

Cost Uncertain, Builders Stall

No Bids Offered On School Work For First Time

The uncertainties of the approaching Phase II of the President's wage and price control program may have prevented the Floyd County Board of Education from receiving a bid on construction of a 12-room school building and two smaller construction projects last week.

It was the first time the board had ever failed to receive at least one bid on construction projects.

County Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said interest in the jobs was evinced by contractors. Several called for plans and specifications. But they failed to set a figure.

The bids were scheduled for opening at Saturday's meeting of the board. None showing up, the board deferred the letting date till the Dec. 4 meeting, hoping that federal guidelines will be clarified before that time.

Projects advertised for bids included a 12-room elementary school at McDowell; a lunchroom addition to the Prater Creek school and installation of indoor restroom facilities at the Bonanza school.

The McDowell construction is proposed to replace an old school structure which will be razed.

Future construction elsewhere was planned at the board meeting. Preliminary plans for Phase II of the Eastern school program were approved. These are the plans for construction of a gymnasium-auditorium-music room complex at the new Right Beaver high school.

An emergency exists at the Betsy Layne school as a consequence of the fire which recently destroyed the lunchroom.

This Town . . . That World

SCOTCHING A FALSE REPORT

That wreath at the northeast corner of the parking lot opposite the postoffice does not mark the resting place entered upon as of November 2 by a well-known Westminster street Republican—the word of Lenna Moore to the contrary. Come to think of it, Lenna did not surface, himself, till a day or so after the Event.

And now this "slow" time doesn't suit me. But I'm not complaining. Whatever sort they're dishing out, just give me more of it.

PLEASE . . .

We want to ask somebody to do us a favor. It's this: Please return the bound files of The Floyd County Times which were trustingly loaned to you. This is important to us.

If we all should decide to pay as we go, would we go?

THE FABLE GOES MODERN

This has gone the rounds. It turned up most recently, and very effectively, on Paul Harvey's TV show, the other night, and it ran to this effect:

Once upon a time there was a little girl known as Little Red Riding Hood whose mother sent her with a basket of goodies to her grandmother, who was not feeling well. In the woods nearby there lurked a wolf who, seeing Red Riding Hood, ran ahead to grandmother's house, accosted her in a threatening manner, killed her and ate her. He then donned her clothes, jumped into bed and waited for Red Riding Hood to appear. Soon she did, and when he made certain menacing overtures, she screamed in terror. A woodsman, hearing her, burst into the house and killed the wolf with his ax, and was proclaimed a hero by the townspeople.

In a few weeks, however, a trial was held at which Civil Liberties attorneys pointed out that: 1. The wolf was not advised of his rights; 2. He was not allowed to consult an attorney; 3. He was, in fact, not trying to kill grandmother but wanted to make love to her—thereby merely doing his thing, making love not war; and Grandmother had resisted his advances and had, in fact, tried to kill him, which was in itself an infringement on his individual rights; 4. The woodsman had broken into the house, and 5. had failed to swing his ax a few warning swings before delivering the fatal blow.

The jury shortly thereafter returned a verdict, concluding that the wolf had done no wrong, and sentenced the woodsman to 20 years in prison.

A year later, the woodsman's house had been burned to the ground, and Grandmother's house had been made a shrine to the memory of the martyred wolf. At the dedicatory ceremonies the mayor, town officials and all the citizens were present. The most touching tribute was given by Red Riding Hood herself who said that, although at the time she was grateful for the woodsman's aid, she had since realized that he had acted in a hasty manner. There was not a dry eye in the assembled crowd.

Mud Creek Men Accuse Captors

Two Mud Creek men who were jailed here last week-end later swore out warrants for the arresting officers, charging them with reckless use of a deadly weapon, assault and battery and as being under the influence of alcohol.

The officers' accusers are Aaron and Eurie Tackett, who were booked on a variety of charges, including resisting arrest, disarming an officer and assault and battery.

The Tacketts signed an affidavit alleging that the officers, Deputy Sheriffs Ervin Salisbury and Holland Hurley, were drunk or drinking when they arrested them without legal reason; that at the time of their arrest the officers committed assault and battery and later pointed guns in the faces of their prisoners and threatened to kill them. Claiming the officers were guilty of reckless use of a deadly weapon, the Tacketts said a gun was fired in a crowd which included children. Aaron Tackett testified he was beaten about the head, limbs and body and that, although he was bleeding severely, he was not permitted to get medical aid.

Food Training School Series Is Announced

The Kentucky State Department of Health and the Floyd County Health Department will jointly sponsor a series of food service training schools, November 17-19, for the purpose of explaining the Food Service Code (FDC-22) recently adopted by the Kentucky State Board of Health. The inspection report from ES-194 used by local sanitarians for inspections will be explained in detail.

Steve Sandlin, Jr., food survey officer, and sanitarians from the local Health Department, who will conduct the school, will answer any question regarding restaurant inspections.

Places and Dates for the schools:
May Lodge, Wednesday, Nov. 17, 2-4 p.m.; Betsy Layne high school, Nov. 18, 12:30-2 p.m.; Martin high school, Nov. 18, 2:30-4:30 p.m.; McDowell high school, Nov. 19, 12:30-2 p.m.; Garrett high school, Nov. 19, 2:30-4:30 p.m.

Dr. Russell L. Hall, health officer, asked this week that all food service establishment owners, operators and food handlers attend at least one of these schools and become familiar with items checked during the official inspection of food service establishments.

CONDITION SAID CRITICAL

Condition of John Absher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Absher, who was wounded by an accidental shot here, Oct. 28, is critical, a report received here Tuesday says. He has been transferred from St. Joseph's Hospital, Lexington, to the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

Ends 26 Years of County Service

Mr. Burchett on last day at office of County Judge.

Glenn C. Burchett has ended 10 years of service as trial commissioner in the office of County Judge Henry Stumbo, retiring on Oct. 30.

His retirement to his farm on Cow Creek ended 26 years in various services to the county—eight as Magistrate in District 1, 10 as trial commissioner, four as county road foreman and four as supervisor of commodities distribution.

