

Landowner Protection Aim of Bill Cornett Says Bill Would Curb Right To Destroy Land

State Senator John Chris Cornett (D-Mallie, Ky.) last week introduced in the Kentucky Senate a bill which, in effect, would do by law what the Court of Appeals has failed to do toward protecting the rights of landowners against provisions of the Broad-Form deed.

"I'm trying," Senator Cornett, a former Commonwealth's Attorney and Circuit Judge, said, "to help some courts decide that the right to use property doesn't give you the right to destroy that property."

1. Make mine operators or mineral rights holders liable to surface owners for damages caused by failure to properly reclaim the land.

2. Ban all strip and Auger-mining on slopes of more than 14 degrees (including virtually all Eastern Kentucky coal) without the written consent of the surface owner.

Senate Bill 201 would enact what Cornett called his "theory of law," evolved from years on a mountain circuit bench—a theory that he said the Court of Appeals first accepted and later rejected in regard to cornett's judicial ruling in a strip-mine suit.

Yet the Appeals Court has embraced that same theory in regard to Cornett's decision in an oil well case, the newly elected senator said.

A section of SB 201 "actually strikes down certain rulings that have been made on the broad-form deed," and makes the holder of the mineral-rights deed or coal operator liable to the surface owner in damages caused by failure to reclaim land properly, Cornett said.

Cornett later said his bill, if it becomes law, will "hit contra to these court decisions (freeing strip-miners from liability for surface damage) . . . and will supersede the court rulings. . . although technically, legislation can't be said to overturn court decisions."

In any case, the courts would have "the last say, if someone should want to test the constitutionality of the bill. . . but I don't think it's unconstitutional," said Cornett, who was a judge for 19 years.

"I don't want to be stubborn about it. But I don't think one party (to a contract) has the right to destroy another party's property in the use of it," Cornett said.

Cornett, who represents Floyd, Knott, Perry and Martin counties, said that many of the surface-mine operators in his district already are making payments to landowners.

An attorney for one company said that firm was paying surface owners damages amounting to 15 cents for each ton of coal mined, Cornett said.

Sen. Lacey Smith, D-Louisville, a co-sponsor of the bill, said it would bring Kentucky law in line with court decisions in other states.

Dr. Mahaffy Joins Regional Program

Richard T. Stai, executive director of Mountain Mental Health Services, announced last week the appointment of Dr. John H. Mahaffy as a staff member to the regional program.

Dr. Mahaffy is a child psychiatrist and was graduate in 1947 from the medical school at the University of Minnesota. Since that time, he has been division psychiatrist, 82nd Airborne Division, acting director of the Wilder Child Guidance Clinic in St. Paul, Minnesota, director of the Vanderburgh Child Guidance Clinic in Evansville, Indiana, director of the Colorado Springs Child Guidance Clinic and director of Pikes Peak Mental Health Center, Colorado Springs, Colorado as well as consultant to a number of other institutions. His most recent appointment has been clinical director, Division of Children and Youth Comprehensive Care Center, Lexington, as well as assistant clinical professor of psychiatry, University of Kentucky Medical School.

Dorsey Slayer Gets Two Life Sentences

When a Daviess county jury last Wednesday convicted the slayer of young Edwin Cochrane Dorsey, former Prestonsburg resident, it drew the line at the death penalty but it decreed for the defendant two life terms, one without parole, for murder and rape, and 39 years' imprisonment for two lesser offenses.

The defendant, Allen Land, 23, of Owensboro, entered a plea of guilty, but in his final argument his counsel acknowledged Land's Quilt. The attorney reminded the jury that a Daviess county jury last imposed the death penalty 36 years ago.

Commonwealth's Attorney William Gant asked the death penalty for the slaying of the 19-year-old Dorsey, who was a student at Kentucky Wesleyan College, Owensboro, at the time of his slaying last Sept. 4. The victim was the son of the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, a former pastor of the First United Methodist Church here.

A girl-companion of young Dorsey was raped and wounded by Land after the slaying of Dorsey.

The jury recommended life imprisonment of Land for the murder, life imprisonment without parole on two charges of rape, 21 years on two counts of shooting and wounding and 18 years for armed robbery.

No emotion was visible on Land's face as the judge read the verdict. Land's wife became hysterical and was taken from the courtroom. Dorsey's parents and the girl companion of Dorsey on the night of the murder also were in the courtroom when the verdict was read.

Testimony in the trial lasted only one day. The jury returned the verdict after deliberating two hours.

Police testified that Land forced the young couple into a car at gunpoint, and forced them to drive into the country, where he ordered Dorsey out of the car. They said Land shot Dorsey at pointblank range. After raping the young woman, he fired at her twice, wounding her, they testified.

Officers described how the girl escaped and tried unsuccessfully to arouse the occupants of two homes. She finally succeeded at a third home, where she called her parents and the police.

Testimony described how the girl, her head bandaged, went with authorities to locate Dorsey's body, and how she later identified Land in a confrontation at the Owensboro-Daviess County Hospital, where she was undergoing treatment.

Akers Bid Low On School Job At Prater Cr.

Akers & Akers, Dana contractors, are the apparent low bidders on construction and equipping of a lunchroom for the Prater elementary school, County Supt. Charles Clark said Tuesday.

The firm had the lowest of three bids offered. Its bid was $23,495, more than $9,000 below that of the next low bidder, Bradley & Powers.

The Floyd County Board of Education had authorized Superintendent Clark and George Lee Shannon, architect, to open the bids and award the contract, subject to approval by the board.

The work will involve construction of an addition to the school which will serve as a kitchen and the installation of lunchroom equipment in an unused classroom. Equipment is to be furnished by the contractor.

PTA To Sponsor '72 Regatta Scheduled at Dewey Lake

One of three events which the Prestonsburg elementary Parent-Teacher Association has voted to sponsor this year is the second annual Dewey Lake boat regatta, which will be held June 24 and 25. The first regatta staged there last year

This Town . . . That World

Once upon a time there was, or may have been, a newspaper editor who decided he would make nobody angry for one week in his life. So he printed nothing. Sent out eight blank pages of newspaper. Then the poor goof did catch merry what-for. . . I decided, some years ago, that this is one business you can win at for losing.

NO EXCUSE

This fellow Moore who is mentioned herein rather frequently made it to Sunday School last Sunday for the first time in several weeks, and immediately some of the regulars hopped him about his errancy. He apologized, admitted he had no excuses to offer, but added that he had been associating with me and had, consequently, gone into the old backsliding routine. Most of those present accepted it, or, fearing to use up all the time in argument, said nothing. All except "Snow" White, who rose to remark that he had always felt that a fellow had to go up a notch before he could slide back.

HOW IT DOESN'T WORK

We wouldn't knock TV advertising for the world, but we would for The Floyd County Times. Anyway, a Lexington television station, the KPA Bulletin reports, has a gimmick that seems to be backfiring. They have a jackpot which they give to the viewer who can, when called, tell them what the last commercial was all about. If the viewer doesn't know, $5 is added to the pot for the next call.

The last report received on this project said they were making about 40 calls before anybody could remember that commercial.

Dana Man Dies Of Mine Hurts

Jonathan Boyd, 32, of Dana, was fatally crushed between two coal scoops inside the No. 3 mine of the Meade Coal Company at Honaker last Friday and died two hours after reaching the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville.

The victim was a son of Mrs. Sula Watson Boyd, of Dana, and the late Alex Boyd. Survivors, in addition to his mother, are his wife, Mrs. Effie Boyd, and one son, John, of Dana; three brothers and two sisters, William Green, Jackie and Dillard Boyd, all of Dana, Mrs. Arizona McKinney, of Betsy Layne, and Miss Dellavene Boyd, of Dana.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at 10 a.m. from Little Salem Regular Baptist Church at Dana, ministers of that church officiating, and burial was made in the Akers cemetery there under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Two May Escape Rum Prosecution On Search Fault

Two men arrested Saturday by Deputy Sheriffs Ray Adkins and Dester Hamilton on the charge of possessing intoxicants for the purpose of sale may escape prosecution because the search warrants which the officers held did not authorize search of their premises.

