

Water Plan Work Begun Early Here

Governor Announces $600,000 To Be Used For Kentucky Plans

The five-county Big Sandy area is already almost three months into its water and sewer planning work, is ahead of practically every other area of Kentucky and stands to qualify for any federal and state aid that may be available for future work.

This appraisal of the area situation was made here Tuesday by Joe McCauley, executive director of the Big Sandy Area Development District, after it had been announced in Frankfort by Governor Ford that an estimated $600,000 in state and federal funds will be used to streamline Kentucky sewer and water planning.

The Big Sandy district, comprised of Floyd, Johnson, Pike, Martin and Magoffin counties, has employed Howard K. Bell, Lexington engineering firm, to do its study. Bell is ahead of schedule on the job and, hopefully, will have it completed next May.

Water system plans have been developed for three sections of the county on a local basis, and in at least two of these the main barrier to final approval of a federal grant and loan is the matter of procuring a sufficient number of customers who will sign agreements to use the water facilities. These systems are planned for the Prater Creek, Middle Creek and Bull Creek sections.

Of the $600,000 announced by the governor as available for planning, approximately $450,000 will come from the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and from the Farmers Home Administration.

The program will be implemented by the state's 11 Area Development Districts, thus saving much of the time individual cities and counties would need for such planning. Governor Ford said that at the present rate of qualifying it might have been several years before all Kentucky communities met the necessary planning requirement to receive federal funds for such projects. The

Two Men Held In $2,000 Break On Mud Creek

Two men jailed here Sunday afternoon by State Detective Richard Ray and State Trooper Danny Stumbo are accused of a break in which $2,000 in cash and equipment were taken, earlier in the day.

The prisoners, Charles P. Keathley and Donald F. Tackett, are accused of breaking into the S & F Trucking Company service station on Mud Creek, near Harold. Entrance to the building was made through a rear window.

Marvin Neeley was jailed Friday by State Trooper Phillip Tucker on a charge of cutting and wounding Ray Osborne in an altercation on Right Beaver Creek. Osborne was cut on his hands. A second man, Arthur Hughes, was accused of assault and battery. He allegedly struck Osborne in the face with his fist.

Others arrested within the week, charges lodged against each and names of arresting officers follow:

Randell Stanley, drunk driving and resisting arrest, by Deputy Sheriffs Keens and Yontz; Gorman Shepherd, reckless driving, speeding and eluding a police officer, by State Trooper Dannie Williamson; John A. Boyd, worthless check, by Deputy Sheriff Buddy Ward; Johnny Watson, no operator's license, reckless driving and assault with a deadly weapon, by State Troopers Stumbo and Cantrell; Ronald Preston, drunk driving and eluding a police officer, by Wheelwright Policeman Harold Johnson; Stephen Michael Carter, drunk driving, by Prestonsburg Policemen Woods, Lafferty and Potter; Tommy Kendrick, drunk driving, by Policemen Conley and Lawson.

Ginger Explains Role Of ROPES in Area

Dr. Lyman Ginger, state superintendent of public instruction, explained last Thursday to the Paintsville Chamber of Commerce and others the ROPES (Regional Organization Promoting Educational Services) program. His appearance at Paintsville was a response to those who had contended ROPES constitutes a threat to Mayo Vocational School and its director, George L. Ramey.

Presenting a slide description of the operational aspects of the program, Dr. Ginger explained that ROPES will be funded for three years by the Appalachian Regional Commission, that there will be 17 such regional programs in the state, and that the Department of Education has the responsibility to supply leadership for secondary and vocational education.

It's That Season Again

Although intermittent rain and freeze have not got in their licks this early, US 23 is having its slides wherever cliffs border it between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. Photo shows results of one such slide from the cliff, near Branham Village, south of here. The cliffs are unterraced, leaving rock free to drop or roll onto the highway. One Pike county man reportedly was caught driving the left side of the highway, travelling south along one of these cliffs, last year. He admitted he regularly committed this offense because he did not dare run the gauntlet of rock falling from the cliffs.

Circuit Court In New Session Starting Monday

The Floyd circuit court began its November criminal term Monday, two days after the conclusion of a civil session during which several cases involving rights-of-way for new US 23 in this county were heard.

The term which ended last week was the extended October session. Among the right-of-way decisions were these: Riley and Florence Hall, award of $55,000; Ruby Alice Stratton, $1,000; Octavia Lewis, $7,000; Ernest Boyd, $9,000; Mr. and Mrs. Billy D. Wallen and The First National Bank, $11,375; Arthur Garrett, $22,500; Elsie and Linda Stephens, $25,000; Andy McClanahan and First Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n, $30,000.

A hearing of the case of Clay Daniels, accused of possessing hard and dangerous drugs for sale or use, was heard last Wednesday, and the charge was reduced to

Island Creek Pays Employees of Mine $30,786 Wages Due

The claims of 47 employees of Tri-County Mining, Inc., who recently filed suit to collect $30,786.53 as wages due them for the month of October have been met by Island Creek Coal Company.

It was explained that Island Creek has been the purchaser of coal produced by Tri-County at its Spurlock mine, near Printer, and that Island Creek owed the company enough to cover the workers' wages.

W. W. Burchett, attorney for the workers, said funds for the payment of wages have been deposited by Fred G. Francis, Island Creek's attorney, with Circuit Clerk Frank DeRossett for disbursement to the workers. Mr. Burchett said that the requirement that Clarence Mollette and Gary Cartt, operators of the mine, be summoned before the court will be obviated by an affidavit to the effect that their whereabouts are unknown.

Insurance Drop In Prestonsburg Effective Nov. 9

Prestonsburg last Thursday became the only Eastern Kentucky municipality to be accorded a reduction in fire insurance rates this year, Mayor George P. Archer said this week.

The fire protection classification was reduced as of Nov. 9 from Class 7 to Class 6. The same reduction will be established for business properties, but Anthony F. Gray, superintendent of the Public Protection division of the Insurance Services Office, Louisville, wrote Mayor Archer that there will be a slight delay in the reduction of insurance rates on business buildings.

This delay, it was explained, results from the loss or misplacing of data accumulated from a recent survey of commercial structures here. If the current search for this information is unsuccessful, a new survey will be made.

This Town . . . That World

THE EXPLORATION

Some of us political experts can be awfully, awfully dumb. We might call such shots as the eight ball in the corner pocket, but when it comes to looking farther than that and seeing into the whys and wherefores of political maneuverings, we miserably fail.

We, for instance, have been wondering in vain about why it was that Louie Nunn, for instance, couldn't ride the 300,000-majority "coat tails" of President Nixon in Kentucky and himself come up a winner. Then we finally decided Nixon carried nobody along in his wake, but we couldn't say why. Then came this from an oldtimer:

"I'll tell you why nobody rode Nixon's coat-tail—he didn't have any. When the campaign started that old boy shucked his coat and simply lit out runnin'."

HE SAID IT FOR ME

I quote here an excerpt from an editorial which my good friend, Dr. C. R. Daley, wrote for The Western Recorder:

"Nature's colors this fall must be the most glorious of all years. The crimson dogwoods, rusty oaks, brown sycamores, red sweetgums and yellow and golden maples all try to outdo one another in nature's exquisite style show. The hillsides of colors punctuated with green here and there by a holdout oak and maple along with evergreen pines and cedars arouse feelings which only poets can partly capture. The sight appears too intricately beautiful to have come from one sweep of even the master artist's hand but rather appears to be the angelic touch of a separate seraph for every tree or even every leaf."

That, it strikes me, is what I have been trying, and failing, to say, all these great days when the woods were "in flower."

QUESTION

But now the trees stand disrobed, (See Story 5, Back Page, Sec. 1)

The rate reduction is a result of improvements made in the fire department, including a second fire station, added trained personnel and a commitment to add a new 1,000-gallon-per-minute pumper to the department's equipment.

Access to Sites Of New Industry Are Considered

The newly organized Transportation Committee of the Big Sandy Area Development Committee met last Thursday at May Lodge in a luncheon meeting to organize and develop strategies for expediting the four-laning and completion of U. S. 23, dealing with the problem of access roads to industrial sites, the need for rebuilding Highway 40 from junction with U. S. 23 near Paintsville to the Tug Fork of the Big Sandy, learning the status of 460 from Paintsville to Salyersville, and to determine the role the committee will play in relocation of Highway 80 from U. S. 23 to Hazard.

Joe Dean Anderson, Kentucky Department of Highways, District 12, met with the group to answer questions regarding various road projects in the Big Sandy area.

Dr. George P. Archer, board chairman of the Big Sandy Area Development District, conducted the business session in which Chester Smith, Pikeville, was elected chairman of the committee; Marvin Music, Sr., Prestonsburg, vice-chairman, and Herman Wheeler, Paintsville, secretary.

According to Dr. Archer, the committee is composed of appointees from the five county judges in the area, the county seat mayors, and representatives of the Chambers of Commerce.

Members appointed to the committee were:

Floyd county—Ed Music, William R. Callihan, Marvin Music; Pike county—Jarrett Wood, Chester Smith, and William E. Justice; Johnson county—Joe E. Radcliffe, Herman Wheeler, Bill Gibson; Magoffin county—Bill Cantrell, Henry J. Joseph, Kelly Risner; Martin county—J. B. Triplett, Clay Wells, Russell Williamson.

The committee's next meeting will be held January 9, at May Lodge, at 6 p.m. At that time it will further define the role it will perform in bringing about improved transportation facilities in the Big Sandy area and the Eastern part of Kentucky.

Kin of Doctor Gunshot Victim

H. Devaughn Pratt, of Lexington, father of Dr. William D. Pratt, of McDowell, died at General hospital, Louisville, of gunshot wounds sustained Thursday afternoon.

Police said the 65-year-old Pratt was shot in the back and robbed while walking to the Churchill Downs Race Track about two blocks away from his parked car. His empty wallet was found about 40 feet from the body. Authorities are searching for three men in their 20's.

Mr. Pratt was employed by the University of Kentucky purchasing department and is survived by his wife, Francis Crawford Pratt.

Other survivors include two other sons, Donald B. Pratt, of Milan, Mich., and Robert B. Pratt; a daughter, Mrs. Randall Thomson, of Fort Worth, Texas and six grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at 10 a.m. at Eastminster Presbyterian Church in Lexington.

Shotgun Blast Claims Former Floyd Co. Child

The gunshot death Monday afternoon of eight-year-old Darwin Douglas Burchett, former Floyd boy, at Abbey Branch, near Phelps, Pike county, is being investigated, authorities said Tuesday.

The Burchett child, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Burchett, formerly of Cow Creek, was shot in the mouth with the charge of a .410-gauge shotgun. He died instantly.

The blast was apparently fired by a 12-year-old neighbor of the Burchett family. Parents of the youth were quoted here as

Floyd Wasn't Alone In McGovern Support

The fellow who said, last Wednesday morning, that Democrat George McGovern had "carried Massachusetts, the District of Columbia and Floyd county" didn't tell the full story.

Floyd county wasn't alone, even in Kentucky. Seven other counties in the state registered McGovern majorities. Of the eight counties giving him the nod in their voting, seven—Floyd, Knott, Breathitt, Elliott, Menifee, Morgan and Wolfe—are in the "rock-ribbed" Democratic Seventh Congressional district. The eighth was Carroll county.

The results of the Presidential campaign had been correctly predicted by almost everybody, privately or publicly, for months. But the campaign in Kentucky had its surprises.

One unexpected result was the 300,000-plus lead President Nixon piled up in Kentucky. The other was the election of Walter "Dee" Huddleston, Democrat, to the U. S. Senate from Kentucky over Ex-Governor Louie B. Nunn in the face of the Republican landslide at the top of the ballot.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins was re-elected by upwards of 35,000 over his Republican opponent, Robert Holcomb, of Pikeville.

It was Perkins who led everybody in the Floyd county voting with 10,442 ballots to exactly 3,000 for Holcomb. Pike county, Republican in the Presidential voting, gave Perkins a majority.

The McGovern lead in this county over President Nixon was 1,455. Huddleston, meanwhile, was piling up a 4,470-vote margin over Nunn in the Senate race, and James B. Stephenson, of Pikeville, in the race for the Appellate Court bench led Don A. Ward, of Hazard, by 2,376 votes.

