtaining capital for expansion has increased from an average interest rate of 4.66 per cent in 1957 to an average annual interest rate of 8.74 per cent today. Actually, the current return we are getting from our Kentucky investment is less than the rate of interest we must pay to borrow capital," Mr. McCandless said.

"We are having to spend more each year," he pointed out, "to furnish Kentuckians with the modern and efficient communications services they are demanding and deserve."

During the 13 years since 1957, Kentuckians have had to pay substantially more for nearly every piece of merchandise and service they've bought, Mr. McCandless noted.

"Yet," he said, "intrastate telephone rates have not been raised, and in many cases long distance rates have been reduced. The proposed revision in rates which we filed with the Commission today represents only about a 12 per cent increase in our total annual revenues."

E.K.U. Dean's List Names Six From Floyd

Six students from Floyd county have been named to the dean's list at Eastern Kentucky University for the spring semester.

Dr. Thomas F. Stovall, Eastern's vice president for academic affairs, said the list, totaling 563, includes 88 students who made a perfect 4.0 standing. To attain the list, a student must make a scholastic average of 3.5 or better and carry a load of at least 14 hours.

The dean's list includes: Danny P. Caudill, Bevinsville; Robert M. Harris, Auxier; Deborah A. Warburton, Wayland; Betty S. Hutchinson and Sandra A. P. Ratliff, both of Martin; Shelba J. Shepherd, Watergap.

William M. James, of Ivel, will retire from United Fuel Gas Company's Production Department at Prestonsburg, July 1, after 29 years of service. He is taking advantage of the early retirement feature of the company's retirement plan, electing to leave before reaching the normal retirement age of 65.

Mr. James joined the gas company in 1941 as a utility man for the Production Department in Prestonsburg. In 1954 he became a well-tender and in 1956 assumed his present position as roustabout.

He is a member of the Free Will Baptist Church at Endicott, where he is a deacon. His hobbies are fishing and hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. James, the former Minerva Crider, of Endicott, are the parents of three children: John H. James, Middletown, Ohio; Stanley B. James, Pikeville, and Mrs. Norma L. Hinchman, Ivel.

During 1969, total number of local telephone calls made by Kentuckians served by South Central Bell averaged 5 million daily.

Romance of the Tulip Tree

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD Staff writer, UK College of Agriculture

"The tulip tree (is) now in full blossom. The flowers have a resemblance to tulips, look pretty, and though they have no smell to delight the nose, yet the eye is pleased to see trees as tall as full grown oaks covered with tulip-like flowers."

So wrote Peter Kalm in his diary on May 25, 1749 which two years later was printed under the title, "Travels In North America."

A Swedish botanist, Kalm had been sent to this continent the year before by the Swedish Academy of Sciences to "enlarge the number of varieties of useful plants and trees by the importation and planting of foreign seed."

Today, this stately, flowering tree which, according to some old-time lumbermen, sometimes reached a height of nearly 200 feet and boasted a diameter of 12 feet, still delights the eye. Unfortunately, though, most of the massive giants that once studded the Eastern United States and which Kalm wrote about more than two centuries ago, are gone.

Of the tulip, or poplar tree, it has been rightly said that it nurtured the pioneer American from the cradle to the grave. He was rocked in a cradle made from its wood. His cabin was often of hand-hewn poplar logs, he ate honey off a table of poplar puncheons—honey that bees had gathered from poplar flowers; fished from a canoe dug from a poplar log, and when he finally took leave of earth, his last remains were buried in a casket fashioned from poplar boards.

When plagued by chills and fever brought on by the exposure of a rigorous outdoor life in all kinds of weather, he treated himself with a powder pounded from its inner bark, and when suffering from headache, he alleviated the pain by applying a cool poultice of its crushed leaves to his forehead.

Known to botanists as "Liriodendron tulipifera," the tulip tree is also called poplar, yellow poplar, tulip poplar, and canoe tree. It has been a blessing to mankind and by the same token has likewise contributed to the welfare of many forms of useful wildlife.

Along with being an inspiration for artists, it has also stimulated the creative efforts of poets, essayists, and architects who have romanticized it in song, story, and building.

Because of its great beauty, few there are who will disagree with Grace Noll Crowell who long ago wrote in effect that on the day God made the first tall poplar grow on a hillside for an enchanted earth to see, He wrote His loveliest poem.

Probably because of its great majesty, North Americans have always loved the tulip tree and surrounded it with legend. It was one of Daniel Boone's favorites of the forest and it was in a 60-foot poplar dugout that he sailed away down the Ohio to Spanish territory, taking leave forever from what he considered an ingrate Kentucky.

Martin High School Graduates

MISS GOODMAN

Martin high school graduated 42 seniors in commencement exercises held June 4 in the Martin high school auditorium.

The valedictory address was given by Miss Nora Goodman, and the salutatory address by John Alan Salisbury. Diplomas were presented to the class by the principal, Phillip Dingus.

Scholarships and awards presented to the class by J. O. Dingus, assistant principal, included four-year presidential scholarships from Eastern Kentucky University to Nora Goodman and John Alan Salisbury, and academic scholarships to Linda Hogsed and Sharon Howard from Morehead State University, renewable each year if the student maintains satisfactory grade standing. Athletic grants-in-aid valued at $1,500 each from Lee's Junior College were presented to both Ernest Dudleson, Jr. and Ronnie Wright.

MR. SALISBURY

Bill Hughes, of Alice Lloyd College, conferred the two-year Alice Lloyd Memorial scholarships valued at $4,000 to Marcella Click and Gladys Meade.

