Source Says Ford Doesn't Favor State Liquor Stores

A source within the new Democratic administration said Friday Gov.-Elect Wendell Ford does not support any proposal for state-operated liquor stores as a new source of revenue.

Under a bill reportedly prepared by or submitted to the Legislative Research Commission, the state would operate liquor stores in dry territories.

An individual House or Senate member can ask the LRC to draw up a bill or give one to the group for polishing or filing.

Whether such a bill would ever see the light of day—either by reaching the hopper in the General Assembly or being referred to a committee—seems dubious.

Similar measures repeatedly have been consigned to oblivion by other assemblies, although the new version is narrower in that it would not put the state in competition with private interests in wet areas.

Of Kentucky's 120 counties, 86 have decided to go dry under the local option statutes. The wet counties doing the most business are located along the Ohio River.

The new plan for state-operated outlets also might run into the old constitutional roadblock because it seemingly would abridge the right of local citizens to ban liquor sales in a city or county.

The liquor store concept has been mentioned by politicians recently as one way in which the Ford administration might obtain needed revenue without raising taxes.

Ford has pledged no increase in taxes except for a new severance tax on coal production. However he said recently he made no such pledge regarding the road fund and sources closest to him have indicated a gasoline tax increase in the offing.

The general fund, under which most of state government operates, is expected to lose as much as $50 million yearly because of Ford's pledge to remove the sales tax from take-home food.

Hence any non-tax revenue plan to bolster the general fund would not be a violation of Ford's campaign promises.

The last time the state-operated liquor store reports were taken seriously was during the 1963 Democratic primary, when former Gov. A. B. Chandler was seeking a third term and Edward T. Breathitt

And Another Thing, Governor...

Governor-Elect Wendell Ford has already made it plain that he does not intend to forget Eastern Kentucky. He has indicated that KY 80 from Hazard to Allen in this county is marked for reconstruction during his administration; and that, to our thinking, is a long step forward.

Of lesser sociological and economic impact, but important because it is just, is Mr. Ford's proposal to restore to May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Park the portrait of Ex-Governor Bert T. Combs. Combs' picture should have a place there for the simple reason that had he not been governor and as the state's chief executive been determined that this area should have a modern state park facility, May Lodge would, in all probability, not exist today. The incoming governor's proposal also indicates a refreshing lack of rancor after a rather bitter primary campaign.

There are many other problems Eastern Kentucky has to present to Mr. Ford for consideration. One of these is the Inez-Prestonsburg road.

This route, which reduces the distance between the two county-seats by a matter of ten miles or more, has never been usable with safety and convenience since it was built. The old road from Inez via Paintsville remains the route most used except by coal trucks.

This road, it is to be hoped, was built for more than coal trucks. Prestonsburg Community College offers much to the young people of Martin county. The road drives into a burgeoning industrial area. Prestonsburg business firms should have an interest in this access to Martin county.

We hope Governor Ford will make of this highway what it was intended to be—make it usable by all types of traffic, and insist that it be kept so.

Print, Essay Reveal Beauty of Gorge

West Liberty, Ky.—It seems only a short time ago that the attractive brunette with the breathless, little-girl voice that speaks adroitly called me aside during an art show at Natural Bridge State Resort Park and said, "Guess what my Christmas present is going to be this year?"

It was October and a warm, sunny Sunday afternoon with much of autumn, Hallowe'en, Thanksgiving and snow yet to go before Christmas, but Mrs. Nellie Meadows had made up her mind, and with cooperation of Mr. Meadows had decided to reproduce her watercolor paintings of Kentucky wildflowers into prints. She had been painting for several years and had come to the realization that she wanted to move into a broader field with her work.

"My husband Roscoe has already told me he would make the prints my Christmas present."

But also present that day was Beattyville writer Neville Shackelford, who wrote a piece about Mrs. Meadows' plans. And he caused Mr. Meadows to have to look around for another gift, for an art print company soon had the artist under contract.

Since then the Clay City artist has visited with hundreds of clubs, schools and libraries and has made numerous personal appearances to promote her prints and as a result has endeared herself to countless people, young and old.

