

Floyd-Pike Plan Told At Meeting

Spindletop Studies Explained to Group Here Last Thursday

Allan McElhaney, Spindletop research specialist, outlined to a group of approximately 35 officials and citizens here last Thursday the development of a plan for collection and disposal of solid waste in Floyd and Pike counties.

The plan, which will be completed by May 31, is being funded by an Appalachian Regional Commission grant which was initiated by the Big Sandy Area Development District, according to Dr. George P. Archer, chairman of the board. The ARC funds were given to the Kentucky Program Development Office which, in turn, contracted with Spindletop to do the work for the development district.

The plan, as presented by Mr. McElhaney, will encompass seven major categories. The first two phases of work will include identifying sanitary land fill sites and delineating waste sheds for all five of the Big Sandy counties. But detailed work on five categories will be developed for Floyd and Pike only. On the sites selected for Floyd and Pike counties the following will be completed: Core drillings and soil reports; Health department solid waste division site examination and approval; preparation of land fill site design, including physical design, management considerations, preparation of plans for collection of waste within the land fill area, development of collection schedules, location of containers, determination of equipment needs for each site and collection system, as well as preparation of a manpower plan for operating the system. The remaining four functions, as outlined (See Story 1, Back Page, Sec. 1)

Hospital Search Follows Threat Of Bomb, Sunday

A bomb threat received by telephone shortly before noon Sunday resulted in a search of every room and piece of equipment in the Prestonsburg General Hospital by the fire and police departments and personnel of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad.

Although the hospital was filled to capacity, those confined to the hospital were not unduly alarmed. Searchers first explained the situation, and were joined by doctors and other hospital personnel in reassuring the patients.

The threat was reported to the fire department by Thomas Blackburn, who said he had received a telephone call from a man who said a bomb had been placed in the hospital and that it might explode at any time. Although hospital and city officials doubted the danger, there was nothing to do but make the search.

Worship services at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church were terminated, a few minutes after arrival of the search squads, and its facilities were offered the hospital if evacuation of patients was planned.

The floor-by-floor, room-by-room search was methodically made, and by 2 p.m. visitors were permitted to enter the building.

The bomb threat is one of several made via telephone here within the last six months. Since the beginning of the school term last September, three or four threats have been received at the high school and two at the grade school.

MAN'S ATTEMPT TO STEAL FUNDS RAISED BY CHURCH GROUP FAILS AS PURSUIT IS LED BY WOMAN

A purse-snatcher made the mistake here last Thursday noon of staging his act in what appeared to be a perfect set-up. He chose the site of a church rummage sale for the snatch and a lone woman for his victim. It didn't work.

Mrs. George Chidester was working alone at the rummage sale being held by women of the First United Methodist Church here in the building formerly occupied by Hal's Bargain Store. Her purse containing proceeds of the sale lay in plain view, and had been spotted by a visitor. While Mrs. Chidester was showing wares for sale to another, the man seized the purse and fled.

Mrs. Chidester gave chase up Court street and her cries for help in catching the thief were so effective that perhaps half a dozen men joined in pursuit. The chase grew so hot that the man threw down the purse with its contents of approximately $50, jumped into an auto and finally made it out of town.

The ineffective purse-snatcher, identified as Adrian Lowe Preston, later was arrested at his home on Burning Fork, Magoffin county, by State Trooper Leeman Bevins and Policeman "Hack" Thornsberry. He is at liberty under $1,000 bond.

A warrant charging his cousin, Sammy Preston, with being an accessory before the fact as driver of the getaway car was issued, and Preston came here and surrendered.

Sheriff and Conn Called To Testify In Newsome Trial

Sheriff Frank Leslie and Deputy Sheriff Virgil Conn were called to Plymouth, Ky. this week as witnesses in the trial of Donald D. Newsome, 19, former Floyd man who is charged there in the suspected arson-death of his wife, Dolly Belle Newsome, 30.

Mrs. Newsome was fatally burned last July 20 in an explosion when she entered the home of her sister, Mrs. Sally Ray, near Plymouth. Her husband, walking behind her, was unhurt, though Mrs. Newsome was burned over 80 per cent of her body. The Ray family was not at home at the time.

Newsome was arrested after Indiana authorities had questioned him here on three occasions. He waived extradition.

130 Artists, Photographers Exhibit Works at Park's Winter Week-End

Five hundred works of art and photography, products of 130 representatives of Kentucky's top talent, were on exhibit at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, Friday and Saturday.

The Art-Photography Winter Week-End, staged at the park by Mrs. Nellie Meadows, Clay City artist, drew an estimated 250 viewers. Mrs. Meadows was assisted by Helen Price Stacey, Ed Boden and Barry Storm. Park Manager John Combs expressed surprise at the "great turnout and the feeling of fellowship" at the exhibit and said he is looking forward to another similar event.

For the second consecutive Winter Week-End exhibit at Jenny Wiley, Joyce Williams, of Ashland, received the grand prize in art. Henry Gilbert, of Lexington, was awarded the grand prize in photography.

Winners in the various categories follow, names of first, second and third awards appearing in order in each instance:

Five Arrested In Liquor Raids, Officers Report

Five men accused of bootlegging were arrested in the county last week.

First of the arrests was made by Deputy Sheriff Arvel Nelson, who booked Gardner McClanahan, of Corn Fork, near Jenny Wiley State Park, on a possession charge, Jan. 31. The raid netted both beer and whiskey. Later, McClanahan was charged with illegal possession of dynamite.

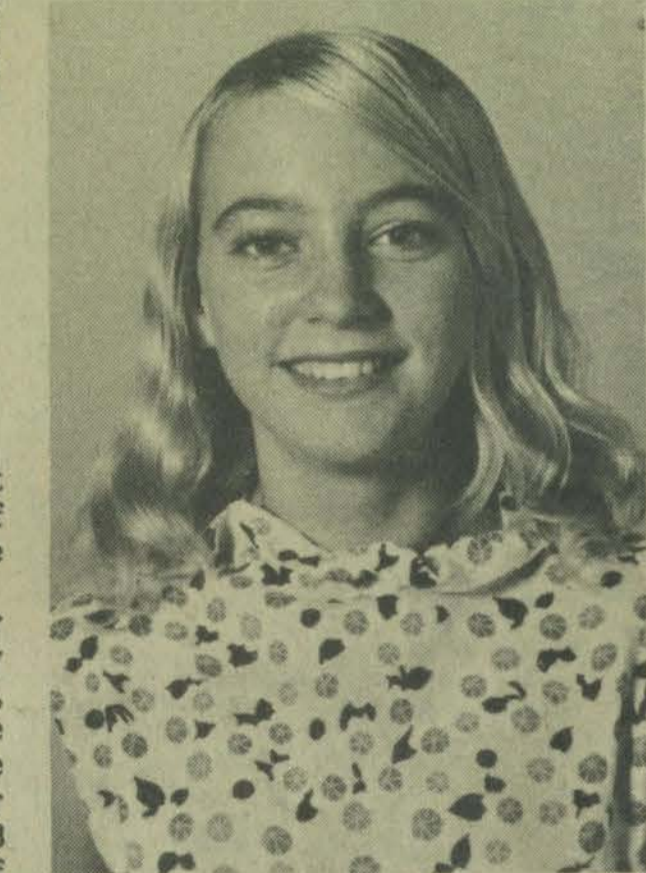

The other arrests were made by state troopers: Joe Hopkins, of Harold, and Joe Conn, of Little Mud Creek, were jailed Thursday on possession charges by Troopers Cantrell and Bevins. The officers reported 21 cans of beer, five "fifths" of wine and six half-pints of whiskey found in the raid on Hopkins. They listed the haul from a trailer occupied by Conn as 42 cans of beer and six half-pints of vodka. Later, Conn was arrested on a selling charge by Troopers Rose and Tabor.

Troopers Williamson and Frost confiscated 71 cans of beer and 39 half-pints of whiskey in a raid Saturday on the premises of James Cole at Melvin. On the same day Troopers Rose and Tabor found 294 cans of beer when they raided the home of Vernon Horn at West Prestonsburg. Cole also was charged with selling.

All the cases are in quarterly court except that of McClanahan, who was booked in Magistrate Bill Wells' court.

Floyd Girl Wins 3rd Place Prize

Two Eastern Kentucky girls, one of whom is Floyd county's Anita Auxier, won second and third-place honors in the conservation essay contest sponsored by The Courier-Journal and Times, it was announced Sunday.

The state winner among 86,057 entries was Nancy Stout, Carrolton high school senior.

Miss Stout will receive a $500 Savings Bond at the annual Farm Awards luncheon Feb. 19 in Louisville.

Miss Auxier, winner of third prize, will receive a $100 Savings Bond, and Kimberly Messer, 13, of Dewitt, Knox county, will be awarded a $200 Savings Bond.

All three girls, with their parents and teachers, will be honor guests at the Farm Awards luncheon.

Floyd county again led the state in the number of essays entered with a total of 4,030.

The Floyd county winner is the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael T. Auxier, of Emma, who are teachers in the Betsy Layne schools. Anita is in the eighth grade at Betsy Layne, where she is in the senior band and active in 4-H activities. Her favorite subject is mathematics (her father is a math instructor), and she has the study of medicine in mind. She hopes to attend either Berea College or the University of Kentucky.

This Town . . . That World

A LIE WOULD HELP

I have never confessed to hacking down any cherry trees with my little hatchet, nor have I added to the credibility gap by asserting that I cannot tell a lie. On the whole, however, I prefer that we all tell the truth.

Having said that, I now take off in the other direction. After taking a few horrified glimpses of my picture as it appeared in photographs of a recent function in which I played a minor role, I do truthfully say this to one and all—I wish the camera would be kind, and lie.

ANOTHER GADGET NEEDED

It might be that we are getting so smart that we're outsmarting ourselves. The telephone people, for instance, have got things so computerized and operated by other complex gadgetry that they're getting bilked out a lot of money by callers whom they can't trace.

That's the telephone company's headache. But there's one that gives the public a pain. For instance, the shameful threat of a bomb, telephoned by direct dial and apparently safe for the individual who gets his kicks out of such perversion.

We're waiting, now, for the telephone people to come up with another gadget—one that will catch these who use the phones to bad-mouth decent householders, terrorize peaceable citizens and, most shameful of all, hit at people who are sick and must face threats while unable to rise from bed.

Schools of County Are Closed Monday, First Time in Term

Floyd county schools missed their first day of the current term Monday because of road and weather conditions, but were reopened the following day.

A few schools in the upper Left Beaver Creek section did not open last Friday because of treacherous driving conditions, but classwork continued at all others. The schools remained open for the day, despite the fact that a combination of bad weather and influenza resulted in approximately 38 per cent absenteeism. Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said. Ordinarily, when absenteeism reaches 25 per cent schools are closed.

The school system is granted five "calamity days" which do not have to be made good later in the term. In recent years dangerous travel conditions have closed schools of this county for beyond this five-day limit, necessitating extension of terms till late in the spring.

