

Attack Pollution, Judge Tells Jury

New Area of Crime Discussed As Less Violence Reported

With a lull in crimes of violence evident, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley reviewed for the benefit of the grand jury when it was convened for the April criminal court term Monday another area of criminal offenses.

This crime, he said, is against the environment—the pollution of streams, the cluttering of the landscape with garbage and, in particular, the great number of junk cars to be seen in the county.

Judge Conley quoted from a recently published statement to the effect that in Appalachia, a region which has only 4 percent of the nation's population, are 29 percent of the junk cars in the United States.

"We are a garbage dump," he said, he recalled the scene along streams of the county after the recent high water—chlorox jugs, everywhere, waste streaming from streamside bushes.

"The only way we can keep our young people here is to provide employment for them, and if we do not provide a better environment we cannot attract industry," he said. Industry representatives, he added, come, take a look, don't like what they see and tell us they will contact us later. Then they are heard from no more.

He suggested that dumping of debris into streams and along highways can be eliminated through the courts and enforcement of the law and told the grand jurors that it could subpoena witnesses and make indictments for these offenses.

Publicity on a few such cases would be a deterrent to many others, he pointed out.

Cited as possibly the worst case of violence to be investigated by the jury was the reported attempted murder and rape of a Perry county girl on Right Beaver Creek. No murders have occurred since the last jury session. The alcoholic beverage traffic remains, Conley said, the worst overall problem. Its seriousness arises, he said, not from the offense alone but what it leads to.

Herman Porter, of Allen, was named foreman of the grand jury, which is composed of three women and nine men.

G.O.P. Picks Hunt To Head Party In This County

The few precinct committeemen elected earlier at precinct meetings by Floyd county Republicans met here Saturday and unanimously elected Linzie Hunt, of Cow Creek, G. O. P. chairman of the county. Mrs. Gorman Collins was elected chairwoman.

One party leader said the results of the caucus may be taken to the Republican State Central Committee for a decision as to its legality. This same source said, however, that bylaws of the party were "tracked" through the entire procedure of naming precinct committeemen and electing a chairman and chairwoman.

Outgoing Chairman Jack Hyden, of Prestonsburg, first called a mass meeting for the county executive committee to decide if selection of precinct committeemen should be by mass meeting or by precinct election. Since a quorum did not attend the meeting, the party bylaws provide that precinct elections be held.

D. J. PATTON

D. J. Patton Joins Beaver Cr. Consol

The newest member of Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Company's official family is D. J. Patton, of Prestonsburg, who on March 10 resigned his position with Island Creek Coal Company as district superintendent of the Elkhorn Division to become assistant to David E. Boyer, Beaver Creek Consol's vice-president of operations.

A mining engineering graduate of the University of Kentucky in 1966, Mr. Patton was presented the "Old Timers' Award" as outstanding senior in mining engineering. During his senior year he served as president of the Norwood Mining Society at the university.

Upon graduation, Mr. Patton accepted a position with the Evans Elkhorn Division of Island Creek Coal Company, which included the Wheelwright, Spurlock and Gund mines. He served in various engineering and managerial positions prior to his promotion to district superintendent in charge of the Elkhorn Division.

He is a director of the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Mining Institute and a member of the Kentucky Mining Institute. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Patton, of Royaltown, and he is married to the former Nancy Slusher, of Salyersville. They have two sons, Dexter Brian, 5, and Byron Bradley, 2. Mr. and Mrs. Patton reside on Auxier road, near here. He is a member of Prestonsburg's Irene Cole Baptist Church.

$100,000 Damages Asked after Wreck

Damages of $100,000 were asked in a suit filed in circuit court Monday by Bernard Howell, father and next friend of Patricia Ann Howell, 17, against the Greer-Ellison Coal Company, Olin Elliott and Robert Elliott.

The complaint alleges that Miss Howell suffered permanent injuries in the collision of a car owned by Olin Elliott in which she was a passenger and a truck of the coal company here, last August. Robert Elliott was named as driver of the auto. Gross negligence on the part of all the defendants was alleged.

Woman Accuses Knott Countian Of 3 Offenses

First of the offenses to be investigated by the grand jury Monday morning was that in which Lois Faye Eubanks, young Missouri woman, accused Eddie Jones, of Knott county, of robbery and attempted rape and murder.

The young woman told, Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo said, of Jones bringing her from Perry county cafe last Friday night to a point near Hueysville and of his forcing her into an unnatural sex act at knife point and of robbing her of a watch and ring.

She said she fled Jones' car, near the railroad tunnel at Hueysville, waded Beaver Creek and made her way, almost naked, to the home of Will Gearheart, across the creek from KY 80.

A warrant was issued for Jones' arrest, and he later came here and surrendered to Sheriff Frank Leslie.

The woman, a female companion and a man who was with them claimed Aguel Jones, father of the accused man, later came to Garrett where they stayed at a motel and forced them to accompany him into Knott county where Miss Eubanks allegedly was forced to sign a statement requesting that the charge against his son be dropped.

The younger Jones said he had no part in the incidents described, that he and his wife did not return from a visit in Indiana with her relatives till Sunday night and that his first knowledge of the case came when he was told that a warrant had been issued for his arrest.

His father described the charges as a "frameup." He said the entire matter was a continuation of the long-standing trouble between him and Constable Kenneth Roberts over the liquor business.

"I operate on one side of the county line, and Kenneth Roberts operates on the other," Jones added.

He produced a statement, which, he said, was written and signed by Miss Eubanks. Dated April 3, 1972, it read: "To whoever it may concern: I, Lois Eubanks, drop all charges against Eddie Jones."

The elder Jones claimed the man who accompanied Miss Eubanks and the other woman came to him and offered to leave with them if he would pay them $300. Jones said he paid the man.

New Hospital Shaping Up

Exterior work on the new Highlands Regional Hospital, near Auxier, was being completed this week, leaving only landscaping, planting of shrubbery and blacktopping to be done outside its walls. Inside, work is set for completion in time for occupancy of the hospital, Sept. 1. The new hospital will employ between 250 and 300 persons and will have an annual payroll of more than $1 million. Chalmer H. Frazier, administrator, said applications for employment are now being taken. These workers will include registered nurses, licensed practical nurses, dietitians, X-ray technicians, orderlies, aides, housekeepers, among others.

This Town . . . That World

Let's outdo the glad gal, Pollyanna herself, and give with a tra-la and sweetly lisp, "April showers bring May flowers," and forget that some of them are snow showers. But, tell me—how can I afford to go to Tennessee after my boat if the weather won't permit a little incidental fishing while I'm there?

TROUBLE IN THE CHOIR

The thermometer has been yo-yoing at such a tempo that it's driving crazy those peepers that inhabit the little rill this time of year at the back of our house. The choir-leader barely gets them to wipe that silly grin off their faces when their voices freeze in their throats.

One day last week, they were silent, all day long, as the wind whipped things up and the temperature dropped. A warming trend set in, around dusk. I was reading, around 9:30 when the first peep came. A thin-voiced member of the choir squeaked a tiny peep. A pause. Then another. No response. Then he gave a peep-peep. Then another. The rest of the gang must have had that silly grin frozen on their faces. No response.

Then, perhaps five minutes after the first attempt at vocalizing, a gravel-voiced individual gave with a sound that was more grunt than peep—and the whole gang began.

Just like us humans, they followed the guy with the biggest mouth.

We have an idea that it would help if the President or his Wage and Price Control Board could just assure retailers that they would be able to an item tomorrow at no more than they sold it today.

DUNT ESK!

I don't know, but every time somebody asks me when "fast" time will begin I suspect I'm being needed because of that piece I printed, some years back, heralding the day and hour and getting the whole thing so mixed up that I had men arriving as far away as Paintsville for work, an hour early, and had school buses running ahead of time.

Don't, please, ask! Only last week, when I attempted to get a Sunday School class back together, I gave the hour as 10:45 a.m., and even people who were never there know that the hour is 9:45.

This is getting plumb embarrassing.

NO COCKTAIL, YOU SHRIMP!