Mr. Burchett's retirement was accepted by Judge Stumbo with deep regret. "I have never worked with any man more conscientious, than Glenn Burchett," Judge Stumbo commented. "He is a good friend, always dependable—I can't say enough about him."

Pleasant or Painful, Vote Was Surprising

Last Tuesday's voting, in Floyd county and the state as a whole, was marked by surprises—and they were both pleasant and unpleasant, depending upon political leanings of the viewer.

(1. Most observers from both parties expected a tight race for the governorship. Wendell Ford, Democrat, defeated Tom Emberton, Republican, by almost 60,000 votes, and swept into office the entire Democratic ticket.

(2. Floyd county was expected to record a light vote. It cast a normal vote of almost 13,000.

(3. Former Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler was expected to poll upwards of 100,000 votes in the state. He received fewer than 40,000, and in Floyd county registered a disappointing 138 ballots.

(4. Emberton backers in this county expected a close vote, but Ford was second only to Lieut. Gov. Ford's home county, Daviess, in the size of the Ford voting margin. Every precinct in the county gave Ford a majority.

In the statewide voting Ford led in five of the seven Congressional districts: in the First, by 34,633 votes on the face of unofficial returns; the Second, by 15,715; the Third, 4,756; the Sixth, 11,578; the Seventh, 18,344.

Emberton led in the Fourth by 745 votes and in the rock-ribbed Republican Fifth by 25,161.

In this county 8,633 votes were cast for Ford and 4,272 for Emberton.

The unofficial statewide totals were: Ford, 466,746; Emberton, 407,536; Smith, 7,509; Chandler, 38,739.

Robert (Bob) Damron, Ivel Democrat, easily won the Third district race for Railroad Commissioner over his Republican opponent, Ronald B. Halleck, but the vote totals in that race are unavailable.

Johns Chris Cornett, Hindman Democrat, also was an easy winner over Frank Stewart, of Langley for State Senator from the 29th district. State Representative W. J. Reynolds, of Allen, was unopposed for reelection.

Hiring Is Complete On One Work Phase

Implementing of Section V of the Emergency Employment Act began in this county this week, and all positions in that phase of the program had been filled. Funds for this part of the work program total $82,838 and cover the period ending next July 31.

Approval of the application filed under Section VI is expected this week, and its implementation will be effected soon after approval is made, County Judge Henry Stumbo said. This phase of the program, which is planned as a continuing effort, will add $86,064 to the funds to be spent.

Under Section V Policeman Sam Hale, of Prestonsburg, has been employed as county detective at a monthly salary of $630. Mr. Hale will be on leave from the police department while serving in this capacity.

Douglas Frasure, of Price, a former teacher, was employed as program coordinator at a salary of $950 a month; Linda McCoy, of Hi Hat, as secretary at $300; Erma Hall, Grethel, receptionist, $350.

Miss McCoy's salary will be paid by the county until Section VI, which provides for a secretary, is approved. The need of a secretary was so urgent, it was explained, that she was put to work while approval was awaited.

Seventeen road and bridge workers were employed under Section V.

When Section VI is approved these posts will be filled: A county road supervisor, a mechanic, two heavy equipment operators, a recreation director, a juvenile probation officer, a city and park foreman, two city maintenance employees, a school sanitarian and a community development assistant.

City employees will be announced by Mayor George P. Archer. All applicants are first screened by the Kentucky Employment Service.

Recount Asked On Allen Vote By "Write-In"

Although nobody filed in time for their names to appear on the ballot as candidate for the board of trustees at Allen, no fewer than 30 residents of the town received "write-in" votes at the Nov. 2 election, and now there's a recount scheduled for Wednesday afternoon to determine the winner of fifth place on the board.

Mrs. Dorothy Bentley, who received, according to the official tabulation, 31 votes, asked the recount. Apparently, she is one vote from a tie with Howard Clay for a place on the board. To be considered, it was said, is the lack of legibility of some of the handwriting on certain ballots, and, possibly, one absentee vote cast for Clay.

On the face of the returns the following were elected:

Obie Crisp, 64 votes; Vernon Porter, 49; Paul Porter, 47; Bennie Lafferty, 43; Howard Clay, 32.

In the Martin city election Mayor E. P. Grigsby was re-elected, and the new council is composed of Denzil Halbert, Glenn C. Patrick, Clyde Hogsed, Raymond Griffith and James Jack Conley.

City tickets in Prestonsburg, Wayland and Wheelwright were unopposed.

Habeas Corpus Motion Denied

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley last week denied the habeas corpus petition filed by attorneys for a Prestonsburg youth who is now in the custody of the Department of Child Welfare at the Frenchburg Boys Center. After his conviction in juvenile court on a charge of cutting and wounding with intent to kill.

The boy had previously been convicted of breaking and entering a meter box and his sentence had been probated. The probation was revoked after his cutting and wounding conviction last July 26.

The habeas corpus petition claimed that neither the youth nor his parents were given notice of the charges against him, prior to the hearing date; that neither had been informed of his right to be represented by counsel and had not been informed at any stage of the proceedings that he had a right to remain silent and that an incriminating statement might result in revocation of probation and his transfer to custody. It also was contended that neither the defendant nor his parents were given an opportunity to question the complaining party.

Officials Say Court Has Heavy Caseload

The Floyd circuit court began Monday morning work on what two of its top officials, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley and Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo, described as "the biggest docket this court has had in years."

Stumbo said it was the heaviest since he has been in office, dating back to 1964.

The docket has four murder cases and eight in which defendants are accused of attempting to kill.

Listed for trial on charges of murder are Lynn Collins, D. C. Jones, John Rice and Russell Stone. Collins, the first case set for hearing, is docketed for Nov. 22.

Those charged with attempts to kill are

Budget Adopted For Six Months; Plans Discussed

The new board of directors of Comprehensive Health Care, Inc., which has the task of formulating a new program of comprehensive health for Floyd county held its first meeting Friday and adopted a budget for the staff recruitment which is slated to begin early in the program.

A quorum of the 10-member board attended the meeting. Among the members present was Lynn B. Frazer, Kentucky director of the Division of Economic Opportunity, who later took the proposed budget and tentative program plans to Washington for approval.

