

County Gets $10,427 Share in Strip Fees

The Floyd fiscal court received an unexpected boost to its funds Monday (August 14) when Gov. Wendell Ford returned $10,427.50 in strip mine fees to the county.

Governor Ford presented the check to County Judge Henry Stumbo at a ceremony in the Governor's office. Forty-two counties in all received checks totalling $355,915.

The funds came from a portion of the money collected by the Department of Natural Resources during fiscal year 1971-'72. As part of Governor Ford's legislative package, the 1972 General Assembly provided that half of the money collected by the state in strip-mine acreage and permit fees must be returned to the counties where the mining took place.

The provision for returning the fees to the counties was contained in a bill which raised the strip-mining fees and made the return to the counties effective August 1. Several of the county judges indicated they were unaware that the legislation was effective in the current fiscal year, so the ceremony in the Governor's office came as a surprise to them.

In making the presentation, Governor Ford said, "This represents another step by my administration to participate in revenue sharing whereby local units of government can receive funds to use at their own discretion" and noted that the revenue grant was part of his program to "return as much government back to the people as possible."

Two Outpost Clinics Slated Next Monday

Two nursing outpost clinics will be held in the county next Monday—one at the Allen school, from 10 to 1:30 p.m., with Sister Agnes as the public health nurse; the other at the EKWRO Building on Big Mud Creek, the same hours, with Sister Susan as the nurse. The nurses will be available for immunization, diabetes screening, blood pressure and general health counseling.

Dr. R. L. Hall, health officer, urges everyone in these areas to take advantage of the clinics.

Probe Follows Finding of Baby In Garbage Dump

Officers investigating the discovery of the body of a newborn baby in a Wheelwright garbage dump last Thursday morning said Monday they do not have one clue as to the identity of the mother or the person who left the body there.

Wheelwright Policeman Harold Johnson said he is certain the mother is not a resident of the town. But County Detective Sam Hale said he is not satisfied with the results of the probe and that he expects to continue the search for the mother.

The discovery was made around 7 a.m. last Thursday, a few minutes earlier, Oakie Sparks, supply manager for a coal company at Wheelwright saw a girl who appeared to be from 13 to 15 years of age carrying something in her arms. He questioned her, he told officers, and she told him she was going home. Later, he, Ed Smallwood and Oscar Smith decided to go to the dump, which is on Hill 79, and see if she had left anything there.

The body of the baby, a girl, was found in a shoe-box, approximately 400 feet from the spot where Sparks had sighted the girl. The box was securely wrapped with masking tape.

Sparks said he had never before seen the girl. Detective Hale, State Detective B. J. Music, State Trooper Gary Rose and Policeman Johnson made a house-to-house canvass of Wheelwright in an effort to identify the girl but came up with nothing.

An autopsy, was performed by Dr. Ann Hooper, of the Williamson Appalachian Regional Hospital, at the direction of County Judge Henry Stumbo and Magistrate Eddie Caudill. Dr. Hooper reported that the child lived from one to four hours after birth and was "normal and healthy." The baby had been dead from 24

Lake Gets More Fertilizer

Photo shows Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources personnel with cargo of fertilizer destined for Dewey Lake. Twenty-six tons of di-ammonium phosphate, which produces ZO-Plankton, will be added to the lake before the department completes its work there this year. The fertilization program has been carried on the last few years, and prior to this season 88,500 pounds had been applied to the impoundment.

Three Suits Name Coal Firm; One Would Recover $230,000

Troubles of a Betsy Layne coal operation piled up Saturday with the addition of three new circuit court actions and the issuance of attachments of its assets. A few weeks ago the firm was sued by the BeBe Coal Company, alleging failure to comply with its contract.

Two of the new suits name Walter C. Childers, individually, who is described as executive officer of his co-defendant, the Colonial Coal Company, Inc. In the third only the coal company is named.

In one of the complaints filed Saturday Francis M. A. Leach, who operates under the name of Kentucky Block Cannel Coal Co., High Mount, N. Y., sued Colonial and Childers for $230,033.62. Leach claims Childers has for several years acted as his agent in procuring coal which he sells at retail to customers. He claims that during 1970, 1971 and 1972 he advanced money to Childers and that the Betsy Layne man has not made any shipment of cannel coal to him since June of last year, meanwhile diverting the money advanced him to his own use in other mining ventures.

The amount asked in the suit, Leach says, represents advances of money made to Childers.

In another suit against Childers and Colonial the B & H Coal Co., of Lexington, seeks to recover $25,977 which, the plaintiff claims, is money accrued from the sale of coal mined by Colonial on its lease. A verbal agreement between the Lexington and Betsy Layne firms, the suit contends, provided that B & H would pay royalties and wheelage charges, with the defendant to pay necessary trucking charges and tippie fees. B & H says it paid $5,524.40 royalties on April and May production and that the defendants meanwhile sold 7,932 tons of coal at the average price of $7 a ton. Defendants' estimated costs under the agreement, were 90 cents a ton for trucking and 25 cents per ton for tippie fees for a total of $9,122.80, with the combined expenses of both parties to the contract being $14,675.20, half of which each party was to bear.

The sale price of coal shipped was placed by plaintiff at $55,524, and after a credit of $1,785.20 for additional expense to defendants, the Lexington company claims it is entitled to recover $25,977.

In the third suit the Somerset Coal Company seeks to recover from Colonial $9,955.50. It claims a verbal agreement with the Harold firm provided that Somerset Coal was to receive a commission of 8 per cent on the sale price of coal produced from its lease. In addition to this amount, the suit alleges, Somerset paid a commission of 15 cents a ton to Harold Hicks, which amounted to $593.25; royalty to the heirs of

This Town . . . That World

THIS IS GETTING SERIOUS

It is fairly well known that I am not easily disturbed, but now I am plumb "shook." My perturbation rises from the multiplicity of rules and regulations, and rules within rules and regulations within regulations which beset us all.

At hand, for instance, is a communication from the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights which sets forth proposed "guidelines" for advertising dealing with employment; that is to say, what a newspaper ad may say and the advertiser and newspaper yet remain innocent of discrimination.

These guidelines get down to such nit-picking that I am reminded of the great volume of man-made rules which evolved as the Jews sought to interpret the Law. Before men got through with their interpretation of the divine will they fixed the distance one might walk outside his home on the Sabbath—and, I am told, prescribed that one might kill a flea on the Sabbath but

Clark School Staff Prepares For Role in Reading Program

The Clark elementary school staff ended last week its busiest summer vacation ever as members devoted much of the between-term period to preparing for the Right to Read program in which it will participate, this school year.

The staff completed its last two Right to Read inservice training days August 18. During the summer, six weeks were devoted to teacher and teacher-aid training to prepare for the school's participation in the National Right to Read effort. Consultants who were specialists in the different areas of the teaching of reading were employed to assist and train the staff during this time. New pieces of equipment and new reading programs which the school has purchased were also demonstrated to the group.

During the training program, the staff members worked on the actual elements of the reading program envisioned at school. They constructed and learned reading games, learning centers and stations, and reading tests; how to utilize the teacher aide in instruction, and how to diagnose reading difficulties and prescribe possible teaching approaches to assist the child in becoming a better reader.