In her first print series were eight wildflowers—violet, chicory, spiderwort, goldenrod, dandelion, thistle, cattail and partridge pea. She then came out with larger prints of the tulip poplar and Kentucky creeper.

Recently in Hemlock Lodge, Natural Bridge State Resort Park, she unveiled her first in a series of prints which shows her interpretation of the upper Red River Gorge. Unlike her other prints, the gorge scene was done in oils and indicates still another dimension to the artist.

Prior to the showing in Hemlock Lodge, she had called to tell me about the written print and an essay that accompanies each one. "Neville has written the most beautiful essay I ever read."

The popular writer from Mulberry Hill—his farm is in Lee County—and Mrs. Shackelford were present for the reception at the park near Slade. The artist and writer blend the print and the essay into a true collector item.

Knowledgeable about botany and nature, Shackelford, who is with the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service, has written an easy-to-read piece that is packed with information.

Both artist and writer live in a scenic area that encompasses Red River and the gorge, Kentucky River and its tributaries, the land of Boone, Jonathan Swift and Indians who once roamed traces in the cliff and canyon country. . . and the land of more than 1000 wildflowers and shrubs.

The Powell County artist devotes most of her time to painting and guest appearances, but enjoys bowling with her husband, a Clay city businessman, and helping oversee Red River Historic Museum located in Clay City.

Her son Larry Meadows is an authority on Red River and the gorge which includes Swift's Camp Creek. He has hiked throughout the region, rappelled the cliffs, canoed the rapids, spelunked the caves, studied plants and geological formations and researched the legends and languages of rocks, trees and the Indians who left their mark in the gorge.

The new Nellie Meadows print shows huge boulders that in eons past had tumbled to the canyon floor. On one side is a canoe and fishermen and on the other a green background of trees.

The Meadows family of Clay City and the Shackelfords of Beattyville make a talented combination, especially when the painting of one and the writing of another are revealing of Kentucky's magnificent scenery and its trees, rocks and flowers.

For Nellie Meadows, who in late 1968 decided to offer her work in limited edition prints, her growth in the field of art has been like the unfolding of one of the flowers she paints.

It is when she tells about the "truly wonderful people I've met" that she gets breathless almost, for of her blessings she most of all cherishes her friends and the many people she has met in her visits throughout Kentucky.

Former Floyd Man Named in Election Suit in Breathitt

The state House of Representatives will be asked when it meets Jan. 3 to reverse the election of Jeff D. Howell, formerly of Floyd county, because of alleged voting irregularities here.

Attorneys representing Howell's Republican opponent in the Nov. 2 election, Beattyville schoolteacher Warren E. Spicer, said they are contesting the four-county race and will file an official challenge with the clerk of the House on the opening day of the 1972 session.

The state Constitution provides that members of the House and Senate of the General Assembly decide the qualifications of their own members.

The official notice of challenge served on Howell last Friday, was revealed after a Breathitt county grand jury indicted four men on charges of tampering with voting machines in five of the county's 17 precincts on election day.

Charged with conspiring to defraud Spicer in the 89th Legislative District race in Breathitt county, according to Breathitt Circuit Court Clerk O. J. Moore, are: Luther Fletcher, county voting machine custodian; his two sons, George and Larry Fletcher; and Blaine Deaton. All are from the Van Cleve section of Breathitt county, north of Jackson.

Indictments returned against the four men state, in part, that the defendants "wilfully and unlawfully entered into a conspiracy with each other and with other people" to defraud Spicer in the election and "did tamper with voting machines... and caused said machines to inaccurately count the votes cast for (Spicer and Howell)... and caused the election officers to be misled and to give incorrect results for said election."

Howell, husband of Treva Turner and in-law heir to the strong Turner-controlled Breathitt county Democratic machine, received 1,019 of his 1,782-vote majority over Spicer in the five precincts. Spicer won only the Van Cleve precinct of the five, county officials said, receiving 153 votes to 151 for Howell.

The 89th Legislative District includes all of Breathitt, Lee and Owsley counties and five precincts in Estill.

Howell received a total of 6,278 votes to Spicer's 4,504. Of the total, Howell received 3,859 votes in Breathitt county to 1,414 for Spicer.

