THIS IS AMERICA

This is America, handle with prayer,
Wash her dirty face, and comb her stringy hair.
Her heart has become tainted by compromising with sin,
She harbors everything that's wrong and soon she will meet her end.
She used to be "America, the Beautiful,"
God shed His grace on Thee,
He will do the same again, if you will come down on your knees.
But if you insist on going down the broad, destructive way,
Where there is no singing Christian, and no one to pray,
And no God sent ministers to preach the word to you,
Then, goodbye, America, God sure has been good to you.
You've been a thriving nation through all these years,
You've been a good, big heart to many and helped to ease their fears,
But, America, you've strayed away from God, much too far, I'd say,
You had better come back while there's still time,
And fall on you knees and pray.
We are floating down the stream of time, and fierce are the waves,
Evil men wax worse, satan is real, and, America, you are not saved.
You're dabbling too much in the devil's playpen, even
Your church buildings are letting him in, and America, you know and I know, as does the whole world, that God hates sin.
America, have you forgotten Sodom and Gomorrah, and the flood in Noah's time?
I know you're forgetful, and have much to do, but God laid it on the line.
He is very specific in what He says, and the things He Wants done,
There isn't time for all you foolishness and all the Sins you call fun.
The son of perdition is being revealed, We see him in reality every day,
So America, we only have time left, To love, to work and to pray.
America, you have loved ones lost, You have neighbors and friends, too,
So wash your face and comb your hair And come back to God now, whatever you do.
The wheels of time will stop very soon And, America, where will you be?
Living luxuriously as always, or in Hell for all eternity.

America, you used to be a God-fearing nation;
On our money, "In God We Trust,"
And you wouldn't think of starting a school Day without Bible and Prayer, it was a must.
Now, America, the same God you loved and Trusted in days gone by is just the same today.
He hasn't left or forsaken you, but from Him you surely have strayed.
Yesterday's America was wonderful and Then you could proudly sing of God your Father, and how you loved Him, o how Your voice did ring.
He still loves and longs for you to Reverence just His name.
America, you don't have to live in such sin
And disgrace.
God will glorify you hair again,
And wash your dirty face.

America, come back to God.

COMPLETES COURSE—Vonda Jean Osborne, Buckingham senior at Morehead State University, receives her completion certificate from Mrs. Mignon Doran, founder and director of MSU's Personal Development Institute. The five-week, non-credit course is a unique and pioneering venture designed to sharpen social skills and improve other personal qualities. It has received national attention for its innovative approach to personal development. Mrs. Doran is the wife of the MSU president. Miss Osborne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Osborne, Buckingham.

Additional funds for homemaker services have been made available to the 15 counties comprising the Gateway, FIVCO, and Big Sandy districts to help families in time of need and also to provide employment opportunities for local citizens who wish to be trained to provide this service.

Homemaker Services have been a part of the Department of Child Welfare program for years; however, there were not even enough available funds to handle all the emergencies. According to the Department of Child Welfare area administrator, Charles W. Bonta, there are enough funds available now to provide preventive services. According to Mr. Bonta, "This means that homemakers can be provided not only in emergencies (hospitalization, severe illness, or death of the mother), but also to assist families to improve the standards of care of their children in the home. This may involve any combination of the following: nutrition, housekeeping, child care, budgeting, home safety, and family planning. If staff can be recruited for this program who are willing to work, the number of children removed from the home and placed in foster care, certain types of mental retardation, behavior problems, and infant mortality rates can be reduced."

If a family requests the service or is referred for service, a Department of Child Welfare worker will visit the home to assess the validity of the request and make a preliminary determination of the specific needs of the family. If the family is approved for homemaker services, a homemaker will be assigned. The hours will vary from a few hours per week to around-the-clock service, depending upon the specific problems and the plan which is needed to solve those problems. It is emphasized that this is not a free maid service. Those who are financially able will be expected to pay part or all of the costs.

In order to implement this program, two classifications of Homemakers will be used. The Contractual Homemaker will be paid at the rate of $1.60 per hour. The maximum pay for 24 consecutive hours of duty is $16.00 to $20.00, depending upon the difficulty and work involved in the assignment. This position requires a completed application form, medical form, and a personal interview.

The staff Homemaker is a fulltime employee of the Department of Child Welfare and must pass the state merit exam as well as the physical examination, and personal interview.

Any person interested in joining the Homemaker Service must have their own transportation, be in good health, and be able to read and write. The qualifications for the staff Homemaker positions are higher. For further information write to: Area Administrator, Ky. Dept. of Child Welfare, 2025 13th Street, Ashland, Kentucky 41101 or phone your nearest Dept. of Child Welfare office.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

"CHIPS"

Coal has about routed wood as a fuel; this makes it possible that many people in this generation do not know much about chips. But we who are fossilized remains of remote geological ages recall with pleasurable emotions all sorts of things connected with chips.

First of all, chips were used for kindling. Since much of the wood was hauled to the woodpile in "three-stock" lengths, the actual chopping took place at the woodpile itself rather than in the woods. Consequently, there were chips. The larger ones were picked up by the younger members of the family and stored away for winter use as kindling or to help start the fires around the washkettle at all seasons. The larger boys carried in wood; it was the prerogative of those larger boys to domineer over boys who were just big enough to pick up chips. I never knew a big boy who failed in his duty. Chips were such a necessary commodity around the house that they gave rise to a proverbial comparison: "As handy as a basket of chips."

Along about the time that bacon was hung up there came another use for chips. On the ground in the smokehouse, if there were no floor, or in an old kettle or stove the chips were burned, green ones being most desired, as they produced the most smoke. It was great fun to roast dried beef over the chip fire or to throw into the fire a handful of the waste salt left from the meat being cured. Meanwhile we were hardly able to see because of the fires that cured the meat and thus became, as it were, an annual incense to the gods of plenty and forethought.

After all the large chips had been picked up, there yet remained hosts of smaller ones and tiny slivers and pieces of bark. This residue had its peculiar use, however, when mosquitoes and flies became so common. We raked up small piles of those remnants and made smudge fires to drive away those pests from the cows at milking time. No odor has ever been quite so fragrant, either in the nostrils or in the memory, as the smoke from a smudge fire built at the woodpile.

