

Memorial to War Dead Included In $100,000 Archer Park Work

The major work let to contract last week by the Prestonsburg Park Commission for Archer Park improvements costing approximately $100,000 involves construction of a War Memorial overlooking areas of play and dominating most of the entire park scene.

The memorial portion of the park will include a stadium from which action on three ball fields may be viewed; a fountain; the encircling of the area by the U. S. and Kentucky flags and the flags of all the states; a floral plot—and, at the back, on an expanse of bronze or some other permanent material, the names of all of Floyd county's dead of all the nation's wars.

The memorial will occupy a table-like elevation of approximately one acre. A portion will be dedicated to the memory of the late Mary Jane Harkins, who long was a leader in the development of Archer Park as a member of the Park Board.

Mayor George P. Archer, for whom the park was named, said this week permission will be sought to remove to the memorial area the remains of Samuel Bird, the "Lone Rebel" whose grave has long been an object of interest on the road to Bull Creek. Bird was fatally wounded in the battle of Middle Creek, which was fought near the present Archer Park site.

"A Confederate flag, of course, will fly at the grave of the Lone Rebel," Dr. Archer said.

The D. H. Holbrook Construction Company was low bidder on the memorial, three baseball fields and a training pool for children. The contract includes lighting for night softball play. Work has already been begun.

Discussing the memorial work, Dr. Archer said that financing will be a problem and that the only source of funds will be from Floyd countians who are interested in a permanent memorial to the county's war dead. None of the funds possible through a Department of Interior recreation development grant may be used for this purpose.

"In fact," said Dr. Archer, "we have none of these recreation funds unless we can match them, dollar for dollar. When I approach people, these days, for contributions to the park work, they dismiss me, saying, "You have plenty of money," referring to the $66,000 federal grant. What they didn't know, though, is this: Unless we match the grant with the same amount on our own, we have nothing."

A second contract awarded last week went to the May Sign Company for large arch-type signs at the two entrances to the park.

Being negotiated is a contract for a parking area, in semi-circular form, around the perimeter of the memorial area.

A sheltered, shady corner of the park is being developed by Prestonsburg Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, as a senior citizens' park. Shuffleboard and croquet courts are under preparation, and a picnic shelter where elderly citizens may enjoy checkers and other games has been begun.

Archer Park covers 32 acres on both sides of Middle Creek, which is spanned by three bridges. Recently completed at the Park was an area for public camping. The overall development within a period of five years has attracted the attention of city planners and others from a wide area.

3 Private Clubs Here Are Closed By Court Order

Three private clubs in Prestonsburg and vicinity were closed last Friday on orders of Circuit Judge Hollie Conley after Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo and County Attorney Barkley Sturgill had petitioned the court to issue restraining orders against two of the three.

One of the three, the Eagles Club here, was already closed, but it was included in the closure orders posted by Sheriff Frank Leslie. Commonwealth's Attorney Stumbo said the club failed to answer summons issued after he and City Attorney Albert A. Burchett had filed a complaint to close it. The time it had under law to make answer has expired, he added.

Other clubs closed in response to complaints filed by Stumbo and Sturgill are the Purple Onion Club on the Dewey Lake road, near Lancer, and the VFW Club at Lancer. The suits asked that they be closed as nuisances.

The temporary restraining orders issued against the clubs will be in effect till hearings are held. Then the closing orders (See Story No. 6, Page 10)

Camp Shawnee May Have Best Season

Camp Shawnee, Lonesome Pine Boy Scout Council's center in the upper Dewey Lake section, may be in for its biggest season ever, Scout Executive George P. Chidester said this week.

The outlook for an unusual camping season is based on the registration to date of 200 Scouts. At the same time last year only 50 had registered. Facilities for the second week of camping are already full, and 90 had registered Monday for the first week. A maximum of 150 boys can be accommodated at one time.

The camping season will begin July 6 and continue through August 2. Camp Shawnee serves 10 counties in Eastern Kentucky and three in Virginia.

Holiday Quiet, Few Arrested

Memorial Day week-end passed without a Floyd county fatality, and the period was, on the whole, quiet, despite a heavy influx of visitors.

The number of arrests was at a season low as officers reported no liquor raids and few serious offenses. Only 12 persons were booked at the county jail from Friday through Sunday.

Monday, Sheriff Frank Leslie and State Detective Chester D. Potter investigated the theft of gasoline, oil and a grease gun from equipment on Bull Creek where strip-mining is ready to begin. Tire and footprints were found. Nobody has been arrested.

Among those jailed were: Elmer Crum, driving while under the influence of intoxicants and without operator's license, arrested by State Trooper Kenneth DeBoard; Frankie VanHoose, breaking and entering, held for Johnson county authorities; James Willard Stephens, a.w.o.l., by FBI; Kenneth Miller, Daniel Hall and Jerry Collett, a.w.o.l., by (See Story No. 5, Page 10)

OUR ERROR

The Times last week made a monumental "boo-boo" when it listed two state troopers and a deputy sheriff as having been fined by juries in quarterly court here.

The names of Troopers Gary Rose and Leeman Bevins and Deputy Sheriff Bill A. Hall were erroneously listed when their names were copied from the face of the warrants instead of the names of the defendants whom they had arrested.

Mine Industry Loss Not New for County

This Town . . . That World

NOT BOASTING

If I had any wood to knock on (don't suggest my head), I would dare to state here that for five months now this newspaper has been printed on Wednesday mornings. We hastily add that this is not to boast; rather, it is to point out that if we are to continue to get the paper out early, all display advertising must be in our hands not later than 5 p.m. Monday—and earlier, if possible.

Advertisers have been very cooperative, and it is always unpleasant for us to be obliged to tell one, arriving late, that our deadline has passed.

WHY WE WERE LATE

Time was, and not such a long time ago it was, that we were consistent in only one thing—this paper was consistently late. And then was when we learned how patient people can be with a fellow in trouble. . . Only this week I learned what may be the main reason for our being late in publishing, those days. Lenna Moore was one of my news sources in those days, and he admits it took me so long to determine if what he said was true that the paper wound up behind schedule.

I liked this sign at a local drive-in:
EAT NOW . . .
PAY WAITER

EXCUSE?

Had an idea of attending the Billy Graham Crusade in Knoxville last week, but didn't go. Had an idea I would be accused of going via Norris Lake.