Ex-Resident Files $2.1 Million Action For Death of Son

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Pruitt, of Russell, formerly of Wheelwright, has filed a $2.1 million damage suit against Southern Airways, Inc., in connection with the Nov. 14, 1970 plane crash at Tri-State Airport, Huntington, W. Va., in which her son, Roger Vanover, and 74 others lost their lives.

The suit, filed three months ago, is set for hearing at Catlettsburg, April 24. U. S. District Judge Bernard Moynihan, Jr. will hear motions by Southern Airways to dismiss the suit on the grounds that the airline does not do business in Kentucky. But an identical suit has been filed in Washington, D. C., where the company does have an office.

Turn Their Backs on Camera

The ducks at Jenny Wiley boat dock hurry ashore, these winter days, hoping for a handout of food at the appearance of every visitor. Here they are shown turning back to the water — with some degree of disgust — when they learned the visitor had only a camera. Most of the flock are mallards.

Sturgill Heirs' Property Will Expand Grounds

The Floyd County Board of Education expanded the grounds of the Prestonsburg elementary school by more than half an acre Saturday through the purchase of the Ella Sturgill property on Lake Drive.

The property, which is adjacent to the present school grounds and extends from Lake Drive to College Lane, was bought for $48,000, subject to the approval of the State Division of Properties and Grounds.

The B. L. Sturgill residence and two other rental structures will be removed soon, Supt. Charles Clark said.

The board's proposal for a Part C, Title I program involving $17,000 was given approval, and it moved at Saturday's meeting to implement the program. Part C funds are to be used in a remedial reading program beyond anything undertaken hitherto in that area, and the board proposed to find four schools where the highest incidence of Grade 1 students behind in reading ability had occurred.

Actually, five schools were listed for the additional teaching service, but in two, Allen and Wayland, one teacher and one teacher-aide will serve both schools, half-time to each school. McDowell, Betsy Layne and Stumbo were listed for fulltime work. The program is for four months, and six pupils will be taught at each session.

Teachers and teacher-aides named for the schools having a part in the program are:

Allen-Wayland—Pam Allen, teacher, Ruby Bailey, teacher-aide; Betsy Layne—Harold Newsome, teacher, Teresa Hall, aide; McDowell—Archie Justice, teacher, Sheila Dusina, aide; Stumbo—Goldia Hamilton, teacher, Catherine Hall, aide.

Frazier Is Told Health Program To Be Resumed

The comprehensive health program in Floyd county is not dead, but it is having difficulty getting revived.

The pilot health program was suspended last June by order of the Office of Health Affairs after it became dissatisfied with the workability of the program. Later, a new board was formed and a new program submitted.

Lynn B. Frazier, director of the Kentucky Economic Opportunity staff, Frankfort, told The Times Tuesday that he was assured three weeks ago by Dr. Cooper, head of the Office of Health Affairs, that the delay in getting the program back into operation was the allotment of funds for it from money that has already been appropriated.

Mr. Frazier said he asked Dr. Brown "very specifically" if there was any other problem that might delay reinstatement of the program and that Brown assured him there is none.

Dermont Killed, Wife Is Injured In 2-Car Wreck

A Floyd county man was killed in a two-car, head-on collision early last Thursday night near Carrie, Perry county, and his wife was seriously injured.

The victim was 19-year-old Robert Stephen Dermont, of Martin, who was a student at Prestonsburg Community College. He was dead on arrival at the Hazard Appalachian Regional Hospital. His wife, Elda Black Dermont, suffered multiple fractures but later was transferred from the Hazard hospital to Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin.

The crash occurred on a road made slippery by snow and freezing rain. Dermont's auto collided with a car driven by David Dixon, 32, of Hazard. Dixon suffered bruises.

A native of Martin, young Dermont was graduated from high school there and was a member of the Catholic Church. Besides his widow and his parents, he is survived by a daughter, Kathryn Anne; a brother, Joseph (See Story 4, Back Page, Sec. 1)

American Standard Strike Not Settled; Talks Not Resumed

The strike at American Standard continued this week, with no apparent change in its status, it was said Tuesday morning.

There have been no further talks between union and company representatives since the approximately 350 hourly workers went on strike, Jan. 31.

Neither the company nor the union has made a formal statement defining reasons for the walkout, but a difference on wages is believed to be the main source of contention.

From North Africa To East Kentucky For an Education

Pippa Passes, Ky. — The start of a college education at Alice Lloyd is part of this year's Christmas celebration for Zehainesh and Hansu Teclé who traveled thousands of miles from their home in Asmara, Ethiopia.

Their presence here is due to a friend telling a friend, in North Africa, about the College. Ruth Ann Schweyer, director of ALC's foreign student program, said that a young man from Asmara applied to the College last year, but due to a mail mixup his application wasn't received in time. After the young man's sister told her friends in the Teclé family about Alice Lloyd, Zehainesh and Hansu decided to enter college here.

Zehainesh is aiming for a degree in pharmacy, while Hansu is choosing between that field and business. Both girls studied some English in preparation for college, but they also speak Italian and Tighirigna, their native language.

The Teclé family belongs to the Coptic Orthodox Church which celebrates Christmas according to an ancient calendar on January 7. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Erdman of the College staff hosted a small yuletide celebration for the girls.

Betsy Layne grade schoolers took the lion's share of honors in the recent grade school tournament held at the Prestonsburg high school gymnasium under auspices of the Floyd County PTA Council.

Betsy Layne's team won the tourney championship, and the school also produced the tournament queen. The Little Bobcats defeated McDowell, 50-54, in the final game of the meet. Betsy Layne's cheerleaders also won first place. They are Stacy Conn, Cathy Hamilton, Beata Clark, Karen Conn, Ramona Jarell, Valerie Robinette, Trena Trimble and Barbara Clark.

The tournament is an annual event in which elementary school pupils play to provide funds for college scholarships for other boys and girls of the county.

Reading Council Meets at Allen

The Jenny Wiley Reading Council held its recent general session at the Allen elementary school, November, Dr. Catherine Shrewsbury presiding. The chairmen of the Publicity, Organizational, Rules and Program committees reported on the activities in which their groups had been engaged. Members were chosen for the Auditing, Budget and Evaluation committees.

The highlight of the meeting was the talk of the guest-speaker, Betsy Mynheir, reading consultant of the State Department of Education, Frankfort. She spoke on "What Is To Happen in Reading," in relation to the National Right to Read program.

Since one Floyd county school has been chosen to participate as a rural area pilot "satellite model school" of the Right to Read program, she talked at length concerning the satellite schools. She said that the Right to Read people in Washington, D. C. would assist and train the people who will work in the satellite program; that the satellite schools would be asked to raise the reading level 1½ years; that the model schools would be visited by persons who would observe the materials, methods, techniques, etc.

Miss Mynheir said that trends in reading in 1972 are: Teachers will have to have more training in the reading area; a child will be allowed to choose to some degree (under guidance) the materials he works with; that readiness and reading laboratories be established; that a reading council should be formed in every county; and that schools must get involved in environmental education. She stressed that one out of every four students in the United States has serious reading deficiencies.

After the meeting adjourned, council members of the Allen school served refreshments to those attending.

The next meeting of the Reading Council will be at 7 p.m., February 8, at Martin high school. Leonard Allen will give a report on the Kentucky International Reading Association's annual state conference, last October 22-23, at Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green. The guest-speaker will be John K. Pitts, principal of the Clark elementary school. This school will serve as a "satellite model school" under the Right to Read program. His topic will concern the Right to Read program and his orientation visit in Washington, D. C.

An open invitation is extended to all persons, from Pike, Floyd, Martin, Knott, and Magoffin counties who are interested in reading.

Spend 15 minutes with the Ford Team. Ask about the '72 Torino—priced less* than last year!

Gran Torino 2-Door Hardtop

It's true. The price of this year's Torino reflects the excise tax repeal in a big way. And that's on a completely new car... one you'd imagine belonged in a more expensive class.

It has a luxurious new roominess. In fact, it's the roomiest Ford mid-size ever.

It has a new coil-spring suspension. For a smoother ride... road-hugging stability. It has all-new body/frame engineering. For strength and solidity.

Its new front disc brakes are standard. And you get all this in your choice of two new wheelbases... nine great new Torino models, including wagons.

But come check one out for yourself. It won't take you 15 minutes to see how much more car a '72 Torino gives you... for less than its '71 sticker price!

The Ford Team has the values!

We Support the Coal Industry, Too

Underground mining for coal, some say, may be in for trouble. It is this phase of the coal industry, and not surface mining, that needs friends and support.

The federal government has helped stack the cards against the deep mines. First of all, it went into the market for cheap coal for TVA's power-generating plants, and the strip-miner filled the bill. Next, its safety laws classified all mines as gaseous, whether they in fact were or not, and hundreds of small operations have found it impossible to stay in business. Even the giants of the industry are under severe handicap as they are forced to buy costly equipment while the surface miner goes his merry way because he has none of these underground problems.

The deep mine still reaches coal that is superior in quality to surface-mined coal, but the trend toward converting the energy of coal into electricity and putting it onto wire and used for heating and other purposes removes much of the domestic market for quality coal. If the market is reduced to a need for only metallurgical coal from these deep mines, there is a strong possibility that, except in boom years, deeply buried coal will lie untouched.

More productive, far cheaper, not beset by many of the federal regulations that apply to deep mining, surface mining holds the upper hand in the competition. A strip-mine employing 20 men can produce as much coal as a deep mine employing from 60 to 80 men.

If the underground mines go, gone will be the big payrolls that coal contributes to the economy of the area. If the coal industry is to mean work for miners and payrolls for communities, the underground mines must find, somewhere, friendly support.

We support the coal industry, too. But we happen to believe that only one segment of it deserves this support, and that is the part of the coal industry that employs men and does less damage to the land and the rest of us.

MISS PEQUES-SGT. SCALF

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pegues, of New Hope, Ala., announce the engagement of their daughter, Dianna, to Sgt. Franklin Scalf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Scalf, of Prestonsburg.

Miss Pegues is a graduate of Broodmoor high school in Baton Rouge, La., and attended business school in New Hope. She is employed by the U. S. Department of State and is currently assigned to the American embassy in Quito, Ecuador.

Sgt. Scalf is a graduate of Prestonsburg high school and attended Prestonsburg Community College. He served with the Third Marine division in Vietnam and was awarded the Navy Commendation Medal for Heroism. After completing training in Washington, D. C., he was assigned to the security section of the American embassy in Saigon, Vietnam. He is serving in the same capacity now at the American embassy in Helsinki, Finland, and also with the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency during the Helsinki session of the Strategic Arms Limitation talks.

An April wedding is planned.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D

The Moon Nowadays

With all the publicity given the trips to the moon, I am wondering as a folklorist how that will affect our age-old folk sayings and beliefs about that satellite of ours. Scientists tell us that the actual landing on the moon is far more poetic than all the ravings of moon-struck poets; they may be right. Meanwhile, what are we going to do with our previous moon knowledge?

