

Study Group Talks Recreation Complex

Facility in This Area Would Include Floyd and that these tourists will spend almost $43 million a year.

The 14 Highland Complexes recommended for the entire Appalachian region would result in 81,237,000 visitor-days per year and a tourist-dollar income of $920,600,000.

The ARC researchers commented on the Eastern Kentucky region, to this effect: "Straddling the Kentucky-Virginia state line is this six-county complex of rugged hills, Corps of Engineers lakes and state parks. The major recreation need in the area is for additional water; the present reservoirs and lakes will face peak-day crowding by 1985, and there is a projected demand for 1200-1300 more acres of water. Construction of considerable additional skylifts is justified; one or more year-round resorts featuring skiing in winter would seem feasible.

"Emphasis should be placed on developing a system of scenic roads within the complex to augment the excellent accessibility which the Appalachian Corridors will afford when they are completed. By 1985 at least 2100 units of accommodations and over 200 camping sites will be needed. Promotion and environmental controls are essential."

Tourism is big business, and if development of a recreation complex recommended for Eastern Kentucky is carried out, the result could be an income within the next 15 years for this section alone of $42.7 a year.

That is the view expressed by a group named by the Appalachian Regional Commission to do a systematic job of planning to develop the recreation potential of Appalachia, a region extending from the state of New York southward to Georgia.

The recreation complex recommended for this immediate area would center, according to a map reproduced in Ap-palachia, the journal published by the Appalachian Regional Commission, in Pike county and extending in one direction into Floyd and in others into Letcher county in Kentucky and into Dickinson and Buchanan counties, Virginia.

The complex, as planners now view it, is known as the Breaks-Dewey Lake-Clinch-High Knob Interstate Complex. The ARC map indicates that it would extend into the southern part (the Mud Creek and upper Big Sandy valley section) of this county where it borders on Pike, and possibly into a part of Left Beaver Creek which also is continuous to Pike. Roughly half of Pike county would be included in the complex.

Present facilities, which lie mainly in Dewey Lake and Jenny Wiley State Park in this county, the Breaks Interstate Park and the new Fishtrap impoundment, are now attracting visitors for a total of 1,905,000 visitor-days, and these are spending $24,200,000 a year. Even if the facilities now operating are not improved, the annual income to this area from tourists is expected to mount in the next 10 years to $34,200,000.

If the recommended recreation complex is developed, it is estimated that 3,330,000 visitor-days will be spent each year here

Circuit Court Begins Criminal Term Here

1 Murder Trial On Docket After Dismissal Made

Crime Rate Low During Holidays, Officials Note

The Floyd circuit court began its January criminal term Monday morning with a 75-case docket which included one murder case.

The docketed murder trial is that of Bob Hall, charged with the slaying at Allen of his father, Edgar H. Hall. His trial is scheduled for Jan. 18. The Jan. 25 trial of Charles Jackson will not be held, the charge against him having been dismissed (see separate story). The grand jury investigation of the slaying on Middle Creek of Mrs. Olin Shepherd may provide the second murder case which could conceivably be heard at this term of court.

With members of the petit jury in the courtroom, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley kept his instructions to the grand jury brief and of a general nature. He did so because the Court of Appeals has held that such remarks by the presiding judge, if made in the presence of trial jurors, may prejudice the rights of defendants and so be reversible on appeal.

Judge Conley pointed out to the jury that it is aware of those phases of crime that occasion most public discussion, that the jurors represent all sections of the county and that they know their communities and the sources they can draw on for information. He suggested they have subpoenas issued for persons whom they desire to question.

Gorge Faine, of Wheelwright, was named foreman of the grand jury.

The court docket is still liberally sprinkled with child desertion cases. Twenty-two of these are slated for hearing. It also includes seven cases involving theft, including breaking and entering. Two of these cases are for auto theft, one for horsestealing. There are 13 liquor cases on the docket, two for carrying concealed deadly weapons, three for reckless use of deadly weapons, and two for arson.

The holiday season just ended was perhaps Floyd county's most uneventful, city and county officials agreed. Crime was at a minimum, and, despite the heavy homecoming traffic, no major accident was reported.

The violence that did occur was such that nobody was arrested. The instances were the "sprinkling" with shotgun pellets of Mary Sue Mayo on Spurlock fork of Middle Creek and the wounding in his hand and groin at Melvin of Tommy Cole, 26, last Friday night, by .22-calibre revolver bullets reportedly fired by a woman. Nobody has been named in a warrant in either shooting.

Ellis Stanley was jailed here Dec. 18 by U. S. Deputy Marshal Joe Mullins on a charge of possessing a dynamite bomb, and Kenneth G. Stratton, of this county, who had been arrested at Salyersville as an alleged violator of the federal gun control act, was brought to jail here Dec. 23 by Deputy Marshal Hassel Caudill. Stratton also was booked by Deputy Sheriff C. A. Flanery on a cold check charge. Toby Joe Jackson was booked by Caudill, accused of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in Ohio for forgery.

Between Dec. 22 and Jan. 4 only 28 persons had been booked at the jail. Those jailed on more serious charges during that period:

Thomas E. Spriggs, no operator's license, by State Trooper A. C. Cantrell; Merlin Hall, drunk driving, by State Trooper Stansberry; Bishop Watts, conversion of property, by Deputy Sheriffs Virgil Conn and Grady Skeans; Donnie G. Hamilton, reckless driving and failure to obey a stop order, by Deputy Sheriffs Hamilton, Newsom and Hurlley; Bill Price, reckless driving, by Trooper Cornett; Randolph Jacobs, no operator's license, by State Trooper Gary Rose; Orris Smith, no operator's license and improper (See Story No. 5, Page 8)

Photo shows Prestonsburg scene where snow fell last Wednesday to a depth of seven inches. Elsewhere in the county the snowfall was heavier with as much as 11 inches reported.

Man's Guilt Doubted, Murder Bill Voided

The mystery surrounding the murder of James Chaffins on Arkansas Creek remains a mystery in the view of Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo. Charles Jackson was named in a murder indictment last year for the slaying of the Louisville man and his trial was set for last month's court term. But Mr. Stumbo expressed the feeling at the time that the Commonwealth needed more evidence and he asked that the case be continued till the current term.

Monday morning, on the first day of the new court term, the prosecutor filed a motion to dismiss. The motion was more than a mere legal form; it discussed the Commonwealth's position and Stumbo's own feelings about it. It reads, in part: "The decision that I am about to make is one of the most difficult decisions I have ever made in my entire life.