While teachers and aides were learning, the Floyd county school maintenance force moved in and began creating larger areas in the school for instruction to take place. Three walls which divide classrooms were partially removed to create three large carpeted areas for all primary children. New, flexible-type student furniture was purchased for these large areas.

Once the children arrive, they will be arranged into small instructional groups to receive instruction from several adults instead of only one teacher, as was often done in the past. Children beginning school for the first time will be greeted with many toys and activities and will not be moved into formal reading until instructors decide they are really ready to read.

Gov. Wendell Ford presents a $10,427.50 check to County Judge Henry Stumbo. The money is a portion of the acreage and permit fees collected from Floyd county strip-mining operations during fiscal year 1971-'72. The 1972 General Assembly provided that one-half of the fees collected must be returned to the county where the mining took place.

Renovation Job On Park Lodge, Cottages Begun

By BETTY ELLISON

A popular Kentucky mountain beauty, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, will add even more autumn color to the Eastern Kentucky highlands this fall when she appears decked out in new raiments of Indian prints, houndstooth checks, bright plaids and natural woods.

Kentucky's Department of Parks expects to finish a $90,000 renovation of the park lodge and cottages by the end of the summer, according to Parks Commissioner Ewart W. Johnson.

Money for the furnishings and repairs was funded by a capital construction grant from the Department of Finance at the direction of Gov. Wendell H. Ford.

Rooms in May Lodge, which was opened in 1962, are to be newly outfitted with black-and-white houndstooth check bedspreads, eggshell-colored draperies and warm, wine-colored shag carpeting. New furniture for 36 of the 48 rooms includes wing-back lounge chairs in black Naugahyde with matching ottoman—both Kentucky-made products—and decorated, walnut-finished rocking chairs.

Daniels Claims Donations Taken As Ford's Agent

A Prestonsburg man who claimed he collected funds for Walter "Dee" Huddleston's senatorial campaign as an agent of Governor Wendell Ford has been arrested twice within the last two weeks on charges of collecting money under false pretenses.

The accused man, Clay Daniels, is under $5,000 bond in each case, one of which originated in Clark county, the other in Clay county.

Governor Ford's press secretary, Tommy Preston, declared Daniels had no connection with the governor's office.

Daniels was first arrested by state police Aug. 10 in Frankfort on a warrant sworn to by Dr. J. C. Coldiron, of Manchester, who said Daniels, claiming to represent the governor, had received from him a $700 check for Huddleston's campaign.

A similar warrant was sworn out the next day in Clark county by Dr. Robert Brashear, of Winchester, who said he had given Daniels a $50 check under similar circumstances.

At a hearing Aug. 14 in Manchester Daniels gave County Atty. C. C. Smith a statement saying Ford had authorized him to represent the governor by verbal agreement at the Mountain Laurel Festival at Pineville last May.

The statement also said that Daniels and another man had leased a private airplane to Ford during the gubernatorial campaign last year.

Mrs. Herman Lewis, county judge pro-tem in Clay county, said Daniels reportedly was living in Lexington. The General Telephone Co. said it had no listing in Lexington for anybody by that name.

By ALICE HACKWORTH
(Floyd County Librarian)

A shipment of new books from the Kentucky State Department of Libraries arrives twice weekly. The Floyd County Public Library, being regional headquarters, adds a copy of each book received to its collection. This enables us to keep up-to-date information on nearly all subjects. We also keep a list of materials available through inter-library loan. We may borrow any of these books and materials when they are requested by our readers. Here are a few of the books added this week:

"Death to the Landlords," by Ellis Peters. The exotic setting of India is the background for this unusual tale of suspense.

"In Search of Nixon," by Bruce Mazlish. One man's opinion as to the effect of the past in molding the man now President of the United States.

"A Presence in the House," by Marc Lovell. An intriguing mystery concerning the disappearance of a safe recently discovered in the house of a local eccentric.

"Tied Up in Tinsel," by Ngao Marsh. A classic murder mystery set in an English manor house on the moors.

"We the Vietnamese, Voices from Vietnam," by Francois Sully. A group of selections primarily written by the Vietnamese themselves that illuminates the levels of life in Vietnam.

"Woman's Estate," a frank discussion of the women's liberation movement in Britain and the condition of women throughout the world.

Theft, Wear and Tear Cause Ambulance Service Suspension

With one of its ambulances wrecked after it had been stolen and its other two broken down, Emergency, Inc., the ambulance service established only six weeks ago to serve Morgan and Elliott counties, suspended operation last week until further notice.

Morgan County Judge Gene Allen announced later in the week, however, that arrangements had been made with the Buckhorn Ambulance Service, which serves 15 counties of that area, to provide service in an emergency.

The Campton service will answer calls only between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m., and then only those made by a peace officer or a medical doctor. The service, Judge Allen said, has been promised to help till Emergency, Inc. can get back into operation.

Emergency, Inc. was expected to resume operation in Elliott county by last Saturday, but a meeting with the Morgan fiscal court is being sought by its president, Dan Lacey, of West Liberty, before service is resumed in Morgan county. Lacey said the fiscal court there is $440 behind in promised payments and that Elliott county is $100 in arrears. "As soon as the fiscal courts meet their obligations, we'll complete repairs (on the ambulances) and be back on the road," Lacey said.

The two courts had agreed to subsidize the service to the extent of $300 a month.

The ambulance that was stolen was being used to transport Lonnie Dulin, 23, of West Liberty, to the U. K. Medical Center at Lexington. Dulin was shot in the lower abdomen.

Arrested and placed in Morgan county jail, charged with malicious shooting and wounding with intent to kill, was Dorsey Ferguson, of Grassy Creek.

The ambulance taking Dulin to the hospital broke down near Grassy Creek and had to be abandoned while a vehicle loaned by Potter Funeral Home finished the trip with the wounded man.

The abandoned ambulance was stolen that night and the vehicle was later found on Ky. 191, near Malone, Ky.

Another ambulance belonging to the firm and stationed in Sandy Hook had started to the scene of a wreck on Ruin Creek, four miles north of Sandy Hook, when it broke down. Another vehicle had to be used to take J. C. Redwine of Sandy Hook to St. Claire Medical Center at Morehead.

Redwine, son of district conservation officer John R. Redwine, had lost control of his car in a dense fog and hit a tree.

Dan Lacey, president and general manager of Emergency, Inc., said the third ambulance used by the firm became inoperable about three weeks ago.

He's not just in it for the dough

It's undoubtedly true that man doesn't live by bread alone. On the other hand, baked goods sure make the dinner table a much nicer place to be. Around here, baking has always been an art. Because we've got some of the most able bakers anywhere right in our own community. The care they take makes them the upper crust of their profession. We'd like to propose a toast: To the people that bake our bread.

Grid Season Gets Under Way— And It Begins Here Friday Night

With a smattering of football games last Friday and Saturday nights, area coaches are ready for Friday—time to play football!

Prestonsburg, which had a 6-3-2 record last year, has high hopes for the upcoming campaign. Johnson Central, Belfry and Wheelwright got under way last week-end. With Central and Wheelwright suffering defeats, Belfry opened up on the victory side (29-0 over Virgie). Wheelwright lost 32-20 to surprising Morgan County, and Johnson Central went down, 28-6, to strong Whitesburg.