Not all chips were burned; some remained on the ground and gradually returned to earth, making a rich, loose dirt that found many uses. Sometimes we dug up some of it for the earliest plantings in the garden, to hasten along the peas and beets and radishes and to help dry out the soil. Regularly we filled out flower pots with this dirt. It was inclined to be drab but very fertile. However, we doused the flowers weekly with the water left from the regular wash day and managed to keep the plants growing. Chip dirt was also attractive to fishing worms. To the woodpile we went in search of bait when the first warm days of spring invited us to the creek to try our luck. Tin cans and quinine bottles were always easy to fill with fat worms from the woodpile. And what a place it was for rank jimson weeds and thorny careless and dog fennel! And through the summer the flies could dust themselves in the places where we had dug bait. The very soul of the old-fashioned farm, as I now remember it, seemed to have permeated the woodpile and its chips.

The Lummi Indians of northwestern Washington have turned to aquaculture as a source of jobs and steady income. Their plan calls for mass production of oysters, salmon and trout and for the building of a trout hatchery. The Department of Labor's Manpower Administration and the Department of Health Education and Welfare have appropriated under the Manpower Development and Training Act a total of $565,000 to training 82 Indians in commercial fishing.

Is He Qualified?

There is only one man in Kentucky who really knows what kind of governor Tom Emberton would make. That man is Louie B. Nunn.

Aside from his association with Mr. Nunn, Mr. Emberton, as a man in public life, simply does not exist.

In 1967, Mr. Emberton, then 35-years-old, was practicing law in Edmonton, a town with 800 people, and had achieved only a modest professional standing.

He acted as a chauffeur and handyman for Mr. Nunn in his 1967 campaign — the campaign in which Mr. Nunn promised not to raise taxes, not to increase the state's indebtedness, not to increase the state payroll and to reduce the number of personal service contracts, ber of personal service contracts.

In December of 1967 Mr. Emberton came to the governor's office as an aide to Mr. Nunn, serving during the 1968 legislative session and acting as an advisor on legislative and patronage matters. Thus he participated in Mr. Nunn's cynical abandonment of all his promises.

As a reward for his services and without any apparent qualifications, Mr. Nunn appointed Mr. Emberton to the state public service commission — a part-time job which has always been regarded as a lucrative political plum.

While Mr. Emberton was still in the governor's office the salaries of the public service commissioners were nearly doubled from $9,000 to $16,000. While a member of the commission Mr. Emberton joined a Frankfort law firm, associating himself with two partners who have personal service contracts with the state.

Utility rates rose steadily during Mr. Emberton's tenure, and he exhibited no notable zeal in defense of the consumers' pocketbook.

However, someone connected with the commission must have possessed great political zeal because the commission's payroll was thickly padded with Republican drones who drew substantial pay without working and while living at home. Somehow, during this period, Mr. Emberton's father was placed on the highway department payroll in Metcalfe County although he was a semi-invalid and unable to work.

Mr. Emberton asks the people of Kentucky to judge him on his platform. But platforms may be constructed in haste, just as a candidate may be trimmed and styled in haste for public consumption. It is on his record that Mr. Emberton may be more properly judged, and that record does not indicate that Mr. Emberton possesses gubernatorial qualities.

We improve with age.

We like to think of ourselves as the Chateau Lafite-Rothschild of the automotive world. So it goes on. Since '49, we've made over a thousand body and chassis improvements. Last year we gave it a more powerful engine and nearly twice the luggage space it had before. This year we added 29 more improvements. We found a way to keep engine noise down. We found a way to make it run better in cold weather. And we found a way to make it run even smoother. What you see, once again, is what you get.

Donner Project Unit Scheduled In Prestonsburg

The Kentucky Department of Child Welfare announces that a request has been received from Ronald Wright, field office administrator, Department of Economic Security, for the Donner Project in Floyd county.

The Donner Project is a three-year day care program in which eight southern states are participating. The overall goal of the project in Kentucky is to upgrade the centers now in existence and through technical assistance create new centers in the communities where the need is greatest. It centers around a mobile unit to demonstrate the equipment, toys, and materials used in a day care program.

Day Care is a program of group child care which stresses the overall developmental needs of children. It strives to meet not only the physical needs of the child, such as health and safety, but attempts to meet his social, intellectual, and emotional needs as well. This means that the child learns to get along well with others, both his peers and adults, learns to accept child-sized responsibilities, develops self-confidence, and learns to express his emotions in a constructive manner.

Because of the increased number of working mothers, and the inability of many mothers to be with their children in the home, the need for day care facilities is becoming more and more evident. In Floyd county, there are more than 350 women employed in industry alone. According to the 1970 Census, there are 3,189 preschool children in the county, and an additional 6,781 between the ages of 5 and 13, many of whom need after school supervision. At present, there is not one licensed day care facility in Prestonsburg though three facilities in the county are in the process of being licensed.

The Donner Project Mobile Unit will arrive in Prestonsburg, Monday, November 8, and will be on display at the city parking lot the afternoon of the 8th and all day the 9th. A series of meetings are scheduled in conjunction with the mobile unit.

A training session for social workers will be held on Monday, November 8, at 1:30 p.m., at the Floyd County Library. Another training session for potential day care operators will be held Monday night, November 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the Library.

Those interested in the formation of a day care center in Prestonsburg are urged to attend the meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the courthouse on Tuesday, November 9.

Ceiling Prices Information Set

The Office of Emergency Preparedness announced last week that merchants must have a list of ceiling prices available for public inspection on or before November 1. The list, from which the seller is required to provide information, must be available at the place of sale.

George Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, ruled that the ceiling price list may be a single master list for the entire establishment or, alternatively, separate lists of ceiling prices for each section or department of the establishment. Until the ceiling price information is available, sellers must provide this information in accord with new procedures outlined by the Office of Emergency Preparedness.

A reception will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Boyd, of Betsy Layne, Saturday, October 30, in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary.

They were married October 29, 1921 and have spent most of their married life in Betsy Layne. They have five sons, Orbie, Gradis and Archer D., of Betsy Layne, Clifford, of Paintsville, Russell B., of Dayton, Ohio. They also have seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mr. Boyd has been a carpenter most his life and is still active in his occupation. Mrs. Boyd is the former Goldie Conn.

The couple's daughters-in-law, granddaughters and grand-daughter-in-law will hostess the observance.

Friends are invited to call at the home between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m.

The U. S. Labor Department allocated $3 million to Kentucky cities and counties to provide government jobs for the unemployed. Louisville, Kenton County and Lexington received the largest grants.

