Woman and Three Boys Survive Wild Ride Down Abbott Mountain In Auto After Brake Failure

A Prestonsburg woman and three small boys experienced the horror of a night-time descent of Abbott Mountain in a brakeless automobile last Wednesday, and all survived the wild ride.

When the brakes of her auto failed on the mountain, Mrs. Jarvis Allen told her two sons, Phillip and David, and their friend, Grant Wise, that the car was out of control, and advised them to lie down. She succeeded in negotiating the sharp curves as the auto gathered speed in its downhill run, and thinks she would have made safe entry onto the bridge spanning the river at Cliff, despite the sharp, right-hand curve at that point, but at that moment she reached that point an auto driven by Thomas Goble emerged from the bridge into the curve.

The two autos collided, and railing guarding the drop from US 23 at the end of the bridge onto railway tracks below was torn away.

This Town . . . That World

Spring officially arrived at 7:57 last Friday evening and a few minutes later was unceremoniously blown back whence it came by an arctic blast. Whatever happened to the fishing season, don't mention it.

TIME AND A HALF

Watt Hale tells a story that may have within it, somewhere, the beginning of overtime pay. This was in the days when a man on the farm drew the lordly sum of 50 cents a day for sunrise to sundown work. The old farmer had worked his crew to a frazzle, and at the end of the day was paying the boys off. Fifty cents here, and on down the line till he came to a fellow with a peg-leg. He handed the fellow his pay, and the other, honest yeoman that he was, remarked, "You've paid me too much—you gave me 75 cents."

"That's all right, son," the farmer replied. "I'm payin' you time and a half, for every time you stepped with that peg-leg of your'n you made me a hole to set a sweet tater plant in."

Lake Level Reduced Another Three Feet For Boat Dock Job

Dewey Lake is eight feet below its summer pool stage as the result of an additional three-foot drawdown completed Monday to permit improvements of the Terry boat dock area.

Dean Murray, reservoir manager, said the lake should be restored to summer pool by April 18. The impoundment has a five-foot drawdown each fall, and the water is held beginning each April 15, to bring the lake to recreation pool level.

Improvements being made at the boat dock include widening of a launching ramp and construction of a concrete wall and walkway around the shoreline. Material removed at the dock to make way for the new work will be taken to the Goble Branch area for use at a proposed camping area.

Woman and Three Boys Survive Wild Ride Down Abbott Mountain In Auto After Brake Failure

Mrs. Allen suffered a fractured leg and multiple lacerations and bruises. Her son David has a broken left arm and right hand and was badly cut about his head. He lost several teeth. The third boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wise, has a broken elbow and leg, cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Allen's son Phillip, who was in the rear seat, lay on the floor and was unhurt. His brother was thrown through the windshield.

Mr. Goble, a resident of Cliff, was treated at the Prestonsburg General Hospital for lacerations and contusions. Mrs. Allen and her son also are at Prestonsburg General. The Wise boy was taken to a Lexington hospital.

Mrs. Allen later said Wednesday night's drive was plagued by complications before the wreck. En route to a roller skating rink on Little Paint, her car ran out of gas. Arriving at the rink, they found it closed.

Floyd Highways To Be Improved For Detour Use

Use of KY 122 up Indian Creek in Pike county and down Left Beaver Creek in this county as a detour while reconstruction of US 23 is under way from Allen to Pikeville will be made possible through improvement of the two sections of the detour route, Highway Commissioner Goss' office said last week.

Commissioner Goss said the state will receive almost $1 million from the federal government to improve 122 in the two counties and KY 80 from Martin to Allen where detoured traffic would reach the present US 23.

The funds for improvement of the detour will be made available through the Appalachian Regional Commission. In return, the state Department of Highways has agreed to pay $19,000 to widen three bridges along the detour route.

"The large amount of blasting dictated by the terrain along US 23 would cause intolerable delays for motorists," Goss said.

Work now under way on a new, four-lane US 23 in Pike county has caused use of a detour which crosses the Big Sandy at Boldman. Motorists willing to wait still use US 23 without detouring the work, however.

Civilian Mishap Claims Veteran

Donald Ray Patton, 25-year-old Prestonsburg man who was awarded seven medals, including the Silver Star, for service in Vietnam, died at Prestonsburg General hospital here, Sunday morning, victim of injuries received early Saturday morning. Working on a construction site in Johnson county as a welder's helper, he was hitching a boom to a bulldozer when the dozer's brakes apparently gave way, and it rolled back, crushing him.

Serving as a sergeant in the Marine Corps, Patton was awarded these medals: Silver Star, third highest award given by this country for military service, National Defense Service medal, Presidential Unit Citation, Good Conduct medal, Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry, Vietnamese Campaign medal, Vietnamese Service medal. He completed his military service February 10, 1969.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sarah Lynn Campbell Patton; two brothers, Steven Lee and Duane Patton, both at home, and a sister, Mrs. Pamela Sue Calhoun, of Prestonsburg.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m., Wednesday, at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, the Rev. Ira McMillen, Floyd Tackett and Wallace Calhoun officiating. Burial was made with military honors in the Joe Campbell cemetery at Water Gap under direction of Floyd Funeral Home.

Stevens had been living at the Tackett home. Details of the shooting are not known here.

3 Plead Guilty In Booze Cases

Three persons charged with selling intoxicants entered pleas of guilty in quarterly court here Monday and were fined $20 and costs each but the 30-day jail term given each of the defendants was probated. The three were required to execute peace bond for a 12-month period.

Defendants were Mrs. Jimmie Yates, Ballard Yates and Mack Hunt.

Paul Tackett waived to the grand jury the third-offense selling charge against him. Others who waived their cases to the grand jury included Kenneth Ray Isaac, Delbert Thompson and Donald Ray Mitchell, each charged with knowingly receiving stolen property; Clyde Barnett, grand larceny; Donnie Kinder, possessing stolen cooper, and Tommie Brown, Jr., reckless use of a deadly weapon.

William Moore, was convicted of drunk driving, and the jury set his fine at $100. Burley Brown, who also stood trial, was fined $15 for having no operator's license.

The charge of drunk driving against Orb Newman was reduced to reckless driving. He pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs.

Teaching Staff Cut, Next Term Held Probable

Statistics released by the Attendance Department of the Floyd county school system shows that in the first five months of the current school year every high school in the county except Wheelwright's has lost students—and Wheelwright merely held its own.

At the same time, some of the larger elementary schools showed enrollment losses. The net loss was 136 in all schools—124 in the high schools and 29 in the grades, with educable and trainable classes gaining 17.

Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said that an overall loss for the school year is expected to be about 225 and that this will require a further cutback in the number of teachers to be employed for the next term.

"It is highly unlikely," Clark said, "that we will be able to employ a single new teacher for our system. If enough teachers do not retire at the end of this year to take care of our loss in enrollment, we'll again be faced with some cut-off of the teaching force."

The high school enrollments in the first month of school follow, with the loss or gain in pupils at the end of the fifth month appearing in parentheses:

Betsy Layne, 527 (-43); Garrett, 190 (-7); Martin, 276 (-2); Maytown, 165 (-9); McDowell, 387 (-21); Prestonsburg, 844 (-37); Wayland, 120 (-5); Wheelwright, 389 (0).

The same figures for grade schools:

Banner, 49 (0); Bonanza, 97 (+4); Daniels Creek, 22 (0); Drift, 80 (-3); Dwale, 44 (-2); Home Branch, 54 (-2); Lackey, 85 (0); Ligon, 49 (-2); Mare Creek, 15 (0); Prater, 102 (+5); Salisbury, 16 (-2); Spruce Pine, 86 (+1); Tram, 9 (0); Allen, 333 (-11); Auxier, 201 (+5); Betsy Layne, 355 (-5); Charles Clark, 493 (-45); Garrett, 307 (-4); Harold, 237 (+4); J. M. Stumbo, 674 (-15); Martin, 544 (+5); Maytown, 277 (+8); McDowell, 655 (+12); Melvin, 214 (-2); Osborne, 406 (+7); Prestonsburg, 350 (+14); Wayland, 261 (-4); Weeksburg, 122 (0).

Husband and Wife Are Crash Victims

The deaths of two former Floyd countians and serious injury of another occurred Saturday in Plymouth, O., when the car in which George Glenn Duff, 28, formerly of Hippo, and his wife, Laura Ethel Perkins Duff, formerly of Stephens Branch, collided with a semi-trailer. Another passenger in the auto, Mrs. Duff's brother, was seriously injured.

A son of John and Lona Hicks Duff, of Plymouth, Mr. Duff was employed as a machinist operator and is survived by three brothers, Carl Duff, of Plymouth, Harold Duff, of Willard, O., and Archie Duff, of Tiro, O.

Funeral services were conducted at the United Baptist church at Hippo, Tuesday morning. Burial was made in the Hicks cemetery there under direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Funeral services for Mrs. Duff were held at Plymouth and burial was made there.

P'burg Police Raid VFW Club

A raid by Prestonsburg police on the VFW Club at Lancer, near here, resulted Saturday afternoon in the arrest of one man and the confiscation of 107 pints of whiskey and 24 cans of beer.

Orville Shepherd, who was listed as manager of the club, was arrested on a possession charge, and a warrant was issued for the club itself.

The case will be heard in Prestonsburg police court. Conviction may be followed by a move to close the club, it was said later.

An effort was made last week by persons connected with the Eagles Club here, which has been closed by joint city-county action, to persuade the City Council to permit reopening of the club. The attempt failed.

Booked at the county jail within the week were:

Larry Roger Wells, accused of hit-run driving, arrested by Deputy Sheriffs H. Hall and Paul Stilton; Clarence Martin, possession of intoxicants, by State Troopers Thornsberry and Rose; Charles E. Gross, a. w. o. l., by FBI agents; James Kenneth Wells, transporting alcoholic beverages, by State Trooper E. B. Allen; Wilson McKinney, carrying a concealed deadly weapon, by Deputy Sheriffs Bentley and Stilton; Elzie Berry Hall, drunk driving, by State Trooper Allen; Ronnie R. Mitchell, driving while under the influence of alcohol, by Deputy Sheriffs Hall and Hamilton; Ted Goble, driving while under the influence, by State Trooper Soward; Charles Arnett, drunk driving, by State Trooper Rose; Norma Ruth Bailey, driving while under the influence, by Policemen Potter and Blackburn; Larry Gene Moore, driving while under the influence and no operator's license, by State Trooper Thornsberry.

a Thank You to Industry

THIS INCLUDES ALL INDUSTRY, NEW AND OLD.

GEORGE P. ARCHER, M.D.
Mayor, Prestonsburg, Ky.

Kentucky's manufacturing firms have a vital role in the growing economy of the Commonwealth, and all Kentuckians benefit from the many contributions of these, our corporate citizens. I wish to give special recognition to the 189 new and expanded plants that were announced in 1969.

The Weeksbury Community Redevelopment Club recently honored the men of the Nelson-Scheuer Program for their efforts in community development and improvements.

A chicken dinner was given for them at the community center by members of the community club.

Club Chairman Peggy Bradford reported that the men of the Nelson Program have been vital forces in the club's efforts to improve the community. Without their air, she said, such programs as the tearing down of the old town buildings, over-all clean-up efforts, building up of recreational areas and many other projects would have been practically impossible to achieve.

Nelson men present were J. J. Little, Willie Harris, Dingus Johnson, Hatler Johnson, Hatler Strong, Robert Harris, Lee Hill, Jr., Buck Skeens, Raymond Gilliam. Supervisors: Blaine Hopkins, Oliver Tackett, and Ralph Hall.

Community volunteers who helped serve and organize the dinner were Shelby Johnson, Elbert Gibson, Juanita Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. William McCoy, and Mrs. Paul Campbell.

"A good night's sleep."

Tom and Linda McNeely of Catlettsburg, Ky. switched to flameless electric heat in 1968. "Our old furnace was a constant worry. It would go out in the middle of the night, and I'd have to get up and fire it up again, so we put in electric heat. It was very simple. They put in the baseboard units and that was all there was to it." Cost? "It's not expensive, like some people think. Our heating cost is running less than it did. I was surprised. I thought it would be more. I'd be willing to pay more because it's cleaner, better and it's safe." You can have flameless electric heat in your home. ## An Invitation to Anarchy

The Postmaster General of the United States made a shocking statement, the other day, when he said that this nation, regarded as the greatest in all human history, could do nothing about striking postal workers who had disobeyed a federal court injunction. "You can't jail a hundred thousand," he was quoted as saying. Such an admission is an invitation to anarchy.