The defendant in the case at bar has been indicated for the murder of James Chaffins. After a careful review of the evidence I do not believe that this evidence is sufficient to sustain a conviction. I have made this decision by reading cases decided by the Court of Appeals and I have applied their guideline to the case at bar. This guideline is that if the evidence points to the defendant's innocence as well as his guilt, then the evidence is not sufficient.

"In the case at bar there is only one shred of evidence as to this defendant's guilt. One man has identified the defendant as the man who came off of the hill on Middle Creek, a short distance from the location of the deceased's car. There were no fingerprints that can be definitely identified as being that of the defendant's. The lie detector has been used in this case and the results of this test does not establish any reasonable basis for believing that the defendant is guilty of the crime he is charged with in the Floyd circuit court.

"I do not believe that any Commonwealth Attorney should prosecute any man charged with a crime unless said attorney believes that the defendant is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. It is my duty to protect the innocent as well as prosecute the guilty.

"However, if the court or any citizen should feel that I am wrong about this decision, then I am willing to step aside and permit any other attorney to prosecute this case. (See Story No. 1, Page 8)

Auxier Man Claims Damages of $60,000

Damages of $60,000 are asked by Charles E. Connors, of Auxier, in a suit filed in circuit court Dec. 28 against the Mountain Manor Nursing Home here.

The plaintiff claims he sustained permanent injuries in a fall, Jan. 1, last year, after he had left the nursing home after nightfall and stumbled over an abutment at the top of an outside stairway and at the edge of the parking lot. His suit claims the nursing home was careless and negligent in failing to provide safe ingress and egress to it, that it left top of the ramp approaching it unguarded and without handrails and adequate lighting.

Health Service Makes Changes For Floyd Work

The Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services, Inc. announced last week that it has completed re-registration of participants and that, due to shifting population and new O. E. O. guidelines, certain changes are being introduced to improve services to eligible, registered participants.

In order to comply with O. E. O. regulations and to use money and staff more economically, new administrative and financial policies are being initiated. A modern three-chair dental unit is almost completed at the Bosco outpost. New equipment is also being installed at the Mud Creek dental unit.

In addition to the project director, a second doctor has been employed and a third is being recruited.

Registered nurses employed by the Comprehensive Health Program who are licensed instructors will be training licensed practical nurses in preparation for the home health nursing services to be offered by the program to doctors in the area. It is hoped that some of those trained will be available to the new hospital near here and the new rehabilitation center at Thealka to alleviate the anticipated demand for nursing services.

All employed staff will become part of a continuous training program to improve services to the registered families.

Six Communities Have Four Years To Build Plants

Prestonsburg is included in the list of six Kentucky communities which, the Kentucky Water Pollution Control Commission last week said, are due for a warning to have secondary sewage treatment plants working by December, 1975. Paintsville, Ashland, Russell and Maysville are the others.

The towns of Martin, Pikeville, Louisa, Greenup, Worthington, Wurtland, South Shore and Vanceburg will not be recipients of the order to have secondary treatment plants operating within four years, since they apparently have the necessary equipment to be within guidelines set by the eight-state Ohio River Sanitation Commission last summer.

Dr. George P. Archer, Prestonsburg mayor, said Monday the compliance order has not yet been received. "When it is," he added, "we will take a long, cold, steady look at it before we do anything. We have just finished a primary sewage treatment plant that has been a back-breaking job, we're heavily bonded, and new taxes that these people have suggested are out of the question."

Mayor Archer said he could not see the soundness of a program demanding secondary sewage treatment plants of larger towns on the Big Sandy and at the same time leaving the sewage from many other smaller communities to go into the river without any treatment of any kind. "It seems to me," he commented, "that the first priority should be to see that every community has its primary sewage treatment plant, then move on from that to the secondary."

Heavy federal grants, he said, is the only (See Story No. 4, Page 8)

This Town . . . That World

Considering an artist's representation of the new year as an infant, I get the idea it would be difficult, these early days of 1971 to heed the old adage and "take time by the forelock." For these early months I suggest the directive be changed to read, "Take Time by the slack of his diaper."

LOOKING DOWN THE ROAD AHEAD

This is written on Thursday, Dec. 31 as the old year is bowing itself out in a snowstorm and as the new is ready to come on stage. A few hours hence and across the land the transition will be greeted by music, whistles, bells, fireworks, other noise-making devices and by people in varying moods. But amid all the hoop-la there will be the nostalgic "Auld Lang Syne" and those unexpressed doubts and fears of most of us as we face another year with all its problems, anxieties and uncertainties.

The celebrating will be past before this gets into print, but it is never too late for us, or for anybody else, to wish for our friends and for the world and all its people a happy new year. And to prescribe for all a beset with troubling uncertainties, peace that lies in trust in the future.

Former Floyd County Miner 10,000th Black Lung Applicant

Mr. Rollins (right) filing the 10,000th Black Lung claim with Leon Hess, claims representative.

Hamp Rollins, of Belfry, formerly of Floyd county, was the 10,000th person to apply for Black Lung benefits at the Pikeville district Social Security office.

Mr. Rollins called at the Social Security office to file a claim for reduced retirement benefits. The Social Security representative discovered during the interview that Rollins had actually retired upon the advice of a physician because he had pneumoconiosis. The requirements for Social Security disability benefits and federal Black Lung benefits were explained to him and he decided to apply for both of these benefits, since he considered himself disabled due to pneumoconiosis.

Rollins has worked about 45 years as a coal miner. He began working at the age of 17 in Tennessee, then worked as miner at Wayland from 1927 until 1941. Mr. Rollins moved to Pike county in 1941 and worked continuously as a coal miner until October 30, 1970. He has lived in the Belfry area for the past several years and plans to continue residing in this area.

The Pikeville, Kentucky District Office has processed about 9,800 of the 10,000 Black Lung claims received. This office has had 1,825 claims approved and 3,028 denied on the initial determination. The remainder of these claims are in some process of adjudication in the Bureau of Disability Insurance, Baltimore, Maryland.

What Eastern Kentucky Could Have

If this section of Kentucky is developed as planners of the Appalachian Regional Commission think it should be to meet the mounting demand for recreation and escape from the tensions of urban life, tourist-visitors to this immediate area will be spending within the next 15 years an estimated $42,700,000 annually.

