

Mt. Dew Fest Begins For Small Colleges

1500 Expected As 15 Colleges To Participate

The largest sporting event in Eastern Kentucky begins today (Thursday) at the Prestonsburg Community College as the seventh annual Mountain Dew Festival hosts 1500 students and faculty members from 15 two-year Kentucky and West Virginia colleges.

Colleges participating in the three day event will be Ashland, Elizabethtown, Hazard, Hopkinsville, Jefferson, Madisonville, Maysville, Prestonsburg, Somerset and Southeast Community Colleges, Alice Lloyd Junior College, Lexington Technical Institute, Logan and Williamson Branches of Marshall University and the Quicksand Forestry and Technical School.

The festival director, Mrs. Catherine Shrewsbury, said, "We expect the largest number of participants ever, in this year's festival and have spread events over a distance from the Paintsville's bowling tournament, basketball tournament at the Prestonsburg high school gym, to the tennis, table tennis and baseball competitions at Archer Park and golf and rifle tournaments at Jenny Wiley State Park." The Queen and talent contests will be staged, "live," at the Strand Theater here. Featured events at Prestonsburg Community College will be archery, badminton, chess, pool, volley ball, and an art exhibit. The cheerleader contest will be at the Prestonsburg elementary school gym.

The Brown Jug award will go to the college with the highest total points of the festival. Last year's Brown Jug award went to Prestonsburg Community College.

All events except the talent contest and dances are free and open to all area residents.

Individuals desiring further Mountain Dew information are requested to contact Mrs. Shrewsbury at 886-3863, extension 209.

County Board Okehs Martin School Plans

The Floyd County Board of Education at its Saturday meeting took the action which a restraining order prevented at the April board meet.

This was to accept plans for the seven-room Martin school building, subject to approval by the State Department of Education's Division of Buildings and Grounds, and to authorize George Lee Shannon, architect, to advertise for construction bids when such approval is made.

The board heard a delegation of Martin teachers who asked that parking provisions be made at the school there. Because a number of teachers and pupils drive to the school daily, the board at an earlier meeting had banned all parking on the school grounds, since vehicles covered a large part of the limited playground space. But the more than 20 teachers who drive a distance to school there are now encountering a difficult parking problem.

Stewart Death, Probe Subject

Circumstances surrounding the Sunday midnight death of Charles Edward Stewart, 26-year-old Tram man, on the railway tracks at Justell are being investigated, Sheriff Frank Leslie said Tuesday.

Stewart was struck by a C. and O. manifest freight—that is known, but authorities are looking into the possibility of foul play. He was seen on the tracks, Engineer Belve Turner told authorities, but the probe undertaken by the sheriff and Coroner James J. Carter seeks to learn why he was there. Emergency brakes of the locomotive were applied but not in time to prevent its striking Stewart.

The victim was a son of Charles Thomas and Gartha McClure Stewart, of Tram. Besides his parents, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Thelma Kendrick Stewart; four children, Steve, Teresa Lynn, Priscilla Faye and Judy Ann, all of Tram; five brothers and five sisters, James Thomas, Paul Douglas, Tex Allen, Kenneth Irvin and Kent Earl Stewart, all of Tram, Mrs. Judy Adkins, Franklin, O., Mrs. Lola Newsome, Prestonsburg, Misses Glenna Faye, Sandra Darlene, and Margaret Iene Stewart, all of Tram.

Funeral rites were conducted at 2 p.m. today (Thursday) from the Pilgrim Holiness Church at Tram, and burial was made in the family cemetery at Tram under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Conley Details Union Members' Responsibility

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley last Thursday spelled out in detail the provisions of the restraining order issued Jan. 18 against Local Unions 5899 and 1373 so that each member of the two locals may know that he is bound by the order.

Island Creek attorneys had asked that the two locals be held in contempt of court after their recent strike at the company's Left Beaver Creek mines. Judge Conley continued the case but directed that the Circuit Clerk take the necessary procedure to provide each member of the locals a copy of

This Town . . . That World

This is the sort of day which, I think deserves this comment passed on to me by Dr. Russell Hall:

"So far today, I've made only one mistake—I got out of bed."

Now, I learn that if the wind is blowing out of the north the fish won't bite and you may as well do your fingernail-bitin' at home. And for all these years I've been blaming it on the moon!

TOO BUSY TO ARGUE

Although I know that this may cost me a reputation earned over many years of fruitless effort, I cannot tell a lie—Bee Hayes, of Betsy Layne, and I took our share of fish at Cherokee Lake, last week. Fact is, we were so busy with fishing that we neglected to argue politics, though he and I are in two widely separated camps of the same party.

Auxier Man, 31, Bullet Victim, Powers Jailed

One man is dead as a result of the second incident of gunplay at Auxier last week.

Oscar Paul Dean Taylor, 31, died early Sunday in a Lexington hospital of a bullet wound in his head. He was allegedly shot at 10:15 p.m. Saturday by Palmer Powers, 41.

A shooting on Webb Branch, near Auxier, resulted earlier in the week in the wounding of George Wilson and Bill Crace. The latter was shot through his upper arm, and Wilson was sprinkled with shotgun pellets, it was said at the office of Sheriff Frank Leslie. Both men were jailed on charges of shooting and wounding with intent to kill.

Commonwealth's attorney Harold J. Stumbo said witnesses questioned by him and State Detective Chester D. Potter indicated that Taylor was shot with his own gun. Some of this testimony was to the effect that the two men had been drinking together and had an altercation, then had gone to the home of Richard Wells. There, according to these statements, the two were seated when Powers snatched a .22-calibre pistol from Taylor and fired.

Powers, who was jailed here by Sgt. Potter and State Trooper Williamson, told authorities he and Taylor were tussling for possession of the weapon when it was accidentally discharged.

Taylor, a miner, was shot above the ear. His body was taken to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Estill Taylor, of Auxier.

Survivors include his parents, his widow, Mrs. Margaret Sue Howard Taylor, two daughters, Rita Sue and Veronica Lynn; three sisters and four brothers, Mrs. Judy Louise Howell, of Louisville, Mrs. Brenda Sue Holbrook, Huntington, Ind., Mrs. Kathy Holbrook, of Auxier, Estill Eugene Taylor, Huntington, Ind., Walter Hobert Taylor, Louisville, Larry Edward and Darl Taylor, both of Wabash, Indiana.

Funeral rites were conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday from the Auxier Free Will Baptist Church, the Rev. John Frank Ratliff officiating. Burial was made in the Government Relocation cemetery at Auxier under direction of the Carter Funeral Home.

Burton To Reply To Complaints, Seek Revisions

In the glare of television cameras directors of the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services Program began Monday night the work of developing an effective program and meeting charges levelled at members by Frank Carlucci, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

John Burton, acting director of the health program, was designated to reply to OEO and to initiate work for development of an effective program by July 31 when present funding of the project ends.

Mr. Burton said he will suggest that personnel of the Office of Health Affairs, the State Board of Health, OEO and Big Sandy CAP cooperate in rewriting the program so that an understanding may be reached and that no doubt remain as to aims and future operation of the program.

