

Beaver Cr. Work Near At Martin $150,000 Released To Start Stream Improvement Job

The release of $150,000 last week by the Office of Management and Budget, Washington, D. C., the U. S. Corps of Engineers for the Martin stream improvement and flood control project means that work will start there soon, it was said here Saturday.

County Judge Henry Stumbo said that the fiscal court has employed John Milton Stumbo to begin work Monday toward acquiring easements from property owners along the stream, outside the corporate limits of Martin. He said Martin city officials will do the easement acquisition work within the city.

Presumably, the actual work of straightening and deepening Beaver Creek from a point near the junction of Left and Right Beaver Creeks, above Martin, to a point between Arkansas Creek and Allen will start when rights of egress to the stream are procured.

Announcing the release of funds, U. S. Senator John Sherman Cooper said the appropriation for the Martin work was approved last year but the funds were held in reserve by the Office Management and Budget. Last Thursday, at the insistence of Cooper, the $150,000 was released for expenditure, and this amount will be augmented by funds to be appropriated this year.

Senator Cooper, who made a special appeal to the President for the release of funds, said $850,000 has been requested for fiscal 1972 for the project but this appropriation has not been made.

Salisbury Held As Slone Hurt In Axe Attack

Fifty-four-year-old Albert Slone, of Sizemore Creek, near Minnie, is in serious condition at McDowell Regional Hospital after allegedly having been struck by an axe wielded by Herbert Salisbury, of the same vicinity, Monday afternoon.

Salisbury was jailed here shortly after the incident, by Deputy Sheriff Sidney Allen. He was charged with striking and wounding with intent to kill. At that time Slone's condition was listed as critical, but it was said Tuesday morning at the hospital that improvement indicates he may recover.

Deputy Sheriff Allen said he was told both men were drinking and that the trouble may have arisen from attentions paid Slone's daughter by Salisbury. The weapon used was a poleaxe, the blade of which gashed Slone's head. Allen said Slone lay in the ditchline of the highway, approximately 50 yards from his home, when he arrived. The altercation occurred around 3:45 p.m.

Joe Paul Hicks, Maytown youth, is recovering from a stab wound inflicted at a parking lot here by a Prestonsburg juvenile last Saturday. Two juveniles have been named as having had a part in the attack on young Hicks, but arrests have been postponed pending the filing of formal charges. Hicks' father, Raymond Hicks, told authorities his son was stabbed while sitting in his car.

Shirley Lightbody as Maria and Jacqueline Pierce of the Metropolitan Opera as the Mother Abbess in the Wedding Scene from THE SOUND OF MUSIC.

Top Professional Cast Heads "Sound of Music" at Amphitheatre

A distinguished cast of professional actors heads the cast of the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre's current production, "The Sound of Music," running Thursday-Sundays, through August 1.

Included in the cast are two guest actresses, Shirley Lightbody, of "The Lost Colony," and Jacqueline Pierce, of the Metropolitan Opera. Miss Lightbody spent last summer working with Joe Layton, choreographer of the Broadway production of "The Sound of Music". She worked under Layton's direction as Eleanor Dare at "The Lost Colony." A choreographer and dancer as well as singer, she has extensive professional experience including appearances with the Jacksonville Ballet.

Jacqueline Pierce's visit to the theatre to play Mother Abbess marks the first extended guest appearance by a Metropolitan Opera performer in the area. Miss Pierce has also appeared with the Philadelphia Lyric Opera, The American National Opera, the Oklahoma City Symphony, and the Trenton Symphony.

Randolph Umberger will play the role of Captain von Trapp, with Stephen Hale as Max and Mary Ann Warrick as Elsa. Umberger is widely known as an actor and as a playwright for the off-Broadway production of "Amen to a Mantis." Hale was seen as El Gallo off-Broadway in "The Fantasticks" and Miss Warrick recently won acclaim as Laurey in the theatre's production of "Oklahoma."

"The Sound of Music" is the story of how Maria Rainer, a young girl from a convent, left her home to serve as governess to the seven von Trapp children. Finding the children behaving like tiny machines because of their stern father, Maria teaches them to sing. Maria soon becomes Mrs. Von Trapp and the family becomes the famous Trapp Family Singers. Suspense builds to a thrilling climax as the family is forced to flee their home before the incoming Nazis.

The famous Rodgers and Hammerstein score includes "Climb Every Mountain," "Do Re Mi," and "My Favorite Things."

All performances of "The Sound of Music" are at 8:30 p.m.

Phone Workers Strike Planned For Wednesday

All South Central Bell Telephone Company union workers in Kentucky will be off the job at 6 a.m. Wednesday if the strike affecting half the nation's telephone employees materializes as expected.

Bill Gibson, South Central Bell manager at Paintsville, said Tuesday morning that "it looks like a strike," although negotiations with the AFL-CIO Workers of America continue.

