

Deep Well In Johnson 2nd Slated

Five Companies Join In $1 Million Hunt For Natural Gas

The second deep well to be drilled by a group of companies in search of a new source of natural gas in this section will be sunk in the Buffalo Creek section of Johnson county, The Times learned this week.

The well will be drilled to a depth of more than 15,000 feet. The first well in the exploration ventures was drilled in Pike county to a depth of less than 12,500 feet. That first well was "dry," it was reported.

Cost of the Johnson county well will be in excess of $1 million. In addition to the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, which is the leaseholder and a participant in the venture, companies having a part in the deep drilling are the Signal Oil & Gas Co., the Louisiana Land and Exploration Co., Chevron and Weaver Oil & Gas Company.

The interest in Eastern Kentucky exploration held by Amerada Hess, a member of the combine which drilled the Pike county well, has been bought by Chevron, a Standard Oil subsidiary.

On the results of deep drilling rests the future of the gas industry in Eastern Kentucky, those associated with the industry say. The Pike and Johnson wells are a part of a comprehensive exploration effort.

Child Fatally Hurt In Fall from Truck

Eight-year-old Steven Roger Sykes was fatally injured near Banner last Wednesday when he fell from the pickup truck which his father, Roger Sykes, of Elkhorn City, was driving. The child died at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville, the following evening.

The victim was born in Charleston, S. C. He was a pupil in the Elkhorn City schools and was a Cub Scout. Besides his parents, Roger and Linda Moore Sykes, he is survived by one brother, Gary, at home.

Funeral services were held at 1 p.m. Sunday from the Bailey Funeral Home at Elkhorn City, the Rev. Roy Robertson officiating. Burial was made in the Elkhorn City cemetery.

Big Sandy RECC Gets $277,000 Loan

Senators John Sherman Cooper and Marlow Cook announced Friday in Washington the approval of a $277,000 Rural Electrification Administration loan to the Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation at Paintsville to finance system improvements.

Garrett Girl Wins Beauty Title

Miss Sharon O'Quinn, 17-year old daughter of Mrs. Margaret O'Quinn, of Garrett, was named "Miss Big Sandy REC, 1972" at the recent 32nd annual membership meeting in Paintsville of Big Sandy REC. Approximately 3,500 persons attended this year's meeting.

Nine young women from this area participated in the beauty contest. Among other honors, Miss O'Quinn won an expense-paid trip to Louisville to participate in the state finals of the Miss Kentucky REC Beauty Pageant to be held during the Kentucky State Fair in August. The winner there will represent the state in the national finals to be held in Dallas, Texas, next February.

Hospital Patients Guests at Park Here

This Town . . . That World

AMEN!

Mrs. Peggy Jo Vaughn, a Maytown girl who now resides at Oak Ridge, Tenn., sends me the following:

God grant that I may live
To fish until my dying day,
An when it comes to my last cast,
I then most humbly pray,
When in the Lord's safe landing net
I'm peacefully asleep,
That in His mercy I be judged
Good enough to keep.

ACTEENS GET A RECRUIT

Thirteen-year-old Susie Wright attended ACTEENS, a youth group at the Baptist church, last Wednesday evening. Her father, Clifford, and sister went fishing at Dewey Lake. Susie joined them after the meeting and saved the day for the Wright family.

Immediately after she had tossed in her hook, she was engaged in a tussle with a fish which turned out to be a 22½-inch channel cat, as tough a customer as she wants to meet. That one landed, she tossed back, and came in with a smaller channel cat. With only a scrap of her nightcrawler left on the hook, she resumed fishing, and within a matter of a few minutes hauled in a seven-pound mudcat.

All this took place alongside the baits of her father and sister, who were empty-handed.

"Where did you say you've been?" inquired Mr. Wright as his daughter landed the third fish. She told him.

"You tell the preacher," her father enjoined her, "that I'll be at ACTEENS, next Wednesday evening."

FAR AFIELD

This wasn't intended to be a fishing column, but I must get the record straight, since one of my fishing bibles has dallied disgracefully with the truth. SPORTS AFIELD has the following in its "Where To Go Guide," August number:

"The Kentucky Department of Parks has

There was an air of family reunion, homecoming and church picnic all rolled into one at Archer Park last Wednesday as more than 150 persons gathered there for the second annual Floyd County Mental Health-Mental Retardation Association-Eastern State Hospital picnic.

A busload of patients from the Lexington hospital all Floyd countians—were greeted on their arrival at the park's fairgrounds by relatives, neighbors and friends, and by Association members and staff personnel of various local social agencies who helped arrange the picnic.

Also on hand were patients from the Floyd County Day Care Center, operated by Mountain Mental Health Services, and many out-patients of ESH who are living in private homes here.

After the happy, and sometimes emotional, reunions, lines formed for the picnic lunch. Hot dogs and buns were provided by the hospital, and covered dishes by members of the local association.

Later in the afternoon, there were badminton, softball and horseshoe pitching outside the covered pavilion. Inside, Bill Little, of Prestonsburg's Rural Child Care office, teamed up on his guitar with a wheelchair-confined hospital patient who had brought his fiddle, for a sing-along session.

Mrs. Eva Allen Horn, president of the Floyd County Association, termed the picnic a "huge success."

"The whole point is to bring these people back here so they can visit with their families and friends," she said.

A social worker from the hospital, who accompanied the group here, added that "some of them have been talking about and anticipating this year's picnic ever since last year."

Struck by Auto, Hamilton Victim

Norman B. Hamilton, 37, of Brockport, N. Y., formerly of Banner, died Monday in a Brockport hospital of injuries received two weeks earlier when he was struck by an auto there. It was said the accident occurred when the driver of an auto suffered a heart attack and the car veered across a sidewalk, striking Hamilton.

Born August 16, 1934 at Banner, he was a son of Mrs. Hazel Hamilton and the late Oscar Hamilton. He was a factory worker at Brockton.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by three brothers, Scott Hamilton, of Prestonsburg, Charles Hamilton, of Chicago, Ill., and Curtis Hamilton, of Gallipolis, Ohio.

Funeral services were conducted Thursday at 10 a.m. at the New Life United Baptist church at Banner with the Revs. Willie Rice and Willie Conn, officiating. Burial was made in the Hall cemetery at Banner under the direction of the Floyd Funeral Home.

Columbia Work Centered Upon Virginia Field

B & B Engineers, Inc., of Prestonsburg, is one of three contracting firms involved in the laying of almost 60 miles of pipelines in development of the Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation's development of its Clinchfield-Haysi production field in Virginia.

The area under development is in Buchanan and Dickenson counties, Va., and extends into Pike county, Ky. The lines, varying in diameter from 3 to 10 inches, are well and gathering lines, and will connect the production from the field with the 20-inch line leading to the Atlantic seaboard.

The development will cost an estimated $3.3 million.

Columbia is centering most of its attention on the Virginia field.

Development of the field is a long-range project which began in 1970 and has a goal of producing at least 20 million cubic feet of gas production a day by November, this year.

The company will spend more than $1.2 million in drilling 15 wells this year to evaluate and further help develop the known productive horizons.

A spokesman said the project is aimed at

Hancock Doubts Court May Levy Strip-Coal Tax

The Floyd fiscal court has been giving some thought to the levying, under authority of new Home Rule legislation, an additional tax on strip-mined coal but County Judge Henry Stumbo said Monday that Attorney General Edw. Hancock has indicated that it may not do so under Kentucky law.

He said the attorney general at last week's Magistrates' convention expressed doubt of the legality of the levy, mainly on the ground that the state has already imposed a levy on all coal via the severance tax and that further action at the county level might be in conflict.

Judge Stumbo said County Attorney James R. Allen is writing the attorney general for a formal opinion.

Such limitations on "home rule," Stumbo said, may make the new act without effect and may also place fiscal courts in an embarrassing situation as their powers are curbed and the public expects them to take action.

Arrests Are Few During Past Week

Few arrests have been made by peace officers in the county within the week, and most of those jailed face traffic charges.

John Henry Salisbury was jailed Sunday by State Trooper Gary Rose on a warrant accusing him of shooting into the occupied dwelling of Barbara Castellaneos. He executed $1000 bond on this county. After he had been jailed, Deputy Sheriffs Claude Flanery and Otto Fannin served on him warrants which charged him with reckless use of a deadly weapon and assault and battery.

Other arrests of the week:

William B. Wills, drunk driving, arrested by Policemen Lawson and Campbell, of Prestonsburg; Thomas J. Dotson, drunk driving, by State Trooper Leeman Bevins; Raymond Markley, escapee from a Columbus, O. hospital; Clifford Hayden, drunk driving, by Policemen Lawson and Deputy Sheriff Conn; Sterling Hall, drunk driving, by State Trooper Phillip Tucker; Crit Butler, reckless driving and no operator's license, by State Trooper Rose; Judge Patton, two counts of reckless use of a deadly weapon, by State Trooper Bevins, Sheriff Leslie and others.

Corps Develops German Camping As State Lags

While the state of Kentucky continues with planning for a major camping facility in the Goble Branch area of Dewey Lake, with no work done after two years, the U. S. Corps of Engineers has developed a similar area at German, 15 miles upstream, which is attracting an estimated 180 persons a day during the week and 300 or more daily on Saturdays and Sundays.

The Corps of Engineers assumed charge of the camping area at German June 16 when the Kentucky Department of Parks surrendered its lease on the eight-acre tract devoted there to camping. A day later, Dean Murray, Dewey Reservoir manager, had work under way, using employees of the Corps, Mainstream workers and a few college students.

It is estimated that the Corps will spend $400,000 on the German area. Its development is far from complete, but already these facilities have been provided:

Dusk-to-dawn lighting, clean toilets, a water supply from a drilled well, 65 picnic tables, 45 new garbage cans, garbage removed daily, camping area open on 24-hour basis and constantly patrolled, all accessroads in camping area gravel-surfaced, protective guard posts and cable.

There is no charge for these facilities, but campers are required to register for a 14-day camping permit.

Improvement continues daily, and will continue until German is a Class I camping area, it was said. Future work will provide showers, water, modern restrooms with water supply and electrical connections for each campsite if desired by the camper.