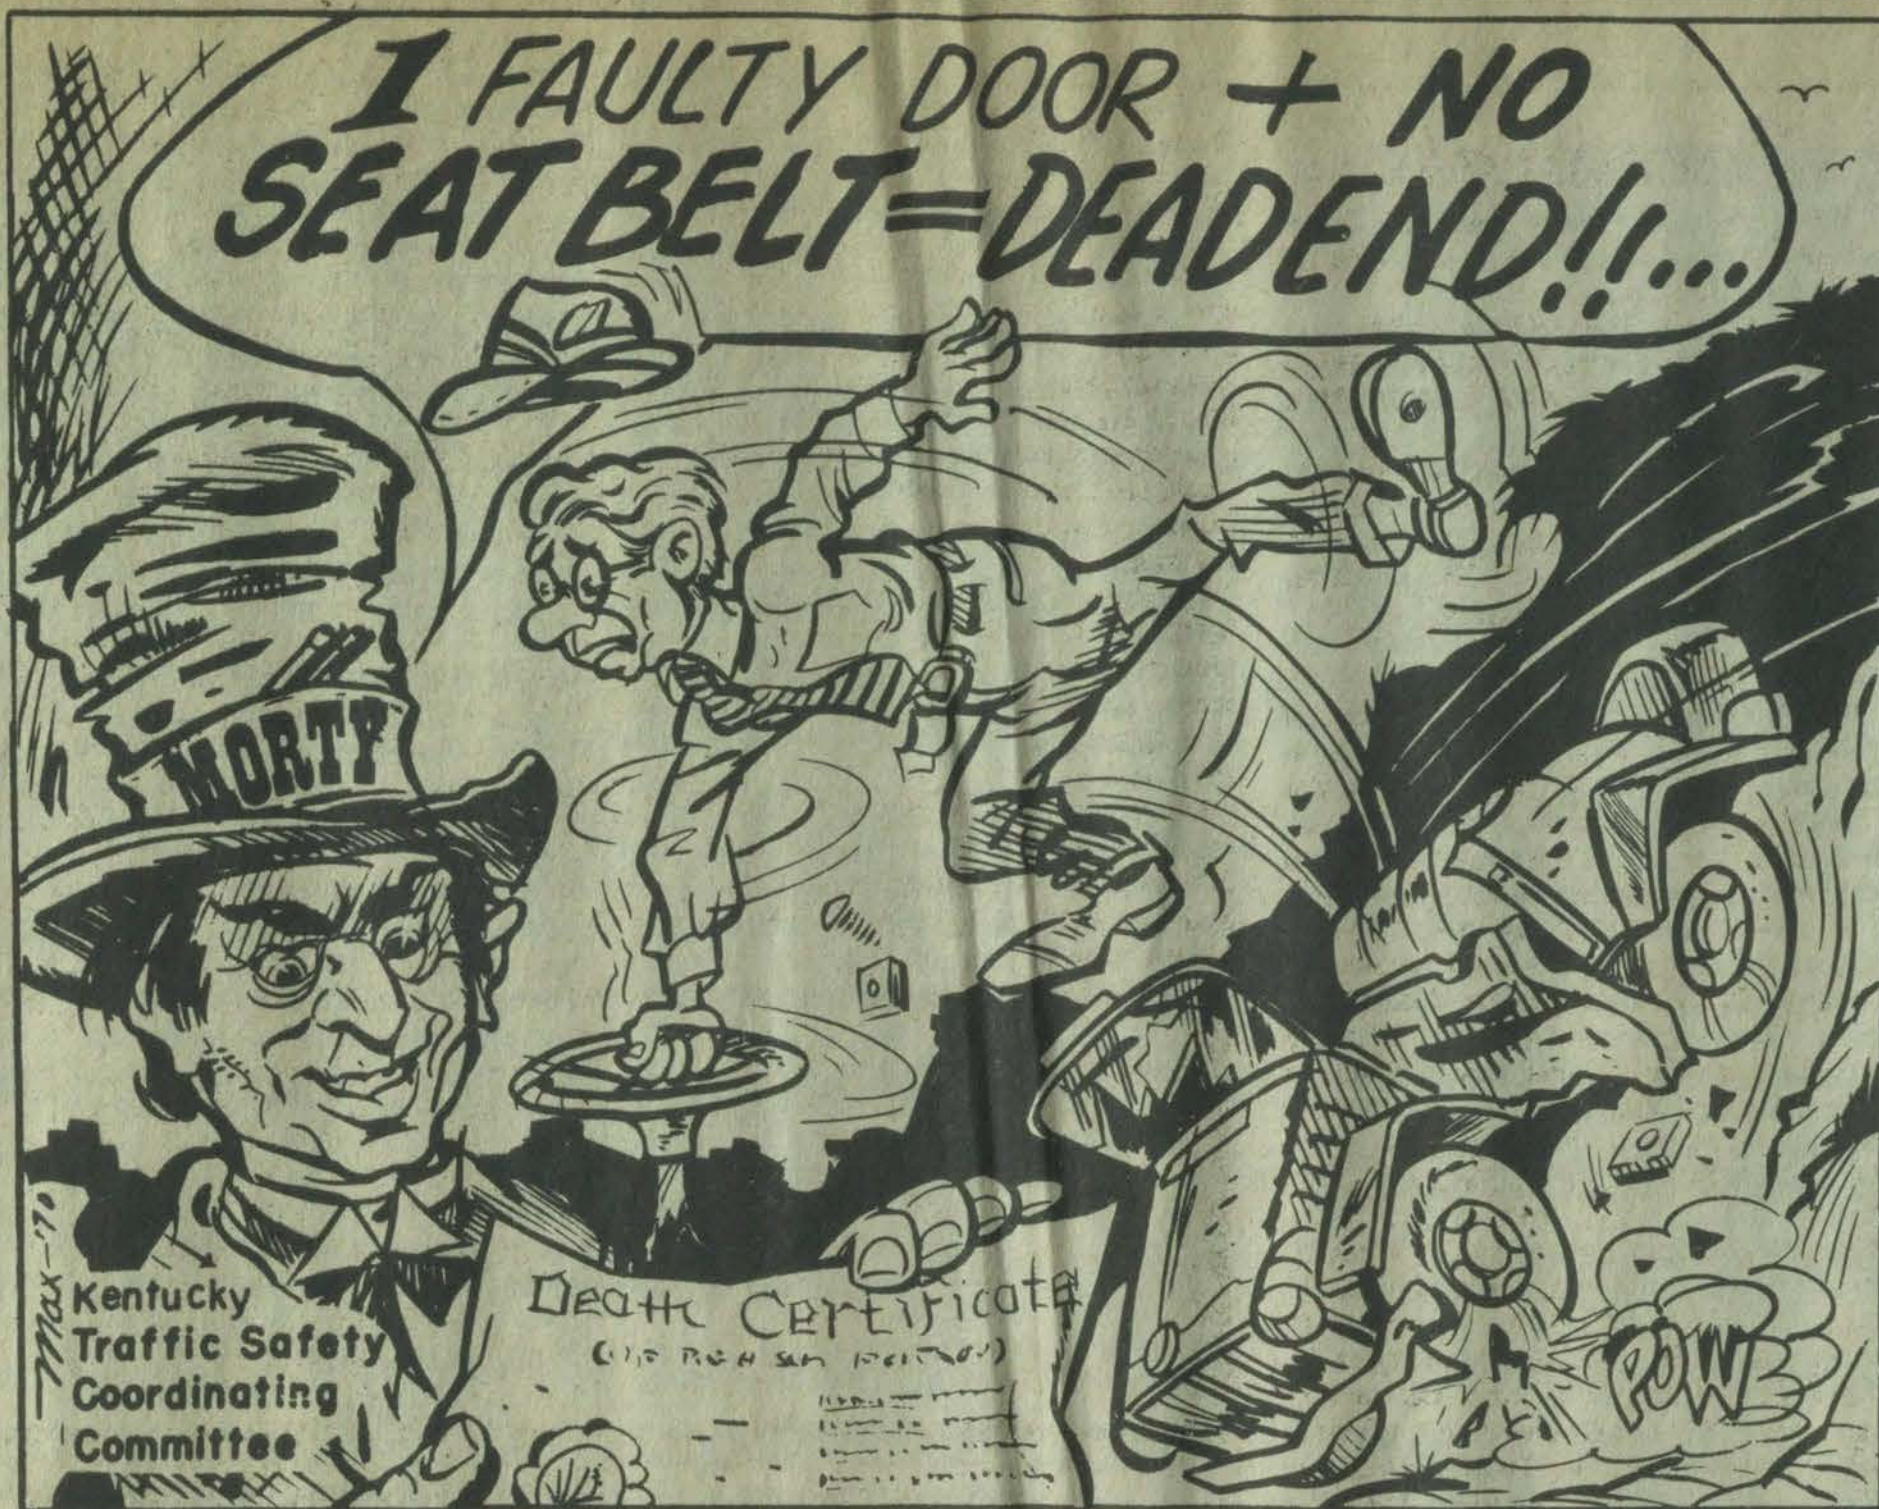

We do not argue the right of the postal workers to strike. Others do—why not they? But the ordinary citizen, one or a hundred or a hundred thousand of him, has no right to defy the courts of the land.

If they do in this case, why not in all others? And if defiance of court orders becomes acceptable, or above punishment, what foundation remains for any structure of law and order?

Free men have in the exercise of their freedom a responsibility to the welfare of the whole. Long ago, Plato foresaw the danger of an excess of freedom. Without law and order, no man is free. And the admission that the United States of America cannot handle a contempt of court case because the number of those in contempt is great would indicate that the orderly processes of government are almost defenseless.

The United States contained a great number of aliens and prisoners of war during World War II. Barbed wire and armed guards held them prisoner. There is plenty of barbed wire yet around the country.

Finally, we ask:
If the United States cannot enforce a court order, why ask for it in the first place?

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

"TRAVELING DELUXE"

In late summer, 1969, the newspapers carried an item about the continuing decline of passenger traffic on the railroads. One line in western Kentucky announced that it had averaged only twelve persons per trip across the state north and south over a period of several months. And I recall all too vividly how I have had to stand up for the whole trip on that same line, for all the seats were taken on a long train.

Though through trains were supposed to be deluxe traveling, and people who were supposed to be up in the world bragged about riding them, the folkish trains were the ones that stopped at every crossroads, to pick up or discharge passengers and to leave or get a few milk cans. On this sort of train you could see a big slice of America and could soon understand some of the customs that had grown up around train travel. Automobiles were few in all the area that I had come to know pretty well; roads were exceedingly poor until far down toward our present time. To get from A to B, the quickest way was by train, provided the railroads had penetrated to B. Other-wise you might have to go by boat, a much slower conveyance but a bit more poetical. In general, boat travel was well on its way out by the time cars became at all common. Only a few areas still had to depend on the romantic steamboats.

Even though my town had, for many years, a total of 22 passenger trains daily, I early learned where each one came from and where it was going. And, sooner or later, I had ridden every one of them once or more; some of them became so familiar that I believe that I could have merely looked out the window and told approximately where I was, for the road to Louisville or the one to Paris, Tennessee, where I used to change cars for the Jackson Purchase area, where I had grown up.

