

New Location Sought For Health Program

County Assumes Task of Finding Working Center

The Floyd County Comprehensive Health Program has outgrown its basement central office quarters in the Floyd County Health Department building and must find a new location if its application for new funding is to get favorable consideration.

Because the city of Prestonsburg has indicated it will not participate in the cost of renting the space required, there is a strong possibility that the 102-employee pilot program will move to some other location in the county.

The Floyd fiscal court voted Saturday to advertise for bids from owners of property that might fill the bill for the health program, and, since the county will be bearing all the rental expense, it will be looking for the cheapest property available that will be satisfactory to the health service.

"We will have to borrow the money, but this program is too important for us to take a chance on losing," County Judge Henry Stumbo said.

The Floyd County Board of Health voted recently to ask the Comprehensive Health Program to vacate the health department building within 90 days. Mayor George P. Archer was subsequently asked if the city of Prestonsburg would cooperate with the county in providing satisfactory quarters for the program, and he indicated he was doubtful if the city council would approve such an expenditure, in view of the fact that it had borrowed money for the purchase of a required pumper for its fire department.

If the health program's application for refunding, is approved, its budget for the next year will be $1.5 million. A new program which will cost an added $137,000 pertains to environmental improvement. A garbage collection system, and a central garbage dump would be included in this phase of the work. Intestinal parasite control is also in the new planning, it was said.

The new quarters sought for the program must have between 2000 and 3000 square feet of floor space, accommodate 18 or more offices and have parking for 20-25 vehicles. Air-conditioning and adequate heating and plumbing are other requisites.

The Comprehensive Health Service now employs 102 persons, and 25 others are expected to be added soon to the staff.

THE PERFECT EXCUSE

I have in my time, more in honest confession than in pride, laid claim to being the champion excuse-maker of them all. Most preachers who have known me will attest to the fact that I came up with some lulu when invited to church or reminded that I failed to show up as promised. My trouble was, I seldom told the truth.

Now comes one with an excuse which strikes me as altogether original and, I think, the truth unalloyed. This fellow was asked, in my presence, why he wasn't at Sunday School last Sunday, and he promptly replied, "Had the chiggers."

OH, THE HEARTBREAK!

Every age—you might say, every generation—has had its times of agonizing. Ancient history, the Bible, medieval history, modern—all record those times of famine, pestilence, earthquake, violent death and those heartbreaking moments of a single tragedy in the home.

But this age of ours passes them all. None before has had—and, I hope, none to come will ever again have—what we face every day via TV, "the heartbreak of psoriasis."

Kiwanis Club Sets Annual Pancake Day For September 26

The Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club this week announced plans for its annual Pancake Day, which will be held Sept. 26 at the Prestonsburg high school cafeteria.

Kiwanians will begin serving at 6 a.m., and continue on through the day till 6 p.m. Pancake Day is held each year to raise funds to enable the club to continue its various public service projects. One such service was rendered only recently when a deaf four-year-old Mud Creek child needed help in order to have foster home care and day-school training elsewhere in the state. The club contributed $300 to this cause.

Present Four-Laning Not Last for US 23

Four-lane construction on US 23 from Prestonsburg to Pikeville will not be complete before the state will be starting reconstruction of the same highway to make it a four-lane route from Catlettsburg to Louisa and, possibly, on to Prestonsburg.

The tentative timetable on Catlettsburg-Louisa construction was outlined at a public hearing held last week at Durbin elementary school, Boyd county, by John D. Witt, Flemingsburg, district engineer, Kentucky Department of Highways. He said the spring of 1974 appears to be the earliest date when work can be begun.

Discussed elsewhere, and not as openly, are plans for four-laning the remainder of US 23 on from Louisa to Prestonsburg where the present four-lane construction will end at the junction with the Mountain Parkway. Privately, road men admit the present two lanes will be inadequate. In Johnson county water line construction has been confined to the side of the present right-of-way that will not be affected by future widening of the highway, and this is taken as an indication of future road plans.

Some feelers have gone out to test the reaction to the thinking that the new four lanes between Prestonsburg and Paintsville should follow the old US 23 via Little Paint Creek. This, it has been pointed out, would provide a shorter route and also preserve the present US 23 to serve the area along the river between the two county-seats.

At the Boyd county hearing support of the present US 23 route for the Louisa-Catlettsburg four-laning was unanimous. And Department of Highway officials agreed that the industrial potential of the present route would justify its use for the wider highway instead of the old route (now known as KY 3), which is longer and does not skirt the industrialized river section.