The charges made against program directors were based on a memo from Dr. Thomas E. Bryant, of the Office of Health Affairs, after a visit to the county last month.

Mr. Burton said his statement to OEO will discuss each point covered in the Carlucci communication, but he added that he cannot reply to charges that "dissident" members have been intimidated and that files have been rifled. "This is a John Doe warrant—no names mentioned, dates or places stated," he said. "I will ask for this specific information, then will be in position to reply to such charges."

Mr. Burton said some of those attending Monday night's meeting complained that the session had not been advertised. He wondered how KDKA-TV in Pittsburgh had learned of the meeting in time to come here, if the meeting date had not been made known.

Judge Reviews Crime, Pollution As Probe Topics

The lone murder case to be investigated, the problem of pollution and the county's whiskey traffic were targets of Circuit Judge Hollie Conley in his instructions to the grand jury Monday morning when circuit court opened its April criminal term.

Commenting on the liquor traffic, Judge Conley said, "There are widespread rumors that just about everybody, including some officials, are in the whiskey business. If you come up with any evidence, you should return indictments."

The murder case slated for probe in the three days the grand jury is expected to be in session involves the slaying of Oscar Paul Dean Taylor, who died in a Lexington hospital early Sunday of a pistol bullet in his head. Palmer Powers was jailed in connection with the shooting, which took place Saturday night at Auxier.

Judge Conley cited the accumulations of old, discarded cars over the county and the dumping of garbage into streams and along roadsides in his discussion of pollution.

Vincent Cooley, of Prestonsburg, was named foreman of the grand jury.

Some civil cases are slated for hearing this week. The only murder case on the docket, that of Olin Shepherd, Middle Creek man accused of the slaying of his wife, is docketed for trial May 3.

Plan Groundbreaking For New Sanctuary

The Easter morning service at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here will be followed by groundbreaking ceremonies on the site of the new sanctuary which has long been planned for the church.

Construction will be under way, almost immediately, and completion of the new church structure is expected within six months.

Also to be built will be the first unit of a two-story educational building extending across the back of the lot occupied by the present church and formerly occupied by church structures which have been razed in preparation for the building program. This initial unit will cover approximately 4,000 square feet.

The hexagon-shaped sanctuary will have approximately 5,500 square feet of floor space and will seat between 350 and 400. The present sanctuary, which will be converted into a multi-purpose space, including educational facilities, seats about 235.

Exterior of the new sanctuary will be of textured concrete. It will accommodate a semi-circular seating arrangement which will leave no person attending a service there more than 37 feet distant from the pulpit. The building will have central heating and air-conditioning, and included in the new equipment will be a new seven-rank organ, a gift from a member of the congregation.

The construction work will be done by the contracting firm of Akers and Akers. Forrest McClosky, of Lexington, is the architect.

For the groundbreaking ceremony former pastors have been invited to join the congregation and friends of the church.

Architect's concept of proposed sanctuary of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church for which groundbreaking is to be an Easter Sunday event.

A letter from S-P4 William Kendrick from Vietnam tells of an orphanage that the G. I.'s are sponsoring where they are located. Soap is greatly needed. A food and clothing shower will be placed in the Presbyterian Church, Easter Sunday. Anyone can share in the gift to these orphans. Cash donations will be used to buy required food.

Is Calley the "Fall Guy"?

The national furor created by the conviction of Lieutenant Calley for the killing of helpless women, old men and children does not, surely, arise from a conviction on the part of the American people that war justifies wanton murder of the cruelest sort. If it does, this country is far down the road that was followed by Nazi Germany.

We like to think, instead, that sympathy for the lieutenant springs from the belief that he acted under orders, that Calley is the "fall guy" and that somebody—perhaps, several somebodies—in the higher echelons should bear the blame that has been shifted onto one of lower military rank.

The U. S. military has emphasized, ever since this country really became involved in the Vietnam fighting, the body count of enemy dead. "Search and destroy" became a slogan. Men like Calley were trained to fight, to kill, to follow orders. They were not told to consult any handbook of regulations before pulling the trigger. The whole unhappy mess is to blame.

Indeed, psychologists have pondered the effect of training for war on the individual soldier. They doubt that you can take a young man out of peaceful, civilian pursuits, then toss him into intensive training to kill—with bullet, shell, bomb, bayonet, trench-knife, what have you—and send him out to put this training into practice, then at the end of hostilities expect that same human being to turn off the hate-switch and return to the business of being again a plain, peaceable citizen, a stranger to violence.

Thus it is that the Calleys of all the fighting forces of the world are products of the War Machine. And so it is that babes in arms are killed as well as the enemy bearing arms.

So it has been, on occasion—as in Germany during World War II—that a people who normally are decent become brutes, some committing human beings to the gas chamber and others becoming so calloused of heart and soul that they do not condemn the monstrous crime.

America must avoid that if it is to remain America.

Environment Is Emphasized

FRANKFORT, KY.—Kentucky's emphasis on environmental improvement took on an official status with Gov. Louie B. Nunn's signing of the Executive Order signifying reorganization of the state Department of Health.

The change elevates a number of environmental programs to division status and creates the position of deputy commissioner for environment as one of three deputy commissioners.

Ralph C. Pickard is the first deputy commissioner for environment. Pickard has served as director of the division of environmental health since 1959. The position was approved by Governor Nunn on Oct. 19.

In announcing the change the governor said, "The reorganization further established a base for handling the newly emerging problems of environmental degradation."

"The upgrading of these important programs, designed to insure the protection and maintenance of an ecological balance necessary to sustain human life and the general well-being, provides visibility of such programs to the people," he added.

"Such upgrading should serve to improve executive direction and coordination of environmental programs of the department and further provides an executive level mechanism for planning and coordination of the environmental effort with other departments of federal, state and local government."

Speaking of the environment, Nunn said, "It must be recognized that man through his technological advancements and by increasing his numbers at an inordinate rate is producing a devastating impact on the intricately and delicately balanced Earth environment."

The reorganization creates deputy commissioner positions for administration and for the medical programs. Al Austin, former director of the division of research planning and statistics, fills the administrative position. The medical program position remains vacant.

A court test of Kentucky's non-payment policy toward court-appointed lawyers seems imminent after a Newport lawyer presented the state with a bill seeking $200 for defending an indigent woman.

PCC Offers Degree In Civil Engineering

Information released recently from Prestonsburg Community College indicates that some interesting developments have occurred in engineering education at the college undergraduate level which will be of concern to recent high school graduates interested in technology programs in civil engineering.

Basically, the development is this: Many engineering schools are now beginning to offer a bachelor's level degree to graduates of an associate degree program in engineering technology who continue their education for two more years in a particular course of study which is designed especially for associate degree recipients. Prestonsburg Community College now offers an associate degree in civil engineering technology.

This engineering education concept, commonly termed a "two plus two" engineering technology program, helps to eliminate the stigma that an associate degree program in engineering technology has been, unfortunately, that of a "terminal" nature. "It opens new doors for more students to obtain more education, which is a goal that all of us in education strive for," Frank Collopy, civil engineering instructor at PCC said.