The man had arrived home on a lordly drunk but had had some hours to sleep it off. When he arose his wife sweetly asked, "What do you want to eat?" "A shrimp cocktail," he replied. "Shrimp cocktail!" she snorted. "You've already drunk enough of that old stuff to kill you!"

Hawpe To Speak At ARH Seminar Here, April 19th

How to meet additional needs for home health care services will be explored at the fourth annual Home Care-Social Work Seminar of Appalachian Regional Hospitals, April 19-20, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Approximately 150 persons are expected to attend the sessions. ARH, a non-profit health care system embracing nine hospitals, maintains nine home care agencies in Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia.

The keynote speaker, David V. Hawpe, of Louisville, will appraise "Health Care in Appalachia". He is a Courier-Journal editorial writer and specialist on Appalachia.

Seminar subjects will cover demands for community health care, resources for health care development, problems of

Firm Gets Temporary UMWA Ban

Surface Operation Fights Organizing At 3 Floyd Mines

An alleged effort on the part of local union officials and members of the United Mine Workers of America to organize a surface mining operation in this county was temporarily halted last Wednesday by temporary restraining order.

The court order was made in response to a petition filed by the Kentucky Coal Co., an Arizona corporation, which has mining operations on Buck's Branch, near Martin, Caney Fork of Middle Creek and Bull Creek, near here.

The petition for temporary injunction was filed by Hobert E. Potter, vice-president of the Kentucky Coal Co., on March 29, the day following alleged attempts by District 30, United Mine Workers of America, Local Union 9845 of the UMWA and 18 local union officers and members to convert the coal company's employees to membership in the UMWA.

The alleged attempt followed by only three days the signing of a contract between the coal company and the Southern Labor Union, which apparently is not recognized by the UMWA.

The request for a restraining order alleged that the defendants, in conspiracy with each other and with others unknown to the plaintiff company, assembled upon and near the company property and threatened property, officials and employees of the company unless they abandoned all connection with the Southern Labor Union and Local Union 300, invalidated the labor contract with Southern and recognized the UMWA and its local union as sole representatives of plaintiffs' employees.

The petition alleged that plaintiffs picketed the premises of the Kentucky Coal Company; demanded that the company cease coal production and transporting coal to the tippie or by rail to market; prevented suppliers from providing needed ex-

Langley Man's 'Idea' Outgrows Its Old Quarters

Documentation, Inc., the brain-child of Ray Halbert, a native of Langley, has outgrown its Melbourne, Fla. quarters and will be the first tenant in a new 160-acre industrial park at Palm Bay, Fla., with a 28,000-square-foot plant.

Documentation, which produces computer card-readers, was housed last year in four buildings in Melbourne. At this time it occupies nine. Its owners, Halbert and Tom Wright, have bought eight acres in the Palm Bay industrial park to take care of both present and future expansion. They have an option on an additional eight acres.

Documentation, which now employs 140 and last year had a $1.18 million payroll, produces and markets seven different kinds of card readers ranging in speed from 150 to 1,200 cards a minute. An optical mark reader capable of reading not only computer punch cards but also cards coded by pencil markings, will be introduced before summer. Another reader is scheduled for its debut next fall.

Halbert, a graduate of Maytown high school and the University of Kentucky's College of Engineering, credits the firm's growth to its "heavy-duty, rugged machine" and its attractive price-to-performance ratio. "We're now talking to five major European companies," Halbert said recently. Documentation has a sales representative in contact with Japanese customers.

The Floyd countian hopes to double the company's production within a year. "We have on hand about $3 in sales for this year," he said at the time of groundbreaking recently for the new two-story building which will house his company's machine shop, assembling areas and corporate and engineering offices.

Raids Lessen Liquor Supply For the County

The holiday supply of whiskey and beer coming into this county was materially reduced last week by raids staged by state police troopers and deputy sheriffs.

In one of these, made last Wednesday on the premises of Orville Tom Hall, of Branham's Creek, State Troopers Williamson and Cantrell confiscated 76 half-pints of whiskey, five pints and one "fifth" of whiskey and three cans of beer.

Troopers Gary Rose and Keith Scott jailed Joe Johnson, Percy Dean Johnson, Terry Lykins and Jack Akers after two separate raids last Tuesday. They arrested the Johnsons at Hi Hat and confiscated 70 cases of beer and five cases of whiskey. The same day, the troopers arrested Lykins and Akers on KY 114, six miles from Prestonsburg, and confiscated 50 cases of beer and three cases of whiskey. All four men were charged with illegally transporting intoxicants.

A chase by Deputy Sheriffs Dester Hamilton and Ralph Howell ended on Branham's Creek, Tuesday last week, only after their fire had broken a window and flattened a tire of the car driven by Henry Shepherd. Three cases of beer also were broken by bullets. Shepherd was jailed here on a transporting charge, and the officers confiscated 1 1/2 cases of beer.

Troopers Rose and Scott were joined by Trooper DeBord last Friday in confiscating 40 cases of beer and 7 1/2 cases of whiskey in Johnson county. They arrested Arnold Lee Castle.

James Conn and Estill Damron were arrested last Wednesday by Deputy Sheriffs Claude Flanery and Otton Fannin, who booked them on a charge of knowingly receiving stolen property. They are accused of having in their possession equipment stolen from a Mud Creek mine.

Others booked at the county jail within the week:

Donald Blackburn, drunk driving,

Total of $157,250 Awarded in Three Right-of-Way Cases

Three more right-of-way suits heard last week in circuit court here resulted in jury verdicts allowing landowners a total of $157,250.

Largest of the awards was made to Chester Layne, et al, whose damage was placed at $85,000—$3,000 more than the figure set by county appraisers. James Ed Scutchfield was awarded $40,150, only $150 more than the appraisal, and George Conn, et al received $32,100, which was $6,400 less than the appraisal.

All the cases involve land through which the new four-lane US 23 passes.

Fewer Teaching Jobs Seen for Next Year

School membership for the sixth month of the current term indicates that Floyd county may have hit bottom in its declining student population and made the turn upward, but Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said the hope of employing more teachers for the coming school year is nil.

Actually, he said, there will be fewer teaching posts next year. The membership for the sixth month this year was up by 60 pupils over the same period for the preceding year, but Clark said the county was over-hired by four units this year, and those four units would serve 108 pupils. Consolidation also will to some degree reduce the number of teachers required. While he does not view the membership figures for the sixth month as a completely accurate picture of the situation, since they do not reflect the daily average attendance, Mr. Clark sees other factors that may determine future increases or losses in the pupil population. The closing of the Spurlock mines and the declining population in the Wheelwright school area are considered factors on the dark side.

"If these figures hold up for the next school year . . . we cannot employ a single new classroom teacher next school year, because the slight increase will not com-

Local Pharmacists Attend Seminar

Pharmacists Annett Utter, of Martin; Cloyd Johnson, Harold Cooley, and Ronald Johnson, of Prestonsburg; Ed Clark, Martin; Larry Singleton, Phil Clark, and James Thomas, of McDowell, attended a regional seminar at Prestonsburg Community College March 21, sponsored by the college and the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy.

The subject of the program was Arteriosclerosis: Clinical Significance and Therapy, and presented by J. Perrine, M. D., prominent Lexington Internist, and Dr. G. Sherman, University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy Professor. This is one of an eight-part seminar program designated to assist the 1,700 pharmacists and other health professionals across the State in continuing their education.

Programs are produced via closed circuit television over the UK Educational Television network or by video tape at 13 locations. Physician specialists in private practice and faculty of the UK Colleges of Pharmacy and Medicine present the various topics at these meetings. The lecturers are available to answer participants' questions by the use of a telephone connection with each location and the U. K. studio.

Number of Farms in County Less, So Is Income, Census Shows

Floyd county showed a total of 257 farms in the 1969 Census of Agriculture, according to figures released by the U. S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census.

In the last previous census of Agriculture (1964) the number of farms reported in the county was 768.

Of the county's total farms in 1969, 20 are reported as selling $2,500 or more of agricultural products in the year, as compared with 10 in 1964.

The report also shows average farm size in the county was 127.5 acres, and average value of these farms (land and buildings) was $15,360.