In the Class AA District 2, Ashland's Paul Blazer rates as a powerful contender, with Russell, Hazard and Prestonsburg not far behind. The Class A teams will be led by Paintsville, Elkhorn City and Wheelwright.

Some of the top games on tap for Friday night include Wheelwright at Prestonsburg, Clark County (a future Blackcat opponent) will open against defending state champion Bryant Station, Elkhorn City travels to Whitesburg, M. C. Napier at Boyd County, Virgie hosts Pikeville, Russell is at Fairview, Belfry goes to John Creek, Hazard opens up at Everts, Johnson Central is host to Catlettsburg, and Paintsville goes to Northern Kentucky to face Simon-Kenton.

Coach Ed Radjunas, Prestonsburg mentor, was highly impressed with Wheelwright's explosive offense last Saturday night. "They are really big, and can unload at any time on you," said the second-year coach. We feel that Coach Daniels and his charges will be waiting for Friday night to upend the Blackcats and taste that first victory which eluded them last week. "Radjunas and John Shepherd were optimistic about the Friday encounter. "It's always a hard-fought and well-played game," said Shepherd. "We just hope our kids are ready and stand up to the challenge of the Trojans."

Akers Accused After Wounding Of Harold Man

A warrant charging Gene Akers with shooting and wounding with intent to kill followed the recent shooting of Theodore Parker at Harold, it was learned this week. Parker, who swore out the warrant for Akers' arrest, said he was hit in the stomach and groin by shots from a .38-calibre revolver.

Akers also was reported as having been shot in the leg, but no warrant was issued here in his wounding.

James F. Spears, of the Buffalo section of John Creek, was jailed here by Sheriff Frank Leslie on a charge of cutting and wounding his sister, Mrs. Anna B. Collins, last week-end. He is at liberty under bond after waiving the case to the grand jury.

Officers here reported the wounding of James Yelder at Tram, Aug. 15. Yelder was shot in his leg, and Mrs. Boots Honaker was accused of the shooting, it was said.

Also belatedly reported was the raid staged Aug. 11 by ABC Agent Arvel Nelson and Deputy Sheriffs Ed Isaacs and Victor Tackett on the premises of Walker Newsome at Teaberry. The officers said they confiscated 26 cans of beer and five pints of wine. Newsome's trial has been set for Saturday in Magistrate Eddie Caudill's court.

Officers have investigated the recent shotgun blasting of a window of the home of Gale Collins on Frasure's Creek, but no arrest has been made.

Jailed within the week were:
Carlos Little, a. w. o. l., by Deputy Sheriffs Victor Tackett, James Bartley and Dester Hamilton; Ralph Allen, a. w. o. l., by FBI agents; Danny Hoover, no operator's license, by State Trooper Williamson; Denton Shepherd, a. w. o. l., by Deputy Sheriffs Albert Salyers and Sollie Holbrook; John E. Murphy, drunk driving by State Trooper Gary Rose; M. C. (Jim) Moore, drunk driving, by Trooper Rose; John Gibson, drunk driving and no operator's license, by Policemen Woods and Conley, of Prestonsburg; James Gullett, drunk driving and no operator's license, by Policemen Conley.

Goble Br. Site Ready for Use In '73, Promise

With the possible exception of a central service building, the Goble Branch campground on Dewey Lake will be developed and in use for the 1973 season, Gerald Borders, administrative assistant to Commissioner of Parks Ewart Johnson, indicated in a letter to The Times this week.

"We in the Department of Parks have every intention of making this campground functional by the 1973 season," he wrote.

Once equipment which has been rented through the Department of Highways is moved onto the site, work of grading and draining the land will start immediately, and this should be completed within 60 days, or earlier, Mr. Borders said. This work by the Highway Department will be followed by the laying of sewer lines, a work which is expected to require two months for completion. The timetable outlined by Borders sets actual construction of camping pads and supports to follow, and this phase of construction should be completed in four months, weather permitting.

This basic work done, construction of the central service building would be the main uncompleted portion of the camping facility.

The site for the proposed camp was made available to the Department of Parks by the U. S. Corps of Engineers, and to these holdings the state added the former Camp Chatterawha, Girl Scout building, in the Goble Branch vicinity.

The Goble Branch area has been in use this season but facilities there have been limited.

If you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness seems to "run in the family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. If you still have hair on the top of your head, don't put it off until it's all off. It doesn't make sense for a man to let himself go bald, certainly not without seeing a National Hair and Scalp Consultant to see if we can help you.

CAN'T HELP

Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which no method is effective. National's Hair Consultant cannot help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of our mother, Minnie Bell Walters, who passed away August 31, 1955:

When you go first I remain to walk the road alone,

Mother: In spring I'll wait for roses red; when fades the lilac blue in early fall, When brown leaves call, I'll catch a glimpse of you.

I remain for battles to be fought. Each thing you have touched along the way, will be a hallowed spot,

I'll hear your voice, I'll see your smile. Though blindly I may grope, the memory of your helping hand will buoy me on with hope,

You went first, dear mother; I remain to finish with the scroll. No lengthening shadows shall creep in To make this life seem droll.

We have had so much of happiness, We've had our cup of joy, Mother, and memory is one gift of God that death cannot destroy.

One thing, Mother, I have you. So walk slowly down the path of death, Mother,

For soon I'll follow you. I want to know each step you take, That I may walk the same,

For some day down that lonely road, Mother dear, you will hear me call your name.

Sadly missed by: Two sons, Bradley and Burl Walters, two daughters, Sadie Click and Effie Strunk.

(Written by her daughter, Effie Strunk).

could not look for it, then kill it, for that would be hunting on the day of rest.

To get back to the "Guidelines" that have been drafted, and may be adopted, to keep discriminatory advertising out of the newspaper. You may not, dear reader (note: I did not say, "male," "female," "black" or "white," but I fear I did discriminate against those who can't read) any longer advertise for bellboy ("hey, boy!); you have to say, "bellhop" or make it bell man or bell woman. And no more a cleaning woman; make it, instead, simply "cleaning." Doorman?—no, no; make it "door attendant," or, they concede, "doorman—male or female" will keep you out of the toils of the law.

Draftsman, foreman, handyman, housewife or mother, maid, pressman, repairman, stewardess or seamstress?—don't you dare! They insist on a "neutral" term to describe each of these, lest a male, I suppose, be offended if he's left out of consideration for a job as housewife or mother, and so on.

How ridiculous can people get? How in the mischief can a man ever advertise for a wife and remain within the law—unless, perchance, he is a homosexual?

WHY CATFISH WALK

I have been working hard on a theory of evolution that springs from the fact that they have walking catfish down South, these days. But when I try to get down to the brass tacks of logic, fancy and eventually fantasy take over, and I'm a lost ball.

So now I'm 'way back there when the first fish of the kind went for a stroll. He had a date with his wife for the Marine Show that night but wound up two hours late. Her whiskers were twitching ominously when he arrived. He explained:

"My Pussy-Cat—"

"Aha! Now where did you pick that up? What—"

"Never mind, Catty Catfish," he rejoined. "I'm late because I took a stroll downtown."