One search warrant called for the search of the premises of Hershel Shepherd on Branham's Creek. Henry Shepherd was arrested, and 57 cans of beer were confiscated. The second writ directed the search of the property of James McKinney, but Don McKinney was brought to jail. Seventy cans of beer and eight half-pints of whiskey were taken from him, the officers reported.

Also arrested Saturday on a possession charge was Clifford Jarrell, of Prater Creek, from whose premises three cans of beer were taken. The raiding party was composed of Sheriff Frank Leslie, Deputy Sheriffs Rackley, Hamilton and Adkins.

State Troopers Dennis Williamson and Leeman Bevins jailed William E. See, Jr. Friday on a charge of selling intoxicants, and Trooper Cantrell booked Fred Johnson (See Story 4, Back Page, Sec. 1)

Six Suffer Burns In Truck Fire Here

A Pike county man and his family of five narrowly escaped serious injury here Saturday night when an explosion took place inside the truck in which they were driving.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cochran, of Route 4, Pikeville, and their four children were hospitalized here with first-degree burns but were released Monday. Their son, Larry, 11, and daughter, Vicki, 8, were more extensively burned. Susan Reba, their 14-month-old baby, escaped with minor burns.

The Cochrans had stopped at the Palmer Patton Service Station, had bought $1.50 worth of gasoline and had driven almost onto US 23 when the explosion came. Cause of the fire was not established. Shortly before their arrival at the service station, they had been stopped by a state trooper and cited for driving with defective lights.

FISH & GAME CLUB DEMANDS HALT OF STREAM POLLUTION IN COUNTY; HITS BEAVER CREEK COAL WASHING

The Floyd County Fish and Game Club at its Feb. 7 meeting adopted resolutions condemning pollution of Floyd county streams and demanding that illegal coal washing operations be suspended.

The resolution, adopted by unanimous vote, said, in part:

"The Floyd County Fish and Game Club . . . does hereby resolve to use the resources of the Club and the membership to strive for a complete cessation of pollution of the waters of Floyd county." Alleging that "certain coal operators in Floyd county and adjoining Knott county have shown a disregard for the people and the aquatic life of the streams. . .", the club resolved to participate and cooperate with local, state and federal officials to improve and preserve the waters and demanded that the "illegal coal washing" operations be suspended and petitioned authorities to enforce the water pollution laws of the state.

Action of the club was precipitated by the recent blackening of Right Beaver Creek as a result of upstream coal washings.

Rogers, Gene Greer, Dr. Mary Fox, Richard Reeher, and James Bailey, all of Pikeville, also are serving on the committee. Other members of the committee include Jack I. Branham, Betsy Layne, Jack Collier, Pound, Va., Charles Wells, Paintsville, and Dr. George Archer, Prestonsburg.

The Cub Scouting committee will be chaired by Raymond Hammond, manager of the Local Finance Company, Pikeville. Robert L. Ross and James R. Goss, both of Pikeville, Arthur Stiltner, Grundy, Va., William L. Skeen, Clintwood, Va., and H. C. Barnett, Hazard, are also members of the committee.

Jack Blankenship, personnel manager, Kentucky Power Company, Hazard, was named chairman of the Boy Scouting committee. Other members of this committee include: Chester H. Wolfe, Burdine, Dr. Paul L. Odum, Elkhorn City, Donald Combs, Joe Walters, and Burlin Coleman, all of Pikeville, Charles Simpson and Paul E. Davidson, both of Hazard, Paul W. Skeen and John N. Smith, both of Clintwood, Va., and Robert Brown, Grundy, Virginia.

Tilden Deskins, superintendent of Pike county schools, will serve as Exploring chairman for the council. Also serving as members of this committee are Nelson Strang and Arthur M. Whitt, both of Big Stone Gap, Paul Davis, Grundy, V. H. Tomlison, Betsy Layne, Jim Buckner, Hazard, and Jack Clevinger and Don Batten, both of Pikeville.

Each committee is responsible for the promotion of the Scouting program in its particular area of operation. The camping and activities committee, among other things, manages the operation of Camp Shawnee, which is located on Dewey Lake. The Cub Scouting, Boy Scouting, and Exploring committees are responsible for the organization of new Scouting units, training of leaders, and the successful operation of the units, Bane said.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown us upon the recent passing of our mother, Gussie Osborne. To each one who sent flowers and food we express our deep gratitude; also to Dr. George Archer and to Dr. Jerick and the Prestonsburg General hospital nurses our sincere appreciation goes to these fine doctors; also to the Rev. Clifford Austin for his kind words and to the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its efficient service. We feel that our loss is heaven's gain.

What Are They Demonstrating?

The Times has serious doubts about the value of many of these demonstrations which are staged in opposition to stripmining and its damage to the environment.

We fail to see, for instance, any beneficial effect from an announcement such as was made last week by William Howard Cohen, poet-conservationist, threatening to lead students and others from this part of Kentucky in blocking the entrance to the Strip Mine and Reclamation Division offices in Frankfort, unless surface mining permits in the Carr Creek, Buckhorn and Mammoth Cave areas were cancelled by Wednesday of this week.

It is true that something needs to be done, now, to protect the environment. But how much does the spectacle of a group of people blocking a public building and being dragged away, as they surely will be, help the cause?

We are deeply concerned about a situation that, if it is permitted to continue, will one day be recalled as Kentucky's one great disgrace. But, concerned as we are, spectacles such as Mr. Cohen proposes has the effect of turning us off, just a bit. And we wonder if action of this sort may not dampen the ardor of many legislators and others who are truly sympathetic to the fight against destruction of the land and water resources of the state.

Opposes Amnesty For Deserters

Why not ask the mothers of America who lost sons in its defense down through the years if they think the Army deserters would be desirable citizens and should be granted amnesty? I am one of those mothers, and I was very proud of my son. I wonder what would happen to the already heart-broken families if they should be faced with a deserter who had been allowed to come back and enjoy the privileges their sons had died for?

My husband served in World War I. My son and both sons-in-law served in World War II. My grandson served in the Vietnam War, and I would certainly hate to see some deserter come back to this nation and take a job that some deserving young man should have.

How long could we keep an Army for the defense of America if all they have to do is cross over the line to some neutral country until the strife is over and then come back?

I understand some of our Senators and candidates for President are in favor of amnesty. I ask every mother to be sure before she votes to investigate and vote against them. We have boys now who have served their time and were lucky enough to get back but cannot get a job so they can feed their families.

It would seem that America is so busy taking care of other countries' affairs that they cannot put their own house in order. Why?

Kentucky, History or Myth?

Since very early times Kentucky has been double: a very obvious place and at the same time a myth. It would take some draft anatomical surgery to separate the actual from the imagined. Some of this double existence is to be praised; some is to be deplored. Be it said truly, by one who has spent his eight decades and more in the state, the average Kentuckian, the average Kentucky neighborhood, the average Kentucky philosophy—these have never been properly presented. Long before Hollywood and its sensationalism, things about Kentucky got blown up, in America and abroad. Daniel Boone became almost as unnatural as his younger contemporary in Tennessee, Davy Crockett. But, whereas Boone was glorified and made a typical epic hero, Crockett was marked down, until he lives largely as a coon hunter and back-country yarn-spinner and braggart. Neither picture is just; a study of the lives of the two makes them far more real than the enlarged heroes they have become in literature. Similarly, the spectacular, the unusual, the far-from-ordinary phases of our Kentucky life have received wide acclaim, and thus they have added to the glamorous Kentucky of fiction, whether it is about palatial homes in the Bluegrass, Kentucky feuds, steamboat heroes, or owners of fast horses. Another picture of Kentucky has developed in the big factory cities of the north, a picture that is as extreme and Hollywoodish as any of the previous conceptions; the thousands of Kentuckians who have sought work in the northern cities are often lumped into one type of humanity, a pretty sorry type at that. Years ago, while visiting my brother-in-law in Akron, Ohio, I was introduced to a prominent Westinghouse employee. His greeting was, when he was told I was from Kentucky: "I've never seen any Kentuckian who wasn't a damned fool"; and he didn't, like the characters in THE VIRGINIAN, "smile when he said that."