In the area, which is described as the Breaks-Dewey Lake-Clinch-High Knob Interstate Complex, tourism is now estimated to be bringing in about $24 million a year.

These figures—the lower for 1970 and the nearly doubled total for 1985—represent big money. Attainment of the full potential of the area depends, of course, upon future development, and this requires the interest and active cooperation of federal, state and county governments, plus the energy and initiative of private individuals. Whatever the effort necessary, it will be worth it.

For this is business that can be depended upon, year after year, barring a cataclysmic reduction of the population. And it is an industry that will depend not upon depletion of natural resources and damage to environmental values. Instead, the future success of Eastern Kentucky as it bids for the millions who seek escape from the pressures of everyday existence and from "the madding crowd" will depend upon how well Eastern Kentucky protects itself against destruction of its natural beauty and contamination of its air and water.

The development recommended by the Appalachian Regional Commission planners is a huge "Highland Complex" in this six-county area extending from Floyd county, across Pike and into Virginia. Anything any of us can do to help make this a reality will be time and effort invested in a brighter future.

Elsewhere in this edition of The Times appears a news-story covering the ARC study report as it pertains to this and nearby counties. One sentence—the last in the story—quotes the planners, and that sentence deserves special attention. It reads:

"Promotion and environmental controls are essential."

We take that to mean that if this area for which hope is so confidently expressed permits itself to be gutted and denuded, recreational development on the scale suggested could be only an empty dream.

Membership cards may be procured from any of the club officers.

White-collar workers will continue to outnumber blue-collar workers by more than 50 percent in 1980. However, 31 million workers will be employed in blue-collar jobs, an increase of more than 2 million over 1970.

LETTERS To The Editor

EDITOR, The Times:

"LOVE THY NEIGHBOR"

I would like to take this opportunity to back up the plea of Mary R. Griffith to keep their church from closing down on Bull Creek. For God's sake don't close any down, try to open more up. It doesn't take very much just to have a comfortable place to assemble to worship God, for He said, "Who can build me a house? heaven is my throne and earth is my footstool."

I know personally, many people who don't go to church anywhere, and they have told me they didn't feel welcome. I felt the same way before I was saved, so I can understand that, but when I got to studying God's word, I found out for myself that He loved me just as much as He did anyone else, and I'm just as happy and contented as I can be on God's footstool. Also I know what Mary and her husband did for me during the Christmas season when I was asking help for seven needy children. I got it. I'm sure she doesn't want this done, but the people who really deserve credit don't get it.

Come on, now, instead of trying to close it down, help keep it open. Try love and prayer, the two greatest powers on earth. For love comes from God and prayer goes to God. And He answers when prayed in His will. I'd be glad to accept gifts on it for them, if there's any one that is interested in "Loving Thy Neighbor".

1971. You've changed. We've changed.

Change. That's what it's all about this year. And that's what we mean by putting you first.

These are uneasy times. There are major concerns. About pollution. About safety. About the economy. About your hard-earned dollar. We know.

For the past 10 years Chevrolet research people have questioned thousands of people on every subject from rising taxes to the size of the glovebox in their cars.

We've found that price and maintenance costs, trade-in value and quality have become tremendously important.

Your car has to work. It has to last. And each new model must have more built-in value.

At Chevrolet, we understand. That you want meaningful change. And our aim is to give that to you, as you'll see in the 1971 Chevrolets.

Caprice. The biggest, most luxurious Chevrolet ever. A complete change.

Bigness in itself is nothing. But if it allows you to lengthen the distance between the front and rear wheels (which we did), then you've got something.

You've got a smoother ride. The idea in the 1971 Caprice was to give you the looks and comfort of a six- or seven-thousand-dollar car, without asking you to pay anywhere near that much for it. And above all, to build in as much dependability and security as possible.

So we changed the body structure for 1971, too. We made it stronger. And we made it quieter by putting a double layer of steel in the roof.

Caprice, as you can see below, is a lot of luxury at a Chevrolet price.

Vega. The littlest Chevy ever. It wasn't changed from anything.

Before building Vega, we read everything we could get our hands on about little cars. We talked to owners. We studied little cars up one side and down the other and, literally, tore them apart. We found out what made them tick, or why they didn't tick.

What ticked were gas economy and dependability. What didn't were underpowered engines, cramped quarters and getting blown around in the wind.

In our little Vega, everything ticks. It's not just another little car. You didn't want that. It's one little car that does everything well.

Miss Akers Named Dimes March Head For Floyd County

Miss Ruby Akers, of Drift, has been named county campaign director for the annual March of Dimes fund-raising drive against birth defects, it was announced last week by Lieut.-Gov. Wendell H. Ford and State Jaycee President Bob Cobb, honorary Kentucky March of Dimes co-chairmen.

In announcing the appointment of Miss Akers, Lieutenant Governor Ford said that she is among the leaders in various walks of life in Floyd county who have joined forces to insure a successful 1971 March of Dimes drive.

"Our statewide drive will emphasize how the March of Dimes provides vital community services, such as alerting the public to the danger of rubella (German Measles) as related to causes of birth defects, and March of Dimes support of the two Birth Defects Treatment Centers in Kentucky," Ford said.

The state's monthly revenue report released last week showed general fund tax receipts of over $226 million over the first five months of the current fiscal year, up 11.3 per cent over the same period last year.

Two Road Appeals Lodged Last Week May Be Last Filed

Two appeals from right-of-way appraisals set by county appraisers were filed in circuit court last week, and these represent the last of such cases except one which is now in county court, and might be appealed later, it was said here Monday by E. H. Tackett, attorney for the Department of Highways.

Some of the appeals filed have been settled out of court, but approximately 115 remain for trial. The total involved in all the cases approaches the $3 million mark.

The latest appeals are those from the appraisal of the land of Roger Reynolds, et al, valued by county appraisers at $12,000; and Oscar Reynolds, et al, valued at $20,500.

Hunting and fishing licenses for Kentucky sportsmen will be raised by an average of 70 cents a year each, but the increase will not become effective on 1971 licenses until July 1.

Population of Floyd Officially Is 35,889

Now it's official—Floyd county's population is 35,889.

This is the population figure announced by the Census Bureau as of last April 1.

If the trend that has prevailed the last 20 years is continuing, the total as of this date could be a few less than the announced total. At one time Floyd county had a population of about 53,000. The 1960 census total was 41,642.

The new census reflects a 13.8 per cent loss over the last 10 years.