"Stroll—downtown? On land? Why? Where? I—"

"Yes, my dear, this water, as you know is polluted, even down here by the island. But up there, nearer town, it's awful. I got up there, and flesh couldn't stand it any longer. I clumb out."

"And walked?"

"And walked—what did you expect me to do? I've seen this thing coming for quite a spell. I grew me some extra long fins, to walk with, and I suggest you get hep to the situation, too, my dear."

"But," Mrs. Catfish glowered, "that doesn't explain why you're two hours late, you—I'm just wonderin' if—"

"Wonder no longer. I got out on Fifth Avenue and the air pollution almost got me down. If you must know, I staggered home and it's lucky I am to be here."

"Then," she wanted to know, "if the water is so bad it runs you onto land, and if the air outside is so polluted you can't stay there, what's next?"

The head of the house crossed his legs and replied:

"I've grown legs for walkin', my dear. Now I suggest you get with it and grow yourself a beak and toenails, and start diggin'. And when you get deep enough under, holler for me!"

Multi-colored carpet, predominately red, brightens the dining room, and orange draperies match the upholstered chairs.

In the lounge and recreation porch, black-and-orange Indian print draperies are at the windows. The lounge carpet, installed last fall, is a combination of brown, orange and black. Bold wood frames encompass the sofas, love seats and chairs covered in shades of green, gold and brown—in both solid and plaid fabrics. Rocking chairs in the lounge match those in the lodge rooms.

Game tables and chairs in the lounge have a natural wood finish and are covered in yellow and white.

Walnut-tones appliances and cabinets have been installed in the 10 two-bedroom vacation cottages at Jenny Wiley. New living area carpet, lamps and dining chairs trim the cottages. Lamps and draperies in the cottage bedrooms are similar to those in the lodge rooms. Yellow-and-white covered wrought iron chairs are on the cottages' screened porches.

New love seats, chairs, tables and lamps welcome travelers to the lobby as they begin a visit that can include boat races, chair lift rides, recreation programs, musical dramas and the endless fascination of Kentucky's Eastern Highlands.

doubled in its physical size, and will offer both scheduled and non-scheduled activities. It will now be possible for individual students or small groups of students to use the library without disturbing others who may have been previously scheduled for its use. Study carrels with individualized type equipment will also be utilized in the new library-media center.

Additional personnel has been hired and training for them begun in order to further support the program. One teacher-aide is being employed for each primary grade teacher, one for each two intermediate grade teachers, and one for each four junior high teachers. A full-time clerk-typist is also employed to assist in preparing teacher-made materials.

A full time reading coordinator is also employed to serve the school in planning the total reading program for the school. Reading will now be emphasized in all activities the children become engaged in while at school, and it is hoped that parents will work closely enough with the school to reinforce some of the concepts introduced to the child there. An in-service type program is envisioned to take place for the parents during the school year to accomplish this.

John K. Pitts, school principal, indicated that, even though the staff has gone through a minimum training session this summer, and the building is being altered to meet the program objectives, the key to the success or failure of the program may well be the amount of support and cooperation that parents are willing to give. He emphasized that many aspects of the program will be new for both students and parents, and if the student is to reap the most benefits possible, parents must become actively involved.

Coldiron said he became suspicious of Daniels, then contacted Preston and swore out the warrant after learning Daniels wasn't employed by the governor's office.

Coldiron, a member of the Democratic State Central Committee for 16 years during the 1930's and '40's, said Daniels contacted him by telephone and in person following his arrest and promised to return Coldiron's $700. Brashear said he received a call Friday from someone who said he was with the governor's office saying his check would be returned. He said the check was delivered later in the day by a man he hadn't seen before. He turned over the check to the state police as evidence.

Brashear said when Daniels first contacted him he had used the name "Ray McDaniels" and said the governor was considering Brashear for a position on the board of directors of the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

Brashear said Daniels then asked for money to help plan a Huddleston campaign picnic. No details were given, not even where the picnic would be, Brashear said. He also said Daniels asked that the check be made out for "cash" but that he made it out to the Huddleston campaign committee instead.

Potter Becomes Detective Lieut.

Chester D. Potter, of Prestonsburg, veteran detective sergeant with the Kentucky State Police, has been promoted to the rank of detective lieutenant, it was announced this week.

The promotion, effective August 15, was made while Potter was recuperating from an illness which marred his vacation. Lt. Potter in his new capacity assumes the duties of area supervisor of crime investigation handled through the Pikeville and Ashland State Police district posts.

He will continue his residence here and also will continue work already begun on several criminal cases, two of which are the Right Beaver mystery-slayings of Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Conley and Clayton Conley.

Lt. Potter is now in his 25th year with the State Police.

To Whom It May Concern:

I have notified the Department of Health here in Prestonsburg about the Hall's Septic Tank Service emptying of its contents at the top of the Bill Hall Branch hill, on Sam Eversole's property. The contents go into the branch that runs by my trailer. The health department says that there is nothing they can do about it until they catch the water black. I have been to the doctor and they tell me that I have t. b. These people have been emptying this truck up here for a long time, and I have been calling every day for the past six months and have not got any satisfaction yet. I have decided that I am going to bring suit against them, since this is the only way I can get some action. I have witnesses. It is not only me that is kicking on this, it is everybody on the branch. So if something isn't done to stop this, I will be forced to bring suit against them. I have already contacted my lawyer.

Maytown Native, Prominent Business Figure in Hawaii

The story of the rise of Benjamin William Baker, Maytown native, to a successful career in Hawaii is told in two publications, "Men and Woman of Hawaii" and "Men and Women of the West." The former Floyd countian's successful career is described as "a bootstrap operation," since he had little family financial assistance. His father, Ben W. Baker, long a railway conductor on the Right Beaver Creek branch line of the C. & O. Railway Co., died when he was still in high school at Maytown. His mother, Elizabeth May Baker, began teaching at Maytown on an emergency certificate in 1934 and for several years after that attended summer school and extension classes to earn a degree and qualify as a school librarian.

The July number of Esquire Magazine features resort areas which Mr. Baker has been visiting during the last year to gather ideas for a New American Country Club which his firm proposes to build at Kapalua Bay, Hawaii.

Mr. Baker received the A. B. degree from Berea College in 1939 and after two years as a teacher and coach enlisted in the Navy in 1942. After three years of wartime Navy service he received his bachelor of science degree from Western Kentucky University in 1947 and the MBS from Stanford University in 1940, the same year his mother was graduated from Western.

Beginning as a junior accountant for Haskins & Sells, San Francisco in 1950, he later became the firm's senior accountant and manager of its office on the island of Maui. In 1955 he was named comptroller of Alexander & Baldwin, Inc., and in 1970 he became vice-president of the Maui Land and Pineapple Co. and the Honolulu Plantation Land Company. He is a trustee of the Hawaii State Tax Foundation.

Mr. Baker and his wife, the former Elizabeth Lee Watkins, have two children, Mrs. Sherry J. Conley, of San Francisco, and Ben, III, a graduate student at the University of California, Santa Barbara. His mother resides in Honolulu, but is spending the summer at her home in Maytown.