The budget adopted calls for an expenditure of $106,128 and it covers a six-month period. Personnel for whom funds were budgeted include the following:

Project director, $15,000; director of administrative services, $14,000; financial officer, $10,800; two program developers, $14,400; executive secretary, $6,000; two clerk-stenographers, $9,600; six community aides, $28,800.

Half of the new board is composed of representatives of the consumer group, and three of these were elected at a countywide election held Oct. 29. Two consumer representatives remain on the board as holdovers from the old board. Other members are Kentucky Commissioner of Health McIlwain, President William Hayes of Alice Lloyd College, a representative of the UK Medical School, Mr. Frazer and County Judge Henry Stumbo.

Haul at Jerry's Is Reported $100 In Second Break

A cash register at Jerry's Restaurant here was looted last Thursday night of $100—the same amount taken in the first break into the restaurant, a Thursday night three weeks earlier.

State Detective Chester D. Potter, county and city officers have been investigating both breaks but have made no arrests. They said entrance was effected last Thursday night through the same kitchen window which was entered three weeks earlier. In the first break $100 was taken from one cash register. The thieves then took a second register to a nearby construction site, broke it open and dumped it into water and mud. The register was valued at $1,200.

Two persons have been arrested within the week on liquor charges. Deputy Sheriffs Arvel Nelson, Ervin Salisbury and Holland Hurley arrested William Riley (Junior) Wells, shortly before noon Saturday, at his place on the Auxier road, near here, and confiscated 372 cans of beer, three pints of whiskey, a pint of vodka and two pints of gin. The officers said they found the intoxicants in an old truck, outside the Wells building. Wells was released under bond for trial later in quarterly court.

A search of the premises of Ida Crum on Prater Creek, early last week, failed to uncover whiskey or beer, but she was arrested on a selling charge by Deputy Sheriff Neslon and Constable Gillis Conn.

John B. and Aary Tackett were jailed by Deputy Sheriffs Salisbury and Hurley on a charge of disarming an officer. John B. Tackett also was charged with resisting arrest, and Aary Tackett with assault and battery.

Others booked, charges lodged against each and names of arresting officers follow:

Carl Franklin Stanley, drunk driving, by State Trooper E. B. Allen and Deputy Sheriff J. W. Allen; Corb Hall, hit-run driving, by State Trooper Gary Rose; Patrick Shell, grand larceny, by Deputy Sheriff Allen; Tommy Spriggs, breaking and entering, by Deputy Sheriffs Dester Hamilton and Johnny Rackley; J. C. Woods, resisting arrest, by Deputy Sheriff (See Story 2, Back Page, Sec. 1)

Roger Williams, Ralph Hall, Dora Johnson, Johnny Mullins, Carrie Fowler and Hollie Hurley, all charged with shooting and wounding; and Emogene McClellan, who is accused of cutting and wounding.

In all, 131 cases have been listed for trial during the term, which will not end till a few days before Christmas. Ten list defendants for drunk driving, and 14 are liquor cases.

Remaining cases range the gamut of offenses from involuntary manslaughter to child desertion and assault and battery. The number of child desertion cases has been reduced but still occupies a large place on the docket.

Non-Paying Tenants To Have Hearings

A panel of three federal judges has labeled unconstitutional two Kentucky laws that permit landlords to seize and sell, without a hearing, a tenant's property for nonpayment of rent.

The judges struck down KRS 383.040 and KRS 383.050 because they don't require a hearing at which a tenant can "choose for himself whether to appear, default, acquiesce or contest" the landlord's proposed action.

Landlords were permanently enjoined under the decision "from seizing or selling property" under the provisions of the two state statutes.

In writing the panel's opinion, U. S. District Judge Rhodes Bratcher noted, "It is elementary that the right to be heard is a fundamental requirement of due process of law and that this right has little value unless a person has the concomitant right to be informed that a matter is pending and also the right to choose for himself to appear, default, acquiesce or contest."

When Laws Do Not Mean Law

The Government of these United States is based, we have been taught, on justice and law.

Laws multiply, but they do not mean law in the fullness of the term. Justice is more often the ideal than the reality.

Last week there was filed at Frankfort a petition which, if proved to be true, stands to refute any claim that justice prevails. For this petition said, in part:

"... This petition will show that most of the companies which have fifteen or more violations have never been fined by the Division, nor have such companies had their permits revoked."

That statement referred to strip-mine operators as the violators and the Division of Reclamation as the agency of government which had failed to inflict a penalty for their guilt.

If the statement is true, some surface mine operators must recognize as fully as anybody else, perhaps even more fully, that justice was not done. For some of these paid fines, heavy fines, more than once while others went scot-free, though equally guilty of violating the law.

That takes care of the reality of justice.

In another paragraph the same petition quotes from the law (KRS350.130):

"... The division shall not issue any additional permits to any operator who has repeatedly been in non-compliance or violation of the chapter, or who has had permits revoked on more than three occasions."

Some, the record shows, were in non-compliance or violation thirty, forty, even as many as sixty times; permits were revoked, time after time. But business continued, as usual.

That should put to rest any idea that a multiplicity of laws on paper constitute the law that is the basis of government.

This state does not need more laws. It needs more officials whose regard for law and justice will constrain them to enforce, without favor or flinching, the laws that already are, presumably, ours to live by.

IN MEMORY

In memory of my sister, Mrs. Gracie Dean Newman, who passed away Nov. 5, 1970:

INSIDE THE GATE (By Aileen Hall)

I wonder if they rang the bells
For her inside the gate
And if the angels rushed to tell
The many friends who wait.
Were they anxious that she see
The shining jasper wall,
The golden streets, the crystal stream,
The splendor of it all?
I wonder if she has received
Her mansion and reward
And if her voice already blends
Beside a golden stair.
Or if they gently bade her rest
Knowing she would think it best
To wait till I was there.

MRS. DOROTHY WARRENS
Hi Hat, Ky.