James R. Allen had 7,935 votes for County Attorney. This was considered a heavy vote, in view of the fact that Allen was without opposition and little was done to center voters' attention on his spot on the rather large ballot.

In three sections of the county heated campaigns staged for places on the Floyd County Board of Education contributed to the county's heavy vote total of almost 14,000. In these the administration won two

Break Ground for New Church

Groundbreaking for St. James' Episcopal Church were held here last Wednesday afternoon. Among those participating were Canon David Webb, who represented Bishop Addison Hosea Diocese of Lexington; Mrs. Sallye Clark, of the building committee; Dr. Herbert G. Salisbury, Jr.; Hardin C. Short, senior Warden; Rev. George P. Donehoo, rector, and Mrs. Susan Elliott, who donated the lot. More than 50 attended the ceremony.

BRYANT-MITTS VOWS SAID

The marriage of Miss Constance Rene Bryant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Bryant, of Amelia, Ohio, and Mr. Jon T. Mitts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Mitts, Batavia, Ohio, was solemnized Saturday afternoon, September 16, at the Amelia United Methodist Church. The Rev. William Tolliver performed the double-ring ceremony, and Mrs. Tolliver provided the nuptial music.

Wearing a bridal gown designed and made by herself, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The bodice of layered georgette over satin was styled with a high neckline, empire waistline, and long bell sleeves. The full skirt fell into a natural train. She wore a triple-layered veil of bridal illusion. She carried a nosegay of white roses and yellow carnations.

Miss Debbie Holden, of Cincinnati, Ohio, served as maid of honor. She wore a yellow empire gown featuring long bell sleeves with a matching short veil. She carried a nosegay of colorful summer flowers.

Mrs. Connie Gultz, of Cincinnati and Misses Cindy Bryant, sister of the bride, and Jeanie Tackett, cousin of the bride, were the bridesmaids. Their gowns and nosegays were identical to those of the honor maid.

Tom Overstreet served as best man and Richard, Bob and Jimmy Mitts, brothers of the groom, served as ushers. Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church.

Registering the guests was Mrs. Connie Mitts, sister-in-law of the groom. Those attending from out of town included Mrs. Bruce Cornett, Troy, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Kibley, Trenton, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred K. Morgan, Cold Springs, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Tackett and Robbie, Prestonsburg; Jeffrey Miller Wells, Auxier; Mrs. Jackie Carlatta and Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Bell, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Ishmael Tackett, Phillip and Ingrid, Cincinnati, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Bernhard, grandparents of the groom, Cincinnati, O., and Mrs. Fannie Bryant, grandmother of the bride, Melvin.

Mrs. Mitts is the maternal granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Tackett, of Melvin, Ky.

A week's wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania was taken by the couple.

Thanks Voters

I would like to thank everyone who allowed me to enter their homes or anyone else to campaign. I thank everyone who took time to attend the meetings which were held for me. Anyone who in anyway helped during the campaign is appreciated very much. No matter which candidate you were for, I still think the same of you. I would like to congratulate Dr. Mary Hall on her recent school board election win.

Bad News for Truck-Rutted Roads

Kentucky and its counties have failed to enforce the law against overloaded trucks, and now the state apparently is washing its hands of the whole affair.

This turn of events came when Highway Commissioner Pryor recently announced that roads used by overloaded coal trucks have been excluded from the state road resurfacing program.

That means that no road, major or minor, on which the state would spend money for repair will be resurfaced if it has been damaged by these trucks.

It means that private individuals and businesses served by such highways will ride the ruts till better days come along. Innocent of violating the law themselves, they will suffer a penalty never exacted of those who are guilty.

And they will continue to suffer, unless the coal-haulers themselves repair the damage done. Or it might happen that if the situation becomes unbearable the courts will require coal trucks to stay within long-ignored legal weight limits.

Hetzer Books 'Fantasy on Parade' At Fieldhouse Here, Nov. 26

Coming to the Prestonsburg high school fieldhouse, Sunday, Nov. 26, for a performance at 2:30 p.m., James Hetzer's new spectacular "Fantasy on Parade" will spotlight today's favorite family fantasies and characters, from the ornate and enchanting "Pageantry of Toyland" to the modern "Now" sounds of musical stylings by "Excitement '73" with the New Impressions.

Hetzer, for more than 25 years a prominent theatrical producer, says of Fantasy on Parade, "This show has been created and produced to please and entertain every member of the family, from pre-school right through to the older generations. We're using talent from all over the world, and our scenery many beautiful floats, costuming, and electronic equipment are the most elaborate and costly we have ever toured. I really hope people will bring their cameras.

For the youngsters, Millie Hall and Walter Stimax's interpretation of "Sesame Street" features that nationally-famous TV program's best-known characters—Big Bird, Oscar, Bert and Ernie, Cookie Monster and their pals—in their favorite routines and songs.

Excitement '73, with the great sounds of The New Impressions, is one of America's fastest-rising groups, an aggregation of seven vocal and instrumental soloists, each a top talent in his own right. They include Midori Ashikawa, top song stylist of Tokyo's leading clubs and hotels; Joni Craig, whose unique vocal renderings have headlined her from Toronto to Miami; Freddie Spicer, considered by experts to be one of America's three greatest drummers; Tommy Sak, famous for his fantastic saxophone work in the now-classic recording of "Night Train;" Harry Kinzey, who at 21 is already a recognized virtuoso of the jazz and modern organ; and Billy Harris, guitarist and vocalist featured in recordings and night clubs throughout the country. Jay Harvey, widely-known for his many TV and radio appearances, adds his own hilarious brand of comedy to Excitement '73.

Petite Hetzi, well-known to those who follow The Nashville Sound, sings rock, soul-music and country and western with equal ease and charm. She is among the galaxy of stars to be seen in Fantasy on Parade, including Ha'i Loo Chung, with a baffling and unbelievable display of oriental magic and illusion; The Grimaldis, musical comics in the best English musical-hall tradition; and The Young Troupe, Hungary's outstanding double teeterboard and trampoline artists. Coco, one of the best-known and best-loved clowns of our time, and Buck Nolan, the eight-foot tall clown, recently returned from Australia, will assure that children of all ages have more than their share of laughter.

ASSISTS IN INSTALLATION

Rev. Wm. Thomas, Mrs. Thomas and children were recently in Toledo, Ohio, where he assisted in the installation of Rev. Harold Fredsell to the pastorate of the Christ Presbyterian Church. Following the ceremony Rev. Thomas flew to Naples, Florida, to be with his father, Robert Thomas, who had undergone successful surgery.

Thirty Years Ago

(November 12, 1942)

Registration of home owners and car operators for kerosene and gasoline rationing will be started in Floyd county today (Thursday)... Mines operated by Ward and M. K. Reed, in this county, led mines of the Big Sandy area in safety during September, A. D. Sisk, secretary of the Big Sandy Elkhorn Mining Institute, reported last week... George Burke, Jr., 14-year-old Drift schoolboy, succumbed Tuesday morning at Orthopedic hospital, Huntington, West Virginia, to injuries sustained September 21 when struck by a truck while in search of scrap to aid the national war effort... Fifty-one of the 168 Floyd countians called from Selective Service Board 44 for final examination at Huntington, West Virginia, were rejected because of a variety of shortcomings... Gene Hughes, 63, of Minnie, was fatally crushed by a slatefall in the Stumbo Elkhorn Coal Company mine at Drift, Thursday morning... Quarantine of several Floyd countians who have been rejected for military service because of syphilis and who have not submitted to later treatment as directed was asked Thursday by the Floyd County Board of Health... Fillmore F. Jones, 30, former Martin liquor store operator, died at Memorial hospital, Williamson, W. Va., October 29, of injuries sustained in an automobile wreck on the Williamson-Matewan highway... Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hager, of David, Friday, a son, Ashley Brian; to Mr. and Mrs. Andy (Buster) McClanahan, of Bull Creek, a son, Andrew Anthony, November 4... There died: Mrs. Arminta Crager Cyrus, 71, Wednesday, at the home of her daughter at Winchester, Ohio.

Twenty Years Ago

(November 13, 1952)

Rumor persisted here this week that a federal probe of the conduct of the November election in three Floyd county precincts will be made, the three precincts under suspicion being Toler Creek, Antioch and Drift... Work on the Prater Creek-Mud Creek highway will be started within the next few days, the Winston Ford company, contractors on the job assured County Judge Henry Stumbo, Wednesday... Bobby Gene Quillen, 22-year-old employee of the Inland Steel Company, was instantly killed late Tuesday afternoon when he was caught by a coal car at Price and rolled beneath it on the tracks... Virgil O. Turner, superintendent of Floyd county schools, was elected Saturday without opposition as president of the Eastern Kentucky Education Association... The Big Sandy Coal Operators Association will assist in the sampling of coal to find rare germanium, C. W. Davis, secretary of the Association, has advised Hansford May, chairman of the Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce committee on germanium... Melvin Hughes, 27 years old, former Hueysville miner, was fatally injured Saturday night in an auto wreck near La Porte, Indiana... Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hughes, formerly of Martin, a daughter, Maria Jean, October 8... There died: Willie Hall, 63, of Water Gap, at his home, November 7; Elbert S. Dotson, 76, former Floyd countian, at his home in Oak Hill, Ohio, November 7; Mrs. Evalene Owens, 19, at St. Joseph's hospital, Lexington, November 10; Mrs. Sophia Patton Gearheart, 86 years old, at her home on the Rock Fork section of Garrett, November 3; Henry Daniel Hall, 63, of Bevinsville, at the Prestonsburg General hospital, Sunday; Dinas Lynn Crum, three months old, of Wayland, at St. Mary's hospital in Huntington, November 11.

Concert Pianist To Appear At ALC

Pippa Passes, Ky.—The public is invited to a free performance by blind concert pianist, George Bennette, at Alice Lloyd College next Tuesday at 7:00 p.m.

Mr. Bennette's first important success as a performer came at the age of seventeen when he made solo appearances with the North Carolina Symphony. It was, however, in 1956, on the occasion of his London debut, that his playing began to win acclaim from the critics of leading newspapers. Recently a critic of the Washington Post said, "George Bennette played a recital at the National Gallery last night with the kind of musicianly concentration that is rare among pianists... He left an indelible impression."

He has concertized extensively in the United States, playing the major musical centers of New York, Boston, Washington and many other cities. His imaginative programming has attracted the attention particularly of college and university audiences. He likes to combine conventional repertoire with works which are seldom played, and he is strongly committed to the performance of music of the twentieth century. Mr. Bennette has recorded for Musical Heritage Society and Desto Records, works by Del Tredici, Helps, Skalkottas, Ben Weber, Messiaen and Brahms.

Director of the Lighthouse Music School in New York, Bennette lives with his family in Manhattan.

Governor Ford has approved federal Office of Economic Opportunity grants totaling $760,898 to local agencies in Kentucky.

"Harmonettes" Featured In ALC Spiritual Week

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Four musical events highlighted Spiritual Emphasis Week for Alice Lloyd College students this week. The Watchmen of Kentucky Christian College sang modern songs "converted" into Jesus Music. Twenty-four hours later "The Junior Harmonettes" of Wheelwright, and its Friendship Baptist Church sang Negro spiritual songs. Marvin Bollinger of Lexington, appeared during the week to sing solo and lead group singing.

On Thursday, the Burton Quartet from the Pentecostal Church in Burton, Ky., was scheduled to entertain. Spiritual Emphasis Week at Alice Lloyd College was sponsored by the Campus Activity Committee.

Haystack Makes Comeback

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
(College of Agriculture)

Lexington, Ky.—The haystack that once served as sort of a landmark on many Kentucky farms and stood out as a symbol of good husbandry now is making a comeback.

The extent of this return is yet to be determined, but new equipment and new stacking techniques are being evaluated and many farmers are returning to the old-fashioned practice with new-fangled means.

Before the advent of the hay baler, the hay was mowed, raked in windrows, shocked, and then stacked around a pole with pitchforks. However, the new stacking operation is done with machines and with much less manual labor.