Other figures from the report are:
1. Value of all farm products sold in 1969, $182,115; in 1964, $196,995.
2. Value of all crops sold in 1969, $60,281; in 1964, $63,804.
3. Value of all livestock, poultry, and their products sold in 1969, $114,334; in 1964, $128,391.

With a total farm income in 1969 of only $182,115, the county's farmers, according to the Census report, had production expenses which totalled $230,964.

Only one Negro farmer was listed in the county in 1969. There were four, five years earlier.

Livestock production showed a marked decline in the five-year period. The number of cattle in Floyd farms dropped from 2,776 in 1964 to 1386 in '69; hogs, from 1017 to 362, and sheep from 208 to 40.

Yet 20 farms in the county had sales of $2,500 or more in 1969 as compared with 10 in that category in 1964.

A national program to match servicemen having building and construction skills with jobs in the construction industry has been undertaken by the National Association of Home Builders and the Associated General Contractors of America. The Veterans Construction Job Clearinghouse will focus on the 19,000 servicemen skilled in construction trades who are expected to leave the military in 1972. The project is funded through the Manpower Development and Training Act.

For the first time since the early 1960's, the 1971 labor force participation rate of married women, both white and Negro, failed to show an over-the-year rise.

Goodman-McCoy

Mrs. Garnet Goodman announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Janie Goodman, to Mr. Gary McCoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. McCoy, of Prestonsburg.

Miss Goodman is a graduate of Morehead State University and now teaches mentally retarded for Mountain Mental Health Services here. Mr. McCoy is graduate of Mayo Vocational School and is now associated with his father in the operation of the Mountain Metal Company in Prestonsburg.

The gracious custom of open church will be observed April 16 at 2 p.m. at the Irene Cole Baptist Church here.

Franklin Circuit Judge Henry Meigs says he will dismiss an appeal by Atty. Gen. Ed Hancock to block a $25.5 million rate increase recently granted for South Central Bell Telephone Co. by the state Public Service Commission.

Calhoun-Chaney Vows Said in Dayton, Ohio

The marriage of Miss Judy Calhoun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Calhoun, of Prestonsburg, to Mr. Marvin D. Chaney, son of Mrs. Lula Chaney, of Wilmington, O., and the late Leroy Chaney, was solemnized at 2 p.m., February 18 at the Grace Baptist church in Dayton. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Garland Wilkerson, formerly of Prestonsburg.

The bride wore a white street-length dress fashioned with long sleeves. She carried a white prayerbook and a bouquet of stephanotis and lilies-of-the-valley centered with a white orchid.

The maid of honor, Miss Margie Goble, of Maysville, wore a pink, street-length dress and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Ed Speelman, of Wilmington, O., was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Chaney are residing at 250 Kenyon Drive in Wilmington, O.

During February, the unemployment rate of Vietnam veterans dropped to 7.4 percent from 8.5 percent. This is its lowest level in more than a year.

"Local Boy Makes Good"—Elsewhere

The invitation would be some years late in the sending, but when this newspaper prints a success story such as that of Ray Halbert (see this edition) we are tempted to conclude it with a very personal, "Why not come back home?"

One cannot but admire a young Floyd countian for his ability and initiative when he succeeds elsewhere, but questions just naturally beg to be asked.

Why leave Kentucky and go to Florida? Why leave Floyd county, Ky.? Could you have made a "go" of it, here at home? Was the business climate here unfavorable? Did the labor situation influence the choice of Florida? Was there a fear that the business would not get on its feet before a union closed in?

Kentucky is more centrally located than Florida. Kentuckians—especially, Eastern Kentuckians—have a good record with manufacturers as workers, willing to learn and to work. New manufacturing businesses—notably, American Standard and U. S. Shoe—are doing well here.

The Times ask these questions, certainly in no spirit of criticism. It asks them because it would be enlightening and helpful to have frank answers from Mr. Halbert, if he cares to discuss a matter which is his own business and none of ours—except that we do need to know what we need, or do not need, to attract young blood of ability and initiative back home.

Dwale Girl Wins In State Contest

Morehead, Ky.—Vaughn Caudill, Grayson junior at Morehead State University, has been elected Kentucky president of Phi Beta Lambda, business honorary.

Winona Foster, Morehead junior, received the first-place award in statewide executive typist competition. Caudill placed second in the accounting contest.

Debbie Burchell, Dwale senior, was judged second in business administration. Roger Rowe, Garrison senior, and Raymond Mason, Crockett senior, were second and third respectively in "Mr. Future Business Executive" competition. Manzil Bush, Lexington freshman, placed third in data processing.

The MSU chapter finished third in "Best Annual Local Chapter Activities Report," best chapter scrapbook and chapter attendance.

Gov. Wendell Ford is recommending recreational classification for all of Kentucky's interstate streams, removing the last roadblock to gaining federal approval of the state water-quality program. The Water Pollution Control Commission previously had recommended recreational listing for only about one-third of the Ohio River, while the federal Environmental Protection Agency wanted that classification for all of the Ohio as well as other interstate streams in Kentucky.

The number of people enrolled in federally assisted work and training programs continued to rise in fiscal 1971, the Department of Labor reported. New enrollments exceeded 2.1 million—a 15 percent increase over the 1970 level.

PCC Queen Candidate

Miss Sharon Calhoun, freshman, was elected Friday to represent Prestonsburg Community College as its queen candidate at the Mountain Dew Festival to be held here April 13, 14, 15.

She will compete with five other representatives of two-year colleges from other sections of the state. They will participate in a parade here Saturday morning and the formal crowning of the queen will take place that evening at the Mountain Dew dance.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Calhoun, of Prestonsburg, Miss Calhoun is an art major, maintaining a B average at the college here. She was recently named Miss Introspect of 1972.

The state Division of Reclamation filed suit against one of Kentucky's largest stripmining firms, Peabody Coal Co., charging it with building a half-mile long illegal road at an Ohio county operation. The suit seeks a restraining order against further work in the area without permit and asks for a $1000 penalty for violation of regulations and $1000 per day for each day Peabody has been in violation.

TO BE HERE FRIDAY

The Chicago Staff Band of the Salvation Army will appear here Friday under auspices of the Eastern Kentucky Concert Series. Termed "The band with a sacred message", it will be heard in a children's concert at one o'clock Friday afternoon at Prestonsburg Community College. For concert series members, a performance, last of the season, will be held at 8 p.m., Friday evening, at the Prestonsburg elementary school auditorium. On Sunday, the all-brass ensemble plus percussion will conduct the worship service at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist church. Under direction of Major Ernest A. Miller, the band is composed of approximately 38 members all of whom are volunteers who serve without compensation and are either officers and employees at the Chicago headquarters or are lay Salvationists in the Chicago area.

The $9 Impala Option,

Pontiac Catalina.

That's right. Just add $9 to the base list price and transportation cost of a 4-door Chevy Impala and you've got a new 4-door Pontiac Catalina.

A big Pontiac Catalina. The wide-track Pontiac. With a longer wheelbase. A big car. Roomier. And better riding. With a new front bumper system to protect that classic styled front grille that comes standard. And it's a real money saver to operate, because it only takes regular gasoline to run that powerful big V-8, 350 cu. in. standard engine. Bigger car styling from the outside through the inside.

So obviously, the price isn't the only difference.

If you're thinking of an Impala, a Galaxie 500 or a Fury III . . . there's a Pontiac Catalina closer than you think.

All-State Honors, College Bids Come Flocking to 6-11 Smith

Sports Associates, Inc., Dayton, O., announced last week that McDowell high school's 6-11 senior center, Steve Smith, has been invited to play in the second annual Midwestern All-American Basketball Classic to be played April 28 at Hara sports arena, Dayton.

Young Smith also was recently named to the Lexington Herald-Leader's all-state team, and he has also been honored as an "Outstanding Teenager" from the 1972 crop of Kentucky high school seniors.

Sought by many college teams, Smith has narrowed his choices of schools to four, Pete Grigsby, Jr., his coach for the four years of high school play, said. These are the University of Kentucky, North Carolina State, Morehead State University and the University of Hawaii, Grigsby said.