Howell, 51 a former banker and oil and gas operator, called the charges made by his opponent "vague" and said he would be in the House of Representatives Jan. 3 to answer charges against him and "present my defense."

Howell is a brother of Jerry Fonce Howell, of Jackson, and W. H. Howell, of Harold.

In Memoriam

In memory of George Symon, Sr., who passed away in December, 1941, and Bessie Symon who died in November, 1950:

Winter is here, snow on the ground.
 It soon will be Christmastime
 In our coal mining town.
 The warmth of Christmas relieves the cold chill.
 As we remember, the Ol' Coal Miner on the hill.
 This Ol' Coal Miner and his wife,
 Gave all for their fellowman,
 Brightening our lives, giving to
 Each of us a helping hand.
 A shining example of a life worth living,
 For they filled their lives
 With the love of giving.
 So joy and happiness were
 Their's to be had,
 But we lost our Momie and Dad.
 Well, another winter is here,
 Snow will be on the ground,
 Again it's Christmastime,
 In our Coal Mining Town.
 And warmth of Christmas,
 Relieves the cold chill
 As we all remember the Ol' Coal Miner and his wife on the hill.

By daughter,
 MRS. VINCENT ADAMS,
 Martin, Ky.

Magoffin Veterans File Suit for Jobs

Twelve veterans filed suit in Magoffin circuit court Friday, charging that certain officials were refusing to accept their applications for jobs. The plaintiffs claimed the defendants were not following the guidelines and provisions of the federal Employment Emergency Act and that their civil rights were being violated.

Named defendants were County Judge Wardie Patrick, the members of fiscal court, Salyersville Mayor James W. Carpenter and the six members of the city council.

The 12 also filed a motion asking that the case be heard Dec. 4, but Judge Ben Mann did not rule immediately on that request.

Richard P. Love, Sr., of Royalton, one of those who filed the suit, identified himself as a veteran of World War II, the Korean War and the war in Vietnam. Seven other plaintiffs were identified as veterans of the Vietnam War.

The suit charges that as veterans the group is entitled to preferential treatment but was not receiving it.

The suit asked also that the defendants be required by injunction to hire the unemployed and the under-employed and to remove from the payroll any employees who were not hired under guide-lines laid down by the act.

Mayor Carpenter said he was not surprised by the veterans' action but denied any knowledge of the alleged violations.

He declined to discuss the suit, explaining "I don't know the Federal Employment Emergency Act guidelines too well."

But he said his understanding of the guidelines indicates "they asked for one-third of the job applicants to be veterans, and they do have the one-third."

The veterans' action follows by eight days a new state anti-nepotism directive mailed to county judges.

That directive was issued amid complaints by Owsley county veterans that Emergency Employment Fund Act funds allocated to Owsley county were being misused. The directive forbids employment of "a member of the immediate family of the sub-agent and or elected county or city official" involved in administering the funds. Magoffin County Atty. Marcus Mann said he was not familiar with the 12-veteran suit. He said that no county officials had yet contacted him about defending action.

Market here reported That $9 in cash had been taken. Ronald Pitts, Jr., 17, and his mother, Mrs. John L. Pitts, Jr., said the three had bought three coconuts and paid $1. They left in a car but soon returned. Young Pitts said when he stepped outside to their car Frasure told him he gave him a $10 bill for the coconuts and was due $9 in change. He added that Frasure thrust his hand beneath his coat, where he could see the butt of a revolver.

Most of us subscribe to the doctrine that charity begins at home, but too few agree that it must not end there.

WHY?

Diesel fumes and clanking steel, the roar of motor, grinding gears, there where only bird-whistle or falling leaf or snapping branch had broken forest silence... One wood violet clung where loam and sun had generated root — there along the way the Monster came; fixed, anchored beyond flight, it waited, helpless, the trampling of unfeeling tons... Can a lone violet bleed? Or hurt? Or cry? Don't be foolish! — it can only die... But shed no tear for this one flower. Sure, and it will die — but on ahead lie pine, young oak, other flowers, a sparkling brook: these, too, the Monster will bend and break and destroy, with human hopes. Why shed a tear for one lonely flower?