Meeting the train became a sort of institution. People who rarely or never had taken such a trip often drove or walked down to the depot to see No. 7 or No. 8 go by. The horses that brought some of these sight-seers often did a series of circus acts while their owners were listening to the escaping steam, watching the billows of black smoke, or staring at the fabulous parlor cars that were all lit up with electricity. And nothing can equal the look on the faces of the people who were getting ready to board such a train or the look on the faces of people who were expecting friends or relatives to a light from the cars that were being pulled by the snorting, puffing monsters.

One of the past institutions is and has been for a while the so-called news butch. His newspapers, his baskets of fruits and candies and popcorn and chewing gum, where are they now? I have seen small travelers literally make themselves sick from eating quantities of the candies that used to be sold on the train: little colored balls of candy in a glass pistol container, strips of garter-like coconut candy that sometimes must have been lying around toughening and hardening for several weeks, and, in later days, candy bars of various kinds. In general, though, the candies were pre-candy bars in type and may or may not have been wrapped very carefully or sanitarily.

Baggage was plentiful and often heavy in those days, for there was no handy family car to transfer things a bit at a time from Point A to Point B. We who "went away to school" took enough stuff to last us from September till Christmas and from Christmas to summer, for it was too expensive to be going back and forth any oftener. Trunks in those days were big and heavy and had to be made strong to survive many journeys. There were many coarse jokes about how baggage was handled in those days, and there was an ugly truth in the jokes to make us travelers remember how our own valuable possessions were often jostled about or even broken. "Travel" used to mean suffering; a bit of this meaning was still around after the turn of the century and for several more decades.

Whatsoever Things

By DONALD E. WILDMON

Abraham Lincoln and some of his friends were once forced to do some traveling during a very rainy season. They had crossed many small streams and the water was high and fast in all of them. After a long day of facing streams that nearly washed them away, they came to a lodge where they spent the night.

Sitting around the fire that night, the men were talking about how high the streams were and how fast the water was flowing. Then someone brought up the fact that the very next day the group would be forced to cross Fox River. Fox River was very difficult to cross, even when the water was low, and if it was up in comparison to the other streams it would be nearly impossible to cross.