Highlands Fest Director Views '72 Event Best

Mrs. Edith F. James, program director of the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, said this week that she expects this year's festival to have the greatest array of talent in its seven-year history. The festival will be held at the Amphitheatre of Jenny Wiley State Park, Sept. 1, 2 and 3.

In anticipation of the event, mountain musicians already are gathering at various homes to "pick and sing" by way of rehearsal for the coming event. Younger musicians, who have learned their traditions and tunes through recordings and otherwise, are thus given the opportunity to hear and learn, "first-hand," the music that is part and parcel of the region, Mrs. James said.

The director said telephone calls and letters already received from former participants, plus those from musicians who expect to come here for the festival for the first time, indicate the most complete program yet to be offered.

New School Opening Assured on Schedule

Superintendent Charles Clark said Monday that he has been assured by Akers & Akers, contractors on the building, that the new Allen Central high school at Eastern will be ready for occupancy on the opening day of the new school term, Aug. 21.

Some doubt of completion by the opening date had been expressed, earlier. That apparently is one problem out of the way as the new school term approaches, but a surplus of teachers is causing a bigger headache than the same situation created last year.

The superintendent estimated that there are from 85 to 90 new teacher-applicants for whom places can't be found. Last year, about 50 teachers with degrees were able to find employment in this county only as substitute teachers. There will be more this year. And consolidation of the four Beaver Creek high schools which will send their pupils to Allen Central this year has left four teachers with one to two years' experience without places.

Most of the new teachers for whom places cannot be found, Supt. Clark said, are elementary education, social studies or physical education majors. One of the difficulties experienced in a situation such as this, he added, is the failure of many to understand that a teacher must be employed to teach in the area of education for which he or she is qualified; that mere possession of a certificate is not enough.

Also difficult for many to understand, it was explained, is the fact that the Minimum Foundation law provides one classroom for each 27 pupils in average daily attendance. If more than one teacher per 27 is employed, state funds may not be used in paying their salaries.

Teaching opportunities are brightest for teachers who are qualified in mathematics, biology and the natural sciences. The superintendent said he has received within the last few days four calls from neighboring school systems which are needing mathematics and natural science teachers.

Health Board Waits Meeting With OEO Group

Comprehensive Health Care, Inc. has $104,800 to finance planning of a new comprehensive health program for this county if acceptable to the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) and its Office of Health Affairs, but it has no planner and may not have one for months to come.

The program is stuck at the start. And planning funds can't be used till it gets unstuck and hires a planner.

Soon after the new 10-member health board was formed in compliance with the request of Health Affairs, it developed a program description. This was taken to Washington by Dr. William McIlwain, Kentucky commissioner of health, who is chairman of the new health board here. He returned to Frankfort with the impression the program description was acceptable to federal officials, but soon afterward Health Affairs submitted to the board changes in the plan.

Then began an effort to get the comprehensive health board together with OEO and Health Affairs representatives, so that the differences might be ironed out.

One meeting was scheduled here for July 18, but Dr. McIlwain was later advised the meeting would have to be postponed till last Tuesday night. For this later meeting Dr. McIlwain and other members forming a quorum came here, but the representatives of OEO and Health Affairs failed to show.

As of Monday noon, County Judge Henry Stumbo, one of the members of the Floyd committee, had not learned why Washington conferees failed to appear or to notify board members why.

"We want to move just as fast as we can," Judge Stumbo said, "but under the circumstances we can't do anything."

He expressed the hope that the program, now suspended for the better part of a year, will get back into action by next spring.

The health board had received applications from individuals seeking the post of health planner, but it was said this week the board will be required to advertise for new applications when, and if, an acceptable project description is devised.

Gov. Wendell Ford last week announced the awarding of the $104,800 12-month planning grant from the federal Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) for the development of the comprehensive health program designed to serve low-income residents of this county.

The grant from OEO's Office of Health Affairs in Washington, D. C. was awarded to Comprehensive Health Care, Inc.

As the planning phase nears completion, a permanent board consisting of Floyd county officials and residents, including potential consumers, will be established and the interim board will be dissolved.

Federal Funds For City Bldg. Not Available

When the Congress failed to enact recent legislation to fund public projects as a spur to employment, the last chance of federal assistance on construction of the proposed Prestonsburg municipal building may have faded.

The only present hope remaining for construction of the $300,000 structure which is planned to house all departments of city government rests on the possibility of the issuance of revenue bonds, it was said. But an unfavorable bond market may make that unfeasible.

If plans to construct the municipal building as originally designed are dropped, it is possible that the city will construct a fire department building on the Stephens lot which it purchased about two years ago for the municipal building site. The city has funds on hand for such construction, and the fire department structure would not interfere with future municipal building plans. The unused portion of the lot would be used as a parking area.

Garrett Native Victim of Shot

Mrs. Vivian Frasure, 44-year-old mother of two and a former resident of Garrett, died Sunday at her home in Wayne, Mich., reportedly the victim of a self-inflicted gunshot.

The body was returned Monday to the Hall Brothers Funeral Home at Martin. Mrs. Frasure was the daughter of N. F. Belcher, of Garrett, and the late Dolly Chaffins Belcher. She is survived by her father, her husband, Arnold Lee Frasure, of Wayne, two sons, John Frasure, of Wayne, and Charles Frasure, of the U. S. Air Force, and one brother, John Wes Belcher, of Denver, Colorado.

Funeral services were conducted at noon today (Wednesday) from the chapel of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home by ministers of the Regular Baptist Church. Burial was made in the Chaffins cemetery, near Garrett.

Mountain Parkway Art Show To Feature Ky. Artists' Works

By Helen Price Stacy

West Liberty, Ky.—Seven years ago, the Powell County Art Club decided to sponsor an art show and sale on Hoedown Island at Natural Bridge State Resort Park. Since then, the annual Mountain Parkway Art Exhibit has become one of the most important shows in the commonwealth, attracting art lovers and collectors from surrounding states.

The all-day exhibit, on Aug. 20, runs from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the outdoor patio. The island is surrounded by the Middle Fork of Red River and shaded by giant trees.

"Paintings in all media are accepted," says Mrs. Nellie Meadows of Clay City, director of the Powell County club. "Any Kentucky artist is invited to exhibit with us."

For the first time, photographers will also display their talents. "Photography more and more is becoming an art medium, and creative photography deserves a place with creative painting," she adds.

Mrs. Meadows, a well-known painter of wildflowers and the Red River Gorge, gives the Mountain Parkway Show credit for much of her involvement in art. An article about her displays at an early exhibit led to her first wildflower reproductions.

Mrs. Emma Carpenter and Mrs. Dena Shepherd, members of the Powell county club, have exhibited widely in Kentucky after a similar beginning. Mrs. Carpenter's "Hog Killing" in oil and Mrs. Shepherd's "Red Sands of Kentucky" in pastel were part of "The Face of Kentucky Exhibit No. II," arranged through the Kentucky Arts Commission.

Assisting Mrs. Meadows will be Mrs.

Carpenter and Mrs. Jerlene Rose, editor of The Clay City Times and an art club member.

In case of rain, artists are invited to use the area around the lodge. The long balconies and spacious patios provide ample room for the displays.

Among artists expected to display paintings are Al Cornett, Russell May, A. Jack May, (president of the Blue Grass Artists Association), Anita Young, Jim Smith, Audra Clark, Joyce Williams, Marion Murphy, Robert Powell, John Stamper, Lillian Boyer, Miss C. B. Christy, Shirley Jeter, Margaret Mack, Barbara Maddox, Bonna Paul, Miriam Woolfolk, and Mrs. Meadows.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our gratitude to all our friends and relatives for their kindness and sympathy shown at the passing of our loved one. The floral offerings, cash gifts for our building fund for the Maytown United Methodist Church, food and visitations will always be remembered. We wish to thank Rev. John Huffman for his comforting words, the choir and pianist for the beautiful songs, also the pallbearers and the Hall Bros. Funeral Home for its efficient service.

MAYTOWN

Cadette Troop 256 of Maytown spent last Thursday in Prestonsburg. The girls toured the Health Department, the Library, ate lunch at Jerry's and toured the kitchen. They also visited Radio station WPRT. The girls especially enjoyed the Arts and Music room at the Library and the announcers at WPRT. Each of these places visited helped the girls complete requirements for their Public Health and Radio and Television Badges. Those attending were Beverly May, Teresa Huff, Shelia Allen, Ann Flanery, Cindy May, a guest of Miss Flanery's from Saugerties, N. Y. and their leader, Mrs. Paul Patton. The previous Thursday, the girls attended the opening performance of "Once Upon a Mattress" at Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre. Those attending were Teresa Huff, Angela Combs, Shelia Allen, and Ann Flanery. Mrs. George A. Patton and Mrs. Paul C. Patton accompanied them. All enjoyed the comedy and would like to recommend it to their friends.

Magoffin Grand Jury Indicts Troopers in Puckett Shooting

Among 12 persons named in indictments last week by the Magoffin county grand jury were two state troopers, Ralph Hall and Roger Castle, who were charged with assault and battery and shooting and wounding.

The officers were accused of shooting Price Puckett, Salyersville fire chief and former policeman there.

(Coincidentally, in a letter published last week in the Salyersville Independent Bob Hayes wrote that he and his wife left Magoffin county after receiving a call from a member of the Attorney General's staff at Frankfort, advising him to get out of Magoffin county immediately, as my personal safety was in danger, not from a criminal or private citizens but from the police themselves." Hayes, whose present address was not listed, said in his letter that it was as a result of his concern for Magoffin county and Southeastern Kentucky he contacted the FBI in what he termed "the Price Puckett matter." He added that the FBI has begun an investigation and predicted that the results "will be eye-opening to many.")

In other action the grand jury named Leck Risner, of Wonnies, in the shooting death of Goebel Howard, of Trace Fork. A preliminary hearing scheduled last Wednesday for a Magoffin man charged Sunday with murder was postponed until Friday. The county judge allowed the defendant, Azell Barnett, 19, of Waldo, to consult with his attorney.