Contact Representative To Be Here Nov. 18-19

John Jackson, a Contact Representative of the Bureau of Veterans Affairs, will be here November 18-19 at the Employment Office in Prestonsburg to assist veterans and their dependents with claims for benefits due them as a result of military service. He will be in the office from 9:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. both days.

A Health Department survey of large Kentucky hospitals shows pesticide poisoning is fast becoming a serious cause of home accidents.

LETTERS To the Editor

Asks Why Same Act Does Not Protect Here

Letter to Editor:

An article published by The Columbus (O.) Dispatch and written by that newspaper's James Craig, tells in detail how the 1970 Federal Highway Act restricts highway planners and requires consideration of the people routed out of their homes or dispossessed of their land by new roads.

The article quotes J. Phillip Richley, Ohio director of highways, as to how the 1970 act sets down procedures for locating people forced to move from the path of a new highway in at least comparable housing. "We can build replacement housing...and can pick up the difference in interest or loan on their old house and a loan on their new house," he said.

The federal highway act also allows a state (quoting from the Ohio story) to pay rent—up to one year and $4,000—for a family forced to move by highway construction. Further, to assure comparable housing, the state can pay up to $15,000 over the fair market value of a house in the path of a highway.

The Kentucky Legislative Research Commission has made a study to examine the method used in Kentucky to determine what is called "just compensation." Its director, James T. Fleming, in a foreword to the LRC report, noted:

"Very often compensation which has been paid landowners is inadequate to permit them to relocate elsewhere or to repair the damage which has occurred by reason of the taking of their property. This is due to the fact that consequential damages are not compensable under the present generally accepted standard of market value. Many Kentuckians are being displaced by reason of condemnation and...as a consequence of the taking...are suffering non-compensable losses..."

If these Federal Highway Acts apply for the people of Ohio, why not to the people in Kentucky?

The people in Eastern Kentucky on the new US 23 would be happy to get a fair market price for their land—without the extra $15,000 made possible by federal law. It seems that the number of lawsuits filed in circuit court is proof that the people aren't getting the fair market value of their land. After the people go through the ordeal of a trial, they even then do not get what the jury allows. The state, using the services of lawyers paid by your tax money and mine, takes the cases to the Court of Appeals, and our money is tied up for another year or two.

The land that is taken cannot be replaced with the price the state pays, even if the land was here to be bought—which it isn't.

MAE B. MARTIN
Prestonsburg, Ky.

Program Taps Teens' Potential

The Maytown Woman's Club held its regular monthly meeting Oct. 28 at the home of Mrs. Theodore Gibson. Mrs. Shirley Stewart, president, presided over the meeting. A program on "Student in Higher Education," was presented by three young people of high school and college age. Feddi Lynn Gibson, Emma Jane Allen, and Donna Frasure discussed the greatest concern facing young people going into higher education today and they assume the responsibility of a change from high school to college and trying to accept the challenge it presents. They also discussed the new freedom of words and actions that college presents.

Mrs. Stewart opened the business meeting by reading and discussing the upcoming projects and programs. She also presented each member a new year-book. The club voted to send a contribution to the Arthritis Foundation. Each member was asked to bring a gift to the next club meeting for the patients at the T. B. Hospital in Ashland.

Mrs. Lorena Hall, chairman of the high school homecoming, reported that this year's activities will be held Nov. 19, and that all former homecoming queens will be honored, also the former state basketball tournament teams and classes from '62 to '72.

Refreshments were served to following members: Mrs. Shirley Stewart, Lorena Hall, Peggy Jean Gibson, Alisha Mayo, Dee Burchett, Carol Lovely, Nancy Lois Blevins, Wanda Reed, Betty May, hostess Shannon Gibson and guests speakers, Feddi Lynn Gibson, Emma Jane Allen, Donna Frasure.

Drug Arrests Up, Study Says

By LEONARD KIMBALL

Frankfort, Ky.—"The drug peddler in Kentucky may not have his back to the wall yet, but he's beginning to feel the pinch."

So stated Col. Larry G. Boucher, state police director, today after disclosing that drug arrests by state and local police throughout Kentucky increased by about 47 per cent during the first half of this year. Boucher based his remarks on a study just completed by the State Police Bureau of Uniform Crime Statistics which collects arrest data from law enforcement agencies across the state for publication in Kentucky's annual uniform crime report.

According to that report, 827 drug arrests were reported by police statewide during the first six months of 1971. The 12-month total for 1970 was 1,128.

Although the number of arrested persons under 18 years of age totaled only 162 as compared with 491 between 18-25 and 174 in the over-25 age group. Boucher said he could not report any decline in the number of known juvenile offenders since 1970.

Last year, police arrested 215 juveniles on drug charges.

"If the current trend continues, we expect that juvenile arrests during 1971 may run as high as 40 per cent over the 1970 figure," Boucher said.

A breakdown of drug arrests by type of drug for the first half of this year, as compared with a similar listing for 1970, also shows an increase in the number of persons being arrested on charges involving marijuana and the "hard narcotics" such as cocaine and heroin, he said.

During 1970, marijuana offenders totaled 46.5 per cent of all persons arrested. In the first half of this year, that figure climbed to 47.7 per cent.

Persons arrested on charges involving "hard narcotics" rose from 12.7 to 14.6 per cent.

Only synthetic narcotics and non-narcotics—such as demerol, amphetamines, barbiturates and LSD—registered a decline.

During 1970, synthetic narcotics cropped up among 8.8 per cent of all persons arrested. In the first half of this year, that figure was down by about 1.5 per cent, Boucher said.

Non-narcotic drug offenders dropped from 32 per cent in 1970 to 30.4 per cent this year.

Other disclosures made in the survey included:
Male offenders (698) outnumbered females (129).
Of those arrested in the under-18 age group, 19.0 per cent were charged with marijuana violations while another 19.6 per cent involved "hard narcotics."

Most marijuana and "hard narcotic" offenders, however, were between 18-25 years of age.

HOWARD EXPRESSES APPRECIATION

As chairman of the Democratic campaign in Floyd County, I wish to express my personal gratitude to the people of this county and to those who worked with me in making such a vital contribution to the statewide victory of Wendell Ford and the entire Democratic ticket.

