

Three Die In Two-Car Collision

Middle Creek Crash Claims Floyd Girls; Ohio Man Is Victim

Two young Floyd county women and a Dayton, O. man were killed late Saturday night in a two-car, head-on collision on the Mountain Parkway, and a girl-passenger in the Floyd auto was critically injured.

Miss Doris Ann Wells, 21, of Bonanza, and Miss Damita Jo George, 17, of the Auxier road, died almost instantly.

Lawrence Edward Little, 35, of Dayton, was dead at the scene of the crash.

Miss Debbie Spradlin, 18, of the Middle Creek road, is in serious condition at the UK Medical Center, Lexington, as a result of internal injuries.

The three girls were driving from Salyersville toward Prestonsburg in Miss Wells' car when Little's auto crashed into their car, head-on, a short distance west of the mouth of State Road Fork. State Police Trooper Danny Stumbo reported that Little's 1965 Chevrolet crossed into the path of the oncoming auto driven by Miss Wells. No skid marks from either car was visible, and the tragedy, the report said, was clearly Little's fault.

None of the occupants was thrown from the cars, and Little's seat-belt was fastened. The state trooper did not reach a definite conclusion as to why the Ohio man's car, which apparently was driven at high speed, wandered into the wrong lane. Motors of both vehicles were driven beneath the seats.

Miss Spradlin, a daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Willie Spradlin, was reported as having undergone surgery, Monday morning.

Miss Wells was a daughter of Homer Wells, Jr. and Ethel Bowling Wells and was employed by Radio Station WPRT here as a secretary. Besides her parents, she is survived by two brothers and two sisters, Homer Wells, III, of Auxier, Roger Don Wells, of Rhode Island, Miss Janet Marlene Wells, of Bonanza, and Mrs. Barbara Jean Craft, of Prestonsburg. Her funeral was conducted at 2 p.m. today (Wednesday) from the Floyd Funeral Home chapel, the Rev. Paris Music officiating. Burial in the family cemetery on Abbott Creek was directed by the Floyd Funeral Home.

Miss George was the daughter of James Earl George, of the Auxier road, near here, and Mrs. Pauline Lafferty, of Indiana. She had no survivors other than her parents.

Court Amends Fanning Order On Injunction

The Kentucky Court of Appeals last Friday in a split decision overruled a motion asking dissolution of the order made Jan. 6 by Special Judge William E. Fanning continuing the temporary injunction against residents of the Martin school district, but the court amended Judge Fanning's order.

Justice Reed did not concur with the majority opinion, holding that the scope of the prior restraint is too broad. He reserved the right to file a written opinion when and if the case is finally presented on its merits.

The temporary injunction, as upheld by the special judge, prohibited the defendants, individually or collectively, from interrupting in any way the Martin schools by pickets, radio announcements, word of mouth or any other manner that would interfere with the orderly conduct of the schools.

Doctor Honored In School Name; Board in Meet

The designation of the consolidated high school which will open next fall at Eastern as the Allen Central high school is in honor of Dr. J. H. Allen, of Langley, a moving force in the consolidation undertaking, Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said this week.

Dr. Allen, he said, has served a total of 32 years as a member of the Floyd County Board of Education and is the dean of all Eastern Kentucky board members.

David Hensley, who will be principal of the new school, has taught in the Floyd school system about 15 years, is a former assistant principal of Prestonsburg high school, and at one time was basketball coach at Wayland high school. He is a graduate of Pikeville College and Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond. On leave from teaching duties at this time, he is a social worker with the school system under Title I. He resides near Eastern.

At Saturday's board meeting the highest bid offered for the Dickeytown school property was rejected as too low, and the bid of Barney Miller on a language laboratory for the new Allen Central school was rejected as too high.

The board approved the tentative contract awarded earlier to Akers & Akers for work to provide a lunchroom for the Prater Creek school.

A resolution voted Saturday authorizes the Floyd school system to join 19 other systems in the area in applying for funds to organize a regional education service organization which would supplant the Eastern Kentucky Educational Development Corporation. The EKEEDC, which has served for the last six years in the development of innovative programs with federal aid, would be phased out of its present role and perhaps serve the school systems in a public relations capacity.

The board authorized Supt. Clark to advertise for air-conditioners for the Allen elementary school, the PTA there to pay half the cost. A leave of absence was (See Story 5, Back Page, Sec. 1)

Our Error
The Times last week erred in transcribing notes from a telephone report on the West Virginia flood disaster. The error was made in stating that Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Gunnel were estranged. The word should have been "separated," and Mr. and Mrs. Gunnel were separated only by the flood.

FLOODWATERS SERVE GOOD PURPOSE. When rising Dewey Lake flooded the nearby Jenny Wiley golf course, No. 1 fairway became a baptismal pool for the Highland Avenue Free Will Baptist Church here. PRAISE AND PLAINT

The new number of INPUT KENTUCKY, which is published by the Department of Public Information for the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, is beautifully done. This February number approaches the splendid ARIZONA HIGHWAYS for pictorial interest. I have an idea that Kentucky's magnificent scenic beauty, so portrayed, will do more for the state than any ballyhoo in print that the Chamber may undertake.

Having said that, I now register a gripe. Some of the most beautiful scenes—mountain vistas, mainly—aren't identified. Please, gentlemen.

And please don't write me, pointing to some of the shortcomings of this publication for which I am in part responsible.

New Trial Set In Layne Case For March 23

A hearing set Monday morning on the habeas corpus petition filed by Frank H. Layne, Prestonsburg insurance man, after he had been ordered jailed on a capias growing out of a parking meter fine, was not held, but, instead, Layne was granted a new trial.

The habeas corpus proceeding was dismissed by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley after it had been agreed that the new trial of the case would be granted. Trial date was set for March 23 in Prestonsburg police court.

Mr. Layne said he refused an offer of the city to settle for two $2 fines. Albert A. Burchett said the city did not make such an offer but that there was a discussion of dismissal, at the suggestion of Judge Conley, for the payment of two $3 fines. Layne said he rejected the offer of settlement because he does not owe the city anything.

City Attorney Burchett described the new trial decision as resulting from a motion offered jointly by him and Paul E. Hayes, attorney for Layne. Burchett later said, "If Frank thinks we have wronged him, we want him to have a new trial."

The litigation began with two 50-cent parking tickets. Mr. Layne claims he paid both and that reputable witnesses signed the stubs which he retained. A trial of the case was set, then continued. The city clerk claims the defendant was told the new trial date, but he contends he was not so (See Story 9, Back Page, Sec. 1)

Floyd Team in Meet With Top Area Record

Betsy Layne high school's Bobcats, the winningest team (31-5) in these parts, and Maytown's Wildcats (14-15) will represent the 58th district (Floyd county) in the 15th regional tournament which begins tonight (Wednesday) at the Prestonsburg high school gymnasium.

If the two Floyd teams meet again this season, it will have to be in the tournament finals, since the new policy governing the tournament draw provides that each winning and runner-up team in a district shall be placed in opposite brackets.

Virgie (18-7), 59th district champion, will meet Warfield (19-14) runnerup in the 57th district, in the tournament-opener. Maytown will play Elkhorn City (20-6), 60th

Student Here Dies at Martin In Auto Wreck

Craig Nelson Hall, 18-year-old Prestonsburg Community College student from Wheelwright, became the first of four Floyd county auto wreck victims last Wednesday when an auto in which he was a passenger skidded into the path of an oncoming car on KY 80, a short distance east of Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin.

State Trooper Gary Rose reported that the car in which young Hall was a passenger was driven by George Ronnie Fain, 18, also of Wheelwright. Fain, the report said, had passed another vehicle and had cut back to his side of the highway when his car hit a slippery spot on the road, skidded into the opposite lane and was struck by a car driven by Wilbur Elliott, 60, of Orkney.

Both Fain and Elliott were injured but were reported later as recovering.

A graduate of Wheelwright high school, class of 1970, young Hall was a pharmacy major at the college here. He was a son of Belvie and Ella Jane Fain Hall, of Wheelwright. Other survivors include two sisters, Miss Beverly Jane Hall, of Wheelwright, and Miss Anita Hall, Columbus, O. His (See Story 2, Back Page, Sec. 1)

Harold Man Tells of Post-Flood Trip Into Devastated Buffalo Creek, W. Va.

The stark tragedy of Buffalo Creek, W. Va. is told by Julian Scalf, of Harold, who with three others were the first visitors permitted into the ravaged area after it had been sealed off following the recent dam-break catastrophe.

And he was no casual visitor. He and his brother Devon, had been sent there by their father, Henry P. Scalf, of Stanville, to learn the fate of his brother, Wallace Scalf. They were joined on the trip by William Smith, of Mare Creek, and a family friend, retired Army Sgt. Rudolph Stepp, of Williamson, W. Va.