Barnett was charged with shooting his wife, Mrs. Deanna Baldrige Barnett, who died at their home from a shotgun blast. County Judge Wardie Patrick, who scheduled the hearing, said it was the fourth shooting death in the county in recent months. He said he was at a loss to explain the "crime wave" in his county.

"I do my best to put bootleggers in jail and to try and prevent crime. I feel Magoffin county is as clean of drugs as any county but that doesn't prevent people from going somewhere else to get drugs and whiskey," the judge commented. He said that until six months ago his county had one of the cleanest records on crime reports. "The last six months we have had several murders in the county and I can't understand why," he said.

"We have the best people anywhere, but we also have a few outlaws. These are the ones hurting us. I would like to keep the county up and progressing and I firmly believe that we can get together and get something started to put us back on our upward trend," he added.

The Credibility Gap Still Exists

During the administration of President Johnson his critics made popular the phrase, "credibility gap." It was a polite way of accusing the President of lying.

A credibility gap existed then, and it is still around—in government, wherever it exists. It is represented in Washington, in Frankfort and wherever public pronouncements are made and official actions taken, or not taken. Its effect is to shake the confidence of the average citizen in government.

In the losing battle to save the environment the credibility gap is as obvious as the proverbial sore thumb. Begin with Washington.

The President appointed a man named Walter J. Hickel to his cabinet as Secretary of the Interior. Hickel was told of the threat to the environment, was told to do the job. Conservationists were appalled; they feared that he was simply another protector of those industries which contribute to the general pollution. But Hickel happens to be a hard-nosed business man who has an idea the law means what it says and that men mean what they say. It wasn't long till he was fired.

At Frankfort officials talk of protecting the air, water and land. Laws are enacted. Men take solemn oaths to enforce them.

How many streams and lakes in Kentucky have actually been tested for acidity? Has anybody taken the pains to learn how much damage sedimentation is doing or has already done? These questions are asked, because the state has a plethora of commissions and employees whose duties lie in these areas and so little is actually being done.

It is illegal to operate overweight trucks on Kentucky highways, but the law is too tough, and Frankfort decrees that coal operators may operate such trucks and compensate for their violation by posting bond to repair the roads they damage.

The credibility gap has widened until the ordinary citizen now wonders who will honestly appraise the damage and who will name the culprit.

Talk is cheap, but lip tribute may be the costliest item of all for the average citizen. The void between word and action constitutes this credibility gap which is damaging to both the individual American and his government.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER—Miss Kathy Ann Varney, of Johns Creek, was a double winner when she received the title, "Miss Pike County" for 1972 at a recent pageant and also won a scholarship from Pikeville College. Miss Varney (standing) decided to use the scholarship at the college's third summer term which began July 17. Pikeville College faculty members, seated, aided in the registration for the term.

Court Members Here Foresaw Pitfalls of County Zoning

When countywide zoning was discussed here recently at a meeting of the Floyd fiscal court, members of the court said frankly that this was a matter they wanted no part of at present.

Although it was explained that zoning would, generally speaking, have such slight effect in rural areas that landowners would not be aware of it, it was agreed that the people would need to know details of the zoning plan and what it would do.

In Letcher county, two weeks ago, a more revolutionary zoning plan—one which envisioned the removal of families from the hollows and hillsides to areas where urban services could be had was approved by the county planning commission following a hearing. And the sparks are still flying.

Subsequently, a gathering of 500 citizens protested the plan, with the result that Commission Chairman Alvin Webb announced that the plan would not be submitted to the fiscal court "until we can educate ourselves about what is in this document." (The document referred to is a 125-page plan.)

The Letcher county plan, in part, provided for development of a major tourism-recreation facility in the Eolia area which citizens regarded as a possible move to displace them. Another portion of the document suggested the founding of a new commercial area near Pine Creek, in the Mayking area.

Alvin J. Arnett, a native of Magoffin county who is now executive director of the Appalachian Regional Commission, is one of those who wants to see coal camps of the region depopulated. But he realizes his ideas are likely to raise a storm.

Many of these mining towns are "degrading" and not fit for people to live in, he says. They don't give mountain people a chance to "lead the good, beautiful life that the mountains have to offer."

Arnett, 36, reached his conclusion after a trip through the Hazard coalfields, put him in a "purple funk," for three days, he said in an interview.

"I got very depressed down there. It was rainy, muddy, grimy. The roads were bad and coal trucks kept driving by, dropping chunks of coal on my car."

When he returned to the ARC headquarters, Washington, Arnett was determined to start "looking for some options," he said.

"There just has to be a better way for these people to live."

"Right now there are absolutely gorgeous places to live just a hop, skip and a jump away from the heavy mining areas," he added. "If these people should choose to live in a better place, they should be given the opportunity."

Arnett suggested then that one solution might be to give parts of the region over to "the mining of coal" while shuttling miners in from other areas for three-day shifts of living and working, "treating them like a work crew on a train."

Arnett now says that idea has been rejected as impractical.

He said his staff is mulling over several possibilities, all of which are still in the preliminary-study stage.

The two most promising, he said, are: Zoning. Setting part of every county off for coal mining, part for commercial and industrial development, and part for living.

New towns. Miners would live in new settlements, away from mines, and commute to their jobs nearby each day.

Arnett realizes that both plans would face opposition in the region and that any talk of depopulation "makes me sound like Hitler."

"There have to be nice places reserved for people," Arnett said recently, pacing before a blackboard in his office. "There's no reason anyone should have to look out their house at a coal tippie or slag heap or coal truck."

His voice gained momentum as he spoke. "We have animal preserves," he said.

"My god, why don't we have human ones?"

He continued, motioning toward the window, "I want people to have the opportunity to live in greenery."

Arnett's proposals have already drawn some criticism. A third grade class in Blackey, Letcher county, wrote him a letter.

"We have been in a pink and purple funk just thinking about your problems," the class said, announcing it had just formed a "Washington Regional Commission" after a "traumatic visit" to the nation's capital.

Commission members, the letter said, "have been carefully chosen so that they have no actual knowledge of the Washington area. If they have ever visited the place, we make sure it was when they were babes in arms, so they would surely have lost touch.

"Although our plan is just barely past the consideration stage, we think you will be happy to hear that a series of new settlements will be established within reasonable distances from the filth, crime, and noise of Washington."

"We are sure you consider living in dirt, crime and noise degrading," they continued. "We're just talking off the top of our heads, but why should people have to live that kind of life, having to jump to avoid traffic, double lock their doors to feel safe from criminals, and wearing earplugs to deep out the racket?"

Arnett said he thought the letter was "cute" and forming a Washington Regional Commission "might be a good idea."

Health Clerk Here 27 Years Recognized

The National Secretaries Association recognizes professional secretaries "for their role as management's right arm in business, industry, education, government and the professions."

One such secretary recently recognized by the association is Pauline H. Sparks, clerk at the Floyd County Health Department.

Mrs. Sparks answers the phone when you call about a health problem. She does the purchasing for the department, pays the bills and keeps records of what goes on each day.

If you visit the local health department here, she'll be there to greet you. Her courtesy and cooperation personify the job which the health unit is attempting to do.

The clerk also assists the nurse, the sanitarian and the health officer in arranging for clinics at the health department.

She is the local registrar of births and deaths, which makes her responsible for recording the vital statistics of the county. Physicians, midwives or undertakers regularly turn in records of county births and deaths.

A copy of each birth certificate is made for the local registrar's file, and the original certificates are sent to the Office of Vital Statistics in Frankfort, where they are filed in fireproof vaults for permanent preservation. When certified copies of a birth certificate are required, they are issued from these permanent files at the State Department of Health.

Mrs. Sparks, a native of Prestonsburg, has worked at the health department for 27 years.

State Supt. of Public Instruction Lyman Ginger says a special session of the legislature may be needed in 1973 if the Supreme Court upholds a lower court ruling which has thrown out the local property tax as a revenue source for elementary and secondary schools.

GW Frosh Rank No. 1 in East

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The 1971-'72 George Washington University freshman basketball team, which finished with a sparkling 17-1 record, has been named the No. 1 frosh squad in the East by the highly-respected Basketball News in its annual rankings of the past season's freshman teams.

In addition, the Baby Colonials were accorded the No. 12 spot in the list of Top 20 teams ranked by the publication. Basketball News is the only known publication to rank freshman teams.

According to the paper, "More fine frosh squads were found coast-to-coast than in any of the prior eight years that The Basketball News has rated the nation's freshman teams." The No. 1 ranking was awarded to the University of Kentucky's unbeaten (22-0) freshmen.

In a related development, Basketball News also compiled a list of last winter's leading freshman scorers. Of the 79 players who averaged 22.5 or better, GW's Pat Tallent of Langley, Ky., ranked 29th with a 26.2 average and the Colonials' Haviland Harper was 74th with a 22.6 mark. The list was led by Ray Lewis of L. A. State at 39.5. In addition, GW's 6-11 Clyde Burwell was the nation's third-leading freshman rebounder. His 19.2 rpg. average trailed David Vaughn of Oral Roberts (23.1) and Jim Baker of UN-Las Vegas (22.4).

Maynard Charged With Bogus Bills

A Beauty, man was indicted last week by a federal grand jury in Charleston, W. Va. on charges of passing and possessing counterfeit bills.

A sheriff's office report indicated Luther Edward Maynard, 24, had been in jail at Williamson about two weeks serving a 30-day sentence for public intoxication.

Maynard was arrested by sheriff's deputies at Kermit, across the Tug River from Lovely, Ky., after several tavern owners had reported receiving counterfeit $5 bills.

He was booked at the Mingo jail on intoxication charges, given a 30-day sentence by Magistrate Henry Reid and his case has been under review by federal officials.

A federal court office report in Huntington indicated he had been charged with attempting to pass counterfeit $5 bills, and having possession of 17 false $5 bills and another seven false $10 bills.

His case was transferred to Huntington from the federal district court in Charleston.

Wiley Family Reunion At Jenny Wiley Park

A reunion of the Wiley family and descendants of Jenny Wiley will be held at the Stratton Branch picnic area in Jenny Wiley State Park Sunday, Aug. 6, beginning at 11 a.m. It is requested that those attending bring either a covered dish or lunch basket.