Commission on Aging To Bring Services To East Kentucky

Henry Beach, executive director of the Kentucky Commission on Aging, has announced plans for an office caravan to take the commission's services to citizens in Floyd and Pike counties.

The caravan, consisting of Beach and members of his staff, set up Commission on Aging offices for one day in the Pike county circuit courtroom, August 30. Staff members will be available to answer questions from 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

"Taking our office into Eastern Kentucky will provide many of our senior citizens the opportunity to make their wishes known," Beach said. "Often the combination of distance and age makes it impossible for senior citizens to journey to Frankfort to see us. Many times they get the impression that they are a forgotten group. By taking the office to them we hope to show that the Commission is indeed very much interested in them."

Beach will also be available to meet with citizens, discuss any problems they have, and will address a meeting at 1:30 p.m. in the circuit courtroom.

Now's The Time To Guard Your Purple Martin

Those of my readers who have purple martins nesting about the premises are lucky indeed. These birds are the best insect eaters known and they nab their prey on the wing. One man I know keeps his martin box on a slender steel pipe placed right in the middle of his garden! He claims these birds catch every insect that dares to fly over the garden; more than that, they catch every mosquito that ventures forth and can eat about 2,000 of these obnoxious insects in a single day.

Martins have five bad enemies which I shall discuss in turn and tell how to guard against them. About this time, the young martins are beginning to hatch out and these are often in danger of being killed by mites. Unless you dusted a teaspoonful of sulphur in each room of the martin house, the mites may invade it. They soon cover the young and can kill them. If you have gourd houses for your martins, these are highly suitable for harboring the mites, as the pulpy lining of a gourd affords a good breeding ground for mites. House sparrows sometimes enter the martin house, seeking to build a nest and these ornery birds are often infested with mites. If you suspect your young martins are infested with mites, or if you see the parent birds picking at their feathers, it is a good (or bad) sign. Then is the time to dust sulphur in the martin nest.

If your martin box is placed on a slick, slender steel pole, your martins are in no danger from cats and snakes, but if it is placed on a wooden pole, or on a rusty iron pipe, then these predators can climb up and devour the young. One remedy is to grease the pole with axle grease; another is to put the proper guards around it, such as a long piece of aluminum roofing fastened around the pole, or two lengths of stove pipe. Even with these safeguards, a hungry blacksnake can somehow manage to get up and devour the martins. Cats have also been known to climb the poles and catch the adult martins. A large shield of tin or aluminum placed around the pole, just below the box, is a good safeguard against such predators.

Some parents unwisely let their teenage, or younger, sons have BB guns, which can shoot hard enough to kill almost any bird. Last year, I had a couple of adult martins shot dead on the box by a boy with an air rifle. The dead martins fell over on the porch of the house; the other martins for miles around flocked there to grieve over this tragedy. They circled about the house with the two dead martins lying in full view and they chattered and scolded and carried on until it was enough to touch one's heart. After the "funeral services" were over the others left and never ventured back to the box. I had to move it to a new location and I now have three pairs building in the same box.

If you see boys with air rifles shooting at the birds, you should reprimand them and try to tell them something of the value of martins and other birds; also report them to the parents. After the boy killed two of my martins last year, the boy's father got the air rifle and put it under lock and key.

Martins can capture and eat most insects that fly, but they have a mortal terror of honey bees and will flee from them in wild panic. I have seen bees chasing martins, and the birds would somersault and turn sharply in the air in order to elude them. They never dare catch a honey bee, as they know it would be fatal to swallow one. Only the kingbird is accused of eating honey bees, but close observation has shown that the kingbird captures none but the drones. Apparently this bird also knows it would be fatal to swallow a live bee with its lethal stinger.

Never make the mistake of putting your martin house too close to a hive of bees. Bees hate martins as violently as martins hate crows and hawks. They gang up on these predators and soon put them to rout. I have seen martins light on the back of a hawk, clawing and tearing at the feathers. If the hawk had some honey bees for allies, he too could soon put the martins to rout.

The following true story shows what happens when man interferes with the due processes of nature and tries to keep a greedy predator like a barred owl around the premises. A young man had reared the owl from a fledgling and when the owl got old enough to hunt, he would turn the owl loose and let him hunt over the countryside. He had trained the owl to come to him when he blew his whistle. It is an owl's nature to hunt, slay and eat. This owl would knock birds off their roost and devour them. Soon one of the neighbors began to miss her martins and couldn't tell what was happening to them. Two adults disappeared before the mystery was solved. One night the man of the house stood guard over his martins. On searching the roof of his house, he spotted the big owl on the roof, calmly devouring one of the adult birds. He reported this to the local Audubon Society, who ordered the owner of the owl to take him far out in the woods, so that he could hunt as nature intended.

In the wilds of nature, owls mostly capture the weak, old or those birds unable to fly and escape. Thus they help nature to maintain the proper balance. But to keep such an owl about the premises is to invite disaster to all the birds of the community...

"Jenny Wiley!" Star To Be Pageant m.c. Here September 2

Mrs. Pat Willis, production chairman of the Miss Floyd County Pageant, has announced that Stephen Hale, of Roanoke, Va., will serve as master of ceremonies for the annual scholarship event.

Hale is better known locally as Tom Wiley, the role which he plays in the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre's production of "Jenny Wiley!" He returned this year to recreate his original role of Tom Wiley. Last year he also played the sinister Jud in "Oklahoma!" and the loveable Uncle Max in "The Sound of Music."

No stranger to the pageant world, Hale was the featured vocalist last year for the Miss Kentucky Pageant. He will present several vocal numbers for the Miss Floyd County audiences.

His list of credits are many and include: "Annie Get Your Gun", "Little Mary Sunshine", "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown", "South Pacific", "Guys and Dolls", "The Taming of the Shrew", "A Mid-Summer Night's Dream", "Death of a Salesman", "Oedipus Rex", "Julius Caesar", "Romeo and Juliet", and "The Fantasticks".

He has played the Sherwood Amphitheatre and the Showinger Theatre in Roanoke, the Oak Grove Amphitheatre and the Theatre Wagon in Staunton, Va., and Washington's Theatre in the Round.

The Miss Floyd County Pageant will be presented the evening of Sept. 2 at 8 o'clock at Prestonsburg high school, under the sponsorship of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club.

Question: How Old Is Willie Burchett?

How old is Hueysville's Willie Burchett? According to five birth records which have turned up during his fight for state aid to the aged, he is as young as 60 or as old as 65. In between, the records indicate he is 63 or 64.

A hearing officer of the Department of Economic Security ruled last month that Burchett isn't yet 65 and, therefore, is not eligible for aid. This ruling was based, it was said, on a census record which showed him to be eight years old in 1920 and on two school records listing his date of birth as 1908 and 1909.

Paul Fauri, attorney for the Floyd man, contends Burchett is indeed 65. He bases this contention on Burchett's 1940 draft registration and a recently acquired birth certificate, both of which give his birth date as Nov. 23, 1906.

A hearing on the appeal filed by Burchett will be held later.