GORGEOUS GORGE COUNTRY

In future weeks I expect to check up on Johnson county geography, and if I find that the proposed Paint Creek reservoir will damage that great gorge scenery out on a country road that we travelled recently I'll make the squawk voiced by the Sierra Club about the damage to the Red River Gorge sound like the cheep of a sleepy sparrow. "Gorgeous" isn't the word for this gorge country, down there in Johnson. I prefer "wonderful," and if pushed would even go up to "sublime."

Wheelwright Has Dilemma Similar To Wayland Area

Those who have sounded the death knell for the town of Wheelwright because of the loss of coal mining jobs have only to look to the Right Beaver section of this county to see that their dark predictions are premature, it was pointed out here this week.

Several years ago, the Elk Horn Coal Corporation—which, incidentally, began the mining development at Wheelwright—closed shop at its two mining centers on Right Beaver Creek, at Garrett and Wayland.

Since that time, a business leader who declined to be identified points out it has been a struggle, but neither Wayland nor Garrett died. The only mining activity in the immediate area was carried on by the Evans Elkhorn Coal Company and numerous truck-mine operations. "Big Elkhorn" was gone, but it was home for those who had worked for the company, and most of them stuck it out. Wayland and Garrett and smaller towns between the two continued to function as before—maintained their municipal governments, had their churches, schools and independent businesses. The population declined but not disastrously so.

It is pointed out that the Right Beaver Creek mining centers benefitted from the fact that they are not "at the end of the line," as is Wheelwright, and that roads serving them extend on into Knott county. But Wheelwright is less than a mile from KY 122 which runs up the Left Beaver Creek valley and goes on into Pike county.

Houses stand deserted in Wheelwright, the tennis courts sprout grass for lack of use, The Courier-Journal reports. But there are those who contend that Island Creek, the coal company which recently closed several of its mines and laid off more than 300 of its workers, may find it possible to reopen. It is said that the coal reserves there do not justify the heavy expense Island Creek would be required to bear in complying with the new federal mine safety

"Blanket Raise" Fear Lifts, Assessment Up

The first recapitulation of the Floyd county assessment of taxable properties is nearly $3 million above the assessment figures arrived at last year, and as a consequence it is expected that the state will not again order a blanket assessment increase.

Tax Commissioner Harry Gordon Allen's office said this week that a representative of the Department of Revenue recently inspected the new assessment totals and that he indicated satisfaction with them. Last year, a blanket increase was made to bring the assessment to the total demanded by the Department of Revenue.

The total assessment in this year's first recap stands at $111,253,721—roughly, $2.9 million above the first assessment recap last year.

5 Fertilizings For Dewey Lake Set This Season

The fertilization program at Dewey Lake will continue this summer for the fourth consecutive year, it was announced last week.

The program was initiated by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Game and Fish, in 1967, and is widely credited with improved fishing at the lake. Effects of fertilization has been closely studied by the department since the program began, and this study will continue this year, with population studies and creel census being stressed.

In all, 1670 bags of fertilizer will be introduced to the impoundment. Three hundred thirty-four bags will be used on each of the five scheduled fertilization dates. This is the same volume of fertilizer used per application last year, it was said.

Dates for fertilization are June 11, June 25, July 9, July 23 and August 12.

Last Week's Primary Election Was Costliest Per Vote Cast

Last Tuesday's "mini" election cost Floyd county in the neighborhood of $22 per vote cast, it was said here after the smallest vote on record had been tallied.

Only 227 votes were cast in the county, and the cost of the election will run around $5000.

No election was held at New Martin precinct No. 19 for lack of election officers, but no votes were tallied in four other precincts—Halbert, Depot, John Possum (at Martin) and Jack Allen. In the six Prestonsburg precincts—No. 1, No. 2, Depot, Richmond, Cliff and Porter—only 26 votes were cast.

Tickey precinct recorded the heaviest balloting with 13 votes cast. Maytown and Prater, with 12 votes each, shared second place in this department.

The light vote resulted from the fact that there was no Democratic primary, since Congressman Carl D. Perkins was unopposed for renomination, and only the nomination of a Republican to oppose him in November concerned the voters.

Herbert Myers, of Louisa, polled 145 votes in the Republican Congressional race in this county to 82 for H. H. Wheeler, of Lexington.

Incidentally, Myers won the nomination, according to unofficial returns from the Seventh district.

Johnson Victim In Mine Mishap

One of the remaining active mines in this county of the Island Creek Coal Company claimed one of its oldest employees May 26 when I. B. Johnson, a 29-year veteran of the company's Buckingham mine was fatally injured in a haulage accident. He was 55 years old.

It was said Johnson had planned retirement at the end of work last Friday.

Working on a supply motor which was hauling supplies into the mine, Johnson crouched on a running board to the motor, with a small powder box on the board, in front of him. As the motor was going into a section of 34-inch clearance, the powder box in some unexplained fashion caught on the roof and rolled onto Johnson, crushing his chest. He was dead on arrival at the McDowell Regional Hospital.

The victim was a native of this county and was a son of the late E. L. and Sarah Thornsby Johnson. He was a member of UMW Local Union 5899 at Wheelwright. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Barbara Osborne Johnson; one son, Billy G. Johnson, of Buckingham; six brothers and two sisters, Herbert Johnson, of Buckingham, Ivory Johnson, Wheelwright, Edgar Johnson, of Allen, Arthur Johnson, Columbus, O., Mrs. Myrtle Reynolds, of Allen, and Mrs. Mary Hicks, Langley. He also leaves one grandchild.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10 a.m. Friday from Joppa Regular Baptist Church, and burial was made in Buckingham cemetery under direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel.

Funeral services were held at 11 a.m., Monday, at the First Baptist church at Wheelwright with Brother Harve Johnson officiating. Burial was made in the Allen cemetery at Lancer under direction of Merion Funeral Chapel.

Stream Would Be An Asset If It Wasn't Dead

The dedication and the ingenuity which have marked the development and progress of Archer Park here are little short of remarkable, and this newspaper would congratulate all who have played a part in this community undertaking that really has its effect far outside the limits of Prestonsburg.

As this thought occurs, we are impressed by another fact which is not so pleasant. Through this park, which has brought here many from other cities and states who would emulate the example it sets, runs Middle Creek. The stream has already been spanned by bridges, the two sections of the park are well-connected, Middle Creek creates no barrier problem.