New Type Camp Attended by 170

A new type of 4-H camp was held in Floyd county last month. Many children who are unable to go to regular 4-H camp were invited to participate in the Floyd County 4-H Day Camp held at Archer Park for four days.

A total of 170 boys and girls attended the special sessions and participated in handicraft, games, swimming and nature study.

Many people cooperated to make the first venture a success. They were Mrs. Virginia Hopkins, a Community Action fieldworker; Mrs. Patty McCown, an Extension Community Development worker; and LeRoy Jones, Emergency Employment recreation director.

Junior 4-H Leaders participating and teaching the classes and events were Pauletta Smith, Kathy Collins and Dan Hall, of Betsy Layne; Myra Green, Rita Duff and Danny Green, of Garrett.

Charles Wesson, Jack Friar and Frances Pitts, Extension staff members, also assisted.

IN APPRECIATION

We would like to thank all those who donated blood to Gold Howard, of Eastern, who underwent surgery, July 18. Mr. Howard is now home and doing well.

MRS. GOLD HOWARD

Now you can get air conditioning in a brand-new Volkswagen* for only $150.

That's saving more than half of what it normally costs.

And every new Volkswagen carries this warranty:

If an owner maintains and services his vehicle in accordance with the Volkswagen maintenance schedule, any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever ever comes first (except normal wear and tear and service items), will be repaired or replaced by any U.S. or Canadian Volkswagen dealer. And this will be done free of charge.

Special air conditioning offer by your Volkswagen distributor expires August 31, 1972. Available at participating Volkswagen dealers. Bus and Camptable models not included.

Whatever Things By DONALD E. WILDMON

Two Qualities Needed In Living

Sometimes, as we travel down life's road, the going gets rough. The sailing isn't always smooth on the sea of life. Sometimes it gets kinda bumpy. There are three things we can do in life when the going gets rough.

One thing we can do is to resign. And you would be surprised at the number who take this course of relief. They will lead the parade when the going is easy and smooth and everything is in good order. Yes, sir. They will strut high and mighty as long as there is a band playing and the streets are lined with folks shouting hoorahs. But let difficult times set in and they are nowhere to be found.

Usually, those who resign when the going gets rough are those who come in for purely selfish reasons. They only wanted to get something for themselves. Not willing to make any sacrifice, and not desiring to make the road any smoother, they check out when the going gets rough.

Another thing we can do when the going gets rough is to become resigned. We can cry and weep while repeating the worn-out phrase: "It has always been this way and always will be this way." And, I guess, if it is left up to them to change matters and make them better they are right—things always will be this way. For they certainly aren't going to put forth any sweat to make them better.

It takes no great effort to accept things as they are and not try to make them any better. We can become resigned real easy. And a great advantage to this is that we can quit without checking out. We can stay in and do nothing. Seems to be several of these folks around.

I said there are three things we can do when the going gets rough. The third thing is this—we can become re-signed. I borrowed some money from the bank once. My note was made out for a year. At the end of the year I paid most of the note back, but some of it I had to carry over. A new note was made and I had to re-sign it. The old signature was no longer any good. Many of us need to get a fresh signature on our credentials.

Once I had to go to a notary public to get a paper notarized. I noticed that on the notarization the notary public had written: "My commission expires on..." Perhaps we are operating under an expired commission. Maybe we need to re-sign.

When the hard times come I want my God to know He can count on me. He didn't run out on me when the going got rough. He stuck it out—even to the cross. And it would be mighty little on my part if I backed out on Him when the going got rough. I want Him to know He can count on me when the hard times come.

When the going gets rough we can resign, become resigned, or re-sign. Those who resign or become resigned never help the cause. Those who re-sign do. Give me the pen. I'm ready to put a fresh signature on the dotted line of life.

Back Wages Await Workers, But They Can't Be Located

The U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division office at Nashville, Tenn. last week listed 49 Kentuckians, including one Floyd county man and seven other East Kentuckians, as workers to whom back wages are due but whom the division cannot locate.

The Eastern Kentucky workers and their last known addresses are:

Raymond Stanley, Prestonsburg; John Trent, Manchester; Brenda Parsons, High St., Pikeville; Napoleon Napier, Hazard; Janet Lockhart, Williamson Rd., Pikeville; Barbara Lamb, R. 1, Box 50, Shelbiana; Robert Cornett, Hallie; Paul Edmond, Hazard.

To claim his or her back wages, the worker must establish identification by mailing his or her Social Security number and present address to the Regional Wage-Hour Division, U. S. Department of Labor, Room 307, 1717 West End Bldg., Nashville, Tenn. 37203.

Now is the time To examine your Savings Program

If any of your savings earn less than 5% compounded quarterly why not visit us at Floyd Federal and let us tell you about our savings plans.

LOOK FOR THIS EMBLEM WHERE YOU SAVE! It identifies an Insured Savings and Loan Association and is your assurance that savings are protected by: (1) The security of first mortgage loans on homes and other assets including cash. (2) Sound, progressive operating policies administered by experienced local management. (3) Continuous supervision and periodic examinations by governmental authorities. (4) Insurance on your savings up to $20,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

A STRONG RESERVE SYSTEM composed of twelve regional Federal Home Loan Banks provides additional liquidity for member associations by making advances available when required to meet unusual or heavy withdrawal demands and also for seasonal mortgage lending. The Federal Home Loan Bank System is supervised by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board—a three-man board appointed by the President of the United States with the advice and consent of the Senate.

"It Does Make A Difference Where You Save"

The Best Isn't Always Costliest

By Wilmay

More than once this writer has maintained that many who come here to help the so-called "unfortunate residents of Appalachia," get more than they give, and often learn more than they teach us! This is beautifully borne out by an article in the June, 1972 issue of FAMILY CIRCLE which tells of a young couple from New Jersey who seven years ago decided to go to "Appalachia" and today would not change their way of life for any "mess of pottage." Both were college graduates, creative, from affluent families, not hippies, just tired of the "establishment," of a materialistic society leading many into the mad rush of living, causing millions to fall short of fulfillment and aspirations because man cannot live by bread alone.

The hills have numerous shortcomings, like other sections. Some pity us because geographical isolation hemmed us in. But the same barriers preserved other values of greater worth. This fine couple has found what it is like to live, not just exist. They have achieved contentment through greater independence, are less bound by conventions that can stifle instead of inspire. They felt like the child given expensive toys but denied the joy of fashioning some for himself from sticks and strings!

The wife in the story finds satisfaction raising, canning, and freezing, fresh vegetables. (Bet she grows flowers, too.) With an air of delight and none of rebellion, she discarded the drier given her, choosing God's sunshine instead.

Years ago, a famed magazine told of a noted British woman doctor who returns to the "wilds" every summer and recommends the same for patients and friends—not a bad idea, as proved by the couple described. Neither she nor they (for several years) had plumbing and running water, but people derive strength from privations. Voluntary or involuntary self-denial carries compensations that outweigh losses involved. It teaches lessons whose impressions remain. Much restlessness among youths today may be a symptom of yearning for simplified living, for more genuineness, for greater emphasis on people and less on status symbols: big bank accounts, cars, homes, boats, fine furs, jewels, expensive vacations, which fring to mind an old maid in the small town where the writer grew up.

Back in the 20's Miss Jennie asked the clerk for distinctive shoes to go with her Easter outfit. He showed her a $12 kid pump. The customer's best friend had bought a higher-priced pair in the city nearby, so Miss Jennie insisted upon a more elegant pair. Tom showed her an identical pair of finer quality, he said, for $18.

"I'll take it." She handed him a $20 bill. When the clerk gave her $8 in change, she cried, "But I said the other pair!"

"Don't be foolish, Jennie," the clerk advised. "It's the very same shoe. I just took you for a ride. Next time, use your common sense."

The young couple was determined not to be poured into a mold. A personal story illustrates the clerk's point. In 1931 he accompanied a friend to purchase her fall wardrobe. She was buying a hat in one of the two top stores when the writer saw one clerk unpack a jersey turban, priced $12. In the highest shop, across the street we saw a duplicate turban of another color, just in. The model was $18. Soon after, walking down the street, we spied a man as he placed a third turban in the window of a dollar store. We stepped inside to ask the price. One dollar! He said they would go on sale the next day but the advance model could not be sold. Finding that we lived 50 miles away, he consented to sell the hat.

Next morning at church, the town heiress was wearing the $18 brown and green model from the top store. She asked where mine had come from, and never wore hers again!

Vanity, vanity, where art thou? Aren't we all filled with vanity and pride?

Lonesome Pine Council Names Jamboree Body

Members of the 1973 National Jamboree Committee for the Lonesome Pine Council Boy Scouts of America were named last week by E. M. Bane, Council president. Scheduled for August, 1973, the Jamboree will be held in two sites—Farragut State Park, Idaho and Moraine State Park, Pennsylvania.

Donald Combs, Pikeville attorney, has been named Jamboree chairman. Other members of the committee are: William Baird, Jr. and Dr. Richard B. Green both of Pikeville, Dennis Dorton, Paintsville, Leslie Rogers, of Hazard, Ernest Priest, of Wise, Va., and Robert Brown, of Grundy, Virginia.

Mr. Combs announced that every registered Scout will be eligible to attend a Jamboree, either in a regular chartered troop or in a troop made up provisionally with members coming from many troops throughout the Council.

Public Hearing

Notice is hereby given, upon recommendation of the Prestonsburg Planning Commission, that the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg will conduct a Public Hearing at the Ford Building, in the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, on Thursday, August 3, 1972, at 7:30 p.m., for the purpose of hearing pertinent evidence concerning the following application:

Application of Ray Howard Furniture Co., and recommendation of the Prestonsburg Planning Commission, for rezoning of an area of land beginning with the property line of Charles and Watt Hale, located on the southeast side of Harris Street, northeast to the right-of-way of the C. & O. Railway Co., from R-2 (Residential Medium Density) to C-3 (Central Business). (The property being that of the Old Colonial House).