The University of Kentucky is presently planning a curriculum study of future "two plus two" engineering technology programs. The present plans are for the Community Colleges to handle the first two years of the program as part of the present associate degree work now being conducted at these schools. Recently, the entire civil engineering personnel of the Community College system met and completed the first two years of the coursework. The final curriculum decided upon is in agreement with existing "two plus two" technology programs at such schools as Western Kentucky University, West Virginia Institute of Technology, North Carolina State University and also is in agreement with the guidelines and recommendations of the ECPD accreditation board. At present, an associate degree program in civil engineering is being offered at Prestonsburg Community College which is acceptable at many of the schools mentioned above. The civil engineering technology program emphasizes in-depth instruction in the skills of surveying, mathematics, structural analysis, engineering drawing and physics so as to properly prepare them for future employment in the engineering profession.

Mr. Collopy is planning to visit area high schools during April and May to discuss these programs, either the one presently being taught in civil engineering technology or the slightly changed future programs for the adoption of the "two plus two" option. Applications for enrollment in the program may be obtained at the Community College Admissions Office and information may be obtained by contacting Mr. Collopy at the college.

Can you find the Volkswagen hidden in this picture?

If you can, you'll make us very sad.

Because we've troubled ourselves no end to hide it from you.

Our quest for the invisible Volkswagen took us all the way to Turin, Italy.

Where we asked the famous Ghia Studios to design us a sporty Italian body.

Their drawings clutched tightly in hand, we secretly prowled about Europe for the best coach builder we could find.

Success. To the Karmann Coachworks of Osnabrück we handed over Ghia's sketches with the injunction:

"Make it beautiful." (Or else.)

They did. They welded. And burnished. And sculpted. And sanded. And painted.

Until they had shaped in steel what Ghia had shaped in pencil. Smug in the knowledge that nobody could ever mistake this beautiful car for a Volkswagen, we made it a Volkswagen.

By concealing our air-cooled engine in back. (For better traction.)

And making it go about 26 miles on just one gallon.

Then we gave this Volkswagen its final disguise.

We named it the Karmann Ghia.

Going to Europe? Take delivery there. Ask about it now.

Ford Says Combs Failed To Teach Him Everything

LEXINGTON, KY.—Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford said Friday he is thankful former Gov. Bert Combs did not teach him everything he knows, especially how to make $10,000 telephone calls.

The Democratic gubernatorial candidate, addressing supporters at his Fayette County headquarters opening here, said, "My opponent is traveling the state saying he did not teach me everything he knows."

"I agree and for that I am thankful he didn't teach me how to get paid $10,000 from ex-governor Barron's law firm for one telephone call to the Kentucky Highway Department," Ford said.

"I don't believe the people of Kentucky want him to teach anyone that because we have had enough of that kind of politics of the past," Ford said. "I don't want to know; and certainly will not pay the price that you, the people, will have to pay, for the political support of these old, traditional, monied politicians."

Referring to statements by the former governor at his headquarters opening here, the Lieutenant Governor said Kentucky does need "real Democrats" like Roosevelt, Truman, and the Kennedys.

"In my opinion," Ford said, "none of these great men would have given up a federal judgeship held by their state to a Michigan Republican—especially to come home and join a silkstocking Republican law firm."

Who does Combs think he's kidding, comparing himself to these great Democrats," Ford said.

The Lieutenant Governor noted that his opponent has conceded Louisville and Jefferson County and "he had just as well concede Western Kentucky, Northern Kentucky and Central Kentucky."

"Let me predict to you that the people of Eastern Kentucky, where the people once knew him best, are going to give him the surprise of his life on May 25," he said. "All across this great state the feeling is the same—the people want no part of the politics of the past—no part of wheeler-dealer, special-interest government."

"They want—they deserve government geared and operated in the interest of all the people," he said. "With your help Wendell Ford will give them just that kind of government."

Area Talent Winner

A committee composed of one representative from each, the police department, the PTA and the teacher group, was named to study the situation and report this week. The committee recommendation will be implemented immediately.

The high bid of $1,000 submitted by B. F. Reed, of Drift, for the old Ligon school building and grounds and that of Ocie Slone in the amount of $900 for the Buckeye school grounds were accepted.

A leave of absence for the 1971-'72 school year was granted to Alice Hackworth, librarian at McDowell high school. Non-certified personnel employed: Fayette Miller, teacher-aide at Prestonsburg high school; James Hall, janitor at Stumbo elementary; Bobby Newsome and Hays Hamilton, substitute bus drivers; Ida Rogers, janitor at Wheelwright high.

Miss Janie Bailey, sophomore at Prestonsburg high school, won first place honors in the area 4-H talent show held in Paintsville high school gymnasium, Saturday, March 27, with a specialty act, singing, "The House I Live In," with Mrs. Carlos Haywood accompanying her on the piano.

She had to compete with contestants from 10 counties—Johnson, Boyd, Pike, Carter, Magoffin, Elliott, Martin, Greenup, Lawrence, and Floyd. Pike county won the club act.

Miss Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Bailey, of Maytown, has been an active member of 4-H for seven years and has won several awards. She is a junior leader in 4-H.

Active in Church and youth groups, she is a member of the drama club, Co-Ed-Y, chorus, and pep club.

She will be leaving soon for Washington, D. C. to attend an "Older Youth Conference" for one week.

Mrs. Dave Olingler and children, of Dayton, Ohio, are spending the week here with her mother, Mrs. Mabel Branham, and Mrs. Helen Clarke.

ONE FINAL LICK

If Joe Creason has already printed this one, skip it. It pertains to the oldtimer who was near the end of the trail, and knew it. As the way grew darker, he called to his bedside a favorite daughter and made request that she send for the county clerk. "I want to change my registration," he told her.

"But, Daddy, you're a Democrat, always have voted that way, argued with Republicans, berated Republicans. And now you want to register as one of them?"

He adamantly maintained that he wanted to become a Republican.

"Why?" the daughter asked.

"Because, Sis," the old man replied, "if somebody has to go, I want it to be one of them!"

SALT-OF-THE-EARTH DEPT.

If there are any better people on earth than Kentuckians, it's Tennesseans. They have mourned when oft I mourned and rejoiced beyond the call of duty on those rare occasions when I came—sailor, home from the sea—in ebullient mood. It's people such as I met at the Shady Lane Motel and at Livesay's Grocery last week that cause me to write this. And Bill Francis at his new restaurant, down the road a ways—he's from Pike county, Ky., incidentally—and the retired couple from Nantucket Island, N. J., who have deserted the East for a lovely spot for retired people along the lake shore. These two are a Chamber of Commerce in their own right. Their word-picture of days just ahead, of dogwood and redbud in bloom, and deer frisking around the premises almost lures me back. . . only, I can't convince myself that their dogwood and redbud are any more luxuriant or beautiful than those threatening to glorify the hills of home, any day now.