The stream, in fact, is an asset. . . but for one backset. It is a running Dead Sea. Nothing, not even the hardiest crawfish, lives in it. Fish would naturally run up Middle Creek from the Big Sandy, into which it empties nearby, except for the fact that acid mine water makes the stream, all the way to David, uninhabitable. That's ten miles of running deadness.

Those industrious, ingenious people who have meant so much to Archer Park and their community have enough to do without having another job assigned them, but we hope the time will come when they grow tired of a situation for which they are not to blame and demand of the Kentucky Water Pollution Commission that it get its authority and technical know-how to work.

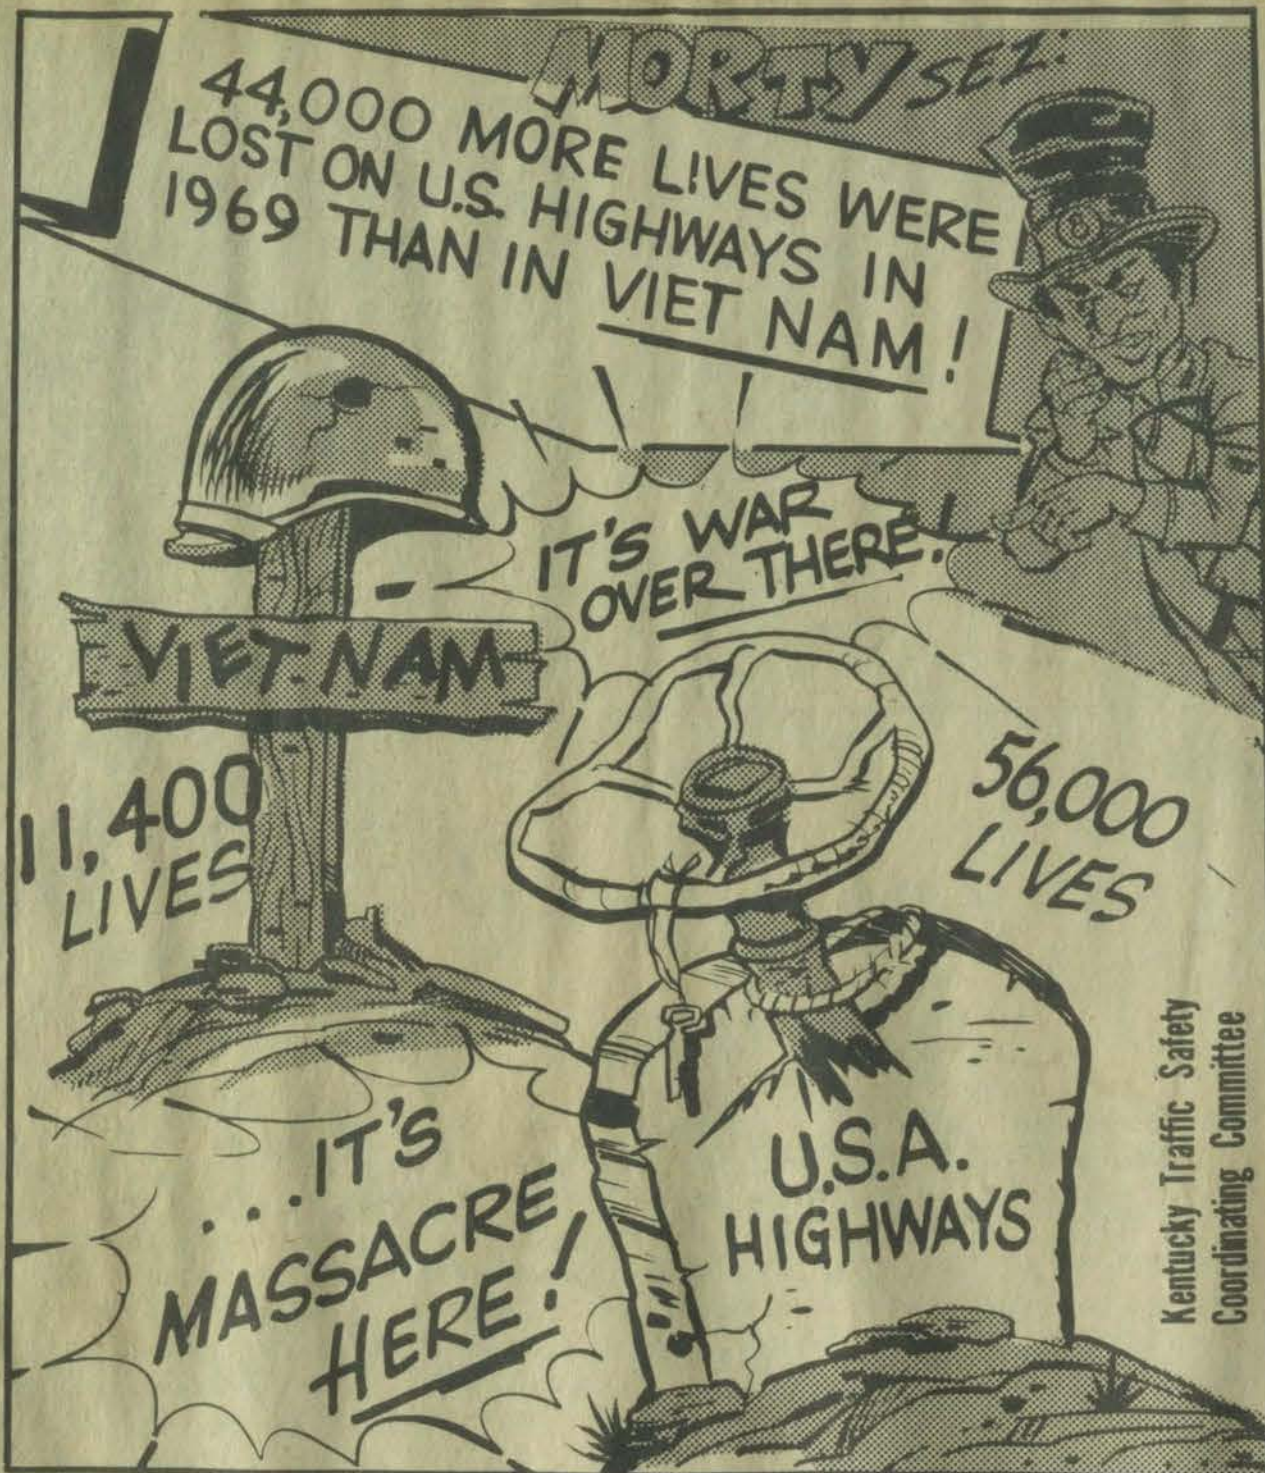

Somebody, somewhere, has the ability and the power to force a mining company to keep its acid mine waters out of Middle Creek and other once-clear and productive streams.