Did the landing of human beings on the surface of the moon affect in any way the influence of the moon on planting or harvesting crops? Is it any less necessary to consult an almanac about the right time to plant vegetables that will produce edible portions above or below the surface of the ground? Won't a darkening moon still be a sign to plant potatoes, for example, and a waxing moon be equally good as a sign to follow in planting turnip greens? Will you kill your hogs just any old time, or will you carefully remember not to take chances that might make your valuable meat spoil or fairly cook up to nothing but grease? If ever so many daring fellows skip around on the surface of the moon or even take time to dig out some caves in the loose soil or whatever it is, are you going to disregard what Grandpa taught about getting too much stalk when you plant corn in the light of the moon?

Will the moon continue to be a bright spot in weather prophecy? Will the halo around it, really pretty far from the actual moon, still tell about approaching storms, and will the stars inside the circle show how many days the storm will last or how long it will be until it breaks out? And will new moons turn up just any old way without attracting attention, especially since Grandpa knew that if the moon is flat, it will form a saucer or bowl and thus hold water; if it tilts up, it will certainly show that water will be poured out? But Uncle George, who seemed as big a weather prophet as Grandpa, declared, sometimes rather profanely, that exactly the opposite results would follow? Let's wait a while and see.

One of my desires as a seeker after truth is to know whether the Man in the Moon is still alive and condemned to life on the moon for his unholy act of burning brush on Sunday? And I want the next fellows who visit the moon to look around, just for my sake, to see whether they can find this poor fellow who created such a change in astronomical conditions by his being so wicked.

And there is the moon of romance. Will it fade out now? Think of the songs we used to sing, in which "moon" rhymed with "spoon," "croon," and similar suggestive words. Will such songs have to be rewritten to conform to actual conditions on the moon itself? If so, the word-masters had better start collecting suitable phrases to tell the whole truth and also to keep the young minds romantically interested in the moon itself. How can anyone write a song or a story about the South Seas without bringing in the moon? Is the moon down there any more romantic, say, than it is on some mid-American college campus? Do you have to have the sound of the sea, the fragrance of tropical flowers, the wind that blows from wide, wide seas, as well as an appealing moon, to awaken romance. Maybe the moon helps, maybe the tropical winds do their part, maybe the fragrance of exotic flowers could add something vital; but youth and its own way of romancing can, and does, do without the grandeur of the so-called romantic places; and fortunately, even the merest wrinkle of earth where He and She dwell somehow takes on all the imaginary beauties that poets have striven to create for a setting for young love. And maybe we still will find in the moon over our little valley as romantic as the moons of Montecura or moons over Miami and even Omar's Moon.

MANY THINGS

By WILMAY

Someone asks why so few find time today to do many things they wish to do—why, with the most "push-button" living that people ever enjoyed, they have the least free time. One answer is, things!

Our good friends, Stanley and Jane Combs, again of Prestonsburg after a long absence in California, visited us in Tollesboro on a trip back to Kentucky about 1957. They had just sold their home and furnishings to live in a trailer. Stanley remarked that they found they did not have many things but that many things had them, a comment pregnant with a meaning for us all. It calls to mind Prestonsburg friends who moved a decade ago into a beautiful, spacious, new home which we were admiring. One mentioned that the whole family was homesick for their "little, old place." We often recall starting to keep house with one small kitchen cabinet, adequate for all the pots and pans... and didn't food taste better then than now when poultry, pork, and beef are rushed to maturity because we Americans know little about waiting for anything?

The causes of limited time are multiple. Pressures mount as the chase for power, prestige and the dollar increases. Numbers work past retirement, even against the advice of family and physicians. Many endanger health by "moonlighting," to give their family more luxuries. Yes, part of the rush is due to the love of possessions that require more time and care, and generate more pride. Remember the adage, "The more most people get, the more they want."

Oldsters recall when one good suit for Papa and two "best" dresses for Mamma sufficed, no time lost deciding what to wear. Four or five Kennedy rockers, a big table, a piano for the girls, with snowy window curtains, made a sitting room inviting at the close of a busy day, though floors were likely bare. (fewer allergies from dust.) A trip to the city was the highlight of a year or lifetime. A man could keep his business affairs in an envelope and handle them himself, without worry of insomnia, ulcers or coronaries. He had no need of a two-car garage, or a family room, so the "parlor" could remain spotless for guests. His home was to be lived in, and it was; moreover, he was head of it, could prop his feet on Mom's best table, had never heard of the Women's Lib movement, or washed dishes and baby diapers!

That was before love of things rivaled love of people and concern for humanity, before homes became houses where many grab a snack and change clothes en route to more entertainment. The experts—you know 'em, those guys a long way from home—say stress and strain are unknown among primitive tribes who escape hectic living. They miss a great deal, but might some of their gains outweigh their losses? One anthropologist thinks compassion is disappearing. This we question, since it is not gone here. But more than thirty persons heard the screams of a woman in New York being stabbed to death, and not one responded.

Incidentally, Stanley and Jane are among the most compassionate, hospitable and kindest couples we know. They never fail to visit sick relatives and friends, no matter where! For sheer helpfulness, we nominate Reba and Virgil Halbert, of Maytown, who left work in Michigan to come home when her mother, Mrs. C. Ollie Robinson Sr., became gravely ill. Virgil found employment next in Lexington, once Mrs. Robinson improved, so Reba could help when her mother was hospitalized there often. As Mrs. Robinson grew worse, they returned here again, placed a trailer next door, permitting Reba, the only daughter, to help her dad nurse her mother to the end. The whole family was grand to "Mom," but with three growing boys and a fourth little one, Reba was magnificent, as were her dad and Virgil, who now has a responsible position with American Standard. Isn't it great for the county when our best young folks come home to stay, when they put loved ones before jobs and things?

How long since you were in school?

For those of us who are old enough to have children in school, it's a little difficult to realize how demanding and complex a teacher's job has become.

Things have changed since we were under the teacher's eye. Subjects are tougher, wider ranging. Today's student is getting into the ideas behind the facts at an age when we merely were learning facts.

Now the classroom is a place for education through thought instead of education by rote. And the teachers who meet the challenge day after difficult day are rather special people.

Dedicated? The word probably embarrasses them. Even so, it is dedication to duty that's most common to all the men and women who become — and remain — modern teachers.

How else can you describe whatever it is that makes a good teacher keep working, keep studying ahead, after the last bell of the day, the last bell of the semester, has rung?

This they do. And it's enough to know, with or without fancy words that pinpoint their motives. Enough to earn our respect, our appreciation and all the help we can give them.

The Bank Josephine is assisting Floyd County area youngsters obtain a college or trade school education. We're the only financial institution in Floyd County participating in the Federal Insured Student Loan Program. We are actively lending to students right now. But we'd like to do more. You see, we're out to make more loans to more students, but we need your help to do it. We'll earmark your money for our "Educations Unlimited" loan fund. The "Educations Unlimited" Savings Certificates we'll issue you in return will pay off magnificently — in excellent bank interest for you, and in better educations for our own boys and girls.

Floyd County has always been blessed with more than its fair share of citizens who willingly give more than they have to give — of their time, their energy, their cooperation — to keep our county out front in all the things that matter. While outstanding teachers are seeing to it that our youngsters get the best education possible, countless other people are working every day to meet the county's growing cultural and social needs.

5 Kentucky Stores
Lose Food Stamps

Atlanta, Ga.—Five Kentucky food stores have been disqualified from the federal food stamp program for violations, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service reports.

The stores and charges are:

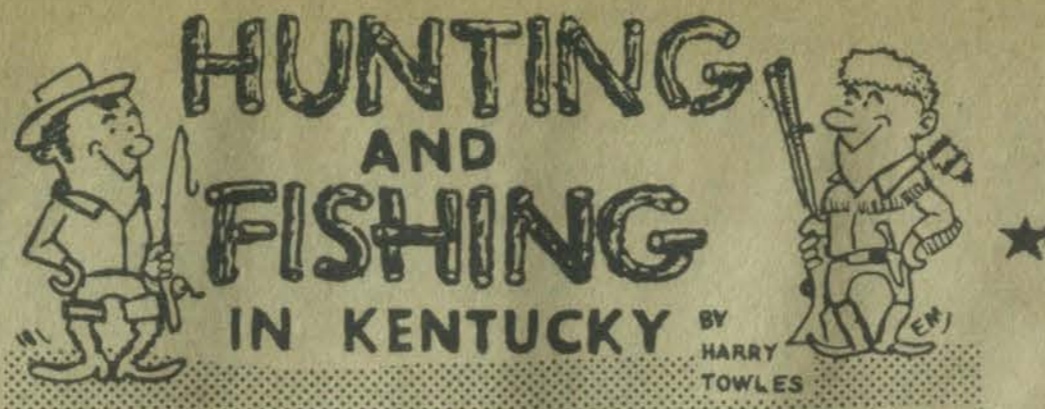

Bates Grocery, Kitts, owned by Mrs. Omega Bates, disqualified for one year, starting January 24, after being charged with redeeming USDA food coupons accepted in violation of food stamp regulations.

Ivy Point Produce, Salyersville, owned by William Brown, disqualified for one year, starting January 20, after being charged with selling for USDA food coupons such ineligible items as cigarettes, knives, rods and reels, a wrist watch, transistor radio and clothing.

Haddix Grocery, Haddix, owned by Floyd Haddix, disqualified for one year, starting January 24, after being charged with redeeming USDA food coupons accepted in violation of food stamp regulations.

Preston's Grocery, Sitka, owned by Mrs. Hazel Preston, was disqualified for six months, starting January 29, after being charged with selling for USDA food coupons such ineligible items as cigarettes, a shirt, shoe polish, lightbulbs, lighter fluid, and floor wax.

Stewart's Grocery, Lexington, owned by Raymond Stewart, disqualified for six months, starting January 20, after being charged with selling for USDA food coupons such ineligible items as detergents, fly swatters, clothes line, clothes pins, cooking spatula and matches.

Grouse—A Great Close for Season

Frankfort, Ky.—Those Kentuckians who are reluctant to put in storage their favorite shotguns can take heart. You still have until Feb. 28 to get in a bit of hunting.

While the quail and rabbit seasons end Jan. 31 and since the waterfowl seasons, too, are over, the hunter may be a bit lonesome. Yet he still may engage in some of the trickiest, yet most rewarding shooting of the entire season—that is if he wishes to seek out the ruffed grouse in the extreme eastern section of the state.

There are approximately 30 counties in this tier where the grouse, that wily, rough and nervous mountain bird may be found. In other sections, this species is practically non-existent now, although about the turn of the century they were plentiful in all parts of the commonwealth.

A change in the forests played havoc with this fine bird. The grouse, biologists will tell you, obtains its principal food from the small nuts and grapes and berries and the succulent buds on small bushes and trees. This food was present everywhere in the state in years gone by but was destroyed with the clearing of the forests and woodlots and with the encroachment of civilization. The grouse, like many other species of wildlife, just doesn't get along very well with civilization.

But in Eastern Kentucky, this deceptive bird was given a second chance. After the wooded sections were cut over, new saplings and grasses, vines and berries emerged within a few years and furnished not only sufficient food but also ample cover, which the grouse demands.