The very effort to find a "typical" person for an area as large as a state with as many backgrounds as ours is in itself a folkish act. Imagine the futility of it all! Here we have hosts of people of every imaginable background; like Mark Twain, who said he had traveled widely but had never found any new types of people, that is, people different from the many types he knew along the Mississippi River, an honest historian or critic would have to admit that "Kentuckian" does not designate any very specific type. Just why should any one want to find a typical person, anyway? Why not allow every man jack to have his own ways, so long as they do not infringe too much on the queer ways of too many of his neighbors?

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.

Though I have not traveled very extensively as compared with some of my neighbors, who can casually drop names of places in remote corners of the world, I have seen some portions of the areas that we designate, somewhat loosely, as the linguistic and historical mother-areas of the whole country. And, to my great surprise, in my early ventures away from Fidelity or Kentucky itself, I rarely found a new type, any more than Mark Twain found on his world journeys. If we had a queer fellow at Fidelity, you had his very image at Turkey Creek or Rabbit Ridge or Twin Branch. And, though sometimes outward appearances seemed different, your solid citizen of the remotest hollow or the most modern city could, with a few touches of a make-up man, fit into the country-store at Fidelity or could walk into a room of big business men without creating a sensation at either place. And, I am sure, our folk heroes, even the most picturesque ones, were basically very much like those of other states and even other countries. Even our very distinctive Southern Colonel, whom we regard as indigenous to America, is merely a transplanted Sir Roger de Coverley, and our Bad Man—Jesse James, John Dillinger, and the others—is likewise just another Dick Turpin or, for that matter, Captain Kidd.

Flu Widespread, But Not Epidemic

By SHANNA COLUMBUS

Frankfort, Ky.—If you're like the majority of Kentuckians, you've probably had several relatives, friends and neighbors coming down with the flu or some anonymous "bug" producing fever, chills, sore throats, aches and pains.

And more than likely you've heard constant murmurings that this is going to be a big year for the flu, especially the Hong Kong variety.

According to Dr. C. Hernandez, director of the State Health Department's Division of Epidemiology, the rumors may turn out to be more fact than fiction.

"Based on the current pattern of cases of influenza reported to the department each week, we are anticipating an unusual amount of flu activity in the state," Dr. Hernandez said.

"So far, there have only been regional outbreaks in the state, but if these continue, we'll probably be getting as many cases of influenza as we did three years ago when we had an epidemic."

Weekly records kept by the division show a cumulative total of 12,100 cases of flu reported across the state through the fourth week of the 1971-72 epidemiological year

(based on weeks of the year when a disease is most likely to be predominant).

This figure compares with reported cumulative totals of: 2640 cases for the fourth week in 1970-71, 4061 cases in 1969-70 and 24,419 cases in 1968-69, the last year for a flu epidemic.

"There have been outbreaks of flu—the Hong Kong influenza virus—in certain parts of the United States—Connecticut, Massachusetts and New York for instance," Dr. Hernandez said.

"Likewise, there have been isolated outbreaks of flu in Kentucky, in the western part of the state, Louisville and Jefferson County.

"But as yet a statewide flu epidemic doesn't exist," he emphasized.

Hernandez also reported that the organism has been isolated as type A, Asian Influenza—the Hong Kong type.

Questioned as to measures taken by the epidemiology division when an epidemic threatens, Dr. Hernandez explained that division's goals are two-fold: to identify the existence of an epidemic and the organism producing one.

"We utilize the local health departments located in each of Kentucky's 120 counties in doing so," he continued. "Private physicians are required by law to relate cases of communicable diseases to our local health departments on a weekly basis.

He said this record is kept along with a general description of the individuals catching the disease—their age, sex and occupation—to see if the disease is particularly contagious to a certain group of people.

These figures form the basis for monitoring the status of an epidemic, such as influenza. There were 8433 cases of flu reported for the week of Jan. 24-28 alone. Figures for the same week last year revealed 54 cases, with 1200 cases in 1969-70 and 4900 cases in the 1968-69 epidemic years.

"Although knowledge of whether or not a disease is in the epidemic stages is not particularly beneficial to the individual, it is of great help to physicians across the state," Hernandez said.

"By alerting the medical community, individuals with a high risk involved in catching a disease such as influenza—the aged and patients with chronic illnesses—can be vaccinated and the epidemic's mortality rate can be decreased."

Additional, the division is concerned with collecting as many blood samples and throat washings as possible to isolate and identify the virus producing the epidemic.

In many instances members of the epidemiology division travel to communities themselves to collect the samples and save the time involved in freezing and shipping the samples to the Frankfort office for laboratory tests.

Dr. Hernandez noted that 25 blood specimens taken from victims in the Louisville area are presently being examined for virus isolation. Once identified by the division's laboratory technicians, the virus isolations are sent to Atlanta for additional identification.

The medical community then is notified immediately of the report.

Asked for any precautions disease-prone citizens should take to avoid catching the "flu bug," Dr. Hernandez related the same ones he would prescribe should a flu epidemic occur: "Follow the basic rules of hygiene and stay away from large crowds whenever possible.

"When there are a number of people in relatively close quarters, the air can become heavily loaded with virus particles during an epidemic. It is almost impossible to stay out of the path of coughs and sneezes."

The system that moves the Cadillac Eldorado also moves the Audi 100LS. But we had it first.

Virtually every car in the world moves by a system known as rear-wheel drive. Which means the rear wheels push the car.

The Audi (and, of course, the Eldorado) moves by a system known as front-wheel drive. Which means the front wheels pull the car. This gives you two distinct advantages:

One, it lets you corner surer. Even on the meanest, most terrifying curve. And two, it gives you better traction on any kind of surface: rain, snow, mud, even ice.

Besides the Cadillac Eldorado, the Audi has some of the best features of six other great automobiles.

1. The Audi has the same type of steering system as the Ferrari 512 racing car.
2. The Audi has independent front suspension like the Porsche 917 racing car.
3. It's got the same amount of trunk space as the Lincoln Continental.
4. It's got the same headroom and legroom as the Rolls-Royce Silver Shadow.
5. Its interior bears a remarkable resemblance to that of the Mercedes-Benz 280SE.
6. You get the same kind of expert service with an Audi as you do with a Volkswagen. Because a Porsche Audi dealer is part of the VW organization.

Do you really want your brother-in-law to know how much you earned last year?

Of course not. It's nobody's business but your own. However, annually millions of taxpayers bear this kind of personal information to people who really shouldn't know. For what? Just so they can save a few dollars doing their income tax. That's some price to pay. You see, for only a few dollars more than it costs to do it with any amateur who might not know that work clothes in some instances are deductible, or that income averaging might save tax dollars, you can have your tax return done by a specially trained member of the H & R Block team with complete confidentiality. There are thousands of them in over 6,000 conveniently located offices. H & R Block's fees start at $5 and the average cost was under $12.50 for the 7 million families we served last year.