Nature Trails By Rufus M. Reed

We of the Tri-State Region live in the environment of a hill country; we have grown up with hills, and their beauty and grandeur are in our blood. West Virginians love their hills deeply and sing of their sublime beauty in the state's popular song, "The West Virginia Hills." Kentuckians adore their native hills and often speak of their glory when the dogwoods and redbuds appear on the slopes in one grand color panorama of the spring.

We of this region are now at the crossroads: We can stop the gradual but sure destruction of our hills and save at least a portion of their glory and grandeur for the rising generations, or we can sit idly by and let the forces of destruction rape our hills of their beauty and timber and face the consequences of an eroded, ravished land over which the buzzards will fly with a loathsome gloating.

Our hills are mostly made up of steep lands, which rise to greet the morning sun. For untold ages trees have been produced on the slopes of the hills, to give them stability, beauty and grandeur. Tree roots are like human fingers gripping the soil and holding it back; trees prevent erosion of the soil, conserve the water supply, put a leaf mold on the ground that acts like a sponge to absorb the moisture and prevent droughts. When man cuts down the forests on steep, mountain land, he lays it open to be destroyed by washing rains; a bare hillside soon falls a victim of gullies and heavy rains that carry down muddy torrents to the streams below.

Aside from strip-mining, which speeds up the erosion of the hills, the next most destructive operation is the removal of the timber. If this goes on at the present rate, our hills will eventually be eroded and completely ruined.

I note in many sections they are now cutting and removing practically all the timber from steep mountain lands; the trees, both big and small, are being cut down and removed. The smaller trees, mostly tulip poplars, cucumber, sugar-maples and others, are being cut and made into mine props. There is little left on the hills but unsightly tree-laps, stumps and the deep trenches made by bulldozers that haul the timber down the steep slopes. The old-time methods of logging left the land in fairly good shape; a few logging roads were made, leading to "dumps," where the timber was rolled down the slopes to the level. Nowadays, the bulldozers go into the wooded hills and make roads up hill and down and all around the hillsides, leaving them to become victims of serious erosion. The landscape is soon ruined with gullies and the soil is soon washed away; the ruts get deeper with every heavy rain and the muddy waters flow into the creeks and down into the rivers, polluting the waters.

There are no laws or regulations governing timbering methods on steep mountain lands. A man who owns the land and the timber doggedly insists on his right to cut any or all of the timber as he chooses. But in doing so he creates many hazards; there is the hazard of heavy brush fires that get started in the discarded tree-laps and soon burn over all the land, killing out the small shrubs, and there is the hazard of soil destruction.

We fail to heed the history of the fallen nations of ancient times. Cutting down the forests helped to destroy ancient Babylon, Syria, Persia, Carthage and other nations by destroying their soil through rapid erosion.

But men refuse to listen to the lessons of history; they refuse to look ahead to the future, and if you asked them, "What will the rising generations do when the soil is all washed away, the timber all gone, and the coal all mined out of these hills?" they reason, in effect:

Let the rising generations root hog or die. So they think only of the present gain; their minds are polluted with greed and selfishness; the dollar sign has added their brains so that they cannot think logically.

We are in an environmental crisis today because of the greed and selfishness of man and because of his willful waste and destruction of earth's resources. But the time is near at hand when man is going to have to pay the penalty of his greed and destruction of earth's resources. Nature is long-suffering but when she rebels against man's wanton violation of her laws, she will exact a severe penalty.

One of the greatest tragedies of our hills is the removal of the timber—nearly all of it—on steep mountain lands. There should be a law requiring the timbermen to set two trees back for every one taken; there should also be a law forbidding the cutting of the small trees, which would eventually yield a supply of much-needed lumber. By cutting down trees of all sizes men make the future supply of lumber a most serious problem; there is going to come a time when there won't be one-tenth enough lumber to supply the demand for all kinds of necessities.

While our supply of coal is more extensive than that of timber, this supply is by no means inexhaustible. Yet men who are after the coal say now is the time to get it all; we'll leave none for the future generations. So they tear down the mountains with huge bulldozers to get all the coal. But there will come a time when all the coal and timber are going to be used up and future generations are going to be plagued by a scarcity of the natural resources that will surely bring them to disaster.

It is small wonder that many of the younger generation now rise up and point an accusing finger at the oldsters for their short-sighted ways that have destroyed the environment in many ways and made the future of the young people hazardous even to contemplate.

Whatsoever Things By DONALD E. WILDMON

For 17 years the Green Gate was a striptease club in San Antonio, Texas. All kinds of people came to the Green Gate. Some were lonely people seeking companionship. Some were frustrated people, trying to sap a temporary thrill from a life that had no meaning. Some were ignorant people who thought life offered nothing higher than a bottle of booze and a naked dame.

The Green Gate is closed now. It's out of business. It wasn't so much a lack of business that closed the Green Gate. It was more of a change of attitude on the part of the owner. Guy Linton closed down his club and said it will stay closed. Linton even posted a sign over the club door which read: "Closed Forever".

There's many clubs like the Green Gate still in operation across the country. Thousands of them. There people can go to find lights low, music loud, and booze plentiful. Many of them do a thriving business, living off the superficial food they offer to the deep hunger in the human heart.

Dr. Gallup ran a poll on happiness many years ago. He found that the most unhappy people were those who visited the taverns and clubs. Life magazine said some time back that we spend more than forty billion dollars a year seeking this elusive thing known as happiness.

Will Rogers used to tell about a druggist who was asked if he ever took time off from his duties to have a good time. The druggist said that he did not, but that he sold a lot of headache medicine to those who did.

What is a good time? How do you define it? Is it something that has no lasting value in it, is gone when you wake up the next morning? Or is it the deep satisfaction that comes from knowing you are drinking deep from the cup of life offered by the Father? Surely happiness comes from having some great objective, beneficial to mankind, and single-mindedly pursuing that objective with all the strength in oneself.

Some of those who are seeking happiness in the clubs and taverns are surprised when they finally find happiness. They are surprised to find that it comes not from a club but from a Cause. A great and demanding Cause. Guy Linton found it in this manner. You see, Linton made his decision to close the Green Gate after listening to Rev. Bob Harrington, the "Chaplain of Bourbon Street," speak to a standing-room-only crowd. Now Guy Linton has, to use familiar words, "changed over to the Lord's side."