Smith is McDowell's all-time top scorer. In his four seasons there he scored 2,534 points in 137 games; holds the rebound record for four years and the most rebounds in a single game (34). And this season he also led his team in assists with 121. The 137 games in which he participated is the greatest number ever played by a McDowell athlete.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the wonderful people for all kindnesses shown us upon the passing of our brother and husband, Roland McCall. We would like to thank the Hall Brothers Funeral Home, for its efficient service, and the ministers of the Church of Christ for their kind and consoling words.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.

Modern people have become so accustomed to seeing characters in plays and pictures and on television dressed in what is supposed to be genuine clothing of the time represented that it comes as a shock to learn that this idea is decidedly modern, almost recent. Why, David Garrick, two hundred years ago, acted Hamlet in the court dress of Garrick's time; it would have been thought queer if he had been dressed, ever so accurately, like some long-ago Danish prince. In Shakespeare's time the custom had been the same, so that Julius Caesar struts around in Elizabethan soldier dress, not in toga.

Going back beyond Shakespeare's times, we find the retellings of the Bible stories in dramatic form, as annual events in many places, unconscious of there having ever been any difference between how people dressed and now. In Chaucer, back in the mid-1300's, we are told specifically by the poet that the soldiers who took part in the great tournament, in "The Knight's Tale," were dressed as soldiers dressed in Chaucer's own time. The poet even adds that there is nothing new under the sun, that things are now as they have always been.

Many years ago, when THE GREEN PASTURES was being played by a colored company of unusual acting ability, some of my own friends were disgusted that the playwright had had the characters talking and acting like contemporary people, black and white, in some back-country area of Louisiana. To have done otherwise would have destroyed the highly-personal appeal of the play. It was meant to show how much like earth was Heaven, with just the wicked things removed. "De Lawd" Himself was pictured as a good old man, one who understood and loved his "chillun." I have rarely felt any tenderer emotion than I did when "De Lawd" came on the stage for the first time; the smallest children ran to meet him, to hold his hand, to show how much like a good man their conception of Deity was. Having grown up among colored people and white people, too, who found their own experiences in the lives of Biblical characters, I have no inclination to laugh or sneer then or at any previous reading of the play itself. In every scene I could have matched some event from Sulphur Springs and Mount Zion; and in the group of people who came to see my father, the doctor, I found some of the strange childishness, the "tears of things," as the Latins called it, that somehow kept me from seeing only the comic side of primitive but honest people.

Much has been written about the overwrought romances that flooded the whole civilized world in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. It is fashionable to lump all such novels and stories and poems into one category and sneer or laugh cynically at the immaturities of those times. Similarly, we have often found amusement in the people around us, looking with toplofty contempt on the ignoramuses. Come now, did you ever read a romantic novel, no matter how mushy and tearful it was, without keeping in your very bones some of its best truths? Recently, in talking to dozens of old-timers about the McGuffey Readers, I have found that most of them admitted, even without my asking, that many of their earliest moral decisions to behave themselves came from some highly-moralized selection in the old reader. Some matter of daily courtesy, of tolerance of things that are honestly done, of dreams of better things to be—this might be traced directly to some that came into our immature minds when we needed it and stayed and developed into a portion of our life philosophy. I admit that many romanticists overdid their Dreamworlds; but what do most romancers or novelists do now with their characters? It seems that most writers, and therefore most readers, want to see the seamy side of everything. We oldsters saw plenty of that in our daily lives; we wanted to believe in something better than we knew in our little narrow world. If transferring our feelings to Biblical or storybook characters created livable dreams, why sneer at the primitive way we read our books?

PERSONAL SHOWER

Martin, Ky.—Mrs. Clinton Barnette, nee Constance Gay Hogsed, was honored with a personal shower here, March 18. The color scheme of lavender and white was carried out in table decorations. The refreshment table was covered with an ivory ecru lace cloth over lavender and was centered with a floral arrangement of deep lavender mums with greenery in a silver bowl.

Punch, iced cakes, nuts and mints were served by the hostesses, Miss Frankie Hall, Mrs. Linda Turner, Mrs. Janet Hall, Mrs. Donna Mosley, Mrs. Gracie Scott and Mrs. April Gayheart.

Many personal gifts were presented by the hostesses, also by Mrs. Sherry Dings, Miss Belinda Barnette, Miss Denise Ison, Mrs. Sue Wright, Mrs. Bide Click, Mrs. Marla Kay hall, and Mrs. Vivian Barnette.

Martin Receives the Bowie Award As Clemson's Most Valuable

Clemson, S. C.—Buddy Martin, junior guard from Wayland, Ky., received two awards Wednesday night during the second annual Tip-Off Banquet held in Harcombe Commons dining hall honoring the 1971-72 Clemson basketball team.

Six awards were made altogether, and the 450 in attendance heard veteran University of Kentucky basketball coach Adolph Rupp deliver the main address.

Martin received the Bowie Award, given annually to the most valuable player on the team. Its donor, Paul Bowie, made the presentation. Martin also received the best defensive award, presented by the Clemson Tip-Off Club.

Martin saw action in 22 of Clemson's 26 games and started in 10. He was injured in the North Carolina game in Charlotte's North-South doubleheader and missed the next four games. Not known as a shooting guard, Martin scored in the double figures in five games, his season high being 18—points against Virginia Tech.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Martin, of Wayland.

THE CRUELTY THAT WARPS CHARACTER

When I was a small boy I watched a man hold a dog by his hind leg and whip him unmercifully. I ran home in tears to tell my mother. She put her hand on my head and consoled me, saying, "That cruel man will get paid back."

"When, mother?"
"In the Great Day of Judgment. The Bible says the cries of the dumb beasts will rise up against all such men and they'll have to pay for their cruel deeds."

Psychiatrists and penologists who study the life history of criminals report that many hardened criminals had the seeds of cruelty sown in their childhood years, in some overt or cruel act to animals. The man who has a compulsion to kill for the thrill of seeing something suffer pain was once the boy who delighted in tying a tin can with gravels in it to a dog's tail and laughed to see the frightened creature flee in wild terror. He was once the boy who tied the tails of two cats together and hung them across a wire and laughed as he watched them claw each other to death.

The adult man or woman who takes pleasure in cruelty or commits cruel acts on living things had the wrong seed sown in his or her life in the most impressionable years.

The lives of many high school students are often warped and turned in the wrong direction by dissecting animals in the classroom. They cut them up to study their "insides," and to try to learn "what makes them tick."

I heard of the case of a young girl of 18 who was badly warped by being required to dissect animals for study. She would carve on a live frog to study its reflexes. In this manner she acquired a compulsion later on to cut up just any animal she saw "to see what makes it tick." In dissecting animals, students do not learn what makes them tick, and the knowledge gained is worthless insofar as learning the life secrets and life habits of animals. The only thing that makes any living creature tick or function is the life it has, which was bestowed on it by the Divine Creator. So it is far better for students to go afield and study living things in their natural environment and learn their life history and habits, how they love the joys of living, how they rear their young, maintain their home life. A dead animal, cut up and dissected, has lost the divine spark of life and cannot afford joy or pleasure to anyone who might wish to dissect it.

Any kind of cruelty to any living creature is bad for the personality; it is more so especially to those who are in their formative stages of life. Even a mild cruelty to any animal may result in later life in a serious aberration of the personality. It is quite easy for any form of cruelty to any living thing to gradually grow into sadistic tendencies, in which cruelty becomes tied to the sexual desires. Any form of cruelty practiced in early youth may develop into sadism, in which sexual pleasure is experienced through being cruel. The man who kills for the "thrill" is a sadist and his sexual life is so badly warped he can find no pleasure except through an act of the vilest cruelty, often a bloody murder.

Any tendency to cruelty in a boy or girl should be checked by parent or teacher. Any act of cruelty can easily start the child on the wrong road and in later life can lead to heartbreak and tragedy.

Any person who shows pleasure in cruelty to animals or to children should be watched and corrected, if possible. Such a person can become a menace to society in later life.

Instead of dissecting animals to study their digestive systems, or their sexual systems, or their circulatory system, children should be taught to be humane and to study living things, and to protect life, not destroy it. To be humane is a mark of greatness in man or woman.

