

1500 Expected Here For Mt. Dew Festival

More than 1500 students and faculty members from junior colleges in Kentucky and West Virginia are expected to attend the sixth annual Mountain Dew Festival sponsored by Prestonsburg Community College, according to Robert R. Allen, academic dean, Prestonsburg Community College.

Mr. Allen announced this week that plans are being completed for the festival which will be on April 2, 3 and 4.

At this time it is known that these 16 colleges will be represented: Ashland, Elizabethtown, Hazard, Hopkinsville, Jefferson, Madisonville, Maysville, Northern, Prestonsburg, Somerset and Southeast Community Colleges, Alice Lloyd Junior College, Lexington Technical Institute, Logan and Williamson Branches of Marshall University and Quicksand Forestry and Technical School.

Events at this year's Mountain Dew Festival will include archery, badminton, basketball, bowling, chess, golf, pool, rifle meet, table tennis, tennis, volleyball, and the queen and talent contests.

Elizabethtown was last year's winner of the traditional Brown Jug Mountain Dew Festival Award. This jug is awarded to the college with the highest total points in all festival events.

This year, as in the past, Prestonsburg Community College will attempt to house the women students in Floyd and Johnson counties. If anyone would be interested in housing women students for the three days, they are asked to contact Connie Gobel, West Van Lear, James Perry, Auxier, or Barbara Ousley, West Prestonsburg.

$3 Million-Plus Is Low Bid On Thelma Center Construction

Melson Contractors, Inc., Frankfort, is the apparent low bidder on the Comprehensive Rehabilitation Center planned for Thelma, Johnson County, Gov. Louie B. Nunn has announced.

The project, which Melson bid at $3,492,890, with an additional floor estimate of $139,000, will have 116,592 square feet to provide specialized vocational training, evaluation and treatment for some 200 persons in rehabilitation therapy.

Second low bidder was Tenco Construction Co., of Athens, Ala., at $3,581,000. Tenco estimated cost of an additional floor at $150,000.

Bids will be studied by Finance Department officials before the contract is awarded.

Are you going to go through another year thinking you can't afford an Oldsmobile?

Our own surveys indicate that quite a few people think an Oldsmobile is out of their reach. They think it costs a lot more than it really does. Result? Many people buy an ordinary car and end up with a lot less car and value for their money. It's so unnecessary, too, because Oldsmobile has many models that are priced right down with the so-called low-priced cars. So why settle for the ordinary when you can step up to an Olds and all the value that an Olds represents. Take this big, exciting Delta 88, for example. It starts out with a surprisingly modest price. Add to this the features that make it such an outstanding value—extras that are included in the modest price: □ Regular-gas Rocket V-8 □ Power Steering □ Power Brakes, front discs □ Nylon-loop carpeting □ Bias-Belted Tires □ Door Side-Guard Beams □ Hidden Radio Antenna □ Flo-Thru Ventilation □ Bigger, better riding 124" wheelbase. Check these extra values at your Olds dealer's today!

VOCATIONAL-EDUCATION PLAN

The state Board of Education at a March 10 meeting plans to discuss a recommendation by the state Advisory Council on Education that the state's vocational-education centers be transferred from state to local control on a selective basis. The two groups still would appear to be at odds, with the state board in favor of turning the centers over to local districts by July and the advisory council named a year ago by Governor Nunn urging the slower and more selective course.

Strip-Mining Method Praised, Criticised

By JAMES SCHWARTZ
(In The Courier-Journal)

A new strip-mining method and several new ways to "green up" ravaged lands are benefiting surface coal areas in Eastern Kentucky, a state official has claimed.

But some residents in the mining areas believe the coal-mining experiment in Breathitt county means only more and faster destruction of hilltops, valleys, forests and water resources.

Elmore Grim, head of the state Reclamation Division of the Department of Natural Resources, said one company already is removing coal by shoving entire mountaintops down the slopes.

Coal normally is stripped seam by seam, with crews working down through a hill by digging along the contour of the slope. Sometimes the coal is drilled out with huge augers.

"But this only gives you a 40 per cent recovery," Grim explained. "The new method gives you 90 to 95 per cent."

To mine owners, more coal is just one benefit of the new system, which was developed by the Natural Resources Department and the U.S. Forest Service Experiment Station at Berea. Grim also ticked off these assets:

1. More level land for industrial development—even for airports—since hilltops are leveled and overburden is used to fill narrow, V-shaped valleys.