As they sat around and talked, many expressed the thought that Fox River would be uncrossable. Since they had a date to keep, it was important to the traveling group that they not be delayed on their journey.

For some time that night the group sat around discussing the river, and the awful possibilities that would be opened to them when it came time to cross it. Following some discussion of the river, someone noticed that there was a Methodist preacher spending the night in the lodge who traveled the territory quite often and was very familiar with Fox River. One of the group asked the preacher about Fox River and how he managed to cope with it when the water was high. "Preacher you have been listening to us talk about Fox River. Do you have any special way of getting across that river, any rules to follow that might help us?" a member of the group asked.

"Well, now that you asked," replied the preacher, "I do have one fixed rule about that river. I've crossed it many times and I know it is a mighty problem to get across sometimes. But I have solved the problem with just one rule."

"What's your secret, preacher? Have you got a special place to cross?" they asked.

"Nope, haven't got a special place to cross. I always cross it where everyone else does," he said.

"Then you must have a float put back nearby to help you cross it," one of the group stated.

"Nope, haven't got a float put back. Just never did have the time to build one for the occasion, and didn't have the money to buy one," said the preacher.

"But you said you had a rule about crossing that river! If you haven't got a special place to cross, or a float to cross on, then tell us what your rule about crossing the river is!"

"Well, sir," said the preacher, "I've crossed Fox River many times. But I have learned never to cross it till I reach it." And with that the preacher rolled over and went to sleep.

You know, it's a pretty good rule to follow.

Biggest Rise in Crime Is in Area of Thievery

By LEONARD KIMBALL

Slightly more than nine per cent of all crimes reported to the State Police last year occurred in the five-county area patrolled by troopers at Pikeville Post 9.

Post 9 covers Magoffin, Johnson, Martin, Floyd and Pike counties, and is under command of Lt. Douglas L. Sword.

A total of 9,683 felonies and misdemeanors were reported to state troopers last year. Of that number, Post 9 reported 889 offenses, or 167 above their 1968 total.

Heading the list of crimes in the five-county area were breaking and entering (207 cases), illegal liquor possession (143) and auto theft (96). Stolen vehicle recoveries totaled 79 for an approximate value of $81,670.

Crimes showing the greatest jump in frequency over 1968 were grand larceny (up 30), breaking and entering (up 17) and auto theft (up 16).

Pikeville-based troopers reported the highest number of murders and non-negligent manslaughters (30), disturbing the peace offenses (10) and illegal liquor possession (143).

Offenses showing some decline in 1969 were illegal liquor sales (down 27), illegal liquor possession (down 10), gambling and arson (both down 4).

Arrests in the Post 9 area rose to 698, or 204 more than 1968. Most arrests were for illegal liquor possession (110), unlawful FRANKFORT, KY.—Now comes that time of the year when one may expect strange illnesses, emergency trips, use of accumulated overtime and vacations to come with mounting frequency—especially among the male population, but also to a lesser degree among those of the opposite sex.

There's a good reason: It's fishing time again, and all days that can be so utilized, will be during the next couple of months. It'll be coincidental that one suddenly is called away on business to western Kentucky where black bass are being caught by jig fishermen.

It'll be noted that any accumulated overtime will be used predominantly while white bass are moving in some of the lakes, and it will be noted that more vacation days are requisitioned while the croppie catches are large.

This fishing fever is something that occurs every spring, and the fisherman will use every legal means at his disposal to get a few days off to take part in a fishing jaunt that he has planned all winter long.

So it is not unusual for the bank teller to be called out of town for a few days; or for the farmer to delay sowing his tobacco bed because it's merely cloudy, or for the housewife to put off housecleaning for a few days.

After all, there'll be plenty of time to do these menial tasks, whereas when the fish are moving, they just can't be put off.

For the next eight to ten weeks there'll be plenty of fishing. Already the white bass and croppie are moving. This is unusually early for them but the warm rains apparently have warmed the water faster than is usual at this time.

And with the warmer water the fish react. Hence, the early good catches this year.

Just to whet the fishing appetite a bit, let's point out that white bass already have begun to move into the tributaries of the major lakes and are being caught in good numbers in the creeks of Lake Cumberland, Dale Hollow, Barkley, Rough River and some other lakes.

Some waters have not warmed to the point where the whites are moving, but this should come within a few days. And more and more crappie are being caught.

assembly (102), breaking and entering (77) and auto theft (71).

The reported annual increase in crimes handled by State Police remained static at 27 per cent but arrests continued to climb—increasing by 36 per cent in 1969 over the 25 per cent rise in 1968.

The comparative index of crimes in the district follows, the number of crimes in 1968 appearing first, followed by the number last year:

Arson, 6 and 2; aggravated assault, 9 and 13; other assault cases, 22 and 34; breaking and entering, 190 and 207; conversion, 3 and 1; desertion from armed forces, 9 and 30; disorderly conduct, 2 and 13; disturbing the peace, 7 and 10; escapes, 4 and 3; fraudulent checks, 7 and 18; gambling, 5 and 1; grand larceny, 31 and 61; leaving scene of accident, 0 and 1; liquor possession, 153 and 143; liquor sale, 41 and 14; liquor transport, 8 and 11; involuntary manslaughter, 4 and 4; murder and manslaughter, 27 and 30; narcotics law violations, 0 and 2; petit larceny, 14 and 23; rape, 5 and 5; robbery, 7 and 12; sex crimes other than rape, 5 and 6; shooting, 8 and 15; possession of stolen property, 2 and 5; receiving stolen property, 6 and 6; unlawful assembly, 1 and 1; vehicle theft, 80 and 96; carrying concealed deadly weapon, 8 and 21; drawing a deadly weapon, 7 and 9.

Nature Trails

By Rufus M. Reed

Many wild flower lovers regard the trilliums of our state as the most beautiful and glamorous of the early spring wild flowers. They are truly a treat for all who love beauty.

The two leading kinds common to our section are the Great White Trillium, (Trillium Grandiflorum), and the Red Trillium (Trillium Erectum). These two are often found growing together and they form large colonies along the cool, moist banks of streams, often along the base of sandstone cliffs, or in rich, wooded coves of hillsides. Once I found the red trillium covering the earth to the extent of several acres, and the showy, red flowers lent a colorful aspect to the barren woods of early spring.

These two trilliums begin blooming about the middle of April, and the blooming period lasts usually a month or longer.