It is particularly gratifying to know that Floyd County was the No. 2 Democratic County in Kentucky—second only to Governor-Elect Ford's home county, Daviess.

I thank each individual for their long months of work, and especially wish to acknowledge the efforts of Mrs. Scott Collins, Floyd County chairwoman, and the fine organization of Democratic women.

A. M. (ALLIE) HOWARD

How long since you were in school?

For those of us who are old enough to have children in school, it's a little difficult to realize how demanding and complex a teacher's job has become.

Things have changed since we were under the teacher's eye. Subjects are tougher, wider ranging. Today's student is getting into the ideas behind the facts at an age when we merely were learning facts.

Now the classroom is a place for education through thought instead of education by rote. And the teachers who meet the challenge day after difficult day are rather special people.

Dedicated? The word probably embarrasses them. Even so, it is dedication to duty that's most common to all the men and women who become — and remain — modern teachers.

How else can you describe whatever it is that makes a good teacher keep working, keep studying ahead, after the last bell of the day, the last bell of the semester, has rung?

This they do. And it's enough to know, with or without fancy words that pinpoint their motives. Enough to earn our respect, our appreciation and all the help we can give them.

The Bank Josephine is assisting Floyd County area youngsters obtain a college or trade school education. We're the only financial institution in Floyd County participating in the Federal Insured Student Loan Program. We are actively lending to students right now. But we'd like to do more. You see, we're out to make more loans to more students, but we need your help to do it. We'll earmark your money for our "Educations Unlimited" loan fund. The "Educations Unlimited" Savings Certificates we'll issue you in return will pay off magnificently — in excellent bank interest for you, and in better educations for our own boys and girls.

Floyd County has always been blessed with more than its fair share of citizens who willingly give more than they have to give — of their time, their energy, their cooperation — to keep our county out front in all the things that matter. While outstanding teachers are seeing to it that our youngsters get the best education possible, countless other people are working every day to meet the county's growing cultural and social needs.

CARD OF THANKS
We, the family of Ruth Faine, wish to thank all the good people in the community and all others who had any part in expressing their comforting words and sympathy, and the many good friends she had who will miss her love and smile she had for everyone. We would also like to thank Dale Merion and the Merion Funeral Home for the kind service they gave the family, and we would thank the Pentecostal Church of God, the ministers and kind people of the church.

This would make available pre-cooked foods which might be heated in individual classrooms before serving.

Cats Lose Season's Last Game Here Friday to Paintsville, 28-14

After leading through the first half of the game, the Prestonsburg Black Cats succumbed last Friday night to the manpower of the visiting Paintsville Tigers and lost their third game of the season, 28-14.

The Cats ended the season with five wins, three losses and two tie games. Their only losses to Eastern Kentucky teams were to Hazard and Paintsville, leaders in their divisions.

Prestonsburg scored early after recovering a fumble deep in Paintsville territory. Greg Campbell scored from two yards out, and Rickey Reynolds made the two-point conversion. Paintsville came back in the same stanza with a touchdown by John Chandler from the three but trailed as the try for extra point failed. Paintsville took a temporary lead in the initial quarter when LeMaster scored on a 12-yard run.

Again the extra point failed.

The Cats jumped ahead again in the second quarter when Randy Leslie scored on a 60-yard pass-run play. The attempt to convert failed, and Prestonsburg ended the half with a 14-12 lead.

The last half, however, was all Paintsville, with Chandler's running behind a powerful line featuring the contest. In the third quarter Chandler scored on an eight-yard run, and Lemaster made good on the two-point conversion try. Chandler added the fourth marker on a six-yard run and himself annexed the two extra points.

Bible Week in Ky. Set In November

Frankfort, Ky.—At the request of Gov. Luis A. Ferre, governor of Puerto Rico, Gov. Louie B. Nunn has proclaimed the week of Nov. 21-28 as Bible Week in Kentucky.

Governor Nunn called upon the people of the commonwealth in his proclamation to set aside this week to encourage men, women and children of all faiths to read the Scriptures and set up a plan of regular examination of the Foundation Book of the Judeo-Christian heritage.

"The meaning of such words as freedom, justice, love and responsibility are all rooted in Biblical revelation," Governor Nunn said. "The foundations of society are shaking as never before and there is an imperative need to recover understanding of these foundation principles and what God requires of modern man."

The state Board of Cosmetologists and Hairdressers announced a new regulation permitting out-of-state hairdressers who cannot meet Kentucky standards to work here if their husbands are servicemen serving in Kentucky.

James D. Sewell, executive assistant for the Kentucky Traffic Safety Coordinating Committee, said the state's youth traffic safety program appears to be the nation's most comprehensive.

PRETTY SAILING—Toma Griffin, 19 of Frankfort, Miss Navy League Queen for 1971, recently joined Rear Admiral James Cobb, commander of the fifth naval district, Norfolk, Va., on a cruise down the Kentucky River in a statewide salute to Navy Day. The cruise climaxed a special Navy Day Program held at the capitol in Frankfort, sponsored by the state council of the Navy League of the United States. The pretty Navy Queen, who presided over the day's activities, is a junior at the University of Kentucky.

Kentucky Snow Before December? Odds Are (Were) Heavily Against It

Snow on the ground before December? Don't bet on it! Snow totalling one inch or more over a 24-hour period doesn't often come before early December in most Kentucky communities, says A. B. Elam, climatologist for Kentucky at the U. S. Weather Service Office, University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

After checking snowfall records over the past 51 years, Elam reports that the average time of the first one-inch, 24-hour snowfall is mid-December for the eastern half of Kentucky and late December for the rest of the state.

The exception to this is southeast Kentucky, where one-inch snows come earlier at higher elevations. In the Cumberland-Benham area (elevation about 1,500 feet), the average date is Nov. 24, based on records kept there since 1949.

Of course, you may see some snow before then—these dates are just the average. For example, in Lexington there's a 5 percent chance of a one-inch snow before Nov. 3, a 50 percent chance before Dec. 15, and a 90 percent chance before Jan. 19. In other words, central Kentucky usually has had at least an inch snowfall before January, with Dec. 15 the average date of the first snow—and there's only one chance in 20 of an early November snow.