2. Less erosion and stream pollution from spoilbanks, since "the operator is required to build silt structures to keep sediment in the tributaries and off the main streams."

3. Acid materials, which pollute streams long after mining operations have ceased, are being "segregated and buried."

Stripped land is reseeded almost immediately, and lands destined for commercial uses already would be especially attractive to developers.

"This land will be off the flood plain," Grim said. "You've also got (mining) haul roads there, and a lot of times they're better than the country roads."

Grim said Breathitt Coal Co., of Hazard, is the only company now using the new method, which costs more initially but over-all is no more expensive than the old strip-mining method.

"If it works there (Breathitt county), I can't see why it can't be done in Knott, Letcher and Perry counties where 75 to 80 per cent of the total strip mining is done," Grim said.

Grant Davis, project leader for the Forest Service, said it is too early to evaluate results, but agreed that "better looking land" and more coal seems assured.

"Over in that country, level land is quite a scarcity," he added.

William Sturgill, president of several coal firms, including Breathitt, which is stripping about 50 acres atop mountains, said the new method is "working out real well." He said his company will now "be able to do a better job of reclamation."

Sturgill was asked if the new mining method had drawn any opposition.

"To the contrary," he replied, "we're getting encouragement from every quarter."

But Harry Caudill, Whitesburg attorney, author and conservationist, said mountaintop stripping promises "total obliteration" to the Appalachian coal areas.

"The older method at least left some of the forest," he explained. "This (new stripping method) will be done eventually to this entire mountain range while people sit around with cocktail glasses and talk about the environment."

Caudill added, "There are thousands of acres of level land in Eastern Kentucky, extremely fertile, but we're running people out of there (with strip mining)."

Dan Gibson, of Knott county, is an outspoken member of the "Appalachian Group to Save the Land and the People," whose members come from at least five coal-mining counties.

"They're cutting the tops of those hills off, filling the valleys up and ruining the water for the (live) stock," Gibson complained.

He said Troublesome Creek near his home is "red as can be" because of strip-mining pollution. "There's not a living substance in that creek."

Grim said the state also has developed another method to reduce strip-mine erosion and stabilize spoilbanks in about 10 miles of Eastern Kentucky. He said miners reduce dangerous slopes there by as much as 5 per cent by pushing overburden downhill, creating "shelves" (areas for organic debris).

This reduces most of the weight which causes dangerous earth slides, and since slopes have to be vegetated immediately, cuts erosion, the official added.

Unclaimed mining areas—called "orphan lands" because it is difficult to fix responsibility for their destruction—are getting the attention of about a dozen hydroseeders, Grim said. The machines spray seed mixtures of grass, legumes and trees, along with fertilizer and water, on the stripped slopes. Those operations previously had to be done by hand.

"We're now getting vegetation in less than a year. It used to take two to three," Grim said.

Maytown

Mrs. Lena Dudley celebrated her 76th birthday last Sunday with a surprise party given in her honor by her family. She received many gifts, including money to have a telephone installed. About 30 relatives attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ramey were business visitors in Huntington, Wednesday.

C. C. Reffett has been a patient at Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

Mrs. Dial Salisbury, of Stockdale, Ohio, and Mrs. Orville Horner, of New Lexington, O., are here due to the illness of their sister, Mrs. Hugh Rowland, who is a patient at Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

Mrs. Roy May and Mrs. Tom Flannery attended a Scout directors' meeting at Camp Chatterahwa last weekend.

Mrs. Janet Meade and Mrs. Nancy Frasure, of Lexington, are here because of the illness of their mother, Mrs. Jean Harmon, who underwent major surgery at Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Robinson, Larry and James had as their Thursday dinner guests George Jonas, Camp Rising Sun, Walden, New York; Eva Allen Horn, Sally and Joe Horn, of Prestonsburg.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Maytown Homemakers Club held its regular March meeting at the home of Mrs. Joyce Ann Rowe, the president, Mrs. Marcella Bailey, presiding. Eleven members were present: Trilb May, Margie Sue Orsborn, Norma Bentley, Helen Boyd, Delcie Gayheart, Thelma Hicks, Alta Jean Gibson, Alda Gibson, Polly Martin, Marcella Bailey, Joyce Ann Rowe. Guest's were Marie Stephens, Rhonda Ann Rowe, Mary Margaret Hamilton, Francis Pitts.