Lawrence County Judge J. J. Jordan reminded the group attending the Boyd hearing that along the Louisa-Catlettsburg

Murder Defendant Asks Test; Grand Jury Indictments Listed

Charles Jackson, of Arkansas Creek, who was named in an indictment here last week charging him with the murder last year of James Chaffins, has in his denial of guilt asked for, and has been granted, a polygraph (lie detector) test.

Jackson was scheduled to be taken to Frankfort Wednesday for the test.

Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo said he granted the request "because I do not want a man to be convicted if he is innocent." He added that two witnesses, however, have identified Jackson as being the man they saw going to a car on Middle Creek where the slain man's suitcase was found after the body had been discovered. It also was pointed out that evidence based on polygraph findings has not been held admissible in Kentucky courts.

Chaffins was found at the roadside on Arkansas Creek. Stumbo and State Detective Chester D. Potter have since that time interviewed scores of witnesses in a dogged effort to identify his killer. The slain man purportedly was en route from his home in Louisville to visit relatives at Garrett when he was shot.

Two other men were named on murder counts, and the grand jury held that a third man involved in a slaying acted in self-defense. The other murder defendants are Recie J. Combs, who allegedly fatally wounded Claude Conley on Rock Fork, in Knott county, and Whirley "Gig Pole" Hall, accused of the murder of Guy Bates on Jacks Creek. Both victims died of shotgun wounds. Although Conley was shot in Knott county, he died at a Martin hospital, and Floyd county was given jurisdiction. The jury declined to indict Bill Ratliff, as the slayer of Lemuel O. (Sammy) Foley, Jr.

Three men were named in bills charging them with carrying a concealed deadly weapon—an offense that has almost disappeared from the court docket—and it voted five third-offense liquor indictments and two second-offense indictments.

Harrison Reed, one of three men indicted on a jail-break charge, also was named in an indictment charging him with detaining an 84-year-old Hueysville woman against her will and of assault and battery upon her person.

Reed, Franklin VanHoose and Wayne Lycans were charged with breaking custody. The fourth man who escaped jail with them last month, Ronald Gayheart, was not indicted. He was named, however, in an indictment with Henry Poston and Randall Owens in which they were accused of stealing household effects from the estate of the late Emma Martin and of knowingly receiving stolen property.

Albert Chaffins, of Wayland, was indicted on a charge of aiding in the jail escape of Reed, Gayheart, VanHoose and Lycans.

Indicted on third-offense liquor possession counts were Mack Hunt, Ashland Joseph, Clarence Martin, Fred Newsome and Lon Neeley. Conviction could carry a pen term as the penalty. James McKinney and Sherman Cook were indicted on second-offense liquor possession counts. Alvis Lee Smith was charged with third-offense transporting of intoxicants.

Other liquor indictments included that of Deputy Sheriff Dexter (Dester?) Hamilton, who was named with Jim Hall as

Deputies Have His Confidence, Sheriff Avers

Commenting in the grand jury report which said that one deputy sheriff had been indicted as having taken part in the liquor traffic and that the jury's investigation showed that other officers may be involved, Sheriff Frank Leslie said Monday he will stand behind his deputies until he himself is fully convinced, either through his own observation or by court action, that the jury statement is based on fact.

Said Sheriff Leslie in a prepared statement:

"No officer to my knowledge accused of the infraction mentioned is guilty, and I shall stand behind each of them until I am convinced, either by my own observation or conviction by the court, and for each officer who represents your sheriff's office I hold the highest esteem, and I trust their judgment when a forthwith judgment is necessary. The burden of the sheriff's office is a heavy one, and we are doing our best, though our tools are obsolete. Will those who are complaining the most be of as much help, remembering always that 'he who hesitates is lost'?"

Grand Jury's Report Hits Crime, Officers

Spindletop Prexy To Address Area Development Body

Dr. George P. Archer, chairman of the Big Sandy Area Development district board, announced this week that the board will meet on Monday, September 21, at 5 p.m., at the Paintsville Country Club.

To be discussed at this meeting are several important items relating to the Big Sandy area.

Following the 5 p.m. board of directors' meeting the Area Council will meet for dinner. Ted R. Broida, president of Spindletop Research, Lexington, will be the dinner speaker. He will discuss Spindletop's role in relation to the development of Eastern Kentucky, with particular emphasis on its work with the Big Sandy Area Development District.

3 Indictments Allege Murder; Deputy Indicted

The Floyd circuit court grand jury concluded last week one of the busiest four-day sessions conducted by a jury in this county and wound up in its final report with a blast at crime conditions and enforcement officers.