But don't worry about the Green Gate. Linton has said that the Green Gate will be turned into a religious bookstore. Let's hope the Green Gate keeps its same customers that it has had for many years.

And unless other club owners are ready to close down their clubs, we advise them to stay away from the Man of Galilee.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SAYS AMERICA IS DYING

Why must America die? She is dying, you know. There is a cancer in her body. Daily, these destructive cells multiply and grow stronger. They have spread throughout her body. They breed on her vital organs, eating away the precious life of one so young—too young to die. Once strong and healthy, she is now weak and falling. Once proud of the liberty she gave her people, but now willing to let them fall to slavery. She once gave birth to men who would stand before the sword of tyranny and speak words that would echo through the ages—"Give me liberty or give me death". Now she gives birth to cowards—cowards who would trade liberty for comfort. Cowards who send the brave to die in wars they aren't allowed to win. Cowards who allow emissaries of her enemy to burn and plunder; to fly the enemy flag in her streets; to kill her policemen and distort the minds of her young.

Put your ear to the wind, America, listen closely to the sounds mingled with the night. What's that?—hoof beats—on cobblestone—running fast! Yes, the spirit of Paul Revere once again rides the darkened streets. once again the warning is shouted. Once again the brave prepare to fight; but now, as then, the brave number only a few. Only a few to stand at the bridge. Only a few condemned as extremists. Only a few—

ONE SERVICEMAN'S REACTION

This from a letter written by Sp. 4 Frank Hyden, in Vietnam, to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hyden, of Auxier:

"I just heard on the radio about the National Guard shooting those students at Kent State. It seems like the kids have gone wild. Maybe they will learn that when you play with fire you might get burned. Maybe if a few of them would come over here and see what it's like they wouldn't protest so much. It really makes me mad to hear about all those who think they can make the world a better place to live in by complaining and protesting.

"I think Nixon is using his head by going into Cambodia. I also think we should start bombing North Vietnam again. . . The people back home should realize that we're fighting a war over here, not playing games. . . I may be wrong about these things, but I feel that I should have a better idea about it than those people that have never been here."

Mental Retardation

(The information for this section is provided by the staff of Mountain Mental Health Services. If you have questions contact your local Mental Health Office (phone 886-3893), or John E. Mason, Community Coordinator, Mountain Mental Health Services, 413 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg.)

On February 20, 1970, President Nixon wrote: "Drug misuse is a growing national problem. Hundreds of thousands of Americans endanger their health through the inappropriate use of drugs of all kinds."

Our questions and answers for this and the next few weeks will be taken from the same U. S. Government document as the quote by the President.

Q: Why are drugs being abused these days?

A: Drug abuse is not a new phenomenon. Varying forms of drug abuse have been present for years in the United States' and other countries. There are many reasons for the current epidemics of drug misuse. Very broadly, drug abuse can be described as an effort by individuals to feel different than they do. Many drugs temporarily allow their users to evade frustrations, to lessen depression and feeling of alienation, or to escape from themselves. Such misuse of drugs, of course, does not produce any improvement in the problems of the individual or society. Rather, it is a flight from problems.

Some of the factors in the great "turn-on" of recent years are:

1. The widespread belief that "medicines" can magically solve problems.
2. The number of young people who are dissatisfied or disillusioned, or who have lost faith in the prevailing social system.
3. The tendency of persons with psychological problems to seek easy solutions with chemicals.
4. The easy access to drugs of various sorts.

5. The development of an affluent society that can afford drugs.

6. The statements of proselytizers who proclaim the "goodness" of drugs.

Q: Why do dependency producing drugs have such a wide range of effects upon different users?

A: The effects of mind-altering substances are related to the expectations of the user, the setting in which the use takes place, and the potency of the drug. Mind-altering substances can have vastly different effects upon different people because such drugs release individual underlying personality traits that are ordinarily covered up. Internal controls are diminished or eliminated; one (1) person may become angry, another amorous, a third happy, others disoriented, confused or depressed, etc.

Even the same person taking the same dose of a drug on a subsequent occasion may have an entirely different response. As self-control is lost, the person reacts to suggestions from people around him and the setting in which the drug is taken. These factors can markedly alter the drug's effects.

Q: Do drug abusers take more than one (1) drug at a time?

A: People who abuse one (1) drug tend to take all sorts of drugs. Some of them say they are looking for a new "high." Some will take any drug to get outside themselves. Some play chemical roulette by taking everything, including unidentified pills.

will either be dismissed or made permanent.

The Purple Onion was attacked on the grounds that it operated without the required roadhouse permit. The suit alleged that the Sheriff had complained to the Commonwealth's Attorney, saying the club is a public nuisance and that the criminal processes are not effective to control it. It also was claimed that there have been several instances of law violations in and near the club.

The other complaint pointed out that the VFW Club has been convicted in Prestonsburg police court within the last three months on a charge of possessing alcoholic beverages in dry territory for the purpose of sale. It alleged that the owners of the club knowingly permitted use of the premises for the unlawful possession of alcoholic beverages and also pointed out that under Section 242.230, Kentucky Revised Statutes, the club is guilty of being a nuisance and that any property so used shall be forfeited to the state.

law, but some hope is held that the stringent regulations now applied to non-gaseous, drift-mouth mines will not continue to beset the industry.

Or, it is hoped, in the absence of resumed operations by the big coal corporation, small operators will pick up the slack. Men who have made a lifetime vocation of mining will drive, too, to other mines in this and Pike county and still make Wheelwright home, is another hope. Many thousands of tons of coal remain to be mined in the area where the mines closed.

While Wheelwright was owned by the Inland Steel Company it was regarded as a model among the nation's company-owned mining towns. It stood as a tribute to the interest in the community of the late E. R. (Jack) Price, for many years general manager of Inland Steel operations there.

"Mr. Price would turn over in his grave if he knew what his town had run into," said one who recalled how Wheelwright was Jack's Price's town and how the town in turn owned Jack Price. The Pennsylvania native watched the community as carefully as he did the mining of coal. He saw to it that it had its church, its school, its streets surfaced and neat, its houses painted, the surroundings as attractive as possible. He established Floyd county's first municipal library there. He walked the town, and when he saw something that needed to be done, the order went out, and it was done.