Wallace Scalf and his wife, objects of the search, are teachers at Man, W. Va., where there was no loss of life, but they live at Riley, and Riley was in the middle of the devastation. Telephone calls by Mr. Scalf had been answered only by recordings. Only a trip to Riley could get the information desired.

The party reached Man at 2:30 Monday afternoon, Feb. 28, two days after Buffalo Creek had become a veritable Valley of Destruction. Getting into Man, which is located on the Guyandotte River where it is joined by Buffalo Creek, was no problem. But getting out, toward points up Buffalo, was.

district champs, in the second game Wednesday.

In lower bracket play Thursday night Johnson Central (16-9), winner of the 57th district tournament, will play Johns Creek, (7-17), 60th district runnerup in the first game of the evening. In the second, Betsy Layne will meet Pikeville (16-11), runnerup in the 59th.

Betsy Layne and Elkhorn City have the best won-lost records in the region, but what has happened in the past is not regarded as a true indicator of what will take place before play ends Saturday night with the naming of a regional champion which will be in the select "Sweet Sixteen" at the state tournament.

Bureau of Mines Personnel End Study of Ponds

Every coal-slag dam in Eastern Kentucky has been inspected by personnel of the U. S. Bureau of Mines since the Logan county, W. Va. disaster as the result of breach of such an impoundment, and not one has been found to be unsafe.

So reported the bureau's District 6 office at Pikeville and its field office here last week-end after the survey had been completed in the 17-county area.

The work began, Monday of last week, a day after the order came from Washington for the detailed inspection. It was completed by Thursday.

W. R. Burgess, head of the Bureau of Mines field office here, said eight inspectors toured Floyd, Johnson and Martin counties, and that they found none of the dams to be dangerous. Among the dams inspected in this county were the two at Price and Spurlock on Left Beaver Creek. Inspectors included the reservoir built at David by the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company to provide a water supply for the town, although the reservoir did not fall in the category of impoundments to be surveyed. It is soundly constructed and presents no problem, they said.

"There is nothing to cause alarm in this county," Mr. Burgess said.

William Clemons, assistant supervisor of District 6, Pikeville, said inspectors out of that office concentrated on Pike and Letcher county mines. He reported that every pond was inspected and that "we haven't found any that is deemed hazardous."

Placed in this "safe" category was the Pond Creek, Pike county, impoundment which Pike County Judge Wayne Rutherford had described as the lake he fears most and which, he said, "is larger and deeper than the one on Buffalo Creek" (the Buffalo Creek dam was the impoundment which broke Feb. 26, resulting in the deaths of at least 107 persons).

Mr. Clemons said he himself made the inspection of the Pond Creek impoundment and that he found no safety problem there.

Collapse of the Buffalo Creek dam created concern for the safety of thousands in Appalachia who live below such dams. The Bureau of Mines survey set 100 inspectors to work, concentrating on Eastern Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia areas which have had heavy rainfall and which are in mountainous terrain similar to that of Buffalo Creek.

Two Jailed Here After Rum Raids

Two liquor raids and an arrest on a marijuana-possession charge featured activities of peace officers within the week.

A raid on the premises of Eddie Yates, of Mud Creek, last Thursday by State Troopers Cantrell and Williamson and County Detective Sam Hale resulted in the confiscation of about 60 cans of beer and Yates' arrest on charges of possessing and selling intoxicants. Two days later, State Trooper Williamson arrested Joe Hopkins, of Harold, on a possession count after the trooper had found 90 cans of beer and one half-pint of whiskey in a search of Hopkins' property.

Rodney Goble was arrested last Wednesday by Policemen Campbell and Conley, of Prestonsburg, who charged him with possession of marijuana.

After State Troopers VanHoose and Ross had arrested Cecil Perrin here Saturday (See Story 3, Back Page, Sec. 1)

In fact, the Floyd party was required to go inside the improvised hospital at Man and through the morgue and look at each of the sick and injured and at each of the dead before they could get a pass to go to Riley, about five miles upstream. Julian Scalf had told the National Guard and West Virginia State Police he was seeking his uncle and aunt. So the authorities decided he would have to seek them first in the hospital and morgue; then, if they were not there, a pass would be issued.

"All four of us went through the morgue," the Harold man relates.

"Twenty-six bodies were there at that time—in every twisted position, just like they died. Babies, youngsters, old people, all ages. . . black with muck. . . The faces of my brother and the other two in our party were as white as sheets when we got outside, and I suppose mine was, too. And just as we left the morgue they brought in a girl of about 13, with her head almost cut off."

After this visit to the morgue which was to receive, as of this week, a total of 108 dead, the trooper in charge agreed to issue a pass if Scalf would bring back to him a report on the town of Riley and its survivors.

So it was that the party of four drove up ruined Buffalo Creek behind a National Guard wrecker which cleared the way and in spots built temporary roadway. The five miles required an inching drive of two hours. Scalf and his party had time to look about them, and what they saw was a scene so shattering that his voice still reflects something of the horror he felt.

"You can't imagine," he said. "Houses (See Story 1, Back Page, Sec. 1)

Gov. Ford Signs Six More Bills

Governor Ford signed into law six more bills and resolutions passed by the 1972 General Assembly, including a measure to provide free college tuitions for children of Kentucky servicemen missing in action, held prisoners-of-war or totally disabled.

The bill would provide free tuition for up to three years at any state-supported college or university.

Other measures signed include one allowing certain types of activity, including trade, on Sunday and permitting local governments to enact their own ordinances concerning Sunday activity.

Also signed was a congressional reapportionment bill, a resolution authorizing the Legislative Research Commission to study a new Uniform Rebate Code and a redefinition of certain sections in state unemployment compensation laws.

The People Look to the Legislature

The people of Eastern Kentucky, victims of that monstrous fraud which was perpetrated on their fathers and grandfathers when most of the coal rights in the area were bought for the proverbial song, are keenly interested in what the Kentucky Legislature will do with bills introduced to restore at least some of their rights.

Among these bills are Senate Bill 201, which was introduced by Senator John Chris Cornett, of Knott county; Senate Bill 203, by Senator Freeman; House Bill 22 by Representatives John Hardin and James Bruce. All have their merits, but none may win passage.

What the General Assembly does is of supreme importance, particularly in view of the fact that no relief is in sight from the courts.

The Court of Appeals refused, in a split decision, to outlaw the so-called "broad form" deeds which gave companies owning the mineral on these lands the right to violate any and all rights of the owners of the surface in order to recover the coal or, in the words of those old deeds, "any other minerals." The state's highest court so ruled, although courts of the same status in every other state where the deed was perpetrated had held it unconstitutional. (It should be added that Appellate Judge Edward P. Hill, of this county, wrote a strong dissenting opinion, pointing out that at the time the deeds were executed surface mining was a method undreamed of, that the landowners did not intend the conveyance of the surface rights to their land for such mining, and that the deeds should be held void.)

Senator Cornett, who as a native Eastern Kentuckian has seen at first hand the law, as interpreted, working against human rights, now seeks to do by statute what the Court of Appeals has refused to do. He argues that one party to a contract has no right to destroy another party's property in the use of it.

The senator does not seek to stop strip-mining. His bill would, 1. Make mine operators or the holders of mineral rights liable to surface owners for damages caused by improper reclamation of the land; and, 2. Ban all surface mining, strip and auger, on slopes of more than 14 degrees without the written consent of the surface owner.

If an ethnic group were so penalized by an ancient transaction such as this—if the Negro were involved, say—the federal courts already would have seen the injustice of these deeds and would have righted the wrong. But the same courts have a severe case of myopia when human rights are to be considered, regardless of race or color.

We shall be watching the actions of legislators on these bills. We are interested in knowing how much people, plain, ordinary people, figure in their thinking.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Gethel Homemaker's held its monthly meeting, February 28 at 7 p.m. at the John M. Stumbo school. The president, Cosetta Newsome, presided. Avalia Hall presented the devotion for the evening. Guests for the evening were Eileen Martin, Areeta Hall, Eleanor Acker, Maye Akers and Maisie Anspaugh.

The lesson for the month was on "Trends in Housing and Furniture," given by Frances Pitts. Refreshments were served by Pearl Newsome and Patricia Ann Newsome.

Ingenuity of Kentucky Women Is Part of Heritage

West Liberty, Ky.—Given a job to do, a chore to complete or a way to improvise something as the means to a desired result, Kentucky women can do it.

Though the task seems insurmountable, they will find a way, for theirs is a strong will, a heritage gift to them from generations of pioneer women.

Some of this heritage is not for the remote past but might even have been part of a way of life no longer than a decade ago or in rare instances as new as yesterday.