It was decided the money that was left over from the gifts and party for the patients at the Golden Years Rest Home at Lackey would be deposited to be used at a later time. Mrs. Francis Pitts was presented a gift from Mrs. Norma Bentley. It was decided the former officers will remain in office.

Two new officers were elected: game-leader, Mrs. Norma Bentley; devotional-chairman, Delcie Gayheart.

It was agreed to present robes to some of the patients at the Mountain Manor Rest Home.

A film on "Self-Examination of the Female Breast" was shown by Mrs. Margaret Hamilton. The lesson for March was on "Storage." Literature was given out and a film shown by Mrs. Francis Pitts.

The April meeting will be held at 7 p.m., April 9 at the home of Mrs. Margie Sue Orsborn at Eastern.

I SUPPORT OUR RIGHT BEAVER HIGH SCHOOL.

Resolution concerning the proposed new consolidated high school at Eastern, Kentucky which will serve the present four school communities where a high school is now located, namely, Garrett, Martin, Maytown, and Wayland by persons meeting at Garrett High School Gymnasium Sunday, March 15, 1970 who desire that this school becomes a reality as soon as possible.

WHEREAS, it is a generally accepted fact that a school with a larger enrollment can offer a more diversified curriculum which can better meet the needs of each individual pupil;

WHEREAS, it is considered more economical to operate one facility for the same number of pupils than dividing that same number of pupils among four facilities;

WHEREAS, there has been a strong force of opposition to the proposed consolidation in the community of Martin which has held up the construction of the new school at Eastern, Kentucky;

WHEREAS, the majority of the persons interested and concerned with a better educational program for the youngsters of this proposed school area are in favor of the proposed new consolidated high school at Eastern, Kentucky;

IT IS RESOLVED that all persons in the school communities of Garrett, Martin, Maytown, and Wayland join together in solidly supporting and working with the Floyd County Board of Education in its efforts to complete the proposed new consolidated high school at Eastern, Kentucky.

1968 Mineral Production Value In Kentucky Near 1967 Record

Mineral production value in Kentucky decreased less than one per cent in 1968 from the 1967 record year, according to Dr. Wallace W. Hagan, state geologist and director of the Kentucky Geological Survey at the University of Kentucky.

Dr. Hagan said that "Kentucky's mineral production continues to make major contributions to the state's economy."

Mineral value in Kentucky in 1968 was $534,863,000, he added. According to a report now available at the Kentucky Geological Survey offices at UK 106 of the state's 120 counties reported mineral production.

The report "The Mineral Industry of Kentucky, 1968," was prepared by Harold L. Riley, mining engineer, U. S. Bureau of Mines, Knoxville, and Preston McGrain, assistant state geologist with KGS. It is one of a series issued annually by the U. S. Bureau of Mines and the Kentucky Geological Survey, to show amounts and trends of mineral production in the Commonwealth.

The combined value of mineral fuels production—bituminous coal, natural gas, and crude petroleum—was $458 million or 86 per cent of the total mineral production of the state in 1968. Kentucky ranked second in the U. S. in production of bituminous coal, with 19 per cent of the national total, and second in production of ball clay and flourspar.

Crude oil production of 14 million barrels was produced in 59 Kentucky counties. Union county in west Kentucky was the leading producing county in the state, with 2.3 million barrels. Lee county led all east Kentucky counties with 1.7 million barrels.

Crushed limestone was produced at 118 operations in 67 counties.

Other mineral production included fire clay, miscellaneous clays, sand, gravel, and zinc.

LOST DAYS, NOW THE QUESTION

One big question facing Kentucky public school teachers as they ended their recent strike for higher salaries and other benefits was how to make up the six school days lost by the work stoppage beginning Feb. 23.

The question was to be discussed at a Frankfort meeting of school superintendents from across Kentucky called by Wendell P. Butler, state superintendent of public instruction.

Kentucky law requires 175 teaching days which must be completed by June 30, end of the fiscal year, to prevent budget complications and possible loss of accreditation from the Southern Assn. of Colleges and Schools.

Butler said it was the intention of his office to prescribe a uniform formula for all schools to follow. Possibilities included elimination of spring vacation, extension of the school year, Saturday classes, or a combination of the three.