The theme of the devotional, "Love," was given by Lolita Campbell. Those attending were Judy Hale, Laura Mayo, Debbie Burke, Rita Layne, James Burke, David Lee Burchett, Philip Allen, Ronnie Burke, Charlotte Howes, Beverly Clark, William Burke, Lou Ellen Allen, Lolita Campbell and Rev. and Mrs. Ambrose Davis.

GIMONDO-BRADDOCK VOWS SAID

Miss Joanne Mary Gimondo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Gimondo, of Hartford, Conn., became the bride of Captain William R. Braddock, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Braddock, of Martin, at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon at St. James church in Albany, N. Y. The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. Anthony Sidoti.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a bouffant gown of Chantilly lace embroidered with iridescent paillettes. The gown was fashioned with portrait neckline, long puffed sleeves and tiered ruffled skirt draping to a chapel train. Her full-length silk illusion veil was caught to a Camelot cap of matching lace, and she carried a cascade of phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and ivy.

The maid of honor, Miss Jeanne E. Gimondo, sister of the bride, wore a gown of vintage wine crepe trimmed with Venice lace and wore a matching Dutch cap with bouffant veil. Her Colonial bouquet was of pink variegated carnations, pink sweetheart roses and white pompons.

The bridesmaids, Miss Eda Filippino, aunt of the bride, Miss Pam Nero, and Mrs. William W. Towers, wore gowns similar to that of the maid of honor but in Paris pink with Colonial bouquets of deep pink carnations, pink sweetheart roses and ivy.

James D. Gregg acted as best man. Ushers were Capt. William W. Towers, Joseph Gimondo, brother of the bride, and Harold K. Holmes. Those forming the Saber arch were Capt. William Towers, Capt. Harold Holmes, Capt. Lawrence Duprey, Capt. Stewart Ehrenreich, Capt. Daniel Duane, and Lt. David Gray.

Mrs. Braddock is a graduate of Cardinal McCloskey Memorial high school and is a former legal secretary. Cap. Braddock is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, a member of Lambda Alpha Epsilon fraternity, professional law enforcement fraternity, and is now serving with U. S. Army Intelligence.

Capt. and Mrs. Braddock will reside in Hartford, Conn.

State Selective Service Director Col. Taylor Davidson announced he will meet with representatives of Kentucky's 136 local draft boards during November to discuss details of the new draft law.

Whatsoever Things

By DONALD E. WILDMON

Every year since the Second World War an ad has appeared in The Crimson, the Harvard student newspaper. It is an "In Memoriam" ad, placed in the paper by Frank Rogan of Cambridge, Mass. Rogan works in the composing room of the paper.

The ad is a memorial to Rogan's Second World War Buddy, Seymour Eisner. Eisner was killed by German gunfire as he carried Rogan to an aid station after Rogan was wounded by a grenade during the fighting in Europe.

The ad reads:

"In Memoriam to a buddy who helped storm Omaha Beach, Normandy, June 6, 1944. No greater love hath a man than this: That he lay down his life for his friend."

"I'll never forget him," Rogan said.

How could he forget him? If another man dies in your place, how can you ever forget him. In a situation like Rogan's, one realizes that he is living only because another died. You don't soon forget when someone dies in your place.

Can you raise your sights a little now, lift your vision. A couple of thousand years ago another died, died so that we could live. He died in our place. Rogan quoted one of His teachings in the ad: "No greater love hath a man than this: That he lay down his life for his friend." When a man gives anything other than his life for his friend, he still has something to give. But when a man gives his life for another, he has given everything he has.

You can see a lonely hillside outside the old city of Jerusalem today. Tradition says it was the site of executions 2,000 years ago. A short distance from that place, called Calvary, the archaeologists have discovered a tomb carved out in the rock. Remember from the Book: "The grave was in a garden." The garden has been restored. It is very possible that this hill is the spot where the Teacher lay down on His cross and had the spikes driven through His palms. And then the cross was dropped into a hole and He suffered before He died. And it is equally possible that the tomb, today called Gordon's Tomb after the man who discovered it, is the place where the body was taken after death had taken its toll.

Rogan was right. You can't forget a person who has died for you. I know. Because that lowly Galilean did exactly that. He died in my place. He didn't deserve that death. He had done nothing wrong. But I deserved that death because I'm a sinful person. But He died for me, took my place, and gave me the opportunity to live. How can a person forget that? "No greater love hath a man than this: That he lay down his life for his friend." He not only taught it, He lived it. He called me friend, thought my life precious enough to be spared even at the cost of His own.

Rogan was right. When Someone dies in your place, gives His life for you, you don't forget. How can you?

Floyd's Library Gets New Grant

Librarians and library board members from 20 Kentucky counties met in the office of Gov. Louie B. Nunn last week for the presentation of $226,484 in amortization checks for public library construction and renovation.

Floyd county's library amortization check was for $7,276.

Prior to the check presentation ceremony, the governor placed a call to State Librarian Miss Margaret Willis, who is recuperating from surgery at St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington. Members of the group joined Nunn in wishing Miss Willis a speedy recovery.

The governor praised the growth of Kentucky libraries under the direction of Miss Willis.

Through funding of the Local Public Library Amortization Grant in July, 1968, Governor Nunn and Miss Willis announced the construction of 22 new libraries in Kentucky.

Sixteen of the libraries have been completed, four are pending dedication and two are in the final planning stages, with construction scheduled to begin in the next few months.

Following the check presentations, Governor Nunn urged the library representatives to continue their support of local library development.

"The future growth of our state will not be determined here under the capitol dome or in the legislative halls, but back in communities like yours," the governor said, "where folks like you are concerned with local development—development of community projects like libraries—projects that are greater than the individual, projects that affect the whole community."

Other counties receiving amortization checks included Barren, $7,000; Bourbon, $10,888; Breckinridge, $9,329; Butler, $7,988; Calloway, $12,562; Edmonson, $7,988; Hancock, $7,988; Hart, $9,166; Johnson, $11,832; Kenton, $30,000; LaRue, $7,988; Leslie, $8,224; Lincoln, $9,778; Marion, $10,166; Marshall, $9,255; Meade, $6,500; Metcalfe, $7,988; Nelson, $11,620; Perry, $14,976; Rowan, $9,984.

Presumably, the camping area will be operated by the state, since federal funds will be spent on its development. The campsite on Goble Branch was purchased by the U. S. Corps of Engineers, then leased to the state, but development was delayed while the issue of state or private operation was argued. Former Parks Commissioner Host at one time contended private operation under lease agreement with the state was more practical.