Our cool, mountain streams and rich, shaded ravines seem to be the ideal habitat of the trilliums, and in the brooks and coves of Appalachia they thrive best and produce a gorgeous display of blossoms. Their name, "trillium," comes from the Latin, "tres," meaning three. In their development, trilliums follow exactly the law of three: The plants have three leaves formed in a whorl around the stalk; the leaves are large and broadly ovate, net-veined and grow at the base of the flower stalk. Each plant produces a single flower with three petals, three greenish sepals, a three-celled ovary and twice-three stamens.

Some botanists place the trilliums in a family of their own, the Trillium Family, Trilliaceae, but most others assign them to the Lily Family, Liliaceae, as they have many features that are common to the lilies. Both of these trilliums can be successfully transplanted in rich, moist, moderately acid soils; they thrive best in cool, shady areas.

THE GREAT WHITE TRILLIUM. This is the finest, largest and showiest of the trilliums; the white blooms gleam like three-rayed stars against the dusky, brown-leaf hillsides. The three petals are at first sheer white but in about ten days they turn to a light shade of rose-pink. The petals are crimped or crisped around the margin. The flowers are produced at the top of a slender pedicel that usually stands erect to display the blossoms. The leaves are large, dark green and slightly petioled. The plants come up from a fleshy, tuberous rootstock, and in good soil they always look vigorous and robust. The three white petals of the flower are much larger than the three green sepals which subtend them. Like the famous shamrock of Ireland, with its three leaves, the trilliums have been used sometimes to represent the three-fold nature of Deity.

THE RED TRILLIUM. This trillium appears in bloom much too early for it to be pollinated by the bees, so it produces a rank, unpleasant odor that attracts the flies for the work of pollination. Some call it The Wake Robin, as it is said to bloom about the time the robins wake up to do their best spring carols. Usually, however, the robins are singing merrily long before the red trillium blooms. Some old botany books call this trillium "The Stinking Benjamin," because of its unpleasant "wet-dog odor." But its name, red trillium, is an apt one, as the flowers are a deep, rich shade of red, sometimes deep maroon. The plants also produce several variations of color that are very lovely; often in a colony of the red ones, there will be found some that are light lemon yellow, and these have a delicate beauty of their own. White specimens of the wake robin have also been found occasionally. The three leaves are large, dark green, rhombic in form and sessile. The flower pedicel usually stands erect, hence the name, TRILLIUM ERECTUM. The ovary is three-celled and of a showy reddish-purple.

The red trillium and the large white ones when found blooming together on the barren slopes of early spring form a delightful ensemble worth going to the woods to see. It is a wild flower show that comes only once each year.

THE ROAD TRILLIUM OR TOAD-SHADE. This is a lovely little trillium that is often passed by unseen, as it is much smaller than the others and produces tiny sessile flowers at the top of the three leaves, which are spotted with brown. This trillium is known to botanists as Trillium Sessile, as the flowers do not have any stalk. It is a dainty, small trillium and well worth growing in the wild flower garden with ample shade.

Mental Health

Mental Retardation

(The information for this section is provided by the staff of Mountain Mental Health Services. If you have questions contact your local Mental Health office, phone 886-3893, or John E. Mason, community coordinator, Mountain Mental Health Services, 413 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg.)

Q: Should an Intelligence Quota (I. Q.) score be used as a guideline to determine the potential of a person?

A: No! No! No! Because many people believe the answer to be yes, often mentally retarded individuals have not been helped to progress to their maximum. An intelligence test only tests the level at which a person generally is functioning at the time he takes the test. It does not accurately indicate the potential ability of the person taking the test. In fact, as a child grows older, he develops physically, so he may perform better in that area. He also learns from his many experiences so that he is able to do and understand much more. However, from experience with children of all ability levels, there are indications that generally a child will learn at the same rate and will stay in about the same relative position in comparison to children his own age in his group. This indicates that as he grows older a mentally retarded child will learn at the same rate, which is slower than children who have a higher I. Q. Thus, as a child grows older, it is possible for him to test at higher and higher levels but he will test in the same relative position to other children his age and in his group. They, too, will test at higher and higher levels.

Q: What kind of intelligence tests are there?

A: Psychologists most frequently use two particular tests. These are called the Stanford Binet and the Wechsler. They are frequently used in settings where intelligence levels are being tested including schools and mental health centers. To be really very effective, a person taking these tests must be able to read and hear well. Therefore, there are many other special tests designed to be used regardless of the handicap of the person being tested. In fact, there is one test which does not require either the person giving the test or the person taking the test to say a word; both the questions and answers are acted out. Such tests are useful when testing one individual at a time.

Tests which can be given to groups of people are needed by factories, the military and schools. Therefore, group tests were developed. The first well recognized group tests were developed during World War I. These were called the Army Alpha and Army Beta. The Alpha was used with people who could read while the Beta was used with non-readers. These tests have been and still are models for the many tests used today to test people in groups.

A Volkswagen dealer will gladly sell you one.

Obviously, What's not so obvious, however, is why you would gladly buy one.

So we'll give you a little clue: See that sign by the windshield? That's what you get for buying that thing.

A 100% guarantee.*

Don't laugh. It's a beautiful thing in it, self. Because it covers the big things that can plague you in a used car:

Engine. Transmission. Brakes. Axles. And electrical system.

So if anything goes wrong with any of these parts within 30 days or 1000 miles (whichever comes first), worry not.

The VW dealer guarantees 100% to repair or replace it. And it doesn't cost you a cent.

But not every car he gets in trade gets that guarantee. Only those that pass a tough 16-point inspection earn his guarantee sign.

Which is your sign. Of a car that's really beautiful.

Firm Building Skylift At Stage Holdup Site

Prestonsburg-based Jesse James Enterprises, Inc. has begun work on a project, barely outside Mammoth Cave National Park, which will compete with the world-famous cavern itself for the attention of tourists.

Construction was begun last week of a skylift which will begin its ascent only a few yards from the spot where Jesse and Frank James robbed a stagecoach in the 1880's.

Future plans of the firm envision a Jesse James Village, this to be built in the vicinity of the skylift. The firm has 40 acres of land extending from the base of the 4,100-foot lift, and on this would be built a nationally recognized amusement park around the legendary Jesse James.

Jesse James Enterprises is owned by members of the Music and Colvin Motor Company here and is headed by Ed Music. Mr. Music is also head of two other skylift firms—the Mountain Parkway Skylift at Jenny Wiley State Park and the Natural Bridge Skylift at Natural Bridge State Park, Slade, Ky.