Furthermore, if your return is audited we will accompany you, at no extra cost, to the Internal Revenue Service and explain how your return was prepared, even though we will not act as your legal representative. This means that H & R Block is ready to offer you year 'round tax service for just one low fee a year, with no extra charge for audits and estimates. Yes, we cost a little bit more than your relatives or friends or neighbors but when you think of what we deliver, you can't afford anything less than H & R Block.

Ford Budget To End Food Tax; Othes Up

Gov. Wendell Ford presented a $3.5 billion biennial budget request to the General Assembly last Thursday along with proposals to raise some taxes while "reducing the citizen tax load."

His proposal calls for $1.5 million in spending from the state's general fund which would be $176,000 above the current level, and $525,000 from the road fund, which is $113,000 more than now.

The rest of the money comes from bonds, the federal government and payments to state agencies for tuition or other services.

Changes in tax structure reflected in the budget include removal of the sales tax on groceries effective Oct. 1, raising the gasoline tax by two cents a gallon and setting a five per cent severance tax on coal. The federal deductibility for corporate state income taxes would be removed and the base for the motor vehicle usage tax would be raised from 90 to 100 per cent of retail price to make up for the removal of the 10 per cent federal excise tax.

Stated for increases of about one per cent of general fund revenue each are police and court activities on the one hand and health and welfare on the other. Those increases would be made up by slightly reduced proportional spending on general government and capital construction.

Gov. Ford also said "the crisis long predicted in the road fund is here. It falls my lot to deal with it."

Ford declared he does not think his proposed new budget breaks any of his campaign promises about new or added taxes.

The remark was made during an informal news conference lasting an hour. Ford had pledged to impose a severance tax and to remove the food tax. Both are in the budget, though the effective dates are different.

The other two taxes of note he proposed are a 2-cent additional levy on gasoline and elimination of federal deductibility from corporate income taxes.

Ford earlier anticipated criticism of his gas tax boost plan and kept saying he was referring to the general fund in his no-tax promise, not the road fund which he said is entirely different.

But the corporate income tax is in the general fund and he was asked several times about it.

Ford said he prefers to view the corporate phase as another reform rather than a boost, citing the fact that corporation taxes would be lowered in percentages under his proposal—though not enough to offset the deductibility elimination.

His officials distributed a map of the United States indicating Kentucky's corporate tax rates are in line with neighbors generally or even lower.

Noise Pollution Curbs Are Asked

Rep. Bruce Blythe (R-Louisville) introduced a bill aimed at a less-talked-about environmental problem caused by man-noise pollution.

Blythe said research has linked noise pollution with nervous and mental disorders, heart and internal diseases and even detrimental effects to unborn children.

Blythe's measure would establish noise limits on all transportation vehicles, industrial and construction equipment and power tools such as lawn mowers.

It would establish maximum decibel limits for each category and includes a provision allowing the limits to be lowered gradually to reach a "reasonable level" by 1980.

This bill also would authorize the Department of Public Safety to equip State Police cars with noise monitors to track down noisy cars.

Code of Ethics for Legislators Being Sought in Ky. Senate Bill

Frankfort, Ky.—Sen. Tom Garrett, (D-Paducah), has introduced a bill that would establish a code of ethics for legislators and a five-member Board of Ethics to administer it.

The bill, the first such proposal introduced, at least in several years, is one of several recommended by the Citizens' Committee on the General Assembly and is in line with a general move to upgrade the legislature this session.

It would prohibit legislators from lobbying for compensation, soliciting favors from persons with legislative interest and from other questionable acts.

The board would be composed of five legislators selected by the governor, lieutenant governor and the Speaker of the House. No more than four members would be of the same party and all would serve for two years.

The board would be empowered to inquire into code violations, hold hearings and charge violators. Penalties for code violations would include fines and possible imprisonment.

2 P'BURG POLICEMEN FINISH ECU TRAINING

Two Prestonsburg Policemen are among 31 officers who have completed the 21st basic training course offered at Eastern Kentucky University. They will receive certificates Friday from the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council which sponsors the six-week courses.

The Prestonsburg officers are Darrel Joy Conley and James William Laferty, Jr.

Instructors in the basic courses come from Eastern's School of Law Enforcement, the Council, the FBI, Kentucky State Police, and various state government offices and local police departments.

Sen. Garrett said the bill would "demonstrate that the members of the General Assembly are willing to develop guidelines of integrity and confidence." The measure would "encourage" but not require lawmakers to disclose their finances, in contrast with a House bill, introduced by Louisville Democrat Peter Conn, which would demand such disclosures.

However, Sen. Garrett said the two bills "are not incompatible" and if both passed, the House measure would be applicable.

Announcing the most complete warranty ever put on a used car.

Covers engine, transmission, rear axle, brake system and electrical system for 30 days or 2000 miles. And you get special savings on all parts and labor for the first 24 months.

USED VEHICLE DEALER WARRANTY

No. _____

This Warranty is issued by the undersigned, an authorized Chevrolet Dealer (hereinafter called the Selling Dealer) to:

Name _____ Address _____
City _____ State _____

(hereinafter called the Purchaser) in consideration of the purchase of a used motor vehicle (hereinafter called the Vehicle) described as follows:

Year _____ Make _____ Type _____
Motor No. _____ Serial No. _____ Stock No. _____
Mileage shown on odometer at delivery _____

STATEMENT OF WARRANTY
Subject to the provisions and conditions stated below, in the event of mechanical failure of the Vehicle, the Selling Dealer agrees as follows:
(1) For a period of 30 days, beginning _____, 19____, or 2,000 miles after delivery (whichever occurs first), the Selling Dealer agrees to repair or replace the engine, transmission, rear axle, brake system, or electrical system—without charge—to the extent necessary to keep the Vehicle in serviceable condition under normal use.

PROVISIONS
(a) Mechanical failures resulting from collision, accident, abuse or lack of maintenance, are expressly excluded from the above coverage.
(b) Repairs are to be made in the Selling Dealer's Service facilities.
(c) Such repairs do not qualify under any new vehicle warranty still applicable to the Vehicle.
(2) Upon the expiration of the warranty period specified in (1) above and for a period ending 24 months from the date the warranty period specified in (1) above commenced, the Selling Dealer will allow a discount of _____ off the normal retail charges for parts and labor repair necessary to keep the Vehicle in serviceable condition under normal use.

PROVISIONS
(a) Repairs are to be made in the Service facilities of the Selling Dealer or other participating, franchised Chevrolet Dealer at such Chevrolet Dealer's regular retail price.
(b) Expressly excluded from Warranty coverage are damage from collision, accident or abuse, or normal maintenance services such as lubrication, oil changes, tune-up, etc.
GENERAL CONDITIONS
This Warranty is issued by the Selling Dealer only, and not by the manufacturer of the Vehicle.
This Warranty is expressly in lieu of any other warranties, expressed or implied, including any implied warranty of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose, and any other obligations or liabilities on the Selling Dealer's part, and Selling Dealer neither assumes nor authorizes any other person to assume for it any other liability in connection with the sale of the Vehicle.
This Warranty must be available with the Vehicle at the time of application for any repairs or adjustments, and is not transferable or assignable. (*Not effective as to consumer goods in California or Massachusetts.)

This Warranty is not valid unless signed by the Selling Dealer's authorized department head and by the Purchaser, who is to retain a copy.

In witness of all the above conditions, we have attached our signatures this _____ day of _____, 19____.

Dealer's Name _____ Signature of Department Head _____
City _____ State _____ Signature of Purchaser _____

Many Chevrolet dealers are announcing the most complete warranty ever put on a used car. Count your blessings. First, you're protected where it counts most: on the major mechanical parts of the car you buy. And that lasts a healthy 30 days or 2000 miles, whichever comes first. Second, you get special savings on any parts or labor you need. From the day you buy for 24 months. Third, the special savings are good all across the country at most Chevrolet dealers. Say you're on a vacation trip and find you need service. You just get in touch with a participating Chevrolet dealership. All you do is show an OK warranty identification card you receive when you buy your used car.