SOCIAL ITEM

I have not had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Danny O'Neil Rowe, service manager at Music-Carter-Hughes, but his associates there have passed on to me an item which says he entertained friends to an informal luncheon of bologna, cheese, pickles and crackers on Friday, March. 26.

the restraining order, and admonished each member that he is bound to comply with it.

The restraining order was issued against the officers of the two locals and their members, but when contempt proceedings loomed local union officials maintained they could not be responsible for the actions of individual members.

The restraining order forbids union members to walk out on strike over a grievance and provides that officers and members of the locals must first exhaust the grievance procedure set out in the labor contract. It remains in full force and effect, subject to hearing on 24-hour notice from an attorney of either party to the action.

All three plans offer guaranteed interest rates, and interest is compounded daily and paid or credited quarterly with each. Any of the three may be opened with a $100 minimum deposit, and additional deposits of $100 or more may be made at any time.

And our famous 5 percent Golden Passbook Plan makes your funds available four times a year—during the first ten days of January, April, July, and October—or anytime 90 days after a written notice is received by the bank. 5 percent Golden Passbook has an effective yield on 5.13 percent per annum.

How Interest Figured And Payment Dates

Interest compounded quarterly. Interest payment dates: April 1, July 1, Oct. 1 and Jan. 1. Deposits made during first 10 days of month bear interest from first day of that month.

Here's the interesting difference

McDowell Hospital

(March 29 through April 4)
 Patients Discharged

"It should be made clear that the court makes no decision as to whether the proposed seven-room building completely and entirely satisfies the Gearheart judgment (of 1939); rather, that so far as it goes it does not violate the terms of the judgment. Whether the board must construct other school buildings at Martin must later be determined in the light of the decision by the Court of Appeals in the case of Jake Layne vs. the Floyd County Board of Education."

(This portion of the order referred to the judgment awarded Dr. Orris Gearheart in 1939 directing that the board maintain a 12-grade school "perpetually" at Martin. This judgment was upheld in the lower court in the case of Jake Layne, et al vs. the board of education, and the board appealed from that judgment to the Court of Appeals.)

"Everyone agrees," Judge Gardner commented in a statement preceding the dissolution order, "that the present school situation at Martin is bad." But he pointed to the delay of action while the appeal is pending. If, he said, the Court of Appeals does not uphold the 1939 judgment, the lower court could pass only on the question of whether the board is acting arbitrarily and capriciously. If the high court should uphold the 1939 judgment, then the lower court would be required to rule on whether the board is acting within the scope of that judgment.

The special judge found from the evidence that the proposed seven room building at Martin, which will cost an estimated $150,000, is an expandable unit which could "reasonably and prudently" become a part of a larger building and a part of a larger complex for school purposes.

Tonya Ratliff, Hueysville; David D. ### Views on Program Poles Apart...

Young Dems Call for Changes, Doctor Challenges Statements

While the Floyd County Young Democrats this week were advocating drastic changes in the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services Program which would in the main conform to proposals made by Dr. Arnold Schecter, a Floyd county physician was challenging statements made at the recent public hearing held at Allen and opposing what he termed a waste of taxpayers' money in a duplication of services which are already available.

Michael J. Halbert, of Martin, president of the Young Democrats, issued a statement suggesting four major changes:

1. Scrapping of the "referral system" in favor of a system of fully staffed and fully equipped health centers in the various sections of the county.

2. Allowing the people affected to participate in the decisions of the program and end the alleged harassment of staff members by board members.

3. Develop a training program to produce semi-professional and clerical manpower from the ranks of the people affected.

4. Develop a program to get more poor and disadvantaged students into the medical and nursing schools of the state.

In a letter to The Courier-Journal (a copy of which was sent to The Times), Dr. William D. Pratt, of the Regional Medical Clinic, McDowell, pointed out:

"The OEO currently has seven outposts scattered about the county. At the present time, they are doing nothing except providing a transportation service. There is no referral service of any kind. There is no home community health at all. Three of these outposts are located within two miles of existing medical facilities. None of the others is over seven miles from the existing medical facilities. To staff these outposts with physicians, pharmacists and laboratories would be financially prohibited. This would require seven physicians or more, depending upon the number at each outpost, seven pharmacies and seven labs. At the present time there are eight existing pharmacies in this county which is a tremendous number for our population. There are also three hospitals laboratories. There are six X-ray units in the county."

"The physicians of Floyd county are not against the idea of more physicians to provide better care. They are against the waste of taxpayers money to provide services which will be a duplication of services which are already available and facilities already in existence. At the present time, we are doing many different things to attract physicians to the county. As mentioned, three physicians are already under contract for services July 1, 1971. There is a scholarship fund provided by one group in the county in the amount of $4,200 a year for medical students."

Dr. Pratt challenged three of four specific statements made at the Allen meeting. He wrote, in part:

"Regarding the statement of Bob Young of the University of Kentucky Medical School, class of 1973. He states that 14 per cent of the current class comes from families with annual income of less than $6,000 as compared to 63 per cent in 1960. I would like to ask Mr. Young what these statistics are supposed to prove. The standard of living has risen considerably since 1960. I would also like to ask what percentage of students graduating from high school is that come from families with incomes less than $6,000 as well as the percentage who graduate from college. I feel the 14 per cent is an exceptional percentage compared to these other figures which, I am sure, are less than 5 per cent for college graduates. I am sure the figures would bear out that disadvantaged students are already taking advantage of lower entrance standards."

"The man who testified that his son was diagnosed as having a case of worms at one Floyd county hospital, although the child needed immediate appendectomy, was completely false. His son was hospitalized at an area institution and was found to have parasites. However, the attending physician was not satisfied with that diagnosis and referred him to another physician for surgical evaluation. Surgery was done and he was not found to have appendicitis but a fairly rare disorder which I cannot state here as I have no release of information from the patient. I am sure that no specialist which could be brought in by any OEO program would have made the diagnosis before surgery."

"Regarding Mrs. Maggie Hall who stated she had bills which were paid by her state medicare card for services which were not rendered. I would be very interested in seeing those bills as the medical assistance program does not send out bills to patients except in the case of the patient who allegedly over-utilizes his card. She also states that a physician, pharmacist, hospital and nursing home were involved in these bills. This would require a conspiracy of four different parties as none of the four are connected. If her charges are true, I am sure the state medicare program and the Floyd County Medical Society would be very interested in them and would investigate them fully." Halbert in his statement condemning the "referral system" and suggesting changes, added:

"In general, we feel that it is a disgrace that the very people who have labored and toiled to make our country great are allowed to suffer at the hands of sickness, disease and illness. We feel that the time has come for the people of Floyd county to realize the degree of disregard for the basic human dignities that has pervaded every aspect of our political and economic life. It is time for us to develop an interest in the quality of life lived by our neighbor as well as ourselves."

New EKEA Secretary

Ashland, Ky.—The Board of Directors of the Eastern Kentucky Education Association unanimously chose Nelson Robert Allen, an elementary principal of Russell schools, to succeed Monroe Wicker as the association's executive secretary. This position, held by Mr. Wicker for many years, serves all of the educators of the Eastern Kentucky district.