But that 20-to-1 chance hit in a big way only five years ago (Nov. 23, 1966), when the state's biggest early snow of the century piled up to 17 inches deep in some sections of central Kentucky. Elam says the earliest snow in Kentucky since Weather Bureau records began was on Oct. 10, 1906, where there were "heavy flurries north and east."

Last year was an exception, too. The earliest one-inch snow was Nov. 4 in the southern Bluegrass area. And, on that date high up on Cumberland Mountain in Bell county, Hensley settlement had 5 inches of snow on the ground.

He gives the following odds for different locations in or near Kentucky for a 1-inch-or-more snowfall over a 24-hour period, as well as the average date in each place of the first such snow of the season.

Paintsville Man Slain by Inmate

The slaying of Lee Thomas Van Hoose, 39, of Paintsville, at Eddyville over the week-end is being investigated this week by penitentiary officials there. Three inmates were held in segregated units Monday after the death of Van Hoose, Sunday, and the cutting of another inmate, Roy Shell.

A coroner's inquest will be held late, Warden J. W. Wingo announced.

The three prisoners being held overpowered a guard and took his keys. After locking him in a cell, they then attacked Van Hoose and Shell before surrendering to other guards. No charges were immediately filed against the trio, William Houchins, 40, of Jefferson county, being held on various charges under a sentence of 40 years. Richard Rickard, 22, of Daviess county, doing nine years for storehouse breaking, and Dan McConnelly, of Bowling Green, serving eight years for grand larceny and escape.

Funeral services for Van Hoose were conducted at 2 p.m., Wednesday, in Paintsville, and burial was made in the Van Hoose cemetery there.

Roger McCann, an engineer for the Kentucky Air Pollution Control Commission, has developed a new method for measuring reactive hydrocarbons, a main source of smog, in the atmosphere.

HOMEMAKERS CLUB MEETS

Mrs. Hazel Little, president of the Hi Hat Homemakers Club, called the October meeting to order by asking Mrs. Sylvia Newman to present the devotion on "Enlarged in Distress." This was taken from Psalm 4:1: "Thou hast enlarged me when I was in distress".

After the treasurer's report was given by Anne Stephens, plans were made for bake sale to be held at the Nov. 2 election. Members were told of the continued recovery of the club secretary, Gertrude Lawson, who suffered a hip injury.

The lesson was on aluminum tray painting and etching. A visitor was Mrs. Ruth Little. Refreshments were served by Sylvia Newman.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn announced a $1.7 million improvement program at Fort Boonesborough State Park. Improvements will include an authentic replica of historic Fort Boonesborough as it stood in the 1770's. An outdoor drama to be held at the fort also is being considered.

Famed Parachute Team Slates Demonstration

Golden Knights making the baton pass which opens every free-fall demonstration they make. Jumping from a height of 13,500 feet, they make a link-up in 10 seconds or less, then join arms, make candy pole turns before separating to deploy their chutes for pinpoint landings. (U. S. Army Photo)

For the first time ever, the Golden Knights, former U. S. Army parachute team, at Pikeville Sunday, November 14, at 2 p.m. in a free demonstration of sports parachuting at the Pikeville-Pike County Airport.

Sponsored by the Pike County Chamber of Commerce, the CAP Aero Club of Pikeville, the Pike County Emergency and Rescue Squad, and assisted by the U. S. Army Reserve Unit in Pikeville, the event is free although there will be a small charge for parking near the airport.

The day's activities begin with a Fly-In Breakfast for flying enthusiasts and the public from 8 a.m. until 11 a.m. Airplane rides and aerial demonstrations will be available. Experimental and antique aircraft will be on display to the public.

The airfield will be closed to air traffic at 12 noon, and the parachuting demonstration will take place at 2 p.m.

The Golden Knights hold 87 out of 128 men's world parachuting accuracy records and have produced two world and five national parachuting champions. Jump altitudes are up to 6,600 feet in competition and twice that high in demonstrations.

Two cabinet level departments have taken a new step to improve implementation of the Federal job safety and health program by coordinating the use of two major laboratories. The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) of the Department of Labor and the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare have formally agreed on mutual use of NIOSH laboratories at Cincinnati and Salt Lake City.

Despite the fact that they represent only 11 percent of the civilian labor force, Negroes or members of other minority races were 18 percent (750,000) of the Nation's 4.1 million jobless workers in 1970, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports. They were 20 percent of the total (570,000) in 1969.

THE DODGE BOYS THINK ABOUT YOU.

we think an economy four-door ought to give you more than just a low price.

1. IT SHOULD GIVE YOU ROOM.

Our new '72 Dodge Dart four-door sedan does. It's one of the roomiest compacts around. A Dart sedan is big enough to be your only car. Room for six. Huge trunk. Great styling.

2. IT SHOULD GIVE YOU ECONOMY.

Our Dodge Dart has gained a solid reputation for operating economy. A nationwide survey of 1971 Dart owners, based on nearly 3/4 of a million owner-driven miles, showed that the Dodge 225 six-cylinder engine averages between 16 and 20 miles per gallon of regular gas.

3. IT SHOULD GIVE YOU LASTING VALUE.

Today, there are over a million compact Darts on the road. Older Darts are in brisk demand as used cars. (Dart's classic styling and solid dependability are two reasons for this.) We'll let Dart resale figures speak for themselves!

4. IT SHOULD OFFER YOU A "SPECIAL DEAL."

For 1972, the famous Dart Swinger FREE AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION OFFER has been extended to include the Dart Custom four-door sedan, too. Buy either of these two new Darts, specially equipped with options like vinyl roof, power steering, and more, and Dodge offers you the automatic transmission free of charge.

Mother Nature's Bug-Killer

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD (UK College of Agriculture)

Ecologists, scientists, conservationists, and many others have long been vitally concerned about man-made insecticides and the way some of them enter the food chain, build up dangerous concentrations, and pose a threat to all forms of wildlife and even man himself. Because of this concern, there has been a never-ending search for safer methods of combatting insect pests.