Your Chevrolet dealers' new OK warranty. It takes the guess-work out of used car buying.

America's Original Singing Cowboys

The world-famous Tucson (Ariz.) Boys Chorus will appear at the Prestonsburg elementary school at 8 p.m., next Tuesday under auspices of the Eastern Kentucky Concert Series. Their program, which includes choral music, trick roping and campfire songs punctuated by comedy, regaled a capacity Prestonsburg audience five years ago.

REQUEST FOR BIDS

The Big Sandy Regional Crime Council, representing Pike, Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin and Martin Counties, will be accepting bids for a 100-watt base station, including installation and one-year maintenance, for the Sheriff's Department in Magoffin County, Kentucky, beginning February 3, 1972, up to February 18, 1972. The base station to be installed must be compatible with the stations installed in Floyd, Johnson, Martin and Pike Counties.

All bids should be submitted to Gregory Bryant, Assistant Executive Director of the Big Sandy Regional Crime Council, whose address is Post Office Box 323, Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

Bids will be opened on February 18, 1972, at the Information Tourist Center, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, at 7:30 p.m.

The Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Dr. Mahaffy also holds membership in American Academy of Religion and Mental Health, American Psychiatric Association and other professional organizations and has biographical sketches listed in Who's Who in the West, Two Thousand Men of Achievement, 1969 and 1971, Dictionary of International Biography, 20th edition.

As a child psychiatrist with Mountain Mental Health Services, Dr. Mahaffy will provide direct services to emotionally disturbed children and will serve as a consultant to physicians, schools, courts, etc., concerning problems with children throughout Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Magoffin and Pike counties. In addition, he will assist in the development of day treatment centers for emotionally disturbed children.

"Dr. Mahaffy's appointment is a major step in Mountain Mental Health Services efforts to better serve the children of our area," Mr. Stai commented.

SB 201 also would forbid strip-auger-mining on a slope of more than 14 degrees without written consent of the surface owner. Present state regulations permit striping on slopes as great as 27 degrees and auger-mining on 28 through 33 degree slopes.

Much of the mining in the mountains is done under the broad-form deeds, under which mineral rights were purchased from landowners, especially during a period at the turn of the century before strip-mining was practiced.

Cornett also maintained that enactment of his bill would overcome the argument that limiting the use of broad-form deeds "abrogates a contract... something that our state and federal constitution would not permit."

But Cornett added, "It is my theory of the law (that) there is no contract for the purpose of destroying property."

Among those who have spoken against efforts to outlaw broad-form deeds is Gov. Wendell Ford. The governor's argument was that no contract can be canceled by a state law.

of the same charge, the same day. Troopers Rose and Bevins arrested Joe Harold Conn on a possession charge after confiscating intoxicants in a search of his premises. He was booked to Magistrate Eddie Caudill, and the volume of beer or whiskey taken was not reported here.

Richard and Arthur Garvin are being held for federal authorities after their arrest Saturday on a Dyer Act charge. They were arrested at or near Melvin by State Trooper Gary Rose, who also booked Richard Garvin as a.w.o.l.

Howard Price, about 30, was shot in his lower leg Saturday night by his father-in-law, Julius Hall, elderly Frazier's Creek man, and is being held in jail here on an assault and battery count. Deputy Sheriff Claude Flanery quoted Hall as saying he fired when his son-in-law broke through the door of his home. No charge had been lodged as of Monday noon against Hall.

Others booked at the jail within the week, charges against each and names of arresting officers follow:

Cecil Jarrell, reckless use of a deadly weapon, by Deputy Sheriff Arvel Nelson; Charles Huffman, reckless driving, by State Trooper Rose; Charles Mitchell, drunk driving, by Trooper Rose; Dave Kilborne, drunk driving, by Trooper Williamson; Beekle Ray and Jessie Lawrence Mosley, each charged with drunk driving, by State Trooper E. B. Allen; Stephen Martin, drunk driving, by Policemen Campbell and Lawson.

Mr. Hall said Victor Goble, a member of the Child Welfare staff, explained to him that the posters were, to him, merely anti-war slogans; that they, instead of being subversive in nature, pointed up the fact that the danger to America is within rather than from without.

The imprint on one of the posters indicated it was produced at Medina, O., and the other in Los Angeles, California.

County Detective Sam Hale telephoned the Commissioner of the Child Welfare Department in Frankfort and reported the find. An investigation was promised. Charles Bonta, Ashland, area Child Welfare supervisor, was scheduled to arrive here Tuesday.

Miss Elizabeth Wilson, supervisor of the office here, declined to be quoted. She and a woman staff-member, however, attested to the high quality of work done by Goble and spoke of his dedication to the care of children under the state program. They termed the posters "in bad taste" but said they had every reason to have confidence in the loyalty of those who placed the posters in the office.

Mayor George P. Archer condemned the posters as "obscene."

Detective Hale was joined in the investigation made inside the Child Welfare office by State Police Detective Chester D. Potter and members of the Prestonsburg police force.

Later Tuesday, Mr. Bonta in a telephone conversation told The Times that "this appears to me to be an effort to smear the program."

"If you have something to hide, the last place you would put it would be on an office wall," he added. Admitting that those who placed the posters on the wall "did not exercise the best judgment and discretion," he said he felt the posters were used to create an atmosphere that would help workers establish contact with teenagers who come into the office.

Bonta also said those who made the investigation had not made note of the fact that the Pledge of Allegiance was on walls of the offices of Mrs. Irene Campbell, veteran member of the staff, and Miss Wilson, supervisor, who herself is a former member of the woman's division of the Marine Corps.

He said he feels the break was staged "to get rid of Bernie." He referred to Bernie Bever, who was assigned to the office here for special work. Mr. Bever was not present when the posters were placed in the office, other workers said.

Bonta said he had received numerous telephone calls from Floyd county residents in support of the office staff.

Experts estimate the average Kentucky family of four will save about $65 per year under Gov. Wendell H. Ford's 1972-74 state budget.

it The Pied Typer, and I invariably read it, The Pie-Eyed Typer. One of his recent columns had to do with marksmanship, frontier style, and he got around to telling about his Uncle Boomer who got himself boxed in a blind canyon, in the Big Smokies, with a big, black bear commanding the exit. But, recalls the Metz:

Uncle Boomer was a cool'un. He crouched behind a tree and watched the bear coming slowly at him through the rocks. The bear stopped for a moment behind some rocks and Uncle Boomer knew it was now or never. Only trouble was he'd have to back the bullet off the rock wall right into the bear's eyeball to stop him cold.

But uncle knew all the woods tricks, like Kentucky windage, angles of ricocheting bullets and angle of trajectory. So he studied the rock wall for a minute, picked out the exact spot where he would pinpoint the rifle ball, leveled down on it and gently squeezed the trigger.

Uncle Boomer could have gone on for years telling and retelling this great feat of marksmanship—except for one little thing. He missed the rock wall.

POETRY?

My knowledge of poetry matches my profundity in music, which perhaps explains why I think a certain little girl with her school exercise may be flirting pretty closely with the Muse when she wrote:

The world is my house
And the sky is the ceiling.
Wouldn't it be great to see
What's up there in the loft?

Ky. Winter—Soft as a Blossom, Wild as a Mustang

West Liberty, Ky.—Weather in Kentucky could never be monotonous. After living in the commonwealth through her various seasons, how could one ever be content with endless days of sunshine and warmth, weeks without rain or snow or days without their weather surprises.

Inasmuch as sun lovers could sunbathe every month in Kentucky, choosing their days, Kentuckians will know that winter in the bluegrass state can be soft as a plum blossom or wild as an untamed horse.