"We have found," the jury reported to Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, "that the crime situation in Floyd county is bad, and we recommend that we have more strict, honest law-enforcement."

The report, which was signed by Walter King, foreman, added:

"We have indicted one deputy sheriff for being in the whiskey business and have discovered evidence of other officers being in the business. We think that appropriate action should be taken against any dishonest officer."

The deputy sheriff was identified as Dexter Hamilton, of the Mud Creek section of the county, but the indictment named him as Dexter Hamilton.

Pointing to the fact that it had made second- and third-offense whiskey indictments, the jury recommended that no judge suspend a jail sentence for a whiskey violation. In its comment on its indictment of two clubs, it directed the Commonwealth's Attorney to file suit to close both immediately.

The jury then turned to violations of laws against stream pollution and overweight trucks. "We think," it said, "that stream pollution laws should be strictly enforced and overweight coal trucks should be stopped from using our public roads . . . that all coal-haulers should be fined by the courts on citations."

The jury questioned "at least" 200 witnesses during its session. It voted more than 90 indictments. Its final report commended the Kentucky State Police "for doing a fine job," and urged these officers "to keep up their good work."

The courthouse was reported in perfect condition except for tool leaks.

School Situation Yet In a Legal Tangle

The Eastern-Martin school situation this week remained tangled in a maze of legal entanglements, with three court actions undecided.

The latest suit filed, a $582,212 damage action by the Board of Education against three Martin men, has not been docketed for trial, but Circuit Judge Hollie Conley has disqualified himself for the hearing and has asked the Court of Appeals to designate a special judge.

The ruling awaited from Special Judge James D. Stephenson, Pikeville, on the validity of a 1939 Floyd court judgment "perpetually enjoining" discontinuance of a school at Martin has not been made.

And Circuit Judge Henry Meigs, of the Franklin circuit court, last week refused to dismiss the suit of Everett Akers, L. B. Kiser and Frank Salisbury seeking to get state education officials and departments to withdraw their approval of the proposed new Eastern school. He, too, awaits Stephenson's ruling on the 1939 judgment.

Ray Corns, attorney for the state Department of Education, sought the dismissal and contended that the Franklin court suit, the latest of four court tests filed by opponents of the new school, was a deliberate attempt to delay delivery of bonds already sold for the school's construction. Its Old Logs Will Become a Museum

This structure, one of the oldest in the valley, is being torn down to make way for a new sanctuary which the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church plans to build. Known in more recent years as the Baptist Annex, it originally was a two-room log structure owned by Miah Mayo. Later, it became the home of Dr. George Neal, who sold the property to Tom Burchett. Hiram Harris later acquired the home, and it was rebuilt in 1946 by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Pelfrey, who sold the property to the church. Much of the history of the old house has been lost with the passing of older residents of Prestonsburg. The log section of the old home will be moved to Archer Park to be reconstructed to provide a museum.

Two Floyd Women Tabbed for Honors

The Maytown Woman's Club announced this week that Mrs. Melanie Ann Conley Warfield and Mrs. Bonnie Hopson Spencer have been selected to appear in the 1970 edition of OUTSTANDING YOUNG WOMEN OF AMERICA. Nominated earlier this year, they have been chosen for the awards publication on the basis of their achievements.

Now in its sixth year, the Outstanding Young Women of America program, designed to recognize the abilities of women between the ages of 21 and 35, was conceived by the leaders of the nation's major women's organizations. Half-Pint, No More Is Limit on Milk For School Lunch

Yes, Virginia, you may have milk with your lunch—one-half pint, no more. There's no funds for extra milk.

A continuing resolution which extends the funding of the food service program was signed by President Nixon and the Secretary of Agriculture. Lunches under this resolution include one-half pint of milk and will be funded until October 15.

But the special milk program which authorized the reimbursement of part of the cost of the extra milk enjoyed by children with their school lunches expired August 31.

C. E. Bevins, director of the School Lunch Division, Kentucky Department of Education, explained that even though H. R. 5554, which was a measure to extend the authorization of the special milk program, became law without the President's signature, there is no authorization to spend the $120 million it provides.

Mr. Bevins said further food service funds, which will not include the special milk program, were expected to be authorized Sept. 4.

Can you find the Volkswagen hidden in this picture?

If you can, you'll make us very sad. Because we've troubled ourselves no end to hide it from you.

Our quest for the invisible Volkswagen took us all the way to Turin, Italy.

Where we asked the famous Ghia Studios to design us a sporty Italian body. They did.