Kentucky, as a whole, however, showed a 5.9 per cent population increase with 3,219,311 counted as of last April 1. Most of this increase was in urban areas. The population spread reflected in the new census shows that for the first time Kentucky has a predominantly urban population as only 47.7 per cent of its residents are now classed as "rural."

The city and suburban counties grew, despite a 7.5 per cent drop in population in Louisville, the state's largest city.

Rural areas lost population, some of them in the mountains, at a drastic rate.

Of the major urban areas of the state, Fayette county is growing at the fastest rate, 32.2 per cent. But the counties of Bullitt, outside Jefferson, and Boone, outside Cincinnati, grew at the explosive rates of 65.9 and 49.6 per cent respectively.

The figures, although labeled "final," are not yet final. The Census Bureau will amend them slightly in subsequent editions of its "final population count." In fact, the bureau's head count for the state shows 605 persons more than the total of all the city and county figures.

Kentucky's growth rate was less than half the national average figure of 13.3 per cent but apparently not slow enough to cost it any of its seven seats in Congress. The U. S. population has increased to an estimated 204,765,770.

The final figures show Jefferson county, the state's largest, also added the most population—84,108. They also showed that, despite a 7.5 per cent decline in population in Louisville, a drop attributed to urban renewal and migration to the suburbs, Louisville's and Jefferson county's over-all population climbed to 695,055, an increase of 13.8 per cent in the decade.

Fayette county's population climbed to 174,323, an increase of 32.2 per cent, and the largest part of it came in the 72.2 per cent growth of an expanded Lexington.

Warren county showed a hefty increase of 26.2 per cent, Franklin of 17.2 per cent and Daviess of 12.6 per cent.

The Bluegrass counties around Lexington showed consistently sharp increases and the outer Bluegrass counties small increases.

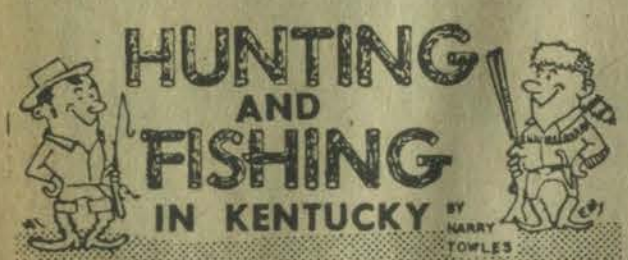

The rural western counties and Central Kentucky areas in general showed small decreases in population.

In Eastern Kentucky there were some dramatic population losses—26.9 per cent in Harlan county, 26.4 per cent in Perry and 23 per cent in Letcher. A number of other East Kentucky counties showed losses in the 10 to 12 per cent range.

The single county growing at the fastest rate was Bullitt, with a spectacular 65.9 per cent increase to 26,090 persons. Bullitt borders Jefferson county and is developing as a suburb.

The single greatest loss was in Harlan, where the population dropped by more than a quarter, to 37,370.

The population of counties of the Seventh Congressional district:

FRANKFORT, KY.—County clerks throughout the state now have available 1971 hunting and fishing licenses. New licenses must be held by participating sportsmen as of January 1. The licenses are valid only during the calendar year and it makes no difference if they were purchased late in 1970—they become null and void as of January 1, 1971.

Even if the water temperature is down to the 40 to 50 degree mark, don't despair—fish will bite provided a suitable lure is presented to them in the right manner and at the right time. The best time would be the midday, if the sun is shining. If not, there's little to choose between the early morning, late evening or midday.

In all probability, especially if you are fishing in a pond or lake, the fish will be found on the bottom in the deeper sections of the lake. Of course, you won't find fish 100 feet down for the simple reason they probably would not find oxygen at that depth. The "bottom" we're talking about is from 10 to 20 feet down—maybe up to 40. Because the water is warmed at that depth, fish will be in this area, and although they will not be as responsive as in the warmer weather, they will hit an artificial lure, especially the nightcrawler, or live bait.

In presenting the lure, it should be worked slowly along the bottom, giving the lethargic fish time to make up its mind as to whether to take the lure. They are slow of movement and slow of thinking, and during the colder weather a distinct type of fishing is necessary if the fisherman is to be successful.

For instance, if the bottom-running lure is used, it should be bounced along the bed of the pond or lake at very slow speed. Periodically, the lure should be allowed to come to rest on the bottom. Often while the bait is motionless, the bass will make up its mind that it is hungry and that the bait may satisfy this hunger. But it will not dash at the lure recklessly. Most likely it will pick up the bait and run a short way before deciding for sure that it wants that lure. Once its mind is made up, it will dash off, swallowing the lure as it runs. So it is not until the second run that a fisherman should hit back in this type weather.

Record 117,000 Veterans Participate in Training Program Last Year

Veterans taking on-the-job training under current G. I. Bill provisions increased 76 percent during the past fiscal year according to J. G. Ratliff, director of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Louisville.

Ratliff reported there were a record 117,000 veterans throughout the nation enrolled in job training at the end of June 1970.

He noted the greatest growth rate occurred in technical and managerial training programs where trainees increased from 1,616 to 5,767.

Ratliff said training in service occupations, mostly firemen and policemen trainees, also had a very high growth rate—an increase of 153 percent, from 7,158 in fiscal year 1969 to 18,089 last fiscal year.

Apprenticeship training attracted 76,177 veterans accounting for 65 percent of all job trainees.

The heaviest enrollment in apprenticeship training was in programs for structural work occupations in which 44,293 trainees sought training as electrical workers, carpenters, plumbers, boiler-makers, steamfitters, brick and stone masons, etc. In the previous fiscal year, this totaled 28,530.

Veterans interested in on-the-job training can get additional information at the Veterans Administration Regional Office, 600 Federal Place, Louisville, Kentucky 40202.

The state is ahead of schedule with payments toward outstanding bonds on the Kentucky Turnpike. The road's 15th annual audit report showed earnings in fiscal year 1969-70 of over $6.4 million, with toll receipts currently up seven per cent.

Wright Jewelry Suffers Damage In Johnson Fire

The fire which last Wednesday destroyed the Maggard Hardware Store at Paintsville and for a time threatened an entire city block resulted in water damage to the Wright Brothers Jewelry, which is owned by Clifford Wright, of Prestonsburg, and other members of his family.

Marcus Maggard, owner of the hardware business, placed his loss at $175,000. Firemen from Prestonsburg, Van Lear and Staffordsville helped the Paintsville fire department confine the blaze mainly to the Maggard structure. Mr. Maggard said his loss was partially insured. The blaze, he said, was first discovered in wall wiring.