This is not to imply that Kentucky men are not a part of this same heritage, for they are. An Eastern Kentucky woman once said her menfolk helped, especially when they happened to be around when needed and if they weren't out-of-pocket. But she added, "Mine's generally out-of-pocket."

Mary Jane LeMaster was born in Eastern Kentucky in 1867. She remembered when everyone had a job to do and did it. She enjoyed comparing the life of her granddaughters with life as she lived it in the eastern hills.

"Women today can cook a meal in the time it took me to kindle a fire in the cook stove in the old days. We didn't open the door to a shiny white appliance and get milk and butter, or eggs that had been kept fresh for many days.

"We used to hang milk and butter in the well to keep it cool," she remembered. "We'd walk a quarter of a mile to the sulphur spring to get a cold drink before we went to bed."

She looked at the walls at the home of her grandson in Morgan County and admired the blue tile and paint. "I papered my walls with catalog leaves or newspapers, using a mixture of flour and water for paste. I thought I was real stylish when I got to order wallpaper from a wish book."

Visiting in a modern home with electrical fixtures, the housewife of that long-ago era recalled her first remembrance of a light other than from the fireplace. It was an iron ladle with a long handle "that stuck in the jam rock, with a long twisted wick of new muslin placed in the mutton tallow.

"I was about eight when my father bought a brass lamp at West Liberty," she added. "It was a real treasure to me."

Kentucky women today would figure out a way to tell time if all the clocks stopped. They might devise a sundial. Miss LeMaster, who became Mrs. James Roberson in 1883, recalled that her grandparents told time by a sun mark on a doorsill. When the sun crossed the mark, it was 12 o'clock. When her father bought a weight clock, it was such an exciting possession neighbors for a time came to the house to see it.

Today, young women think nothing of tying cloth or garments in fashionable colors and designs, but in Mrs. Roberson's day she and her neighbors devised their own dyes, using what was at hand.

"We raised sheep, picked and spun our wool," she recalled. "Since the wool was white we colored it green by making a dye of hickory bark boiled in water to which alum had been added."

The madder plant, similar in shape to rhubarb, grew on her home place and its roots boiled produced a lovely pink. Deep blue was made from indigo which she bought at 40 cents a pound, and green

Charleston Group Tops in Safety

The 3,211 employees of Columbia Gas of Kentucky, Inc., and affiliates of the Charleston Group Companies have established the best safety record in both the disabling injury and vehicle accident categories for 1971 in a Columbia Gas System contest.

The Charleston Group employees were in competition with the employees of the Pittsburgh and Columbus groups.

In recognition of this achievement, both of the George S. Young safety awards will soon be presented.

The Charleston Group employees had 15 disabling injuries last year, or a rate of 2.2 per million hours worked. According to the latest available figures, the rate for American industry was 8.9, while for the gas industry the rate was 6.3.

The winning of the award marks the second successive year that it has been won by employees of Columbia Gas of Kentucky and its affiliates of the Charleston Group.

The Charleston Group employees had 104 automobile accidents for a rate of 6.6 automobile accidents per million miles driven. Charleston Group employees last won this award in 1968.

walnut hulls, boiled, produced a rich brown.

Mrs. Roberson held no envy for today's modern conveniences, but she marveled at the way women of her day "made do."

Most families then had an orchard of sugar trees and in March Mary Jane and others of the family "tapped the trees and sugared off." They poured sap into three kettles and boiled the juice into syrup.

The Robersons made their own brooms from home-grown broom corn. "We used to scald the tops of the stalks and string them on stout string," she explained. "That made it easy to stretch them in a row around the end of a broomstick. It was homemade and not always straight, but served its purpose."

Seeing the bright blue walls at the home of her grandson reminded Mrs. Roberson of still another improvisation in days when the nearest village was seven horseback hours away.

"Everyone had log houses then, with unfinished wood on the inside. Near our house at Pleasant Run were white clay banks that made a nice whitewash for the inside.

"When the walls became blackened by chimney smoke, we carried the clay in pails, thinned it with water and took an old broom to go over the inside. It would dry almost white."

Another part of this simple but strenuous life was making sausage by pounding meat at hog-killing time. Since there were no sausage bags then, they rolled the sausage in cornshucks. Another facet involved was making mattresses from duck down and chicken feathers, picked and saved throughout the year.

Women made lye from wood ashes and boiled it with animal fats and meat scraps to make soap. They had no washing machines but used a battling board and battling stick to pound dirt from clothes.

All of this is part of women's heritage—this and much more. With this tenacity to build and persevere despite numerous lacks, women have passed on to their daughters and they to their daughters enough pioneering strength to keep and sustain them.

Today, as back then, they could call on the menfolk for help, especially if they were not "out-of-pocket."

KENTUCKY TRAINING PROGRAM CITED BY NATIONAL BODY

A Kentucky project to train some 2000 emergency service personnel in emergency medical care has been cited by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration for outstanding work in the development of its training program. Requests have been received from several states for video tapes produced at the University of Kentucky Medical Center for the program.

Governor Halts Strip Permits

Governor Ford has directed the state Division of Reclamation to stop issuing new strip-mine permits for the first time in Kentucky history on an industry-wide basis.

A stop order was put on permits in Knott county two years ago after that county's fiscal court outlawed stripping there. It was lifted later after an opinion from the attorney general said the court lacked power to take such action.

William S. Wester, the governor's chief administrative assistant, said there is "no way to tell" how long the stoppage will last.

He said it is not, however, the beginning of a 60-90 day moratorium the governor had previously considered.

The stoppage does not affect operations under permits issued before Feb. 24.

EKU Students Study in Hospital

These students in the new four-year nursing program at Eastern Kentucky University are photographed at Pattie A. Clay Hospital, Richmond, where they will have their first experience with patient care. They are (seated) Joanne Whitaker, Middletown, Ky., and (standing, from left) Denise Woods, Westerville, Ohio; Jean Woods, Carbon; Lisbeth Beeson, 6432 Clematis Drive, Dayton, Ohio; Clara Noble, Minnie (Floyd county); Kimberly Applegate, 1743 Fleming Rd., Louisville. The nursing program leads to a baccalaureate degree at Eastern.

ZARAGOZA, Spain—Eight persons were killed and eight others seriously injured when a bus left the road and overturned near Trasovares, a village 40 miles from Zaragoza, traffic police reported yesterday. The bus was carrying 28 persons home after a hunting party.

IN MEMORY

In memory of John Parsons, who passed away Nov. 28, 1971:

God looked down, observed the earth
Wherein lay the streams, polluted and overthrown;
He beheld one of earth's great fishermen,
and said:
"It's time for this one to come home."

As twilight was hovering so near,
Lengthening the shadows, as phantom ghosts

A dear, old Dad in his autumn years
Received a visitor, a welcome host.

God gently closed Dad's tired, old eyes,
Then, hand in hand, they slipped away;
We love him so, our hearts now cry,
We long for him each day.

But we know our Dad is happy,
The pain he knew here is there no more,
And his steps are strong and healthy
As he walks along the golden shore.

And when we journey onward
We'll see Papa in that land
As he sits beside the waters
Holding a fishing rod in his hand.

Papa often wondered if there'd be
In Heaven a fishing hole, crystal clear;
We know there is, because, you see,
God made one from our tears.

So be happy as you fish, Pop,
Catch a big string of them today,
And as the shadows slowly lengthen
We will meet along the way.

And we'll have the grandest picnic
Ever seen on Heaven's shore,
And once again we'll be together
To go fishing for evermore.

Calls Prisoner Work-Release

State Atty. Gen. Ed Hancock says a House-passed bill allowing prisoners to be released to work and study outside correctional institutions is unconstitutional.

Hancock gave that opinion to Sen. William A. Logan, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee which now is studying the bill. The opinion has no force of law.

The bill would allow selected prisoners to work and study in communities near their institutions and visit relatives for up to one week.

Hancock said the bill violates sections of the constitution covering conditions under which convicted prisoners could work outside prisons. The sections originally were included to prohibit convict labor from competing with free workers.

He also gave some personal views on the bill, generally criticizing it as too lenient.

"At a time when the public should be given more protection for their persons... instead of additional danger... it seems to me this bill is headed in the wrong direction," Hancock said.

"The public would be benefited more by... modern, strong, secure prisons to confine people who have been found by a jury to be unfit to remain in society."

TO CONFER ORDERS OF WORK

Paintsville Commandery No. 48, Knights Templar, will confer the orders of work on several candidates, beginning at 3:30 p.m., Saturday, March 11. Dinner will be served at about 6 p.m. All Sir Knights are urged to attend.

Gov. Wendell H. Ford ordered the state Division of Reclamation to stop issuing new strip-mining permits in the first such industry-wide stoppage in Kentucky history. An aide to the governor said the halt was called to allow time for studying the situation.