The newly-named secretary has served as past president of the E. K. E. A. district, and is currently the vice-chairman of the KEA Legislative Commission. Mr. Allen, who is well-known in Eastern Kentucky, is a graduate of Maytown high school and Morehead State University.

After being named as the new secretary, Mr. Allen said, "I appreciate the confidence my fellow educators have bestowed on me. It will be a difficult task to replace a person such as Mr. Wicker, who has built the E. K. E. A. Convention, which is held annually in Ashland, as the best one in the state for the membership. I honor his retirement. I will work diligently with the membership, association leaders, KEA staff, and especially those people of the Ashland area who are tremendously instrumental in assisting us each year in setting up the convention."

State Continues Policy Involving Width of Trucks

State Public Safety Commissioner William O. Newman said at Frankfort last week that his department will continue to make arrests involving overwidth coal trucks despite an unfavorable court verdict in Perry circuit court Tuesday.

Newman said that as far as overwidth trucks are concerned, Kentucky state police will "continue to make arrests where indicated, and leave it up to the courts," until directed otherwise by the Court of Appeals.

On Tuesday, the first of more than 70 cases involving alleged overwidth and overweight trucks to be tried in Perry circuit court ended with a deadlocked jury. Newman said his men have made more than 200 arrests involving overwidth coal trucks in the last several months in Eastern Kentucky coal-producing counties.

The case heard Tuesday in Perry circuit court involved a charge that James Walter Flannery operated a coal truck that was wider than the maximum 96 inches permitted by state law.

Newman explained that extra spacing between dual tires on the coal trucks permits the trucks to carry heavier loads.

Meanwhile, "we'll continue to do as best we can until the courts tell us" otherwise, Newman said.

BERT COMBS

A close look at his 4 years as Governor of Kentucky

By ALLAN M. TROUT
Courier-Journal
Frankfort Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 30 — The time has come to review salient features of the State Administration ending December 10.

Governor Bert T. Combs came to office four years ago with a conviction that the people of Kentucky were in a temper to move ahead.

He was correct in his basic premise. The people submitted to a 3 percent general sales tax to finance the forward movement.

Moreover, his administration of the progress thus financed twice passed the rigid test of popular approval.

First: Former Governor A. B. Chandler, advocating repeal of the tax on food, medicine and clothes, was defeated in the 1963 Democratic primary for Governor by Edward T. Breathitt, who advocated retention of the tax in full.

Second: By early declaration of both candidates, the sales tax was removed as an issue in the fall campaign of Breathitt and Louie B. Nunn, the Republican nominee.

Third: Former Governor A. B. Chandler, advocating repeal of the tax on food, medicine and clothes, was defeated in the 1963 Democratic primary for Governor by Edward T. Breathitt, who advocated retention of the tax in full.

Fourth: By early declaration of both candidates, the sales tax was removed as an issue in the fall campaign of Breathitt and Louie B. Nunn, the Republican nominee.

But they did require imagination. And they required the Governor to act like a natural man:

Chin up, but not arrogant; looking ahead, but at eye level; talking the people's talk; listening, too. And sympathetic, if not able to be helpful.

And so Governor Combs was to be seen ten thousand times here and there, barked, his tan face wreathed in a wry smile, and on cold days in an oversized white trenchcoat, his trademark, so to speak. As I say, he was to be seen:

Eating barbecue, shaking hands, exercising patience, cutting ribbons, crowning queens, breaking ground, answering questions, fighting fatigue.

He took the office of Governor to the people 41 times the only political project of its kind in the United States. This means he and his staff functioned as the Governor's office in 41 different places in the state, with the door open to all comers.

He caused 1,000 litter barrels to be marked and placed along the highways. He urged pride upon towns and people, imploring them to clean up, point up. He tried, by law, to eradicate road-side junkyards.

He insisted upon clean rights-of-way along State roads. He spurred the expansion of roadside parks, encouraged beautification of median strips and dead spots in interchanges.

Once a year he invited newsmen from all over Kentucky to Frankfort for a news conference en masse. He confronted them with his entire Cabinet, invited any question whatsoever, and from one or another of his staff there emerged answers of reasonable objectivity.

When Derby breakfasts outgrew the Mansion, he fed his guests under tents on the lawn. And with string ensembles in the background.

He had dye applied to the bluegrass in front of the Mansion, to keep it green all winter.

He ignored ridicule to build the floral clock between the Capitol and the Annex. It has turned out to be one of the most popular tourist gimmicks in Central Kentucky.

Visitors toss small coins into the reflecting pool under the clock, as if it were a wishing well. From May, 1961, to October, 1963, the wishing well yielded $5,481.

Used For Children

This money is used to enrich the lives of children who, through no fault of their own, are wards of the State. And so ponies and saddles have been bought for the orphans, rowboats for the boys' camp near Kentucky Dam, coloring books and a hi-fi for the retarded, a merry-go-round for the deaf, Little League baseball suits, and so on.

The Governor caused the Capitol and Mansion grounds to be converted into botanical gardens of entrancing interests to visitors and meaningful pride to Kentuckians. He upgraded grounds of the Old Statehouse to dignified beauty, and restored the massive old fountain there to working order.

He opened the capital city to leisurely view and admiration from a new scenic outlook on the southwest rim of the wooded bluffs encircling Frankfort.

He directed that a vagrant swarm of bees be hived and set in the Mansion garden, there to produce honey for his household. At term's end, his apriary numbered five hives.

He permitted his pretty daughter, Lois, a student at Randolph-Macon, to pursue her chosen summer career as a waitress in State parks at Cumberland Falls and Kentucky Dam.

He hunted coons throughout Central Kentucky, played tennis with his staff, golf with his cronies, and was a devotee of cookouts behind the Mansion.

He practiced the credo that the State, no less than man, cannot live by bread alone. And so an amphitheatre was built in Kentucky Lake State Park for "Stars in My Crown," and one at Pioneer State Park for "Home Is the Hunter."

Another outdoor theatre is under way at Jenny Wiley State Park. And that will make five, counting the two old ones at Pine Mountain State Park for "Book of Job" and at Old Kentucky Home State Park for "The Stephen Foster Story."

Thus the Governor puttered in spare time at matters of small import to his $2,000,000,000 program of the big stuff.

The Record In Education

GOVERNOR COMBS, speaking September 11, 1963, before Frankfort Rotary Club:

"When we entered the 1960's, our nation was at the summit of world leadership. It was obvious that if Kentuckians were to play a significant role in that leadership, we must be awakened to our responsibilities and opportunities. We gave our attention first to education because every survey of public opinion indicated that education of the children held first place in the hearts of Kentuckians. I think most Kentuckians feel that if there is a single key which can unlock the door to a brighter future, that key is education."

The $267,870,792 of additional money the State poured into public education in 1960-64 may well be symbolized as the key the Governor applied to the lock. With the door thus opened, there appear to sight several elements of the brighter future he envisaged.