The Goble Branch area has been in use this year, but its facilities have been of the more "primitive" type.

acquaintance who didn't have anything better to do strolled in to watch misery in action. He finally gave up and stumped out with the unsolicited comment which ran to the effect that he couldn't make up his mind whether I looked at the moment like a fish that had been caught and left on dry land too long or if I was just like somebody who couldn't catch a fish.

NOT HIS DISH

You never know what you'll find on or in this desk of mine. Just now, pawing about for something or other—it escapes me, just what—I came upon a letter written me by "Buck" Scafe, shortly after he left these hallowed precincts. One sentence indicates how old it is. It reads: "The parking stymies me, or I'd have been in before now."

It appears from other lines in this letter that he had done a wedding story for me and that he considered that completely out of his line. Which caused him to relate the story of a friend who was deep in his cups, as usual, after his customary rounds of underground grog shops.

This was in Williamson, W. Va., and Buck wanted to get to the public library.

"Lemme see, now," mused the inebriated friend. "Now I'm sure it's around here somewhere. Saw it with my own two eyes, one day when I was sufferin'—sober. Yeah, down three blocks—maybe—oh, I don't know. If it was a bootleg joint I could take you to every one in town with my eyes shut. But libraries—my fren', they're jest a leetle bit outa my line."

compared with $282,000 for the same period last year," a spokesman for Palmer-Ball's office said.

Commenting on the report that attendance is down this year by 100,000 the commissioner's office said 1,000 is a more realistic figure than 100,000. It was admitted there was some loss but Palmer-Ball claimed this resulted from what he termed isolation of the park by road construction and the U. S. Corps of Engineers' restriction of lakeside camping.

The report claims 2,093 rooms and cottages have been rented this year—431 more than for the same period in 1970.

The Parks spokesman said, "Our records show that money given to develop Jenny Wiley was given by the Combs administration and that the Breathitt administration took these funds for the development of Lake Barkley."

Commenting on the charge that additional cottages were not built at Jenny Wiley, the park commissioner's office said that, although Governor Nunn had promised none, he did contact former Parks Commissioner Gable to determine if further construction could be done there and was told that the existing sewer system would not accommodate more cottages.

Nelson and Ervin Salisbury on the Jarrell Fork of Prater Creek netted a case and seven quarts of beer and part of a half-pint of whiskey. The officers arrested Clifford Jarrell.

Orberry McPeck was arrested by State Trooper Cantrell and Deputy Sheriff James Allen on a transporting charge.

Deputy Sheriff Nelson said Collins' liquor cache was found when he discovered that outside measurements of the building in which it was located were greater than inside dimensions. A tap of the wall and a four-foot-wide door opened. Inside was a refrigerator to keep the beer cold, he said.

Wanted in Dade City, Fla. on three breaking and entering counts, Johnny D. Collins and Charles E. Dutton, formerly of Weeksbury, were arrested Friday at Melvin by Deputy Sheriffs Ed Isaacs, Victor Tackett and James Bartley. Charles W. Harvey, who has been charged with third-degree burglary at Kendallville, Ind., surrendered at Garrett to officers when he learned he was being sought. All three men were taken by plane to Florida and Indiana for trial.

Others booked at the jail here:

having been wounded to where she was found.

In his report of the shooting Nelson quoted Mrs. Sally Nelson, mother of the victim and the accused youth. He said Mrs. Nelson told him her son came home, "crazy drunk," forced her to give him the 16-gauge shotgun kept by the family. She and her daughter struggled with him for possession of the gun and while this was going on he pointed the gun at his mother. A neighbor, Juanita Clifton, was called on for help in quieting the youth and when she failed she told Miss Nelson she would take her baby home with her till the trouble was over. She told the deputy sheriff she heard the shot when she neared her home.

Deputy Sheriff Nelson said the accused man's only statement was made to deny that he intended to shoot his sister. He was quoted as saying he did not think the gun was loaded.

Surviving the victim, in addition to her parents, are one son, Jeffrey Darrell, another brother, Tommy, of Dwale, and four sisters, Mrs. Phyllis Davis and Mrs. Anna Gooch, both of Danville, Misses Patricia and Joy Lynn Nelson, of Dwale.

Her funeral was conducted Tuesday at 1 p.m. from the Dwale United Methodist Church, of which she was a member, and burial was made in the Richmond cemetery here under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

had $30 million on hand, with all bills paid. "These people (Ford and Emberton) promise you a lot of things but they don't say how they will pay for them."

Of Emberton's promise of 200,000 new jobs he said, "This reminds me of Amos and Andy. Any number will do—200,000, 300,000, 500,000."

Concluding his talk, Chandler said, "I had to give you a choice. Otherwise, you had no choice—except Tweedledum and Tweedledee."

A major event of the Democratic campaign in this area will be the Seventh district rally scheduled at the Prestonsburg high school fieldhouse at 3 p.m. Saturday. Ex-Governor Bert Combs will be master of ceremonies. Wendell Ford, Julian Carroll and Congressman Carl D. Perkins will speak.

And yet the voting in this county is not expected to be up to par. Only in Martin is there local interest, and there the stimulant is a city election for mayor and council with a full slate of opposing candidates. Prestonsburg, Wayland, and Wheelwright will have city candidates on the ballot but none of these have formal opposition. At Allen candidates for council failed to meet the filing deadline, and the voting there will be by write-in.

Greer Collection Goes to College

Pikeville, Ky.—The Ben L. Greer Civil War Collection, including about 200 volumes, was presented recently to the O'Rear-Robinson Library of Pikeville College.

The selection, collected over a period of years by the late Ben L. Greer, Sr., of Knoxville, Tenn., contains a number of valuable books, several of them true collector's items, according to Mrs. Joanne T. Baker, head librarian of the college.

"Many of them are first editions, signed by their authors, which makes them even more valuable," she said.