Floyd Rescue Squad Finds Body of Man Drowned in Wreck

The body of Johnny Alley, 21-year-old resident of Hode, Martin county, was recovered from Wolf Creek last Saturday by members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad.

Alley and James Clay Moore, 23, of Pilgrim, were drowned when their car left the road near Lovely, Ky., and plunged into the rain-swollen creek. Moore's body was recovered with the car, about an hour after the accident, which occurred at 7:20 a.m. Alley's body was recovered at 11:20, approximately 300 yards downstream.

Sheriff Ray Fields, of Martin county, said Monday that he wished to publicly thank the Floyd county unit for their prompt assistance.

Members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad who took part in recovering the bodies were Graham Burchett, Ben Ferguson, Don Colvin, Art Leach, Alvin Nelson, John Baughman, Rudy Harris, Bill Bob Callihan and Tom Herald. Andrew Goble and Bill Callihan operated the radio unit.

Seven Named to 'Who's Who'

Names of students from Prestonsburg Community College who were selected for Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges for the 1971-'72 academic year were announced this week by Robert R. Allen, academic dean. Those selected are, from left, seated—Carolyn Simpson, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Little; Vicky Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude D. Chandler; Carolyn Lyons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham L. Lyons; Stephanie Anne Midkiff, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hal E. Midkiff; standing—George P. Archer, V. son of Dr. and Mrs. George P. Archer; Lefe Daniels, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Daniels; Randy G. Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmel G. Clark. Not pictured: Robert A. Branham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Branham.

The seven students were selected by the faculty of Prestonsburg Community College on the basis of their scholastic ability, citizenship and participation, and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities, plus the general future usefulness to business and society.

They join an elite group of students selected from more than 60 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

Listed below are the other PCC students who were nominated for Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges:

VETERAN MARTIN COACH HONORED DURING DISTRICT NET TOURNAMENT AS PLANS TO RETIRE LEARNED

Denzil Halbert, who is ending his 25-year coaching career at Martin high school this year, was honored between games of the semi-finals of the 58th district basketball tournament here last Friday night by present and former members of his team, cheerleaders and students.

In a program tinged with nostalgia the popular coach was presented by one of his former players, Pete Grigsby, Jr., now McDowell high school coach, a plaque, inscribed, "The Outstanding Coach of the Quarter-Century."

Then Mrs. Delores Flanery Click, a former cheerleader at the school, presented Mr. Halbert a $1,000 check—a gift made possible by contributions of students, present and past, and friends of the school.

Every team and cheerleading group over the 25 years of his tenure as coach was represented at the halftime program.

Until "Hoss" Halbert began coaching the Martin Purple Flash, the team had never won a tournament. It won the first of its five district championships under his guidance in 1949, and in 1965 won the 15th regional meet and represented the region in the state tournament.

The move to honor Halbert was initiated about two weeks prior to the district tournament after the coach had announced his coming retirement. County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson acted as master of ceremonies at the program given in Halbert's honor.

Title I Area Meet Set at May Lodge

John H. Bruce, director of the Kentucky State Office, ESEA, Title I, has announced the schedule for area meetings to be held March 6, to discuss changes in Title I administrative procedures and policies.

In this area the meeting will be held at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, from 9 a.m. till 4 p.m.

The Title I coordinator or contact person from each region has been asked to attend the meetings.

Betsy Layne Winner Of Basketball Title

The favored Betsy Layne Bobcats won the 58th district basketball tournament here last week, defeating Maytown's Wildcats, 89-71, but they came within a split second of never getting to the championship game.

In the semi-finals Friday evening the Bobcats were trailing the McDowell Daredevils by a point when Larry Osborne connected to give Betsy Layne a 60-59 victory.

The tournament draw had Betsy Layne, Floyd County Conference champion, Wheelwright, conference runnerup, and the strong McDowell team in the same bracket. The encounter between Betsy Layne and McDowell drew possibly the largest crowd ever to see a basketball game in the county. The Prestonsburg high school fieldhouse was packed, and many fans were turned away.

The tournament was marked by close games. Prestonsburg and Martin started it off with a cliffhanger, the Purple Flash coming from behind to down the Cats, 74-72. In the second game of the first round last Wednesday night, Maytown defeated Garrett, 76 to 62.

Betsy Layne was not extended Thursday night in the second round as the Bobcats defeated Wheelwright, 83-70, and it was McDowell all the way over Wayland in the nightcap, 58 to 36.

In Friday night's semi-finals, Maytown eliminated Martin, 72 to 69, in another tense struggle. The second contest of the evening was the Betsy Layne-McDowell game, the high point of the tournament.

Tommy Boyd, Betsy Layne mentor, was named Coach of the Year. All-conference players (selected on the basis of season play) are Dan Hall, Clyde Tackett and Ralph Bryant, of Betsy Layne; Larry Centers, of Prestonsburg, Johnny Parker and Bobby Hall, of Wheelwright; Steve Smith, of McDowell; John Conley, of Garrett; Ronnie Patton, of Wayland; Kent Gibson and Darrell Prater, of Maytown; Larry Crum, of Martin.

The all-district team: Dan Hall, Bobby Lawson and Ralph Bryant, of Betsy Layne; Kent Gibson and Darrell Prater, of Maytown; Eddie Campbell, Steve Smith and Glen Heinisch, of McDowell; Jeff Conley and Larry Crum, of Martin; Lloyd Marcum, of Prestonsburg; Bobby Hall, of Wheelwright, and John Conley, of Garrett.

Maytown's Darrell Prater won the individual free-throw trophy, and Betsy Layne and Maytown tied for team free-throw honors. McDowell won the sportsmanship cup. Garrett's cheerleaders placed first, with McDowell's second.

Leading individual scorers for the tournament were: Kent Gibson, 68 points; Dan Hall, 66; Ralph Bryant, 62; Darrell Prater, 60. Ralph Bryant had the highest score for a single game with 30 points.

First Shipment From New Mine Made Recently

Thirty railroad cars carrying 90,000 tons of coal last week moved the first of the product of the new Martin County Coal Corporation to market.

The shipment, a mere trickle in comparison with the expected production of the Martin county mines, went to the Duke Power Company in North Carolina. This initial production was from the company's No. 1 mine, one of five which will be served by a 24-mile railway due for completion by the Norfolk & Western Railway Company by mid-summer.

The Martin County Coal Corp., a subsidiary of the a. t. massey Coal Co., will have two mines in the area with combined annual production in excess of four million tons when in full operation. Raymond Bradbury, of Prestonsburg, is general manager of the company's operations.

When all the projected mines are completed Norfolk and Western expects to transport from nine to ten million tons of coal annually from the Martin county area. Electric power generating firms will be the primary customers for the coal. Employment at the mines is expected to approach 2,000.

TAPPED BY HONORARY

Miss Georgia Rose Gibson has been named a member of Phi Upsilon Omicron, Iota Chapter, at the University of Kentucky, national honorary home economics fraternity. Members are chosen on scholarship, leadership, service and professional attitude. Members were tapped at the fifth annual home economics banquet, February 10. Miss Gibson is also a member of the American Home Economics Association. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Gibson, of Betsy Layne, and is majoring in vocational home economics.

Wicker Among 41 Guests of Governor

Jack Wicker, president of the Floyd County Area Jaycees, was the luncheon guest of Governor and Mrs. Wendell Ford at the governor's mansion in Frankfort, February 24th, along with 41 other Jaycee chapter presidents and state Jaycees' president, Jim Vernon.

Purpose of the luncheon, sponsored by Governor Ford (former Jaycee and ex-national president) and the Frankfort Jaycees, was the presentation of a legislative packet supported by the state Jaycees' organization, and an in-depth report by Governor Ford of bills currently under consideration in both the House and Senate.

The luncheon group adjourned to the Senate for the afternoon session, with each individual Jaycee being introduced to the Senate body by his respective Senator.

Mr. Wicker is assistant cashier of the First National Bank, and in addition to being president of the Jaycees, directs the First Methodist Church drama club. He is also active in local theatre, and will be remembered by local audiences for his portrayal of Black Wolf, the 85-year-old Indian Chief, in last summer's Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre's world premiere of "Jenny Wiley."

Speech Festival Slated Mar. 10-11

A regional speech festival will be held March 10-11 at Pikeville College.

Participating will be high schools from Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties.

Events will include analysis of public address, broadcast announcing, debate, discussion, dramatic literature, duo acting, extempore speaking, original oratory, poetry interpretation, prose interpretation, public speaking and story telling.

Winners will participate in state competition April 7-8 at the University of Kentucky at Lexington.