The company's latest offer was rejected May 23. It provides for wage increases of 17 per cent over three years, plus cost-of-living and fringe benefits that the company says brings the package to a 30 per cent increase.

The union has indicated it will settle for nothing less than an immediate 25 per cent wage boost in the first year, with other aspects negotiable.

Mr. Gibson said a strike will, naturally, create problems but that telephone service will be maintained. "A lot of people belong to the union, and we'll miss them, but we'll try to keep going," the manager said.

Switchboards will be kept open, and repair service maintained, Gibson said. There will be some delays, however, in repair work because of the reduced work crew. Gibson encouraged subscribers to limit calls to the company's business office. (See Story No. 3, Page 12)

Headstart Here, Other Counties Share $802,403

Congressman Carl D. Perkins announced in Washington Monday that the Office of Child Development, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has made available to Floyd and eight other Eastern Kentucky counties $802,403 to continue for a year a full-day Headstart program in their school systems.

Other counties to share in the fund are Magoffin, Knott, Owsley, Lee, Letcher, Elliott, Morgan and Wolfe.

The amount to be apportioned to Floyd county was not available Tuesday.

The Headstart funds will provide for 698 children from low-income families in the nine counties pre-school training, medical and dental aid and social and psychological counseling.

The Floyd county school system had already prepared for its Headstart program this year in anticipation of the release of federal funds.

CANDIDATE?
Auto bumpers, all over the place, are showing up with strips bearing only the name, "Ford Philpot." In the event that some may be wondering what he's running for, you're invited to hear him speak at the football stadium, any night next week, beginning Sunday.

LEFT, THEN RIGHT—MAYBE
For six months now I've been trying to hit that front door of the courthouse without running into the locked side, and my batting average is as low as the Cincinnati Reds'. This morning, you went in through the left door, if you got in, and then, if you had my usual acumen, coming out you tried the left door. And bounced back. As in so many other things in life, much depends on which side you're on.

ANOTHER EXPENSE
Well, I've spent money this year on everything else, and now it begins to look like I'll have to invest in a sign to replace the one the dog took out as in one of his more exuberant moments he dashed through the glass to challenge a passing canine which appeared to be small enough to lick. Some folks have been obliged to

Directors Take Action To Stall Termination

The board of directors of the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services Program took action Saturday which keeps alive the hope that the pilot health program here may not be the first of its kind in the United States to be terminated.

The board addressed a letter to Dr. Carl A. Smith, acting director of the Office of Health Affairs, Washington, requesting a hearing at the courthouse here, sometime between Aug. 1 and Aug. 15.

The letter, signed by County Judge Henry Stumbo, vice-chairman of the health board, also requested that Health Affairs "document and state specific charges instead of using hearsay and allegations, and to show cause why the program should be terminated."

Dr. Smith had notified the health board, June 23, of Health Affairs' intent to terminate the program after requested changes in its operation had not been made. A July 15 deadline was set for the request for a hearing.

Copies of the health board's letter to Health Affairs were mailed to Senators John Sherman Cooper and Marlowe Cook and Congressman Carl D. Perkins.

Drafting of the request for a hearing here followed a meeting of the directors last Friday evening. At that session a rough draft of a proposal, entitled, "Decentralized Comprehensive Health Services," and a list of persons who have been contacted to serve on an interim board for this proposed program, were read.

Asked about details of the proposed program, Judge Stumbo said it had not been completed or officially approved by the board, and that he consequently could not release it for publication.

The board at its Friday meeting discussed its failure to get its part of the story to news media.

Board members attending the meeting were, in addition to Judge Stumbo, Mary Spradlin, Merlin Crum, Edna Franklin, Frank Smith, Glenn Anderson, Harold Cooley, Dr. J. T. Hyden, James Lafferty and Maggie Ackerman.

The OEO, in suspending the project, said no further funds would be allocated unless a complete reorganization was carried out. (See Story No. 7, Page 12)

Pickets Limited At Allen Plant By Court Order

A temporary restraining order to limit picketing at the Reynolds Body Company plant at Allen was granted Friday against Local Union 14836 of District 50, Allied and Technical Workers, and all local union members.

The wage agreement at the Reynolds plant ended at midnight, June 30, and a walkout by union members followed. In filing for a temporary injunction Blake Ratliff, general manager of the company, said no grievance exists and none has been brought to plaintiff's attention.

Individuals named in the petition for injunction were Phillip Ratliff, local president, Teddy Shelton, Willie Fraley, David Preston, Arthur Kistler, assistant regional director of the union, and Ollie Collins, District 50 field representative. Preston was named as a member of the contract negotiation committee.

Plaintiff's petition asked that the restraining order restrict the number of pickets to not more than two at any one time and that these be required not to intimidate customers or prospective customers, employees and suppliers of materials to the plant.