As of the 13th, inst., I hung up, racked up or whatever you do with the old fishing pole, for the good year 1971. Now, all I have to do is moult till better days next year. But, come those halycon days, and they will come, and I will take a sudden turn for the better, perk up the ears and go tearing off, willy-nilly, God knows where, a sure thing to catch the granddaddy of 'em all... Pity the poor fisherman? Only till he can go fishing.

Speaking of a Free Press...

"If men are to be precluded from offering their sentiments on a matter, which may involve the most serious and alarming consequences that can invite the consideration of mankind, reason is of no use to us; the freedom of speech may be taken away, and dumb and silent we may be led, like sheep to the slaughter."

—George Washington

Remember The Aged

Churches, Sunday Schools, classes, missionary societies and individuals who wish to remember patients in the Golden Years Rest Home at Lackey are asked to have gifts at the home before December 19. Those desiring information as to needs, ages, sizes or sex of occupants should call Mrs. Fletcher Gayheart, 358-4383. It is hoped that numerous organizations whose members annually exchange gifts will deny themselves and send a gift to one of these old people, some of whom have no one to remember them.

How long since you were in school?

For those of us who are old enough to have children in school, it's a little difficult to realize how demanding and complex a teacher's job has become.

Things have changed since we were under the teacher's eye. Subjects are tougher, wider ranging. Today's student is getting into the ideas behind the facts at an age when we merely were learning facts.

Now the classroom is a place for education through thought instead of education by rote. And the teachers who meet the challenge day after difficult day are rather special people.

Dedicated? The word probably embarrasses them. Even so, it is dedication to duty that's most common to all the men and women who become — and remain — modern teachers.

How else can you describe whatever it is that makes a good teacher keep working, keep studying ahead, after the last bell of the day, the last bell of the semester, has rung?

This they do. And it's enough to know, with or without fancy words that pinpoint their motives. Enough to earn our respect, our appreciation and all the help we can give them.

The Bank Josephine is assisting Floyd County area youngsters obtain a college or trade school education. We're the only financial institution in Floyd County participating in the Federal Insured Student Loan Program. We are actively lending to students right now. But we'd like to do more. You see, we're out to make more loans to more students, but we need your help to do it. We'll earmark your money for our "Educations Unlimited" loan fund. The "Educations Unlimited" Savings Certificates we'll issue you in return will pay off magnificently — in excellent bank interest for you, and in better educations for our own boys and girls.

Floyd County has always been blessed with more than its fair share of citizens who willingly give more than they have to give — of their time, their energy, their cooperation — to keep our county out front in all the things that matter. While outstanding teachers are seeing to it that our youngsters get the best education possible, countless other people are working every day to meet the county's growing cultural and social needs.

Whatsoever Things

DONALD E. WILDMON

The air-conditioner in the church building broke down. The fan in the unit was still working, but the unit wasn't cooling. I called the fellow who had installed the unit and he came to fix it. Checking it out, he discovered that the gas had leaked from the unit causing the trouble.

The unit was checked out very close in an effort to find the leak. However, no damage in the unit or the pipes could be found. So the fellow who came to repair the unit put gas into it and the unit began cooling at maximum efficiency again.

The unit worked for about three weeks.

Then one day I noticed that it wasn't cooling. The fan was just blowing hot air. So I called the fellow a second time and told him what had happened. He came back, checked and found that the gas had escaped again. This time he started hunting for the hole where the gas was leaking with more determination.

I suppose he searched for about four hours for that hole. He ran a check on all the lines, dug holes in the ground searching around the pipe, even ripped the protective covering from the pipe. But all in vain. No sign of any place where the gas was escaping. He took out a container of gas, hooked it on to the unit, and began to fill the pipes again. The unit began cooling. He knew it was a leak, but he couldn't find it. The fellow applied the pressure to the unit. He ran the pressure to nearly twice what it should be. He was putting a terrific strain on the equipment. Finally, with the pressure greatly increased, he found the hole. It was so tiny that even a hatpin could not fit in it. It was such a tiny hole. But it was responsible for the failure of the unit. It did just as much damage as a hole ten times its size. It just took a little longer.