This change started taking place 25 to 30 years ago in the mountain region and the grouse, like many species of wildlife, bounced back in the suitable surroundings. Now huntable populations are available in the hill country.

Another factor affecting the return of the Eastern Kentucky grouse, experts believe, was the outmigration of residents of these sections. In many mountain hollows families had eked out vegetable and cash crops by cultivating their bottom land. But when other sources of income were cut off the families were unable to subsist on what they could glean from the land and were forced to move away. Within a few years these once-cultivated areas became thick with grasses, vines and berries, offering an excellent menu and fine cover for the grouse. And the grouse came back in ratio to the exodus of people.

At present grouse are scattered throughout this mountain section since most areas offer a variety of food and cover. However, if the food crops would be hard hit in the valleys, the grouse move further up the mountain, feeding on nuts, buds and berries as well as certain types of fern. Or, under given conditions, they may be located right on top of the mountain as other types of food become available there.

The mountain areas are cut by long, winding logging trails which man can put to good use in hunting. By using a four-wheel-drive vehicle, a hunter can ride through these areas while his dogs fan out on each side. This makes easy hunting for many but it doesn't help the dog much.

Most often the hunter must seek out the grouse on foot and for this he had best be in good physical condition. That's a prerequisite, and not only because of the hill climbing. A close-working dog is a pleasure to a grouse hunter and even for a crack shot, closeness to the quarry is essential.

The grouse is usually flushed from the thick undergrowth and apparently nature has equipped it with a sort of radar system since it can put a tree between itself and the hunter with unerring accuracy.

Grouse hunting is excellent sport and is a fine way to close out a hunting season. Should a hunter be successful in his quest for grouse he can expect a gourmet's delight if the bird is properly prepared as a meal.

And by the way, not that it matters too much, but the limit is four per day or eight in possession, but the fellow who reaches that limit is rare and is indeed mighty lucky.

Seeks Venue Change For Truck Cases

A bill that would get around local courts which refuse to prosecute operators of road-crushing overweight coal trucks was introduced by Sen. Nicholas Baker, D-Louisville.

Huge coal trucks, overloaded by profit-minded operators, have been damaging Eastern Kentucky roads for years despite thousands of citations issued by the state Department of Motor Transportation which regulates road weight rules.

The department has repeatedly complained that courts in counties which rely economically on the coal industry refuse to prosecute those violators cited.

Baker's measure would attack the problem by enabling the cases to be transferred, at the prosecution's discretion, from the county where the violation occurred to Franklin circuit court.

In addition the state attorney general would be empowered to prosecute overweight violators.

Currently violations are prosecuted by county attorneys in the counties where they occur.

Fifty Million Tons of Pollution

From sea to sea and from Canada to the Gulf, our fair land is polluted with 50 million tons of litter and garbage of every kind and description. The other day, some people cleaned up just one mile of this litter and filled 750 barrels with it.

How many barrels would be filled with all the litter that is now cluttering up the landscape? It lies along the banks of all the streams; it is scattered abroad along the outskirts of every town and village; the private garbage dumps have overrun their bounds, and the pollution is spreading; the public garbage dumps have lengthened and widened their borders until many of them are 500 feet long and almost as many feet wide.

This is the age of the plastic container, the cardboard milk carton, the throw-away pop bottles and the ziptop beer cans. They are so handy, you know. Just zip off the top, drink the content and toss the can out; its tin came from the earth and it will rust, get full of holes, make an eyesore and gradually go back to the earth again.

Garbage and litter dumps are now established on mountainsides, most of them in sight of state highways. Drive along the road and you can see the white jugs and cartons lying like wilted flowers, fading, decaying in the sun. The garbage, cartons, tin cans, broken furniture, broken-down couches, discarded beds—you name it, and you can find it at the garbage dumps. You can also find dead dogs thrown out at the dumps and, more than likely, you'll see the crows feasting on them. You'll often see an old, half-dead mangy dog that was taken out to the garbage dump and left to die there. The poor fellow may get so hungry he'll eat some spoiled food there at the dump and thus hasten his death. You can find all sorts of rotten food at the dumps; you'll find stale bread, moldy beans, rotten meat that was cast out at the garbage dumps. These are ideal places to breed rats which thrive on garbage. As if we don't already have enough disease germs, we are growing a lot of rats at the dumps to help spread more disease germs. And talk about flies! You'll find plenty of flies such as house flies, stable flies, and the green blow flies. It is an ideal place for flies to breed; they'll thrive there and save their germs; they may visit your home and spread some of the germs they picked up at the garbage dumps. Possums and polecats also do well at the garbage dumps; they vie with the crows in eating the spoiled foods of all kinds. A lot of people dump their garbage at night, as if they were partly ashamed of throwing it out where they are not supposed to do. Some persons never quite seem to reach the main dump with their garbage but just toss it out nearby, while nobody is looking, and there it lies to breed germs and to fill the air with a stench. The best way, nowadays, to judge the character of the people who live in any town or village is not to get references on them from the bank or business firms; just take a look on the outskirts of the town and study their litter and garbage. If it is scattered far and wide and has never been cleaned up, this speaks louder than any letter of reference from the bank or business house. You'll see this garbage along the outskirts or along the streams near many towns and villages of America. You'll see this garbage, cans, cartons, cellophane wrappers, along the edges of parks and many times right in the middle of them.

Nothing will grow where this garbage is cast out. It smothers out the grass and wild flowers, and when the rains come, the poisons and filth from the dumps are washed down into the streams, adding to their pollution. It takes the clorox plastic jugs and the bleach jugs a long time to decay; they will remain on the landscape for years and some dark night you might run across them and mistake them for large, white flowers that had bloomed out in the night, but you'll be bitterly disappointed when daylight comes.

It is always a wise plan to dump the garbage, the tin cans, the plastic jugs, the spoiled food, the broken-down furniture along the banks of the stream nearest your town. In due time, the waters will rise and wash a lot of it off. The fish won't mind it as they are already half dead from pollution; so when the high waters come, the garbage will be seen floating in great drifts downstream, headed for the Gulf of Mexico. Eventually much of it will reach the ocean, but that doesn't matter, either, for the ocean is already polluted beyond all redemption, with little hope of ever cleaning it up or stopping its pollution. Most of the streams of America today are mere running cesspools, anyway, so a little more garbage and a few more empty beer and pop cans washed into them won't change things much—not unless the waters finally get so foul and dead they will stop running. Then the garbage will pile sky-high and we will have to hold our noses against the awful stench.

Many of my readers will say, "All right, our land is polluted with garbage; so let's get busy now and clean it up. We'll haul the garbage and use it for a land-fill; we'll bury it with a bulldozer, and that will be its end."

Perhaps that is a wise plan. Yet it might be a wiser plan to save all our garbage; if the world population explosion keeps up, we may have to go to the garbage dumps to get enough food to keep body and soul together. So it might be a good idea to post guards at all the garbage dumps of America, so they can keep away the rats, the crows, the dogs and other scavengers—the time may come when we are going have to turn scavengers, ourselves!

Petite Princess

One of the highlights of the annual Floyd County P.-T. A. Council sponsored grade school basketball tournament was naming a petite queen and petite princess. The petite princess trophy was awarded to Miss Stephanie Ann Hampton, second grade pupil of Allen elementary school. Stephanie Ann is the daughter of Mrs. Steve Hampton, of Allen, and Mr. Hampton who is with the U. S. Air Force, Omaha, Nebraska.

Knott Woman, Husband To Tell Of Mission Work in Brazil

A husband-wife missionary team, home from service in Brazil, will tell of their work at Faith Bible Church, near Martin, at 6 p.m. next Sunday. Their talks will be accompanied by pictures of Brazilian mission work.

The missionaries are Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Taylor. Mrs. Taylor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cordell Martin, of Hindman. Her father is a well-known attorney, a former Kentucky legislator, president of the Cumberland Mountain Mission, Inc., and a member of the boards of Calvary College and the Open Door Children's Home. Mrs. Taylor is the former Mattie Moore, a sister of former Floyd county clerk, DuRan Moore, and of Earl and Mason Moore, Floyd county business men.

Mr. Taylor is the son of missionaries who are now serving in Brazil. He, his parents and his wife are working under auspices of the New Tribes Mission whose board works with tribal people in 14 countries with the goal of reaching 2,000 tribes which have not yet heard of Jesus Christ.

The Brazil the Taylors teach at a Bible school, training young Brazilians for work among the tribes in their own land and elsewhere in South America. They have two children, Jeffrey Lee, 3, who was born in Canada, and Karen Camille, 7 months, born in Brazil.

The public is invited to hear their report of Gosepl work in a distant land.

Garth School To Join Observance Of National Voc Education Week

Next week, Feb. 13-19, is National Vocational Education Week, and the Garth Vocational School at Hite will be opening its doors to citizens of the area, many of whom have never been inside such a school or seen its students at work.

Governor Wendell H. Ford has issued a proclamation calling on citizens of the state to observe the week, and he was joined later at the local level by County Judge Henry Stumbo and Mayor George P. Archer with proclamations asking for public recognition of this phase of education.

Two hundred sixteen boys from all eight of the county's high schools are transported by school bus to and from the Garth school on a regular schedule, and there they learn by doing, using modern machinery and methods in training for five trades—carpentry, auto mechanics, electricity, drafting and machine shop.

The school staff is composed of Frank B. Sammons, coordinator; George E. Barker, instructor in carpentry; Lonzo Lafferty, auto mechanics; James Montgomery and Ezra Mitchell, electricity; Jerry May, drafting, and Clifford VanHoose, machine shop.

Jaycees To Offer Legislative Packet

The Kentucky Jaycees early last week announced a 26-point legislative packet that will be presented to the state Legislature immediately.

Vernon said that during a meeting in Frankfort, February 22-24, some 3,000 young men will caucus with state officials concerning such issues as:

An exemption on all basic foods from the state sales tax; the establishment of a state consumer protection agency; the repeal of the present Sunday closing law; passage of legislation to allow the issuance of no-fault insurance; a severance tax on all natural resources; a constitutional revision to allow annual Legislative sessions, and a recommendation to evaluate a state lottery and off-track betting as a source of new funds.

Other issues included in the 26-point package are:

A work-release program in the state reformatories; county consolidation; consolidation of local governments, and revision of the state Constitution.

Vernon pointed out that some 31 issues were originally presented to the state's 128 local chapters. Only 26 items, however, were ratified by a majority of those chapters responding.

Paper Says It Holds Strip-Mines Do Not Add to Income Levels

The Nashville Tennessean last week quoted a TVA analysis as showing that the strip-mining industry does not add to the income levels of Floyd and eight other Eastern Kentucky counties and five in Virginia.

The Nashville newspaper's report, however, was attacked by a TVA spokesman, who said that Dr. M. L. Foster, the researcher quoted by the paper, had made no such statement.

The Tennessean's science director, William Greenburg, said Foster's division of navigation and regional development, had conducted the analysis and quoted Foster as saying:

"I would be very cagey to come to a conclusion from the result of this work. On the basis of recent population changes and present income levels, this particular comparison indicates that income levels are about the same, whether strip mining is a major factor in a county or not."