To be cruel is the mark of a bully or a coward, or a sex deviate. To be kind is the mark of a man like Abe Lincoln; kindness led him to dismount from his horse and rescue a baby bird from a muddy place in which it had fallen. This caused those who

Between 1970 and 1971, output per man-hour rose approximately 3.5 percent. This marks the first year since 1966 that productivity grew at a higher rate than the 1950-70 average of 3 percent.

91st Birthday Nears

"Aunt" Mary Patton will observe her 91st birthday at her home at Lackey, April 9. Among those who are expected to help her celebrate the occasion will be her children, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hall, Beaver, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kilgus, of Louisville, Mr. and Mrs. John Gamble and Kenny, Alex Patton and Helen Edison.

The Department of Labor is conducting an intensive nation-wide survey of work-related injuries and illnesses. The program is designed to strengthen and enforce work safety and health standards through mandatory recordkeeping by employers.

Another old man I knew died a most horrible death several years ago because when he was a young man he was downright cruel. He drove a team of oxen and hauled heavy logs. He carried a lace leather whip 10 feet long, which had a sharp "cracker" on the end and could bring the blood. When the oxen got stalled with a heavy log, he would wave his big whip over them and he often slashed them and brought the blood out of their hides. The oxen would get down on their knees and beg and moan as they begged him not to whip them with the cruel whip. But he was cruel then and didn't care.

When he lay dying in agony, about 50 years later, no human being could bear to stay in the room with him, for he kept on calling out: "Take them oxen away! Make them stop moanin'!"

In his imagination he could hear the moans of the oxen as he beat them; he would go into wild delirium and cry for the people to get the oxen out of his sight so he could die in peace. The agony he knew in dying was worse than the suffering of the oxen when he beat them with his cruel lash.

Hindman Mayor Would Reconstruct Old Town, Reenact Famed Feud

If Hindman Mayor George Clarke's request for a grant of $75,000 in Special Impact funds is approved, Knott county may have a tourist attraction which is a Kentucky first—a replica of a late 19th century town, complete with mountain feud.

Writing Malcolm Holliday, Jr., Hazard, executive director of the Kentucky River Area Development District, to request the grant, Mayor Clarke said the attraction would consist of a replica of the town of Hindman as it was in the late 1800's, and that this would be the scene of the reenactment of the Hays-Jones feud which is a part of the history of the Knott county-seat and Eastern Kentucky and which was fought out on the streets of the present Hindman.

The feud involved Clabe Jones, who became famous as a feudist, and "Cap" Hays, patriarch of a well-known Knott county family. Clabe Jones also was involved in a feud with Talt Hall, whose reputation was equally fearsome.

The Old Hindman would be built, according to the mayor's plans, near the present county-seat, and a park would provide recreational and camping facilities, bridle paths, hiking and nature trails and the like. A dam would be constructed to provide a future water supply for the towns of Hindman and Pippa Passes and surrounding area. One thousand acres of pastureland would be fenced for a buffalo herd.

Wrote Mayor Clarke: "The attraction, along with the Hindman Settlement School, Alice Lloyd College, Carrs Fork Lake, the old Johnson cabin, the Lonesome Pine, Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come Trail, caves in Letcher county, Jenny Wiley State Park, our scenic beauty, and many other attractions could make tourism one of the leading industries in Eastern Kentucky. Why should tourists drive all the way to the Smokey Mountains when they can stop in Kentucky?"

Senator Harris Slates Hearings On Strip-Mining

Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris will tour strip-mined areas in Eastern Kentucky tomorrow (Thursday) morning and hold an unofficial hearing on strip-mining that afternoon at the Appalachian Regional Hospital in Hazard, his office announced.

The public hearing is the second of five such sessions the Democrat and self-described populist is planning to hold around the country on his own this year.

In addition to investigating the strip-mining itself, Harris plans to examine the role the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) plays as a chief customer of surface-mined coal, an aide said.

Robert Nelson, assistant chief of TVA's forest and uplands wildlife resources branch, is expected to testify. Other witnesses at the hearing are expected to include coal operators, environmentalists, a state reclamation official, and residents of strip-mining area.

The aide said Harris is preparing legislation to limit the TVA's use of stripped coal and to set reclamation standards.

Harris plans to start his tour of the Hazard area at 9 a.m. Thursday from La Citadelle motel. The public hearing will begin at 12:30 p.m. in the Appalachian Hospital's conference room.

P-burg FFA Chapter To Attend Meet, Friday

Prestonsburg Chapter of Future Farmers of America will participate in the Eastern Federation, FFA annual meeting to be held at the Morehead University Friday.

More than 750 FFA members, representing 25 chapters in the area, will take part in the activities of the day.

Selected to represent the Prestonsburg Chapter in individual contests are: Creed, Jerry Fannin; Truck Corps, Clark Slone; Corn, Stephen Brackett; Hogs, Eugene Branham; Hay, Phillip Neeley; Beef, James Riley Hall; Secretaries Book, Larry Dotson; Group contests to be entered by the chapter include Chapter meeting contest.

All FFA Day entries will be rated as "Superior", "Excellent", "Good", or "Fair" and will receive ribbons denoting the rating. All federation winners will advance to the state contests scheduled in Louisville during the annual Kentucky FFA Convention.

Paintsville Men Buy 13,621 Acres In Two Counties

(From The Licking Valley Courier)

Heirs of the late A. A. Alma last week sold to Crate Rice and James S. Trimble of Paintsville their mineral holdings on 13,621.7 acres in Morgan and Magoffin counties.

The deal was negotiated through Ralph L. Gardner of Salyersville, trustee for the Alma heirs, for an undisclosed amount.

About 4,000 acres of the mineral holdings are in Morgan county, principally in the northeast section, including holdings on Williams Creek, Coffeys Creek, the two Sand Licks, Smith Creek, and Mine Fork. The remaining 9,000 acres are in Magoffin County, principally in the northwest section.

The Alma heirs holding result from purchases of land made in Morgan and Magoffin in 1889 and 1890 by A. A. Alma who came from Wellsville, N. Y., and bought mountain land over a wide area. Latter, Alma sold off most of the surface, but retained the minerals, also the right to mine for coal and all minerals, including stone, drill for gas and oil, construct tram roads, build railroads, etc.

Most of the Alma mineral holdings in both Morgan and Magoffin already are under lease for stripmining of coal by the Tripple Elkhorn Coal Co. that presently is stripmining in Northern Morgan on Laurel and Straight Creek. Also, most of the Alma holdings are leased for oil and gas to Columbia Gas Corp., except for about 1200 acres where three companies now have oil and gas wells under production—Ashland Oil Co., C. J. Sipple, and Kentucky National Oil Co. of Michigan.

Transfer of the Alma heirs mineral holdings is one of the largest deals in this area, and probably means that more stripmining will be started in both counties soon. Also, it may mean more deep test wells for oil and gas.

Trimble and Rice, the new owners, are oil and gas promoters, and last year they leased considerable land in Morgan county for coal, including the land where Tripple Elkhorn presently is stripmining.

Constable Roberts and Deputy Sheriff Sollie Holbrook figured in the search for Jones.

One or more court officials admitted the case with its welter of conflicting reports was confusing.

The younger Jones was held in the Sheriff's office here Monday. Magistrate Zeb Ousley, who issued the warrant for his arrest, specified that no bond be taken. Jones later was released, but inquiry failed to determine on whose authority. Sheriff Leslie was in Frankfort and could not be reached.

Elections were held in only about six precincts, despite notice to party members. The State Central Committee was called for a ruling, in view of the small number of committeemen named, and Chairman Hyden was instructed to hold the election of his successor if as many as three members were at the meeting.

The new chairman has appointed precinct committee members for the 40 or more precincts where elections were not held.

Elmer Ferguson, of Wheelwright, had been considered almost the certain choice for the chairmanship until Saturday's meeting was held here.

platives, equipment and other supplies, and indulged in unfair labor practices and a secondary boycott in violation of the rights of the company, its employees and the Southern Labor Union.

It was claimed that the company is suffering damages of $5,000 a day as a result of defendants' actions.