At the time of the filing of the petition, it was alleged, as many as 17 persons at times congregated at the intersection of US 23 and the access road to the plant and were stopping, or attempting to stop, plant employees and trucks delivering supplies. On July 8, the first day workers' actions (See Story No. 2, Page 12)

Direct Distance Calls Now In Effect Here

As of 6 o'clock Wednesday morning, long-distance calls placed from the Prestonsburg exchange will be made operator-free (almost) as direct distance dialing went into effect here.

In making the announcement, Bill Gibson, district manager of South Central Bell, Paintsville, told how direct distance calls should be placed. The caller should first dial the numeral one, then the area code if it differs from the Prestonsburg code of 606, then the number desired. An operator will come on the line only to ask the number of the party placing the call.

Water Supply Crisis Held Possible by '90

Prestonsburg does not have any water supply problem at this time but will face a crisis at minimum stream flow by the year 1990, and both Pikeville and Elkhorn City, farther up the Big Sandy, are among 28 Kentucky cities which have the problem on their hands now. So says the Kentucky Water Resources Program, prepared by the Division of Water, Department of Natural Resources, and released last week.

(A community is considered to have an existing water supply problem if its demand would not be met by the lowest average historical stream flow over a period of seven consecutive days.)

Among the cities with existing problems are West Liberty, Lexington, Frankfort, Booneville, Jackson and Hazard.

Martin has its annual flood problem, but $150,000 in federal funds have been released for the beginning of flood-control work there (see separate story).

Also released last week for flood-control work was $330,000 for construction work on the Paintsville Reservoir which is planned to protect Paintsville. The Johnson county project involves the construction of an 840-acre reservoir on a 14,000-acre tract of land on Paint Creek, four miles west of Paintsville. Cost of the project is estimated at more than $17 million. The state has tentative plans for a state park in the reservoir area.

Prestonsburg is among 24 cities which have no secondary sewage treatment facilities. Secondary treatment will be required by 1975, it was said.

Items from the water study report included these:

Four cities with sewage collection systems have no treatment facilities whatever.

Excessive pollution exists in some Kentucky streams and in some instances has essentially destroyed the resources," the study states.

During fiscal 1970 there were 34 reported fish kills due to industrial or municipal waste discharges, 11 from unknown causes and seven from mining operations.

Several cities have combined storm and sanitary sewers, causing direct overflow of untreated wastes during heavy rains.

Recommendations:
Money should be provided by the state Water Resources Authority to aid cities in improving sewage treatment. (This would require an appropriation by the legislature, which usually acts on the budget recommendation of the governor. The last three executive budget documents indicate that no such funds have been recommended for or appropriated to the water Resources Authority since its creation in 1966).

Southern States In Annual Meet Friday Evening

Election of local Advisory Board, Farm Home Advisory Committee members and operations reports will highlight the Southern States Cooperative's annual membership meeting for the Prestonsburg area, Friday at the Prestonsburg high school cafeteria. The meeting will be held at 7 p.m.

Jesse Wallen, of Prestonsburg, will serve as chairman of the meeting. Calvin Setser, of the Free Will Baptist Church of Auxier, will give the invocation.

Local operations and services will be discussed by Kenneth Meade, manager of Prestonsburg Farm and Home Store. L. L. McClure, of Huntington, W. Va., a member of the cooperative's regional staff, will report on the over-all Southern States operations for the fiscal year, which ended June 30. There will also be the showing of "Support System," a 15-minute color movie in which members and their wives, employees and management people tell what Southern States means to them, how it operates, where it hopes to go in the future.

A ceremony honoring new board members with the presentation of lapel pins, will be a part of the program. Retiring board members will be presented the cooperative's Leadership Award in recognition of their services. (See Story No. 5, Page 12)

One Arrested As 'Litterbug'