Mine and other refuse were dumped into a nearby hollow, which became known as "Garbage Hollow." Mr. Price resented the unsightly accumulation and the name it gave the place. So he put men to work. The garbage went. In its place was built a nine-hole golf course, with the first grass greens in the county.

At one time, there was a high incidence of infant deaths from dysentery. The county and state health departments were called in for a study to determine the cause. Mr. Price was told that the only solution lay in eliminating the outdoor toilets that dotted the town and replacing them with indoor plumbing. A sewage disposal plant would have to be built, too, he was told.

Asked how long the work would require, Dr. Marvin Ransdell, the head of the county health department, said it would normally be three or four years before all the miners' homes and company installations could be plumbed and the disposal plant could be in operation. But, knowing the interest of Jack Price in the community, he said he expected the work to be done in two years.

He was wrong. A year after the health departments had told him what was needed, Mr. Price had every home in Wheelwright with indoor plumbing and the disposal plant in operation. The scourge of dysentery passed.

Mr. Price's interest extended beyond his town. Eastern Kentucky became "home" to him. One of his last visits to Kentucky, if not his last, after retirement was when Bert Combs, of Prestonsburg, was inaugurated governor of Kentucky. Jack Price came to Kentucky from Maryland for the occasion. "I couldn't miss seeing an Eastern Kentuckian become governor of Kentucky," he told friends.

VISIT IN INEZ

Mr. and Mrs. Rainley White called on relatives and friends in Inez, Memorial Day.

Program of Drug Education Aim of Meeting Held Here

County Drug Education Committees of those counties which comprise Region 20 met at the Presbyterian Church here May 26. Co-sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Mental Health and the Mountain Mental Health Services, the meeting had as its primary purpose the organizing of lay committees in each county (Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike) to assume responsibility for the development of an intense countywide drug education program.

Participants on the program were Edgar A. Moles, Ph.D., chief of the Bureau of Narcotics and Drug Education, Kentucky Department of Mental Health; Robert Hall, director, Guidance Counseling and Experimental Education, Alice Lloyd College; and two residents and a staff member, NIMH Clinical Research Center, Lexington, Kentucky. The Research Center has as one of its functions the treatment of people who are addicted to drugs. Another participant, the Rev. William D. Jagers, is a member of Mountain Mental Health Services and is Region 20 drug education coordinator.

Moles, who chaired the all-day meeting, said that one of the problems that may be leading to increased abuse of drugs is a 20th Century concept of "better living through chemistry." He noted that in talking about drugs it does no good, and in fact is harmful, to "moralize, sermonize or scare." He urged those present to "tell it straight," remarking that youth of today often feel that adults over 30 are dishonest. Moles said that often adults talk "out of both sides of their mouth." He said we must "practice what we preach" and stop exhorting youth to "do as I say, not as I do."

Hall, who dealt with how to work effectively with groups, said that, though adults don't want to get involved, they must. He noted that "young people want guidance—responsible guidance." He hit hard at the frustrations and ambiguities of adolescence. He said adults exhort youth to "be responsible but give them no responsibility; be involved but don't change things." Both Hall and Moles said the youth want older adults to listen, not necessarily give in.

A highlight of the meeting was in the afternoon when the staff member and two residents of NIMH Clinical Research Center dealt with "The Truth About Drugs." The residents freely answered questions from the group.

They noted that "junkies" are human and needs treatment as such. They felt the "addict" was not "cured" by punishment. They felt most addicts felt unloved and that they were making no contribution. They noted most addiction was from a minor use of drugs—sometimes out of curiosity—to the use of heroin. One 20-year-old began on marijuana; the other, 37, began with diet reduction and then sleeping pills. Both emphasized that the people one associates with does have a decided affect. Both strongly felt the use of marijuana should not be legalized until more research is done to determine its long-range effects. Both strongly urged parents to love and understand, not resort to anger and abuse.

The Rev. Jagers concluded the meeting by discussing the role of the drug education coordinator, county chairman and county drug committees. County Chairmen selected by the county committees are:

FLOYD, Dr. Catherine Shrewsbury; JOHNSON, Mrs. Blanche Patrick; MAGOFFIN, Theresa Preston; MARTIN, Rosemary Moore; PIKE, Steve Friend.

The meeting, it was said, was the first of a series that, hopefully, will lead to a drug education program that will stop and reverse the problem of drug abuse.

UF Search for Gas To Reach Floyd Co.

United Fuel Gas Company's annual search for gas in the Appalachian area is going to be expanded this year and it will cost $4.2 million, according to James S. Phillips, chairman of the board. The company will drill 74 wells, as compared with 18 wells in 1969.

Floyd, Martin and Pike counties are included in the drilling schedule.

Phillips said the company has conducted drilling activities annually to develop reserves ever since the company was organized in 1903.

United Fuel will drill 33 wells in West Virginia, 25 in Kentucky and 16 in Virginia. No wells were drilled in Virginia last year.

West Virginia's share of the program will be $1,759,704, Kentucky's $1,118,787 and Virginia's $1,385,209.

Drilling will be done in Jackson, Kanawha, Lincoln, McDowell, Mingo, Raleigh, Wayne and Wood counties, West Virginia, and in Buchanan, Dickenson and Tazewell counties, Virginia, as well as in the three Kentucky counties.

Some of the wells have already been drilled or drilling is under way. In addition to the drilling program, United Fuel plans to install 60 miles of field lines to gather gas produced by the wells. The lines will vary from two to 12 inches in diameter and will cost $1.7 million.

"United Fuel has 3,915 producing gas wells," Mr. Phillips said. "These wells and the gas purchased from local producers' wells provide United Fuel and its affiliates with about 14 per cent of the gas they need. The other 86 per cent is purchased by United Fuel from Southwest suppliers."

So far United Fuel has drilled three wells in the recently-discovered Ripley-Newburg field in Jackson county, West Virginia. Other companies also are drilling wells in the area.

The Rocky Fork field in Kanawha and Putnam counties of West Virginia is still productive, but the rate is declining. More than 130 wells have been drilled in it. United Fuel has drilled 35 wells in Rocky Fork at a cost of approximately $2.2 million. Land rentals and royalties paid by United Fuel in the field so far total approximately $1.7 million.

Russell Hagewood, Prestonsburg banker, holds the 6½-pound smallmouth bass which he caught recently, fishing out of Alligator Dock on Lake Cumberland. Next day, Mrs. Carl R. Horr, also of Prestonsburg, landed a 6-pound smallmouth. Her fish struck, only a few feet from where Hagewood's took the lure.