Then we secretly prowled about Europe for the best coach builder we could find. Success. To the Karmann Coachworks of Osnabrück we handed over Ghia's sketches with the injunction:

"Make it beautiful." (Or else.) They did.

They welded. And burnished. And sculpted. And sanded. And painted.

Until they had shaped in steel what Ghia had shaped in pencil.

Smug in the knowledge that nobody could ever mistake this beautiful car for a Volkswagen, we concealed our air-cooled engine in back. (For better traction.)

And made it go about 26 miles on just one gallon.

Then we gave this Volkswagen its final disguise:

We named it the Karmann Ghia.

Highway 12 Office Open House Host

The week of September 20-27 has been designated as National Highway Week by President Nixon, and the same week has been designated as Kentucky Highway Week by Governor Nunn.
In keeping with this special observance, open house activities are being held in each of the 12 highway district offices in the state. Citizens of the state are being invited to visit the district offices in their respective areas during Highway Week. They will have an opportunity to see the facilities and to learn of the operations and functions that are the background for building and maintaining our vast road and highway system in the various divisions of planning and programming, design, right-of-way, construction, maintenance, and traffic control.
It will also provide an occasion for individuals and groups to discuss their particular road and traffic problems with their highway personnel. A representative of the commissioner, B. E. King, from the Central Office in Frankfort, will be present at each district open house to be of help to people attending.
Residents of this area are invited to attend the open house at Highway District Office 12 at Pikeville. The office building is located on US 23 at the lower bridge at Pikeville. The hours are from 1:30-4:30 on Sunday afternoon, September 20.
Wendell Bayes, district engineer, extends a cordial welcome to the people of the area and urges them to take advantage of this opportunity to learn more about the functions and operations of their Highway Department.
Mrs. Judith C. Preston, a clerk-typist at the District Office, "Miss Kentucky Highways for the district office, will serve as official hostess for the Kentucky Highway Department.
The counties in District 12 are Floyd, Johnson, Knott, Lawrence, Letcher, Martin and Pike.

Firm Considers Need of Second Plant, Building

There is a possibility that the Princess Manufacturing Company at Auxier may be obliged to construct another building to house a second plant of the firm's expanding business, an official of the firm conceded this week.

Princess Manufacturing, has within recent weeks purchased approximately $24,000 worth of new machinery required for the manufacture of a new product. This equipment will be used to augment existing facilities in the manufacture of 50,000 sport coats for McGregor.
Production on this new contract is scheduled to begin around Oct. 1. A McGregor order for suburban coats is now being completed.

Two Coal Firms File To Restrain UMWA's Dist. 30

Picketing continued Monday at the Greer-Ellison Coal Company and Jo Ann Coal Company properties on Ivy Creek, where acts of violence were reported last week in an apparent effort to unionize the workings.

The United Mine Workers of America, its District 30 and seven individuals listed as its representatives have been since last Tuesday under a restraining order enjoining them from assembling in groups, or from causing groups to assemble on roads at the mouth of Ivy Creek, adjacent to the coal companies' properties so as to block, hinder or prevent the free and open passage of company employees and those doing business with them.

The petition for an injunction alleged that since August 25 defendants have been intimidating employees, damaging their property, and have thrown rocks into trucks of employees and set off dynamite charges at employees' homes, near their trucks and on the premises of the two coal firms.

Gene Hall, a truckdriver, told of seeing one of several men pick up a stone and throw it into the rear window of his truck. Jack Witten, another driver, said shots were fired around his truck. Others made statements, saying the road was blocked and threats were made.

Individuals listed as defendants in the petition included Joe Castle and Walter Akers, field representatives of Dist. 30, and these who were described as representatives of the UMWA and its District 30: Gene Coleman, Ronnie Leedy, Willie James Sturgill, Paul Conn and William Sturgill.

MAJOR STRATTON RECEIVES MEDAL

Major Donald N. Stratton (right), son of Mrs. Walter L. Mann, of Prestonsburg, is presented the Meritorious Service Medal by Brig. Gen. Ira A. Hunt, Jr., assistant commandant of the U. S. Army Engineer School, Fort Belvoir, Va., during ceremonies held there recently.

Major Stratton, who is retiring from the Army after 23 years' active service, was cited for his outstanding service in his most recent assignment as chief of the Facilities Division at the School's Department of Logistics. The award citation stated, in part:

"His performance was highlighted by his leadership ability, sound management principles and dedication. He developed the Engineer School's Minor Construction Army Program and Repairs and Utilities Program. His methodical formulation of concise brochures containing all necessary information to further develop these programs set a standard for his division which will be used in the future."