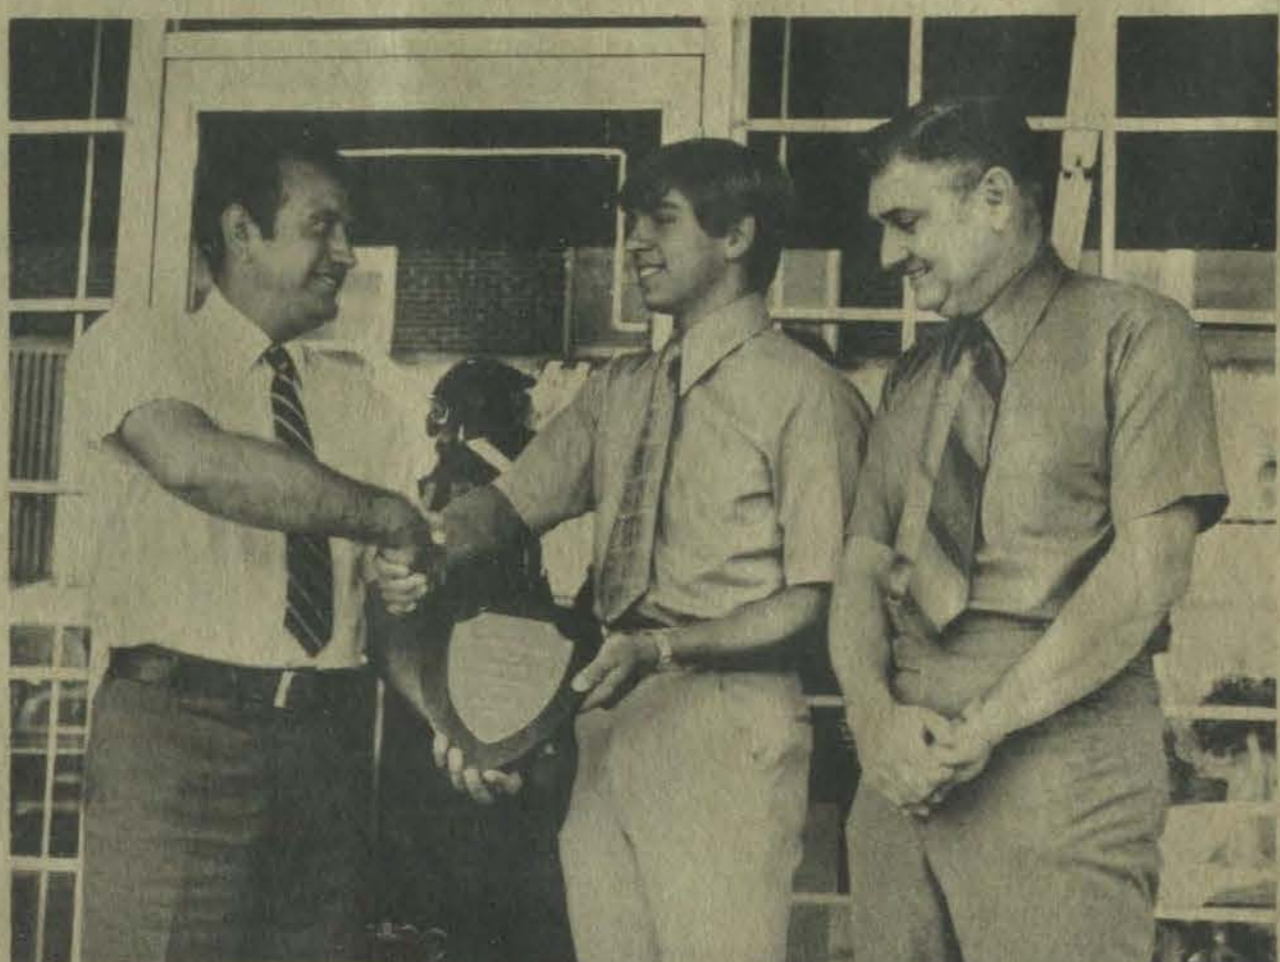

John J. McKenzie was jailed here last week-end on a charge seldom appearing on jail and court records of the county. He was arrested by State Trooper Leeman Bevins and Park Ranger, Stephen Rose at Jenny Wiley State Park and accused of littering.

McKenzie paid a fine for drunkenness, and the littering charge was dismissed.

Jim Hall, of the Left Beaver Creek section, was arrested Friday by State Trooper Gary Rose and jailed here on a charge of possessing illegal intoxicants after 48 cases of beer were found in a pickup truck which he was driving.

Drunk driving cases completed the list of major offenses in a week marked by relatively few arrests. Those jailed on this charge were Johnny M. Reynolds, arrested by Capt. Johnson and Trooper Conley; Taylor Slone, Jr., by State Trooper Bevins; William A. Crider, by Troopers Conley and Rose; Freddie Stephens Prater, by Prestonsburg Policemen Campbell and Allen.

OUTSTANDING SENIOR HONORED

The award was made Saturday to Burchett by Monte Rice on behalf of the Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce, which annually honors the outstanding senior high school athlete in memory of two young Prestonsburg athletes who lost their lives in a bath-house tragedy here several years ago. Clyde Burchett, father of the honoree, stands at right. Young Burchett will enroll as a pre-medical student next fall at Transylvania College, Lexington.

Dr. Roberts Named Fulltime Director Of Studies Center

Pikeville, Ky.—Dr. Leonard W. Roberts, chairman of the Division of Humanities of Pikeville College for the past three years, and a native of Floyd County, has been named full-time director of the College's Appalachian Studies Center.

The announcement came from Dr. Robert S. Cope, college president, who said that Dr. Roberts will become editor-in-chief of "Twigs," the literary magazine published by the center for the past seven years, and other prospective center publications. He has been on the editorial staff of the magazine, and an advisor to the Appalachian Studies Center since joining the college faculty in 1968.

Dr. Roberts will be succeeded as division chairman by Dr. Ruth Ann Bowman Mays, associate professor of languages, who will continue to teach courses in French, Dr. Cope said.