Mr. Wright took a part of his jewelry store stock to the Johnson county courthouse, across the street. Some was stored in autos of friends. He returned here from Paintsville after this had been done but soon thereafter was notified that fire had broken out beneath the roof of his store. A hole was chopped by firemen in the store ceiling, and water used in halting the fire threat did damage to the interior.

Frozen River Bars Search for Body

The Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad was called Sunday to Meter, W. Va. to join in a search of the Tug River for the body of 1-year-old Lester Prater, who had drowned several days earlier. En route, members of the squad encountered 13 inches of snow and on arrival found the river frozen over, making dragging operations impossible.

Capt. Graham Burchett said the squad will return there this week-end, if the body is not recovered earlier.

State To Triple Child Care Funds

Two state agencies have agreed to join forces to qualify for federal funds, tripling the amount of federal money available for social services to children in Kentucky.

The agreements name the Department of Economic Security (DES) as the agency responsible for child-care casework, enabling DES to qualify for 3-1 federal matching funds.

DES will then contract work programs out to the Child Welfare Department, which operates solely with state funds.

Governor Nunn estimated the new procedure could result in an additional $50 million over a ten-year period to Kentucky's delinquency prevention efforts.

Maytown Homecoming Insignia Selected

At a recent meeting the board of directors of the Maytown Homecoming Association selected as the insignia for the 1971 celebration the beaver (a builder). The insignia was proposed by Mrs. Thurnal Click because of Beaver Creek. Mrs. Hershell Flanery, local artist, sketched the design to be used on both the registration tags and the homecoming awards.

Work of several committees continued during the yule season. Letters of invitation to out-of-county Maytownites to the 1971 event will be posted soon. A much larger crowd is expected this year than in 1968 when they came from Hawaii to New Jersey, from Michigan to Florida Maytownites (all who lived, worked, or attended any school here, any time, and their descendants) are reminded of the date, July 23-25, and urged to arrange their vacations simultaneously, if possible.

Although it is not my job to solve a murder case, it has always been my policy to assist in the investigation of these cases. We have questioned many witnesses in regard to this case and as of this date no evidence has been discovered to convict any person beyond a reasonable doubt. I have investigated this case since the indictment and have found that the evidence is not sufficient to sustain a conviction."

hope of getting the communities within the guidelines prescribed.

Dr. Archer said the new primary sewage treatment plant in operation here is used only to 50-60 per cent capacity.

The guidelines established are aimed at reducing by 75 to 90 per cent the biochemical oxygen demand load entering the Ohio river. The secondary treatment plants would remove the bacteria which take oxygen from the water and also disinfect fecal coliform bacteria.

Because of warnings by Kentucky's pollution commission, City Manager Ike Hall at Pikeville said his community has a $370,000 grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington. "This money, with additional funds asked for in applications with the Federal Economic Development Administration, plus approximately 20 per cent local funds, would enable us to complete the $1 million plans," Hall said.

Plans have been drawn to give sewer service to some 50 homes in the Chloe Creek area of the community, and to the same number of homes, plus a shopping center in the Fairview Addition.

EDA Funds To Help
Letcher Co. Create
New Job Potential

Robert A. Podesta, assistant Secretary of Commerce for Economic Development, last week announced approval of a $288,600 grant to help create jobs for the unemployed and underemployed in Letcher county. The City of Whitesburg is the applicant for the grant from the Economic Development Administration, U. S. Department of Commerce.

The funds will help Whitesburg provide water and sewer facilities for an 18-acre industrial area being developed by the Whitesburg-Letcher County Industrial Foundation and take advantage of growth potential from the building of the Appalachian Corridor highways, particularly U. S. 119 and U. S. 23 and Ky. 15.

Whitesburg officials report that two metal-working firms have indicated interest in locating plants in the area. Such plants would offer job opportunity alternatives to coal mine employment. The mines employ about two-thirds of the county's labor force but do not absorb all those seeking jobs.

GREETINGS

Robert Branham reports on his telephone call to wish his former co-worker, Lenna Moore, a happy new year. Said he got this response:

"You wouldn't be calling me tonight because you're afraid I might not be around, next new year, would you?"

RATHER BREEZY

This same Moore is the fellow who one day last summer pestered "Uncle Dick" Dickerson to the point that Uncle Dick, always affable, cheerful, lost his cool. The two were working at the Central parking lot here, the automatic entrance gate was fouled up and Lenna was operating it manually while Uncle Dick was collecting from motorists at the exit. Lenna was supposed to give each driver entering the lot a ticket showing the time of entrance, but he was using the occasion as a means of trying his fellow-worker's patience. On some tickets he would write, "$1." On others, "This is a good Republican friend of mine—he owes 10 cents," and so on.

Finally Mr. Dickerson exploded. "I tell you," he told a driver who had pulled up at the pay station with one of Moore's hand-crafted tickets, "I've known a lot of people in my life, and Lenna Moore is the only one I've ever known who is so windy he could blow up an onion sack!"

THE SOLUTION

Watt Hale called during the holidays to tell me of the preacher in one of the back counties, years ago, who in the course of his sermon waved his arms so high and wide that he exposed to the view of others the .38 he was carrying under his arm.

After church, some of the men conferred with the pistol-packing parson, reminding him that his display of hardware was just a bit disconcerting, to others and might not be doing the preacher's reputation a lot of good.

The preacher seemed perturbed. He hung his head in deep thought for a time, then gave with this example of penitence:

"Brethren, you're right. Guess I'll have to have Old Betsy's barrel sawed off so I can carry her in my pocket."

Winter Week-End of Art Slated Jan. 22-24 at Jenny Wiley Park

By HELEN PRICE STACY

Back in November, Nellie Meadows, wildflower artist of Clay City, Ky., called to discuss a "Winter Week-end of Art" at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park and to ask if I would help coordinate the get-together. Recalling many pleasant visits to this beautiful park and the hospitality of the park manager and personnel, I was quick to agree to help. Mrs. Meadows, working with Park Recreation Director Barry Storm, set January 22, 23 and 24 as the week-end of art and artists.

In lieu of writing about customs and traditions of the New Year this week, I am asking all artists to get busy with paint brush or painting knife or pastel stick, paint some pictures and make plans now to be at Jenny Wiley those days for a wonderful world of art.