The temporary restraining order issued by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley enjoined defendants, until further orders of the court, from congregating on the premises of the coal company, coercing or attempting to coerce by threat, force or violence or by any other means the company to negotiate with and enter into an agreement with the defendant unions; from interfering with the company's mining operations; from attempting to induce by threats, violence, persuasions or other means any of the company's employees to leave the Southern Labor Union and become members of the UMWA or any other union or labor organization.

The court order will remain in effect until a hearing of the case is held. It was issued on the company's representation that immediate and irreparable injury or damage would result before notice could be served on defendants and a hearing held.

Named as defendants, in addition to District 30 and Local Union 9845, were Walter Akers, Dist. 30 representative; Jake Fraley, president of Local Union 9845; Henry Scarberry, secretary-treasurer of the local union, and Douglas Rowland, Gene Newsome, Billie Ray Haley, Billie Ross Frazier, George Cochran, Jr., Marvin Boyd, Tommy Gene Newsome, Chester Allen Newsome, Tom Blankenship, Wesley Mullins, William Hall, Jr., Willie Frazier, Tommy Robinson, and Carl Edward Robinson.

The contract with the Southern Labor Union provides for payment of 17 1/2 cents per ton into the employees' welfare fund, an eight-hour day, time and a half for overtime but no overtime pyramiding, two holidays, Christmas and New Year's, and a week's vacation. The wage scale is $4.60 per hour for dozer, grader, high-lift and auger operators, mechanics and drill men; $3.50 an hour for truckdrivers and tippie operators; $3 for all other labor.

pensate for the present over-employment," the superintendent said. "We had expected, if the KEA's legislative program calling for teacher retirement after 30 years, regardless of age, had been adopted, that we would have between 15 and 20 teachers to retire at the end of this school year; however, that part of the KEA program was not written into law and funded, so I am assuming that retirements will not be more than three. While we would like to offer some hope for employment for all our fine, young, new teachers, we, of course, are not able to do so, principally because of the decline of student population. We have had at least 50 certified-qualified teachers doing substitute work this year, and possibly twice that number will be available next school year."

The total school membership in the sixth month of this year was 9,506. Last year, the total for the same month was 9,446. Twelve years ago, the figure was 12,600.

Of the 38 schools (the list includes two home instructional units and two trainable classes), 15 lost membership and the same number had gains. Two of the schools included in the report for 1970-71—Banner and Mare Creek—have been discontinued, and a third is marked for the same fate. The school to be discontinued is Tram, which had a membership of only 3 in the sixth month of this year.

Schools showing membership gains this year over last follow, with the increase for each:

Daniels Creek, 4; Home Branch, 9; Prater, 33; Allen, 8; Betsy Layne grade, 35; Betsy Layne high, 18; Clark, 11; Garrett grade, 38; Garrett high, 10; Harold, 20; John M. Stumbo, 6; Maytown grade, 7; Osborne, 17; Prestonsburg high, 32; Wayland grade, 22.

Schools showing losses:

Bonanza, 32; Dwayne, 6; Lackey, 7; Spruce Pine, 5; Auxier, 11; Drift, 15; Martin grade, 12; Martin high, 1; Maytown high, 1; McDowell grade, 25; McDowell high, 5; Melvin, 2; Prestonsburg grade, 6; Wayland high, 8; Wheelwright, 1; Wheelwright, 24.

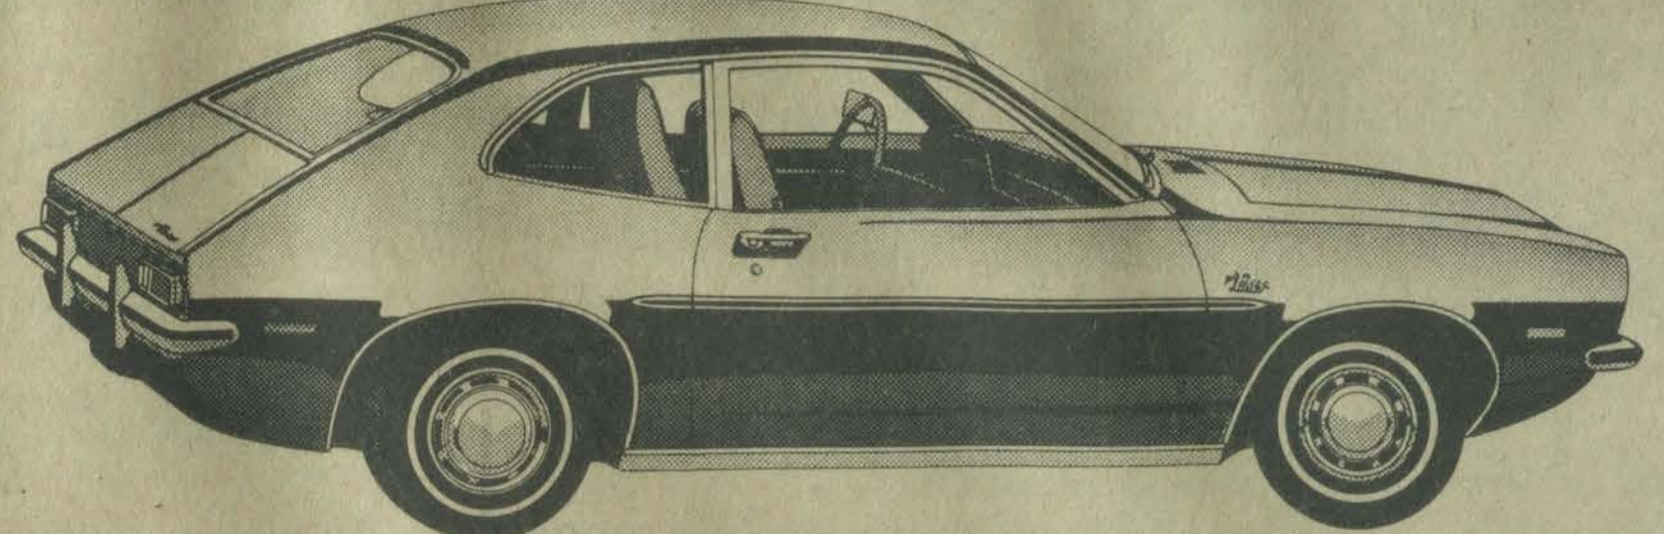

The two home instructional units had a gain of 7, and the trainable units gained 2.

Guess whose Daddy had to write a check for more money than he had in the bank.

It's funny how things have a way of costing more than you planned. Especially special things. Which is why it always pays to have something in reserve. Like a Bank Josephine Checking Plus Account. It backs up your regular Bank Josephine checking account with a reserve of cash from $500 to $5,000. When you need extra money—for any reason—you simply write a check and The Bank Josephine covers it. You can repay the loan in modest monthly installments.

Or one payment, if you prefer. And your reserve doesn't cost a nickel till you use it. Sound like the most useful checking account in Floyd County? It is. Why not stop by The Bank Josephine or one of our branches and open your Checking Plus Account this week? It can come in mighty handy. Especially if you happen to be the father of the bride.

Young Lee County Couple Plan To Stay on the Farm

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
UK College of Agriculture

Arvel, Ky.—In a time when small family farms, and farmers to maintain them, are disappearing like snowflakes in the sun, Mitchell and Jody Bingham border on the unique. Married less than a year, these young people have no other intention but to live on such a farm and make their living from it.

"No factory or office jobs for me," says 21-year-old Mitchell. "I can't stand being cooped up."

The same sentiments are echoed by his energetic young wife, Jody, who can wheel a tractor, handle a horse, or shear a sheep with all the skill of a veteran. And, what's more unusual, she enjoys doing such things.

Mitchell and Jody are off to a good start. After their wedding and honeymoon trip last June, they settled down on a 27-acre ridgetop farm (given to them as a wedding present) in this little Lee county community and went right to work. They put in a large vegetable garden, 1.5 acres of tobacco, 5 acres of corn, and set several more acres to grass for hay and pasture.

They did exceedingly well with these crops and right now they are busy getting ready for spring and planning to increase their income this fall by adding peppers and sorghum cane for cash crops.