Under Dr. Roberts, the center will undertake an enlarged program of research and publication. Collections of folklore, with emphasis on Appalachian material from southeastern-Kentucky sources, are to be gathered, Dr. Cope added. A corps of researchers, possibly including visiting students and interns, is planned, to build up the center's collections from tape recordings of story-telling, ballad-singing, etc.

Other plans include a "living museum" of recorded material and artifacts, for continual use by interested persons, and workshops in writing, handicrafts, folklore, drama, and folk music, at intervals in the college's academic schedule. The publication of archival material also is intended.

Dr. Roberts is president of the National Folk Festival Association, Inc., which will hold its annual festival Aug. 26-29 in the new Wolf Trap Farm National Park at Vienna, Va., near Washington, D. C. He is one of a group of researchers in colleges and universities of this area who have inaugurated programs and studies of Appalachian people, and are hoping in the near future to form a permanent organization.

Roberts is the author of six books inspired by his interest in oral literature, the latest being "Old Greasybeard," a collection of folk tales. He has two other manuscripts in the hands of publishers, and is working on a ninth production, compiling from his collection of approximately 30,000 superstitions the 8,000 most typical of Appalachia. The work is to be completed this summer.

The Big Sandy Valley Crusade

The Times salutes the thirty or more churches of the area that are united in sponsoring and praying and working for the Big Sandy Valley Crusade for Christ which will begin here, Sunday evening. This evangelistic effort, led by a man of the calibre of Dr. Ford Philpot, is needed here, now. At a time when this comparatively small nook of America is emulating ancient Israel in losing its spiritual strength as it responds to the siren call of materialism and to what is referred to as "success," women, men, young people need to turn to, or to be turned to, the eternal verities. Likewise, at this time when so many divisive forces tear apart the social fabric, the home, the family, even the church family, it is well that Christians find common purpose on such high ground. No single church is to be in the starring role next week as Dr. Philpot will be preaching to the people of this valley—and that is well. Individual church groups need to forget their own statistics and to lose themselves in concern for human beings and their most basic, most crying need. That, we think, is what these cooperating churches are doing, these days. These are some of the reasons why this newspaper for the moment steps outside the business of purveying the factual, often the sordid, news to invite every one who doesn't flinch from the truth to attend these meetings.

Federal Suit Claims Hospitals Refuse To Treat Poor But Benefit Through Tax Exemption Rulings

A suit filed in U. S. district court in Washington, D. C. Monday by the Eastern Kentucky Welfare Rights Organization (EKWRO) and several individuals in this county was described by plaintiffs as an attempt to stop hospitals from refusing to treat people who cannot pay cash in advance.

EKWRO was joined by two other consumer organizations—California Welfare Rights Organization and the National Tenants Organization—and individuals from Louisiana and Arizona in charging the U. S. Department of the Treasury and the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) with illegally granting tax-exempt benefits to hospitals which refuse to treat the poor.

Mrs. Eula Hall, of Craynor, chairwoman of the EKWRO Health Committee, charged that certain local hospitals have a history of "letting people who don't have the money die on the doorstep" rather than giving them medical treatment—even in emergencies. "This is not just a problem for the poor people," she said, "but for working people who don't have health insurance plans that are acceptable to the hospital administrators."

Prestonsburg General hospital and the Methodist Hospital at Pikeville are the only Kentucky hospitals named in the suit, but should the plaintiffs win the suit it would affect all hospitals which fall into the "private, non-profit" category. The five individual Floyd county plaintiffs charged both the Prestonsburg and Pikeville hospitals with turning them away because they did not have the cash to pay in advance.

The action claims that IRS has illegally continued to grant hospitals tax-exempt status as being "charitable" even though they refuse to perform any charitable services. IRS instituted this policy in 1969, despite the fact that the U. S. Congress had rejected such a plan when it was presented by the American Hospital Association, a lobbying body for hospitals. IRS did this, say the plaintiffs, by publishing a Revenue Ruling which permits hospitals to keep tax-free status without giving any service to the poor. Prior to the recent ruling, hospitals could not refuse all service to poor persons without sacrificing federal tax benefits.

In large cities this IRS ruling has allowed private, non-profit hospitals to refuse all "charitable" cases—thus forcing an even larger group of poor people in desperate need of health care into already overcrowded and under-staffed public hospitals. In Eastern Kentucky, where there is no "public hospital system," this ruling has meant that many of the people who are turned away from private hospitals have no other hospitals to turn to for medical treatment, it is claimed. This IRS ruling, says Mrs. Hall, "is allowing the government to subsidize hospitals which refuse to treat poor people."

The lawsuit asks the court to enjoin the continued grant of tax-exempt status to such hospitals, to require IRS to audit hospitals claiming this status, and to collect back taxes from those which refuse treatment to the poor, the medically indigent and persons covered by the Medicaid program. If successful, the suit would also make donations by individual taxpayers to such hospitals non-deductible.