It took strong backs and plenty of elbow grease to erect an old-fashioned haystack, but there was much to commend it. Besides providing provender for livestock, it also provided food and a snug sanctuary for birds and several forms of wild game.

Stacked on a low platform of poles or old fence rails, it served as a refuge for rabbits, opossums, skunks, ground hogs, and foxes. Resident birds fed on the hayseeds in winter and burrowed into its sides during winter storms. Many a covey of quail as well as many small animals escaped the bitter cold of a winter night by taking shelter under the warm confines of a haystack.

Farmers usually protected their haystacks from livestock by building pens around them. Then when the hay in the barn loft was exhausted, they restocked the supply by tearing down and hauling in the stack. Others merely tore down the pens and turned out their stock to feed at will. There was some waste in this manner of feeding, but it saved some work and the hay wasted and tromped into the ground added to the fertility of the soil. Some of the rankest blackberry briars and some of the largest stalks of corn always grew on and around the sites of old haystacks.

Then there were other benefits. Since they, too, fed on hay, rabbits could always be found in the vicinity of haystacks. When a farmer decided on a mess of fried rabbit, all he had to do was to climb upon the stack with his shotgun and send his dog out into the surrounding field. When flushed from its hiding place, the rabbit would straightway make for the refuge offered by the haystack and thus provide an easy target for the farmer perched thereon.

The top of the center pole of the haystack also served as a lookout for hawks and owls out foraging for field mice. Just about everything and everybody on the farm benefited in some way from the haystack.

The modern methods for stack storage of hay in the field are different from the old ways, but leastwise the stack is back and will be a significant improvement and encouragement to beef cow management.

Winter Living Was Different

By SUE WELLER

Frankfort, Ky.—As winter's cold approaches, we 20th century Kentuckians usually give little thought to "preparing for winter."

But, to Kentucky's early settlers, the coming of winter and cold weather presented serious problems and hardships.

Keeping warm during a winter on the frontier meant a big roaring fire that had to be kept blazing all through the long cold months.

But, while getting the wood was fairly simple, starting a fire was a more complex problem.

The most popular method called for saturating jute, the fiber of hemp, with black gunpowder.

To fully visualize this, just think of today's cigarette lighter, it's the same principle.

Though effective, the method often proved dangerous. If the touchhole wasn't plugged properly, the rifle would fire.

If warmth was the settler's first consideration, food was second—no running to the corner grocery for them.

Fortunately, there was plenty of wild game—one of the things that brought people to Kentucky was the surplus of meat.

Of course, the early settlers liked other foods with their meat. They worked long hours in the fields during spring and summer, planting and raising fruits and vegetables to be carefully rationed through the winter months.

While winter's cold was as much an enemy as the Indians to the early settlers, it also could be helpful.

A man could hang a deer carcass outside his door in November, confident that nature's refrigerator would keep it fresh for his family all winter.

The cold months helped in another way, providing ice for the frontier ice houses. These primitive deep freezes worked surprisingly well, preserving meats and other foods for months.

A frontier ice house usually consisted of a 10-foot square hole, walled with stone and about 15 feet deep.

Blocks of ice were lowered into the house, with layers of straw between, until the hole was full.

To stock their ice houses, the pioneers often made long trips on bitterly cold winter days, journeying to distant streams to cut ice.

This winter, when you adjust your thermostat or run to a nearby grocery, give some thought to winter in 1772...we've come a long way in 200 years.

Thankful We Are For Thee, And We Hope You For We

Thanksgiving isn't just a time of eating and watching football games and taking a day off.

Thanksgiving is a time to be thankful. Some people have forgotten that, which is too bad.

We at IGA have a lot to be thankful for. You, mostly. And all the thousands of people like you, who come into our stores to buy the very staff of life: the food your families eat. We never forget what a trust you put in us.

And we're thankful that we live in a country that allows us to do business in our own way, and to succeed or fail strictly on our own merits.

We're thankful, too, for all the marvelous people who are IGA. The store owners, managers, the check-out girls, the baggers, the people who stock our shelves, the night owls who keep our stores clean, our suppliers — the hundreds and hundreds of people without whom there would be no IGA.

This message has been a little long. But then, we have a lot to be thankful for.

TO APPEAR IN SHOW HERE

The Grimaldis, long favorites in English music halls and throughout Europe, bring to FANTASY ON PARADE, appearing here, Sunday, Nov. 26, their laugh-a-second comedy talents. Expert musicians, they utilize numerous instruments in a wild and wacky routine that leaves audiences clamoring for more and more.

EKU Students Study Recreation at Park

A group of 18 Eastern Kentucky University students and their instructor, Jim McChesney, recently visited Ted Hall recreational director of Jenny Wiley State Park, to observe recreational activities in an actual setting and to see what would be expected of them upon getting a job after graduation. While there they enjoyed all the recreation facilities available at the park.

George Barker, superintendent at Jenny Wiley State Park, met with the students and talked with them concerning the duties and responsibilities of operating a state park.

PCC Forms Chess Club

Prestonsburg Community College has been caught up in the recent enthusiasm for the game of chess and on October 10, a chess club was organized with 14 interested students present. Mark Lafferty, Prestonsburg High School graduate, was elected President of the club and Jim Marsh, a graduate of Johnson Central High School, was voted secretary-treasurer.

The club is meeting regularly to discuss and increase their knowledge of basic moves and methodology of the game and it is hoped that the club will promote interest in playing chess in this area.

Faculty sponsor of the P. C. C. Chess Society is Professor John Sammons.

CAMPBELL-GOODMAN VOWS EXCHANGED

Miss Gail Ann Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell, of Allen, Ky., became the bride of Danny Lee Goodman, of the U. S. Air Force, San Antonio, Texas, and the son of Mrs. Pauline Williamson and Mr. Willie Goodman, of Martin, Ky.

2-Day Workshop Under Way Here

The bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Daniel Campbell, wore a floor-length gown of white satin and lace with wrist-length lace sleeves and a long train. A seed-pearl headpiece held her floor-length veil. Her flowers were of red roses and white carnations.

The maid-of-honor, Miss Beth Conn, wore a floor-length gown of blue velvet and carried one long-stemmed red rose. The bridesmaids, Miss Cathy Everage and Miss Lorita Stephens, wore floor-length gowns made of pink dotted swiss.

Randy May, of Martin, served as best man. Paul Wade and Eddie Chafin served as ushers. The bride is now attending Allen Central high school where she will graduate at mid-term.

After the Christmas holidays she will return to Texas with her husband following his completion of basic training.

new program should accomplish that planning in less than one year.

"By working on a regional scale," the governor said, "several cities or water districts might be able to share the same facility at significant savings to all concerned."

The plans will be regional in nature, but will incorporate county and community water and sewer plans. All plans will meet the requirements of the federal agencies which grant funds for such construction.

"A quality regional planning program is needed to insure that the limited funds available are spent wisely and on the most needed facilities," the governor declared. "A sound planning and implementation program should also insure that rural water districts are developed, funded and operated on a sound management basis."

Governor Ford said that more than a million and a half Kentuckians do not have a public sewer system, more than a million do not have public water supplies and nearly 600,000 do not have plumbing facilities.

He said that barely a third of the counties in the state now have comprehensive water-sewer plans. Implementation of the new program will mean that all 120 counties will have such plans by the end of June, 1973.

A task force of state agencies will assist in coordinating and monitoring the regional programs. The Departments of Natural Resources, Health, Commerce, the Water Pollution Control Commission, the Public Service Commission, the Divisions of Sanitary Engineering, and the Kentucky Program Development Office are included.

A consulting firm, yet to be named, also will be retained by the state to assist the task force in identifying possible problem areas, and developing state goals for future water and sewer development.

NO FLUSH IN THE PAN

This is from Conservation News, and I assume no responsibility for its authenticity, veracity or whatever you may demand: A recent EPA query referred to an article in the Houston Post which dealt with the history of sewage treatment. The first paragraph of the article reads: "When Thomas Crapper invented the first practical flush toilet back in the 1870's, he was hailed far and wide as a great savior of the environment."

stripped of cloak and breech. Only the pines and cedars that have never fed on good, rich soil or drunk deeply of the underground waters remain green and unchanged. Meanwhile, those trees that have drawn more deeply and fed more richly stand, ugly and stark... Is the Law of Compensation at work among them, too?

A friend called, the other morning, asking me to write something to assure her neighbors that they could vote as they please and that they do not have to tell anybody how they voted. I didn't mean to be rude when I inquired, "Do you think anybody ignorant enough to think they couldn't vote as they please and that they must tell anybody how they voted would be able to read?"

what it might know of the subject. EPA's Office of Research and Monitoring responded: "Mr. Crapper was indeed a real person; he lived in the 19th century Victorian England, and was a sanitary engineer by trade. Recent historians credit him with inventing a valveless Waste-Water Preventer, which allowed the individual using the toilet to flush away wastes without requiring a continual water flow. For his efforts, Crapper was honored by an inscription adorning a manhole cover in Westminster Abbey which reads: "Thos. Crapper, Sanitary Engineer, Chelsea."

58th District Basketball

Basketball in the 58th district opened up, full scale, last week as every team in the district saw action.

Since last week Allen Central, the new addition to the district from the combined schools of Maytown, Garrett, Martin and Wayland, has compiled a record of two wins and one loss. Their first win under Coach Gene Frazier was over Knott Co., 95-78. The Rebels' second victory came over Carr Creek, 68-59. The Rebels took the opening lead of the low-scoring game and never relinquished it. They led by three at the half and pulled to the winning margin of nine points in the last two quarters. Scoring for the Rebels were Kent Gibson with 13 points; Darrell Prater, 13; Bob Caudill and Keith Gayheart, 12 points each; Larry Campbell and Tony Blevins, 7 points each; John Conley, 4. The Rebels' only loss was to Hindman, 72-63.

The Rebels led throughout the game until in the final quarter Hindman pulled out the win. Scoring for Allen Central were Kent Gibson, 17; Keith Gayheart, 14; John Conley, 10; Darrell Prater, 9; Tony Blevins and Don Hansford, 4 points each; Larry Campbell, 3, and Bob Caudill, 2.

McDowell also started play last week as they picked up one win and one loss. In the first game McDowell defeated Knott County, 94-87. McDowell was down by two at the half but charged back in the second half to take a commanding lead. McDowell tallies were by Glen Heinisch, 26 points; Neil Moore, 20; Eddie Campbell, 16; Terry Mullins, 11; Wendell Page, 8; David Grigsby, 2, and John Martin, 1. McDowell has four seniors and one junior, Glenn Heinisch, on this starting five. The Daredevils' only loss came at the hands of Shelton-Clark, 91-81. McDowell trailed by only one at the intermission and led by three at the end of the third period, but lost it in the final quarter. McDowell scoring: Glen Heinisch, 15; Neil Turner, 20; Eddie Campbell and Wendell Page, 14 each; Neil Moore, 4.

The Prestonsburg Blackcats opened their season last Friday night by defeating Millard, 70-61. The Blackcats are under the direction of new coach, Fred Setser. The Cats went into the dressing room trailing, but broke loose in the third quarter for a 17-point lead that served as a cushion for the rest of the half. The Blackcats' opening lineup is probably the youngest in the district with two sophomores, two juniors and one senior. Scorers for the Blackcats were sophomore Kippy McNally, 23; senior Bill Risner, 16; junior Steve Rose, 14; junior Jim Blackburn, 8; sophomore Harry Burchett, 6; Dennis Walker, 3.

The Wheelwright Trojans also opened up their campaign last week as Hindman squeaked by them, 74-73. The score was tied at the half, but floor errors plagued the Trojans the second half, allowing Hindman to capture the decision. The Trojans started four seniors and one sophomore. Starting seniors were Tippy Moscript, who tallied 33 points; Kenny Bryant, 10; Clifford James and Lowell Parker, 9 points each, as did sophomore Walter Hoard. Completing the Trojans scoring was Larry Isaac with 2 points and Mike Armour with 1.

This week's basketball schedule has Allen Central going against Breathitt County at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse. On Wednesday night McDowell travels to Betsy Layne to take on the Bobcats. Thursday night the PCC Highlanders open their season at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse against Kentucky Business College and on Friday night the Prestonsburg Blackcats travel to Sandy Hook.