DARE TO BE GREAT

What is dare to be great, what does it mean? It means, dare to be somebody, dare to stand out in life, dare to go up the ladder of success. You dare to be successful, you dare to be good to your fellowman, you dare to smile at the whole world because you are climbing out of the rut of oppression and defeat. Your success is by helping others, your success is by positive thinking, not the corrupt negative thinking of this world. Dare means a challenge to do something. Positive means look up to affirm a goal, to throw off oppression. Great means much above the average in size, degree, power, etc., big or very big, much or very much. Negative, is ignorance which is the lack of knowledge is a negative condition, says Webster.

Dare to be great is a philosophy of a great man who has come up from the lowest state of existence to one of very high esteem and accomplishment. His life has been the parallel of another of our nation's most beloved who came up from writing on a coal shovel with charcoal to becoming president of the United States. Abraham Lincoln was born in poverty, and lived a very hard but courageous life, but within him were the qualities that took him to the top. So are the qualities of a sharecropper's son, who came up from plowing a mule through all kinds of hardships and oppressions, to the owner of great enterprises today. His name, Glenn W. Turner of Turner Enterprises; his worth, reported to be many million's of dollars, which is quite a climb from a $500.00-a-year sharecropper. He did this with love toward his fellowman, and by helping many along the way. This man's philosophy was that if he could help others he would himself become great. His thoughts were still are for helping people. His formula is based on the Holy Bible, truth and honesty. Anyway, that is what he constantly says over and over, keep it straight, truth and honesty. If his plans are really and truly based on truth and honesty, I can see no wrong with the man.

This rare and unique man has come up through a most rigorous life. He was born a handicap, with a bad harelip, perforated ear drum, flat feet, and as poor as a dirt farmer could get. He was ridiculed, laughed at, downed, fought, pushed, gouged and oppressed to the state of oblivion. But the qualities within this man, like Lincoln, sustained him. He went on to obtain an eighth grade education, when he jumped out a window because he could no longer stand the pressure of ridicule. He went out into the world of challenge and the competitive life to do for himself what he could, and he solved this challenge by saying if I can help others to become great, he could himself become great. He did go flat broke three times in the process, but with the great qualities given him he arose each time with more determination to find a way to achieve his goal, and he did come up with a God-given solution that would take him and his fellowman to higher goals and a much higher plane of life.

Mr. Glen W. Turner has a plan or solution whereby any man that wants to better himself can go right up the ladder of success and is so devised that people help people, one is pulling his fellowman up while another is pushing him up; therefore, they all go up together. The present-day world in general goes about it in a much different way. They fight each other off the ladder, some never even get on the bottom rung, so they wander hopelessly in oppression and are pushed aside and are governed by the fat cats, and on up the ladder the stronger keeps the thumb on the weaker, holding them down, so 98 per cent of the people are dancing to the tune of the all-powerful monopolistic 2 per cent who pull the strings and we dance to it. Mr. Turner's idea is to give back the power to the people, to give them a chance at free enterprise, such as was offered in the beginning, almost 200 years ago.

Remember, Mr. Turner's ideas are based on truth and honesty, and the corrupt way of life today is afraid of truth and honesty. That is why they are trying to find every loophole in the law to stop him, because his way in time will undermine their corrupt ways and they will be pushed aside, as truth and honesty will win. The reason some today will not make the first step toward a better life is because they are told by the ones around them it won't work, it's a fraud, you better not try it. Well, that is because they are scared to death that you will get on the road to success, and they will be left behind. Because they don't have the get up and go, they don't want you to get up and go, because you might get a big fine beautiful comfortable home, a big, luxurious automobile, diamond rings and mink furs. No, Jake, you better not do that, these things are not for you. But if Jake doesn't listen to them, he goes on and gets these things. Boy, did you see Jake! he sure is rising and shining, hum, wish I had gone along with Jake, I'd been right up there with him. Oh, well, I've taken so many chances on new ventures, new businesses, stock markets, gas wells, oil wells, etc. I've just been burned up on them and I've seen others go down the drain. Of course I didn't have any blue print or guidance to go by. Jake told me Turner had a good plan for people that were willing to work and that they would be helped all along the way; must have been right, because Jake sure is a different man now, he's going around smiling, helping everybody he can, and he must be doing real good, judging from all the new things he has now.

I can't see how any body could knock Mr. Turner and his ideas after seeing what he has done for Jake, and Jake says he has helped thousands and thousands of others. Glen W. Turner believes in truth and honesty and in equal rights to all, regardless of race, creed or color.

Now the legal authorities of Kentucky say they are going to stop his operation in Kentucky because of fraudulent, deceptive business acts. I haven't seen anything yet that is deceptive or fraudulent, and I have looked as closely as I could for any wrongdoing. So far, I haven't found any. All the people I have met in the organization are very friendly, enthusiastic people with a determination to get ahead, following the formula of people helping people, and they are all becoming very successful. The ones that have been in just a short time are really moving out and getting ahead, making good, some are making a good income, some are going on to advanced training to better themselves even more so as to become leaders or to qualify for advanced business jobs in the organization. People helping people, it is just the opposite of today's movement, which is people hurting people. The legal authorities say the organization is fraudulent and deceptive. I say not because I came into the organization with my eyes and ears open. They didn't hogtie me to go, they didn't hogtie me to stay in the organization, they laid their plan on the line and after careful thought I accepted it. I was told, flat out, what my obligations were to become associated with the organization. I was plainly told I would have the opportunity to put up $1,000.00 to purchase my training course, which consist of a large kit of books and tapes. There are twenty-one tapes with two playing sides of approximately twenty to thirty minutes to the side, which is very motivational and educational, all of which are real good for a home especially that has children. If a child hears the tapes and it sparks enthusiasm or motivation to do something in life, isn't that worth much more than what the price of the course is? If a company could use it to motivate their employees and get them out of a depressed state and motivate them to help their company and themselves to achieve their goals, isn't that worth something? If the tapes were used in schools, and by all means should be, wouldn't that be wonderful if we could spur the young minds on to great achievements, with honor to themselves and to their country and to their fellowman. It would be much better than the garbage they are being taught. Who can rightfully set a price on the value of this program alone, much less the opportunities to be gained in the organization by going up the ladder of success. I have not as yet found where Mr. Turner has ever failed to keep his commitments, and I have been looking very closely for any failures of any kind. So far, I have found none. I can not see any wrong doing, if there were any false deals or false pretense I would not be in it, and if any one can truthfully show me there is, I will be the first to bow out.

Of all the vice in this state or any state, I am surprised that the legal authorities would attack this organization, unless they definitely know the organization is in the wrong, or unless they are afraid of truth and honesty. The organization will give employment to thousands and thousands of people with an exceedingly good income. Some will be leaders in the organization, some will qualify to become leaders of their own companies or businesses, which will be independent. And, most of all, our organization will give a golden opportunity to those who are the unemployed, cutting down on welfare rolls; those that replace the ones that come into our organization will have an opportunity for a job and he in turn will become a taxpayer, thus relieving the load of the over-burdened taxpayer today. I hope to see the day come we can wipe out the welfare offices or at least cut them to a mere existence. This organization gives the blind, the crippled or people of all walks of life an opportunity to get on the ladder of success and helps them to climb that ladder.

One of the most prominent leaders of the organization came from over near Harlan, Kentucky and he came up from nothing to top position.