TAKES TWO-WAY LOOK

FRANKFORT, KY.—Gov. Louie B. Nunn met with his 16 commissioners and state program development administrator separately and then in a group May 26-28 to review the past and prepare further for the remainder of his administration.

Larry Van Hoose, the governor's press secretary, noted June 30 marks the end of one two-year fiscal span and July 1 the beginning of another.

Among topics listed for discussion were: Problem areas, goals and objectives, and present and future programs and projects of each department.

Overall goals of the Nunn administration and policy decisions which are not being cleared through his office.

Coordination of federal grants and other federal-state matters through the Kentucky Program Development Office.

Budgetary consideration, the personnel situation in each department and the amount of time each commissioner devotes to his job.

TIME TO REGISTER

Now is the time for all unregistered but otherwise qualified Kentuckians to register to vote in the Nov. 3 general election. Registration books were to be reopened June 1 after being closed, March 29 through May 31, due to the May 26 primary elections. They will be closed again Sept. 6 until after the November election.

Kentuckians in November will elect seven members of the U. S. House of Representatives and a judge of the Court of Appeals from the Third district. They also will vote on a proposed bond issue of $48.3 million to finance construction projects for mental health, corrections, child welfare and schools for the deaf and the blind.

RECREATION CALLED 'INDUSTRY'

Private business should get more deeply involved "in making Kentucky the recreational heartland of midwest America," Gov. Louie B. Nunn declared in dedicating the new $6 million Barkley Lodge at Lake Barkley State Park near Cadiz.

He described the 120-room lodge as "the crowning jewel for Kentucky's State Park system" but said state government cannot continue "to underwrite such an elaborate travel and recreation effort at the expense of other needed facilities."

The governor said thousands of acres are available and "developing these lands with resorts and campgrounds is just as much 'industry' as bringing in new factories."

CAMPS FOR BOYS OPEN JUNE 14

Kentucky State Police will initiate the 1970 series of week-long camping trips for needy boys at Trooper Island, Dale Hollow Reservoir, June 14. The first contingent will consist of some 40 boys, ages 11 to 14, from Kentucky's 14 westernmost counties.

A VISIT WITH NATURE:

Hills Echo To Profane Noises

I was born and grew up in the Kentucky hills and I am proud of my heritage; I have loved these hills from my youth, and like the Psalmist of old "I lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help." I have in my long life written five books of poetry mainly about the hills; one of these is entitled: "Echoes from the Hills."

The echoes I used to hear coming down from the hills were those of joy and peace; they filled my heart with a nameless yearning to know more about the beauties and mysteries of the hills. I used to listen to the violin solos of the wind in the ridgetop oaks, and to the Aeolian harps of the breezes as they played heavenly music in the old pines; I used to listen in rapture to the flute-like voice of the wood thrush as it dropped down fine and silvery from the heights; I used to think that the Kentucky hills were the temples of the Almighty. He filled them with rugged grandeur and He sifted them high above the valleys, so that in autumn they become great outdoors studios where nature displays her wondrous color show. God always seemed more real to me on the crest of the hills, where silence is deep, profound, and I could always feel closer to Him on some high Kentucky hill.

Of late I am hearing strange echoes coming down from my native hills. I am beginning to see ghastly scenes of destruction—a destruction that defies words to describe in all its horrible aspects.

Today instead of the song of the wind in the oaks, I hear the thunderous roar of mighty bulldozers that gnaw and tear at the very heart of these hills, destroying them root and branch. Today instead of the soft murmur of a mountain brook, I hear the thud-crash-thud of huge rocks that tear violently down the steep hills, knocking over the trees, skinning their trunks, mashing down the saplings into splinters and landing at length in the valley, to lie like huge dinosaur bones bleaching in the sun. Today instead of hearing the chatter of squirrels, the yapping of the fox, the distant

By RUFUS M. REED
(In The Herald-Advertiser,

baying of hounds, I hear the loud crash of mighty oaks that are uprooted and pushed over on the slopes, to lie and rot on the landscape.

Today instead of stopping for a drink from a clear mountain brook, I look at its muddy waters and step back with a shudder. I see no minnows, no life, in the mountain brook, as all life in it has been killed from pollution of the stripmined areas above. Today instead of seeing a peaceful hill slope covered with wild flowers and green trees, I see hill slopes strewn with large rocks, covered with mud, silt and tree-laps, all gradually working their way down toward the valleys below. Today I see no peace, no joy, in the hills; instead I see people with troubled hearts, filled with anxiety, fear and revulsion against the danger and impending destruction of the hills. Today I see men and women trembling in their boots at the bleak prospect of having their humble homes covered ten feet deep on some dark night when one of the flash floods hits in the valleys and carries down millions of tons of loose earth, debris, rocks, tree-laps and mud and covers all the land below, turning it into a desert waste.

Today our hills are being crucified upon the cross of human greed. Their beauty and grandeur are being destroyed by men who never knew beauty or cared less about it. Today I see our hills being surely destroyed by ruthless, greedy men, who do not realize that beauty cannot be bought or sold but can be destroyed beyond all hope of repair.

Our hills were created and upheaved millions of years ago and in their bowels they have seams of valuable coal. God and Nature worked hand in hand to create these hills and the coal in them; over the coal seams there were placed thick layers of sandstone or shale and a cover of earth. It was intended that many should mine this coal by driving entries into the coal seams, leaving the hills intact. Deep mining preserves the environment, provides jobs for needy men. Stripmining does just the opposite; it destroys the hills, destroys many lives of the people, ruins the roads with overloaded coal trucks, pollutes the air with limestone dust from gravel used to fill up the deep holes made by the heavy trucks; many little children suffering from bronchial asthma or other respiratory diseases are doomed to an early death from breathing the polluted air thick with limestone dust. The stripminers take out the wealth of our hills, get quick money for it, spend the money elsewhere, and do not furnish jobs to any of the local people.

Now I lift up mine eyes unto the hills and I see huge palisades of stone that were blasted naked and left standing 100 feet high in places, bare and bleeding, crying out for the shame of their mutilation. Sometimes men from the Conservation Department try to hide the shame of the naked cliffs by painting them green!

Listen now to what the Congress of the United States says about such destructive methods of mining; I quote from Bill No. S-3491, now before the Senate Committee: "The surface or strip method destroys natural beauty, damages the land for an indefinite period, causes erosion of the soil, brings about water pollution, adversely affects the commercial and industrial development of any region, damages the property of the citizens, destroys the forest and wild life and their habitat, menaces the public health and safety of the people. . . the results are detrimental to the economy of the Nation."