PCC Basketball—a New Look

By TONY BURCHETT

Prestonsburg Community College opens its basketball season tomorrow night (Thursday) at 7:30 at the Prestonsburg High School gymnasium against Kentucky Business College of Lexington.

The outlook for this season is that P. C. C. will be able to offer some competition. For the past few years the Highlanders have not been able to be consistent winners because they have simply been out-manned. Things will be a little different this year.

P. C. C. has size, speed and depth. In the past it had none of these. Coach Bill Hall is looking for better things. Mike Castle, a 6-5 high school All-American from Johnson Central, playing forward, is going to be heavily counted on this season, as is 6-4 center, Gary Johnson, of Wheelwright. Both of these are fine rebounders. Eddie Clark, a graduate of Betsy Layne, and David Butcher, a graduate of Johnson Central, give P. C. C. two quick, fine-shooting guards. Neal Marsh, who is on an athletic scholarship, seems to be the most consistent player on the team. Marsh shoots well, rebounds adequately and is always hustling.

P. C. C. has a bench this season that will also be a strong asset. Larry Senters, a 6-4 forward-center from Prestonsburg, will be relied on heavily in the front court as will 6-2 swing man, Ronnie Faine, of Wheelwright. Bill Hackworth, of West Prestonsburg, is a 6-3 forward-center that can also be called upon for work in the front court. Mike Sammons, a slick-passing guard, can be called on for duty as well as Jim Marcum, John Shepherd, and Robert Peters. Brent Clark, who is injured at present, can play either forward or guard and does both very impressively.

These players will likely make P. C. C. a winner for the first time in many years.

Kinzer Rides High As Cycle Pro

It only stands to reason that a fellow born and reared in Eastern Kentucky's mountains should be capable of climbing a hill from bottom to top faster than most people in this country...even on a motorcycle.

And 26-year-old Terry Kinzer, formerly of Allen, confirmed this bit of logic recently by winning the Canadian National Championship in professional motorcycle hillclimbing.

However, he claims he never thought of making it a career although admittedly he is making good money on the professional circuit.

His first claim to fame came in 1970 when he was the National Amateur Champion in this country in the big bike competition.

That same year, his younger brother, Jerry, was amateur winner in the 500 classification.

Terry said anyone who desires can enter amateur competition by obtaining a license from the American Motorcycle Association.

"Usually, the amateur circuit involved only street-legal bikes and after you qualify and get national standing in the amateur ranks, you can turn professional," he said, noting there are only 105 professional hillclimbers in the United States.

You would have to say Terry received his national amateur standing in 1970 when he won 36 of 38 meets and finished second in the other two.

"These meets were scattered out through Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Pennsylvania," he said. "Until this year, there were no meets in Kentucky but now there is one in Morehead which was conducted about two weeks ago."

Terry, who attended Martin High School, said he will participate in 15-20 professional meets annually with prize money purses ranging between $1,200 to $6,000.

He has won four professional meets and taken second place in two events.

These little-publicized events take place on steep hillsides and Terry recommends that anyone interested in professional cycling should practice in wooded areas at rapid speeds.

"Going up a real steep hill," he said, "I can go up to 70-80 miles per hour on my 750 motorcycle."

"To show you how quick that is," he continued, "during the Morehead meet I participated just for fun and was clocked going up the 300-foot steep hillside from a dead start in 4.56 seconds."

Both Terry and Jerry have competed mainly on twin-cylinder Triumph motorcycles, Spanish Bultacos, and Terry is presently preparing an Italian Laverda 750 c. c. bike.

Explaining why he enjoys his hobby so much, Terry said, "It's just like professional football with the excitement and never knowing exactly what will happen."

He said hillclimbing is probably the safest form of motorcycle racing because "you are running against time with no one else on the track. The only danger there is would be falling but normally a person will fall off the back of the bike and not get hurt."

He said that he has seen only one broken bone during his five competitive years and "the most I've ever had was an exhaust burn or skinned shin."

Referring to his brother, Terry said, "Jerry has had some problems since turning professional. His bike has not been performing but he now is using a 750 instead of 500 bike and during the last part of this season, he paced in several events."

"I expect him to do real well this coming season."

Terry said his brother has been competing in different events but now they will be together battling it out.

"It takes a while to adjust to professional competition and I was only in three events in 1971 but hope to make 15-20 again in 1973 depending on scheduling of meets," he said.

Terry and Jerry are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Kinzer, of Allen, owners there of Kinzer Cycle Shop.

Board Approves Pact With Mayo For Voc Training

The November meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education was in the nature of a routine session.

A major item of business was the approval by the board of the contract with Mayo Vocational School for the training of Floyd county students at its Garth extension center.

Physicians from the departments of Medicine and Pediatrics at the University of Kentucky Medical Center will conduct the clinic.

Co-sponsored by the Kentucky Heart Association and the state and county health departments, this clinic provides a diagnostic service for the patient along with recommendations for treatment and management of the case. It also provides an opportunity for the referring physician to consult with the clinician regarding his patient.

Necessary expenses of the clinic are being underwritten by the Kentucky Heart Association and the State Department of Health. Clinic personnel as well as space and equipment will be provided by the Floyd County Health Department as well as the State Health Department and the Kentucky Heart Association.

Only those patients who have been referred by a physician and have a written referral will be admitted to the clinic. Counties in this clinic area are Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike.

'The Wizard of Oz' Production Dates Set for Dec. 9-11

Committees have been selected for the Children's Theatre production of "The Wizard of Oz," to be held at the Archer Park gym December 9, at 3 p.m., and Monday December 11, at 7:30 p.m.

This promises to be one of the most spectacular productions the theatre had undertaken. Stephen Hale, a well-known actor from Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre productions, will direct the production, and Jack Wicker, also well-known from the Jenny Wiley Dinner Theatre, will produce it.

Snookie Meade, long a dancing instructor in the area, will do the choreography. Vickie Perry, widely known for her work in "The Grass Harp," will supervise the musical score, with Suzanne Harris acting as pianist.

The committees for the production are composed of local citizens and students who are interested in furthering the success of the Children's Theatre in this area. Heading the production committee are Mrs. James D. Adams and Mrs. Jack F. Wells. Harold Cooley, Earl Martin, Clyde George, David Hereford, Robert Latta, Judy Hyden, Susan Martin, Lynn Brown, Cathy George, and Susan Wells will all function under this committee. Mrs. Helen B. Wells, Mrs. John F. Brown and Mrs. Joe Buchanan will do the costuming. Publicity is being handled by Mrs. David Hereford and Carlos Neeley. Tickets will be available from Mrs. Clyde George, Mrs. Harry Burke, and Mrs. Leon Blackburn.

The club decided to hold a cleanup campaign and sponsor a youth program as its first two projects. New president, Denver Osborne, also appointed two committees for cleanup and recreation.

The next meeting is set for Thursday, Nov. 16 at 7 p.m. at the community hall. Every interested person is invited to attend.

Notice to the Public

Reports have come to me that several persons have received telephone calls following the election in which the callers said that I was making the call. I have made no such calls to anybody concerning the election in any manner. If I can get identification of the person or persons who made these calls, they will be prosecuted.

Floyd Health Dept. To Host Two-Day Clinic, Nov. 28, 29

A two-day consultative and diagnostic heart clinic for medically indigent patients will be held in the Floyd County Health Department here, Tuesday and Wednesday, November 28 and 29.

This clinic is being organized so that adults only will be admitted to the clinic on November 28, and children only will be seen on November 29.

Physicians from the departments of Medicine and Pediatrics at the University of Kentucky Medical Center will conduct the clinic.

"The Harpes of Hell"

(Last of three installments)
By BETTY B. ELLISON

Being stalked like hunted animals only whetted Micajah and Wiley Harpe's unquenchable thirst for bloodletting as they coursed across western Kentucky in their last spring of ravaging raids in 1799.

Every lawless deed committed in Kentucky that year was attributed to the Harpes, and they were guilty of many—especially the more grisly ones. Captain Joseph Ballenger and his posse became exhausted from chasing both the Harpes and their shadows, and they gave up the hunt that spring.

Other men were waiting and eager to pursue the arrant highwaymen. Captain Young's men, from Mercer County, vowed to rid Kentucky not only of the Harpes but of all the outlaws they could find.

Calling themselves the Exterminators, Young's men took their job seriously, and their campaign stretched from Mercer County to Henderson County, sweeping across the state in what was probably Kentucky's first serious law-and-order reform movement.

Outlaws in droves were scared out of Kentucky across the Ohio River, and many of them sought haven at Cave-In-Rock, a natural formation on a cliff above the river that became a lair for fugitives and outlaws living off the spoils of flatboat robberies.

Samuel Mason in the early 1790's acquired a shadowy title to the cave, which is semielliptical in form with about a 55-foot base, and extends underground for 160 feet with an almost uniform width of 40 feet. The cave opening commands a long view up and down the Ohio. Mason called it his "Liquor Vault and House of Entertainment."

Cave-In-Rock is on the Illinois side of the Ohio River. Just across from it, Kentucky's Cave-In-Rock country can be explored in Crittenden County at Tolu, Marion, Mattoon, Irma, the old Ford's Ferry Road and Crooked Creek. South and west of Cave-In-Rock country is the Land Between the Lakes, the Tennessee Valley Authority's vast 170,000-acre recreation and conservation education area, a favored haunt of outdoor vacationers.

Young's Exterminators made Cave-In-Rock another favored haunt when they drove the outlaws from Kentucky. River rats, pirates, highway robbers and eventually the Harpes gathered at the cave, and here they formed bands that terrorized travelers along both the Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

"Big" and "Little" Harpe were joined by their women and children at Cave-In-Rock. All the nefarious characters, crowded into such a small place, realized that their great numbers left them little chance to maneuver with any secrecy, so many left voluntarily.

The Harpes, though, were driven out by the outlaws themselves. This depraved conglomeration of evil-doers found in the Harpes "two human brutes beyond even their toleration."

After successfully ambushing two heavily loaded flatboats in one day, the river pirates built a huge bonfire to celebrate their haul. Feeling that something was missing in the gaiety, the Harpes proceeded to add their own special touch to the festivities, and it almost cost them their lives. One of the few survivors of the flatboat raids that day was a young man. The Harpes seized him, stripped him of his clothes, tied him to the bare back of a snorting, blindfolded, frightened horse, and then drove the animal over the edge of the cliff. For a single instant both man and horse were frozen in a mid-air silhouette of stark terror against the firelight before they plunged to their death.

Not that the pirates regretted the Harpes' killing the man; they were incensed at the loss of a valuable horse. It is likely that only sympathy for their women and children saved the Harpes from instant extermination. Under the pirates' baleful glares all the Harpes left the cave at once.

Now they made forays into Tennessee, coming back into Kentucky through Clinton County, near where Dale Hollow Lake is now located. This particular trail of murder was even bloodier than some of their other treks, as if they knew their time was short.

Drifting through southern Kentucky, the Harpes included in their despicable carnage entire traveling parties, small children and all. At Duncan's Bridge, northeast of Russellville, the Harpes made camp on the same spot used earlier by hundreds of people attending a camp meeting in the early days of the Great Revival that aroused Kentucky's religious fervor at the turn of the century.

It was here that Big Harpe committed his vilest act—the murder of his own nephew. Both Harpes were afraid their children's crying would make their hiding places known to the law. One account gives these details of the act: Big Harpe snatched Sally's infant, about nine months old, from its mother's arms, slung it by the heels against a large tree by the path-side and threw it from him as far as his great strength enabled him, into the woods.

Violence would eventually yield to the faith a few years later and a few miles away when the placid Shakers build their Believers' colony at South Union. The South Union Shaker Colony closed in 1922, but the village is now being restored and is open to visitors on US-68, 12 miles west of Bowling Green.

Some religious influence rubbed off on the Harpes. They spruced up their appearance to avoid detection and passed themselves off as Methodist preachers at the home of James Tompkins on Deer Creek, south of Henderson. Despite being armed, the Harpes drew no suspicion from Tompkins. Big Harpe said a long grace at the supper table. Making conversation, the Harpes asked their host about his store of venison. Tompkins replied that his supply was short, as he had been out of powder for some time. Big Harpe generously poured a cup of powder from his horn and gave it to Tompkins.