Floyd Is Among Counties To Get Added Services

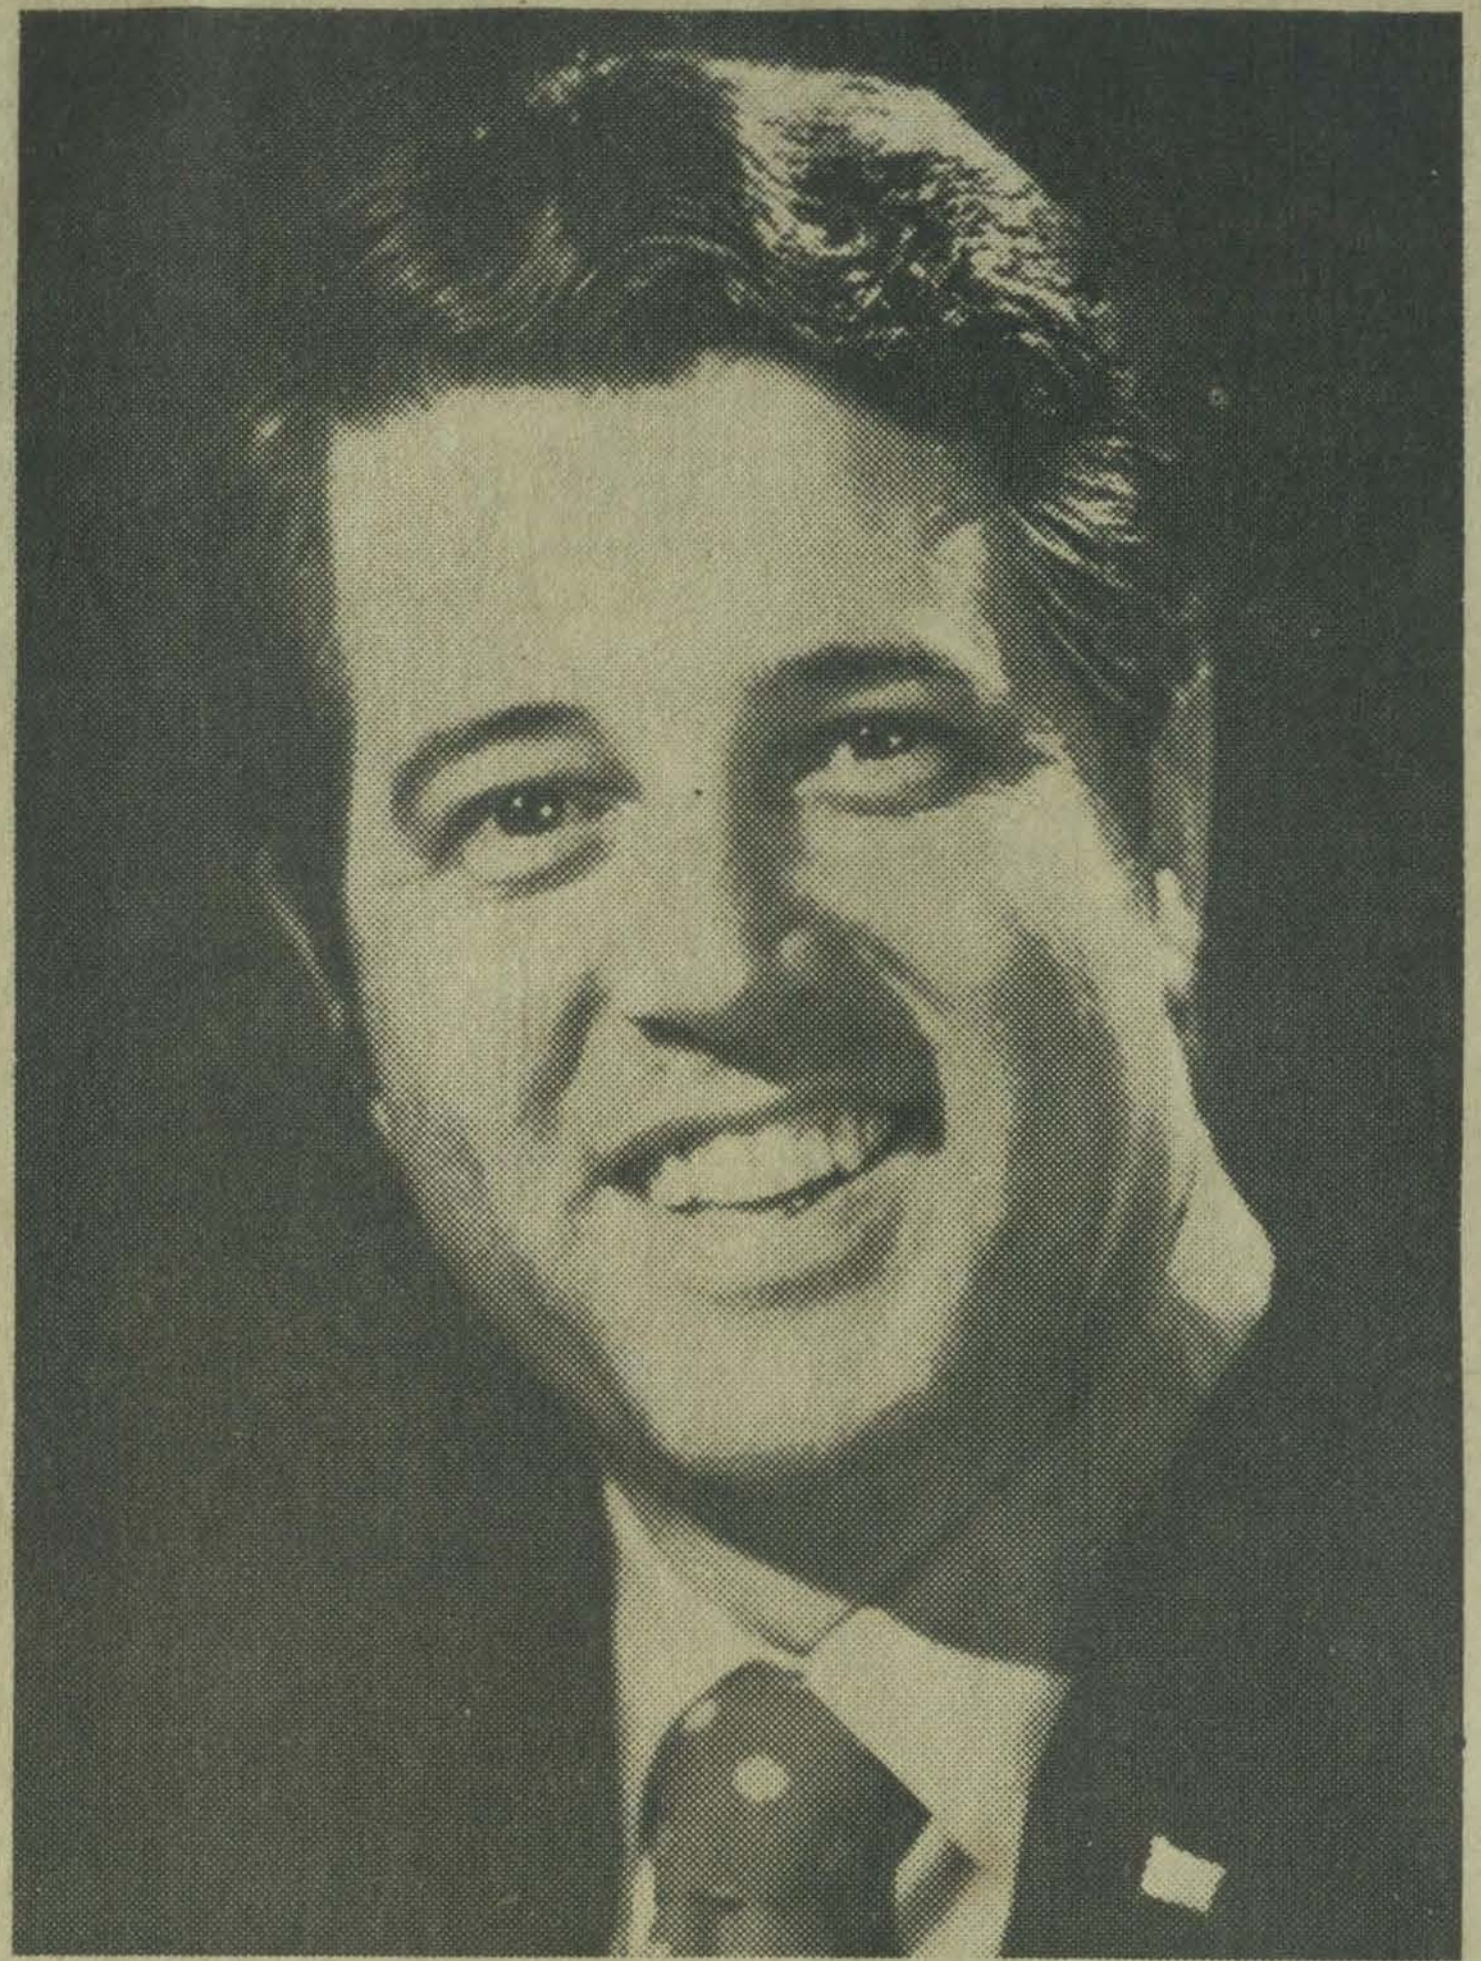

John Rosenberg, of Prestonsburg, director of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund in Kentucky, announced this week the opening of a new resource and research office in Lexington under the direction of David Murrell.

Murrell, an assistant attorney general of Kentucky for the last eight years, began work October 1. The new office is located at 630 Maxwellton Court, Lexington.

ARDF is a non-profit corporation presently operating in West Virginia and Kentucky's Appalachia. Its administrative headquarters and West Virginia Office is located in Charleston. ARDF operates a legal services program which concentrates on legal issues of regional importance. In addition to providing legal services for those who cannot afford a lawyer, ARDF has a staff of non-legal personnel which concentrate on community education and training programs, particularly relating to welfare rights under federal and state benefit programs.

ARDF's major facility will continue to be at Prestonsburg where Rosenberg will be directing a four-man staff which presently includes Paul Fauri, a 1969 graduate of the University of Kentucky, and Ervin Brown, a recent graduate of the University of North Carolina Law School. J. T. Begley, a January graduate of the University of Kentucky Law School, who had previously worked in ARDF's Prestonsburg office, will be working with Murrell in the Lexington facility. Another 1971 graduate of the University of Kentucky, Mort Stamm, is a part-time member of the legal staff, working both in Prestonsburg and Lexington. Murrell's staff will also include law student interns and a secretarial staff.

Rosenberg said that he hoped that with increased funding, it would be possible to expand the staff and open another major office in Eastern Kentucky.

"First Ladies in Miniature" Now on Display in Capitol

By MARIANNE KOHLER

Frankfort, Ky.—Former First Ladies of Kentucky, now in retirement, will not be forgotten, for a "First Ladies in Miniature" display has been completed for public viewing in the Capitol at Frankfort.

During Beula C. Nunn Day ceremonies last month, 18-inch dolls representing the wives or official hostesses of Kentucky governors from 1792 to the present were presented to Mrs. Nunn. With the arrival this week of four cabinets, specially made for the display, the dolls were placed in prominence just off the rotunda area of the Capitol.