Great American Dream Machine.

America is the place that is made out of dreams. And, U.S. Savings Bonds have been helping to make happy dreams come true for years. Now, Bonds mature in less than six years. That means your dreams can come true faster than ever before. You can buy shares in your particular dream by joining the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or the Bond-a-Month plan where you bank. Before you know it, your American dream will be a reality.

Hunters To Observe Golden Wedding, Aug. 6

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Hunter, of Betsy Layne, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Sunday Aug. 6. They were married Aug. 4, 1922. Friends may call at their residence from 12 noon to 7 p.m.

The State Legislative Research Commission is developing a plan for helping local governments handle new responsibilities given them under 1972 home rule legislation. Since local governments are new in dealing with such matters, Lt. Gov. Julian M. Carroll, LRC chairman, urged the commission to give them a helping hand.

Minority membership in apprenticeship programs registered with the Department of Labor has increased by 73 percent over the past 2 years. Black, Spanish-speaking, Indian, and Oriental youth comprised 18,977 or 9.8 percent of the 194,543 apprentices on July 1, 1971. This compares with 10,986 or 6.6 percent of the 166,087 minority apprentices on January 1, 1969.

Combs Contends UK Leadership Needed by Community Colleges

Grid Standout

Former Governor Bert T. Combs, guest of honor last Friday evening at the meeting at May Lodge of the Highlands Area Alumni Association, University of Kentucky, argued in an address that the University of Kentucky should remain in control of the state's system of community colleges.

One leader, not several as would be the case in the event that management of the college system were turned over to the smaller state colleges, is needed, he contended. He pointed out that Kentucky was one of the first states to develop a community college system and that the result of this work in the area of higher education is now a model for other states.

Dr. Stanley Wall, UK vice-president of the community college system, spoke briefly of his work. Jay Brumfield, director of UK alumni affairs, said the current alumni membership drive has exceeded all expectations.

Also guest of honor at the performance of "Jenny Wiley!" at the Amphitheatre which was built during his administration, the former governor sat through a steady drizzle as members of the cast played their roles under the most trying conditions. Four of the players fell on the slippery stage during the performance but continued in their roles till the curtain fell.

Paul C. Combs, Prestonsburg attorney and chairman of the Highlands alumni, presided at the dinner meeting at May Lodge. Approximately 85 alumni attended.

Ed Jones, member of the undefeated Harbor high school (Ohio) football team, has received a grant-in-aid from the University of Cincinnati. Playing with Harbor, Northeastern Conference champs last season, he was a standout at offensive tackle and a unanimous selection to both the all-county and all-city teams. Despite his size, he also starred in basketball. Young Jones, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgelle Jones, Geneva, O., and a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Jones, formerly of McDowell, is expected to get a trial at defensive end for Cincinnati's Bearcats.

ENTERTAIN GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Allen, of Martin, had as guests recently Mrs. Harold Maggard and daughter, Jennifer, of Lexington, Mrs. Linda Terry and children, of Miami, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. Allen returned home recently after vacationing at Myrtle Beach, S. C., and in the Smokies.

maintaining the level of the company's Appalachian area production as other fields are being depleted.

In addition to B & B Engineers, contractors who will install pipelines and related facilities include Grey Eagle Construction Co., Kermit, W. Va., and General Pipeline Construction, Inc., Clendenin, W. Va.

Present plans call for the eventual building of a compressor station by the company, it was said.

Initial drilling in the field by Clinchfield Coal Co. was done in 1954, after which 10 wells were completed in the Big Lime, Berea and Shale formations.

In August, 1970, Columbia Gas Transmission bought the 10 wells and gas rights on 28,770 acres from Clinchfield Coal and started a 100-well development program.

purchased from an independent operator the lease of the Jenny Wiley Boat Dock near Prestonsburg. The dock is on the western shore of Dewey Lake, which offers some of the South's finest bass fishing in the spring and fall. Crappies and white bass are harvested in large numbers all year long. The 16-mile-long lake contains a four-mile section set aside for water skiing, while the rest of the 1150 acres are open to anglers.

"Some of the South's finest bass fishing in the spring and fall"—indeed. (Which spring and fall?) "...white bass harvested in large numbers all year long"—forsooth. (Most anglers doubt that the lake has one white bass left in it.) "A four-mile section set aside for water skiing"—my sainted grandmother! They ski, all over the lake, and those acres left to the angler spend most of the time bobbing up and down in the wake of speeding boats.

Give SPORTS AFIELD credit for one bit of factual reporting. The state Department of Parks did acquire the boat dock.

We have the word of Tim Bostic, editor of The Salyersville Independent, that during the recent hot spell the bulletin board of a Salyersville church bore this greeting:

"And you think this is hot!"

Dist. 30 Locals To Nominate UMW Candidates This Month

Members of 81 locals of District 30, United Mine Workers of America (UMWA), will nominate candidates for International officers during August, according to Carl E. Crouch, area administrator for Labor Management Services Administration (LMSA), U. S. Department of Labor.

Nominating proceedings are also being held, the Labor Department official said, in the 21 other UMW districts in the United States, preliminary to the nation-wide election of International officers scheduled for December 1-8.

Crouch, who has been designated by Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson as district election coordinator for District 30 said that U. S. Department of Labor representatives will supervise both the nomination and election of UMW International officers pursuant to a June 15 order by the U. S. District Court of the District of Columbia in the case of Hodgson et al v. United Mine Workers of America.

In that case, which was filed by Secretary Hodgson and in which representatives opposing the incumbent administration were permitted to intervene as plaintiffs, the Court set aside the International's regular election of December, 1969, holding that certain procedures followed in that election violated the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act.

Crouch said that nomination meetings for District 30 locals have been scheduled with the cooperation of UMW Acting District President Farley Gilley and local union officers to insure maximum participation by all UMW members in the candidate selection process. He pointed out that several locals will have more than one nominating meeting to accommodate members who work on different shifts.

Each local, he added, is authorized by the UMW constitution to nominate candidates for International offices and every member in good standing may have a voice in his local's selection.

The schedule for nomination meetings in District 30 follows:

- Aug. 4—Local 5793, Hazard, 10 a.m.; 5974, Robinson Creek, 1 p.m.
- Aug. 5—Local 1645, Garrett, 10 a.m.; 741, Wayland, 10 a.m.; 1812, Jenkins, 10 a.m.; 1827, Inez, 2 p.m.; 5775, Whitesburg, 11 a.m.; 5890, Hazard, 10 a.m.; 8588, Phylliss, 3 p.m.

NEH Awards Alice Lloyd College $202,622 For Learning Laboratory

Pippa Passes, Ky.—A grant of $202,622 over a three-year period has been awarded to Alice Lloyd College, by the National Endowment for the Humanities, Washington, D. C., to finance the Appalachian Learning Laboratory.

Announcement of the grant was made this week by William S. Hayes, ALC president, who said that another grant of $30,000 will be awarded when the college matches that amount with its own funds. The grants were awarded on the basis of a proposal, "Educating the Whole Person."

Beginning this fall, 25 students from Eastern Kentucky and beyond will be selected each year to participate in the Appalachian Learning Laboratory's two-year program. The courses offered as a part of the program incorporate every phase of the college curriculum. Thirty-two hours of course work are required in order to obtain a Certificate of Completion at the end of two years. Those obtaining such a certificate also qualify for the College's Associate of Arts degree. No more than 15 students will be admitted in any Appalachian Learning Laboratory class. The Alice Lloyd College school year will begin, August 21.

The program affords an opportunity for students to examine and research the dynamics of Appalachian life—the politics, religion, economics, education and ecology. A concept and issue-oriented approach to education will be used rather than the traditional disciplinary divisions. Courses will utilize several disciplines in areas of particular concern such as economic development, man's interaction with his environment and Appalachian culture in a changing world. Bringing together disciplines from the humanities, the social sciences and physical sciences, students will gain insight into the relatedness of their various subjects.

The Appalachian Learning Laboratory represents a clearly formulated effort by a residential college to "break down the walls" between college and community, not by doing away with dormitories, but by sharing resources. Building on Alice Lloyd College's long standing commitment to community outreach programs such as ALCOR, the program emphasizes the involvement of students in constructive community projects which are at the same time learning experiences. Such projects would be centered in schools, courthouses and private organizations.

The Appalachian Learning Lab aims to help students learn about the history and culture of the area so that they will come to appreciate the good things they have inherited and be strengthened to foster these advantages as Appalachian participants in broader encounters within American society.

This new program is seen as a continuation of the pioneering reforms of Mrs. Alice Lloyd, who founded the college 50 years ago on Caney Creek. Her pioneering efforts led to responsible social reform in education building on community involvement. Fifty years ago it was a matter of starting schools; Alice Lloyd did that and helped train the teachers. Now Appalachian stands on the threshold of a new era, and now the problem is subtler and in some ways much more nettlesome—improve education, improve economic and health opportunities, but strengthen the Appalachian values and traditions that enrich the quality of life.

Mrs. Doran To Head Drive for $15,000

Morehead, Ky.—Mrs. Adron Doran, wife of the president of Morehead State University, has been named general chairman of the most ambitious fund drive in the history of Girl Scouting in Eastern and Central Kentucky.

The campaign—to be conducted in late September will involve 39 of the 57 counties in the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council. Excluded are counties which give United Fund support to Girl Scouting.

Mrs. Doran's appointment was announced at a campus press conference by Mrs. Graydon A. Long of Lexington, president of the Wilderness Road Council, which serves more than 13,000 Girl Scouts.

The fund raising effort has a goal of $15,000 and will consist primarily of residential and business canvasses. Collections will be used to supplement cookie sales and United Fund gifts in the council's 1972 budget.

Supplement Grant To Big Sandy CAA Approved by Ford

Gov. Wendell Ford has approved a $1,035 Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) supplemental grant to the Big Sandy Community Action Agency (CAA) permitting salary increases for family planning staff.

The increases, up to 5 1/2 percent for cost-of-living and 1/2 percent for fringe benefits, are designed to bring salaries in line with those in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW). It is anticipated that the OEO family planning programs are to be transferred eventually to HEW's National Center for Family Planning Services.