"A man can make money on a small farm," Mitchell says, "but he has to work." And that's what both of them do—six days a week.

In addition to the crops which the young couple grow on their 27 acres and on several acres rented from neighbors, they have a horse and a cow, five head of Southdown sheep, a few brood sows, and a flock of chickens. With the exception of the horse, a fine Tennessee Walker, which they say is a "dead issue," all the rest of the animals contribute their part to the family income.

"To make a good living on a small farm," Mitchell says, "you must not only work, but also work all angles. Along with cash crops, you must have a few calves, lambs, and pigs to sell each year; your own milk to drink; and your own meat, eggs, and vegetables to eat."

In all aspects of family farming, Mitchell is well qualified to speak. The oldest son in a family of 11 children, he grew up on a family farm in Jackson county and has wide experience in this traditional form of rural living. At a very early age he learned the value of work and as a 4-H Club member, the worth of planning ahead. Another valuable lesson he says he learned as a 4-H'er was that whether crops or livestock, it pays only to grow or produce the best.

That is what he strives to do and as one indication of his success, his tobacco crop topped the market back in December and, in figuring up, he says he and Jody averaged $50 for every day they spent producing it.

These two extremely resourceful and industrious young people do not, of course, plan to spend their entire lives just "making a living" on their 27 acres and from what land they can rent on the shares. As time goes on, they hope to increase their land holdings and maybe become "big farmers." One thing, however, is certain: they mean to remain farmers.

Living and making a living on the farm, they agree, is the best life in the world even if you have to do all the work yourself.

THE FAMILY

Ford To Call Special Session Of Legislature in Summer

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Wendell H. Ford last week announced that he will call a special session of the Kentucky Legislature "early in the summer" to consider changing the state's voter-residence requirements to conform with a recent U. S. Supreme Court ruling.

The high court on March 21, ruled unconstitutional Tennessee's requirement that a voter live in the state one year and in the county three months to be eligible to vote in state and local elections.

Kentucky's Constitution also has a one-year state residence requirement and requires even longer residence, six months, in the county. The new requirements for Kentucky would be set by statutory law, rather than by constitutional amendment, however, a Ford aide said.

The Supreme Court decision did not state flatly how long a state can require a new resident to wait before voting, but it suggested that 30 days might be proper.

Ford's press secretary, Thomas Preston, said a new voter-residence law is necessary because, otherwise, a court suit could threaten the validity of elections after the May 23 primary.

Although the statement said the session would be "early in the summer," a Ford aide said "early June" is a more likely time. Summer officially starts June 21.

Ford's statement avoided any mention of the embarrassing misplacement of House Bill 294, the centralized environmental agency bill, which originally raised the likelihood of a special session.

The bill would have set up a new state Department of Environmental Protection, giving it control over air and water pollution and solid waste, which now are under the Health Department. It also would have jurisdiction over strip-mine reclamation, which now is in the Department of Natural Resources.

Although passed by both House and Senate, the bill was misplaced in the House clerk's office on the last, hectic day of the session and did not receive the final signatures needed before delivery to the governor. The signatures are required before a measure can become law.

The bill was central to Ford's campaign promise and preset program to centralize and upgrade functions to improve the environment.

He could transfer those functions to a new agency by executive order but the Air and Water Pollution Control commissions and the Reclamation Commission are established by law and cannot be dissolved by executive order. Those three commissions would have been abolished under the bill.

Preston said Ford has "two or three" subjects under consideration for possible inclusion in the call of the special session. Asked if repassage of the environmental agency bill is one of them, Preston said it is.

The state Constitution says the legislature in special session shall consider no other subjects than those stated in the governor's proclamation calling the session.

Ford's statement came before departure for a vacation of approximately 11 days in Florida. Preston said Ford will travel by commercial airliner at personal expense. Before Ford's administration, a state plane was sometimes used for similar trips.

The average period of unemployment was much shorter in 1971 than a decade earlier. Mean duration of joblessness in 1971 was 11.4 weeks, compared with 15.6 weeks in 1961.

Employment for 1971 averaged 79.1 million, compared with 78.6 million in 1970 and 77.9 million in 1969. The increased average figure is due largely to employment gains in the final quarter of 1971.

Eight-Year-Old Girl Wins Talent Show

Kimberly Ann, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. (Buddy) Moore, of Fairborn, O., formerly of McDowell, won the talent contest held recently at Fairborn, O. as the first of a series of contests leading to the Little Miss World title. She won in the Fairborn talent show with a jazz dancing routine.

She next will compete at Wooster, O., and if successful there will represent Ohio in the Little Miss World pageant in Florida, next Aug. 20-25.

Kimberly Ann is a second-grade pupil at Palmer elementary school, Fairborn, and is being sponsored by the W. T. Grant Company. She is a granddaughter of Hargis Hall, of McDowell, Mrs. Inzie Moore, St. Marys, O., and Mrs. Velma Bates, Wayne, Michigan.

The unemployment insurance system helped to stabilize the economy by paying $5.6 billion in benefits to 7 million unemployed workers in fiscal 1971.

Porsche Audi: a division of Volkswagen.

Unless you were born into it, a Porsche was always something that came with success.

Now there is a Porsche you can afford on the way to success.

In the classic sports car tradition, the 911 is a two-seater.

In our race car tradition, it's a mid-engine.

Weight distribution is about 45% up front and 55% in back. That and rack-and-pinion steering make for a very quick handling car.

The

With the engine in the middle, other advantages come to light. Tires wear better because each wheel carries almost the same load. Brakes work smoother for the same reason.

There are two trunks, front and rear. (The removable fiberglass roof stows away in the rear trunk along with a sporting amount of luggage.)

Other standard equipment includes a 5-speed gearbox, 4-wheel disc brakes and a built-in roll bar.

For a Porsche, the price is strictly youth fare. But you don't have to be under 30 to enjoy it.

Prestonsburg Water, Sewer & Gas System

Board of Commissioners
Prestonsburg Water, Sewer & Gas System
Prestonsburg, Kentucky

Gentlemen:

We have examined the balance sheet of the municipally-owned Prestonsburg Water, Sewer & Gas System as of October 31, 1971, and the related statements of operations and surplus for the twelve months then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and, accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheet and statements of operations and surplus present fairly the financial position of the municipally-owned Prestonsburg Water, Sewer & Gas System as of October 31, 1971, and the results of its operations for the twelve months then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Clarence J. Davis & Wolfe
Certified Public Accountant

Cancer Crusade Opens at Martin Meet

The Floyd County Unit opened its Annual Crusade Wednesday night with a kick-off meeting held in the Martin high school cafeteria. Dr. Wm. Cook, Medical Advisor for the unit, spoke on preventive measures to guard against cancer and what the American Cancer Society is doing to combat the disease. James Carter II, 1972 Fund-raising chairman announced a post of $1,000 and expressed appreciation to those who have volunteered to help in the crusade throughout Floyd County. He urged Floyd countyans to give generously when the American cancer volunteer calls during this month. Carter said that money raised will benefit cancer patients in Floyd county through education, dressings, bandages and transportation assistance to cancer treatment centers within the state as well as in research programs and services elsewhere.

DEAR CRAIG,

Your gentle face and patient smile With sadness we recall. You had a kindly word for each And died beloved by all. The voice is mute and stilled the heart That loved us well and true; Ah! bitter was the trial to part From one so good as you. You are not forgotten, loved one, Nor will you ever be. As long as life and memory last We will remember thee. We miss you now, our hearts are sore, As time goes by we miss you more, Your loving smile, your gentle face, No one can fill your vacant place.

'Snip and Take', and You're Off Under New Telephone System

A new, money-saving feature for telephone users will go into effect locally April 1 as South Central Bell's new "snip and take" system is initiated.

Under this new arrangement, customers moving to a new address within the same telephone exchange will be allowed to cut the connection wire between the telephone and the connection block, and take the telephone instrument with them to their new residence. The set will be picked up by the installer who comes to connect service at the new location.

Customers eligible for this new service include all individual line subscribers (no party-line subscribers) and business customers who do not have key-set telephone equipment.