The same powder would a few days later contribute to the outlaw's demise on a hot August day.

A good meal must have aroused their appetite for violence, for the Harpes headed for Squire Silas McBee's house to do him in. McBee had been very active in pursuing the brothers, and they were bent on his destruction. When they arrived, McBee's hunting dogs foiled the Harpes' scheme and chased them away.

Leaving the McBee residence, the Harpes proceeded to Moses Stegall's home, four miles away. At the house were Mrs. Stegall, her infant son and Major William Love, a surveyor who had come to see her husband on business. Evidence points to the Stegalls' and the Harpes' having been acquainted from previous meetings in Tennessee.

The Harpes split Love's skull with an axe while the three men were sharing sleeping quarters in the loft; as Mrs. Stegall prepared breakfast the Harpes rocked her crying baby in the corner of the room; when the morning meal was prepared, she remarked that the infant was awfully quiet; the reason was obvious when the mother looked into the cradle—its throat had been cut from ear to ear. Hysterical women always irritated the Harpes, and they put the mother to death. They ate the breakfast she had prepared, set fire to the house and rode away.

After killing two more men as they fled from the Stegall house, the Harpes collected their women and children, and that same afternoon they began making their escape.

News of the five murders in a single day spread rapidly. Stegall, McBee, Tompkins and others immediately began gathering a volunteer posse. They split up, some proceeding on horseback and others on foot. McBee spotted Big Harpe on a distant hill, and the posse trailed the outlaws to their camp. There they questioned the women, who told them the direction the two men had taken.

John Leiper had a clear shot at Big Harpe, but was unable to fire his gun. Leiper then exchanged guns with Tompkins and took off in hot pursuit of the outlaw. Being in advance of the rest of the posse, Leiper took unerring aim and fired. With the powder Big Harpe had so generously given Tompkins earlier, he inflicted a mortal wound. The remainder of the posse rode up, and the rapidly weakening Micajah Harpe was pulled to the ground.

Harpe asked for water. Leiper took off one of the outlaw's shoes, filled it with water and gave him a drink. McBee told Harpe that he was dying, but they would hasten his death and give him no time to prepare himself for another world. Big Harpe made no reply. Stegall stepped forward, pressed his gun to Harpe's left side and pulled the trigger. The wounded man expired almost instantly. Big Harpe's head was then severed from his body.

Meanwhile, Little Harpe had escaped, only to die a violent death later in Mississippi. The women and children were rounded up and taken back to Henderson. Later the three women would stand trial at Russellville on the charge of being parties to the Stegall murders, but, once again, they were found not guilty.

Micajah Harpe's body was left in the wilds of Muhlenburg County as unseparated as his passing was un mourned.

Eight of the top area basketball teams will be engaged next week in the annual Jenny Wiley invitational tournament at the high school fieldhouse here. Play will begin next Wednesday and end Saturday night.

Upper bracket play will pit Pikeville against Elkhorn City at 7 p.m. Wednesday, with Sheldon Clark of Martin county meeting Allen Central at 8:30.

In the lower bracket competition Johnson Central will play Betsy Layne at 7 p.m. Thursday, with Johns Creek and the host team, Prestonsburg, meeting at 8:30.

Semi-final games will be at 7 and 8:30 p.m. Friday. The consolation and championship games will be played at the same hours Saturday.

Officials for the tourney will be Ed Radjunas, Bill Hall, Edgar Rister and Bernard Collier.

Sgt. Kidd Cited For Military Service

Sgt. First Class James Kidd, Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, 5th Battalion, 1st Air Defense Artillery, has been cited for meritorious service as Electronic Maintenance Chief during the period September 8, 1969 through August 23, 1972. The citation reads in part:

"During this time he consistently maintained a high degree of professionalism in conducting his responsibilities to the mission of the 5th Battalion, 1st Air Defense Artillery. Sergeant First Class Kidd's ability and initiative were proven by the outstanding performance of the units of the 5th Battalion, 1st Air Defense Artillery in the annual service practice and proficiency inspections. His comprehensive knowledge of the Nike Hercules system and its maintenance, have allowed him to perform his duties as an evaluator in an outstanding manner. His proven record of achievement and desire to excel reflect great credit upon himself, the 32nd Army Air Defense Command and the United States Army."

Sergeant Kidd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kidd, of Harold.

SETS THANKSGIVING DINNER

The Floyd County Methodist Youth Sub-District will have its annual Thanksgiving Dinner, Monday Nov. 20, at 7 p.m. at the First Methodist Church, Prestonsburg. All young people are urged to attend. The program for the evening will be given by Mrs. Kathryn Frazier and a group of young people.

Survey Here Nov. 20-24 To Profile Traits Of Voters, Non-Voters

Did you vote November 7? Were you registered but did not vote?

The Bureau of the Census will ask these and other questions about voting activity in the 1972 national election of persons 18 and older in a sample of households in this area during the week of November 20-24.

Joseph R. Norwood, Director of the Bureau's Data Collection Center in Charlotte, stressed that no questions will be asked about party affiliation or for whom a person voted. The survey will provide a profile of the typical American voter and non-voter: age, sex, residence, education, labor force status, and family income.

In a similar survey following the 1968 presidential election, higher voting participation was found among men, persons 45 to 64 years, whites, people living outside the South, those with higher educational attainment, larger family incomes, and in white-collar occupations.

The voting questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau for the U. S. Department of Labor.

Results of this monthly survey provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the country. The September survey showed that employment continued to rise, while unemployment was essentially unchanged. The September unemployment rate of 5.5 percent was about the same as in the previous three months, but below the 6-percent mark around which it had fluctuated between late 1970 and May 1972.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is confidential and results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Census Bureau interviewer who will visit households in this area is Mrs. Ella R. Daniel, of Thelma, Kentucky.

Gov. Wendell Ford told a recent meeting of the General Contractors Association of Kentucky that his administration is committed to reducing the number of on-the-job accidents in the state. Last year about 200 Kentuckians were killed and 22,000 injured in industry-type accidents. "We don't have to shut down industries or terminate construction contracts to reach our occupational health and safety goals," Governor Ford told the contractors. "We must, however, come together in a common purpose of protecting the lives and health of the working men and women of our state."

Plant Trees Now AFA Official Says

Frankfort, Ky.—American Forestry Association (AFA) officials estimate at least 40 million acres should be planted to trees in the United States during the next decade to meet future demands for wood and wood products.

AFA announced that estimate at the recent National Tree Planting Conference in New Orleans. Forestry leaders from all 50 states and from several foreign countries attended the conference to chart national tree planting needs.

State Forestry Director Harry Nadler, who attended the meeting, said tree planting already is well underway in Kentucky. The state Division of Forestry plans to plant 500,000 acres in trees during the next 10 years.

Of AFA's 40-million-acre estimate, the federal government will plant 10 million acres and private industry is committed to 10 million acres. State governments will be responsible for planting the remaining 20 million acres.

"Tree planting needs to be done now," Nadler said. "Every day that tree planting is delayed is a day lost to tree growth."

Nadler pointed out that, while more trees now are being grown than cut, timber demands generated by population increases could surpass the amount of wood available if supplies aren't increased.

The 1973 Super Beetle is a whole different car inside.

For one thing, there's a lot more inside, inside. We're giving you plenty of legroom up front. And fantastic headroom. We've also done a nice thing for your nose. Our new windshield is pushed way forward, and curved. It's actually 42% larger. For comfort, the seats, too, are curved. The same way what you sit on is. And the same way your back is. Inertia type seatbelts buckle up as standard equipment. The padded dash is completely redesigned. To be read in a flash. Getting in and out of the back seat of the Bug is now pretty easy even for non-athletic types.

And we've had some very fresh ideas about air. And how to circulate it. Our remarkable improved ventilation system even de-fogs the side windows. Altogether, the interior of the 1973 Super Beetle is so radically different, you'd have a hard time knowing it was a Beetle, except for the steering wheel insignia. There remain, however, certain things that will give you the clue that you're driving a V.W. Economy. Dependability. Our good old never-give-up character. The beauty of the new inside may be its beauty. But the fact that it comes in the car it does, is the most beautiful part of all.

Few things in life work as well as a Volkswagen.

Highway Department Ready for Winter

The Kentucky Department of Highways has to start early to get ready for winter. Preparing for the season of chestnuts roasting on an open fire and Jack Frost nipping at your roads is just about a year-round job. During September and October, the department conducted winter maintenance training sessions at each of Kentucky's 12 highway districts, but the process of winterization began months ago with the drawing up of snow-removal priority maps, emergency plans, and acquisition of equipment to cover the new highways opened this year in the state.

The state's highways must be in the best shape possible at the start of the winter season. Hard freezes account for most of the potholes that appear in your path and a highway needs to be in good shape at the beginning of the season to winter well. The plants, which process bitumen used in patching and building the highways, don't usually remain open through the cold months. The department must project the amount likely to be needed and have it available through the winter to be used in patching new breaks in the roads. In effect, they must know the total cubic footage of the potholes that might appear between fall and spring.

The department uses cinders and sand wherever possible, since they are cheaper and easier to handle. There were "live demonstrations" on the maintenance, calibration, and mounting of the spreaders. Winterization of the Highway Department's other vehicles was covered as well. Its many trucks, plows and other pieces of equipment use more than 15,000 gallons of anti-freeze annually. The seminars also included management training, presentations on winter maintenance of bridges, and winter patching of highways.

The department stays busy in winter. During "snow emergencies" the main office and the affected district offices are manned 24 hours a day. The Office of Maintenance sends out teletype weather advisories to warn the district offices of impending bad weather between November and April, and transfers equipment to the areas which need it most. While all this is going on, the Highway Department has one big project to attend to as well: getting ready for summer.

The district seminars covered all aspects of winterizing equipment and highways. Much of the discussion, demonstration, and training centered around the use of salt to control ice and snow on the highways. Ecological and economic considerations had to be discussed along with the mechanics of making sure that "when it snows, it pours."

The Department of Highways has 700 salt spreaders and 700 snow plows of various types, all of which must be checked for proper condition and operation. One method of checking hydraulic equipment, like salt spreaders, is to drop a block of wood in the mechanism.

The piece of wood simulates a hard cake of salt or other obstruction; it will reveal any hydraulic leaks on the machine and show whether or not the mechanism is working properly.

A "salt expert" was on hand at each of the training sessions to give information on

Truck Overloads May Halt Some Repair of Roads

Roads used by overweight coal trucks have been eliminated from Kentucky's highway resurfacing program, Highway Commissioner Charles Pryor, Jr. said this week. He said the state's resurfacing program will be limited to "deserving" projects in the future. "Because our funds are never enough to meet all the needs we face," he said, "we try to select those projects which appear to offer the most service; that is, provide the greatest return in service for dollars expended."

Pryor was not available for comment on how the policy may affect specific roads, especially those in Eastern Kentucky which have been ruttled in sections by trucks coming off haul roads. Parts of the Mountain Parkway, near Salyersville, and stretches of other highways had been resurfaced before the new policy was announced. Pryor said "very limited" exceptions have been made to the policy, citing Ky. 66 in Clay county as one, noting that road serves a hospital and school.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hammond, of Martin, have returned from a trip to Mexico at the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford Hamilton, of St. Louis, Mo. They spent a week at Lake Chapala near Gradalajara and enjoyed the October festival in that city. They visited native craft centers in Tlaquepaque and Ajijic. Everybody's Club

Bob Dome became so angry at the Procrastinators Club of America that he quit. Dome said the club's pace was too speedy. He said that the dinner that the club held at Tamiment, Pennsylvania, was evidence of the undue haste of the club.

It seems that the Procrastinators Club honored Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis as the "comedy team of the year" at that dinner. Of course, Martin and Lewis had not worked together for several years prior to that award. And, to add to Dome's dissatisfaction, there's the club's visit to the Whitechapel Bell Foundry which was scheduled for October. It was to protest the craftsmanship in casting the Liberty Bell. You remember that the Liberty Bell cracked when it was tested in Philadelphia in 1752. I mean, there's no need getting in a hurry about things. Dome believes in just taking it easy and putting things off for a while. It has been just over 200 years since the bell cracked. Slow down, man, slow down!