Currently, much hope is pinned on the "Death Daisy" for a much safer and more powerful insecticide. The real name of this flower, already renowned as an insect destroyer, is pyrethrum. The pyrethrum, a cousin of the chrysanthemum, strongly resemble the daisy. According to botanists, they are apparently harmless in the fields and some insects feed on them with relish. But picked and dried, the flowers are lethal.

Pyrethrum, probably a native of Asia, is believed to be the Mother Nature's oldest bug killer. As far as many kinds of harmful insects are concerned, its toxic power is tremendous. It appears to kill them instantly and, except possibly in high concentrations such as can be found only in laboratories, is harmless to man and warm-blooded animals.

Once it is sprayed, the killing power of pyrethrins last from about 24 to 48 hours. This leaves little chance for animals to absorb the poison in increasing quantities until a dangerous level is reached. Because of this rapid loss of toxicity, it has so far not been too effective as an agricultural insecticide. Experiments now, however, are under way to make it longer-lasting.

No one knows when man discovered pyrethrum's power to slay insects. It was mentioned in the government record of China's first century dynasty 1,900 years ago. About 400 years ago, in what is now Iran, the flowers were being grown, dried, and crushed to produce "Persian powders," which was a famous and treasured insecticide of the late Middle Ages.

Balkan farmers began growing pyrethrum flowers in the early 1800's, and the production of "Dalmatian flowers" accounted for most of this insecticide until 60 years ago. Pyrethrum usually must be hand-picked, and it has been raised with varying success in California, Kenya, South America, and recently in New Guinea.

Infrequent but much appreciated supplies of pyrethrins made life in the trenches more bearable for World War I doughboys, and, in World War II, it packed the main punch in the bug bombs GIs carried with them into the jungles of the South Pacific and other insect-ridden places. But it has gradually surrendered much of its world market to more easily produced man-made insecticides.

Long ago when science was much less sophisticated, an astute medical practitioner observed that it was not likely an all-wise creator would give man wants and needs for which there was no supply in nature. The new experiments with pyrethrum, one of nature's products, may result in one more justification of this statement and supply the need for a less dangerous, but highly effective, bug killer.

Even unpacked, it's loaded.

The Volkswagen Squareback, fully packed, holds nearly twice as much as the average sedan.

But even when it's empty, there's still something in it for you.

Fully unpacked, the Volkswagen Squareback holds an impressive amount of standard features.

The seats are buckets. The front brakes are disc. The suspension is 4-wheel independent torsion bar.

The floor is carpeted. The carburetor is missing. (This is no oversight. In place of the carburetor is a computer that measures the precise flow of gasoline to the engine.) The radiator's gone, too. (In its place is nothing. The engine is air-cooled.)

And, as a bonus, the Squareback Sedan sticks steadfastly to VVeconomics.

Gasoline is used sparingly. Oil is used frugally. Tires go on tirelessly.

All of the added features don't add a single thing to the already low price of the car. Which happens to be something like $700 less than the average sedan.

So although it may be loaded, that doesn't mean that to afford one, you have to be.

In Memory

In memory of my mother, Dollie Belcher, who passed away January 10, 1971; To Mom, on her birthday, January 3:

Dear Mom,

One sad and lonely year has passed since my great sorrow fell,

The pain of just remembering words can never tell.

As day by day you suffered, it filled my heart with grief

To see you slowly fade away, I could not give relief.

Your weary hours and days of pain and troubled nights are past,

And in my aching heart I know you've found sweet rest at last.

May God forgive my silent tears and for always wishing you were here;

I know the good are first to go but Mom, I loved you so.

The midnight stars are shining upon your silent grave,

Beneath it lies the one I love, the one I could not save.

God gave me strength and courage to bear the parting blow,

The pain I felt to give you up no one will ever know.

But only for a little while will you be gone from sight,

For just beyond the hills you wait in God's eternal light.

I cannot say, I will not say, you are dead—you're just away.

Some day we'll be together again.

PCC Advisory Board In Meeting Here

Members of the advisory board of Prestonsburg Community College were asked by Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the college, to become involved in the work of various committees in the college. They were asked to serve on the allied health, athletics, engineering technology, business, home economics and management technology committees.

The request was made at the board meeting held Oct. 14 at the Plantation Motel, near here. Members of the advisory board this year are Marvin Music, chairman, Dr. Campbell, R. V. May, Curtis Clark and Burl Spurlock, all of Prestonsburg; Robert Conley, Paintsville; Russell Goble, Inez, and two ex-officio members, James Funkhouser, of the college faculty, and Bob Branham, president of the college Student Congress.

SCORES TWO T. D.'S

John Capparuccini, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sturgill, of Prestonsburg, scored two touchdowns on passes from teammate John Dolder last Saturday to lead DeSales, of Columbus, O., to a 29-8 win over Ready in the Reserve football league on the winners' field.

November is "blast-off" time in Kentucky. It's during that month that most species of small game become legally huntable and also when gun hunters may seek out Kentucky's big game—the deer.

For many years hunters have looked upon the third Thursday in November as the day on which the rabbit, quail and ruffed grouse become legal game. Along with these species the squirrel season reopens for the remainder of November and throughout December.

The third Thursday in November is the 18th, this year, and that is the signal for hunters to hie to the fields.

What they find is problematical but the best guess, as based on numerous surveys and talks with people in the fields, indicates the quail hunter will be well pleased with a population as large if not larger than last year's crop.

The rabbit hunter, of course, has had tough luck in some areas for the past few years, and indications are that the crop this year will about parallel the number found last season. Also, as was the case last year, the populations will be good in some areas and down in others.

This spotty pattern for the cottontail has been the trend for the past few years and is due to continue for at least another season.

The population will be guided as usual by the amount of food and cover available in the various locations.

The grouse crop also is unpredictable in the eastern Kentucky mountains where the principal population are located.

Field men say estimating the number of these fast flying woods birds is most difficult this year due to the abundance of food in the valleys, on the plateaus and on the mountain tops. With this condition the birds have not yet bunched up and may be found in these areas but not in great numbers.