The major difference was that one bloc of counties had strip mining and the other did not," the newspaper's science director wrote.

"The analysis showed that in counties

An addition is scheduled for early construction, and Charles Clark, superintendent of county schools, said the Garth Vocational School then will become co-educational, with girls receiving training in nursing or clerical skills.

The Garth school is operated in cooperation with the Mayo State Vocational School, Paintsville. It is open, Monday through Friday, from 8:45 a.m. till 3:50 p.m.

George L. Ramey, director of Vocational Education in Region 11 and head of the Paintsville school, said that the purpose of next week's national observance is to bring attention to the merits and accomplishments of vocational education. He encourages members of the community to visit vocational programs during this week to view on-going projects and programs.

Mr. Ramey said that both young people and adults today face a tremendous task of selecting vocational development programs. Careful investigation and observation are necessary for the potential student to choose the vocational training program which will provide the most satisfying vocation.

Wayland, Feds Creek Put on Probation

Feds Creek and Wayland high schools were placed on probation last Saturday by the Kentucky High School Athletic Association.

Commissioner Ted Sanford said the probation, which has the effect of a warning, would be for the remainder of the current season.

It was prompted when a fight broke out Jan. 22 at Feds Creek, causing the basketball game between the two schools to be stopped during the third quarter.

All players involved in the fight also were placed on probation, Sanford said, but did not identify them.

Kiwanis-Alumni Play Prelim to College Tilt

Preceding the basketball game tonight (Thursday) at the high school gym here between Prestonsburg Community College and Kentucky Christian College, Grayson, a preliminary featuring the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club and the PCC alumni will be played at 6 p.m.

with similar population patterns, but where there is no strip mining, the level of individual income was $24 a year more than in the strip mined counties," he said.

Counties included in the survey, the newspaper said, are Breathitt, Floyd, Pike, Clay, Leslie, Perry, Knott, Letcher and Harlan, all in Eastern Kentucky, and Wise, Russell, Dickerson, Buchanan, and Tazewell, in southwest Virginia.

The non-strip mining counties, all in Kentucky, were listed as Estill, Menifee, Powell, Wolfe, Lee, Owsley, Boyle, Garrard, Lincoln, Casey, Adair, Russell, Cumberland and Clinton.

The newspaper said the TVA analysis, using 1969 figures, showed individual income was $1,873 in the strip mining counties, $1,897 in the non-strip mining counties and $2,759 in the valley as a whole.

Foster was quoted thus: "We tried to get as fairly a comparison group of counties as we could. The one difference was that one bloc of counties had strip mining as a major economic activity and one bloc did not."

"To really consider this an economic study," Foster said, "We would have to go deeper."

To the Editor

Asks for Early Weather Decision

It is a mystery to me why the Board of Education waits to the last minute to call off school on these cold, snowy mornings. It might interest them to know that some kids' have to leave home at 6:30 in the morning. Mine don't have to leave that early, but they are out of bed and dressed, ready to go, before they announce whether there is school or not. Why don't somebody get out of bed and get on the ball down there?

Black Cat Star End To Play with EKV

Prestonsburg high school's Randy Leslie will play his college football with the Eastern Kentucky University Maroons. He recently signed a grant-in-aid to play at Eastern.

The 6-3, 190-pound right end caught 25 passes for 453 yards and 44 points for the Prestonsburg Black Cats during the past season and was a second team all-state choice. He was one of Prestonsburg Coach Ed Radjunas' mainstays. Leslie is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Leslie, of Emma.

EKV Coach Roy Kidd said, "Leslie will definitely be an asset to our program. We were looking for ends, and we feel we got a good one."

Foreman's Class To Begin, Tuesday

A mine foreman's class to run about 16 weeks will have its first session next Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Safety Department office of the Island Creek Coal Co., Price, it was announced by the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals this week. Classes at the same hours will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays and will be taught by Department of Mines and Minerals personnel. Information may be procured from Cecil Sherman, Paintsville, Phone 789-5191, or from Julius Ferrell, Pikeville, Phone 432-2231.

Bill Asks Agency To Handle Future Development Work

Rep. Joe Clarke (D-Danville), introduced a bill that would allow the state to regulate all future commercial and industrial developments affecting the natural environment.

It would require a builder or developer to notify the Department of Environmental Protection, the name of the new state agency proposed by Clarke in an earlier bill, before proceeding with a project of 20 acres or 60,000 square feet.

The department would be empowered to hold hearings on whether to approve a development and could require anti-pollution measures to be taken before giving its blessing.

The burden of proof would be on the builder or developer. However they would be able to appeal to Franklin circuit court as a last resort on any of the department's orders.

Developments in existence or those already with state or local licenses would be exempted from the measure.

Price as 'Dr. Phibes'

LONDON — Vincent Price is here to play the title role in American International's "Dr. Phibes Rises Again," a terror-with-humor production.

Robert Fuest, who directed "Dr. Phibes," is directing for producers James H. Nicholson and Samuel Z. Arkoff.

Named Administrator Of Nursing Home

The Medco corporation, of Evansville, Ind., has named Mrs. Mary Helen Williams of Salem, Ind., formerly of Floyd county, the administrator of its new 84-bed health facility at French Lick.

The new Medco Center, of French Lick, opened last month.

Mrs. Williams entered the health care field in 1968 and graduated from the Indiana University Nursing Home Administrators School in June, 1969. A native of Beaver, and a daughter of John W. Scaff and the late Elizabeth Elliott Scaff, she attended Alice Lloyd College. She is married to Wayne H. Williams and they have three children.

To Receive Master's At Pennsylvania U.

William Joseph Yelder, Jr., formerly of Tram, will graduate next May from the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton Business School of Finance and Commerce with a master's degree in business administration in marketing management and corporate finance.

A son of Mrs. Jessie Yelder Honaker, a teacher in the Floyd school system, he attended Betsy Layne high school, graduating in 1960 from Selma (Ala.) high.

After a semester at Pikeville College he received a scholarship to Central State University, Wilberforce, O., where he majored in accounting. Following his graduation there he was a cost accountant for the Standard Register Co., Dayton, O., and a cost analyst for the General Electric Corp., in Philadelphia. This latter employment was interrupted by his receipt of a scholarship to the University of Pennsylvania.

In Dayton he was financial adviser of Junior Achievement and was selected to audit the United Fund there. In Philadelphia he has served as a tutor in the Wharton Community Education Project and the West Philadelphia High School Project. At the university there he is management consultant with the Business Practice Service, the Marketing Club and the Toastmaster's Club.

Mrs. Yelder is an elementary teacher in the Philadelphia school system. They have two daughters.

The state Tobacco and Health Research Board made its first report to the General Assembly and noted recent progress in smoking and health research. The board coordinates smoking and health research at the University of Kentucky financed by revenue from the state cigarette tax. Its report said tobacco chemistry now may be altered by filters, additives or extractions.

Floyd Farmer Wins Plaque in Contest

A Spencer county, Ind. farmer is the 1971 grand champion of the Tom Wallace Farm Forestry Awards competition.

Chris E. Leiberling, of Lamar, Ind., will receive the contest grand prize of $500 from The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times. The two Louisville newspapers annually sponsor the competition to honor the top farm foresters in Kentucky and Southern Indiana.

Leiberling has been practicing woodland management on his 40 acres of woodlands since 1956. In addition to keeping vines, brush and cull trees from his woodland, in six separate years he has planted a total of 10,000 trees on it, and marked and logged trees from his woodland.

Second grand prize was won by Bruce Ferguson of Union, Ky. Ferguson has owned and operated his 60 acres of woodland in Boone county for 20 years.

Elmon Clark, who owns and operates a farm on Johns Creek, below Dewey Dam, was one of the winners of plaques in the competition. He represented Floyd County.

A folk festival of national importance will be held in Eastern Kentucky in conjunction with the Kentucky bicentennial celebration to be observed during 1974, and Floyd county will make a bid for it.

Plans for events scheduled throughout the state to emphasize each section's historical past was outlined recently by Curtis Clark, Prestonsburg city manager and member of the Governor's board for the celebration, to a group who met here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom James.

Plans for the bicentennial and ways to enlarge the well-known Highlands Folk Festival presented here annually under the direction of Mrs. James were topics of discussion by the group.

"If a festival of importance is to be held in this section, we feel that this would be a logical location," Mrs. James said. She cited the facts that, in addition to Jenny Wiley State park with its amphitheatre and large parking facilities, there is a wealth of folksongs native to the section in which the park is centrally located and that many people are well-acquainted with the Highland Folk Festival which annually draws performers and audiences from a wide area outside this region.

Attending the meeting here, in addition to City Manager Clark, were Dr. Leonard Roberts, of Pikeville College and National Folk Festival board member's Robert Rennie, of Prestonsburg, Community College, who also is a member of the National Folk Festival board; Wallace J. Williamson, of Ashland, president of the Big Sandy Valley Historical Society, and Mrs. Claude P. Stephens, of Prestonsburg.

Senate Bill Would Grant Magistrates Lawmaking Powers

Sen. Michael Moloney (D-Lexington) has introduced a bill that would give Kentucky's 120 counties the "power to run their own governments."

The home-rule measure would authorize fiscal courts to "exercise all rights, powers, privileges and franchises not in conflict with the state Constitution or statutes."

"It lets them deal with local situations as they deem fit, instead of having to come in (to the legislature) and get all this special legislation," Moloney said.

Under present law, fiscal courts have been described as little more than the state's financial and administrative caretakers and lawmaking powers are vested in the General Assembly.

Moloney's bill would give actions taken by fiscal courts the same force of law as those taken by the General Assembly.

Court of Appeals Judge James B. Milliken says he believes it may be legally possible to amend the state constitution more than twice during one legislative session. Now only two amendments may be submitted to the people, each limited to "no more than one subject." Judge Milliken believes "one subject" can be interpreted to cover a broad area, such as Kentucky's entire judicial system.

Pfc. Hale Completes Med Corpsman Course

Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., Jan. 21—Pfc. Ward B. Hale, 23, son of Jailer and Mrs. Lawrence Hale, Prestonsburg, Ky., recently completed a 10-week Medical Corpsman course at the U. S. Army Medical Training Center, Ft. Sam Houston. Pfc. Hale entered the Army in August, 1971 and received Basic Training at Ft. Lewis, Wash. He is a 1966 graduate of Prestonsburg (Ky.) high school and received his B. S. degree in 1971 from Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, Ky.

MEDICAID

The state Health Department reported success in its efforts to curb overuse of the Kentucky medicaid program. Medicaid patients have been "locked-in" to just one doctor and one pharmacist instead of being allowed to shop around. The program reduced expenses by more than half.

"Do you suppose that is the same woman who has varicose veins?"

BUSINESS INDEX

The worst turn in the business index is one noted, these days, every time I go to the courthouse. There where a few months ago trading was active, only a few loafers with bear written all over their faces are to be seen. I've seen only one knife-swap in a month, and I think that might be an augury of worse things to come.

FREE-IF...

Having loaded off—er, I mean, conferred—this Poke Warden job on Judge Hale, I am free to go fishing, this job, the weather, health and my wife permitting.