In the 1955-56 period, the average salary of common-school teachers improved $1.185. This reduced to a trickle the previous loss of qualified teachers to higher-paying systems elsewhere in the nation.

Four years ago, only 56 percent of elementary teachers had college degrees. Today, 85 percent have degrees. A projection of this improvement indicates 90 percent by 1967. Degrees have been mandatory for high-school teachers since 1954.

Enrollment increased 88,000 pupils in the four years, to 658,000.

Five hundred one-room schools were eliminated. In the four-year period, 32 new high schools and 102 new elementary schools were built, and additions made to 87 high and 181 elementary. Result: 4,653 new classrooms.

State support of public higher education increased 115 percent in 1960-64; in dollars, the increase was $55,301,072. In addition, $40,000,000 of new facilities were built at University of Kentucky and the State colleges at Morehead, Richmond, Frankfort, Bowling Green and Murray.

Enrollment increased 10,744 students, to 30,600.

A two-year college of U. K. opened at Elizabethtown, one is under way at Prestonsburg, and three are under plan for Somerset, Hopkinsville, and Hazard-Blackey.

These are in addition to the two-year off-campus centers of U. K. already in operation at Ashland, Covington, Cumberland and Henderson.

Indeed, so explosive has been the expansion of public higher education that the next great pain of growth may well be university status for the colleges at Morehead, Richmond, Bowling Green and Murray. Pressure already has started, reaching in that direction.

The State contributed $13,160,064 more to teachers' retirement in 1960-64. Pensions were upgraded to one half annual salary under optimum conditions.

Kentucky Education Association stepped significantly forward when it adopted procedures leading to professional status for teachers, with codes of conduct subject to self-discipline.

A state-wide system of educational TV was started in the period, with target date of completion pegged to the 1964-65 term.

New vocational schools were completed, or under way, at Covington, Somerset, Louisville, Madisonville and Harlan. Substantial additions were made to existing facilities at Paintsville and Paducah. Enrollment soared to 20,000.

System-wide improvement in mental health was highlighted by a $3,500,000 upgrading of facilities at Central State Hospital, Lakeland.

The State pioneered in geriatrics. It leased for $1 a year the 142-acre plant of the old Waverly Hills Tuberculosis Sanatorium to a nonprofit foundation for use as a specialized home for the aged.

With potential capacity of 460, Waverly Hills becomes perhaps the largest geriatrics center of its kind in the country.

Physicians at the tuberculosis hospital were increased from 18 to 25, and their salaries made competitive with salaries paid by other States. Outpatient clinics were increased from two to 50. The four-year outlay for drugs, and for medical and surgical supplies, was increased by 138 percent.

Immunization was made a requirement for entrance to the First Grade in public or private schools.

More money has improved vastly the lot of physically handicapped children, with about 8,000 a year now receiving State aid in treatment. The waiting time for hospitalization was cut from one year to six weeks.

Five new clinics were established in the four years for childhood epilepsy, multiple sclerosis, eye defects, neurosurgery and plastic surgery. Heart clinics were increased from 12 to 24.

Ninety-nine counties are now served by public-health officers, up 21 from four years ago.

"Better health for Kentuckians has been a basic concern of your Government since the State Board of Health was founded in 1878. The health of the least of us affects the health of all of us."

Public functions of health and welfare affect more people directly than education, but are less costly.

All phases in this area received $55,301,072 more in 1960-64. A breakdown shows the four major phases—the only ones to be treated in this brief review —received these portions of the total:

Department of Economic Security, $25,654,865 more.

Department of Health, $5,931,075 more. Tuberculosis Hospital Commission, $5,092,425 more.

Department of Mental Health, $10,162,712 more.

Public assistance, a combination of State and Federal funds, is being drawn by 151,000 Kentuckians, up 9,700 from four years ago.

Average for needy aged is now $32.35 a month, up $8.02 from four years ago; for the needy blind, $64.55, up $20.94; for totally disabled, $63.55, up $19.36; for family of dependent children, $87.96, up $15.62.

A special session of the Legislature in 1960 made Kentucky the first State to participate in medical care for the aged and indigent as defined by the Kerr-Mills Act.

This program has grown to the average load of 22,000 a month. To date, it has cost $10,164,637 in State and Federal help in meeting five types of expenses—medical, dental, pharmaceutical, hospitalization, and nursing care.

In 1960, Kentucky became the first State to consolidate child welfare into a department of government. This agency is serving 11,000 children and their families each year.

In the last four years, the State has borne its share of cost in a $3,321,255 expansion of hospital facilities under the Hill-Burton Act. Seventy-two such projects have been built or upgraded 34 hospitals, adding 2,025 beds; three nursing homes, adding 180 beds; two rehabilitation centers, adding 75 beds; three diagnostic and treatment centers, and 30 County health units.

Accelerated emphasis on treatment and training of the mentally retarded was dramatized by State acquisition of the Veterans' Administration's tuberculosis hospital near Outwood. The potential there is 500 patients when the facility is fully converted to its new purpose.

It is estimated that 91,000 Kentuckians are mentally retarded. The multimillion-dollar program to alleviate them began with transfer of this activity to the Department of Mental Health from the authority in charge of penology, probation and parole.

At Frankfort State Hospital and School, long the only facility for retarded, expansion costing $405,800, is under way.

The Governor was cited for his work in convincing "masses of people that something can be done for the mentally retarded."

His crash program in mental retardation culminated in national distinction for Governor Combs. He is one of six pioneers in this field who, on Wednesday at New York, will share $225,000 in awards by the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., Foundation.

is the greatest one-year total for this purpose in the history of Kentucky road-building.

Moreover, the Combs Administration ended with an augury of massive improvements to be expected in the future. On November 14 the Turnpike Authority sold $70,000,000 of 4.11 percent revenue bonds to finance the 71-mile Central Kentucky Parkway from Elizabethtown to Versailles.

When this super facility opens to traffic in the winter of 1965, as planned, the length of Kentucky will be traversed by a high-speed route, most of it limited access, from the Bug and Big Sandy to the Cumberland and Tennessee and, perhaps, to the Mississippi.

Ribbon-cuttings have opened or will open 160 miles of new toll roads, 63 more miles of interstate highways, and 54 miles of other multilane urban and rural freeways.

The State's total mileage of usable expressways jumps to 495, including 230 miles of interstate and 260 miles of toll turnpike. Rural and urban freeways make up the rest of the total.

Season-end openings include the 127-mile Western Parkway from Elizabethtown to Princeton and a 33-mile extension of Mountain Parkway from Campton to Salversville.

Major interstate openings include a 25-mile stretch of I-75 from Williams-town to near Lexington, giving a solid 72-mile link between the Bluegrass and North Kentucky.

This route will be taken into Ohio with the December opening of a $5,428,000 Ohio River bridge between Covington and Cincinnati.

The path of I-65—the North-South Expressway—is heading for the new $9,500,000 bridge across the Ohio River from Louisville to Jeffersonville.

South of Lexington, completion of the new $2,224,000 Clays Ferry Bridge across Kentucky River will permit the use of six additional miles of I-75 from the Athens-Boonesboro Road to the river.