A fellow once asked me if there were degrees of sin. That is, is one sin worse than another. You see, this fellow was guilty of what we commonly call a little sin. It was no major thing, and most people simply ignored it. He was, in effect, pointing his finger at those who committed more serious sins. He was hoping, of course, to excuse his minor sin.

Well, there is degree in sin. Not all sin is a great as other sin. Stealing a dime could hardly be classified as serious as killing a neighbor. So in one way of thinking the fellow who asked the question was correct. His sin wasn't as great as that of some others.

Now, back to the air-conditioner. It wasn't the size of the hole which caused the damage. It was the hole itself. So it is with sin. It isn't the size of the sin which separates us from our Creator. It is the sin itself. The results of a little sin and a great sin are the same. A hole is a hole and a sin is a sin.

That means, of course, that those who commit little sins need forgiveness as much as those who commit great sins. So instead of pointing your finger, better bow your head.

Keep Christ In Christmas

St. Luke 2:11, For unto you is born this day in the City of David, a Saviour, which is CHRIST, the Lord.

Let's keep Christ in Christmas. It's so sad and such a shame to take the CHRIST, out of Christmas and put in an X for His name. Had it not been for Christ, there would be no Christmas, the Christ of highest honor and fame. So don't leave the CHRIST out of Christmas and blaspheme such a holy name. Put love in your heart this Christmas, the love that only God can give and that's the CHRIST that makes Christmas and the only real way to live. Share with someone this Christmas—a widow, an orphan or a lost soul. Tell them the love story of Jesus who came to make men whole. Just suppose Christ took you out of Christmas and put an X where your name had been. There are only two places to go. Where would you spend Christmas, my friend?

Put Christ at the top of your shopping list and thank God that He really came.

To give us true life here and eternally, and don't substitute an X for His name.

St. Luke, chapter 2: Be not deceived, God is not marked.

Christ has already been pushed out of Christmas with an idol—why make it worse by using an X for His name, for the same God that promised Heaven also promised Hell.

Mrs. Loucille Montgomery
"Christian Home Evangelist"
22 E. Burchett St.
Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653

Thought Conditioner:

Wouldn't it be a wonderful present for the Christian if Jesus came for us on His birthday? Just imagine spending Christmas in Heaven with the Christ of Christmas.

Don't let this Christmas message die, pass it on and help sow good seed for Jesus; for, good or bad, little or much, we will reap what we sow. Thank you in His priceless name.

Barn Serves Retarded Children

"RED BARN" CARE—Some 11 Letcher County children, ages 4-12 enter this red barn each day to receive a special type of care and services. The red barn is one of the best-housed day care centers for mentally retarded children in the commonwealth, operated by the Upper Kentucky River Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Comprehensive Care Center. The barn was renovated in the summer of 1968. (Richard Upchurch Photo)

Frankfort, Ky.—Old barns are being used for almost everything these days, but in Letcher county there is one that is nonetheless unique.

Red Barn, as it is called, is a day care center for mentally retarded children.

The facility is operated in the Jeremiah community by the Upper Kentucky River Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Comprehensive Care Center.

Though a barn seems an improbable place for a day care unit, a massive renovation job has resulted in one of the best-housed day care centers in the commonwealth.

The barn boasts room for housing 20 day care participants. The concrete floors have inlaid linoleum and the inside of the building is paneled throughout. Local funds and volunteer labor were utilized during the renovation.

The ex-cow palace has a furnished kitchen, bathroom, supply room and isolation room. It is heated electrically and has plenty of room for play areas.

When the Red Barn Day Care Center held open house Sept. 1, 1968, instructor Bobby Jo Collins and aide Hassie Breeding nervously welcomed the public.

On the first day, seven mothers hesitatingly entered their mentally retarded children in the day care facility. Although there was some apprehension, the mothers welcomed the opportunity. The center now serves 11 mentally retarded children.

The children receive training primarily in self-help, hygiene and grooming, communication, socialization and economic efficiency or independence. They range in age from four to twelve years and spend five hours at Red Barn each school day.

Some of the participants have shown progress far beyond the most optimistic expectations. One 12-year-old girl had never fed herself but now does a good job eating with all the others.

Most of the instruction is individualized but group activities are used when feasible. Instruction is geared to results and every child is expected to progress to the extent of his ability.