If the authorities would think of all the corruption they could stamp out in our state, such as Whiskey, Tobacco, Gambling, Prostitution and crooked politics, they would have a fulltime monumental job. Whiskey, the cause of murders, wrecks, rape, robberies, divorces and on and on. Tobacco, the killer of millions, the burning of homes, hospitals with patients, the burning of businesses, automobiles, and our great forests with the wildlife and so on and on. These two cancers in our society bring on poverty, which means many would rather drink and smoke than to feed their family.

Our present system seems to say, you go on living in poverty; you don't have to work, we will give you welfare as long as there is a taxpayer to pay for it, we will take his money and give it to you. Now what kind of a life is that to offer people? Of course, as long as they are under oppression they would almost have to lean to the politico that's getting them all these gimmicks at the expense of the taxpayer. Which might be said: Mr. Superman, you help me to get that welfare and I won't forget you when you run for office again. What could be worse than a system of this kind?

Where Mr. Superman keeps the poor under his wing so he can guide them to help him to his own goals. This is why truth and honesty will stand and why it is being attacked on every side. Corruption is afraid of truth and honesty; people might see the light and break loose from the bonds of depression and rise up on their own two legs and go up the ladder of success, and he, Mr. Superman would lose them.

One more thing, I have never seen any drinking or heard any swearing in any groups, large or small, in this organization since I have been in it, and I like that. I cannot say the same for political rallies or sports arenas.

Many have tried to down our organization in many states and have failed. Let's hope they fail in Kentucky. Truth and honesty will stand. After all is clear and we roll on in Kentucky, I welcome you aboard with us, all that want to get ahead and go up the ladder of success. Come and see me, call me or send for me. I will help you.

Best wishes for a Greater Kentucky

Learning To Build by Building

Two Hueysville trainees—Vondel Shepherd (left) and Clarence Slone—prepare to install ceiling tiling in caretaker's home.

Members of an Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program (EKCEP) training class in the building trades are learning by doing as they construct for the non-profit Floyd County Fish & Game Club, a caretaker's home on the club's Johns Branch property, near Maytown. With all materials supplied by the club, EKCEP trainees, supervised by Sammie Bailey, instructor, have built the dwelling from "the ground up." The construction project will enable the club to have on the grounds a caretaker to guard against further break-ins of its clubhouse.

Trainees in EKCEP thus learn carpentry, masonry, painting, cement work and electrical wiring. After they complete the course, the program seeks to place them in private employment in the building trades field.

The program has been involved in repairing school property, constructing the skating rink and other buildings at Archer Park here and doing home repair for disadvantaged families to provide training for the enrollees. Trainees are also given classroom instruction in the proper use and care of building trades tools.

Wheelwright Drops Opener To Morgan County High

By MARK LAFFERTY

The Floyd county football season opened up last Saturday night with Class A Wheelwright dropping their first official road game to Morgan County, 32-20. The Trojans had earlier participated in the SEC Grid-O-Rama where Whitesburg slipped past ehm, 12-6. The young Trojans, with a roster of only 21 men, are under the direction of second year head coach, Dan Daniels.

Wheelwright took the opening kickoff and turned the ball over on a fumble. Morgan County turned this error into the game's first score. Wheelwright took the following kick-off and sustained a drive that was capped off by Darrell Branham's two-yard touchdown. But another reversal of fortune left Wheelwright behind at the end of the first quarter, 12-8, as Morgan County took the ensuing kick-off back for a touchdown.

Morgan County quickly put the game out of reach with two touchdown passes in the second half. Lowell Parker twisted and turned to his first touchdown on a broken play that netted 60 yards.

Wheelwright scored first in the second half as Clifford James completed a three-yard pass to Lowell Parker for his second touchdown of the evening. Wheelwright was unable to close the gap any further while Morgan County continued to riddle the Wheelwright secondary with the final touchdown of the game.

Wheelwright will travel to Prestonsburg, Friday night to battle for the Floyd county championship. Last year the two teams battled to an 8 all tie.

Fish, Wildlife Has Three New Members

Frankfort, Ky.—Three appointments to the nine-member Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission were made last Wednesday by Governor Wendell Ford.

The three new commission members were appointed to fill vacancies created by expired terms in First, Fifth and Sixth Wildlife Districts, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources Commissioner Arnold Mitchell said.

The new commission members are Dr. Donald L. Boucher, Paducah, First District; Dr. E. K. Lanter, Union, Fifth District; and Charles E. Palmer, Jr., Lexington, Sixth District.

The three men were chosen by the governor from lists of five candidates selected by sportsmen in each of the three districts.

Dr. Boucher, a surgeon, succeeds Cecil Shannon of Hopkinsville. Dr. Lanter, a psychiatrist, replaces Willy Riehemann, Ft. Mitchell, and Palmer, an attorney, succeeds John Congleton of Richmond.

The appointees were sworn in for four-year terms at a quarterly meeting of the commission Friday, August 18, in the Fish and Wildlife Department offices at Frankfort.

Rural Areas Show New Signs Of Growth, Says Ag Department

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—The move from farm to city may be coming to a halt, a new era of economic and social growth for rural America may already be launched.

These are two conclusions to be drawn from various reports on the progress of rural America, from the arid stretches of the Southwest to the green fields of the Southeast. They also are indications that the much-talked-about goals of rural development are beginning to emerge as realized accomplishments for an increasing number of communities.

Some signs of the recharged energies within rural areas are:

1. More jobs: During the 1960's nonfarm jobs increased by 39 percent in the countryside, a slightly better rate than the 34 percent increase in metropolitan areas. This growth rate has been high in completely rural counties as well as in those with cities of up to 50,000 population.
2. Farm-exodus ending: The farm population has dropped to fewer than 9 1/2 million persons. With so few people remaining on the nation's farms, little further decline in the population is possible. As the farm-to-city migration dwindles to a negligible level, continued gains in nonagricultural jobs will have a more visible impact on the overall economy and population of rural areas.
3. Greater federal commitment to rural areas: The government is stepping up its investment in rural America manifold. For example, funds earmarked for housing in rural areas amount to $2.2 billion this year, four times the 1969 level; sewer and water programs are allocated $342 million this year, nearly twice the 1969 level. Total funds devoted to rural development efforts by the Department of Agriculture will amount to $3.5 billion this year—four times the level in 1961 and twice as much as in 1969.

More important than the statistics or the governmental expenditures, however, is the determined individual in community after rural community who resolves to solve the problem on his own, who takes action to set his own neighborhood on the road to progress.

In Tulia, Texas, for example, local leaders set out to combat decaying businesses, blighted housing. As a result of their efforts, the community has 386 new low-cost homes and jobs and incomes are up because of the construction work. In North Carolina, citizens mounted a driver education campaign as a small but vital part of their Statewide effort to connect more rural workers with more better paying jobs.

Rural development is an idea whose time has come—mostly because increasing numbers of local groups are taking it upon themselves to make sure that it does.

Revenue Service Office Open Two Days Weekly

James Tackett, Kentucky district director's representative of the Pikeville Internal Revenue service office, announces a change in office hours for service to the public.

The office is now open two days each week, Monday and Friday, from 8 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.