The article that told about Dome's plight said the club will consider his resignation, one of these days. They don't seem to get in a hurry about anything, you know.

Dome's plight is pretty common, although most of us don't go to that extreme. But most of us could get membership in the Procrastinators Club of America. For most of us are procrastinators. We put off, delay, things that we should do.

I knew a man once who thought he had cancer. But he put off going to the doctor for so long that when he finally did go the cancer had reached the place where the doctor could not help him. Sometimes putting things off is funny, sometimes it is serious. I guess it is simply a matter of what it is that we put off.

None of us, if our house was on fire, would delay calling the fire department. Of, if a pipe burst in our business, would we ignore it for days, weeks, or perhaps even years? Then, again, if we were sitting in the middle of the railroad track with a train headed toward us, would we procrastinate in moving from the track? Such questions are stupid, for in all these cases procrastination would not be funny but serious.

And yet many of us do procrastinate in matters just as serious. We decide we have plenty of time to get squared away on this thing called eternal life, so we are in no hurry to take a serious look at it. After all, haven't we the rest of our life to look into the matter?

I read a story once about such a person. He was a very successful farmer whose crops were so great that he was planning on building bigger barns and then enjoying the material benefits of life. Like so many of us, he had plenty of time to consider eternity. But the story ended with the Creator saying to him after he made plans for bigger barns: "Fool, this night your soul is required of you." Procrastination cost him dearly. It usually does in serious matters.

And about Dome's resignation from the club, the club will not be in any hurry to study it. After all, he hasn't applied for membership yet!

Suddenly, our farmers are ecologists

These days, it seems, everybody is talking ecology.

So what else is new?

Local farmers were living in harmony with the land long before ecology became a household word.

They understand that, in the long run, man doesn't live off the land, but with the land.

And they work hard to maintain and improve the natural beauty of this area.

Mother Nature seems pleased with the work of our farmers. She still shows herself proud around here.

Widows' Eligibility Subject of Concern

Senator Marlow Cook has noted that the recently enacted Survivors Benefit Plan provides assistance in certain cases for present widows of deceased military retirees, based upon income of the survivor.

Senator Cook said he was concerned, that since the armed services do not keep records of these widows, some might not learn of their eligibility.

Under this new law, widows of military men who were retired on disability, or after serving 20 years or more, who are now receiving a VA non-service-connected death pension, may be able to qualify for an additional payment. These widows may direct inquiries to the Finance Center where their deceased husband's retirement pay was handled.

Present retirees will have the opportunity to buy into the plan, and every attempt will be made by the respective services to notify them. Future retirees will be automatically included unless they elect not to participate.

Ruling Holds No Time Limit For Asking Homestead Exemption

If you're past 65, you're eligible for the $6,500 assessment exemption of your homestead, regardless of the date when you filed for this tax relief.

Statutory conditions, including a deadline for applying for it, put on the Homestead amendment are invalid, the attorney general's office has advised.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Charles Runyan said the constitutional amendment excluding the first $6,500 of valuation of a Homestead owned by anyone over 65 was self-executing and no law to implement it was needed.

Therefore a 1972 law which requires anyone wanting such an exemption to apply for it by March 1 each year is invalid, Runyan said. That deadline was because Jan. 1 to March 1 is the assessment period and the legislature wanted to allow property valuation administrators to raise other tax rates so the county would not suffer a drop in revenue as a result of the exemptions.

"While we readily concede that for the sake of the revenue and taxation program in Kentucky, the amendment perhaps should have provided some explicit means of integrating or meshing the homestead application with the tax assessment levy," Runyan commented, "the cold fact is that it contained no such provision."

State Is Fourth In Rehabilitation

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky has maintained its ranking of fourth in the nation in the number of persons rehabilitated to employment and independence.

In fiscal year 1972 a total of 321 persons per 100,000 population were rehabilitated in the state, Ben F. Coffman, assistant superintendent for Rehabilitation Services, Department of Education, reports.

Rehabilitation services were received by 24,828 disabled persons in 1972 with 10,534 rehabilitated into jobs and later paying back costs in taxes. Of the 10,534 rehabilitated, 1,913 persons were public assistance referrals.

Kentucky's rehabilitation program spent $15,064,078 on services last year and the average cost per rehabilitation was approximately $1,430, Coffman explains.

The administration costs were 2.2 per cent—the second lowest administrative costs in the country. Yet according to statistics from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Kentucky has one of the most efficiently operated programs nationally. The average Kentucky rehabilitant will pay the government back in taxes in an average of 4.9 years.

Fifteen years ago, the state's ranking was 47th. Since the District of Columbia is actually ranked first, Kentucky is the third ranking state in the latest report.

Rehabilitation services include evaluation of the handicapped; needed treatment and adjustment; special training; selective placement and follow-up of both worker and employer.

"It is our opinion that the deadline for filing an application for the homestead exemption, as contained in the 1972 law, violates the constitutional amendment since it purports to establish a condition not envisioned nor permitted by the amendment."

"As a practical matter, in future tax years, there is nothing to prevent a property valuation administrator from encouraging all affected taxpayers to declare their homestead exemption during the listing period," Runyan said. "But this is voluntary only."

The opinion was requested by Revenue Commissioner John Ross.

We've been Environmentalists more than 30 years.

How can you burn 30,000,000 tons of coal a year and be an environmentalist? The dictionary defines an environmentalist as one concerned with "the total of ecological, social and cultural conditions that influence the life of a community."

On the ecological side, we recognized the absolute necessity for concern about the environment when we started installing smoke and dust collecting systems on our stacks more than 30 years ago.

On the social side, which takes in jobs, wages, and an increasing standard of living, we also knew that it would be an absolute necessity to provide 16 times more power to meet 1972's power requirements. The conflict between the need for protection of the environment on one hand and the need for more power production (and its attendant pollution potential) on the other was an enormous problem—and still is.

But, we've come a long way in finding and applying solutions. We've already spent one-quarter-billion dollars on environmental improvements. Our concern, however, is best shown by describing just a few of the things we have been doing to protect our air, land and water.

Air Pollution Control. All 36 coal-fired generating units built on the AEP System since 1950 have included air pollution control equipment, the latest of which is designed to remove at least 99.5% of all particulate matter from the stacks. A program of "upgrading" pollution control equipment at older plants was also started in the early 1950's and has been continuing ever since. We've proposed to regulatory bodies the expenditure of some $52 million for pollution control equipment in 1973 alone.

The cost to upgrade some old generating units cannot be justified from our customers' viewpoint. These units are being shut down. The AEP System has retired 106 old generating units at 36 plants since 1947. The electricity once produced by all these units is now supplied by just one of our large new generators at a plant equipped with the latest dust collection systems available.

Research. We are determined to find answers to the unsolved problems associated with removal of sulfur oxides from plant stacks. This is the major objective of our air quality research program. At this time, no known sulfur oxide removal system is reliable, or commercially feasible. When a solution is found we will adopt it promptly. In fact, even now the engineering and design work for the installation of a major new sulfur removal system is nearing completion, and we hope to start its construction within the next few months. Until a commercial process is developed, tall stacks are the best means available to prevent ground-level buildup of sulfur oxides. We pioneered the use of tall stacks, starting also in the early 1950's. Tall stacks have for years been recognized and accepted in Great Britain as the best available answer to the sulfur oxide problem.

Cooling Towers. Power plants use large amounts of water to cool steam, raising the water's temperature as it is returned to its source. If the river or lake is too small, the return of the water might, under some circumstances, be harmful. Cooling towers cool the water in a "closed circuit" system which eliminates warm water discharge. The AEP System pioneered the use of natural draft, hyperbolic cooling towers in this country. We've built ten of these towers at plants located on rivers where the quantity of water was insufficient to prevent thermal buildup. Three more are under construction. We are constantly studying the effects of warm water discharge and our present program of ecological research on Lake Michigan, started in 1966, is the most comprehensive such study ever conducted under utility sponsorship.

Land Conservation. With the ever-increasing need for electric power, the problem of delivering that power to customers could have, without the development of high voltage transmission systems, created a forest of utility towers across our countryside. Our 765,000-volt lines today can carry 30 times more power than earlier 138,000-volt lines. In terms of land conservation, one 200 foot right-of-way for a 765,000-volt line can do the same job that 30 rights-of-way did 20 years ago.

Our goal is to do an even better job in safe-guarding all the aspects of our total environment—air, water, and land as well as jobs, wages and a high standard of living.

Job openings listed with State Employment Services are now increasing at an annual rate of about 550,000 a year. For five years, ending in the fall of 1971, job listings had been decreasing by about 150,000 each year. Non-farm jobs offered by the Employment Service in the year ended June 30, 1972, totaled 6,336,000. This was 6.1 percent more than the 5,971,000 listed the previous year.

Employment of farmers and farm-workers between 1960 and 1970 dropped by over 2 million, or by 40 percent, as the long downward trend for this occupational group continued. According to the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, much of the decrease occurred on the smaller marginal farms, which were unable to keep pace with the new agricultural technology.

YOU AND THE DRAFT

By COLONEL TAYLOR L. DAVIDSON

FRANKFORT, Ky.—In recent weeks, we have received many inquiries that can be categorized under the broad title of reclassification. Specifically, those writing to us have expressed concern about being reclassified from 4-A to 1-D and from 1-Y to 4-F. We can understand this concern.

First, we shall try to clarify the reclassification from 4-A to 1-D. To do this let us take the case of a young man who we shall identify as Ralph.

The gist of his letter was that he was "drafted" in July 1969 and was honorably discharged in July 1971 after having completed two years of active service, part of this time having been spent in Vietnam.

Shortly after being separated from active military service, he was reclassified 4-A by his draft board. Through contact with the board, he was told that Class 4-A was the lowest classification for a registrant who had completed active military service.

This was the last official communication with the board until Oct. 12 when he received a notice he had been reclassified 1-D. A 1-D classification is awarded to a member of a reserve component.

When Ralph was inducted, he incurred an obligation of two years of active duty plus a combination of four years in the Ready and Stand-By Reserve. Perhaps what he neglected to carefully read at the time of separation was Item 16 of the Report of Separation (DD Form 214). This is the block for the recording of a Terminal Date of Reserve-Universal Military Training and Service Obligation.

It is reasonable to assume that in Ralph's case that the Terminal Date of Reserve-Universal Military Training and Service Obligations would expire in July 1975. If this assumption is correct, Ralph would be in the reserve until that date and his Selective Service classification would be 1-D.

At the time he was separated from active duty, in the Selective Service table of classifications Class 4-A was lower than 1-D. However, this has been changed and 1-D is now lower than 4-A.

Therefore, Ralph and other young men with a remaining reserve obligation are now being reclassified from 4-A to 1-D.

We wish to emphasize that this reclassification signifies that the young man still has a portion of his military obligation to fulfill, regardless of the fact that he has previously satisfied the requirements of the Selective Service Law with respect to the performance of active duty.

The same rule applies to any young man who has performed active military service through voluntary enlistment in any component of the armed forces.

A "draft" registrant who has completed his military service and does not have a terminal reserve obligation will continue in Class 4-A until his Selective Service liability terminates. Normally, this is at the age of 26.

With respect to the second reclassification, 1-Y to 4-F, this is what has taken place. In 1971, Congress eliminated the 1-Y classification. This particular classification was given to a registrant who has been rejected for military service, but the reason for rejection was of the degree that may not be disqualifying in the event of a national emergency.

Under the new regulation, a registrant is either acceptable or not acceptable. For those formerly in Class 1-Y where re-examination by the armed forces was not believed justifiable, the board had no other alternative than to reclassify the young man into 4-F. An action of this type should not be considered as a stigma but merely a re-cataloging of manpower resources under the categories of "acceptable" and "not acceptable."

Young Evangelist To Address Convention

Richard Hogue, 26, who was called by Time magazine one of the nation's successful evangelists, will speak before the Kentucky Baptist Convention at Walnut Street Baptist Church, Louisville, tonight (Wednesday) during the evening session. The session will be dedicated to the overall theme, "Faith and Conquest through Evangelism," and will include a dramatic devotional by a singing group from Campbellsville College. Special music by the Walnut Street Church high school chorale, directed by Eugene Sutherland, with special music by the male quartet of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and an evangelistic message by the young evangelist, Hogue.