There are 47 dolls, and No. 48 is waiting the wings for her place of honor. The task of going through hours of research as to what each first lady wore for her inauguration and her hair style was done by the members of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs.

It might seem that the work was completed when the dolls were made and adorned. Not so. The dolls had been stored under "maximum security" precautions in the home of Mrs. Joseph Evans, president of KFWC, and each one had to be carefully packed and transported from Lexington to Frankfort. With a sigh of relief upon arrival with no mishaps, the ladies began unpacking the dolls from a variety of containers ranging from orange crates to food cartons.

An array of sewing needles, pins, knitting needles, hair spray, iron and board, and various other paraphernalia was brought to make any last-minute mends. The most peculiar gear brought in was a set of fireplace tongs and two yardsticks, latched together.

After surveying the newly made cabinets, the frugal ladies had devised their own special way of placing the dolls in position. It was a well-planned operation. One table for hairdo checks, one for pressing wrinkled dresses, another for adjusting jewelry.

The four French-style cabinets are each nine feet long and seven feet high, glass enclosed, and mirrored to give observers a complete view, front and back, of the DOLLS' HOUSE—First Ladies in Miniature is a new exhibit now open to the public in the Capitol Rotunda in Frankfort. The delicately dressed dolls are glass-enclosed and mirrored to give viewers the best look at the intricate work which went into making them. costumed dolls. Sequins and shining jewelry sparkle under the fluorescent lighting. The only entrance to the cabinets is from either side, that's why the ladies had to use yardsticks and fire tongs.

With great patience and a steady hand, each doll was slowly moved to her position with tongs and yardsticks. Several times an earring was dropped and had to be retrieved and more than once Mrs. Downey's hand (she was hostess for her father, Governor Robinson) seemed realistically to drop the fan she was holding. The last problem occurred late in the afternoon when it was discovered that Mrs. Keene Johnson's rimless glasses had been lost. The ladies simply found an office in the Capitol, borrowed some clear plastic and made another pair, right on the spot.

Since most of the afternoon had been spent in tedious jobs, some of the ladies finally sat on the floor of the rotunda for awhile to work. Governor Nunn came out of his quarters to watch the production line with a smile and a shake of the head in amazement.