Kentucky's central and eastern region usually expect a first snow at Thanksgiving when flakes are big and feathery, but nature sometimes sets her stage for an earlier curtain. She is not disappointed at the reaction.

For those who can remember 46 years ago (1926), the one-half inch snow that fell in Central Kentucky in October had the effect of a real live drama and was talked about for years.

That may have been the October remembered by C. M. Peyton of Morgan county who said he was logging in the woods one Oct. 9 when it snowed more than an inch accumulation. "I've planted corn in snow," he added, "and I've cut corn with it snowing on me."

Another Morgan countian, Arthur Johnson, retired history teacher, remembers his father telling about cold weather in February 1899. His father said his neighbors had livestock freeze to death in recorded temperatures of 33 degrees below zero.

If weather, like history, repeats itself there are other surprises awaiting weather watchers. Easter Sunday in 1923 was not a day for fashionable folk to wear new spring clothes. The temperature that day was one degree above. Ice froze in small creeks, thick enough for horses to walk across.

However, nature, not to forget warm weather devotees, brought 90-degree heat at 3 p.m. on May 8 that same year, then had a change of heart and started snow falling before dark. She then got busy with something else and did not turn off the snow faucet until late next day. By then farmers were out looking at snow-covered fields of corn big enough to plow.

For some reason big snows—the so-called old-fashioned kind—have been absent for a number of winters. Old-timers may recall that on Feb. 20, 1929, snow began falling and didn't stop in Eastern Kentucky until it was 20 inches deep.

But Kentucky weather has a little bit of something for everyone. In 1931-32 Eastern Kentucky had no snow till March and no freezing temperatures. Farmers hoed onions during Christmas that winter.

But nature, knowing how youthful Kentuckians like snow, decided that the winter of 1935-36 would be one for them to remember. She started filling the sky with snow on Christmas day, brought more cold weather and snow that did not melt until March.

In 1892 when country folk had been keeping an eye on their sarvis (service) trees, anticipating eating the delectable fruit at the perfect stage of ripeness, they did not allow themselves to be disappointed.

The berries were ripe on May 20 that year—a day when six inches of snow fell, but a diary record noted that "Father said he ate ripe sarvis berries with snow over his shoes and some of the neighbors told of digging ripe strawberries out of the snow on the same day."

The winters of 1913 and 1917 were cold and in the Ashland, Ironton, Huntington area vehicles crossed the Ohio River on ice.

Like all things, winter too will soon be gone to be replaced by a beautiful spring. Make the most of it. Enjoy the beauty of a snowflake, the way tree trunks are textured and branches outlined with snow—the grace of soft, gentle mounds of white that have a way of transforming everything from discarded rusty bedsprings to mud banks into things of beauty.

When late snows come, gather the family inside for an evening together. Pop corn, bring out a pan of red apples or make a platter of fudge. Enjoy every moment of it, for it does not last forever.

What's behind Volkswagen's new low price?

The Best Warranty This Side of a Rolls-Royce

You can't put a price on the warranty you get with a Volkswagen. You see, a Volkswagen warranty runs twice as long as anybody else's small car warranty. And only one car, the Rolls-Royce, has one better.

Here's how ours works: All you do is maintain the car according to the Volkswagen maintenance schedule. If any factory part is found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first (except normal wear and tear on service items) any U.S. or Canadian VW dealer will repair or replace it free of charge. See your dealer for details.

More Than 5,000 Inspections Per Car

The story behind our warranty starts at the factory. Where 1,104 nit-picking inspectors have one job, and one job only. To find something wrong with a Volkswagen before that Volkswagen finds its way out of the factory.

Every one of the more than 5,000 parts that go into a VW is carefully examined. Some of them get the once-over two or three times. If one of our inspectors is unhappy with only one of the parts, the whole car gets pulled off the line. Sometimes we pull as many as 225 VWs a day. But it's worth it. We pick the lemons. You get the plums.

The Most Advanced Service System In The World

No other car maker anywhere can offer you Medi-car, Volkswagen's ultrasensitive Electronic Diagnosis. It's designed to spot problems in your Volkswagen when they're at the minor adjustment stage. Long before they can do any real damage to your car or your wallet. Every one of our dealers has VW Diagnosis. And you get the first four check-ups free with a new VW.

The Highest Resale Value

Based on what's happened in the past, no other economy car on the road holds its value after 3 or 4 years as well as a Volkswagen. So, if you're thinking about buying a new car, think about what it's going to be worth when it's an old car. Because when the time comes to part company with your VW, you won't be left holding the bag. Unless that's what you carry your money in.

The Most Highly Developed Car Ever Built

Economy cars come and go. Volkswagens just keep going. One reason is our 1600cc aluminum-magnesium engine. It's rear-mounted for better traction on slick roads. And it's air-cooled for better performance in heat waves or cold spells. The underside of the Beetle has a steel, sealed bottom to protect its vital parts. The outside of the Volkswagen carries 13 pounds of paint. The body of the car is put together so precisely that it's practically airtight. In all, more than 2200 changes and advances have gone into today's Beetle. And most of them were designed to make the car run better and last longer. Not just look different.

No other car maker has put so much time and so many advances and changes into one car. You see, there's more to a Volkswagen than meets the eye.

Under $2000. Again.

Administration Redistricting Bill Gets Senate Panel's Approval

Frankfort, Ky.—The Senate State Government Committee, by a 5-3 vote has reported favorably the Ford administration's congressional redistricting bill.

It also approved two other controversial measures. A bill to allow the governor to appoint the state personnel commissioner was reported out 7-1, while one to raise the salaries of department heads and statewide officials won approval 6-2.

HB 112, to redraw the boundaries of the state's seven congressional districts, would take its greatest toll on the 6th District in North Central Kentucky, shifting counties along the districts eastern and southern borders into the adjacent 7th and 5th districts and adding portions of three Northern Kentucky counties presently in the 4th District.

The bill has drawn strongest opposition from Northern Kentucky residents upset because it would divide heavily populated Campbell and Kenton counties between the 4th and 6th Districts.

Sens. Wilson Palmer, D-Cynthiana; John Chris Cornett, D-Hindman; Donald Johnson, R-Fort Thomas; Lacey Smith, D-Louisville; and Pat McCuiston, D-Pembroke, approved the bill while Sens. Carroll Hubbard, D-Mayfield; Gus Heehan, D-Voginton; and Ray White, R-Bowling Green voted against it.

The bill passed the house 75-18, despite warnings that it would be challenged in court. Both Sheehan and Rep. Arthur Schmidt, R-Cold Spring, said Wednesday a suit was being planned in Northern Kentucky.

Schmidt had offered an alternative House bill based, he said, on more current census figures than HB 112. His bill would have kept all of Campbell and Kenton counties in the 4th District.

Earlier the committee rejected 4-3 an amendment by Sheehan which would have kept all of Campbell and Kenton counties in the 4th District but shifted about 56,000 people in Jefferson county from the 4th to the 6th.

Only Sheehan, Johnson and Hubbard voted for the amendment, with White substituting.

Now thru Tues.

How Trees Help In The War On Pollution

Trees can help us win the war on pollution. That's why we should safeguard the trees we already have and also adopt for our motto: "Plant More Trees."

The space for planting more trees gradually lessens every year and at a fast rate. Super highways running across a countryside take a swipe of land 300 feet wide and many miles long; inside this area no trees can grow. When the hardtop is laid down, not another sprig of anything green will ever be seen there again.

Trees prevent soil erosion, which is a major cause of stream pollution from siltation. Tree roots are like human fingers gripping the soil and holding it from washing. Remove the trees from a piece of steep mountain land and it soon washes down to hard rock and subsoil.