The suit was filed on behalf of the plaintiffs by attorneys for the National Legal Program on Health Problems of the Poor, New Orleans Legal Assistance, and the Legal Aid Society of Pima County (Arizona), which are all OEO Legal Services programs. Also representing plaintiffs were the National Tenants Organization, Washington, D. C., and Mountain People's Rights, Prestonsburg.

Former Combs Aide Named by Nunn

Governor Nunn has appointed a former administrative assistant to two Democratic governors as a member of the Kentucky Council on Public Higher Education.

Fontaine Banks, Jr., Frankfort, was named to the four-year term replacing Edward F. Prichard Jr., also of Frankfort, whose term had expired.

Banks, 42, was assistant to Govs. Bert Combs and Edward T. Breathitt. He is a Pike county native and a graduate of Berea College.

A Corbin surgeon, Dr. Harold Barton, also received appointment to the council. Barton was born in Williamsburg, and graduated from the University of Louisville School of Medicine.

100 Eastern Kentucky Youths Involved in Upward Bound Work

Pippa Passes, Ky.—One hundred high-school-age young people from six Eastern Kentucky counties are involved in Alice Lloyd College's Upward Bound program this summer.

During their eight-week stay on the Alice Lloyd campus, the participants take three academic classes and two extra-curricular activities. In addition, many special events and recreational activities are planned. Upward Bound, which is operated in conjunction with the U. S. Office of Education, was started in 1965 as an effort to provide young people living in disadvantaged areas the same kinds of educational opportunities enjoyed by those living in other parts of the nation. The program attempts to encourage participants to continue their education beyond the high-school level in colleges, universities, and vocational and technical training programs.

Twenty-two of the Upward Bound participants are recent high school graduates, and are enrolled in the "bridge" phase of the program. They are taking college courses in preparation for enrollment as regular college students in the fall. Also, they take part in Upward Bound extra-curricular events when time permits.

Some of the highlights of this summer's list of recreational, cultural and social events include a trip to Cincinnati, Ohio; viewing "Oklahoma" and "The Sound of Music" at the Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre; weekly trips to Wheelwright for swimming and movies; and a hayride and wiener roast.

The young people have also planned and will conduct some activities themselves, such as a talent show, a watermelon feast, a scavenger hunt, and a field day.

In addition to the change of attitude toward education on the part of young people, it is hoped that the Upward Bound faculty, largely drawn from area high schools, change their attitudes toward young people and innovative teaching techniques.

Denward Johnson, of Weeksbury, is Alice Lloyd's Upward Bound director. His assistant for the summer phase of the program is Daniel C. Taylor, principal of Letcher County high school. The area includes Knott, Floyd, Letcher, Magoffin, Leslie and Perry counties.

Rescuers of Baby Animals May 'Love Them To Death'

FRANKFORT, KY.—There's hardly a day goes by but that someone calls the Department of Fish and Wildlife and in a most sanctimonious voice reports having found and confiscated a nest of baby rabbits and says he is protecting them in a shoe box in his home.

The caller goes on that apparently the mother bunny had deserted its young because it could not be seen around and the young rabbits actually had crawled from the nest, perhaps because they were starving.

Now, what to do about this situation, the caller wants to know. The young rabbits have become a burden, and he wants to get rid of them.

The instance used is a theoretical one and we use rabbits, the young of which are most difficult to raise, but it could have applied to a young deer, or squirrel, or birds just as correctly. Here's what the kind-hearted individual did wrong in the case of rescuing young wild animals or birds.

The first mistake was picking up the so-called orphans. In all probability the young rabbits' mother was nearby and would have rounded up her crew as soon as she thought it safe to show herself.

Secondly, even if the rescuer had seen the adult rabbit killed or maimed, the chances of his raising young rabbits to adulthood in captivity are very remote. The reasons—because it is most difficult to feed a young rabbit and because the food required is not available.

So, with the mother rabbit incapacitated, the doting rescuer should have brought the young animals to an individual who knew something about young wildlife and asked his advice on the proper procedure. Likely the young animals would have been taken to a game farm or a veterinarian, but even there, in all probability, they would have died.

In the third place, it's against the law to pick up protected animals or birds unless a person has a permit from the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Such a permit may be obtained only after the facilities for handling such animals have been inspected.

And fourth, if the rescuer had obtained his permit and had raised a wild animal to adulthood, he would have the animal on his hands from now on. Such an animal, when raised in captivity, would not be able to "make it" on his own if released in the woods or fields.

So the rescuer, regardless of his admirable concern for wildlife, would have been stymied in his efforts to help from the start.

The best advice, that which is given by biologists and all wildlife management officials, is to leave wild things in the field. In the majority of such cases, they say, the parent is nearby to care of their errant young.

were complained of, only two supply trucks out of a daily average of 40 were able to get through, the petition claimed.