Ted C. Gilbert, executive director of the state Council on Public Higher Education, says removing state university presidents from the council would be a "great mistake." He made the statement before the joint legislative committee on Appropriations and Revenue.

smashed, trailers destroyed, piles of trash and logs and brush, bodies at almost every bridge abutment. National Guardsmen were pulling bodies out of wrecked houses, out of the black mud and piles of driftwood. The dead were strung all along the creek and roadside. They were loading bodies into helicopters and trucks. When we got to about a mile below Riley, there was a dead man sitting in the door of a ruined trailer.

Stapp, the old Army veteran, said: "I once saw the Army firebomb a town and I thought the results were horrifying, but this is the most terrible thing I have ever seen."

When the four men reached Riley they found few houses standing. They pulled in at the postoffice. It was smashed. Nobody there. It was the same story at the town's service station. A young girl wandered aimlessly onto the scene. From her they learned where Wallace Scalf lived.

"When he saw me he cried," Scalf said of his meeting with his uncle. He was still in shock. "You could hear the crashing of the houses and the people screaming before you saw the water," he told them.

He told them how he and his wife fled their home to higher ground, how he and a boy carried Mrs. Scalf's mother, Mrs. Berry White, formerly of Betsy Layne, with them to the hillside overlooking their homes and remained there in the rain and cold till the water receded.

"Before we left," Julian Scalf recalls, "Stapp called my attention to Guardsmen pulling two bodies from a car that was standing on its end against a power pole. As we came back down Buffalo it was getting dark and we could see fires all along the hillside. The ones that were alive were wet and were trying to stay warm."

They took back to Man the first report from Riley and a list of about 50 names of survivors. Wallace Scalf is quoted by his nephew as saying: "We were assured by Man radio, six days before the flood, that the dam was safe."

"Everybody on the streets at Man agreed," Scalf says, "that the politicians and coal operators would play the tragedy down."

But nobody can "play down" the fact that more than 100 human beings who lived in Riley and Larado and other little towns along Buffalo Creek lost their lives that morning when the dam broke.

Floyd County Church Winners

Superior shooting and overpowering rebounding helped the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church to win the Floyd County Church League basketball tournament held at Wayland last week.

In the first game Irene Cole defeated Fitzpatrick Mission, 89-51, then coming back two nights later to play the semi-finals and finals both in one night. In the semi-final game Irene Cole overpowered the Community Methodist Church of Prestonsburg, 85-43 and half an hour later downed Hueysville Church of Christ in the final game, 83-59.

The Appellate Court order of last Friday, however, amended the Fanning order to read:

"The plaintiffs are granted a temporary injunction and the defendants and all persons acting in concert or participating with them are temporarily enjoined from in any way interfering with the orderly conduct of the schools at Martin, Kentucky, by the use of pickets or in any way advocating or soliciting that students not attend school or that parents withhold their children from attending school. Except as is hereinabove stated nothing in this order shall in any way be interpreted to prevent the defendants either individually or collectively from expressing their dissatisfaction publicly and privately with the method and manner of the operation of the Martin schools nor from criticizing or otherwise commenting upon those persons charged with the responsibility of conducting and operating said school. This temporary injunction shall continue in full force and effect until modified or dissolved by the circuit court or this court or until a permanent injunction is granted or denied."

Last week-end, County Judge Rutherford disputed claims of state officials that there are no hazardous slag dams in the area.

Judge Rutherford said seven large slag-held lakes can be found in Pike county alone, including one "really dangerous one," 150 feet deep, located on a mountain with drainage down a valley where "thousands" of persons live.

Rutherford made his statement after being told that both Natural Resources Commissioner James S. Shropshire and Mines and Minerals Commissioner Harrel Kirkpatrick said the slag-lake danger does not exist in Eastern Kentucky.

"They don't know what they are talking about," the judge said. "If they will fly with me, I will show them lakes larger than the one on Buffalo Creek. I will show them water seeping under some."

"The only way they can find them is to fly over them. . . You don't see them from the highway."

Rutherford said most of the impoundments were created years ago when the slag—waste from coal production—was dumped across streams on mountain tops.

At the urging of Rutherford in a telegram to Gov. Wendell H. Ford, Jewell Graham, director of water in the Department of Natural Resources, visited Eastern Kentucky to look for potentially dangerous lakes.

"He's just spinning around, picking up the ones we have seen," Shropshire said. "There are a whole bunch of lakes up there (Eastern Kentucky), but none are hazardous."

Kirkpatrick, whose department is concerned only with mine safety, said, "We are worried when any water comes up. When the heavy rains came last Wednesday. . . our inspectors were sent out at once to take a look around, even though we have nothing in any of the districts that would cause this kind of thing."

Rutherford said he and valley dwellers in the mountains "know better."

MAYTOWN NEWS

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

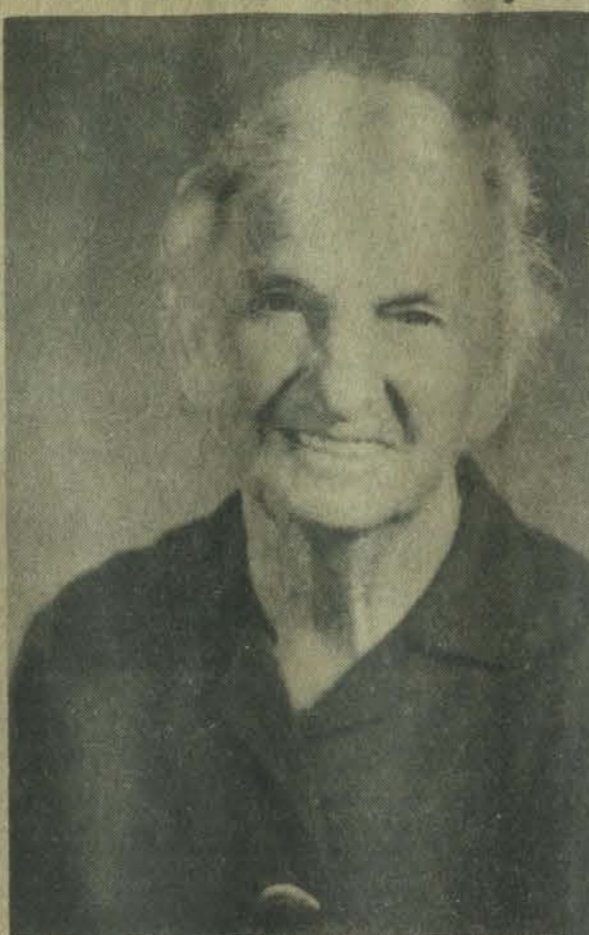

The Maytown Woman's Club held its regular monthly meeting at Vesta's Restaurant, Feb. 17, with Mrs. Jean Patton serving as hostess. A program on Library Promotion was presented by Mrs. Shirley Stewart, president. Mrs. Stewart presented to the club plans of the library being built at the new Allen Central high school at Eastern. A report was given by Mrs. Nancy Blevins on the Birthday Calendar that will be sponsored by the club. Clubmembers will be calling in coming weeks on every family living in the Maytown area.

Mrs. Stewart extended an invitation to clubmembers to enter some of the KFWC contests that will be held in early spring. Mrs. Dee Burchett, Nancy Blevins and Jean Patton were selected to serve on the nominating committee for the new club year.

At the end of the business meeting refreshments were served to the following members: Dee Burchett, Sissy Hall, Jean Patton, Mosselete Patton, Shirley Stewart, Nancy Blevins, Peggy Jean Gibson, Wanda Reed, Shannon Gibson, Betty May.

Governor Ford appointed Col. Wilburn R. Buntin, Jr., as deputy adjutant general of Kentucky and named Lt. Col. James C. Pickett as assistant adjutant general for air, promoting him to brigadier general. Both joined the U. S. Army in 1943.

90 Years Old Today

Mrs. Maude Sturgill Roberts, one of the older women of Floyd county, is 90 years old today (Wednesday, March 8). She was born March 8, 1882, the daughter of James Louis Sturgill and Emily Starnes Sturgill who were emigrants from Scott county Virginia. Mr. Sturgill settled on a farm near the head of Toler Creek, and this farm is the place where she has spent her entire 90 years.

In March, 1901 she was married to Frank Roberts, who died in May, 1965. To this marriage were born 10 children: Ranel Roberts, Millard Roberts and Guy Roberts, all of Harold; Margin Roberts, who died in an accident at age 13; Glenn Roberts, at home, and Rell Roberts, of Lexington; Mrs. Erlan Sturgill, of Betsy Layne, Mrs. Ruby Young, of Prestonsburg, Miss Lydia Mae Roberts, Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. Winnie Rowland, of Dayton, Ohio. Mrs. Roberts has one brother and one sister living—Lawrence Sturgill and Lizzie Justice, both of Pikeville.