When all was done, the little first ladies stood proud and lovely in their glass cases, like a super-historic reception line for all the visitors who will see them in years to come.

Hundreds of workers at various levels of the construction industry are learning the techniques of construction job safety under a speed-up instruction program developed under the Labor Department to improve implementation of the Occupational Safety and Health Act. The program offers a free 40-hour course to concerned individuals and organizations and operates on the principal of training initial groups to train others.

The Department of Labor has allocated $200 million to areas with six percent or more unemployment for three consecutive months to place jobless persons in public service occupations. An additional $50 million, all part of the Emergency Employment Act funds, are being held in reserve to be used by the Secretary of Labor for further alleviation of high unemployment areas.

Your SOUTHERN STATES COOPERATIVE AGENCY

Reasons Why You Should Vote for A. B. "Happy" CHANDLER for GOVERNOR

This is his platform:

1. Reorganize State Government from top to bottom.
2. Refinance Kentucky's huge and illegal debt.
3. Remove the Sales Tax from take-home food.
4. Reduce Auto License Tags back to $5 from the present $12.50.
5. Oppose a Severance Tax on our minerals.
6. Propose a Presidential Preference Primary for next May.
7. Propose a state lottery and Kentucky Derby Sweepstakes.
8. Inaugurate a model Ecological Program which will make Kentucky the model state in the nation.
9. Prepare a sane, sensible and sober budget so that Kentuckians can live within their income and not have their tax and debt burdens made heavier.
10. Staff the Department of Natural Resources predominantly with qualified young people.

By education, training and experience, A. B. "HAPPY" CHANDLER is the most qualified candidate for Governor. He has always been independent, has always supported Republicans and Democrats alike, and has always been supported by members of both parties. He has served terms as State Senator, Lt. Gov., Governor (twice), U. S. Senator (twice), and Commissioner of Major League Baseball. He is an attorney and was a coach and a teacher.

A. B. Chandler plans to put the state on a business-like basis, as he has done twice before. When he paid off a state debt of nearly $30 million in the 1930's, and left nearly $30 million surplus in the banks after his term in the 1950's. He will not raise taxes and the state will live within its income and on a balanced budget. The people of Kentucky know that his word is good.

Chandler removed the sales tax in a previous term, so the voters know he can and will do it; Chandler enacted Kentucky's first primary election law, so voters know he can and will give them a Presidential Primary; Chandler's record is a strong and decisive one . . . Voters know he means what he says and will do what he promises.

As for his Lottery and Sweepstakes Plan . . . He believes people would rather buy lottery tickets than pay additional taxes; He believes the people of Kentucky have all the tax and debt burden they can stand. New Jersey, one of 12 states now either having or planning a lottery, has raised $80 million in 8 months and half of that has gone to education, with the other half going to lucky ticket holders. Hundreds win between $50 and $50,000 every Thursday in New Jersey and about a dozen new millionaires have been created this year. Lottery tickets are purchased only by those who desire them; new taxes will have to be paid by everybody.

A. B. Chandler has proposed taking the Sales Tax off food, and the voters know he will do this because he took the entire Sales Tax off in a previous term. Later, Mr. Emberton and finally Mr. Ford have promised to do the same thing. Taking this tax off may cost about $50 million or more, according to expert opinion. Ford and Emberton have only proposed a tax on coal which, while causing more unemployment in hard-hit Eastern Kentucky, will only raise about one-third of the money lost from the Sales Tax. The big question unanswered by either Ford or Emberton, is "Where is the Extra Money Coming From?" . . . Could it be from new or higher taxes?

Chandler has said where the extra money is coming from in his platform. He plans to raise it by means of a statewide lottery and a Kentucky Derby Sweepstakes. The lottery would take place each Thursday, with tickets sold for 50 cents each . . . The sweepstakes on the Derby would rival the famed Irish Sweepstakes, with people from all over the world buying tickets and thus helping Kentuckians to pay their taxes and aid their educational programs.

Chandler has proposed a plan whereby he will seek from all the colleges and universities of the state a list of qualified young people, from which list he will choose the next Commissioner of the Department of Natural Resources. This young person will then be challenged and charged with the responsibility of building a staff and a program designed to make Kentucky the model state of the nation in the fight for a better environment. Chandler reasons that young people should shape and lead this program, because they are the ones who will have to live with the results.

Regional Champs To Open Season With Knott Team

McDowell, Ky.—The 1970-'71 regional basketball champs, the McDowell Daredevils, open a new season Nov. 2 with Knott County at McDowell. Coach Pete Grigsby will send his 11th edition of the Daredevils on the floor against the Cardinals. He has won 266 and lost only 91 during his 10 years as coach here. The Devils hope to get off to as good a start as they did last season when they won their first eight games. Coach Grigsby will have to do part of a rebuilding job because four of his regular starting five were lost via graduation last May. Returning lettermen from last year are Steve Smith, Larry Shepherd, Butch Paige, Dicky Tackett, Jody Collins, Neil Moore and Neil Turner. Boys not lettering but who could see a lot of action are Eddie Campbell, transfer from Hindman who sat out last year because of being ineligible, Glenn Heinisch and Wendell Paige. This group of boys should make an interesting season in basketball at McDowell this year. This year's team has a lot to live up to because of the fine record of the '70-'71 team which had a won-lost record of 34-6. This record included winning the Floyd County Conference, the McDowell-Wheelwright Invitational, Henry County Invitational, the 58th district and the 15th regional tournament and the right to represent the 15th region in the Kentucky state basketball tournament.

Police Spokesmen Approve Crime Commission Legislation

By DAVE THOMPSON

Frankfort, Ky.—Representatives of seven criminal justice groups have voiced unanimous support for law enforcement proposed by the State Crime Commission. The measures will be presented to the 1972 General Assembly. The three bills, part of a packet of 12 proposals, touched most directly on local police organizations. Although endorsed by Public Safety Commissioner William O. Newman, none of the proposals concern the Kentucky State Police.

A police salary supplement proposal will provide for a 15 per cent increase in salary for local police officers who meet minimum salary and training requirements providing the minimum annual salary in those cities and counties equals $4530.

The proposal also calls for 240 hours of mandatory training for recruits and 40 hours annual in-service training for all officers and an incentive for officers to obtain a college education by providing 50 per cent of the salary increases based on college credits.