Morrow To Feature Music by Caudill

PIKEVILLE, KY.—A Pikeville College staff member's compositions will be featured in an overseas stage-band tour beginning late this month.

The composer is Jim Andy Caudill, band director and assistant professor of music at the College.

Caudill, a native of Ashland, joined the Pikeville faculty last fall. He holds degrees of bachelor of arts from Morehead State University, and master of arts from Marshall University, Huntington, W. Va. Six of his original stage-band compositions will be played by Buddy Morrow, famous orchestra leader, when he tours Alaska, Guam, Australia, Hong Kong and Japan this spring.

Caudill's published works include "Jump for Jennie," "Walk Wild," "This End Up," "The New Generation," "Bossa Nossa" and "Movin' Up."

In addition to stage compositions, he has published several serious concert-band pieces. Among them are "Folklore For Band," "A Folk Legend Overture," "Heritage Overture" and "March of the Blazeteers," a concert march.

A trumpet soloist with the Horace Heidt show when it was one of radio's most popular, Caudill spent some time as an entertainer. He has worked as arranger for a number of television shows and dance orchestras.

At present, interested in upgrading his band further, he is searching this area for students interested in music scholarships to Pikeville College. A number of grants for music students are available, he says, inviting those interested to write the Music Department, Pikeville College, Pikeville, Ky. 41501.

Caudill is married to the former Jennie Lee Zachem, of Ashland. They have two sons, Clay, 12, and Paul Bryan, 10.

veracity, Lenna Moore tells one which he lays to the credit (?) of one of his fellow-workers down at the parking lot. Says this fellow tells of tangling with a monster bass while fishing over one of these sunken car bodies in Dewey Lake, and of losing the fish after a terrific struggle of some minutes.

"What happened—why did you lose him?" he was asked.

And, according to this version of the matter, the fisherman explained: "That's simple. That fish just crawled back into that car and rolled the window up on me."

PALMER TELLS HOW

Saw a magazine article this week by Arnold Palmer, who took several pages to tell how any golfer could take 10 strokes off his score for 18 holes. I was beginning to be impressed till it suddenly occurred to me that Mr. Palmer needed to take just about that many strokes off his own score in some of these recent tournaments.

BUT THAT WOULD HURT "BUSINESS"

Gallup, New Mexico is having one horrendous time with its drunks—drunken Indians, mainly. The police jammed the jail till the health authorities became concerned. Drinking became so universal among these native sons of ours that Gallup officials consulted psychiatrists, doctors, everybody—even considered a bigger and more modern jail. What was so amusing about the whole sad story was the failure of the Gallup city fathers to use their noggins and consider getting rid of some of those 40-odd bars that have been set up to catch the Redskin trade.

Mountain Dew Festival Adds Two Events to This Year's Card; 3-Day Event To Begin April 2

Two new events have been added to this year's sixth annual Prestonsburg Community College Mountain Dew Festival, making it the biggest ever, according to Robert R. Allen, academic dean at the college and coordinator of the 1970 festival. An art exhibit and cheerleader contest will be the new featured events at this year's festival. These events and 13 others will comprise the list of activities scheduled.

The three-day festival, an annual event, will start Thursday morning, April 2, and end Saturday evening after the Festival dance featuring the Exiles.

"More than 1500 students and faculty members from 16 other junior colleges in Kentucky and West Virginia are expected to attend," Allen said. "We expect a record number of students and also a record crowd of spectators from the surrounding areas."

Purchase of School Buses Through State Saves Millions

By LEWIS SHARPLEY

FRANKFORT, KY.—Boards of education in Kentucky's 120 counties have saved at least $4 million and possibly as much as $10 million by mass buying of school buses through the State Division of Purchases in the last nine years.

A law passed by the General Assembly in 1956 permits school boards to order their buses through the state instead of at the higher local price levels.

It was not until 1962 that the law was implemented, Louis A. Yandell, director of Pupil Transportation for the Education Department, said. In that year the state took bids and placed a contract for 328 buses costing $1,492,555.11. For a few years previous to 1962 some school boards had made smaller savings by ordering bus chassis through the state.

"Practically all board-owned school buses in Kentucky have been bought through the state in the past three years," Yandell said.

In the nine-year period, the state has bought 3983 buses for local school boards, at a total cost of $20,949,854.50, or an average of $5260 per bus.

Officials differ on the extent of the savings.

"Conservatively, the amount saved through mass buying was at least $1,000 per bus back in 1962," Yandell said.

So far this year the boards have ordered 540 buses through the state. Most orders are placed early in the year, to take advantage of lower bids that are possible when plants ordinarily slow down production, but more buses will be ordered later this year.

While equipment and specifications vary, purchasing officials say that the amount saved on the price of the average bus is easily from $2000 to $2500, sometimes running as high as $4000.

"When this much can be saved on buses alone, there can be some realization of how much more would be saved the taxpayers if quantity buying were extended to other school needs," N. B. McCubbin, state director of purchases, commented.

He cited HB 204, which would permit school districts, cities and counties to buy all their supplies at state-discount levels. The bill passed the House unanimously and is now in the Senate.

Mines May Be Used As Pits for Waste

If a grant request scheduled to be made April 1 is granted by the U. S. Public Health Service to finance testing of coal mines as solid waste depositories, Eastern Kentucky will have moved toward solution of one of its most pressing problems.

Use of abandoned mines for this purpose was first argued in the area by Ex-Mayor J. B. Wells, of Paintsville, The Paintsville Herald reported in a Page 1 story last week. The idea was not feasible, some miners argued, but Wells persisted, and now the U. S. Public Health Service has become interested.

Some mining men have contended that storing of waste in mines would result in an accumulation of methane gas that would "blow off the top of a mountain." But others have argued that circulation of air inside the storage mine would prevent such a development.

If the grant is made, the test project will determine the merits, or faults, of the idea. Reports The Herald:

Several mines were inspected as possible test sites, and at least one was said to be adequate to absorb Paintsville's solid waste for over a quarter of a century.

The research proposal will call for two test methods of disposal, one involving compaction of waste into packages, and the second bulk waste disposal—simply moving waste into the mine.

No health hazards are seen, although those will be among the problems which the test program will attempt to determine, along with costs.

Growing concern over pollution has resulted in stringent state regulations concerning waste disposal, and those regulations in turn have set standards practically impossible to meet in terrain such as exists in Eastern Kentucky. Burning waste creates air pollution and must be stopped, according to regulations, but use of landfills as a disposal process is prohibited where drainage would pollute water. Since practically every available valley in Eastern Kentucky, or similar hilly areas, is basically a drainage basin, the use of landfills appears out of the question, and the result is a problem almost impossible to resolve.