A graduate of Prestonsburg high school, Stratton attended Morehead State College. Since entering the Army in 1947, he has served tours in Germany, Korea and Vietnam and has received the Bronze Star Medal and the Army Commendation Medal.

Major Stratton and his wife, the former Edith Lou Hutchinson, of Morehead, reside with their two daughters, Donna Lou and Kimberly Ann, at 7432 Berwick Court, Alexandria, Virginia.

Closing of Clubs At Martin Asked In Petition Here

Complaints filed in circuit court Monday by Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo and County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill ask Circuit Judge Hollie Conley for a temporary restraining order against two Martin veterans' clubs and called on the court for an order to close the clubs immediately.

A third place, "Harold Hill," was also under the same legal attack, and its closing awaited only the judge's signature to the order, it was said.

The action against the Martin clubs complied with the directive issued by the grand jury in its final report last week upon conclusion of its four-day session. The jury noted it had voted indictments against the clubs and added, "We direct the Commonwealth's Attorney to file suit to close them immediately."

The complaint filed by Stumbo and Sturgill said that during the grand jury session several witnesses were questioned as to activities of the clubs and that this investigation revealed that the open sale of alcoholic beverages had been made "within the clubs and by the clubs." Several witnesses, they said, told of buying beer for 40 cents a bottle. The evidence, according to the two separate complaints, was clear and convincing and did prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the clubs have violated the local option statute "every day of the week, six days each week for the past six months."

Judge Conley was expected to issue the closing order Monday.

The U. S. District Court of Appeals has affirmed the judgement of the U. S. District Judge Bernard T. Moynihan, who dismissed the suit of VISTA's and others contending that their civil rights had been violated by an order of the Floyd County Board of Education.

The board's order banned AV's, VISTA's and certain individuals from Floyd school properties following an altercation at the board's office building here.

Judge Moynihan, in effect, held that there was no civil rights issue, since only persons of the white race were involved.

No Medicare payment can be made for nursing home care unless the patient needs skilled nursing care for his condition. Routine care in a nursing home is not paid for, but Medicare will pay for skilled nursing care under certain conditions.

But Charles Hobson, a Frankfort attorney representing the plaintiffs, said the major issue was whether the state Board of Education would be violating the 1939 Floyd circuit court judgment.

Hobson conceded that the courts had upheld the other three suits, which otherwise would have blocked construction of the new school. But he argued that at no time had they yet ruled on the legality of the 1939 action.

He and other attorneys representing Akers and other plaintiffs, said that a ruling on this issue is expected sometime soon in Floyd circuit court.

Under these circumstances, said Meigs, he would overrule the dismissal motion and "abate" the case until the Floyd court's ruling. However, he did tentatively set Sept. 30 as a trial date for the latest suit.

Corns said the construction bonds, sold Aug. 20, must be delivered by early next month. But before this can occur, he added, bond counsel must be assured that no litigation is pending on the matter.

He said that if the issue remains in the courts, and if the bonds are not delivered by the deadline, they may have to be resold. He said that if this occurs, both their interest rate and construction costs for the school will increase.

Slightly over half (5.5 million) of the workers who voluntarily accepted part-time jobs in 1969 were adult women. Adult men accounted for about 2 million of those who usually worked part time and teenagers were credited with holding an additional 2.8 million part-time jobs.

SUSIE WAS A MERE GUEST

My visitor vowed the story is true. Said he was down in the state, a few years back, and a prominent couple, a judge and his wife, had been honored on their Silver Wedding anniversary. The honors were so plentiful and the "take" so imposing that an old codger in the neighborhood decided he would go them one better and invite the folks in for his Golden Wedding.

This character had been married three or four times, and when an acquaintance reminded him that he hadn't been married to Susie more than 20 years, he bristled.

"What's Susie got to do with this?" he wanted to know. "I been married 50 years, and I aim to have me a Golden Wedding party that'll make that old judge look like a bachelor."

Rabies in Wildlife, Especially Skunks, A Growing Danger

Two unrelated fatal cases of human rabies were recently reported to the Center For Disease Control—one from Arizona and one from South Dakota.

Case 1: At 1 a.m., June 29, near McNary, in the Mogollon Rim area of Arizona, a skunk entered the tent and sleeping bag of an 11-year-old boy and bit him four times on the right shoulder and left hand. The skunk was captured and on July 1 was found to be rabid by the fluorescent antibody (FRA) test. On July 2 the boy was begun on the 14-dose series of rabies vaccine.