Slander, Unlimited

In the heat of political debate, Lawmaker A calls Lawmaker B a crook. B is not a crook. Could he make A pay damages for slander?

No, because the law grants a special immunity to all legislators, both state and federal. No matter what slanders they utter, within the legislative chamber, they cannot be held liable in court.

This may seem to be rank favoritism. But the rule is meant for the benefit of the public at large, not for the benefit of the legislators themselves. It frees them to do a better job, unhampered by the lurking fear of legal liability in case they happen to say something wrong.

For similar reasons, immunity is granted also to officials of the judicial and executive branches of the government. Take this case:

A judge, while questioning an arrested man, scolded him as a liar and a disgrace to the community. As it happened, the man was guilty of nothing at all. After being released, he sued the judge for slander.

But the court dismissed his claim, on grounds of the judge's special immunity. The court said: "How could a judge exercise his office if he were in daily fear of an action being brought against him?"

However, the less important the occasion, and the less important the official the less reason there is to grant him immunity.

Consider a case which grew out of a local council hearing on bus service. One of the council members, angered by a complaining citizen, denounced him wrathfully as a fraud. The charge was made simply out of malice, without the slightest basis in fact.

When the victim filed suit for slander, the councilman claimed immunity as a "lawmaker." But the court turned down his defense and held him liable. The judge said that at this lower legislative level, protecting an official was not as important as protecting an innocent person's good name.

Floyd Girl Wins High-Point Award

Fifteen-year-old Susan Johnson, of Melvin, is shown with her horse, On the Go Genius, which she rode to the Kentucky cumulative point record this year in the five-gaited amateur juvenile division. She received her high-point award Jan. 21 at the 24th annual meeting and banquet at Stouffer's Inn, Louisville, of the Kentucky Association of Fairs and Horse Shows. Miss Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Taulbee Johnson, began riding at 6 when she owned a pony. She has been a consistent winner at Kentucky horse shows and fairs. A sophomore at Wheelwright high school, she is an honor student and a cheerleader. She will ride in horse shows at Tampa and Orlando, Fla., March 17-26.

by the Spindletop representative, will involve preparation of a plan for collection of solid waste within the study area, preparation of a financing plan, development of a dump closing program, and, finally, the preparation of a management system plan which will include procedures for forming a disposal district, detailed plans for day-to-day management of the system, along with assisting with preparation of application for federal funding to assist in the initial cost of the program.

Floyd county's interest in this program was illustrated by the presence of County Judge Henry Stumbo and the entire fiscal court, representatives from the Floyd County Health Department, Community Action agencies, the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club, Betsy Layne Civic Club, Floyd County Operation Main Stream and EEA Programs, Soil Conservation Service, Fish and Wild Life, Economic Security, the City of Prestonsburg, Floyd County Attorney's office and the Big Sandy Area Development District staff.

Both Judge Stumbo and Mayor Archer described the meeting as another important step in trying to find the solution to a problem which must be solved if Floyd county and the Big Sandy area are to be successful in securing additional industries for their people.

Bell To Lead '72 Easter Seal Drive

A nationally-known football and basketball official and Lexington attorney has been named chairman of the 1972 Easter Seal campaign in Kentucky.

He is Thomas "Tom" Bell, who wears the familiar NFL 7 when serving as a referee for the National Football League. His appointment was announced by Coleman L. McGuire, Jr., Louisville, president of the Kentucky Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults, which conducts the annual spring appeal.

The campaign will begin February 28 and continue through April 2, Easter Sunday.

Two Knott Men Die in Highway, Train Accidents

Jack Dempsey Baldrige, 35, of Mousie, Knott county, was killed at 6 a.m. Monday when struck by a bread truck as he walked along, or attempted to cross, New Circle road in Lexington.

The Hindman Funeral Home, where the body was taken, said Baldrige, a son of Mrs. Allie Baldrige, of Leburn, had purchased at Hazard a bus ticket to Louisville. A sister resides there. William W. Roberts, of Paris, driver of the truck, was quoted by Lexington police as saying Baldrige was crossing the highway when he was hit. He said he tried to swerve the truck but that Baldrige walked into the side of it.

The victim is survived by his mother, one son, five daughters; a sister, Mrs. Joyce Harrison, of Louisville, and two brothers, Olus and Hershel Baldrige, both of Leburn.

His funeral will be held at 11 a.m. today (Thursday) from the New Home Church at Leburn, and burial will be made in the Maggard cemetery there.

The Hindman Funeral Home reported that funeral rites for Leroy Hall, 33, who was killed Jan. 28 when his truck was struck by a train at the Lackey railroad crossing, were held Feb. 1, with burial in the family cemetery at Garner.

It was reported that Hall, a construction worker, was driving toward Garner on KY 80 when his truck was struck at the crossing and dragged some 400 feet. He was dead on arrival at the McDowell Regional Hospital.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Gerrie Goolsin Hall; his widow, Mrs. Erma Glee Hall; two sons, Jeffrey and Gregory, four brothers and two sisters.

Moon Announces Pesticide Parley

The State Department of Health's Pesticides Program, in cooperation with the Environmental Protection Agency, will sponsor a special training conference on pesticide usage and safety March 7-8 at the Phoenix Hotel, Lexington.

According to program director, Edsel Moore, "We are very anxious to contact all those people in Kentucky who apply pesticides commercially, or who sell, recommend or supervise their use. This conference is designed especially for them."

(Moore is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Moore, of Cliff.)

Invited to participate are all county agricultural agents, custom pesticide applicators (both aerial and ground), pesticide dealers and control consultants, pest control operators, public health officials and representatives of all federal, state and local agencies having pesticide responsibilities and interests.

Topics to be covered include the following: hazards to and protection of individuals who mix and apply pesticides; safe pesticide use on the farm; minimizing fish and wildlife losses from pesticides; herbicides; problems in the disposal of pesticide wastes and empty containers, and the viewpoint and problems of pesticide dealers and retailers.

On UK Dean's List

Making the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture dean's list for the 1971 fall semester from Floyd county was Robert Russell Beverley, son of Mrs. M. M. Beverley, of Prestonsburg. A junior, he made a 3.4 grade point standing.

Nearly one out of every eight students in the UK College of Agriculture qualified for the dean's list by making a 3.4 standing or better out of a possible 4.0 while carrying 12 or more class hours.

PCC Students Receive Grants

G. A. Cowan, business officer at Prestonsburg Community College, announced last week that 40 students have been awarded scholarships for the 1972 spring semester. In order to receive a scholarship, a student must be enrolled fulltime, carrying a minimum of 12 semester hours, and have at least a 3.0 or "B" cumulative grade-point standing.

Students receiving scholarships and the high school which they attended are:

Carolyn Sue Akers, Betsy Layne; Randy Allen, Salyersville; Sandy Boyd, Betsy Layne; Bobby Branham, Betsy Layne; Deborah A. Cesco, Prestonsburg; Vickey S. Chandler, Paintsville; Brent G. Clark, Betsy Layne; Regena A. Cowan, Prestonsburg; Sandra Conn, Springfield, Ohio; James Dinkens, O'Fallon, Ill.; Janie E. Gibson, Maytown; Don H. Goble, Prestonsburg; Thomas W. Green, Salyersville; Barbara S. Hale, Prestonsburg; Rodney Handshoe, Garrett; Cora B. Hobson, McDowell; Jeffery L. Howard, Johns Creek; Shirley A. Hicks, Prestonsburg; Judy C. Hunt, Mullins; Timothy L. Hartnett, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Ralph Jackson, Salyersville; Betty Johnson, Salyersville; Patsy S. Lafferty, Prestonsburg; Bobby G. Lawson, Martin; Paul F. Litz, Prestonsburg; Audrey Miller, Martin; Jean M. Mollet, Paintsville; Rickey E. Music, Johnson Central; William T. Nichols, Johnson Central; Lexie Arlene Preston, Wheelwright; Pamela K. Preston, Salyersville; Malinda Preston, Paintsville; Carlene Robinette, Prestonsburg; Raleigh Shepherd, Salyersville; Carolyn Simpson, Wheelwright; Jimmy A. Soard, Johnson Central; James H. Spencer, Maytown; and Duell L. Sturgill, Johnson Central; Susan Watts, Martin.

The Scholarship Program at the college is supported entirely from funds donated by local civic groups, companies, and individuals. Those who have supported the program this year are: Citizens National Bank, Paintsville, Music-Carter-Hughes Chevrolet-Buick, Inc., Francis Stores, Marvin Music Gulf Dist., U. K. Alumni Association, Floyd County Farm Bureau, First National Bank, Prestonsburg Women's Club, Hall & Clark Insurance Agency; Brown Produce, Frank DeRossett, Big Sandy Insurance Agency, U. S. Shoe Corp., Maytown Woman's Club, Prestonsburg Dairy Queen, Federal Savings & Loan, Paintsville, Hall Brothers Funeral Home, Martin, Compton Adjustment Service, Pikeville; R. V. May Company, Floyd Federal Savings & Loan Association, Piggly Wiggly Super Market, Woodmen of the World; Paintsville Rotary Club, Mrs. George Beddoe, Mike Magura, Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club, Floyd County PTA Council, George E. Evans, Eastern Kentucky Mack, Inc., Terry Elkhorn Mining Co. & John Smallman.

Mr. Cowan also reported that 194 students, which represents 46 percent of the 419 enrolled, have been awarded some form of financial aid, either through the college or from an outside agency for the 1971-'72 academic year. The different types of aid awarded includes: Federally insured student loans, $22,830; scholarships, $11,350; National Defense student loans, $15,775; college work-study program, $27,479; Bureau of Rehabilitation, $9,840; WIN Program and other, $3,805; educational opportunity grant, $7,350. The total of $98,429 is an increase of $16,557 over the 1970-'71 academic year.

Veterans Administration cosponsorship of G. I. Bill on-the-job training with private, state, Federal and municipal employers recently resulted in 8,000 new programs and 12,000 new "job slots."

Governor's Consumer Bills Pass House

Frankfort, Ky.—Three additional bills in Gov. Wendell H. Ford's consumer-protection legislative package have passed the House and been sent to the Senate for final approval.

The lead bill in the package, a consumer fraud law, already has passed the Senate and is being considered in the House.

The three House bills are:
HB 176, which would give buyers up to three days to cancel any contract for unsolicited goods signed in their home.

HB 175, which would give consumers up to three months to complain of faulty merchandise in cases in which their credit agreement with the store was bought up by a finance company. The faulty merchandise then could be used as a defense for holding up payment on the goods.

HB 174, which would permit any credit payment that is more than twice as large as the average of the previous payments to be refinanced at the original interest rate.

"I'll see to it that your building costs stay within your budget."