OEO funds the Big Sandy CAA in a section of Eastern Kentucky consisting of Floyd, Lawrence, Johnson, Martin, Magoffin and Pike counties. Harry Eastburn is executive director.

Non-Farm Workers At Record Total

Non-agricultural employment in Kentucky continued its record-breaking pace during June, the Department of Economic Security said last week.

May's record total of 953,500 was surpassed by 1000, making a total of 954,500 persons now working in non-agricultural jobs.

Economic Security Commissioner Gail S. Huecker said the advance resulted from an increase in manufacturing. Non-manufacturing dropped with the closing of schools and a major dispute in bituminous coal mining.

During June, Kentucky's unemployment rate was 5.7 percent, one percent higher than May's figure. The slight jump was due mainly to the large number of students entering the labor market.

The Golden Wonder

By Nevyle Shackelford (UK College of Agriculture)

The product of an intricate relationship between bees and flowers, honey has been called the "golden wonder of nature." Because its concentration of sugars is so high that it resists contamination by harmful bacteria, honey has also been called the purest of all foods.

A food that cannot be adulterated without easy detection, honey separates if mixed with corn syrup and ferments if diluted with water. And because of its perfection, pure honey can rarely be improved upon or cheapened.

Besides being delicious to the taste, honey is also healthful to the body, according to Elizabeth Helton, Extension specialist in food and nutrition at the University of Kentucky. Honey contains traces of iron, copper, manganese, silica, chlorine, sodium, phosphorus, aluminum, magnesium, protein, and vitamins—in the right amounts to best serve the needs of the normal individual. It is a sweet that diabetics can tolerate. It is unsurpassed as a carbohydrate food, and it helps babies retain calcium and thus grow stronger bones and better teeth.

Because of its sweetness, honey has entered symbolically into wedding ceremonies. From its traditional use in ancient Scandinavian nuptial rites comes the "honeymoon," and, as Donald Culross Peattie once wrote, to take a bite of honey is to partake of a sacrament with nature.

Although modern medicine considers it more of a vehicle in the treatment of diseases than anything else, honey was once a vital ingredient in folk medicine. According to old medical books, a tablespoon of honey each day at the evening meal would cure insomnia. Mixed with cider vinegar, it was excellent for coughs. It was also used to control muscle cramps and to relieve breathing-tract difficulties, as well as a salve for burns.

According to recent U. S. Department of Agriculture figures, there are around 6 million bee colonies in the United States. These bees produce approximately 300 million pounds of honey annually with a total farm value of 50 million dollars. But this is only part of the story. To agriculture in general, the value of these bees is 30 times greater than the price brought by their honey.

Farming, gardening, and fruit-growing would suffer tremendously without honey bees to cross-pollinate flowers of plants. As a matter of fact, in California, which is said to produce more honey than any other state, the citrus crop is absolutely dependent upon bees. Also, it is said that, without bees, more than 10,000 species of plants would become extinct.

In acutality, honey, which captures much of the essence of summer, may not possess all of the wonderful characteristics attributed to it. If indeed, as its exponents claim, it is a wonder food, the bees that produce it are wonder insects—something which makes beekeeping a very worthy, interesting, and profitable endeavor.

Unit labor costs in U. S. manufacturing industries during 1971 rose 2.7 percent—less than one-third the rates of increase in Canada, Japan and most European countries, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports.

Maloney's Newest At Aberdeen, Ohio

Maloney's Discount Department Stores' newest outlet opened today (Wednesday) in Aberdeen, Ohio, across the river from Maysville, Kentucky. The 31,000-square-foot store will be the tenth for the chain and the first outside the state of Kentucky. Started in a 1,500 square foot store in Mt. Sterling in 1958, the chain now occupies a total of 160,000 square feet of selling floor in ten communities. In addition to the new store in Aberdeen, there are stores in Mt. Sterling, Morehead, Prestonsburg, West Liberty, South Williamson, Olive Hill, Paintsville, Cumberland, and Jackson.

Extension Service To Offer Course At College Here

The Cooperative Extension Service will sponsor a Home Landscape Design Study Course at Prestonsburg Community College for homeowners in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, and Pike counties, it was announced this week.

The course will be taught one night a week for six weeks, beginning Tuesday night, September 12. Each session will start at 6:30 p.m., and run for three hours with a coffee break and a question-and-answer period.

The topics to be covered will include: Elements and principles of landscape design, including discussions of the interrelationships of various species as to form, texture, color, and size; developing outdoor spaces, with design for different shaped lots, plant materials, and fences being stressed; planning patios, decks and outdoor living rooms; planting design, stressing the relationship of shapes and forms of plants to buildings, form, texture, and color in planting design, and the use of mulches; ground cover plants, with the emphasis on the various species and varieties and their use in design.

Persons wishing to enroll in this course should contact the County Extension Office in their county before August 17. A limited number may enroll.

For further information, contact the Floyd County Extension Office; phone 886-2668.

WINS 'OZARK HOLIDAY'

David Marcum, of Allen, field representative for Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society, and Mrs. Marcum have just returned from an all-expense-paid "Ozark Holiday" at Tan-Tar-A Lodge, on the Lake of the Ozarks in Missouri. The trip and the three-day stay at the vacation spa was awarded to Mr. Marcum as a result of a year-long promotional effort by field representatives of the Woodmen. Only top-rated field personnel could earn the trip and bring a guest.

Has Perfect Standing

Miss Deborah Delona Stanley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Stanley, of Melvin, achieved a perfect 4.0 academic standing at the University of Kentucky for the spring semester, 1972. Miss Stanley, studying the premedical curriculum offered at the University, was also elected a member of both Alpha Epsilon Delta, a pre-medical honorary, and Links, junior women's honorary.

Webb-Parker Vows Solemnized, July 15

Miss Deborah Ann Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zebb Webb, of Route 1, Pikeville, and Mr. Larry Edward Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Parker, of McDonale, Tenn., were united in marriage on July 15 at 2 p.m. at the Church of Christ of Pikeville in an open-church wedding. John Paul Bilitier performed the singe-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Thelmer McClanahan was pianist and Bob Ford was vocalist in the pre-nuptial music program.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white crepe, empire waist, with floor-length sash. Her gown was complimented with lace. Her veil was shoulder-length. Her bouquet was of pompoms, daisies and white carnations, centered with pink rosebuds.

The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Carl Hobbs, of Cleveland, Tenn. She wore a street-length dress of light pink and hot-pink crepe. Her bouquet was of pompoms and daisies, with a pink streamer.

Best man was Kenneth Johnson, of Cleveland, Tenn. Ushers were Carl Hobbs, brother-in-law of the bride, and Jerry Hacker, both of Cleveland, Tenn.

The bride's mother wore a dress of navy blue with navy accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother wore a dress of light blue with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the Starlite dining room. Misses Billie Sue Bilitier and Janice Ford assisted with the reception. Miss Sherry Bilitier was at the guest register.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Neal Parker, Mrs. Gary Ledford and son, Chris, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson and son, Wayne, Jerry Hacker, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hobb's and Timothy and Melissa Hobbs, all of Cleveland, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. John Acord, Wilmington, Delaware, Mr. and Mrs. William Vargo and son Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Acord, Leah and Kim Acord, Ladonna Nagy, Chris Nagy, Johnny Long and Mrs. J. C. Acord, grandmother of the bride, all of Logan, W. Va., Mrs. Debbie Kinzer and Mrs. Ann Robinson, of Martin, Ky.

The bride is a graduate of Johns Creek high school with the class of '71. She attended Cleveland State Community College last year and will return there this fall. She has been employed by the Pikeville First National Bank in the bookkeeping department.

The groom attended Bradley high school of Cleveland and is presently employed by the Dillard Smith Construction Co., Cleveland.

In Memory of My Brother

W. M. (Will) Allen, who passed away July 20, 1972, was born March 19, 1883. He was 89 years old and was the son of Reys and Martha Hall Allen.

There were eight of us children. Now, all are gone but me. I am his sister. He told his wife that there was a better home waiting for him. He is gone but not forgotten. The Lord will take care of his children. Bless his good wife and children. I pray for the Lord to guide me along and to be with me.

August - 1972

By Marie L. Harmon

Here it is August already, with so many gardens ending for the year. Really, NOW is the time to pitch in and dig. There are so many things that can be grown here in Floyd county in the fall months—vegetables such as members of the cabbage family: turnips, mustard, kale and other greens. This week is about the latest they can be sowed safely. Radishes, late beans, cucumbers, beets, carrots and lettuce should be sowed within the first ten days of this month, if they are to beat old Mr. Frost.

So many of us rush, rush, rush in the early spring to get our gardens in. That is as it should be—but how many are now finding bare spots or weed patches throughout their gardens? As each crop comes off, clear that spot. Sow a late crop of a different type vegetable, never replant beans where beans were. Plant beans in the early corn patch, put late corn in the ex-bean, potato and pea area.

If you are having a weed problem about now—and who isn't?—pull them up, or at least cut them off at the ground line before they go to seed. After a few seasons of weed-pulling, most of the weed seeds and root systems will have disappeared. Sure it's hard work, for a while, but it's one job that really pays off well and fairly soon, too.

In the area you will not need for late crops, as these last gardening weeks go by, clear off, plow or spade up and sow in a cover crop, to be plowed under come spring—adding much needed humus and nitrogen to your garden.

Notice to Bidders

The Floyd County Board of Education will accept sealed bids until 12 o'clock noon, August 5, 1972, for the following materials: 3,000 reams, more or less, Duplicator Paper, 8 1/2 X 11, 20 lb. wt.; 400 reams, more or less, Mimeograph Paper, 8 1/2 X 11, 20 lb. wt.; 200 reams more or less, Mimeograph Paper, 8 1/2 X 14, 20 lb. wt.; 100 boxes, more or less, Master Units, 8 1/2 X 11; 300 gallons, more or less, Duplicator Fluid; 20 quire, more or less, Mimeograph Stencils; 2,000 first cut Manila Folders, 8 1/2 X 14.