Plaintiff alleged that such action will make it impossible to fill contracts and orders and will result in the loss of customers, profits and goodwill which cannot be evaluated in monetary terms. The plant's contractual obligations, it was pointed out, include shipment of coal truck bodies to customers which, for use in hauling coal for the production of electric power going to hospitals, defense and other industries and government facilities.

The company employs about 60 persons, of whom 37 or 38 are union employees. Its average daily production of truck bodies was placed at four.

Commission should prohibit future construction of combined storm-sanitary sewers and design a program for elimination of existing combined systems.

The state Reclamation Division, Department of Mines and Minerals and the Water Pollution Control Commission should develop and implement a program to "correct acid mine drainage and sediment damage from both active and abandoned mines."

"The principal remaining urban flood damage centers" in Kentucky are:

Martin, Paintsville and Inez in the Big Sandy basin, Salyersville and Falmouth in the Licking River basin; Hazard and Frankfort on the Kentucky River; Pineville, Harlan, Barbourville and Loyall-Baxter in the Cumberland basin, and Dayton and southwest Jefferson county on the Ohio. Recommendations made included these:

The water Resources Authority should review yearly all flood control projects and establish priorities. The priority list should be given to the state's congressional delegation and to congressional public works committees, the Water Resources Congress, and the Ohio River Basin Commission.

The Water Resources Authority should propose new legislation to carry out the zoning control provisions of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968. Such legislation should provide for state and local governments to enforce land-use controls in flood plains.

The major navigational bottlenecks are on the lower Ohio River. Also, navigation on the Green and Barren Rivers should be extended to Bowling Green and navigation should be restored on the Big Sandy and its Levisa Fork in east Kentucky. Improvements "may be needed" in the Cumberland River navigational system. The Kentucky River locks and dams are "obsolete."

"To satisfy present demands, we need 165,000 additional acres of water; By the year 2000, we will need an additional 417,000 acres," the study states.

including provision of direct medical and dental care to the poor. It said the program was being badly mismanaged.

The boards have stood firm by the program as it exists—chiefly a referral and transportation service, with several outposts serving rural communities. The health-services board recently voted to refuse to follow the OEO instructions for reorganization.

The project has been controversy-ridden for more than a year.

Approval of funds for the 1970-71 fiscal year was delayed while OEO officials negotiated with the program's directors over its future. Representatives of the poor have charged they have been excluded from a voice in the program—a charge the OEO supported.

Directors of the program, on the other hand, have accused the federal agency of seeking to dominate the program and of refusing to permit the local boards to administer it as they desire.

Harry Eastburn, director of the Big Sandy Community Action Agency, said last month it was possible that the House Education and Labor Committee, which oversees OEO programs, would be asked to look into the Floyd County controversy.

But the committee's chairman Congressman Carl D. Perkins said last week no request had been made.

hunt for our place of business. One asked, "Is this the newspaper office?" Another blandly inquired, "Could this be the newspaper office?"

That last question did it.

The number of redbirds around our place, these mornings, make things just a bit brighter for the beginning of a day. The state of Kentucky appropriately enough chose this bird, the Kentucky cardinal, as the state bird. Then—can you imagine?—ruined it all by adopting the goldenrod as the state flower. Think I'll write my senator and representative about this matter.

This news-item with an O. Henry twist comes from the Crawford County Courier, Van Buren, Ark., via Joe Creason:

"Edwin Hicks, ardent fisherman, lost his gold wedding ring in Lee's Creek some three years ago while on a fishing trip. Last Saturday, while cleaning a large fish, he cut into something hard with his knife. It was his thumb."

APOSTROPHOBIA

I knew when they decided to change the abbreviations of states to such unidentifiable contractions as Oh. for Ohio and so on, something else bizarre would be showing up, any day. Now they're pushing the idea of doing away with the apostrophe, describing it as no more than a high-rise comma that oughtn't (see, no apostrophe) be, in the first place.

It is a nuisance, but I've struggled so long with it that I'd (no apostrophe, see!) hate to see it go. Some learned men have had their bouts with this mark and have come off the loser. I recall the "it's" that bob up in the writings of persons who know, or should know, that "its" without an apostrophe is the possessive. Then I seem to recall, too, that the scholars who gave the world the beautiful King James version of the Bible used the apostrophe incorrectly in "theirs."

"I'm going to be just as stubborn about this matter as I have been with this change of the spelling of "crappie" to "croppie," which was done just to make the pronunciation more stable. I maintain that if that change is made, they should change "swap" to "swop," too, in the name of consistency.

Oh, well. . . .

A Visit To The Old State House Is A Walk Through History

By HELEN PRICE STACY

West Liberty, Ky.—"You mean you've never been to Mammoth Cave! And you've never been to the Old State House in Frankfort!"