On July 22 he developed stiff neck, sore throat, and malaise. He was admitted with these complaints to the Tucson Medical Center on July 26. On July 29 he lapsed into coma, and in the early morning of July 30 he died.

Laboratory tests of serum obtained from the patient on July 26 showed that he definitely had rabies.

Epidemiologic investigation showed that specimens of four other skunks submitted to the Arizona laboratory this year from the same camping area where the patient had been bitten were positive for rabies. There has been a three-fold increase in the number of animal specimens positive for rabies submitted to the laboratory this year from the Mogollon Rim area in central Arizona.

Case 2: On June 23, 1970, a 4-year-old boy in Chamberlain, South Dakota, was severely bitten about the upper extremities by a wild skunk which had been living in his backyard and had recently had a litter. The child's mother had considerable difficulty in dislodging the skunk and finally had to hit it over the head with a pipe. The child was immediately taken to a physician who cleaned the wounds, and began the 14-day course of vaccine. The child remained well until July 26 when he developed intermittent headache. On July 28 he developed sore throat and fever. He was hospitalized on July 30. Progressively deepening coma led to death on August 2. Postmortem examination of the brain at the state laboratories revealed Negri bodies, and fluorescent antibody staining for rabies virus was also strongly positive.

These two cases serve to emphasize the continual risk to the general population of rabies exposure by contact with wildlife reservoirs. Even though there have been only 11 cases in humans in the past seven years, some 30,000 persons each year receive rabies post-exposure prophylaxis.

In the United States, the number of cases of rabies in wild animals has exceeded those in domestic animals each year since 1959. Since 1964, wild animals have accounted for approximately two-thirds of the total animal cases reported each year. Skunks, foxes, bats, and raccoons are the major wildlife reservoirs in the United States. In 1969, there were 2,672 cases of rabies reported in wild animals (76 percent of the total), including 1,156 skunks, 888 foxes, and 321 bats. Skunks have been the most frequently infected species since 1961. In 1969 rabid skunks were reported in 32 states and accounted for 43 percent of the wildlife cases for that year.

The increase in wildlife rabies, especially in skunks, has resulted in an increase in the risk of human exposure from wild animal bites. Since 1950 there have been 24 human rabies cases in the United States resulting from the bites of rabid wildlife: nine from skunks, seven from foxes, six from bats, and one from a bobcat.

The risk of rabies from wild animals is not limited to exposures incurred in the field. Wild animals trapped and sold as pets have on several occasions been responsible for human exposures.

What's Happening to Modesty???

By NORMAN R. OKE

We are living in an extremely sensual age; moral purity is fighting for its life. And in this battle for moral purity, immodesty is a major factor. Immodesty and immorality are companions in crime.

The Bible Speaks—

Yes, the Bible does have something to say about modesty. God has been facing the issue of modesty from Eden until this very hour; and it isn't over yet. If the Bible speaks, dare we remain silent?

Eden with its unstained beauty and unbroken calm—Adam and Eve, in holy innocence, were the happy inhabitants. Then a visitor came; uninvited, vicious, subtle. And when this satanic visitor left, holiness had fled, and the hearts of Adam and Eve were unholily cesspools of iniquitous thoughts. What was God's first act? He set up a clothing shop and outfitted both of them in their first made-to-order suits. Why did God clothe our first parents? He knew full well that fallen man and nakedness were not fit companions; and God knows still today that carnal man is no match for the extreme temptations of sight. God, by so doing, placed His divine disapproval upon nudity.

Now move from Eden's beautiful garden to Sinai's rugged crags. The Mount of God is shaken by the thunderings of the Holy One. God is speaking in tones of finality; and among the other instructions to Moses, God clearly reveals His attitude toward immodesty. In Eden, God had dramatized His attitude; on Sinai, God shouts it out in burning words. Read it in the eighteenth chapter of Leviticus—and this chapter, by the way, could well be read by both men and women with profit in these days of unblushing immodesty.

As you read this chapter, you will notice two things: first, nakedness (immodesty) is inextricably linked with immorality. No less than twenty-four times in this one chapter is nudism condemned. God puts it bluntly, "It is wickedness" (Lev. 18:17). Second, you will note that God's warnings apply equally to man and woman. God says that modesty is a pattern for both sexes. God abhors nudity; He hates sex exhibitionism.

Does someone say, "Yes, but that is just the Old Testament"? To such I say, read where Christ restored the demoniac of Gadara (Luke 8:26-40). Regardless of the cause of his plight, the Bible clearly states that he "wore no clothes." And when Jesus restored him, he was "sitting... clothed." Christ was clearly placing the divine approval upon a clean mind and a clothed body.