Also, the Clays Ferry Bridge will make connection with 8 miles already open from the river to Richmond.

Completion of paving on 12 miles of I-65 east of Lexington will link the city with 18 miles of I-64 in Clark and Montgomery Counties.

Opened earlier in 1963 on I-64 was a 4.3-mile section between U. S. 127 and U. S. 60 west of Frankfort, including prize-winning twin bridges across the Kentucky River.

Under construction are 6.3 miles of I-64 between Outer Loop and Watterson Expressway in Jefferson County, and a 10-mile section in Boyd County.

Another 2.6 miles of I-65 were added to the southern terminus, bypassing Upton.

Here and there were these major projects, either opened, or ready for opening:

U. S. 41 bypass around Madisonville, 16.5 miles costing $10,568,000.

$8,000,000 of urban expressways in Jefferson County, involving Preston Street Road, Poplar Level Road and Taylorsville Road.

At Lexington, widening of Cooper Drive to four lanes for eight-tenths of a mile, and similar widening of South Lime for five tenths of a mile.

New 2.5-mile four-lane section of U. S. 45 from Paducah to Lone Oak.

A 14-mile relocation of U. S. 62 west of Bardston.

A 4-mile relocation of U. S. 119 in Bell County.

The Jackson Bypass in Breathitt County, 2 miles at $1,000,000 a mile.

And scores of smaller projects added to the record of advancement. Indicative of the whole picture is that the $288,900,000 spent in 1963 on construction

It is generally conceded that the State-park system is the nation's finest. In four years, around $20,000,000 was spent to improve and expand an already splendid system.

Ultramodern lodges, excellent dining rooms, tennis, swimming pools, golf courses, outdoor drama and musicals, and magnificent scenery have imprinted hall-marks of distinction on these, the show places of Kentucky.

In four years, 15,000 acres were added to the system. Six new parks were acquired. Visitors to the system rose to 9,000,000 this year, breaking all past records.

The new park system is deemed to be the best magnet for tourism. And out-of-state travelers are calculated to be worth more than $200,000,000 a year to the economy of Kentucky.

Library extension reached fullest flowering, also, in the 1960-64 period. It was given $1,411,640 more to spend than in 1956-60.

Five new library regions serving 21 counties were formed, raising such regions to 12. The fleet of bookmobiles was increased to 100, with about half of 2,000-volume capacity, in contrast to the old trucks with 900-volume capacity.

This is the biggest fleet of bookmobiles in the nation. The 12 regional libraries and the bookmobiles are circulating 3,000,000 books more per year than before the breakthrough of State support.

Governor Combs sparked the beginning of reformation in the penal system that holds a vast potential for modernization of facilities and enlightenment of personnel.

On September 14, he appointed Joseph Cannon, Columbus, Ohio, as commissioner of corrections, the first professional penologist ever to fill this heretofore political office.

On November 16, his Task Force on Corrections, after nine months of study, recommended to the Governor a multi-million-dollar immediate and long-range program to rescue the penal system "from inadequate money and partisan politics of the most damnable kind."

Special Sessions

With five special sessions of the Legislature, the Governor demonstrated his belief that vital demands of modern, fast-moving government cannot be met by one regular 60-day session every two years. In order, the Governor called his special sessions to:

1. Expedite the people's vote on the question of calling a constitutional convention.

2. Extend the bonus to Kentucky veterans of the last four wars who since have moved to other states.

3. Redraw Senate and House districts to conform to population patterns revealed by the 1960 U. S. Census.

4. Appropriate $700,000 and enact new law to facilitate transfer of ownership of five East Kentucky hospitals from United Mine Workers to nonprofit operating authority, Appalachian Hospitals, Inc.

5. Raise the pay and create a non-partisan ballot for circuit and appellate judges, and require the annual inspection of automobiles.

Floyd County Campaign Committee for Combs for Governor, C. "Ollie" Robinson, Frank DeRossett, Lawrence Hale, co-chairmen.

He Broke the Shackles Free!

As Governor of Kentucky, Bert Combs boldly initiated a PROGRAM OF PROGRESS that liberated the state from generations-old Do-Nothingness.

- He established the great Community College System — now a model for other states.
- He gave Education the support it so badly needed.
- He built the Mountain Parkway and other arterial highways to connect Kentucky with Kentucky.
- He substituted voting machines for the antiquated ballot box.
- He gave the State Park System new life.

For the first time in history, Eastern Kentucky Was given a chance —
— AND BERT COMBS WAS RESPONSIBLE.

Kentucky Education Report Said in 'Secret' Circulation

A preliminary report based upon an investigation into Kentucky's education system has been circulated among some of the principals but not made public. A final report is expected to be released early in May, determining whether sanctions or a blacklisting would be applied to the state's schools.

The purpose of the preliminary findings or partial draft was described as a step to allow the principals to furnish additional information, if necessary, before a final recommendation is made. A team from the National Education Association conducted its investigation and hearings last year at the request of the Kentucky Education Association.

The KEA requested the sanctions inquiry after it failed to obtain the teacher pay raises and other legislative programs it sought from the 1970 General Assembly. one phase of the protest included a one-week walkout by a majority of teachers more than one year ago.

Extension Service News

By JACK M. FRIAR
County Extension Agent

Hayden Watkins, turf management specialist for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, reminds Kentucky homeowners that most broadleaf weeds in lawns can be controlled with either 2, 4-D, silvex or dicamba.

"Early spring (March and April) and late fall are the times when application of these herbicides is most practical," Watkins said.

Wild onion, a common weed in many lawns, can be controlled with 2, 4-D but may require several yearly treatments, and "the weed should be treated while its young—early in the spring, Watkins said. He emphasized that homeowners should use low volatile formulations of 2, 4-D for lawns.

Silvex is effective in controlling chickweed, henbit, clover and other weeds. Dicamba, which controls many broadleaf weeds, is especially effective on Red Sorrel, Knotweed and clover. These materials often come mixed for "broad spectrum" weed control.

"Be sure to follow directions on the container when applying these weed control chemicals, Watkins cautioned. "They may also kill shrubs, flowers and garden plants. This is one reason for treatment early in the year before many of the garden plants are out." Spot treatments will probably need to be repeated following the first application.

Most annual grasses, such as crabgrass, can be controlled by application of preemergence herbicides. Since these herbicides kill the germinating weed seed, they should be on the ground when the weed seeds begin to germinate. These materials should be applied before April First in Kentucky. The materials recommended by the University of Kentucky are benefin, banadane, bensulide, DCPA and siduron. Only the siduron can be used if you are reseeding this spring. If any of the other materials are used, delay reseeding until fall.

Further information can be obtained from your local County Extension Agent.

Fraternity Helps In Trail Cleanup

Twenty-two University of Kentucky students recently had an opportunity to observe first hand a few of the problems public land agencies face everyday.

The students, members of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity at the University of Kentucky, spent the day helping personnel of the state Division of Forestry clean up picnic areas along a section of the Little Shepherd Trail in Harlan. The fraternity undertook the work as a community service project.