Born in Lawton, Oklahoma, converted at the age of 9, he has been featured in Readers Digest and Seventeen magazines. It has been said that he is being used of God to lead more people to Christ than any evangelist except Billy Graham.

The Newport school system has received two helicopters from the General Services Administration to be used as aerial school buses.

Surviving are the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Tackett, of Drift and the paternal grandparents, Evangelist and Mrs. Martin Wright, of Orkney.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at 11 a.m. at the Hall Brothers Funeral Home, with the Rev. Bennie Blankenship officiating. Burial was made in the Newman cemetery at Hi Hat.

District PTA Meets At Ashland Church

"Progress is the Activity of Today and the Assurance of Tomorrow" was the theme of the fall conference meeting of the Ninth District Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers, held recently at the First United Methodist Church, Ashland, with the Ashland Council PTA units as host.

Mrs. James E. Adkins, president of ninth district, presided at the all day meeting. The principal address was given by Mrs. Gilbert A. Bryant, Juvenile Protection chairman, Kentucky Congress of Parent and Teachers Association. Mrs. Bryant spoke on "The Helping Hand Block Program" and "Volunteers in Court." She explained how to get a block house program started.

Mrs. Bryant said, "I would like to see volunteers in court in each of your counties. We are concerned with all children. We need to work with these children now and help them. The key to all of this is love. To start a volunteer program, first you must see the judge of your county and see what he would like in his court system. Ask him if he would like volunteers. He knows his own court and is responsible for what his court does including volunteer programs."

Mrs. Adkins headed the business session and Mrs. Gene Maddox, program chairman, introduced Mrs. George White, president, and Mrs. Bryant of the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers. Mrs. White was special guest and spoke on "It is Up to You." Mrs. White touched on different phases of the immediate PTA projects such as drugs, alcohol, smoking, project RISE and membership.

Awards were presented to the units by Mrs. William Sturgill, chairman awards committee, and these awards will be announced later. Mrs. Adkins headed the pre-conference board meeting when Mrs. Donald VanHorn, Miss Blanche Dings and Charles Elswick were appointed to audit the minutes of the meeting. Those elected to the nominating committee were: Mrs. Harvey Britton, Charles Elswick and Mrs. Clyde Blevins, alternates Mrs. Sam Fitzpatrick, and Mrs. Jack Arrowwood. Mrs. Kenneth Whitt, of Ashland, was elected college cooperation and school education chairman and Mrs. Charles Nolte, of Westwood, juvenile protection chairman for ninth district.

Invitation to the spring conference was made by Mrs. Sam Fitzpatrick, Floyd County Council, date and place to be announced later. Attending the meeting were 115 delegates, 22 board members and three guests.

Miss Stumbo Attends Child Study Workshops

Christine Stumbo, of McDowell, recently participated in two workshops on early childhood development.

During the week of Oct. 15, Miss Stumbo, a May graduate of the Kent School of Social Work, University of Louisville, participated in the Leadership Training Workshop conducted by the High Scope Research Foundation in Ypsilanti, Michigan. She then flew to Syracuse, New York on Oct. 22 for a two-week training session on Piaget's theories of early childhood development. This training session was conducted by Dr. J. Ronald Lally, a professor at Syracuse University and director of the Syracuse University Children's Center.

Miss Stumbo serves as a consultant and child care specialist for Knott, Letcher, Leslie, Owsley, Breathitt, Lee, Perry, and Wolfe counties as part of her duties with the Kentucky Infant and Pre-School Project (KIPP). This program is a preventive program for young children in Appalachia, and although it is now in effect in 16 southeastern Kentucky counties, there is a possibility, if it proves successful that the program may be extended state wide.

Consumer Comment

By ED W. HANCOCK
Attorney General of Kentucky

"Your family has been selected to receive a prize valued at $50.00. You must come to our office to receive the prize."

Sounds familiar, doesn't it? It should. With this lead line, professional con-men have swindled hundreds of consumers out of thousands of dollars. Here is how the swindle works.

Your receive a "giftogram" saying that your family has been chosen to receive a valuable prize absolutely free. You take the paper down to an unusually small office to redeem your gift. An extremely polite representative introduces himself and immediately proceeds to explain that he is representing a company selling, as yet unmarketed, merchandise.

He then presents several brochures on his product for your inspection. Then he asks you to select the products which appeal to you. These products may range from sewing machines to stereos. After you have made your choice, he begins his "pitch."

"These are brand new products not yet available in any store. We want to place the items you chose in your home for your use and display to your friends and neighbors. Although we would like to give you these items, we just couldn't afford to do that. But, because we selected your family, we are going to let you have these items for only 10 percent above dealers cost."

Before you know it, you're hooked. Many times you will end up paying almost double the normal price. So, to prevent yourself from becoming the victim of this swindle, exercise extreme caution when you receive a letter or phone call saying, "Your family has been selected to receive a valuable gift, free."

Remember, if the offer is too good to be true, it's probably neither good, nor true. If you have a consumer complaint or problem, you are invited to call the Consumer Hotline, toll-free, at 1-800-372-2960.

Trees Track Pollution

Trees are keeping track of air pollution. An Arizona-Illinois research team of botanists has found evidence that tree rings are recording the pollution in the air. The rings show a tree's annual growth. Their width reflects conditions in the atmosphere and the soil. As a result, specialists can use trees to date archaeological remains and to reconstruct past climates.

Recording pollution is a new dimension for tree rings. It now appears that their width as well as structure can be affected by certain air pollutants that retard their growing process.

In one study, scientists examined white oaks in Indiana and Illinois to document an unusual period of heavy rain that occurred in the forties. Instead of finding the expected wide tree rings that indicate increased growth because of wet weather, the researchers found narrow rings showing retarded growth. Why?

"Our best inference is that this growth reduction may have been a direct result of toxic effects from severe air pollution correlated with high levels of smoke-haze in the Chicago area during the 1940's," says Dr. William C. Ashby, a botanist from Southern Illinois University. Both weather and pollution are affecting tree growth, but pollution seems to be having the stronger effect.

Pollution, of course, is not only leaving its mark on tree rings. Air pollutants are damaging the art treasures of all time—even though inside museums—as well as the delicate tissues in human lungs. Some pollutants even corrode metals and destroy crops.

Fighting pollution is a top national priority. To join the fight, contact your state tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. It's a matter of life and breath.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

Maytown Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. Imalee Spillman at Wayland, Thursday at 7 p.m. Mrs. Marcella Bailey president, presided.

Mrs. Alda Gibson gave the devotional with Mrs. Alta Jean Gibson doing a reading. Mrs. Thelma Hicks gave a report on minutes and the financial report. Mrs. Frances Pitts gave a report on the consumers education seminar held at May Lodge, Oct. 18; also, a stretch and sew workshop will be held, the date to be announced later. All members are urged to take advantage of this course.

The club members will be visiting the Golden years Rest Home, Nov. 19 at 2 p.m. Mrs. Imalee Spillman will work out a religious program for the Home's residents. Anyone wishing to join in may do so. The club would welcome all donations of gingerbread and homemade candies, which would be distributed at the Home.

The Christmas party will be held at Mrs. Helen Boyd's, Dec. 7 at 7 p.m. Members drew names and will exchange gifts at the party.

Mrs. Minnie Gearheart gave an interesting report on the trip to a Johnson county Apple Farm. Several homemakers, along with other friends, made the trip. Everyone enjoyed the long ride in the homemade trailer pulled by a tractor up a "holler" (cars couldn't go).

Mrs. Gearheart gave a surprise gift, a large red apple, to the lucky winner, Mrs. Maxine Martin, a guest.

Those attending and enjoying the refreshments served by the hostess, Mrs. Imalee Spillman, were Mesdames Marcella Bailey, Helen Boyd, Thelma Hicks, Beatrice Swetnam, Alta Jean Gibson, Trilby May, Minnie Gearheart, Sandy Bradley, Frances Pitts, Imalee Spillman, Alda Gibson, and guests, Mrs. Mabry Martin and Mrs. Rennie Rodar.

The program concluded with the club singing three religious songs, accompanied on piano by Imalee Spillman. The club members also sang, "Happy Birthday," to Mrs. Spillman.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of Floyd Robinson, who passed away Nov. 18, 1967:

Five sad and lonely years have come and gone since you went away. Your call was so sudden I never knew death was so near, or how much I would miss you. Only ones who have lost can tell the pain of parting without saying farewell. To your grave I go with flowers that will wither and decay, but the love I had for you will never fade away.

Sadly missed by wife,
GRACIE ROBINSON,
11. and daughter, ZELLA RUSSELL

The earliest authenticated strike of workers in the United States in a single trade occurred when Philadelphia printers gained a minimum wage of $6 a week in 1786.

Nominated For Award

S-Sgt. Chalmer R. Martin has been nominated for the SAC Master Technician Award for continuous outstanding duty performance as an instrument technician.

Nominating him for the award, Capt. George H. Baum said, in part: "S-Sgt. Martin has performed his duties as shift supervisor for the instrument shop. His technical knowledge of the many complex systems has enabled him to solve many problems related to this equipment. The manner in which he performs his duties has resulted in a better serviceable product. S-Sgt. Martin is a hard-working, industrious individual, giving particular interest to fine detail."

His is the son of Mrs. Garland Martin, of Langley, and the late Mr. Martin. His wife, Evelean, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lark Newsome, of Ligon. He is a graduate of Maytown high school and attended Alice Lloyd College.

Purebred Bull Sale Catalogues Available

Fifty-six purebred bulls of Angus, Charolais and Polled Hereford breeding have been consigned to the second annual Fall Performance Tested Bull Sale sponsored by the Kentucky Cattlemen's Association. The sale will be held Friday, December 8, at the Hardin County Fairgrounds at Elizabethtown. Sale time is 12:30 p.m., EST.

Performance information on each bull includes his 205-day adjusted weight, average daily gain on feedlot test, weight per day of age at the end of the feedlot test, 365-day adjusted weight plus ratios indicating how the bull performed compared with all other animals that he was tested with for each of the 4 previously mentioned traits.

Sale catalogs can be obtained by writing to the County Extension Office, Box 111, Prestonsburg, Attention: Charles Wesson, or calling 886-2668.

May Lodge Theatre Opening Termed "a Suprising Success"

The opening week-end of "The Owl and the Pussycat" was termed "a surprising success" by Jenny Wiley Repertory Company members who are performing it at the May Lodge Dinner Theatre.

The hilarious Broadway comedy opened Nov. 3 to a good-size house, and the next night's performance was sold out with standing room only. The Owl and the Pussycat is an adult comedy about the wooing of Felix, the bespeckled intellectual, of Diris, the streetwalker. The characters, invented by Bill Manhoff, are played by Adrienne Doucette and Jack Wicker, who appeared together in "Jenny Wiley!" this summer.

The May Lodge Dinner Theatre's successful opening week-end has prompted the co-producers of the venture, the Jenny Wiley Drama Association and Jenny Wiley State Park, to schedule a full run of "The Owl and the Pussycat" and to begin considering the next show, which will be a family musical-comedy. The Owl and the Pussycat will be performed on Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 with a buffet-style dinner beginning at 6:30 and on Sunday afternoon with the buffet beginning at 12 and the play at 3:30.

The May Lodge Dinner Theatre has attracted much attention from other areas, especially Lexington, Huntington and Ashland and could, if it continues successful, become a permanent year-round attraction in the area.

In preparation for the new musical the repertory company will be adding a new member, singer-actor-dancer Paul Kosapod. Mr. Kosapod is a New York actor and he will add much experience and talent to the company's performances.

Kentucky Afield
By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

Frankfort, Ky.—Would you believe a group of people who actually like being out-of-doors when the thermometer is well below freezing point; who apparently delight in spending countless hours in the cramped confines of a pit, blind, or a camouflaged boat under skies filled with snow, sleet or rain?

Well, there is such a group in Kentucky—and in other states as well—and they are sportsmen who are dedicated duck and goose hunters, sometimes called "waterfowlers."