Trees also purify the air by breathing out oxygen in a free state, which mingles with the air and purifies it. The leaves are the "lungs" of the tree, by means of which they carry on the process of photosynthesis and put the oxygen back in the air.

Trees also clean and wash the air and make it fresh and invigorating. The air in the woods always feels fresh and cool it is washed clean and purified by a fresh supply of oxygen. On the underside of the leaf there are millions of tiny openings called "stomata," which comes from the Greek word, stoma, meaning a mouth. Trees literally breathe through their mouths on the leaves. These stomata transpire water vapor into the air, which cleanses and purifies it and keeps it fresh. During a summer of about five months, when the leaves are full and green, a large oak tree evaporates about 28,000 gallons of water into the surrounding air, which is an average of about 180 gallons each day.

The time has come when every Scout troop, every Garden Club, every 4-H Club should develop a tree-planting program. All the vacant or unused land should be planted in trees. The time has also come for the destruction of our trees by careless and wasteful methods of logging to stop. Also the uprooting and tearing down of trees by stripmining should be stopped, as it is a detriment to the environment and lays the mountainsides open for serious soil erosion. Some say that the trees along the ridgetops where the land is stripmined are not much good for anything. But this argument is wholly unsound. Few if any trees are without some value. Those on high ridges help to make oxygen for purifying the air; they also furnish homes and shelter for birds and other wild life; they help to build the soil by shedding their leaves in the fall, to decay and add humus to the earth.

What kind of trees should we plant: many want to know. Along the banks of a brook or other stream, willows are highly valuable for preventing washing of the banks; so are the eastern hemlocks. These latter trees have a massive root system and hold the soil securely. They also beautify the land and furnish good winter shelter for the birds. The sugar maples make fine trees for lawn or park planting; our native sugar maples can be transplanted successfully and in a few years they will grow into magnificent trees. You may often find a rare tree you'd like to plant on your property. Recently a new species of a golden willow was discovered in Ohio; it was given the name, "Golden Curly," and has become in great demand for ornamental planting. The bark is a rich golden color and the leaves are curly, suggesting a lovely with curly hair of gold. This willow seems to be a hybrid—a cross between the upright corkscrew willow and the weeping willow. The nursery which discovered, or rather developed, this willow is besieged with orders for specimens.

If you have a lot in town, you may find space for planting a whole orchard of the dwarf fruit trees, which are highly popular now. In the big apple orchards, the trees are set about 40 feet apart, which takes up a lot of space. In the same space, you can plant 16 dwarf fruit trees and have a variety of them. A dwarf apple tree needs about ten-foot space; the dwarf peach trees can do with less. In a forty-foot space, you can plant the following dwarf fruit trees. Five apples trees, three pear trees, three peach trees, two cherry trees and three plum trees. This makes your 40-foot orchard; The dwarf peach trees will bear the second year, unless you hold them back another year. Most dwarf trees seem almost too eager to bear and often have to be held back until they get strong enough to hold up their fruit. Full production of dwarf fruit trees is reached in about five years.

The great advantage of having dwarf fruit trees is, You can spray them easily with a hand spray or can use the duster you keep for the rose bushes. The dwarf apple trees grow to a height of about 8 feet and may produce four or five bushels of apples each year. Dwarf peach trees begin bearing when they are about three feet high and reach their peak when about six feet high. The necessary pruning, dusting and picking the fruit is done when one is standing flat-footed on the ground.

The dwarf cherry trees are prolific producers; some of them have been known to produce up to 100 pounds of cherries in a season.

As a soil builder and for its commercial value, the black walnut is tops. It transplants well, helps to enrich the soil and in a few years it makes a highly valuable tree for the lumber market.

If you are mainly interested in ornamental trees, plant dogwoods, redbuds and sweet gums. The star-shaped leaves of the sweet gum lend it a unique beauty and in the fall they turn to brilliant purples, yellows and often have an almost lavender hue.

Let us then resolve this spring to plant more trees as a forward step in our war on pollution of the air and water.

Fee System Faults Reviewed in Study

The fee system under which most of Kentucky's county officials are paid should be revamped to guarantee them a livable income, a Legislative Research Commission study says.

More money would be required because the counties' main source of income, the property tax, now is frozen.

The study said one solution is for the state to share some of its revenue and return to the counties some of the money collected from the court system.

"Because the salaries of county officials are almost solely dependent upon their statutory fees," the study said, "every two years the General Assembly is confronted with demands to raise the fees so that officials may further augment their compensation and keep up with the rising cost of living."

It said other disadvantages of the fee system are that money collected by officials often is not properly accounted for and the fee often does not pay the cost of rendering the service.

Members receiving jackets for their 1971 project work were Shannon Robinette, Wanda Johns, Dale Conn, Jeffery Martin, Randy Kidd, Buelah Patton, Reva Duff, Judy Stewart, Kelvin Adkins, Sherri Allen, Gia Hall, Chris Conn.

Twelve additional club members were recognized as area project champions during 1971 but they had received jackets in previous years. These members included Jeannie Auxier, Derek Hicks, Eddie Adkins, Jane Steele, Ann Flanery, Lance Blackburn, Randy Martin, Lara Hopkins, Vicky Blackburn, Anita Auxier, Dalton Howard, Leslie Auxier.

Two Floyd county 4-H Club members were honored recently as winners of the Danforth Foundation "I-Dare-You Award". These awards are presented each year to 4-H club members on the basis of leadership in 4-H and community activities.

The 1971 winners were Judy Stewart and Dalton Howard.

Judy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stewart, Langley, and a member of the Maytown 4-H Club. Dalton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Howard, Hueysville, and also a member of the Maytown 4-H Club.

Judge Conley Again To Head Seal Drive

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley has been named chairman of the 1972 Easter Seal campaign for Floyd County, according to Thomas "Tommy" Bell, Lexington, state campaign chairman. The annual appeal will begin February 28 and continue through April 2, Easter Sunday.

Judge Conley has served as county chairman since 1966.

Contributions to the campaign, sponsored by the Kentucky Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults, will help provide rehabilitation services for physically handicapped Kentuckians throughout the state.

Famed Author, Jesse Stuart, To Speak at PCC, February 17

Jesse Stuart, famed Kentucky author, educator and lecturer, will speak at Prestonsburg Community College February 17 at 7:30 p.m. Mr. Stuart will appear here in conjunction with the Paul Blazer Foundation Lecture Series.

One of the most widely read living authors, Mr. Stuart was born on a farm in Greenup county where his parents were tenant farmers. He began his education and teaching career in a one-room country school and wrote his first stories and poems while a pupil in Greenup high school.

He is a graduate of two universities and has honorary doctor's degrees from 10 other colleges and universities. He has taught in rural elementary schools and in high school, served as high school principal and county superintendent, taught at the University of Nevada and the American University in Cairo, Egypt, and has lectured in colleges and universities around the world.

The author of some 40 books, he is recognized as one of the outstanding poets of America. His short stories are used as models by teachers in the field. One of his novels is called a masterpiece of satire and has sold more than two million copies; one autobiographical book is a classic in the teaching field and another, written after he suffered a major heart attack in 1955, is considered a masterpiece in the field of modern recuperative therapy.

Strike at Plant Near Paintsville in Third Week

The strike at the American Standard plant near Paintsville in its third week with the situation little changed, except that negotiations have been resumed.

With federal mediator, James Wilson, Cincinnati, O., sitting in, company and union representatives held bargaining sessions through the week-end, including Sunday. But no break was reported.

Approximately 350 members of Local 7926, United Steel Workers, are involved in the strike. Although neither union nor company has made an official statement, apparently the main point of disagreement lies in wages. It has been reported that American Standard has offered a 15-cents-an-hour increase in pay to workers but that this is about 10 cents short of what the union demands.