They worked on nine picnic areas, leveling and repairing tables, painting trash containers, and picking up quantities of trash. They also cleared the brush from several overlooks along the trail.

The students found that someone had stolen all the signs naming the picnic spots and overlooks. They also noted that all the trash receptacles were the victims of numerous bullet holes.

The 38-mile trail runs along the top of Pine Mountain in Harlan and Letcher counties. The first 17 miles of the trail was constructed in the 1930's by the Civilian Conservation Corporation. The Kentucky Division of Forestry completed it by building 21 miles in 1961 and 1962.

The view from the trail is spectacular. To the south lies the picturesque valley of Poor Fork, and across the Big Black Mountain-Kentucky's highest peak. To the north the visitor sees Line Fork Valley wind its way to the Kentucky River.

FRANKFORT, KY.—Back-door fishing started in Kentucky many years ago when the fish and wildlife agency first began stocking ponds. In the early days it was believed that by dumping a conglomeration of fish into a body of water, good fishing would follow. This method did offer some fishing, but not for long. After a short time the pond, containing the many varieties of fish, became over populated; the fish became stunted; fishing was undesirable and the farmer and his fishing friends were discouraged.

Enter the scientific man—biologists who study the habits of fish; their reproduction potentials; their feeding procedures. After much experimentation, it was established that a balance of fish could be had in a farm pond if the correct species were stocked in a given ratio.

It has progressed to this: The best balanced farm ponds of today are those stocked with largemouth bass and bluegill. Greater fish production is available to the farmer and his friends, and the balance (if not tampered with) may continue for many years provided the recommendations of the Fish and Wildlife Department are adhered to.

The Department is eager to stock every farm pond that has the potential to offer good fishing. This is a free service, quite easily attained. The farm pond owner need only notify his conservation officer, who will inspect the pond, determine its size, whether it has previously been stocked or is a new pond. He will then make application to the Department offices in Frankfort for fish to be stocked in the given pond. If it's a new pond, then a bit of figuring will determine the correct number of bass and bluegill to be stocked. If it's an old pond that has lost its fishing potential, then the officer will recommend that the pond be renovated and then stocked. The renovation cost will be charged to the owner, but the total cost is low.

A word of caution. The deadline for applications is at hand. Applications must be made by February 1, if the pond is to be stocked during 1971. If the application is made after that date, then the stocking operations must be delayed until next year. (The Fisheries Division must make out the delivery routes for the whole state—this is time consuming and necessitates the early deadline).

If the application is accepted, you can expect the following delivery procedure: Bluegill, of the fingerling size, will be placed in the ponds in March. They will be packaged and delivered to the farmer at a prearranged place. The farmer will place the fish in the pond. Then, after the bass spawn in the spring, fry will be added to the pond in another delivery, taking the same route as did the bluegill. The farmer will pick up the fish and place them in his pond. The farmer will be instructed how to handle the stocking operations through instructions printed on the side of the box in which the fish are delivered. After the bass have spawned the following year, a few ponds offer some fishing; but most often it is better to keep the pond closed for two years.

Farm pond fishing is a family affair. It provides many hours of enjoyable outdoor recreation and many excellent catches.

The urgency right now is the deadline. If you have a pond you want stocked, remember, let your conservation officer know by February 1. If you can't make it by that date, you'll have to wait a full year for your stocking program.

By the way, in 1969, the Department stocked 340,950 bass fry and 1,243,400 bluegill fingerlings in Kentucky farm ponds.

Jimmy "Gabe" TURNER

For Floyd County's State Representative I am one of you. May Democratic Primary

I, Jimmy "Gabe" Turner, was born and reared in Floyd County, Kentucky, son of Mae Burns Turner and Ernest Turner, of Drift. I am married to the former Donna J. Barnett, daughter of Rana Calhoun and John Quince Barnett. I am a graduate of McDowell High School, and attended Kentucky Wesleyan College.

My wife and I run the Triangle Drive Inn at the Y in Martin, Kentucky. I see and talk to a great many of my fellow Floyd Countians every day, and I know what kind of man they want to represent them in Frankfort, and I know that I am that man. As I said, I am in business for myself and have no connection with any company or firm, and I am not afraid to speak out for the people of Floyd County and our needs.

When I am elected I will prove this to the best of my ability. The people of Floyd County must and will come first.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the good people who voted for me two years ago, and I will appreciate their support this time also.

(Pol. Adv.)

Re-Elect

W. J. "BILL" REYNOLDS State Representative

Legislative District No. 95, which now includes all of Floyd county.

He is Democratic Caucus Chairman of the House of Representatives, elected by Democratic House members; is a member of the Legislative Research Commission, also of the five-member Committee on Committees which makes all committee assignments, and of the Rules and State Government committees.

A PROVEN FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE (Pol. Adv.) Alen Turner, chm., Reynolds for Representative Committee

Statement of T. P. "Tim" Reynolds

As you all know, the Legislature has reapportioned the General Assembly and as a result of this, Floyd County was made one legislative district. The whole county now must vote and elect one representative.

I was honored to serve in The House of Representatives and work hard to serve the people to the best of my ability.

I also served in the House of Representatives with W. J. "Bill" Reynolds. Bill Reynolds was elected Caucus Chairman and holds one of four highest positions of leadership in The Kentucky House of Representatives. As a result of this, W. J. Reynolds is in a position to help Floyd county as a Representative from the now 95th Legislative District which includes all of Floyd county.

Therefore I will not be a candidate for Representative and urge all my friends and supporters to support W. J. "Bill" Reynolds for Representative, who, along with Bert Combs and Julian Carroll as Governor and Lieutenant Governor, can accomplish more and better things for Floyd county.

Hospital Here Signs Pre-Admission Pact

Chalmer H. Frazier, administrator of Prestonsburg General Hospital, announced this week the signing of a pre-admission testing (P. A. T.) agreement with Kentucky Blue Cross. Pre-admission testing is a voluntary program between Kentucky Blue Cross and its member hospitals and it provides coverage for outpatient tests (laboratory, X-ray, EDG, etc.) done at the hospital prior to a scheduled admission as a bed patient, when such tests are the type which would have been covered by the patient's Blue Cross coverage on an inpatient basis. All Blue Cross members are immediately eligible for this coverage.

Mr. Frazier said, "P. A. T. is designed to shorten the patient stay by having results of the patient's tests available upon admission. The program should result in prompt therapeutic care upon admission and help alleviate the bed shortage as well as permit better scheduling within the X-ray and laboratory departments of the hospital."

Before the pre-admission testing benefits are provided, three conditions must be met.

- (1. The patient must be scheduled for admission prior to the testing. (2. The use of P. A. T. will shorten the stay. (3. The results will be relevant to the diagnosis and medically valid at the time of admission.

Dr. George P. Archer, chief of the Prestonsburg General hospital staff, said, "We are striving for programs which will help hold down the cost of care but not be injurious to the quality health care our patients enjoy. We are very encouraged with the possibilities of P. A. T. and will work closely with the hospital toward full program implementation."