Hugh Odom, manager

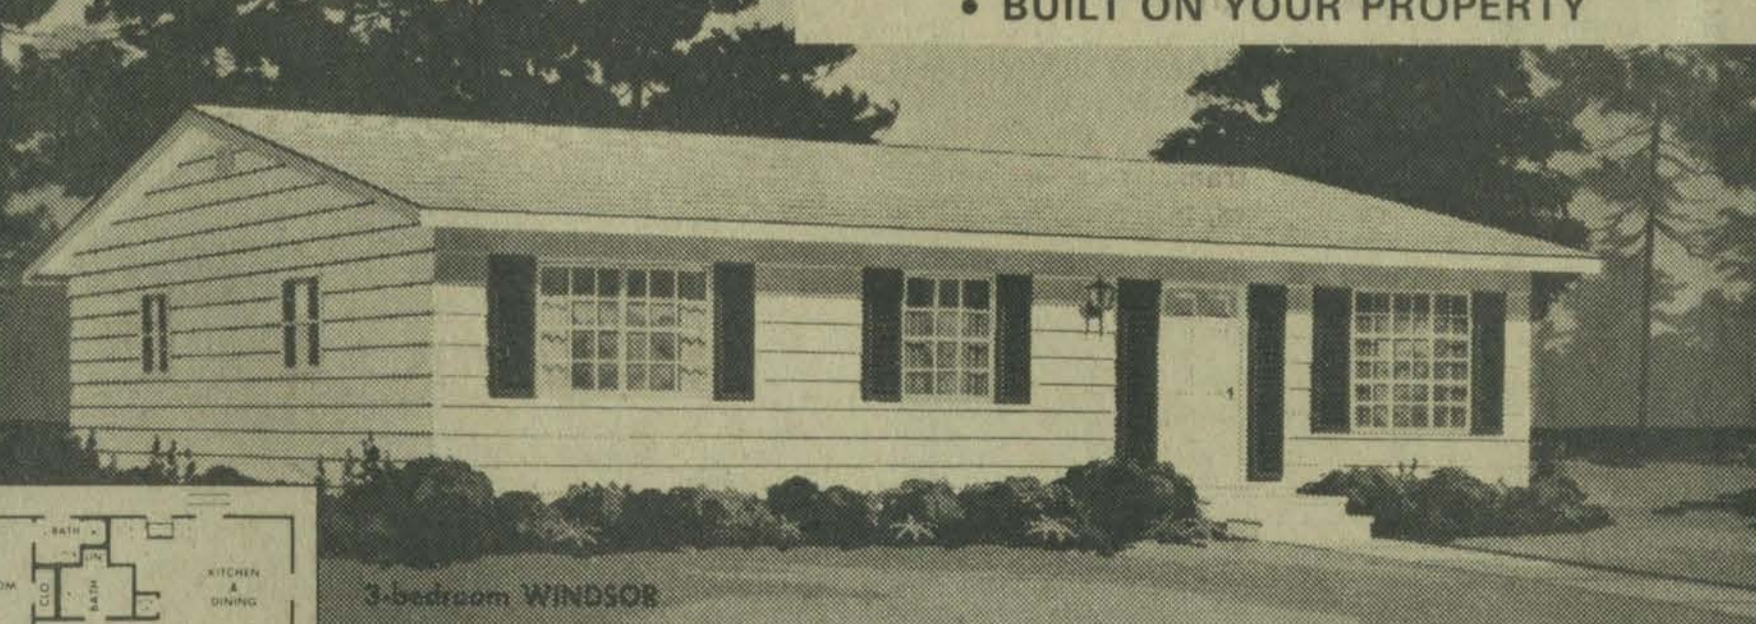

Yes, it is possible...to build on your property now and keep your costs low. Here's how...

Pictured here is Hugh Odom, manager, Tallahassee, Florida. But Hugh is not unlike any other manager of Jim Walter Homes. Each one was selected because he is friendly...easy to talk to...and he has been trained...trained to work with you, his customer...to work for you, to see to it that your building costs don't run wild, that they can be budgeted. He'll show you how you can help to build your new home...to do some of the inside work yourself, to save money. How much? That depends on you. How much can you do? How much money would you like to cut from the cost of your new home? We'll stop building at almost any stage of inside completion. You tell us when, then you take over. Do the plumbing, the wiring or just the inside painting. Whatever you do, no matter how much or how little, will save you money.

INSTANT MORTGAGE FINANCING
to qualified property owners

We'll use exceptionally high quality, low maintenance, building materials. And you can count on your Jim Walter manager to make a series of prescribed inspections to see to it that you do get what you pay for...that you get your money's worth in a quality built home. Complete details will cost you nothing. So let's get together and talk about building your new home on your property now.

Pig Project To Help Low-Income Families

A pig feeder project having the potential of helping 72 low-income families in the first year of operation and possibly doubling each year thereafter was approved by OEO December 13, 1971.

The basic thrust of this project is to provide food and income, provide an opportunity to succeed with a family project, and encourage participation in community development.

One gilt will be given to each of four low-income families in each of the following counties: Floyd, Johnson, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin and Pike. These families will be chosen on the basis of income and need from referrals made by "grass roots" target groups by Economic Development specialists and community organizers.

The recipient would be charged with the responsibility of providing adequate housing and dietary care for the animal. After the first farrowing, two gilts will be returned to the Big Sandy Area Community Action Program, Inc. for placement with other low-income families. One gilt will be returned to BSCAP out of the second and third litters. After a total of four are returned to BSCAP in the prescribed manner, BSCAP will relinquish claim to the original sow and litters thereafter.

A portion of the feed and supplies for the participants in this project will be provided until the first litter is weaned at 5-8 weeks old.

Interested applicants for this project should attend their nearest Community Action Club and apply through their community organizer. A starting date will soon be announced.

Interested persons may apply at the county Community Action Office. In this county the office is located on the second floor of the courthouse here.

In Memory

One year ago, Feb. 6, our loving father and husband, Harmon Snyder, was called home to be with the Lord. Our hearts are lonely as we go about trying to do as he would have us do.

We (Randy, Judy and I) are not angry with anyone, and least of all, God. Our attitude is based on our concept of God as a personal, all-wise, ever-present comforting and sustaining being. Having believed in this truth for most of our lives, we were better fortified to accept this grim prospect without anger and with an attitude of profound trust in God.

Life itself is the greatest miracle. Human existence for just one day or one hour is something miraculous, and the Christian faith gives this assurance of eternal, never-ending life. Each minute that ticks by makes me realize that all time is under the administration of God.

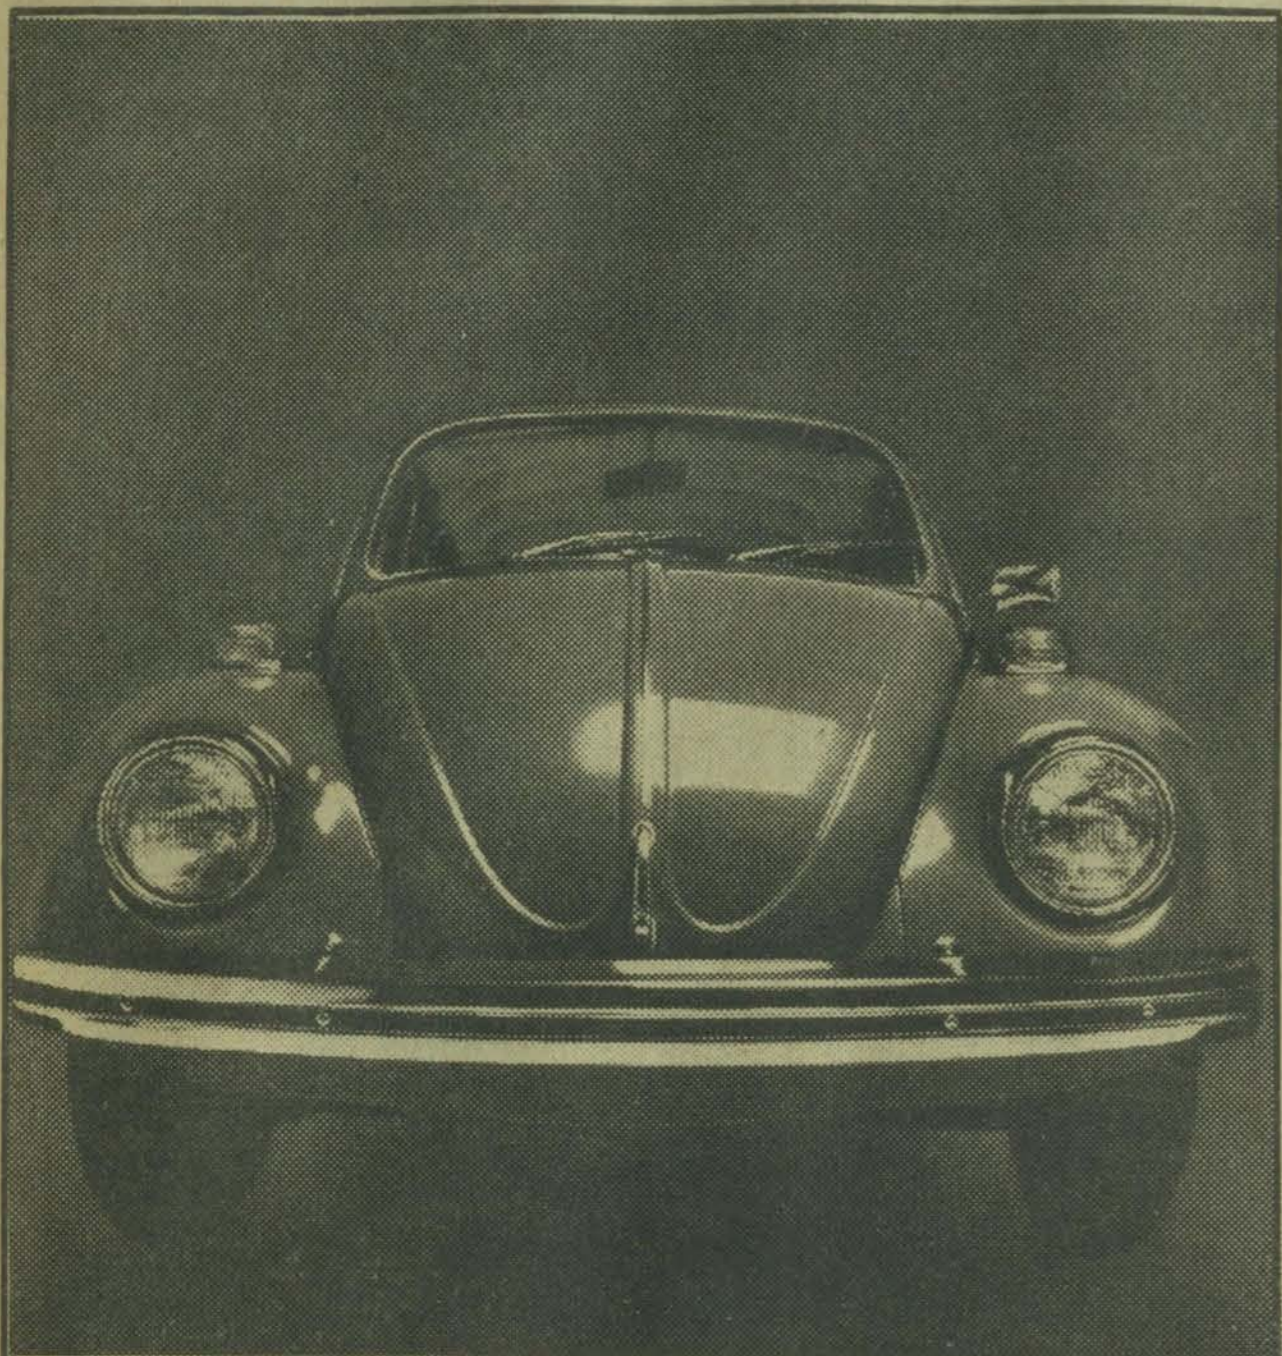

The following poem gives us comfort as to how He cares for His own.