Mrs. Roberts is still active, doing her cooking, gathering eggs and raising a garden. She looks back on life with many fond memories as well as some regrets. She is thankful that she has lived these 90 years with a reasonable portion of health—and is thankful that she has escaped the burden of great earthly riches. She recalls that she and her husband went through trying times in their early marriage, with a big family. On the lighter side, she recalls that she used to paper her house with the leaves from Sears Roebuck catalogs, and that, occasionally, the children would have to stand on their heads to fill out an order.

Mrs. Roberts was baptized and became a member of the Church of Christ at the age of 16. For more than 70 years she has demonstrated her faith by good works.

"Where Confidence Gets Business and Satisfaction Keeps It"

Nature Trails

By Rufus M. Reed

Poisonous Trees and Their Uses

Beyond doubt, the Manchineel tree is the most deadly and dangerous of all known trees. It is found in Mexico, Central America, the West Indies and in Southern Florida. It was once abundant around the swamps and Everglades, but has been ruthlessly destroyed, root and branch, by the National Park Service and the Everglades National Park personnel.

The Manchineel is a small tree, with an average height of about 20 feet. Its leaves are smooth and glossy and shaped somewhat like those of the black gum. The twigs are warty and stout, with a reddish-brown color. The twigs exude a milky sap when cut. This tree grows around the border of swamps, along sandy shores and always near bodies of water.

So deadly is the sap of this tree that falling dew or a shower of rain dripping from the leaves will destroy whatever might be under it. Horses or cattle standing under the tree, if they get wet from water falling from its leaves, suddenly go mad and start running and keep this up until they fall dead. This tree has various names to indicate its danger; it is called "The Scourge of the Everglades," and "The Torture Tree." Primitive people, when making war with others, would tie up their prisoners under a Manchineel tree, so that the poisonous sap would drop down on them and cause their death by torture. It is said that the captives would beg their conqueror to shoot them instead of tying them up under this tree.

The early Indians of the south devised a poison from the sap for use in tipping their arrows, which was quite effective. When the poison comes in contact with the skin, it destroys the tissues and causes lesions that refuse to heal. The sap of this tree burns the flesh like lye; to inhale one whiff of smoke from the burning leaves or twigs causes blindness and soon destroys the lungs.

The small fruits the tree bears, which are about the size of wild crabapples, are equally as dangerous as the leaves. To eat one of these means death by torture, as their juices soon burn up the intestines and bring a most painful death. When the park rangers burn this tree, they have to keep the curious campers far back, where no smoke can reach them; the rangers protect their faces with masks while burning the leaves or twigs.

One may well ask, "Why would nature create such a deadly tree as the Manchineel?" Nature seldom does anything without a purpose. The Manchineel trees are her "guard trees." They were created and made to grow abundantly around swamps and about the Everglades to protect them against destruction of man or beast. Nature wants the swamps and places like the Everglades forever kept safe; the Indians and aborigines knew the Manchineel trees and avoided them. So the trees stood guard over the special places nature wanted to preserve for untold ages. But modern man stepped into the picture and ushered in a campaign to destroy all these trees. The result? The Everglades have been invaded and desecrated and much of their beauty destroyed.

The poison sumac is another dangerously poisonous small tree which grows around swamps and almost always keeps its toes in the water. It was designed as a guardian of the swamps; people soon learn to let it strictly alone. This sumac has the most brilliant autumn foliage of any of its clan. Persons seeking beautiful fall colors for decoration sometimes gather the foliage, but the results of touching the leaves are disastrous. The juice from the stems or leaves is bitter and highly poisonous; it causes a burning rash on the skin which is said to be more painful than that caused by poison ivy.

This sumac is found mostly in bogs and swamps of the mountain counties of West Virginia but is not abundant in the Tri-State region. The leaves are compound, with about nine leaflets, and an odd one at the end. This sumac has some marked differences from the three species common to our region. These three are the staghorn sumac, the smooth sumac and the wing-ribbed sumac. All of these bear seed pods with red berries (drupes). But the poison sumac bears grayish-white berries not formed in pods like the others. Believe it or not, the poisonous juice of this sumac makes one of the finest varnishes known. It is jet-black with a shiny luster and lasts for years. However, there is a risk in preparing the varnish, so not many are willing to take this risk. The poison sumac is known to botanists as Rhus Vernix, which means varnish. It is in the same group of plants as the poison ivy, which is dangerous for many persons to touch. However, poison ivy furnishes food to birds and beasts. I have seen mules eat a bellyful of poison ivy, and they seemed to thrive on it. The seeds, which are similar to those of the poison sumac, are one of the best of winter foods for birds. Man often blames Nature for many of the things she does, but she is far wiser than man; her purpose is to preserve life, not to destroy it. She created the poison sumac to stand guard at her swamps; she created the poison ivy to help feed the birds through the winter and in summer to help feed the animals. Both cattle and horses eat poison ivy without any harm whatever.

The black locust is one of our finest and most useful trees, but it is deadly poisonous to livestock. The bark and beans, if eaten by cattle, affect the heart and restrict the breathing. It causes cattle to be dizzy and highly nervous; if they eat any quantity of the young sprouts, seeds or bark, they will die unless treated with digitalis to stimulate the heart action. The inner bark of locust has a rank, obnoxious odor, which should be a warning to any beast not to eat it. Yet horses and cattle, too, sometimes gnaw the bark to eat and get seriously poisoned. Yet the flowers of the black locust are creamy white and fragrant and they furnish plenty of nectar to bees.

FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT VS. NOTICE OF SALE CR7577

OSCAR COLE, COMMITTEE FOR MARY COLE, AN INCOMPETENT PH.

LINDA HAMILTON, FRANCIS HALL, AND UNKNOWN HEIRS OF ISABEL MARTIN, deceased Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the February 18 term 1972 in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 10 day of March, 1972 at 10 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, upon a credit of six months, the following described property to-wit:

That certain tract or parcel of land located in Floyd County, Kentucky, on the Mitchell Fork of Big Mud Creek, a tributary of Big Sandy River, and is described as follows:

A certain tract or parcel of land lying in Floyd County, Kentucky, and being the same land conveyed to Will and Ella Hall by Henry Hamilton and wife by deed bearing date of July 20, 1898, which is recorded in Deed Book No. 1, page 73, Floyd County Court Clerk's Office, containing thirty (30) acres, more or less, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning on an elm near a branch on William Hamilton's line; thence up the point with same line to the top of the point; thence around the top of the hill with the same line to John Hamilton, Jr.'s line to a point; thence down the point to a cross fence with same fence to the branch; thence crossing the branch to the mouth of a drain; thence up the drain to the top of the point to Steve Hamilton's line; thence with his line down the point to Henry Hamilton's line; thence with his line down the point to the branch; thence down the branch to opposite of the elm; thence to the beginning, including all in said boundary.

This sale is being made to settle the estate of the late Will Hall and Ella Hall. For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 21 day of February 1972.

About 6,000 Jobless To Get Added Pay
Approximately 6,000 jobless Kentuckians are now eligible for additional unemployment insurance payments, Garnett Johnson, acting commissioner of the Department of Economic Security, announced last week.
"An additional 5,300 unemployed workers are expected to qualify for extended payments when their current claims are exhausted between now and April 1," the commissioner said.
The extended benefits, which will mean approximately one-quarter million dollars per week for unemployed Kentuckians, were made possible by Senate Bill 120, signed into law by Governor Wendell Ford, February 28.
Claimants who no longer have rights to benefits and whose prior claims expired on or after January 2, 1972, are eligible for extended benefits.
Unemployed workers who are currently receiving unemployment benefits but are still without employment when their benefits are exhausted also are eligible.
The maximum amount of additional benefits will be one-half the original entitlement. The weekly benefit will remain at its original figure.

Mining Students On Field Trip

The first class of Pikeville College's mining-technology course is shown in field study at the New Virgie Coal Company in Pike county. The class is nearing the successful end of the first year of the two-year program, which leads to an associate degree. The course is directed completely at coal production, health, reclamation, and safety geared to the federal mining laws, and was initiated at Pikeville College last fall with Dr. Maurice E. Bailey as director. Dr. Bailey pointed out that the course, which stresses the practical, is presented through the cooperation of the U. S. Bureau of Mines and Minerals, the Appalachian Regional Commission, Coal Operators and Associates, Inc., a national coal-industry group based at Pikeville, and individual companies in the coal industry. A new class will begin next August at the college.

Extending Unemployment Benefits Will Affect 6000 Kentuckians

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Wendell Ford has signed into law Senate Bill 120 which will allow about 6000 jobless Kentuckians to become eligible for additional unemployment insurance payments.

The additional or extended benefits apply to those claimants who no longer have current rights to benefits and whose prior claims expired on or after Jan. 2.