In order to furnish this service, the Internal Revenue Service has employed a taxpayer service representative to work in the office. The new employee is Mrs. Doris Louise Bevins. On the days she is in the office, Mrs. Bevins will mail tax forms requested by the public and answer non-technical questions that a taxpayer might call in.

An Internal Revenue agent is available in the office on Fridays from 8 a.m. until noon to answer technical questions and to assist the public in any problems that cannot be handled by Mrs. Bevins.

The office is not ordinarily open on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, due to the fact that the revenue agents and officers cover a large territory, consisting of several counties in Eastern Kentucky. Their time on these days is devoted to audit and collection activities.

For information, assistance or tax forms, call on Mondays or Fridays. Telephone Pikeville 437-7336, or write, Internal Revenue Service, P. O. Box 70, Pikeville, Kentucky.

The state has halted a McCreary county businessman's plan to build a carnival-like amusement park atop a cliff in clear view of the falls area of Cumberland Falls State Park. The state Department of Parks warned Joe Jackson, of Whitley City, that the state will condemn his property overlooking the falls if he insists on building the amusement park.

Precious Power

By Wilmay

If offered power greater than that of the hydrogen bomb, one would accept. Such power is ours for asking, yet millions know little about it and few avail themselves of it. Prayer is the greatest source of earthly power. Heaven and its riches are open to those who pray as taught in scripture. Prayer costs nothing. As a subject it is inexhaustible. Few understand and know how to use it, to master the science of it. Only a small percentage of Christians become real prayer warriors, mighty in prayer. God gives and blesses according to the prayers of His children, so blame for present moral decay and spiritual deterioration can be laid at our feet, for he keeps his promises. II Chron. 7:14. We have not because we ask not. James 4:2.

Most young Christians are never taught how to pray. The only way to learn is to start. God can and will assist all who try but He cannot help those who never begin. If we want to play the organ, tennis or ball we have to start. Study and practice make perfect. We learn as we progress. Countless believers call on God only in trouble or crisis, though He says come to him about everything. We are told to pray without ceasing, not to give up, to stay in an attitude of prayer, to keep the lines to heaven unclogged by sin. All prayers will not be answered as requested, for God knows what is best for His children. Earthly parents do not grant every request of their children. It may be years before some prayers are answered.

"Gimme, gimme," is the most common, childish prayer. But prayer has many levels: 1. For self and family; 2. For others; 3. Meditation and worship with thanksgiving, 4. Practicing the presence of God, the most difficult aspect, the one where God tells us things we dislike but need to hear, for no mortal is perfect.

The third level provides opportunity to praise God. He enjoys fellowship, appreciation, expressions of love and gratitude. Often in scripture praise to God solved problems, brought answers to prayer, and praising God blesses all who do it. In II Chron. 20, God rescued Jehosaphat's army after praise to him. The military were commanded not to fight. The battle was God's. Verse 15. When crises come, we fret, talk, seek support, but neglect to pray and leave things to God who has all power. Joshua asked God to let the sun stand still. He did it. Joshua, 10:12-13. The Bible provides guidelines for success in prayer. Righteousness, obedience, faith are among other keys that unlock the heavenly powerhouse. Prov. 15:29, Ps. 84:11. Remember the magic name of Christ. John 14:13, 14. God MUST come first in our lives. His work must not play second fiddle in our schedules. He demands priority. Since all we have comes from him He wants no leftovers in our time, money, and talents. America would not be floundering today if Christians put emphasis on His program instead of on other matters, if we cared more for prayer than for pleasure, more for lost souls than for gay times, status symbols and popularity. For answered prayer we must please God, not man; fear God, not man, rely on Him, seek His will, submit ours to Him. It is a hard task.

The walls of Jericho fell without battle because Joshua and his people prayed with faith, obeyed without question, sang a song of victory before it came, and kept quiet as bidden. Joshua 6. Too often time is wasted talking and doubting instead of praying and believing. Doubt grieves God. Prayer has two major facets: asking and praising. So many never thank God for answered prayers. Few indeed ever fast, though Jesus himself did. Prayer is asking if the answer will come. Praise is knowing in your heart it has or will come. Prayer says, "Please." Praise says, "Thank you." Prayer makes Christians give up the world, or the world will make us give up prayer. Which will it be? Mt. 7:7.

Boy Scout Tree Farm Day Slated

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Wendell H. Ford has proclaimed Friday, Aug. 25, as Boy Scout Tree Farm Day in Kentucky in observation of ceremonies that will bring nearly 5000 acres of Scout-owned timber land under the protection of the American Tree Farm System.

In his proclamation, the governor pointed out that 30,000 scouts throughout the commonwealth "benefit materially and spiritually from multiple-use management of the forest resources entrusted to their care."

To qualify for the American Tree Farm System, timber land must be privately owned and pledged to provide recreation, food and habitat for fish and wildlife, watershed protection and the growing and harvesting of repeated timber crops.

Several Kentucky forest areas will join the system on Tree Farm Day, along with certified sites across the country.

The Kentucky Forest Industries Association, which administers the program throughout the state, says seven sites have already been certified in preparation for the Aug. 25 observances, one of which is Camp McKee, 840 acres, in Montgomery county, owned and operated by the Bluegrass Council.

Stumbo, Allen May Share Load When New Court Term Begins

Although Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo has been advised not to resume work till later because of a heart attack which he suffered a few weeks ago, he expects share in handling the workload of the Floyd circuit court docket when the new criminal term convenes, Sept. 5.

He will be assisted by County Attorney James R. Allen. Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, who has urged Mr. Stumbo to delay his return to his office and its duties, said the grand jury may be in session only two days, early in the month, then return later to complete its work.

The court docket includes 146 cases, and to this number will probably be added others resulting from new indictments voted by the grand jury.

The docket does not have a murder case, but the grand jury will have three slayings to investigate, and an indictment in at least one of the three is certain. These involve the slayings of Mrs. Laura Spradlin Robinette at West Prestonsburg, Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Conley at Garrett and Clayton Conley, near Wayland.

It is not known if the investigation into the slayings of the Conleys has advanced to the point that the case is ready for the grand jury. Illness of Commonwealth's Attorney Stumbo and State Detective Chester D. Potter has slowed the probe into the two mystery slayings.

Among the 146 cases already docketed are an even dozen liquor cases and three alleging the possession or sale of narcotics. Seventeen of the cases are appeals from lower court convictions—three for liquor, the remainder for drunk driving and other traffic violations.

IGA CONSUMER CORNER

WHAT ABOUT FRUIT COCKTAIL?

Although harvesting of peaches and grapes begins in July, those packed in mid or late August are most desirable for fruit cocktail. By then, the cling peaches desired for IGA fruit cocktail are a ripe, appetizing yellow and the grapes are fully sugared, better colored and hold their shape without exploding during the cooking process. Good quality pineapple pieces are included as are enough Maraschino cherries which will provide the basis for a half cherry for each 4 oz. serving. Keeping the consumer acceptance in mind, the size of fruit is varied according to the size of can as, for example, the smaller pieces are attempted to be held for packing in the smaller size of cans.

IGA fruit cocktail is packed in heavy syrup which will let the fruit flavor come through but also hold the shape of the fruit. Too heavy a syrup tends to hide the flavors whereas too light syrup often results in more debris in the cans.