The facilities at the park are such that artists from Huntington to Lexington, including Ashland and places in between, can exhibit their works, enter at least three for judging and offer any of their works for sale.

Not only will area and regional artists have an opportunity to show and sell, but professional artists will be present to talk about art and offer marketing helps to artists.

Registration will begin at 6 p.m. Friday, Jan. 22. That night Gene Gray, wildlife illustrator, will be guest-lecturer. Gray, a resident of Lexington, has painted a number of outstanding works of animals and recently completed a painting of the bald eagle for Morehead State University. The painting has been reproduced in prints.

Saturday morning will be taken up with preparation for the art show and sale that afternoon. The entire exhibit must be completed and ready for showing by 12 noon Saturday. Each artist may enter a total of 10 paintings, and from this total he or she may designate only three to be entered for judging. Judging will start at 12, with the three judges remaining to discuss points with artists.

At 3 p.m. Saturday, Don Ensor, of Louisville, will speak on the process of four-color printing. Kentucky is rapidly becoming known as a "print" center, and Ensor, whose prints are stocked in State Park gift shops, will discuss how to reproduce art.

At 8 p.m. Saturday, Lexington artist Joseph Petro will be speaker. Petro recently released a series of prints, including "A Patch of Gold," "Born To Run," "Ebb Hall Working His Drag" and "The Blessing of the Hounds."

Also scheduled to appear is Charles (Chuck) Crume, well-known painter of birds and flowers.

During the Saturday night program prizes and awards will be presented.

Categories for prizes will be as follows, with first prize money and ribbon, and second and third prizes ribbons only:

Oils—landscape and seascape, 1st, 2nd and 3rd; stillife, 1st, 2nd and 3rd.

Acrylics—1st, 2nd and 3rd.

Watercolors—landscape, seascape and stillife, 1st, 2nd and 3rd; animals, flowers, trees or things of nature, 1st, 2nd and 3rd.

Pastels, Inks and Pencils—1st, 2nd and 3rd.

Grand Prize.

This is an invitation to all artists to exhibit at the Jenny Wiley show—and an invitation to all citizens to attend the exhibit and programs.

There are many artists in the Prestonsburg-Paintsville area who will participate. For further information contact Barry Storm at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, Prestonsburg, Ky. or Mrs. Nellie Meadows, Clay City, Ky.

See you at Jenny Wiley!

Stamp Violation Disqualifies Grocer

ATLANTA, GA.—A Hazard, Ky., food store operator has been disqualified from the federal food stamp program for violations, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service reports.

Don Campbell, formerly doing business as Hill Top Grocery and Service Station, RR 1, Box 316, Hazard, was charged with selling ineligible items for USDA food coupons, including cleaning supplies, tobacco products, hardware and gasoline.

The disqualification, which started Nov. 22, will last for one year.

Campbell has since sold his store and USDA officials say that the new ownership has been authorized to accept food coupons for eligible items.

A USDA official explained that food coupons, by law, can be used only to buy food, excluding certain imported items.

Spring Semester Registration Set January 11 at PCC

The registration schedule for the spring semester at Prestonsburg Community College follows:

Monday, January 11, 9-12, students with last names A-J who pre-registered for classes; 1-3 p.m., students with last name K-Z who pre-registered for classes; 7-8:30 p.m., registration for evening class; 9-12 noon, freshman students who did not pre-register; 1-3 p.m., all students who have not completed registration, also transfer students.

Classwork will begin at 8 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 13.

Pike County Woman And Son Asphyxiated

A Pike county woman and her son died early Monday (Dec. 28) at her home of asphyxiation, Deputy Coroner R. C. Haley said.

Dr. Haley said Mrs. Hopkins Lowe, 88, of Coal Run, and her son, John Albert Lowe, 68, of Bradenton, Fla., who was visiting his mother, died from lack of oxygen, due to poor ventilation from an open flame from a space heater.

Mrs. Lowe's grandson's wife, Mrs. Vallas Lowe, who was staying at the Lowe home, was admitted to Methodist Hospital where she was reported in satisfactory condition.

The bodies were discovered about 6:45 a.m. Monday by Vallas Lowe.

Dr. Haley said there was no sign of foul play and that no police investigation would be conducted. Autopsies were not authorized.

He said the victims could not tolerate the low level of oxygen in the house, probably due to their ages. The heater used up the oxygen, according to Dr. Haley, and there was no fresh air to replace it.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this opportunity to thank all of the wonderful people for all the kindness shown us upon the passing of our beloved wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Vina Jones Reynolds. We would like to thank the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its efficient service and the Rev. Perry Monroe, Charles Jones and Milford Adams for their comforting words.

Surfaced-mined coal helps keep this "tree" growing and healthy

The "coal tree" illustrates the vital role coal and its derivatives play in the manufacture of thousands of products.

America's industries depend upon coal. So do you. Over half the country's electricity is produced from coal. It is needed in vast quantities to make steel. And countless other products are made from coal derivatives: aspirin, dyes, paints, plastics, nylon, perfume.

Things you use every day.

In eastern Kentucky, millions of tons of critically needed coal lie too near the earth's surface to be deep-mined safely. To obtain this coal we must use surface methods. And this means disturbing the land. But the disturbance is only temporary. Today, under the law, every acre of surface-mined land in eastern Kentucky must be reclaimed . . . promptly . . . properly . . . responsibly.

The nation needs coal. And Kentuckians have a right to a productive, well-tended countryside. As responsible surface-mine operators, we have committed ourselves to doing the best possible job in providing both.

For a free copy of the "coal tree," printed in color on 14-in. by 18-in. poster board, write to Surface Mining and Reclamation Association, 220 1/2 Second Street, Pikeville, Kentucky 41501.

Lead-Free Gasoline Available Next Year

By the middle of next year, at least five of the major gasoline companies will be able to supply the state with lead-free or low-lead fuel for its vehicles.

State Purchasing Director N. B. McCubbin had asked the companies last month how soon such fuel would be available after President Nixon requested governmental agencies to consider its use.

All the firms suggested the price would be competitive, and that it would range between the present prices of regular and premium gasolines.

Most of the firms also expressed reservations about the use of low-lead gasolines in automobiles other than the new 1971 models with engines designed for them.

Board Members Tell Situation 'As It Is'

Although the town of Wheelwright is admittedly in financial trouble, the situation is not hopeless and its officials are not contemplating mass resignation as rumored, Oscar Smith, chairman of the city board there, said last week.