The maximum amount of additional benefits will be one-half that of the original entitlement with the weekly benefit rate remaining at its original figure.

Payment of additional benefits is tied to the state or national insured unemployment rate.

Because the national insured unemployment rate is greater than 4.5 per cent and has remained at that level more than 13 consecutive weeks, persons covered under the unemployment insurance law can be eligible for additional benefits.

Under the new state legislation, costs of the benefits will be shared jointly by the state and federal governments.

Acting Economic Security Commissioner W. Garnett Johnson explained that claimants of extended benefits must meet the same requirements as were applicable to their regular claims.

Any unemployed worker whose claim was filed on or after Jan. 3 and who has no current benefit entitlement may file a claim for extended benefits, according to Johnson.

The ecology-minded Citizen's League to Protect the Surface Rights has obtained a temporary restraining order preventing the Kentucky Air Pollution Control Commission from enforcing its newly adopted pollution control plan. A lawyer for the league said the group wants more time to study the plan's provisions.

IN APPRECIATION

We wish to thank the members of the Little Salem Church, the ministers and all of those who by their presence, flowers, cards, or acts of kindness have shown so much thoughtfulness and sympathy to us in the passing of our loved one, Jonathan Boyd. We also wish to express our appreciation to the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

OFFIE BOYD, JOHN I. BOYD 1t.

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the wonderful people for the kindnesses shown us upon the passing of our sister and wife, Anna Marvin Call. We would thank the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its efficient service, and express our most heartfelt thanks to the ministers of the Church of Christ for their kind and consoling words.

PROPERTY VALUATION ADMINISTRATOR
(Tax Commissioner)

I request that the taxpayers who have either BOUGHT, SOLD or BUILT to come in immediately and have your listings corrected for the year of 1972. The assessment period is from January 1, 1972 through February 28, 1972.

Also, those people who have not reported their MOBILE HOMES MUST DO SO. Failure to report these will result in possibly being penalized the 20 percent penalty; it is also possible to go back five (5) years on all property.

Also, business firms that have not reported their inventories, business furniture and fixtures, accounts receivables and other taxable information, please do so before March 1, 1972.

Keeping the tax rolls up to date is very difficult without your cooperation.

Respectfully yours,
HARRY GORDON ALLEN

Whatsoever Things

By DONALD E. WILDMON

Gethsemane is located in a valley. Perhaps that is symbolic. For life cannot be lived on mountain tops. It is a series of highs and lows. And here at Gethsemane was a low period for our Savior.

Gethsemane is located in the Kidron Valley, between the Mount of Olives to the east and the Temple area inside the walls of Jerusalem to the west. It was a favorite spot for Jesus, and no doubt He came here often to pray and rest. On the night of His arrest He had brought with Him His disciples. Three of them—James, John and Peter—He took on into the Garden. He went farther into the Garden to pray, making a simple request of His three friends that they watch for Him while He prayed. But three times He returned to find them sleeping—perhaps because it was late and they were tired, or perhaps because they did not understand the seriousness of the situation.

It was in Gethsemane that Jesus agonized in prayer. His will came into conflict with God's will. He could see before Him an ugly and painful cross which He wished to avoid. The sight and smell of blood from the slaughter of sheep for the Feast of the Passover, flowing in the nearby Kidron Brook, was heavy that night. No doubt this brought to His mind the very likely possibility that His blood would flow in a very short time.

Jesus was not in the Garden very long until He noticed the approach of a small group of Roman soldiers and Jewish Temple guards, led by Judas Iscariot. Down the steps which passed by the home of Caiaphas the high priest they came, the very same steps Jesus and His disciples had walked down after leaving the Upper Room. Upon arrival, Judas greeted Jesus with a kiss—the traditional greeting among friends. "Master!" cried Judas as he kissed Christ. How many times since then He has endured the same type of hypocrisy!

They carried Him away from Gethsemane to a fate no man should have to endure. He went, willingly, because He had decided while praying in the Garden that God's will and not His would prevail. Perhaps as they walked away He looked up to the Golden Gate across the Kidron and remembered the previous Sunday's events when the crowd cried, "Hosanna!" There was no crowd other than the soldiers now. And no hosannas. Only silence—and darkness.

The Garden of Gethsemane is still there in the Kidron Valley today. This "place of the wine press" has eight olive trees growing in it. They are gnarled and twisted from age. Looking at them, one is reminded of the terrible agony Christ experienced here.

It is never an easy matter to do the will of God. And every man who tries will eventually come to Gethsemane. Some continue in His way from Gethsemane. Others turn back and "walk with Him no more."

Gethsemane is located in a valley. It always will be. For the crucial decisions which life places upon our shoulders are never decided on a Mount of Olives. The crucial, real, life-directing decisions come when we are in the valley. And this is as it should be. For the man who believes in God in the darkness of the valley is the only man who believes in God at all.

Lexington Pastor In Convention Post

The Rev. Franklin Owen, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church in Lexington for the past 18 years, has been elected executive secretary-treasurer of the Kentucky Baptist Convention to be effective next September 1, 1972. Owen had been recommended for the post by a special committee of the Executive Board of the Kentucky Baptist Convention and was elected to the post in a called meeting of the Kentucky Convention Executive Board which met at Elizabethtown. He will succeed Harold G. Sanders, who is retiring in August after 11 years in the convention's lead position.

Owen has been pastor of the 2,500-member Lexington church since 1954 and is a former president of the Kentucky Baptist Convention and a former chairman of the board of trustees for the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville. He also was president of the Seminary's Alumni Association. A native of Missouri, he is a graduate of Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Southern Seminary, Louisville.

"Top Knot Come Down"

By WILMAY

Years ago, when women wore their hair high on top, a minister preached on: "Top Knot, Come Down!" As he closed the message the dowager queen of his congregation accosted him with "Show me where that text is!" He pointed to Mt. 24:17, "Let him which is on the housetop not come down." Referring to the Second Coming of Christ, the passage warns people to remain where they are during the tribulation when natural calamities begin.

The pastor's misuse of the text illustrates frequent Biblical misinterpretation today by many who take words from context, insisting that a verse means this or that. This confuses new Christians who long to learn God's Word and seldom know what or whom to believe.

There are many ways to study scripture. One is to compare different versions. (Beware of perversions flooding the market. Many omit the blood and the Virgin Birth.) Another is to use famous commentaries, like those by Clark, Henry, Unger, Barclay, Erdman, Spence, Exell, etc. It is recommended that beginners start with the Book of John, then the other three gospels, and the remainder of the New Testament, leaving the Old Testament for last. It helps greatly to study one book, character, doctrine or topic at a time. It is far better to know and to apply one verse than to read entire books. It is utterly impossible to learn much about scripture without a Bible that contains multiple, built-in helps. Scofield ranks high. The Thompson Chain Reference Bible is rated the best. (Available only from its publisher in Indianapolis.) It offers the most aids. The John Wesley Dixon Bible has the four gospels, side by side, for comparison.

When scriptures seem to contradict, the reader needs more information and background study for understanding. It helps to know who wrote each passage, to whom it was addressed, what its purpose was. Nave's Topical Bible is a treasure, giving every verse on hundreds of topics. Strong's huge Concordance is a vital asset in Bible study, enabling one to read everything in the Bible on a specific subject—the only way to understand scripture. Unless this is done, one flounders, believes anything, and misinterpretation is inevitable.

One writer gives a rule of great help. He says some words, like eternal, (which can only mean forever) have a solitary meaning; therefore, they can be interpreted in only one way without making God a liar. Other words have several definitions, permitting various interpretations. When passages seem to conflict, and words of one have a lone meaning, he says accept that scripture as true, and seek extra light on the other. Learn more about it. Soon, the one appearing to contradict will come into focus, like the parts of a jigsaw puzzle. Too often readers say, "I was brought up to believe that way," and stick to it, regardless, forgetting it was tradition that caused the Pharisees and Sadducees to err. Often Christian leaders leave the impression that some quotation came from scripture, when it is from a denominational book, not divinely inspired, but one on which some faiths lean heavily.

It is tragic that many have no idea what their church believes, and never think of checking scripture to confirm beliefs or doctrines. They accept tradition, true or false. Everyone should know the doctrines of his faith and passages on which they are based. The world is being flooded by false teachings as never before.

The Bible is being read more than ever, perhaps because great leaders believe the return of Christ is near. Signs of the Rapture and Tribulation indicate this. While explanatory aids to understanding help, we must remember the colored preacher whose white minister friend offered him use of his vast library.

"Pahson, yore books may help explain de only book Ah'se got, but Ah figger mah Bible sheds a heap o'light on dem books on yore shelves."