GOD'S CARE

When sorrow comes
Our Father watches o'er us:
He sends His strength
To lift the heavy load.
He sends His light
To guide us through the shadows;
He walks beside us
On Life's lonely road.
Christ understands
The burden we must carry,
Because the one
He bore was heavy, too.
As followers,
We know His boundless mercy
Will overshadow us
In all we do.

ZETTIE, RANDY,
ALAN AND JUDY ANN

24 years in the making.

We'd like to thank the makers of the other new economy cars for giving us such a nice head start.

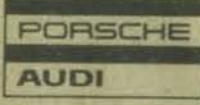

It gave us time to develop an inspection system so ridiculously scrupulous that it expects every VW to pass 16,000 examinations.

It allowed us to find out (at a reasonably scientific pace) how we could double our horsepower without doubling the cost of your horsepower. (The VW still gets about 26 miles to the gallon and requests only a smidgen of oil.)

It permitted us to work on things that didn't even have to do with the actual making of the car. Medi-car, the Volkswagen Diagnosis System, for example. Electronic equipment that can spot trouble in a car before it gets to be trouble. When you buy a new VW, you get 4 free Medi-car checkups.

Of course, it took great fortitude to resist squandering our time on phony styling improvements.

The beetle looks just as good (or bad) as it did 24 years ago.

Congratulations. You just saved $5 by doing your own income tax. And all it cost you was three long, sleepless nights.

And a slight case of heartburn.

If you had gone to H & R Block, on the other hand, you could have relaxed while someone else figured out your return. Quickly and confidentially. Probably unlike any way you've ever done it before.

And, when you figure your own, you may be entitled to deductions you're not taking and taking deductions you're not entitled to. For instance, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? Or, that if your income increased over the last few years, you may save tax dollars by "income averaging?" And even if you did, would you know how to go about "income averaging" to begin with? Probably not. And there's no reason why you should. After all, you're an amateur when it comes to doing income tax.

You see, when it comes to income taxes, amateurs should depend on H & R Block. We have over 6,000 conveniently located offices manned by thousands of specially trained personnel. They're warm and friendly people who are anxious to help you. They'll sit you down over a free cup of coffee and show you some things about your income tax that you might never have known existed.

Furthermore, if your return is audited we will accompany you, at no extra cost, to the Internal Revenue Service and explain how your return was prepared, even though we will not act as your legal representative.

This means that H & R Block is ready to offer you year 'round tax service for just one low fee a year, with no extra charge for audits and estimates.

H & R Block's charges start at $5 and the average cost was under $12.50 for the 7 million families we served last year.

Which is somewhat less than what you paid.

Not to mention the fact that aggravation isn't tax deductible.

And we are.

Price Promoted

Phillip R. Price, son of Mrs. Lillia Mae Price, of David, was recently promoted within the U. S. Treasury Department's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms division. Mr. Price, assumed duties as special investigator in charge of the division's Cincinnati office on January 24. He had been assigned as an ATF investigator in Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Mr. Price is a 1956 graduate of Prestonsburg high school. Upon graduation he entered military service, serving four years with the U. S. Air Force. Shortly after being discharged in 1960, he became a Kentucky State Police trooper, first assigned to the Morehead Post and later to the Pikeville Post. He resigned in 1967 and accepted employment as a criminal investigator for the Alcohol, Tobacco & Firearms Division. He was assigned to the division's Louisville office for two years. He was then transferred to Fort Wayne, and has resided there for the past three years.

Mr. Price's wife, Roxann, and children, Lori and Adam, hope to join him soon at his new assignment. They plan to make their home in northern Kentucky.

COMPLETES BASIC

San Antonio—Airman Benny D. Bryant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Bryant of Melvin, Ky., has completed his U. S. Air Force basic training at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex. He is remaining at Lackland for training in the security police field. Airman Bryant, a 1971 graduate of Wheelwright (Ky.) high school, attended Alice Lloyd College, Pippa Passes, Ky.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends, neighbors, and relatives for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the recent illness and at the passing of C. D. Reed. To each one who sent flowers and food, we express our deep gratitude, also to Dr. Lowell Martin, the Sisters, and staff of Our Lady of the Way Hospital. Sincere appreciation to Dr. R. Comfort for his kind words, and to the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its efficient service.

Ginger Predicts Massive Change In State School Support System

State School Supt. Dr. Lyman V. Ginger says Kentucky should prepare "for a complete restructuring in two years" of its school tax system.

Dr. Ginger said in a television interview the change may be necessary because of recent court decisions in several states blasting the property-tax method of financing public schools.

"My belief is that we have outgrown the property tax as a source of much support for schools at the local level," Ginger said. "We should wait for a massive change in Kentucky. I think it's coming."

The main court objection to property-tax financing is that it discriminates against a state's poor districts and deprives their residents of an equal educational opportunity, compared with richer areas of the state.

A measure calling for a study of the court decisions' impact on Kentucky property taxes already has passed the state Senate and now is being considered in the House.

Since at least one court ruling on the problem probably will be considered by the Supreme Court, Dr. Ginger said no permanent solution should be sought now.

He said Kentucky's stance should not be "wait and see" as much as "be prepared." Meanwhile, Ginger said he would support legislation to raise local property tax ceilings, "provided everyone understands it's temporary."

FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT VS. NOTICE OF SALE CR8491

GLENN ALEN, d-b-a GLENN ALEN AUTO SALES, . . . . . PI.

GEORGE GREY, . . . . . Def.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the December 17 term, 1971 in the above-styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Ky., to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 18th day of February, 1972 at 10 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, upon a credit of six months, the following described property to-wit:

A certain tract or parcel of land lying in Floyd County, Kentucky, on the left hand fork of Bull Creek, on Lafferty Branch thereof, beginning at the main branch near the corner of the old shop house seat; thence running east to Jack Gray's line; thence running southwest with Jack Gray's line to the branch; thence running with the branch to the forks of the branch; thence running with the main branch to the beginning, and being the same tract of land acquired by the defendant by deed of the 16th day of February, 1938, from Alice Lafferty and M. D. Lafferty, which is of record in deed book 115, page 193, Floyd County Court Clerk's Office.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $803.00 with interest thereon at 6 per cent annually from the 7th day of September 1971 until satisfied and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 28 day of January 1972.

A Love Story That Began 75 Years Ago

West Liberty, Ky.—They don't exchange valentines any more, for as she said, "We quit that when we got so we couldn't see too good."

But even without the paper cupids, hearts and lace, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Henry, of Morgan county, continue to live a love story that began almost 75 years ago.

The couple sat on a sofa in their comfortable home, about 10 miles east of West Liberty. He placed his arm around her shoulder and she sat close so they could clasp hands.

He said, "I'll say I remember the first time I ever saw her. It was at church. I've loved her ever since. Her hair was black as a crow's wing. She was always pretty. I turned to a buddy with me and told him some day that girl was going to be my wife."

She smiled and said, "He was just out of the army—hair black as coal and those brass buttons on that blue uniform. Was he good looking!"

Joseph Gordon Henry will be 99, Feb. 26. Frances Yocum Henry will be 89, May 20. They will mark their 72nd wedding anniversary March 6.

Miss Karen Tam, photographer, and I had driven to the Henry home on a wet day in January. Inside the house the couple shares with a son Winfred, there was that particular aura of hill hospitality.

Within seconds it was apparent that a sense of humor was a trait that helped in creating their happy home. This camaraderie can be categorized as intellectual hill rapport or as mountain wit. It is the same innate quality that helped pioneers crack a wilderness—that went with a young mountaineer when he traveled west.

The couple spoke of their early years as though they had just happened. The son went into the next room and returned with a photo of his father as a soldier during the Spanish-American War.

Without a pause the old soldier began giving his army rank: "Private Joseph Gordon Henry, Company F, Eighth Infantry, United States Army, serial number 20352907, age 21 years and two months, enlisted April 24, 1895, in Cincinnati, served three years lacking a day, honorably discharged, character excellent."

That long ago April he had walked many miles to a train station to get to Cincinnati. "But walkin' was easy," he remembered. "Back when I was 16 I walked from Prestonsburg on Big Sandy to West Liberty in one day. They kept us 10 days in Cincinnati—run us out on a switch."

LOVE STORY—"They've been happy years," is quite a statement for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Henry of Cottle in Morgan County. The Henry's, ages 98 and 88 respectively, will celebrate their 72nd wedding anniversary March 6. During army service at Fort D.A. Russell, three miles from Cheyenne, Wyo. (1895-98), Henry because acquainted with Wild Bill Hickok and witnessed skirmishes with the Arapahoe Indians. (Karen Tam Photo)

"I remember Capt. W. L. Pitcher," he said. "He was a soldier from the ground up, over six feet and a little over 200 pounds. In Cincinnati they sized me up as a single man and asked me where I wanted to be sent to train. I told this fellow to send me as far as the road was cut out. They sent me to Fort D. A. Russell, three miles from Cheyenne—too far from Cuba to get in a fight."

The Kentuckian met William Cody and Bill Hickok. "Don't remember too much about Buffalo Bill, but me and Wild Bill Hitchcock hit it right off." Though Co. F was too far from Cuba to "get in a fight," it did skirmish with the Arapahoes.

"About 3000 of the 'rappyhoo' tribe surprised our fort once," he said, "but when they saw we had two Gatlin' guns mounted they left in a hurry."

"Another time they were ready to attack us, but we got word to a Negro regiment at Jackson Hole. When the Indians saw that regiment ride up, each one on a big black horse, they lit out."

The Battleship Maine was blown up Feb. 15, 1898. On April 21 the U. S. Congress recognized that a condition of war existed with Spain, and on April 24, Spain herself declared war. But the previous day Kentuckian Joseph Henry had been mustered out and was on his way to the hills and the little country church where he looked across the aisle and saw black-haired Frances Yocum.

They waited for her to be almost 17 before they were married March 6, 1900 and began a new life in the same log house on Yocum Branch where she was born and reared.

In 1949 they moved to their present home at Cottle. They lost a son Walter in Italy Feb. 1, 1944, during World War II. Their other children are the son who lives with them—"We couldn't manage without him," they said almost in unison—Jim of Twin Lakes, Mich.; Wade of Indianapolis; and White Henry and Mrs. Lennie Thornberry, both of Morgan County. They have 10 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

The visit with the Henry's was an experience. Their genuine devotion and happiness is the last paragraph in old love stories—stories that end with "and they lived happily ever after."