The children enjoy many of the activities of normal classrooms such as singing together, morning inspections, pledge to the flag, square dancing, rhythm bands and even meal preparation. Many have learned nursery rhymes, numerals, colors, traffic signals and the names of all of the children in the class.

The Upper Kentucky River Region, headquartered in Hazard, is one of 15 regions covering the commonwealth. Each region is operated by a non-profit board of local citizens in cooperation with the Kentucky Department of Mental Health.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn changed three points in his proposal to provide health care insurance benefits to state employees. One change will allow each employe to choose his own insurer.

It wasn't built in a day.

Somebody didn't just say, "Hey, this is the year for little economy cars—let's build one," and there appeared a 1972 Volkswagen.

Fact is, 24 years of Volkswagens preceded it.

Each one a little better than the year before.

The idea was that we had a good idea. So we stayed with it. And improved it. Thousands of times.

The old nemesis of car makers, new model bugs, were eliminated years ago.

If there's one thing we learned about making economy cars, it's this:

There's no such thing as an overnight success.

RUPP . . . on Basketball

By ADOLPH RUPP, Head Basketball Coach, University of Kentucky

We've been hurt because we lost five boys from the 1970-71 Wildcat team that finished with a fine 22-6 record and won our fourth consecutive Southeastern Conference championship.

First of all, we lost Mike Casey and Larry Steele, both All-Conference players. As you know, Casey was all-conference as a junior, then was hurt and came back the following year as a senior and didn't play nearly as well as he did as a junior. I think he also would be of that opinion. He gave it all he had, but the extent of the injury was apparent; still, he was one of our leading scorers and one of the outstanding competitors on our team.

Steele, our fourth leading scorer, signed a no-cut contract with Portland. I could never forget that boy. I tell you, for a skinny, scrawny kid, he came in here and fought his heart out. He had two broken fingers, but he never complained. He just kept on playing. He developed into a terrific shooter and was one of the finest rebounders we ever had. When he rebounded, he started our fast break with a flourish.

Then we also lost Terry Mills from Barbourville, who was always a good defensive man and could hit; Jim Dinwiddie of Leitchfield, an oft-time starter, and Clint Wheeler of Ashland, who helped us a lot in practice sessions.

The thunderbolt hit us when Tom Payne, our 7-2 center who developed as a sophomore into an All-SEC player, signed with the professional Atlanta Hawks under the hardship clause. We didn't feel Tom was ready for the pros and neither did Atlanta, but they apparently felt he was worth the risk.

With Casey, Steele, Payne, Mills and Dinwiddie gone, we lost at least two-thirds of our scoring help and much of our rebounding power, leaving us with a terrific rebuilding job.

Thank goodness, we've got Tom Parker, 6-7 senior, of Collinsville, Ill., back. I know he is going to play better basketball. He came back from last year tired after six weeks in Turin, Italy, and went right into our running program, which was a mistake. He should have had two or three weeks rest. I told him that, but he started running anyway. It was only in about the last month that he played up to par.

Vying for the other forward is Larry Stamper of Beattyville. Larry is a good old mountain kid that will fight you at a drop of a hat. He stands 6-6 and weighs 218, is rugged under the basket and has developed a good shot.

Rick Drewitz, a boy from Michigan who stands 6-7, has developed a good left hand shot and is awful anxious to make the team. The boy loves basketball. He will put aside other things and concentrate on basketball. Last summer, he told me he ran three miles every day while he was at home. Well, most boys would rather sit down and watch baseball and things like that on television than run three miles in the hot sun. Drewitz stayed out there and ran.

We also have Dan Perry, 6-8, of Lima, Ohio, who came here with two bad knees; he stayed out of action last year and is beginning to hit and move better. Wendell Lyons, 6-5 sophomore, shows promise; I hope he will develop.

That leaves Andrews in the pivot. He can not foul and can not get hurt. If he can get through 26 games without getting hurt or fouling out, I think we've got a good center to replace Payne; but if he gets in trouble, the question will be: "Are you going to put in there Parker, who has played wonderful in the pivot whenever we've asked him?" He can hit that left hand jumper out of the pivot as well as anyone I've seen, even though he doesn't have the needed height.