Shipments are to be made and billed to consolidated school throughout the county, and to the Board of Education in Prestonsburg, Kentucky. The bid price includes free delivery. Subsequent orders with free delivery at bid prices are to be in effect for the remainder of the 1972-73 school year. Bidders shall bid on all items and the entire bid shall be awarded to one bidder. Successful bidder must be prepared to make initial delivery by August 18th.

"Paper Bid Quotation" August 5, 1972, should be placed on all bid letters. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The surprising Maverick.

It's a comfortable, 6-cylinder American compact that's actually priced below the Volkswagen 113.

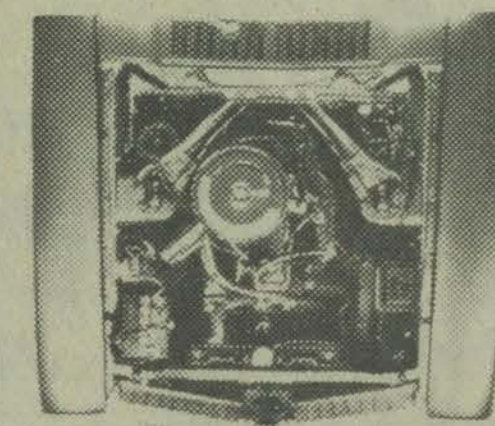

If you can afford a Volkswagen 113 - or almost any little import - you can afford a Maverick. Look:

FORD MAVERICK	2-door	6-cylinder	$2,140.*
VW 113 (Super Beetle)	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,159.*
TOYOTA COROLLA 1600	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,109.*
DATSUN PL 510	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,306.*

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for 2-door models. Excludes dealer preparation charges if any, destination charges, title and taxes.

NOTE: People ask us how we can afford to offer a roomy, 6-cylinder compact at about the same price as the little imports. First, we've been making small cars since 1908. Experience helps. Second, we haven't changed Maverick—except for mechanical improvements—since we first introduced it. That kind of continuity helps to control costs. Third, recent currency revaluations and devaluations have helped restore the competitive stance of American manufacturers.

Most little imports give you 4-cylinder engines. Maverick gives you a 6-cylinder engine.

It's smooth. It's reliable. It lets you accelerate into turnpike traffic with confidence and hold your own on steep hills. And it delivers surprisingly good gas mileage.

A good car for long trips.

Maverick's rear track is 2.9" wider than Volkswagen's. Its wheel-base is 7.7" longer. There's a bit more weight, too. By themselves, these differences aren't very big—but they can add up to a big difference in the way Maverick drives and handles the open road.

Better idea for safety... buckle up!

Ample room inside.

Maverick's front seat, for example: over 8" more shoulder room than Volkswagen 113. There's no wasted space inside Maverick. At the same time, none of that small-car crowded feeling.

Maintenance: Even simpler, more convenient than the little imports.

VW, for example, recommends normal service every 3000 miles or three months, whichever comes first. On Maverick, it's 6000 miles or six months. So Maverick's recommended service interval is twice as long as Volkswagen's.

We also designed Maverick to be a simple machine to care for. In fact, we've even prepared a manual which tells you how to do many maintenance jobs yourself.

One more convenience: there are over 5,600 Ford dealers in the country. VW has about 1,100.

The Oaks of The Tri-State

Oak...Oak...Repeat the word oak a number of times and you will begin to feel a sense of power, strength, endurance, the power to stand against the raging elements of life. From ancient days the oak has been regarded as a symbol of power and endurance. The Druids worshipped the oak as a symbol of divine power and eternal endurance. The oaks are the most important hardwood trees of North America.

The fruit of the oak is the acorn, which is partly enclosed in a beautifully plaited, tweedlike cup. All down the ages acorns have been an important source of food for humans and many species of wild life. They are eagerly sought by coons, squirrels, wild turkeys, deer, bear, bluejays and many other animals and birds. Squirrels and bluejays are the chief planters of oaks and help to keep the forests alive and thriving. The old settlers would turn out their hogs in the fall, when the acorns began dropping, to fatten on the oak mast—a name for the acorns. By the time Christmas rolled around, the hogs were seal fat on the mast.

The Indians knew how to leach out the bitter tannic acid of acorns, which they dried and used for making bread and for giving a tang to stews and soups.

Two great groups of oaks are the White Oak and the Black Oak. The white oak reigns as the king of the group and sometimes becomes a giant of the forest. The black oak is the lord of its clan and one of our most valuable trees. The railroad ties that span the continent were sawed mostly out of black oak.

There are some marked difference between the two groups. The white oak group bears leaves mostly with rounded lobes and no spines on these. They mature their acorns yearly. The black oak group has deeply indented lobes of the leaf and each lobe has a slender spine at the tip. Black oaks require two years to mature the acorns.

The oaks are members of the Beech Family and are closely related to the chinquapins and the now-extinct chestnuts. The leading members of the White Oak clan of our region are the White Oak, Post Oak, Burr Oak, which is also called the Mossy Cup Oak, the Chestnut Oak, the Swamp White Oak and the Chinquapin Oak, sometimes called "yellow oak," from its yellowish leaf stems.

The leading members the Black Oak group of our region are the Black Oak itself, the Northern Red Oak, the Southern Red Oak, also called Spanish Oak, the Pin Oak, the Scarlett Oak, the Black Jack Oak and the Scrub Oak, also called the Red Brush Oak. The latter two are small oaks but produce an abundance of acorns for black bears and wild turkeys.

The burr oak (mossy cup oak) bears the largest acorns of all, sometimes the size of a golf ball. The beautifully designed cup covers about two-thirds of the large acorn and has a mosslike frings around the top, giving it the name of mossy cup oak. This oak is far too scarce in the Tri-State region. It makes a magnificent tree. The only times I have seen this oak was when I visited cemeteries on Tug River; once I saw three large burr oaks standing on the lawn of a house near Borderland, W. Va. The burr oak is common in the Blue Grass Region and in more western parts, such as Missouri and other western states.

The white oak acorn is cone-shaped, smooth, light brown and is covered about one-third by the cup. This acorn is one of the favorite foods of deer and squirrels. The acorn of the post oak is quite similar; and so is the bark of this tree more like that of the white oak. The chestnut oak produces slender acorns, which are sleek and handsome but quite bitter, while the acorns of the chinquapin oak are edible. The chestnut oak, also called the rock oak, grows only on the high, rocky ridges of the Appalachians, nowhere else in America. This tree grows big and burly and is a symbol of gigantic power and strength; it dots on the wind-tossed heights and sends its root down deep in the rocky earth so they can twine around deep underground rocks to give them a secure hold against heavy storms.

CARD OF THANKS

Appreciation is extended to friends, relatives and neighbors for their kind consideration shown upon the loss of our dear mother, Fanny Frances Salisbury, in many beautiful floral offerings and food. Our gratitude also goes to John Paul Billiter, pastor of the Martin Church of Christ, and Bennie Blankenship, Church of Christ pastor also, for their consoling messages; also to the Martin Church of Christ choir for their hymns, to the Merion Funeral home for every concern so courteously shown and for outstanding service.

THE FAMILY

The proportion of black high school graduates enrolled in college rose from about 35 percent in the early 1960's to 45 percent in 1970, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports.

League of Kentucky Sportsmen Plans Expanded Membership

Vanceburg, Ky., July 24—Enlistment of an even greater sportsman's force in environment improvement was announced here today by Reid Love, president of the 35,000-member League of Kentucky Sportsmen.

"Kentucky must have more people actively involved, and the League proposes to do this by expanding its membership to 50,000," the LKS president declared. "We feel also that the stepped-up participation by League members will once more demonstrate that hunters and fishermen are not takers only, but pioneered contributors as well. And we are hopeful that it will continue to combat the misconception that is generating an increased anti-hunting and anti-gun ownership sentiment."

Love's announcement followed a two-day meeting of the LKS board of directors in Ashland.

The nine-member board also urged participation in the National Hunting and Fishing Day, September 23, by its 350 affiliated clubs throughout the state. Intent of the observance is to depict a true conservation role of organized sportsmen.

Love announced also that the major party nominees for U. S. Senator, Former Governor Louis Nunn and State Senate Majority Leader Dee Huddleston, are to be asked to the next board meeting October 14 in Berea. The nominees will discuss their ecological platforms, Love stated.

U.S. Savings Bonds help keep today's plans from becoming tomorrow's broken dreams.

We all have plans. We plan for a vacation, plan to buy a boat, or a house; or send our children through college. And, in order to keep those plans from becoming broken dreams, we need money. That's where the Payroll Savings Plan comes in handy. When you join where you work, an amount you specify is set aside from your paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

It's an easy way to save money and collect some interest at the same time. Keep today's plans alive. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. You won't end up with a bunch of broken dreams tomorrow.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months 14/7 the first year. Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America. Now Bonds mature in less than six years.

Kentucky Parks System in Red But Not for Want of Business

Kentucky's state parks are in the red to the extent of $1.8 million for the fiscal year ending June 30, but the current picture isn't such as to indicate it's because of lack of business.

Those seeking reservations at the parks for last week-end were told, earlier in the week, that all facilities in 12 of the parks were booked solid and that in three of the parks where there were vacancies only nine rooms were open.

The few vacancies were at Buckhorn, Cumberland Falls and Rough River.

Yet expenses far exceed income. So...

State Parks Commissioner Ewart Johnson has ordered the managers of Kentucky's 15 state resort parks to try to cut the net operating costs of the parks by $1 million during the current fiscal year that ends next June 30.

Johnson said he has set a rule-of-thumb guide that each park manager should try to cut his budget by $100,000 this year.

"This would be a $1.5 million savings," he said. "Maybe a little too much to hope for. But even half that would be great."

Not since the fiscal year which ended in mid-1966 has the resort-park system operated in the black. That year a $50,000 net gain was noted. The system has grown steadily since that time and the red figures have grown with each successive year until a net loss of $1.8 million is projected for the fiscal year that ended June 30, Owens noted.

The net operating cost is figured by balancing the income from sales of lodging, food and other items against all management cost, such as labor, supplies and maintenance. But capital outlay for new construction costs is excluded.