The second proposal requests appropriation of $6.4 million in state funds to match an anticipated $19 million in federal anti-crime funds over fiscal years 1973 and 1974. Charles Owen, director of the crime commission, said the 1970 General Assembly led the nation by appropriating $2 million for matching purposes.

The third bill calls for an amendment to the state Constitution to allow county sheriffs to succeed themselves. The legislature would have to authorize the vote.

The bill states that the relatively short terms of office for county sheriffs discourages them from entering systematic self-improvement programs to professionalize their law enforcement careers.

A similar bill has been presented to Kentucky voters several times, but has been defeated each time. The most recent was in 1959.

The seven organizations represented were the Kentucky Peace Officers Assn.; Kentucky Bar Assn.; Kentucky Fraternal Order of Police; Police Task Force; Northern Kentucky Police Chiefs Assn.; the Kentucky Sheriffs Assn.; and the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council (KLEC).

Charles Oldham, chairman of the KLEC, said, "In approximately 26 years of law enforcement work I have never seen so many agencies and organizations representing law enforcement societies gather to unanimously support legislation."

The organizations agreed that the police salary supplement will help attract and retain qualified personnel for local police departments, and upgrade on a statewide basis the entry, training, performance and operational standards of local police.

The projected biennial costs of the salary supplement proposal is $4.75 million. Since Congress has not yet appropriated funds for fiscal 1973 and 1974 under the Safe Streets Act, the source of all federal crime fighting funds to states, the commission was forced to estimate the amount which will be available.

DON'T LET THEM RAISE OUR PROPERTY TAXES!!

DON'T LET THEM BUS OUR CHILDREN ACROSS COUNTY LINES!!

Stop Wendell Ford and "The Hawaiian Plan"

- Sworn affidavits reveal that Ford's candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction supports the Hawaiian Plan of Education.
- The Ford-Ginger Hawaiian Plan would enable them to abolish our local school boards and replace them with a Commissioner in Frankfort, with power over the whole state educational system. HE COULD EVEN BUS OUR CHILDREN WHERE HE CHOOSES.
- We, the parents, lose control over our children's future.
- And the Ford-Ginger Hawaiian Plan would also put higher property taxes on you.

Help us keep this Hawaiian system out of Kentucky. Elect TOM EMBERTON and his team. He will protect our local school systems. He opposes forced busing of school children. With Tom there will be no increase in property taxes.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn announced the creation of a state Manpower Planning Council as an advisory body to him. The group will advise and assist the governor and local groups in developing a statewide manpower plan.

Perhaps, the most rugged hunting in Kentucky is offered by the ruffed grouse whose numbers are greatest in a tier of 33 Eastern Kentucky counties. Those rough mountains contribute much to the difficulties of grouse hunting but the hardness of this mountain, woods bird poses more problems than the terrain.

A day searching out grouse is a day well spent for the person who is in fair physical condition, but who needs rough exercise to take off a few pounds.

To follow the pathway of the grouse is to ask for the ultimate in Kentucky hunting.

The grouse, a wily bird that seems to anticipate the hunter and his dog's every move, prefers second-growth timber stands in high altitudes.

The roughest areas, those furnishing food and cover, are his home. If the food is available on a plateau halfway up a mountain, that's where he'll be. If abandoned cropland tracts have produced some berries and succulent buds, he'll be in the valleys, and if acorns and beechnuts are to be found high on the mountaintop then that's where the hunter is apt to encounter the grouse.

Seeking out the grouse is only half of the contest. Bagging him is something else again. On given days he'll sit tight when hunter and dog appear and will be most difficult to flush. On other days he'll "come up" far ahead of the dogs and flail away for 100 to 200 yards before sitting down again. He'll invariably put a tree between himself and the hunter and if a man is to bag his quarry he must be sharp of eye and quick on the trigger.

Harvested, the grouse offers delicious meat, near the top of a gourmet's list of fine foods.

All in all, the grouse is a majestic bird, admired by all hunters.

Yet this bird once was extensively known as the foolhen, and therein lies a number of stories, none of which may be proved from a scientific standpoint but which offers some interesting speculation.

The foolhen cognomen was brought about because this bird, at certain times of the year, would dare fly right through a window pane and into the living room of a home. He'd be so drowsy on other occasions that a tobacco stick would enable a hunter to knock off a mess of these tasty birds without even firing a shot. For this reason and others the ruffed grouse was known as the foolhen.

One feasible reason given by some laymen of these curious actions which seems to hold water is that the grouse is fond of wild grapes. In the fall, they literally feast on these delicacies. This is the time of year when people also gather grapes and from them make wine. Grouse do the same thing. In some manner the devoured grapes ferment in their stomachs and the foolhen image is created because the grouse is actually "drunk" or at least "drinking."

The season for grouse hunting opens Nov. 18 and continues through Feb. 28. The daily limit is four (seldom attained) and eight in possession after two or more days of hunting.

The Commission on Handicapped Children announced it served some 11,606 infants and youths last fiscal year. The number of new children under the agency's care increased 21.7 per cent.

Seventh District Women's Clubs In 53rd Annual Meet Here, Oct. 16

The 53rd annual meeting of the Seventh District, Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, was held October 16 at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, with 109 clubwomen in attendance. The Drift Woman's Club, celebrating its 20th anniversary, was hostess for the meeting.

The district governor, Mrs. William Hoffman, of Drift, presided. The invocation was given by Mrs. William D. Pratt. The president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Joseph C. Evans, Lexington, spoke on "The Choice Is Ours". She said KFWC has many areas in which the club member can work—with young people, traffic safety, the handicapped, older citizens, drug abuse, health and mental health programs, as well as in cultural areas. "The final choice," she added, "is up to the individual clubwoman." She challenged members to become involved in their individual communities.

Other state officers present were second vice-president, Mrs. Harold Mullins, of Valley Station; third vice-president, Mrs. Donald Dammert, of Erlanger; fourth vice-president and director of junior clubs, Mrs. Thomas McCoy, of Catlettsburg; treasurer, Mrs. Donald Buchanan, of Three past governors were in attendance: Miss Lena Porter and Mrs. Ray Barton, of Pikeville, and Mrs. Arthur Bradbury, of Prestonsburg.

Music for the occasion was provided by the Alice Lloyd College music department under the direction of A. H. Grender.

The 17 clubs of the district gave the highlights of the past year's accomplishments. Contests were conducted in arts, crafts and floral design. Mrs. L. B. Fairchild, vice-governor, Prestonsburg,