The person doing the exclaiming was a resident of Ohio and had not only been to both places more than once but was deploring the fact that I had traveled in most of the states and border countries but had not been many places in my own state.

Last summer I visited the Old State House and even yet I marvel at all there is to see there and other places in Frankfort. The rooms and halls of the handsome Greek Revival building designed by Kentucky's distinguished architect Gideon Shryock boast so much history my notebook would not begin to hold the information.

An ornate round table that once graced Confederate General John Hunt Morgan's home now adds distinction to a side room in the former Kentucky capitol, built in 1827. In glass cases other valuables of the Morgan family were being well cared for.

But these are mere fragments of the total history that I walked into when I climbed the steps of the house in Old Frankfort. Here as a new century was beginning Sen. William Goebel, candidate for governor of the commonwealth, was shot and on his death bed took the oath of office.

In the historical library are letters written by George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, personal papers of Jefferson Davis and Henry Clay, gowns worn by governors' wives, relics from famous people and famous homes.

In the collection of Indian artifacts I found a curiously shaped rock, smooth with an indentation on one side. It had been used as a lasso weight by Indians who once roamed narrow traces in Eastern Kentucky.

A gun collection includes the famous Burgoyne cannon... and on the ground floor in a display case were Daniel Boone's watch and spectacles, and a replica of "Boon's best fren," his rifle.

I looked at a vast bottle collection—all colors and shapes, gleaming like jewels in locked display cases. There was a pin that had been worn by Davy Crockett, a coat that had been worn by George Washington, pioneer-day relics that had seen the men through joy, sorrow, courage and daring.

There were many original watercolors of the great Kentucky artist Paul Sawyer. Here in the Old State House the rainy streets of Frankfort during its horse and buggy days, the historic buildings, Elkhorn Creek and houseboats on the river—all done in the soft, muted Sawyer colors—were quite at home.

Up the marble stairs, wondering if they would ever fall from a lack of visible support, I found rooms of Kentucky treasures in gems, velvets and linens that had known grand old homes. There were books and papers enough to satisfy any historian. One display case could take an afternoon's study.

So much of it, so much beauty of another era, that together with a bit of imagination I could almost people the rooms with former owners. Henry Clay in the center of the room, talking, and around him statesmen, listening... Abraham Lincoln, accompanied by Mary Todd Lincoln, might come over from Lexington on the train to call at the State House.

He would enclose himself in one of the rooms to study old papers; she would go to the Giraffe piano, and fluffing out billowing taffeta skirts around the piano bench, would place her plump fingers on the keys and begin to play softly.

It is like a walk backward in time and quite easy to disassociate from the present. One visit is not enough, and I'm going back.

CARD OF THANKS

The Tuttle family would like to thank all their friends and relatives who were so kind and helpful in their time of sorrow and to all the ministers and the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for their kindness on the death of their mother, Mrs. Sallie Tuttle.

Williamson Awarded Army Commendation

Sp-4 Marshall R. Williamson, of Betsy Layne, has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal for meritorious service as a key and vital member of the Hospital Headquarters at Ft. The citation accompanying the award noted that as a distribution driver Sp-4 Williamson had covered more than 10,000 miles of accident-free driving "and with a keen and thorough awareness of the essential medical and administrative facilities in the Colorado Springs, Denver and Pueblo areas was able to meet medical emergencies and other medical requirements."

Woman Found Slain In Pike-Co. Home

A Pike county's woman's body was discovered Monday morning at her Meta home on Johns Creek after she failed to appear in circuit court in a divorce case.

The body of Mrs. Gladys Blanche Deskins, about 60, was found in a bedroom, clad in nightclothes. She had been shot in the face and head by a blast from a shotgun, and her body bore 11 stab wounds, officers said.

Time of death was estimated between 12:30 p.m. Sunday and 2 a.m. Monday.

State Police said the front door of the home, located on U. S. 119, had been forced open, although it was fastened with a night latch and double locks.

It's Our 25th Anniversary and We're Celebrating With Our

25th ANNIVERSARY SALE

This month, July, 1971, we have been in business in Floyd county 25 years. While at Stanville and now at our Lancer location, we have enjoyed the friendship and patronage of the people of our area. You have been "real folks," and that's being very nice, to us, and now we observe our 25th anniversary by reciprocating with special sale reductions.

Riviera Cruiser pontoon boats are really the "total facility" for enjoyment on lakes and rivers — cruising, fishing, skiing, scuba-diving, swimming or "picnics afloat". No conventional boat at anywhere near the price has the usable deck space, cruising comfort, family safety or the many other advantages enjoyed by owners of Riviera Cruisers. When you buy a Riviera, look forward to many years of carefree pleasure for your family.

COME IN DURING THIS SPECIAL BOAT SALE . . .

Price cuts you would usually find only during a Fall clearance, we are offering now—still in plenty of time for the enjoyment of this year's boating and fishing season. Save while our anniversary discounts are in effect, now through remainder of July.