They'll tell you that such mining is good for the economy of the region but don't you believe it. When you destroy the roads of any region, you destroy its economy; when you cause the leading citizens to sell their property at a loss and leave the state, this is a staggering blow to the economy. People are desperately afraid to live in a valley above which thousands of tons of earth, mud, rocks, are heaped up in the beds of the streams. . .

As a footnote to Mr. Reed's article, which so well describes the plight of our land, and how our children and grandchildren will be robbed of the resources and left a barren, haggard, dismal land, all because of the greed and destruction of a few that think only of self, with all disregard to nature, their fellowman and the future of our country, let me add:

There is plenty of coal in other seams that can be profitably mined without taking off the mountain tops to get what little is up there, and also destroying everything below, with their slides of mud and rock, which tears down our timber and fills up and pollutes our streams, killing the fish with the mine water. Commonsense and reason tell us this should be stopped at once.

Any or all who are opposed to this destruction send your name and address to this paper. Your stand against it will help in preserving the beautiful land you love, for yourself, your children and grandchildren and future generations. I notice in The Courier Journal the people in Knott county are taking a stand against this destruction. Why can't you and I?

Jenny Wiley Among State Parks To Get New Garbage Trucks

The Department of Parks has purchased compaction garbage trucks, one of which will be in use at Jenny Wiley State Park here.

W. James Host, commissioner of Parks, called the purchase a frontal attack on air pollution in Kentucky. The compaction trucks will cut down on air pollution by compacting refuse and hauling it to landfills for disposal. They will replace incinerators in use at state parks.

Parks to receive the new trucks are Jenny Wiley, Lake Barkley, Buckhorn, Pine Mountain and Lake Cumberland.

Economic Development Administration (EDA) grants have paid from 50 to 80 per cent of the cost of each truck, since the units cost over $11,000 each. The trucks are expected to be delivered in June.

Prestonsburg got off to a good start Sunday afternoon in the new Central Mountain Baseball League by edging visiting Jackson with a ninth inning rally, 6 to 5, at Archer Park.

Pitcher Roger Fultz was the key figure in the win as he piled up a total of 14 strikeouts, but it was Jerry Patton's clutch single in the ninth that brought in Jerry Fultz, who had walked and stolen second, to untie the 5-all score. Butch Clifton hit a two-run homer for Prestonsburg in the sixth, and John Holman doubled and tripled in three times at bat.

Jackson's Dan Moore was the losing pitcher. His batterymate was Sam Strong. Keith Patton and Jerry Fultz shared the catching chores for the winners.

Prestonsburg will be host to Winchester of the Central Division Saturday afternoon at 2 as a part of the 1970 grand opening of Archer Park.

Kennedy, Others Speak at Seminar

Local families of Jehovah's Witnesses were present at the group's May 17 meeting in City Hall, Paintsville, when announcement was made of area participants in a semi-annual circuit assembly. The Christian seminar was held the week-end of May 21-23 in the Parkersburg, W. Va., National Guard Armory.

Presiding minister David C. Kennedy addressed the group Sunday morning. His talk, entitled, "Declare the Good News with Persuasion," is about more effective ways to carry out the house-to-house ministry. Misses Gail Murphy and Anna Crider will assist with demonstrations of the home-visitation service.

Michael Carreno, a full-time missionary who centers much of his work in the Prestonsburg area, spoke Friday evening as part of a model ministry school.

Two young ministers from Floyd and Johnson counties were on the Saturday program. U. S. Vavage, Prestonsburg, and Glenn Bell of Paintsville, talked especially to the younger delegates to the Tri-State gathering.

In Whom Perfection Lies

Psalm 23

"The lord is my Shepherd"—PERFECT SALVATION.

"I shall not want"—PERFECT SATISFACTION.

"He maketh me to lie down in green pastures"—PERFECT REST.

"He leadeth me beside the still waters"—PERFECT REFRESHMENT.

"He restoreth my soul"—PERFECT RESTORATION.

"He leads me in paths of righteousness"—PERFECT GUIDANCE.

"I will fear no evil"—PERFECT PROTECTION.

"Thou art with me"—PERFECT COMPANY.

"Thy rod and Thy staff."—PERFECT COMFORT.

"Thou preparest a table"—PERFECT PROVISION.

"Thou anointest my head"—PERFECT CONSECRATION.

"My cup runneth over"—PERFECT JOY.

"Gladness and mercy follow me"—PERFECT CARE.

"I will dwell . . . forever"—PERFECT DESTINY.

Jesus is all I wish or want;
For Him I pray, for Him I pant;
Let others after earth aspire—
Christ is the treasure I desire.

Possessed of Him, I ask no more;
He is an all-sufficient store;
To praise Him all my powers conspire—
Christ is the treasure I desire.

If He His smiling face but hide,
My soul no comfort has beside;
Distressed, I after Him inquire—
Christ is the treasure I desire.

And while my heart is racked with pain,
Jesus appears and smiles again;
Why should my Savior thus retire?—
Christ is the treasure I desire.

Come, humble soul, and view His charms,
Take refuge in His saving arms,
And sing while you His worth admire—
Christ is the Savior I desire.

Lord, it is my chief complaint
That my love is so cold and faint;
Yet I love Thee and adore—
O, for grace to love Thee more!

Be of good cheer; it is I; Be not afraid
(Mk. 14:27). Be not afraid, only believe.
(Mk. 5:36).

Jesus Christ is not valued at all unless he is valued above all. (St. Augustine).

But without faith it is impossible to please Him (Heb. 11:6).

If ye believe not that I am He (the promised Messiah), ye shall die in your sins (Jno. 8:24).

A guilty, weak and helpless worm,
On Thy kind arms I fall;
Be Thou my strength and righteousness,
My Jesus and my all.

Finally . . .
If Jesus is ours, then from His love
He every trouble sends,
And all things are working for my good,
And Bliss the Rod it attends.

The word of God says of Man: I knew that thou wouldst deal very treacherously and wast a "transgressor" from the womb (Isa. 48:8).

Upon a life I have not lived,
Upon a death I have not died,
Another's life, Another's death
I stake my whole Eternity.

Poor, bankrupt sinner, "Grace on conditions" is no grace at all! Beware of men; men take more pains to MASK than to MEND!