For instance, in past years when food was scarce the grouse congregated in the area of the food, but this season they are scattered far and wide due to the great amount of various foods.

Squirrel hunters already have sampled the crop this year and will be granted additional days beginning November 18 and continuing through December.

Gun deer hunters will have their fling beginning Nov. 13 and extending five days through the seventeenth. Only bucks with forked antler or antlers may be taken statewide except in three counties—Edmonson, Barren and Hart—where either sex deer will be legal for the gun hunter.

And now, for the limits. Only one deer may be taken in the entire year by either gun or bow and arrow.

Rabbit and squirrel hunters may harvest six per day or have 12 in possession after two or more days of hunting.

The bag limit for quail is 10 per day or 20 in possession and the ruffed grouse hunter may kill four per day or have eight in possession after two days, if he is lucky.

Remember, hunting is a privilege and not a right. Ask the landowner before going on his property and also remember hunting can be a pleasure, or it can bring tragedy.

Be careful for the safety of yourself and the fellow hunters. And, thirdly, remember that hunting licenses are required. Check to be sure you have yours.

Nature Provides For All Man's Needs

By RUFUS M. REED

In the boundless repertoire of Nature there is a cure for every ill of man, whether emotional, mental or physical, and if we could only seek for it and find it, what a blessing it would be! One writer says, "Freedom from every disease may possibly be found in the healing agents of nature."

There is much evidence of a revival of interest in the healing processes of nature and of man's true relationship to nature and his environment. This revival today is mostly found among the rising generations who are showing a deep interest and a greater love of nature. The environment and its ecology is being studied as never before. Harry G. Garruthers in his book, "The Secret of Personal Power," says: "Give attention to the youth of today. Note their natural love of nature, their enthusiasm, industry, and how they long for knowledge of their environment. In the deepest recesses of their soul, they have a deep yearning for what is rightfully theirs."

We of today are beginning to realize that we are part of the whole of the universe and at one with all life. Alexander Pope had this thought in mind when he wrote:

"All are parts of one stupendous whole, Whose body Nature is, and God, the Soul."

The whole fabric of nature is joined together like a well-knit garment. Man is part and parcel of Nature's universal fabric; he is a child of nature. As Paul says, he is of the earth, earthy." And Bryant wrote how Nature has "the power to soothe man and steal away his darker musings ere he is aware." That's why we need untouched retreats and wild places, where man can retire from life's rat-race and let his soul commune with nature and Nature's God. As the poet says: "The charities (blessings of nature) are scattered at the feet of men like flowers." These are everywhere, all around us, but we are often too blind to recognize them.

The All-Wise Creator made everything—the plants, herbs, animals—for the benefit of man. Almost too late man has learned when he destroys nature and his environment he is destroying himself.

All about us, on every hand, are the good plants and herbs which the Creator made for the healing of man's ills. "The leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations," wrote John, the Revelator. The Apostle Paul spoke of the goodness of God in sending rain on the earth, to bring forth herbs as a blessing for man. "The earth drinketh the rain and bringeth forth herbs for them by whom it is dressed, and they receive blessing from God." In the First Chapter of Genesis, God said: "I have given you every herb bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth and every tree yielding seed."

It seems man has been slow to appreciate all these great blessings bestowed upon him by the Creator, who pronounced all his works "good." Man is the only one who has marred God's marvelous creation and made a lot of things evil that were made to be a blessing.

We have not yet begun to tap the many healing virtues and elements found in nature. A recent discovery in plants has many doctors praising its virtue in human nutrition; this is a nutritive element (Rutin) found in fruits and vegetables which are also rich in Vitamin C. It has attracted the attention of the healing profession and much research is under way. Rutin is now being combined with Vitamin C and the Bioflavonoids and offered to the people; some laboratories are preparing All-Rutin tablets for sale.

As scientists keep on searching in the field of nature, they will find more and more new and wonderful things made for the benefit and healing of man. It seems we have not yet tapped the surface of all the good things nature has in her repertoire for the good of man. Take Vitamin C, a comparatively recent discovery; it has proved a great blessing to man. Now is the time to take plenty of this marvelous vitamin, to fortify the body against the ravages of flu and colds. There are many good sources of this vitamin in Nature—the natural Vitamin C, which is found abundantly in rose hips (wild roses), acerola berries, cranberries, lemons, red raspberry leaves and many garden vegetables.

A cure for the winter cold recommended by many is, take three Vitamin C tablets with fruit juice every three hours for several hours, or until the cold is relieved.

It has been found that the small red berries of dwarf wild roses, which are called "hips," contain more than ten times the amount of Vitamin C than any other known plant. You can grow your own wild roses and have a fresh supply of Vitamin C every fall, to fortify the body for winter colds. These small roses grow in acid, sandy soils, usually on points and spurs of ridges. Botanists call them the "low or pasture roses," and know them as Rosa Carolina. The flowers are deep pink and quite showy, with a pleasing perfume. The leaves are compound, with 5 to 7 toothed leaflets. The flowers produce the red, fleshy hips, which mature in early autumn. Rose hips are used as food by many European countries, and were also eaten by the ancient Greeks.

These small wild roses often form large patches in sandy, or gravelly soil that is moderately acid; they can be easily grown in an open, sunny place with acid soil that is well drained. Vitamin C processed from these rose hips may be obtained at Health Food Stores; it is superior to the synthetic brands sold in drug stores, which is derived from coal tars. Right under our feet, as it were, the common blue violet grows everywhere and it is one of the finest remedies known for bronchitis and hoarseness of the chest. The leaves make a tasty salad and are excellent to thicken soups and stews. In the spring, every person who can, should eat the new leaves as a salad and as a corrective of bronchial disorders. Old-time doctors recommended them for "taking away the hoarseness of the chest, and are good to relieve sinus troubles."

The violet was the national flower of ancient Greece and was one of the favorites of both the Romans and Greeks. It was also used as a secret emblem by the followers of Napoleon. The Romans made a rare perfume wine from the blossoms of the violets. It might be well for us of today to consider some of the fine healing remedies our grandmothers used.