Johnson's basic approach to ending the parks' operating-cost spiral, simply stated, is: "I'm giving it a business bookkeeping approach instead of a government bookkeeping approach."

This means "instead of looking at the budget allotments and telling a park manager this is how much you can lose, I'm saying how much more can you make. I don't want to hear any more about the other way," Johnson declared.

While the 15 parks took in an estimated $8 million in the fiscal year that ended June 30, the operating costs are projected at up to $9.8 million, Owens said. Current fiscal-year projections call for income of $8.5 million and costs of $9.6 million.

Through his new approach, Johnson hopes to have five of the parks operating in the black when this fiscal year ends next June 30.

Last year, and in most recent years, only Kentucky Dam Village State Park, one of the oldest and most popular parks, has shown an operating profit, Johnson noted.

Johnson said that the operation of three state-employee cafeterias in Frankfort, which are assigned to the Parks Department, are now about breaking even on operating costs. The cafeterias showed a loss of more than $120,000 the previous fiscal year, he said.

Johnson said slashing labor costs is the keystone of his economy program.

An aide to Johnson estimated that the Parks Department has 300 fewer employees than the 2,862 who were listed on the payroll at this time last year.

About two-thirds of the parks' employees are seasonal workers.

Johnson said he ordered 1,017 seasonal workers, including some lifeguards, dropped from the payroll when he took office in December.

To prevent the employment of seasonal workers after the peak park periods, Johnson has instituted an automatic termination program. A seasonal employment card is marked with his date of termination or the date he is hired, Johnson said.

Most seasonal workers will be gone this year by Labor Day, the commissioner said. In the past, parks as well as the Department of Highways, has been loaded with workers at election-time.

Don't throw those soft, plastic dry-cleaning bags away—they're great for stuffing throw pillows. UK Extension home furnishings specialists say they make a comfortable, soft stuffing, that only needs a light shake to fluff up instantly. For safety's sake, though, cut up the bags for storage while you're saving up enough to stuff a pillow. Whole plastic bags can be dangerous, especially around children, for they can get caught over the face and cause smothering.

TRACTOR DRIVERS, PROTECT YOUR EARS! A farmer who is exposed to high noise levels may gradually lose his hearing, say agricultural engineers at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. The safe level set by industry is 85 decibels, but tractor tests at the University of Nebraska show that many farm tractors go over 90 decibels at 75 percent of full load. That's about what many tractors average while plowing, disking, or doing power take-off work.

Meet Woodsy Owl. He represents a major step forward in our fight against pollution.

A major step forward in getting our smoggy skies blue again. A major step forward in saving our forests, lakes and wildlife. And a major step forward in improving the quality of our environment. You'll be seeing and hearing a lot about Woodsy. He knows how you can fight pollution...and he needs your help.

Woodsy has a hooter. When he blows it, it goes Hoot! A Hoot is a pollution stopper. Some of Woodsy's Hoots are: Trees make many things possible, plant a tree. Recycle all cans, bottles and papers. Man paints houses only nature should paint forests. Sh sh sh sh sh sh...noise pollutes too. Trees and flowers can't hold their breath...smog's a killer. Tuned engines mean less smog. Keep your engines tuned.

In months to come you'll be hearing many more Hoots...over one hundred. If you have good Hoots...practical ways people can fight pollution, send them to Woodsy Owl, U.S. Forest Service, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Disabled Miners And Widows March On S. S.

Miners disabled by black lung and widows and children of black lung victims marched on Social Security district offices Monday throughout Eastern Kentucky.

It was the first of two days of demonstrations at the Social Security offices in Harlan, Corbin, Hazard and Pikeville. The demonstrators—members of the Kentucky Black Lung Association—are protesting the manner in which Social Security is handling the new (1972) amendments to the Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969.

Target of the protest is Bernard Popick, director of the Bureau of Disability Insurance at Social Security headquarters in Baltimore Maryland. The action stems from Popick's alleged going back on a promise he made to members of the Black Lung Association in Washington on July 18. At this meeting he promised that an advance copy of the new regulations governing the Black Lung Benefits program would be released to the Black Lung Association for its members to comment on before they were put into effect.

Now, the miners say, Popick is maintaining that he has to have the regulations out by a deadline, so he doesn't have time to fool with the disabled miners. The regulations written by Social Security for the original law in 1969 were so restrictive that they denied black lung benefits to more than 75 per cent of the miners in Kentucky who applied.

"It comes as no surprise to me that Popick did not answer our request to help write the (new) regulations," Bill Worthington, of Evarts, president of the Kentucky Black Lung Association, and one of the men who met with Popick in Washington, said. Worthington continued, "We have reason to believe they are already written. We tried to work with Social Security in good faith. But that is impossible. They are determined to keep on denying benefits to a lot of people. The Social Security Administration believes in a dictatorship—they choose to deny us our rights as Americans to participate in things that affect our lives. We have waited much too long for this bureaucracy to give us our rights. It looks like we are going to have to take matters into our own hands and demand our rights. Either Social Security gives us our benefits or we will dismember or overthrow the program."

At the July 18 meeting in Washington, Popick met with representatives of the Black Lung Associations from West Virginia and Virginia as well as from Kentucky. The disabled miners told Popick that they should have a say in making up new regulations so that miners who were denied benefits under the old law, whose cases are now under reconsideration, would receive their just benefits under the new law. At first Popick told the men they would have the usual 30 days after publication of the new regulations to make their comments. A compromise was finally reached when Popick agreed to give the Black Lung Associations an advance copy of the regulations two weeks before publication.

One disabled miner from eastern Kentucky, weary from the fight with the government bureaucracy, exclaimed:

"Over the years we have watched them give $300 million to Lockheed (aircraft) to bail them out of bankruptcy; give millions to Penn Central (railroad) to bail them out of bankruptcy; throw in 3 or 4 billion for the 'space shuttle'; and spend $30 billion in Vietnam. Nixon and his advisors travel all over the world at the taxpayer's expense...why can't the disabled coal miner, the widows and the orphans get what's due them?"

Other cities in the Appalachian region where simultaneous demonstrations at Social Security offices are planned are: Bristol, Virginia; and Morgantown, Elkins, Charleston, Logan, Beckley and Bluefield, West Virginia.

Floyd Retired Teachers To Meet August 12

The Floyd County Retired Teachers Association will hold a luncheon meeting at noon Saturday, August 12, at the Wise Restaurant here.

Speakers will be Chalmer H. Frazier, administrator of the new regional hospital, and Dr. Ballard Wright who heads the hospital's cardio-pulmonary department. Dr. Wright recently returned from Sweden where he did a year of advanced study in anesthesiology.

Members of the group will have an opportunity to visit the new hospital and see its modern equipment and facilities.

All retired teachers and those planning to retire soon are invited to attend.

The Eastern District Drive-In Conference will be held this year at Maysville, August 10, at the new junior high school. Lunch will be served.

Reserve Unit Leaves For Lexington Camp

The 10th Repair Parts Company, Pikeville, will begin summer training this week at Lexington Army Depot. An advanced party of 14 enlisted men and two officers left last Thursday for the training site and the remainder of the group, including approximately 150 enlisted men, left Saturday.

The summer camp will be for a period of two weeks and will end August 12. The Pikeville unit is under the command of Captain Lucas McCoy and is composed of men from Pike, Johnson, Floyd and Martin counties in Kentucky and Mingo county, West Virginia.

Of the 4.2 million Vietnam-era veterans in the labor force, 3.9 million are employed—560,000 more than a year ago—and 310,000 are without jobs.

Blasting Law Puts Cap on Explosives

By Paul Howard

Frankfort, Ky.—If your home has been subject to vibrations from blasting sites, relief is on the way.

A blasting law, passed by the 1972 General Assembly provides for licensing of any operation exploding more than five pounds at one time and will keep vibrations to a minimum.

The legislation applies to blasting at both strip-mine and highway construction sites. D. T. Froedge, director of the newly created Division of Explosives and Blasting, said the law will be enforced with fairness to both the private citizen and industry.

"We're going to protect the public, and at the same time we'll be protecting the industry by reducing public irritation."

Froedge, reflecting on ways to make blasting quieter and reduce vibrations, said the increase in the number of blasts, reducing the size of smaller blasts, will often be used.

"A two-pound blast causes more vibrations than 10 blasts of one-pound each at short intervals," he stated. "This procedure makes operations quieter and safer."

Although this practice will be more expensive for the operator, Froedge foresees close cooperation "because this is a means of improving public relations."

The Department of Mines and Minerals has called a public hearing for Aug. 4 to discuss regulations enabling enforcement of the law. The hearing will be held at the University of Kentucky Student Center at 10 a.m.

The regulations to be discussed include: 1. The blasting table which determines how much explosive material can be used for a single blast. The distance, in feet, from the nearest building is divided by 50, then squared to determine the weight of explosives allowed in a single delay; 2. Exception to table for blasting. If the operator considers the table too conservative, he may petition for a modified table to pertain to his immediate area; 3. Explanation of records kept for each blast. All records will be available for inspection by the department.

The state Finance Department has announced the awarding of a contract for construction of the new University of Kentucky football stadium to an Indianapolis firm. Huber, Hunt and Nichols, Inc., received the contract after submitting a low bid of $9,095,500. Construction for the 50,000-seat stadium is to begin immediately, with the completion date set for Sept. 14, 1973.

Social Security Gain in County Is $1.7 Million

Social Security benefit payments to residents of Floyd county will be increased by a total of $1.7 million in calendar year 1973 as a result of the 20 percent benefit increase passed by Congress and signed into law by President Nixon on July 1, Daryl Ratliff, Social Security district manager, said last week.

In 1973, the first full calendar year during which the higher benefits will be payable, the 8,670 social security beneficiaries in Floyd county will receive a total of $9.7 million in benefits, compared to the estimated $8 million that would have been paid if the 20 percent increase had not been enacted.

The first checks to include the 20 percent increase will reach beneficiaries in this county on October 3, the regular date for the delivery of checks covering benefits for September—the month for which the increase is effective. Ratliff said beneficiaries need not take any action because the increase will come to them automatically.