SCOTT-HALL

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Scott, of Bypro, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Kaye Scott, to Sp-4 Paul M. Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hall, of Lancer. The marriage will be solemnized Friday, March 10, at Bypro, where the custom of open church will be observed.

The couple will reside at Fort Hood, Texas, where Mr. Hall is presently stationed with the U. S. Army.

Reading Council Told of Program At Clark School

The February meeting of the Jenny Wiley Reading Council was held at Martin high school. Dr. Catherine Shrewsbury presided and recognized the new members, including those from Magoffin county, and invited them also to join the state and national D. R. A.

The guest-speaker, John K. Pitts, discussed the three-year Right-To-Read program to be initiated at Clark elementary school. He said there will be no strict guidelines set for them to follow. All children of the school will participate. There will be a unit task force, including one person from the board of education, the school principal, two reading teachers, one reading consultant, and two parents, to assess the school's present reading program and to adapt methods for improvement. A technical assistance team of outstanding people in specialized fields will assist the local group. The program will involve volunteers, especially trained volunteers.

Leonard Allen reported on his experiences at the annual conference of the Kentucky State Council, D. R. A., held at Bowling Green.

He presented a list of ways by which people could get involved in the Right-to-Read Program which had been presented at the conference. The list included such things as these: inform parents on the reading status today; make a survey on reading in local areas; prepare programs on reading; incorporate tutors and volunteers in the program; conduct dial-in reading programs on radio; have a children's page in newspapers; sponsor a "Do-It-Yourself Night" book exhibit; compile a list of reading resource persons; community people choose the teacher of the year; have reading workshops, and publicize the Right-to-Read program.

Do you really save when you shop out of town?

Do so-called "big city discounts" really cover the cost of getting there?

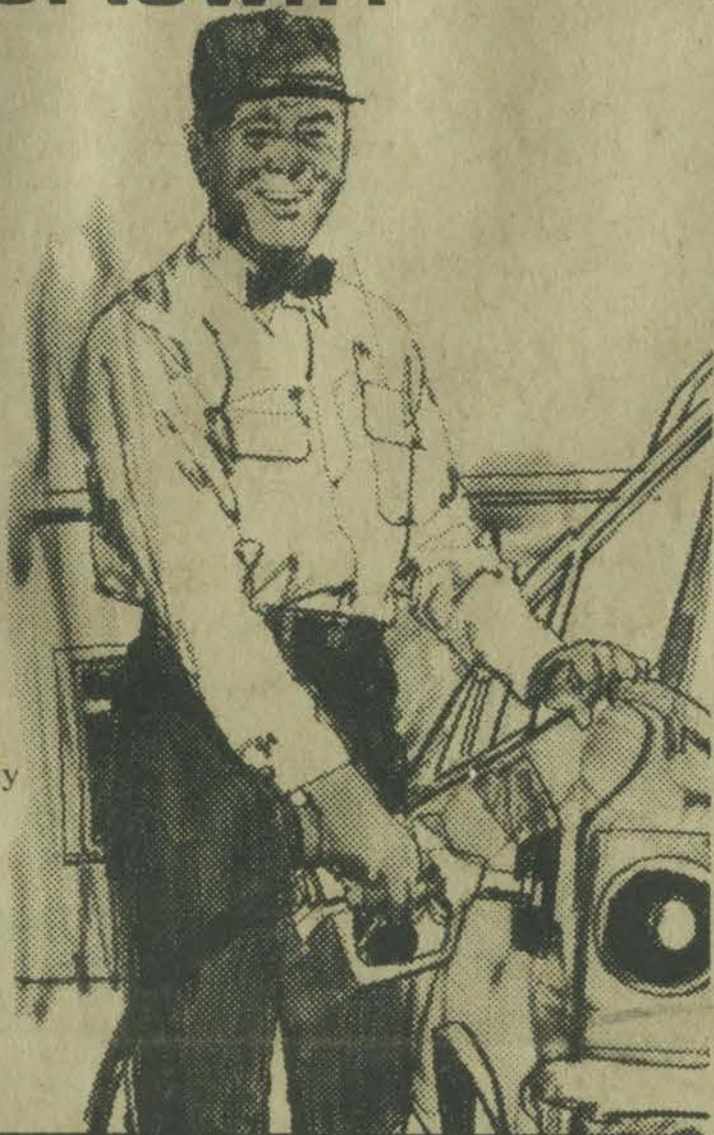

Next time you consider an out-of-town shopping trip take a minute to estimate the cost of gasoline, oil, tire depreciation and parking.

Consider out-of-town service, misfit exchanges, no-fit returns and warranty repairs.

And don't forget that money spent out of town keeps traveling while money spent at home returns in community improvements.

Add it all up.

When you face the facts don't be afraid to change your mind and shop at home.

An important message for people who prepare their own income tax returns.

Maybe you've been cheating yourself all these years.

Every year, between January and April, millions of people sit down to do battle with Uncle Sam. Some are "self styled" accountants. Others think they can save a few dollars doing it themselves—so why not.

The sad truth is, however, no matter what their reason was for starting, many of them end the same. On the short end.

You see, when it comes to income taxes, amateurs should depend on H&R Block. We have all the facilities to help you make "income tax time" a pleasant experience. To begin with, H&R Block now has over 6,000 conveniently located offices manned by thousands of specially trained personnel who are anxious to help you. They'll sit you down over a free cup of coffee and show you some things about your income tax that you might never have known existed. For example, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? And maybe you aren't aware that if your income increased last year, you may be able to save tax dollars by "income averaging."

Well, when it comes to income taxes, H&R Block is aware of just about everything because we're a company that eats, sleeps, and drinks tax returns 365 days a year.

Yes, maybe you can save a couple of bucks by doing your own return but it really may be costing you a lot more by not having your return done by H&R Block.

DON'T LET AN AMATEUR DO H&R BLOCK'S JOB.

Youngsters Clean Up Countryside

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Cleaning up the creek—part of an ecological action project undertaken by Ranger Rick's Rattlers. Affiliated with the National Wildlife Association, the youngsters from Caney elementary school formed a chapter of Ranger Rick's to learn and do what they can about their environment. Their adult moderator is a faculty member at Alice Lloyd College. Pictured above are Sharon Sparkman, 10, Mark Hughes, 13, and Andrew Erdman, 13.

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Ranger Rick's Rattlers? There they are—20 grade-schoolers pulling pop and beer cans out of Caney Creek, smashing them with rocks and shipping off cartons of cans for recycling. Each of Ranger Rick's ecological enthusiasts, affiliated with the National Wildlife Association, takes a pledge "to use my eyes to see the beauty of all outdoors."

For these ambitious kids beauty requires more than the eye of the beholder. It takes Saturday afternoons to clean creeks and roadsides, make trash collection boxes, and view their own blood under a microscope in the science lab at Alice Lloyd College where their adult moderator works. John Buckhouse, 28, a biology instructor at the college, was approached two months ago by 11-year-old Sandy Wendorf, of the Caney Creek elementary school. He and other youngsters needed an adult to help them form a neighborhood nature club, a local chapter of Ranger Rick's.

At the first meeting, five potential "Rangers" showed up. Next time there were 20. The fourth through eighth graders have a project day and two business meetings each month. Their projects are designed to provide action for members and benefits for their local community. With money raised from recycled aluminum cans, the Rattlers will make field trips to nearby Kentucky state parks.

Buckhouse, a redhead from Montana, is the son of a forest ranger. He tries to associate the action projects with the youngsters' curiosity about science so they have more than just a superficial interest in ecology.

To this end, he enlisted the aid of Dr. Gerald Osborn, professor of chemistry, who came to Alice Lloyd College after retiring from Western Michigan University. The jovial Dr. Osborn keeps the kids wide-eyed with such excitements as a Vandergraft experiment and exhibits of small hydrogen gas explosions.

After receiving a Master's Degree from Utah State University at Logan, Buckhouse served two years as an officer in the U. S. Army in Virginia and Washington. He resides at Pippa Passes with his wife, Dora, and infant daughter, Amy.

Floyd Man Buys Nursing Facility

Ronald Reid, Martin pharmacist, bought the Caudill Nursing Home at Salyersville last Saturday at a commissioner's sale for $78,300 and an adjacent lot for $1,000.

Reid's bid was highest of four offered at the sale for the 32-bed nursing home.

First Federal Savings & Loan Association, Paintsville, held a $75,000 lien against the nursing home, and the Internal Revenue Department had a lien of $8,000 against the lot, it was said.

The nursing home has been operated about nine years and at the time of its sale was used as a rest home.

Mr. Reid, owner of Reid's Pharmacy at Martin, also owns the Magoffin Drug Store at Salyersville.

TO SHOW FILM
 The Floyd County Health Department will show a film on venereal diseases at 7 p.m. Monday at the Betsy Layne high school auditorium.