In return for snipping your telephone wire and taking the telephone with you to your new location, the telephone company will give $3 credit on the next bill.

Phill Scott, local manager for South Central Bell, suggests subscribers call the telephone business office if they have any questions about this new procedure.

Miss Pam Goble, of Prestonsburg, is a member of the Clarinet Choir.

Members of the Clarinet Choir are Chuck Jarrett, Evansville, Ind.; Denise Baker, Laura, Ohio; Gloria Land, Covington; Terry Stroup, Spencer, Ohio; Don Byrd, Cincinnati; Pam Shepherd, Somerset; Cindy Thurman, Frankfort; Sally Prather, Paris; Joe Kleykamp, Russell; Lawrence Crawford, London, and Pam Goble, Prestonsburg.

Big Theft Ring May Be Cracked As Two Jailed

Recovery in Magoffin county last week of an estimated $3,000 worth of property that allegedly had been stolen may be the first break in a giant theft ring operating in Eastern Kentucky counties, authorities said.

Involved in the Magoffin county case is property said to have been stolen in Ohio. Kentucky State Trooper Danny Stumbo and county officers arrested two men and confiscated two motorcycles, a number of saddles and bridles, horse show trophies, a chain saw and a stereo player.

They arrested Verlin Ray Thomas, 22, of Franklin Furnace, Ohio, who was asleep at the home of Ray Risner, near Royalton, where part of the loot was recovered. Also arrested was Lacey Gibson, 34, of Salyersville, where the remainder of the stolen property was located.

Both are charged with possession of stolen property.

Stumbo said that the raid put a dent in the operation of a gang which reportedly has been stealing property in Ohio and bringing it into Kentucky to sell at the Paintsville Stock Market. He said there were indications that the same group was also stealing property in Kentucky and disposing of it in Ohio.

Several other suspects are being sought and the investigation is continuing, Stumbo said.

Lawrence County (Ohio) Sheriff James Howell took the two men to Ironton after they waived extradition. A hearing at Ironton was scheduled last Friday.

Engineers Set Up Regulations To Halt Pollution at Fishtrap

By FRANK ASHLEY
(In The Courier-Journal)

PIKEVILLE, Ky.—The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers called a delegation of area coal operators and land holding companies on the carpet here yesterday and set out stiff, new regulations aimed at stopping what the corps calls "totally unacceptable" mining pollution of the nearby $54 million Fishtrap Reservoir. The new requirements for mining coal under government-owned surfaces around the flood control and recreational dam and lake include:

Effective immediately, operators must abandon the much-used process of moving coal from one bench to another by the simple, cheap method of dumping it over the hillside to a stockpile below.

All existing coal handling facilities that have been abandoned are to be removed from government land within 90 days.

Operators must submit—and receive prior approval of—detailed plans covering a variety of mining activities, including the construction and maintenance of coal haul and access roads; the clearing of timber; construction—and removal of—all coal loading and moving facilities; and reclamation of all surface land disturbed by the mining process.

After formally receiving the new regulations next week, all operators doing business on government-owned land around the lake must submit plans for upgrading sub-standard coal haul and access roads within 30 days; remedial work on the upgrading must begin within 30 days after submitting the plans.

The new requirements, outlined at a meeting here by Col. Kenneth E. McIntyre, district engineer of the Huntington (W. Va.) District of the Corps, were received coolly by representatives of several of the area's largest coal companies and land holding companies.

"I can't see where it would be humanly possible to clean anything up within 90 days," commented E. M. Bane, representing Flanary Coal & Land Co., Grundy, Va. "You can't get people to work today, they'd rather sit on their big, flat rockers and draw welfare checks."

John Stephens, a Pikeville attorney representing several companies mining around the lake as well as the Berwind Corp., a Philadelphia-based conglomerate that owns extensive mineral rights in the area, told McIntyre, "We're eager to cooperate with the government on strictly a voluntary basis." He said his clients would like to study the regulations and discuss them with the corps.

McIntyre, who called for "voluntary compliance" from the operators as "responsible businessmen," said later in an interview the corps would be willing to discuss the problems in meeting the new requirements on a case-by-case basis.

In his presentation, which included color slides depicting the siltation problem at Fishtrap Lake, McIntyre said the new regulations were legally supported by contractual rights the government obtained from the subsurface mineral owner; the rights of the government as surface owner; and state and federal mining regulations.

A corps attorney said the main legal support for the new regulations is a special clause in the government's contract with subsurface mineral owners that states that "exploration and exploitation" of the minerals "shall not create pollution or floatable debris unreasonably detrimental to the (dam and lake) project."

The deeds, characterized as "general" as opposed to "broad-form," provide that subsurface minerals "subordinate" to the government's use and protection of the public dam project.

Broad-form deeds, documents that give subsurface mineral owners broad rights to mine the mineral by any method, including destruction of the surface, short of wanton, arbitrary or malicious conduct.

The tighter control of mining on government-owned land around the lake follows a stinging letter written earlier this year by Rep. Henry Reuss, chairman of the House Conservation and Natural Resources subcommittee, charging that the corps has failed to protect the expensive, public facility from coal mining sedimentation and pollution.

The corps responded by releasing a report, part of which was repeated here yesterday as reason for the new requirements, stating:

"The entire aesthetic and recreation quality of Fishtrap Lake is degraded by the sediment content which results in decreased aquatic productivity, limited fish population and a general reduction in the aesthetic qualities of the water itself."

McIntyre cited several findings of the corps' study and report, including:

Within the last year, a layer of sediment 6 feet thick had been deposited where Lick Creek joins the summer pool of the lake, decreasing boat access to Lick Creek by 1,000 feet.

A temporary boat launching ramp constructed at the Grapevine Creek access site in 1969 will require maintenance dredging this year if the ramp is to remain operable.

The combination of accumulations of coal dust, the indiscriminate dumping of shale, slate and other mine refuse along natural drainways, the muddy runoff from numerous access and haul roads, and the hillside scars develop a picture that is "aesthetically displeasing."

The report compiled from studies by the corps, the U.S. Attorney's office and state mining and antipollution officials, concluded that the prime source of sedimentation and "recreation degradation" at Fishtrap is the "uncontrolled" construction of access and haul roads and, to a lesser extent, the open, hillside gravity flow method of moving coal from one bench elevation to another.

The new regulations require that all roads be constructed on a base sufficient to sustain heavily loaded coal trucks.

In addition, only enclosed facilities, such as covered conveyor belts or chutes will be permissible in moving coal from one bench elevation to another.

Buddy A. Beach, acting director of the state Division of Strip Mining and Reclamation, said most of the corps' new regulations go further toward restricting mining than does the current state strip mine law.

Beach added, however, that his division will adopt the new requirements concerning haul roads and other surface disturbances under provisions approved by the 1972 legislature. The requirements, contained in House Bill 47, place all surface operations of deep and surface mines under the Division of Strip Mining and Reclamation.

Coaching Jobs Not Discussed At Board Meet

Saturday's meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education failed to develop the expected discussion of suggested coaching changes. Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said coaches, as well as principals and teachers, will be employed at the June board meeting and that if any changes are made they will await that meeting.

Burl Wells Spurlock was employed as treasurer of the Board of Education to fill the unexpired term of his father, the late Burl Spurlock. The term will end June 30.

The board entered an order requesting the State Board of Education to declare Feb. 7 and 17 as "calamity days." Countywide closing of schools occurred only on those two days this year, and their designation as requested would make it unnecessary to make good time lost for the two days.

Non-certified personnel employed included Charles Halfhill, Jr. and Sue Barnett as substitute teachers and Norm Thornsbury as substitute bus driver.

The board authorized the superintendent and architect to open, review and accept the lowest and best bids offered on supplying furniture and fixtures for the new Allen Central high school at Eastern. Such acceptance would be subject to final approval by the board.

Howard To Offer Special Classes

Richard Howard, of the faculty of Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, will be at Prestonsburg high school at 6 p.m. Friday to organize a class which is especially recommended for guidance counsellors and special education teachers. Credits earned may be applied on graduate work.

The class to be organized will be either Education 521—Introduction to Mental Retardation; or Education 602—Psychology of Exceptional Children.