And about this time of year, you'll notice them looking toward the sky, on cold, cloudy days, hoping to see a flock of Canada geese, or maybe mallard ducks, winging their way southward. They'll be daydreaming, probably, about the upcoming Kentucky waterfowl hunting season.

Come Nov. 12, the goose hunters may stop dreaming and begin hunting, but the sportsmen who prefer ducks will have to wait a bit longer, until Dec. 2, for the season to open.

Predictions about how good the waterfowl season will be in Kentucky this year are tough to make, but Frank Dibble, Murray, chief waterfowl biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife, says that reports from the northern nesting grounds indicate the overall waterfowl population is about the same this year as last. How good hunting will be, according to Dibble, depends largely on weather conditions—the fouler the better, being the general rule—and this accounts for the fact that the best hunting for waterfowl usually occurs in the latter part of the season.

During the goose season, Nov. 12 - Jan. 20, hunters may harvest five geese daily and the possession limit is also five. The daily limit may consist of any combination of geese except that no more than two Canadas or two whitefronted geese or one of each may be included. In the possession limit, the combination may consist of no more than four Canadas or a combination of Canadas and white-fronted, and in this combination of four no more than two may be white-fronted.

No redhead or canvasback ducks may be taken during the Dec. 2 - Jan. 20 duck season, but the daily limit of four may consist of any combination of other ducks as long as no more than two of them are wood ducks. The possession limit of eight may include no more than four wood ducks. Shooting hours for both duck and goose hunting are one-half hour before sunrise until sunset, prevailing time.

In addition to a valid Kentucky hunting license, all waterfowl hunters 16 years of age and older are required to carry a federal migratory bird hunting stamp, commonly known as a "Duck Stamp."

For complete information on waterfowl hunting in Kentucky, write the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Dept. H., Frankfort, Ky. 40601 and request a Waterfowl Hunting Guide.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

The Rev. Green Boyd, of Estill, was honored on his 63rd birthday with a surprise gathering at his home following recent services at his church. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Crisp, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Combs, Mr. and Mrs. George Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. Denver Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Okie Collier, Rhonda and Ronnie Combs Jr., Pam Bentley, Priscilla Craft, Andy Craft, Barbara Boyd, Jeff Hunter, and Tommy Boyd. Coffee, cake, and ice cream were served.

WE BELIEVE . . .

. . . the Bible is the inspired and only infallible and authoritative Word of God.
. . . there is one God, eternally existent in three persons: God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost.

. . . in the deity of our Lord Jesus Christ, in His virgin birth, in His sinless life, in His miracles, in His vicarious and atoning death, in His bodily resurrection, in His ascension to the right hand of the Father, and His personal future return to this earth in power and glory to rule a thousand years.
. . . in the Blessed Hope—the Rapture of the Church at Christ's coming.

. . . the only means of being cleansed from sin is through repentance and faith in the precious blood of Christ. We believe in water baptism by immersion.

. . . regeneration by the Holy Spirit is absolutely essential for personal salvation.

. . . the redemptive work of Christ on the cross provides healing of the human body in answer to believing prayer.

. . . the baptism of the Holy Spirit, according to Acts 2:4, is given to believers who ask for it.

. . . in the sanctifying power of the Holy Spirit by whose indwelling the Christian is enabled to live a holy life.

. . . in the resurrection of both the saved and the lost, the one to everlasting life and the other to everlasting damnation.

Miss Layne, Mr. Merion Wed

(Photo by Strahan)

The marriage of Miss Glenda Kay Layne and Derek Francis Merion was solemnized Sept. 22 in The First Baptist Church at Martin. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Layne, of Manton, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Merion, of Martin.

Following a program of nuptial music presented by Mrs. Delores Click, organist, the candlelight double-ring ceremony was performed at 7 p.m. by the Rev. James Clark before an altar flanked by spiral candelabra holding lighted tapers decorated with an arrangement of lavender and pink mums and asters.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza over peau-de-soie with lace designed empire bodice, long bishop sleeves and bell skirt. Her chapel-length mantilla of illusion was secured by a bow and petal design of satin and lace-edged with seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses, miniature carnations and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Brenda Burton, of West Liberty, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Debbie Barnett, of Martin, was maid of honor. They wore formal gowns of lavender organza dotted swiss over taffeta, with empire bodice and angel sleeves, and carried fall bouquets of lavender and pink.

Bridesmaids were Miss Donna Watts, of Allen, Mrs. Sharon Ratcliff and Miss Cheryl Spencer, of Martin, and Mrs. Terri Sue Allen, of Prestonsburg. Miss Kimberly Raye Merion of Martin, sister of the groom and Miss Debbie Patton of Eastern, aunt of the bride, served as junior bridesmaids. The bridesmaids and junior bridesmaids' dresses of pink organza dotted swiss were identical to those of the honor attendants. They carried bouquets matching those of the honor attendants.

Miss Kathy Lynn Layne of Manton, sister of the bride, was flower girl.

Derwin Dale Merion, of Martin, served his brother as best man. Ushers were John Layne, of Manton, brother of the bride, Kenneth Burton, of West Liberty, brother-in-law of the bride, Roger Barnette and Kenneth Scarberry, of Martin, and Rickey Bailey, of Salyersville. Taper lighters were Bert Ricky Layne, brother of the bride, and Tracy Merion, brother of the groom. Pete West, of Corbin, served as ringbearer.

Mrs. Layne, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a formal-length gown of pink double knit polyester and silver accessories. Her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses. Mrs. Merion, mother of the groom, wore a formal-length gown of cream-colored lace over a skirt of taffeta, and carried matching accessories. She wore a white orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, Prestonsburg, with music by The Stratified Rock of Salyersville. Guests were registered by Miss Beulah Faye Patton, of Eastern, aunt of the bride.

Serving at the bride's tables were Mrs. June Likens, Miss Carolyn Likens, and Miss Jayne Halbert, all of Martin.

The bride and groom are graduates of Martin high school. Mr. Merion was graduated from the Kentucky School of Mortuary Science, Louisville, Ky., in August and is employed by Merion Funeral Chapel, Martin.

Following a honeymoon at Myrtle Beach, S. C., the couple is residing at Martin.

3,286 Floyd Countians Receive Public Funds In Aug. Totaling $128,704

Frankfort, Ky.—During August, 3,286 Floyd countians received public assistance money payments totaling $128,704, the Department of Economic Security announced Saturday.

This figure compares to $127,891 paid to 3,272 persons during July of this year. In August 1971, 3,420 people in Floyd county received public assistance money payments totaling $126,718.

Of the total, 2,222 persons, including children received assistance in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) category and 1,064 persons received money payments under Aid to the Aged, Blind and Disabled (AABD).

Statewide in August, 224,962 Kentuckians received public assistance money payments totaling $10,156,332.

Rachel James Muters and her husband

Her Name Almost Disappeared

By HENRY P. SCALF

Many of the names of the children of Eastern Kentucky's pioneer families, like those of their parents, have disappeared into the mists of history. Sometimes, however, the memorabilia that flows across the desk of a genealogist reveal a long-lost man or woman who helped settle the area.

Consider some of the children of Abner James, for instance. His father, Samuel James, brought Abner to the John's Creek section from North Carolina about 1806. Abner, born March 19, 1804, was about two years old. His mother, Sarah Charles James, died and was buried on the way to Johns Creek. The decades went by. Samuel was drowned in Johns Creek in 1836. He lies buried beside Dewey Lake. Abner grew to manhood, a colorful frontiersman. He was a member of a posse that went into the present Martin county, then Floyd, in the mid-1840's, to apprehend a violent character named William Pruitt. James killed Pruitt and was tried at Louisa where he was sentenced to death by hanging. William McCoy, brother-in-law of James, rode horseback to Frankfort and produced a pardon from Governor Owsley. McCoy returned on the day of the planned execution in time to save Abner from an ignominious death.

Abner James was married three times. His first wife was Margaret (Milly) Campbell. They lived awhile on Johns Creek, then in the present Martin county. He served as a clerk in the Confederate army but his son, William, went into the Union army and died at Ashland. Ephriam, another son, settled in the Tug River area. There was probably a son, John, and perhaps a son, Joseph. We know of three daughters—Charlotte, Sarah, who married James Pemberton, and Rachel, who married George W. Muters. Abner died March 19, 1889 and lies buried on Shopes Creek, Boyd county.

Rachel Muters, however, was forgotten in the intervening years since she went West. She was born Feb. 26, 1842, married George Washington Muters, a native of West Virginia about the beginning of the Civil War. No one knew what had become of Rachel James; many of the James descendants had even forgotten her name.

But Western migrants carried much of their family history with them, and this year an Owen Hall, of Seattle, Washington, came back to Eastern Kentucky. His grandparents were natives of this region and he wanted to know more about them. Since he knew that Rachel James was a native of this region, he brought her picture along. Perhaps, he thought, some one would like to see it.

From data brought here by Mr. Hall we learn that the Muters went to Minnesota in the mid-1860's. Their first child, Martin Mutter, was born there in 1866. Several other children were born to the Muters in Minnesota.

In their old age, probably following their children, George W. and Rachel James Muters moved to Lodgepole, South Dakota. Rachel died there, Jan. 27, 1920 at the age of 78 years. Her husband, who was born Feb. 18, 1846, survived until March 28, 1935. He was 89 years old.

But for Mr. Hall, who was thoughtful enough to bring the information to Eastern Kentucky, the history of the family, even the names, would have slipped into the limbo of forgotten people.

Voc Ed Students Now Eligible at 15

Frankfort, Ky.—The Kentucky State Board of Education lowered age requirements for students wishing to attend state vocational technical schools, authorized regionalization of educational services in four pilot regions, and revised a system of allocating units for vocational education at a special meeting today.

Students are now eligible to attend state vocational technical schools and area vocational centers at age 15. Previously, students had to be at the junior level of high school.

The Board was advised that students enrolled in non-public schools attending vocational schools should not be charged tuition, because the schools are funded by federal and state appropriation money. This report from the office of the State Attorney General was made by Ray Corns, director of Legal Services for the Department of Education.

Authorizing the Superintendent of Public Instruction to co-operate with local education agencies in four pilot regions, the Board passed a final motion to begin regionalization programs in these educational development districts. The State Department of Education will work with a ROPES staff (Regional Organization for Providing Education Services), to coordinate educational services and bring vocational and general education together under one office.

"ROPES will enable local school superintendents in the regions to work cooperatively with state department services," said Dr. Lyman Ginger, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

In further action, the Board decided to revise the system of allocating vocational education units. The State Treasurer will retain eighty per cent of the amount allocated for use by the State Department of Education. The remaining twenty per cent will be transmitted to the local school district for vocational education facilities. Before this action, allocations were made as "flow through money," channeled from the State Treasurer, to the Department of Education, to the local school district, with remaining funds returned by the reverse process.

The Board authorized the Bureau of Vocational Education to "enter into agreement" with the Tilghman Area Vocational Education Center, Paducah, to consider the transfer of the center from local to state control.

State School Supt. Ginger, Calls For Voc. Ed. Improvements

Morehead, Ky.—State School Supt., Lyman V. Ginger, called Thursday for improvement in the state's vocational education program. Appearing at a Morehead State University Golden Anniversary Rural Development Conference, Ginger said he is going to recommend to the State Board of Education that the entrance age for vocational schools be lowered to 15 and that departments of vocational education be established in isolated areas.

"There is a great void in vocational education and in special education," Ginger told the more than 300 persons attending the day-long session.

He stressed the need for smaller classes, more teacher aides and more individualized instruction.

MSU President, Adron Doran, said the formation of the Appalachian Regional Commission has meant much to Eastern Kentucky and brought national attention to the problems of the 13-state Appalachian region.

"The line of distinction between formal and informal education should be blurred so one is indistinguishable from the other," said Dr. Eugene Hoyt, director of the education activities staff of the ARC.

Dr. Hoyt referred to regional education service agencies as tools to help "rural education in Appalachia take its place among any in the nation."

Dr. Maurice Seay, of Western Michigan University, challenged educators to "observe and apply the law of individual differences to Appalachia."