A community meeting at Community Hall was held Dec. 27, and a second meeting will be held later to seek a solution to the town's problems.

Mr. Smith said the trouble stems from uncollected taxes. "We don't want to advertise and sell the property of those who are delinquent in their taxes," he said. "We are hoping that if they can be shaken up enough to realize the seriousness of the situation, they will pay and we can work things out."

The city board announcement of the Dec. 27 meeting was circulated throughout the town, and it bluntly stated the issue in these words:

"It has been almost five years since Inland Steel Company left Wheelwright. For almost 36 years this company had taken care of all the problems that came along. A generation of people has grown up in Wheelwright that has not experienced the problems that go along with the job of furnishing running water, paved streets, police protection, and fire protection that we take for granted. We have only to look around to see the results of neglect in our community. If there was some magic way that we could roll back the years and could find some company willing to pour large amounts of money into patching up Wheelwright, then we could afford to continue letting things run themselves.

"Since most of us do not believe in magic, the outlook for Wheelwright is not very cheerful. As things now stand, the street lights will have to be turned off very soon, police protection will have to end, and the fire truck will be repossessed next year.

"If these things happen, each person wanting a street light will have to sign a contract with the power company for it. They will have to find someone to listen to complaints about drunks and reckless drivers, and each family should buy a garden hose to put out their own fires.

"The elected board members of the City of Wheelwright are tired of struggling with these problems. They feel that they have reached the end of their rope. It is left to the people of Wheelwright to decide what to do."

Except for residences sold to individuals, the town of Wheelwright is owned by the Mountain Investment Company. Mr. Smith said Mountain Investment has promptly paid its taxes. This gives city government a good start toward meeting its expenses, but it is not enough.

Wheelwright became known during the paternalistic administration of its affairs by the Inland Steel Company as a model mining community. It was one of the first Eastern Kentucky towns to operate its own library and was the first to operate a sewage disposal plant. It has its own nine-hole golf course and swimming pool as well as churches, schools, clubhouse and other assets.

Search for Man As Check-Writer Ends in Arrest

A search of weeks for the man believed responsible for a spurious check scheme which defrauded business men of three states, including several in Floyd and other Kentucky counties, resulted in the arrest Friday in Louisville of Kenneth Jones, whose name appeared on most of the checks.

Checks totalling more than $6000 are known to have been cashed. They were written on a non-existent Allen firm, the R. K. Allen Music Company.

Sheriff Frank Leslie said some checks recently reported to him bore the names of O. C. Eversole, R. K. Allen and P. M. Combs.

One warrant was issued here recently for the arrest of Jones, and Sheriff Leslie said Monday five others would be issued. A possible federal charge awaits Jones, he said, since some of the checks were cashed in Virginia and West Virginia.

Leslie said he and State Detective Chester D. Potter would take action to effect the return of Jones to this county for trial.

John Birch Society Formed in County

The second meeting of the newly organized Floyd county chapter of the John Birch Society will be held the evening of Jan. 22 at the Martin high school building, it was announced last week.

38 Die in Blast In Leslie Mine

Kentucky's second worst coal mine disaster last Wednesday claimed the lives of 38 miners at work in the Finley Coal Company mine on Hurricane Creek, Leslie county.

All the victims were residents of Leslie and Clay counties.

Shock of the tragedy extended to the nation's capital where President Nixon and other leaders expressed their concern.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins, expressing his sympathy, said, "I intend to see that the Committee on Education and Labor goes into this subject (the disaster) thoroughly at the earliest possible date. . . Meantime, I have asked the U. S. Bureau of Mines to investigate the disaster immediately and report the facts of the case."

The Congressmen said he wants to learn if all safety provisions and requirements of the law were observed and if federal inspections were adequate.

The investigation of the explosion continues. It has been said that the blast followed an ordinary shooting operation inside the mine. One report this week was to the effect that non-permissible explosives had been used and this was narrowed by investigators to a banned primer cord which investigators said they had found at the scene.

Only First National offers a choice of 3 GOLDEN PASSBOOKS

Just to create interest

Wouldn't you know that the House of Savings would be first to offer two more plans to make savings create more interest than ever? Now, in addition to our 5 percent, 90-day Golden Passbook Plan, we invite you to try our 5½ percent, 1-year Golden Passbook Plan and our 5¾ percent 2-year Golden Passbook Plan. We think you'll find them all very "interest"-ing.

All three plans offer guaranteed interest rates, and interest is compounded daily and paid or credited quarterly with each. Any of the three may be opened with a $100 minimum deposit, and additional deposits of $100 or more may be made at any time.

Here's the interesting difference

With our new 5¾ percent, 2-year Golden Passbook Plan, your funds remain on deposit for a minimum of two years, with an effective yield of 5.92 percent per annum.

Our new 5½ percent, 1-year Golden Passbook Plan has an effective yield of 5.65 percent per annum, and your funds must remain on deposit only one year.

And our famous 5 percent Golden Passbook Plan makes your funds available four times a year — during the first ten days of January, April, July, and October — or anytime 90 days after a written notice is received by the bank. 5 percent Golden Passbook has an effective yield of 5.13 percent per annum.