What would Jesus say if He faced the blatant and daring near-nudity which today flaunts itself on streets and in parks in the guise of summer comfort?

One more Biblical witness, St. Paul, in writing to Timothy, urges "that women adorn themselves in modest apparel." Again, notice two things: First, that immodesty would nullify the testimony of a Christian woman.

Second, at this juncture in Christian history, immodesty had become more particularly a feminine problem; and that is the case today. Because of the physiological make up of men and women, sight is the basis of man's strongest temptations. That is why women especially need to guard at this point—at home, on the street, everywhere.

Our Contemporaries Speak—

Not only does the Bible sound a note of warning; there is also general alarm among religious leaders today. Scantly-clad women are displayed on billboards, newspaper ads, magazine covers, and TV screens to lure the attention of men. And parallel with this shocking fact is the surging tide of rapes and sexual assaults. This is no accident. Sex advertising gets the attention of men all right—but what else happens? The devil smiles!

What, then, are religious leaders saying? A Baptist journal states it thus: "The current mode of (immodest) dress constitutes a serious offense against decency."

Let us be consistent. Modesty must be the rule for all occasions at church, at work, on the street, at play.

What is our answer?

Remember, Christians, immodesty is as fatal to holy character as termites are to the timbers of a house.

We have a reckoning day with modesty!

FAWN IN THE LIVING ROOM. Charles Austin is an interested spectator at his Ulysses, Lawrence county home, as a pet fawn and his young daughter exchange endearments. The fawn was found after Mr. Austin's mower nicked its ear while he was working on his farm. The doe could not be located. Mr. Austin was told by a Lawrence county conservation officer that the little deer would die unless cared for, and he was authorized to take it home. The deer has quarters in the basement of the home but quite often is brought into the living room for the enjoyment of the family.

Kentucky Bluegrass Remains Best Grass for Sowing on State Lawns

By JACK M. FRIAR

Kentucky bluegrass still is the most desirable lawn grass for most of Kentucky. Kentucky bluegrass alone or with creeping red fescue makes a desirable carpet of grass. The Kentucky bluegrass tends to dominate in the sun and the creeping red fescue in shady areas. These two grasses are cool-season grasses, making most of their growth in the cool of the fall and spring. They make little growth during hot weather.

Tall fescue, another cool-season grass, is receiving more attention from homeowners because of its resistance to sod webworm. It is somewhat coarser in texture than bluegrass and creeping red fescue, but when seeded alone at heavy rates, it makes a desirable turf for Kentucky. Tall fescue, Kentucky bluegrass and creeping red fescue all can be seeded and should be seeded in the fall.

The bent grasses, while making an excellent lawn, are not recommended because of their high, tedious maintenance requirements.

Two warm-season grasses, bermuda and zoysia, are receiving more attention from Kentucky homeowners for lawn use because of their excellent turf in the summer. Since they are warm-season grasses, they turn brown at the first frost, remaining brown until late in the spring, which is their chief disadvantage. However, they make excellent turf during the hot summer months. Bermuda and zoysia are generally planted by vegetative parts of the plant. They should be planted in early summer in order to get a good start before cold weather. They are high maintenance grasses requiring reasonably heavy amounts of fertilization, and they are subject to accumulations of thatch that must be removed once or twice a year. Both grasses should be mowed close, less than 1 inch.

They could be used most successfully in areas that have heavy summer use such as back lawns, summer camps and recreational areas.

The ryegrasses, timothy, clover and red top are not desirable turf grasses for Kentucky and should not be included in the turf mixture.

There are just a few varieties recommended for Kentucky. "Common" Kentucky grown bluegrass or "Kenblue" would be the recommended varieties of bluegrass for Kentucky. Penlawn creeping red fescue should make a desirable species of fescue although common red fescue would perhaps be satisfactory. Kentucky 31 or Kenwell tall fescue would be the recommended varieties for Kentucky. Meyers zoysia and U-3 bermuda should be the ones that would give best performance for home lawns.

No grass now in use fits Kentucky conditions ideally; therefore, each one has its advantages and disadvantages. The homeowners, after weighing these advantages and disadvantages, then must decide which grass would perform best for his particular situation.

Two excellent bulletins on lawns are available free of charge from your Floyd County Extension Office. They are Circular 618, "Home Lawns in Kentucky," and 326, "Establishing a Lawn in Kentucky."