Ballard Stone, of David, is president of the local union at the plant.

Dentists can now keep abreast of latest advances in dental treatment through color and sound film provided by the Veterans Administration.

How long since you were in school?

For those of us who are old enough to have children in school, it's a little difficult to realize how demanding and complex a teacher's job has become.

Things have changed since we were under the teacher's eye. Subjects are tougher, wider ranging. Today's student is getting into the ideas behind the facts at an age when we merely were learning facts.

Now the classroom is a place for education through thought instead of education by rote. And the teachers who meet the challenge day after difficult day are rather special people.

Dedicated? The word probably embarrasses them. Even so, it is dedication to duty that's most common to all the men and women who become — and remain — modern teachers.

How else can you describe whatever it is that makes a good teacher keep working, keep studying ahead, after the last bell of the day, the last bell of the semester, has rung?

This they do. And it's enough to know, with or without fancy words that pinpoint their motives. Enough to earn our respect, our appreciation and all the help we can give them.

The Bank Josephine is assisting Floyd County area youngsters obtain a college or trade school education. We're the only financial institution in Floyd County participating in the Federal Insured Student Loan Program. We are actively lending to students right now. But we'd like to do more. You see, we're out to make more loans to more students, but we need your help to do it. We'll earmark your money for our "Educations Unlimited" loan fund. The "Educations Unlimited" Savings Certificates we'll issue you in return will pay off magnificently — in excellent bank interest for you, and in better educations for our own boys and girls.

Floyd County has always been blessed with more than its fair share of citizens who willingly give more than they have to give — of their time, their energy, their cooperation — to keep our county out front in all the things that matter. While outstanding teachers are seeing to it that our youngsters get the best education possible, countless other people are working every day to meet the county's growing cultural and social needs.

Whatsoever Things

By DONALD E. WILDMON

There is a sentence in the Book of books which reads like this: "For you were strangers in the land of Egypt." Experience is a great teacher. And all of us have had the experience of being the stranger on occasion. We can remember on those occasions how much we wanted someone to show us a little kindness.

Being kind to another makes life enjoyable. It enriches the soul of the person showing kindness and wins the heart of the recipient. So a kind act helps at least two people—possibly more.

Greatness of soul isn't measured by genius, fame or fortune. It is measured by kindness. Stephen Grellet once wrote: "I shall pass through this world but once. Any good therefore that I can do or any kindness that I can show to any human being, let me do it now. Let me not defer nor neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again."

I believe, also, that being kind to another brings kindness in return. There is a law of life which is stated like this: "We reap what we sow." Most of us are aware of what happens when kindness isn't used. Harold Sandall put it this way: "and kindness that is never used but hidden all alone, will slowly harden till it is as hard as any stone."

"Do unto others as you would have them to do unto you." It is called the Golden Rule. It is a wonderful way of living. Be kind to others because you want them to be kind to you.

Kindness is also the best persuasion we have. Our oratory may be good and interesting, and we need to use persuasive words, but one act of kindness often speaks louder than a thousand words. Frederick W. Faber once said: "Kindness has converted more sinners than zeal, eloquence, or learning."

The ministry of kindness is a ministry which may be achieved by all men—rich or poor, learned or illiterate, young or old. Brilliance of mind and capacity for deep thinking have rendered great service to humanity, but by themselves they are impotent to dry a tear or mend a broken heart.

Whatever a man has to say, it doesn't mean much unless it is backed by action. And for many of us who have trouble getting our words to come out right, we have found a simple act of kindness gets the job done.

"...The stranger who sojourns with you shall be to you as the native among you, and you shall love him as yourself; for you were strangers in the land of Egypt."

We all have been "strangers in the land of Egypt." We know how much kindness is wanted and needed and appreciated. Let us, therefore, be as kind to others as we would wish they were to us.

'Secret' Report Hits Mining Near Lakes

By FRANK ASHLEY
(In The Courier-Journal)

Hazard, Ky.—A secret, 4-month-old Army Corps of Engineers evaluation of strip-mining in Eastern Kentucky finds major faults in state procedures permitting surface mining near mountain reservoirs.

The report suggests a moratorium on strip-mining "in any given area and in particular the Carr Fork (Reservoir) and Buckhorn (Lake Reservoir)" so that the engineers could study conditions.

However, the problems as well as recommendations for improvements outlined in the report have never been formally forwarded to the state Division of Reclamation, which issues strip-mine permits.

In a recent interview, Col. John T. Rhett, Louisville district engineer, discounted the report as being only a "working document" and called its recommendations "personal opinions" of field personnel. He said he has discussed the report informally with reclamation personnel but has not formally submitted it because of the change (in December) in state administrations.

John R. Bleidt, chief of operations in the engineers' district office in Louisville, who signed the report—which was prepared in October and mailed anonymously to this reporter—said of the field personnel who compiled it:

"They're professional people; you'd have to assume they're professional recommendations."

The report is generally critical of the state's handling of strip-mine permits in Eastern Kentucky drainage areas over which the engineers have jurisdiction. It notes that some of the areas already are threatened by strip mine acid and silt.

Without detailing locations, the report refers to "at least five" violations by state officials of an agreement between the engineers and reclamation officials concerning the issuance of permits near federal watersheds.

That agreement, known as a "Memorandum of Understanding" was signed July 8, 1970, and allows the engineers to inspect all permit areas near drainage areas over which they have jurisdiction. It gives the corps 20 days to object to such permits if the mining is deemed a threat to land or reservoirs owned by the engineers.

The report shows that 67 permits have been processed through the corps in the Buckhorn Lake watershed (in Perry county) since the Memorandum of Understanding; 41 in Carr Fork Reservoir in Knott county, and 8 in the new Cave Run watershed. The Cave Run Dam is under construction in Bath and Rowan counties.

However, 33 permits have been issued in those areas without being processed through the corps, the report said. They are: Buckhorn Lake, 3; Cave Run, 27, and Carr Fork, 3. Three permits were issued in the Carr Fork area over corps objections, the report said.

(Rhett said that the 27 permits issued in the Cave Run area had resulted from a lack of communication among state reclamation officials. The permits, he said, were approved by reclamation field personnel in the Cave Run area who had not been informed of provisions of the Memorandum of Understanding. The problem was corrected, Rhett said.)

The consensus of the corps officials involved in preparing the report is that "the water quality of the main streams in the Carr Fork and Buckhorn drainage areas is gradually deteriorating." The report noted however, that testing so far has been insufficient to support this conclusion.

Among the reports recommendations were the possible moratorium, higher bonds from those who strip-mine federal land, updating the Memorandum of Understanding, providing more time for study before granting permits and smaller work loads for strip mine inspectors.

The report says state supervision of strip-mine operations is "greatly hampered" by high personnel turnover. It attributes such turnover to "low pay, lack of experience, etc." This matter, however, was not mentioned in the specific recommendations.

Rhett said that most "specific" problem areas cited in the report have been worked out informally with reclamation personnel. Other recommendations, such as low pay and overworked inspectors, are "none of the corps' business," Rhett added.

Buddy Beach, who became acting director of the Division of Reclamation after the report was written, said he had neither seen the report nor heard of it before it was shown to him by this reporter. He referred all questions to Kenes Bowling, deputy commissioner of the state Department of Natural Resources.

Bowling and Beach conceded that siltation and mine acid is a problem in Eastern Kentucky but said they expect improvement from a new division regulation, which becomes effective March 1 and requires strip-mine operators to construct debris basins according to specifications of the state Soil Conservation Service (SCS) and the state Division of Water Resources.

Elmore Grim, state director of reclamation at the time the report was written, said he had been under the impression that the Memorandum of Understanding had worked well in informing the Corps as to mining operations in Corps watersheds. He also said that he had never heard of the report.