David Chafin was the recipient of the Kiwanis Club scholarship, covering two years, which was presented by Sherrill Frazier. KHSAA Board Probe
Headed by Auxier

Kentucky Education Association vice-president Michael Auxier, of Emma, will be chairman of a five-member KEA committee to investigate activities of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association (KHSAA) Board of Control with regard to that board's procedure for electing board members and delegates.

The KEA Delegate Assembly directed that the committee be established in the wake of the statewide work stoppage of teachers during the legislative session. KHSAA ruled at that time that schools missing district basketball games could be suspended from competition up to one year.

The committee, named by KEA president Mrs. Ruth Reeves and the KEA board of directors, will report to the KEA board in March, 1971.

Auxier, immediate past president of the Floyd County Education Association, teaches mathematics and science at Betsy Layne high school.

IN BASIC TRAINING

San Antonio—Airman Billy D. Ousley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ester Ousley, of Mantion, has completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas. He has been assigned to Sheppard AFB, Texas, for training in the transportation field. Airman Ousley is a 1967 graduate of Martin high school and attended Morehead State University.

The VA says a recent law, PL 91-241, limits the amount the agency may withhold from veterans' disability compensation checks to recoup military disability severance pay.

Carroll Addresses Upward Bound Group

Julian Carroll, speaker of the Kentucky House of Representatives, spoke to more than 100 Upward Bound participants at Alice Lloyd College, recently.

The McCracken county native emphasized the importance of young people taking advantage of opportunities available while they are still in school. He also recognized that while many look at the hardships of life in Eastern Kentucky, there is much beauty and many natural resources and stressed the point that we must make sure that these will be available to future generations.

Mr. Carroll has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor and will be the running mate of Former Governor Bert T. Combs.

Let Us Labor For the Master . . .

"Take up your cross and follow me."
 Matt. 28: Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.

Matt. 29: Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest unto your souls.

Matt. 30: For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.

Pray ye the Lord of the harvest that He will send laborers into the harvest, for the harvest is ripe and the laborers are few.

Rev. 16:15: Behold, I come as a thief; blessed is he that watcheth and keepeth his garments, lest he walk naked and they see his shame.

Praise the Lord!—He is all in all.

Can you find the Volkswagen hidden in this picture?

If you can, you'll make us very sad. Because we've troubled ourselves no end to hide it from you.

Our quest for the invisible Volkswagen took us all the way to Turin, Italy.

Where we asked the famous Ghia Studios to design us a sporty Italian body. They did.

Then we secretly prowled about Europe for the best coach builder we could find. Success. To the Karmann Coachworks of Osnabrück we handed over Ghia's sketches with the injunction:

"Make it beautiful." (Or else.) They did.

They welded. And burnished. And sculpted. And sanded. And painted.

Until they had shaped in steel what Ghia had shaped in pencil.

Smug in the knowledge that nobody could ever mistake this beautiful car for a Volkswagen, we concealed our air-cooled engine in back. (For better traction.)

And made it go about 26 miles on just one gallon.

Then we gave this Volkswagen its final disguise:

We named it the Karmann Ghia.

Young Kentuckians Have Voice in Draft Conf.

Larry R. Knipp, of Soldier, and Thomas J. Smith III, of Richmond, will be delegates to the Selective Service System's Youth Advisory Committee's National Conference at Washington June 28-July 2.

Knipp is chairman of the state committee and Smith is a member. The 106 delegates will participate in the July 1 random sequence lottery drawing to determine the order for induction for the calendar year 1971. The drawing will be alphabetically by states.

Davidson said Knipp, a 1970 graduate of Morehead State University, and Smith, a senior at Centre College, should be able to say how young Kentuckians feel about the draft and to offer constructive suggestions on ways to improve communications between the government and young people.

The Youth Advisory Committees were established by presidential order last June, and since then have held two regional conferences—one in Washington and one in San Clemente.

The Kentucky Selective Service Advisory Committee consists of nine members representing high schools, colleges, graduate schools, vocational schools, and federally approved apprenticeship training programs.

According to the VA, veterans received more than 230,000 VA guaranteed and direct loans in the amount of about $4.2 billion in fiscal year 1969.

RECEIVES AWARD

An Outstanding Performance Certificate was presented June 24 to Mrs. Martha H. Johnson by Mrs. Janet B. Moore, area executive secretary, on behalf of Colonel Taylor L. Davidson, Kentucky Selective Service director. Mrs. Johnson is executive secretary of Local Board 166, Prestonsburg.

This type of certificate is presented in recognition of work performance which has exceeded normal job requirements as to merit special commendation for the period from April 1, 1969 to March 31, 1970.

Parks To Start
24-Hour Service

Food service will be an around the clock function at all state park lodges, effective immediately, W. James Host, commissioner of parks, has announced.

A limited menu will be available to registered guests at all hours. The menu included a selection of cold sandwiches, coffee, soft drinks, and packaged snacks.

A Sunday buffet also has been added to schedules. The meal is served from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Reservations at state parks now may be made a year in advance, Host said. The new policy went into effect June 1.

Previously reservations could be made only after Jan. 1 for the next 12 months. The change is for convenience of state park visitors and also to avoid the Jan. 1 rush for reservations.

Reservations for group meetings and conventions now may be made two years in advance.

"If the present trend continues", said Host, "1970 will break all records for telephone calls processed, reservations filled, reservations we were unable to fill and general information calls received by our central reservations service."

The report includes figures for the first five months of this year and shows calls processed at 1739, up 14 per cent; reservations filled, 6376, up nine per cent; reservations unable to fill at 10,167, up 17 per cent and general information calls are up 13 per cent.

The report also notes that in the first five months of 1970, 9749 rooms and 2224 cottages have been rented.