Should abandoned mines be feasible for waste disposal, it would be a dramatic solution and the Public Health Service obviously would like to test the idea. Officials expressed considerable optimism here last week that a grant would be forthcoming.

Latta, Burke Split On Parochial Aid Bill in Committee

FRANKFORT, Ky.—House and Senate bills that would give state aid to parochial school teachers were killed in committee last week.

HB 198, which would permit the state to supplement the salaries of certain teachers in private and parochial schools was passed over by the House Education Committee for the third time since Jan. 23.

A companion measure, SB 128, lost on a 5-to-2 roll call vote in the Senate Education Committee. Sen. Romano Mazzoli, D-Louisville, had proposed amending the bill to provide $1,000 for teacher pay the first year of the biennium and $1,500 the second so that a court test could be set up.

"One objection I've heard to SB 128 is its constitutionality, and others have contended it was divisive and a threat to public education," Mazzoli said. "This would give us an opportunity to test its constitutionality by letting the courts decide this."

However, his amendment was never voted on. Then a move to favorably report the bill, which carried no funding provision, failed with only Mazzoli and Sen. Francis M. Burke, D-Pikeville, voting in favor of it. Those opposed were Sens. Fred Bishop, R-Madisonville; Thomas O. Harris, D-Worthville; Clifford B. Latta, D-Prestonsburg, and George M. Plummer, R-Vanceburg.

Godfrey To Lead 1970 Observance Of Wildlife Week

Pollution crusader Arthur Godfrey is honorary chairman of the 32nd annual observance of National Wildlife Week, March 15-21, sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation in cooperation with its state affiliates.

This year's provocative theme, "Seen Any Wildlife Lately?", is particularly important, according to NWF Executive Director Thomas L. Kimball, "because it asks each of us to reflect on our nation's vanishing wildlife heritage and consider its effect on our own lives."

As increasing air and water pollution, persistent pesticides, non-planned highways, and urban sprawl gnaw steadily away at the nation's wildlife resources, and a staggering 89 American wildlife species confront extinction, he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey E. Coger, of Belleville, Mich., announce the engagement of their daughter, Valerie Jalene, to Sp-4 Johnny Lee Casto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darris Casto, Sr., of Ypsilanti, Mich.

Miss Coger is currently in her senior year at Belleville high school. Her fiancé graduated from Ypsilanti high school in 1967 and is presently serving with the U. S. Army at An Khe, Vietnam.

Miss Coger is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gibson, of Abbott Road. No date has been set for the wedding.

Estimated 4,600 File Statements

Daryl E. Ratliff, manager of the Pikeville Social Security office, said last week that approximately 4,600 protective statements have been received under the new Mine Safety Act.

It is estimated that there are about 6,000 persons in the area served by the Pikeville office who may be eligible for benefits under this act. Widows of miners who died from a lung disease and miners who suffer from lung disease are being urged to contact the Pikeville office to file a statement as soon as possible.

Those who have already notified the office in writing of intention to file for Black Lung benefits need not write again, Ratliff said. The office will contact these who have filed when the necessary application forms are available to complete applications. Because of the large number of protective statements already received, it may be several months before those filing are contacted.

Labor Dept. Sues Prather Drilling

Prather Drilling and Producing Company, Inc. and Mrs. Earl Prather, its president, of Oil Springs, have been named defendants in a complaint on file in U. S. District Court for the Eastern district of Kentucky.

The complaint, filed by Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz, charges that the defendants have violated the minimum wage, overtime compensation, shipping and recordkeeping provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act. Violations are alleged to have occurred during the period since July, 1967, and the court is asked to permanently enjoin the defendants from further violations of the act, and to order them to pay back wages found due their employees.

Mrs. Nunn To Visit Park Here in Drive For Historic Home

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky.—Mrs. Louie B. Nunn helped launch a drive here to raise a minimum of $38,000 for the purchase of the Mary Todd Lincoln home in Lexington.

The state's First Lady appeared before a non-partisan luncheon of more than 100 women here—her first appearance in a two-month project that includes similar presentations in each of Kentucky's seven congressional districts.

Other appearances are scheduled for Jenny Wiley State Park, near Prestonsburg, Cumberland Falls, Kenton County, Louisville, Henderson and Glasgow. The Federated Republican Women's Clubs of Kentucky is the chief source of woman power in the fund drive.

Present plans call for purchase of the girlhood home of Mary Ann Todd, at 574 W. Main St., Lexington, from Sterling D. Coke. The property will be deeded to the state for restoration and to establish it as a terminus for the Lincoln Heritage Trail that runs through Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois.

"It seems incredible," the wife of Kentucky's governor said, "that our neighbors to the north have done so much more than we in establishing permanent shrines to the memory of Abraham and Mary Todd Lincoln. They were born and reared here; it is the spirit of Kentucky that moved with them through lives that changed the world."

AIMS AT RATS, PRIVIES, ETC.

Three bills designed to attack such urban problems as rat control, open privies and run-down property were passed by the House and sent to the Senate. But, the House defeated a bill, part of the same package, which would provide, for possible state assistance in buying facilities for use as civic and community auditoriums.

Prestonsburg Soldier Tells How Red Cross Helped His Return Home

A Floyd county soldier who made the long trip home recently in a losing race with death tells how the Red Cross helped him get emergency leave without delay.

Returning to Vietnam after a furlough home, Sp-5 Rick Smiley contacted the Red Cross in Vietnam on March 27 to ascertain the condition of his father, V. A. Smiley, in Prestonsburg. The next morning, the reply from Floyd Chapter, American Red Cross, was in the soldier's hands. Six hours later, he was on his way home.

"Four other servicemen left on the same flight—all on emergency leaves handled by the Red Cross," Smiley said. "Actually, the Red Cross is our only contact with home except by mail."

The soldier did not arrive home before his father's passing, but only the time required by travel delayed him.

The Red Cross, says Smiley, does not restrict its services to emergencies. "Any place you find a G. I. in Vietnam, the Red Cross is there, too," he said here last week.

"Any fire base you go to, the Red Cross is there. They are there, all set up—we call their places 'Happy Hootches'—it's where we get coffee, sandwiches, a friendly chat, many of the things that many of us find scarce," he said.

"The Red Cross," he added, "assigns its people to a unit. They live under conditions just as bad as we do—and they don't get as much pay for it."

Young Smiley will return to Vietnam when his present leave expires.