We can put Stamper in there for defensive purposes if we have to. So, we do have those possibilities, but those are the things and problems we've got to work out before the opening game. That's why you have these practice sessions. In other years, I could just about say, "You take this side of the floor; you go to the pivot; you take this guard and you take that guard."

We can't do that this year. We've got to work these boys and see how they fit in. We've got to sit down and talk about this thing and use the combined ability of all of us to see how we can put the talent of all these boys together to see that we get the most out of the material that we have available.

At the guard position, we've got Kent Hollenbeck, who should be settled down now and give us some good performances. Hollenbeck can hit, we know that. I don't know if he'll hit better than the last two years or not, but his floor play will be better. Hollenbeck is fast; in fact, he's almost too fast. He can set up plays, which he learned to do about the middle of last year. He's not the individualist he was; now, he is a team man and by virtue of that fact, it will make him a better individual ball player.

Another senior guard, Stan Key, if he doesn't get injured, will bring a lot of joy to us here at the University and to the folks at Hazel, Ky., which is in the western part of the state because this boy is a quiet modest sort of lad, a very excellent student who never causes you any problems of any kind. He is always at practice and always works hard.

Bob McCowan? Who knows just what a year's absence has done to him? We don't know, we've got to iron that out. McCowan can hit, we know that. He has always been able to hit. But can he adapt himself in time to beat Hollenbeck and Key out? I don't know.

Can sophomore Ronnie Lyone, the speedster supreme, the kid that can do everything, the kid who explodes like a one-pound firecracker on the Fourth of July, work into the starting lineup? He thinks so. The first day the floor was cleared he was out there and has been there ever since.

Then you have Ray Edleman from Pennsylvania. His father was an assistant coach at Pennsylvania, but has now moved to Oregon State. There was some talk that the father would take the boy with him, but he decided it best to leave him here. We're glad of that. The boy is an excellent shot with excellent speed.

We're not going to worry about the guard position. That's their problem. We've got enough other problems at the other end.

Summing up, we don't have that overwhelming size we ought to have. We've got speed, but what good is it if you can't get the ball? The team that controls the boards controls the game. If we can get our share of rebounds, speed will take care of itself.

We've got the shooting ability, we've got speed and we must get the rebounds. Defensively, we will be a little better than the average team. Offensively, we'll be all right. That's how I see the 1971-72 edition of the Wildcats.

IN APPRECIATION

A special thank-you to all the friends neighbors and relatives of Maggie H. Lewis who were so good to visit, to bring the many gifts, and, most of all, your time and companionship, that made the many years bearable that she was bedfast. Truly she was wealthy beyond measure. The following says it so much better than we could:

BEATITUDES FOR FRIENDS OF THE AGED

Blessed are they who understand
 My faltering step and palsied hand.
 Blessed are they who know that my ears today
 Must strain to catch the things they say.
 Blessed are they who seem to know
 That my eyes are dim and my wits are slow.
 Blessed are they who looked away
 When coffee spilled at table today.
 Blessed are they with a cheery smile
 Who stop to chat for a little while.
 Blessed are they who never say
 "You've told that story twice today."
 Blessed are they who know the ways
 To bring back memories of yesterdays.
 Blessed are they who make it known
 That I'm loved, respected and not alone.
 Blessed are they who know I'm at a loss
 To find the strength to carry the Cross.
 Blessed are those who ease the days
 On my journey Home in loving ways.

What tobacco means to you...

As Kentucky's leading cash crop, tobacco obviously is important to our state's farmers. What is sometimes overlooked, however, is that tobacco is equally important to the banker, the factory worker, the local businessman, the housewife, and to virtually every Kentuckian. While tobacco generates farm income of $300 million annually in Kentucky, it is estimated that the crop is worth some $1.5 billion each year to our total economy.

About 240,000 Kentucky families share in returns from the farm sale of tobacco, and with this income they buy new homes, automobiles, farm supplies, groceries, clothing, and other items. As a result, local businesses and labor are bolstered. In short, tobacco is vitally important to employment, income and economic growth in our Commonwealth. What does tobacco mean to you? A lot.