Jarrell Named Area Manager

Paul F. Jarrell, of Charleston, W. Va., formerly of this county, has been named area manager of the compressor, production and transmission operations of United Fuel Gas Company and Kentucky Gas Transmission Corporation in the newly designated Lockwood area, according to James S. Phillips, chairman of the board. Mr. Phillips said the companies adopted the area manager concept, effective Sept. 1. Under it, the responsibility for all compressor, production and transmission operations and maintenance within a geographical area will be assigned to an area manager in each of four areas. All major planning, design, construction and most staff work will be centralized in the Charleston headquarters office. The four area managers will report to C. P. Brisley, Charleston, in his new position of director of operations.

The Lockwood area embraces Kentucky operations, parts of Wayne, Cabell and Putnam counties in West Virginia east to the Kanawha River, plus Dickenson and Buchanan counties in Virginia. Mr. Jarrell has been superintendent of operations for the compressor and extraction department of Kentucky Gas Transmission and affiliates since 1966. From 1926 to 1954 he worked in different assignments at various compressor stations. He then transferred to the southern division office of the compressor department at Prestonsburg, and was promoted successively to assistant division engineer, assistant division superintendent and superintendent of the southern division. In 1959 he was promoted to superintendent of operations for the compressor department.

Those reporting to Mr. Jarrell at the companies' Lockwood area headquarters will be: F. H. Smith, Mt. Olivet division superintendent; Roger Rolston, Prestonsburg division superintendent; Camden Garrett, Lockwood division superintendent; P. O. Hamer, Jr., compressor and extraction superintendent, and Herman Marques, gas measurement superintendent.

PCC Enrollment Fails To Reach Expected Total

The enrollment at Prestonsburg Community College for the fall semester is 420, considerably below the expected attendance, but the failure to reach the anticipated enrollment is attributable to several factors, college officials said.

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, director of the college, said one factor which cut down on the enrollment is the condition of the highway between Pikeville and Prestonsburg during construction. The college, he said, is almost inaccessible to many students in that area during working hours.

The new draft lottery has taken some students, and the lay-off of workers in the Price area has caused some families to leave the county. Dr. Campbell said the lack of work-study funds for students attending college also contributed to the enrollment loss. He added, however, that an expected vocational grant will enable Prestonsburg Community College to offer short-term credit courses for up to 100 students before the first semester ends.

Although the enrollment did not reflect the growth expected, it represents the largest advanced standing freshman and sophomore classes yet to enroll in courses here.

An Invalid Speaks Out For God

I have been an invalid for fourteen years, but I want to stand up and be counted for Jesus. Physically, I cannot stand up, but spiritually I can, for the person who stands the tallest stands for God, regardless of the position of the body. I can only move my head but I want to do something for the Lord. He has done so very much for me. Love others and not yourself, only, for Christ pleased not Himself, but humbled Himself to death on the cross for the sins of the world. Without love you profit nothing; praise the Lord—He is everything to me.

MRS. BERTHA REATHERFORD

Covet not this world's vain riches
Which so rapidly decay;
Seek to gain a home in Heaven
That will never pass away.

Matthew 22: 36-40: Master, which is the great Commandment in the law?

Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.

This is the first and great Commandment.

And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

On these two Commandments hang all the law and the prophets.

Revelations 6: 15-17:

And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains.

And said to the mountains, and rocks, Fall on us and hide us from the face of Him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the lamb.

For the great day of His wrath is come: And who shall be able to stand?

State To Give Help To Pineville Area With Water Problem

State cooperation assures the Pineville area that a badly needed water system will be constructed.

Using material excavated in rebuilding the middle section of U. S. 25-E between Pineville and Middlesboro, the State Department of Natural Resources will impound 9000 acre-feet of water by damming Cannon Creek halfway between the two cities.

The city of Pineville plans to build a new water-treatment plant, 30 miles of new pipeline and a 245-acre reservoir. The dam, 130 feet high, will be halfway between Pine Mountain State Park and Cumberland Gap National Historical Park.

The new pipelines will serve more than 1500 households and businesses beyond the Pineville city limits.

The present treatment plant processes up to 500,000 gallons of Cumberland River water daily. The new plant will have a million-gallon capacity, designed for easy expansion to 2 million gallons.

Funds Available For Extra Milk

School children may once again have extra milk with their lunches.

By continuing resolution, the special milk program from school year 1969-1970 is being extended to October 15.

According to C. E. Bevins, director of the School Lunch Division, Kentucky Department of Education, the extension is expected to allow time to identify and set up guide lines to administer the special milk program which was authorized by the Congress.

President Richard Nixon allowed H.R. 5554, which provides a $120-million special milk program, to become law without his signature.