*First National offers
5¾% Golden Passbook
& two others, too!*

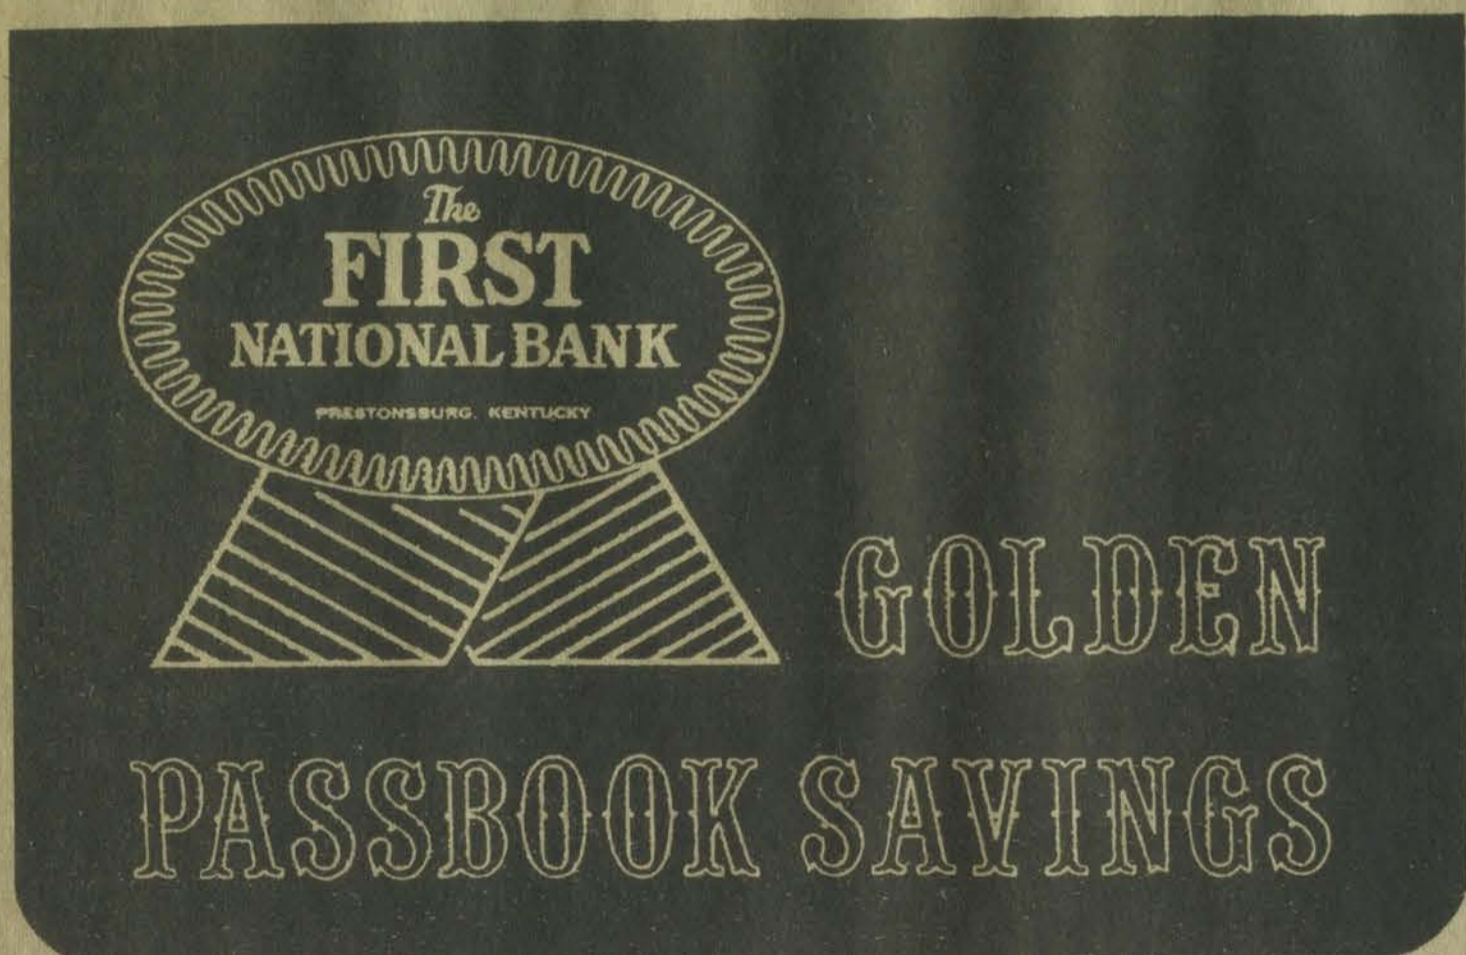

When you open your Golden Passbook Account, just tell us which of the three plans you prefer. Of course, your choice should be based on the length of time you can allow your funds to remain on deposit.

Just remember, now you can choose a First National Golden Passbook Saving Plan at 5 percent, 5½ percent or 5¾ percent interest rates. Or choose all three.

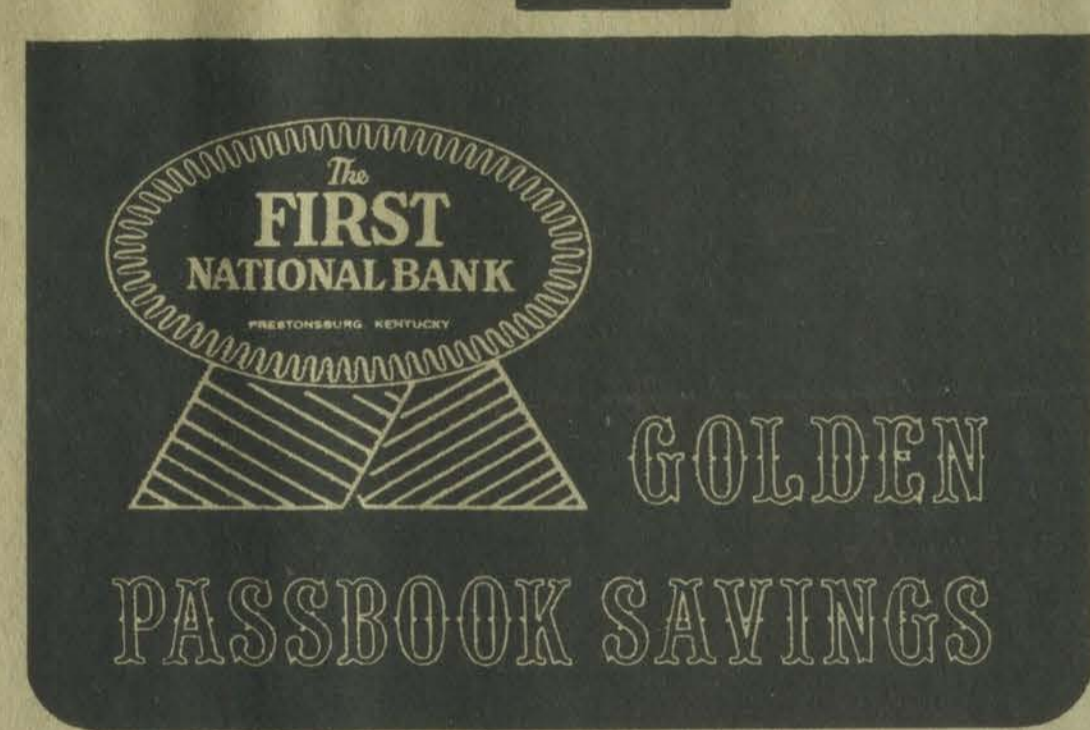

Isn't that an interesting choice?
